CHAPTER XXI.

That night she wrote to Bobby. There was not a word of reproach in the loving letter; she only begged him to come home, if only for a day. Not until five days afterward did she receive a hurried scrawl from Bobby, saying it was impossible for him to leave London just then, but that he would run down as soon as he possibly could. The letter was so unlike him—there was not a touch of Bobby's brightness in it—that it filled Decima with dismay and foreboding.

The days passed. It seemed to her as if there were forty-eight hours in each of them instead of twenty-four. She felt so lonely, and as if something had gone out of her life. She grew pale and listless.

When she went for a walk, she avoided the gates of the Leafmore lodge, and if she were compelled to go there, she would not glance up at the avenue.

She tried to forget Lord Gaunt—was one who had loved and lost, for she did not know that she loved him, would have been startled if the idea had entered her head for a moment—but she felt that, yielding to Mr. Bright's entreaties, she had done her insignificant best to keep Lord Gaunt amongst his people—and had failed.

But it was hard to forget a man whose name she was constantly hearing. The village people were always talking of him and deploring his absence. The country families were indignant at his sudden flight, and the local paper shed an inky tear over it.

Lady Ferndale, the Countess of Roberborough, and several of their friends had called upon Decima, and would have welcomed her into their set, but Decima felt as if, like Lord Gaunt, she hated society. She shrunk into her shell, as it were, and the great ladies, after awhile, gave up the attempt to woo her from it.

The only persons she saw were Mr. Mershon and Mrs. Sherborne. He came to The Woodbines nearly every day, and Mrs. Sherborne very often accompanied him and sat with Decima in the drawing-room, while her brother talked to Mr. Deane in the laboratory. Mrs. Sherborne was as constrained as ever, and she watched Decima with a covert scrutiny which sometimes got on the girl's nerves and made her feel as if she must scream or rush from the room. She was beginning to feel as if a net were being drawn round her.

And yet she could not complain of Mr. Mershon. He was too clever to harass her with attentions, and his manner toward her was one of the deepest respect and deference.

Sometimes Mrs. Sherborne brought a magnificent bunch of orchids from The Firs, and only sometimes she casually mentioned that Theodore had cut the blooms with his own hands.

Now and again Decima met Mr. Bright; indeed, he sought her as of old, and asked her advice and assistance in carrying out the benevolent schemes which he always declared she had started. And Decima tried to throw her heart into work which she had begun so eagerly, but she seemed to have no heart to throw. Now and again she asked Mr. Bright if he had heard from or of Lord Gaunt, but he always replied in the negative, with a shake of the head and a sigh.

One afternoon she came back from the village feeling tired and listless. She took off her things, and then went down to a little room at the back of the house where she kept her pets.

It had grown into quite a small menagerie, for, in addition to the guinea pigs and white mice she had brought with her, there were other pets which Lord Gaunt had given her. There were some Belgian hares, a rakish-looking jackdaw, who was quite a linguist in his way, a tame hawk, and a couple of Norwegian rats, to say nothing of a tortoise and a case of green lizards.

Gaunt had given her these from time to time, bringing them up in his pocket, and stealing a secret joy in her girlish delight at receiving them.

As Decima fed and played with the pets, she remembered the happy minutes she had spent with Lord Gaunt in the room, how he had told her the history of each of the animals and had been coaxing her into narrating some of his hunting stories. She could almost see him as he had leaned against the wall, smoking his cigarette, and smiling down at her as she knelt beside one of the cages. He had never been anything else but kind to her ever since the first day she had met him, now he was gone, and she took the jackdaw on her hand, and stroked his black plumes, and the bird croaked as if in sympathy.

Suddenly the door opened, and looking round, she saw Bobby. She sprang to her feet with a glad cry, the jackdaw flying with a shriek to the ceiling, and flung her arms round Bobby's neck. Then, as she looked into his face, she drew back with a little cry of alarm and apprehension.

Was this Bobby, the bright, laughing-eyed boy whose every word was a jest—this pale young man with gaunt cheeks and black marks under his eyes?

"Bobby!" she exclaimed. "What is the matter—are you ill?"

The flush rose to his haggard face for a moment, and he averted the eyes which had hitherto met hers so straightly.

"I am rather seedy, Decie," he said. "It's—it's the London life."

He sat down on one of the cages, and she sat close beside him and got hold of one of his hands and pressed and dragged at it anxiously.

"Why didn't you tell me you were coming?" she said. "And, oh, Bobby, you must be ill to look like that!"

"I didn't know until this morning that I was coming," he said, ignoring her comment on his appearance. "You're not looking first-rate yourself, Decie," he added; for the sudden flush of excitement had left her face and its pallor was perceptible.

"I am all right, Bobby," she said. "But tell me, is anything the matter?"

He looked down at the ground and began to roll up a cigarette; and she could see that his hands were shaking.

"There is something the matter, Decie," he said. "You've got to know sooner or later; it can't be kept from you, and you'd better hear it from me than any one else. We're in trouble, Decie."

"Trouble! Her lips formed the word; then her woman's courage came to her aid.

"Tell me all—everything, Bobby," she said. "Whatever it is, we must meet it and bear it."

He lighted his cigarette, but it went out again, and he flung it from him with a nervous gesture.

"It was Mr. Mershon wired for me," he said.

"Mr. Mershon? Why should he telegraph to you?"

"Because he thought I ought to know; that I ought to be here. He was quite right, of course. He met me at the station and told me all about it."

"All about it! About what? Is it—is it anything to do with this business—this company—of father's?"

Bobby nodded gloomily.

"Yes," he said. "That's it. The affair has come to smash."

Decima drew a long breath.

"To utter smash," he said. "I don't understand it all, even now, though Mershon tried to explain. There was something wrong in the invention—the patent wouldn't hold water. I don't quite know what it was. Mershon tried not to put the blame on the governor, but he let it out reluctantly."

Decima sat pale and silent for a moment; then she murmured:

"Why did he join Mr. Mershon?"

"Honestly, I don't think Mershon's to blame," said Bobby. "He was led away by the governor's enthusiasm. Who wouldn't be? You know the way he talks. I don't think Mershon's such a bad fellow, after all. He—he is behaving very well about it. He has lost a lot of money in the affair."

"I am sorry," said Decima. "Very—very sorry. But Mr. Mershon is a rich man, and it will not matter to him. But it will matter very much to poor father; for we are not rich, are we, Bobby? But never mind"—she forced a smile—"we will meet it as best we can, we shall have to economize. You will only be able to smoke half as many cigarettes, Bobby."

She crept closer to him, and laid her head upon his shoulder. It was the only word of reproach she would utter.

Bobby looked down at her remorsefully, and then went away suddenly, as if he could not bear the sight of her brave smile, which touched him more than tears would have done.

"We shall have to leave The Woodbines, I suppose?" she said. She stifled a sigh. "Well, never mind. We can go into one of the new little cottages, and live very quietly and plainly."

Bobby's face worked, and his lips parted as if he were about to speak; but his courage failed him, and he got up quickly, his face averted from her.

"I'll—I'll go and change," he said. "We—we will talk about it after dinner."

He hurried out of the room.

Decima sat where he had left her, her hands clasped in her lap. Although she had not been altogether unprepared, the blow had fallen heavily. Presently she heard steps coming toward the door, and she thought it was Bobby returning; but the door opened, and Mr. Mershon's voice said:

"I beg your pardon, is your brother here?"

Decima rose and moved away slightly.

"He has just gone," she said.

Mershon came into the room, and stood looking at her.

"I see he has told you, Miss Decima," he said.

"Yes," said Decima, with her back almost turned to him. "He has told me, and I am very sorry. I am sorry that you should lose so much money through my father's fault."

He drew a little nearer.

"There's no occasion to be sorry on my account," he said; "I shan't miss it. I'm sorry, too—for your father."

Decima sighed.

"We must bear it," she said. "I have just been telling Bobby that we must leave The Woodbines and live very plainly, like—like poor people—which I suppose we shall be. There is nothing very hard in that."

He looked at her with a curious expression.

"And—perhaps if we are careful," she went on in a low voice, "we may be able to pay back some of the money you have lost through us. I don't know how much it is."

Mershon suppressed a smile.

"I'm afraid your brother hasn't told you all," he said.

"Yes," said Decima, "he has told me all. He is bearing it bravely. Poor Bobby! It will be a struggle for him, for he will have to manage with a very small allowance, I'm afraid. But it will be all right when he gets into the army—for he is so clever that he is sure to get one."

Fashion Plates.
A SIMPLE DRESS FOR WORK OR LEISURE.

Pattern 3094 cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure is here shown. For comfort, convenience and attraction, this model has much to recommend it. The lines are simple, and the garment may be made for service, or as a "porch" or "afternoon" dress. Foulard, taffeta, serge, gabardine, crepe de chine, voile or poplin would be nice for a "dressy" dress. Developed as a work dress it would look well in gingham, chambray, linen, lawn or percale.

Size 38 requires 6 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. Width of Skirt at lower edge is about 2 1/4 yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

Pattern 3366 is portrayed here. It is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size will require 4 1/2 yards of 40 inch material.

Braided serge or duvetyne would be attractive for this style, or satin, taffeta, tricotine, and velveteen. The dress measures about 1 1/2 yard at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

New Clauses to Home Rule Bill.

Proposed Irish Parliament Must Solve Problem--Flour, Sugar and Cotton Prices go Lower--Canadian and American Farmers to Co-operate--Ex-King of Greece Claims Late Monarch's Property.

NEW CLAUSES IN HOME RULE BILL.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The House of Commons to-day adopted two new clauses to the Home Rule Bill proposed by the Government, the first providing that both Irish Parliaments shall establish second chambers for protection of minorities, and the second providing that in the event that less than half the members of either Parliament are validly elected or for failure to take the oath of allegiance within fourteen days the King may dissolve Parliament and place the Government in the hands of a committee appointed by the Lord Lieutenant. The latter clause replaces the proposal of the Government that candidates for Parliament must take the oath of allegiance on nomination. The Home Rule Bill came before a committee of the whole House. The clause providing for the creation of a second chamber was adopted by a vote of one seventy five to thirty-one. It leaves to the Irish Parliament the duty of framing a necessary scheme. The Government had originally proposed itself to draft a scheme and was to-day subjected to much hostile criticism for evading the task. The Government critics declared that the Irish Parliaments would not succeed in drafting a successful scheme. Bonar Law, Government Leader in the House, Minister of Pensions, replying to criticisms explained that there were insuperable difficulties in the way of a British Parliament attempting the task.

BRAZIL FIRMS PROTEST.

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 8.—Eight important firms of this city have professed to the Foreign Minister against the recent seizure at Fume, by Captain D'Annunzio, of the steamer Cogne which carried cargo consigned to Brazil. The Government is asked to make representations at Rome, and to secure indemnity for the goods seized when the ship was taken over by the D'Annunzio forces.

FLOUR TAKES FURTHER SLUMP.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 8.—Flour prices to-day continued their downward slide and reached what millers say were pre-war prices. At one large mill here family patent flour declined forty cents a barrel to the new low price of ten dollars.

SUGAR PRICES IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The sugar market was unsettled to-day. Prices for refined were unchanged at ten to eleven cents, wholesale.

FARMERS ESTABLISH SELLING AGENCY.

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—By a decision of the western Canadian farmers reached on Saturday, to establish a central selling agency at Winnipeg, whereby they will work hand in hand with similar selling organizations of the United States farmers, the general public will receive the benefit as well as the farmers, in the opinion of J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the United Farmers' Co-operative Society.

As far as the general public is concerned, they can never get wheat at any price less than it is actually worth, said Morrison, in summarizing of farmers selling organization. In so far as farmers are concerned, the price they will receive for their wheat will necessarily depend on conditions of the world's markets.

COTTON PRICES DROP.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Substantial reductions in the price of cotton goods were announced here to-day by several firms. Percalé prices have been cut from last season's thirty cents a yard to a thirteen and a half cents basis. Standard prints were priced for the new season at twelve and half cents a yard, a drop from twenty-three cents a yard.

LEGAL FIGHT OVER ALEXANDER'S PROPERTY.

ATHENS, Nov. 8.—The question of the legal rights of Madame Manos, morganatic wife of the late King Alexander, seems likely to create some difficulty, according to leading jurists of this city. Her attorney on Thursday asked the court to remove the seals from the apartments of the dead King, asserting that Madame Manos through her marriage and also because of her approaching motherhood, would legally inherit Alexander's property. An attorney, acting for former King Constantine, then asked the court to suspend action until he had time to institute action in opposition. He declared that Constantine intended to contend that the marriage of Madame Manos and the late monarch was invalid, and that Alexander's property should pass to his father and brothers. Should Constantine take legal action in the premises, jurists point out it would constitute an admission that he is no longer King of Greece, as the chief of state being the dispenser of justice cannot appeal to the courts.

Bricklayers Want More Pay.

The President, Mr. J. R. Mullins, presided at the regular quarterly meeting of the Bricklayers and Masons Association, held last night in the L.S.P.U. Hall. After a discussion on the question of wages, it was unanimously decided that 75 cents per hour should be asked for, an increase of 15c. on the present scale. After some routine business had been attended to the meeting adjourned.

More Motor Trucks.

Three five-ton trucks for use at the South Branch coal mines, arrived Sunday morning on the S.S. Canadian Miner. Mr. R. Silverlock was occupied yesterday in having them unpacked, set up and put in running order.

Capt. Tom Connors Injured by Chain.

Yesterday morning while the S.S. Portia was landing freight at Burin, Captain Tom Connors met with an accident and but for his presence of mind, would probably have lost his life. At about 8 o'clock tackles were rigged to hoist a heavy chain and transfer it to a lighter. Captain Connors was standing by superintending the work, which was progressing. Some of the chain having been lowered, when suddenly the tackle gave out and the remainder of the chain started to run, the Captain being hit by it several times before he could get out of the way. Fearing that he would become entangled and that the chain would carry him over when it all "paid out" the end would hit him, Captain Connors jumped into the water, and not a moment too soon, as the end of the chain swung past where he stood as he jumped. Had he not taken the leap in all probability he would have been cut in two. He was quickly rescued and taken to his cabin and Doctor Moseley summoned, who ordered him to be taken to St. John's for treatment. A message was despatched the Minister of Shipping, who ordered that the Portia return to Placentia, where a special train would be on hand to convey Capt. Connors to St. John's. In the meantime, Capt. Couch, to take charge of the Portia, was sent out by the special to Placentia. Reaching Placentia the Captain was attended by Dr. Paterson, and on arrival here was met by Doctor Mitchell, who had him conveyed to his home in the ambulance. The extent of Captain Connors' injuries is not known, but as far as can be learned, they fortunately, are not serious.

"The Man From Home."

The Klark-Urban Company presented "The Man From Home" to a large and appreciative audience in the Casino Theatre last night. The play was interesting from start to finish and that the audience enjoyed it goes without saying. They were particularly attracted with a real atmosphere of Southern Italy, and deals with the efforts of American women to break into the European "four hundred" for the sake of affluence and title. Mr. Harden Klark did full justice to an important role, namely that of "The Man From Home" who frustrates the intrigues of this reputed family of distinction. Miss Maizie Cecil, as Ethel Ganger Simpson, the American heiress delighted her host of friends and admirers. The remainder of the cast were as follows—Ribiere, the Duke's Secretary, J. Warren Burrows, Count Von Esser, a schemer, Thos. Brower; Mme le Champigne, wife of Ivanoff, Dot Jewell; Derrick Von Esser who apes the English, Billy Webb; Horace Granger Simpson, brother of Ethel Craig Neslo; Grand Duke Vasile, travelling incog, N. S. Scoville; Ivanoff, an escaped convict, Louis Everstine; Carbiniera, Italian soldier, Will Gardner. The above members did excellent work.

The C.C.C. Orchestra delivered some splendid selections between the acts. The play for mid-week will be New York's greatest success "Eyes of Youth." To-night last night's play will be repeated and a splendid treat awaits those who will attend.

Sagona Reaches Port.

S.S. Sagona, Capt. Burgess, reached port yesterday forenoon, from Labrador. She reports winter having set in along the coast and that most of the fishermen, particularly those on the northern end, have left for home. Those who are left are preparing to return by the steamer on her next trip. The Sagona starts her last trip for the season when she leaves for Cartwright to-morrow morning.

False Alarm.

Last night, shortly after ten o'clock, an alarm sounded calling the fire engines to the corner of Cook and Scott Streets. Upon their arrival, however, the firemen found no signs of a blaze and returned to their quarters. If, as is very likely, the alarm was sounded by some practical joker with a misguided sense of humour, a heavy punishment will be inflicted on the perpetrator when discovered. Enquiries will be made in an effort to discover the guilty party.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

WHY DO YOU PUNISH?

When you forbid a child to do a thing, what is the criterion of your prohibition? How many times, if you went on to say why you were forbidding him, would you be able to say, "I am telling you not to do that because it isn't right for you to do it?"

And how many times would you have to say, "I am telling you not to do that because it annoys me?"

And when you punish, what are your worst punishments given for—some sin against the laws of right and wrong, or some annoyance or inconvenience caused you?

A Broken Ink Bottle and a Broken Promise.
 I recently saw a mother send a child to bed for tipping over a bottle of ink—and then, a day later, simply scold the same child for breaking his promise to go to bed at a certain time. Surely the broken promise was a greater sin than the broken ink bottle, but the ink episode caused her more annoyance and trouble; therefore she meted out a bigger punishment for carelessness than for lack of honor.

It seems to me that this is downright wrong and that no character built on such a haphazard foundation can possibly have the strength it might have had if punishments and rewards had been meted out in a way that conformed with some logical and worthy standard of conduct.

Hard to be Just.
 Of course it is not easy to hold yourself in when you are tired and your nerves are worn to a frazzle by the confusion and upsetness which seem to be inseparable from a household of small children. But if you see that the thing should be done, and if you make there distinctions in your own mind and fight toward this fairness, you have won half the battle.

I think it is really a disgrace to parents that so many of their severest punishments should be given for accidents. I used to feel that no punishment at all should be given for anything that was an accident, but I have come to feel that this method would not give the child sufficient incentive to try to overcome the carelessness that so often lies behind such accidents. Let Him Share the Inconvenience. But I still think that one should be very careful to analyze just how much was carelessness and how much was pure accident such as might happen to any of us; and that the punishment should, if in any way possible, be made to fit the crime and impress the consequences of carelessness on the offender—that is, he should be made to share in the annoyance and inconvenience he has caused and should help, so far as possible, to repair the harm he has done, either by helping to clean up or, when that is called for, by giving up some of his pocket money.

But remember, where a child is persistently careless and heedless and over-impulsive in his motions, there may be some physical defect of sight or some lack of co-ordination to account for the trouble.

Drake's Voyage Round the World.

Sir Francis Drake sailed from England on December 13, 1577, to undertake that expedition which immortalized his name, with a fleet consisting only of five small vessels, their united crews mustering 166 men. He touched the coast of Brazil on April 5, 1578, and there parted company with two of his ships. When sailing through the Straits of Magellan Drake lost sight of his other ships, and sailed the rest of the journey with only one vessel. He continued his voyage along the coast of Chili and Peru, taking all opportunities of seizing Spanish ships, and attacking them on shore, till his men were satisfied with plunder. He went as far north as the 48 degrees latitude, hoping to discover a passage to the Atlantic, but was unsuccessful. On Nov. 4, he sighted the Moluccas, and, on arrival, was extremely well received by the native king. When nearing the Celebes his ship unfortunately struck upon a rock, but was got off without much damage. After passing Java he directed his course towards the Cape of Good Hope, which he doubled on June 15, 1579, having then on board only 57 men and three casks of water. When he arrived at the coast of Guinea he took in fresh water. On November 3, 1580, he entered the harbour of Plymouth after accomplishing his circumnavigation of the globe, the first undertaken by an Englishman, in two years and ten months. Queen Elizabeth, on the arrival of his ship at Deptford, went on board, and after partaking of a banquet, conferred her entire approbation of all that he had done. His ship, the "Golden Hind," was preserved so that it might remain a monument of his own and his company's glory, but after the lapse of a century it decayed and had to be broken up.

Lord Morris Going Strong.

Lord Morris, late Prime Minister of Newfoundland, in a lecture at Gravesend, Eng., speaking of Newfoundland's Industries, said: "Ten years ago Lord Northcliffe and his brothers opened at Grand Falls large paper and pulp mills, those of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co. which are the finest in the world. The property is worth 10,000,000 dollars (nominally 2,000,000 pounds). The forests are of spruce, and if they cut there for the next hundred years they would not be exhausted. Lantern slides were shown of Lord Northcliffe's Newfoundland home and the Grand Falls which the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company has harnessed for the purpose of obtaining electricity used in the undertaking."

THE RATTLESNAKE.

We were camped beside a lake, by a eucalyptus tree, some one hoiered, "There's a snake! It's a rattler! Hully chee!" Then we dropped our divers chores in the twinkling of an ear; sane and useful tasks are boreal when a rattlesnake is near. And we formed a ring around the human race's foe, and our fingers clawed the ground for some boulders we might throw. And we threw, with bated breath, at five feet of writhing sin; battle, murder, sudden death, done up in a mottled skin! Rocks were flying, thick and fast, some thrown crooked, others straight; and the serpent, to the last, dared us with a deathless hate. He is Ismael, this snake, with his rattles on behind, which, when playing tunes, can wake terrors in the bravest mind. Harried to the barren lands, driven from the field and farm, even snakes of other brands view the rattler with alarm. He has not a friend at court, where snake advocates appear, but he is a dead game sport, and a stranger to all fear. And I felt a sense of shame when we'd killed that mottled thing; we had played a tinhorn game, throwing boulders in a ring. And the recollection makes luke-warm pains slide down my neck; even when we're killing snakes sportsmanship should be on deck.

Just Folks

Books are the land where friendly people dwell. The happy land where loved ones never die; The young stay young, the old continue well. How'er neglected in the dust they lie. Within the pages born of human thought We live again the battles men have fought And share their glad romances, old and new. And though we change, our books are always true.

We can desert these friends for many years And then return to them and sit And find the same sweet comfort for our tears. The same brave, happy friend to make us smile. The wise philosopher upon the shelf remains To prove to us the glory of our pains. Who owns a few good books need never sigh For he has friends who were not born to die.

Age does not mar the charm of women fair, Success is never followed by conceit. Men do not sour beneath the touch of care Nor change their natures with one small defeat. What once was lovely lives on lovely still, Time hath no power the bloom of youth to kill. And all the brave are brave unto the end Just as they were when first their lives were penned.

There are two worlds through which we all may range— The living world where humans come and go. Where every day brings on its sudden change. And what will be no man can surely know; And then there is that wonder land of books, A dusty land of shelves and halls and nooks, And there, in spite of time and hurt and pain, Unchangeable, the friends we've loved, remain.

The First Hunger-Striker.

The first man to adopt the method of the hunger strike as a protest against his imprisonment was a Scotsman named John Scott, who lived during the sixteenth century. Having been defeated in a law suit, and finding himself unable to pay, he took sanctuary in the abbey of Holyrood House. Here, out of discontent at the findings of the court, he resolutely abstained from food for thirty or forty days. His fame spread rapidly, and the king, hardly crediting the account of his fast, confined him in a private room in Edinburgh Castle. No one was allowed access to the room, and at the end of thirty-two days the king was satisfied, and he was released. A short time afterwards, however, he went to Rome, where he gave a similar exhibition of his powers of fasting before the Pope. From Rome he travelled to Venice, carrying with him the Pope's seal as a testimony of his powers, and gave another exhibition for the benefit of the Viennese. After a considerable time abroad he returned to England, where he delivered numerous sermons against the divorce of Henry VIII. For this offence he was arrested and thrust into prison, where he continued to hunger strike for a record period of fifty days.

It is reported that he and other U. S. citizens are being held as hostages at the instance of Bolshieviki at Angor.

OFFICIAL PERMISSION.
DUBLIN, Nov. 3.
Dennis Morgan, Chairman of Thurleston Council, and John Durham, father of the Chairman of Balbriggan Council, have received passports from the Foreign Office, permitting them to proceed to the United States to give evidence on the sacking of their respective towns, before a Commission on Ireland, which begins its sessions in Washington Nov. 17.

ASHLAND, Wis., Nov. 3.
An United States submarine used in the campaign against whisky runners, plying their trade between the Canadian side of Lake Superior and United States shore, to-day seized a fast motor boat carrying twenty cases of whisky and arrested the owner. The United States boat carries a crew of fifteen, and is armed with long range guns. She was sent here to stop the smuggling of whisky to the Bad River Indian reservation.

BOLSHIEVIKS SENDING MISSIONARIES.
ROTTERDAM, Nov. 3.
Determined efforts are being made by agents of Russian Bolsheviki government, to send "missionaries" and agitators to United States, according to evidence collected by United States diplomatic officials in Europe. The spy and courier system of the Moscow Government is said to have been developed to an efficiency and extent superior to that of the German General Staff before the outbreak of the war, and on the lists of Soviet agents are said to be the names of many men who before 1914 acted as spies for the Central Powers in Russia. Against this campaign the United States has arrayed its agents and officials at foreign ports. Associated with them in Holland are the Dutch police, who have in their possession documents showing that Lenin, the Soviet leader looks to Rotterdam as "world clearing house" for Soviet finance and propaganda. Failure to get passage to a port in the United States, the Bolsheviki try to reach Canada, whence they can easily get across the border. United States authorities abroad are said to have advised Washington that many Soviet couriers are believed to have sailed from here to Canadian ports recently.

Magistrate's Court.

In the case of a Piona-dealer vs. Hardman, the plaintiff withdrew over telephone and the case was dismissed for want of prosecution.
A well known undertaker sued an artisan for $18. The following conversation then ensued:
Judge—"You owe $18.00."
Defendant—"He says I do, but I say I don't."
Judge—"That's why you're here."
The defendant admitted liability, agreeing to defray one-third of the expenses of his mother's funeral, but after paying two dollars of it the plaintiff had called him a snake, and as a protest he refused to discharge the rest of his liabilities.
The Judge—"Some people would have been relieved to get out of responsibility by being called a snake."

Judgment was given for the plaintiff, the defendant having to pay $1.00 per week until the debt is discharged.
A man sued a woman for not paying rent and for ignoring repeated notices for her to quit the house. The present owner bought the house last June and since then has received no rent from defendant. As he has to leave his present dwelling soon, he served notice on the woman to leave—to no effect. The defendant claimed she had been looking for a house for some time without success. His Honor gave her ten days in which to find one.
A case in which a girl of the Rope-walk was charged with using abusive language toward another girl of the same district was heard in camera. The defendant denied the allegations. The hearing occupied some time and was not concluded up to press hour. During this case Mr. Fox caused some amusement by propounding the question, "Is the back door on the front?"

Old Ladies' Home.
Mrs. Dr. Pehm, Treasurer of the "Old Ladies' Home," would very much appreciate a gramophone for the enjoyment of the old ladies in this institution. No doubt there are some gramophones not in use in the city, and it is only necessary to draw the attention to the generous people of St. John's who are always ready to respond to a request such as this. There are already two old ladies in this institution, and something to cheer and make the days pleasant will be appreciated. Who will provide for the happiness of those dear old folk?

Spaniards Buying Fish.
A Spanish firm in the City started buying Labrador fish yesterday and as soon as this became known some 30 schooners weighed their anchors and made for the premises. It is said that the price paid was $7.00 per qt. The buying soon ceased, however, and this morning there was nothing doing there, the firm having sufficient to fill their requirements. It is said that they would have bought white nape fish too but, the Coaker regulations are taking care of that quality.

A Big Fish Day.

"Along the waterfront to-day hundreds of qts. of fish are being landed. Trade is brisk, and the blue bunch should take a walk along the street and find out from the fishermen what they think about the regulations which give them from $8 to $11.00 for fish, with a strong demand for any of the qualities which measure up to the requirements of the law regulating the standard cull."

The above suggestion from yesterday's Advocate was followed out to-day and the question asked fishermen, what they thought about the regulations, which gave them from $8 to $11 for fish. The replies were many and varied. Some thought the regulations in question excellent as regards the price promised, although everybody thought fish would not be sold for less than $10 per quintal. Six or seven men from north who followed these regulations as to cure and make, to the letter, and had made their fish white nape, were in the merriest mood, as with plenty of fish and potatoes from the Model Farm there was absolutely no need to worry. The buyers of the Advisory Board would give them $4.00 per quintal for their catch. The men who made Newfoundland-shore-cure-heavy-salted-Labrador are likewise delighted with the prospects, and any hour of the day they may be seen lounging in the overstuffed chairs in the office of the Marine and Fisheries. They don't worry—why should they? Nobody wants their fish.

On the wharves there is a very strong demand for fish which measure up to the requirements of the law regulating the standard cull, but not one fish out of a hundred pass the test of the Government Inspectors. To do so the fish would require to be laundried. Shops and shopkeepers too are unbounded in their enthusiasm. Everywhere may be seen posters and signs of goods given away, so great being the rush of sales and such pleasant prospects are in view that absolutely no cash is required. Witness the free taking of a puncheon of molasses, barrels of beef, coal and other necessities. Sugar imported by the Food Control Board sold to-day at twelve cents per lb. the loss on the sale being only $2400, but what matter, with such good times. This morning in order to see the brightness a half dozen fishermen were interviewed. The first being a man from Trinity Bay and for the benefit of the Advocate we publish their opinions. They were all of the same tenor, and by the way may we ask the question: How many copies of the fish regulation have been brought along to Mr. Coaker, by fishermen to convince him that he wanted and ordered white nape shore Labrador?

The first man interviewed—Where do you belong? Trinity Bay.
What kind of fish have you in that yam?
Labrador white nape.
How much can you get for it?
I can get nothing sir.
Did you try everywhere?
Yes except Mr. Coaker. I am going there now. We sold some shore yesterday and got $10 per qt. for the No. 1, but it had to be number one.
Second Fisherman.
Where do you belong?
Trinity Bay.
That is white nape fish?
Yes sir.
What is wrong with it that you can't sell it?
Don't know, sir, except that it is too clean.
Did you try to sell at Port Union?
No, sir, wish the man that owns it was out in the middle of the ocean. We followed the regulations just like the fellows that were down our way told us to, but Mr. Coaker said he did not tell us to make it this way. Look here, sir, he should be put under a rock and 'squat' to death.

We later saw a man from Bonavista Bay, who had been waiting at the Marine and Fisheries office to see Mr. Coaker. He volunteered the information that yesterday he saw Mr. Coaker and showed him the regulations about the white nape fish, that gentleman flat denying that he said to make white nape Labrador, but afterwards being convinced by the book he made explanations which the fisherman could not understand. Mr. Coaker, however, made it plain that he could do nothing about the fish, that it was made, and he could not advise the fisherman to do any better than to hold on to it.

Model Village Must be Ratless.
Maywood, the model village of Illinois, has launched a campaign to conserve the cat resources of the village and make Maywood a ratless town. Alarmed by the invasion of rodents in droves following the recent burning of the community garbage dump, a meeting was held, which resulted in the plan for intensive cat culture to aid the fight on the rats. In accordance with the terms of an anti-bootjack ordinance it shall be unlawful to throw bootjacks, wood alcohol bottles, paper weights or other missiles at any cat, kitten, grimalkin or feline within the village confines. It is proposed also to offer bonuses for large cat families.

Tours World Though Blind.
One man who is achieving something which seems almost impossible has arrived in Toronto. He is Captain Gilbert H. Nobbs, of Sydney, Australia, a totally blind war hero, who is on a trip around the world alone. Captain Nobbs lost his eyesight at the Somme, when a German sniper shot him across the front of the head, leaving him totally blind. He is at present connected with the firm of Holbrook's, Ltd., as foreign and colonial agent. The captain, although maimed in this terrible way, has a cheerfulness which surpasses that of many of his more fortunate comrades. He laughs and jokes and proves the statement of Sir Arthur Pearson, that he happiness of a blind man is to be found in constant and self-reliant activity.

Refuses to Break Ten Years' Silence.
"Silent Corkey" Hanley, Massachusetts' famous convict, who ten years ago pledged himself never to speak again, spent his first day a free man after 25 years in Charlestown State Prison, still refusing to break his silence. Even though he experienced the greatest thrills of his lifetime, he kept his pledge. His first automobile ride, his first sight of an electric car, and his reunion with his family failed to bring from his lips the expected articulate exclamations of surprise and joy. Hanley was committed to prison under the "Habitual Criminal" Act from Lawrence in 1895, after he was found guilty of stealing $84 worth of shoes. He has spent altogether 38 of his 51 years in prison.

Will Grand Juries Go?
Many legal reformers hope that it may be possible to do away with grand juries altogether soon. One money Some years ago an eminent barrister summed up this aspect: "During the preliminary inquiry by the grand jury there is the waste of the judge's time, the time of many officials—solicitors, witnesses, police and others—all to be paid for by the country, and you must add to this the loss of time generally." The great grievance is the large number of grand jurors who have to be summoned and may not have to serve—and are thus unnecessarily taken away from their work to their great loss and inconvenience. —London Daily Chronicle.

Peereses in House of Lords.
Viscountess Rhonda, who is a Peeress in her own right, has petitioned King George to order a writ issued summoning her to serve in Parliament as a member of the House of Lords, thus being in their own right, of whom there are about 25, have all the dignities and privileges of Peers except that of sitting in the House of Lords, thus being in a different position than the wives of the Peers, who merely take their husband's titles. Lady Rhonda claims recent legislation equalizes the positions of the sexes, and declares she wishes to participate in the legislation before the House of Lords. This is the first time a Peeress has sought the right of admission to the Upper House of Parliament. The title was bestowed on Viscountess Rhonda by special act upon the death of her father, Viscount Rhonda, who was created a Baron in 1916. He was in war time Food Controller of Great Britain.

Quebec Woman So Nervous Couldn't Get Night's Sleep

Mrs. Chaput Wants Every Suffering Woman to Know About Tanlac.

"I just feel so happy over my good health that I wish every suffering woman in Quebec would take my advice and try 'Tanlac,' declared Mrs. Arthur Chaput, who resides at 200 Grant Street, Quebec, recently.

"I had such a bad case of indigestion that I could not eat any heavy food and all had to be careful about even the light things I ate. I had to give up all the things I liked best but even at that my stomach got no better and was so upset that I feared me no end of misery. I would blot up dreadfully with gas which caused my heart to palpitate so bad that it frightened me and made my breathing so difficult that I felt like each breath would be my last.

"My nerves were deranged and even my children playing around the house irritated me awfully. I had a constant pain in my knee and at times it hurt so bad I could hardly stand up. I would lie awake at night so restless that I had almost forgotten what it meant to sleep well. My housework became a burden and it just seemed that there was no relief for me anywhere.

"I read several statements in the papers from Quebec people who were well pleased with Tanlac and made up my mind to try it, too. Well, its the truth, I just seemed to feel better after each dose and to-day I am in perfect health. My stomach doesn't give me the slightest trouble, no matter what I eat, and my nerves are so steady that I enjoy sound, restful sleep every night. That pain has left my knee, I have gained twelve pounds and feel so much stronger that my housework is a pleasure. It was good of other people to tell their experience with Tanlac and now I want to do the same thing and pass the good word along.

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Paradise by Mrs. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gullies by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. Wants District Divided.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—I hope you will deem my correspondence of sufficient importance to give it space in your esteemed fairplay journal, so that some more able writer will take it up and carry it through. It is nothing more or less than the dividing of Placentia and St. Mary's district into two districts, to be represented by at least four, or possibly, six men. Nearly half the people visiting Placentia Bay are horrified to witness the condition of affairs existing there, such as want of roads, bridges, schools, etc. But on being informed that the district extends from the Drooke in Trepassay Bay, to Rushoon in Placentia Bay, and its interests are being looked after by only three human beings, they begin to think the other way.

On a rough calculation the distance must be nearing the two hundred mile mark of oyster coastline, indented by coves and harbors, a great many of which can not be canvassed on account of no means of approach thereto. Consequently these people seldom if ever vote, and their opinion is lost on the return sheets for the district, which is the real reason why it is in such a wretched condition. Again I may remark what suits Placentia Bay is what the people of Trepassay and St. Mary's will oppose, because what is the making of the one is the breaking of the other. Their interests are as divided as the interests of St. John's and Port Union.

On reading this, some people may think I am worrying because the district returned opposition members last fall, but far from that. I am proud to proclaim myself in opposition to one man rule now, as much as last fall, when I did, without any remuneration, everything in my power to have our present representatives returned. But I did not mean this to touch on politics. I only want to emphasize how very impossible it is for the district to be properly cared for by three men. And I want this thing to be taken up by some learned men, who understand the district and who will agitate until it is properly thrashed out in the Assembly at the next session, when I hope to see a division made.

Trusting that I have not trespassed too far on your space, and anticipating seeing this in print, I am,
Yours truly,
PATRICK A. BROWNE,
late Bar Haven, P. Bay.
Nov. 8, 1920.

Wedding Bells.

On the 30th inst. our picturesque little town, Salmonier, was the scene of the solemnization of a very quiet but pretty wedding, when Mr. Vincent Singleton, of St. Joseph's, led to the altar Miss Mary Doody, who has but recently returned from New York where she has been working for many years. The bride, who was daintily attired in a travelling costume of navy blue serge, with hat to match, entered the church supported by her brother, Mr. F. Doody. Miss Catherine Doody, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Peter Daly was honoured as best man. After the ceremony having been performed by Rev. J. Enright, P.P., the felicitous couple drove to the groom's home, where the immediate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Singleton were very elaborately entertained.—Com.

Motor Accident.

Four young men were driving along the Goulds road Sunday night in a Ford car when their headlights failed them and they had to stop to effect the necessary repairs by the roadside. Shortly afterwards another Ford was seen coming towards them at a fast rate. The occupants of the stationary car shouted to the driver of the newcomer, but the latter not hearing them, drove his car into theirs. The headlights and radiators of both cars were badly damaged and the force of the impact drove the stopped car into the ditch. Luckily for them, beyond a slight shaking up, the occupants of both cars were unhurt.

Harbor Main's Opportunity.

Judging by the numerous expressions of opinion heard everywhere after the perusal of our editorial utterances of Friday last, the town is aflame with the idea of concerted action to end as soon as possible this criminal debauch which parades under the name of Constitutional Government. The whole country to-day is in a seethe of disaffection—and no wonder. Unemployment and its attendant poverty is becoming more evident throughout the length and breadth of the dominion. Congestion of trade and the tying up of industries have resulted in a condition unparalleled in the history of Newfoundland and one man rule has been and is still responsible for such an alarming state of affairs as we have noted. How much longer will the people submit to this intolerable condition? We fear to give expression to the sentiments which we have toward those who have permitted the machinery of trade and government to be wrecked by the action of one man who refuses to listen to the calm counsel of experienced business men, who sneers at fair criticism as if his conduct of governmental affairs were above reproach, who brooks no opposition, but like a wounded tiger beats the air and with deep-mouthed roars seeks to terrify all who dare offer speech or writing not affirming his doings.

It is no longer now sufficient to criticize, as criticism is of no avail or effect. The people themselves must act and act quickly, and whatever action upon which they decide must be immediate and definite. A bye-election will shortly be ordered for the district of Harbor Main, polling day being but a few weeks distant. The people of that district have it within their power to solve the problem of the present discontent, by acclaiming the representatives whom they desire. Already one choice has been made and they will not have to seek far to find the other. An appeal from Harbor Main for a man who would unite the best political forces against the present administration may result in bringing out the man for the occasion the choice of a free and independent people. All public-spirited citizens will turn to Harbor Main, expecting its voters to make a move in the right direction for the purpose of restoring order from chaos and prosperity from stagnation, by their choice of representatives and by their patriotic conduct in seeking to find the man who will gather the scattered forces together in one grand party and end for ever the prevailing turmoil and unrest. There is an opportunity too for Harbor Main to declare its unalterable opposition to autocratic rule, and to show its adherence to constitutional procedure by pointing out to his Excellency the anomaly of a man who is President of a big trading corporation, as well as of its many ramifications, holding a portfolio as Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and a member of the Executive, filling the office of Acting Premier, while all the time using his conferred authority to make regulations which have for their object and purpose the grinding down of the fishermen and the bringing of them into a condition of serfdom, from which, if no protest is made, they can never hope to be freed.

Vice Regal Visit to Pouch Cove.

On Saturday evening, at 3 o'clock, His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by Miss Armorer Harris, Capt. Hamilton and Baird, A.D.C., made an official visit to Pouch Cove. The residents of the settlement made the occasion a holiday, it being the first time in the history of the place that a vice regal visit had been paid. At the entrance to the settlement His Excellency and party were met by Rev. A. Holmes, Rev. M. Tulk, Rev. Father Pippy, Mr. Alex. Grouchy, Chairman, and other members of the reception committee. The party repaired to the S.U.F. Hall, where an address of welcome was presented. His Excellency the Governor making a suitable reply, thanked the people for the whole hearted welcome accorded, and expressed the hope that the present would be but a forerunner of many such visits. A sumptuous tea was afterward served by the Ladies' Committee and a social hour was spent. At 8 o'clock His Excellency and party returned to town, being given a hearty send off by the people who gathered along the road and cheered to the echo the departing guests.

Diocesan Thanksgiving.

At the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist, on Sunday, the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland was the celebrant at the 11 o'clock Eucharist, being assisted by Revs. Dr. Facey, H. L. Pike and J. Brinton. Instead of a sermon the Rev. Canon Teeves read from the pulpit a Pastoral Letter from the Bishop appointing the third Sunday in November as a Day of Thanksgiving and asking that the sum of $25,000 be raised throughout the Diocese on that occasion for the Home and Foreign Missions of the church. A special feature of the service was the singing, which was unusually good, the various parts of the Liturgy being rendered to attractive and artistic settings. A large congregation was in attendance and much favorable comment on the music was heard as they dispersed.

Sugar.

We hope to publish to-morrow, a letter from Mr. M. E. Condon, in which some daylight is let upon the sugar question. Mr. Condon will write with the knowledge and experience of one who knows about that which he is talking, and so far as we can gather his communication is to take the form of an appeal to the masses to rise in their might and abolish once and for all a form of control which is deliberately robbing the people to the advantage of a few.

The Nordica's Experience.

Among the passengers to Newfoundland on the Red Cross liner Rosalind this trip are Capt. Tom Payne and the firemen who made up the crew of the schooner "Nordica," abandoned in mid-Atlantic recently when her crew were taken off by the American steamer Willfaro and landed at New York.

The Nordica was owned by Patten & Forsey, of Grand Bank, Nfld., and was a fore and aft schooner registering 98 tons. She sailed for Portugal with a cargo of fish last August and made the passage across in 21 days. She had no cargo homeward bound, but carried sand ballast. Soon after leaving Oporto bad weather was encountered, and for 33 days the Nordica bucked her way westward against continuous heavy gales of adverse winds. Eventually the steering gear was carried away and the vessel drifted helplessly about on the Atlantic. To make matters unbearable for the crew, food gave out and for eight days they lived on bread and water. When they were picked up by the American ship and taken off with difficulty in a gale which showed no sign of abatement, the men had about given up hope, as the vessel was making very bad weather. Two Portuguese stowaways were also on board.

The Nordica was afterwards taken in tow by another American steamer and towed into Portland, Me., a few days ago.—Halifax Chronicle.

For Popular Consideration.

No. II
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—In letter No. 1, I discussed the evolution of the Hon. Mr. Coaker from champion of the "under-dogs" to friend, associate and leader of certain exporting merchants, from "under-dogs" to "top-dogs." It is the purpose of this letter to give certain of the proofs of that charge. And the first proof, of course, is that afforded by the necessities of his situation. He has to earn dividends for his capitalistic shareholders. He has to make profits on goods sold to the "under-dogs," and fish bought from them, in order that he may pay fat dividends to the shareholders whose money he is using—"Man cannot serve God and Mammon?" Coaker cannot serve fishermen and shareholders, unless the one man be both fisherman and shareholder. The real question is not, what are Coaker's desires, but what must he do in order to provide dividends.

The next proof I would offer is afforded by the new associates Mr. Coaker has notoriously acquired. "Coaker has not the company they keep." Who are Mr. Coaker's company in trade matters? On one of the most recent of his creations, the Fish Export Board, the machine which is now engaging his closest attention, the notable men in sympathy with Mr. Coaker are R. B. Job, G. M. Barr and Joseph Sellars. His travelling companion nowadays in his trips to and from Catalina is G. M. Barr, a "graball" in Mr. Coaker's list of former days. The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Brookes, who is a director of Job Bros. Ltd., is the strongest advocate of the Export Board's policy, and it is understood that Mr. Dunfield, another director of that company, drafted the Export Regulations. Mr. Coaker sees eye to eye, and works hand in hand, with these men. What they think, he thinks; and what they desire to be done, he executes, willingly, for he and they have a common purpose. What is that purpose? Does anybody believe that the directors of Job Bros. & Co. Ltd., for instance, are animated in their connection with the Fish Export Board by any other motive than a desire to make money for their company, all the money they can make? Does anybody believe that desire for the public good is more than a secondary purpose in their minds? Does anybody really suppose that they primarily aim at the benefit and advantage of the fishermen, except as it may help the profits of their company? It is not my desire to portray them in any way as actuated by improper motives, but merely to point out the undoubted fact that in the course of their duty to the company, their great object is to make all possible profits on fish exported by their company.

What other motive can be ascribed to the Hon. Mr. Coaker than to R. B. Job, for instance, or to Mr. Barr, or to Mr. Sellars? If they be working for profits, what else is he working for? As Manager of the Union Export Company, doing its duty by its shareholders and creditors, what other motive than to make a maximum of profits can be ascribed to him? If they work for profits, their shareholders are the recipients of those profits, which come from the work of the fishermen. If Mr. Coaker also works for profits, the shareholders of the companies he manages also receive those profits as dividends, and the dividends come from the fishermen. As well say that the directors of Job Bros. & Co. are working for the benefit of the fishermen who deal with them as say that Mr. Coaker works for the benefit of the fishermen who deal with him. Some of them who happen to be shareholders do share in those profits, but all the fishermen pay them, and even the shareholders are paying dearly for the dividends they receive.

If the motive be to make profits on exported fish, and it be common to Mr. Coaker and the men associated with him, how can it be done? Is there any other way known among men whereby to make maximum profits in purchase and sale of commodities than to buy in the cheapest market and sell in the dearest? Can Mr. Coaker, in short, do his whole duty to the shareholders in Union Companies in any other way than by keeping down the local price of fish, and keeping up the price abroad, and, in any case, in so fixing the prices here that the Exporters shall not lose one dollar in any event. Is not the attitude of Mr. Coaker and his associates to the fishermen this, "heads, we win; tails, you lose?"

The altered attitude of Mr. Coaker towards the Merchant Exporters as a body, through his organ, the Advocate, and in his daily association with some of them, is cogent evidence of his desertion of the fishermen, and his adhesion to the Exporters class.—Only a few months ago, they were the "Graballs" of Mr. Coaker's "Song of Hate." They were "Bloodsuckers," "Leeches," the enemies of the "under-dogs." To-day they are his chosen companions in his daily work. "Graballs" is a word which appears no longer in the Advocate.—They are praised for their enterprise, sym-

The Fading Star.

Last night the poor Star was a-raving and ranting, And cussing and swearing and e'en Shakespeare chatting. As if this weren't enough it was weeping and wailing, And gnashing its teeth 'gainst the Telegram railing.

And all 'cos the latter the truth did it tell, But of course you all know that the truth sounds like hell. To the Star, and all those who are trying to run it, A very good reason why most people shun it. Above personalities it simply can't rise, And that's why the whole public the Star does despise. So now Mr. Star, if you haven't a notion Of how to conduct yourself, swallow a potion. That'll put you to bed for the rest of your life. Only then will be ended all newspaper strife.

pathized with for their risks, and every action of the Export Board, for instance, is defended upon the ground that the majority of the truly good Exporters approve of them. The reason for the change is that Coaker has ceased to be of the fisherman class, and become a "Merchant."

Yours truly,
X. Y. Z.

Coming Down.

The Dominion Sugar Co., Limited, of Montreal announced a week ago another cut in the price of sugar, which became effective on the morning of November 3. The reduction was $1 per hundred pounds on the Montreal St. John and Halifax markets. The price now is $14.50 per hundred pounds. And because of our thrice blessed (?) Food Control Board, Newfoundlanders have to pay from 30 to 35 cents per pound for sugar, which could easily be retailed for 21 cents if not at a lower rate. How long do the people intend to stand for legalised robbery?

Sugar Sale.

WHO STANDS THE LOSS?

Quite a number of interested spectators attended the auction sale of 150 sacks of sugar, part of the huge shipment imported last spring by the Newfoundland Food Control Board. The sacks were in fairly good condition, the holes in them having been repaired except for two or three, from which the more venturesome took samples. Mr. J. O'Driscoll was the auctioneer, and put the sugar up at 10 cents per lb. After waiting for a bid for some time, he gave up the effort when some person suggested to drop his offer to half. He compromised and started at 7 1/2, but got no offer. Starting at 5 cents the bidding became better, but eventually the competition was confined to a few who were engaged in manufacturing beverages, (the sugar being excellent, as some one had suggested, for making moonshine) and a couple of confectioners. The latter won out and took the lot at 12 cents per lb. About 20 sacks more were left unsold, they being rather salty. Two hundred sacks which were partially emptied of their contents by rodents, will be sold later for the benefit of whom it may concern.

"Mistakes" Taking Human Toll.

"By mistake" a signal repair man on the New York Central threw a wrong switch near the Erie, Pa., depot, and in the sidwiping of one passenger train by another twelve passengers were killed and twenty-two hurt. "By mistake" a switch on the Norfolk & Western, near Roanoke, Va., was left open, and the collision following killed three trainmen and injured five others. Are these mistakes due to green men or to lack of efficiency on the part of trained railroaders? The establishment of this fact would not bring the dead to life or ease the suffering of the injured, but it might be the means of preventing other errors, nearly always costly in any line of business, but especially so in operation of railroad trains. —Syracuse Journal.

Fixing Profits by Law.

If evidence be needed of the futility of the Fair Profits Commission it was furnished in abundance in the recent debate in the Legislative Assembly on the Ministerial refusal to accept the recommendation of the commission in respect to the woollen industry. Mr. Lawson declared that his personal opinion from the first was that any State legislation directed against high prices would be ineffective. Yet he created a tribunal to fix prices and filled its seats with members who were estimable enough, except for their total inexperience in dealing with prices. Mr. Lawson finds that some of the chickens are coming home to roost in all sorts of unpleasant situations. Parliament has only itself to blame for this legislation, which was a weak concession to a popular clamor that was but momentary. —Melbourne Argus.

Factory Closing.

It is rumored to-day that one of our largest and most prosperous boot and shoe factories will close down during the week, owing to depression in trade. Yesterday the cutters were laid off, and it is likely the whole staff will be shortly walking around.

It is easy to renew your Gold and Silver Slippers to look as good as new ones. Visit BISHOP'S Shoe Department and learn how to do this.

Your Busy Ears.

They are never idle, those wonderful little telephone exchanges which you call your ears. Air is the medium through which sound travels to you. And the air-vibrations of outside bodies like bells, drums, voices, winds and the like are messages received by your ear drum, or middle ear. Even in the deep and quiet of the night your auditory nerves are busy registering noises.

Silence simply doesn't exist except as a word in the dictionary. Even when all is so quiet that the stillness gets on your nerves, waves of sound are constantly surging through your ears; and if you listen intently when the hush seems deepest you will be conscious of a regular tumult of sound. Were you able to shut out all outside sounds you would still hear your own breathing, and probably noises in your ears.

If you wanted to make a room from which outside sounds would be absolutely excluded, its walls, floor and ceiling would have to consist of six layers of different substances, with air gaps, and spaces filled with felt, paper and other sound-deafening materials.

But your ears are so dependent upon sound sensations that when you were in your sound-proof room the absence of sound waves would cause a severe pain in those organs.

Filming Underground.

"What next?" one might well ask when referring to the accomplishments of movie photography. The air has been conquered, the camera has been taken beneath the ocean's depths, while the problem of taking pictures at night has been overcome. There remains but one more difficult place—underneath the earth—and although the fact is little known, it has been accomplished.

It was a pretty dangerous thing equipping a coalmine with the very powerful naked arc-lamps necessary for taking photographs, but this was done in England on a record occasion for a colliery picture. It might be pointed out, however, that the mine in question was one of the least dangerous.

The film-director was given but six hours in which to accomplish his work, so from midnight to six in the morning the company worked like engines at the bottom of the pit. Their efforts turned out a success, and the whole party were as black as niggers when they came to the surface.

THE SALE OF GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY!

"OPPORCHUNITY"

By
PETER FINLAY DUNNE, et al.

As the poet says,
Opportunity knocks at every man's door want,
On some men's doors it hammers
Till it breaks down the door,
An' then it goes in and wakes him up,
If he's asleep,
And iver afterwards it warruks fr him
As a night-watchman,
On other men's doors it knocks,
An' runs away,
An' on the doors iv some it knocks,
An' when they come out,
It hits them over th' head with an axe,
But ivrywan has an opporchunity,
Th' porr are th' people that've been at worruk
Whin Opporchunity knocked,
And there are others,
That have been star gasing,
But now we tell of an opporchunity for everybody,
And we want you to tell your friends
And your acquaintances
That the greatest opporchunity
There is to-day is
BLAIR'S GREAT SALE,
For it is a Sale

BLAIR'S GREAT STOCK - REDUCING SALE!

In order to reduce our stock we are reducing prices to a minimum. But together with lowest prices for all kinds of goods you will get SERVICE and VALUE, and the discerning public of Newfoundland, though it likes bargains, likes service with them. It is not concerned with trashy bargains. Our stock is an up-to-the-minute one and value is the keynote of our buying, and so you get double value for your money when we call a sale.

MEN'S and BOYS' WINTER OVERCOATS.

SMART AMERICAN STYLES — BIGGER RANGE OF SIZES AND THEREFORE BETTER FIT.

These Overcoats were bought under the market, marked under the market, but are now marked down to to-day's cost of production. We guarantee you they won't be any cheaper next year, if as cheap, but we would sooner have the money than carry them over.

Men's Winter Overcoats, marked $22.00, now $17.50.

Men's Winter Overcoats—A few marked $25.00 to $30.00, now $17.50.

Men's Winter Overcoats in the new skirt model, marked $35.00, now $28.00.

Men's Heavy Grey Overcoats, with Black Astrachan Collar, a tremendous favourite, marked $35.00, now $28.00.

All our Men's Winter Overcoats marked $40.00, and which were good values at $50.00 to $60.00, are now marked down to $32.00.

There is no need now to fearfully consider a high priced Tailor-made Overcoat. The large range of sizes we carry and the smart American cut gives you the distinction of a tailor-made article, without cutting too largely into your pocketbook.

MEN'S MACINAWS.

We thought we were marking these low at $20.00, but now, to help out the working man, we are marking them down to $15.90.

His Excellency the Governor has received the cablegram as under from the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, respecting the observance of Armistice Day.

CODE TELEGRAM FROM SECRETARY OF STATE TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR.

"Following for information of your Ministers—begins—It has been decided that on Thursday, Nov. 11th, being the second anniversary of armistice, Cenotaph in Whitehall shall be unveiled by H. M. the King and that as part of the ceremony on that day there shall be buried in Westminster Abbey an unknown British warrior whose body shall be taken from amongst those buried in France. Every precaution will be taken to prevent his identity being known. Coffin will be brought to Cenotaph where it will be met by the King attended by representatives of the whole Empire. There will be short service at Cenotaph consisting of singing of hymn 'O God our Help in Ages Past,' and the Lord's Prayer. This service will be so timed that unveiling of Cenotaph takes place at 11 a.m., exactly after which there will be two minutes' silence followed by Last Post. Wreaths will then be laid by His Majesty the Prime Minister and representatives of the Empire. Funeral procession will then proceed to Abbey where funeral service will take place body being buried in a grave in the nave of the Abbey. It is proposed that just as last year there should be two minutes' silence, complete suspension of all normal business work and locomotion throughout United Kingdom, that thoughts of all may be concentrated on reverent remembrance of the glorious dead"—ends.

MILNER.

His Excellency and Ministers feeling sure that the people of this ancient and loyal Colony desire to perpetuate the memory of our great deliverance and of those who laid down their lives to achieve it, direct that on Thursday next, 11th November, at 11 a.m., all normal activities shall be suspended for the space of 2 minutes, during which time all thoughts will be concentrated in reverent remembrance of the Glorious Dead.

It is decided that such observance shall take place throughout this Dominion. In St. John's the gun at Cabot Tower will be fired at the hour above named as a signal.

For the 2 minutes as above, trains will be stopped on the railways, traffic on the streets, ships at sea (as far as possible) and work suspended everywhere in schools, shops, mines, factories etc. During the 2 minutes there should be complete silence.

His Excellency, the Governor and Ministers believe that all will gladly interrupt their business and pleasure whatever it may be and unite in this simple service of silence and remembrance.

Meeting of Patriotic Association.

War Memorial Discussed--Committee Reports Presented--Deputation to Meet Government Appointed.

A meeting of the Patriotic Association was held in the Board of Trade Rooms last night. His Excellency the Governor presided, but the meeting was not as largely attended as it might have been. His Excellency explained the object of the meeting, which was to hear the report of the Committee appointed to go into the matter of a War Memorial to the memory of our fallen heroes, and called upon Mayor Gosling, the Chairman of the Memorial Committee, who presented his report as follows:—

REPORT.

At the last meeting of the Patriotic Association your Committee was authorized to consult the celebrated architect, Mr. Giles Gilbert Scott, in the matter of the proposed War Memorial.

It is regrettable that so much time has again elapsed before the Committee is able to report, but the delays were unavoidable.

Upon the arrival of Mr. Scott your Committee at once communicated with him and asked if he would be able to give advice and possibly furnish plans for the erection of a war memorial. He replied that he had already prepared plans for forty or fifty memorials to be erected in Great Britain and the Colonies and would be willing to undertake our work if we were entrusted to him.

After several interviews and long discussions on the various projects submitted to the Association and a visit to the different sites which had been proposed he submitted the following report, accompanied by the attached design. The Committee unanimously approved of the plan and strongly recommends it to the Association for its adoption:

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND, PROPOSED WAR MEMORIAL.

Report by G. Gilbert Scott, A. A. A. To the War Memorial Committee.

"Gentlemen,—In accordance with your wishes, I beg herewith to submit my report upon the proposed Newfoundland War Memorial.

"I understand it is desired that this Memorial should take a double form (1) A Monument to be erected by public subscription, (2) An Educational Building, which it is hoped the Government will erect and towards the cost of which the Patriotic Association will devote all moneys left from the public subscription after defraying the full cost of the Memorial Monument.

"It proves financially possible to carry out this double scheme thoroughly, a very fine memorial could be erected by combining the monument and building in one architectural composition, but it is essential for the success of this idea that the educational building should do more than merely provide the practical requirements. It should also be a fine piece of architecture, simple, dignified and monumental in character, so as to form a fitting setting for the Memorial Monument itself. The whole group of buildings and monument could then be made to form as fine a memorial as could be desired and one of which Newfoundland could well be proud.

"The success of this idea depends primarily upon sufficient funds being available to do the work well, for unless the building is fit to look upon it would ruin the effect of the monument.

"As regards site, I consider the Parade Ground would be very suitable for the purpose, provided that no ground has been let that would prevent the formation of a fine wide avenue of Triumph leading from Harry Road up to the Memorial and Building, as shown on sketch plan attached hereto.

"It should be possible on this site to leave sufficient room at the ends of the building for future extensions, should these at any time be required.

"The Memorial Hall should occupy a central position in the building behind the monument and this Hall should be approached by the public from Merry Meeting Road.

"As regards the monument itself, a very fine effect could be produced if this was placed in the centre of the building and attached to projecting wings of the building by colonnades. This would form an exceedingly effective composition and would be as far as I know unique. The monument itself would be placed under a Triumphal Arch and should be designed to consist of something more than Caribou, something of deeper significance required for a Memorial commemorating the glorious dead and though the Caribou could be very effectively worked in to the design, it should not form the main outstanding feature.

"The time at my disposal has not allowed me to consider the design in any great detail, but I strongly recommend that the Monument should take the form of a Cenotaph with a plain cross carved upon the front, the whole placed beneath a Triumphal Arch and at the sides flanking the arch, it would be possible to work in caribous as decorative features. The whole composition, if properly designed, could be made extremely effective.

"I do not consider that the building and monument together could cost less than $250,000, assuming the cubical contents of the building as given to me to be correct and this is exclusive of any laying out of sites.

(Sgd.) G. GILBERT SCOTT.

August 27th, 1920.

After receiving and approving Mr. Scott's design, it was thought advisable, before reporting to the Association, to ascertain whether it would be acceptable to the Government. Unfortunately the Minister of Education, Dr. Barnes was absent from the Colony during Mr. Scott's visit and the Committee was somewhat in the dark as to his plans and ideas. After his return he was taken seriously ill and it was some weeks before he could be interviewed. When finally the Committee was able to see him and discuss the matter with him, he expressed himself very pleased with the general plan and undertook to recommend it to the Government. After a long interval the following reply was received from Dr. Barnes:

"W. G. Gosling, Esq., City.

"Sir,—I have the honour to inform you that the preliminary plan of the proposed 'Normal School and Monument,' prepared by Mr. G. Gilbert Scott, A.R.A., during the month of August last, was submitted for the consideration of the Executive Government a few days ago.

"The Executive was much impressed by the beauty of the plan and manifested the fullest sympathy with the desire of the War Memorial Committee to erect a building combining both architectural beauty and educational requirements, yet, that body was unanimously of the opinion that a building erected in accordance with Mr. Scott's plan would entail financial obligations which the Government feel unwarranted at this time in assuming.

"I am returning herewith the plan and Mr. Scott's report to the War Memorial Committee, which you were good enough to permit me to read.

"I have the honor to be, Sir, "Your obedient servant," (Sgd.) A. BARNES, "Minister of Education."

The Committee has been informed that, owing to financial conditions it is not likely that any decision will be made immediately by the Government in reference to a Normal School, and it will be noticed that Dr. Barnes, in his letter, does not unqualifiedly reject the scheme, but says that the Government does not "at this time" feel warranted in adopting it.

"It will be remembered that the vote of the Legislature for the Normal School is $100,000 and when the Committee waited upon the Executive in the first instance it was informed that while such was the sum granted at present, a further sum would be forthcoming if it proved absolutely necessary.

The Inspectors of Schools, when asked by the Committee, in the absence of Dr. Barnes, for an estimate of the size of the Normal School, thought it could not be less than 180,000 cubic feet. When Dr. Barnes was consulted he informed the Committee that the building would be about 240,000 cubic feet. In the opinion of the Committee it will be utterly impossible for $100,000 to erect a building of that size of permanent materials and of a design worthy to be called a Memorial to our Fallen Heroes.

It has always been estimated by the Committee that the sum of $50,000 could be readily obtained for a Monument alone and that if the Normal School were added to the plan of a Memorial and the outports took an interest in it, that the sum of $100,000 might be obtained by subscription. If the Government could see its way to increase the grant to $150,000 it would seem possible to carry out the plan submitted by Mr. Scott.

In a matter of such importance, and for a building of permanent construction, the Committee is of opinion that the Government could very properly make the expenditure on Capital Account instead of endeavouring to pay it out of Current Revenue in one year.

The Committee is confident that whenever an appeal for subscriptions is made for the purpose of a Memorial, the people of Newfoundland will consider it a debt of honour and will respond to the very best of their ability.

The Committee begs strongly to submit that it would be an irrevocable error to adopt any less worthy plan because at the present moment the money required for a worthy Memorial may not be easily obtainable.

The plan suggested by Mr. Scott must appeal to everyone. It meets all suggestions which have been made, being a noble and impressive monument in combination with a building devoted to the advancement of education. The plan has been submitted to the Municipal Council, who heartily approve of it. The Parade Ground, it will be remembered, is under the control of the Municipal Council, and it has always been intended, when funds were available, to convert it into a pleasure ground for the people. The sum of $5,000 was voted this year for the preparation of a site for the Memorial and it is possible that a like sum may be set aside annually for several years in order to make the Parade Ground a site worthy of the Memorial.

As the suggestion for the erection of a replica of the Caribou statue as a Memorial came from the G.W.V.A., the plan which is now proposed has been submitted to that Association, and the following letter of approval has been received from it:

Mr. W. G. Gosling, Chairman War Memorial Committee, City—

Dear Sir,—I am directed by the Executive of the Great War Veterans' Association to advise you that having considered the sketch of a memorial proposed by Mr. Scott, A.R.A., and submitted to our Executive by Mr. McKay, Hon. Secretary of your Committee, our Executive passed an unanimous resolution, endorsing the proposal of your Committee as outlined by Mr. Scott in his sketch and letter accompanying same. Our Executive wish to say that in their opinion the Memorial as proposed would be worthy of the effort put forth by Newfoundlanders in the War.

Yours respectfully, G. WHITTY, Secretary.

Nov. 6, 1920.

In moving the adoption of the Report, I would like to add, it will be noticed that Mr. Scott has only submitted an outline of his proposal, as the time at his disposal did not permit of the preparation of any details. In the course of conversation he said that he would not advise an elaborate building or ornamental monument. He thought that plain, classical design would be more solemn and impressive than excessive elaboration. If the preparation of the plans were entrusted to him he would endeavor to submit something of which we would be proud, but that he would not submit a competitive design nor would he design a monument in connection with a building for which he did not also furnish the plans. Apart from the financial condition of the country, there is one other consideration which seems to me to warrant some delay in the carrying out of the plans, and that is, the probable reduction in the cost of building materials before this time next year.

Rev. Dr. Curtis seconded the adoption of the Report.

His Excellency thought the Report as presented, was an admirable one, but thought that the meeting ought not to adopt the resolution until all were satisfied that this was the opportune time for such a project to be attempted; as owing to the financial conditions at present existing, it might be better to delay the building for another year or so.

Sir Patrick McGrath, whilst endorsing the plan as outlined in the Report, thought that in view of the small attendance, the public should be given more information, and suggested that the matter be held over till a later date, and that the Report and all communications in relation to same be given to the newspapers, so that the public could get an idea of what was going on and be in a position to attend the next meeting of the Association.

Mr. R. G. Rendell, speaking in connection with the Report, did not wish to throw cold water on the project, and whilst he hoped to see the plans as outlined by the Committee carried out, still he was of the opinion that by the time anything of a tangible nature was accomplished that he would probably be gathered to his fathers. He believed that something less costly in the shape of a monument should be erected, as there was quite a lot of dissatisfaction already in connection with the manner in which our War Memorial had been handled.

Hon. John Browning agreed with Sir Patrick McGrath, that the meeting was not large enough to handle a matter of such importance, but he supported the project and hoped that the plans of the Committee would mature, and whether we had to wait for a year or two to finalize matters, he expressed the wish that the building of this Normal School would take shape. The Association should get the people enthused and whilst at the present time money was a little tight, he was sure that when the present financial trouble had blown over, the people would respond to the call.

Mayor Gosling did not see anything stupendous or impossible in the project. The Government had already voted $100,000 for a Normal School, and he felt that they could also arrange to raise the necessary money in connection with the Memorial School and the paying back of which could extend over a period of years. The prices of building materials were decreasing, however, and it might be better to wait. Still he hoped that we would not be continually postponing action, and that some definite understanding would be reached.

Mr. H. Mitchell, representing the G.W.V.A., spoke and explained the position of that organization in agreeing with the Report as outlined by the War Memorial Committee, and he hoped that something would soon be accomplished.

Sir Patrick McGrath then gave some interesting data in connection with War Memorials. He also discussed the different phases of the Report under consideration, both from financial and other viewpoints, and he proposed the following resolution:

RESOLVED, That the further consideration of the Report be deferred for a month, and that in the meantime the newspapers be requested to publish the Report and accompanying statement of the Chairman of the Committee in order that the public may gain a fuller idea of the project.

This resolution was seconded by Sir William Lloyd, who could not understand how at the present time the money could be raised, as from what he could see the building as proposed would cost $300,000 and he thought that the Government should take the responsibility of paying for the undertaking.

Mayor Gosling, Hon. John Browning and Rev. Dr. Curtis took part in the discussion regarding the resolution of Sir P. T. McGrath, and on being put to the meeting it was carried unanimously.

Mr. J. G. Higgins, also of the G.W.V.A., next spoke in connection with the Report of the Memorial Committee, and he urged that a start should be made at once. He congratulated the Committee on their Report, but felt that as regards the Normal School that this was the duty of the Government, and whilst we might not be in a position to go ahead with the educational building, we should do something by way of erecting a Monument to the memory of our soldier lads who made the supreme sacrifice.

Sir William Lloyd said that he felt convinced that it was the Government's business to build the Normal School and that a pledge should be had from them in connection with the matter, and proposed the following resolutions, which were seconded by Judge Morris, and after some discussion by different members, were passed unanimously:

BE IT RESOLVED—

(1) That a copy of this Report of the War Memorial Committee, be transmitted to the Government;

(2) That the Government be prayed to receive a delegation of this Association, which will be instructed to request the Government to undertake the whole cost of the War Memorial Building, as outlined in the Report.

The following deputation was then appointed to interview the Government: Sir Wm. Lloyd, Mayor Gosling, Hon. John Browning, J. J. McKay, and a representative from the G.W.V.A.

After some other business had been transacted, the meeting adjourned with the singing of the National Anthem.

Growing Old Together

THIS aged couple, mellowed by time and the experiences of life, are happily growing old together.

They are happy because they are healthy. Life is still full of interest to them, and they are wide awake to new ideas.

These are the kind of old people that everybody likes. For, in spite of the years, they are cheerful and optimistic.

It is only natural that the blood should get thin and vitality wane as age advances, but there are ways of keeping up the quality of the blood and maintaining health and vigor.

Very many men and women have found in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food exactly what they need to restore energy and strength and keep them healthy and happy.

As an example Mr. Stephen J. Leard, North Tryon, P.E.I., writes: "At seventy-five years of age my heart gave out and became very irregular and weak in action and would palpitate. My nerves also became weak, and I could do nothing but lie in bed in a languishing condition, losing strength and weight. In that condition I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and am cured. Had I not obtained this treatment I would now be in the box with the roof over my nose. At eighty-one I have an energy which means go, and I am writing this letter so that old people like myself may prolong their health and strength by using this great medicine."

There can be no doubt that this treatment contained exactly what was required to build up Mr. Leard's system.

We are constantly receiving so many letters of this kind that we can, with the greatest confidence, recommend people of advanced years to put Dr. Chase's Nerve Food on trial, as a means of restoring and maintaining health and vigor.

Here is another interesting letter. This time from a lady:

Mrs. Joseph Lalonde, Hyde Glen, Ont., writes: "I have to thank you very much for what your medicines have done for me, especially the Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills. I was so run down and nervous last summer that I was in bed most of the time, unable to do any work. I have also been troubled with my kidneys for over twenty years, and tried every doctor I knew of without any permanent results, but I can say that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills have made me feel quite different. Since taking this combined treatment I have been able to do my housework, and although I am now 76 years old, I feel better than I have for years."

("I know Mrs. Joseph Lalonde, and believe her statement regarding Dr. Chase's medicines to be true."—W. F. Flannery, Postmaster.)

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Having noticed in the Advocate that the Regulation price for fish has advanced in Brazil and Greece, I want to know why it is that some of the St. John's merchants who are in favor of the regulations won't purchase fish at the present time? Over two weeks ago a certain merchant in St. John's promised to take several hundred qts. of fish from the writer, but several days ago this same firm wrote that they were not buying fish from outports.

If the Regulations are so good as Coaker asserts, why is it that the price paid does not exceed eight dollars, which is a price that will not remunerate fishermen for catching it? The coming winter will be one to be remembered. Destitution is already in evidence in this district. Outport merchants and traders will no longer be able to help the people, because the ruinous Fish Regulations have strangled their trade and jeopardised their business.

The cruel Government has inflicted an injury which will be felt for a generation. Honest, industrious business men will this year lose the savings of a life time, and next year will see the fishery practically abandoned, because very few outports merchants will be in a position to supply for such a precarious avocation when the markets and price are controlled by a man whose damnable regulations are crippling the fishing industry. When will the fishermen awaken from their lethargy? How much longer will we be subservient to the desires of an autocrat? The hour has now struck for the people to act.

Arise fellow countrymen. Arise ye fishermen. To the front Sir John Crosbie, Sir M. P. Cashin and J. R. Bennett. Your country is calling. Organize! Hold a monster meeting in St. John's. Call a representative men from every outport in the Island. We can send them to St. John's to swell the procession to Government House, to demand the dismissal from office of the most tyrannical and unjust government this country ever had.

"March on, march on, all hearts resolved On liberty or death."

We appeal to the men of the North, South, East and West to awake. Are you going to allow the torch of liberty to be extinguished, or will you hand it bright and flaming down to your children?

"Ring out the old,
Ring in the new;
Ring out the false,
Ring in the true."

Your country is sinking. Take the bridge Sir J. C. Crosbie and Cashin. The old ship Terra Nova is in the breakers. Your help is wanted to steer her clear of destruction and disaster.

Down with Coakerism, oppression, and slavery.

Yours truly,
FISHERMAN.

Bolshevik Corruption.

The revolutions of Bolshevik activities in Great Britain must have a sobering effect upon labor leaders, as well as upon the rank and file of the workers. The fact that the Daily Herald, (London, Eng.) had received £75,000 of Russian gold to carry on was a shock to every loyal labor man who is not infected with the virus of communism.

The extremists, of course, were quite ready to take Russian gold to destroy Great Britain. But they are a very small fraction of the men who are organized under the banner of labor in England. There can be no doubt of the saneness and loyalty of the great mass of British workmen. During the past week or ten days a million coal miners have been on strike and another million of industrial workers have been unemployed as a consequence, but not the slightest disturbance has taken place. We may be sure that state of affairs, is not satisfactory to the communist. He was looking for a political revolution after the type of that carried through by Lenin and Trotsky. The common sense and steadiness of the British workman has disappointed him, as it must have given encouragement to all those who desire to see orderly government maintained.

On top of the exposure in connection with the Daily Herald there comes the information that a special courier of Lenin's has been arrested with a great mass of documentary evidence of a sensational character. It implicates Sylvia Pankhurst as one of Lenin's lieutenants in Great Britain, as well as a member of the British Parliament, who has been concerned in forwarding the communist conspiracy. These facts indicate the desperate efforts that the Bolshevik is making to establish a Soviet government in England. We do not believe that Trotsky can succeed to any design of that kind. There is too much common sense at the head of the average English worker to engage in such desperate enterprises. We sincerely hope that better conditions will be secured for the working classes in Great Britain. There is every prospect of that. We feel convinced also that it will come without resort to the dictation of the proletariat, which is a form of autocracy quite as bad as anything that the world has witnessed.—The Sentinel.

(From the Minneapolis Journal.)
India is the powder keg of Asia. Its three hundred million people are far from homogeneous. How this mass, divided by a hundred and seventy-nine languages and some five hundred dialects, can be fashioned into a nation that would forget its racial and religious differences, has been the almost insoluble problem of the British Raj. Within a few weeks the first general election in India will take place. The revision of the voters' list has been made and six million persons with the franchise will shoulder the burdens of internal government for the other two hundred and ninety odd millions. One of the greatest political experiments of history is under way. Can Western political ideas be grafted on to the psychology of the East which naturally looks to one ruler for its laws? Can the Oriental curb his passions, prejudices and animosities that have nothing to do with State affairs? Can the Eastern mind, which for centuries has dwelt on personal gain, comprehend the bigger and less selfish motive? India is to answer. The risks are big. Already in certain districts there is talk of the restoration of pujas, human sacrifices and other barbaric religious customs that have been stamped out.

'Ware Gasolene.

Gasolene fumes came in contact with a lighted lantern. Ten buildings destroyed; loss, $250,000. Gasolene is dangerous. It is one of the most rapidly volatilizing fluids. One pint of gasolene will impregnate 200 feet of air and make it explosive. Many serious fires have been started from the careless use of gasolene. Gasolene should only be used in the open air, and clothes, after being cleaned with it, should be hung outside to allow it to evaporate. It should always be kept in tightly closed metal cans, never in glass bottles or jars. The latter are liable to breakage and the consequent freeing of the dangerous fumes when open flames may ignite them and cause a serious fire.

Infant Chess Prodigy.

After a sojourn of three months in England, during which time he gave convincing exhibitions of his extraordinary skill, Samuel Rzeschewski the nine-year-old Polish chess expert is on his way to the United States having sailed for New York on the Olympic. Accompanying the prodigy were his parents and his manager. While in England he met with quite as much success as on the continent, and of fifty-four games played by him in three exhibitions he lost only one, winning forty-three and drawing ten. The little fellow was in great glee when he romped aboard the giant liner for his first trip across the ocean.

A Hunt for Big Game.

The expedition organized under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History to search for remains of the first man will arouse an equal romantic and scientific interest.

This indeed will be a hunt for big game the like of which has never before been undertaken. Humanity, for all its delving into the remote past, knows little enough about its primeval ancestors. It possesses parts of a skeleton dug up in the Rhine province and parts of another discovered some thirty years ago in Java which show the existence of a primitive type of being intermediate between man and the ape. But it is lamentably deficient in definite knowledge of its rude origin, and the depth of its ignorance may be taken as a measure of the value of the possible discovery by the expedition of authenticated remains of its first forefathers. That would be an antiquarian find to which all the digging up of Troy and the delving in the dust heaps of Babylon would be as nothing.

The discovery in the fossil beds of Nebraska a few days ago of a prehistoric animal supposed to be 200,000 years old is a reminder of how little time has counted in the development of man. The "Java man" was credited with an antiquity of half a million years. Science, indeed, scoffs at Adam as a mere youngster in the history of the world. Yet it is to be noted that it is toward the region where the Garden of Eden was supposed to be that the expedition in search of the Adam of scientific hypothesis directs its course. It will explore Central Asia in its quest and penetrate into hitherto unvisited portions of Thibet, Turkestan and the Mongolian Desert.

Is there possibly somewhere a prehistoric Pompeii on which science may some day stumble? Whether or not the expedition finds the first man, it is bound to bring home anthropological and other rare treasure-trove that will further enrich New York's great museum.—New World.

"Mow Your Own" Club Formed.

The "Mow Your Own" Club has been organized in Chicago to fight $1 hair cuts. The club came into existence when barbers announced that after January 1 they will boost the cost of hair cuts from 60 cents to $1. Sponsors of the club still remember the days when a hair cut cost 25 cents. They watched the price climb to 60 cents, but beyond that they swear they will not go.

They say self-inflicted hair cuts will be as common pretty soon as safety razors. What if a fellow does clip off an ear now and then, it will only be a part of the protest.

Living Still Soars in France.

As a result of the still soaring cost of living, hundreds of thousands of Frenchmen are no longer able to afford a daily meal of meat or eggs.

Milk and bread have also risen until they are six times pre-war prices—despite all efforts by the Government at "price control." More revolutionary yet, a large proportion of Frenchmen have taken to drinking water because ordinary wine, formerly far more plentiful than water, is priced at a scale beyond their means. Spurred by the general outcry the Government has instituted a committee to deal with the bounding cost of living. A careful survey of all the most recent statistics regarding the cost of living reveals the startling fact that many necessities have doubled in price within the past three months. Not a single instance has been found of any article reduced in price. This winter will be the darkest for the French people since 1914.

SKIN BLEMISHES—
How to get rid of them

Just before retiring, wash in your usual way with warm water and Woodbury's Facial Soap and then dry your face. Now dip the tips of your fingers in warm water and rub them on the cake of Woodbury's until they are covered with a heavy, cream-like lather. Cover each blemish with a thick coat of this soap cream and leave it on for ten minutes. Then rinse very carefully, first with clear, hot water, then with cold.

The regular use of Woodbury's in cleansing your skin will discourage the tendency for new blemishes to form.

Sample cake of soap, booklet of famous treatments, and samples of Woodbury's Facial Powder, Facial Cream and Cold Cream sent to you for 15 cents.

For 6 cents, we will send you a trial size cake (enough for a week or ten days of any Woodbury treatment) together with the booklet of treatments, "A Skin You Love to Touch." Or for 15 cents we will send you the treatment booklet and samples of Woodbury's Facial Soap, Facial Powder, Facial Cream and Cold Cream. Address The Andrew Jergens Co., Limited, Sherbrooke St., Perth, Ontario.

CONSPICUOUS NOSE PORES—
How to reduce them

Dip a cloth in very hot water; lather it with Woodbury's Facial Soap, then hold it to your face. When the heat has expanded the pores, rub in very gently a fresh lather of Woodbury's. Repeat this hot-water and lather application several times, stopping at once if your nose feels sensitive. Finish by rubbing the nose for thirty seconds with a lump of ice.

Do not expect to change in a week a condition resulting from long neglect. But use this treatment persistently, and it will gradually reduce the enlarged pores until they are inconspicuous.

PALE, SALLOW SKINS—
The new steam treatment for them

One or two nights a week, fill your wash bowl full of hot water—almost boiling hot. Bend over the top of the bowl and cover your head and the basin with a heavy bath towel, so that no steam can escape. Steam your face for thirty seconds.

Now lather a hot cloth with Woodbury's Facial Soap. With this, wash your face thoroughly, rubbing the lather well into the skin with an upward and outward motion. Then rinse the skin well, first with warm water, then with cold, and finish by rubbing it for thirty seconds with a piece of ice.

The other nights of the week, wash your face thoroughly in the Woodbury way, with Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water, finishing with a dash of cold water.

The very first time you use this treatment your skin will gain in loveliness and color.

OILY SKINS—
How to correct them

First cleanse your skin thoroughly by washing it in your usual way with Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water. Wipe off the surplus moisture, but leave the skin slightly damp. Now with warm water work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap in your hands. Apply it to your face and rub it into the pores thoroughly—always with an upward and outward motion. Rinse with warm water, then with cold—the colder the better. If possible, rub your face for a few minutes with a piece of ice.

This treatment will make your skin fresher and clearer the first time you use it. Make it a nightly habit, and before long you will see a marked improvement—a promise of that lovelier complexion which the steady use of Woodbury's always brings.

The booklet containing the famous Woodbury treatments for all the commoner skin troubles, is wrapped around each cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap. Find the treatment for your skin—begin using it tonight.
