GENERAL SYNOD WAS OPENED WITH SOLEMN CEREMONY

Impressive Scene When Great Conference of the Church of England in Canada Was Inaugurated at St. Paul's Cathedral.

With all the impressiveness and solemnity of the Church of England service and religious forms and ceremony, the General Synod of the Canadian Church was opened in St. Paul's Cathedral this morning. At 11 o'clock the procession was held from Cronyn Hall to the cathedral, proceeded by the augmented choir in their white surplices. The lay delegates followed, after which came the various orders of the clergy, group by group.

First of all came the junior untitled clergy, 25 canons of the church, 30 archdeacons, the deans, 12 in number, the bishops of the different dioceses, the Archbishop of Ottawa, attended by his chaplains, and finally Bishop Matheson of Rupert's Land, Primate of Canada.

Primate of All Canada.

At the entrance of the cathedral, the lay processionists paused, and, opening out on either side, with the junior clergy, who followed them, formed a double line through which Archbishop Matheson, Primate of All Canada, entered with his chaplains. The service itself was deeply impressive. The prayers and lessons were read by the rector of the cathedral, Rev. Canon Tucker, assisted by the assistant rector, Rev. Mr. Doherty.

Bishop of Duluth.

The sermon was delivered by the Bishop of Duluth, who read for his text a few verses from the twenty-sixth chapter of Acts. "Paul understood that he was charged with a message of spiritual renewal for the souls of men," declared the bishop in his opening words. "He believed it was his work to preach the gospel of grace and life to those who were lost. During all his active career he tried to do this work. Paul never swerved from his apostolic mission.

"In the time of Paul, Corinth was infamous among the cities of a dying heathenism. It was notorious for vice, idolatry, uncleanness, debauchery and dishonesty. Here the apostle had done good work, and the little band of Christians who formed the church of Corinth stood, but in marked contrast to the wickedness of their city. But it was not the intensity of Paul's personal conviction, his self-denying life, nor the good, but rather his complete faith in the sufficiency of Christ.

RAILWAYMEN OF TUNNEL TOWN DIDN'T LEAVE KING'S MEETING

Story of G. T. R. Employees Filing Out Because of Dissatisfaction With Minister's Speech, Without Foundation.

The sensational story in the London Free Press this morning to the effect that 125 railwyamen left Hon. Mackenzie King's meeting at Sarnia on Tuesday evening because of alleged dissatisfaction with the Minister of Labor's speech, is without foundation. The Advertiser representative was there, and no such thing happened. However, just to show that the Free Press is absolutely wrong, a telegram from Mr. C. J. Cowley, a G. T. R. conductor, and former Londoner, confirms the opinion of The Advertiser representative. He says:

Sarnia, Sept. 6, 1911.

The Advertiser, London:

Report in morning's Free Press about dissatisfaction among railroad men at Hon. Mackenzie King's meeting Tuesday night is a falsehood. No railroad men filed cut. There were not many there, owing to rush of business at this terminal.

Grand Trunk Conductor.

BEAN INDUSTRY WILL REVIVE THROUGH WESTERN ONTARIO

Elliott & Co., the Ridgetown Dealers, On the Effect of Reciprocity—All That Is Needed Is a Larger Market —Letter to Londoner.

Mr. L. Carpenter, 22 Evergreen avenue this city, lived in Kent County during the old reciprocity treaty, and witnessed the beneficent results of that legislation. The bean-growers of the county continued to thrive on the American market until it was virtually closed to them by a tariff of 45 cents a bushel. Mr. Carpenter says he noticed recently a statement in an anti-reciprocity newspaper to the effect that the imports of beans into Canada from the United States were much greater than the exports of Canadian beans to the United States, the inference being that the Canadian market was ample and that the American growers would get a larger share of it under reciprocity. He wrote to Elliott & Co., of Ridgetown, a firm of bean dealers on a large scale, established in 1877, and received the following reply:

Ridgetown, Ont., Sept. 2, 1911.

L. Carpenter, Esq., London, Ont.:

Dear Sir,—Replying to your letter of 31st ult., regarding the bean situation in Canada. It is quite true that for the past two years, Canada has not produced enough beans to supply the home trade, according to the trade returns, but it does not necessarily follow that we are not able to produce enough, and several millions of bushels to spare for export.

Under the wise administration of the Liberal party, we have been importing more bean eaters than we grow beans to feed at the present time.

The reason of this is that our mar-

SEVERAL MILES OF ST. RAILWAY COMING TO PEOPLE OF LONDON

As Soon as Census Figures Are Announced the People of the North End Will Be Heard From—How the Agreement Figures Out.

The publication of the census returns in October will settle how much track allowance the city is entitled to from the London Street Railway Company.

When the South street line was constructed, the population for street railway purposes was fixed at 39,000. Since then the Ridout street line, approximately one mile and a quarter, has been built. Allowing 2,000 population for each mile, according to the agreement, this would bring the population for street railway purposes up to 41,500.

The difference between that number and the population of the city as given in the census will give the amount of track allowance the city is entitled to.

If the population is 48,000, the city will be entitled to a mile for every 7,000 people in excess of 41,500, or three miles. If 50,000, the city will obtain four miles of street railway lines.

A North End Service.

This will be sufficient to give needed extensions throughout the city. There is need of service in the north and east sections of the city. Both are developing very fast, and many citizens now have to walk a long distance to get cars.

A number of the residents in the north end favor a loop or belt line running from Richmond up Oxford to Adelaide, thence north to Grosvenor or Victoria, and then to Richmond. This would necessitate the removal of the Wellington street line to Richmond Of course, there is much objection to that, the residents of Wellington street particularly objecting.

This matter has been up before, of course, but no agreement could be arrived at, and it was allowed to drop.

The city council was then in no position to make demands of the company without paying for the taking of a special census. After the census the city council will be in a position to lay out the route, and compel the company to live up to its agreement with the city.

There will also be a demand for a service from the district north of Dundas and east of Adelaide. A considerable section has grown up there, and no car lines tap it. Some provision will undoubtedly have to be made for that.

Horton Street.

The double-tracking of Horton street is another matter dependent on the census. For some time the company have been desirous of putting two tracks on that street, but as in the other cases, no agreement could be arrived at. The company wanted to be allowed mileage, and the city council would not agree to that.

The census returns will be published within a short time, and then it will be up to the council to take some definite action.

HOME FOR OLD BOYS DIED IN WINNIPEG

Mr. George Betts a Former Londoner Passed Away Very Suddenly

LEFT HERE A WEEK AGO

It Is Likely That the Body Will be Brought to This City For Burial.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 6 — George Betts, who had just returned from attending the Old Boys' reunion in London, Ont., died today on entering his home. He settled in London when 21, but came here 29 years ago. Mr. Betts was superintendent of the Imperial Oil Company here for twenty years, retiring two years ago. His brother Harry lives in London.

The sad news of Mr. Betts' sudden death came as a great shock to his friends and relatives in this city. It was only a week ago Tuesday morning that he and his wife left this city on their return to Winnipeg. They had been spending a couple of weeks in London, coming here to attend the Old Boys' reunion. Mr. Betts was not feeling well when he arrived in the city, but thought that the change would do him good. He was not seriously ill, and went about as usual.

After leaving here last Tuesday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Betts spent a day at Niagara Falls, and also visited Toronto Exhibition, leaving for Winnipeg on Thursday. The particulars of Mr. Betts' sudden death are not clearly known, but according to the telegram received by Mr. Henry Betts, of this city, he died just after entering his own home on his arrival in Winnipeg.

The late George Betts is survived by a wife, three sons and three daughters, all of whom reside in Winnipeg. The sons are Messrs. George, Thomas and Charles, and the daughters are Grace, Susie and Alberta. Mr. Henry Betts, 110 Wharncliffe road south, is a brother, while Mrs. Abranam Murcott, Beaconsfield avenue, Mrs. Harry Raison, Prospect avenue, Mrs. James Payne, East Jordan, Mich., are sisters-in-law, and Mr. Henry Stead, of Westminster, and Mr. Joshua Stead, of Thamesville, are brothers-in-law. The deceased left London thirty years ago to go to Winnipeg in the interests of the Imperial Oil Company, being made superintendent of their branch in Winnipeg, a position he held until two years ago, when he retired. Had he lived, he would have been married forty years this fall. It is not definitely known where the funeral will be held, but it is likely the remains will be brought to London for burial.

Alex. Gibbs, aged 55 years, of No. 71 Front street, is in Victoria Hospital in a serious condition as a result of falling downstairs at his home last night. Mr. Gibbs missed his footing and fell about 15 feet, and when picked up it was found that he had fractured his left thigh and two ribs, besides sustaining severe internal injuries. It is expected that he will recover. Dr. Teasdall is attending him.

HIS HEAD CUT OFF BY SHUNTING CARS

Hamilton Man Instantly Killed Upon Returning From Exhibition.

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 6. — Oswald S. Gage, Main street east, was killed at midnight at the G. T. R. station just after returning from the Toronto exhibition. Between the station platform and the exhibition train, crowded with passengers, stood a line of freight cars. Gage and his brother started to step behind these, when the cars were suddenly shunted. Oswald Gage was knocked down and his head completely cut off. His brother was also struck, but thrown clear of the tracks, and other people had narrow escapes. There were a large number of eye-witnesses to the accident. Coroner McNichol has ordered an inquest.

Striking Hands With The Haters of England

The extent of the conspiracy between Messrs. Borden and Bourassa goes beyond anything that had been at first suspected. Can any honorable Conservative in Ontario any longer countenance the abomination that is coming gradually to the light of day?

Yesterday Mr. Bourassa publicly appeared on the Conservative platform at Hull. He spoke in behalf of the Conservative candidate, and expressed his preference for Mr. Borden's attitude on the naval question, contrasted with that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Conservative candidate, Mr. Cousineau, pledged himself to uphold Mr. Monk's naval issue—i.e., not a cent for the maritime defence of the Empire.

Bourassa's Boast.

Mr. Bourassa's paper, Le Devoir, said in its issue of Saturday, Sept. 2:

"Now, the majority of these (Nationalist and Conservative) candidates have taken a formal engagement TO OPPOSE THE CONTRIBUTION OF DREADNOUGHTS TO THE MOTHER COUNTRY, as well as the continuance of the naval policy of Mr. Laurier. Mr. Fauteux has made this declaration in Two Mountains County, and Mr. Achim has made it in Labelle. They are not the only ones. A SCORE AT LEAST OF OPPOSITION CANDIDATES have followed this example, among others Messrs. Pickel and Davidson, two Englishmen.

"These gentlemen, once deputies at Ottawa, WILL HAVE TO KEEP THEIR WORD."

As Mr. Borden appeared on the platform of both Mr. Pickel and Mr. Davidson and supported them, he as good as indorsed their pledge against giving any help whatever to the mother country. Le Devoir goes on to argue also even supposing Mr. Borden should be returned to power with the help of the Nationalist agitation, and should wish them to turn round again and propose an imperialistic programme, he would not be able to effect anything that English Conservatives have set their hearts on, as the pledged Nationalists and Quebec Conservatives would desert him and oppose his measure. Thus the alliance with Nationalism submerges the Quebec wing of Mr. Borden's party in disloyalty, and the whole party and he with it become Nationalist on the navy question.

Beland's Noble Utterance.

With the tergiversation and trickery of Mr. Borden, contrast the straightforward and consistent programme of the Liberal party both English and French. The following extract from the speech of Dr. Beland, the new postmaster-general at Three Rivers, will show the British-born and the native-born alike which party champions truly British connection:

"I say that the day when England's supremacy is menaced on the sea, the privileges of the Province of Quebec are menaced. I say that the day when England is in danger, the Province of Quebec will be in danger. When England is menaced, who will refuse to serve that England which confers such benefits upon us? I desire that we be loyal to England. With Bourassa you will have before fifty years discord reigning between the races over the whole country."

BORDEN CANDIDATE AT HULL AGREES TO FOLLOW MR. MONK

Bourassa Speaks for Conservative Nominee for Two Hours in Denunciation of Navy Policy—Hands Ultimatum to Opposition Leader.

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—Mr. Henri Bourassa came as near to Ontario as he could this evening, when he spoke in the rink at Hull to an audience of some 5,000 people, composed chiefly of the people of Hull, who had come to hear his arguments as regards the navy, and some two thousand from Ottawa, who were attracted by curiosity. It was a very peculiar meeting. The bulk of the audience wanted to hear Mr. E. B. Devlin, the late member and the present Liberal candidate, but although it had been agreed that Mr. Devlin should have a chance to reply, when he went to the meeting he was refused that privilege on the ground that it was a meeting called by Mr. Cousineau on behalf of Mr. Bourassa, and not a joint affair.

Crowd for Devlin.

The announcement of this decision, when made by Mayor Archambault, who is himself a Conservative, was greeted with cries of "cowards," and the refusal to allow Mr. Devlin to speak operated in that gentleman's favor. There was not much that was new in Mr. Bourassa's speech. He laid stress upon the alleged fact that while the Government had millions to expend upon second-hand warships, it had not a cent for the families of the victims of the Quebec Bridge disaster. He recanted what he had previously said in favor of reciprocity, declaring, with C. H. Cahan, the Montreal corporation lawyer (who spoke afterwards in English) by his side, that the home market was the better market, and that the chief interest of Canada was the building up of Canada.

The general opinion of those who heard the speech was that it was an ultimatum to Mr. R. L. Borden that his chance depended solely upon the aid of the Nationalists of Quebec, and a warning that if he should happen to win he would have to mold his policy to suit the views of the Bourassa party.

Mr. Bourassa's speech lasted nearly two hours, practically all of it being devoted to the navy. He spoke on the same lines at St. Hyacinthe and other places, denouncing Laurier and his imperialism, describing him as a renegade to his principles, and asking support of Louis Cousineau, Conservative candidate in Wright County, who, he said, had signed an agreement to be a follower of Mr. Monk.

The gathering, while orderly on the whole, was not without its disturbances, no less than a dozen persons being ejected by the police for interrupting.

A TREMENDOUS CROWD WILL HEAR SIR WILFRID IN LONDON

The announcement that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would speak in London on Friday night has been received with the greatest satisfaction on all sides.

Preparations are being made for a great demonstration, and from present indications the welcome to the Canadian Premier will be the greatest ever tendered a political leader in this city.

A large number of chairs are being obtained, and every effort will be made to seat the large crowd which will undoubtedly attend the gathering.

There will be a large number present from outside constituencies, St. Thomas is going to send a big contingent, while the Middlesexes and the Lambtons will also be largely represented.

The committee is at present engaged in working out the details, and further announcement will be made later regarding the demonstration.

FARMER DIES AFTER GIVING SKIN TO SAVE HIS BROTHER

William Coward, of Usborne Township, With Forty Others, Contributed Cuticle, After George Coward Had Been Terribly Wounded by Stallion—Death Results Suddenly in a Few Days.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Exeter, Sept. 6.—Several weeks after he had given cuticle from his arm in order that a terrible wound inflicted on his brother by an enraged stallion might be healed, William Coward, of Usborne Township, died early Tuesday morning at his home, a few miles from Exeter.

Several weeks ago George Coward entered the stall of a stallion which he owns and attempted to put a halter on it. The animal, which had ordinarily been easy to handle, grabbed his right arm at the elbow with its teeth, and with a wrench, stripped the flesh off the arm to the palm of Coward's hand.

Coward retained his presence of mind, and was able to back out of the stall and close the door in the face of the maddened beast.

He was immediately attended by Drs. Hyman and McGillicuddy, and they at once recognized the necessity of grafting skin upon the arm in order to check blood-poisoning and to insure George Coward's recovery.

Many Give Skin.

His neighbors in Usborne Township responded to the appeal made, and from the arms of about forty of them a small patch of cuticle was taken. His brother William was among those who contributed, and ever since that time he had not been in good health.

The arm of George Coward began to heal at once, and at the present time there is a probability that the wound will heal completely.

The condition of William Coward became critical Monday evening, and after the family had a late supper he lapsed into unconsciousness. Physicians were summoned, but by the time they arrived, he had expired.

It is reported that his death was directly a result of the part he played in attempting to save the life of his brother.

LOCAL GROCERS SAY LIVING WILL BE CHEAPER UNDER PACT

Early Fruits and Vegetables Will Come to London Workman at a Reasonable Price Long Before the Homegrown Article Is On the Market.

Every man's corner grocery can tell him of a number of benefits that reciprocity has for the workingman.

To The Advertiser this morning one of the prominent retailers stated that from his standpoint he could see nothing else than benefits for the consumer as a result of reciprocity.

"The people of London are just beginning to realize that the agreement means a big reduction in many of the lines that they purchase during the year," he said.

"Many of the early fruits and vegetables are practically beyond the reach of most people at the present time," he continued. "For months before our season has begun, we will be able to secure potatoes, tomatoes, berries, and many kinds of fruits at reasonable rates. We shall be eating many of the delicacies at moderate prices long before our own season opens. At the present time the duty on early potatoes, berries, tomatoes, etc., is such as to make these foods out of the reach of most people in the early season. In the early season there are all kinds of importable vegetables, such as cabbage, parsnips, etc., that will come to the stores in quantities. By the time our vegetables are ready the importation from the United States will about cease.

Duty on Oysters.

"At the present time thousands of dollars are handed out by consumers annually in this city because of the 25 per cent. duty on oysters that will be saved to the consumer as soon as the agreement is in force. It will mean that 60-cent oysters, the very best quality, will be sold to the London consumer for 45 cents a quart. These things will count up into the thousands of dollars.

"I cannot see the least chance of anything sold in a grocery store advancing. The consumer, insofar as his dinner table is concerned, has everything to gain and nothing to lose through the greement.

"I believe that canned goods would be 25 per cent. cheaper in this country with a little competition, and I think the Americans will give us a taste of it, although the prices of the raw goods won't be reduced to the farmer. The canners will have to sell at more reasonable prices."

Favors the Agreement.

One of London's prominent wholesale grocers is strongly in favor of the agreement. He thinks that the larger market will benefit all lines of trade, and does not see that it carries a threat of harm to any industry. He believes that the workingman of London will benefit and live more cheaply than he has for many years.

SYNOD DELEGATES WILL NOT BE ENTERTAINED BY THE CITY

Prospects of a Ride About the City Did Not Hold Forth Such Allurements as to Cause Committee to Jump at It.

The general synod will not be entertained by the city. There is a difference of opinion as to the nature of the entertainment that should be provided, and, as a result, the whole affair has been called off.

The reception committee discussed the matter on Tuesday, and it was decided to invite the delegates to a sight-seeing tour.

Mayor Beattie was named to broach the matter to the local committee in charge, and he did so.

The idea of a ride about the city did not strike them very favorably, and, as a result, the whole question was left in abeyance.

There was a proposition to give a banquet to the visitors, but the funds available for the purposes of entertainment would not permit of such an expenditure.

As a result, there will be no entertainment. Mayor Beattie will go to the synod and make a speech, but that will be all.

Money is Lacking.

"As a matter of fact, the city of London has not enough money for the purposes of entertaining visitors," said Mayor Beattie. "According to the municipal act, we are limited to $1,000 a year. That amount had been expended before the synod came here, and we have nothing left, or practically nothing. We should be given more money to entertain. Personally I was not in favor of a ride about the city, but as it cannot be arranged, the whole matter will be let drop."

It is rumored that the local committee are not enthusiastic over the arrangements made by the city council, and are expressing their disapproval in no uncertain way.

NEW MARINE ENGINE.

London, Aug. 6. — New developments with regard to the employment of oil engines for marine work are now proceeding apace and the next six or twelve months may possibly open out a new era in marine propulsion. The admiralty has ordered a 6,000-horsepower Diezel engine, which is to be placed in existing twin-screw cruisers in substitution for one set steam engines. The Times says it has not often occurred in the previous history of shipping that such important changes were on the verge of fulfilment.

DAMAGING DAY FOR BEATTIE

Prosecution Piles Up Evidence Against Virginian.

TRIAL ENDS THURSDAY

All Testimony In in Sensational Virginian Wife-Murder Case.

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Sept. 5.—All evidence in the case for and against Henry Clay Beattie, jun., is now in. On Thursday morning at 9 o'clock the lawyers will begin the summing up and before the adjournment of court on that day the jury will have retired to determine the final issue of life and death.

The completion of the testimony came suddenly at 6:20 o'clock this afternoon with Henry Owen, a brother of the woman who was murdered, the last witness for the prosecution, in rebuttal, on the stand. His taking the stand was the final surprise launched at Beattie's defence by Louis O. Wendenburg, the commonwealth's prosecutor. After he had denied the story of Henry Beattie that to the end his wife and he had never exchanged a cross word, Wendenburg announced that the prosecution had rested its rebuttal. The defence had no further rebuttal to make and the ten days of evidence-taking were thus brought apruptly to an end.

Bad for Defence.

This final day in the prosecution's effort to bring Henry Beattie to punishment for the crime of wife-murder was quite the most disastrous of all that had passed over his head. No great sensation was sprung, but bit by bit the story that the prisoner had himself told on the stand yesterday, and that favorable witnesses had sought to substantiate for him was torn down by an overwhelming weight of evidence in rebuttal. The final question that had been propounded to Beattie when he resumed the stand for a few minutes this morning to have his cross-examination completed remains unanswered and above all other questions at issue the most fraught with significance. It was:

"How did the gun bought by Paul Beattie three days before the murder happen to be in the hands of the man who shot your wife, and how do you account for the fact that in every detail of the shooting it is always the gun bought by Paul Beattie that is in evidence?"

To this question Beattie's answer was: "I cannot account for that."

By constant reiteration Henry Beattie sought to establish the fact both in his direct and cross-examination of Monday that on the certain Thursday night when Paul says Henry met him with his machine and requested him to buy a second-hand gun, he had not seen his cousin Paul, and did not go to the several places where Paul in his evidence has said they went. Henry Beattie made a flat and positive denial of his cousin's story in this respect even though Wendenburg gave him the hint that there would be plenty of witnesses to rebut him.

Terrible Itching Got Little Sleep

Mr. T. Williams, Winnipeg.

Until Cuticura Remedies Cured Him

Those who have suffered long and hopelessly from torturing skin eruptions will read with interest this letter from Mr. T. Williams, 115 Pacific Ave., Winnipeg (dated Jan. 14, 1911): "The Cuticura Remedies certainly did work finely, and I am thankful that there is such a remedy, and that I tried it. About three months ago a terrible itching commenced on my body. I could not understand it. It gradually grew worse and covered a large portion of my body. There was also a slight eruption of the skin, sort of a rash. I suffered greatly with the itching and at night time I had little sleep. I tried one or two remedies which did no good, and then I tried Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent. In about ten days I was completely cured."

For more than a generation the Cuticura Remedies have afforded the speediest and most economical treatment for itching, burning, scaly and bleeding skin and scalp humors, of young and old. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, with 32-p. book on the care of the skin and treatment of its affections, send a postal to the Potter Drug & Chem. # HAULTAIN STILL SUPPORTS AGREEMENT

But for Personal Reasons He Will Support Mr. Lake at Qu'Appelle.

Regina, Sept. 5.—Great interest is being shown in the speech to be delivered by Hon. Fred W. G. Haultain, leader of the Saskatchewan Conservatives, to be delivered at Francis tonight, on behalf of R. S. Lake, the Conservative member for Qu'Appelle.

"It is not my intention to make any material change in the position I took up on reciprocity in the legislative chambers," said Mr. Haultain in an interview. "I do not consider reciprocity the paramount issue of the general election.

"Mr. Lake is a personal friend of mine, but apart from our friendship he appeals to me as the right man to represent the constituency at Ottawa. There are other issues besides reciprocity, and some of them, in my mind, as important."

In view of Mr. Haultain's uncompromising attitude towards anti-reciprocity, and the many current suggestions on the part of his opponents and friends alike that a change of front from him might be expected, his statement is important. It is generally expected that Tuesday's speech may contain certain qualifications and modifications resultant on the plethora of discussion which has arisen since the House rose. But in view of the statement now made, as it appears, it would seem that the Opposition leader remains steadfast to the main principles of his now historical declaration.

MR. JUSTICE CLUTE FOR HIGH COURT

His Lordship Will Preside at a Session To Be Held Here October 2.

ACTION OVER A FARM

London Township Case Is the First Entered in the Office of Edmund Weld.

The first case set down for trial at the session of the high court of justice, which commences here before Mr. Justice Clute on Oct. 2, was registered this morning in the office of Mr. Edmund Weld. It is to go before a jury.

Just where the court will be held is uncertain, as the court house is now undergoing extensive alterations and the court room will not be ready for use for some months.

It is thought, however, that the council chamber in the county buildings will be made use of.

Action Over a Farm.

The plaintiff and defendant in the case set down today are Joseph Pittaway, a carpenter, of this city, and Anthony Barry, an Ingersoll laborer. According to the statement of the plaintiff, the defendant purchased from him a farm of five acres, on the third concession of the Township of London, agreeing to pay a total of $2,300 for the place. Under the agreement he was to pay over $250 at the time of sale and $50 every six months thereafter, the total amount, with five per cent interest, to be paid up within five years. It was stipulated, however, that if the purchaser failed to keep within the agreement the ownership would revert to the plaintiff.

Asks Possession.

Pittaway now asks for possession of the property, a declaration that he is the rightful owner, and that Barry has forfeited all claim to the place, also an injunction to restrain Barry from selling, leasing or otherwise dealing with the five acres in question.

The defendant alleges that the plaintiff has refused to discharge a second mortgage, as demanded, and that on Nov. 15, 1910, the plaintiff forcibly took possession of the property. The counter action is, therefore, for $404.70, liquidated damages, and for $500 damages for loss of revenue since losing possession. W. C. Fitzgerald for the plaintiff and J. W. G. Winnett for the defendant.

COLLECTED THE FUNDS AND MADE NO RETURNS

East End Man Faced a Serious Charge in Police Court.

Clarence Thayer, of 787 Lorne avenue, was arrested yesterday by Detective Down on a charge of stealing $23 from Frank Dark, formerly electrical engineer for the city.

It is stated that Thayer collected the money and did not turn it in, and that there are other amounts that he has also collected, and that more charges are pending against him.

E. W. Scatcherd appeared for him this morning, and asked for an adjournment for a week. This was granted, and Thayer was bailed in the sum of $500.

"There seems to be an epidemic of this sort of thing," said the magistrate. "It seems as if a lot of people didn't know the difference between their employers' money and their own. I don't know what we are going to do about it.

PRISONER ATTACKED OTHER MEN IN CELLS

P. C. Ewen and Another Man Had Trouble Overpowering a Drunk at Police Station.

John N. Kipp, of 9 Rathgar street, ran amuck in the cells at the police station about 2 o'clock this morning and attacked P. C. Alex. Ewen, John Dorner, of Rectory street, who was sleeping on a bench, and John Woven, an Ire prisoner.

Dorner has a deep gash in his forehead an inch and a half across, as a result of being struck, and his shirt was nearly torn off his back.

Woven stated that Kipp struck him and tried to kick him in the abdomen.

P. C. Ewen was also struck several times before he, with the assistance of Woven, overpowered Kipp and locked him in a separate cell.

Kipp is a giant, standing about 6 feet 2, and is built in proportion.

Woven told the court that Dorner was round asleep when Kipp struck him in the head. Kipp is on the Indian list, but when asked about it this morning swore that he never received the notice that Inspector Galpin swore he sent him last November.

The inspector produced his book showing the registration of the letter.

P. C. Ewen swore that Kipp said Tuesday night when he was brought in that he was on the list. Chief Williams said that as a result of complaints of fights at Kipp's house officers had had to be asked to go there.

"I think," said Magistrate Judd, "that I can't believe one word you say. If these men didn't have the marks on them I suppose you would swear you were never in a fight. I think you should have been charged with assault and wounding instead of common assault, and then I could have sent you down. As it is I am going to fine you $10 or 21 days."

THE FOUNDATION FOR NEW FALL STYLES

The Corset nowadays is a most important factor in developing the present day fashions. It is necessary to have the right foundation if you expect your garment to be built on modern lines. The new fall "KABO" models are built on scientific lines intended to develop every new detail in the lines of fashion. The big woman, too, has been carefully studied, and even the largest models are made to look comfortable if corseted with the right corset, the purpose of which is to improve and not to be felt except for agreeable support. She must not look as though she were held in a vice. The excellent shaping of "KABO" CORSETS has accomplished wonders for the stout figure! Who ever heard until lately of a large and active woman actually finding herself more comfortable in corsets than out of them, even while about her household duties? Yet that is the case nowadays if the large woman has become a wearer of the "KABO" Model, Style 5009, provided also that the corset is properly fitted and not too tight.

BROKE HIS WIFE'S JAW GIVEN MONTH IN JAIL

Thomas Murray, of Pottersburg, Sentenced by Judge Macbeth.

Thomas Murray, the Pottersburg man who was arrested three weeks ago, charged with burning his own home and with assaulting his wife and breaking her jaw in three places, was this morning sentenced to one month in jail, at the expiration of which time he will be compelled to give two sureties, of $200 each, to keep the peace.

A week ago Judge Macbeth found the prisoner not guilty of the arson charge on the ground that a man can do what he likes with his own place. However, he was found guilty on the assault count and has since been awaiting sentence.

"I consider that you got off very lucky," the judge told Murray after passing sentence.

However, if he does not secure the necessary sureties he may spend Christmas with Governor Carter.

A CHARGE OF FORGERY AGAINST HAMILTON MAN

B. H. Dixon, Aged 31, Taken in Custody by Local Police.

B. H. Dixon, aged 31, of Hamilton, was arrested this morning by Detectives Egelton and Downs on a charge of forgery, which has been preferred against him by a Hamilton firm.

Dixon was engaged in getting some parcels from the express people when the detectives saw him, and at once took him to the station.

The local police were notified last night to keep a close watch for him. Dixon will be taken back to Hamilton at once.

Want Ornamental Lights.

Over 50 per cent of the property-owners on Richmond street north have signed the petition for the extension of the ornamental street lighting system to that district. Quite a number of owners are out of the city at the present time, and some difficulty is found in reaching them. However, Chairman Pocock is confident that there will be sufficient names to the petition to allow the commissioners to commence the work of construction early in the spring.

REV. FATHER HANLY FOR THE NEW CHURCH

Roman Catholics Will Soon Have Edifice in North End.

It is expected that preparations for the construction of a new Roman Catholic Church in the north end of the city will be commenced shortly, and if present plans are carried out Rev. Father Hanlon, of Lucan, will undertake the work.

The church has been in possession of a lot on Victoria street for some time, and it is possible that this will be utilized for the new structure in the early spring.

A census of the Catholic families in the north end is to be taken shortly, and from this the boundaries of the new parish will be obtained.

It is understood that Bishop Fallon has adopted a plan of constructing more churches of comparatively insignificant cost instead of centralizing the congregations for very elaborate edifices.

SEVENTEEN APPEALS WERE ENTERED AGAINST NAMES

Thirteen Cases Were Heard Today, Nine Were Dismissed —Four Yet To Be Heard.

At the session of the court of appeal on the registrations, held this morning at the court house, seventeen appeals were entered. The Liberals appealed against nine names being added, while the Conservatives appealed against eight.

Of these cases thirteen were heard. In four cases judgment was reserved.

In the other nine the appeals were not allowed.

Four cases remain to be disposed of, and they, together with the four on which judgment was reserved, will come up tomorrow.

The court is composed of Judge Macbeth (chairman), Judge Elliott and Mr. R. K. Cowan.

Death of Mrs. Emery.

Mrs. Eleanor Emery, wife of the late Arthur Emery, of the Ontario Loan and Debenture Company, died at her home, 95 Ridout street, Tuesday night, after an illness extending over some time. Her husband died only a few weeks ago. Mrs. Emery was 82 years old. She leaves one son Edward, of Edmonton, and one daughter, Miss Eleanor, at home. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery.

MONEY WAS RETURNED POLICE CASE DROPPED

William Howard Charged With Stealing $5 From Burley Robinson.

A queer tale about a missing $5 bill was told before Magistrate Judd in court today, when William Howard, of 615 Richmond street, was charged with stealing $5 from Burley Robinson, of Clarence street.

In the box Robinson told of asking Howard, whom he didn't know, to change a bill for him at the Walper House on the night of Aug. 19.

Robinson swore that he gave the bill to Howard, and that Howard left to try to get another man to change it.

The other man couldn't, and Howard then said that Robinson made a mistake, as he hadn't given him any bill.

Robinson swore most positively that he had given Howard the bill.

The surprise in the case came when Mr. E. C. Scatcherd called Fred Tutty, a clothing salesman. Tutty said that Robinson gave him the bill, and asked him to go and get it changed. He went over to the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, and got a newsboy to change it.

When he went back Robinson wasn't there, and he waited around a few minutes and then went home.

To Mr. McKillop witness said that he was on the Indian list, but hadn't been drinking. A man named Brazell Fox, he admitted, was around.

Robinson in the box said that the day the case was up in court last, after he had gone to the traction station to get a car, two men, one of whom was Fox, came up and said he was wanted at Mr. McEvoy's office, and that they had his $5. He went with them to the office and one of them, not Fox, counted out $5 and gave it to Mr. McEvoy, who gave it to him.

"This is a most peculiar case" said Magistrate Judd. "I am satisfied that if Robinson had not taken police court proceedings he would never have seen his $5 again. Under the circumstances I don't see how I can find Howard guilty when the other man says he took the money. If it were Tutty who were charged I might find him guilty. I want to warn these men that I look upon this as a very shady piece of busines, and if they ever come up again I will deal with them severely."

William Higby Ill.

Mr. Wm. Higby, for over forty years t hack-driver in London, is very ill at his home, 492 Ridout street, and fears are entertained for his recovery. Mr. Higby is very well known in this district, having driven a stage from Woodstock to London in the days of the pioneers.

Mr. Edward and Miss Sophie Fishbein, of East London, have returned after attending the gathering of deaf mutes held at Denfield on Labor Day.

To Enlarge School.

The board of education will shortly consider the advisability of enlarging the Empress avenue and Victoria schools. At the present time both are overcrowded, and some provision will have to be made to find room for the scholars. Victoria school is particularly crowded in spite of the fact that an extra room has been opened up in Wortley road school.

Hand Injured.

Archie Ashford, aged 25, of 610 Colborne street, foreman in the biscuit department at McCormick's, had two fingers of his left hand cut off at the first joint this afternoon, when he got them under the knife of a new biscuit-cutting machine. He was taken to Victoria Hospital, where Dr. Belton dressed the injury.

Indians Returning.

CITY HALL SALE NOT DEALT WITH

A'd. Tancock Wrote That He Found It Impossible To Attend the Council Meeting.

MOTION WAS LAID OVER

Engineer Glaubitz Criticized by Ald. Cooper Because of the Condition of Victoria Park.

No action was taken in regard to the sale of the city hall at last night's council meeting. Ald. Tancock wrote the mayor stating that it was impossible for him to be present at the meeting, and requested that his notice of motion for the reconsideration of the matter be left over until the next meeting. This was agreed to.

Engineer Glaubitz will be asked to report at once why certain lights that the council asked to be placed months ago have not yet been put up.

Ald. Eckert said he thought the city should have some check on the matter, as it was paying for lights apparently and not getting them.

Ald. Wilson agreed with this.

"Mr. Glaubitz has certainly got to make amends," said Ald. Cooper, warmly, "or he is going to get into trouble. He is getting our park in the same condition that he left the city streets in, and he is not going to leave it that way. He is not going to make a fool of things just as he pleases."

A Garbage System.

Ald. Morgan moved, and Ald. Saunders seconded it, that a report be obtained at once in regard to installing a garbage system for London.

Ald. Eckert said the citizens should be given a chance to vote at the next election on the question, and he was sure it would carry.

Ald. Morgan's motion carried.

Bylaws for the construction of the following local improvements will be prepared at once: Sheet asphalt pavements with cement curbs and gutters on Waterloo, Colborne and Maitland streets, between Queen's avenue and King, and on Queen's avenue, from Maitland street to Adelaide.

Tile sewers recommended by the board of health will be built on Simcoe street, from Burwell to Maitland, and on Waterloo street, from Simcoe to Horton.

Cement walks will be put down on north Caroline street, west Argyle street, and west Adelaide street.

Increase Sent Back.

A recommendation from No. 3 committee, that the watering cart teamsters' application for an increase of $2 a week be granted, was referred back. Ald. Saunders thought that it would cause trouble with the contractors if the city men are raised and their men are not. Ald. Cooper said he wanted to know why boys were driving the carts. He said in some instances as a result of boys being employed the work is not being done right. It was decided to get more information before the increase is granted.

It was decided to send Chief Aitken only as delegate to the Fire Chiefs' convention, and not both the chief and Ald. Wilson, as No. 2 committee recommended.

Ald. Wilson stated that he would not go to the convention, as it was against his policy to do so.

The council will ask the London street railway to pay $25 for a length of hose ruined by a street car running over it in West London.

It was decided to have repairs made at once to the public comfort station on the market.

No Earth for Street Railway.

A recommendation from No. 2 committee, that the application of the London street railway for earth from the sewage farm to be used for filling at Woodland Cemetery, be referred to the council, was not dealt with, as it was decided to refer the matter back to No. 2 committee.

Ald. Morgan opposed the granting of the request strongly, on the ground that Manager King had stated to him positively that the street railway would not allow the city to build a driveway along the river at Woodland.

"The street railway," he said, "has a pin-head of a man running it. I would not give him $2 50 a year."

Sent Back.

A recommendation of No. 2 committee, that the Charity Organization be removed to the room south of the council chamber, that No. 2 committee hold its meetings in the north room, that the water commissioners be allowed the use of the general committee room, and that the water commissioners be given permission to alter the offices downstairs by moving out the counter to the centre of the arcade according to plan submitted, provided such alteration do not conflict with the injunction now issued against the city, was referred back.

BEATTIE CONFIDENT JURY WILL ACQUIT

The Alleged Millionaire Wife-Slayer Expects To Be Home Sunday.

[Canadian Press.]

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Sept. 6.—"I expect to be home Sunday. I feel that my story has impressed the jury and believe they will give me a square deal."

This was the confident remark of Henry Clay Beattie, jun., indicted for the murder of his wife, as he sat in his cell here today gazing in retrospect at the eleven days' of evidence-taking, which was brought to a close last night.

Uneasiness or nervousness were not visible in his countenance or manner. He possessed the same outward calm that has characterized him either in the prisoners' bar as he heard witness after witness testify against him or in the witness chair when he himself recited in a matter of fact way the story of his association with Beulah Binford, and the alleged brutal attack of the highwayman which caused the death of his wife of a year.

Takes It Coolly.

The courthouse and its pastoral vicinity were clothed in peaceful quiet today. The twelve men in whose minds is locked the secret of Beattie's fate, rose as usual with the break of day and after breakfast in the tiny hotel here, strolled on the green. They now have heard all the evidence and it remains only for counsel of both sides to knit together the relevancy of the various testimony into consistent argument. Upon the argument, it is generally conceded much will depend, as the defence expects to make its strongest plea on the dangers of accepting circumstantial evidence.

The prosecution's main broadsides will be delivered along the same lines as characterized its rigid cross-examination of the prisoner, and will centre about the one question: "How did the same gun which Paul Beattie bought for his cousin Henry on Saturday, July 15, come to be in the hands of the alleged highwayman on Midlothian Turnpike on the night of Tuesday July 18?"

MISREPRESENTING SIR GEORGE ROSS.

The Free Press is angry at the exposure of its method of selection from Sir George Ross' utterances on trade. His articles of last September were directed against a treaty, not against an agreement, as indeed the Free Press practically admits by quoting today his own words:

"Should we TAKE THE RISK of a treaty, by no means urgent, which is liable to be misrepresented, as the Washington treaty was, and so disturb the friendly feeling now happily existing between Canada and the United States?"

The capitals belong to the Free Press, and it is amusing that it does not capitalize "of a treaty."

Our local contemporary quotes only the negative side of Sir George's pronouncement. We quoted yesterday and now quote again his positive conclusion, though our contemporary charges us, rather absurdly, in view of yesterday's article which was almost nothing but quotation, being strong in that, with being afraid to quote him! Here are Sir George's words, more important certainly and more pertinent as his positive advice than his warnings against a binding treaty:

"Their's (the Americans') is the first move on the commercial chessboard. We gave Great Britain a preference without any treaty or even negotiations; why should we treat the Americans with greater formality. At the same time, let us receive their representatives with the utmost courtesy. They have proposals to make, we want to know what they are. They should be made as openly as if they were submitted to Parliament. Public opinion should be heard upon them, and there the matter should rest until the United States Congress had given its sanction and approval to the action of its representatives. It would then be the duty of the Parliament to take similar action if in the public interest so to do. Only in this way can we preserve perfect freedom from the possible entanglements of a treaty which, no matter how carefully drafted, is liable to be misunderstood and misinterpreted. "An adjustment of the trade relations between the two countries by the independent legislation of both rather than by treaty is the only safe course, as it affords publicity in the first instance and admits of perfect freedom of action thereafter."

Note particularly the last part, from "only in this way," i. e., by an agreement and joint or "similar" legislation.

To repeat the line of this advice has been exactly followed by the Laurier Government, and consequently not a word of criticism has come from Sir George Ross on the pact which Messrs. Fielding and Paterson concluded. We defy the Free Press to quote this language and prove that the course of the Laurier Government has been other than that suggested by Sir George.

The Free Press is angry that The Advertiser has published what it concealed. The epithet of "Munchausen" would have come indeed with better grace from almost any paper in Canada than the one which falsified and has refused to correct the lumber schedules, misrepresented the relation of the pact and of the two parties to the tariff on agricultural implements, published the shameful car shops canard, and the other day gave false figures on the fruit duties which fruit men called upon it to correct, but which it refused to do.

The Free Press has no conscience about all these black untruths, but yet it is not in mere impudence that it throws a stone from its crystal abode. It is really angry. It has sucked away at that Ross candystick day after day as happy as a 10-year-old. Such happiness was hardly worth disturbing, but now that The Advertiser considers that Buster has had enough for his good and takes away the comforter, the little fellow sets up a howl of childish fury, kicks up a dust in his tantrums and calls his kind corrector names. Any name, however ludicrously inappropriate, serves. But Munchausen! from the Free Press!

A LAND BOOM COMING.

One of the results that are bound to come from reciprocity is an increase of farm land values. In Wayne County, Mich., within two or three miles of the city of Detroit, farm land is worth $200 an acre. In Essex County, even nearer to the wholesale houses of Detroit, farm land is worth only $50 to $60 an acre. Why? Because the Essex farmer has not the larger market which reciprocity is going to give him.

An Indiana syndicate has been buying up farms in Essex and Kent Counties, because of their cheapness. The Indiana farmer has the "Larger Markets" and farm land there is dear. Buying in Essex and Kent, which will soon get at those "Larger Markets," is a good speculation for the Americans. Reciprocity means a great boom for land values in Essex, Kent, Lambton, Elgin, Middlesex, Huron, Perth, Oxford and all these Western Ontario counties. That will be a good thing for London. What will it not mean to the splendid rural population of the garden of Ontario?

Mr. Sifton made the singular assertion that reciprocity would cause a heavy drop in Canadian land values, particularly in the West. What nonsense! Anybody knows of the superior fertility of Canadian prairie land; best of all do the farmers of exhausted lands in Minnesota and Dakota know it, and they are up in arms against the pact. The Toronto Globe prints today a fac-simile of an announcement as it appeared on Aug. 29 in the window of the Canadian Pacific Railway's land department in Seattle. It reads:

RECIPROCITY
Will Increase Canada Lands 100 Per Cent.
Can. Pac. Ry
Land Dept.

The C. P. R., which has been represented by anti-reciprocity journals as fearing the pact, thus proposes to make money by it on land sales, and promises profits to others. Mr. Sifton talked politics; with the C. P. R. business is business. Both west and east, farm land values will boom as a result of the benefits from the operation of reciprocal trade.

LOWELL KNEW THE TRIBE.

In Lowell's Bigelow Papers, written over 60 years ago, there are many well-known passages which have a universal application to politics and politicians of a certain stamp. Lowell's satire flayed for all time the meanness, time-serving, and self-serving which sully the politics of democracy as well as of oligarchy or tyranny, though in less degree. It is almost unnecessary to name the Herrons, the Germans, the Armstrongs, Fosters, Northrups, etc., to whom the following lines apply no less than to the immediate objects of Lowell's scorn. Any of these gentry may be easily imagined (apart from the dialect) to say to you in confidence:

"A merciful Providence fashioned us holler,
O' purpose that we might our principles swaller."

"I don't believe in principle,
But O, I do in interest."

"I do believe in bein' this
Or that, as it may happen
One way or t'other handiest is
To ketch the people nappin';
It ain't by principles nor men
My prudent course is steadied,
I scent which pays the best, an' then
Go into it baldheaded."

"I ain't a Whig, I ain't a Tory,
I'm just a candidate, in short."

This last is particularly the speeches of Messrs. Herron and German. It ought to be blazoned on their campaign banners as a summary of their policy. How well every one of the extracts suits Mr. Borden and his shifting on the navy question!

Beattie, Borden, and Bourassa.

McEvoy and a square deal for the mother country.

On Sept. 21 thousands of Conservatives will find themselves rejoicing in a Laurier victory for the first time.

Mr. Bourassa has spoken for and against the reciprocity agreement. He grows more like his Ontario allies every day.

Asquith, Lloyd George, Birrell, Morley and Buxton, rulers of the mother country, favor the reciprocity pact. Traitors all!

Is it not a relief to turn from the ceaseless snarlings of anti-reciprocity journals to the cheerful pages irradiated by the sunny smile of Laurier?

The supporters of reciprocity are going to gloat on election night. The mendacity and calumny of the anti-reciprocity campaign will make victory the sweeter.

The C. P. R. advertises that its western lands will increase 100 per cent. in value under reciprocity. Every acre of land in Western Ontario will be worth more, too.

Mr. Beattie opposed the British preference and follows a leader who follows Bourassa in his anti-British campaign. Mr. Beattie is, however, very loyal with his lips.

Oliver Wilcox, the Conservative candidate in North Essex, confesses that reciprocity will carry the country. Mr. Wilcox shows more shrewdness in this than in his opposition to the pact.

Evidently there has been a further development of the deal between Borden and Bourassa. The latter now agrees to oppose reciprocity, in return for the countenance lent by Borden to the anti-British crusade.

"A vote for me will not matter, as you will get reciprocity anyway," is the naive appeal of Mr. Wilcox in North Essex. This invitation to the electors to throw their votes away is one of the comicalities of the campaign.

If the agreement were in effect a treaty, why was the United States constitution careful to guard a treaty but not an agreement by the two-thirds clause? If the Free Press cannot answer that question it might ask Mr. McEvoy, who knows something about constitutional history as well as economics.

The Conservative party sweats blood. It loses some of the best blood in the country in the desertions of National Policy farmers, cattle men, and fruit-growers every day. They are still Conservative, but they will not stay with the party machine in its insane policy. It will take the party a long time to get over the cupping which Mr. Borden is administering.

The United States sold us last year more than twice what we sold them. The balance in their favor was $165,732,000. The Mail and Empire says that the balance against us under the pact will be "at least $250,000,000 a year, because of the influx of American natural products." It would be interesting to know how the Mail and Empire figures that out. Let it compare notes and tables with the agricultural journals in the United States, which figure out that things will be going just the opposite way, all in our favor.

A MATTER OF PARTY.

[Vancouver Sunset.]

Reciprocity, some hold, will hand the British Columbia fruit grower a blow at the point in his girth where the ribs cease to be a protection. Free apples is the punch in the solar olexus that he is supposed to shrink from. To tell the honest truth about it, whether he shrinks or not depends on whether he is Grit or Tory. The Tory fruit grower is shrinking because he is told to shrink by Borden and McBride, and fears, or pretends to fear the blow. The Liberal fruit grower is not afraid, and will vote for reciprocity and his party without fearing that he is voting against his pocket.

VIEWING WITH ALARM.

[Chicago Daily News.]

Is ours, then, a more mighty race
Since it became a flighty race?
Yes, yes, no doubt.
Still every shred and follicle
Of language that's symbolical
For Vulcans and for Venuses
By these invertive geniuses
Is put to rout.

The lover's case is dolorous,
And (if the cops con't collar us)
We'll tell you why
The maid when he is gone on her,
And it's begun to dawn on her,
Will bid him be more loverlike
And fly to her and hover like
A foolish fly.

To love a maid and fly to her
And drop out of the sky to her
Takes skill and grit.
The old-time lover had a clinch—
He "flew" on horseback at a pinch,
Or else he "flew" by merely stalking
Across lots, and by rapid walking
He made a hit.

TAFT PLAYS FAIR.

[Guelph Mercury.]

It was not necessary that Mr. Sifton, in order to proclaim his views on reciprocity, should join in the abuse heaped on the devoted head of President Taft. This is pure demagogery on his part. Mr. Taft has always been friendly to Canada, in which he has frequently spent his summer vacations. When he was secretary of the war department at Washington he stood by Canada in conceding to her a fair share of the hydro-electric energy obtainable from Niagara Falls. He has gone out of his way to disavow in the most explicit terms any motive to alter our political relation with the United States. No Canadian statesman, free from conceit, would have declined this declaimer.

Northrup's Right-About-Face

The tribe of anti-Liberal politicians recently committee to reciprocity increases daily. In each riding a little research finds out some candidate or leader or editor who is now contradicting and stultifying himself.

Scratch an anti-reciprocity spouter and you will find a person who was condemning the Liberal Government because it did not get reciprocity in natural products. Mr. Sifton, also, the noble convert, is shown up by the letter of Mr. Whellams, of St. Paul, as a pervert. He spoke strongly in 1903 in favor of just such reciprocity as the agreement proposes.

The year after that, Mr. Borden made his now famous admission that "reciprocity with the United States would not interfere with Canada's self-government." In 1909 Dr. Sproule condemned the Government because it had not secured what Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper failed to secure. Last December Mr. Foster wrote in the University Magazine, his article favoring an identical tariff as a starter, and then something more of freer trade between Canada and the United States, the very principle of the pact. Mr. Armstrong, of East Lambton, was speaking at the same time to his constituents in favor of reciprocity. And so on.

It has been contended that Mr. Northrup, of East Hastings, also spoke in the House of Commons to the same effect. The Toronto News contends to the contrary, quoting from his speech just so much as suits its view. The following extracts show more fully Mr. Northrup's position as he developed it in his speech last Nov. 29.

"I have seen a great deal of discussion in the press, in the Reform newspapers especially, on the subject of reciprocity, and I have heard a great deal said about it in this House. I naturally looked to the speech from the throne expecting that there would be in it some reference to the subject of reciprocity, but from the first word to the last I challenge my right honorable friend to find one sentence, one word, or one syllable that refers to reciprocity. The nearest approach to it is this very clause, winding up with the statement: 'While no conclusions have been reached, and no formal proposals made, the free discussion of the subject that has taken place encourages my Government to hope that at an early day, without any sacrifice of Canada's interests, an arrangement may be made which will admit many of the products of the Dominion into the United States on satisfactory terms.'

"Why, of course, we would hold up both hands for that. But does any one suppose for a moment that our American friends, the shrewdest, keenest, businessmen in the world, came to Canada merely to discuss measures by which the products of Canada would be admitted into the United States on satisfactory terms to Canada? Did it ever enter the minds of the right honorable gentleman or his colleagues that perhaps the Americans might like some of their goods to enter Canada on satisfactory terms to them?"

"Everybody will hold up both hands for any arrangement to enable us to sell our goods on satisfactory terms to us in the United States, but whether or not we shall agree to let their GOODS in here is another story. PERHAPS I AM NOT ALTOGETHER IN ACCORD WITH SOME OF MY FRIENDS ON MY OWN SIDE WITH REGARD TO THESE RECIPROCITY NEGOTIATIONS, but I quite agree with the honorable gentleman (Mr. McGiverin), who moved the address in reply to the speech from the throne, that if the Americans wish to make us propositions, IT WOULD BE THE HEIGHT OF FOLLY ON OUR PART NOT TO CONSIDER ANY PROPOSITIONS THEY MAKE. I THINK THE GOVERNMENT WOULD DESERVE TO BE REPRIMANDED BY THE PEOPLE OF CANADA, IF PROPOSITIONS HAVING BEEN MADE BY THE UNITED STATES FOR IMPROVED TRADE RELATIONS, THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT SHOULD DECLINE TO CONSIDER THEM. But is it not fair that we should be informed of what is the basis on which these negotiations shall be carried on? We on this side of the House are a little anxious as to the attitude in which the Premier and his colleagues shall approach the American representatives. IT MAY BE THAT HE IS PREPARED TO ENTER INTO NEGOTIATIONS WITH THE AMERICANS in regard to improved trade arrangements (as they would call them) THE BASIS BEING COMMERCIAL UNION, UNRESTRICTED RECIPROCITY OR FREE TRADE." (The speaker then went on to another topic.)

In denying that Mr. Northrup had spoken favorably to reciprocity, the Toronto News printed that part of the foregoing remarks from "Why, of course, we would hold up both hands" to "perhaps the Americans might like some of their goods to enter Canada on satisfactory terms to them." But when the whole passage is considered, it is plain that Mr. Northrup was in favor of free trade in natural products alone, which, however, he did not dream that Laurier would be able to obtain, but feared or thought it good politics to fear, Canadian concessions in the tariff on manufactured articles. Notice that in the very passage which the News excerpts, Mr. Northrup does not say "the Americans would like some of their products to enter Canada," but "some of their goods"; and a moment later, he again prefers this word "goods." He spoke as a Conservative of the Macdonald-Tupper school.

Particularly at the close of his above remarks on trade, he shows very clearly that he would welcome a purely reciprocal arrangement in natural products, but fears or pretends to fear a much more sweeping proposition, a "basis" of "arrangement" too wide. If he does not declare himself here in favor of the pact later concluded, what meaning is there at all in his talk of favoring some "arrangement" that would admit Canadian farm products into the United States on satisfactory terms? He and his crowd now denounce what they call the "interlocking" of our tariff with the American, that is, any "arrangement" whatever. They profess now to believe that without any pact Canada would have secured a free admission of her natural products into the United States, and that any way we do not need any change in things as they are; the pact is so "unnecessary," "let well enough alone." But what Mr. Northrup said on Nov. 29, 1910, was in distinct contradiction to all this; he pronounced himself in favor of an "arrangement," either pact or treaty, and the whole tenor of his remarks means reciprocity in natural products.

Why else does he make such an ado about the word reciprocity in his opening sentences, and then at the end recur to the question of the "basis" of negotiations? The meaning of this bluster is that while he favored a purely reciprocal arrangement in natural products, he professed to fear commercial union involving manufactures and everything. Mr. Northrup has to line up with the Conservatives who like the Toronto News itself have executed a right-about-face on the reciprocity issue.

The Conservative argument in the Canadian election seems to be that the people are not strong-minded enough to be trusted with closer relations with the United States, and are likely to yield weakly to the temptations that may accompany association with outsiders. ## Liberal Candidate in East Middlesex Spoke at Welburn Last Night.

RECIPROCITY IS POPULAR

Speakers Pointed Out the Advantages For the Farmer Under the Proposed Agreement.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Wellburn, Sept. 5. — The campaign waged by Dr. G. A. Routledge throughout East Middlesex is gaining strength daily, and tonight a very enthusiastic meeting here enhanced his chances a great deal.

There was a fine attendance, and all listened attentively to the explanation of reciprocity by Dr. Routledge and Mr. Jared Vining. Although a considerable proportion of the audience was made up of Conservatives, they followed the arguments closely, and many declared that they intended in this campaign to vote for their own interests.

Mr. James Henderson acted as chairman of the meeting, and in a brief speech expressed his conviction that reciprocity was the best thing possible for the farmers.

Dr. Routledge's Address.

Dr. Routledge spoke first. He explained the pact very clearly, clearing away the misconception that it was a treaty. The statement had been judiciously disseminated that the pact was in the form of a treaty, and would run for a term of years. This was not the case, as it could be terminated at a moment's notice by either party to the agreement. There was nothing whatever binding upon either party. As to its benefits, they were very palpable. An open market of 90,000,000 people was something worth considering, and there was no question whatever but that the farmer would obtain better prices for his produce under the agreement. This was particularly true of horses, beans and barley. All three were highly profitable to the farmer, but the high tariff now existing between the two countries cut down their profits greatly. With free trade, there should be a very large and very profitable trade developed between Canada and the United States in these matters.

Test the Agreement.

Mr. Vining pointed out that no harm could come to the farmers if they gave this agreement a test. The fact that it could be terminated at any time made it possible for the farmer to test it. If it were beneficial, it could be continued. If it did not work out to his advantage, it could be abrogated. Another opportunity would not come in the lifetime of any present at the meeting. It was for them to say now what they would do with reciprocity.

Mr. Vining went into the details of the pact, and by a comparative statement of the markets showed that the advantages were all in favor of the Canadian farmer.

The meeting concluded with hearty cheers for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Dr. Routledge and reciprocity.

$60 AND COSTS

Local Hotelman Fined for Breaking Liquor Laws.

At this morning's session of the police court George H. O'Neil, proprietor of the Tecumseh House, was fined $60 and costs as a result of being found guilty of a second offence of selling liquor during prohibited hours.

James McIntyre, a drunk, who came up yesterday and was let go, was fined $20 or 21 days, when he came up again today. He wanted to pay the fine, but the magistrate said he would raise it to $50 if McIntyre was going to do that. McIntyre decided to go down.

A man who was charged with being drunk was remanded until Monday next. It is alleged that he is implicated in the theft of some butter on the market.

Walter Kelly, an Indian lister, appeared with a badly cut face and his hand tied up. He was fined $10 or 15 days, and took the days.

YORKSHIREMAN SWIMS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

Wm. Burgess First to Cross Since Webb Succeeded In 1875.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Sept. 6—William Burgess, a Yorkshireman, today successfully swam the English Channel from Dover to Calais.

Burgess' success today in swimming the English Channel followed nine plucky but unsuccessful attempts to negotiate the narrow span of water between the French and English coasts.

Numerous attempts have been made to swim the channel since 1875, when Capt. Matthew Webb swam from Dover to Calais in 21 hours and 45 minutes, but no one has been able to duplicate Capt. Webb's feat until today.

Burgess made his first trial for the honor on Sept. 6, 1904, but gave up after a struggle of about 15 hours. The next day he started again, but after covering 22 miles in about 9 hours, was forced to abandon his attempt because of a gale. In his successive tries Burgess each time was forced to abandon the attempt when the goal was almost within his grasp.

The channel between Dover and Cape Grisnez is only 20 miles wide, but the tide through the straits is very strong, and swimmers are obliged to cross at a wide angle.

TALKING THE MATTER OVER WITH THE TROUBLESOME BOY

(By Cynthia Grey.)

Experiences of others in bringing up their boys have so greatly aided me in bringing up my own, that, perhaps, a way which helped me through a trying period with one of my sons may, in its turn, be of use.

Although for years I had tried to instill good manners as well as morals, there came a time when one of the boys seemed to forget everything I had been at such pains to teach. He positively ignored the rights of others, and developed little tricks of manner which, while not serious, were exceedingly annoying.

It is a delicate matter to keep calling attention to failings in a big boy of 16, and I found our good fellowship was becoming seriously strained.

A simple plan suggested itself—I gave up all fault-finding except on one day of the month. On that day we had a good talk and got over it.

This cleared the atmosphere, sullenness disappeared. I did not feel duty neglected, yet could stop what had become nagging, and the one serious talk proved far more effectual than constant protests.

A TIME TO MEDITATE.

After many years' experience with boys, and not a few with girls, my observation has been that instead of whipping or scolding or shaking a child or slapping it, a very effectual way of punishing is to give the little culprit time to meditate on his sins. In almost every home there is a room secluded enough from the rest for quiet, and into this place the youngster should be sent to "think on his sins."

Do not say a word to him except that you will allow him to stay there by himself to think about what has happened. Never use a dark closet for this purpose, and do not talk or even look angrily at the little thing. The best room for this purpose is one without any furniture other than a little chair, for the idea is to take away all occupation and objects to rest the eyes on. In almost every case the child comes out of the quiet, bare little room humble and penitent. It is hard to be shut away from companions, and what whipping and scolding could not accomplish is done by the silence and loneliness. It also saves the time and temper and strength of the busy mother to allow the child to meditate instead of punishing for every naughty act.—Harper's Bazar.

Latest Fashions

The Touch of Black.

The "touch of black" so prevalent in the fashions of the day, is now a feature of the new furnishings.

The effect is startling, but in some cases quite pleasing.

Some of the wallpapers with flowers on a black background are delightful, but as they are expensive they cannot be within the reach of all.

People who do not go in for black wallpapers or cretonnes or carpets contrive to get touches of black in some other ways.

Black iron stair-rods, for instance, instead of brass ones, look very well against crimson stair carpets.

The demand for old Black lacquer furniture has sent the prices soaring up.

Old black Wedgewood teapots are being taken out of china cabinets by people who are lucky enough to possess them, and made useful as well as ornamental once again.

Peasant Nightgowns.

The "peasant" nightgowns, which fall in lovely, molding lines over arm and shoulder, are so attractive that one hopes the style will continue in favor indefinitely. The whole top of the nightgown is cut from one piece of lace of allover embroidery, and this seamless top is joined to the nainsook gown under a ribbon beading of rich China or Irish insertions. There is more and more tendency to use real laces on underwear, and Irish crochet, especially, is seen on the flimsy garments that come from Paris. Such lace will outwear the cobwebby garments of batiste, mull or nainsook on which it is placed, but it is always worth while to rip out handsome lace from half-worn garments and use it a second time.

Children's Headwear.

The assortment of children's headwear is so varied this fall that the showrooms look more like millinery shops, says the Dry Goods Economist. Hats of all descriptions—beaver, velvet, plush and satin—are to be found in many excellent styles. These are usually simply trimmed with a wing or smart ribbon bow. Fancy bonnets of satin, velvet, soft beaver and other fabrics, in many new shapes, are also to be found in the lines. Matching headwear and coats are being featured by several of the houses, and are meeting with great success.

Corsets for Fall.

Of the new season's corsets, flexibility is the keynote, says the Dry Goods Economist. No mater what the grade, a certain degree of flexibility is essential. The corset skirt is still long although in medium grade goods there is a tendency to shorten in back and front. Low-bust models, supplemented by brassieres, are in great demand. Brassiere styles have become remarkable in point of variety. There is every assurance that the new season will see a large increase in the sales of this now indispensable adjunct.

Feather Fancies.

One wonders how long and how wide ostrich feathers are likely to grow. The fashionable shops of Paris are showing a most wonderful selection. Gigantic feather butterflies of tropical colors fringed with aigrets are a novelty.

In ostrich plumes some are of vivid pink, fringed with black or smoke grey, many of them show three shades of color.

TIMELY RECIPES

Olive Oil Pickles.

Cover four quarts of sliced cucumbers with boiling hot water and when cold drain and cover with a weak brine. Let stand over night. In the morning drain. Then add:

One-half teaspoonful cloves, one-half teaspoonful allspice, one-half teaspoonful celery seed, two teaspoonfuls cinnamon, one-half cupful olive oil, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful mustard seed, one dozen onions.

Cold vinegar enough to cover thoroughly. Mix well and can.—Mrs. M. J. Murray, St. Ignace.

Pickled Pears.

Pears pickled make a good relish to serve with roasted fowls during the winter months. For eight pounds of fruit use four pounds of brown sugar, one quart of vinegar and one cupful of mixed spices. For the spices use stick cinnamon and the buds of allspice, and the whole cloves, using more of the cinnamon and less of the cloves. Let the vinegar come to a boil with the sugar and spices in it before adding the pears. When the pears are tender can them at once.—Miss Stella Chambers, Mackinac.

Eggs Stuffed With Sardines.

Boil fresh eggs twenty minutes, then plunge into cold water; shell and cut into halves crosswise. Press the yolks out into a bowl, taking care not to break the whites and keeping the two halves of each egg together. Mash the yolks with a silver fork and season lightly with salt and pepper. Drain the oil from some sardines, remove the tails and bones, mash, add to the yolks, mix thoroughly, then refill the white and skewer with Japanese wooden toothpicks.

This egg filling may be varied by using boiled ham, minced fine, seasoned with pepper and a bit of made mustard in place of the sardines, or minced tongue, olives, fine chopped chow-chow, capers or minced mushrooms.

The Timid Lover

The most ardent and the most sincere man is often very shy when he is falling in love. Sometimes when he knows he is going to meet his sweetheart, and has made up his mind to propose, he will be on the point of running away just as he reaches the house! If a girl has already guessed that the man she has been going with has made up his mind to propose (and girls have a wonderful way of knowing this), she will run out to meet him so that he cannot go away before the happy words have left his lips.

There is no harm at all in a girl judiciously helping a shy lover, providing she does not let him see that she is putting in her thin, but deft and dainty little shaft with which to help him out. The shy lover wants encouragement; he will be diffident, perhaps, even in asking a girl to go for a walk with him. But if he hints at such a thing, shy and awkwardly though he may do it, a girl can let him see that she is ready enough to go without endangering her womanly reserve or modesty.

The shy wooer likes to be thanked for what he does; if the girl fails in verbal thanks he will at once think that his efforts to please her have failed—failed dismally, and he may take her silence so much to heart that he may never pluck up courage to further his attentions; a girl should remember this and act accordingly.

The shy lover, too, may be a long time plucking up courage to make a present to the girl of his choice. He may possibly be afraid that he might give her something she did not like, and that she would laugh at him. It is easy enough when she is at a shop window and remarks on those things which take her fancy. It is such a natural thing to do. If the man is bent on buying her some little gift he will carefully note what she says appeals to her and exercise his choice accordingly.

TO THE HOME DRESSMAKER.

For the at home dressmaker there are no pins so handy as the home-made "red heads." They are made in the following way:

Take a package of No. 8 needles, melt a little red sealing-wax and dip the head ends of the needle in and shape the lump of wax so as to form a fair-sized head, and stick them on a cushion to harden. They are excellent to pin work or patterns in place, and are so much sharper than the ordinary pins, also longer. They are thinner, too, and do not leave such large holes in the finer materials.

These are used by Southern women, and the idea is original with them. Many people who sew a great deal make up two or three papers of needles at a time, but they last well, and do not seem to get lost or have the natural depravity credited to the every-day pin.

THE SEVENTH NOON

BY FREDERICK ORIN BARTLETT,
Author of "The Web of the Golden Spider."

He took a quick, sharp breath at the word. It was like plunging a knife into his own heart to stand before her and say that.

"One day in the laboratory," he struggled on, "Barstow told me of a poison which would not kill until the end of seven days. Because I was not—the best kind of fighter—I—stole it and swallowed it. That was a week ago. I am here now only because the poison didn't work."

"You—you tried to kill yourself?" she cried in amazement.

"Yes," he answered unflinchingly, "I tried to quit. There were many things I wanted—cheap, trivial things, and at the time I didn't see my course clear to getting them in any other way. The other things—the things worth while were around me all the time, but I couldn't see them."

He paused. She drew away from him. "So you see I did not do bravely. I wanted you to know this from the first, but there didn't seem to be any way. I didn't want to stand before you as a liar—as a hypocrite, and yet I didn't want to balk myself in the little good I found myself able to do. That silence was part of the penalty. I left you yesterday without telling, for the same reason. That and one other: because I did not want you to think me a coward when death might cut off all opportunity for ever proving otherwise."

Again he paused, hoping against a dead hope. But she stood there, cringing away from him, her frightened lips dumb.

"That is all," he concluded. "Now I will go. But don't you see that I had to intrude long enough to tell you this? I stand absolutely honest before you. There isn't a lie in me. Now I am going to work."

He made an odd-looking picture as he stood there, Haggard, hot-eyed, with a touch of color about his unshaven cheeks—he was like a victorious general at the end of a hard week's campaign.

He turned away from her and went out of the room. At the foot of the stairs he passed Dr. Spruce Arsdale and the nurse. He turned back.

The dog came scrambling over the smooth floor with a joyous yelp. He picked him up and passing out the door went down the street. The few remaining dollars he had left burned in his pocket. He tossed them into the first sewer. He was now free—free to begin clean-handed.

A little farther along he came to a gang of men at work upon the excavation for a new house. He needed money for food and a night's lodging. He went to the foreman.

"Want an extra hand?"

"Wot th' devil ye're givin' us?"

"I'm in earnest. I haven't a cent. I need work. Try me."

The burly foreman looked him over with a grin. Then, as though he saw a good joke in it, he gave him a shovel and sent him into the cellar.

Donaldson removed his coat, and rolling up his sleeves took his place beside the others. Sandy found a comfortable nest in the discarded garment and settled down contentedly.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

The Seventh Noon.

When Arsdale, with the nurse at his heels, rushed upstairs, he found his sister before the mirror combing her hair. There was nothing hysterical about her, but her white calmness in itself was ominous.

"What is it, Elaine?" he panted. "Has Donaldson gone mad?"

"No," she answered, "I should say that he is quite sane now."

"But what the deuce was the trouble with him? He looked as though he had lost his senses."

"Perhaps he has just found them."

The nurse interrupted him, in an aside:

"I wouldn't agitate her further." To the girl she said: "Don't you think you had better lie down for a little, Miss Arsdale?"

"Please don't worry about me," she replied calmly. "I am going to change my dress, and then I shall come downstairs. I wish you would go to Marie—both of you! It is she who needs attention."

"But——" broke in Arsdale.

"There's a good boy. Do what you can to make her comfortable. I will join you in a few minutes."

Uncomprehending, Arsdale reluctantly led the way out. She closed the door behind them and turned to the mirror again.

"Well," demanded her reflection, "what are you going to do now?"

"Do? I shall go on as I have always done."

"Shall you?"

"Why not? There is Ben. Perhaps we shall go out into the country to live—perhaps we shall travel."

"Shall you?"

"That is certainly the sensible thing to do."

"Shall you?"

She smoothed back the hair from her throbbing temples.

"He looked very much in need of help," suggested the mirror.

"Who?"

"Peter Donaldson."

"Oh," gasped Elaine, "why did he do it? Why did he do it?"

The mirror recognized the question as one which every woman has asked at least once in her lifetime. But somehow this did not swerve her from her insistence.

"You must judge him from what you yourself have seen of him," the mirror harped back to Donaldson's own words. "He acted bravely before me—before Ben. He did do bravely," cried the girl.

"And yet below these—is he had a craven heart?" hinted she of the mirror.

"No. No. It isn't possible! I—I—it's impossible."

"But he admitted the dreadful thing he tried to do."

"That was the folly of the moment. He has grown through it. He asked no mercy—asked no pardon. Didn't you see the expression upon his haggard face as he left the room?"

"Were you looking?" queried she of the mirror in surprise. "Your eyes were away from him."

"But one couldn't help but see that!" The woman in the mirror found herself suddenly put upon the defensive.

"Where has he gone?" cried the girl. "What is he going to do now?"

"Will he do bravely whatever lies before him?"

"Yes. He will! He will!"

"How do you know?"

"I know. That is enough."

"Then why do you not call him back?"

The girl's cheeks grew scarlet.

"The shame of what I told him yesterday."

"Was it not a bit brave of him to turn away from you?"

"He should have explained to me at that time why he was going. He needed me then."

INEXPENSIVE HOUSE FROCKS.

Many of the reduced summer materials would make charming indoor frocks for the winter.

Made at home, they should cost very little.

Then, too, the batiste and lawn fichus, frills, collars and jabots so fashionable now offer a pretty and inexpensive manner of trimming.

The half-made box frocks of embroidered batiste and cotton fabric are far from costly, and not difficult to make up.

Cotton voiles, bordered chiffons, organdies and nets, plain and printed, come under the head of suitable materials for indoor winter frocks.

It is an excellent as well as an economical plan to have one good, well-fitting princess slip of messaline or silk and wear the sheer frocks over it. It gives quite an air to the most inexpensive material to wear it over a slip of this sort.

In the summer silk departments there are still richer bargains to glean.

Some of these silks should make up into quite charming bridge and reception gowns.

WASHING THE SWEATER.

About this time the snowy white sweater purchased at the beginning of the summer is beginning to look a bit grimy and grey. It is much better to wash a sweater two or three times during a season than to allow it to become so soiled that a strenuous rubbing will be necessary to make it white again. Make a strong suds of pure white soap and warm water, to which a little borax has been added, and souse the sweater up and down in this. Do not use washing soda, as this turns the wool yellow, and do not lift the sweater too high out of the water, the weight of which may drag the garment out of shape. The rinsing is most important. Five rinsings in clear water are none too many. Six or eight will be better still. Do not attempt to wring or twist the garment. Squeeze out all the water you can; wrap the sweater in a towel; place it on the floor and dance up and down on it until all the excess of water is out.

CAMORRA DISCIPLINE

Remarkable Story Told by an Italian Actor.

London, Sept. 5.—An illustration of the power and discipline of the Camorra is given by an actor named Sainati in Il Mondo Artistico.

"In 1898," he says, "I was implicated in the riots at Naples, and sent to prison with three of my colleagues. We were confined in a large cell with eight Camorrists, one of whom was Carrado Sortino, now on trial at Viterbo, who was then serving a long sentence for murdering his sister-in-law. The senior member of the party of Camorrists was a certain Vincenzo, who acted as chief and was obeyed by all the others."

The Camorrists blackmailed the four actors, took the lion's share of their food, used their blankets and forced them to do all the dirty work. Sortino found out that Sainati had some money and forced him to play cards with him. Naturally the actor always lost. Realizing that he was being cheated he complained to Vincenzo, who forbade Sortino to play any more, and obliged him to return the money he had won.

One day while the chief was asleep Sortino went up to the actor and forced him to play cards. The actor was losing heavily when the chief awoke, and discovered that his orders had been disobeyed. The chief got up and ordered Sortino to stand at attention before him. He then removed his belt, and, stepping one pace backward, repeatedly struck Sortino in the face with the belt until the blood ran down his cheeks. Sortino submitted meekly to the punishment and never uttered a word of protest, and yet he was a strong young man, while Vincenzo was old and infirm.

SEES AEROPLANES AS BIG AS LINERS

Would Then Be Able to Disregard Holes in the Air.

QUESTION OF STABILITY

British Association Solons Discuss the Progress of Aviation.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Sept. 5.—At the British Association meeting yesterday the future of aviation formed a subject of discussion in the mathematical and engineering sections.

The chief feature was an attack upon the notion of automatic stability. At the present time a great many designers of aeroplanes are working on this problem in the construction of flying machines, yet both Professor Petavel and Sir William White derided the idea.

No subject, said Mr. Berriman, in opening the discussion, was of greater interest to the public than flying. So far the art had progressed by reason of the daring of airmen and the enterprise of aeroplane builders; now it ought to attract minds which had matured, inasmuch as the next great line of advance should bring the aid of science in increasing the safety and efficiency of flying machines.

Holes in the Air.

Dr. W. N. Shaw, the well-known meteorologist, discussed the difficulty which the wind put in the airman's way, a difficulty which, he thought, could only be overcome by greater speed. This, however, would not get over the trouble of "holes" in the air, into which aeroplanes fell now and then, with results greatly disconcerting to their pilots. Meteorology was trying to discover what these holes in the air were. They might be due to variations in the velocity of the wind.

Professor Petavel, who had just returned after a month's flying on Salisbury Plain, threw doubt upon the possibility of obtaining automatic stability, and even said he did not think it was necessary or desirable. The tricycle was stable and the bicycle was unstable, but almost all riders preferred the latter, and a mechanism in the air for insuring automatic stability would probably be dangerous in other ways. With this view Sir Wm. White agreed. He said he felt an instinctive distrust in automatic appliances. In his opinion there was nothing like human power directed by a strong will and careful observation. As to the general question regarding what science could do for aviation, Sir William said flying problems must be attacked experimentally. The help the mathematician could give was in analyzing the results obtained by experiment.

Professor Trouton said he looked forward to the day when aeroplanes would be as big as Atlantic liners, and could afford to disregard the small "holes" in the air that had been mentioned.

HIS CAR SKIDDED

Montreal, Sept. 5. — F. H. Anson, a prominent official of the Ogilvie Milling Company, met with a rather serious accident yesterday evening when the automobile in which he was riding in company with Elwood Hosmer, overturned not far from Lacolle, Que.

They were returning to Montreal at a good pace when the car skidded, turning completely over.

Mr. Hosmer was thrown clear of the machine and escaped injury, but Mr. Anson was caught and pinned underneath with the weight of the car on his chest. He was brought into Montreal and taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where it was found that his chest and back were bruised. He also received a painful cut on his head.

Mr. Anson is president of the Automobile Club of Canada.

Mr. Sanford is a Justice of the Peace for the County, and a member of the Board of School Commissioners. He is also Deacon of the Baptist Church in Berwick. Indeed it would be difficult to find a man more widely known and more highly respected. Here is his opinion of Zam-Buk. He says:—

"I never used anything that gave me such satisfaction as Zam-Buk. I had a patch of Eczema on my ankle which had been there for over 20 years. Sometimes also the disease would break out on my shoulders. I had applied various ointments and tried all sorts of things to obtain a cure, but in vain. Zam-Buk, unlike everything else I had tried, proved highly satisfactory and cured the ailment.

"I have also used Zam-Buk for itching piles, and it has cured them completely also. I take comfort in helping my brother men, and if the publication of my opinion of the healing value of Zam-Buk will lead other sufferers to try it, I should be glad. For the relief of suffering caused by Piles or Skin Diseases I know of nothing to equal Zam-Buk."

ANCIENT BOHEMIAN CROWN JEWELS SAFE

A Report Spread Over Austria That Priceless Insignia Had Been Stolen.

Prague, Bohemia, Aug. 5.—A report that the priceless crown jewels of the ancient kingdom of Bohemia had been stolen spread all over Austria recently. The well-defined rumor was more mysterious and alarming because the insignia had been in the crown chamber of St. Veit's Cathedral here for 700 years, save that they were removed during the war of 1866. Most extraordinary precautions are taken to assure the safety of the jewels.

The heavy iron door leading to the cathedral's crown chamber, which had not been opened since 1867, is secured by seven great steel locks. The seven keys to these locks are in the possession of the seven highest dignitaries of the kingdom—the Archbishop of Bohemia, the governor of the province, the chief constable, the mayor of Prague, the capital, and three others of highest rank. Besides, it is necessary to obtain permission from the Emperor before the door may be opened.

The widespread report that the crown jewels had been stolen caused a great commotion and provoked much patriotic grief. So, the Emperor's permission having been obtained, the seven dignitaries holding the keys met here secretly yesterday to verify or disprove the story of the theft of the jewels.

For a long time the door, heavily incrusted with rust, resisted all efforts to open it; a skilled locksmith was called, and after a while he turned the locks and the door creaked open.

Passing through it the seven officials ascended a narrow staircase and entered the crown chamber. On a table covered with dust and mortar stood a large casket with seven locks, which were opened with the keys to which the locks on the door yielded.

The rumor was false. Within the casket were the Bohemian crown insignia, the golden diadem, the crown of inestimable value, the sceptre, the globe, the mantle—all the insignia.

The jewels threw out dazzling rays even in that dusty atmosphere. Their gold settings were in good condition, but black with age.

After a minute examination the insignia were replaced in the casket, which was locked. The seven dignitaries signed a formal statement assuring the people that the crown jewels are safe and the door closed behind them not to be opened again for years, perhaps not for centuries.

SEERS LONDON FAD

English Society Restores Occultism to Popularity, and Palmists Reap Harvests.

London, Sept. 5.—Remarkable recrudescence of occultism has been manifesting itself in London society for some time, and has taken the form of a fad. In the entire coronation season perhaps the most popular feature of fashionable gatherings was the palmist or "Egyptian fortune teller," engaged for the evening to entertain the guests.

This feature was found the surest way to draw a crowd, and when invitations were sent out the special engagement of some particular "seer" was invariably mentioned as an extra inducement. At these functions it was no uncommon sight to see a long line of distinguished persons waiting their turn to enter the booth of the gifted one, and learn what destiny held in reserve for them.

Lectures on "occultism" and the mystic religions of the east were also popular attractions in many of the best houses in Mayfair and Belgravia, while the theory of reincarnation contained an element of romance that made fashionable persons eager to discover if they had known each other in some previous stage of existence.

There was one case where an engagement was mysteriously broken off without any apparent cause at the time. It became known later, however, that the young woman had consulted a palmist, only to be informed that the mystic number of her fiancee's name did not harmonize with that of her own.

Throughout the coronation season the palmist and fortune teller reaped a golden harvest from society women, who called to consult them about love and marriage.

One woman came all the way from Devonshire to consult a crystal gazer regarding the approaching marriage of her daughter. Fortunately the seer approved of the prospective bridegroom and the wedding was allowed to take place.

But the women are not alone in their enthusiastic belief in occult powers and divination. Men of prominence in many branches of life have taken up the fad. A certain managing director of a powerful corporation is said to employ a woman mystic at a yearly salary to advise him in all his business transactions, and he asserts that he has never made a mistake or lost a cent since he adopted that policy.

ITALY'S "MOVING SCHOOLS"

Experiments Followed by Rresolutions to Educate Peasants.

Rome, Sept. 5.—An interesting experiment is being carried on in the arid district about Rome, along the sea coast and among the Abruzzi Mountains, which has been possible only through private charity.

Illiteracy has always been a characteristic of the Italian peasant, especially in the south; so much so that while the percentage in the north is almost negligible, that of the south is so great as to raise that of the whole kingdom to about 50 per cent. Education is obligatory, but it is difficult to enforce when the peasant cannot even dress his large family decently, and the children perhaps have to tramp miles for the privilege of attending school, while in the mountains or in deserted districts there are often no schools available.

It is just this want which is met by the present plan. What are called "moving schools" have been established in districts where there are no regular schools, and they are in one spot today and far away tomorrow. They comprise night schools for the workers, summer schools for the peasants coming down from the mountains to the plains, and children's classes in the open air or set up under any available shelter

A POWERFUL FLEET FOR THE BLACK SEA

Duma Grants Sixty Millions of Dollars for the Purpose.

London, Sept. 5.—At last Russia is making definite headway with the building of a powerful fleet for the Black Sea. A credit of $60,000,000 was granted for the purpose by the Duma this week. The additional $10,000,000 necessitated by the irreducible figures quoted by the contractors will doubtless be granted when the House meets.

Two Dreadnoughts will be laid down on Oct. 1 (old style), at the new yard on the Black Sea prepared by a combination of Russian metallurgical companies under the technical and managerial direction of the British firm of John Brown & Co., of Sheffield and Clydebank. A third Dreadnought will be laid down a month later at the Nicolaieff yard, also on the Black Sea, and its construction will be under the supervision of the British firm of Vickers.

It was first intended that each Dreadnought should be 25,000 tons displacement and have 224 knots speed, but the cost would have been far beyond the appropriation, and it was decided that they should have 21,500 tons displacement and from 21 to 21½ knots. Each of these battleships will be about $50 a ton cheaper than the Dreadnoughts built at St. Petersburg for the Baltic fleet. The economy is due to the cheapness of coal at the Black Sea as compared with the north.

The remainder of the new Black Sea flet, which is doubtless intended to cope with Turkey or with the powers that take over the reversion of Turkey's strategic position, consists of nine torpedo cruisers and destroyers and six submarines Each torpedo cruiser will have 1,050 tons displacement and 35 knots speed, and each will cost $1,325,000. Each of the six submarines will cost $800,000.

KEEPS GROWN SONS FAST IN THEIR BEDS

A Strange Old Woman Has Hypnotized Her Children for Years.

Gloversville, N. Y., Sept. 5.—In the town of Hope, a hamlet of some 25 cottages and shacks far from human habitation of any size, reside Mrs. Sarah Bennett, her husband, John Bennett, and their three sons, George, Frank and Ward Bennett, victims of their mother's hypnosis. Their story is weird and fascinating as a tale of fiction of the modern school, and has only just come to light.

The mother, regarded as a sorceress by the farmers for miles around, wields and has wielded for many years a strange hypnotic influence over her sons. George, aged 35, has been confined to his bed for ten years; Frank, aged 28, has been an inmate of his bedchamber for eight years, and Ward, aged 24, has been under her influence and confined in another bed in the none-too-clean bedchamber for six years.

All are apparently healthy and robust, and evidence a desire for freedom. The oldest of the sons has not been on his feet for more than ten years, all during that time having been fed in bed. The mother impressed on him when he was 25 years old that he was suffering with valvular disease of the heart, and consequently was unable to rise.

In all those years it has been a struggle of mentalities between the son and the mother. The former has made efforts to leave his bed, but the watchful mother has always stood near by and by a sharp glance literally hurled him prostrate.

When the oldest son yesterday realized that a strange face was before him, as a newspaper correspondent entered the room, he straightened up and ejaculated:

"The first face I have seen in ten years except my mother's and father's!"

Dr. J. N. Wright, a physician of Hamilton County, in an interview disproved the mother's story that the sons are ill. He has at various times examined them and his diagnoses have revealed nothing save that the boys are hypnotically affected. He believes all are under the strange mesmeric force of the mother.

Within the past six months he has made superficial examinations of the two younger men, but failed to discover any symptoms of heart disease or a condition to which the woman attributes the sons' confinement.

DUKE FORGOT TO PAY HOTEL BILL

Landlord Insisted on Money, but His Pockets Were Empty.

Rome, Sept. 5.—Once again Cardinal Rampolla's handsome nephew, Francesco di Napoli, Duke of Campobello, has attracted public attention. As he was about to leave a hotel in Genoa with a woman of aristocratic society he was stopped because he had neglected to pay his bill—one of his failings. He did not have money enough to settle, and the hard-hearted landlord turned him over to the police.

The woman in his company was recognized as the wife of a high court official, and a divorce suit is imminent. It will be no novelty for the duke to appear in the role of co-respondent.

On account of the duke peculiarities his venerable uncle, who may be the next Pope, has cast him off. The last straw was the duke's negotiating bills of exchange with the cardinal's name attached for $10,000. The cardinal insisted that he did not sign them.

Formerly the duke moved in the most exclusive society of Rome, and belonged to the best clubs. Now society frowns on him nad the clubs have closed their doors to him.

One of his habits has been to load foreign actresses visiting Rome with costly jewelry which somebody else unwittingly paid for or the bills for which were never settled. Home actresses he treated differently. The beautiful Vittorina la Ciociara once telephoned to the various clubs of which he was a member at the time that her money was all gone and that the duke got it.

The duke's lovely wife, who was the Princess Teodolinda Altieri, finally had to leave him.

THE TELL-TALE LETTER WHICH SHOWED UP HAWKES

In view of Arthur Hawkes' pretence that he is not the paid agent of the Conservative party it may be well to reproduce a fac-simile of the letter addressed to Conservative journals by Hon. Frank Cochrane, Ontario Minister of Lands and Mines, who is neglecting the work for which the people pay him, in order to direct the anti-reciprocity campaign in Ontario.

Mr. Hawkes admits he is hired to round up the English newcomers, but his paymasters, he asserts, are not the Conservative managers. This makes no difference: he is hired by the Big Interests, which are hand in hand with the Ottawa Opposition, and his business is to humbug the newly-arrived citizens by representing that it is treason to England to follow the English policy of taking the taxes off food. Here is Mr. Cochrane's telltale letter:

THE DOMINION
LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATION
FOR ONTARIO

610 CROWN LIFE BUILDING,
TORONTO

J. S. CARSTAIRS
SECRETARY

August 16th, 1911.

The Editor,

Dear Sir:-

I am glad to tell you that we are fortunate enough to have the aid of the pen of Mr. Arthur Hawkes in the Election Campaign, and I know you will be glad to use the signed articles by him that will come to you.

Mr. Hawkes has written ten National Specials under most attractive titles; and, under his nom de plume of John V. Borne, twenty-six pithy articles of about 350 words each, under the general heading "Points about the Deal."

Mr. Hawkes will address at least one meeting a day for the rest of the campaign, and has also promised to write a series of news stories, entitled "Through Ontario with the British-born," which will be placed freely at your disposal.

I thought that you would like to know we shall be very glad to see this ammunition as widely used as possible.

Yours faithfully,

F. Cochrane

MOVING PICTURES TO SAVE INDIANS

Uncle Sam's New Method to Preserve Fast-Vanishing Tribe.

Washington, September 4. — Determined to protect what remains of the race of American Indian from rapid extinction by disease which now threatens them, the Indian office has decided to pursue a vigorous policy in improving hygienic conditions among the wards of the nation.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs Valentine today declared the application of modern methods to present conditions of Indian life was vital to their progress and to the usefulness of the educational, industrial and other activities in which the Government was engaged on their behalf.

Will Try Moving Pictures.

Among the means which the Indian office already has inaugurated in part and which it will push with vigor in its efforts to preserve the Indian from being entirely obliterated by tuberculosis, trachoma and other infectious diseases which are attacking them, are moving picture shows revealing to them proper and sanitary methods of living, house to house canvasses by physicians, open air sleeping at the Indian schools and sanitariums.

The moving picture scheme is to give them by the comparative method pictures of the wrong way of living, followed by photographs showing the correct way. Dr. Ferdinand Schoemaker will have charge of the work and will travel from reservation to reservation giving his illustrated talks.

Reports show that the death rate among the Indians is two and one-half times as great as among the white race; and the average mortality from tuberculosis is 256 per cent. higher for Indians than for whites. Hence the Indian bureau's determination to better these conditions.

Results Already Shown.

During the past year the house-to-house campaign by physicians was started on the White Earth reservation in Minnesota and with such good results that the work will be pushed. As a result of traveling over the reservation, awakening of the dangers of tuberculosis and other infectious diseases, and pointing out how they might improve their living conditions, the agency physicians report that sanitary conditions have improved among fully half the Indians on the reservation and that "the Indians, instead of being reluctant to seek the physicians of their own accord are now visiting the physicians' offices in a way that shows their real interest in their physical condition and welfare."

The high death rate among the Indians has been due, it was explained, to the change a few years ago in their way of living and their inability to adjust themselves to frame and log houses in place of airy and easily moved tepees.

ENTIRE SERIES FOR ATHLETICS

Nationals Again Beaten in the Final Game of Set With Philadelphia.

RED SOX WERE TRIMMED

Boston Falls Before New York—Rain Interferes With Other Matches.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 5. — The Athletics won the series from the Nationals today, taking the last game, 10 to 4. After tieing the score in the fourth, the Athletics took the lead in the sixth by scoring four more runs on Collins' bingle, Murphy's triple, and two singles by McInnis and Krause. Collins scored again in the sixth on a single, a steal and a passed ball. The same player tallied in the eighth on Baker's single, and a fly sacrifice.

Krause was hit hard at the start, but after the second inning reformed, and did not allow a hit. Score.

CHASE AND CALDWELL BEAT BOSTON RED SOX

Timely Swats By Manager and Twirler of Yanks Meant Victory.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 5. — The timely hitting of Manager Chase and Pitcher Caldwell was responsible for the Yankees making it three straight from the Red Sox, the Yankees taking today's game, 4 to 3. Thomas, the youngster from the coast, was sent to the mound by Manager Donovan, but was relieved by Hall before the first inning was over. The Yankees took the lead in the sixth on Caldwell's triple to right that scored E. Gardner and Johnson. Another tally was added in the eighth on Gardner's sacrifice that sent Chase over the rubber. Boston made a futile attempt to overtake the visitors in the eighth, but could get only two men home on Speaker's single and L. Gardner's sacrifice.

SOPRANO FIRST IN THE 2:08 TROT

Favorite Captured the Feature at Hartford From Belvasia.

LEE WILSON A WINNER

Beats Lady Willow and Baron Aberdeen in 2:19 Trot—Just Two Events.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 5. — There were but two races in the Grand Circuit today, the 2:08 and the 2:19 trot. Soprano, whose good work on the track this year has been marked, was the favorite in the 2:08 class and won the first heat in the best time. She won the first heat by a small margin and was left in third place in the second, Belvasia displaying a burst of speed that landed her under the wire a nose ahead of Willy. The last two heats she trailed into the stretch, and on cutting loose won each easily by half a length.

With but three entries the 2:19 trot was easy for Lee Wilson, the gelding taking the race in straight heats, with Lady Willow a close second and Baron Aberdeen a poor third. The best time was in the first heat, 2:10¼.

Curtis, of Philadelphia, Blanks Brooklyn, With But Two Safe Swats.

Brooklyn, Sept. 5.—Inability to hit Curtis, the twirler recently secured by Philadelphia from Chicago, caused Brooklyn's downfall this afternoon. Not until the seventh inning was the semblance of a hit made off the newcomer. Meanwhile the Phillies had got to Burk and chased him from the box, while Ragan, who succeeded him, fared little better. ## BALTIMORE BEAT NEWARK INDIANS

Frock Holds Losers to But Five Hits and One Run.

GRAYS ARE DEFEATED

Jersey City Takes Contest From Providence—Five Games Played.

Baltimore, Sept. 5. — Sam Frock came back today, and the Tigers never had a look in. McGinnity tried to stem the tide, but the Birds took kindly to his curves, and he gave way to Shontz. Both teams fielded well, but the visitors could do little or nothing with Frock after the first inning. The Tigers had the Bellringers pretty well scared until the sixth inning. McGinnity was pitching good ball, and his cohorts supported him well, but in the sixth the Birds let loose, and the ex-Gothamite took to the bench. The score:

PIGSKIN CHASERS READY FOR SEASON

Local Rugby Men Met at the Tecumseh House Last Evening.

ANOTHER ON THURSDAY

Western University Will Probably Amalgamate With London O. R. F. U.

Canadian League baseball, having but a week or so to run, the pigskin chasers of the city gathered last evening at the Tecumseh House and arranged to take over the entertainment of sport followers of the city between pill-pegging and puck-chasing time.

The session was very well attended, and for the first time in some years the football artists went after the matter in serious fashion. The appointment of a paid coach was considered, and it is possible that Chaucer Elliott, at present manager of the St. Thomas baseball team, will be asked to look after the interests of the local crew.

One Strong Team.

Names of a number of candidates for the Junior O. R. F. U. squad were secured, and it is thought that the Western University will join the city brigade in the battles of this group.

Rev. J. G. Inkster, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, last year's president, was again elected to the position, Bishop Fallon, of the Roman Catholic diocese of London, being chosen honorary president.

A committee was appointed to look after the finances of the club, and the following officers were selected for the year:

Patrons—Hon. Adam Beck, Hon. C. S. Hyman, Sir George C. Gibbons, J. C. Duffield, Hume Cronyn and Dr. C. S. Moore.

Honorary president—Bishop M. F. Fallon.

President—Rev. J. G. Inkster.

Vice-president—George H. O'Neil.

Secretary—Sid. Little.

Treasurer—H. F. Skey.

Executive committee — Messrs. McKnight, Sage, Harold Little, Smith and Gunn.

Meet Again Thursday.

Another meeting has been arranged for Thursday evening at the Tecumseh House, when arrangements for a successful season will be completed.

FAMOUS BASEBALL MEN MEET DEATH

Baltimore News: Two men famous in baseball many years ago have passed away. Will White, who pitched for the victorious Cincinnati Reds of 1883, was drowned at Fort Collier, Muskoka Lake, Ont., where he had a summer residence, while Lew Simmons, one of the original owners of the Philadelphia Athletics in the days of the old American Association, was the other who died. White was the only pitcher who ever was known to wear spectacles on the ball field. He was right-handed, and his catcher for a time was Deacon Jim White. The Reds, aided by his splendid work in the box, won the pennant in the American Association, winning 54 games and losing 26. It was the only baseball championship ever captured in Porkville. Simmons co-operated with Billy Sharsig and Mason in forming the Athletics, but misfortune broke up the combination and Simmons went on the stage in blackface minstrelsy. Sharsig died several years ago with practically nothing to show for his baseball originality.

SENECA TURNED TABLES ON RIVALS

Challenger Defeated Patricia in Second Fisher Cup Race by Over Three Minutes

Toronto, Sept. 6.—Seneca, the Rochester Club challenger, defeated Patricia, the R. C. Y. C. defender, yesterday in the second race of the Fisher Cup series, and it is now "hoss and hoss," each having won a race.

After Patricia's decisive defeat of Seneca in Monday's race with a ten-mile breeze, a second victory for the Canadian yacht and a termination of the series was looked for yesterday, but Seneca showed a complete reversal of form, and leading all the way, finished 3 minutes and 20 seconds ahead of Patricia. The result came as a rude surprise to the admirers of the defender.

LANGFORD HAS SHADE ON JOE JEANETTE

Boston Man Has Trifle Better of Philadelphian in Fierce Contest.

New York, Sept. 5.—Sam Langford, of Boston, and Joe Jeannette, of Philadelphia, fought ten vicious rounds here tonight, and at the end were a decision rendered, the Boston man would have received it by a shade. These men have fought several hard bouts in their careers as fighters, but none ever equalled this one tonight.

From the time the first bell rang until the last one sounded, there hardly was a second's rest, the men fairly raining terrible blows upon each other. Only twice during the contest did the men leave their feet, but on several occasions each was staggered by the power behind the blows dealt out.

In several of the rounds it appeared that Langford had at last met his match, and the crowd cheered for him. But as the bout progressed Jeannette plainly weakened under the terrible punishment dealt out to him, while the powerful man from the city of culture was as strong as when the fight commenced.

CANADIAN LEAGUE ITEMS

Bobby Robinson, of the Hamilton Spec, secretary of the Canadian League, and part owner of the Hamilton club, continues to kid himself along. Witness the latest:

"By reason of their victory over St. Thomas on Saturday, 8-7, and the double clean-up with Guelph yesterday, the Kolts move up into second place in the league race, in which position they will apparently finish the season, which comes to an end a week from next Saturday."

Guelph Mercury: "Cursing and the use of foul language on the field by the players should be stopped. In Friday's and Saturday's games it grew so bad that the umpire had to overcome his delicacy and request them to refrain from using it. The locals played errorless ball, but there was about as much life in them as in a wooden Indian in front of a cigar store. The Brantford team was full of ginger—a great contrast to the locals."

Hamilton Spectator: "It has been announced that four Canadian League players have already been drafted by big league clubs. Inasmuch as the drafting season for the Canadian League and other leagues of the same class does not open until Sept. 15 and lasts until Nov. 1, there is plenty of time for others to be selected. Right here it might be said that there are several others in the league who are sure to go up this fall."

The Guelph Mercury in an account of Saturday's game with Brantford says: "Umpire Peaknuckle Cancella, Brantford's famous banana man, umpired, and was away off on balls and strikes, giving Smith all the corners and making Schumann stick it in the groove. The one chance he had on a base decision was obviously wrong, for Conley trapped the ball, though the little Italian said no. It is not right that a Brantford man, alleged to have stock in the club, should be allowed to umpire in a game in which the Brantford club is participant no matter how honest he may be. Secretary Robinson should use better judgment than this."

Guelph Herald: "Hackbush in particular was not playing the game he is capable of, and did not cover nearly as much ground as usual. As a result of his work in this game, he was suspended by the management for a week without pay."

DR. L. H. WOOD IS NAMED FOR ALBERTA

Nominated for Chair of New Testament by Presbytery of London.

MEN AND BOYS WANTED

Presbytery Urges That All Congregations Devote Especial Attention to Bring Men Into Churches.

At the afternoon session of the London Presbytery in the First Presbyterian Church yesterday, Rev. Geo. Gilmour, of Fingal, was appointed moderator of the vacant charge of Port Stanley.

The First Presbyterian Church of this city asked leave to borrow a sum of money not exceeding $7,000, for the purpose of putting in a new organ and making other church improvements.

Mr. C. J. Jarvis and H. Bapty appeared in behalf of the congregation. On motion of Dr. McCrae, the Presbytery unanimously agreed to grant the request.

Statistical Report.

Rev. F. O. Nichol presented the statistical report, and a conference was held on the matter. There are 61 congregations within the bounds of the Presbytery of London, making 39 charges and two missions, with a total of 4,433 families and 9,175 members, a large increase in both cases. In the Sabbath schools there are 5,968 scholars, an increase of 523.

Men and Religion.

Rev. W. R. McIntosh brought before the Presbytery the Men and Religion Movement. The church must relate the gospel more to the men and boys. The men and boys must be won for the church. He moved the following resolution:

"In view of the fact that the church of our day seems to have laid upon it in a special way the responsibility of relating the Christian gospel to the social and moral problems of our time, a duty which in a large degree only men can discharge, and that at the present time there are 3,000,000 less men than women on the membership of the churches of North America, and that a general effort is now in progress known as the Men and Religion Forward Movement, to remedy this deficiency, the Presbytery would urge the congregations within its bounds to give special attention during the coming year to work among men and boys in their respective communities."

Dr. Wood Nominated.

On the motion of Rev. Mr. Inkster, seconded by Rev. Mr. Stuart, Dr. Louis H. Wood, B. A., Ph. D., was nominated by the Presbytery for the chair of New Testament literature in Alberta Presbyterian College, Strathcona. Dr. Wood is a graduate of Heidelberg University, Germany.

Mr. Charles Evans, a graduate of the Western University of this city, was ordered to be certified to the senate of Knox College, Toronto, for the course in theology.

Reports were read from Knollwood Park and Chelsea Green Missions showing progress in the work at these places.

Next Meeting.

The next meeting of the Presbytery will open at 10:30 a.m. in the First Presbyterian Church on Nov. 30.

Rev. Dr. Mackay, moderator of the General Assembly, and Dr. A. S. Grant, superintendent of home missions, will be present to address the Presbytery.

TWIN BROTHERS SLAIN; UNCLE IS MISSING

Bloodhounds Scent Out Terrible Tragedy of Wisconsin Woods.

[Canadian Press.]

Aberdeen, Wash., Sept. 6. — The bodies of the twin sons of Henry Beauer, a farmer, were found yesterday by deputy sheriffs in a lonely spot twenty miles from Montezano, and near the shack of the boys' uncle, John Turner. Bullet holes in the heads of both boys indicated the manner in which they met death. A posse is in search of Turner, who is missing.

The two boys went bear hunting Sunday. When they did not return at night the father started a search and later notified the sheriff, who sent out a posse with a bloodhound to take up the trail. A dead bear was found, and it was first thought the lads had been killed by the animal. The bloodhounds, however, soon found the bodies covered with leaves.

RALLY AT KILWORTH FOR MR. DUNCAN ROSS

Farmers Are For Reciprocity, Regardless of Party Ties.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Kilworth, Sept. 5.—One of the best political rallies held here in years was addressed last night by Mr. Duncan C. Ross, ex-M. P., and Mr. J. C. Elliott, M. P. P. Over 300 electors were present, and listened most attentively to the speeches. There is no question as to the opinion of the farmers in this district on reciprocity. They are enthusiastic for it, and there is no doubt that Mr. Ross will receive a much larger vote than has been given to a Liberal candidate in this section in years. Mr. J. Elson presided.

Mr. Ross was the first speaker, and was given a most enthusiastic welcome. He thanked them for their goodwill, declaring that it was not so much personal as it was an indorsation of the issue before the people of Canada today—reciprocity.

He gave his unqualified support to the pact. It would tend to improve the conditions of the farmers throughout the whole Dominion. Prices would be enhanced, and a ready market found for all that they could produce, not only at the present time but in the future. It was a guarantee that the good times now prevailing would continue, in fact, would greatly improve.

An Enormous Market.

Mr. Ross went through the agreement item by item, pointing out that in practically everything the farmer produced higher prices prevailed in the United States than in Canada. The high quality of Canadian farm produce would practically insure them the control of this market of ninety million people.

He dealt at some length with the alleged objections to the pact, ridiculing the annexation cry. That was a very foolish argument against the agreement, and one bound to react against the opponents of the deal.

Mr. J. C. Elliott dealt with the question from an historical standpoint, showing that all the great statesmen since Confederation, Liberal and Conservative alike, were in favor of such an agreement as had been obtained by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He quoted from the speeches of Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir John Thompson, Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and others, who had favored it.

There is no doubt about West Middlesex being true to Liberal principles Mr. Ross being assured of a fine majority.

The meeting concluded with cheers for Mr. Ross and reciprocity.

AN ENGAGEMENT.

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—An interesting engagement was announced here today, that of W. H. Rowley, president of the E. B. Eddy Company, and president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, to Miss Elsie Ritchie, youngest daughter of the late Sir William Ritchie, of the supreme court of Canada.

C. N. R. PURCHASES.

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—The Canadian Northern Railway Company today completed the purchase of five farms on the western outskirts of the city. The land, which forms an area of one and one-half miles square, is located at the point where the Toronto-Ottawa and transcontinental lines of the C. N. R. will merge. Although prices were not made public, it is said the cost of the farms was about $250,000 altogether. The object of the company in securing such a large tract of land is thought to be for the location of shops and roundhouses, as well as yard space.

PREMIER EXPOSES INCONSISTENCIES

The Conservatives Not True to Reciprocity Traditions of Party.

COBOURG'S WELCOME

Sir Wilfrid and Party Have Narrow Escape From Injury.

Cobourg, Sept. 5.—For two or three startling moments this afternoon it seemed probable that the great Laurier demonstration might end in a tragedy. Sir Wilfrid's address was over, and he had just risen to acknowledge the enthusiasm with which it had been greeted, when there was an ominous crack, followed immediately by a second, a frightened shout from the crowd, and the centre of the temporary platform on which the Premier stood collapsed. It was thronged with humanity at the time, and there was a precipitated scramble, which threatened further disaster. A couple of officers with presence of mind, however, stayed the incipient stampede, and the hundred odd occupants were conducted down from the ten-foot elevation one by one. Finally, only the chairman, the Premier and Hon. Mr. Graham remained standing at the extreme edge supported by the corner wooden upright.

The Minister of Railways relieved the tension by commencing his address with the hearty observation: "It is hard to dislodge the Liberal leader from his platform." The great gathering gave vent to its relief in a prolonged cheer.

A Blaze of Flags.

Cobourg received the Canadian Premier with great enthusiasm. The whole town was a blaze of flags, streamers and bunting. A mammoth procession, headed by bands and a hundred horsemen, escorted him to Donegan Park, a beautiful inclosure situated overlooking the lake. Here were gathered between three and four thousand people, who gave the distinguished visitor the heartiest of welcomes. Mr. J. D. Hayden presided, and short address were delivered by the three local Liberal candidates, Messrs. J. B. McColl, West Northumberland; Alex. Weatherson, East Northumberland, and T. A. Kelly, Durham.

The Premier's Address.

Sir Wilfrid introduced his address with a happy reference to the number of Americans present. Cobourg is the summer home of many residents of the United States, and the Premier wanted to know if the sentiment of reciprocity which had existed in this connection had not been a good thing for Cobourg. It was twenty years since he had first visited the town, and he was impressed with the progress made. It showed that the faulty doctrine of "let well enough alone" had no place in the enterprising makeup of the Cobourg citizen. Had the Government failed to avail themselves of the United States offer of reciprocity the very men who were "parading and perambulating up and down the country denouncing the agreement" would have denounced the Government for failing to stand by its professions, "even as I denounce them to you now for renouncing their principles as expressed in years past."

With all the zeal of new converts, Sir Wilfrid stated, the Americans had urged a larger measure of reciprocity, embracing manufactured as well as agricultural products, but Canada could not accept the whole of their overtures. "We took the ground firmly, but in a friendly spirit," said the Premier, "that it would not be well at the present time to even consider any exchange of manufactured products, because they have too much the start of us; but we were glad to accept the proposal as regards natural products, because we believed it would not only be without danger, but of great benefit to our people."

Borden Inconsistencies.

The Premier exposed the inconsistency of the present anti-reciprocity Conservatives to the traditions and principles of their former leaders. "The party today," he observed, amid laughter and applause, "is like a ship without captain or rudder, tossed on the billows of the sea, or like a fog floating out yonder on the lake. It is always moving, but makes no headway. It is not for me to advise, but, if it were not presumption, I would tell the Conservatives of today to gird their loins and fight for principles. This is what made their predecessors great. We have the British system of party government, but to command the confidence of the people there must be more to the platform than 'turn the other fellows out, because we want to get in.' I am a pretty old bird now. (Laughter.) I can read them perhaps better than they think. I can read Mr. Foster, I can read Mr. Monk — all of them. And I believe I know something of the Canadian people and their ideals and aims. You, my fellow-countrymen, will not be satisfied with efforts to attain office based on setting race against race, east against west. We want no more race and race, we want no more east and west. Canada at this hour demands men with courage to yield neither to one nor the other. The future of our country claims from us all, Grits and Tories alike, a policy which will unite all diversified aims and aspirations, a policy under which all are cheerfully ready to make sacrifices on the altar of our common country." (Prolonged cheers.)

PRUSSIAN DEPOSITORS ARE STILL PANICKY

SAVED BY A POEM.

Salem, Ore., Sept. 6. — Frank L. Stanton's poem, "They Hung Bill Jones," saved the life of Jesse P. Webb yesterday, so Governor West said.

Webb, who was convicted of the murder of Wm. A. Johnson, a ranchman, instead of being hanged at noon, was the guest of honor at a convict dinner in the penitentiary. Webb's sentence was commuted by Governor West five minutes before the time appointed for the execution. The governor said he was influenced to grant the commutation by reading the poem.

THE PRESBYTERY HEARS REPORTS OF PROGRESS

Work in All Branches Is Going Ahead in a Pleasing Manner.

The statistical report of the London Presbytery, presented at yesterday's session, shows a favorable and encouraging growth in all branches of the work of the church.

Within the bounds of the presbytery there are 33 self-sustaining pastoral charges, comprising 53 preaching places, and providing 26 manses. There are also 4 aid-receiving charges, comprising 5 preaching places — a manse in every charge. Of missions there are 2, comprising 3 preaching places—in all 61 preaching stations. These report an aggregate of 4,433 families—an increase of 56 over report for 1909; also 9,175 communicants on roll—an increase of only 13 compared with increase of 56 families; 445 were received on profession—67 less than 1909; and 399 by certificate—68 less than 1909, while 773 were removed. In Sabbath schools and Bible classes there was an increase of 523, totalling 5,968.

Of baptisms there were 249 infants—11 less than 1909; and of adults, 64, or 47 less than 1909. An average of 5 children from every 4 households attend Sabbath school.

For all church purposes there was contributed the gross sum of $132,242—an increase of $8,393, and an average per family of $30 06, or $3 58 more than the general average per family in the whole church in 1909, which was $26 48. For stipends, the gross amount was $41,395—an increase of $1,480—from self-sustaining charges $38,688, an average per family of $9 26; and from aid-receiving charges $2,407, an average per family of $11 57. The average per family over the whole church in 1909 was $9 51, and in London Presbytery in 1910, $9 34, or 17 cents less.

For all mission purposes there was contributed $35,131, or $2,762 more than in 1909, an average per family of $7 02, or $2 30 more than average over the whole church in 1909, which was $4 72. It appears that of the entire contributions of congregations within the bounds, 23 per cent was devoted to mission purposes.

NEW SETTLERS FLOCKING INTO CANADIAN WEST

Bishop of Athabasca Tells of Work Amongst the New Arrivals.

At the meeting of the mission board of management of the Church of England in Canada yesterday afternoon in Cronyn Hall, the Bishop of Athabasca graphically told of the rapid influx of new settlers in the Peace River and Grand Prairie districts. In four days' travel he had met no less than 197 teams of new settlers. In the course of several days 32,000 acres of land in the Peace River district were recently filed by homesteaders at Grand Prairie. Following an appeal urgently presented by the bishop, an additional $2,000 was added to the original grant proposed for that diocese.

Bishop Stringer, of the Yukon, also told of the work among the Yukon Indians. Some eighteen years ago the bishop commenced work in the north country, working at Herschel Island until his eysight failed, and thence going to the Yukon, where he worked under the late Bishop Bompas until the time of his death. There is no other Christian communion besides the Anglican at work among the Indians of the Yukon, and the Anglican Church is only able to reach one-half of them. Outside of Dawson City and White Horse there is no other Christian church at work anywhere in the Yukon. The Bishop of Algoma voluntarily relinquished $600 of the grant proposed to his diocese in favor of Athabasca. Bishop de Pencier, of New Westminster, announced that beginning with 1912 his diocese would undertake to be self-supporting. Several other dioceses volntarily offered to increase their grants.

PICTURES IN COLORS ARE WONDERS OF THE AGE

Some Facts About the Marvellous Films—Big Show at the Grand.

The wonders of Kinemacolor moving pictures at the Grand continue to attract large audiences. The films show the last word in this marvel of the present century. To see an army marching in Old London, in their brilliant uniforms, is something long to be remembered. It's the next best thing to seeing the procession itself. The red tunics of the infantry stand out in brilliant relief, while the plaid in the kilts of the Highlanders is plainly discernible. The pictures may be seen every afternoon and evening this week.

The men who operate the films work in a steel cage or box, and the heat is so intense that they wear only breechclouts and wooden sandals. Frequent intermissions are necessary, that they may be able to continue working. Contrary to the general belief, the pictures are not taken in colors, but instead are projected through stained glass, with the result that a horse, a dog or a flag is shown in the natural colors. Science teaches that there is no such thing as color—that what we call color is simply the result of light vibrations—and this fact led the inventor to his present marvellous success. Only two colors of glass are necessary to show any color or combination of color required to bring out in all its beauty the picture on the film. The two colors referred to are red and green. Yesterday an Advertiser reporter sat with General Manager McLeish, after the regular performance had been given, and saw the colors reversed any way the operator willed. For instance, the red tunics of the soldiers in the coronation parade were turned to green, and the procession was one to call forth the admiration of every Irishman.

POLICE CATCH MAN LOADED WITH BOMBS

New York Authorities Believe They Have the Black Hand Man.

New York, Sept 6.—With a dapper young Italian believed to be one of the country's master criminals in their hands, the police today spread their nets for the gang of bomb-throwers blackmailers and kidnappers that have terrorized the Italian settlement here for the past four years. Guiseppe Castabile, who was arrested yesterday with a dynamite bomb under his coat, will be arraigned today under the new law, which makes the mere possession of a deadly weapon a felony, but the police hope to prove against him far more serious crimes.

"In many ways Castabile is the most important prisoner we have ever entertained," said Police Inspector Hughes. "There have been seventeen bomb explosions in the Italian quarter in the last month. How many of these Castabile and his subordinates are responsible for, I don't know, but we hope to fasten enough on him to remove him from the scene of operations for some time."

The detention of Castabile in $10,000 bail has proved the value of the new "deadly weapon" law, and for the mere possession of a bomb, "The Fox," as Castabile was called, may be sent to prison for several years.

FINANCIAL

Reported by Chas. Head & Co., by private wire to J. J. Tearney.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(Noon)—After the first fifteen minutes the market reflected a moderate increase in supply, the upward movements being checked for the time, but the demand continued good. A number of strongest houses on the street were bullish in expressions of market opinions, but hesitated about purchasing at the higher levels established in the early morning. There were some good outside buying, however, that was large enough in volume to absorb the supply that came on the market on the advance, London being a small factor, the foreign purchases amounting to less than 1,000 shares, including some buying of Erie by the continent.

COUPLE BADLY INJURED HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Visitors in London Victims of Accident on Richmond Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen, who are visiting in the city were run down and badly injured by an automobile about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the corner of Kent and Richmond streets. Mrs. Allen is severely hurt, while her husband is also painfully bruised. The motor was driven by Mr. A. Warden, of Yale, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen arrived in town today, and went up on Sent street to visit friends. They stepped behind a street car, when an automobile going south ran into them.

Mrs. Allen was knocked down, and Mr. Allen was also thrown to the pavement. When Mr. Warden saw that an accident was inevitable, he put on the brakes, with the result that the motor was swung right around, and faced north—the opposite direction in which it was going.

The injured persons were taken into Dr. Bateson's office, where their hurts were dressed.

The police took Mr. Warden's name, pending the outcome of Mr. and Mrs. Allen's injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen had just arrived from Scotland, and having a short time to spend between train times, they were utilizing it in seeing London.

EMILY BACK WITH GEMS

Ward of Late Charles Yerkes Carried Stones Valued at $800,000.

New York, Sept. 6.—Miss Emily Grigsby, ward of the late Charles T. Yerkes, who has made her home in Europe for several years, arrived on the steamer Olympic last night. She brought with her jewels said to be worth $800,000, which she presented to customs inspectors for examination.

All efforts to interview Miss Grigsby, whose name became prominent during the coronation in London, were frustrated by watchful guardians.

LOCAL ITEMS

—Rev. F. G. Newton, of Parkhill, will preach harvest thanksgiving sermons at St. George's Church, London Township, on Sunday next at 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m., and also at Birr at 3 p.m.

Seriously Ill.

Mr. Harry McKenna, sen., of Dundas street, is very seriously ill at Port Stanley.

Eucharistic Congress.

In accordance with a plan adopted at the recent annual retreat of the priests of the diocese of London an eucharistic congress is to be held at St. Mary's Church here on Oct. 10. About seventy priests will take part in the first congress at St. Mary's Church, when Bishop Fallon, of this city, and Father O'Connor, of Windsor, will deliver addresses.

Convalescent Home.

The Convalescent Home has been repaired and neatly furnished, and now boasts of all modern conveniences. For some time the home had been closed, owing to the illness of the matron, Mrs. Stringer, but it is now ready to receive patients. Some contributions from friends have been received, and it is hoped that others will help along the good work.

A Mean Trick.

An old gentleman named Hicks, about 80 years of age, was in a great state of excitement at the G. T. R. depot yesterday afternoon as a result of losing a large carpet bag. When he got off the train he left the bag and an overcoat on the platform for a few minutes while he went to see after some other things. When he came back they were gone, and no trace of them has been found so far, although the station police are looking for them.

BEAN INDUSTRY

ket is a restricted one, confined to Canada alone. Since the passing of the Dingley bill in the United States putting a duty of 45 cents per bushel on importations into that country, we could not get a market there, hence the reduction in the acreage of beans in our country, but the acreage will increase if the farmers are assured of a market for all they grow.

In years gone by when the production was large, and our population small, the price in Canada dropped to as low as 25 cents to 30 cents per bushel, with no outlet for them, until a market sprung up with France, which cleaned up the surplus of several years accumulation.

Now that the population is increasing (and they are all bean eaters), the acreage will increase, to meet the demand of our home markets, and we shall have plenty to export. There is nothing to prevent the whole territory lying between the Detroit River and the Niagara River, as far north as Goderich, from growing beans, and as far east as Kingston on the north shore of Lake Ontario, they are grown in small quantities very successfully. Ontario has enough territory suitable for bean cultivation to produce millions of bushels. Extend our markets so that farmers will be assured that they can be sold at a paying price, and then watch the beans grow.

Barley used to be grown extensively in this section, but since it has been excluded from the United States markets its cultivation has almost ceased. Farmers make a study of growing what will bring them the most returns for their labor.

Time will not permit me to write more on this subject. Reciprocity, and larger markets is what this country wants. Yours truly,

J. A. ELLIOTT.

COUNCIL OBJECTS TO STREET CAR SERVICE

No. 1 Committee Asked To Compel the Company To Carry Out Agreement.

ALD. COOPER IS ROASTED

Ald. Morgan Throws Some Hot Shot at the Old Fourth Warder.

At last night's meeting of the city council it was decided to take immediate action to compel the London Street Railway Company to live up to its agreement with the city, and give the people a better service.

Mr. John S. Townsend, of 887 Richmond street north, addressed the council for nearly half an hour in condemnation of the present service, and as a result of what he and various members of the council said, it was decided to ask No. 1 committee to take the matter up at once, and see that the provisions of the street railway agreement with the city are enforced.

It was stated that the present service is a disgrace to a city of London's size, and ought not to be tolerated. Some members suggested calling in the Ontario railway board.

Ald. Mitchell suggested disfranchising the company.

Ald. Cooper to Rescue.

Ald. Cooper defended the street railway, and Ald. Morgan wanted to know how much he was getting for what he was doing.

"I don't want any of your insinuations," shouted Ald. Cooper, shaking his fist at Ald. Morgan. "You have got a dirty, mean disposition to say such a thing."

Later, Ald. Morgan declared that he wanted to thank Ald. Cooper for the kind things he had been saying.

"I said once before," said Ald. Morgan, "and I told a friend only recently, that as long as the citizens elect men who will represent the street railway, and not look after the citizens' interests, nothing can be done."

"Mr. King certainly ought to give me $25 for all I've said here tonight," remarked Ald. Cooper at another time.

A Complaint.

Mr. Townsend complained particularly of the treatment accorded a party of 200 citizens who went to Springbank on Monday afternoon to picnic. Going down, he said, they were given a 15-minute service. At 7 o'clock they all gathered about the waiting place near the pavilion to go home.

A big car came down, but whizzed by without stopping, and after going around the loop came back and went right on to the city without stopping.

It was half an hour before another car came from London, and it did exactly the same thing. At half-past 8 Mr. Townsend declared the lights at the park all went out, and the crowd were left in darkness. Meanwhile another car had come and gone without stopping to take the picnickers home.

The women, Mr. Townsend said, were feeling the cold, as they had come wearing only light summer garments, and the little children were complaining also.

Blocked the Tracks.

"The only way we got a car," said Mr. Townsend, "was to place an obstruction on the tracks, and make it stop. We would probably have not got home that night if we hadn't done something. Is it fair to citizens to have to submit to this kind of treatment?

This sort of thing should not be tolerated for a moment in a city of this size. A service like that is worse than they get in St. Thomas. Another thing, on circus day all the cars on the branch lines were diverted so that the company could carry the crowds to the grounds. Is this fair to the people who want to go to points on the line? Under ordinary conditions, the service is bad enough. Time after time I have waited for 48 minutes to get a car home. It is time something was done here. The street railway tears up our streets, and keeps things upside down to suit their own convenience."

Another Grievance.

Ald. Morgan moved that No. 1 committee take the matter up at once, and have the bylaws enforced. He said that frequently he has seen Wellington street car stop on the south side of Dundas street, take on a load of men, and then shoot past the north crossing, where a lot of women and little children were waiting, without stopping. The same car would then stop at Carling street for passengers.

"This," he declared, "is a pin-headed policy."

Mayor Beattie said he thought it was certainly time that something was done, as complaints keep pouring in from people all over the city.

Ald. Wilson said he had tried to get this thing started in the spring, and had had little or no support from the council. He thought the council ought to do something at once.

Call on Railway Board.

Ald. Bennett said the Ontario railway board ought to be called in, and asked to investigate conditions in London. It was a disgrace, he said, to allow such a service. If the company hasn't got sufficient rolling stock it should get it. He moved that the Ontario railway board be asked to investigate. This was seconded by Ald. Donnelly, who also scored the street railway.

Ald. Richter said that the Ontario railway board could not be expected to come to London and time cars and look into conditions. Its business is to investigate complaints and adjudicate. He thought No. 1 committee should look into the matter, and, if necessary, draft a formal complaint for the board.

Ald. Cooper said of Ald. Morgan had the running of the street railway he would make a donkey-cart out of it.

Ald. Mitchell thought that if the street railway will not live up to their contract with the city, the company should be disfranchised.

Up to the Council.

Ald. Saunders said the council has the whole business in its own hands. If they bought anything and it was not right it wouldn't be accepted. If the street railway didn't do what was right it was up to the engineer's department to compel it do so. If the engineer tried his best and the railway wouldn't do it, it was up to the city to fight and make the railway do what was right.

Ald. Bennett finally withdrew his motion, and that of Ald. Morgan carried by a large vote.

RECIPROCITY CERTAIN TO WIN SAYS CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE

Wilcox, Borden Man in North Essex, Declares Emphatically Before Public Meeting That Laurier Will Be Returned.

Windsor, Sept. 5.—A splendid political meeting was held at Belle River last night, when more than a hundred voters from Belle River and the surrounding country crowded themselves into the town hall to hear the issues of the day discussed by parliamentary candidates from the two parties.

Mr. Oliver Wilcox, the Conservative candidate in the north riding of Essex, created the sensation of the evening in his speech when he emphatically declared that he believed the Liberal Government would be returned to power, and that reciprocity would come into force.

"What difference does it make?" he asked. "I believe that Laurier will carry the country, and you will have reciprocity, and therefore a vote for me will not matter."

Other speakers of the evening were Dr. Dewar, the Liberal candidate, Messrs. A. F. Healy and T. Reaume, of Montreal.

Dr. Dewar made an exceptionally able address, and received a warm welcome at the hands of the large audience.

BROOKS---MORAN

A Pretty Wedding in East London Tuesday Evening.

The residence of Mr. J. H. Moran, 557 Dundas street, was the scene of a very quiet but pretty wedding last evening, when Miss Sadie Moran was united in marriage to Mr. Roy Brooks. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Boyd, pastor of the Adelaide Street Baptist Church, in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the happy pair. The home of the bride was very prettily decorated in white asters and golden glow, and the bride wore a beautiful gown of white marquisette over white satin, and carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and roses. She was given away by her brother, Mr. J. H. Moran, while the wedding march was played by another brother, Mr. James Moran. Master Jack Moran was ringbearer. Mr. Ernest Moule, of Brantford, sang several appropriate songs in fine voice.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful pearl pendant. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks left last evening for Detroit and other western points, and on their return will reside at 417 Rectory street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Brooks are well known and highly esteemed throughout the city, Mr. Brooks being a member of the firm of Brooks Bros., coal dealers.

GENERAL SYNOD

Social Evils.

"In modern movements to repress social evils, it has been asked, 'Shall not the church take a leading part? Shall not the church reach out and embrace all occupations and recreations, so long as they are innocent and wholesome? Shall not the church do something to bring about the amelioration of the conditions of the poor and oppressed, and to more equally distribute the burdens of life which weigh with undue heaviness upon some and very lightly upon some others?'

"The question is, whether this was included in the direction of Christ in giving to his followers their apostolic mission.

"There is a difference between philanthropy and religion. It seems to me that we ought to try to form a clear, unbiased view and conception of the apostolic mission. Many have a conception apparently very different to the mandate given by Christ to his disciples."

Referring to recent criticisms which have been directed at the Christian church for not facing more directly the great social problems of today, the bishop declared that it was not wise to sit in the seat of the scornful, especially when the object of criticism was the church of God.

Make People Better.

"It may be the duty of the clergyman as a Christian citizen and as a man," he said, "to build better houses for the poor and to feed the hungry, but as a minister of the gospel it is his duty to make better people to put into the houses and to make people who are worthy of better houses. The church still commands her ministers to carry out the one great principle of the Master's message, the message of spiritual renewal to a sinful world."

The bishop referred to attempts which have been made in the past to unite religion with government and administration.

"Calvin and others," he continued, "in founding theocracies in Geneva and elsewhere forget the teaching of the Master, 'My kingdom is not of this world.' The gospel makes its appeal to the inner man, and it remains for you yourself to decide in what way you will serve your neighbor."

Teaching of Jesus.

"The social teaching of Jesus was a by-product of his more important and primary teaching. In order to apply his social teaching to this modern age, we must not forfeit that which gives him a place in all ages. Jesus delivered his social message incidentally as he did his work and gave the world his more important teaching. Jesus never gave his church any command to rule the politics, commerce, art, literature and social conditions of the world.

"But hospitals, schools, colleges, homes for the homeless and friendless, all charitable institutions, civil liberty and constitutional government owe their origin to and have been given to the world by Chirstian men. The work of the church is to give the Master's message to men, and fit them to deal with the problems of their age in a Christian spirit. The hospitals and institutions founded by the Christian Church have been supported voluntarily, but too often our modern institutions are supported ostentatiously by grudging tax-payers. The kingdom of heaven is within you. It does not lie in external things. I have been greatly impressed by the missionary zeal and active work of your Canadian church. Only the Master's presence could account for the heroism and the self-sacrifice of the missionaries in the northland."

SCHOOLS OF LONDON ARE CROWDED NOW

The Inspector Says That More Accommodation Will Have To Be Provided.

That more school accommodation will be needed as soon as it can be secured was in substance the report that Inspector Edwards made at the board of education meeting yesterday afternoon. He stated that on opening day the attendance was a record-breaker, and told of very serious over-crowding in Victoria School, South London, and in St. George's and Talbot streets schools. The new rooms that have been added at Wortley road school, he said, are already filled. In Victoria school in one grade there are 60 pupils in attendance, where there should only be 35. Other grades are also badly crowded. As the board has decided to establish a domestic science centre there it will be necessary to secure a house for the purpose. Recommendations that the inspector made for relieving the conditions were referred to No. 2 committee, and assistant teachers will be placed in the worst crowded rooms.

Exams. in Hot Weather.

The Hamilton Board of Education sent a copy of a petition asking that the examinations for high school and leaving pupils be held no longer in the hot weather, but at some more suitable time. The Hamilton board is sending a petition to the department in regard to the matter, and want the London board to co-operate with them. Inspector Edwards said he thought the examinations should be held at the end of the school year whenever that was.

Trustee Teasdall said he thought the warmer weather was far better for writing in than in the cold.

Principal McCutcheon stated that as far as the Collegiate is concerned, the examinations have been changed, and made two weeks earlier than formerly, and this, he thought, was plenty early enough.

It was finally decided to return the petition without taking any action on the matter.

City Clerk Baker wrote that he had been advised by the court of revision of a number of teachers who are non-residents, and escape paying income tax, while teachers residing in the city have to pay. It was decided to send the communication to No. 1 committee.

Miss Harriet Blackwell wrote asking to be transferred from King street school to Victoria. Referred to No. 1.

None of his relatives or friends were there to say good-bye. The former bellboy must stay in prison for 20 years, or until he is 37 years old. At the end of that period the board of parole will decide whether his punishment shall continue. His imprisonment may last for life.

PACKED MEETING OF ELECTORS CHEERS FOR CANDIDATE PARDEE

Chief Government Whip and Minister of Labor Address a Big Gathering in Boys' Brigade Hall at Sarnia.

[By Our Own Man.]

Sarnia, Sept. 5.—There have been rumors most industriously circulated by the Tory press that Mr. F. F. Pardee, late member for West Lambton, would be overwhelmingly defeated in the coming elections. Where that idea came from is very difficult to see, as every indication points to the fact that Mr. Pardee will be re-elected by a large majority.

This was borne out tonight, when a splendid rally was held in the Boys' Brigade Hall. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King was the chief speaker of the evening, and the whole town practically turned out to do him honor. The hall was packed to suffocation, and a hundred or more went to the rear and got in that way. There were many more who could not crowd into the building.

Hon. Mackenzie King dealt altogether with reciprocity. On the occasion of his former visit a month or so ago, he dealt with the labor question, particularly as it had reference to the Grand Trunk strike. The explanation then given was highly satisfactory to the railwaymen, and today they are all behind Mr. Pardee in this campaign. Tonight, Mr. King showed the advantages of reciprocity both to the farmer and the consumer as well. His logical, well-arranged facts, made a distinctive appeal to the audience, and they cheered him lustily.

Local Issues.

Mr. Pardee spoke of local issues, such as the opening up of the reserve south of the city, harbor improvements, and the armories. His explanation of these questions were most satisfactory. He spoke on reciprocity very briefly, but declared that he was unreservedly in its favor. Mr. David Milne, ex-mayor, presided. On the platform were Mr. R. I. Towers, John Cowan, and other well-known citizens.

Mr. Milne briefly introduced the speakers. He was pleased to see such interest in the campaign, and hoped that on Sept. 21st, the electors of West Lambton would show their approval of the course taken by Mr. F. F. Pardee in the House of Commons by electing him by a large majority.

Cheers for Candidate.

Mr. Pardee was given an ovation as he arose to speak. He was proud to see so large an attendance of the electors of Sarnia. It was a tribute to the worth of Hon. Mackenzie King, whose efforts on behalf of the workingmen of Canada had resulted in great benefit to them.

Mr. Pardee pointed out that during the campaign local issues had arisen, and the criticisms of his opponents should be answered. The first was that of the opening up of the Indian Reservation, south of Sarnia. Mr. Pardee thought it would be a good thing if the Indians could be removed in some amicable and just way, from the 5,500 acres of land in that district. It would allow Sarnia to expand, and would provide factory sites. He had endeavored to have the reservation opened up, but had not succeeded. However, he did succeed in having an act passed by which a city or town could expropriate certain lands for city purposes, and a fair price would be received by the owners. That act was in force at the present time, and if the citizens desired to have the reserve opened they could do so by applying to the exchequer court, and proceedings would at once be taken to expropriate the land. This step he considered was in the interests of the town of Sarnia.

Harbor Improvements.

The next question was that of harbor improvements. The Government had been criticized, he declared, because the harbor had not been improved. This was impossible for a long time, owing to the fact that the harbor front was owned altogether by private individuals. However, a lease of the Grand Trunk property had been obtained for 21 years and the Government intended expending $140,000 in improving the harbor. Of this amount $50,000 had already been appropriated, but owing to the fact that the Opposition would not permit the passing of supplies, just $13,000 was available for immediate use. The Government would, however, expend that much money at once, and the remainder as soon as possible.

Criticism had also been made because of the fact that the armories were being built now, the Conservatives declaring that it was merely an election dodge. Mr. Pardee explained that the question of armories was one that had been before the Department of Public Works for a long time. Plans had been submitted to the officers of the regiment, but were found to be inadequate. They were sent back, and after much discussion, the Government at last consented to build an armory of sufficient size to meet the needs of Sarnia.

No Election Dodge.

"There was no election dodge whatever in this matter," said Mr. Pardee. "It has been under discussion for a long time, and we have succeeded in obtaining an armories sufficient to meet the requirements of a growing town such as this is."

Touching on reciprocity, Mr. Pardee gave it his most unqualified support.

"I believe in it from start to finish," he declared. "I am convinced that it will be the best thing for the farmer, the fisherman, the lumberman and the miner. I am convinced that it will be the best thing for the workingman and the consumer. The manufacturers will be benefited by the increase in trade and the greater prosperity of the Dominion. They are behind me here in this campaign, as they are in other places, in spite of the declaration of Joe Armstrong, of cold cream fame, that they are not. This is what all parties have been fighting for these 40 years, and now we have it."

Hon. Mackenzie King.

Hon. Mackenzie King declared that the reciprocity agreement was another evidence of the constructive, progressive policy of the Government. The opposition to the pact was founded altogether on misrepresentation, not argument.

For many years, Canada sent representatives to Washington to endeavor to negotiate such an agreement as has been arranged.

United States the Suitor.

Canada was playing the role of the suitor, and her position was not the st. ngest. These appeals, of both Liberal and Conservative Governments were refused, and nothing came of it. The United States, however, became the suitor last winter, and then Canada was in a position, a much better position than formerly, to make a bargain advantageous to herself. The proposition was made by the United States, and the representatives of the Dominion considered it. They came to the conclusion that the best bargain that could be made was that of reciprocity in natural products, something on which both the parties for many years had been agreed. As a result of the strong position held by the Canadian Government the advantage of the pact is all with the Canadian people.

"We were not in a position to discuss manufactures," said Hon. Mr. King. "In spite of the statements made by the Opposition this agreement does not touch manufactured goods, save in one or two isolated cases. The great body of manufacturers are not touched. Nor should they be. I would oppose reciprocity in manufactured goods. We simply wanted to provide a market for the surplus goods of the farmers of Canada, and that we have provided under this agreement."

Under the arrangement the tariff on natural products was removed, and that in spite of the fact that the United States had to lower her tariff much more than Canada on many articles.

There was a contention that this agreement should run for ten years. This, however, was opposed by Canada, whose representatives decided that it should remain in force only so long as either party to the bargain desired it.

"I was amazed at the Opposition," said Mr. King. "The members of the Conservative party were in sympathy with it when it was first brought down Then there came a change of heart. Hon. Mr. Fielding challenged Mr. Borden to allow this agreement to pass, and after a year make an appeal to the country on the issue. Mr. Borden would not accept that challenge. He was not sincere in his opposition to it, or he would have allowed it to pass, on the responsibility of the Government, and then if it worked out as disastrously for Canada as he imagined, the Liberals would have been swept out of power for many, many years."

As for the pact, there was no doubt but that it was in the best interests of the farmers. They asked for it, and there is a great unanimity of opinion that it will prove a blessing, giving him plenty of room to specialize, and assuring him for all time to come a large and profitable market.

Benefits Consumer.

There was no question that the pact would be beneficial to the consumer. Mr. King quoted statistics to the effect that while hogs are on an average 38 cents a hundred pounds higher in the United States, the price of bacon, etc., was from 1 to 5 cents cheaper on the other side.

Canadian bacon could be obtained in Liverpool 4 cents a pound cheaper than it could in Montreal. There is a combine that fixes the price of the raw material and the finished article as well, with the result that the consumer pays the shot.

Mr. King instanced the enormous profits of the Davies Company, showing that they ranged from 15 per cent to 120 per cent, covering a term of years. That should not be, he declared, and this agreement would relieve the consumer from this unjust burden by giving competition.

The same argument held good as it referred to cattle. The farmer did not receive so much for his cattle, but the consumer had to pay more for his beef. There was no doubt of thee truth of this argument so far as canned goods were concerned.

The speaker read a prospectus of a fruit company of which Hon. Geo. E. Foster was a director. The purpose of this company was to obtain a monopoly of the raw material, and a control of the output. The prospectus saw great profits for them.

"Would it not be better for the farmer to have two or three markets in which he could sell his produce, than trust to the tender mercies and men like that?" asked Mr. King amid cheers.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. King and Mr. Pardee were given three hearty cheers.

W. B. LAWSON
Boots, Shoe and Leather Goods
198 Dundas Street

London, Sept. 6, 1911

TO THE CITIZENS OF LONDON:

I am quitting business--I want to thank my friends, many of whom have dealt with me for nearly a quarter of a century, for their patronage, I wish also to announce a clearing out of my entire stock of Boots, Shoes and Leather Goods at greatly reduced prices. My lease expires shortly and I will have hard work to turn over the stock in hand in the time I have left.

Whatever success I have achieved in business I attribute to the consistent pricing of goods and the giving of my customers the advantage of whatever bargains I have been able to procure in job lines, etc., and a policy of not making concessions to one that I would have to overcharge another to make up for. I have never favored sensational claims to slaughter sales, but have valued rather the confidence of customers.

My retiring sale will be conducted on the same principles. Positively every line on hand will be cut down consistently in price and my friends and the public can depend on special values till all the stock is sold.

Obediently yours,
W. B. LAWSON.

Sale Commences Tomorrow at 9 a. m.
