TO PROSECUTE THE STRIKERS

Linemen Alleged to Have Assaulted and Intimidated their Superintendents

Charge Preferred Under the Crown Statute—Case Will be Investigated in Police Court

Resultant upon the trouble arising from the alleged strike of the linemen on the electric railway follows a somewhat serious Police Court case against the strikers. This morning Edwin Bell, L.L.D., acting for the company, waited upon Crown Attorney Smith to prefer information against the non-workers under the Crown statute for assault and intimidation and action will be taken immediately.

The information arises out of the trouble near the Aberdeen Hotel and other places, and is somewhat serious in character. The workmen, it is said, have been threatened with very serious consequences even to the taking of life, and having been repeatedly chased and assaulted, bricks, etc., being thrown at them. It has been necessary to detail a special constable for their protection. The case will come before Judge Houston at Police Court.

ECLIPSE WAS VISIBLE HERE

Unusual Phenomenon Occurred at Early Hour
This Morning

Has an Important Bearing Upon Scientific Data Concerning the Sun's Corona

An eclipse of the sun was visible this morning at 5.55. Those who were aware that the phenomenon would take place and were astir at that hour say that the eclipse was a good one, lasting several minutes. G. W. Sulman was one of the few favored with the sight. The phenomenon was more plainly visible in the northern portions of the continent, especially in Labrador. Observatories have fitted out expeditions to view the occurrence and take scientific observations and data therefrom. It is expected that the event will be a momentous one in scientific circles.

Abbe Moreux, director of the observatory at Bauges, France, in an article on solar eclipses, says today's phenomenon may lead to a solution of the problem of the sun's corona.

He hopes some one of the observers who will view the eclipse will discover through it a method of photographing the corona at other times than during eclipses and give the scientific world greater opportunity to study the corona.

With almost daily views of the corona, instead of only such infrequent views as are given by the occurrence of eclipses, astronomers will be able to determine the exact nature of the corona, and be better able to say whether it is the cause of solar activity.

Its analysis, from a chemical point of view, in spite of multiple experiments, is not yet complete.

Nevertheless it appears to result from the facts that the corona is formed of particles emitting in part their own light and also reflecting the light of the sun.

The prevailing gas of the corona is an element unknown to terrestrial chemistry, but it has been named "coronium."

It is much lighter than hydrogen, and its existence in the upper regions of our atmosphere appear to be beyond doubt, for it has been discovered in the spectrum of the aurora borealis.

"But how do the particles keep in place? Admitting that they are projected by an eruptive force emanating from the sun, one must resort to fantastic speed to explain how it is that some of them may be thrown off as far as twelve times the sun's diameter, as was the case with the corona in 1878."

"Calculations show that the initial speed of 612 kilometers per second must be required to send a molecule indefinitely from the sun."

"If the solar corona is really the determining cause of solar activity, its study assumes a character of a thoroughly practical order affecting, as it does the relations between the sun and terrestrial meteorology, including magnetic storms, rain storms, earthquakes, famines and droughts, which appear in their principal lines, connected with activity of the sun."

"The general laws of this activity we know, but when we come to detail it becomes much more difficult to define them. Were the state of the sun better known it would probably furnish a certain means of predicting many phenomena a long way ahead."

NO TROUBLE

Two Sides to the Story of the Line Men's Strike—Quit of Their Own Accord Without Grievance

There are apparently two sides to the story of the linemen's so-called strike on the electric road—and so far the striking linemen have monopolized public attention with theirs, which, it is claimed, has been highly colored.

A more careful study of the situation, as disclosed by questioning the other side, goes to show that there was no grievance and no union dissatisfaction. The facts appear to be that the President of the road discharged the foreman on account of an alleged dissatisfaction. The man quit and was paid up, making no protest to the company. Then, it is believed, he persuaded certain of his assistants to quit. These men, on visiting the company's office for their cheques, frankly declared they had no grievance but were quitting in sympathy with the discharged foreman. This, the company held, was their right if they so desired, although regretting the course.

A number of new men were then engaged—all union men and paid the same regulation salaries—and the stories of a so-called strike were unreliable. The rumor concerning the marriage certificate of one of the men is reported as absolutely without foundation and very unfair to the workman interested. Work is proceeding by the company as usual.

Son of Dresden Man Chides Playmates for Singing and Then a Bolt of Lightning Strikes Him

Dresden, Aug. 29.—During a very severe storm, which passed over here about noon to-day, Welda Thatcher, 12 years of age, son of William Thatcher, North Dresden, was struck by lightning and killed.

He had been in swimming with several boys when they noticed the storm. They came out and were singing and playing under some trees. Thatcher said:

"Boys, you should not be so happy. You don't know when you may be struck," and then went off by himself under another tree.

Not long afterward the boys saw a ball of lightning strike near the boy, throwing him into the air. When they got to him he could not speak. He was taken home, where doctors in vain tried to restore life.

"PARADA"

With 200 people at the Grand all next week, seats went on sale this morning.

"Parada" is a big musical show, an excellently-managed jumble of light opera, which will not fail to please everybody. Four acts, each complete in itself, each of separate nature, unique and entirely new. The first stage setting resembles a fairy grotto, with graphic statuettes in effect. The dance of the fairies in this act is something entirely new and excellent in effect. The Jap chorus is novel and found to be a great hit. It gives an audience a delightful look into court life of the Island Empire, and is worth the price of admission alone. Scene two depicts military life in a true light, and will not fail to please the most aesthetic audience. Besides the trustworthiness of the play the citizens of this city will have a delightful chance to extend a helping hand to the Ladies' Assisting Society of the Public General Hospital.

LARGE WEDDING

A very pretty wedding took place at Centennial Church at noon yesterday when Miss Bertie Cecelia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Little, was united in marriage to Garnet Twist Thompson, of Blenheim, Ont. Rev. Geo. H. McAllister officiated.

Miss Maude McFarland was bridesmaid, while Stanley E. Thompson, of Niagara Falls, Ont., assisted the groom. Master Pierson Irving and little Addie Wallace acted as flower bearers.

After the ceremony about two hundred guests sat down to luncheon in the basement of the church.

Guests were present from Blenheim, Glenora, Strathroy, Melbourne, Chatham and Niagara Falls.

The happy couple left on the afternoon flyer on a honeymoon trip to New York and other eastern points.—London Free Press.

Expect Him to Confess.

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—Detective McCaskill, who arrested James Laderoute on the charge of murdering the Syrian pedlar in Aldfield Township, in the Pontiac district, expects that the prisoner will soon break down and make a confession. The evidence at the inquest made matters look bad for Laderoute.

Cholera at Manila.

Manila, Aug. 30.—The cholera epidemic has taken rather an unfavorable turn. Since 8 o'clock yesterday morning until 6 in the evening there have been eleven new cases reported among the natives. The total number of cases treated since the outbreak has been forty, with deaths numbering 25.

A good many Canadian girls appear to have a fascination for Detroit which oftentimes leads to their ruin.

A despatch received from Detroit last night stated that while on a round-up of questionable characters who stayed in hotels with chance acquaintances made in the street, one London girl, two Chatham girls and another from Bothwell were arrested. All are being held until word has been received from their parents.

Startling Story of the Ab-

Said to Have Been Carried in Row Boat by Two Men—Crown Has no
Official Information

On Friday last The Planet called attention to the gruesome action of the river in uncovering several of the graves in the old Dolsen burying ground and exposing on the banks portions of coffins and parts of skeletons. A startling sequel is now reported.

It is stated that on Monday night, shortly after dusk, two men, who came up the river in a row boat, removed a coffin box containing a skeleton and rowed rapidly away down the river with their ghastly cargo. What their object can have been is a mystery unless, as has been suggested, they were in the employ of medical students, but the report naturally occasions profound and righteous indignation and the matter should be thoroughly investigated by the township authorities, to whom the condition of the country cemetery has before been reported.

Crown Attorney Smith, when seen by The Planet in reference to the case, stated that no official complaint had yet been made to the Crown relative to the alleged robbery of the remains. An effort, however, was being made to sift the matter to its minutest detail.

RAILWAYS AND POLITICS.

In the August number of Tom Watson's magazine J. A. Edgerton discusses the subject of government ownership of railways. Mr. Edgerton is an idealist, and is perhaps apt to take too much for granted. One of the chief arguments urged against government ownership is that it would give the administration too great political power—that it would put the railways in politics. Not so, says Mr. Edgerton:

As a matter of fact it would have the very opposite effect, as is shown by the history of all other nations that have adopted the system. The railways are now in politics, and very much in it at that. They absolutely control many of the states; they maintain their lobby at Washington, their literary bureaus to influence public opinion, their congressmen and senators, their political leaders and pass dispensers. They charge the government exorbitant prices for carrying its mails. One of the chief objects of government ownership is to take the railroads out of politics. Now the employees are forced to vote, in many instances, as the management dictates. Under government operation they would be under a civil service system that would leave them free. No administration would dare attempt to use them for political purposes. If it did the cry of "federal brigade" would be raised as never before, and that administration would be deluged under a tide of adverse votes that would discourage any further efforts in that direction.

Unfortunately, we in Canada know that government ownership of railways does not necessarily bring about the ideal conditions that Mr. Edgerton describes. We know that government ownership in Canada has not "taken the railroads out of politics," and that no administration has been "deluged under a tide of adverse votes" for doing that same. In fact Canadian public opinion is so callous and indifferent on the subject that it has come to be regarded as quite natural and inevitable that the government railway system should be exploited for party advantage by the government in power.

For all that, Mr. Edgerton's ideal is a good and great ideal—practicable, too, and one worth striving for. It will be noticed that he assumes as a matter of course, that when government ownership comes it will be accompanied by an independent civil service system. That means that the operation of the government railways would be made a matter of business wholly and that the political element would be eliminated. If that course were followed in the management of our Canadian system of government railways, we would hear no more complaints about the extravagance and inefficiency of that system—but a great object lesson to the discredit of the government ownership principal would be spoiled.

HAULTAIN'S CRIME.

Toronto News.

All the geese of the party organs are necessarily swans. During the next few weeks two great statements will appear in the west, and in the east we shall in consequence have earth tremors. The two new premieres are the hitherto undetected geniuses. Neither of them was thought able enough to be minister of the Interior by Sir Wilfrid Laurier a few weeks ago, but as provincial premiers they are considered by the faithful to outrank Mr. Haultain, whose sole merit was being chosen year after year by the people who knew him best. Mr. Haultain's crime was serious enough. He failed to discover in ten minutes by the clock that the public school system is a blot on civilization, and the sinister source of all evils that afflict the body politic from house-breaking to appendicitis.

TELEPHONE TALKS.

TO TELEPHONE USERS AND THE GENERAL PUBLIC.

Speaking of the long distance telephone in England one witness said "The service is universally conceded to be the worst in the world," and this statement was not questioned by a single person throughout the enquiry.

The Chairman of the Committee said "I do not think there is any worse place than England for a Telephone system. That is my experience."

This is the undisputed comment on Government operation of the telephone in Great Britain.

The Chairman examining an expert witness from London as to the reason for England being so far behind the United States in telephone matters, obtained the following statement: "Broadly speaking the fundamental reason is Government monopoly. No one can establish a telephone system without a license from the Postmaster-General, and the Postmaster-General will only issue a license for a limited period. To my mind the whole point is the limited license. No company with a limited license can properly develop a business which requires a continuous expenditure of new capital like the telephone business does. You cannot raise money to carry on a business when the right to do business is going to expire in seven or eight years and exists on totally uncertain conditions."

The financial results of Government operation are startling. The financial statement of the Postal Department for 1904, covering telegraphs and telephones, shows a deficit on working expenses of £983,681. If interest on capital invested is included, the deficit for last year is raised to £1,282,560—upwards of six and a quarter millions of dollars; or the deficit for the year amounted to one-third of the gross revenue from both telegraphs and telephones. The Government has not been able from earnings to pay interest on capital invested since 1872.

The Government returns show that the accumulated deficit from 1870 to 1904 of the Postal Department on the working of telegraphs and telephones, to meet interest and working expenses, amounts to £12,113,560—a total loss in thirty-four years of $60,000,000.

The Government in their reports do not separate the telephone from the telegraph but it is noted that the annual deficits have largely increased since they took over the long distance telephone lines.

The conditions of the telephone in Great Britain under Government control are indisputable,—the worst service in the world and a series of annual deficits that are astounding.

Yet experts say that the same service under such administration as a company would give, would result in greatly improved service, tremendous development, and a business profitable to the investors.

Canadians can read the lesson for themselves.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA.

ions will be expressed in some newspapers.

But the Canadian climate is one of those good wines that needs no bush. Any prospective emigrant from Great Britain or Europe who cherishes the idea that Canada is a land of perpetual ice and snow and stays away from us because of that impression can't have brains enough to make him of much use to Canada any way. The Canadian climate which produces Number One Hard wheat produces Number One Hard men. The cheaper lines of wheat and men are grown in countries where there is no decent winter.

CAUSE OF HAY FEVER

Hyomei the Only Cure—Gives Change of Climate in Your Own Home.

Fifty years ago hay fever had not been named, but undoubtedly people suffered then as now, with watery eyes, excessive running at the nose.

The direct causes appear to be heat, dust, and the pollen of flowers, and the only treatment that physicians recommended prior to the discovery of Hyomei was a change of climate. Now by using Hyomei you can save an expensive trip to the mountains and escape weeks of suffering. This remarkable treatment kills the germs of the disease and soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane. It really gives you in your own home a change of climate, and hay fever sufferers know from past experience that this is the only thing that has afforded them relief. By breathing Hyomei a few times daily you can save the expense of a trip to the mountains and avoid the dangerous hay fever.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1, extra bottles, 50 cents, and consists of a neat pocket inhaler, through which Hyomei is breathed, and which will last a life-time, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The Central Drug Store offers to refund the money if Hyomei does not do all that is claimed for it.

A Part of the Problem.

In an English inn, where some laborers were sitting one evening, mathematics became the topic of conversation, when one of the company propounded the old-time problem, "If a herring and a half cost a penny and a half what would three herring cost?" There was silence for several minutes, while all sat smoking and thinking. At last one of the thinkers spoke, "Bill, did you say 'herring' or 'mackerel'?"

CALL OF DEATH

There passed away on August 5, after a short illness, Caroline, wife of John Hamby, of Cedar Springs. Deceased was 67 years of age and a former resident of Whitby, Ont. There she was married at the age of 23. She came with her husband to Cedar Springs in 1858, where for the most part they have lived until the time of her death. Naturally of a cheerful and hopeful disposition, she invariably extended to all her friends and acquaintances a warm and hearty welcome, and made her home what it was, the seat of the seat of the good and true old English hospitality for those who came; and the remembrance of her acts of kindness will linger with the community from time to time for many a day. Mrs. Hamby was born the 24th of February, 1838 at St. Tossel, in the County of Cornwall, England.

There is left to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate wife and mother, besides the husband, two sons and two daughters, Richard G., J. Edmund, Grace and Emma, all living at home.

Also the following four sisters and one brother, as follows: Mrs. Thomas Symons, of Shelburne, Mrs. Thomas Bartley, Kent Bridge, Miss Adeline Pengelly, of Toronto, Mrs. Alfred Claus and Mr. John Pengelly, of Cedar Springs.

The funeral took place on Monday the 7th, at 2 o'clock, to the Crawford Cemetery, the services being conducted at the house by the Rev. Mr. Clayton and Mr. Kennedy, of Cedar Springs.

A large and sympathetic cortege followed the remains to their last resting place.

A WARNING TO MOTHERS.

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipient stage and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by all druggists.

An Easy Way to Test Flour.

Every housewife knows that some flour will make good bread, while other flour will not. If you want to find out for yourself whether it is a good bread flour, test it in the following way: In the first place, see that it is white with a faint yellow tinge. Then take some of it up in your hand and press it; it will fall apart loosely, not in lumps. Rub some of it between your fingers; it will not feel entirely smooth and powdery, but you will be able faintly to distinguish the different particles. Put a little of it between your teeth and chew; it will crunch a little, and the taste will be sweet and nutty without any acidity—that is, it is a good bread flour it will do all these things.

FISHES THAT ARE RACERS.

The Tarpon, Shark and Mackerel Are the Speed Champions.Study of the speed of fishes is embarrassed by unfavorable difficulties.
It is not possible, as with birds, to set up tall poles at intervals of a quarter of a mile and, with the help of stop watches, time them as they go by.
Nevertheless investigation of the subject goes to show that the mackerel, if not the champion racer of the briny deep, comes pretty near to carrying off the honors. Unquestionably it travels sometimes as fast as an express train at high speed—say, at the rate of sixty or possibly seventy miles an hour.Other things being equal, the larger the fish the faster it swims, just as the huge steamship is able to travel at a speed much greater than the little harbor tug. Undoubtedly the energy employed by a fish of great size, such as a thirty foot shark when traveling at its best gait, is something tremendous.
An ordinary tug, which represents a maximum of energy in a minimum of bulk, utilizes about 200 horsepower.
Of course it is only a guess, but it would not seem to be over the mark to suppose that a seventy foot whale makes use of 500 horsepower when it propels its huge bulk through the water at a rate of thirty miles an hour.
A whale, which is a mammal and not a fish, might be compared to a freight train if the shark is a cannon ball express, but it can beat the fastest ocean greyhound in a speed contest.If there is a fish that can travel faster than a shark it must be the tarpon, which can probably "hit her up" to the tune of eighty miles an hour, if pressed for time. Generally speaking, it may be said that finny creatures which live near the surface of the sea are swift swimmers, as compared with those that dwell in the depths. Thus the cod, which is a deep water species, is sluggish and would stand no show at all in a race with the mackerel or herring. These latter, which are distinctively pelagic, depend for their living upon their activity in pursuing agile prey, and they must be quick in their movements in order to escape their own enemies.If the mackerel were as big as a good sized shark it would probably be the speed champion of the ocean. No fish is better shaped for rapid going. Some years ago a yacht builder in New York constructed a sloop with a hull patterned exactly after the underbody of a Spanish mackerel. She was called the Undine, and, if tradition does not lie, she never was beaten. Like the fish after which she was modeled, she had her greatest breadth of beam forward of midships—a decidedly novel idea in boat building. One may say, indeed, that all modern water craft are more or less fishlike in their make-up; yet, on the whole, it is surprising that marine architects have not striven more earnestly than they have done to obtain hints from nature's own illustrations of aquatic speed making principles.Why He Disliked the Man.
I once heard of a man who, discussing a name on the visiting list, said to his wife, "You know perfectly well that I don't like that man." "Don't you think you are a little unreasonable?" asked the wife. "Your dislike arose because he did not answer a letter you wrote him, and you found afterward that the letter was hung up all summer in the pocket of your overcoat and was never sent to him at all."
"Yes, I know that," was the rejoinder,
"but it was so long before I found it out that I couldn't overlook his rudeness, and I never forgive him, and I don't believe I ever shall." There is a good deal of ill feeling in this world that is without any firmer foundation.
—Printers' Ink.The Cat.
A little English girl wrote the following essay on a cat: "The cat is a square quadruped, and is as customary with square quadrupeds, has its legs at the four corners. If you want to please this animal you must stroke it on the back. If it is very much pleased it sets up its tail quite stiff, like a ruler, so that your hand cannot get any farther. The cat is said to have nine lives, but in this country it seldom needs them all because of Christianity."Misfortunes Sometimes a Blessing.
However others may think of it, yet I take it as a mercy that now and then some clouds come between me and my sun, and many times some troubles do conceal my comforts, for I perceive if I should find too much friendship in any inn in my pilgrimage I should soon forget my father's house and my heritage.—Dr. Lucas.A Divine Joy.

Did Me Any Good—Was Growing

CUTICURA REMEDIESMiss Nellie Vander Wiele, of Lakeside, N. Y., writing under date of April 18, 1904, says: "I do wish you would publish this letter in the newspapers, so that others suffering as I have may see it and be helped. I suffered for many months with an awful skin disease, sores covering my ears, neck, and cheeks. Scabs would form and they would swell, and itch day and night. Then they would break open and blood and matter run out. I had tried many different remedies, but none of them did me any good. I was growing worse when I tried the Cuticura Remedies. The first application helped me, and when I had used two cakes of Cuticura Soap, I three boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and three bottles of Cuticura Resol-

A RACE FOR LIFE.

Spurring his faded horse to renewed efforts when the animal should be refreshed with proper food and rest, is about as sensible as prescribing nerve tonics, alcoholics compounds, coca mixtures and cocktails which only spur on the already weakened nervous system. Neither does it do to put the nerves to sleep with narcotics. When you feel worn-out, broken down, jaded, and feel the effects of brain strain as well as nerve weakness, sleeplessness and fatigue, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a tonic which will do you lasting good. Build you up, increase your appetite and strength and improve the condition of the blood.
When the blood is impoverished the nerves feel the effect. Nervousness in nine cases out of ten is the "cry of the starved nerves for food." Feed the nerves on rich blood and all nervous manifestations will cease.
"It has been seven months since using Dr.
Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and I only used three bottles of the medicine when it made me feel like a new man," writes S. A. Miller, Esq. (care of Mr. Amos Hyre, R. D. 10), Dayton, Ohio. "I had doctored with two local physicians without benefit. I felt all worn out, and had an awful misery in my back for two years but noticed a change for the better when I began using your 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

A MEDIAEVAL NAVY.

The Queer Implements of Attack and Defense That Were Used.Very strange to modern eyes would be the armament of Great Britain's mediaeval navy. The very names of many of the implements of attack and defense sound queer. According to the books, in the year 1337 the vessels of the navy were furnished with "espringalls," ancient spring guns; "han-bergeons," coats of mail; "bacinets," small helmets; bows, arrows, doublets, targets; "pavises," large shields placed at the sides and serving the double purpose of protection against the sea and against the enemy; lances and "grip barrels." As early as 1338 cannon formed part of the armament of ships, and about 1372 guns and gunpowder were commonly used. Among the stores belonging to one vessel of that time were three iron cannon with five chambers, a hand gun and three old stone bags, probably for shot. Another ship had an iron cannon with two chambers and one brass cannon with one chamber.Among other implements of war used at that time were "cannon paviers" or stone shot throwers and "murderers," which were smaller and threw any kind of shot. There were also "basilisks," port pieces, "stock fowlers," "sakers," and "bombards."
The bombardiers were of hammered iron, made of bars welded and bound together with iron bands. They threw stone shot weighing between 140 pounds and 195 pounds. A battery of these erected on a slip of land at the naval battle of Chiosgia (1380) between the Venetians and the Genoese did great damage. They were loaded overnight and were fired in the morning.Froissart tells of a bombard used at one of these ancient sieges that "might be heard five leagues off in the daytime and ten at night. The report of it was so loud that it seemed as if all the devil in hell had broken loose." Its brass ordinance was first cast in England in the year 1335. The pieces had various names. Many of different caliber were mounted on the same deck, which must have caused great confusion in action in finding for each its proper shot.

THE ESKIMO CANOE.

It is a Curious Little Craft That Is Cranky, Yet Safe.It is in Greenland that the hunting ability of the Eskimo reaches its highest development. He has a fine mechanical skill. Bones, ivory, stones, a little driftwood, skins and the sinew of the reindeer are the materials from which he must make his boat and his weapons. There is nothing else. Says a Greenland traveler: "Of these the Eskimo builds a canoe, its frame of bones and driftwood, its covering of translucent sealskin sewed together with sinew. This kayak is decked over, except for a hole in the middle framed with a wooden ring. The Eskimo wriggles into this hole, his legs extended into the fore part of the boat.""Round his waist there is a cylinder of sealskin, the lower edge of which draws over the wooden ring and is pulled tight with a thong, making all water tight to the armpits. For heavy weather the cylinder is part of a skin shirt with a hood. Strings tighten this hood to the face and cuffs to the wrists, while a pair of long sleeved mitts protect the hands and arms."
"So rigged a good man can turn his canoe bottom upward and right himself again with sliding strokes of his paddle, for he is as waterproof as a duck. Moreover, his vessel is so flexible that it is almost safe from being crushed in the ice drift and, being limber, is extremely swift when propelled by the double ended paddle.""On the other hand, the vessel is so cranky that only about two-thirds of the native men have nerve and balance enough to hunt. Only three or four Danes in all Greenland have dared use a kayak."

Children Quick and Slow.

"Children of splendid intellectual endowments are sometimes thought to be stupid," says an observing teacher.
"The sharp child who learns a lesson in the shortest possible time, who is first with his answers in the mental arithmetic class, who can produce dates and geographical names on demand, is the one the teacher loves, and most commonly he is the one who in after life goes on the safe road to competence, but he is not one of those whose thoughts will be treasured by the world long after he has quitted it. And quite often the so called stupid child is one of the dreamers in whom are the powers of the artist, poet or philosopher struggling for expression."

He Knew His Man.

During the battle of Waterloo there was a frightful panic in Brussels. It was reported that the allies were beaten, and people were flying in all directions. The Duke of Wellington's cook went on quietly with his duties.
He was begged to save himself, but replied, "I have served my master while he fought a hundred battles, and he never yet failed to come to his dinner."

PHYSICAL DEBILITY

The Latest Method Treatment is a heaven-sent boon to nervous sufferers. There are scores and hundreds of persons suffering from severe nervous disorder resulting from overwork, worry, business and domestic cares, bereavements, dissipation, etc. To them life is one continual round of misery, while peace, comfort and happiness are imposdizziness, dizziness, restlessness, irritability, constant indescribable fear, forebodings, sleeplessness, weakness, trembling, heart palpitation, cold limbs, utter fatigue and ex-

Black Coal Smoke.

There is, it seems, a great deal more than carbon in black coal smoke. Professor E. Knecht analyzed the soot from Manchester coal smoke, and at a lecture in London he exhibited the results of his analysis. Among them were snow white samples of ammonium chloride, ammonium sulphate, calcium sulphate and a beautifully crystallized paraffin hydrocarbon similar in properties and composition to a substance present in beeswax. The soot also contained 13 per cent of heavy hydrocarbon oils. From some of the products Professor Knecht prepared a brown dyestuff which produced absolutely fast shades on cotton.

Fractional Relatives.

"And have you any brothers and sisters, my little man?" asked the kind old lady.
"Yes'm," replied the little man. "I got one sister and one and a half brothers."
"What?"
"Yes, sir; two half sisters and three half brothers."

An Impression of Tell.

"Mister," answered Plodding Pete,
"I have to answer dat question so much dat it's gittin' to be jes de same as work."

FINGER MARKS ON THROAT.

Dead Man Found Stitting in Rear of a Toronto Hotel.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—With black finger marks imprinted on his throat, William Tomlinson was found yesterday morning in the back yard of the Gladstone Hotel, Parkdale, under circumstances which point strongly to murder. He had quite a large roll of money in his pocket, and it was found on him at the time of his death. The deceased, who was a temperate young man, was drinking in the hotel the night before. Becoming suddenly sick, four young friends carried him into the open air. After placing him where he was found the next morning they left for home.

He was in perfect health, when he left the Dominion Radiator Works at six o'clock. After supper he went back to do some extra work. His partner not arriving he started for home. On his way home he stopped at the hotel where he met his friends. They had several drinks. Shortly after he was taken ill and was carried out.

No outcry was heard by the inhabitants of the hotel during the night. The deceased was a machinist, 25 years of age. He and his brother were employed as moulders in the same shop and are the only support of their mother who is a widow. They live at 22 Waterloo avenue. An inquest will be held.

GIVEN LEAVE TO APPEAL.

C. P. R. May Now State Objections to G. T. P. Route.

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—The Board of Railway Commissioners agreed yesterday morning to give the Canadian Pacific Railway an early opportunity to state its objections to the proposed location of the Grand Trunk Pacific line west of Portage la Prairie.

The matter must be dealt with at once, as the Board is shortly leaving on an extended tour in Western Canada. It is evident, though, that the C. P. R. is determined to put up a vigorous fight.

Russians Angry.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 30.—A Russian official of high standing, who is thoroughly conversant with the policy of the Government, expressed his regret that Russia had ceded to Japan even half of Sakhalin.

"The Japanese were bluffing," he said, "and if we had held out we would never have been obliged to give them any territory whatever."

Another high official said: "The result attained at Portsmouth kills Russia in the far east. Our long years of effort and the expenditure of vast sums are practically totally lost to us."

Yellow Fever Bulletin.

New Orleans, Aug. 30.—Yellow fever report to 6 p. m. yesterday: New cases, 45; total cases to date, 1,335; deaths yesterday, 7; total deaths to date, 267; new disease centres, 97; total to date, 4,299; cases remaining under treatment, 214.

RAN AWAY

Maimie Passmore Left a Happy Home in Ridgetown but Will be Taken Back.

Miss Maimie Passmore, of Ridgetown, a young girl about 17 years of age, ran away from home about two weeks ago, and has since been the cause of much worry and anxiety to her relatives. She was safely garnered in this morning, however.

Her aunt, Miss Passmore, a nurse, in Ridgetown, arrived in town this morning and located Maimie at the Tecumseh House and took her home this afternoon.

The young girl in question is the youngest of a family of three girls. When she was four weeks old her mother died and her father moved to Welland. Since then the three girls have been under the care of their aunt in Ridgetown, who undertook to educate them and give them a good start in life.

Maimie lived with her aunt and grandmother in Ridgetown, and was a good girl until she fell in with poor companions. Her aunt is a nurse and is often away from home, and Maimie has been left to do much as she pleases.

About two weeks ago the aunt had a fever patient whom she could not leave and Maimie took advantage of this to launch out in the world. She first went to Blenheim, where she secured a position in the Vester House, and later on came to Chatham and worked for a while at the Rankin House. Her aunt heard she was at the Rankin House and came to Chatham to take her home. She learned, however, that she had left the Rankin House last night and a thorough search was made around the different hotels. P. C. Dodson finally found the missing girl at the Tecumseh House, and her aunt was notified and will take her home to-night.

"Maimie is siddy and wild," said Miss Passmore to a Planet reporter this morning. "She has a good home to come to in Ridgetown and there is no need of her working out at all. Her father left her in my charge and said if anything happened to her he would hold me responsible, so I am going to do my best to take care of her. She is a good hearted girl, but is easily influenced by evil companions. She never ran away from home before and I have taught her to be a good girl and stay in at nights."

Maimie's two sisters are hard working and industrious girls in Ridgetown, and have been much exercised over their younger sister's sudden disappearance.

CLEAN, CLEVER AND COMPLETE

Norris & Rowe's Production Shows Every Indication of Being Everything an Up-to-Date Circus Should be

Provincial Detective Finds it Unnecessary to Accompany Them to Safeguard the Public

The circus is here to-day! What a volume is epitomized in that short statement. It suggests the glittering wagons, the showy uniforms, the elephants and all the other incidents attendant upon this time-honored institution. It also accounts for the throngs of people upon the streets to-day.

The circus is that operated by Norris & Rowe. Their production is characterized by efficiency, ability and experience—a trio of indispensable characteristics. Coupled with these is the fact that the bill they offer the public is thoroughly revised and up to date and their equipment new and clean. The St. Thomas papers, where the attraction showed yesterday, have nothing but praise for the performance.

The train was late in reaching the city this morning. This was due, it is said, to the difficulty the elephant experienced in packing its trunk. The unloading was quickly done and was witnessed by a large crowd. Soon the white city had sprung into being on the usual grounds, south of the G. T. R. tracks.

The late arrival delayed the street parade somewhat, but it finally appeared about 11.30. It was heralded by the usual stentorian voiced person. After him came a long array of glittering wagons with bands interspersed at intervals by seductive affairs. One of the finest specimens of lion ever seen in this city was a feature of the parade. The camels also got a "hump" on them and swung past, followed by the shuffling elephants. The inevitable steam locomotive pulled a procession characterized by a general air of cleanliness and orderliness. Many followed the procession to the grounds and yielded to the seductiveness of the side-shows.

This afternoon's performance was largely attended and, judging from the ovations with which the different acts are being received the performance is meeting with the hearty approval of the audience. The splendid riding acts are among the prominent features of the show. The acrobatic and mid-air acts are both novel and daring.

Many wild animals have been added to the menagerie, and most of these animals have been trained to give acts upon the stage. The hippodrome races are quite thrilling enough for anyone. To-night some special features are being prepared as a surprise to the public.

An interesting incident connected with the trip of the circus through Canada is the fact that the provincial detective assigned to accompany the circus through Ontario reported, after he had been with them two days, that his presence was quite unnecessary, as the public were quite safe without him.

A PROTEST

The residents of Wellington street are much annoyed over the way the paving and work of putting down the sewer on that street are being proceeded with.

In conversation with a Planet reporter this morning one of the ratepayers on the street made the objection that two men are working on the sewer, while over them is an inspector, drawing $2.50 per day. Another inspector is deemed necessary to superintend the loading of dirt. He draws the same stipend, the expense being charged up to the street.

Furthermore the residents complain that they cannot obtain the dirt being excavated from the street. It is carried to a distance from in front of people who would gladly take it.

LONG ago we realized that the baking and roasting qualities of the oven of a range are of greatest importance to the range user. We brought our knowledge, gained by years of experience, to bear on this one point. The result was the Imperial Oxford Diffusive Oven Flue. With this exclusive feature, the Imperial Oxford stands to-day the most perfect baking and roasting range on the market.

After getting this most important feature of a range to such a point of perfection we naturally did not neglect any other improvement which could add to the working of the range. These improvements were incorporated in the

because they added to the life of the range, simplified its operation or economized fuel.

Of these improvements the draw-out oven rack is one which will instantly appeal to the cook. The handle of this rack is outside the range—always cool enough to hold with the bare hand. By pulling this handle forward anything roasting in the oven may be drawn out onto the oven shelf to be basted, without touching the hot pan or reaching into the oven. The same applies to the testing of bread, cake or pies.

We would like you to see the Imperial Oxford Range. If your dealer doesn't handle it, write us for illustrated literature and the address of the nearest dealer who does.

CHINESE TALENT FOR INACCURACY.

The Chinese rejoice in a wonderful talent for inaccuracy in every detail. Thus, a pound or a pin varies as it suits the merchant's fancy. In some parts you get half or a quarter as much as you do in others for the same price and measure.

Then again, their way of calculating distance does not at all tally with Euclid. For instance, you are told that from A to B is four miles, but from B to A is eight miles. If you ask how this is possible you are told it depends from which end you start. If you start from A it is down hill, so much easier to walk; whereas, starting from B you have to walk up hill, which is much more fatiguing—in fact is the same as walking a longer distance on even ground.

In no land except one of topsy-turvydom like China would such a system be adopted.

INVENTIONS TO HELP FIREMEN.

A novel fire-engine has recently been constructed for the fire department of Manchester, England, which contains in addition to the usual features of an ordinary steam fire engine, a number of additions designed to facilitate the operations of the firemen and to provide in increased safety.

The first of these is an air-pump, connected by gearing with the crank shaft of the engine, which furnishes air through flexible metallic hose to firemen working in dense smoke, or places where they are subjects to gas or fumes of acids or other chemicals. This flexible hose connected with a protective helmet is worn by the firemen, which is made of heavy leather extending down over the shoulders and supplied with an opening for the eyes and upper part of the face. The air enters at the back of the helmet and flows around the face, passing out of this opening, keeping the eyes and nose free from smoke. The helmet contains a telephone receiver and transmitter, whereby communication can be maintained with the officer at the fire engine, and by means of a switch-board, if necessary, with a chief official. The engine has a small dynamo, located over the front wheels, and connected with the fly-wheel by means of a belt. This furnishes a current for eight 32-candle-power incandescent lamps through a flexible cable, so that, provided with a hand lamp, a fireman can penetrate dark and smoky apartments, where it is necessary often to cut off gas or oil supply.

The entire equipment, including the protective helmet for the firemen, is stowed in the forward part of the fire engine, which is of the usual English pattern, and adds comparatively little to its weight.—Harper's Weekly.

WHERE THE JOKE CAME IN.

One day last week the editor of this paper hung his coat up in the office while he went out to look after some business at the quarry. In our pocket we left our pocketbook. When we returned the pocketbook was gone, and the sinner who stole it has not repented sufficiently to return it and apologize. The pocketbook contains some railroad transportation, a $10 promissory note that was past due and a notice of our overdraft at the bank, but not one cent of the currency coin of the realm. We have no fear of the fellow using the transportation because we are too well known along the line to be impersonated by a petty larceny thief. If he can collect that $10 note he is welcome to it, and if he will settle the overdraft at the bank in accordance with the notice, we will forgive him for stealing the pocketbook. He is evidently an amateur at the business or he would have known better than to put himself to the trouble of stealing an editor's pocketbook. In our humble opinion the joke is on the thief.—Marble City, (I.T.) Enterprise.

SOME BUTTER TESTS

METHODS BY WHICH TO DISTINGUISH THE GENUINE ARTICLE.

The Use of Preservatives With Fresh Meat—Coloring Matter In Many Sauces—How to Detect Bore Acid In Meat Products.

It is a matter of common information that oleomargarine is sometimes substituted for butter and that rapidly and badly made butter is frequently melted, washed with soda and churned with milk for the preparation of renovated or process butter.

Methods are available which, with a little practice, may be employed to distinguish between fresh butter, renovated or process butter and oleomargarine.

The "spoon" test has been suggested as a household test and is commonly used by analytical chemists for distinguishing fresh butter from renovated butter or oleomargarine. A lump of butter two or three times the size of a pea is placed in a large spoon and is then heated over an alcohol burner. If more convenient, the spoon may be held above the chimney of an ordinary kerosene lamp, or it may even be held over an ordinary illuminating gas burner. If the sample in question be fresh butter it will boil quietly with the evolution of a large number of small bubbles throughout the mass, which produce a large amount of foam. Oleomargarine and process butter, on the other hand, sputter and crackle, making a noise similar to that heard when a green stick is placed in a fire. Another point of distinction is noted if a small portion of the sample is placed in a small bottle and set in a vessel of water sufficiently warm to melt the sample. The sample is kept melted from half an hour to an hour, when it is examined. If renovated butter or oleomargarine, the fat will be turbid, while if genuine, fresh butter the fat will almost certainly be entirely clear.

To manipulate what is known as the "waterhouse," or milk, test about two ounces of sweet milk is placed in a wide mouthed bottle, which is set in a vessel of boiling water. When the milk is thoroughly heated a teaspoonful of butter is added and the mixture stirred with a splinter of wood until the fat is melted. The bottle is then placed in a dish of ice water and the stirring continued until the fat solidifies. Now, if the sample be butter, either fresh or renovated, it will be solidified in a granular condition and distributed through the milk in small particles. If, on the other hand, the sample consists of oleomargarine it solidifies practically in one piece and may be lifted by the stirrer from the milk.

Many persons believe that the great mass of the fresh meat sold on the market is preserved chemically. This impression is entirely unfounded. The cold storage facilities of the present day make the use of preservatives with fresh meat unnecessary, and the larger packing houses do not employ them. It sometimes happens that local butchers sprinkle preservatives over a cut of meat in order that they may keep it exposed on the block or hanging in a show window as an advertisement. The use of chemical preservatives with fresh meat is confined to this practice alone.

Preservatives are very commonly used with chopped meats and sausages, especially fresh sausage. They are always employed with canned Vienna and Frankfurter sausages inclosed in casings with the ends tied. Where the ends are cut preservatives may be absent. The reason for this is that the temperature required for the complete sterilization of sausages will either burst or distort the skins when the ends are tied, whereas sausages with cut ends afford an opportunity for the escape of the water and steam.

With many varieties of sausages, both fresh and smoked, and with chopped meats of all descriptions, coloring matter is sometimes employed. This is done partly for the purpose of satisfying the unnatural demand for a high colored article and partly sometimes to conceal the grayish color characteristic of old meat, which should not be used at all.

The preservatives employed with meat products are boric acid, borax and sulphites. To detect boric acid about a tablespoonful of the chopped meat is thoroughly macerated with a little water, pressed through a bag and two or three tablespoonfuls of the liquid placed in a sauce dish with fifteen or twenty drops of strong hydrochloric acid for each tablespoonful. The liquid is then filtered through filter paper and a piece of tumeric paper dipped into it and dried near a lamp or stove. If boric acid or borax were used for preserving the sample the tumeric paper should be changed to a bright cherry red color. If too much hydrochloric acid has been employed a dirty brownish red color is obtained, which interferes with the color due to the presence of boric acid. Now, if a drop of household ammonia be added to the colored tumeric paper and it turns a dark green, almost black color, then boric acid is present. If the reddish color, however, was caused by the use of too much hydrochloric acid, this green color does not form.

The corrosive nature of hydrochloric acid must not be lost sight of. It must not be allowed to touch the flesh, clothes or any metal.

THE TOWER OF SILENCE.

Gruesome Burial Place of the Parsees of Bombay—Erected 300 Feet Above Level of the Sea.

High above Bombay, on the freest and most airy spot of the city and 300 feet above the level of the sea, is situated the most peculiar cemetery in the world—the burial place of the Parsees. It is called the Tower of Silence.

These Towers of Silence are found everywhere in Persia, where the corpse, placed under the open sky, is dried by the sun and dissolved by the rain. But in Bombay, where the burial place is limited and where death and misery invite vultures in greatest numbers, the dissolution is considerably hastened by these carbon eaters.

The tower itself consists of a stone wall thirty feet high, forming a circle about 300 feet in diameter—a roofless tower. The floor, made of cement, is an inclined plane, terminating in a deep and wide well. It is divided into three concentric circles, within which are standing side by side the low, open sarcophagi. These circles are connected by wide drain gutters, leading to the wall in the centre of the building. The men are laid in the outer, the women in the middle and children in the inner circle.

The whole inner construction reminds one of the inside of a classical amphitheatre, only that in this tower the players—the corpses and the vultures—occupy the place of the spectators, while the centre—the arena—is occupied by the wall, fifty feet in diameter. Having entered the iron door leading into the tower, the khandias immediately strip the corpse of all clothing, for Zoroaster has said, "Naked thou comest into the world, and naked shall thou depart therefrom." The body is then placed in one of the vacant sarcophagi.

In a few minutes the places is covered with vultures, which is the course of an hour devour every vestige of flesh on the fresh corpse, while the blood finds its way through the drain canals down into the wall. The skeleton only remains, as smoothly picked as though it had been cleaned in the chambers of an anatomical institution.

In a few weeks the burning rays of the sun and the heavy rains have dissolved the skeleton and piecemeal worked it down the wall, where the remaining pieces of bones are further dissolved in a mixture of lime and sulphur, while the blood and fluids are strained through a heavy layer of coal and sand and enter the undefined ground of the Parsees as pure water.

It is claimed that this mode of burial is the most cleanly of all methods and, from the standpoint of hygiene, the most safe. Certainly as it is practiced in the land of its origin, where the forces of nature—sun and rain—perform the entire operation, it does not appear at all horrible.

Western Fair

THE EXHIBITION THAT MADE FALL AGRICULTURAL FAIRS POPULAR

When Governor Simcoe laid the foundation of London, Ontario, one hundred years ago he knew it would grow to be a great city, but had no thought of the Western Fair.

The Western Fair gives the people of this country an excellent opportunity for a pleasant outing at a minimum of cost, and at the same time develops their store of practical and useful knowledge.

Its educational features have always been especially fostered by the Trustees. This year several important improvements of an instructive nature have been added. The celebrated top Highland Regiment Band will give three concerts daily during the exhibition. The entertainment department will be better than ever, and will include leaving the gap in mid air on a steam automobile.

Ives' Brass Beds
give brightness and dignity to a room.

Many artistic home furnishers have adopted the metal bed instead of the cumbersome and sometimes unsanitary wooden beds. A metal bed adds grace and beauty to a room, imparts an atmosphere of dignity oftentimes hard to secure with a wooden bed. Its lines are light and graceful and if it is an Ives bed it will be handsome and artistic in design.

Ives beds are always beautifully designed because Ives artists are the most proficient metal designers in America. They have made Ives famous for high class metal bank and hotel fittings.

the transition was gradual. A little

AM. STR. PECONIC SUNK

Struck by an Enormous Wave
Her Cargo Shifted.

Only Two Out of a Crew of Twenty-
Two Men Escape—A Fierce Gale
Was Raging and the Vessel Quickly Sank When Struck—A Shocking Marine Disaster Off the Florida Coast.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 29.—The American steamship Peconic was lost during a fierce gale early yesterday off the coast of Florida, and twenty of the crew, out of twenty-two were drowned. The steamer was struck by an enormous wave, which caused the cargo to shift and the vessel quickly sank.

About midnight of Sunday, during the heaviest part of the storm, which had raged all day, the officers of the deck gave the order to put farther out to sea, fearing they were approaching too near to the coast. In the endeavor to turn the ship was struck with a heavy sea, the cargo shifted and she began sinking rapidly. In less than 10 minutes after the alarm was sounded she had gone to the bottom.

Two of the crew, an Italian and a Spaniard, secured the lifeboat and landed on Amelia Beach at noon and told the story of the disaster. The Peconic was laden with coal from Philadelphia for New Orleans.

The Peconic was built at Liverpool, Eng., in 1881. She formerly sailed under the British flag, and ran on the Phipps Bros. & Co.'s line between New York and Mediterranean ports. B. M. E.
Jones of the firm of J. W. Edwell &
Co. of New York is her present owner.

Railway Fireman Killed.

was killed, another fatally injured and a number of passengers seriously hurt in a collision on the Pennsylvania Railneath his engine and both legs were severed. He cannot recover.

Was Seized With Cramps.

Toronto, Aug. 29.—The body of Lucius Cullen, who was drowned at Balmby Beach yesterday, was recovered late in the afternoon by Constable Tidsbury. In the morning Cullen, with some friends had been swimming, and when he was returning to shore was suddenly seized with cramps. A companion named Curtis, who was behind him, attempted a rescue, but unsuccessfully. The dead man was 19 years of age, and was employed as a clerk in the C. P. R. office.

Suffocated in His Room.

Toronto, Aug. 29.—The third man suffocated by gas within six months in the old Imperial Hotel on Jarvis street was Charles J. Boyd, a farmer of Coldwater, who was found dead in bed yesterday. This is the second dead man found in the Imperial Hotel rooms in a fortnight. The deceased was a large property owner of Coldwater.
He left there in February of the present year and came to Toronto. There may be an inquest.

Toronto, Aug. 29.—Mayor Urquhart, clerk and legislative officials and a crowd of citizens extended the welcome of the city to Prince Louis of Battenberg, in the Council Chamber this morning. The ceremony constituted in itself almost a record for brevity, occupying in all not more than fifteen minutes from the time the prince entered until he had gone away again.
Shortly before 11.30, at which time the reception was scheduled to begin, the carriage containing Prince Louis, Lady Kirkpatrick, Capt. Pierce, and Lieut.
Sowerby drove to the City Hall. At this time the gallery upstairs was filled with spectators, while on the main floor just enough stood and sat around to comfortable fill the room.

Mayor Urquhart, in the civic address, to which H. S. H. Prince Louis made a very suitable response.

His Serene Highness' other engagements yesterday were: Luncheon at the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, begined by the musical party which occupied all the afternoon; in the evening he dined with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor at Government House.

The Royal Marines, carrying their

NEITHER FOUGHT FAIR.

Political Men of Rainy River District Charge Corruption.

Toronto, Aug. 29.—Particulars in the Port Arthur and Rainy River election petition were filed yesterday morning with the Registrar of the Court of Appeals by solicitor for Mr. W. C. Preston, the petitioner. At the same time particulars in the cross petition were filed on behalf of the respondent, Mr.
H. W. Kennedy, M. P. P., who holds the seat by a majority of 14.

At Port Arthur on September 11 W.
C. Preston, the defeated Conservative candidate, will attempt to prove that his opponent, H. W. Kennedy, made liberal promises of road grants, tavern licenses and that his agents were active in the distribution of liquor at one point in the riding. The charges also cover about 100 cases where illegal voting is alleged and several cases where foreigners were "run in" for votes.

The cross-petition is quite as specific, and if anything more comprehensive. Mr. Preston is charged with having made liberal use of the Preston & Bell Lumber and Furniture Co., of which he is the manager, in securing votes for himself. It is alleged that the company paid money to some men and the expenses of others, to bring them from Winnipeg and other places to vote for Preston, and that this money was subsequently repaid by them.

Another allegation of serious import is that the company advanced to Mr.
Preston, its manager, large sums of money to be spent corruptly on the understanding that these sums were to be repaid in the form of timber licenses and other legislative favors.

To.

River, Ganong, Que., Aug. 28.— (Special).—No complaint is so common among women as Pain-in-the-Back. It is a safe estimate that fully half the women in Canada are afflicted with it. For that reason every evidence that there is a sure and complete cure in existence is thankfully received. And there is abundant evidence that Dodd's Kidney Pills is just such a cure. This district could furnish a dozen cures, but one is enough for an example.
The one is that of Mrs. Jas. Murphy.
She says:

"I suffered for thirty-eight months with a pain in my back. I took just one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and I have never been troubled with the pain since. I also recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to other people, who complained as I did, and in every case the Pills did their duty and brought relief."

"FOR THE SAKE OF HUMANITY AND CIVILIZATION" "WE HAVE MADE PEACE"

Magnanimity of Japanese Victors Brings War to End.

M. WITTE WAS STUNNED

Japanese Had Recognized That Peace Could Be Obtained in No Other Way, and On Monday Mikado and Elder Statesman Sanctioned the Final Concession—President Roosevelt's "Good, Good," Will Re-Echo Throughout the World to His Credit.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 29.—The long and bloody war between Japan and Russia is ended. The terms of peace were settled by M. Witte and Baron Komura, at the session of the conference yesterday morning and yesterday afternoon preliminary arrangements for an armistice were concluded and the actual work of framing the "Treaty of Portsmouth" was by mutual agreement turned over to Mr. D. Maercker, who for 25 years has acted as the legal adviser of the Russian Foreign Office. The treaty is expected to be completed by the end of the week.

For the sake of peace, Japan with the magnanimity of a victor at the moment yielded everything still in issue. Russia, refused to budge from the ultimatum Emperor Nicholas laboring under excitement, again lost control of himself. He paused a moment. Then he went on:

"The Japanese wanted to take our interned ships and I have not consented. The Japanese wanted to limit our naval powers in the Far East, and I have not consented.

"The Japanese wanted war indemnity, or reimbursement of the cost of the war, and I have not consented.

"The Japanese wanted the Chinese Eastern Railway, south of Harbin, but I gave them only the railroad in the possession of their troops south of Chautafu.

"The Japanese wanted the Island of Sakhalin, and I refused it, agreeing, however, at the last moment to cede the southern half, and then only because I was commanded by my Sovereign to yield and obeyed.

"Not only we do not pay so much as a coopek, but we obtain half of Sakhalin in their possession.

"At this morning's meeting, I presented my written proposition, which was the Russian ultimatum. It was accepted by the Japanese. I was amazed. Until I was in the conference room I did not think what would happen. I could not anticipate such a great and happy issue.

"It was a psychological crisis. I had made up my mind not to strike out a letter of the ultimatum I submitted. So I was concerned it was ended. But I could not tell how it would work on the Japanese mind.

"Good, Good," Says President.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 30.—In his library at Sagamore Hill, President Roosevelt shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon received the announcement that the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries had reached an agreement. There was the thirle of the bell had given to President Roosevelt through Ambassador Meyer. No indignity under any guise, but an agreement to divide Sakhalin and reimburse Japan for the maintenance of the Russian prisoners were his last words. They had been reiterated in M. Witte's instructions and in the form of a written reply to the Japanese compromise proposal of last Wednesday they were delivered to Baron Komura yesterday morning.

Witte is Stunned.

M. Witte expected a rupture and was stunned by what happened. Baron Komura gave way on all disputed points, with the preference that ever has enable the Japanese to gauge the mental processes of their adversaries, they had realized in advance that peace could be obtained in no other way. They had warned their Government. President Roosevelt had also advised Japan that it was better to meet the Russian position than to take the responsibility of continuing the war to collect tribute. The Japanese Emperor, at the session of the Cabinet and elder statesmen Monday had sanctioned the final concession. Congratulates Roosevelt.

Before leaving the conference building felicitations were exchanged with the President at Oyster Bay. The Russians are overjoyed at the results.

The Japanese correspondents, though they said little, plainly showed their dissatisfaction with the terms during the afternoon. One of the Japanese, however, gave the true note when he remarked: "Tell me that the Mikado has approved it and I shall be satisfied."

In that sentence was compressed the apertan heroism of the Japanese nation, and later, when Mr. Sato issued the official explanation of the reasons that move the Japanese plenipotentiaries, and it showed that the Emperor had approved there was a perceptible change in the feeling of the Japanese. Considerable disappointment, however, continued to be manifested.

For the Sake of Humanity.

Baron Komura declined to speak, and Mr. Takahira would only say when asked to make a statement:

"For the sake of humanity and civilization, and as we believe, in the interest of both countries and the world we have made peace."

World Will Applaud.

Despite the fact that neither of the Japanese plenipotentiaries would talk for publication, however, the Associated Press can present their line of reasoning in the words of another:

"The Russian may call it a diplomatic victory, but we are confident that upon calm consideration the world will applaud our course. To yield upon the question of our demand for the expenses of the war was the only road to peace. We had attained the objects of the war. We had established our predominant position in Corea, we had obtained the leases to Port Arthur and the adjacent territory, we had obtained the Chinese Eastern Railway and the evacuation of Manchuria. We had even obtained important fishing rights along the Russian littoral. These covered the objects of the war, which we have kept steadily in view for 19 months of bloody fighting. Those objects insured the resumption of the great works of peace we had planned. To have now set ourselves a new object—that of obtaining money from Russia to defray the expenses of the war—would have involved a continuation of the sacrifice of bloodshed and treasure. At the end—what?

Lessons of History.

"We could not go to Moscow or St. Petersburg. The internal conditions in Russia had to be considered. Our very successes might have created conditions which would make it impossible to secure indemnity. Besides, in the final analysis, there was the recognition of the fact that to obtain indemnity a country must hold the other by the throat. That is the lesson of history. We renounce such a purpose that our people might return to their peaceful work, and that the commerce and normal life of the world might proceed."

What Witte Did Not Do.
