St. Michael's Notes.

The Feast of St. John Baptist was luly observed at St. Michael's Church Evensong, the Rector preached on the characteristics of the Saint from the Gospel of St. Luke, Chap, I.: "He shall be great in the sight of the Lord." The preacher reminded his hearers that many are great in their own eyes; many in the sight of their friends, but few are great in the sight of the Lord. He referred to the pious act of the Cabots who discovered our city on this day, and as a result placed it under the patronage of St. John. He urged his flock to link heavenly things with earthly by attendance at the week day eucharists. The great event of this week is the Garden Party which serves the double purpose of being an annual reunion for all friends and also a financial drive to augment the church funds. A big effort is being made to make this the most successful in the history of the parish. The pastor exhorted the attendance and help of everyone, and reminded his people that those who cannot help in any other way can assist by their prayers at the holy sacrifice on Wednesday morning.

> "In my opinion," he told a press representative, "we are at the beginning of a new era with regard to the Polar regions. I got the idea about ten years ago that the short route to China, via the North is open at last. The liquid ocean is frozen, bu the ocean of the air is open, and I think that China can be reached by the flying machine. Upon that hinges, as I believe, the necessity for a new Imperial outlook and a new Imother part of the world as they are in the Polar area." Mr. Stefansson thinks that the airship would be the best means of transit for the proposed Polar route to China. He pointed out that the saving of time and mileage would be very considerable. For example, from London to Tokio, via the North would be a distance of 4,960 miles, whereas the route by the Trans Siberian railway covers no fewer than 8,557 miles. A saving of be

Washing Without Soap

Although we nowadays use soap as a matter of course, there are times Misses' Rubber Sole Canvas when it was not available, and different methods for cleansing oneself had to be resorted to. For instance, when the ancient -a home treatment known Britons desired to remove a little of as their woad, and perhaps to vary their color schemes, they had to scrub themselves hard with sand and gravel, mixed with water.

In Homer's time the usual method of washing clothes was to soak them in water and then dance in them. Sometimes wood-ashes were added to the water used for washing, an alkaine solution being thus formed. Another preparation, consisting of Egyptian nitre dissolved in water was used, it is believed by the ancient ture soap from the barbarians they captured. It is probable, indeed, that scap was invented by the barbarian Germans and Gauls about two thousand years ago. They made it in the dermine your health and able to carry on their work just as form of a compound of goat's fat and ashes mixed together by heat.

Soap was not manufactured in Engand until the beginning of the 16th entury, though it had been previousy imported from foreign countries However, in 1711, the practice of vashing was somewhat curbed by the aposition of a tax of one penny to pence a lb., on soap, but this was abolished in 1853 and, fortunately for the present public, has not been reinstated.

New Institution

John Weir, Superintendent of the Newfoundland Institution for the llind, has been in the city for severa ays. Mr. Weir was for a number ears attached to the Halifax School for the Blind, and is well known he city and through the province

Three years ago Mr. Weir went to ewfoundland to take charge of the ork for the blind in that Dominio eaking to The Herald last night, he said that a splendid institution was now being made ready for occupation in the fall to give proper facilities or work among the blind.

Through the generosity of Sir E ears his name, a palatial group of building has been given to the city of St. John's, facing a beautiful park which Sir Edgar had given to the city. These buildings were now being re handsome appropriation for this work, and had agreed to donate an annual amount for maintenance.

For the present, it was planned to their own living and to give them this Opinion, but I did not feel that I employment. Besides this work at the institution, home teaching of the the case which was desired except blind and a campaign of education for the prevention of blindness would be carried on. At present the blind children o Newfoundland were being cared for at the Halifax School for the Blind and this arrangement would not be disturbed just now, the Newfoundland Institution limiting itself largely to adult training. Returned students from Halifax would be found employment by the Newfoundland Institution Later it was hoped that facilities for general education of the blind would be available at the school in S John's.

Mr. Weir leaves within a few days for the principal cities throughout the United States to make a study of the leading instntutions for the blind in order that the most up to date program possible may be adapted when he opens the new institution He is accompanied by his wife and daughter, Emily. - Halifax Herald,

THE BRUISERS.

There is now great revival of the well known fighting game; every bruiser seeks his rival and encamps upon his frame; there's a carnival of scrapping. slugging, punching, kicking, slapping, and we moralists a r e yapping that the whole thing is a shame. For the bruisers who are bruising might pursue a better trade: we would like to see them choosing honest effort with a spade; they might well be fixing flivvers, or, as butchers, slicing livers, or be logging by the rivers where our beams and joists are made. Though the pugilist be clever, though his skill be understood, all his toil is waste endeaver, doing no one any good; in the ring we see him pawing; but our praise he would be drawing if he spent the long hours sawing fiftyseven kinds of wood. Why put in the golden morning knocking human maps askew? There are cows that need dehorning, there are useful chores to do; there are roofs that should be mended, there is corn that should be tended, there are labors large and splendid that are weary-ing for you. Every time a task is finished, you a victory have won; world disorder is diminished by the useful work you've done; but the world is none the better when a fighter doffs his sweater as the champion gogetter for a stack of uncarned mon.
