WOLFVILLE LOSES PROMINENT CITIZEN

In Person of Dr. G. E. DeWitt Who Passed Away Monday Evening

A man who possessed the courage of his conviction and who on all occasions stood up for that in which he believed, was Dr. George E. DeWitt, whose passing on Monday evening at his home on Park street removed a citizen who was well known and highly esteemed.

For thirty-two years the deceased has been a resident of Wolfville, during which he took an active interest in all that related to community affairs. He served faithfully in the Council and occupied the position of Mayor for three terms from 1903 to 1905 inclusive.

Since then he has filled the post of medical health officer, and has been most diligent in his attention to all matters pertaining to the public health. He was a member of St. George's Lodge, A.F. & A.M., and a loyal supporter of the Baptist church of which he had long been a devoted member.

Dr. DeWitt was a native of Bridgetown, where he was born on Oct. 15th, 1842, and was thus in his 83rd year. A man of wonderful physique he bore the weight of his years so well that it has only been recently that his many friends have been compelled to recognize the fact that he was becoming an old man.

Interested in outdoor pursuits of all kinds he was an ardent disciple of Isaac Walton and enjoyed nothing better than a day's fishing.

His ancestors on his father's side were Dutch and resided in New York, while on his maternal side he was of French descent. His great grandfather was a Loyalist who received a grant of land extending from the Annapolis River to the Bay of Fundy.

Dr. DeWitt was graduated from the Dalhousie Medical School in 1869 and from the Harvard Medical School in 1872. He began the practice of his profession at Chester, from which place he removed in 1886 to Halifax, in order that he might find a larger field for his chosen life work.

Besides his large private practice which occupied much of his time while in Halifax he was a member of the Board of Health and Assistant City Medical Officer. In 1892 he came to Wolfville, where he has since made his home and for many years carried on his practice.

He was widely known as a well informed medical practitioner, being a member of the Canadian Medical Association and a frequent contributor to Medical magazines. A pioneer in the campaign against tuberculosis he always kept in close touch with advances in medical research.

The deceased was twice married, his first wife being Henrietta M. Chipman, of Middleton, by whom he had two children, Stanley C., of Toronto, and Carrie, who died shortly after coming to Wolfville. His second wife, who survives him, was Annie Brown, daughter of the late, C. E. Brown, of Halifax, by whom he leaves three daughters, Nellie, (Mrs. Wylie Manning) of Antigonish, Marguerite and Kathleen, at home, and two sons, Dr. C. E. Avery deWitt, of Wolfville, and Dr. G. E. Herman deWitt, of Regina, Sask. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Dennison, of Santa Barbara, Cal., and two brothers, Charles and James, at Bridgetown.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, the service being held at the Baptist church. While the remains were on the way from the home the church bell was tolled and at the church entrance the members of St. George's Lodge to the number of thirty-five in full Masonic regalia were lined up as an honor guard for their deceased brother.

The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Marshall, who gave a most appropriate address from the text: "Having served his generation, by the will of God, he fell on sleep".

Mrs. Dr. MacDonald, who assisted, gave the scripture reading and offered a fitting prayer. The hymns included, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" and "Rock of Ages". At the Cemetery Dr. Marshall and Dr. MacDonald performed the committal service, after which the members of the Masonic order took charge. Worshipful Master, Rev. Dr. W. L. Archibald officiating.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF WOLFVILLE AND EASTERN KINGS

WOLFVILLE, NOVA SCOTIA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1924

WOLFVILLE LOSES PROMINENT CITIZEN

In Person of Dr. G. E. DeWitt Who Passed Away Monday Evening

Of the Montreal Police force is an important figure in the investigation of Montreal's police affairs which is being conducted by Judge Coderre. Some of the evidence has been of a startling nature, seriously reflecting on some members of the force.

WHAT SUBSTITUTE?

The Editor "The Acadian". Dear Sir,—Editorial discussion of matters of moment has ever been one of the strongest points of your valued publication. In your current issue is a strong Editorial by which in well chosen words, "capital punishment" is unqualifiedly condemned.

Actually, in these days of unthinking denunciation and snap judgments, it is refreshing to have an opinion supported by so strong a fabric of well founded argument.

But there is a difference of opinion in regard even to what you may choose to call "legal murder". The time was, and not so long ago, when mutilation was a recognized punishment, and when death was the penalty for over two hundred offences.

Mutilation was abolished in Nova Scotia, I think about 1835; the Criminal Code of Canada now has reduced capital offences to four only. Of treason, we heard something during the World War, though all traitors were not hanged; of piracy, we hear something from Rum Row; murder, the taking of human life, and rape, the most atrocious of all crimes, are all too common.

Now the opponents of "capital punishment" lifting their hands to high Heaven, declaim about the inhumanity, the degrading effect, the brutality and the unchristian character of the penalty. They say, and quite truly, that capital punishment is not done away with capital offences. No one ever was so foolish as to say that it had, or would.

Your editorial goes even further and, taking Chicago as a text, attempts to prove that the death penalty fosters, rather than deters, crimes of violence. But why pick on Chicago—wouldn't Montreal or Halifax illustrate your point just as well?

If you look a trifle more carefully at the record of Chicago, perhaps you will form the opinion that what Chicago wants is not less death penalty, but more of it. The same may be true in Montreal and Halifax. If you doubt this, compare either with England, where the percentage of escapes is smaller even than Chicago's percentage of convictions, and where the number of murderers is proportionately small.

And let us, for the purposes of argument, admit that the death penalty is all that you say it is. Why are we all so prone to make martyrs of murderers and forget their victims? Why so many howls, petitions for clemency, and demands that capital punishment be abolished?

Cook, the blue eyed boy—but what of the peddler; Roberts, the poor old man—what of the poor girl, victim of his senseless lust; the four Bank bandits—what of Cleroux who died faithful to his trust; Devlin and Charlie Fulton, men who had fought for his country and died in the performance of his duty. How ready you are to bail Paris, the conquering hero, and forget poor little Sadie McAulay; or banquet St. Pierre and forget that terribly mutilated body found down by the river bank; your sister, and my mine, died in horrible agony rather than surrender her honor.

We agree with you that "capital punishment" is a terrible thing; we wish, with you, that it might safely be abolished; we acknowledge that it is a survival of the old, vengeful, Mosaic law, and that, in one sense, it is unchristian. But to neglect the safeguarding of society, to leave the weak without protection, would be equally unchristian. The whole problem is—What crime deters, what substitute, will you put in its place? That is the question that confronts the advocate of reform. What is the answer?

Thanking you for your valuable space and trusting that you will take none of my remarks in a personal sense, but rather as an attempt to induce consideration of a problem that must have an answer, I remain, Yours for abolition of the death penalty, RUYBERTUS ROELOFSEN.

WAS FORMER CANNING RESIDENT

CANNING, Nov. 19.—Among the good natured mortals who have contributed the greater part of their lives to the citizenry of Canning, we would away fit mention the name of John McLaughlin, who passed away in 1918.

Having served seven years with the Imperial Forces in different stations of the empire he decided to engage in more peaceful pursuits, and though but a young man (then about thirty), he left the army and made his home here, some fifty-six years ago, living for many years in the red house on the John O. Pineo property, now owned by Dr. J. W. Miller, opposite the Corner Inn, and making himself useful as a handy man around town.

Editorial

Our pulpits are our work clothes. Each of us live some kind of a sermon every day.

BETTER STREET LIGHTING

THE INFORMATION that the civic authorities are moving in the matter of securing more efficient street lighting for the town will be regarded by citizens generally as good news. Tenders have been invited, so we are informed, for the supply of the materials required and the installation of a modern system. We have been spending a considerable amount yearly for the lighting of our public streets, but have not received adequate service to repay for the amount invested. This is due, so it is stated, to the fact that the whole system is antiquated and badly arranged.

With the new arrangement it is thought, the lighting may be very considerably improved without great additional cost, and even if more money is required to be expended the additional outlay would be well justified, as well lighted streets add very much to the comfort of citizens and the reputation of the town generally. It is to be devoutly hoped that the work may be speedily proceeded with so that we may have the advantage of the improved service during the season of short days and dark nights.

In this connection we would recommend to the consideration of the town government the making of an agreement with business places on Main street to keep their window-lights on every evening during the week instead of only two nights as at present. This could probably be arranged if the current for the service was provided gratis, to the decided advantage of all concerned. The same policy might be pursued with advantage in the matter of verandah lights on the residential streets, which now present a desolate appearance at night.

These lights, if kept turned on, would give our town a very much more attractive appearance and add greatly to the comfort of those who under present conditions are obliged to grope their way around after nightfall. With the splendid facilities now enjoyed it would be a great mistake to permit the present unsatisfactory condition of street lighting to continue longer than is really necessary.

ONLY FIVE WEEKS TO CHRISTMAS

ONLY THE other day, it seems, summer was with us, and now in five short weeks it will be Christmas. How the time flies! Already preparations are being made by our merchants to supply the demands of the quickly approaching season, and in THE ACADIAN during the next few issues those who are wise will tell through its advertising columns what they have to offer in the way of appropriate gifts. These announcements will be studied with care by our host of readers, who in anticipation of the joyous occasion are already making plans for their Christmas buying.

Since last season the number of homes visited weekly by THE ACADIAN has increased by leaps and bounds, until our circulation has grown to such an extent as to be most gratifying. This season's advertisers will have the advantage of the increased number of readers, and should find the money expended in their publicity this year with us more profitable than ever before.

Already there has been an increased demand upon our space for the next few weeks, and while we shall do our best to provide for all our patrons it would be just as well for those who expect to require additional room in our paper to get their application in as early as possible. Realizing that, at the best, there will only be four more issues in which to make their announcements, those who expect to reap the best possible results will not delay longer than is really necessary.

WINTER SPORTS

THE SEASON for winter sport is approaching and the question of success is uppermost in the minds of those interested. Success may be of two kinds. It may be measured by the results obtained, or simply by the satisfaction derived through seriously attempting to play the game, win or lose.

A happy combination of both, however, may be attained through the players working together and, to achieve this, a serious omission in most games—indifference to practice—must be overcome.

Time and again games have been spoiled for the players themselves and also for the spectators by individuals donning a uniform when quite unfit to stand the strenuous pace which most games impose.

The old copy book headline, "Practice makes perfect", aptly applies to sport and is a positive necessity if success is to be assured throughout the season. Without practice professional sport would not exist but because of it people are willing to pay and pay well for the privilege of watching experts in their particular game.

Amateur sport can be made as successful and more interesting if the players will but keep themselves fit and practice together more.

OH, YOU BEAUTIFUL DOLL

ON PAGE three this week will be found an announcement which is bound to interest the children in the numerous homes visited weekly by THE ACADIAN. It is a surprising offer that we are making and the young people should be given an opportunity to get the advantage of it. The doll that we are offering as a reward for the simple matter of securing five NEW subscriptions to this paper is a wonderful one, and could not be purchased in the regular way for less than ten dollars. It has attracted much attention when placed on exhibition in our window, and already a goodly number have undertaken to secure it.

The offer is open to all, and as many as possible are urged to earn a prize that is well worth while. See the picture of the beautiful premium which we are placing in reach of every girl, tell her about it and help her in every way in your power to win it. There should be no great difficulty for any girl to secure it if she is willing to devote a little time to the work. THE ACADIAN wants every girl to secure one of these lovely dolls, and will help in any way that is possible.

IT IS YOUR BUSINESS

IT IS TO BE hoped that the additional seating recently provided at the Council Chamber may be taken advantage of by citizens at the next and succeeding meetings of the Council as well as at other gatherings convened in connection with civic affairs. There should always be a good attendance on such occasions, and we venture the assertion that town affairs would as a general thing be better looked after if a keener interest were evidenced on the part of our people. It is your business that the Council has under consideration at these meetings and you should be on hand to see that it is transacted in a manner which meets with your approval.

Shaffner, of the class of 1879, the oldest living graduate in Kentville, sent a message of greeting. H. G. Harris, Class 1890, responded by speaking of Dr. Patterson's work for the Million and a Half Campaign; the success attending his efforts, and the bright outlook for Acadia.

Others who responded were: Dr. B. S. Bishop, Dr. A. S. Burns, Col. B. W. Roscoe, K. C. J. L. Isery, LL. B., Hon. John A. McDonald, M. P. P., J. Howe Cox, Miss Mabel Nichols. At the conclusion of the Roll Call, former students of Acadia were invited to the vestry, which had been decorated with Acadia colors for the occasion. Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed. Much credit is given the ladies of the W. M. A. S., who were untiring in their efforts to make the concert a success.

PROTECTING THE INVESTMENT

Abraham Lincoln humorously said of a poor neighbor's assets, "He has a wife and two children which I should think were worth thirty thousand dollars to any man."

A family is indeed a golden investment and needs the same protection and care that any investment requires.

For three generations the editors of The Youth's Companion have felt the same responsibility to the families of subscribers as if those families were their own. In taking a subscription they have accepted a trust; they have done their part to see that the family investment increased in value through the development of character and a taste for the good things in life.

Dr. and Mrs. H. T. DeWolfe spent the week end at Halifax.

Mrs. Charlotte Rhodes left on Friday last for Boston where she will spend the winter.

Miss Helen Harris left last Friday for Boston where she expects to remain until the first of January.

Mrs. W. M. Black, who has been spending the past year in Massachusetts, returned home on Friday last.

Mrs. W. E. Hall, of Halifax, is spending a few months in Wolfville with Mrs. J. W. Vaughan, Highland Avenue.

Mrs. Laura H. Moore, of Parrsboro, was in town last Friday attending the funeral of the late Mrs. W. H. Chase.

Inspector C. D. La Nauze, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, spent the week end as the guest of R. W. Tufts.

Miss Alice Rose, of Norfolk, Virginia, has arrived in Wolfville, and will spend the coming winter with her sister, Mrs. Owen Porter.

Mrs. H. P. Davidson and little daughter left on Friday last for Boston, where they will spend Thanksgiving and Christmas with relatives.

Mr. H. O. Eamon, Field Commissioner of the Nova Scotia Boy Scout Association, was in town this week in connection with the Gillwell Training course for Scoutmasters which he is conducting at Acadia University.

Rev. Clyde W. Robbins, a graduate of Acadia in the class of 1915, and well known throughout the province having held pastorates at Digby and Bridgetown, has tendered his resignation to the First Baptist church, of Brockton, Mass., and accepted a call to the church at Rosindale, Mass.

FUNERAL OF LATE MRS. W. H. CHASE

The funeral of the late Mrs. W. H. Chase was held from the family residence last Friday afternoon. There was a very large attendance from town and county as well as from distant parts of the province. Rev. Dr. Falconer, of Pine Hill College, an old friend of the family, conducted the service and was assisted by Rev. Dr. Douglas Hemmeon of the United church, and Rev. G. A. Logan, of Canard. The music was simple and appropriate and the floral tributes numerous and beautiful.

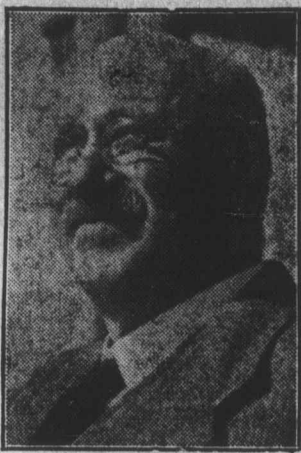

Dr. Falconer's address was on life's lights and shadows and was based on the words of Jesus: "I am the Light of the World". The speaker paid a fitting tribute to the departed, to her hospitality, her devotion to home and church, her unassuming disposition under which was ever an earnest and thoughtful interest in the things of life which are really worth while.

The interment was at Willow Bank Cemetery, a long procession of sorrowing friends following to their last resting place the remains of one who was esteemed and beloved by all who had the privilege of her acquaintance. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Thomas Lyliard, A. E. Chesley, T. L. Harvey, C. S. Fitch, George Chase and C. H. Wright. Among those present from out of town were: Judge Rogers, Hon. F. B. McCurdy, D. Macgillivray, Col. A. Montgomery, R. H. Silver, F. J. G. Comeau.

POSITION!

Want a position? Improve your own position and get one from someone else. Posture is everything. Who wants to engage a round-shouldered, hunch-backed man or woman when he can get an erect one? "Stand straight and keep straight!"

On Friday, November 21, the girls of the University are having a Posture Day. This is the forerunner of a posture drive, everyone should join in. Look at the trees and such things around you, even they need posture-correction. During the day posters will be placed around the Campus, showing incorrect posture in animate and inanimate objects.

The Professors are each going to explain to their classes the way in which posture affects such classes. In the evening the girls are putting on a posture programme in the Club-Room of the Residence. Correct and incorrect postures will be brought out in novel ways.

Watch yourself, watch your neighbor. Think of your posture for ten days, then others will think of and admire it. It is easy to form the habit of slouching, it is just as easy to form that of standing erect. "Don't call a carriage—have a good carriage of your own."

Let's make this general, have it a Wolfville posture drive. We have improved the appearance of the streets, how about improving the appearance of those who walk them.

MATTER OF JOINT SERVICE ARRANGED

A meeting of the committee appointed by the municipality and towns to adjust the matter of joint service, was held at Kentville on Wednesday afternoon. The situation was discussed thoroughly and it was finally agreed that the amount claimed to be due from the towns on account of the recent deficit in county finances be not required to be paid, because of the wrongful assessment of several items on the towns in connection with joint service for some years back, including the present year. One charge which it was admitted should not have been made upon Wolfville was for the right-of-way for the North Mountain Railway, payment for which was completed this year.

The first real touch of winter came on Monday when a blustering snow-storm with a high wind continued all day. Since then the nights have been cold and a wintry aspect has prevailed, with not enough snow, however, to make sleighing possible. From present indications the cold wave is now over for a time at least and mild weather may again be expected.
Miss Marguerite Hubbell, of Winnipeg, who is en route from England to her home, gave a lecture Sunday evening at the close of the regular service in the lecture hall of the Baptist church. Her subject, "Wembley and the British Empire Story", illustrated by slides, was exceedingly interesting, embracing a description of the British possessions as seen through the eyes of the Fair. Mayor Chambers presided, and there was a large attendance.

On Saturday, Nov. 8th, a volley ball team from the faculty of Dalhousie University played a series of games with a team from the Acadia Faculty in the Acadia gymnasium, the former team winning three of the five games. Last Saturday a return contest was staged at Halifax, when the Dalhousie team was again victorious and by the same score. The Acadia team was composed of Professors Osborne, Rogers, Ross, Young, Wheelock and Sutherland.
On Thursday evening last the members of the Baptist church entertained at a reception the faculties of the University, Seminary, Academy and public school. The guests were welcomed by Dr. Marshall, and a very pleasing programme was given, including selections from the S. S. Orchestra, vocal solos by Nathan Green and G. D. Briden, and a reading by A. V. Flowers. An hour's informal conversation with the serving of refreshments concluded the evening.

What came near being a serious fire occurred at the residence of Mr. S. W. Fullerton, Prospect street, on Tuesday afternoon. A built in furnace became overheated and the enclosing partition took fire. An alarm was at once given by Policeman Crowell who happened to be near, and the prompt response of the chemical averted what in a short time would have been a conflagration. The incident also served as a good test for the engine which took the grade on Highland avenue in short order.

TELLS OF PROGRESS IN THIS PROVINCE

F. G. J. Comeau, of the D.A.R., Quotes Apple and Tourist Figures.
MONTREAL, Nov. 19.—In summarizing the activities of the province for the last season, F. G. J. Comeau, general freight and passenger agent, Dominion Atlantic Railway, said here today that more attention than ever before has been given to the apple growing industry of Nova Scotia and that the tourist traffic increased more than 20 per cent over the volume of last year. Apples are the chief product of the country and given a British preferential tariff, Nova Scotia may be looked upon as the logical place for Britain to buy her apples.
"As a matter of fact," Mr. Comeau said, "Several British apple buyers are acquiring large orchards in Nova Scotia and large tracts of land which they intend to put under fruit."
With the apple growing industry increasing from two to three hundred per cent every decade, only twenty per cent of available orchard land is yet under crop.
In respect of the tourist traffic Mr. Comeau stated that bureau estimates place the number of visitors to the province at more than 1,000,000, this representing in wealth left in Nova Scotia a sum approximately $7,500,000.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Emery Schofield, of White Rock, on behalf of himself and other members of the family, desires through the columns of THE ACADIAN to express gratitude and thanks to all those who during and following the last illness of his mother, the late Mrs. Millege Schofield, gave their sympathy and assistance. Mrs. Schofield, a sketch of whom appeared in these columns a few weeks ago, was 84 years of age. Her death occurred very suddenly.

The tragedy of the quitter is that he usually stops just as his second wind is rushing to the rescue.

Thanksgiving was commemorated in United Baptist church, Sunday evening, Nov. 9th, a large and appreciative congregation listening to a sermon suitable to the season, by the pastor, Rev. W. G. Heisler. The church was decorated with autumn leaves and flowers, combined with the vegetables and fruits of the year. The choir, which rendered special music, was assisted by Professor Gordon, violinist, who added much to the service. Vocal duets by Miss Isabel Meek and Miss Ruth Bigelow were also enjoyed. Touching reference was made by the pastor to the sacrifices made in the late war, and prayers of thanksgiving ascended to the Giver of all for His goodness and the hope expressed that we might prove ourselves worthy of those who died that we might live.

Rev. Thomas W. Hodgson preached a special sermon on Sabbath morning, Nov. 9th, in the Methodist church in commemoration of Armistice Day, his subject "World Peace". CANADIAN APPLES IN BIG DEMAND

Commissioner Tolmie Says Wembley Has Revolutionized the Trade.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Wembley has revolutionized the British-Canadian apple trade according to A. W. Tolmie, Commissioner General of the Canadian Pavilion.

"Thousands of pounds worth of apple orders have been booked by British firms, to say nothing of the German ones," he says, "and in addition the exhibit has proved finally the necessity for the adoption of a new packing system by our Canadian growers. Hitherto fruit from the orchards of British Columbia, Ontario, and Nova Scotia has often been sold at a heavy loss in the English markets because it has suffered severe bruising against the sides of the boxes. A new experiment was tried with the exhibits for Wembley. The apples were 'crown-packed' or protected from the sides of the cases by a layer of special packing material. The result is that these apples are as fresh and as sound today as when they left the trees over a year ago—a durability record in the history of the Canadian trade.

HABITANT

Two very fine lectures in Home Nursing have been given by Mrs. Lorne Parker at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Cox. This course has taken the form of community lectures and is under the auspices of Habitant Women's Institute. It is being held every Thursday evening, as long as the weather permits.

A beautiful bouquet of Multi Flora roses was picked on Saturday, Nov. 15, by Mr. Harvey Woodworth in his garden at Habitant. Mr. Woodworth picked several roses during last week.

"I want a careful chauffeur—one who doesn't take any risks."
"I'm your man, sir—I even ask for my salary in advance!"

SIMPLE FROCK IS MADE OF NAVY WOOL REP

Wool rep makes an ideal material for the simple little Winter frock of straight line. The fabric is sufficiently light in weight to be comfortable for indoor wear, and still is heavy enough to wear underneath a short fur coat. The dress above is of navy wool rep. Two side pleats give the skirt ample walking width. The frock and matching scarf are embroidered in flame colored wool.

TO MAKE FIFTH AND LAST TRY

Determined to make one more try at winning America's Cup, Sir Thomas Lipton has arrived in New York to make preliminary negotiations for races in 1928. Sir Thomas is now in his 74th year and admitted that this will be his last attempt. Should he fail, his four green flags may still be seen in later international contests, as he has written in his will that should he not lift the cup before his death, the Royal Ulster Yacht Club should keep on challenging in the hope of giving that cup a trip across the ocean. Sir Thomas has spent over $10,000,000 in unsuccessful attempts and his optimism is still unshaken.

HAVE THE BEST ALWAYS

When buying a newspaper the same rule should apply as when buying goods. You want the best for your money. There is one "best" in Canada and it should be in every home. You should have your own local paper without doubt, but you should also have the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. It is undoubtedly the greatest family and farm paper on the continent and at the low price of Two Dollars it is a wonderful bargain. This year the Family Herald is giving to each subscriber a chance to win as much as Five Thousand Dollars cash, and each subscriber receives a large calendar with a fascinating picture that would adorn any home. For those who secure new subscribers there are some very handsome rewards, which are described in a catalogue obtainable free.

THE ORCHARD AND GARDEN IN NOVEMBER

By November the apples will all have been picked in most places in Canada and got safely under cover. The trees are now dormant for winter. Before leaving the orchard it is important to see that the young trees, especially, are protected from the depredations of mice, and, if possible, from rabbits. Protection is given either by wrapping the trees with building paper or encircling them with a wire mesh, and partial protection, later, by tramping the snow about the trunks.

While pruning in November is not recommended as the most economical or best time, it can be done then without any serious harm if one is not able to do it in the early spring.

The removal of all broken, or dead limbs or any rubbish from the orchard before winter is desirable.

The vegetable garden should be cleared of all old tops or unused vegetables, which might carry over insects or disease, and, if it is most convenient, to apply a heavy coat of rotted manure now, it should be done with the object of digging or ploughing it under as soon as the ground is fit to work in the spring.

In the flower garden, roses will, in most places, need some protection. Covering the plants with earth just before winter sets in is one of the most satisfactory practices, giving a broad base to the mound of soil, so that the roots will have some additional protection. A few evergreen boughs thrown over the mound of soil will help hold the snow and give further protection. Climbing roses are best protected by covering with a box, which is filled with dry leaves and given a water-proof cover.

A little care taken in November will often save many valuable trees and smaller plants, and ensure better results the following year.

THE THINGS TO TRY

The things that haven't been done before.
Those are the things to try.
Columbus dreamed of an unknown shore
At the rim of a far-flung sky.
And his heart was bold and his faith was strong
As he ventured with dangers new,
And he paid no heed to the jeering throng
Or the fears of a doubting crew.

The many who follow the beaten track
With guideposts on the way,
They live and have lived for the ages back
With a chart for every day.
Someone has told them it's safe to go
On the road he has travelled o'er
And all that they ever strive to know
Are the things that were known before.

The few strike out without map or chart
Where never a man has been;
From the beaten paths they draw apart
To see what no man has seen.
There are deeds they hunger alone to do,
Though battered and bruised and sore;
They blaze the path for the men who
Do nothing not done before.

The things that haven't been done before
Are the tasks worth while today.
Are you one of the flock that follows, or
Are you one that shall lead the way?

Are you one of the timid souls that quail
At the jeers of a doubting crew?
Or dare you, whether you win or fail,
Strike out for a goal that's new.
See that your goods are made for service. Sales will surely follow.
It is hardly fair to expect that bright goods can be sold by dull advertising.

Here and There

Immigration to Canada for the month of August, 1924, totalled 20,186, of whom 5,706 were from the British Isles, 1,784 from the United States, and 12,696 from other countries. Immigration for the first five months of the fiscal year totalled 76,719. In the same period 23,861 Canadians have returned to Canada from domicile in the United States.

As an indication that the tide of settlers has definitely set in the direction of Canada, it has been made known by the Department of Immigration and Colonization that 6,000 acres of land near Lethbridge has been sold to ten families of 75 persons from South Dakota. This, it is announced, is only the advance guard of a considerable northward movement from that region.

"We will have a good report to present when we reach the Hebrides," said Rev. Father Alex. MacDougall, a member of the Hebridean commission of inquiry which investigated conditions of Hebrideans in Canada. The members of the commission, after visiting Alberta, reported the new settlers perfectly satisfied with Canadian conditions.

Among the passengers sailing for Europe aboard the Canadian Pacific Steamship "Empress of France" on October 8th, was Geo. A. Walton, General Passenger Agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal, who will represent the company on an extensive tour of Europe arranged for the American Association of Passenger Traffic Officers by the trans-Atlantic steamship companies and the railroads of Great Britain and the continent.

Charles J. Pernigotti, a native of Danbury, Conn., has received a commission from the Prince of Wales to paint some of his blooded stock on the E. P. ranch, near High River, on the Canadian Pacific lines in Alberta. Pernigotti, who has attained a reputation as a painter of animals, says the commission was awarded during the Prince's stay at Syosset. He will commence work the latter part of October.

As a result of the survey conducted by the newly formed Graphic Arts Association, printing and allied trades are now shown to constitute the second largest industry in Winnipeg, Man., representing an investment of $10,054,318, and providing employment for 12,000 people. The report shows that during 1923 the sum of $3,619,322 was paid in salaries.

With the approaching close of the tourist season, plans are being laid for the continuation of construction work at the Chateau Frontenac, the Canadian Pacific Railway's palatial hotel in the city of Quebec. Some of the interior decorating and the completion of rooms of the main corridor in the Chateau had to be left unfinished when the present tourist season opened, but it is expected that work on these parts of the hotel will commence very shortly. The billiard room and other rooms in the basement will also be completed as soon as possible.

PORT WILLIAMS AND VICINITY

Miss Dorothy Ilsley is visiting friends at North Sydney.

Many friends of Dr. George DeWitt were shocked to hear of his death. At one time he had many patients here and the Port Williams Acadian extends sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Congratulations are in order for Mr. and Mrs. Robie Murphy on the birth of a son at the Woods Maternity Hospital.

On Wednesday evening Rev. Mr. Hudson, pastor of the Canard United Baptist church, gave an interesting lecture on the life of Christ. The lecture was accompanied by a number of reels from the "Passion Play", also vocal music. A good sum was realized.

The Girl Guides held a panty sale in R. F. Newcomb's ice cream parlor on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 15th. The sum of $10.40 was realized to help purchase their uniforms.

A few of the young people from there attended the dance given by Robert Bishop, of Greenwich, on Thursday evening, Nov. 13th.

Messrs. Ira Gates, Robert Watson and Norman Chase left this morning for Quebec, where they will remain for the winter.

Mr. Justin Gates has recently been on a business trip to Great Village.

Miss Margaret Hibbert, of Halifax, is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Bedford Chase.

Mrs. Margaret Bezanson recently motored to Halifax where she spent a few days with friends.

Mr. Charles Collins had the "mistortune" to fall and break his arm but is improving.

We are sorry to learn that Master Lawrence Gates is on the sick list.

Mr. F. E. Daniels, of the Royal Bank staff, spent the week end at his home at Lawrenceville, Annapolis County.

Mr. K. F. Hibbert, of Halifax, visited at the village recently when attending the funeral of Mrs. Hibbert's aunt, Mrs. W. H. Chase.

Rev. Gordon C. Brown, rector of St. John's church, and Messrs. J. R. Starr and John Donaldson are attending the Synod meetings at Halifax this week.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held Tuesday afternoon in the Citizens Hall. There was a large attendance. After the election of officers and a lengthy business session, an interesting address was delivered by Dr. W. R. Elliott, of Wolfville. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

GREENWICH

Mrs. Leslie Dakin entertained a number of her friends of the west end on last Monday evening—Thanksgiving at her home. A very pleasant social evening was enjoyed. During the evening, Mrs. William Curry, one of the guests, met with a great surprise, when she was presented with one dozen lovely china cups and saucers, as a slight token of appreciation of the great pleasure she had so frequently given her friends with her lovely contralto voice.

Miss Isabel Meek, of Upper Perreux, arrived last Tuesday afternoon to visit her sister, Mrs. Dexter Forsythe, returning home on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Forsythe, accompanied by Mrs. Charlotte Bishop and her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Merry, motored to Halifax last Wednesday, returning the same day.

Mrs. Charles Forsythe, accompanied by Mrs. James Robertson, of North Kingston, spent a couple of days last week in Halifax.

Mr. Charles Patterson, of Lawrenceville, Annapolis County, arrived last Friday to pay a short visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bishop.

Messrs. Philip and Robert Bishop entertained a few of their friends at their home last Thursday evening with dancing, their aunt, Miss Lillian Bishop, being chaperone during the absence of their mother.

Miss Lillian Bishop and Miss Winona Betts jointly entertained at the home of the former the members of the choir of our church, the wives and husbands and a few other friends also being invited. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening and a most enjoyable evening of games, conversation and piano and vocal music was spent by all. Our pastor, Rev. D. B. Hemmeon, and Mrs. Hemmeon, of Wolfville, were also among the guests present.

Alce Bishop spent the week end at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Forsythe, Cambridge.

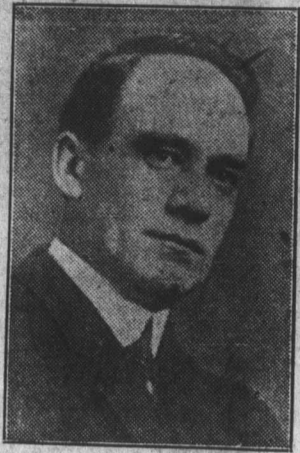

Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Bishop, accompanied by the former's father, Mr. Humphrey Bishop, and his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bishop, motored to Windsor on Sunday morning, returning in the evening, Mr. Humphrey Bishop stopping at Hantsport to spend the day with his sister, Mrs. Z. L. Fash, at the Baptist parsonage.

Mr. E. L. Currie, of Acadia, preached here in Methodist church on Sunday afternoon, delivering an able and most interesting sermon and one worth while.

A good number from here went over to Port Williams Sunday evening and enjoyed the service at the Baptist church.

An interesting report of the Tuxis Boys

PROF. L. S. KLINCK

President of the University of British Columbia, who represented the Universities of Western Canada at ceremonies in connection with the formal opening of the new buildings of the University of Western Ontario at London. Prof. Klinck and nine other prominent Canadians, who have distinguished themselves by their interest in higher education, were honored with degrees.

conference, recently held in Windsor, was given by four of the boys.

A few from here attended and enjoyed the address and pictures on Wembley, England, by Miss Hubbard, Sunday evening in the Baptist church, Wolfville.

Miss Kathleen Fraser, of Belle Isle, Annapolis County, who was a delegate of the Sons of Temperance, Grand Division, held at Halifax last week, stopped off on her return home on Saturday and spent the week end with her brother, Mr. Borden Fraser, who is assistant at the station here, going on to her home on Monday.

Mrs. Burpee Bishop and Mrs. Grace Andrew returned home Monday afternoon from a five days "camping out" at Sunken Lake, enjoying their stay there very much. Bravo! to them, and the writer heartily endorses the idea and writes if more of the over-tired ladies would "flee to the woods" for a rest and change in the midst of nature and quiet surroundings, it would be the "best ever" for them.

"THE LIGHT THAT FAILED" HAS ALL THE ELEMENTS OF APPEAL

One of the finest screen dramas of the current picture season is said to be George Melford's Paramount production "The Light That Failed", based on Rudyard Kipling's celebrated story. Jacqueline Logan, Percy Marmon, Sigrid Holmquist and David Torrence are featured.

The story deals with Dick Helder and Maisie Wells, two children in England who love each other. When they reach their majority, Helder is a failure as an artist in Port Said and Maisie lives in a land of dreams in England. Although he loves Maisie Wells, played by Sigrid Holmquist, Dick, played by Percy Marmon, will not return to England. An uprising among the tribesmen in the Sudan gives Dick an opportunity to send home a series of sketches which made him famous.

Returning to England after the campaign, Dick discovers he is a great figure in art circles. He finds the girl he loves and is on the eve of doing something really worth while in art when his eyesight fails as the result of wounds received in Egypt. The effect of Dick's blindness ramifies through the lives of several persons. The story shows how each meets the situation which has developed. The action of the picture includes battle scenes in the Egyptian desert, night life in Port Said and many interesting events in London.

At the Orpheum next Wednesday and Thursday.

FROM PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS TO PENITENTIARY

In all Canadian history no case has attracted attention like the revelations of the Public Accounts Committee in the Ontario Legislature. Corruption and wrong-doing was discovered and the arm of the law pounced down on the offenders. In the upper left is shown the Parliament Buildings of Ontario, at Toronto, where for seventeen years Charles A. Matthews, Jr. (upper right) was employed as Deputy Provincial Treasurer. Peter Smith (lower left) was Provincial Treasurer in the late government. While the Public Accounts Committee was delving into books of the Province and announcing startling disclosures, Matthews disappeared. Several months later he was apprehended in California and soon found himself back in Toronto to face a trial on several charges. A Jury found him guilty of a breach of the Secret Commissions Act and also of receiving "gifts". He is now in the Toronto Jail (lower right) waiting to be taken to Portmouth Penitentiary to commence a two year term. Peter Smith was found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the Province in certain bond deals and has commenced a three-year term in the same institution.

Brother—"Say, sis, I want to introduce old Smithers."

Sister—"Is he a good dancer?"

Brother—"I dunno about that," but his dad owns a chocolate factory."

Judge—"Why did you steal the man's watch?"

Prisoner—"I'm cross-eyed, Judge, and I put my hand in his pocket by mistake. I only wanted to know the time."

Judge—"Three years."

Teacher—"Johnny, give me a sentence using the word diadem."

Johnny—"People who drink bootleggers' whiskey diadem sight quicker than those who don't."

A SPECIAL SALE OF LADIES' COATS

Not a reduction on "left-overs" but a display of coats direct from the factory.

Due to the unseasonable weather this Fall for the sale of winter coats, manufacturers have found themselves overstocked and have been forced to make price concessions. Consequently when we ordered a new shipment of ladies' Coats we were astonished to find so great a reduction on the price we paid for these coats earlier in the season.

In turn we have marked these exceptionally close, so with this good buy and our close marking you will be delighted to find you can buy a winter coat at such a saving.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF HANTSPORT AND VICINITY

HANTSPORT HAPPENINGS

The Rev. Dr. Siley, who has been visiting his family here, left on Friday for P.E.I., where he is meeting with great success in the evangelistic campaign which he is conducting there.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Woodworth, of Berwick, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Gertrude.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Outerbridge, Hants Border, have for their guests their daughter, Mrs. E. B. Newcombe, of Kentville.

Misses C. Cogswell and Irene Gates, of Port Williams, spent Sunday with Miss Cogswell's aunt, Mrs. R. A. Beckwith.

Miss Ruby Taylor returned home on Tuesday, after spending two weeks visiting relatives in Mocton, Amherst and PARSBORO.

Mrs. W. Harvey, of Windsor, visited Mrs. C. E. Burgess recently.

Mrs. Ruggles Dodge and little son Jerome, of Aylesford, are spending several days here with relatives.

Mrs. F. Clarkson and little Miss Patricia Annand, of Truro, returned to their home in Truro on Friday, after spending several weeks at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Dickie.

At the recent congregational meeting in the Presbyterian church, envelopes having been distributed in the congregation on the previous week, a special collection was taken which amounted to $76.

This closed the budget allotment of $165, and left $60 of an overplus, which was contributed to the church deficit fund. The congregation numbers 20 families.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

On Friday afternoon the local Women's Institute assembled at the home of Mrs. Asaph Newcombe, for the purpose of holding their annual business meeting.

The president, Mrs. B. Davison, reported a very creditable year's work. The Cemetery Committee, of which Mrs. J. Lyon is chairman, gave an excellent report, showing that a great deal has been accomplished along that line.

An Anniversary Supper was held on Thursday evening, the proceeds of which amounted to $36, which will be used in the furtherance of the renovation of River Bank Cemetery.

At the present time a concrete wall is being built along the river side, which will be a great improvement.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year—President—Mrs. B. Davison; Vice President—Mrs. W. A. Bradshaw; Secretary—Mrs. R. Lawrence; Treasurer—Mrs. J. Lyon; Auditors—Mrs. M. Perry, Mrs. L. V. Marsters; Directors—Mrs. E. Lester, Mrs. W. Flemming, Miss A. Riley, Mrs. T. Patton.

Meeting adjourned by singing of the Institute Ode.

LOCAL SOCIAL SERVICE COUNCIL HOLDS MASS MEETING

A mass meeting of the Social Service Council was held in the Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening, Nov. 12th.

W. K. Sterling, President of the Council, occupied the chair. Rev. A. B. Higgins, who gave the address, pointed out some of the evils confronting the world today, such as intemperance, and stressed the evil of gambling, which, he said, was increasing.

Reference was made to the fair held recently in Windsor, and the stand the Hants County Ministerial Association took in the matter. At the close of the address the meeting was opened for discussion. Those taking part were Mayor Murray, Rev. Mr. Fash, Rev. Mr. Outerbridge, Rev. Mr. Prestwood and others.

Also problems in connection with the Council were discussed, and the meeting altogether was considered most interesting and helpful.

SUDDEN DEATH OF PROMINENT CITIZEN

Hantsport lost a good citizen on Wednesday morning when the death occurred suddenly of Mr. Andrew W. Pattison. On the previous day Mr. Pattison had been at his business place as usual, but in the afternoon complained of feeling unwell.

No uneasiness was felt by his family, and his sudden passing on Wednesday morning was a great shock to all.

Mr. Pattison was a native of St. John, N. B., but when a young man came to Windsor where he engaged with his brother in the hardware business. Many years ago he came to Hantsport where he set up a hardware and tinware establishment, and has carried on a large furance business throughout the province.

During his residence here Mr. Pattison ever showed a deep interest in the affairs of the community and for four successive terms he filled the responsible position of Mayor. He was an active member of Edwards Lodge, I.O.O.F., and took a very keen interest in the doings of the order.

A man of sterling character his passing will be mourned by a host of friends in this town and throughout the province.

Mr. Pattison is survived by his widow, two daughters, Evelyn (Mrs. Wells Coal-fleet, of New York) and Beatrice, both of whom are now at home; and three sons, Richard and Laurie, of Detroit, and Ervin, who returned home last summer and has been associated with his father in the business.

SUPPORTING FOREIGN COAL MINES

(From the Montreal Herald.)

Reverting to the severe depression in the Maritime Provinces, and the fact that the coal mines there cannot compete with American mines, some of which are operated by non-union labor, the Toronto Saturday Night takes the ground that it is the duty of the Government to check up the situation, and if the claims of the Maritime Provinces be substantiated, to give the necessary aid quickly and without hesitation.

According to these claims, at least half a million tons of slack coal enters the St. Lawrence markets every year, which when mixed with American run of mine makes a grand total of some million tons of foreign bituminous coal carrying an import duty charge of 27 cents per ton.

In the meantime our own miners in Nova Scotia are only partially employed, with a very good chance of having no employment at all during the hard winter months when shipping via the St. Lawrence is impossible.

What the Nova Scotia people desire is the imposition of the same import duty on slack that is now imposed on run of mine coal, which they claim, would give the Maritime Provinces an additional market at Montreal for somewhere between 1,000,000 tons annually.

There is no portion of Canada which has been so hard hit by the Fordney tariff as the Maritime Provinces. As our contemporary says, the industries in Quebec and Ontario that utilize steam coal are as a whole receiving some protection from the National Government in respect to import duties on manufactured goods, and they should be the last unwilling to pay a trifle more for their fuel in order that other Canadian industries so vital to the country can be kept alive.

Saturday Night adds: "Let the Dominion Government see what can be done, and then do it."

WHAT DRAWS TOURISTS

One of the most historic and interesting spots in Canada is Fort Chambly, south of Montreal. Fort Chambly is on a direct, paved highway between United States and Montreal, and properly exploited, would draw thousands of tourists annually to visit its impressive ruins.

Yet Fort Chambly is ill-kept, and not particularly inviting to the visitor. It is little advertised.

Canada has a government commission looking after its battlefields and historic monuments. If the commission is not efficient, if its scope is not broad enough, if it has not enough money to finance the preservation and exploitation of Canada's national monuments, the situation should be remedied by the government at Ottawa.

Canada hopes to get a revenue of millions a month from tourists. One way to insure a steady revenue from this source will be to tell the world about our storied forts and cities in Nova Scotia, Quebec, the Niagara Frontier and other districts, and to keep these show places attractive and interesting.

BACK HOME AGAIN

H.R.H. looked much refreshed on his arrival in England. This photograph was taken just before the Olympic docked at Southampton, and shows the Prince promenading with Captain Howarth. A book containing 61,120 clippings from newspapers regarding the activities of the Prince of Wales while on this continent has been compiled for H.R.H. by a newspaper clipping agency. The book weighs 325 lbs. No president of the United States ever received so much publicity in so short a time.

Canada should not be less careful in this work than a private corporation would be, that leased them for profit-making reasons.—Financial Post.

TO REMOVE SCORCH MARKS

Even experienced women sometimes make a scorch mark on the articles they are ironing. Here is a hint which many housewives may find useful.

Unless it is very deep, or the material is actually burnt, a scorch mark can be removed from white fabric by the following treatment: Mix two ounces of Fuller's earth with half a pint of vinegar, add two onions which have been finely chopped, and boil all together for about ten minutes or until the mixture has taken on the form of a thick paste.

Stir the mixture with a wooden spoon. After the mixture has cooled a little spread it over the scorch mark and leave the fabric to become dry. When quite dry brush the paste off and wash the garment in the ordinary way. Repeat the treatment if the mark has not disappeared after it has been washed.

MONUMENT TO CANADIAN HEROES

PIETERMARITZBURG, Sept. 24.—The Governor General and High Commander of South Africa, the Earl of Athlone, on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 17, unveiled in King's Park, Bloemfontein, the handsome monument erected to the memory of the gallant Canadians who fell in the South African war at the commencement of the present century. Many causes—chief of which was the World War—contributed to the protracted delay in the erection of the memorial. The monument is a noble column of Canadian grey granite, containing the names of places where engagements were fought by the men from the Dominion of Canada, and it is supported by a rectangular base embellished with representations of the maple leaf, and containing the names of the men and their regiments.

A VALUABLE CLEANING AID

Prepare a dozen or two chemical dusting cloths in the manner given below. When they become soiled wash with soap and water and boil a couple of times with a piece of washing soda as big as a butternut. Rinse, dry and treat again. In preparing the cloths do not ## work near a light or fire.

Take two ounces of paraffin oil, two ounces of spirits of turpentine, two drams of oil of eucalyptus and three pints of gasoline. Mix the two oils together; add the turpentine and the gasoline. Turn enough into a bowl to thoroughly moisten three or four of the cloths. Squeeze, but do not wring, shake or snap out, as friction is to be avoided where there is gasoline. Straighten with the hands, and hang in the open air to dry. Finish all the cloths prepared, cork and label the remaining fluid and set away for later use. The cloths will have a delightfully fresh odor, and will gather up the dust and tend to give a polish to dull surfaces.

BRASS CURTAIN RODS

Brass curtain rods that are discolored and spoiled by verdigris can be renovated by scouring them with powdered pumice stone and turpentine, made into a paste. They can be polished with dry powder, or with metal polish, and can either be relacquered or rubbed with an oily rag. Rusty curtain rings should be boiled in equal parts of vinegar and water. After being rinsed in cold water they should be well dried.

Why Advertise?

Bruce Barton relates a story about a friend who approached the proprietor of a retail store to sell him an advertising contract. "Why should I advertise?" asked the dealer. "I've been here for twenty years. There isn't a man, woman or child here who doesn't know who I am and what I sell."

The advertising man promptly asked, "What is that building over there?"

The proprietor answered, "That's the oldest church in this town."

"How long has it been there?" the advertising man asked.

"Oh, I don't know, seventy-five years probably."

"And yet," explained the advertising man, "they ring the church bell every Sunday morning."

THE INVERTED PYRAMID

BY
Bertrand W. Sinclair
Author of "North of Fifty-three"

It was easy for men like Hall to lubricate the wheels of industry, or to set up frictions that produced minor disasters. Men like Andy thought in terms beyond themselves, beyond their personal ends. They rose up out of the low ground of their origins, looming above the common ruck like tall trees above a thicket. Rod was very glad to have Andy Hall's paid services. But he appreciated even more Andy's instant grasp of a difficult situation met in the only possible fashion.

A murmur of voices sounded in the living room. Rod was a trifle surprised to see Isabel Wall's piquant face turn to him over the back of a Chesterfield. She had been in the south all winter. Almost five years had left Isabel unchanged in appearance, except that her hair was thicker and bobbed in the prevailing mode so that it stood out around her head like a fluffy aureole, making her seem, with her big blue eyes and delicate pink-and-white skin, more like a charming doll than a woman. Rod's mind revived that embarrassing scene under a high moon among the great tree shadows on Big Dent. He had not seen Isabel since. She put out her hand now with frank friendliness. It was all a little unexpected. Isabel so patently belonged in the camp of the enemy. Yet she seemed very sure of her ground here in his house, very much at home.

He introduced Andy to his wife, to Isabel, to a plump matron with two chins and a positive, not to say emphatic manner of speaking; a Mrs. Emmert whom Rod vaguely remembered. He fell into conversation with Isabel, or rather Isabel talked and he listened. Isabel prattled as of old. Rod lost himself in speculation as to how any one could possibly talk so much and say so little. It was an art. He came out of this semi-absorption. Isabel ceased talking. Her face turned aside with a new quality of fixed attention. Rod looked and became aware that Andy was speaking to Mrs. Emmert with a bitter, gibing note in his usually pleasant voice. The whimsical, good-natured expression of his face had vanished. His eyes had hardened; his eyes had narrowed.

"You may consider it a notable distinction," he was saying. "But possibly you son has his doubts." The lady made a sound in the nature of a gasp. "You see," Andy continued in that frozen tone, "people whose knowledge of war is based on what they read in the papers don't know anything about war at all. The front-line men do. Most of 'em don't care to talk much about it. Being a person of no discrimination, I do talk about it. There is no glory in war—particularly this war—for the men who actually carry on the war. All the benefits of this nation (if there are any benefits, which I doubt) are derived by people who stayed at home and did their patriotic duty by knitting socks and buying bonds and selling supplies to the War Department. You can't tell a soldier that it was anything but a dirty, dangerous job which he hated."

"That's the most unpatriotic thing I ever heard," Mrs. Emmert sputtered. "I paid two fingers and a hole in one leg for the privilege of saying things like that," Andy observed tartly. "They are true. Your attitude is common enough. You've got one of these hermetically sealed minds that conceives of war as some sort of international game played by young men with guns; a game in which your son distinguished himself by winning a medal. A medal!" he snorted, and plunged his good hand into an inner pocket.

"Look, madam," he said ironically. "Three of 'em, Military Medal, Military Cross, Croix de Guerre. They don't give you these trinkets for looking wise and talking about other people's patriotic duty. They give them to you for killing men as a rule. That's all war is, just killing. For the stunt by which I earned this French thing I should be execrated in any civilized community. And I didn't do it to earn a decoration, nor in any spirit of heroism. I can assure you. I was caught like a rat in a trap. I was responsible for the lives of other men. I was frantic with rage and fear. I won't atone for by describing what I did. It made me sick afterward. I tell you I have a strong stomach and it made me sick to think about it. And they gave me a medal. Pah! he snorted contemptuously. "People like you talking about the great privilege of having participated in the war. You're as bad as the Germans. Go to some slaughterhouse and watch pigs and sheep die with squeals and bleats and blood spurting out of their throats. Substitute men for pigs and sheep, and you have war. Of course, if you have a butcher's instincts, you take to it as a pastime."

Mrs. Emmert was evidently making one of those formal calls which do not permit the visiting female to lay aside her wraps. She rose now, fully caparisoned in her furs and her dignity. "I have never been so insulted in my life," she declared. "I consider your remarks to be positively seditious."

And with that she swept majestically to the door,—not, however, without a sidelong glance at Isabel Wall. That young lady, to Rod's surprise merely smiled, shook her head, and murmured: "Sorry. But it doesn't arouse my righteous indignation."

The door closed with a slam. Mary, who had risen, resumed her seat and smiled. Andy Hall stood up. He pocketed the decorations. His face was slightly flushed. "I expect," he said, "I'd better be on my way. You see, when I come across such persons, I blow up. I can't help it. I'm on one side of the fence. People like that are on the other. When some silk-upholstered fool starts drooling sentimental tosh about the war and mouthing intell'ctual h c's as positive wisdom, I simply get red-eyed. I don't really belong on your side of the fence, and I'm just bone-headed enough to be glad I don't, if many people like that graze in your pastures."

"Sit down, Andy, and be calm," Rod laughed. "There isn't any fence so far as we're concerned. Sit down and have a cigarette. Dinner will be ready soon. Forget the fat woman. She doesn't know any better."

"Room for one more at the festive board?" Isabel inquired. "Of course," Mary replied. "There always is."

"I wonder," Isabel turned her bland, childlike prettiness on Andy Hall. "I wonder if Mr. Hall knows how fierce he looks when he is angry? Is that an expression you cultivate in the army, Mr. Hall?"

"No," Andy replied with unexpected acidity. "I cultivated it to protect myself against idiotic questioning by London flappers."

"Entirely useless here," Isabel said sweetly. "This isn't London, and I'm not a flapper. Or at least, I'm a sort of a graduate flapper, if anything."

Andy stared at her in some slight puzzlement. "I'm afraid," he said more politely, "that I don't quite get your drift."

"Oh, you will presently," she assured him with mock gravity. "It's really important that you should. You see, you certainly did browbeat Mrs. Emmert. And when I find a man browbeating my sex, I consider it my duty to subjugate him."

"You speak a language I don't understand," Andy retorted,—but he said it with a smile.

"I'd be pleased to teach you," Isabel replied demurely. "I'm sure you wouldn't be a backward pupil."

Rod leaned over the back of a chair silent, amused. Mary sat on a low stool, her hands clasped over her knees, egging them on with brief sentences. And the other two, who had never seen each other before, whose orbits were as diverse as the separate paths of the Dog Star and Halley's comet, turned upon each other batteries of light-hearted chaffing. They ended up on the Chesterfield together, comparing their favorite drinks, dances and cigarettes, in all three of which they seemed to have had a comprehensive experience. They were at an easy congenial banter. Mary drew her husband out of the room on some pretext.

"Is that your revolutionary rigging-slinger?" she asked.

"Yes. He is going to be my super-intendent of works."

"I like him," Mary said. "Apparently so does Isabel."

"Everybody who knows Andy Hall likes him," Rod informed her. "But that little feather-brain is only interested in him as a new specimen. She probably never encountered anybody quite like him."

"Feather-brain? You don't know Isabel," Mary declared.

"I know her better than you do," "Oh, no," Mary smiled. "You may have known her longer. But not better. Isabel outgrew the fluffy-ruffles stage while you were away at the war."

CHAPTER XXV

Across the channel, in the green bank of timber bisected by the path that ran from Oliver Thorn's old house to the Granite Pool, rose white puffs of steam, intermittent, like sporadic geysers. Those were donkey engines at work. They tooted shrill response to the signal pull. The woods were full of prodigious shuddering and rumblings. The powerful machines snaked fallen trees, sawn to lengths, from where they were felled to the last splashing plunge into the tidal booming ground close by a group of new camp buildings not far from Oliver Thorn's abandoned house. A "sky line" lifted its long, aerial cable far up that hill. Down this logs came at the rate of two hundred a day. The shore was lined with floating logs, new cut exhaling the odor of pitch, a pleasant pungent smell. The Granite Pool itself echoed the clack of axes and the thin twanging of saws and mirrored the downward swoop of great trees. The falling crews were stripping the shores about the Pool, destroying its seclusion shattering its restful silence, obliterating its cool shade. Farther east the Valdez camp, in which Rod had served his apprenticeship, hid deep into these heavy woods. Three hundred and fifty men, a dozen donkey engines, a logging railway in the making, miles of steel cable were chewing the heart out of the forest. Far beyond a sight and sound of Hawk's Nest another crew slashed at the last of their timber on Harwicke Island.

minutes, Stagg," he said. "Yes, sir."

Rod sat down by a window that overlooked Mermaid Bay. A Kern lug lay against one shore beside a million boards feet of Norway cedar, waiting for the fierce tides to go slack before she eased her boom through the south narrows for the long Gulf tow. In a little while she would pass out dragging astern a brown comet's tail of slaughtered trees.

His eyes turned back to the interior of the room, came to rest on a portrait of his great-grandfather—the Norway who had prophesied that Hawk's Nest would some day hatch out an eagle.

"Even an eagle could hardly hold his own against a flock of buzzards," Rod muttered.

No. One slip was sufficient to invalidate, even to destroy such families as his, in this day and age. Perhaps there had been a time when people of the equivalent class would have seen in the Norway difficulty something besides a chance to participate in the loot. Out of his intimate knowledge of the family history as revealed in sundry documents and half-recalled conversations, Rod knew that his father had put out his hand and opened his purse to save other men from ruin, sometimes out of friendship, sometimes out of generosity, often from a clear sense of class interest. At least friendship and social intimacy had bred something more than mere lip-fealty. Other generations did not break bread and drink wine under each other's roofs to go forth planning how they could filch each other's possessions. The generation to which his father belonged would have understood quite clearly the Norway obligation in regard to Grove's blundering.

His, Rod's generation, didn't understand. At least, if it understood, it cynically denied his code. It laughed at him behind his back, looked with disbelief on the course he was taking. It was, they held, purely quixotic to sacrifice so much, to risk all in repairing a misguided man's folly. Childishness. What were bankruptcy laws for? Why had sound commercial brains devised the Limited Liability Act if not to save the enterprising bourgeois from loss when one of his undertakings failed? What simpleton would unhesitatingly accept a moral responsibility when no legal compulsion existed?

Rod smiled grimly. He had become more closely acquainted with the ethics of modern business. It struck him that if corporations were in the nature of things soulless and dehumanized in matters of money, that attribute tended to spread to individuals. He wondered if that were possible. It was a disagreeable conclusion; one he hesitated to accept. But he knew this; that both his father and himself had aroused a strange combination of antagonism and contempt by merely doing what they felt in honor bound to do.

The antagonism was the fiercer for being grounded in cupidity. It smoldered under the surface, ready to blaze out if he left an opening. There were those who would like to pick his bones. He was aware of this attitude. It burrowed forth in many aspects of his affairs. If he had looted the Norway Trust within the law and let the plucked victims pick themselves bewildered out of the ruin, while he sat back with his share of the plunder and the great Norway estate still firm in his grasp, these contemporaries of his would have esteemed him as a clever man, almost a great man certainly a man with a genius for affairs. A man of affairs; a man who could safely and expeditiously get possession of large sums of money. What was the difference?

He might have been execrated by some who lost their money. The losers, they said cynically, always accused. But if he had shrugged his shoulders and stood aside, his own class would have backed him to a man. They would have upheld him in the press, socially, by every means within their power. Their admiration would have been tinged with envy. They would have understood so clearly that genuine greatness was involved in making such a coup and getting clear when the crash came. His own people,—no, by God, the Walls and Dcanes and Richstons were not his kind of people, not one of the whole pushing caravan, the petty tradesmen swollen to greatness with one generation of a rich country's development, grown greater with exorbitant profits derived from a war which had been fought for them but not by them. They were Grove's kind of people. And Grove had been a—

Well, he didn't like to ponder on Grove. There was no encouragement in that. He found his brother's memory depressing. Grove reminded him of a joyous diver plunging headfirst into the troubled waters of life and coming up, not with a pearl but with a handful of slimy ooze. Grove, he reflected, would probably not have given a second thought to discharging Stagg. And he was compelled to give several regretful thoughts to that unfortunate necessity.

THE IRISHMAN'S DOG

"Hullo, Pat, I hear that your dog is dead?"

"It is."

"Was it a lap dog?"

"Yes it would lap up anything."

"What did it die of?"

"It died of a Tuesday."

"I mean how did it die?"

"It died on its back."

"No, no, I mean how did it meet its death?"

"It didn't meet its death; its death overtook it."

"I want to know what was the complaint?"

"No complaint; everyone for miles around seemed satisfied."

"I wish to know, how did it occur?"

"The dog was no cur; he was a thorough-bred animal."

"Tell me, what disease did the dog die of?"

"He went to fight a circular saw."

"What was the result?"

"The dog only lasted one round."

It's Uniform Quality is due to Infinite Care

YOU know how impossible it is to judge flour quality by a mere inspection. Different flours may cost the same and look the same, yet give entirely different results. Then, too, you will often find a good flour, that varies in quality—a success in one baking and a failure in the next.

Your only real safeguard in buying flour is to select one that has been tested and proven in advance—and is guaranteed uniform in quality.

Maple Leaf Flour is made from the finest selected Canadian hard wheat, skillfully blended and milled. Exacting tests at every stage of its milling makes possible its sale under a definite "money back" guarantee of uniform quality and satisfaction. You can depend on Maple Leaf Flour for unvarying baking results—always.
