

Many Perish in Awful Disaster at Montreal

Water Tower on Herald Company's Roof Collapses Crashes to the Cellar, Cutting Building in Twain

Smashing of Gas Pipes Starts Fire and Wreck of Structure Bursts Into Flames, Causing Death of Many Employees, While It Is Believed Many Others Are Dying Beneath the Debris Helpless to Make Their Escape.

SEVERAL BODIES OF GIRLS RECOVERED BUSINESS AND EDITORIAL ROOMS SAFE

Montreal, June 13.—John Taylor, manager of The Herald, estimates the number of dead at 30. Financial loss is estimated at $250,000.

Montreal, June 13.—The Herald Building, Victoria Square, is in flames. Water tower collapsed and several persons are believed to have been killed.

WATER TOWER COLLAPSED.

Montreal, June 13.—The Herald fire started from the collapse of the water tower above the roof. This broke the gas pipes of the machinery and set fire to the debris. Various estimates are given of the dead, some running as high as 40. Many are buried under debris, and probably will be burned to death if they are not already dead. The fire spread very rapidly, and the place was a furnace by the time the first contingent of firemen arrived. It is still burning fiercely, and looks like a total loss to plant and building. The fire made a fierce blaze, and the entire city brigade is already fighting the flames, or on its way to the scene from distant sections of the city. The water tower went through to the basement. It was constructed four years ago when the building was remodelled, and considerable money was spent on it.

CUT BUILDING IN TWO.

Montreal, June 13 (1 p.m.)—William Taylor, foreman of the composing room, who escaped with severe injuries, believes there must have been 50 killed. The collapse of the water tower, he says, practically cut the building in two. Fire started up in all directions immediately after. The fire seems to be under control now, but the whole plant is a wreck. The bodies of several girls employed in the bindery have been taken out of the ruins.

It is said the collapsed water tower was built on the roof without adequate support beneath, and the officials were warned at the time it was erected four years ago it was not safe. It is impossible as yet to get intelligible returns of the dead and injured.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT ESCAPED.

It is said the principal loss of life is in the bindery and job printing departments. These were nearest the path of the collapsed tower. The editorial rooms and business office in the front part of the building escaped, being well removed from beneath the tower. Every available ambulance in the city was hurried to the scene to take away as many of the injured as could be rescued. Cabs were also pressed into service. Victoria Square is a struggling mass of humanity, watching the efforts of the firemen to conquer the fire.

HERALD'S FIFTH FIRE.

Before the first rail arrived the fire was shooting through the roof, and soon spread to all parts of the building. This is the fifth time The Herald has been burned out in 25 years, once being when the building was situated immediately across the street from the present site.

The Herald Building was the property of the Herald Publishing Company, with Mr. J. S. Briery at its head. The building was purchased several years ago, and a complete modern publishing plant placed in it. It stands in the block on the north side of St. James street, directly opposite Victoria Square.

BURIED BENEATH TANK.

Detective Carrion went into the basement with firemen, and says it is impossible to say how many are buried under the tank. There could not be more than 50, but there probably would be 20 at least. The injured are widely scattered, ten ambulances being engaged taking them away.

Some of the Injured.

Albert Bolduc, arm broken.
William Smith, serious.
William Duddy, serious.
John Dickson, serious.
Hector Leroux, 26 years old, head hurt.
E. Larose, 59 years old, side hurt.
Charles Cross, eye and face injured.
John Wallace, ankle broken.
Alice Kaiser, face cut.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Montreal, Que., June 13.—The Montreal Herald building was destroyed by fire with heavy loss of life. Twelve bodies, most of them charred beyond recognition, have been taken from the ruins. According to the police the death list will be much higher. One estimate places the killed at forty.

The First Dispatch.

Montreal, Que., June 13.—The business block containing the Herald is in flames. Many are reported dead, the estimates ranging from 30 to 40.

Twelve Bodies Recovered.

Montreal, 12:20.—Twelve bodies have been recovered. The fire broke out at 11 a.m., and at 11:15 a huge water tank on top of the building fell through to the cellar, five floors, carrying everything down. It was this that caused the loss of life.

The building is located on St. James' street, facing Victoria Square. The fire spread with great rapidity, and by the time the fire apparatus was on hand the entire block was threatened, and it appeared as if the flames would wipe away the heart of the city.

Every bit of apparatus in the city was called into play and the hospitals were advised, when the seriousness of the fire became apparent, to be in readiness to receive the injured. The ambulances were marshaled about the burning block. Several persons were victims on being moved to the nearby ambulances, which were hurried towards the hospitals as fast as the horses could travel.

Gas Started Fire.

It was with the collapse of the water tank on the roof of the building about 10:40 that the catastrophe began. The tank crashed right through from the top floor and landed on the first floor in the business office almost beside the business manager. It is believed that the fire started from the gas in the line-type machines, after the tank had wrecked the floor on which these machines were located. Shrieks filled the air as the bindery girls were caught in the debris.

The outbreak of the flames added to the difficulties. Firemen of the police division responded to a first alarm and as second call brought all the available apparatus, the first duty of the firemen was to raise ladders and save as many as possible on the upper floors.

A Marvelous Escape.

At the very outset twenty people were found so badly injured as to warrant their being immediately removed to the hospital.

MONTREAL HERALD OWNER WELL-KNOWN LONDON MAN WAS IN BUSINESS HERE

James S. Briery Left This City to Take Over the St. Thomas Journal—Firm Name Here Was Southam & Briery—Thos. Warren Employed On the Herald.

Mr. J. S. Briery, owner of the Montreal Herald, is a former Londoner. He was associated with Mr. Richard Southam in a printing business here, known as Southam & Briery. Later he went to St. Thomas, where he purchased the St. Thomas Journal. This he conducted until some ten years or so ago, when he sold out to Mr. W. Buchanan.

He then went to Montreal, where he took over the Herald. He was most successful with this enterprise, and had placed it on a solid footing. His father was a well-known printer in the early days and worked on The Advertiser nearly half a century ago.

"I knew him well," said Mr. Richard Southam. "He was associated with me in the printing business for some years. Later he went to St. Thomas, where he purchased the St. Thomas Journal. He went to Montreal, where he has been connected with the Herald. He has been very successful, I understand."

Mr. Briery was born in London. It is understood, and some of his younger days in the city, as well as his early manhood.

He often visited London, and had a legion of friends here. As soon as it was learned that an accident had taken place at the office, there were many inquiries after the safety of Mr. Briery.

Londoners on the Herald.

Thomas Warren is another Londoner employed in the Herald. He was in the job department, where the worst of the accident occurred, and it was feared at one time that he was killed.

Mr. Warren is well known among the printers of the city. For some years he was foreman of the job department of the Free Press. When this department was taken over by the London Printing and Lithographing Company, Mr. Warren left for Montreal, where he joined Mr. Briery's staff. He has been in Montreal for about ten years.

Mr. J. Johnson, grocer of the corner of Talbot and Horton streets, and Mr. Richard Johnston, of the postoffice staff, are brothers-in-law of Mr. Briery. Mr. Johnson is a well-known resident at 154 Horton street.

For some time Mr. Warren was foreman of the Herald job department. He was, however, he had been estimator for the firm.

An Old Building.
Mr. Colerick, of the firm of Henry & Colerick, when Mr. Montreal a short time ago, was through the Herald building.

"It was a very old building," he told The Advertiser this afternoon, "and before the Herald people moved into it was used by the Bishop Printing Company. The Herald people had an immense stock of paper in the upper stories, and there were large cylinder presses on the third floor."

Mr. Colerick knew a number of the men employed in the job department, and states that John Watt was foreman of the Herald's assistant foreman, and Duncan Miller, job compositor.

2,000 MEN WILL BE UNDER CANVAS WEATHER IMPROVES FOR CAMP

Rifle Practice Will Be Held at the Cove Ranges On Tuesday—Camp Will Be in Full Swing by This Evening.

All roads lead to London today, and from every branch line around London special trains carrying company after company of recruits. By tonight fully 2,000 men will be under canvas on Carling's Heights, and the big military training camp will be in full swing.

After a day and a half of hard rain the weather man turned off the tap and from present indications the troops will be favored with weather of the most ideal kind for training.

A Bad Time.
The advance parties who arrived on Friday and Saturday and completed the work of erecting the tents and making the other arrangements, spent a somewhat unpleasant time owing to the unpleasant weather conditions, but today, with the return of good weather again and the arrival of hundreds of their companions, they are in high spirits and are looking forward with a good deal of pleasure to the time they will spend here.

A Small Camp.

The camp this year will be one of the smallest in the history of London camps, and local authorities say that not more than 2,000 men will train. They attribute this to two reasons, mainly first, the discontent over the efficiency pay order of last year, and also on account of the large number of young men who have gone west.

The training work will commence at once, and the first rifle practice will be held tomorrow on the Cove ranges. Owing to the small number of men in camp it is expected that this part of the work will be gone into much more thoroughly than it has been for some years before. The recent orders allowing sighting shots will also make for better rifle practice, and military men are looking for a general increase in the scores this year.

Y. M. C. A. There.

The Y. M. C. A. have their usual tent at the camp, where all the men in training are invited to attend and make use of all the things provided. The camp hospital is also fully equipped and ready for any cases that may come in.

THAMESFORD LADY INJURED ALIGHTING FROM A STREET CAR

While attempting to alight from a belt line car, No. 11, at the corner of Dundas and Colborne streets, about 1 o'clock today, Mrs. W. Wilkinson, of Thamesford, ten miles east of London, was thrown violently to the pavement. She was rendered unconscious by the fall, but it is not expected that serious results will follow the fall.

Mrs. Wilkinson was in the city visiting friends. She took the belt line car in the eastern section of the city, and rang the bell to stop at Colborne street.

While she was getting off, it is alleged, the car started. She was carried into Dr. McWilliam's office, and Dr. Stevenson was called.

After a thorough examination it was found that she was very badly bruised, but no bones were broken. Her head was contused in several places, but the skull was not fractured.

"Mrs. Wilkinson is badly bruised, but will recover," said Dr. Stevenson. "She received a nasty fall, but escaped remarkably well."

JOHNSTON TAKES OFFICE.

Ottawa, June 13.—Alex. Johnston, of Sydney, recently appointed deputy minister of marine, has arrived to take the office. His predecessor, G. J. Desbarats, now naval deputy minister, will at once begin the work of organizing the new department.

VETO TALK MAY COME UP TODAY

Asquith-Balfour Conference Over House of Lords Fight.

WHAT WILL IRISH DO?

O'Connor Intimates That Nationalists Will Not Stand for Wavering.

London, June 13.—The reassembling of Parliament and all the subsequent proceedings therein have been completely overshadowed by interest in the coming conference between the Liberal and Conservative leaders in an effort to reach some solution of the constitutional crisis. The Government has made no official announcement respecting the negotiations, but has allowed it to be known indirectly that ex-Premier Balfour, as leader of the Opposition, will be invited to meet representatives of the Government and confer on the question of the relations of the House of Lords to the House of Commons.

It is probable that Mr. Balfour has already received a formal invitation; anyway he will be there today. He is expected to arrive at the House of Commons on Monday, and to enable him to decide on his course at once. He has not visited the House of Commons since its reassembling, but doubtless he will be there today, when Premier Asquith is expected to make a statement of public business, and to declare the terms of the overture in reference to the constitutional difficulty.

The King's Suggestion.

Mr. Balfour will probably reply and a friendly response is taken for granted. The Liberal press announces, and there is no apparent reason to doubt, that he will accept the King's suggestion.

SOUTH LONDON MEN ACQUITTED DID NOT CONTEMPLATE THEFT

Joseph Johnston, of Front Street, and John Clark, of Wellington Road, Were Found Not Guilty by Magistrate Love—Men Had Been Drinking and Were Acting Foolishly.

At this morning's session of the police court Joseph Johnston, of Front street, and John Clark, of Wellington road, charged with attempting to break into Boug's grocery store at 12:35 on Sunday morning, June 5, were found not guilty and acquitted.

The accused were represented by Messrs. Ed. Meredith and E. C. Scatcherd.

In the box Sergeant Birrell stated that at 12:35 on Sunday morning, June 5, he was going over Wellington street bridge, and saw two men setting on some barrels in front of Boug's grocery store. He saw the men get up and go around to the east door of the store, and Clark got down on his knees and was doing something.

Cross-examined by Mr. Meredith, witness said Clark did not say that they were trying to rouse Mr. Boug up to get some tobacco.

Sergeant Lucas offered similar evidence.

The Defence.
John Clark gave his age as 22, and said he lived on Wellington road, immediately behind Boug's store. He knew Mr. Boug very well, and deals at his store right along. On the Saturday afternoon he had been drinking in two hotels. Witness swore that he had the key in his pocket and that he did not take it from the door as the officers had sworn. He also said he and Johnston were trying to rouse Mr. Boug as they wanted some tobacco.

Witness said he noticed the policemen when they were coming over the bridge.

Aubrey Boug gave evidence regarding securing his store when he closed up for the night. When brought by the sergeant to where the men were he said he asked Clark what foolishness he had been up to now, and Clark said, "I know I did wrong. I was only showing Johnston the key."

Had Been Drinking.

Joseph Johnston said he had been drinking also. He stated that he and Clark went to the door to get some tobacco. He denied that any key was put in the door.

"I would not like to ruin your prospects by convicting you," the court told Johnston and Clark. "But I must say that I believe the evidence of the officers in preference to yours, and think you would have done better to tell the truth. I think you probably were acting in a manner not uncommon to persons intoxicated, and of a mischievous turn of mind. I do not think you wished to steal. I hope this will be a warning to you to let liquor alone in future."

SIXTEEN CASES ARE ENTERED FOR THE GENERAL SESSION

Time Has Closed for the Recording of Suits—Only One Criminal Case—Fifteen Civil Actions Are To Be Tried.

The time for entering cases for the sittings of the county court and general sessions of the peace has closed. There are sixteen cases to come up, fifteen civil and one criminal. The court is presided over by Judge Macbeth.

The last case to be entered is that of Lawson et al. against Nixon. The plaintiffs, John A. Lawson and John Holland, of the Western Real Estate Exchange, and the defendant is a farmer in Westminster Township.

In June of 1909 the plaintiff instructed the defendants to sell a farm for him on a basis of two per cent commission. The farm consisted of 141 acres, parts of lots 37 and 38, containing 2, Westminster. The farm was sold for $11,000, and the plaintiffs claim two per cent commission, amounting to $220.

The defense state that no agreement regarding the payment of two per cent commission was made in writing. Buchner & Gunn for the plaintiff; Judd & Meredith for the defendant.

The list is as follows:
Criminal.
King against Michael Tierney, for alleged indecent assault on two charges.

Jury Cases.
Central Railway, of New Jersey, vs. Harris & Co., junk dealers, 735 York street, for the recovery of 144 brasses valued at $400 and $100 for detention of goods. The defendants bought the brass fittings in good faith, but they later turned out to be stolen, and they refuse to give them up, claiming they were bought in the ordinary course of business.

Three other cases of a similar nature are entered.

PINKERTON DETECTIVE FOUND A U. S. FORGER IN LONDON

Men Became Friendly and Both Went to Windsor—There the Detective Asked the Alleged Forger to Attend a Theatre Performance in Detroit, Where He Was Arrested.

As a direct result of a chance meeting in this city a short time ago, J. C. Lacey, believed to be one of the shrewdest forgers in America, was placed under arrest in Detroit Saturday night by a Pinkerton detective.

The Pinkerton man had followed his man throughout Texas and Mexico and up through the United States, and finally spotted him here.

The detective at once struck up an acquaintance with Lacey, and played his cards so well that the two got to be fast friends. For a couple of weeks the Pinkerton man and Lacey stayed around London, and only on Saturday left for Detroit.

The men were getting off the Windsor ferry when the detective placed Lacey under arrest.

The local police state that they received absolutely no instructions regarding Lacey, but that they likely would not be advised if he was being chased by Pinkerton men.

Where he stopped is not as yet known, as a search of a number of hotel registers fails to reveal the name. Theatre Did It.

The Detroit News, regarding the arrest, says:

His acceptance of a theatre ticket at the hands of a man who had been his companion for two weeks and who proved to be a Pinkerton detective, was fatal to the liberty of J. C. Lacey, Saturday night. He is charged with forgery, and is said to be one of the cleverest in the country in his line.

Following his arrest as he left the Windsor ferry at the Detroit wharf he was locked up in police headquarters.

A specific charge against Lacey is that he forged a check for $150 last April on the Continental Savings Bank, Memphis, Tenn. It was cashed in the Fulton Market, Jonesboro, Ark., Pinkerton men allege, and they assert further that when Lacey fled to the southwest, through Texas and into Mexico, he left a trail of bad paper in various places, one of the banks in Chattanooga, Tenn., suffering most, is said.

From Mexico Lacey was traced through northern states and to London, Canada, where a Pinkerton man sighted him, got in his good graces, and acted as his companion for two weeks. Saturday the Pinkerton man, when the two were just across the river, suggested that they go to Detroit and see a show. The detective had purchased tickets. Lacey consented and as soon as he touched American soil he was nabbed. Detective Reid, of the Detroit police department, making the arrest.

Lacey is a big man, standing six feet, two inches, and weighing 225 pounds. He is about 45 years old and gives no one a place as his home. Pinkerton men consider his arrest one of the most important in recent months.

EDWARD MURPHY DIED IN CHATHAM

Conductor, Who Was Run Over On the C. P. R., Succumbed to His Injuries.

BOTH LEGS CUT OFF

Deceased Was Rushed to a Hospital, But There Was No Chance to Save His Life.

Conductor Edward Murphy, who, as reported in Saturday's Advertiser, fell beneath the van of a C. P. R. work train at Tilbury and had both legs so badly crushed that they had to be amputated, died in the hospital at Chatham late on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Murphy was attended at Tilbury by physicians there, and then rushed with all speed to Chatham.

TO BREED FRENCH-CANADIAN HORSES

Steps Are Being Taken to Rehabilitate a Most Famous Line of Equines.

Montreal, June 13.—Horsemen in Canada are greatly interested in the recent action of the Federal Government at Ottawa in giving authority for the establishment of a stud book in which the French-Canadian type of horse will be eligible for registration.

There was a time when this distinctive breed was one of the features of the Province of Quebec, but outcrosses with unsuitable stallions, chiefly Clydes and Belgians, have practically exterminated the type which was predominant. There are, however, in a few districts some good specimens still, and an effort is to be made toward rehabilitating the breed.

The true French-Canadian horse of half a century ago was a stout-bodied horse on short legs. He had many of the qualities of the Morgan, although as a rule much larger than his American cousin, and there is little reason to doubt that many Morgans brought from the United States across the Canadian border were used in the stud throughout Quebec and that some of the most prized of the French-Canadian horses had a strong strain of Morgan blood. Their trappings and harnesses of foot shoves it, being no extraordinary thing to find horses of 1,400 pounds and more capable of 2:40 speed, with the bend of the knee and the flex of the neck that are the delight of every man who knows the horse and what is most desirable in the way of gait.

Their Strength Prodigious.

Their most distinguished characteristic was their heavy manes, tails and forelocks, the hair of the former invariably falling to the point of the shoulder and often to the knee, while the bottom of the tail in many instances reached the ground. The manes had to be turned alternate sides of the neck in successive years to prevent the crest from being pulled out of shape, so heavy was the mass of hair.

Their strength was prodigious and for their inches they could outpull any horse in the world. Used in the heavy snows of the long winters, where they were often up to their backs in the lumber woods and sharply show it was a rare thing for them to cut themselves. The average cold-blooded or mongrel horse will struggle when placed in a like position, and if shod sharply will tear his legs to pieces in a wild scramble to extricate himself.

Not so the French-Canadian. He will settle down in the soft, yielding moss waiting the command of his driver, and when he is told to "march" it is a pleasure to his eyes to see his splendid shoulders in the collar and hang in the traces with muscles bulging until the load moves. There is none of the wild flying and plunging which is characteristic of some horses. The Canadian knows how to utilize his strength, and once the load is in motion he keeps on until restrained.

Flower Sunday in the Churches

Many Edifices of London Were Beautifully Decorated Yesterday With Wild Flowers.

TRAINING OF THE YOUNG

English Pastor Says This Is the First Duty of the World—Sermons in Many Pulpits.

Yesterday was observed as flower Sunday in a number of the city churches, and the interiors were beautifully decorated with all kinds of wild flowers hung in long festoons and garlands all about. The effect was very beautiful.

A special sermon from the text, "Consider the Lilies, How They Grow," was preached by Rev. Richard Whiting at the First Methodist Church, and a special musical programme was rendered.

The Rev. Percy Waller, of Cheltenham, England, occupied the pulpit at St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday morning, delivering a sermon which dealt particularly with the care and bringing up of children.

"Your first duty," he said, "is to train your young people in the Christian life. Let not anything pass your lips which would poison their ears. You should get in close contact with your children, taking part in their games and kindling their enthusiasm with your enthusiasm."

Rev. Walter Moffatt at Chalmers Presbyterian Church. "Many women of today are practicing self-denial in their homes in a great many ways. They sink their individuality and work with great industry even when they are not fully trusted with money by their husbands. Rachael was such a woman, industrious, home-loving and sensible."

Rev. A. E. White of Montreal at Talbot Street Baptist Church spoke on "The French Problem—Should Protestants Preach the Gospel to Roman Catholics in Quebec?" He alleged that in Montreal and throughout Quebec people are not allowed to read Bibles and that the priests burn all they find in the homes of Protestants. He spoke particularly of the work of the Grand Ligne Mission.

Rev. H. A. Graham at the Wellington Street Methodist Church. "Every precious possession which is ours was purchased by pain. Our material blessings, our civil and political liberties, our moral and religious rights, all these are ours because others have suffered. The world's progress still depends on those who are willing to endure."

Rev. A. L. G. Clarke, who was recently appointed curate of the St. James' Episcopal Church, South London, preached his first sermon last night at a very large congregation. He pointed out the necessity of having an aim in life and of pressing forward steadily in an effort to accomplish it.

Rev. Dr. Ross at St. Andrew's Church. "In the new theology there is such a word as holiness, and the religious idea is simply intellectual. In old days there were lots of people who would not read a newspaper or magazine on Sunday, but who would, if they found you reading the Bible on a week day, ask you what you were doing it for."

The Rev. E. H. Peatfield at the First Congregational Church on Sunday evening spoke of "The Leprosy of Sin." He said: "Just as physical leprosy begins with one foul spot and spreads over the whole body, so also the leprosy of sin begins with some small evil and from that develops the ruin of character and, further, even as leprosy isolates the sufferer, so also sin isolates the man, so also sin cuts a man off from the esteem and confidence of his fellow-creatures, and finally just as the leprosy ends in death so also sin, if persisted in, results in man's complete ruin in the worst sense of that word."

Rev. J. Gibson Inkster at the New St. James' Church. "The transfiguration took place at night on a mountain top. It is necessary for us today to fulfill these conditions and to withdraw ourselves from the noise and throng of the congregation and from the preacher's voice, and go to a mountain top, and there, amid the silences and solitude of the universe, we will see the heavenly vision."

Rev. W. H. A. Claris at the Southern Congregational Church. "I must make a kind but earnest protest against the labeling of the churches and denominations by people who constantly represent them as envious and quarrelling. I have been 20 years in the pastorate, and I have never noticed any of this bitterness or jealousy."

Church Notes.

Rev. A. L. G. Clarke will be presented with an address of welcome at a social to be held in the St. James' Episcopal Church, South London, this evening.

On Wednesday evening Rev. J. Gibson Inkster, in the First Presbyterian Church, will give his impressions of the recent meeting of the general assembly at Halifax.

Rev. Dr. Manning preached special evangelical sermons in Dundas Street Church yesterday.

The regular monthly business meeting of the congregation of Talbot Street Baptist Church will be held on Wednesday evening.

Rev. J. Gibson Inkster, of the First Presbyterian Church and Rev. Thomas Mitchell, of the New St. James' Church, exchanged pulpits last night.

A special social evening will be held at the Wellington Street Methodist Church on Sunday evening. The occasion being a farewell to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mortimer, who leave shortly for China.

LOBO SCHOOL PICNIC WILL BE A HUMMER

Parade of the School Children and a Splendid Programme On Friday Next.

The Lobo school picnic, the greatest event of its kind in this part of the country, will be held on Friday next, June 17.

It is an annual event and attracts visitors from all parts of the Province.

This year's promises to eclipse all former records.

An excellent programme has been arranged, and with favorable weather it should prove an unequalled success.

There will be the parade of the school children. They will form up in the school grounds, and march to Campbell's Grove, where the flag-raising exercises will be gone through with. The London Pipers' Band will escort the children.

Then will follow a programme of sports, for which liberal prizes will be offered. At 3 p.m. a game of baseball between Alisa Craig and the Grey's will take place. These teams are old rivals and always furnish an exciting game.

An excellent programme has been provided for the evening. There will be music by the Highland Pipe Band of London, Tony Cortese's orchestra; Jack McPherson, Canada's Harry Lauder; J. C. Ross, M. P. P., and Mr. Duncan C. Ross, M. P. P.

Mr. Archie McGugan is chairman of the picnic committee, and Mr. I. M. Gray is secretary. A large number of Londoners will take in the affair.

LEBURTIS BOUGHT HIS OWN COFFIN

Weird Story of Former Londoner Who Committed Suicide.

William Leburteis, the old colored man, who formerly lived in London, and who ended his own life at his home in Woodstock a few days ago by shooting himself, had evidently had suicide in mind for some time. Two weeks before his death he purchased a coffin, and had it made by an undertaker, and made the statement to him that Mr. Evans was gone, and that he (Leburteis) soon would be.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED

Impressive Ceremonies at New Grace Methodist Edifice, St. Thomas.

St. Thomas, June 13.—Dedication services for the new Grace Methodist Church took place here yesterday.

There were overflowed congregations at all the services. A magnificent sacred programme was given by the united choir of the Methodist Churches of the city.

The dedicatory ceremony was in charge of Rev. Dr. Millyard, Goderich, president of the London Conference. At the morning service, Dr. J. V. Smith, of the Centenary Church, Hamilton, preached an effective and forceful sermon, his text being "Paul, an Apostle of Jesus Christ."

Rev. W. Godwin, of Parkhill, discoursed in the afternoon, earnestly and satisfactorily. His subject was "Christ, the Rock."

In the evening Dr. Millyard gave a far-reaching and impressive sermon on the Scriptural passage, "If I be lifted up from earth I will draw all men unto Me." The doctor's theme was the power of Jesus Christ for the salvation of man and the uplifting of the human race.

The offerings at the several services amounted to $1,750. The congregation have subscribed $21,000 to the building fund, and with the cash on hand will leave a balance due of about $8,000. On Monday night the dedicatory supper will be given in the rooms of the church, at which the visiting ministers and local pastors will be present, and besides an excellent musical programme will be given by some of the best city talent.

LONDON, MONDAY, JUNE 13.

MR. ROBILIN'S DILEMMA.

The approach of a general election in Manitoba has revived a serious charge against Premier Roblin.

Mr. Roblin became a one-third owner of a sand pit near Stonewall, Man., and used his influence as premier of Manitoba to secure the extension of the Canadian Northern line from Gross Isle to the sand company's property four or five miles distant. The Canadian Northern built this spur under a Government guarantee of $10,000 a mile, given without the authority of the Legislature. The sand company afterwards secured from the Canadian Northern free of charge large quantities of sand, which netted Mr. Roblin and his partners handsome returns. The spur line served only the sand pit; it was not available for other purposes.

These circumstances were brought to light in the Legislature early last year. Mr. Norris, leader of the Opposition, and Mr. Ross, offered to forfeit their seats if they could not prove their charges to the hilt before a judicial commission. Mr. Roblin replied on March 10, 1909, that he retired from the sand company in Dec. 31, 1907, and that he had no financial interest in it since that date. On the strength of this statement, the Government's followers voted down the proposal of an investigation.

Letters have since been discovered, showing that in 1908 Mr. Roblin drew profits of $6,671.16 from the company. The Winnipeg Free Press publishes a photographic fac-simile of a statement of the business of the sand company for 1908, forwarded to Mr. Roblin by one of the directors, proving that he (Mr. Roblin) was a full partner in the company in that year.

These facts have been before the public for several months, but Mr. Roblin has ignored them. It is incredible that he can retain his place as the leader of his party if the charges are not refuted before the election.

TO ENFRANCHISE A MILLION WOMEN.

The compromise woman's suffrage bill, about to be introduced in the British Parliament, is much more comprehensive than the first reports led us to infer.

The British franchise is more complicated than the Canadian, and it is not easy to describe the conditions under which a million women will qualify for the parliamentary franchise, if the new bill becomes law. The measure will enfranchise only two classes of women—first, householders (tenants or owners), who would be mostly single women or widows, as a husband and wife would not be qualified to vote in respect of the same property; second, occupiers of lands, farms, offices, or shops of an annual rental value of £10. Both the great suffrage societies of Great Britain have accepted the bill as the utmost they can hope for at the present time.

The committee of conciliation, which framed it, included 40 members of parliament, representing each of the four parties. They have obtained the support of several members of the cabinet and of the official leaders of the Labor party. It will be a private, not a Government, measure, but the Government has the power to refuse the House of Commons time to consider it. It is confidently expected that the Government will give it an opportunity to become law, and that the House of Lords will not make the question a party issue by rejecting it. It would, of course, not be regarded as a finality by women suffragists. The experience of a limited franchise, they believe, would allay the fears of anti-feminists, and extensions would follow more or less gradually until sex discrimination disappeared.

AMERICAN VIEWS OF THE LEMIEUX ACT

The latest quarterly bulletin issued by the United States national bureau of labor contains an article by Dr. Victor S. Clark on the Dominion industrial disputes act of 1907, commonly known as the Lemieux act. His conclusions are the result of several months' study of its working in Canada last year.

A most valuable feature of the measure, in his opinion, is the provision for efforts at conciliation. Each conciliation board controls its own procedure, but no power is given it to force men to work against their will or employers to give them work. In no sense is it a scheme of compulsory arbitration, inasmuch as after the board has made its report a strike or lock-out can proceed as if no action had been taken.

though the public is more likely to be informed as to the merits of the dispute, and the force of public opinion becomes more potent accordingly. If, however, drastic action is taken by either party before the board has acted, the employer is liable to a fine of from $100 to $1,000, and each striker to one varying from $10 to $50.

During the last sessions of the New York and Wisconsin Legislatures bills were introduced embodying some of the provisions of the Lemieux act. In neither case was the bill enacted into law, but it has received extended consideration, which, it is expected, will result in the Canadian legislation being copied by these states and others. The main opposition there is owing to a belief that such legislation would weaken the labor unions, but Dr. Clark shows that it is only in cases where labor is not well organized that the Lemieux act is found difficult of application.

Commenting on Dr. Clark's article, the Boston Transcript says that the most apparent value of the Lemieux act is in giving opportunity for the sober second thought which frequently counts for a good deal. It is a free declaration of one side or the other in a labor controversy that "there is nothing to arbitrate." Under the provisions of this act, that question is determined by a more impartial tribunal than the parties interested, and the public is not left so much in the dark as in the United States with respect to matters that affect its welfare.

A QUEBEC INCIDENT.

The Quebec Government has been under fire on the naval question. The attack was begun by Hon. Jean Prevost, who has lately succeeded from the Liberal to the Nationalist party. He moved a vote of censure on the Government, because one of its members, Hon. L. A. Taschereau, had declared in a speech at Toronto that Quebec would support a policy of naval defence for Canada.

Mr. Gault, the English-speaking Conservative member for Montreal West, pronounced in favor of a money contribution to Great Britain for naval purposes, but he voted in support of the motion of censure, although its adoption would have been hailed as a blow at imperial sentiment. The Liberals of the Legislature were steadfast, and the motion was buried. The incident, however, is significant as an election tactic. When the next appeal to the country comes, the Nationalists and the Conservatives will make common cause against the Federal Government on the naval question. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be denounced in Quebec for having made any contribution to imperial naval defence. In the other provinces he will be attacked for spending Canadian money on a Canadian navy instead of handing it over to the British admiralty.

British exports last year were £48,352,000 greater than in 1905. The old country is a long time dying.

"Royalty would be welcomed, but a royal court should find no place in Canadian life."—Toronto Globe. This may not be Toronto sentiment, but it is genuinely Canadian.

The Kaiser has asked for an increase of $1,250,000 in his allowance on the ground of the general advance in the cost of living. The rise in prices has not overlooked the German sausage.

"English papers of Friday, June 3, were delivered in Ottawa yesterday. I have to tell you that a single word from London, that is 'going some.'"—Ottawa Free Press.

Yes, but it is nothing new. The London, England, Saturday papers have been reaching this office on the following Saturdays for a year past.

There were 789,000 paupers in England and Wales in April, but there will be less than half the number in a year or two, owing to the extension of the old-age pension system. In a country of such great and growing wealth, the existence of pauperism shows a defect in social organization. But Great Britain is now leading the world in the attempt to remedy such diseases.

The comet has disappeared from the public gaze, but it proved a disappointment from the first. The reason was explained by the chancellor of Oxford University, who introduced Mr. Roosevelt as a man, in the words of the Latin poet, "Before whose coming comets took to flight."

And all the Nile's seven mouths turned pale with fright."

WESTERN WAYS.

[Ottawa Journal.] Because the Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta opened the recent session of the Legislature while wearing a tweed suit and a bowler hat, the newspapers of that Province have been offering some pointed satirical criticisms. And yet they of the West refer to the East as effete.

WRONG CONCLUSIONS.

[Toronto World, Conservative.] The late King's death, therefore, the Liberals are blameworthy. The King is part of the Government machine, and must take his share of action and responsibility, and his full portion of the work. It is the craziest doctrine that we've heard for many a day that political grievances must not be righted, because the King will be worried in the attempt to do so. The foolish action of the Lords in refusing budget reform, educational reform, license reform, in claiming to have a veto on the budget of the Commons, is what made the crisis and the worry for the King.

THE LINE HE WAS ON.

[San Francisco Call.] Two telephone girls were talking over the wire. Both were discussing what they should wear. In the midst of this important conversation a masculine voice interrupted, asking humbly for a number.

One of the girls became indignant, and scornfully asked: "What line do you think you are on, anyhow?"

"Well," said the man, "I am not sure, but judging from what I have heard, I should say I was on a clothesline."

A GREAT CATCH.

[Toronto News.] Hats worth one million dollars have been seized by American customs officials. All six of them will be sold.

HE KNEW.

[Chicago Post.] "The man who will willfully and maliciously slander his fellow-man should be kicked to death by a donkey, and we would like to be the one to do it." This reminds us somewhat of old Professor Seymour, of Yale, in his celebrated proof that the pass of Thermopylae was a narrow passage-way. "It is barely wide enough for a single jackass," said the professor, benignly. "I know, for I have been through it myself."

HEALTHGRAMS.

[Chicago Tribune.] Dr. W. E. Evans, Chicago commissioner of health, has issued a series of "healthgrams"—epigrams relating to sanitation and health. Here are a few samples: "Fifth for flies and flies for fever." "When you don't know what to eat—eat nothing." "Dark living rooms speedily plant candles at your head." "Teasing baby to make it laugh is a crying shame." "The birth of a fly may mean the death of a baby; kill the flies and save the babies." "A heap of rubbish about your house is a tombstone to your self-respect and civic pride."

THE AUTOMOBILE.

[Branford Expositor.] The chancellor of Syracuse University says automobiles are the curse of the country. What he means, we suppose, is that they are cursed by people who would like to have one, but cannot put up the price.

THE GLOOMY PAST.

[A Prose Poem by Walt Mason.] A man went moaning through the town: "The past—I cannot live it down! My old dead sins rise up to vex and swat me in the solar plex!" The past's a ghost, with silent tread, that stands and gibbers by my head! I smote him with a willow bough, and sat a while upon his brow, and said: "The Gloomy Past's all in, with all it had of human sin; in all this universe so vast there's nothing dearer than the past. Today is with us, living, strong, a time of hope and faith and song. Today is vital; yesterday is in its coffin, stark and grey. Today a man may look ahead and see a hundred paths to tread, bright paths that lead to greater heights, to useful days and restful nights, to high achievement, honored age, to honest work and goodly wage. But if he faces to the past, and looks for ghosts that gibber fast, and talks about their fleshless bones, then someone, weary of his groans, will slug him with a stick of beech, and sit upon his head and preach, as I do now, so go your way and get your clutches on today!"

EVIDENCE OF GROWTH.

[Halifax Chronicle.] The growth of Canada in population and prosperity is indicated by the progress of Canadian banks, which now have 2,328 branches, all but 50 of them in the Dominion itself. Of the 2,278 in Canada, 74 are west of Ontario, where loans to grain raisers are a profitable source of income.

MEANS PROSPERITY.

[Ottawa Journal.] The first Western Canadian crop estimate, published today, shows an increase of 20 per cent in the acreage of wheat sown, and an increase of 80 per cent in the fax sown. These figures mean—if all goes well—a big prosperity for the next year. The Government is certainly good to the west to allow this.

A HIBERNIAN HINT.

[Judge.] The Hon. Joseph H. Choate, formerly American ambassador in England, tells the following story, crediting the same to a political speech made by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman: A head of a house had complained to three friends—an Englishman, an Irishman and a Scot—that his servant broke a great deal of china. The matter-of-fact Englishman gave the short bit of practical advice, "Dismiss him." "Take it out of his wages," spoke the thirly Scot. Objection to the latter course was made on the ground that the wages were less than the amount of the damages. The Irishman at once came to the rescue with: "Then raise his wages."

AT THE FUNERAL.

[Pele Mele.] Mourner (to widower)—You seem to be enjoying the walk. Widower—Certainly. When one is in business it's mighty hard to get away for a day.

DINNER-TABLE PERSIFLAGE.

[Boston Transcript.] Wife:—This pudding is a sample of the new cook's work. What do you think of it? Hub:—I call it mediocre.

Wife:—No, dear, it's tapicaca.

ONCE MORE THE MULLAH.

[Hamilton Herald.] Our esteemed contemporary the Mad Mullah has been shot. For some years he has been acting as though he were half-shot.

ABOUT A TIE.

[Exchange.] Teacher—Now, Willie, give me a sentence, using the word "dozen." Willie—Bobby dozen like school.

Teacher—Dear me, no? Bobby, correct him.

Bobby—I dozen Willie don't.

THE CHANGES OF A LIFETIME.

[Household Magazine.] In a notable manner Mr. Goldwin Smith was a connecting link between the new and the old. When he was a boy the railway was just beginning, and as the aeroplane is beginning now. The old stage coach carried its passengers across the country, and the highwayman was not altogether unknown. The lucifer match had not been invented. As a consequence the flint and steel was the best means of making a light. People used candles to brighten the evening hours, and all well-regulated families made their own. There was no telephone, nor was there a telegraph. Of course there was no cable, and the penny post had not been discovered. Ontario had 200,000 inhabitants at that time, and the Province was for the most part a dense forest. Goldwin Smith lived during the period of social and scientific evolution. The changes he witnessed were marvellous. But what of the changes that are yet to be?

SIX PERSONS KILLED BY LIGHTNING BOLT

Berlin, June 12.—Six persons were killed, 17 severely injured, and more than 100 slightly hurt by a single shaft of lightning that struck in Jungfernhau Park Sunday evening. All the victims were poor working people seeking in the park relief from the intense heat.

TWO SAD DEATHS

Quebec, June 12.—Two rather sad cases of death have occurred during the past few days. The first, a bright little girl, named Dolly McRae, from Scotland, with her grandmother, going to join her father and mother in Calgary, who had preceded them a year ago. The second was that of a mother and six children on the way to join the father at Fort William. The mother was taken to the Jeffrey Hale Hospital, on the arrival of the steamer, the six children going west.

Acute Bright's disease set in and Mrs. Fraser died.

Both bodies were buried in Mount Vernon Cemetery today.

CIRCUS MAN KILLED.

Walkerton, June 13.—Clarence Kellett, an employee of the Haag Shows, was instantly killed Friday by the Toronto express.

Kellett was a single man, 24 years of age, and resided in Greenville, S. C. He had been posting bills of the Haag Shows here.

He was carried several yards after being struck, where the body was caught in a switch and held fast.

One of the victim's boots was found some distance from the scene, having apparently been torn from the foot when it caught in the switch.

Colonel Scott, on behalf of the railway, asked for an adjournment when Dr. Porter called an inquest, for which the following jury was empanelled: Messrs. McCrumb (chairman), Fox, Lippert, Carman, Smith, Fernback, Zuber, Wingselder, Arscott, Bryce, Stephen, McCaig, Miller, Canon.

OFFICIAL NOTICE HAS BEEN RECEIVED

Association for Prevention of Tuberculosis Will Meet Here Next Year.

Dr. J. George Adam, president of the Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, which concluded its session in Montreal last week, has written Hon. Adam Beck, informing him that the association will meet here next year, probably in June. The city's invitation to hold the next convention in London was warmly received, and the Forest City was highly commended for the fight it making against tuberculosis. The letter is as follows: "Dear Mr. Beck,—May I express to you our appreciation of the great service you rendered to our association in coming to our sessions to report for the London Health Association. You struck a note of enthusiasm and high endeavor that carried through to the conclusion of our meeting. I am delighted to think that the association unanimously decided to hold the next annual meeting in your city."

EGGS 100 YEARS OLD FOR CHINESE

Hen Fruit Buried a Century Reaches Acme of Flavor for Rich Celestials.

Pekin, June 12.—At first the stranger in Pekin years for the pastures which he has left behind him in the west, and he wonders how long he can endure conditions here. If he is wise he learns to choke his desire for cleanliness; he ceases to care for the stuff of life is soiled and dirt-incrusted, his olfactory organs become, as those of the Chinese, impervious to bad odors, and he eats simply because he has to.

In the matter of food a Chinaman's taste is entirely his own. He recognizes no other standard.

Life is cheap in China, and you can live cheaply. The pig, like the dog, roams where fancy leads him. He gathers what he may from dirt pile and dust heap. Every day he appears upon your table, disguised in one form or another, together with chicken, snipe, wild duck, pigeon or other feathered creature. Many families spend but eight cents a day a person for food, but your surprise at this somewhat diminishes on paying your first housekeeping bill when you find that one good roasting fowl costs 14 cents, and 100 eggs but $1 (Mexican).

These eggs of course are fresh—that is, from two to three weeks old. If you want them with a higher flavor you pay more. It has been said of Chinese eggs that they are for the rich or the ultra fastidious in taste. Other items upon your table are beans, salads, fruits and vegetables of all kinds, for the Chinese understand the art of gardening. Within a and without the old walls of the city are kitchen gardens and orchards carefully tended and irrigated to a degree not seen anywhere else in the world outside of China.

Neither time nor energy nor manure is spared in the improvement of the ground, which often proves ungrateful

TO TEST THE HEART MAN HANGS BY HEELS

Healthy Organ Nullifies Practically the Effect of Gravity On the Blood Streams.

London, June 12.—To test the pressure of blood upon the heart a student of the London Hospital voluntarily submitted himself to the ordeal of remaining suspended by his heels for several minutes at a time from an iron hook fixed in the ceiling. The experiment has resulted in the discovery of a hitherto unappreciated characteristic of the human heart.

It has been shown that a healthy heart nullifies practically the effect of gravity on the blood streams of the body. Prof. Leonard Hill, who conducted the experiments, explains that when a healthy man stands upright the blood pressure in the vessels in the neck is about equal to a column of 120 millimeters of mercury. The pressure in the vessels of the lower leg is much higher, about 190 millimeters, on account of the action of gravity on the vertical column of blood.

Theoretically, if a man is turned upside down the leg pressure should therefore fall to about 120 millimeters, since gravity is no longer acting, while the arm and neck pressure should rise to somewhere about 190 millimeters. In the case of the inverted student it was found that although the leg blood pressure immediately dropped to about 50, there was no corresponding rise of pressure in the neck and arm vessels.

In other words, the healthy heart has power to adapt itself to any posture we may assume, and yet keep the blood pressure in the important parts of the body, particularly in the heart and head vessels, at the normal. The abdominal cavity, with its great network of large vessels is used as a reservoir, into which the blood from the limbs can be poured so as never to overcharge the heart itself or the vessels of the head and neck.

All depends, of course, on whether the heart is in a healthy condition. Experiments on rabbits show that the organ loses its ability to regulate automatically the blood pressure when the muscular tissues are lax through want of exercise.

THE BEST FED RACE

London, June 12.—The people of Britain, especially town workers, can do a great deal toward stamping out tuberculosis by copying the Jewish prescriptions with regard to food, says Dr. Allison, a prominent English physician, and an authority on food values. In a lecture Dr. Allison set out the example of the Hebrews, a race which was, he said, practically immune from consumption.

The Jewish people, he maintained, through centuries of oppression, had survived, because it was the best-fed race on earth. Jewish mothers were greatly to be commended for bringing up their children on fatty foods.

Professor R. A. Sampson does not agree with Dr. Allison on this point. In the Fortnightly Review he makes this plea for a frugal diet.

"Perfect fruit alone can meet the demands of the human system, perfect fruit alone can stimulate the intellect, perfect fruit alone can calm the passions, perfect fruit alone can control the feverish activity of the arterial pulsations, which otherwise engendered by the consumption of inflammatory foods and drinks, wear out the human machine long before its natural time."

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

THE TRANSPARENT TUNICS

Six months since, all the elegancies of style glittered and sparkled, but now the light of fashion is no longer reflected from hard and shining surfaces. Rather, it gleams through thin textures, and transparency is become the feature of every successful mode.

From the bows of her hat to the tips of her Greek sandals, the woman of fashion moves in diaphanous array, in layers over layer of filmy chiffon, perforated embroidery, meshed net, and translucent mousseline.

Her parasol is of figured organdy or silk mull, shirred and flounced and puckered. Her hat is of chintilly lace, lined with straw or net; her turban is made of folds and braids of maline, her plumed hat is the thinnest of neapollans.

Her white gown is a gossamer creation of lace and eyelet embroidery; and over it, she wears the latest novelty of the season, is a knee-length tunic of dark chiffon, bound with satin and braided artistically.

Her boots have latched fronts, and her hosiery is of lacework or delicate silk thread, and it droops in French fashion, straight down from her hat brim. And should she require some extra wrapping, she will use a three-cornered shawl of Spanish lace, or the long-beaded net scarf of the harem.

And yet all the gauze, and mist, and flimsiness, though ruffled and gathered, are far from producing the cloudy effect usually to be expected from batistes and lawns and silk tissues.

FASHIONS

Black lace veils are uncommonly popular. White lace comes in as second choice. These veils launder well.

With the new styles in hair dressings there is a continued use of metal and silk bands and ribbons. Bands of jeweled and metal passementeries are much used.

Pansy turbans are among attractive new things that the latest season has brought into fashion. They will be used with thin white frocks, with violet linen coat suits and with black and white striped chiffon fabrics.

Prominent just now are the garnitures of ribbons threaded through the straw of the hats. A large bow is usually tied at one side.

Plain muslin in dove-grey forms the simple undershirt of this frock. The quaintly old-fashioned surplice-over-dress has rings in deep Russian colors, frilled with the plain material. Soft, sheer, white muslin forms the full vest and undersleeves. A knot of black velvet at the waist, a twisted belt and sleeve bands of black velvet, gives the needed decisive touch to this frock.

Long white gloves are worn, and a large, drooping hat of black milan, faced with doe grey or white satin, and trimmed with brilliant roses complete the costume.

For the strawberry pasties, roll puff paste rather thin, cut it into rounds with a saucer, and make half of each piece with sweetened halved strawberries. Moisten the edges of the paste with white of egg, fold over the other half and pinch the edges together. Brush the tops with melted butter and sugar, and bake to a pale brown in a hot oven. Serve hot or cold, with strawberry sauce or whipped cream.

The pot pie is made from the chuck, the short ribs, neck, or leg, and should be boiled gently the day before, then cut in inch pieces, and bones and gristle discarded. The next day skin the fat, head meat and gravy, remove the meat to a hot plate, and drop the dumplings into the boiling gravy. For these, take two cupsful of flour, three teaspoonfuls baking powder, one level teaspoonful salt, one heaping spoonful of butter, mix well and make into a stiff batter with water. One tablespoonful makes a dumpling.

PLAYTIME STORIES

Faithful Cedry.

Sir Charles was leaving his tent to hurry out to the great battle. His hound, Cedry, wanted to go, too, but Sir Charles made him go back in the tent and lie down, saying that a battle-field was no place for dogs. All day long the battle raged and when at evening time his master did not come home Cedry set out in search of him.

At last the dog found Sir Charles lying on the field badly wounded. So delighted was Cedry that he whined and licked his master's hand. But when his master did not care him in return the dog knew something was wrong and he began to bark for someone to come.

It happened that the commander of the enemy's force was walking through the field to see for himself how the battle had gone, and on hearing the dog's barking went to see what was wrong. The dog ran joyfully toward him and led him to his master.

This commander was a kind-hearted man and when he saw that Sir Charles was in great need of a surgeon's care he ordered him taken to a tent where the faithful Cedry followed.

NECK DARK? THEN BLEACH IT THIS WAY

Of the dozen bleaches for the skin which will whiten, the bread and milk poultice is as simple and probably as efficacious as any. It has been, at least, a very popular experiment, since somebody's mother recalled the fact that it was once a fashionable way of bleaching the hands. The poultice must be worn for three nights, if the results are expected to be at all satisfactory.

The juice of raw potato is another homely homemade remedy for a too dark neck. Dip thick slices of potato in very hot water, and rub the neck vigorously. A starchy lather is produced which has splendid bleaching qualities.

Lemon juice is the first thought of the girl bent on bleaching her neck. Rub the neck with a cut lemon until the skin is moist, then bathe the neck in cold water. Apply the juice once more, and allow it to dry into the skin and remain over night. After the morning bath, apply a good cold cream.

Lime juice is supposed to act more quickly than lemon juice, but the bleaching process is more troublesome. After lime juice has been applied, the neck is swathed and steamed with cloths wrung out of hot water. Then more lime juice is rubbed in, followed by a coating of cold cream. The neck is then scraped with the dull edge of a knife, or a bone paper cutter, and talcum is rubbed into the skin.

Long white gloves are worn, and a large, drooping hat of black milan, faced with doe grey or white satin, and trimmed with brilliant roses complete the costume.

Plain muslin in dove-grey forms the simple undershirt of this frock. The quaintly old-fashioned surplice-over-dress has rings in deep Russian colors, frilled with the plain material. Soft, sheer, white muslin forms the full vest and undersleeves. A knot of black velvet at the waist, a twisted belt and sleeve bands of black velvet, gives the needed decisive touch to this frock.

Long white gloves are worn, and a large, drooping hat of black milan, faced with doe grey or white satin, and trimmed with brilliant roses complete the costume.

A TOUCH OF BLACK.

Even upon white cottons or linens there is the touch of black, which contrast we have in the past always associated with the masterly designs of the French, but which has been conquered and used by our American modistes, with full appreciation of the effect.

There must never be an overemphasis in the effect, nor must the black be of an obtrusive luster, but a careful study of the real "creations" that are here will bring to your mind several important points.

First of all, the black girdle is a decided feature of spring gowns. It may be of silk or satin on afternoon gowns of voile or foulard; it may be of leather on linen or gingham frocks.

Then, again, the ever-successful use of black velvet comes to your notice. Run through slots in the tulle, in the form of a fluted cabochon or as tiny stiff bows, this favorite material performs wonders in the scheme of a dress.

Black tulle or crisp maline is used to tone down the vivid colors on some startling gowns, and well does it perform the task assigned to it.

Pipings are always effective, and the invasion of the tiniest buttons gives the French touch which we strive. The marine collar for a linen suit, and the touch of black embroidery on neckwear are just two other evidences of this important note.

Use it discreetly, and the artistic value of any gown will be decidedly raised.

YOUR STOMACH IS TO BLAME

MISERY DISAPPEARS AND STOMACH COMFORT COMES IN FIVE MINUTES.

"Take good care of the stomach" is good advice that all sensible people should heed. If your blood is bad and pimples and sores break out on your body in 90 per cent of the cases the stomach is to blame.

If you are nervous, irritable, feel dull, are depressed mentally, and feel disinclined to exert yourself, make up your mind the stomach is at fault and treat it as promptly and intelligently as possible.

Mi-o-na, the universal stomach remedy, will cure any abnormal condition of the stomach, promptly and surely.

The action of Mi-o-na on the delicate membrane of the stomach is so prompt that the most painful distress vanishes in a few minutes. But Mi-o-na (small tablets easily swallowed) is more than a relief giver. It is a prescription used by a most learned and sensible physician.

and its ingredients are so cleverly compounded that while it gives instant relief it also effects a permanent cure.

Mi-o-na will not cure a case of chronic indigestion in a week; but it will make you feel so much better in a week that you will have confidence in its wonderful tonic and reconstructive virtue and will continue the treatment until cured.

Stomach misery and dyspepsia usually arise from overeating and drinking, but there are thousands of cases where worry, grief and neglect to take food at the proper intervals are the cause.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets costs only 50 cents at Cairncross & Lawrence's, who guarantee them to cure all stomach misery, or money back. For sale by leading druggists everywhere.

In order to get the stomach into perfect condition in a few weeks, and while it is building up and strengthening the walls it will aid digestion to such an extent that there will be no distress, belching or other symptoms after eating.

THE RECONSTRUCTION OF THE CZAR'S NAVY

Empire Council Refuses to Indorse Programme of $350,000,000.

London, June 12. — Reconstructing the Russian navy is proving difficult business. The marine budget committee of the council of empire has refused to indorse any of the Government's appropriations as a protest against the failure to uproot the old abuses in the navy department and to reorganize the service from top to bottom. The Government announces that it proposes to apply 750,000,000 rubles ($375,000,000) to a shipbuilding programme. The council of empire's committee replied with some reservations regarding the building of the installment of Dreadnoughts now in hand at the navy yards near St. Petersburg.

Each of these battleships was to have cost 25,000,000 rubles, and been ready for commission in four years from last spring. It is now conceded that each will cost 40,000,000 rubles, and that none will be ready before six years. This heavy extra cost and delay is due to the Government insisting on building them in home yards at a time when they had not the plant for making the material nor technical labor for understanding how to convert the designs into ships.

The committee reports that the upkeep of the Russian navy in 1903, before the Japanese war, when there really was a war fleet, was 107,000,000 rubles, and 40 per cent of that sum was assigned to building. This year when there is no war fleet and the ships in commission are described as "old goloshes," the appropriation is 85,000,000 rubles, and 15 per cent of that is marked for constructional purposes. The navy department has not had the courage to reduce the personnel to a proportion approaching the half dozen ships of war now fit for service. The entire naval personnel in Japan amounts this year to 26,000 men, while Russia has still 44,000 men.

In Vladivostok the cost of the men on the navy pay roll is this year 5,500,000 rubles. It includes a naval commandant with a large staff, and the entire sea-going strength of two cruisers.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Thames and Its Fishing.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: One of the boosters that we have in our city limits and surrounding suburbs is our River Thames, which our people and visitors to our city should know more about.

For fishing there is not a stretch of water in Western Ontario that can give more angling sport than the River Thames can between Byron and Delaware. It contains a large number of the following varieties: Maskinonge, pike, small and large mouth bass, pickerel, catfish, carp, and numerous other kinds. A great many of our citizens think that all the scenery and fish are only at Springbank and Byron, but in this they are mistaken, for if you will take the early car to Springbank any fine morning and stroll along the River Thames from Byron, and continue on to Hyde Park bend, to Mr. Kane's rapids, to the cedar brook camp-fishing cove, to Killworth heights, to the wishing-well and the petrified rock, to Hull's Bay and to Komoka Springs, where the mineral water is secured by the G. T. R. Company, and which is used in the bathing cars (and if you feel that you would like to continue your journey, the next grand view will be of the high cliffs surrounding what is known as Week's cove, and of these points named on our River Thames there is abundance of fish of the various kinds mentioned. Now the Thames River Angling Association of London have just issued a neat memorandum book, giving the list of its members, and also a complete list of all the game laws and a history of their association. The association deserves great credit for the good work they are doing for the people, and every citizen should help them in their good work to try and place our city in the front rank as a pleasure resort. Yours truly,

One Who Has Walked the Banks of the River Thames for 25 Years.

The Hook and Ladder Tenders.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: I notice in tonight's issue of The Advertiser that W. E. Seagraves takes exception to the statement made in my letter of June 3 when I stated that the committee did not award the tender to the lowest bidder. I have my information from the tenth report of No. 3 committee, which is as follows:

"That the tender of Hugh Cameron & Co. to supply one Seagrave service hook and ladder truck, according to the specifications of the fire chief, for $2,250, be accepted, being the lowest." That is plain English, I think. Now, sir, Mr. Seagraves goes on to say that there were three tenders in. He put in two, and both of them, he says, complied with the specifications: one at $2,250, the other at $2,050, and he then says that bid No. 1 should be the finest and most expensive thing made. What would No. 2 be like? Evidently the committee did not consider the lower, or No. 2, tender at all. If both of the tenders complied with the specifications, then both must have been the same. If so then why the difference in price?

I am quite well aware that neither No. 3 committee, nor the fire chief of this city want an inferior article at any price, so the tender of the American La France was for a city service hook and ladder truck of the latest design, and up-to-date in every particular. No second tender offered. It is a truck that is accepted all over the United States as being second to none, and I am informed by Mr. Thomas, of the American La France Company, that they have an order in hand now for 25 trucks for the United States Government the same size as London is asking for. Do you think that any government would buy an inferior article?

Mr. Seagraves goes on to speak about his truck frame being angle-trussed steel, bought by all the large Canadian cities, and refers to channel-trussed frame as being obsolete. There is one sure thing, there is no shape you can put steel into stronger for its weight than channel-steel set on edge and trussed so that it is impossible for it to sag with the weight it is destined to carry. The American La France people will make an angle-trussed frame as readily as a channel-frame if it is desired, but they consider a channel-frame the best, so offer it. Mr. Seagraves casts a slur on the La France people by intimating that the truck they are offering is obsolete. They, the American La France Company, are the largest builders of fire apparatus in the world, and have a reputation that is beyond question. Their guarantee is unlimited (not for five years only) against defective material or workmanship. They are up-to-date in every particular. Although some things may not agree with Mr. Seagraves' idea, that is no reason that they should be called obsolete. Mr. Seagraves must not get the idea that he has all the best things in the world. There are a few left for others.

ROBT. ANGUS,
Agent American La France Company.
London, June 10.

A Criticism.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In your report of the proceedings at the recent meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, Bishop Williams is represented as saying that in the United States there are nearly as many divorces as marriages. In your local contemporary the charge is reported in still stronger language, the qualifying word "nearly" being omitted. This is an amazing statement. It is scarcely credible that any intelligent person should have made it, least of all a clergyman of a religion which inculcates charity as the chief of all the virtues, and enjoins its followers against bearing false witness against their neighbors.

If the bishop did not make the statement, he ought to repudiate it. If contradicted, such a speech, reported from him, will do great mischief. It is speeches like these that feed fat to the old prejudice against Americans, which some Canadian cherish virtuously as the chief element in their misguided patriotism. It is a practice altogether too common for our public speakers, when they venture to mention our failings, to set themselves right with their audience by declaring how much worse the Americans are than we. Even if their charges were true, the attitude would still remind one of a certain Parisian, who thanked the Lord that he was not as other men are. But often the accusations are untrue, or, at least, grossly exaggerated, and then those who make them are justly open to censure for speaking without knowledge, or for pandering to the lowest prejudices of their hearers. Yours truly,

CENSOR.

VESSEL TO RESCUE THE SUBMARINES

German Navy Provides Against Accident to Submerged Fighters.

London, June 12. — The French navy's lack of adequate means to rescue the submerged Pluviose, which was run down the other day in the English Channel by the Calais-Dover mail steamer, calls attention to the fact that Germany alone of all nations possesses a vessel capable of dealing with such accidents. Although Germany has only eight completed underwater boats, compared with Great Britain's 65, France's 56, Russia's 20, and 18 of the United States, Teutonic thoroughness has already provided a rescue ship.

She is named the Vulkan and was launched at Kiel in 1907. The vessel, which has a length of 230 feet, consists of two separate hulls. These are fitted with engines, which give a speed of twelve knots.

At either end the separate hulls are connected by a deck, so that viewed from forward or aft the ship presents the structure of a tunnel.

A large space sufficient to allow the longest German submarine yet designed to pass through, is left clear between the two hulls, and over this are erected two steel girder bridges, with two others connecting them.

These bridges are fitted with a powerful electric crane, capable of lifting a weight of 500 tons, and when a submarine has thus been raised it can be rested upon movable girders, which can be placed beneath it.

The ship itself is more or less a floating workshop. With the exception of those directly concerned in the navigation of the ship, all those on board are skilled engineers, and a number of divers are carried so that operations can be commenced as soon as the vessel arrives on the scene of an accident.

Among the peculiar substitutes for wallpaper is the use in one of the art galleries. It is nothing but a huge rag carpet of neutral tone that covers the entire wall space.

MONTREAL MAN AND DAUGHTER LEAP TO DEATH FROM BRIDGE

Father, Followed by Girl, Jumps Sixty Feet From Railway Structure Into Swift Current of St. Lawrence and Both Are Swept to Death.

Montreal, June 13.—A dramatic double drowning occurred Sunday, when Albert Esnough, a builder of St. Lambert, and his adopted daughter, Lena Healy, jumped from the centre of Victoria Bridge, 60 feet down into the swift current.

It is not known whether it was the result of a suicide pact or not. Esnough jumped first, and was followed a moment later by the girl, but whether she jumped in the excitement of the moment, or with intent to join him in death will never be known.

The only witnesses was a bridge employee. He saw the two sitting down, evidently in earnest debate. Suddenly they got up, and Esnough, who was 45 years old, climbed the five-foot railing, and plunged into the river, the girl following before the electrician could interfere.

Esough swam some distance in the current before he was drowned, but the girl seemed to have been killed by the fall, and never came to the surface.

Esough had been in ill-health for several years.

Millionaire Kidnapped His Own Son

Montreal, June 13.—Richard B. Stack, a millionaire of Beaconsfield, is under arrest here on an extraordinary warrant, charging him with kidnapping his own son, John King Stack, 6 years of age, from the home of the child's grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Allen, at St. Louis, Mo.

The mother of the child, who is divorced from Stack, and is now Mrs.

E. R. Burbank, of Los Angeles, Cal., issued the warrant, which was served some weeks ago very quietly, and Stack was allowed out on $10,000 bail. Since then the case has dragged along awaiting the arrival of evidence.

No trace of the son has been found, although Stack has been at liberty, and has been closely shadowed by detectives, who hoped to get some clue of the youngster's whereabouts.

Oxford Postpones the Graft Probe

Woodstock, June 13.—The county council completed its June session yesterday and adjourned without taking any action in regard to the report submitted by the committee appointed to investigate charges of alleged graft in connection with the purchase of material for road work.

The report was on conditions as the committee found them, and one of the conditions was that evidence had been obtained that in one case at least an attempt at corruption had been made in the sale of road material. The report was filed in the meantime, and just now at any rate no further action will be taken. The matter will likely, however, be reopened soon, and it is possible that prosecution may follow.

NATION'S TRIBUTE TO EDWARD SEVENTH

Question of a Memorial Is Already Being Discussed in London.

London, June 13.—The question of a national memorial to King Edward VII. will be prominently before the public before long. Among a number of suggestions which are already being considered is the important one that Buckingham Palace should be either largely rebuilt or at least provided with a new facade, for the front of the palace as it now stands is about as ugly as an old weather-stained barn. Several members of the Royal Institution of British Architects are strongly in favor of the new facade proposition. Indeed, there is some reason for believing that plans are now in existence for the provision not only of a finer frontage for the palace, but also of an entirely new story.

The gorgeous Victoria Memorial, even in its present unfinished condition, makes the King's residence appear by comparison very mean, very shabby, dwarfed and squat. When the memorial is completed, the public will be shocked by the contrast, and it will be surprising if there be not an outcry for a new Buckingham Palace which will really be worthy of the Emperor-King.

One prominent member of the Institution of British Architects, Mr. William Woodward, advocates the complete demolition of the palace and the erection on its splendid site of a new residence on a modern and really grand style, fit to compare with the royal palaces of Brussels, Madrid and Vienna. Mr. Woodward considers that if this were done the Mall, or new processional road, would then be the finest avenue in Europe. The present facade of the palace is of painted bath stone, a particularly poor combination, and the whole tone of the building is commonplace in the extreme.

Mr. Woodward has a vision of a new Buckingham Palace, with a grand central arch leading to a quadrangular courtyard. It should be built of Portland stone, the material employed in St. Paul's Cathedral, the Horse Guards and the Admiralty, the only material which will last in the metropolis. The present facade was erected shortly after Queen Victoria's coronation at a cost of $750,000. A scheme of drastic rebuilding, such as that proposed by Mr. Woodward, could certainly not be carried out for less than $5,000,000.

Preparing For King George. Meanwhile a considerable number of necessary alterations are to be made in the palace before King George and his consort take up residence there, which will probably be in the autumn, and work is to start immediately. In addition to a good deal of refurbishing and redecorating of their majesties' private apartments, provision will now have to be made for the royal children. No children have been born in the palace since the birth of Princess Henry of Battenberg in 1857, and the nurseries are naturally very old-fashioned.

Queen Mary very much dislikes the old type of nursery, with heavy upholstered furniture and thick carpets, and the children's new quarters will represent the last word in hygienic simplicity. So healthily and simply was she brought up herself that her majesty is very particular about the nurseries and all that pertains to the healthy upbringing of her children. Since she became a wife and mother her home has been on the model of the typical English home—a combination at once of indulgence and strict control—so that her children have had to learn the necessary lesson of all children, and especially of royal children, of modesty, self-control and unselfishness. No children in the kingdom have been brought up in greater simplicity, both of rearing and of inner feeling.

VATICAN PROTESTS AGAINST DECREE

Madrid, June 13.—Mgr. Vico, the papal nuncio, has formally protested against the royal decree issued yesterday, authorizing edifices of non-Catholic religious societies to display the insignia for public worship and other ceremonies, on the ground that the Government should maintain the status quo, pending the result of negotiations which are being conducted with the Vatican.

Premier Canalejas, in reply, says that the decree does not touch matters covered by the negotiations. It is understood that the answer which the Vatican has made relative to the revision of the concordat and reduction of the public worship budget is not satisfactory, and the Premier has notified the Vatican that unless it changes its attitude the Government will be reluctantly compelled to break off the negotiations.

AUTO HITS BUGGY

Windsor, June 13.—While driving along the Tecumseh road above Walkerville on Saturday, Edward Parent, employed at the bridge works in Walkerville, accompanied by his wife, were thrown from their buggy and badly shaken up, when an auto, said to be driven at terrific speed, struck their rig.

Mrs. Parent had two ribs broken and sustained severe cuts about the head and face, while her husband landed on the horse's back, and escaped with a severe jolting.

Mr. Parent lives about five miles above Walkerville, and was returning from his work when the accident occurred. Two automobiles, the occupants of which are said to have been hilarious, were coming along the road from Tecumseh. The first machine turned out from the buggy, but the driver of the second did not see the danger till his machine crashed into the horse's side, ripping the harness off and smashing the buggy to match-wood.

Mrs. Parent was hurled twenty feet into the air and alighted on her side. The names of the parties in the machine which did the damage were secured, and a promise of settlement was made.

Don't Smuggle Detroit Goods. The Retail Grocers' Association feel that a great injustice is being done by our local merchants by a large number of our citizens who make a practice of buying goods in Detroit. They intend to take this matter up with the minister of customs, and if possible have a special officer appointed to search all persons and have a stop put to smuggling. The Grocers' Excursion to Detroit is intended only for amusement. The grocers think the citizens should be more loyal to their own city.

Don't place too much confidence in appearances. Many a man with a red nose has a white heart.

HAMILTON FLIES GOTHAM TO PHILADELPHIA

Drives His Aeroplane 86 Miles in One Hour and Fifty-Three Minutes.

New York, June 13.—Charles K. Hamilton today accomplished the daring task of flying from New York city to Philadelphia, a distance of 86 miles in 1 hour and 53 minutes, and is preparing to make the return flight from Philadelphia to New York. The flight was made under the auspices of the New York Times and the Philadelphia Ledger.

The total round trip distance is the longest city to city flight ever made by an aviator, exceeding the record flights of Curtiss and Fawcett. The flight was spectacular from start to finish, and his arrival at Philadelphia was the signal for an enthusiastic demonstration by vast crowds of people.

He started from Governors Island, N. Y., at 7:35 a.m., passed over Metuchen, N. J., at 8:09; New Brunswick, N. J., at 8:19; Monmouth Junction, at 8:29; Princeton Junction, at 8:38; Trenton, N. J., at 8:50; Connetquot, Pa., at 9:11, and landing at Philadelphia at 9:28 a.m.

The speed of the flight was at an average per mile of 1 minute and 19 seconds, or about 46 miles per hour.

JOE CONG IS DEAD FROM HIS WOUNDS

Body Will Be Taken Back to Streetsville Today for the Opening of the Inquest.

Toronto, Ont., June 13.—Joe Cong, the Chinese laundryman, who was murdered in the streets of Streetsville last Thursday night, died yesterday about noon at the General Hospital, where he was taken Saturday morning. It had been the intention to bring him to Toronto on Friday night, but his condition was so bad that the doctors feared to move him. He seemed a little better Saturday, but from the start the doctors had practically no hope for his recovery. After a consultation between Crown Attorney McFadden (Brampton) and the Attorney-General's department here, it was decided to take the body to Streetsville this morning for the purpose of holding an inquest. Coroner Dr. Sutton, of Coopersville, who has the case in charge, will empanel a jury, which will view the body this morning, after which the remains will be brought back to Toronto for burial. If the coroner's inquest can have their evidence in readiness, the inquest will go on tonight.

Provincial Inspector Boyd, of Toronto, and High Constable Broddy, of Brampton, have been working on the case since Friday afternoon, but so far have obtained no definite results. Yesterday they scoured the country between Streetsville and Milton in search of the two suspicious characters seen in Streetsville on the afternoon of the murder. They learned that men answering the description of the suspects had been seen, but have not yet succeeded in capturing either of them. Police officials and railway employees throughout the district have been warned to be on the lookout for suspicious characters.

TOOK POISON FOR LOVE

Former Toronto Man Commits Suicide in Michigan.

Windsor, Ont., June 12.—Basil C. Mason was found lying at his home, 64 Beresford avenue, Highland Park, Mich., a suburb of Detroit, early yesterday morning. He left a most affectionate letter, addressed to his mother, 672 Bathurst street, Toronto, in which he stated that he had deliberately taken his life as he had, through his unfounded jealousy, lost the love of his young wife, to whom he was passionately attached.

Coroner Bennett says that so far as he could learn, there was no ground for jealousy over his young wife. The wife is prostrated with grief. A bottle of pills was found in his room, and it is believed that Mason took some of them.

SENT TO GALLOWES

Guilty of Murdering Pole in the Wilds of Alberta.

Edmonton, Alta., June 12.—William Oscar King was found guilty of the murder of Joseph H. Hindahl, near Ponoka, in March, 1907, and sentenced to be hanged at Fort Saskatchewan on July 21. King was the only witness for the defence.

It appears that King coveted farms Hindahl owned at Ponoka and in Minnesota. According to Mrs. Parys, whom King claims as his wife, the two men left her house together, and Hindahl was never again seen alive.

Several articles of Hindahl's were subsequently traced to King, including a black team, which King sold a month after the tragedy.

Subsequently King, who was in trouble over the horse-stealing episode, took the police to a manure pile where the remains of the man were discovered. The police were then unable to fasten the charge on the prisoner, who was, however, convicted of horse-stealing. Mounted police then traced sufficient to justify the laying of the murder charge, which they have just pushed to a successful conclusion.

A feature of the case is the fact that the prisoner fastened the charge on himself. King was very jaunty at the early stages of the trial, grew more thoughtful as the case proceeded, but heard the sentence unmoved.

PAID UP HIS FINE

Jumped His Bond Eight Years Ago But Went Back.

Pittsburg, June 13.—Edward A. Kammerer, reputed to be wealthy, formerly a broker of this city, now residing in Toronto, Canada, who according to the authorities has been a fugitive from justice for over seven years, on charges of using the United States mails to defraud, appeared suddenly in the United States district court today and surrendered himself to the federal authorities.

Kammerer, according to the court records, was indicted by a federal grand jury in October, 1902. He was arrested and released on $1,500 bond. Pleading guilty to one of the counts in the indictment, Kammerer awaited sentence for some time, and then left for Canada. His bail was forfeited. Today Kammerer pleaded no defence in the other counts in the indictment and was fined $1,000, which he paid. Turning his forfeited bail and paying his fines, Kammerer turned over to the court $3,000 in gold.

Asked as to his present life, Kammerer told the court that he had made a fortune in the Canadian mining ventures, and stated that he with his wife and children were responsible for the discovery and early development of the Cobalt gold field in New Ontario.

KEEN ABOUT CANADA

Great Interest Shown by English, Says the Mayor of Montreal.

Montreal, June 13.—Mayor Guerin, who has returned from England, where he went to attend the funeral of King Edward, took up his duties as chief magistrate of the city Saturday. A little after noon he arrived at the city hall, and was warmly welcomed by the members of the board of control, and by civic officials. His worship is in the best of health.

"It is extremely pleasing to note the great interest that is being taken in England in everything that pertains to Canada," said the mayor. "The importance of this interest cannot be over-estimated. It means greatly enlarged commercial prosperity for our Dominion."

Continuing, the mayor said that in conversation with Lord Strathcona, he (his lordship) had strongly favored the appointment of the Duke of Connaught as the next governor-general of Canada. It was pleasing to know that his lordship's wish in this connection is to be carried out.

"I am glad to say the feeling seems in England in everything that pertains to Canada," said the mayor. "The importance of this interest cannot be over-estimated. It means greatly enlarged commercial prosperity for our Dominion."

The mayor said he was much impressed with the many courtesies that had been extended to him while in London.

How will people proceed to put a stop to it, if not lawful? ANSW.—Arrest the boy caught doing so, and take him before the police magistrate, who will order that he remain in safe custody until the next day or some other day, when he will hear the evidence, and fine the boy not less than $1 or more than $40—whatever with costs, and imprisonment in default of payment for a term not exceeding three months.

AVIATORS FINED.

Berlin, June 12.—A petition has been sent to the Reichstag by the German Aerial Engineers' Society for legislation to prevent aviators from being fined for flying over German cities.

For it has come out that the German police regulations prohibit such exploits. Last night a fined $27 for flying from the Tempelhof field to Johannisthal, and other operators have been similarly fished on landing.

The police attitude is that for aviat-

C. P. R. IS NOT BEING HELD UP IN EAST END

Looks as Though McCarty Property Will Be Secured by the Company.

A rumor to the effect that the C. P. R. improvements were held up owing to the failure of the company to obtain the McCarty property on Elias street does not appear to be founded on fact.

The McCarty property, comprising an acre of land, is located in the district where the company made considerable purchases of land, and while desirable, it is not essential to the scheme of improvements.

An agreement as to the price could not be reached, and Mr. McCarty, who lives in Columbus, Ohio, and his sister, of Chicago, in whose name the property is now deeded, came to the city to make an arrangement as to the cost.

The matter has not been taken up by the C. P. R. Railway as yet, but they will get together today.

"I do not think there will be a great deal of difficulty in arranging matters," said Mr. Arthur E. Houd, who is in charge of the negotiations. "I have been away for a few days, and have not had time to look into the matter closely as yet, but we will do so immediately. I do not anticipate any trouble, for I think the improvements will be held up."

QUOTERS' MEETING WILL BE HELD ON WEDNESDAY

When Entry Must Be Made for Summer Matches—If You Cannot Be There Mail Your Card.

Owing to the rainstorm on Saturday the quotters were unable to meet at the grounds on Horton street, as intended, to make arrangements for the summer contests.

The meeting will be held instead at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening at the grounds on Horton street, opposite the Traction station, when all those desiring to play must make their entry. Games will be played each Saturday till the end of August, and matches will commence on Saturday next.

The contests will be divided into two classes—A for the more experienced men, and B for the younger set.

It is possible that the tie for the championship, which has stood over from last summer, will be allowed to drop, as Calender, of Toronto, one of the contestants, has been unable to come to this city.

Those who are unable to attend the meeting may bring their entries to Dr. A. J. Wyckoff, so that he will have them on Thursday morning.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Review of Its Recent Gathering at Halifax—Great Meetings—Model Moderator.

[Special Correspondence of The Advertiser.]

Halifax, June 9.—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, which passed into history to-night, is admitted on all hands to have been the greatest since the union of the church in 1875. The moderator, Dr. Chas. Forest, principal of Dalhousie University, has proved himself a model moderator in every sense.

Though the principal does not pose as a church lawyer, his firmness, kindness, genial humor and sound common sense have enabled him to keep perfect order, and to pilot the house safely through some stormy waters. There has been no better moderator in the past history of the assembly. Great satisfaction has been expressed by the people of Halifax at the honor conferred on one of the most distinguished churchmen and educationists of the Maritime Provinces.

The two great meetings of the assembly were the home and foreign mission nights. The large assembly church was crowded to the doors, and so thrilling were the addresses of the missionaries that the whole audience remained until nearly 1 o'clock.

The greatest service of the church at this hour, especially in connection with home missions, is ministers and missionaries. Dr. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor), stated that unless more could be secured it looked as if 750 preaching stations in the great west would be without any service next winter. The church during the past year has raised no less than $250,000 for missionary, educational and benevolent purposes. For all purposes the magnificent sum of $4,000,000 was raised.

There were two great debates in the assembly: That on the relation of Queen's University to the church, and that on church union. It is no exaggeration to say that it was well worth while to travel all the way from London to Halifax to hear. The result in each case has already been given to your readers.

Rev. J. G. Inkster's Address.
On the Queen's question a very able speech was made by Rev. J. G. Inkster, of London, which was well received by the assembly.

"I speak against the separation of Queen's from the church," said Mr. Inkster. "With a great deal of diffidence, because of the regard I have for the opinion of those who are advocating it. Still in justice to myself and to the great church of which I am a member and of which Queen's University is a part, I must oppose the recommendation of the committee."

My chief reason for opposing the separation is because we are not told what is to become of Queen's when she is separated. How is she to be provided for? They have not said, and I think we have a right to know. We have a moral responsibility to this daughter of the church which we have brought into existence and nurtured all these years. Further, I do not believe it is fair to all the benefactors of Queen's, some of whom are alive and most of whom are dead, to hand over their benefactions to any state-aided institution.

"There are hundreds of Queen's graduates who through difference to the faculty are seeking for separation, and the commission who is recommending it are tacitly in favor of separation; but in their hearts they are silently anxious to see their beloved alma mater retain its connection with the Presbyterian Church of Canada."

"I was thrilled with enthusiasm the other day when I read that a denominational union had been suggested. States refused Rockefeller's money on the condition that she give up her denominational connection. I am hoping that the faculty will be as honest as the states, and will refuse any grant of money which imposes any similar conditions on Queen's University."

Other London Men.
Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae made capital speeches on the aged and infirm ministers' fund, and on the hymn committee's work in moving that the general assembly adopt the reports on these subjects.

Among those present from the London Presbytery were E. L. Pilgson, St. Thomas; Dr. McCrae, J. G. Inkster, J. Lindsay, Geo. Weir, John Currie, W. H. Geddes. The elders present were N. McAlpine, Ekfrid; J. A. McLachlan, Komoka; David Forbes, St. Thomas; J. Langford, Maple Grove; E. Charlton, Ilfracombe; C. K. Whitton, Rodney, and Jas. F. Dyer, London. All the delegates are taking a lively part in the proceedings.

Most Successful Convention.
Altogether the assembly has been

The report of Engineer Glaubitz on the Springbank pumping station is ready, and it will show that the city will save nearly $400 a month by using Niagara power at the station rather than coal and hydraulic power.

The cost of installing electricity will be little more than the improvements necessary to bring the plant up to a state of efficiency. The hydraulic pumps are in bad shape, and will shortly have to be replaced. In order to give them more power it would be necessary to expend a large sum of money to enlarge the flume, and also it would be necessary to increase the flow. This would mean more water, and a consequent backing up on the Saunby property and more trouble and much more expense.

A Big Saving.
Taking into consideration the cost of installing machinery, and the cost of operation, etc., the savings suggested by Engineer Glaubitz will mean a saving of $400 a month, and a much greater efficiency than at the present time.

The water commissioners will discuss the report at a meeting to be held on Tuesday, and it is more than likely that they will decide on the changes suggested by the consulting engineer.

It is more than probable it is said at the city hall that the last has been heard of the Saunby matter so far as the city proper is concerned.

Not Needed for Power.
While it would be of much advantage to have boating further up the river, but the cost is considered excessive, and since it is not needed to give power to the dam, the purchase will not be recommended.

Dredging the river will give a deep channel and furnish boating facilities for some time to come.

FIELD CROP FIGURES FOR THE DOMINION

Area Under Fall Wheat Is Put Down at Over Seven Hundred Thousand Acres.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, June 10.—The census and statistics office has today issued a report on the estimated area and condition of the principal field crops of Canada at the end of May, based on the reports of a large staff of correspondents.

The area under fall wheat is put down at 707,200 acres, which is 45,100 acres more than last year, and its per cent of a standard condition is given as 87.65, which is 5.50 higher than last year. Spring wheat is given an area of 587,600 acres, being 1,499,300 acres more than last year, and its condition is compared with the end of May last year is 91.49 to 92.15. Oats, which has an area of 9,864,100 acres, is 561,500 acres more than last year, and its condition at the end of May was 93.95, a year ago its condition was 92.32. The area of barley is 1,834,000 acres, or 30,500 acres less than last year, and its condition is reported at 92.94 compared with 91.49 last year. The rye crop continues to decrease, but its condition is about the same as a year ago. Peas with 283,100 acres is less than last year by 7,200 acres, and its condition is 93.01 as compared with 90.59 last year. The area of mixed grains is 575,700 acres, or 6,400 acres less than last year, and their condition at the end of May was 94.72 compared with 91.71 last year. The area in hay and clover is given as 8,354,400 acres, which is 365,100 acres more than last year, and the condition is 97.64, or 7.28 more than in 1909.

The area of all these field crops is reported at 30,000 to 34,000 acres, or 2,358,300 acres more than last year, and 4,951,050 acres more than in 1908. The largest increase has taken place in wheat, which has now reached 8,243,000 acres. In 1909 it was 7,530,400 acres, and in 1908 it was 6,610,200 acres, which is a gain in two years of 2,632,800 acres, or more than 40 per cent.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan increased their area in wheat from 2,495,466 acres in 1909 to 3,624,000 acres in 1908, and to 3,355,400 acres in 1910. In Saskatchewan alone the increase of this year over last year is 1,163,000 acres.

Ontario shows an increase in fall wheat from 581,100 to 609,200 acres, and in oats from 1,122,200 to 1,272,000 acres. In 1909 the area was 1,574,100 to 1,649,600 acres; Manitoba from 1,390,000 to 1,451,000 acres; Saskatchewan from 1,847,000 to 1,973,000 acres, and Alberta from 320,000 to 344,000 acres.

The condition of pastures is over 100 per cent in the Maritime Provinces and Quebec. It is 93.60 in Ontario, 89 in British Columbia, and around 80 in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Alfalfa is growing in favor in all the provinces, but especially in Ontario, where a large number of correspondents report upon the increased areas in this crop.

The effects of late frosts have been felt in many places, and injury has been done to fruits and tender vegetables in some localities, but generally the prevailing low temperatures of April and May have strengthened the field crops and have left them better able to withstand the attacks of night frosts, and reseeded and replanting have been less necessary than in former years.

VEZIN DEAD.
London, June 12.—Hermann Vezin, the actor and teacher of elocution, who was born in Philadelphia, March 12, 1839, died in this city this afternoon. He had been sick for 31 months, but the end, which was painless, was sudden and unexpected.

DON'T EAT TOO MUCH-- especially if time is limited—as in the case of businessmen, during the noon-day lunch.

But get all the nourishment your active brain needs.

Try a dish of crisp, appetizing and cream—eat slowly and note how the afternoon's work "slips away" when brain and nerves are properly fed.

This world-famed food is made of wheat and barley, and contains the phosphate of potash (grown in the grains) which Nature uses to repair brain and nerve waste.

Don't eat too much, but eat Grape-Nuts and chew them thoroughly.

It is interesting to note that His Honor D. C. Fraser, the lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia has been one of the most active elders in the assembly. His speech on union was one of the best heard during the debate.

CITY'S ROADS NO BETTER THAN 20 YEARS AGO

Dr. Ferguson Enters a Serious Complaint—No Regular Care of Roadways.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:
The roads in the outlying districts of London are a disgrace to the city. After a day's rain the streets in South London are mud halfway up to the hubs. An auto agent was canvassing me the other day. I told him that I had made a gift of an auto I could not use in my work on our back streets.

There must be something wrong in our methods of street construction and repairing. Cement sidewalks galore are laid where in bad weather the roadway is almost impassable. I am not a reckless driver by any means, but outside of mid-summer, there is scarcely a month in which I do not have a broken spring or other accident to my vehicles. I am obliged to walk at least one-fourth of the time on account of the state of the streets while my horse stands idle in the stable. No attempt seems to be made to regularly fill holes and ruts as they appear. A coat of gravel is spread on the road, and no further attention is paid to it until the gravel disappears, and then, perhaps, a fresh coat is dumped down again. Stones of all sizes are left to ruin horses' feet and limbs.

I am reluctant to appear in print as a complainant, but I have been driving on our streets now for twenty years, and as far as South London is concerned I know the roads are not one whit better now than they were twenty years ago. Is it not time to agitate for some improvement in this department of our civic administration? Yours truly, R. FERGUSON.

$400 A MONTH SAVING AT SPRINGBANK STATION

According to Engineer Glaubitz, Change to Electricity Will Mean Quite an Item.

The report of Engineer Glaubitz on the Springbank pumping station is ready, and it will show that the city will save nearly $400 a month by using Niagara power at the station rather than coal and hydraulic power.

The cost of installing electricity will be little more than the improvements necessary to bring the plant up to a state of efficiency. The hydraulic pumps are in bad shape, and will shortly have to be replaced. In order to give them more power it would be necessary to expend a large sum of money to enlarge the flume, and also it would be necessary to increase the flow. This would mean more water, and a consequent backing up on the Saunby property and more trouble and much more expense.

A Big Saving.
Taking into consideration the cost of installing machinery, and the cost of operation, etc., the savings suggested by Engineer Glaubitz will mean a saving of $400 a month, and a much greater efficiency than at the present time.

The water commissioners will discuss the report at a meeting to be held on Tuesday, and it is more than likely that they will decide on the changes suggested by the consulting engineer.

It is more than probable it is said at the city hall that the last has been heard of the Saunby matter so far as the city proper is concerned.

Not Needed for Power.
While it would be of much advantage to have boating further up the river, but the cost is considered excessive, and since it is not needed to give power to the dam, the purchase will not be recommended.

Dredging the river will give a deep channel and furnish boating facilities for some time to come.
