

SPECTACULAR COLLISION ON GRAND TRUNK NEAR AYLMER

Fast Wabash Freight Crashed Into G.T.R.
Local During a Dense Fog—Five Cars
Smashed to Kindling Wood.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Aylmer, Nov. 21.—A spectacular rear-end collision, which fortunately resulted in no loss of life but considerable damage to rolling stock, occurred on the curve just east of the G.T.R. station during a dense fog early today.
Fast westbound Wabash extra freight, going at a high rate of speed, crashed into the rear coach of Grand Trunk local freight No. 1, which was standing waiting for signals. The engine of the Wabash train tore through the caboose and five cars, smashing them into kindling wood. It then plowed into two more cars, which were set on fire.
As it went through the cars the big mogul ripped off the trucks, and when it came to a standstill had all of them gathered in a pile ahead of it. Their weight was all that prevented the engine from toppling over.
The engine, fireman and front-end brakeman were riding in the cab, and all that saved them from instant death was the fact that the wreckage flew away from the locomotive instead of piling up and crushing the cab.
Got Out in Time.
A brakeman, who was riding in the freight van, heard the Wabash coming and had barely time to get out on top of the van and hurl himself over the side into a pond beside the track. He escaped unhurt.
The Wabash crew claim that it was impossible to see any signals owing to the fog. The local fire department was soon at the scene of the wreck and did valuable work in preventing many cars being burned. The crash was heard all over town, and a big crowd soon collected.

PATHETIC LETTERS FROM RELATIVES OF SAILORS

Marine Officials Are Receiving Inquiries
From All Over the Country—Toronto
Woman Writes, Giving Description of Her Brother.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, Nov. 21.—The recent lake tragedy brought all kinds of inquiries to the marine offices. Relatives, parents, etc., are asking for information regarding missing ones, irrespective of whether they sailed the lakes or not.
Inquiries are beginning to come in now regarding the steamer Isaac Scott. No trace of the boat has been discovered since the recent storm, and not even a piece of wreckage has driven ashore.
Capt. C. H. Sinclair, of Port Huron, a representative of the underwriters, believes that the Turret Chief can be salvaged. He paid a visit to the wrecked steamer at Keweenaw Point yesterday. Capt. Sinclair will also inspect the wreck of the Waldo.
A Pathetic Letter.
The storm is over, and is passing from the public memory. Yet those who have lost their dear ones have not forgotten, and more than one pathetic letter is being received in Sarnia by anxious relatives asking for information of their kindred. Here is a sample of the communications with which Sarnia, Thorold, and Goderich are being flooded: "Toronto, Nov. 19.—Dear Sir,—Would you kindly let me know if you have any body in the morgue who answers to the description of a man 26 years old, about five foot seven inches in height, light brown hair, blue eyes teeth filled with gold, one gold crown. He is my brother and his name is Stanley Wheatley. Any information please send to Mrs. Loretta Cronin, 122 York street, Toronto, P.S.—Tattooed on arm, snake and sailor boy."
The Disaster Fund.
The contributions to the lake disaster fund are continuing to pour in the local coffers. The Northern Navigation Company has given $500, the Imperial Oil Company $250. The MacKenzie, Milne Company have contributed $50, and besides these amounts there are numerous other contributions ranging from $1 up to $15.

O'Connor, of Schreiber, Ont., was drowned, and other crew members and passengers narrowly escaped death, shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, when the first section of the Canadian Pacific Imperial Limited, westbound from Montreal to Vancouver, was wrecked near Caldwell, 175 miles east of Port William, Ont.
The wreck was caused by the engine jumping the track at a point where the road skirts Lake Superior on a ledge 30 to 50 feet above the water. The en-

MANY CONSTABLES UNFIT FOR POSITION SAYS SUPT. ROGERS

Report on Provincial Police
System Shows Need of Efficient Men.

1256 CASES WERE HANDLED

Total Fines Collected by Department Amounted to $17,109 During Year.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, Nov. 21.—"High constables at $50 per year and the majority of them" is one of the statements in the annual report of Superintendent Rogers, of the provincial police, submitted to Attorney-General J. J. Poy today.

Returns from 36 counties show that 30 have high constables and these receive all the way from $50 to $800 a year. The majority get $50, some $100, some $200, while six counties dispense with the official. The matter will be taken up with a view to compelling the counties having no high constable to appoint one, and compel all the counties to fill the office with a qualified man.

Had 1,256 Cases.
During the year the provincial police handled 1,256 cases and obtained 887 convictions, or 70 per cent of the prosecutions. Of these 590 persons were fined and 163 sentenced, while 125 were released and 231 discharged. In 25 cases charges were withdrawn. The decrease in number of cases for the year is 359.
The good work done by the provincial police in the Porcupine strike is pointed out. This cost the province $7,732.
The total fines collected during the year amounted to $17,109.50, and constables' fees to $3,080.
The number of persons deported as undesirable was 955, an increase of 243 over 1912.

Liquor Prosecutions.
There were 235 prosecutions by the provincial police under the liquor licenses act and 174 convictions. There were 33 persons discharged and 17 now await trial. The number of prosecutions was 59 more than the previous year. The total amount of fines collected from this source was $18,949, a decrease of $4,768 compared with the previous year. The seizures were 4,730 bottles of whiskey, and 160 gallons of bulk whiskey, two bottles of wine and 13 gallons of bulk wine, 40 gallons of high wines, 186 bottles of gin, 2,188 bottles of beer and 91 barrels of this beverage.
There were 101 prosecutions under the fish and game laws, in which four persons paid $3,370 in fines, a decrease for the year of $313.

LITTLE GIRLS BOTH DROWN

Broke Through Ice While Skating on C.P.R. Reservoir at Wolseley.

MOTHER ATTEMPS RESCUE

[Canadian Press.]
Wolseley, Sask., Nov. 21.—Myrtle MacKenzie, aged 11, and Dorothy Quinn, aged 9, were drowned Thursday afternoon when with a group of other children they were skating on the C.P.R. reservoir after school. The ice broke as they skated toward the bridge, and as they sank the screams of the other children brought Mrs. MacKenzie and her eldest daughter Fannie, both of whom rushed out to where the little girls had gone down. The ice, too weak for the children, broke before the women reached them, and the mother was only rescued when sinking for the third time by Allan Thompson, who jumped in with a rope. Fannie MacKenzie was dragged out by a rope flung to her by men on the bank. The bodies of the children were recovered later.

THE LATE REV. DR. ROSS IN A CHARACTERISTIC POSE TAKEN AT THE CHURCH HE SERVED

This photograph of Rev. Dr. Ross, taken by Dr. H. A. Stevenson, was considered by the minister's friends to be the finest ever taken of him. Captain Tells of Terrible Storm
Which Wrecked the Turret
Chief.

GOVERNMENT INQUIRY

Crew Lived in the Woods for Three Days After Escaping.

[Canadian Press.]
Kingston, Nov. 21.—Captain H. St. G. Lindsay, Dominion wreck commissioner, opened an inquiry in the city council chamber today with regard to the circumstances of the stranding of the steamer Turret Chief, five miles east of Copper Harbor in Lake Superior at 4 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 7, during the terrible storm which swept the lakes. The Government desires to ascertain why vessels were out in the storm when warned for two days previous of heavy gales. This is the first of a series of inquiries to be made by the wreck commissioner. It is understood that the next vessel's crew to be examined will be that of the Acadia, but the place for the hearing has not yet been settled.

With Captain Lindsay, and acting as nautical assessors are Captain Francis Nash, of Montreal, and Captain W. G. Batten, of Kingston. J. T. Rowan, of Ottawa, is official stenographer.
A Canadian Boat.
The Turret Chief is owned by the Canadian Lake and Ocean Navigation Company and managed by the Merchants' Mutual Line. The owners are represented by Francis King, K.C., of Kingston. The commander of the Turret Chief is Captain Padington, of Port Colborne, who with four other officers came to Kingston to give evidence at the investigation.

According to the officers the storm struck them with awful suddenness about 9 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 6. After drifting for hours, the big vessel was finally dashed on the rocks. The crew got ashore by sliding along a cable, and for three days lived in the woods, afterwards making their way to Copper Harbor.
Took No Soundings.
He said he took no soundings, and did not think if he had findings in Lake Superior could be relied upon. Witnesses were questioned regarding the storm.
He said that everything was O. K. at 9 o'clock on the night of 6th, when it commenced to blow very hard, changing from the southwest to the north. The barometer gave very little indication of a change. "The sea and the wind came together suddenly. I was on deck at the time. It stayed that way for about one hour. My log book, which was in the lower pilot house, was lost. The waves were so strong they broke in the door and the steampipes burst."

GREAT CONCOURSE OF CITIZENS PAY A LAST TRIBUTE ABOUT THE BIER OF ST. ANDREW'S PASTOR

Public Funeral Held This Afternoon Was Attended By Hundreds of Members of Congregation, All Clergymen of City and Citizens From Every Walk of Life.

SOLEMN AND IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

His loss mourned by thousands of London citizens the funeral services of Rev. Dr. James Ross, late pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, were of an unusual solemnity and impressiveness this afternoon. The public service in St. Andrew's Church brought together a representative gathering of those who will feel the loss of James Ross, D.D.—the minister, the scholar, the pastor, the true friend and the man. The spoken tributes of those who participated in the service were eloquent, but the silent mournful tribute of the sad-faced congregation that for the last time gathered in the same building as its beloved pastor and friend, was one that surpassed immeasurably even the most glowing tribute to the memory of the man whose career ended so tragically in New York on Tuesday last.
A Great Tribute.
The sorrow and regret that was pictured on the faces of the silent worshippers was one of the greatest tributes that could be paid to any man. Some there were who openly showed their grief by sobs that welled straight from the heart, and few indeed were those who sat dry-eyed through the service. Mr. Ross bore no title, save that conferred on him by his church, but the passing of no man of royal blood could have drawn from the people the same sympathy as did his untimely death.
Recalled Former Service.
In the audience were those who remembered all too well another memorial service only a few short years ago, when in St. Paul's Cathedral, the pastor whose casket lay amid a bank of flowers below his pulpit, voiced one of the most masterly tributes to the memory of any man that has ever been heard in London. It was to the memory of King Edward VII. that he paid his tribute, and as the ministers today eulogized the memory of Rev. James Ross, it seemed to conjure up the memory of his inspiring address in the cathedral where he made such a wonderful memorial tribute.

Every Seat Taken.
Shortly after 1 o'clock the church was thrown open, and before the hour set for the beginning of the service every available seat was taken. There was something extremely pathetic in the diversities in the age of the people who streamed up the broad walk to the front entrance of the church. Old men and women, leaning on the through the service. Mr. Ross bore

SIR JAMES DECLINED TO CO-OPERATE AND WIPE OUT THE BARS

You have been hearing a great deal about the Abolish-the-Bar policy of the Liberal party in Ontario. Do you understand exactly what it means? Frequent misrepresentations are made about it, and are being made in this by-election.

This policy is set forth in the resolution moved in the Ontario Legislature on March 5, 1913, by N. W. Rowell, member for North Oxford, and leader of the Opposition.

"That in the opinion of this House, the public interests demand:
1. The immediate abolition of the bar, including therein the abolition of all hotel and club licenses and therewith the treating system.
2. Such other restrictions upon the residue of the liquor traffic as experience may show to be necessary to limit its operations and effectively remedy its evils. Local option to be maintained as a means of wiping out the residue of the retail side where the electors so decide.
3. The strict enforcement of the law by officials in sympathy with the law enforcement, and the elimination of political influence from the administration of the law.
4. The regulation and inspection of all houses of public entertainment so as to insure reasonable accommodation for the travelling public."

This policy therefore means:
Bar rooms (hotel liquor licenses)—EVERY ONE WIPED OUT.
Club licenses—EVERY ONE WIPED OUT.
Treating system—ABOLISHED.
Shops—In nine-tenths of the municipalities of the province there are at present no shop licenses.
In nine-tenths of the municipalities, therefore, the Rowell policy means complete abolition of the retail sale of liquor. In the remaining one-tenth where shops now exist, they would come under further restrictions as mentioned in Paragraph 2 of the resolution, and local option would remain to wipe them out where the electors so decide.

MR. ROWELL'S OFFER.
In London on July 1, 1912, Mr. Rowell made the following appeal to Sir James Whitney and the members of the Government: "Sir James, join with us and let both political parties unite to wipe out the licensed bar-room in this province. Would it not be a splendid spectacle for all the provinces of the Dominion and for other countries of the world to witness the union of both political parties in this province to wipe out the curse of the licensed bar?"

This offer, repeated several times, has not been accepted. Sir James Whitney and his Government have the power to abolish the bars of Ontario; that they have not accepted Mr. Rowell's offer of co-operation is definite proof that they do not want to abolish the bars.

Any Government, however, can be persuaded to change its mind on any point. All the persuasion necessary, as Allan Studholme, Labor member, says, is the ballot.
If you want the "Abolish-the-Bar" policy, you have an excellent chance to get it on Thursday.

Vote for Laidlaw, who is the candidate, not only of the Liberal party, which is fighting for the abolition of the bar, but also of the Temperance Alliance itself.
THE ELECTION OF LAIDLAW WILL NOT MEAN THE TURNING OUT OF THE WHITNEY GOVERNMENT; IT WILL MEAN A DECISIVE MANDATE TO THE GOVERNMENT TO CO-OPERATE WITH ROWELL IN ADVANCED TEMPERANCE LEGISLATION.

FOR THE CAUSE OF TEMPERANCE,
VOTE LAIDLAW!

GREAT SALE OF BOYS' OVERCOATS SATURDAY $3.95

BOYS' COATS MADE OF MEN'S CLOTH. READ THE STORY.

A clever idea of using up the ends left from bolts of English tweed, chinchilla and overcoat cloth. Every end left of the bolts of goods was laid aside and made up into the size coat each would make according to the length, and we find sizes in the 139 Coats for all ages from 3 to 10 years.

This is a great opportunity to get extra good material in your boy's coat, such as cannot be found in regular lines, as such cloths are too high-priced for boys' coats. All are made up in one style, double-breasted, buttoned close to throat, plain full back, and all heavy flannel lined. About 40 patterns in the 139 Coats.

We would like every mother to see these Coats. Colors are brown, gray and navy blue. The best Overcoat bargain we ever offered. Some are suitable for girls, too, for ages 3 to 10 years. Instead of $5.00 to $7.50, sale price . . . $3.95

Style as shown in illustration, without belt. Mail orders filled. Express paid.

OBJECTS TO NOISES OF THE "ROARIN' GAME"

Strathroy Lady Takes Action Against Strathroy Curling Club.

Complaining that the noise made by members of the Strathroy Curling Club while playing the "roarin' game" was a source of annoyance and damage to her, Mrs. Jennie Taylor, of that town, who owns property next door to the rink, had recourse to law to see if something could not be done to have it stopped. She also alleged that snow from the roof continually slid on her property and was the cause of much damage. Accordingly she took action against Messrs. W. P. Dymond, A. E. Gillan and W. H. Freese, directors of the Strathroy Curling Club, to restrain them from making undue noise in playing their games, and also to recover damages alleged to have been caused to her property.

The case came up at the non-jury sittings of the county court, but was adjourned, and was heard before Judge Macbeth Wednesday afternoon.

Free Treatment for Skin Sufferers!

Although Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each, with 25-page booklet on the cure and treatment of skin and hair, will be sent post-free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 52, Boston, U.S.A.

A number of witnesses on both sides were examined, the defendants entering a counter-claim for damages, alleging that Mrs. Taylor had built buildings which projected onto the property of the club.

The judge, after hearing the evidence, reserved judgment until he had opportunity to go to Strathroy and view for himself the property in question.

Messrs. Meredith & Fisher are acting for the plaintiffs, and Messrs. Ross & Bixel, Strathroy, for the defendants.

HIS FLESH HORRIBLY BURNED.
His druggist sold him a cheap acid corn cure; what he should have bought was Putnam's Corn Extractor. It's purely vegetable and acts in twenty-four hours. Insist on only "Putnam's Extractor," 25c, at all dealers. Only Putnam's Extractor, 25c, at all dealers.

SALVATION ARMIES MAY AMALGAMATE

Bramwell Booth Declares He is in Favor of Proposal.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, Nov. 20.—General Bramwell Booth, of the Salvation Army, said today that he was willing to amalgamate with the Volunteers of America, but he did not think his brother, Ballington Booth, commander of the rival organization, desired such amalgamation.

"I have written to my brother," said Bramwell Booth, "and I hope to meet him. I am going to meet him as my brother, and I hope my friend. We have had some difficulties in the past, and, well, the past is the past."

There were 43 guests present, all being near relatives.

The wedding march was played by their granddaughter, Miss Gladys Elliott, of St. Thomas, and the bridesmaid was his only sister, Mrs. Richmond. The cake which was furnished was baked by the bride herself. The tables were tastefully decorated with carnations and evergreens for the occasion, and many toasts were given to the old couple. Many valuable gifts were also given to them.

Mr. Dennis was born in Cornwall, England, and came to this country when a lad of 14 years. His wife was Miss Stokes, and was born in Courtwright, and after a few years of courtship they were married in 1853. They still are in the best of health. Friends from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. S. Dennis, of Sarnia; Mrs. Jana Richmond, of Petrolia; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dennis, of Wales, Mich.; Mrs. James Dennis, of Wingham; Mrs. Marshall Bell, of Wingham; Mr. and Mrs. D. Coe, and family, of Buffalo; Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, and daughter Gladys, of St. Thomas; only one of the bride, Mr. Robert Stokes, Petrolia; eight grand-children, two great great grand-children. Mr. Dennis only sister, Mrs. Richmond, was there, and Mrs. Dennis only brother, Mr. Robt. Stokes.

Come—hash them!

This chilly weather nobody likes a cold dinner—everyone likes a hot, savoury hash made the Edwards' Soup way. This is how to do it:—

First empty Edwards' Soup into a saucepan; let it boil thoroughly for half-an-hour (give it plenty of time), pour the soup over the cold pieces of meat and vegetable; warm up together—and dish up and enjoy. P.S.—Cook enough for second helpings all round.

The oven is of quick-heating steel—the flues perfectly proportioned—all of which saves fuel. The doors drop, forming shelves to draw out the cooking dishes. The top raises for broiling. The grates work without sticking. And the appearance! Grandmother admires the new Peerless with its plain heavy stoke and its pure white porcelain doors. But yet—she clings to her own Peerless. The faithful old companion of her earlier culinary adventures still has—and always will have—a place in her home.

THE RED BUTTON
A MYSTERY STORY OF NEW YORK
By WILL IRWIN

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

"I fail to see how that excuses us for letting him go," Inspector McGee, with a touch of sarcasm.
"That point," said Rosalie, "is the best thing I've thought out—the very best. Up to the confession—that's our story—you hadn't the least idea but Miss Estrilla did it herself. We'd never thought about the changing clothes when you got the confession, you sent out to arrest him, but he was gone—probably tipped off somehow. Now, search me, I haven't thought out a good lie there. Maybe you'll have to invent that yourself. Otherwise it'll be one of the mysteries of the New York police department. Reprimand you! Why, they'll give you a medal!"
McGee still looked down at the paper-knife.

"That ain't all," he said. "You fooled me, that's what you did. You made a fool out of me."
At this Rosalie fired. A light came into her eyes that rolled ten years from her age—the light of anger. A color came into her cheeks that took off another ten years. "You took all the risks in this job? You? Not a bit of it! Me, Rosalie. And what's more, Martin—she paused and gulped, and something came into her face that reduced her to a girl—"who did I do it for? Me, Rosalie? I guess not. What was there? When this thing broke I was independent and living my own life—and a clean, self-respecting life. Do you think I'd let a woman like that? Well, you can bet not. I started this job mainly because I didn't want to see that fine young fellow Wade go to the chair, and because I didn't want to see that beautiful young thing broken for life—I mean Constance Hanksa."

"But after I got it, I realized that I was working more for somebody else than I was for me. And that somebody else was you, Martin McGee. I'd have given it up long ago if I hadn't kept my mind on you. And I'd become fond of that sick woman of yours, the little brother of hers. But I went right on. Do you suppose I like to do what I did to there? Well, you never made a bigger mistake. I ain't what I used to be. When I brought back her father and mother to trick that poor Miss Estrilla, I just gave her a lesson. But after that I couldn't think of you, Martin McGee—but I couldn't kill a man I liked and sympathized with. I fixed it. I fixed it so nobody would be involved in it but me. I could have told you, and persuaded you, maybe that the right thing was to let this Perez get away. But you'd have been my accomplice. You couldn't have taken the stand and sworn clean—as you can now—that you had nothing to do with it. I kept you out of it. I'm here to take my medicine. I never whimpered yet, and I won't now. And that, Martin McGee, is why I fooled you!"

Never had words poured so fast from the lips of Rosalie Le Grange. And as they poured, many expressions passed across Inspector McGee's clean-shaven police face.
"Is this the truth, Rose?" he said, and gulped. "Is it the truth?"
"It's the truth if anybody ever told it," she replied.

He was on his feet now; she rose also. "You're the wonder of the world!" he said.
"I've always maintained that," she replied, her old self dancing in her dimples. Martin McGee, who had never perceived that an intelligent woman may have twenty and forty in successive hours—whose heavy police mind, in short, had little skill to weigh fine values—knew not that love goes by contrasts, that the Lord Archer smiles never so surely and certainly as in the moment when jealousy or suspicion are departing. He never understood why his defenses fell all at once, why his arms, which he worked as though in defiance of his will, encircled Rosalie Le Grange.
When a month before, Martin so exploded in her presence, Rosalie had wrenched herself away. If she lay unresisting in his arms now, it was because she had seen the face. And Rosalie Le Grange knew above all things how to read faces. She yielded her waist, but not yet her lips.

"Martin," she asked softly, "is this on the level?"
"It's on the level, Rose. I don't care for anything. I want you to marry me!"
The doorkeeper had been told not to disturb Inspector McGee. We will join the doorkeeper—it seems more tactful. Let us merely glance in on them ten minutes later. They are seated again, and McGee is patting her hand, ponderously but yet softly. Rosalie's eyes, usually so big and grave in contrast with her smiles and her dimples—are shining as we have never seen them shine before.

"Now did it come," asked Martin, "that you could ever take to a great big cow of a fellow like me?"
"The mischief danced in her dimples. "Because you are so big and mutton-headed!" she said. Then the dimples went away and the eyes again regained their expression. "Because you're a real man, Marty. Because you've plugged ahead and done things, and because you're brave, too, I guess. It ain't good for a man to be too kind and smart. That's for the woman—that's my part in this combination. And besides, the way your hair grows in front is cut."

"Aw, cut that out, Rosalie," this in a tone of infinite tenderness—a tone as playful as comports with the dignity of an inspector.
And—but we had better rejoin the door-man.

Only we should glance in just once more. Inspector McGee, the doorkeeper struck with a sudden humorous idea, is saying: "It's funny, Rosie—here we've got engaged and I don't know your real name!"
"That's how I'm sure you love me, Martin. When folks are in love, they don't ask questions. Well, it's Rose Granger. If you've got to know, born Smith. A widow—so, not grass. I married Jim Granger. He was no good, but I cared for him till he died. You've got thirty years or so—because I sense we'll both live long—to listen to what Jim Granger did to me. We've got other things to talk about first, Marty, you haven't given me an engagement present."

"You'll get a diamond solitaire as soon as I can beat it up-town," said Martin. "Something else first, I want you to fix it to the New York police department makes an awful bluff at finding Juan Perez—and never looks in the right place."

"I guess I can promise that," laughed Inspector McGee. Less than half an hour before he had been talking about his duty, but one's ideas of duty vary according to the shifting lights of circumstances.
"And for a wedding present?" pursued Rosalie. "I guess you can see that this poor sister never gets put through."
"That's easy," said McGee. "Say—now that everything is fixed up, where's that Estrilla-Perez person, anyhow? What did you do with him?"
"That information is going to be my wedding present to you," responded Rosalie Le Grange.

THREATEN STRIKE

Cotton Workers Will Demand a General Increase in Wages.

[Canadian Press.]

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 20.—A demand for a general wage increase for the operatives in the one hundred cotton mills of this city was made upon the manufacturers last night by the textile council, representing 7,000 of the 21,000 workers.
Officials of the unions involved said that upon the answer of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association would depend the taking of a strike vote over the demands understood to be for increases varying from 10 to 15 per cent. in different departments of work.

BELIEVE STEAMER PLUNGED TO BOTTOM

All Hope of Finding the Leaffield Has Been Given Up.

[Canadian Press.]

Port Arthur, Nov. 20.—The explanation of the disappearance of the Algoma Central steamer Leaffield on Lake Superior as offered by a local shipping man, is that when she climbed a huge wave and went over the summit, the space between the forward decks became filled with water. Already loaded heavily with steel rails, she continued head-first after the going down, the other side of the wave, and dived straight to the bottom of Lake Superior without any of the crew having even a chance to put on life belts. Although the tug practically no hope is entertained of the boat or any of the crew now missing eleven days.

THE MAIN ISSUE IN EAST MIDDLESEX.

In spite of every possible effort to divert attention, the Conservative speakers and the Conservative press are unable to turn the voters of East Middlesex from the predominating issue of the campaign.

The Whitney Government is opposed to the abolition of the bar. Mr. Rowell has offered to co-operate with Sir James Whitney in carrying out this great reform. The offer has not been accepted. The bars are still open, and are being kept open by the aid of the Whitney Government, just as the Whitney Government is being helped in turn by the liquor interests. The alliance for defensive and offensive purposes, is natural and inevitable.

Such an alliance, however, is fatal to good government, and fatal to the well being of any state. To allow it to continue, would be to invite and condone the very forces that lead to national deterioration and destruction. Material interests of the most sordid kind would replace ideals of clean and wholesome government.

The people of East Middlesex, face to face with a crisis of this kind, have the opportunity to strike a death blow at the Government-liquor combination. Signs of their determination to do this have badly frightened the members of the Government. Why should they be afraid? Haven't they a majority of over 500 at the present time? Their fear tells its own tale.

That majority of 500 can be wiped out completely by the temperance people of East Middlesex if they vote for their own candidate, John Laidlaw, the man nominated by the Temperance and Liberal conventions. The Government-liquor combine know that their majority will be wiped out if the temperance men vote for the temperance candidate. Hence their struggle to obscure the issue.

The election of Laidlaw would not drive the Whitney Government out of power; it would still leave it a majority far too large even for its own best interests. Laidlaw's election, however, would have a profound effect on the province. It would throw provincial politics into the melting pot, from which would emerge advanced temperance legislation. With Laidlaw in the House, Sir James Whitney's Government would pause before continuing its alliance with the liquor interests. It might be ready to accept Mr. Rowell's offer of co-operation to wipe out the liquor evil.

Let every temperance man do his duty on Thursday. It is the supreme opportunity.

ROWELL AND LLOYD GEORGE.

In a recent article in the London Times, on "Some Representative Canadians," Mr. N. W. Rowell is described as having the outlook of Lloyd George on social reform.

THE FOLLY OF HARTT.

"I call that a lie as black as hell." In this way James Hartt, M. P. for East Simcoe, characterized Mr. N. W. Rowell's charge that the liquor interests had taken up two collections of money to assist the Conservatives in the last by-election in East Middlesex.

Mr. Rowell made that charge deliberately, has declared he has evidence to back up his assertion, and has repeated it several times.

In spite of this, Hartt calls it "a lie as black as hell." It is sentences like this that often lose elections for those who utter them. Hartt, by the unspeakable folly of this mad, rash statement, will probably do more to hurt the Conservative cause in East Middlesex than any other single factor.

Those who know Hartt know what he is like. Those who didn't know Hartt before, know him now.

MR. BORDEN ON RECIPROCITY.

A report appeared in the New York Herald attributing to Mr. Borden the statement that he "regretted reciprocity had not come to pass." He is said to have expressed this opinion on his way south a short time ago. Evidently he has been misreported. It is scarcely likely that the man who went into power two years ago as a strong opponent of reciprocity would stultify himself so soon. The probabilities are that he may have said something in favor of a limited form of reciprocity, which has been distorted or misunderstood by reporters. Of course, even a very limited reciprocity was condemned by some of Mr. Borden's friends during the campaign. The "no truck nor trade" policy was announced in his presence by one of his followers, and by his silence he gave it his tacit approval. Mr. Borden may have changed his mind within the last few months, but we cannot expect him to admit it so soon.

There were Conservatives two years ago who believed in reciprocity, but spoke against it, and worked against it, for party reasons. And there are Conservatives today who are commencing to clamor for reciprocity of a sort. Despite all the indignation that was expressed about our tariff being arranged for us at Washington, they are compelled to admit that tariff legislation by the United States Congress has a very pronounced effect on what we have to do, and that we are compelled to shape our legislation to some extent at least by what our neighbors may decide for themselves. The new tariff law they have adopted will require changes on our part to meet the changed conditions. Conservative papers in many sections of the country are already declaring that we will have to take off the duties from wheat and flour to meet similar action on the part of the United States. It is a complete answer to their own argument of two years ago that they could not benefit both producer and consumer by throwing off duties; that if one got a better market the other would have to pay higher prices. They are coming around to the Liberal platform as fast as they can, and are themselves refuting their old arguments.

If the Government thought it necessary in its own interests to adopt the Liberal platform, it would not hesitate to do so. Just as it right-about-faced on the naval question. But it will do so under disguise as far as possible. It only took two years to change completely its naval policy; its trade policy might be reversed in the same time with equal ease. But we doubt very much if that will happen. The combines have too strong a hold on the Government to permit any marked surrender. It will very likely make a little turn in that direction, but no more than that can help. So, in the meantime, we need not pay much attention to reports of what Mr. Borden may or may not have said in New York.

AS TO MR. MCFARLAN.

John McFarlan is a full-grown man, and no baby. He is probably willing to take responsibility for his course of action and for his candidacy.

And yet the Free Press is weeping for him because The Advertiser said "a vote for McFarlan is a vote for the barroom." Of course, there was nothing personal about this. Mr. McFarlan, however, is the official and recognized candidate of the Government-liquor combination, which is keeping the barrooms of Ontario open. For this reason we repeat that a vote for McFarlan is a vote for the barroom.

Hon. Isaac B. Lucas' attacks on the Dominion Alliance are vote-getters for Laidlaw.

The East Middlesex contest once more brings the barroom before the bar of public opinion.

Bishop Fallon and Mr. Bourassa at St. Andrew's banquet. This will be a highly interesting and piquant combination.

It may be doubted whether the Asquith cabinet is divided on the Ulster question, as reported. But if it is, it is the only ray of hope the Unionists have.

Arthur Hawkes, the leader of the British-born propaganda of 1911, has entered the field against the Borden candidate in South Lanark. Of course, Mr. Hawkes is now disloyal.

European celebrities have issued a formal protest against the abuses of the law in Russia. If Russia doesn't reform she will soon be known as the Manitoba of the old world.

Dr. Coleridge has been named Conservative candidate for South Oxford. The doctor is a whirlwind on the platform, and can be relied upon to shatter the atmosphere, if not his opponent.

It will pain some more or less esteemed contemporaries to hear that King George and the Duke of Connaught sent birthday congratulations to that eminent separatist, Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Our local contemporary prints a table to show that the Whitney Government has gained ground in the by-elections. But the last two, East York and Peel, show a Government loss of 3% votes. That table will not be reprinted after the East Middlesex by-election.

MUCH TOO LATE.

[Midland Free Press.]
A woman wants to know how to control her fifteen-year-old son, who won't mind a word she says. The lady is asking for information about fifteen years to late.

THE ADVERTISER TAKES LEAVE OF MR. M. W. ROSSIE

Editor for Many Years, His Departure Is Marked by a Fitting Recognition.

The London Advertiser this morning regretfully took leave of its editor, Mr. Melville W. Rossie, who has been connected with this newspaper in one capacity or another for more than 20 years.

Mr. Rossie leaves within a short time for Port Arthur, where he will engage in newspaper work with Mr. C. O. Smith, another of The Advertiser's prominent graduates.

The official farewell to Mr. Rossie saw the heads of departments gathered together, with many of the old employees of the paper. The sentiments expressed in the address read to him came from the hearts of everyone in the employ of the company, in whatever capacity.

The address, signed by Mr. T. H. Purdom, president of the company, and Mr. R. D. Millar, manager, and read by Mr. Purdom, referred in complimentary terms to Mr. Rossie's long connection with The Advertiser, beginning 22 years ago and continuing to the present time, with an interruption of only two years. During half that time he had been editor of The Advertiser. Nature had given him an even temper and a balanced mind, and these had been disciplined by study, practice and experience. The address continued:

"You are leaving The Advertiser when it is very vigorous and when the management has decided to issue a morning edition, feeling that its influence should extend over a wider area than it now does, and that it will be a welcome daily visitor in many thousands of additional homes."

"The readers of The London Advertiser saw it improve from year to year and increase in influence under your editorship. You fully maintained the highest ideals of those editors who seek to satisfy the public with the best service of news obtainable, and to form and direct a sound public opinion upon all questions affecting its welfare."

The address was accompanied by the presentation of a handsome check. Mr. Rossie expressed his gratitude feelingly. He said he had entered The Advertiser as a boy, and he was severing many long and cherished associations with deep regret. But he was at least a sound public opinion upon all questions affecting its welfare."

Another presentation took place yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Rossie was called to the composing room and, on behalf of all the members of this department, was presented with a handsome parting gift. Mr. J. I. Goodburne, in making the presentation, referred to the kindly relations that had existed between Mr. Rossie and the composing staff, and expressed appreciation of his unfailing courtesy. Mr. Rossie replied appropriately.

1. It would depend upon what caused the lumps. I think you ought to consult a physician.
2. Rub them every night with a lotion made of 1 ounce of rosewater, 1 of glycerine and the juice of half a lemon.
3. Purchase a good hair tonic at any drug store. Continue the brushing, and in addition massage the scalp every day.
4. To rub upwards and outwards with a rotary motion, using a massage cream, will help to smooth out the wrinkles.

6. Your writing is quite masculine in appearance. No, I cannot read your character by it.

5. Yes.

Shall She Take Part?

1. Dear Miss Grey: This is the first time that I have ever come to you with any question, but being rather puzzled by what is best to do, I thought of writing your opinion.

The New Turkish Veil

Like the women of Constantinople, fair New Yorkers are now disguising the lower part of the face with a heavy veil, the eyes peering forth through thinner mesh above. That these Oriental veils are piquant and coquettish goes without saying; behind them the eyes have a mysterious effect that is unmistakably fascinating. The Turkish veil pictured here has an upper part of sheer crêpe mesh, the border crossing the veil just below the eyes, being of chantilly.

set of building blocks, drawing outfit, or picture book, might answer.
2. A pearl, fair, honorable, bold.
3. I presume you mean of current fiction? Winston Churchill, E. Phillips Oppenheim, Margaret Deland, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Robert Chambers, Louis Vance, Anna Katherine Green, Baroness Orczy. These are just a few of the popular writers, mentioned at random.
4. She was Consuelo Vanderbilt.
5. No, both are used.

He is in Love.

Dear Miss Grey—Will you kindly answer my questions and greatly oblige?
1. I am in love with a young lady, but am not more friendly with her than to speak when we meet on the street, as she belongs to society. Can you suggest any way in which I could get more formally acquainted with her? We attended school together, and I have always thought more of her than any other girl. We are 23 years of age, and I am able to well support her if I can win her to be hard, yes, but there are numerous hard things in this life.
2. Can shorthand be taught successfully by mail?
3. What is a good cure for dandruff? Thanking you, I remain yours very respectfully.

STRIVE AND SUCCEED.
A.—Can you not go to some of the places where she goes and manage to get in her company? How about church affairs, or a young people's society of some sort? She probably takes part in affairs of this kind, and you may find an opportunity there.
2. Yes, I believe so.
3. Buy some good skin ointment and rub a little on the scalp every night with the tips of the fingers. The massage and the ointment together should improve the condition of your scalp very much.

Lucile Fiske's Perplexities.

Answer.—I really think it would pay you to take a course of treatment from a specialist in scalp treatment. The cost is not exorbitant, and it would doubtless help you more than anything else.

However, if you prefer a home treatment, this shampoo lotion has been found excellent for oily hair. The quantity is somewhat large, and you could have the druggist make up half or one-quarter of the quantity. Cologne, half ounce; tincture of green soap, one ounce; borax, half ounce; alcohol, four ounces. Apply the mixture with a small brush, with the hair and fingers thoroughly. Then rinse with several waters to remove all of the soap. I sincerely hope whichever course you take that your hair and scalp may be benefited.
2. It is, alas, a common plight, that of the skirt wearing around the bottom, since the reign of the long scant skirt began, and I know of no way to prevent it. The only method of repairing the damage seems to be to turn up the bottom edge past the worn mark, and to face it inside with the same material. This, of course, shortens the skirt, but if it is fairly long at first, this does not matter so much.
3. While it was in perfectly good form to open the door, I think next time it's coming near Christmas again, you know, it might be wiser to take the candy home. For after all the gift was for you, and the staff of the staff. Treat the home folks with it, and tell him afterwards how much you all enjoyed it.
4. Lucky girl, to have so much to spend on one gift. Of course, it's for the best woman in the world, isn't it? If her room is somewhat hard to heat, one of the little gas grates (the portable kind, I mean), could be installed for the amount you mention. A nice reading lamp would doubtless be acceptable, too, or how about a nice picture for her bedroom? Books, brass fire-irons (if you have a mantle and grate), or to be very practical, a kitchen cabinet. A nice travelling bag would be useful, and in the line of personal adornment gifts, a silk dress length, feather boa or handsome brooch would be sure to be appreciated by a mother.

Wants To Be Friends.

Dear Miss Grey—Have been keeping company with a young man, for whom I care a great deal, but a short time ago he and I had a little dispute, which was the cause of our breaking up (at my suggestion). He didn't want this, but I felt as though it was for his as well as my own welfare, but now I have thought it all over, and want to renew our old friendship. What would you advise I have written him, but as yet have received no reply—called him on 'phone, but he answered me coolly. He is a commercial traveller, and his home is in London.

2. I am 18 years old past. Am I too young to be anticipating marriage next summer?
3. (a) When dining at a hotel, after scanning over menu card, where is its proper place? (b) Is it good form to take one order of everything? (c) Upon leaving the table, how should one leave their chair? (d) In what words would the guest express his or her thanks for the dinner?
4. I am 5 feet 7 inches, weigh 150 pounds. Am I built in proportion?
5. What other games besides cards can be enjoyed at an informal house party?
Thanking you kindly, and wishing you ample success, Yours respectfully,

A READER OF THE ADVERTISER.
A.—I think it would be a fearful sacrifice of self-esteem for you to make further advances. The young man evidently considers your word was final, and it seems apparent that he is not very anxious to "make up" with you. He better keep silent; speak in a friendly way when you meet him; but don't pander to his masculine vanity, so that he will think you are anxious to have him back. It will be hard, yes, but there are numerous hard things in this life.
2. You had better reach a less changeable frame of mind before you consider matrimony.
3. The menu card is usually placed on one side, where it will be handy for consultation for the next course.
It would be impossible to eat a serving of everything that appears on the average bill-of-fare at a hotel. Order the dishes that you know you like.
The chair may be left as you rise from it, and you may push it towards the table.
"I have enjoyed the dinner exceedingly," or any similar phrase. But don't have stereotyped speeches—speak naturally.
Yes, I think so. You are quite large for your age.
5. Charades or tableaux, guessing games, palnistry, etc.

GIRLS IN CANNERIES.

A study of the working hours of women in the pea canneries of Wisconsin has recently been made by Marie L. Obenauer, and published by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics. The distinguishing features of all fruit and vegetable canning industries and the extreme fluctuation in the working hours. Whether the present conditions under which women work overtime can be alleviated by improving the equipment of the factories, planting with reference to the probable time of ripening, more ample storage facilities, and other causes within the control of the canneries is the problem that this report should help to solve.

In view of the number of canners who objected to any restrictions on the working hours of women, there is peculiar interest in the statements from some of the same canners as to what actually happened in their own plants during the five years prior to the enactment of the 55-hour law. Thus, among the 26 canners reporting in regard to this matter, days of 15, 16 and 18 hours were frequent, and runs of even 20, 22 and 24 hours were reported by several canners.

The Women Lawyers' Journal, in commenting upon the facts brought to light by the report, says: "Instead of asking for special concessions but over-working its women employees, the canners should be compelled to adopt efficiency methods in their particular industry."

:: FOR THE COOKY JAR ::

The cooky jar is an all-important household equipment. That it may be filled with various tasty cookies, some tried recipes gathered from near and far are here given:

A simple sugar cooky is made by creaming together 1½ cups of sugar and a cupful of butter and dripping mixed. Then stir in two well-beaten eggs and five tablespoons of sour milk in which has been dissolved a small teaspoonful of soda. Flavor with nutmeg or vanilla. Roll thin, and when the cookies are cut out, sprinkle with sugar and top each with a raisin. Bake in a moderate oven.

There are countless recipes for making molasses cookies. One calls for a cupful each of brown sugar, molasses and shortening; when these ingredients are well mixed, add a beaten egg, three tablespoons of soda dissolved in nine tablespoons of boiling water, two tablespoons of ginger and just enough flour to roll out very soft.

Molasses cookies, which should be mixed the night before they are baked, are made after this recipe: Dissolve two tablespoons of soda in a teaspoonful of boiling water and stir into a pint of dark New Orleans molasses; mix thoroughly the molasses mixture and a cupful of dark brown sugar, then add a teaspoonful of cloves, ginger and cinnamon, and about five cupfuls of flour. Put away in the refrigerator or in a very cold place till next day. These cookies are best rolled out fairly thick.

To make chocolate cookies, mix a cupful each of brown and white sugar, a cupful of grated chocolate, two tablespoons of vanilla, a beaten egg, two cupfuls of flour, and a tablespoonful of water. Let the dough stand for an hour or so, then roll and bake in a quick oven. On taking the cookies from the pan, slip them on paper to harden. If the cookies are cut with a square cutter they will look well. The recipe will make between 60 and 70 cookies, says a writer.

To make fruit cookies, cream two thirds of a cupful of shortening and a cupful of sugar, then stir in two beaten eggs. Add three-quarters of a cupful of milk, two teaspoons of baking powder, almond extract to flavor, and enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled out.

To make jumbles, cream a pint of sugar and a cupful of butter. Then add two beaten eggs, half a cupful of sweet milk, a teaspoonful of soda, and two teaspoons of cream of tartar. Do not use a rolling pin, but make the dough into a roll about 10 inches long. Slice it off. Put the slices into a plate of sugar, pat with the fingers, remove and bake in a quick oven.

Y Stands For Yak In Our Picture Zoo.

BY AUNT GERTIE.

Have you ever seen a yak?

It is usually black and looks not unlike an ox, for it is really a species of that family.

The yak has been domesticated from time immemorial, and forms a large part of the wealth of the inhabitants of the highest and coldest regions of Central Asia.

It is found in Central Asia in the wildest state, also. Then it is very fierce and is hunted by big dogs.

If it gets the chance, it will rush on a person and fight desperately, not only with its horns but with its chest and feet!

It does not low like an ox. Instead it grunts something like a pig does!

It is covered all over with a coat of long, silky hair. The head is rather short, but the eyes are large and beautiful.

The neck is short and so are the legs. The horns are not very long, but they are very strong.

The flesh of the yak is very good to eat. It is often dried and then cooked by the natives.

The butter made from yak milk is excellent, too. The hair of a yak's coat is spun into ropes and it is made into coverings for tents.

Instead of using the yak as a plow animal, the people of Central Asia use it as a beast of burden. It carries heavy loads, travelling a slow, even pace, and covering about 20 miles a day.

SOME USEFUL TOWEL LORE

To the girl who has never learnt that useful trick of embroidery, that almost everyone else seems to know, the idea of collecting a troussau appears quite appalling, especially if she cannot afford to pay someone else to embroider towels and linens for her. But if she really wants pretty towels and lingerie enough to work over them and will undertake the task in a sensible manner, choosing only simple designs, which may be made quite as effective with a little lace and hand-sewn seams, she will have just as pretty a troussau as her accomplished sister, who has acquired more skill from years of practice.

In the first place towels done in cross-stitch are in great favor just now, and if one chooses a certain style of letters and uses them on various sizes on all her towels, she will find her bathroom will look most attractive, quite as much so as if her towels were all elaborately embroidered in white.

Pink and Blue.
It gives a very much prettier effect if one will decide on either pink or blue for her bathroom, and then use only that color, or if blue be the favorite shade, blue letters with tiny pink flowers and green leaves will give just enough variety to add a touch of style. Cross-stitch is very easy work, and requires only a little care before one becomes quite skilful.

Another little trick is to buy towels in a good quantity with the scalloped ends by machine, and go over it by hand, the machine work furnishing the best kind of padding. After a little practice one will find that even initials are not difficult, the large ones being much easier than the small ones. If she can draw a little trailing vine with dots for flowers and simple leaves, winding around the letters, it

City Hockey League Will Be Composed of Four Strong Teams

Six-Club Organization Thought To Be Too Large —Three of Last Year's Teams Are Available For This Season.

Prospects for a four-team City Hockey League are exceedingly bright this winter. A meeting of the London City Hockey League was held in the Orient Club rooms last evening, and the matter was discussed at some length, although no action was taken. The opinion of those present at the meeting was that a six-team league is too big and a four-team affair is a much more compact and satisfactory organization.

Will Organize Shortly. Steps will be taken to organize the City League again this year, and a meeting will be called within the next week or two to elect officers and get the organization under way. Three teams of last year's league are available this year, the A. M. C., First Huskies and Orient Club. These were three of the strongest and best teams in last winter's league, and they have practically all of last season's players available. The league will need a fourth team, but no trouble is expected in obtaining one. The Acadian Club has been considering the matter of placing a hockey team in this league, and now that the way is open, it is fully believed that it will enter.

A Good Surplus. The meeting last night was largely devoted to closing up the business remaining over from last season. The secretary and treasurer's reports showed that the City League had a most successful year, and quite a large surplus remained in the treasury. This money was divided equally among five of the clubs on motion of one of the representatives.

To Bar Players of Other Leagues. In talking over the reorganization of the league, some little discussion was aroused over the question of allowing O. H. A. players to play on the teams. From present indications it is likely that the City League this year will not allow O. H. A. players on its teams or players from any other league in the city. It is the intention to make it purely a separate organization, so that its games will not conflict with the games of other leagues in any way whatever.

Laurie Gillies, left wing of last year's London intermediate team, who will captain the local intermediates this year in all probability.

BORLAND HEARD FROM

Secretary Barney Vining, of the local O. H. A. club, received a letter from Billy Borland, star point of last year's London finalists, this morning, in which the latter says he has just turned down a $1,000 offer to play hockey on the coast with the Patrick brothers. Borland says he intends to stick with the Monarch team in Winnipeg this winter and play the amateur game. He expects to have a good year.

No word has been received from Cleveland yet as to an exhibition game there with the London intermediates, but Secretary Vining expects to hear from there shortly.

Laurie To Be Captain. Laurie Gillies is the likely choice as captain of this year's London intermediate team. Laurie has played with the London O. H. A. teams for three seasons, and he is fast developing into a star. His work against Collingwood in the final games last season, is still remembered, and while he was a little off-color in the early group games, he more than made up for it in the crucial contests towards the close of the season. Laurie was the lightest man on the team last winter, but he has put on a lot of weight since then, and this year he should have a great season. Laurie is one of the most popular players who ever donned a London uniform.

ANOTHER "WHITE HOPE" PUT OUT OF THE WAY

Battling Levinsky Substituted For Gunboat Smith and Disposed of Ed. Hogan.

New York, Nov. 20.—Ed. Hogan, the latest aspirant for the heavyweight championship, was knocked out in the seventh round of a ten-round bout with Battling Levinsky, the Philadelphia light heavyweight, here tonight. Gunboat Smith was to have been Hogan's opponent, but a damaged eye, received in his fight with Sam Langford, caused Smith to withdraw and Levinsky was substituted to meet Hogan. Hogan weighed 170 pounds, while Hogan was sixteen and one-half pounds heavier.

RITCHIE AND MURPHY HAVE AGREED TO TERMS

Lightweight Champion and "Harlem Tommy" Will Meet on Dec. 10 in 20-Round Bout.

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—Harry Foley, manager of Willie Ritchie, today accepted promoter James W. Coffroth's proposal of 135 pounds, one hour before fight time, for a twenty-round title on Dec. 19 with "Harlem Tommy" Murphy. Promoter Coffroth wired immediately to Murphy's manager, Jim Buckley, to rush the Harlemitte along. Murphy should be here either Tuesday or Wednesday, and will be taken to Shannon's training resort in San Rafael, where work will be started. Ritchie is looking ahead of the Murphy match already. He has designs on Fackey McFarland, and sees an immense purse being offered for such a match.

PLAYERS TO SHARE ALIKE IN POST-SEASON SERIES

National Commission Makes Important
Ruling in Regard to Post-Season Contests.

[Canadian Press.] Chicago, Ill., Nov. 21.—The national baseball commission has decided that hereafter all players eligible to participate in post-season contests under the control of the commission whether world's or any other series, will receive equal shares of the money awarded to their teams. This information was made public here yesterday by John Evers, manager of the Chicago Cubs.

According to Evers, this action was taken by the commission when complaint was filed by three Cub pitchers, Jim Vaughn, Earl Moore and Eddie Stack, over the division of the Cubs' money after the Cub-White Sox series here this fall.

These three pitchers received only half a share each. The commission, it was stated, refused to take action on the complaints, but decided that in the future all participating players will be given equal shares, whether they have been with their team a full season or not.

NATIONAL LEAGUE LOSING PRESTIGE

Losing of World's Series Said To Have Affected Its Standing.

WILL TRY TO REGAIN IT

Election of Governor Tener to Presidency Is an Effort To Restore
League to Former High Place.

[Canadian Press.] New York, Nov. 21.—It has come to be accepted among local baseball writers as a foregone conclusion that the proposed election of Governor John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania, to the presidency of the National League will go through without a hitch. It is said to be now practically certain that the election of Governor Tener to the presidency of the league will be a triumph for the league. The rise of opposition to the re-election of President Lynch is still a matter of some surprise. No specific charge has ever been made against him, though it is well known that he has antagonized many of the club owners by the stand he has taken in many disputes, particularly with regard to the upholding of umpires. Some observers assert that one of the reasons that the National League has in mind a man of Governor Tener's prominence is a hope of "restoring the older league's prestige." It is pointed out that this prestige has been threatened, but it is actually affected by the success of the American League in winning the world's championship regularly for the past four years.

The Morgan mares will be crossed with Mr. Billings' trotting stallions.

Methodists and Presbyterians Discuss Joint Association

An Inter-Denominational Hockey League Will Be Formed—Committee Chosen To Deal With the Matter and Make Necessary Arrangements.

With a view to forming an inter-denominational athletic association, and organizing hockey, baseball and other leagues, a meeting of representatives from Methodist and Presbyterian Churches was held in the Y. M. C. A. last evening, and the initial steps taken. The question of a joint hockey league was the principal topic of discussion. A committee was formed to receive applications from teams wishing to enter this league, and an executive meeting will be held on Tuesday evening to make further arrangements.

The committee is composed of the following: Rev. W. R. McIntosh, of King Street Presbyterian Church; H. W. Lyons, of the Men's Federation; Ronald Gray, of New St. James' Presbyterian Church; Ernest Graham, of Dundas Centre Methodist Church; Bert Childs, of Astin Street Methodist; A. T. Taylor, of the Y. M. C. A.

The Men's Federation is interesting itself in the movement, and a delegation will likely go before the city council, to ask for some assistance in providing more recreation grounds and open skating rinks. It is thought that if a couple of these open air rinks were boarded up at the sides, hockey could be played and a junior league formed. This would do much to develop the youngsters in the great Canadian winter game.

PACKEY M'FARLAND WILL MEET BRITTON

C.O.O.F. LEADS TEAMS IN CARPETBALL LEAGUE

The Woodmen of the World and the C. O. O. F. were the winners in the City Fraternal Carpetball League games last evening. The former team defeated the Sons of England in the Duffield Block by the score of 76 to 70 in a close game. The half-time score was 44 to 24, in favor of the Woodmen, and it was only their big lead in the first half that enabled them to win out.

The teams were:
Sons of England—Harper, Brooks, Martin, Timbrell, T. Harper and Garfat.

Woodmen of the World—Bailey, Collins, Tapp, Lindsay, Baldwin, Gows. The other game was played in the Dominion Savings Building, the C. O. O. F. beating the I. I. M. S. by the score of 68 to 65, the half-time score being 39 to 25 in favor of the I. I. M. S. The teams were:

C. O. O. F.—Hart, W. Risler, Borne, E. Risler, Knight, Hughes.
I. I. M. S.—T. Burke, F. Burke, Delmage, Smith, Kerrigan, Lawrence.

The standing of the league is as follows:

Our London Branch has been one of the many surprises in the history of the remarkable growth of the Scotland Woolen Mills Company. When we opened here we expected to do a real big business, but what came to us simply knocked all our hats into a "cocked hat." We have received amazing support from the west, and each week has increased our business in London.

This business is growing still, and has reached that cheerful point where we have been able to give even more value for Fifteen Dollars because of the largeness of our output. The people of London have given us continued support, and we are attempting to return evidence of our appreciation of this by exchanging the limit of value in good clothes for Fifteen Dollars.

GIDEON MILLER,
President, Scotland Woolen Mills Company.

Last week we put some splendid lines of overcoatings on the tables of our London Branch. These fabrics are exclusive to our business in pattern and coloring and are imported goods made from all wool. ### YANKS AND DODGERS WILL MEET IN SPRING

Series of Five Games Will Be Played in Early Part of April.

New York, Nov. 21.—A spring exhibition series between the New York American League and the Brooklyn National League teams was arranged today. The series is to consist of five games on April 2, 3, 4, 8 and 11, all to be played at Ebbetts Field in Brooklyn, as the New York Nationals' exhibition arrangements call for the use of the Polo Grounds by the Giants during early April. Frank Chance, Giants manager, would not agree to a spring series between the two New York teams, recently approved arrangements for a series with Brooklyn, and the approval of Brooklyn's new manager, Wilbert Robinson, was secured today.

Five players of the Lincoln team of the Western League who left the team before the last game of the season was played have been fined $10 and one day's pay each by the club management. The players, after getting their money, became homesick and could not wait. They were Peppeli, Clauss, Ramsey, Rader and Rousch. The fines will be held out of their first pay envelopes next spring.

Manager Walter McCredie, of the pennant-winning Portland team, is quoted as saying that it is the damp climate that handicaps San Francisco players and keeps them from winning a pennant. He seems to overlook the fact, however, that Oakland, playing most of its games in San Francisco, won a flag, and that Portland, which is also noted some for moisture, has done very well in the matter of winning championships.

Judge W. W. McCredie, owner of the Portland Northwestern League Club, makes the annual interesting announcement that the club made money. This year its net revenue to him was $80. Last year he made enough out of the club to buy him a new hat. He is still strong for maintaining the Northwestern team in Portland, however, believing that the fans of that city want continuous baseball, in spite of the showing in receipts.

It is announced from Players' Fraternity headquarters that Henry Zimmerman has been expelled from membership because of failure to pay his dues. The story is that when Zimmerman was asked by Ed Ruebach, then with the Cubs, and acting as representative of the Fraternity, to pay up, he went to President Murphy and reported that Ruebach was "bouncing" him. Soon after Murphy traded Ruebach to Brooklyn. The next move found Zimmerman outside the pale of his fellow players.

MUCH-NEEDED BOOKS MISSING AT PROBE INTO WEST SHORE RY.

Promoter Fails To Shed Any Light On Where Over $600,000 Went — Lax Business Methods Disclosed at Investigation — Valuable Records Gone.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Nov. 21. — The long-looked-for and much-delayed probe into the West Shore Railway Company's affairs began yesterday, and from present indications the outlook for those whose money is in the line and who want a statement, is not cheering.

After staying away from the sessions of the Ontario Railway Board for months, Mr. Moyes finally put in an appearance yesterday, but the most strenuous efforts of Mr. W. Proudfoot, K. C., and F. A. Malcolmson, K. C., representing the municipalities, failed to extract much information from him.

Unwilling Witness.

Mr. Moyes gave evidence under protest, and throughout the long hours was in the witness chair insisting that he could not be expected to remember details. The matters counsel asked about were matters of record, and could be learned from the books.

But the books were not produced. Mr. Moyes early in his evidence stated that he had retired from the presidency of the West Shore Railway, and had turned all his books and papers in connection with the line over to C. S. Smoke, of Toronto, the vice-president.

Was Mistaken.

This statement brought a reminder from counsel that in his evidence some time ago, Mr. Smoke stated that he could not give certain information without getting the papers from Mr. Moyes. The promoter maintained that he had turned over all the records upon his retirement, and that if Mr. Smoke thought there were any others he was mistaken.

Records Are Missing.

In the meantime, records that are absolutely necessary to show the exact status of the West Shore Railway Company, and the Huron Construction Company, that was supposed to have received the contract to construct the line, are missing. Last night, after final attempts to get Mr. Moyes to become definite on several points, Mr. Proudfoot asked for an adjournment, in order to give Mr. Moyes an opportunity to see if he could produce some of the records.

Had an Agreement.

Some glimmering of the manner in which the road was constructed—or partly constructed—was secured by counsel from Mr. Moyes. It was brought out that the West Shore Railway entered into some sort of an agreement—the exact nature of which could not be learned—with the Huron Construction Company—a somewhat mythical concern—to construct the line. It was to receive as payment the whole of the $600,000 bond issue, $400,000 of which was guaranteed by the municipalities, and a considerable portion of common stock. When pressed to state what this amount was Mr. Moyes claimed that he could not tell definitely without having access to the records.

Presented Certificates.

According to the evidence, certificates of the engineer of the Huron Construction Company, amounting to $23,949, were presented to the Company holding the bonds. These were honored under the agreement under which the bonds were deposited. Counsel made an attempt to secure from Mr. Moyes a statement as to whether this amount represented material and services that had been put into the construction of the line, as set forth in the certificate.

How Money Departed.

He declared that the Huron Construction Company was to receive a certain amount in bonds and stock for the construction of the entire line. The $23,949 represented the proportion of the total sum for the final completion of the road, which was entitled to for the amount of work done.

This did not satisfy the municipal representatives, and first one and then the other tried to secure from Mr. Moyes a statement of the amount of work actually done and services actually performed as was required by the certificate, holding that the certificate meant that and nothing else, a view in which Chairman McIntyre concurred. The promoter declined to get away from the terms of the contract, and the lawyers gave it up for the time.

Would Not Say.

Mr. Malcolmson suggested that $1,000,000 was the amount named for the entire work, but Mr. Moyes would not state whether this was approximately correct. An attempt by Mr. Malcolmson to show that the work done on the line was a smaller proportion of the complete undertaking than was represented by the certificates issued, met with discouragement in Mr. Moyes' reluctance to give definite answers.

Nerves Are Sore and Painful

Neuritis, or inflammation of the nerves, is the most painful of nervous ailments. You may feel the soreness or tenderness throughout the body, or it may be confined to certain nerves. In the head it is called neuralgia; in the hips and legs, sciatica; in the face, tic douloureux, and in the chest, intercostal neuralgia.

The application of dry heat affords relief from the lancinating pains, but the essential thing is to build up the exhausted nervous system by the persistent use of such a restorative as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You will have other symptoms to warn you of the depleted condition of the nervous system, and this is your opportunity to restore to the body the energy and vigor of health.

While this great food cure is instilling new vitality into the starved nerve cells it is also forming new nerve tissue, and, by noting your flesh and weight, you can prove beyond doubt the benefit being obtained by its use. This is Nature's way of curing diseases of the nerves, and it is the only way to obtain lasting benefit.

Troubled With Weak Back and Kidneys For 10 Years.

Many people fail to understand the significance of a lame, weak, sore or aching back.

When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are affected in some way.

Take notice to the warning and cure the backache on the first sign, for if you don't do this, serious complications are sure to arise and perhaps develop into Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of kidney trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills will strengthen the weak back, and prevent any form of kidney trouble entering the system.

Mrs. Ed. Boyer, Nekomis, Sask., writes: "I have been troubled with weak back and kidneys. I had terrible dizzy headaches, and could not sleep at night. In this way I suffered for ten years, until I read about Doan's Kidney Pills. I purchased two boxes, and as they helped me, I sent you another box. I put me on my feet, and I have been able to work ever since."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents a box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

Free Press had absolutely no grounds for the article which alleged that the council of Westminster Township was opposed to the extension of hydro power in that township. He, with other members of the council, would welcome the extension of hydro power supplied to the farmers at reasonable rates.

Mr. McDonald on Assessment Reform.

Mr. McDonald said that "this talk about hydro" by the Conservatives was merely an attempt to draw a red herring across the track. It smelt fishy. When Mr. McDonald reminded the audience that he came from the celebrated riding that returned Mr. Truax with so fine a majority, he was the signal for rounds of applause. He was a temperance man and a Liberal, he said, and was glad to speak in support of a candidate like Mr. Laidlaw, who was young and brave, and with a clean record.

Speaking on assessment and tax reform, Mr. McDonald said that Sir James Whitney had objected to what he terms a "checkboard" system of assessment, but it was to be found already in the province, at least in the county of Bruce. Assessors on witness stands had testified to habitually assessing properties at percentages on their values varying all the way from 60 to 90. In his own town paper he had seen advertisements in which owners of pasture farms offered barns and houses for sale in order to lower their assessment. Would it ever advance a country selling the barns and houses off the farms? he asked. He did not blame the owners of vacant town lots for holding them for advances in value caused by other people building on adjacent properties. He blamed the system that allowed such a thing. Tax reform must be the work for the progress of the towns and cities, by forcing the sale of vacant lands held for purposes of speculation.

Pink Teas With Hamilton Flavor.

He criticized the reckless expenditure of a million dollars on the new House, which he said, was only built for a place where Toronto society could hold pink teas with a little Hamilton flavor thrown in. The farmers of Ontario would never get a "look in" at Government.

Referring to the defeat of the measure to give spinsters and widows the franchise, he declared that it was the influence of the whiskey ring and men like George Goodham that kept the ballot from these women, because the liquor traffic feared the enfranchisement of woman. "I will guarantee," said Mr. McDonald, "that if the liquor traffic were working for John W. Laidlaw, they would work as hard against me in my riding that I was elected. The temperance sentiment of the people was against them."

All Eyes on East Middlesex.

The eyes of Ontario, and, indeed, of the world, in fact, were on East Middlesex, he said, and the defeat of Mr. Laidlaw, would be a serious setback for temperance.

Mr. U. A. Buchner said that for integrity and straight-forwardness, a better candidate than Mr. Laidlaw could not have been selected. He had known Mr. Laidlaw for many years. The great end of the Legislature was the election of more upright, straight-forward men from the country, who could not be got into line by the corporations for the furtherance of their selfish interests.

An Unprogressive Government. If ever a legislative body did not progress along the lines it should, it was the present Government. The present issues were greater than those of the past. Laidlaw's policy was straight for temperance, and the conscientious electors of East Middlesex need have no hesitation in supporting him.

Mr. Laidlaw and his party were not opposed to hydro power, but he would not be surprised to know that Mr. Rowell agreed with him (Mr. Buchner) that the farmers in this district were entitled to power on as easy terms as the farmers east of Hamilton. Hydro should be Government-owned and Government-operated.

Why should farmers in this district pay $48 per horsepower, while farmers in other districts secured it for $12 per horsepower?

Discriminating Against Westminster. No excuse had ever been given why the Traction Company was not allowed to sell power to the farmers. He would not make the assertion, but he was inclined to think that a little bit of prejudice existed against the people of Westminster on the part of the powers that be. Electric railways in other parts of Ontario were given the right to sell surplus electric power to corporations and individuals. The Monarch Railway and the Morrisburg Railway, for instance.

He was suspicious that there was something wrong with the people of Westminster. They didn't vote right, for one thing. It might be policy for the Westminster farmers, if they wanted electric power, to turn Tory. But would they do it? Or would they not rather stand for a straightforward man of Mr. Laidlaw's principles?

Mr. Buchner also emphasized the needs of tax reform in the province. Buildings should not be taxed at all, he claimed. British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan had already removed or were gradually removing all taxes and assessments on buildings and improvements.

Attitude to Western University. The attitude of the present Government towards the Western University was also criticised by Mr. Buchner.

Mr. Elliott paid a glowing tribute to the high ideals and sterling character of Mr. Laidlaw, which was received by the audience with enthusiastic applause. It was a high compliment to Mr. Laidlaw that he had been nominated by both the Liberal party and the Temperance Alliance, said Mr. Elliott. It was not necessary for Mr. Laidlaw to deny the charges that he was opposed to the extension of hydro power. As reeve of Westminster Township, he had but been a careful guardian of the people's rights in the negotiations of the council with the hydro commission.

Mr. Elliott read from an address by Mr. N. W. Rowell on the hydro question, and said he was at a complete loss to understand how any paper or individual could hope to make either Mr. Laidlaw or Mr. Rowell appear opposed to hydro power.

Referring to the question of the extension of the franchise to women, he said, he could not see why married women holding property should not be allowed to vote. It was virtually penalizing marriage to take away from the woman the vote to which she was entitled before marriage.

Mr. Elliott compared the progress of Ontario with that of the western provinces. If Ontario was the banner province, as he claimed it to be, why should she be falling behind in the race with her sister provinces in recent years? The people of Ontario, he thought, were not receiving from the Government the sympathetic treatment to which they were entitled.

Mr. Elliott criticised the appointment of men to the heads of the departments for which their experience did not qualify them. The deputy minister of agriculture did not receive nearly so large a salary as the deputy ministers of other departments. Why the deputy minister of agriculture received only $2,500 a year, Hon. Mr. Duff took half an hour to explain in the House.

It was all "the boy was with," said Mr. Elliott. "Mr. Roadhouse is an excellent young man, but all the agricultural experience he had, either as a reeve or practically, was derived as a reeve of the Toronto Evening Telegram. In brief, he knows as much about agriculture as a United States senator knows about religion."

As an evidence of the inactivity and indifference of the Ontario department of agriculture, the Government had done practically nothing in the way of improving the live stock of the province, while the western provinces were draining Ontario of her best stock. It was true that the department had sent men to England to buy dairy cattle and they had purchased Shorthorns, but they had purchased back to the people several of the model schools closed.

The so-called improvements made by the Whitney Government to the educational system of Ontario had made that system about as dead as it could be. Instead of explaining the abuses which have crept into the bilingual schools of Ontario, said Mr. Elliott, Hon. Mr. Lucas had weakly said he would like to know where the Liberal party and Liberal leader stood on the bilingual question. The Liberal leader, Mr. Elliott said, was not the man charged, but the Liberal leader had, however, declared that his party believed that every child in Ontario should be instructed in English, the language in which the business of the province is conducted.

The Government on the other hand had attempted to receive both the French and the English. The French would still be taught, and the English, telling them that there are no bilingual schools in Ontario.

In No. 4, Springfield, a two-thirds English population, where the inspector of drinking water had refused a permit to the English teaching school, although the latter had a higher standing.

Concluding his address with a reference to the temperance issue, Mr. Elliott clearly enunciated the positions of the two parties. The way to get rid of drinking is to go away with the place where drinking takes place. This attitude, taken by the Liberal leader, was a reasonable one, and it had cut all the bridges lying between the two parties was the question as to what was the best way to remedy the evils of the liquor traffic, the enormity of which both parties admitted.

Mr. Rowell had declared his policy on the temperance issue, but could anyone in the hall or out of it say what was the policy of the Government on the liquor issue? Sir James had proposed with an anti-teaching law to kill out the liquor traffic in five years. Two years out of that five had already passed away, and the Government had gone no further than a resolution in the matter. If they were honest, why didn't they make the resolution a law?

If the electors elected a man like Mr. Laidlaw, who stood foursquare to all the wrongs in this district, it would show the Government that the people were in favor of temperance, and if the liquor traffic were not abolished by Mr. Rowell, the electors were that it would be abolished by Sir James. And would be abolished by Sir James. And would be abolished by Sir James.

The meeting closed with rousing cheers for the Liberal leader, the Liberal policy and the local candidate, Mr. Laidlaw.

Editorial

Last year, in a western city, a stock of Japanese china and bric-a-brac was opened up for five or six weeks before Christmas, and was auctioned off.

According to their story, the goods were part of an exhibit made somewhere by the Japanese Government, and by its order was to be sold for anything it would bring.

That was the "story."

Many bought, thinking they were receiving bargains. Actually, in many instances, goods were sold at this "forced" auction for from two to three times the regular prices of a large local store for goods identical in quality and even in pattern.

At the Raphael Store, when you buy Furs—or anything—you are not buying from a temporary merchant. We succeed only by gaining your confidence in our values, and your confidence in what we tell you about them.

SANDBAGGED INTO MAKING POLITICAL CONTRIBUTOR

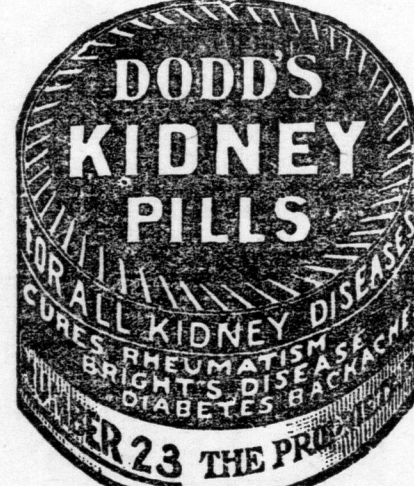

District Attorney Whitman Is Busily Engaged on Alleged Graft Case.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, Nov. 21.—District Attorney Whitman had more questions to ask of George H. McGuire, of Syracuse, with the resumption this afternoon of the John Doe inquiry into charges that contractors had been "sandbagged" into making political contributions. He was particularly interested in a conference alleged to have been held at Cooperstown, N. Y., on July 5 last, in which McGuire, his brother, James K. McGuire, then governor, and John N. Carlisle, then state commissioner of highways, took part. According to information Mr. Whitman has received, word went out after this conference to thirty contractors doing state work that no liquid asphalt could be used on roads. The only "solid" asphalt on the market is controlled by the Barber Asphalt Paving Company. On the stand recently George McGuire admitted that his brother received a commission on all sales of the Barber Company in this state. It was expected that a number of contractors would attend the inquiry today, but it was doubtful whether they would be called as witnesses.

EAST END PROGRESSIVES ARE FOR WARD SYSTEM

Also Criticize Mayor for Doing Away With City Architect's Department.

At a meeting of East End Progressives last night the proposal of the West London Association that the ward system be returned to was endorsed. Mr. E. A. Pocock outlined the plan. A deputation was also appointed to call on the board of education in order to secure the free use of the city schools for public meetings. During the evening the East End market again came up for discussion, the council being sharply criticized for having done nothing to secure it. It was finally decided that a committee interview the city council over the matter. In a discussion on the city engineer's department, it was thought that City Engineer Ashplant should have greater

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The Canadian men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or if dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because it saves you a mistake by having a good kidney flushing at any time.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS WILL DISAPPEAR BY WOMAN VOTE

Rev. Mr. Norwood Addresses London Suffrage Society on Female Franchise.

MUST EXPECT RIDICULE

Says Women's Movement Is the Spiritual Movement of the Twentieth Century.

"When women get voting power, the white slave traffic will be passing away; the drink problem will forever be solved," were the closing words of Rev. R. W. Norwood, after an impressive and earnest appeal for equal franchise rights for women, at a meeting of the London Suffrage Society held yesterday afternoon in the Normal School.

Mr. Norwood stated that he valued highly the opportunity of speaking to the women of London on the important subject of woman's franchise. He referred to the woman's movement as the spiritual movement of the twentieth century. It was a work that had to do with the things pertaining to the kingdom of God. "All great movements suffer from ridicule, and the malicious comment. Jesus Christ was ridiculed. St. Peter, who was able to stand any amount of opposition, failed when his Master and his friends were ridiculed, when they became a laughing-stock."

Faith and Vision.
"It calls for a tremendous amount of faith and vision to be true and steadfast and untouched in the face of ridicule and has been raised by men against women because of their assertion to take a part in public life. Is a proof of the consciousness of men that they are fighting a losing cause. It is the last attack, this malicious and persistent ridicule, and it is the meanest weapon that is in the hands of any opposing force."

Mr. Norwood deplored the fact that so many ministers of the gospel of Christ were opposed to the woman's movement, when the latter stood for all that tended towards progress and righteousness.

The theme of Mr. Norwood's address was "New Wine in New Bottles." Just as it was unwise to pour new wine in old vessels, so it was futile to bind ourselves today with old ideas and old forms. "Until you grasp the principle of evolution, you are going to be crippled as women in this progressive movement. You have got to realize that we are not to judge ourselves by yesterday, but by today and tomorrow. We must stand on the basis of an old-time interpretation. Truths must reinvent themselves in new garb. That is a fallacy of those who are opposed to the woman's movement. They are trying to pour new wine into old bottles."

Injustice to God.
"Do we do an injustice to God when we say there is a revelation in this twentieth century that was not in the eighteenth or nineteenth? Why should not God speak to women in the age of old? People say these things happened in Bible days, just as if these days were hallowed. The Bible was written in the days when the Bible was written. There is a book of God being written in this twentieth century that is as divine and inspired as the books of the previous centuries, and the book of the future is the book of the human heart. He is revealing himself by men and women in this day and generation as completely as in the days that are gone."

"It is the most tragic part of the age that there should be any women indifferent to this great movement. There are women who have this conception of their place in the economy of nature that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world. The hand that rocks the cradle will never rule the world, until the fetters on the hands have been broken, and the hands are free. That is my answer to that platitude." "We can learn much from the story of the rocks," said Mr. Norwood. "They show us the evolution of man. Take the cave-man, for instance. He lived in an age of muscular strength, of material life, and this was a period when woman was but a chattel, and was owned and bartered, body and soul, at man's pleasure. Surely an age that is one of Christianity and of spiritual life is an age that will characterize itself by recognizing women's right to touch the life of the world. It is just as sure that the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world. Any movement that identifies itself against the liberty of woman belongs to the age of the cliff-dweller, of the bludgeon, and of brutality."

Get Ready to Vote.
Mr. Norwood turned spoke words of warning to the women, before him "Get ready for voting. For it is surely coming. Study political economy and the management of practical human affairs. Educate yourselves and your sisters. Get them to stop frittering away their time in silly social amusements. One of the biggest obstacles in your cause is your own sex. As long as you have parasitical women, you are going to meet with opposition. Get rid of personal resentment. Your sisters are making a great mistake in their militarism. When women match physical strength against men they are bound to be defeated. Nothing has been won by militant suffragism, and much has been lost."

Mr. Norwood closed with a prophecy that the day was not far off when men and women would stand side by side in working for all that would bring about physical purity, morality and spirituality. Mr. Norwood's address was listened to with close attention and enthusiasm by the women of the London Suffrage Society. At the opening of the meeting Mrs. Wright explained that the London Suffrage Society had its own constitution, and was under no obligation to coincide with the laws of any other organization. Its principal object was to interest London women in exercising what franchise they had, and to obtain further voting rights for women on the same basis as granted to men.

Big Moral Issue Was Clearly Outlined at Harrietsville Rally

[By Our Own Man.]

Harrietsville, Nov. 20.—Despite unpropitious weather conditions and muddy roads, Oddfellows' Hall here was well filled tonight to hear ex-Ald. James Hales, of Toronto, and Mr. C. J. Bell, of Toronto, at a public meeting in the interests of Mr. John W. Laidlaw, the temperance candidate in East Middlesex.

The audience, which included both Liberal and Conservative voters, numbered about 50, and had the weather been more favorable, the attendance would undoubtedly have been much larger, as the temperance campaign is arousing great interest in that section.

Politics Ignored.

Politics were almost completely ignored by both the speakers of the evening in their presentation of the temperance issue in Ontario. They bespoke the support of Mr. Laidlaw apart from all political considerations and entirely on the basis of his temperance platform.

outlined the moral issue which is before the electors in this by-election. He referred to the young men and young women of the country, as its greatest asset. It was the duty of every citizen of a country, he said, to do all in his power to preserve the assets of his community, and it therefore clearly became the duty of every elector to insure by his vote the abolition of the curse of drink, and to preserve to Canada the health and strength and mental and bodily efficiency of the coming generation, who, in a few years would have the responsibilities of the making of a great nation.

In the Early Days.
Mr. Hales' address was along some what similar lines. Reviewing the early history of Ontario, he drew attention to the efforts that were made by the early settlers to provide educational facilities for the children of that day. They met with great difficulties, and the education they were able to provide was extremely limited, but they persevered, with the result that we have our public schools from one end of the country to the other, and everywhere are to be found old Ontario boys and girls, the children of those parents, and they are the heart of that is leaving the whole lump of Canadian national life today.

These early settlers discharged their duty to the rising generation, and now it became our duty to free the children of this generation from the evils of the liquor traffic, the speaker said.

FRIDAY'S MARKET AS USUAL QUIET ONE

As is usual on Friday the local market was quiet this morning, with prices steady. Hay and straw were the chief offerings, with prices firm as yesterday, and average offerings. Hay brought $14 to $18 straw was firm at $5 to $8.50, by the ton and $5 to $5.50 by the load.

The prices of potatoes, which have been steady for some time, yesterday fixed at $5 to $1 wholesale, and $1.05 retail. This morning's market shows no change, and it is probable that the prices will be steady until Saturday. Other vegetables are as quoted.

Apples are selling for 50 to 80 cents, although the greater part of the offerings are bringing the minimum price. Pears are 75 cents, and an average offering.

The prices on dairy products are firm and as listed. Saturday increased offerings may bring a slight easing, but this is thought improbable because of the scarcity of eggs. Butter is steady.

Dressed hogs are a small offering at $12 to $12.50. Other butchers' meats are as listed.

Wheat is firm at $5 to 85 cents per bushel. Oats are bringing $1 to $1.05. The offering of grain is small.

There will be a change in the price of live hogs Saturday, but until the arrival of the big buyers about noon the change cannot be ascertained. This week's price has been $3.75.

Other prices are as listed:

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Moorehouse, who died suddenly Thursday, was held at 2:30 o'clock today from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. G. F. Avery, 728 York street, to Woodland Cemetery. Service was conducted at 2 o'clock by Rev. Dr. Flanders, of the First Methodist Church.

Death of L. B. Marshall.

Mr. L. B. Marshall, a well-known farmer and horseman of Raleigh Township, died at his home near Berlin early on Thursday, following a paralytic stroke. Mr. Marshall had been a member of the council of Raleigh for many years, and was most highly respected by all. He leaves a widow, daughter of the late George Powell, of Tilbury East; two daughters, Mrs. E. Zeller, of Zurich; Mrs. A. L. Gonnell, of Tilbury East, and two sons, Cecil and Gordon, who have been managing Mr. Marshall's large farm for some years. The sudden death cast a gloom over this section when the death was announced this morning. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Funeral of Mrs. Cannon.

The funeral of Mrs. Thos. W. Cannon, who died at the residence of her son-in-law, Dr. James Rogers, Brucefield, Thursday, took place from the G. T. depot to Mount Pleasant Cemetery this morning. Rev. Dr. Mitchell conducted the services at the grave.

LAWRENCE DIETRICH DIED UNEXPECTEDLY

Had Resided in Stephen Township For Over Forty Years.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Dashwood, Nov. 21.—The funeral took place to Mount Carmel Cemetery yesterday of Lawrence Dietrich, of the 12th concession of Stephen. Sunday he was apparently in excellent health. In the afternoon he visited with one of his sons, returning home about 4 o'clock. During the evening he was taken with a fainting spell and fell into the arms of one of his daughters. For some time he was unconscious, but regained consciousness for about half an hour, when he again became unconscious until about 2 o'clock Monday morning, when he expired. He was 70 years of age last September.

He is survived by his widow, eight sons and three daughters, they being: John, 38; George, 35; William, 32; Charles, 29; Frank, 26; Albert, 23; Harry, 20; and Edward, 17. Fisher, near Berlin; Mrs. W. Lindenfeld, of Parkhill, and Laura, at home. Deceased had been a resident of St. John for 40 years, coming here from Waterloo County.

DIED SUDDENLY

John McIntosh Was Stricken With Apoplexy While Sleeping.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Mount Forest, Nov. 21.—The funeral took place to St. Paul's Church on Thursday afternoon of John McIntosh, who died very suddenly at his home here, at 10 o'clock, Sunday evening. When he went to bed he was in splendid health, but during the night was stricken with apoplexy, and died in a few minutes.

Mr. McIntosh came to Mount Forest from Port Elgin nearly eleven years ago, and was associated with his son, the late J. E. McIntosh, in the sawing business. He had resided here since, except a year or two in Wingham. He leaves his widow and two daughters, Miss McIntosh and Mrs. A. J. Corbett.

MAIL FROM ENGLAND

BROKE ALL RECORDS

Huge Consignment of Letters Brought Over on the Majestic.

[Canadian Press.] New York, N. Y., Nov. 21.—A record consignment of mail from England, not excepting the great amount brought in at Christmas time, arrived in New York on one steamer today. There were 5,802 sacks weighing about 150 tons in all, which were brought by the steamship Majestic. The consignment was so large that the steamer's mail room could not hold it all, and many sacks were stored in empty staterooms. The record is due to heavy weather which prevailed at Queenstown on Nov. 9, making it impossible for the steamship Mauretania to collect her usual mail. The present consignment is the first arrival from England since Nov. 12.

CAN'T FIND PAPERS

Made an Inspection.

Engineer Middlemist, of the Ontario Railway Board, told of making an inspection of the line of the West Shore Railway, which was alleged to be completed. He found fault with the width of the roadbed, saying it was only 9 feet, where it should have been 12 or 14, said that much of the concrete work was crumbling away, and the rails were so grown over with weeds that it was almost impossible to see how the work had been done.

He estimated that to complete the road as originally intended would cost $797,736. The work which had been done could be duplicated, so far as he could see, for $27,641, and allowing a contractor's profit of 15 per cent, the work could be done today for $2,611,785.

Agreed With Engineer.

Edmund C. Lewis, contractor, said he had made an inspection of the roadway with Engineer Middlemist and agreed in every respect with the findings of the latter. Mr. Lewis said that he could do the work at least 10 per cent on the road for $257,771, and make a profit of 15 per cent on the job. Before the case was adjourned sine die W. Proudfoot, K. C., said that the municipalities interested would make an application to the Legislature at its next session in regard to their case. It is understood that by this means they will have to have the bond guarantee for which they are liable either removed or modified.

GREAT CONCOURSE

arms of their sons, passed in to pay their last respects to the beloved pastor, who became increasingly dear to them in their declining years. With them were scores of young people, who came to mourn one who had been a friend to them in the truest sense.

A Private Service.

At 1 o'clock a private service for the family and immediate relatives was held at the manse. Rev. Dr. Murdoch Mackenzie, moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, took charge, assisted by Rev. John McNeill, of Cook's Church, Toronto.

Meanwhile in perfect silence the large congregation awaited the commencement of the public service in the church where for nine years Dr. Ross ministered to the spiritual needs of his flock.

Pulpit Draped.

The pulpit from which he preached so many helpful discourses, was heavily draped in black, and beneath it hung the magnificent wreath of amaranth sent by the board of managers of the church. The choir railings, and also the gallery railings, were heavily draped with black, and against the draping of the pulpit the floral offerings were banded in profusion, their beauty brought out in striking contrast with their sombre surroundings. To the right of the pulpit stood a large cross of white, the gift of the ladies of the American Presbyterian Church, Montreal.

Other offerings included a wreath from the Guild of First Presbyterian Church, a wreath from St. Andrew's Sunday School, a blanket of yellow crysanthemums and violets from St. Andrew's congregation, a wreath from the Chinese members of St. Andrew's Church, and many others. Some came great distances.

Ministerial Alliance Attends.

Just before 2 o'clock the members of the Ministerial Alliance arrived in a body from the Y. M. C. A., and took their places in the front pews. Pews were also reserved for the members of the library board and for the Chinese adherents of the church, who specially requested that seats be reserved for them.

The casket containing all that was mortal of the late minister of St. Andrew's Church was borne from the manse to the church at the conclusion of the private service. On either side of the path leading to the church stood representative citizens of every denomination with bared, lowered heads while the casket passed.

At the Church.

Within the church stood the silent choir attired in conventional black surplices. The organist, Mr. C. E. Wheeler, was at his place, and as the casket neared the entrance the first soft bars of Chopin's Funeral March sounded through the edifice, as the casket was borne to its place beneath the pulpit. The congregation stood, and the first hymn was announced. In subdued tones the solemn words were sung:

"Blessed be the Everlasting God,

The father of our Lord,

By His abounding mercy praised,

His majesty adored.

When from the dead he raised his Son,

And called him to the sky,

He gave our souls a lively hope,

That they should never die.

Hymns He Loved.

The musical part of the service was extremely touching in its simplicity and beauty. The only anthem sung by the choir was an arrangement of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," which in life had been the supreme favorite with Dr. Ross. The hymns also were those he loved. Many of the congregation went silently when the first strains of "Peace, Perfect Peace" stole softly from the choir loft. In subdued tones they sang the hymn which has made the name of Bishop Bickersteth, its author, known and loved all over the English-speaking world. "Peace, perfect peace, death shadowing us and ours," the choir chanted, the notes swelling to a song of triumph at the words "Jesus has vanquished death and all its powers."

The other hymns were also ones that are familiar to all church people of every denomination, "Asleep in Jesus, Blessed Sleep," and "Forever With the Lord."

Addresses By Clergymen.

Rev. J. G. Stuart, chairman of the Ministerial Alliance, and a close personal friend of the deceased pastor, was in charge of the service. The speakers, who each occupied five minutes in putting into words the sentiments which have arisen in all hearts since the news of the tragic death of Dr. Ross reached this city were: Rev. Dr. Murdoch Mackenzie, moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly; His Lordship the Bishop of Huron, Rev. H. B. Bingham, Rev. George Hazen, Rev. Mr. McKenzie, of the Christian Church, and Rev. Dr. Johnston, of Montreal, who preceded Dr. Ross as pastor of St. Andrew's Church.

Rev. Walter Nichol, moderator of the Synod, gave the Scripture reading from Romans viii. and from Revelations vii.

"Great Man Has Fallen."

Referring to the late pastor, he described him as a man called early in life to the preaching of God.

In his early life he had won the confidence of students and teachers alike, winning early a place in the esteem and affections of the church. He was a great prince, a great man of God.

"He was a man well versed in the deep things of God," said Dr. Mackenzie. "His theological wisdom was much above the common. When his judgment was given it was accepted, for James Ross was one of the wisest counsellors in the church. We have had great men in the past, men who have filled the chairs in our colleges and in our pulpits, and James Ross was one of the greatest."

A Loveable Man.

"It was his hope that the Great Head of our church would spare him for ten, fifteen or twenty years. We loved him, for his personality had won for him in the church counts the same position of affection and esteem that it has won in the more limited sphere of the congregation."

LIQUOR AND GOVT. ARE IN ALLIANCE, ROWELL CHARGES

East Middlesex Fight Is Between the Bar and Temperance Interests.

MINISTERS EVADE ISSUE

Attempting To Conceal the Fact
They Are Hand in Hand
With Liquor Interests.

The Toronto Globe publishes the following from a special correspondent in the East Middlesex campaign: London, Nov. 19.—The fight in East Middlesex is becoming more and more a fight between the temperance and liquor interests. The Government and the Free Press are doing all in their power to divert attention from the issue, but it is incredible that they should be successful. This is the first by-election in which the local temperance organization has thrown its weight into the fight. It is the first by-election in which it has named a candidate. Mr. Laidlaw is the first fusion candidate. These new factors in the contest upset all normal calculations.

In the last by-election, the Free Press told the electors that the temperance question was not an issue, and apparently the Conservatives believe them, and voted with the Government. Now the Free Press says the people "voted down the Rowell policy a year ago," and that temperance is not an issue this time. The number of temperance Conservatives who are supporting the temperance candidate, and the interest manifested at all the meetings when the temperance question is discussed, shows that the electors are becoming alive to the truth and the importance of the issue. The liquor interests are very much alive to the issue. They claim they won the East Middlesex election in 1911 because of the unique personal popularity of the late Robert Sutherland, and of a division in the ranks of the Conservative party, but the liquor interests certainly did their part in the last by-election, and they are determined to hold the seat at any cost.

Forcing the Fight.
Mr. Hanna, Monday going over the ground, and it is understood he is the member of the Government in charge of the campaign on behalf of the Government and the liquor interests, and he has assisting him in the riding Mr. Hearst, Mr. Lucas, Mr. Duff and several members of the Legislature. Apparently nothing that the Government and the liquor interests can do to hold the seat will be left undone. The Liberal-Temperance forces are active and aggressive. They are forcing the fighting and putting up a splendid educational campaign, and they are rapidly gaining ground.

Mr. Lucas' evasion of the issue at Dorchester Tuesday evening, after the pointed questions addressed to him, is most significant and shows that the Government's hope of saving the seat rests on diverting attention from the temperance issue. The temperance men believe the Government cannot fool the people this time, and that temperance Conservatives in large numbers will vote for Mr. Laidlaw. If they do he will undoubtedly be elected.

At the Liberal convention in London on Saturday Mr. Rowell charged that there was an offensive and defensive alliance between the Government and the liquor interests to defend the bar and defeat the policy for its abolition. Some answer was expected from Mr. Lucas at Dorchester Tuesday night, but he neither answered nor denied the charge; he evaded the issue. Everybody here knows that the liquor interests are allied with the Government in opposing the policy, but the Government apparently want to conceal it.

It will be remembered that Mr. Rowell, speaking in Brampton in the Peel by-election, charged such an alliance and gave the facts in connection with the East Middlesex and North Grey by-elections to support his statements. Mr. Hanna, speaking the following evening, did not deny the facts, but sought to break the force of the charge by saying that Mr. Rowell did not make such a charge in East Middlesex or North Grey, when the fight was on, but, in Peel, a long time ago. That excuse will not serve Mr. Lucas, or Mr. Hanna, or the Government, any longer, for Mr. Rowell has repeated the charge in East Middlesex and the people want to know the Government's answer.

Liquor Contributes.
Mr. Rowell, referring to the East Middlesex by-election, said: "The liquor interests contributed thousands of dollars to secure the election of the Government candidate with the view of discrediting our policy. Two contributions were taken from the liquor interests in Toronto aggregating some thousands of dollars, and I know not how much more was secured from the liquor interests in London and elsewhere. An offensive and defensive alliance between the Government and the liquor interests was formed for the East Middlesex fight. Whatever local causes may have contributed to the result, both the liquor interests and the Government claimed that the election of the Government candidate was a victory for them and a defeat of our policy and yours."

"Did the liquor interests receive any return as compensation for the money they put up and the services they rendered? The anti-treating legislation, decided by the Government in the session of 1912 to be necessary, was not introduced at the last session. Why was it not introduced? You can form your own conclusions."

In 1913 the constituency of North Grey was opened by the retirement of Hon. A. G. MacKay, and the combination between the Government and the liquor interests again operated in North Grey. The liquor interests put up money and joined forces with the Government to insure the election of the Government candidate, and as

AMUSEMENTS

Two Famous Stars.
The alliance composed of Mme. Polaire and Lady Constance Stewart-Richardson, which appears tonight at the Grand Opera House, will give local patrons their first glimpse of the two international stars in their newest sensations.

Mme. Polaire, the vivacious French actress, is presenting her new dramatic thriller, "Le Visiteur," in which her own company of French players from the Vandeville Theatre, Paris, take part.

Lady Constance Stewart-Richardson will offer the four classic dances which created so great a sensation at the Palace Theatre, London, and which all New York stamped as the most daring of the 1913 season.

Several other features are offered by Comstock and Gest for appearance "between stars" as it were.

Beautiful Musical Show.
Music lovers of our city will be given a treat in the score of "The Dream Maiden," at the Grand twice tomorrow, matinee and night. That "The Dream Maiden" obtained immediate booking on Broadway is the best proof of the legitimacy of its success, for it makes its premiere in New York at the end of its present tour. The musical setting of Allen Lowe's rhythmic lyrics is the work of the Hungarian Waltz King, Bela

Got Rid of Bronchitis

The worst feature of bronchitis is the tendency to return year after year until the system is worn out and gives way to consumption, or other ravaging disease.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine owes much of its great popularity to the fact that it positively cures bronchitis, and this is about medicine of this kind.

Mr. W. H. Walker, Calmar, Alta., writes: "I am pleased to say that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has done much good to myself, wife and children. My eldest girl, seven years, had bronchitis, and the doctor who attended her did not seem to do much good. We got Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for her, and she soon got well. We always keep this medicine in the house now ready for use, and find that it soon cures coughs and colds."

In fighting diseases of the throat and lungs half the battle is in having Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine at hand to be used promptly. This is why many people prefer to buy the large family size bottle.

URGE MEDICAL INSPECTION IN PROVINCIAL SCHOOLS

Women's Institute Delegates at Big Annual Convention Take Up Health Questions—Many Practical Papers by Leading Members.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, Nov. 21.—At the annual gathering of delegates from the Women's Institutes of the province yesterday Dr. Helen MacMurchy spoke on the evils of the apartment and tenement houses as being factors conducive to the decline in the birth rate, and Ven. Archbishop Coadjutor, in his remarks, and in a forcible and convincing address dwelt on the rights of the child. The child's right to be born, and to be well-born—well-born, he explained, meant to be born of healthy parents, in healthy surroundings—to be well-born physically, mentally and morally. It is the duty of the state to prevent the perpetuation of the feeble-minded. The child also has a right to live, and it is a disgrace to all great civilizations that statistics of the infant mortality should be as they are. One child out of every ten dies before it reaches the age of five. Speaking of education, he stated that the aim of all education should be the development of character, and referred to the school cadet movement as being one that is altogether for good, as it inculcates principles of self-discipline and unselfishness.

Need More Manners.
He went on to speak of the necessity for a general improvement in manners, and said that the day of the rough diamond was passed. Nowadays people realize that he is all the better for a little polishing, and regular instruction in good manners should be part of the training of boys and girls in every Canadian home and school.

The reports on the medical inspection of rural schools by Mrs. (Dr.) Wilson, Parkhill, and Dr. Struthers, Toronto, were presented.

The first inspection took place last spring, under three local doctors in the district of North Middlesex, the nurse being provided by three institutes for ten days, and country, village, and town schools were inspected. In the country schools out of 20 children examined 18 were found to be defective. In the village schools out of 75 pupils examined 52 were found defective. Exhaustive figures were given by Mrs. Wilson proving that on examination fully 50 per cent. of the children attending the public and separate schools were defective, chiefly through enlarged tonsils, adenoids, defective vision and bad teeth.

Medical Inspection.
A resolution was adopted setting forth that the provincial department of education take steps to provide for the early establishment of a provincial system of medical and dental inspection of school children. That a special grant of money be set aside towards the employment of a competent school nurse in each school district to follow up the work of the school health officer and for whatever else may be deemed necessary to the success of the work.

Mrs. M. N. Norman, of Toronto, presided at the evening session, and short papers were read on "Beekeeping," "Poultry Raising," and "Fruit Farming," by Miss Ethel Robson, of Ilderton; Mrs. M. S. Brown, of Vandon; Mrs. S. G. Brown, of Whitby; and Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, of Lorne.

Hon. Mr. Burrell Speaks.
Hon. Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, spoke briefly on the increasing influence of women as vital factors in the improvement of rural conditions, asking them to devote their energies especially to questions of food and sanitation, and raised considerable mirth by stating that he firmly believed in the old maxim, "Feed the brute," only there should be an addition made in the words, "and feed him properly." "I believe," he said, "that half the tragedies in rural life are due to improper feeding, to ignorance of a sound knowledge on the part of the women of the relative food values."

CONSERVATIVE CRITICISMS OF THE BILINGUAL POLICY

Hon. I. B. Lucas, together with other professional Conservative speakers in the East Middlesex campaign, are making obvious and frantic attempts to turn the electors' minds from the temperance issue.

One of the herrings they are attempting to draw across the trail is the bilingual question. In his choice of fish, Mr. Lucas was rather unfortunate.

He is always lauding the Government's bilingual policy, and in agonized tones is calling upon every known person to support the Government.

As a matter of fact, what is this bilingual policy, and what do many Conservative papers say about it themselves, and about the relaxing of Regulation 17? These comments are taken from Conservative papers within the last few weeks:

Kingston Standard (Conservative)—The Spineless Minister of Education.

Hamilton Herald (Independent Conservative)—It could be wished that Ontario had a Minister of Education with a backbone which does not resemble a piece of string so much as does that part of Hon. Dr. Pyne's moral anatomy.

Toronto Telegram (Conservative)—Ontario is only too familiar with the "ancient and fish-like smell" of the insincerities with which Hon. R. A. Pyne ornaments the surface of Sir James Whitney's surrender to a conspiracy against the use of the English language in the schools of this province.

Sir James Whitney is his own Minister of Education. Hon. R. A. Pyne received undeserved praise for the triumphs, and equally undeserved blame, for the treasons of the Ontario Education Department. Sir James Whitney is commander-in-chief of the Education Department. Hon. R. A. Pyne is merely a "general-under."

Kingston Standard (Conservative)—Probably the explanation is that the Minister of Education did not think at all, which unfortunately seems to be one of his failings. An agreeable man personally, not even his best friends will presume to say that he had made a success of the Department of Education. He seems to lack both administrative and executive ability. This is bad enough, but that he should lack backbone is absolutely inexcusable in a cabinet minister. When, then, added to this is his crawl on the bilingual issue, it seems to us that the time has come when his next further crawl should be out of the Whitney cabinet, and if he is not willing to crawl, then his going should be expedited.

Ottawa Citizen (Conservative)—Obviously the action was caused by political expediency, as the Hamilton Herald plainly states. Possibly it was a "government" backdown, as charged by the Toronto Telegram.

Ottawa Journal (Conservative)—The Government has not increased its prestige in the opinion of partial observers by making the change.

The Orange Sentinel—It is idle for the best friend of the Government to argue that concessions have not been made and what gives the Sentinel the greatest concern is, that the thing is done with some subtlety. There is an absence of that robust frankness that we have become accustomed to look for in the policies of Sir James Whitney. It is impossible to hide the meaning and effect of the change.

Toronto Telegram (Conservative)—Dr. Pyne's explanation of his volte face is totally inadequate. It means that either he is ignorant of the dangers of bilingualism or reckless of its consequences. Afraid to grapple with the question, he shifts the burden upon the shoulders of subordinates. In that way he fondles the hope that he may satisfy everybody. He cherishes the illusion that he may realize the aspiration of every petty politician which is to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds.

HUDSON-ROWELL.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at the Methodist parsonage, Fanshawe, on Wednesday evening, when Miss Susan Rowell became the bride of Mr. Wm. C. Hudson. The young couple will reside in London Township, Rev. A. D. Whaley, officiated.

WANTED TO BE A SAILOR.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, Nov. 21.—About a week ago Clarence Thomas, a young Indian boy from the Sarnia reserve, ran away, and was found at Point Edward. He was taken back home by his father. Yesterday the boy again disappeared, and this morning was again found at the Point trying to ship on one of the boats.

BEE-KEEPERS HAD FINE TALK FROM PRES. CREELMAN

Head of Agricultural College On Teaching of Farming in Provincial Schools.

DIRECTORS ELECTED

Resolution Passed To Change Law Regarding Spraying of Fruit Trees.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Nov. 21.—At a well-attended meeting of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association yesterday, President G. C. Creelman, of the Ontario Agricultural College, delivered an address, in which he pointed out that professional men received payment for the expert advice they were able to give. The trained agriculturalist, who was graduated from the college at Guelph, on the other hand, was expected to keep his farm in a high state of cultivation, and to attend farmers' institute meetings and farmers' clubs, in order to give the benefit of his expert knowledge to the community free of charge. This was not fair, Dr. Creelman said, that this had been recognized to some extent. Therefore the county representatives of the department of agriculture had been appointed. Dr. Creelman favored the teaching of simple agriculture to boys in the schools of the province, and the principles of cooking, plain sewing, and the like, to the girls. This instruction would help to reduce the cost of living.

A New Scheme.

Mr. E. L. Root, of Medina, N. Y., told of the experiment by which he expected to keep bees at work for the greater part of the year and increase the number of his colonies. He has sent 300 colonies to Florida for the winter. He also pointed out that beekeepers and fruit-growers would profit by the placing of hives in orchards.

The resolutions committee favored an amendment to the act respecting the spraying of fruit trees. It proposed that that spraying be prohibited while the trees are in bloom instead of while they are in "full bloom," as at present. It also suggested that for infractions of the act the penalties range from $25 to $50. It also secured the reference to the executive committee of the question of co-operation in the buying of tin containers for honey.

Elected Directors.
The directors were elected, as follows: R. E. L. Harkness, Irenia; A. McTavish; M. R. Holmes, Athens; R. Lowry, Prince Edward County; W. W. Webster, Oakwood; J. L. Byers, Mount Joy; F. W. Krouse, J. Armstrong, Chesapeake; John Newton, Thamesville; Jacob Huber; Miss Ethel Robson, Denfield; Denis Nolan, Newton Robinson; Moley Pettit, representative of the Ontario Agricultural College.

The directors elect the president and executive committee. The following were selected to represent the association at the various exhibitions: J. D. Evans at the Canadian National Exhibition; M. B. Holmes at the Ottawa Fair; Miss Ethel Robson at the Western Fair, London; the president and Messrs. Grainger, Sibbald and Cause at the Horticultural Association. The crop committee is Messrs. Cause, Craig and Sibbald; the transportation committee, Messrs. Evans and Pettit.
