CHAPTER III.

He had been paid well, and the dirty palm extended showed half a sovereign glittering on its subway of grease and grime.

Four cuts with the whip and half a crown elicited nothing further than hits, and Mr. Besant kicked him out of the yard, and retired to peruse his mysterious letter more carefully. It was not a long one, very concise, and contained no clew whatever to the identity of the writer.

"If Mr. Besant would learn the obstacle between him and L. M., he may discover it in her affection for Mr. Clifford, the tutor."

Then followed the basis of Mr. Besant's pretty little complication. It gave him everything straightforward, just as he had given it to Sir Ralph, and wound up by advising him to go, without delay, to L. M.—'s father and acquaint him with her perfidy. But in no case whatever was Mr. Besant to disclose how he got his information.

Mr. Besant, filled with joy at this piece of good fortune, blessed his anonymous informant and did as he was bid. The result was seen.

Quicker than the dull-headed fox hunter, the reader will have guessed the author of the fatal letter to be Miss Lucas, and guessed rightly.

She had had her eyes opened, as she termed it, by several little chance words, looks and gestures of the quiet tutor, and had increased the sharpness of her watch. She had been behind the hedge during the conversation at the gate, she had witnessed the scene in the picture gallery, and by some acute pumping to wring from old Jack that Miss Lillian had paid for the rod he gave to the Tutor. All this she had learned but lately, and she had written for instructions.

These instructions had come, transmitted by the mysterious, chemical handwriting, and she had acted upon them. She had sprung the mine, and poor Clarence Clifford had been hoisted and whirled—whither?

But the tangled skein was to be unraveled and all the several threads kept distinct and light in hand, and she hastened to her work.

Before the dismissed tutor had got many miles upon the road, with his swollen and disfigured face, in the direction of London, the skilful lady had written to Lady Melville, stating that, as she had expected, Lillian had refused Mr. Besant, no doubt in consequence of Mr. Ansley's morning visit, and that that gentleman was still hovering about the neighborhood. Then, with the secret pencil, she sent tidings to her master of the dismissal of the tutor and the condition of Lillian and Sir Ralph.

That done, and being thrust out of Lillian's room by order of Mrs. Williams, who had entered into a second reign as queen nurse, Miss Lucas went to bed and slept the sleep of the just.

On the morrow Lillian was worse, and the old doctor, who had hovered about all night, snuffbox in hand, took his stimulating powder by the noseful and "ahemed" significantly.

"There's something in her mind, Sir Ralph," he said, sententiously. "Something on her mind."

"I know it, I know it," retorted Sir Ralph, almost mad between grief and perplexity. "I know that, and I don't know how to remove it. Heaven help my poor child!"

"Ahem!" said the doctor. "It's a most singular case—ahem!—if I may remark; it's something, superficially, like our young friends—eh, Sir Ralph?"

"What young friends?" asked the distracted baronet, though he knew well enough.

"The tutor, that nice, young fellow, Mr. Clifford," said the doctor, as he turned to go to the sick room. "By this way, what has become of him?"

"I don't know," said Sir Ralph, with a groan. "I wish to Heaven I did."

"What! Has he gone?" said the old doctor, with wild astonishment.

"Yes," said Sir Ralph. "Left suddenly this morning."

"Ahem!" said the physician, after thinking a moment and looking significant. "I think if I were you, Sir Ralph, I would send and fetch him back."

"What do you mean?" asked the baronet, drawing himself up proudly, but looking only half his usual staidness.

The old doctor pointed to the ceiling and took snuff before replying.

"I think," he said, slowly, "I would fetch him back, Sir Ralph."

Sir Ralph understood Lillian, in the delirium which had over taken her, had asked for him.

This decided him. Trampling on the pride which had hitherto kept him from the step, he rang the bell and dispatched three grooms to ride after Mr. Clifford and bring him back.

"And," said he, with his old sternness, "ask no questions nor answer any. Simply bring him back. If he refuse to come, you are three to one, you understand—bring him back."

Puzzled, but obedient, the three men, all staunch friends of Mr. Clifford, started on their errand, and Sir Ralph with a load off his mind and heart, fell to pacing the corridor.

Meanwhile Mr. Clifford walked wearily on.

It was no new thing, this being cast adrift on the world. Nay, it seemed his fate, and while with an aching heart and face he strode on, he asked himself bitterly why it had not come before.

"I might have known," he mused, "that it was too happy to last, that the time had almost come when I should face the fearful world again. Oh, Fate, what had my unknown parents done to thee that thou shouldst visit the sin so heavily upon their child? No, no," he added, hastily, laying his thin, white hand upon the shameful scar. "Let me cast no blame upon them since I know them not, rather, let me bear patiently the punishment for the evil days I remember. Hard is the way of transgressors, and though I knew it not I was bred in the haunts and followed the footsteps of vice and crime. But now what evil chance procured the atoms of circumstance that this malicious fox hunter so dextrously arranged into his mosaic of dishonor? Heaven knows I am innocent, though at some moments I am almost inclined to think myself the base creature he, drew me. I loved her, I love her now, proud, beautiful girl, but I never forgot that she was further than the angels from me. I never forgot that I lost all that was left to me, my honor, the moment I spoke of love to her. Further than the angels, do I say? Ay, truly, for, by Heaven's good mercy, I may reach their abode, but shall never hold her in my arms, or tell her what I have suffered for my love. Never! Oh, the word is maddening. Let me die and rid of it. Ah, no matter if I trudge till I sink of sheer exhaustion, the face will come in my dreams to remind me that I have been driven away from her father's house in disgrace with a foul blow for a parting, and that I shall never see her more."

With a groan he quickened his pace and, never pausing or resting, walked on till night fell.

Then, as the stars crept out to look at and perchance pity him, though in his present mood he would have despised the idea and declared they came only to mock him, he waited for a moment, and with his despairing eyes fixed upon the darkness before him, remembered that he had but just recovered a wearying illness and was walking himself to a certain death.

Death would have suited his inclination exactly; it was the easiest way to solve the problem to lie down there in the fatal night air and drop off in the cold to another world, where fate had less of the ordering of things, but it did not suit his conscience.

Clarence Clifford's nature was the dare all, not die all, and he buttoned his light coat across his chest, bent his head down and pushed on to some kind of shelter.

A low-browed public house lay a little back from the road and looked snug and inviting.

He could see its light thrown edgewise across the road, and quickening his pace, reached it.

He was no pampered heir disinherited by the caprice of a moment, making acquaintance with the world's rough side for the first time; he knew something of the shady side of the way and entered the house with peculiar confidence.

The bar was empty, and the hostess, a tenant of Sir Ralph's, greeted him cordially and with a cheerful smile that suddenly changed to a long-drawn look of horror as she saw the scar on his face.

"Why, bless me, Mr. Clifford, it ain't you with that dreadful face, surely! Oh, dear me, what have you been and done?"

"I want to give a friend a striking and timely present," said the sweet young thing.

"Why not an alarm clock?" asked the assistant.

If you are troubled this way, you'll be glad to know a simple way to avoid it.

Just try eating a few peppermint Life Savers after meals.

It's wonderful how these little mint circles relieve that heavy, lousy feeling after eating.

Harbor Grace Notes

The marriage of Mr. Frederick Gowen Chafe, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Chafe, of this town, and Miss Marjorie Wilcox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilcox, of Hants County, was solemnized at St. Mary's Church, St. John's, at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, June 3rd. The Rev. A. B. S. Stirling, tying the nuptial knot. The bride was charmingly attired in a costume of navy blue, with a becoming hat of fawn georgette, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and roses. She was given away by her father, Miss Mary Chafe, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a dainty gown of fawn crepe de chene, with hat of same shade. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and roses. Mr. Gower Rabbitts, cousin of the groom, ably performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to St. Mary's Rectory, and there, Mrs. Stirling, who is a cousin of the bride, entertained them in a most hospitable manner. Mr. and Mrs. Chafe left by the 6 p.m. train for Toronto, where the honeymoon was spent. From there they visited St. John's and Hants County, and returned to town by motor car yesterday. Many were the presents and congratulatory telegrams received, which testified to the esteem in which the young couple is held. Mr. Chafe is an ex-Service man, having been overseas with the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, and is a well known and popular young man of this town. The bride is a popular young lady of the Cable City, who already has made many friends here. We join with their many friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Chafe many years of unalloyed happiness.

SYDNEY, N. S. June 14. (Press)—A detachment of troops, including artillery, under the command of Lt.-Col. An attempt was made to arrest the force. A telegram from Mr. James Murdoch, Minister of Labour in the Dominion Government, the United Workers of America, announced that he would be on his way to Cape Breton to mediate the differences between the company and its employees. The force of special constables at New Waterford now numbers 100. U.M.W. patrols are on guard at Dominion No. 6. #### MINERS LOOT AND DESTROY COMPANY'S STORES.

SYDNEY, June 13. The striking miners of the British Empire Steel Corporation have taken the law into their own hands, and to-day are in control of the situation throughout the colliery districts of Cape Breton. Under cover of darkness the Company's stores are being raided, looted, and in some cases destroyed. According to the Company's police three Corporation officials were taken from their homes at New Waterford last night and beaten by a mob. The normal protective forces of the Crown state they are powerless to interfere. With the appearance of daylight the crowd dispersed to their homes and quiet is restored. Up to noon to-day the detachment of infantry, artillery and engineers, which arrived here yesterday under command of Lieut.-Col. W. H. P. Elkin, S.O., had made no move. A force of Provincial police, under command of Major Basil Curry, of the Attorney General's Department, and daily being augmented, are being whipped into shape, but so far have remained within the enclosures of the steel company.

Labor and Revolution

J. R. Clynes in the Labor Magazine (London): A Communist is no more a left wing member of the Labor Party than an atheist is a left wing member of the Christian Church. Our toleration of the Communists has not only been misplaced but wasted. They have treated the Labor Party as though it were the worker's worst enemy. We are now convinced that the successful emergence of Labor in the struggle for political authority will not take place until the public mind is purged of the mistaken impression that the party entertains a measure of approval of Communist objects and policy.

Canada Not in Security Pact

OTTAWA, June 9.—"Is Canada party to any security pact in connection with the Rhine?" asked J. S. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg Centre, in the House of Commons this afternoon. "The answer is no," replied Premier King, and the matter was dropped without further discussion.

Little Jack Rabbit
by David Cory

"How soon can you paint Lady Love's little house?" enquired generous Uncle Lucky, stopping the Luckymobile right in front of the old Zebra's paintshop on the corner of Beet Street and Pumpkin Lane. "Now let me see," answered Mr. Zebra, scratching his head with the end of a paint brush—not the hairy paint end, of course. No three. Mr. Zebra was not so scatterbrained as all that. Not by a jugful, as old Sam Hill, the hired man, used to say to me when a boy down on the farm. "Make it as soon as you can, and perhaps earlier," laughed the dear old gentleman rabbit, twinkling his nose and winking his eyes at Mr. Merry Sun up in the skies. Dear me, there goes "Remmy," my good old typewriter, into poetry. Maybe he will turn into a regular poet some day and win a blue ribbon! "Next Thursday," at last replied the painterman. "What color? A sky-blue-pink?" "Not for the world," answered artistic Uncle Lucky, "No streaks. Not for the world and a couple of comets. Lady Love's little bungalow must be white with green trimmings." "Just as you say, Mr. Lucky Lett-hindfoot," respectfully replied Mr. Zebra. "A twinkling white. To shine like a little star at night," added the bunny boy, drooping into poetry. Dear me! again. This poetry habit is becoming com-ta-gious (which means catching, Little Reader). I'm glad it's not like the measles. Glorious yes. There's nothing poetical about them. No Sir. "Well, then it's settled. You'll be over with your paint cans and brushes next Thursday," said Uncle Lucky, hopping back into the Luckymobile. "I'll run over early to see that everything is ready. Maybe the Old Red Rooster had better brush off a few stray cobwebs," and with a honk of the horn away drove the old gentleman rabbit. "Hello," he shouted to the kind Policeman Dog as the Luckymobile rolled down Lettuce Avenue. "how are the little bow wows?" "Fine and dandy," answered the good protector of law and order in Rabbitville, a smile spreading over his face and his tail a-wiggle waggle. "Nice old dog," added Uncle Lucky to his small bunny nephew, as he turned up Cabbage Street. "I haven't forgotten he saved my coat from Old Man Weasel! No indeed. Dear Uncle Lucky never forgot a kindness. Neither did he ever forget to do one. Everybody loved him in Rabbitland. I guess you do, too, Little Readers. My Uncle Silas down on the farm when I was a boy was very like him, only of course he didn't have such long ears; but his heart was just as big as Uncle Lucky's. Yes, indeed. And Aunt Gemma's Angel Cake was just as good as Lady Love's.

When I was a boy down on the farm I loved all living things. The furry coated four-footed ones. And those with feathered wings. Yes, if you wish to please your Uncle Dave, always be kind to all dumb animals. So, good-bye till the next story.

Cancer and Cockroaches

Dr. Sambon's Germ Theory—Medical Doubts.

Sir James Cantlie, a well-known parasitologist, makes remarkable claims, which will arouse much interest, in his "foreword" to a book published recently, and reviewed below, dealing with cancer and with certain investigations carried out by Dr. L. W. Sambon, lecturer in the London School of Tropical Medicine.

Sir James says that owing to Dr. Sambon's researches "two important facts stand out: (1) Cancer is a parasitic disease; (2) the control of cancer is within our reach."

These claims are not widely admitted in the medical profession. On the contrary it is maintained that this theory of the origin of cancer as being due to a parasite is not new, but is based on the researches of the Danish biologist Fibiger, who ten years ago published the results of experiments which suggested that cancer in rats is caused by a parasite which infests cockroaches.

Fibiger's views may have some basis of fact, but they are not yet generally accepted. They are still subject to test and examination, and may be proved or disproved.

PESTS THAT NURSE THE GERM.
New Cancer Facts. D. Masters. Foreword by Sir James Cantlie.

This book is written in a clear and interesting style. It does not reject irritation as a factor in cancer, but it contends that parasites play their part in the disease, and that the germs may be one of those minute organisms that remain invisible under a microscope and even pass through scientific filters.

After describing Dr. Sambon's work in tracing other diseases to parasites Mr. Masters states:

He knew that the best place in which to study a disease was where it occurred, so he determined to examine the homes of people who were dying of cancer, the conditions in which they lived, their surroundings, anything and everything, in fact, which might shed a little light on the disease.

He investigated certain places in the Italian Romagna and in Iceland, where cancer is peculiarly prevalent, and where there was cancer found in profusion signs of rats, mice, blackbeetles, cellar beetles, meal-worms, meal-moths and meal-mites.

Wherever the trail of cancer was most marked, there were the pests.

There were some distinct link-tiny parasitic worms that begin life in either the cockroach, the meal-worm, or the cellar beetle and mature in rats and mice.

More, in the one district of Iceland which is free from cancer, Dr. Sambon found that no rats, mice, or cockroaches have ever been seen. The lava and turf built cottages were free of these household pests.

If it proves that the cockroach theory is correct, then obviously cancer can be controlled by getting rid of these loathsome insects. But a word of warning is necessary. It is not yet proved.

DR. SAMBON ON HIS WORK.

Dr. Sambon's own view is interesting and important. He refused to discuss his work further beyond pointing out that he made no claim to the discovery of the cause of cancer, nor did he assert that blackbeetles and rats were the sole contributory causes. His theory was that cancer was probably caused by a parasite which only became active when the human flesh was prepared for its activities by another agency, a worm which lives in rats, mice, cockroaches, and the like, and is transferred to human beings by the contamination of food. In the human being it sets up conditions necessary for the activity of the cancer parasite—Daily Mail.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.
SPRING OR AUTUMN?
I tilt to-day at a tradition. The windows are open, we are all sleepy and lazy, the recitations go haltingly, a big bee buzzes in the window and then buzzes out again into the sweet June air with longing eyes following him. . . . Thank goodness it is only a little while before summer vacation will begin.

It seems to me that it is spring rather than autumn that is haunted with memories and turbulent with a nebulous melancholy. Nothing brings memories crowding upon me like the first days of spring.
The First Shadow Pattern.
Spring school days come back upon me. I am walking back home at noon from school and for the first time I see the shadow pattern of the trees upon the pavements below.
Or again it is later in the spring of those long June evenings when the simplest games seem to have a special enchantment about them!

The Days That Come Back.
Sometimes it is some individual day that inexplicably haunts my thoughts. Perhaps a day made outstanding by a special event, like the day in June when Big Brother came home with the thrilling news that he was going to take me to the circus that night. (It's a commentary on the quality of human joys that I vividly remember the thrill of the announcement but cannot bring back the circus itself at all). Or some day that clings in memory for no reason that can put one's finger on—the day when we went into the woods after cowslips, or the day I went out into the yard because dinner wasn't quite ready and watched a robin building his nest in the apple tree.

That Troubling Wish For Youth.
Mother and home memories are always most poignant to me in the spring, and the memory of those who have gone away. There is something about the season that makes one's heart especially tender. And in the spring the wish to be young again is always most troubling. At other times in the year I am content with what the years have brought. I can say: "Grow old along with me, the best of life is yet to be," with faith and conviction. But there are times in the spring when the longing to get back into childhood and have it all again suddenly crowds out that peace and contentment.

THE SUNNY SMILE.
A sunny smile is useful through out our passing years; it's better than a cruise full of bitter, brackish tears; it says to us, "Be jolly, let no misfortune daunt," it says to melancholy, "Arolnt, and eke a v a u n t!" It's good to keep on throwing the smile that does not wilt, until your teeth are showing their caverns plugged with gilt. A smile is much more helpful than any style of frown, than any protest yellful that sends our spirits down. But now and then a fellow, who springs throughout the year, a smile serene and mellow, gets notions rather queer. He smiles, in princely splendor, and then the idea gets it should be legal tender, and liquidate his debts. We tell, when he is running for justice of the peace, for votes we all go gunning, our efforts do not cease. He smiles upon us grandly, he smiles on every gent, he smiles so sweetly, blandly, he fills up with content. But if we ask a favor his course is often rude, his observations savor of rank ingratitude. And if we're haled before him for speeding with our trucks, our explanations bore him, he fines us twenty bucks. A smile is quickly faded, its splendor one forgets, if it is hawked or traded in payment of old debts. The man who thinks his smiling will settle all he owes is foolish, he is piling up cords of future woes. We have to buy our raiment, our rainsticks and our tiles, and we need better payment than bright sun-shiny smiles.

IN COMMEMORATION OF THE FIFTY-NINTH ANNIVERSARY OF MAGNA CHARTA

Ladies and Gentlemen: The vention appointed by the people of the State to revise the fundamental law under which we live, as to the work of government and the preservation of public morality, has deemed it appropriate to arrange for a celebration of the seven hundredth anniversary of the signing of Magna Charta.

That was a great event in the history of the English people. It was a most formal public document, which we call the Great Charter of 1215. But it is not merely a great event in English history; it is a great event in the world's history.

That instrument which the King John to attain no rhetoric; it did not promise; it was a plain, practical statement of common rights fitted for the use of the people of England of that day. Hundreds of great declarations of principles have been made since that time, but this one, homely growth from the life of the English people has endured seven hundred years.

The Charter was not a gift of the monarch. Hundreds of monarchs have granted privileges to their subjects since that time, but the Charter has been forgotten, the monarchs with them. It was an assertion of right by men who were willing to fight for their rights to die for them. And during all these seven hundred years, the men who have been the Great Charter have been willing to die for them.

But even those qualities were the essential thing which kept this wonderful instrument, for seven hundred years. The essential thing was that the Great Charter asserted the principle of human liberty upon which rests the development of the best of the world. It asserted—the duty of men as against their government and superior to their government. Without rhetoric, without reason, without philosophy, it asserted rights which, nearly six hundred years later, the sons of those men crystallized in the Declaration of American Independence, as the alienable rights of man, to which, which governments are created.

There are but two theories of man in the social state: One is the theory of ancient republics, under which the state is the starting point as a member of the State. That was the theory of Greece, and Rome, and the republics. The other is the theory of the Great Charter, the theory of the Magna Charta, the theory of the Bill of Rights, of the Massachusetts Body of Liberties, of the Declaration of Independence, of the American Republic, that the individual has inalienable rights, to which government may deprive him but which which all government exists.

The first theory of the social state is that the state is all in all; the individual derives his rights from the state. The second theory is that the individual derives his rights from the state, but the state exists for the individual. The result of the first theory is that the state is the principle which was applied in the Magna Charta. It is the principle which was applied in the Magna Charta.

The other asserted in the Magna Charta, by logical and inevitable result, binds the state by the individual morality, which the individual has inalienable rights, to which government may deprive him but which which all government exists.

Mount Carmel Cemetery Committee

The annual meeting of the Mount Carmel Cemetery Committee was held last night, those present being Messrs. M. F. Caul, John Dalton, Jas. J. McGrath, Michael McDonald, Martin Cole, Nicholas Callahan, D. Whittle, P. Grace and M. Bolger.
 Treasurer Dalton presented a statement of expenditure and receipts in connection with the Cemetery, which was passed unanimously. The Committee has a small working balance by dint of careful and economical expenditure which is further explained in the appended report of the Chairman, Mr. M. F. Caul. Without the tangible support and interest of citizens generally it is appreciated that the work and efforts of the Committee would be futile as owing to the large tract which the Cemetery now occupies the receipts are not nearly commensurate with the expenditure.
 It is learned that this year will be begun the erection of a new retaining wall bordering the new ground on Quidi Vidi Road, and although a large outlay will be involved yet the Committee feels sure that they will, as in the past, receive the hearty cooperation of the community. The well known contractor, Mr. Whittle, has undertaken to act as supervisor of construction.
 Resolutions of condolence were passed on the demise of Mr. Stephen Angel who was one of the members of the original committee appointed nearly thirty years ago by the late Archbishop, Howley.
 The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in the re-election of Mr. M. F. Caul as Chairman, Mr. P. Grace, as Secretary, and Mr. John Dalton, as Treasurer, who, with the other members of the Committee again ask this year the whole-souled support of all citizens in the upkeep of "The Garden of the Dead," as has been given in the past. The annual collection will be taken up in all the Churches of the Parish for the support of the cemetery, of which Mt. Carmel will receive its proportionate share.

The Chairman's report follows:—
 St. John's, Nfld.,
 June 12th, 1925.
 Gentlemen—On behalf of your Executive I beg to hand you herewith financial statement, together with the Secretary's and Treasurer's accounts for the fiscal year ending May 1st, which have been duly checked and audited by me.
 You will find that the Committee had a credit balance this year of $233.11 against $253.22 for last, but it must be borne in mind that the erection of a new paling fence on Logy Bay Road costing approximately $150.00 was deemed necessary. Could this have been avoided your Committee to-day would have had a credit balance of nearly four hundred dollars—the largest in his history.

 Even with this unusual expenditure your Executive actually expended less than during the previous year; while on the other hand the receipts from interments were $50.00 less this year than last.
 While on this point I wish to impress strongly upon you the fact that the Cemetery is not nearly self-supporting. The amount collected for interments last year was $416.00 whereas it takes from nineteen hundred to two thousand dollars to keep the Cemetery in annual repair—keeping expenses down to the very minimum. As a matter of fact your Executive could quite easily expend another five hundred dollars a year to advantage. Our sexton's wages alone cost us practically twice as much as the average yearly receipts for interments.
 Therefore, were it not for the un-failing generosity of our Catholic people, Mount Carmel would become a charge on the Parish for a very considerable annual sum. At the same time it must be remembered that the Cemetery is now nearly twice as large as it was a few years ago and consequently there is double the expense of keeping it in good order.
 Your Executive deems it advisable now (after years of postponement until advantageous conditions obtain) to commence with the erection of the new retaining wall along Quidi Vidi Road, subject to the approval of His Grace Archbishop Roche. An outlay of approximately three thousand dollars will be required, which it is proposed to obtain on loan.
 The amount may look large but the fact should not be lost sight of that it is a dire necessity and must be faced immediately. I appreciate that the taking care of this retaining place of our Beloved Dead is a paramount duty of citizenship and in your hands the task is well placed. It may be interesting to point out that on going through the past records of the Cemetery your Committee, since its inception has acquired $7,200.00 worth of property (raised on loan at the time) as well as from time to time securing further loans approximating one thousand dollars to tide them over trying periods.
 This being so, it is with confidence I ask your sincere consideration to this and the other matters placed before you on the agenda to-night. Those of our citizens actively interested in Mount Carmel are looking forward to immediate action in connection with the erection of the wall and considering the fact that for the past two years we have been free from all debts and encumbrances, your Executive confidently recommends its immediate erection—relying as in the past on the generosity of our citizens generally to assist in the rapid liquidation of the cost.
 Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Executive.
 (Sgd.) M. F. CAUL,
 Chairman.

The Priests' Convention
 The "Quiet Day" on Friday, conducted by the Rev. R. F. Palmer, was much appreciated by all who were privileged to take part in it. The whole day was spent in the Cathedral, and Father Palmer's addresses on "The Work of the Holy Spirit" in (a) Creation, (b) The Incarnation, and (c) Our Own Hearts, were as they were meant to be a great aid to the personal meditations, and they were addresses which will not soon be forgotten. Distraction was avoided by having the meals—breakfast and luncheon—served in the Girls' Friendly Society's Rooms in the Synod Hall; and even more perhaps by the well laid plans of the ladies who so kindly undertook this task.
 On Saturday there was a celebration of the Holy Communion at eight o'clock. After breakfast the Convention re-assembled and heard two excellent papers on the "Incarnation" given by the Rev. H. W. Facey and Rev. H. Gosse. The first dealt in a very full manner and with a freshness of language, with the Incarnation, as answering to man's deepest longings for union with God, and showing it to be the climax of God's revelation of Himself to mankind. In a remarkably well written paper the second by Rev. H. Gosse treated of the "Sacramental System" as the "extension of the Incarnation." It is impossible to summarize adequately either paper, but to attempt to do so would be to ruin them.
 In the afternoon His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardyce were "At Home" to the clergy, who spent a very enjoyable hour at Government House.

Magna Charta Day

The promotion of a closer relationship between English-speaking people in the interests of peace, to keep alive the respect for law and order, to encourage the individual to cherish his rights as a citizen and to exercise them in such a manner that his influence will be of benefit not only to himself but to his fellow men, is the great object of the Magna Charta Association.

To-day, the 710th anniversary of the signing of the Great Charter at Runnymede, has been set aside by the organization, not as a holiday, but as a fitting occasion when our minds should be recalled to the event that occurred in those early days, whereby the people of England demanded and secured a full recognition of their liberties and privileges. They did not approach the despot as humble suppliants for concessions, but as claimants of their inherent rights, and to the credit of the Barons who made the demands, there was nothing inserted in the Great Charter which would indicate that they were desirous of making any discrimination between one class and another.

Hundreds of years later, the demands were renewed in the Petition of Right and later in the Bill of Rights. Again were enumerated the rights and privileges of the people, and so down through the centuries was established the liberal constitution which is the proud heritage of those who live under the Union Jack or the Stars and Stripes.

It is impossible to regard as merely visionary a closer intimacy between the people of the Great Republic and the subjects of the British Sovereign when it is recalled that they both have descended from the stock which fought and won for us these cherished liberties. To-day the characteristics of both nations are the same, and in their ideals, and aims and objects there is little to distinguish the one from the other. Clearly there are none of the insuperable difficulties to a closer relationship between the two, such as appear to make an understanding between the European powers impossible, and as clearly does the feasibility of a brotherhood of nations seem to depend upon the influence which could be exerted by a close union of the English-speaking people.

Baby Week

This afternoon Lady Allardice will open Baby Week in the Star Hall at 8.30, and the programme arranged by the Child Welfare Association is one which will prove both interesting and instructive. Following the opening, the prizes for the Mothercraft Competition and the School Children's Essays will be presented. In connection with the former, a challenge shield has been presented by Lady Crosbie to be held by the winner for one year. Afterwards a moving picture will be shown to illustrate the menace to the community of the ubiquitous house fly.

The success of the work in which the Association is engaged depends entirely upon the practical co-operation of the citizens of St. John's, and it is to be hoped they will show by their attendance that they are alive to the situation which exists, in sympathy with the movement, and ready and willing to accept their share of the responsibility to make St. John's happier and healthier for the children.

The public have had every opportunity to judge of the conditions in the city both with regard to the surroundings in certain localities and to the effect of these surroundings on the mortality among infants, by the descriptions which have appeared in the press and by the Vital Statistics prepared by the Registrar General. To close one's eyes to the actual state of affairs or to claim that these are matters for others to attend to is to shirk a civic responsibility. It is for everyone to lend a hand, and during this week there will be an opportunity to speed the movement and encourage the Association to tackle the serious work which lies in front with renewed courage and zeal.

Motorist's Suggestion and Topsail Road Repairs

The widening of the narrow road between Cornwall Avenue and the Topsail Road, as suggested to-day by Motorist, would be greatly appreciated both by pedestrians and drivers of vehicles and we trust will be favourably considered by the Highroads Commission. There is barely sufficient room for two motor cars to pass and the bends in the road make it a constant source of worry to everyone.

The repairs which are being effected on the Topsail Road are not, at least as yet, such as to create a favourable impression. There is some improvement in the surface, it is true, but the system which is being followed is much the same as formerly—a patch here and there which will require another and bigger patch later on; work which could be quickly and effectively done by machinery is engaging several men with shovels; the same stones which bumped the occupants of vehicles last year will bump them again this, and the bridges across the road have not been made level with the rest of the surface.

Nothing but a complete rebuilding of this important thoroughfare will even make it satisfactory, and as it is used by thousands of drivers, such an expenditure as this would necessitate is most reasonable and justifiable.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

June 13th—This morning, being come down to breakfast, do find my toast cold and my eggs ildone, which maddens me, nor do it appease me to learn that our cookmays that we have had these 5 years past, is gone, having had high words with my wife and so do seem how I must suffer indigestion for the rest of my life since there is none else who may cook to my liking. So abroad, and meeting Hastings, he to ask me for a loan, which I did refuse him, so that he calls me a miserly wretch, which do put me in such a rage that I came night pulling his nose, yet did refrain since he is a bigger man than I am and with us Peppy, discretion is ever considered the better part of valour. Despatches out of Sydney tell of raids continuing on the Besco stores, and the troops now patrolling the mines district. But Lord, there was never a time when there was such widespread discontent, being fighting in China and Morocco, the shooting of policemen in the United States, and men like the usual wars do proceed in Russia and the Balkans. This night to the Club, where to play at Bridge, yet take no pleasure by it, being that I cannot keep my mind off the hunger that I feel through eating nothing this day but some small samples of my wife's cookery.

June 14th. (Lord's Day)—This morning to the Church of St. Michael's and All Angels where an interesting service. In the afternoon, out a-fishing, and an mighty successful, being that I catch more than a dozen faire trout, which do make me think I am like to become a good angler in my time. Indeed, I am minded by my success this day to read the books which Mr. Walton did write of fishing, and moreover, to practice the art more assiduously than I have done in the past.

His Grace was attended at the throne by Rev. Frs. Murphy and Miller, with Rev. Fr. Flynn as High Priest, At. Rev. Mons. McDermott was in the Sanctuary. Following Mass there was a procession of the Blessed Sacrament and there was exposition all day. Last night there was Pontifical Vespers. His Grace the Archbishop, was attended at the throne by Rev. Frs. Murphy and Miller, with Fr. Flynn as High Priest, Frs. M. J. Kennedy and Savin were chanters and Monsignor McDermott was in the Sanctuary. Rev. P. J. Nfld. Agency Wins Big Trophy

The Newfoundland staff of the Confederation Life have just completed a special drive for new business, competing with the provinces of New Brunswick, Quebec, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island. In connection with the drive a handsome shield was offered the representative who secured the largest number of applications for insurance during the period from April 18th to June 8th. A cable was received on Saturday advising that the shield had been won by Colonel W. F. Rendell, C.B.E., the Company's special representative for Newfoundland.

The fact that Col. Rendell was in competition with some well known insurance men in Canada, makes his success the more noteworthy. The agency as a whole produced a big volume of new business during the drive.

Not Giving Up Practice.

DISQUIETING RUMORS FROM SHANGHAI.

LONDON, June 14. A Shanghai despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says that numerous disquieting reports are reaching Shanghai alleging widespread anti-foreign risings throughout the country even at small places. There has been a determined effort to prevent the publication of foreign newspapers in Shanghai, and all Chinese employees on these papers have ceased to work. Foreign staffs and volunteers up to the present have been able to get out the editions.

ITALY DEMANDS APOLOGY AND INDEMNITY FOR EXECUTION OF ENGINEER.

ROME, June 14. The Italian Government has officially declared that the Afghan Government must make a public apology and pay an indemnity of 27,600 sterling for the execution on June 2 of a young Italian engineer, Darlo Piperno, who was convicted of killing an Afghan soldier on July 27, 1924. Azmullah Khan, the Afghan Minister in Rome, when interviewed to-day regarding Piperno's execution, expressed regret that the Italian engineer was put to death. Explaining the "secret execution" which has been reported, the Afghan Minister said he was sure the laws of his country had been carried out properly. In Afghanistan, he said, death sentences always are carried out inside the prison. Azmullah Khan said it would take forty days for a courier to reach Rome from Kabul, and not before that time would he be able to issue an official statement regarding the incident. Meanwhile, he said, all of his efforts would be directed to prevent the disturbance of the relations between Italy and Afghanistan, which so far have been excellent.

RIOTING ON BOTH SIDES OF SYDNEY HARBOUR.

SYDNEY, N.S., June 14. Rioting broke out last night soon after dark on both sides of Sydney Harbor, the British Empire Steel Corporation's warehouse at Grace Bay town being looted at 12.30, and a private citizen's general store raided and cleaned out at Sydney mines earlier in the evening. It was stated that mobs of nearly two thousand miners were present at both incidents. Neither the Provincial police nor the military were involved in last night's rioting, or had not been up to three o'clock this morning. The police and the bulk of the soldiers were still in training at the steel plant here while about half a company of soldiers were on duty at the New Aberdeen power plant, over a mile from the scene of this morning's disorders in Grace Bay.

ACTIVITIES IN STRIKE AREA.

SYDNEY, N.S., June 15. An attempt early this morning to loot the warehouse of the British Empire Corporation at Grace Bay was frustrated by the town police assisted by the special constables recruited from the ranks of the United Mine Workers of America. An entrance had been effected and approximately thirty were engaged in the work of looting when the police appeared on the scene, according to Chief of Police George Costey. The raiders were watched by a large crowd drawn up along the street opposite the warehouse. The night's activities also included the ransacking of three privately owned stores in the Caledonia District. A small coal pocket near No. 2 bank head was on fire early this morning, but the blaze was extinguished before much damage had been occasioned. In the northern area a mob of upwards of one thousand raided Campbell Bros. dry goods store and cleaned it out. An attempt to raid the warehouse of the Mutual Warehouse Co. was frustrated by the police. The troops train from St. John's, Que., is now reported to be due here early this afternoon.

SEVERING OF RELATIONS WITH BRITAIN DEMANDED.

PEKING, June 15. Chinese students, merchants, shopkeepers, and workmen in the largest demonstration made here during the present trouble went to-day to the Foreign Office and demanded that the Chinese Government sever relations with Great Britain, and instruct Tachun of Hankow forcibly to take possession of the British concession there. This move followed the sending by the British Legation of a lengthy reply to the Chinese note of protest over the shooting of a number of Chinese last week during the attack on the British concession in Hankow. The reply declares that the Chinese impression that the laws of humanity were disregarded by the British is completely erroneous; that on the contrary the British were defending their lives against a murderous mob invading their settlement after having already killed one foreigner, a Japanese.

THE BLIND LEADING THE BLIND.

LONDON, June 15. A. J. Cook, Secretary of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, in a speech at Walsall yesterday said "Premier Baldwin and Right Hon. Sir William Joyce—Hicks Home Secretary, will wake up some morning and find something they never dreamed about. It is nearly ready. I am in the inner circles and one of the big five," he declared. "If the mining industry cannot provide a living wage, let the miners close the pits. It would be for the Government or the public to say whether the industry would continue," he said.

PERSIA WITHDRAWS FROM ARMS CONFERENCE.

GENEVA, June 15. Persia to-day withdrew from the Arms Conference because of the Conference's decision that Persian ships in the Gulf of Persia could be searched if suspected of being engaged in smuggling forbidden arms-traffic.

New Waterside Premises

A new steamship company, with local capital, has recently been formed under the name of the Marine Agencies, Ltd., and they have taken over the waterside premises of W. & G. Rendell, where business will be conducted on a very large scale. The contract for the fitting up of the new premises has been awarded to the W. I. Bishop & Co., and work in this connection started this morning, giving employment to thirty men. The present wharf is now being dismantled and will be replaced by a first-class pier with a frontage of 180 feet. A large freight shed of wooden structure erected with corrugated iron will be covered on the present site. It will be of two storeys with all modern improvements. The offices of the new company will be combined with the freight shed, and the premises will be ready for occupancy by 15th Sept., next. Capt. Olson, who is one of the shareholders of the new firm, states that it is the intention of the company to deal largely in the coal trade.

Taxi Men to Formulate Schedule of Charges

A very successful and enthusiastic meeting of taxi drivers and cabmen took place this morning under the auspices of the Tourist and Publicity Association. About 53 taxi drivers and cabmen were present. Mr. W. B. Comerford, Chairman of the Tourist Committee, in the chair, outlined the object to be attained and asked for co-operation or if possible arrange a uniform schedule of charges by which all would be governed. After some discussion the committee from the Tourist Association withdrew and the taxi drivers resolved themselves into a committee to endeavour to arrange a satisfactory schedule. The following were selected as a special committee who will report their findings at a meeting to be held in the Blue Taxi headquarters at a later date:—
 Red Taxi—Messrs. Meaney & Buckley.
 Blue Taxi—Messrs. Croty & Keen.
 Hag Taxi—T. Woods.

 The cabmen, it is understood, will form a separate committee to deal with their schedule. It is also probable that if a schedule is arrived at the Municipal Council will make it law.

Supreme Court

Nfld. Banking & Trust Corporation vs. Reid Nfd. Co.

The matter of the Nfld. Banking & Trust Corporation vs. The Reid Nfd. Co. Mines and Forest, Nfld. Power and Paper Co. was resumed before Mr. Justice Kent this morning, when some evidence taken on commission was read.

Mr. L. E. Emerson of the plaintiff proposed to call Mr. Hector McNeil to produce the books and accounts of the Reids with the Power and Paper Co., the Bank of Montreal, and the Newfoundland Government.

Howley K.C. for defendants, objected on the grounds of relevancy and argued that until the plaintiffs had made some steps in proof of their case, they were not entitled to invoke the powers of the court for the production of the documents in question, further that an immense volume of correspondence was involved and it would take some time to produce.

Mr. Emerson was heard in reply, and intimated that the matter of relevancy was admitted in the defendants' proceedings of six months ago and that due notice had been given, but as the opposing side was not ready, he would not then call Mr. McNeil at present.

Mr. H. B. Thompson was then called and examined by Mr. Emerson. Witness, who is a director of the Power and Paper Co. told of his visit here in 1918 at the request of the Nfld. Government to discuss the food situation of which he was then Canadian Controller. On his arrival here in August of that year, he became acquainted with Messrs. H. D. and R. G. Reid, and made arrangements for a refrigerator ship to take a cargo from the Cold Storage plant for them. He was also made acquainted with the Reid resources and discussed their development before returning to Ottawa. In the fall of 1918 he met Mr. Reid at Ottawa, and again in Montreal, when the matter of resources were again discussed. In regard to the railway he was informed that operating losses, which were increasing each year, were being met by the private resources of the members of the Reid firm. A number of letters from Messrs. Reids to witness having reference to forwarding reports on the Company's resources were read, after which witness told of his first meeting Major McDonald whilst on a visit to London, and being introduced by Mr. Greenwood. According to witness the three discussed the reports sent witness, and it was during one of these discussions that Major McDonald suggested that he could get in touch with some Belgian financiers in relation to the Gander property. Negotiations, witness said, were carried on with these people from June to November, 1919.

Witness was taken at 3 p.m. until 2.30, when Mr. Thompson again resumed his place on the stand.

Body Identified

Last week the body of an unidentified man was discovered about 6 miles from Matts Point, and this morning the Justice Department received a report in reference thereto, which reads as follows:—"Body identified as Useb Perrier, who would be about 36 now had he lived. He disappeared from Shallop Cove on March 2nd, 1919. Came from Humbermouth on visit to relatives and was on way to Stephenville when he died from exhaustion."

No particulars have been received as to the cause of her foundering.

"Human Gorillas"

MR. GRAHAM EXPOSES THE BOL-SHEVICS.

(By JOHN BLUNT.)

Unlike many of the people who write effusively about Russia, Mr. Stephen Graham happens to know something of the subject, and in his new book, "Russia in Division," reviewed in Tuesday's Daily Mail, there are some caustic passages about the change wrought in that great country by the Bolsheviks.

Let me quote one paragraph: "That was the glorious pre-revolutionary Russia, which we have exchanged for a ragged, beggared Russia, dominated by a group of human gorillas."

Personally I much prefer gorillas to Bolsheviks; for gorillas, at any rate, do not go about the world trying to turn other people into gorillas, but have a commendable desire to keep to themselves. Still, the metaphor is sufficiently descriptive to do very well.

For Bolsheviks are just as cruel, callous, and empty of useful ideas as the wildest gorilla that ever lived. They are also, in their soul, as ugly and repulsive as a gorilla is in its face.

Proof Of Insanity.

And, after all, a gorilla, though, no doubt, unpleasant to meet, is not insane, whereas Bolsheviks could not hold their atrocious and vile ideas without being, in the deeper meaning of the word, hopelessly insane.

June 6, 1925, 11 a.m.

It is the custom of our sentimentalists, who merely echo words like parrots, to say that pre-revolutionary Russia was a paradise and that present-day Russia is a paradise, but such statements are simply dishonest nonsense.

Pre-war Russia, save only in so far as subversive political activities were concerned, was an extremely free and humane country; whereas Russia today, far from being a paradise, is a hell upon earth where freedom is extinct and where every kind of tyranny reigns triumphant. It is, in short, governed by gorillas in the shape of men.

Now, as I said before in one of my articles, if the Russians permit themselves to be governed by a small minority of monsters that is their own lookout, but I am not going to cease to warn the English against falling into the same trap as the Russians have done.

Playing With Fire.

If the Russian Bolsheviks (like gorillas) would keep to their own country, the Russians, as a whole, could stave in their own juices for all I cared, but the aims of Bolshevism are international, and I want, so far as I have any influence, to save my own country from the horrors of a Bolshevik regime.

Playing with Bolshevism is like playing with fire. Sooner or later you will get burnt. There are disconcerted people in England who, without knowing anything about Bolshevism save what they read in Bolshevik or semi-Bolshevik papers, are prepared to embrace it simply as a change; but, unwittingly, they are doing precisely the equivalent of putting their head into a lion's mouth with the idiotic idea that, at any rate, it is a change.

Yes, it is a change all right—the change from life or death—Daily

Yesterday at St. Michael's Church

Yesterday was a busy day and an occasion not soon to be forgotten at St. Michael's Church. The Holy Sacrifice was offered three times, at 8, 10 and 11. At the 10 o'clock service the Church Lads Brigade attended in force, and were given an instruction in Eucharistic worship by Rev. R. F. Palmer, S.S.J.C. The Rector of the Parish, Rev. Edwin Nicholls, was the celebrant and hymns were sung by the lads and Guides who filled every part of the church. Another large congregation gathered for the High celebration at 11 o'clock, when Rev. E. Donaldson of Queen's College was the celebrant assisted by Rev. H. Facey as Deacon and Rev. J. T. Hiscock as Sub-Deacon. The service was preceded by a Procession in honour of the Holy Sacrament, during which a Litany of the Blessed Sacrament was sung. A large number of clergy of the Priests' Convention were in the Sanctuary and among the congregation. The sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. Palmer from the Psalm of the Exiles: "How shall we sing the Lord's Song in a strange land." The preacher said in part that the strange land is this world, while "our true native land" is Heaven. The Church is a bit of Heaven and in the Sacrament of the Altar we are waded up to Heaven, as it were by a Magic Carpet. The Church melts into Heaven, the altar into the great white Throne, and the Bread and Wine into the Body and Blood of Jesus Christ Himself. The sermon was a masterpiece of simple language, direct teaching and apt illustration.

At 3 o'clock the same Missioner gave a third address, this time to the children on How to Pray. The Rector and people of St. Michael's are grateful to Fr. Palmer for his kindness in giving them so much of his time and help. At night the church was again crowded for Evensong, at which Rev. J. T. Hiscock of Newtown preached from the Gospel of the day: "If they hear not Moses and the Prophets neither will they be persuaded though one rose from the dead." All the services of the day were rendered with the beauty and dignity for which this church is noted, and the uplift and devotion of Convention Sunday will remain a precious memory.

A Very Desirable Road Improvement Suggested

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I wish to call the attention of the Highroads Commission to that part of the road between the junction of the Coepit and Topsall Roads near Dr. Campbell's farm. This part of the road is very narrow with barely enough room for two cars to pass. When the bus is met here the situation is aggravated, and pedestrians have to climb the bank to escape being run down.

I understand that the Act gives the Commission power to purchase land for road widening purposes, and would suggest that say 10 feet be secured on the northern side of the road and so make this section safe. The land purchased would provide excellent gravel for repairs. The Commission might also secure that small piece of land which juts out into the road just beyond Gaul's Bridge, belonging to Cowan's property and so improve this corner.

Yours truly,
MOTORIST.

Susu in Port

S. S. Susu, Capt. Jacob Kean, returned Saturday from the Fogo Mail service route, after a record trip of thirty-three hours. The ship met with all ports of call were made. There is very little doing with fish along this part of the coast, due to the bad weather. A sign of cod was reported at all ports of call, and also a little caplin, and as soon as the weather improves the fisheries will be able to get out. Practically all the schooners have now left for Labrador, as well as the fishermen who will prosecute the voyage at the Wadhams.

PURSER ON KYLE.—Mr. W. J. Fahy, wireless operator, S. S. Progress is now acting purser of S. S. Kyle, replacing Purser W. Ryan, who has gone purser to join S.S. Caribou.

The Cemetery Beautiful

That is something more than a pretty phrase. It is an appeal to each individual lot-owner to do his share toward making the Cemetery what it should be—really attractive—full of harmony—replete in restfulness.

It calls for artistic—although not necessarily large—Memorials, placed in well ordered, well kept settings—all brought together in a colorful gloom-dispelling picture.

The essential part of our business is to give assistance to those deciding these matters. Our service, with complete information, Catalogues and estimates, is at the disposal of all Memorial purchasers. We invite you to visit our Display Rooms and let us confer with you on what you require.

Our London Letter

LONDON, Eng., May 29.—(By Canadian Press)—In spite of their social relationship to each other Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. Harry Brown, the rich Pittsburg widow, have had to start issuing their invitations. It is by coincidence, of course, that their first big party has been arranged for the same night.—Derby Night.

Mrs. Brown has invited some 130 people to dinner and dance in the wonderful Spencer House Ballroom, adding that the orchestra will play from 12 to 5 a.m. Mrs. "Nelly" has broadcast the first shot of the season to all her guests of last year and to every member of the younger royal set who is in town. According to the dilemmas in which half of social London is now placed, both lots of invitations appear to have been sent off at the identical hour.

It seems, however, that Mrs. Brown will beat the most social of the Vanderbilts to it once more, to lapse into the vernacular, for Mrs. "Nelly," unlike Mrs. Brown, has given no indication of how late her own ball is likely to continue. Between midnight and 1 o'clock therefore is likely to see a procession of limousines from the doors of Norfolk House (Mrs. Vanderbilt), up to the massive gates of the ducal home of the Spencer, which the Pittsburg widow has filled with a battalion of powdered footmen.

LONDON WILL SOON GET TIRED OF THIS.

Trust the Bright Young People of London to find a new game. You remember the Treasure Hunts, and the Night-Time Days. Now they've found something that requires not only skill and ingenuity but a good deal of luck as well.

That is it. They arrange between themselves to interview a number of famous people by telephone, as if they were newspaper reporters, and see just how much a person's views on this and that can vary during 24 hours. The actresses have fallen for it beautifully. Gladys Cooper, Beatrice Lillie and a few others have all been interviewed by the Bright Young People, and no doubt are still looking for their views to appear in various London papers,—but the typed out interviews are reposing in a certain escriptorie in Mayfair.

The other day one famous author and playwright who has three plays running in London at the moment was rung up by a sweet young voice and asked for his views on "Women's Mannish Modes of to-day." It took up 15 minutes of his time, and he nearly stopped his wife's dress allowance when she presented him with his interview that evening.

INDIAN RAJAS FILL ROYAL VACANT PLACES.

English princes may be scarce this season, but there are plenty of Indian Maharajahs here, and very excited Potentates indeed. In the "millionaire hotels" and occupying the Imperial suits are no fewer than four Indian princes and Maharajahs. These are the Rajahs of Kapurthala, Rajpilla, Vizianagram, and the Prince Karamit Singh of Kapurthala.

Rajpilla is the youngest and handsomest of them all, and, as many a debutante will bear witness, dances divinely. All the Rajahs have brought long suites with them, and some of the latter keep to their Eastern drags. When the Rajah of Kapurthala dines in the restaurant or the Cafe a seven feet high Indian retainer stands behind his chair and makes a pretence of tasting the foods and wines before the Rajah begins his meal.

MILLION DOLLAR BEAUTIES.

The interesting problem "Is money the great breeder of good looks" had been propounded by the English author G. V. Lendrum, on seeing a number of debs who are visiting London this season.

"Girls grow prettier and prettier as their fathers grow richer and richer," declares Mr. Lendrum. "Some of the London society girls, despite all their ancestors, will have to keep a close eye on their rivals—and perhaps take a hint or two."

"THE FIGHTING COWARD." WHEN—To-Night; WHERE—At The Majestic.

Synopsis In Brief.

Tom Rumford is Southern-born but is brought up by Quaker relatives in Philadelphia.

At the age of twenty-one he returns to his folks' mansion on the Mississippi (the time is about 1850) and becomes engaged to his pretty cousin, Elvira.

Released from jail where he has been serving a sentence for duelling, Major Patterson, also interested in Elvira and finding Tom in his way, promptly challenges him to a gun fight. Tom, not understanding the Southern duelling code, refuses. His family, aghast, practically drive him from home. Elvira's younger sister, Lucy, is the only sympathetic one.

In a Mississippi shore-front gambling house Tom meets the notorious card sharp and gun-fighter, General Orlando Jackson. Jackson is interested in the boy, and, under the former's teaching, Tom develops into the most famous and dangerous shooting man along the Mississippi. He is known as "Cunnel" Blake.

When Tom returns to his folks' mansion several years later, they see him as "Cunnel" Blake and are scared to death of him. He makes monkeys out of everybody who once called him a coward. Only to Lucy does he confess who he is and that he has never killed anybody, having won his name as a killer on bluff and noise alone.

She tells him she loves him.

MINISTER'S ADMISSION IN REICHSTAG.

BERLIN—Replying in the Reichstag to criticism of the high expenditure on the German Army, Herr Gessler, the Defence Minister, said that so long as a state of general disarmament had not been reached Germany must have an army corresponding to her military needs.

Herr Gessler admitted that during 1923, when there was danger of civil war, the Government permitted temporary recruits to join the Reichswehr in violation of the Versailles Treaty. He himself proposed that the Cabinet should officially inform the Entente Powers of this, but the Cabinet did not agree to the suggestion. The temporary recruits were later all discharged and all commanders instructed not to accept any more.

He added: "Our youth has every opportunity to train itself in sport and athletic organizations, and playing at soldiers is quite unnecessary."

According to the rumors one of the prettiest debs of this season will be Miss Monica O'Shea, the daughter of U.S. Senator O'Shea, who is being presented by the American Ambassador, Mrs. Houghton. She has red hair which is neither bobbed, binged and shingled and a complexion that doesn't owe a lot to the beauty parlour. With a champagne Miss O'Shea has started the season at the Berkeley and her father is joining her later.

Cherishing Antiquated Tools

The present clutter of weights and measures would look better in a museum than in the marts of trade, declares Aubrey Drury, director of the All-American Standards Council, writing in the Rotarian (Chicago). In them we "cherish a collection of antiques," he affirms; antiques that may be granted "a certain quaint Elizabethan oddity," but which are in effect costly survivals of barbarism that invite fraud, mistakes, and misunderstandings in business deals. Even the roll-call of the names of these medieval relics, he believes, condemns these measures—revealing them in "all their ugly grotesqueness and diversity." For example:

"How many business men know the absurd unrelated units in which they are supposed to deal? Who will acknowledge acquaintance with these, all and sundry; bushels, pecks, barrels, minims, drams, yards, fathoms, links, chains, inches, lines, grains, drams, scruples, miles, pints and points, mills and gills, stones and cords, fathoms and furlongs, hands and feet, rods and pole, tons and tuns, fluid ounces and troy ounces, dry quarts and wet quarts, hundred-weights and pennyweights—why go on with the rest of the travesty?"

"The truth is, as Gladstone said, that nobody ever really learned this jumble. Who knows definitely, when the word 'ton' is used, what is meant thereby? Or 'quart'—or 'quart'—or 'bushel'—or 'ounce'—or 'hundred-weight'—or 'stone'? Possibly of the same names, many such diverse units are nevertheless of varying sizes and capacities.

"Could there be more flagrant invitations for fraud, mistakes and misunderstandings in commercial deals? Could any Code of Ethics be tight enough against such all-pervasive broadcasters of confusion and delusion? Can the guesswork be taken out of business as long as this jumble persists?"

"Yet modern business men, American and Canadian and British, transact their daily business with these decrepit medieval relics."

Many business folk, of course, know what should be done with these "battalions of irregulars." They should be banished forever, and their place taken by unit weights and measures of the Metric System. Every one knows, too, that such a change was long since made by many nations; and Mr. Drury tells us that in 1921 Japan and Russia definitely advanced to the international decimal standard—"so that in just that one year more humans went onto the metric basis than now in all the world employ the diverse units miscalled English." He goes on:

"Now you may well ask, in view of this world trend to simplified standards, why have the United States of America and the British Commonwealth lagged behind, at the tail end of the procession. To this the answer is: Lack of coordination and lack of leadership.

"We have almost adopted the metric standards several times. But while we were debating, other nations acted. Lately, there has appeared an astounding tendency in English-speaking countries to suppress even so much as debate upon this vital topic.

"British countries and the United States do not use the same weights and measures—there is 20 per cent. disparity in our liquid units, for example. But despite the fact that they are unstandardized, Britain and the United States do seem to be waiting each for the other to move. (Not exactly 'watchful waiting,' for we have scarce noticed the world-wide progress to the metric standards.) The situation is something like that in the old song:

Said Chatham, with his sword half drawn,
"I'm waiting for Sir Richard Strachan";
Said Strachan "I'm longing to be at 'em,
But I'm waiting for the Earl of Chatham."

"With all its hesitancy, where does the United States of America stand as to the metric advance? A Metric Standards Bill has been introduced in both House of Congress, and hearings are anticipated at which convincing testimony will be presented. The proposed metric legislation applies only to merchandising, manufacturers continuing to use whatever measures they desire in production.

"More than 100,000 metric petitions are pending before Congress, urging metric legislation; and as many of these petitions are from organizations having hundreds and thousands of members, altogether they directly represent millions of voters.

"The States of Illinois, California, North Dakota, Tennessee, and Utah, with a combined population of 15,000,000, have through their State Legislatures officially memorialized Congress to adopt the metric standards for the benefit of all the people.

"As to the multitudinous benefits bestowed by metric standardization, one may point to the eloquent testimony afforded by the forty great nations which have already achieved this progress. No people, having adopted the decimal standards, have gone back again to the old rejected standards."

HIS TREMENDOUS ADVENTURE IN WHITEHALL.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, who was accompanied by his son, Alastair, and Miss Isobel MacDonald, was recently admitted to the freedom of Edinburgh. At a luncheon afterwards in the City Hall Mr. MacDonald said: "I enjoyed the time of office as Premier. It was a great time. It was a high adventure. There we were, never having been in office, never before having been in authority in any department, never having controlled anything within the region of Whitehall, and suddenly called upon to enter those charmed and horrifying portals without the least preparation, called upon to run the country and keep up its dignity and its weight in the world.

It was exactly like approaching a haunted place, wondering what was going to happen. It was tremendously interesting, and was one of the highest ventures and adventures that any body of men in the history of the country was ever called upon to undertake.

Moscow Cajolery

LONDON CONFERENCE THAT HELPED "SOLIDARITY."

Following upon the conference last month in London between British trade unionists and Russian Reds, when the question of achieving solidarity with the Amsterdam International Federation of Trade Unions (which is less extreme than the Moscow International was discussed, the Soviet Central Council of Trade Unions has sent a long letter to the Amsterdam Federation with the object of persuading that body to throw in its lot with Moscow.

The letter says that statements made by Amsterdam leaders, to the effect that they do not intend to alter the position of their International, only "widen the breach." It adds:

We are in favour of a single International Trade Union Federation. Our aim, and, as we believe, the aim of the majority of the class-conscious workers of all countries, is the creation of a single International of the trade union organized workers of the whole world, standing for the point of view of the class-struggle and the final emancipation of the working-class from the oppression of capitalism.

Broken-Up Unions.

How is this to be realized? How are the present prejudices and mistrust between the individual sections of the broken-up trade union movement of the single class of wage slaves to be fought without personal meetings, without considering these important questions in all their aspects and in business-like fashion?

The last conference in London indisputably helped to strengthen proletarian solidarity between the workers of Great Britain and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

We are of the belief that it would be right if the general council of the I. F. T. C. were to reconsider its decision and were to fix the time and place for a conference conjointly with the U.S. S. R. Central Council of Trade Unions, without any preliminary conditions, to take up the question of realizing unity.

KOLEHMAINEN, FINNISH RUNNER, MAY LOSE U.S. CITIZENSHIP.

NEW YORK, July 9—A plan to revoke the citizenship papers of Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finnish Olympic runner, was filed in the Brooklyn Federal Court yesterday. Kolehmainen became a citizen of the United States four months ago. Soon afterward he returned to Finland where he opened a sporting store.

Frank Stasey, American Vice-Consul at Helsinki, has advised the State Department that apparently Kolehmainen intends remaining abroad, and recommended that his American citizenship be revoked. Joseph M. Crooks, Assistant United States Attorney in Brooklyn, will argue the motion to-day.

STRIBLING'S EASY VICTORY.

BALTIMORE, June 9—Young Stribling was certified with a victory over Bill "Bear Cat" Clemens, of Logan, W. Va., here last night, when Clemens amid jeers from the crowd walked from the ring at the end of the third round. The bout was scheduled for 12 rounds. Clemens failed to land a blow.

ACCIDENT TO MICKEY WALKER POSTPONES NEW YORK FIGHTS.

Heavyweight Bout, Also Set Back To July 2—Renault-Solomon Bout Dropped.

NEW YORK, June 9—Postponement of the benefit boxing show scheduled for June 19, at the Polo Grounds, featuring Harry Wills and Charlie Weinert and Mickey Walker-Harry Greb bouts, was granted to-day by the State Athletic Commission as a result of a minor operation to Walker's right foot. Arrangements were tentatively made for the show to be held July 2.

Promoter Fugasey secured permission to drop from the card a 10-round bout between Jack Renault and King Solomon, which was to precede the Walker-Greb and Weinert-Wills fight.

LIVELY BATTLE PROMISED. Between Weinert And Wills.

There is no title at stake in the approaching battle between Harry Wills and Charley Weinert. Neither one of these men has set the boxing world on fire.

And yet the bout should be one of the most interesting ones of recent years for one reason alone. That is that both men should be out to win as decisively and as quickly as possible.

Wills, parenial negro, challenger for Jack Dempsey's title, must lick Weinert, and lick him good or forfeit whatever legitimate and paper claims he has to a chance at the championship.

A victory for Weinert will place him back in the fistic sun with a loud and startling bang. A defeat will spell the end of his ring career.

In other words, both fighters have everything to gain in victory and face oblivion if they lose. What greater incentive to win could be conceived?

The trouble with most of these highly touted battles of late has been that the participants realized that said fights were just in a day's work. Clever press agenting can cover up many defeats. Popularity, rather than cold-fact records, tells in the majority of cases.

But neither Wills nor Weinert has a popularity that will stand a defeat at the hands of the other. And neither has records that will back up such a show.

Wills claimed, in explaining his poor showing against the veteran, Bartley Madden, last June, that he was saving his hands.

So there ought to be an air of earnestness in the Wills-Weinert affair. Which alone will make it an unusual bout in these days of dancing acts and ring charlatans.

Obituary

MRS. ED. KEARNEY.

There passed peacefully away yesterday morning, Alice, beloved wife of Richard Kearney. Her illness was of long duration and while the nature of it was at all times painful, she suffered without a murmur and with perfect resignation. Fortified by the rites of the Roman Catholic Church and in the presence of her loved ones, she gave her soul back to her Maker. Besides being a devoted wife and mother, the late Mrs. Kearney was noted for her charitable disposition. For this reason many to-day will mourn the passing of one who at all times was willing to give help either by advice or in a practical manner.

Mrs. Kearney was a daughter of the late William Wallace and besides a husband and one son, William, there are left to mourn, two brothers, Patrick and Theo. Wallace, one sister, Mary and four grandchildren, to whom the sympathy of the community will go out. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. from her late residence, 9 Livingstone Street.
