AN ARCTIC WALK. The following is from Dr. Kane's inte-resting narrative of the Grinnel Exploring Expedition in search of Sir John Franklin: "Now let us start out npon a walk, elothed in well-fashioned Arctic costume.

The thermometer is, say 25 degrees, not lower, and the wind blowing a royal breeze,

The thermometer is, say 20 aggrees, not lower, and the wind blowing a royal breeze, but gently. "Close the lips for the first minute or two, and admit the air suspiciously through nostril and moustache. Presently you breathe in a dry, pungent, but gracious and agreeable atmosphere. The beard, eye-brows, eyelashes, and the downy pubescence of the ears, acquire a delicate, white, and perfectly-enveloping cover of venerable hoar frost. The moustache and under lip form pendulous beards of dangling ice. Put out your tongue, and it instantly freezes to this icy crusting, and a rapid effort and some hand-aid will be required to liberate it. The less you talk, the better. Your chin has a trick of freezing to your upper jaw by the luting aid of your beard; even my eyes have often been to glued, as to show that even a wink may be unsafe. As you walk on, you find that the iron-work of your gun begins to penetrate through two coats of woollen mittens, with a sensation like hot water.

like hot water. "But we have been supposing your back to the the wind; and if you are a good Arcticised subject, a warm glow has already been followed by a profuse sweat. Now turn about and face the wind; what a change! how the atmospheres are wafted off? how penetratingly the cold trickles down your neck and in at your pockets! Whew! a jack-knife heretofore, like Bob Sawyer's apple, 'unpleasantly warm' in the breaches pocket, has changed to something as cold as ice and hot as fire; make your way back to the ship! I was once caught three miles off with a freshening wind, and at one time feared that I would hardly see the brig again. Morten, who accompanied me, hud his checks frozen, and I felt that lethargic numbness mentioned in the story books. "I have been twice ' caught out." Stepiness is not the sensation. Have you ever re-ceived the shocks of a magneto-electric machine, and had the peculiar benumbing sensation of 'can't let go,' extending up to your elbow joints? Deprive this of its paroxysmal character; subdue, but diffuse it over every part of the system, and you have the so-called pleasurable faelings of incipient freezing. It seems even to extend to your brain. Its inertia is augmented; cverything about you seems of a ponderous sort; and the whole amount of pleasure is in gratifying the disposition to remain at rest.

cverything about you seems of a ponderous sort; and the whole amount of pleasure is in sort; and the whole amount of pleasure is in gratifying the disposition to remain at rest, and spare yourself an encounter with these latent resistances. This is, I suppose, the pleasurable sleepiness of the story books. "I could fill page after page with the ludierous miseries of our ship-board life. We have two climates, hygrometrically as well as thermetrically at opposite ends of the scale. A pocket-handkerchief, pocket-ed below in the region of stoves, comes up unchanged. Go below again, and it be-comes moist; flaceid, and almost wet. Go on deck argin, and it resembles a shingle re-enter the Black Sea. The first division of French troops had sailed for Turkey. There is nothing decisive from the Da-nube. The troops on the two sides of the river are preparing for active operations, varying the monotony of camp life by petty skirmishes, in which each party claim the advantage. A report had reached Con-stantinople of the capture of a Russian treasure convor.

stantinople of the capture of a Russian treasure convoy. Among the latest intentions of imple-ments of war is a new cannon, which its inventor asserts may be worked by two men. "The employment of this new gun," says the Birmingham Journal, "will effect a sav-ing to the English army of between one and two millions sterling per annum, and, in case of invasion, would enable England to defend, her country against all Europe." Experiments are being made, at Wool-wich, with this new engine of destruction, by command of the Master General of the Ordnance.

Ore-third of the Russian army is a hun-dred days march from St. Petersburgh. The allied powers are within four days march from the same city, which is four hundred miles from Moscow, and the latter is the same distance from Odessa. At both points puissant legions may land, advance to Moscow, and unite with German forces direct from the Vistula. Aided by steam, Napoleon had conquered Russia, and his spirit reigns in Napier. The phrenzy of Nicholas increases. 1,400,000 troops are opposed to 600,000 Russians. Austria is in a state of bankruptcy.

TEMPERANCE IN ST. JOHN, N. B.

TEMPERANCE IN ST. JOHN, N. B. The Civic Election took place on Tues-day. The result which will appear from the subjoined table, is flighly gralifying to the friends of Temperance, there being no less than ten pledged Temperance men at the Council Board. Although Tempe-rance was the test, more or less in every Ward, the grand battle was fought out in Queen's. All that could be done was done by the rum party to return their forwarite by the rum party to return their favourite candidate. Notwithstanding which, the Election passed off without the least disor-der or apparent ill-feeling on either side. The excellence of the Ballot system was perhaps never more apparent than at this election. At the close of the Poll in election. At the close of the Poll in Queen's Ward, Mr. Foster, being under the impression that he had been defeated, obser-ved that although unsuccessful, he was yet under obligation for the support he had reason to believe he had received, and hoped that the same friendly relations would continue to exist between himself and these who had voted against as well as for him, and then retired. Whereupon Mr. Smith addressed the byestanders observing that he was satisfied that he had been returned by a handsome majority. But mark the sewas satisfied that he had been returned by a handsome majority. But mark the se-quel. When the votes wore counted, it was found that Mr. Foster was the success-ful candidate ! The latter gentleman was, then sent for, and shortly after his return to the Court House, the result was publicly encouraged announced.

He never, he said, be-longed to any party but the one of which he now felt proud to be an adherent—the Temperance party, and he hoped they would always be successful. Would always be successful. Mr. Smith appeared a good deal mortified at the unlooked for change in the position of the Candidates. He denounced the ballot system. He said it afforded persons an opportunity to stab their friends in the dark, and that it had operated in that way in this interact <text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text>

Tam TEMPERANCE ACT.—The bill for the Suppression of Intemprance, has passed both Houses, to take effect on the lat of December next. We infor from the lan-guage of the Executive organ that Gover-nor Seymour will not veto this measure, though he may favor its friends with an exhi-bition of his teeth in the shape of a Message setting forth the reasons which almost per-suaded him to return it without his signa-ture. But, even if he ware to say Veto, we should not apprehead the loss of the bill. A change of one vote in the Senate and two in the House would have secured a vote of two-thirds in the affirmative on its origi-nal passage, and we believe these would be forth coming on the question of overriding a Veto. So we trust the establishment of the principle of Prohibition is at length secured. New York Tvibune. THE TEMPERANCE ACT .- The bill for Au'y Gen and leader of the Gov't,

INVASION OF CANADA.

INVASION OF CANADA. It is reported in the States that the Em-peror of Russia has his emissaries here, as well as in Greece and European Turkey, and that the Irish population of this country are favorably disposed towards him and anxious to second his views by helping on an invasion of Canada. It is also stated that there is an organization in Ireland, the object of which is to enlist men for the Casr and join him if he should think of giving poor old Granu Waile a lift in the world. John Mitchell has issued a proclamation to his countrymen in Ireland and elsewhere cautioning them not to enlist or aid England in her military movements, the New York; and the New York Herald considers Cana-da as good as lost to England. This is all and the New York Herald considers Cana-da as good as lost to England. This is all very well for newspaper excitement; but we can assure Mitchell & Co., that the gentry beyond the St. Lawrence, are about the last people from which they will receive sid in any attempt against England and her in-terests. We should like to see the editor of the Citizen go to Quebec, Montreal, To-ronto, Hamilton or any section of Canada to stir up his countrymen to disloyalty. Al-though they are a law-and-order people over the lakes, there would be a damand for tar and feathers simultaneously with his en-trance into their cities. There is but one feeling throughout Canada towards Eng-land. We love liberty and think the Irish have teening throughout Canada towards Eng-land. We love liberty and think the Irish have good cause of complaint; but the Canadas are not fortunately selected as foyers of rebellion or as likely to turn against Eng-land. For, as matters stand, they have no grievance to complain of, sid the home government have been laterly throwing the management of their own affairs into their own hands so freely, that it would be very difficult for them to find a decent excuse for gotting into a passion. This fact is over-looked by Mitchell, Bennett, & Co. Dr. Nelson was the leader of the Canadian Re-volt in 1837; but the "horo of St. Dennie" is now the Mayor of Montreal. We fear, however, that the Honorabie Editor of the Examiner has either never heard of Cicero's definition of the day of an historian, or conceives it to be a most heathenish doc-trine; "for, generally speaking, his practice is the very reverse,...for he dares to any anything that is false, and is extremely reluctant to any anything that is true, if it in the least makes for his opponent. There is another anying, fully as old as the times of the Roman orator, and so well esteemed as to become an English proverb, intimating that those who deal in fiction should have good-memories. ISCELLANEOUS. Staves in Rossia Of the fifty-three ad a-ball millions of people which tunin contained in 1849, not less than forty-two millions were slaves; and of these fifteen millions were slaves of the rory-two millions were slaves; and of these fifteen millions were slaves of the Crown, or the Emperor! The Russian slaves have no legal rights; in that res-pect they are no better than the begroes of the States. The Russian people are not only slaves to their nobles, but they are also slaves to the soil. The land of Russia is employed are to the soil. are also slaves to the soil. The land of Russia is valueless of itself; its value consists in the human property belonging to it, and from which the nobles derive their chief revenue. Practically the pri-vate serf of Russia and there are above forty millions of such—is, life and limb, at the disposal of his owner, as complete-ly as slaves have ever been in any coun-try. He can be sold or hired out as a beast of burden. The law, it is true, now wills that a certain portion of the now wills that a certain portion of the land must be sold with him; but land in sia is, as we have said, of merely no-Rus minal value. The master may remove one or all of his slaves for life, from one one or all of his slaves for life, from one estate to another, though thousands of index apart. In purchasing a slave, he has only to go through the formality of receiving from the former owner a few acres of land with him, of which he soon forgets the possession, and from which he may remove the slave, separating him for forgets the possession, and from which he may remove the slave, separating him for ever from his wife and children, and dooming him to perputual banishment from his home. The Russian slave, male from instione. The Russian slave, male or female, cannot marry without the per-mission of the owner; and, as in the case of negroes in the States, there are no purposes, even the most infamous, to which the female slave is not always lia-ble to be devoted, and frequently applied. The master may at any time send his male slave to Siberia, or for a soldier—and some he must constantly above for this some he must constantly choose for this service. The owner may flog his slave service. The owner may flog his slave to death, but the law only permits him to be fined. The law forbids any court to receive the evidence of a slave against his mister. By a royal ukase issued by the monster Catherine, and since con-finned by Nicholas, if a serf makes any complaint to his superiors against his lord, "he shall be amenable to the punishment which the laws award"-that is, to the punishment of death! But there is no law in Russin, except the despotic will of the bend slave-owner. Puschkin, the

One of the aforesaid species—the one longest known, and the one that has give its name to the whole class-is the crocodile crocodile of the Nile; the second is the gavial of the East Indies, and the third is the alligator or caiman of our country. In Europe nothing of the kind is found, the climate there not affording the amount of heat requisite to sustain a repute whose blood is so cold and whose circulation is so shuggish.

In the present day, then, notwithstanding that these creatures are so nearly a-like; yet are they uniformly separated from one another by thousands of miles, the African, the Asiatic, and the American being constantly confirmed to its peculiar being constantly confirmed to its peculiar quarter of the globe. It has not always been thus, bewaver, for Owen has ascer-umed that the fould training of all three have been found in the inland of Sheppy, at the mouth of the Thames, the only locality in the world where such a pheno-mena has, hitherto been observed.
