Ambrassador Bryce Banqueted in London

Introducing Mr. Bryce to the Pilgrims, the American Ambassador, Mr. Page, who presided, paid a high tribute to the ex-Ambassador at Washington, as the Ambassador interpreter of the nation and its institutions, and as the man. Mr. Bryce served during the time of three American Presidents, the presiding officer said, and all three had expressed to Mr. Page the high opinion and sincere esteem in which they held him. He said that when Mr. Bryce came home, he came with the sincere regret of the President and the people of the United States, a regret which in no way conflicted with the equally hearty welcome to his successor, who so ably represents the British Government at Washington.

ALL NOBLY WON. "I welcome him home," Mr. Page said, "as the Ambassador Emeritus to the American people. All his blushing honors have been, nobly won."

The American Ambassador then spoke of Mr. Bryce's great popularity in every State, all of which the ex-Ambassador had visited. The only honors America could confer, he said, were academic and Mr. Bryce had more of these from American colleges than even "that least quiet academician who now is harvesting a crop of honors in South America."

After thanking the Pilgrims for their welcome back to England, Mr. Bryce said that when he resigned his place in the Cabinet more than six years ago, and went to the United States in order to try to settle a number of long outstanding questions he foresaw a laborious and difficult task.

Everybody, the speaker said, had made him feel at home in America. He was treated like one of their own citizens—indeed better, for he had been spared the criticism which in all modern countries is so liberally bestowed upon public men. He had negotiated with three Presidents and four Secretaries of State, with all of whom his relations had been most cordial. To one of those Secretaries of State he ought specially to refer, because Mr. Root was in office when he reached Washington, and it was with Mr. Root that he negotiated most of the twelve or thirteen treaties which had been concluded between the two countries in the years 1907-1912.

FINE TRIBUTE TO ROOT. "When Mr. Root and I," Mr. Bryce continued, "began to make treaties, the first thing we did was to make friends with one another, and friendship is a great aid to business. I found in Mr. Root not only a brilliant intellect, but what is even better, and perhaps more rare, an eminently fair mind, capable of seeing both sides to every question and a sincere lover of peace. Mr. Root exemplified in practice the dictum he had once delivered that there is no international controversy that cannot be honorably settled if both the parties wish to settle it. Here the good will of the two nations was behind the negotiations; and it was our good fortune to settle all the questions that had been outstanding between us, and among these that old and thorny controversy over the North Atlantic fisheries, which had more than once threatened our good relations."

HIS WORK FOR CANADA. "Most of these questions related to Canada. I have always felt that it is the duty of an Ambassador to regard and maintain the interests of Canada, and the other Dominions, no less those of Great Britain. Most of my work was concerned with Canada, and I should be ungrateful were I not to tell you of the unceasing and invaluable co-operation of Lord Grey, who was Governor General. His successor, the Duke of Connaught, kindly extended to me during the last year of my stay, a like counsel and aid; while from the two successive Prime Ministers, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden, a constant confidence which it is a pleasure to acknowledge.

"While returning hither from America I have two things to say to the British Pilgrims, gathered here as friends of the American people. It is that you must not take too seriously the lurid pictures of American life drawn by some organs of the European press.

"In Washington I used to be struck by the dark view which the press news from England conveyed of British events and conditions, a view which I knew to be misleading. Here the same thing happens. Cable messages and the vivid pens of correspondents inevitably heighten the color. Unlike stocks, news would be the better of being watered when they cross the sea."

CLOSE FRIENDSHIP.

"My other message is to assure you that the friendship you entertain for the people of the United States is reciprocated by them far more universally, and far more heartily than ever before. There is a friendship of Governments and a friendship of nations. The former may shift, with the shifting of material interests, or be affected by the relations of each Power with other Powers. But the latter rests on solid and permanent foundations. With our two people it is based on a community of speech, of literature, of institutions, of beliefs, of traditions from the past. In all these things the British and American peoples are closer than any two other peoples can be. Nature and history have meant them to be friends.

"Next year we are planning to celebrate the completion of a century of unbroken peace between Britain and the United States. For our two peoples, the celebration has a special significance. But it is much to be desired that other peoples also should share by it, and that both by our example and by our world-wide influence we may together try to reduce the apprehensions that troubles the rest of other nations, and endeavor to draw more and more of them into a general league of peace."

GOOD ROADS FOR MANITOBA.

Winnipeg, Nov. 8.—An expenditure of $2,500,000 for good roads in the Province was announced by Sir Rodmond Roblin at Minnedosa yesterday afternoon. The Premier made this announcement at a public meeting following a convention at which Wilfred B. Waddell, an old time settler of the early sixties and a member for Minnedosa in the Manitoba House from 1903 to 1910, was nominated to contest the constituency for the first time in the Conservative interest at the next Provincial election.

Women's Institutes in N. S.

The Department of Agriculture of Nova Scotia keenly alive to the best interests of Nova Scotia, introduced into the province this year a new movement along rather different lines from any work undertaken in the past. This work was the establishing of Women's Institutes; an organization inaugurated some fifteen years ago in Ontario, as an offshoot of the Farmers' Agricultural Societies, for the purpose of imparting to the women of Ontario information closely related to home life and women's work. Intended originally for the farmer's wives and daughters, the organization has gradually enlarged until it includes as its members women in every walk of life, who have at heart the welfare of home and community.

From Ontario the movement spread into other provinces and wherever an Institute has been established the enthusiasm has grown and the good accomplished, not only along practical lines but also tending towards a greater sociability in rural districts, has been almost incalculable. While the organization has been meeting with great success in other places, it has never been found possible or expedient to establish it in Nova Scotia. This past summer, however, the Department of Agriculture, being in a position to establish the work on a firm basis, arranged for a series of meetings to be held in Pictou, Colchester and Cumberland Counties during July. The result of these meetings was so encouraging that the Department determined to push the work as rapidly as possible. It was not, however, until the middle of September that it was found to arrange for a series of meetings, this time in the counties of Hants, Kings and Annapolis.

Miss Susie Campbell, of Toronto, Ont., who has been successfully connected with Institute work in that Province for several years, was associated with Miss Jennie A. Fraser in this work. Three districts in Hants, four in Kings and three in Annapolis were visited, meetings were held and many personal calls made. While this campaign did not meet with the complete success that crowned the first journey, still it was felt, that good work has been accomplished. The fact that the women of some districts who felt that their time was already over taxed and could not see the way clear to take up Institute work, requested the Department to have the workers visit them on the return trip was sufficient guarantee that they had seen the necessity and importance of the work. Out of ten places visited, six were ready to establish and maintain an Institute and the interest and enthusiasm displayed when the object was fully understood, were most encouraging.

To enable the members of the Institutes already formed to discuss the future development of the work, a Convention will be held from Jan. 13 to 15 at the Agricultural College, Truro, during the Winter Short Course. Lectures and demonstrations will be given along the lines of home and outside work.

The following is a list of the Institutes already formed throughout the Counties already visited:—

- Scotch Village, Hants County, membership 16, Pres., Mrs. Frail, Vice-Pres., Mrs. Alfred Cochran, Secty.-Treas., Miss Georgie Smith, Asst.-Secty.-Treas., Miss Walley.
- MarTock & Windsor Parks, Hants Co. membership 18, Pres., Mrs. Levi Daniels, Vice-Pres., Mrs. Saunders, Secty.-Treas., Miss Queenie Palmer.
- Grand Pre, Kings County, membership 9, Pres., Mrs. Bower, Vice-Pres., Mrs. Crane, Secty.-Treas., Mrs. Guy Fuller.
- Port Williams, Kings County, membership 18, Pres., Mrs. (Rev.) J. D. Hull, Vice-Pres., Mrs. Campbell, Secty.-Treas., Mrs. Newton Newcomb.
- Berwick, Kings County, membership 27, Pres., Mrs. Nelson Morton, Vice-Pres., Mrs. L. D. Robinson, Secty.-Treas., Miss L. O. Morse.
- Lawrencetown, Annapolis County, membership 10, Pres., Mrs. MacPherson, Vice-Pres., Mrs. Banks, Secretary-Treas., Miss Jefferson, Asst.-Treas., Miss Morgan.

New Pastor of the Bridgetown Baptist Church

The Rev. Gordon Chester Warren, the new pastor of the Bridgetown Baptist church, is expected to arrive here today and will fill the appointments of that church next Sunday. Mr. Warren visited his home in Summerside, P. E. I., last summer and preached in that city and in Bedeque at that time. The Summerside Journal commented most favorably on both sermons, and also makes the following reference to the reverend gentlemen:

"Mr Warren is a native of P. E. Island, being the son of William Warren, of North River, and nephew of our fellow townsman, George W. Warren. He received his early education in the public schools of P. E. Island and at Prince of Wales College. After some years successful teaching in P. E. Island schools, Mr. Warren entered Acadia University, Wolfville, where he at once took high rank as a scholar and as a leader in college activities. His abilities as a debator was early recognized and won for him a place on the college debating team during his junior and senior years. In his senior year he was a leader of the debating team which that year won a memorable victory in inter-collegiate debating. During the same year he was president of the college Y.M.C.A. Graduating from Acadia in 1910 Mr. Warren proceeded to Newton Theological Institute for further study. In 1912 he graduated from that institution in the Bachelor of Divinity course. Although so young a man, Mr. Warren is a master of the art of sermon preparation. The sermons of Sunday are clear evidence of this. As a preacher he carries a weighty line of argument. He is apt in illustration. He is a master of the art of antithetical expression. He speaks with the accent of conviction. When deeper experiences with life have developed his latent sympathetic powers he will possess the orator's power to sway audiences at his will. It is well that Mr. Warren is serving at present in a quiet place. It gives him opportunity for solid work. But one day a large opportunity will seek a large man, and that man will be found in the person of the strong, scholarly, sane, Christian gentleman, Gordon Chester Warren, a rising son of Prince Edward Island."

REV. GORDON C. WARREN

Meeting of B. A. A.

This Club was formed with about sixteen members, and has for its object the promotion of hockey and other sports in the town. The following officers were elected:

- Pres., H. T. MacKenzie.
 - Vice-Pres., R. K. Dargie.
 - Secty.-Treas., Geo. H. Dechman.
- Another meeting will be held tomorrow (Thursday) evening at 7.30, to discuss a club room. It is hoped this meeting will be well attended, and that some new members will be present.

Frank Davidson of Bridgewater Has Passed Away

Was Ill for Only Four Days.

Bridgewater, Nov. 10.—Bridgewater is mourning the loss of her leading citizen in the death of Mr. Frank Davidson, which occurred at his residence here at six o'clock this morning, after an illness of four days. On Wednesday afternoon last Mr. Davidson attended the functions of laying the corner stone of the new high school building and seemed in good health and spirits. But shortly before dusk he was discovered lying on his office floor by one of his clerks. Medical aid was at once called and it was found that he was suffering from a stroke of paralysis.

He was removed to his home and the next morning revived sufficiently to make himself understood, and there seemed a hope for his recovery. Yesterday at noon, however, he took a turn for the worse and soon afterwards relapsed into an unconsciousness, in which state he passed peacefully away.

Mr. Davidson was born in Mill Village, Queens County, about sixty-five years ago. He was the third and last surviving son of the late E. D. Davidson, one of the early lumber kings of Nova Scotia. Fifty years ago the family moved to Bridgewater and the firm of E. D. Davidson & Sons became a most important industrial and commercial factor on the South Shore. After the death of their father the three sons Henry, Edward and Francis continued the business under the name of E. D. Davidson & Sons, Ltd., which was sold by Frank Davidson, the surviving member of the Company, to the Davison Lumber Company, in 1903.

But being essentially an active business man Mr. Davidson at once interested himself in other enterprises and formed a partnership with his nephew Archibald, in connection with shipping and pulp manufacture, etc. He was also interested in other companies doing business in this town.

Mr. Davidson was a public spirited man and took a deep and active concern in everything affecting the welfare of Bridgewater. He was the town's first Mayor and has ever since been a member of the School Board, and it was through his efforts that the town secured one of the finest school sites in the Province for its new building. He was an estimable citizen, and a man of generous and philanthropic actions, always ready to subscribe to worthy objects and always kind and helpful to the poor. He will be greatly missed by the town and by the various associations with which he was concerned.

In politics Mr. Davidson was a Liberal, and the Conservation Commission to which he was appointed by the late Liberal Government loses one of its best informed members on the subject of Forestry. In religion he was a Methodist and gave largely of his means towards the support of that church and its institutions. Only last year he donated ten thousand dollars to Mt. Allison.

He leaves a widow, formerly Miss Fraser, and two daughters and one son to mourn the loss of a most affectionate husband and father. Three sisters also survive him. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon.

FOUND DEAD UNDER AUTO.

Yarmouth, Nov. 8.—As Benjamin Bathine, employed by the Burrell, Johnson Iron Co., was coming to town from Salem at daybreak he found an automobile upset on the side of Clark's Hill, Salem. Calling assistance, the car was uprighted and Earl Weddleton was found dead pinned under the car.

He was returning home after taking passengers home, at about three this morning. As no one witnessed the accident, it is impossible to state what happened. The car is not seriously injured; the wind shield is broken, frame twisted and fore axle bent. Mr. Weddleton was a son of Charles Weddleton, engineer of steamer LaTour; he was nineteen years old and unmarried.

1582 barrels of mackerel were shipped to Boston from Yarmouth on last Wednesday's trip of the steamer.

Bridgetown as Seen By an Out-sider

(Fred E. Cox, in "The Outlook.")

While Bridgetown has never had a boom, yet "steady progress" has been its motto. This applies to its civic as well as its general business. It is a rare thing that I visit this town but that I learn of some progressive enterprise or improvement.

In reply to my enquiry as to the latest improvements in Bridgetown, Mayor Freeman referred me to Town Clerk Ruggles.

Mr. Ruggles is the kind of man that a newspaper man likes to meet. He is obliging and knows the affairs of Bridgetown from A to Z. He has been a lifelong resident of the place and besides practising his profession, has served the town as alderman, mayor, solicitor and clerk.

RECENT IMPROVEMENTS.

In Principal Bustin, Bridgetown High School has an experienced and capable educationist. This year he has the satisfaction of adding a department of manual training to his school and we doubt not will soon be able to complement this with a household science room.

A sewerage system has been installed for the principal streets. This is owned by the town and already about $10,000 has been expended upon it.

For many years Bridgetown has owned a splendid gravity water system fed from springs on the mountain side. The reservoir had a capacity of one and a half million gallons. A few years ago the Crookill lake was acquired, more than doubling the supply. About $28,000 has been expended on the water system and the rates charged are moderate.

The electric light plant is private owned and run on the "flat rate" plan. While the service is a good one there has been more or less agitation in favor of municipal ownership.

PERMANENT STREETS.

Not only does Bridgetown have beautiful streets lined with ornamental trees, well kept grounds and attractive residences, but they possess the essential feature of utility. The most travelled ones are of permanent construction and the zone of the mud road is steadily decreasing before the extension of the rock-made highway.

The sum of $7000 has been borrowed for street improvement, $4000 or $5000 of which has been expended in buying a rock crushing plant and building two and one-half miles of permanent street.

At present, road construction is in progress on the street leading from the centre of the town northward toward Clarence. The town is to build a permanent road to its northern boundary. From that point the good work is to be continued northward to the Clarence road by the Provincial government and the farmers together. The latter raised a sum by subscription to supplement the government appropriation. Something like $5000 to $6000 is to be expended on this piece of road.

The citizens of Bridgetown are also pleased with a concrete bridge lately built within their town by the Provincial government, and also with the prospect of soon having a post office and customs building erected by the Federal government.

Speaking of progress. There is another improvement which Bridgetown should have soon. That is an all-night telephone service.

Bridgetown's history has been one of steady progress and the development in the future should continue as in the past. Her citizens have secured all the improvements that the other most progressive towns along the D. A. R. line enjoy, and so carefully have the town's affairs been managed that the civic financial statement is a favorable one. Bridgetown thus offers beautiful surroundings, modern conveniences and moderate taxation to the newcomer. Situated on two railway lines and at the head of navigation on the Annapolis River, Bridgetown also offers excellent advantages for manufacturing enterprises.

FRED E. COX.

THE C. P. R. BRIDGE AT THE JOGGIN.

(Digby Courier.) It is evident that when the C.P.R. officials ordered the filling in of the D. A. R. bridge across the Big Jojgin, Digby, they did not think they would be called upon to make a further outlay at this spot. Weir fishermen and clam diggers represented to the federal authorities that tides are carrying the earth from the "fill in," polluting the waters of the immediate vicinity and depositing it all over the clam flats and the complainants claimed that this means of livelihood would become a thing of the past in the very near future if the proper steps were not immediately taken to protect their interests. Mr. Jameson, M.P., brought this before the department. Engineer Miles was sent here in the interest of the public with the result that the federal government has ordered riprap work to be started immediately and built up to the height of high water mark on both sides of the embankment. It is said that this extra outlay will require about forty thousand yards of stone work.

CHINAMEN ARRESTED IN HALIFAX

(Halifax Chronicle, Nov. 7.)

The biggest round-up of Chinamen that has ever taken place in Halifax occurred yesterday afternoon, when six Celestials residing in various parts of the city were gathered in by the police. All of them spent the night behind the bars at the Police Station. They were arrested on warrants charging them with serious crimes, and they will be arraigned in court this morning.

There is intense excitement in Chinatown as a result of the activities of the police. Two little girls, one thirteen and the other fourteen years of age, have told startling stories to the police, and it is a result of these revelations that the police have taken proceedings. Even experienced officers on the force could scarcely credit that such a startling state of affairs had existed in this city, until they investigated the matter.

ANNOUNCEMENT

TO THE PUBLIC—
We have decided that on the 1st of November, 1913, we will commence A STRICTLY CASH BUSINESS.
In many ways we regret to make this change, as custom has established the credit system and it has gone to such an extreme that in some instances it is thought to be almost impossible to do business without the furnishing of the extra capital for the convenience of our customers.
The keenness of competition to-day created through the high cost of living and increased expenses of business, and the fact that other large houses are adopting the cash system in order to enable them to retail goods at lower prices, forces us to this decision.
It may seem hard to some of our patrons to feel that the firm they have dealt with for years have taken this step, but we think that after a little consideration, even these friends will see the mutual benefit to be derived from a CASH SYSTEM.
Under the credit system you are not only supporting your own family, but assisting to support those who are not willing to be self supporting, in addition to helping pay the book-keeping and interest on money at present tied up in unpaid accounts, etc. While under the cash system we will be able to keep a larger and more modern assortment of goods in stock AT PRICES THAT WILL APPEAL TO YOU.
We trust that you may see your way clear to still continue your business with us, in any case do not withdraw your patronage without first giving us a few months' trial. We will take all kinds of produce as cash, balancing each transaction as it occurs.
Again thanking you for the many favors you have shown us from time to time in the past, and assuring you that we will endeavor to fill all your orders under the new system to the very best of our ability. We are

Mrs. Baker was paying a visit to her sister before going to Clarence to spend the winter with her daughter when she was stricken two weeks ago with paralysis. Her daughter, Mrs. Fitz, hastened to her bedside and cared for her till the end came.

Mrs. Baker was conscious almost to the last and was happy in the prospect of leaving this world of suffering to meet her God. She indicated her wishes that her own pastor might conduct the funeral service and named the underbearers she preferred.

Four brothers and sisters of a family of thirteen survive. These are James Gates of Middleton, Arthur Gates of Margaretville, Mrs. A. C. Stronach of Melvern Square, and Mrs. Wilkins of Middleton. Two sons Dimock Baker of Kingston and Avard of Wilmot and one daughter, Mrs. M. O. Fitz of Clarence, mourn a loving and dutiful mother. Thousands Attend W. C. T. U. Convention

Striking Scenes at World's Gathering in Brooklyn—Mayor Kline's Welcome.

The triennial convention of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union opened at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, New York, Oct. 24, with nearly a thousand delegates representing every State in the Union and thirty foreign countries, in attendance. The women were welcomed by Mayor Adolph Kline and Lewis H. Pounds, Borough President of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, Vice-President of the International Organization, presided in place of Countess Rosaline of Carlisle, the President, who was unable to be present.

She sent a greeting which was read by her daughter, Lady Aurea Howard, who is here with a delegation of forty from England.

The morning session was taken up with the report of committees, and White Ribbon missionaries in various parts of the world.

Reports of branch Secretaries and Superintendents of departments, together with an address by Mrs. G. C. Milne of Aberdeen, Scotland, were on the program for the afternoon session.

Tonight the delegates will hear Miss Agnes E. Slack and Mrs. Ormiston Chant, of England, Mrs. Gordon Wright of London, Ont., and the Baroness De Laveleye of Belgium.

WANT TOTAL ABSTINENCE

Mayor Kline was not applauded when, in his address welcoming the delegates, he suggested that the solution of the liquor problem lay not in absolute prohibition, but in gradual process of education. Prolonged hand-clapping, however, greeted his remarks: "I understand some of you believe in total abstinence."

"I see that all of you do," he continued, "but I cannot help thinking that temperance is the better word to emphasize. It is well to recognize and not antagonize the element in human nature that rebels against sudden drastic reforms."

The Mayor added, however, that the best sentiment upheld the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and that its efforts were bound in the long run to educate people to the conviction that temperance was best for the nation.

When the convention was called to order the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, was filled to overflowing. Flags of all nations and banners representing branch organizations in remote parts of the world decorated the auditorium.

Mrs. Stevens, who was presented with a loving-cup by Lady Aurea Howard in behalf of the foreign delegates, announced that the Countess of Carlisle had contributed $5,000 for White Ribbon missionary work.—Exc.

Catching an Indian Pony on the Prairie

(By Rev. Edwin Smith.)

One day my little boy Fred rode Billy, our Indian pony out of Macleod, a flourishing town in the Canadian West, to pasture him on the open prairie which surrounds the town on all sides, and when he was dismounting, Billy made a sudden spring sideways and then set off at a gallop with Fred dragging on the bridle reins. He carried Fred off his feet and finally got away. That was at nine o'clock in the morning. When I came home at noon the boys said "Papa Billy is off again. He knocked Fred down and ran away with the saddle on him." In reply to my inquiry "Is Fred hurt?" they said, "Yes, he has a sore arm and a sore leg. Billy dragged him before he got one foot out of the stirrup." "Well, where is Fred now?" He is out on the prairie keeping his eye on Billy but he just ran all round them.

After getting some dinner I called up Wm. Struthers and asked him to call for me with his auto as Billy was gone again with his saddle on him. We found Fred about a half a mile out and Billy feeding not far away. I tried every known art to capture him—except the rope—but failed. A boy came along on horse back and tried his hand. He rode up to him and got his horse's feet tangled up in some rope hanging from Billy's saddle and then Billy ran and the rope tightened until the latigo of Billy's saddle broke at the buckle and the saddle pulled off but was still tied to him as Fred had the halter rope fastened to the pommel. Then there was something doing right away. Billy ran like mad with the saddle dragging at his heels and jumping sometimes as high as his rump. He ran in a circle round the auto, twice at a distance of two or three hundred yards and then he made for town. He struck the end of twenty-second street third avenue, then he turned to the right and went down it until he reached right just as he was crossing twenty-third street a man with a heavy wagon towing a "democrat" behind was directly in front of him blocking third avenue. Billy jumped over the pole of the democrat, but the saddle did not jump at the same time and so poor Billy got pulled up all of a sudden. He was running so hard and the stop was so sudden that he turned a somersault in the air and landed on his back instead of on his feet. He got an awful fall and several men who were near thought he was killed as it was about a minute before he was able to rise again. When I arrived in the auto a minute later he was on his feet but bleeding at the mouth, and there was blood on every leg somewhere. I said, "Billy boy, you better come home with me, and behave yourself." He came, but was not able to come out of the stable for two days afterwards. He had a cut across of Billy in the field and our in his tongue about an inch long and about half an inch deep, but that is all healed up now, though there is a deep scar there yet. The injury to his legs was not serious and in ten days he was as spry as ever and we were all riding him again. He appeared to have learned a lesson from his last bitter experience, but an Indian pony is not always converted when you think he is, and for ways that are dark and for tricks that are vain an Indian pony is peculiar.

One morning soon after we began to ride Billy again I overslept myself and when the herdboys came for my cow she was not milked so I said:

"Never mind I will drive her out with Billy after breakfast."

After breakfast I saddled Billy and climbed up into the big comfortable stock-saddle and let Billy drive the cow, and mind you these Indian ponies know how to drive cattle. I just sat there and watched Billy do it. It that cow offered to turn round or up a side street Billy was after her just like a sheep-dog and kept her going right ahead. At last we reached the pasture gate just beyond the exhibition buildings and I was in the act of dismounting when Billy made a sudden leap in the air and ran like an Indian. He dragged me until he got me going and then he kept me going until I said "Good-by Billy boy, I'll see you later" and then— I watched him gallop a mile across the open prairie until he struck the stand-off trail and headed for the Blood Indian Reservation fifteen miles away. I came into town on foot and called up my good friend Mr. Struthers saying: "Get out your car again, for Billy is hitting the trail towards the reservation and if he gets there before we do you will never see your saddle again. The Indians like good saddles." In five minutes the car was at the manse door in twenty-third street, and I, with a new bridle, a bucket and some oats, was taken on board and we went through town with a respect for the speed limit of fifteen miles per hour but did thirty until we overtook Billy five or six miles out of town. He was in a fenced field eating grass, but how he got there we never discovered. I tried the oats but Billy said, "Not today. You played that trick on me in the yard and there was only two bites of oats in the bucket." and off he went across a 480 acre field on a gallop. Now an Indian pony is too lazy to gallop far, unless it is absolutely necessary; so he stopped to feed and I came back to the auto to confer with Mr. Struthers. While we were talking along came a cow-boy mounted on a big ten-hundred Indian pony. He was a picturesque sight for he wore the shaps and his trusty lariat was coiled and fastened to his saddle, and his pony being shy of autos reared and plunged so that none but an experienced rider could have stayed on him half a minute. "We are all right now," said Mr. Struthers, "that is George Winder. He will soon catch him for us." While George was trying to get his horse near us I asked Mr. Struthers, "Can he use the lariat?" "I and the stop was so sudden that he should say he can, Winder is perhaps the best man with a rope in Alberta landed on his back instead of on his feet. He got an awful fall and several men who were near thought he was killed as it was about a minute before he was able to rise again. When I arrived in the auto a minute later he was on his feet but bleeding at the mouth, and there was blood on every leg somewhere. I said, "Billy boy, you better come home with me, and behave yourself." He came, but was not able to come out of the stable for two days afterwards. He had a cut across of Billy in the field and our in his tongue about an inch long and about half an inch deep, but that is all healed up now, though there is a deep scar there yet. The injury to his legs was not serious and in ten days he was as spry as ever and we were all riding him again. He appeared to have learned a lesson from his last bitter experience, but an Indian pony is not always converted when you think he is, and for ways that are dark and for tricks that are vain an Indian pony is peculiar.

"I wish you could get him near the auto, Winder dismounted and we walked over to meet him. After introducing me Mr. Struthers explained the present case of Billy in the field and our interest in him and said, "I wish you would go in and catch him, George." "Sure," said George and he began to undo his lariat. "Just draw those staples and lower the wire and throw your coat over it," said George. Then his horse stepped over it gingerly and he rode in the direction of Billy. Now a strange thing happened. Billy did not run away, but stood with his head low and waited for Winder to draw near. He knew what was up, for he saw the rope, and when Winder was within ten feet of him he started across the field on a lazy canter. Winder had formed his loop and was swinging it above his head with his right hand while his left held the coil. His horse turned parallel to Billy and struck the same gait as Billy had and when both horses were running at the same gait about fifteen feet apart, and when he had swung the loop long enough in the air to be sure of his aim he let it go. It dropped over Billy's head like a barrel hoop over a baby, and immediately Billy stopped and turned and followed without even tightening the lariat. He knew the programme, for that is the way the Indians catch all their horses on the prairie, and they all dread the rope for the first time they were caught with it they ran and pulled until they were forced to submission. I mounted Billy and Winder and I rode together into the town.

World Conference on Faith and Order

Bulletin No. 1.

Since the publication of the report of the Commission of the Protestant Episcopal Church on the World Conference on Faith and Order, notice has been received by the Secretary of that Commission of the appointment of co-operating Commissions by the Disciples of Christ in Great Britain, the United Methodist Church in England and the Wesleyan Methodist Conference in England, which last will act also for the Methodist Church in Ireland. The Congregational Union of Canada has appointed a representative to receive communications. The ninth Congress of the Old Catholic Churches of Europe, held in September, voted to appoint a Commission.

Commissions have now been appointed representing probably more than twenty million Christians. Considering that it has not yet been possible to get the information needed to issue invitations for the appointment of Commissions in the Continent of Europe or the near East and other important territories, this result shows most encouraging interest in this effort to prepare the way for Christian Unity.

The impressive list of particular and partial movements toward Reunion printed in the Report of the Commission of the Protestant Episcopal Church has been enlarged by the receipt of news of the union of the South India Provincial Synod of the Wesleyan Methodist Church with the South India United Church; of the union of the Presbyterian and Methodist Colleges at Winnipeg, Manitoba; and of the appointment by the Wesleyan Methodist Conference in England of a Committee to investigate the differences as to policy, etc., which exist among the Methodist Churches in Great Britain with a view to discovering a basis for union.

An important Congress on Union of Churches was to be held in Australia at the end of last August. No report of it has yet been received, but the earnest and sympathetic spirit displayed in the preparations was most hopeful. In Canada, the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Churches will be taken up again by the Presbyterian Church Union Committee at Toronto in December, 1913; the Methodist and Congregational Churches have already shown themselves strongly in favor of the union. In the United States, the Free Methodist and the American Wesleyan Methodist churches have commissions negotiating for organic union, and the Presbyteries of the Presbyterian Church in the United States are now voting on the union with the Reformed Church in the United States which was proposed last year.

A meeting has been called for November 19, 1913, in New York, of the Advisory Committee, consisting of representatives of various Commissions, suggested at the Conference at the Hotel Astor which was reported in the pamphlet published by the Commission of the Protestant Episcopal Church entitled "A First Preliminary Conference." Copies of that and other publications on the subject of the Conference may be obtained by application to Robert H. Gardner, Gardner, Maine, U. S. A.

Among the matters to be considered by the Advisory Committee are:—(1) Discussion as to the expenses of the further preparations for the Conference. (2) What preliminary steps might be taken to carry into effect the following suggestion made at the Hotel Astor Conference:—"That in order that the World Conference may have a maximum value, the questions there to be considered shall be formulated in advance by Committees of competent men representative of various schools of thought, these Committees to be appointed at as early a date as is consistent with assurance that their truly representative character cannot be successfully challenged."

The Orthodox Patriarch of Jerusalem has shown marked interest in the subject of Unity, and among those most recently heard from is Mar Geevarghese Dionysius, Metropolitan of the Ancient Syrian Church in India, who writes expressing a cordial interest in the suggestion of the World Conference. Woman's Courage Saved the Ship

Took Place of Man Who Deserted Wheel During a Storm.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—A woman's daring and courage in a terrific hurricane off Cape Hatteras saved the big American bark, John Ena from destruction and the lives of the crew of thirty-seven men. The heroine is the wife of Captain Charles Olsen, master of the craft.

On October 21, the bark, which had been within one hundred miles of this port three weeks ago and had been blown back nearly to Bermuda, ran into a hurricane off the coast of North Carolina. Startled by a particularly heavy sea, Mrs. Olsen looked out of the captain's cabin in time to see the scared sailor, at the wheel desert his post. She rushed on deck and crept along until she clutched the wheel. With almost super-human strength she swung the heavy wheel over and brought the ship about.

Captain Olsen worked his way back over the wreckage and found his wife clinging to the wheel. Her bravery and quick action saved the bark and its crew.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1913.

The Municipal Elections have been held and the results in the different Counties have been widely heralded.
Of course, some are satisfied and some are dissatisfied. Some are jubilant because things are on the upgrade, and some believe everything is going to the dogs. The probability is that the same old way will be pretty well sustained. A few reflections upon these passing events will be timely.

Is it best, is it at all advisable that municipal elections should be run on Party lines? The press reports seem to be aware of the political leaning of every candidate and to regard his success or failure a triumph or a blow to the particular party. In matters which come under the control of the Federal government, such as commerce, revenue, international relations and other questions which pertain to the country as a whole, it may be that government on party lines is the best method of procedure which up to the present has been devised. But, whatever differences of opinion may be entertained in this regard, there can be no difference of opinion, among all right-thinking people, on this point, that the political party spirit tends to demoralization, and no justification can be offered for such scenes as are frequently witnessed in many places in connection with election day.

Take, for example, our own town.
Bridgetown is probably as orderly and law-abiding as any town of its size in the Province. It seems, however, that there is a considerable body of persons in the town and immediate vicinity who regard the approach of election day as affording a lawful opportunity for giving loose reins to debased appetites, and furnishing exhibitions of conduct disgraceful to themselves and injurious to the reputation of the town, and making the streets unfit for the presence of a lady. And one of the worst features of the case is that persons who want to be regarded as good citizens, and, indeed, in their general habits are good citizens, appear on these occasions to discard conscience and reason, and imagine they can without peril to their own good name or injury to others, not only wink at drunkenness and its associate vices, but assist by becoming, directly or indirectly, the purveyors of intoxicants, thus allying themselves with a business which is always and everywhere demoralizing and lawless. The heart of more than one father was distressed, the other day, by temptation offered to the young who are only too disposed to tread the downward path. "Evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as by want of heart." But this can hardly be offered as an apology by persons who have grown to maturity in a community where the evils of intemperance have been witnessed in many individuals and many homes; and where there have been so many appeals to all the citizens to lend a helping hand in the overthrow of a gigantic evil.

Mrs. Pankhurst has not received in the United States the warm welcome she seems to have anticipated.
Neither has she gathered in the shelters she wants to carry on her militant operations in England.
Notwithstanding the wide publication of her arrival, and of her detention, which however, was finally overruled by President Wilson, her New York audience numbered only about 3,000 persons, occupying the cheapest seats, instead of the 12,000
her manager led her to expect.
She sent to another city where a lecture had been arranged for, asking permission to take up a collection in the meeting, in addition to the price agreed upon. The ladies in authority refused the request, and took the occasion to cancel the engagement altogether. Her visit has led several of the leading American advocates of Female Suffrage to speak out very boldly in condemnation of militant methods. One of the many cartoons bearing on the subject of Mrs. Pankhurst's visit, represents the business

street of the town with the shutters on all the windows, and clerks standing at the doors with placards asking for votes for women, as though desirous of preventing attacks on the property by professing zeal in the cause.

We do not remember that the militant suffragists have ever appealed to the Bible in support of their methods. But, they might find a precedent in the incident of the unjust judge. His reason for granting the request of the widow was, "Lest by her continual coming she weary me."
In many MSS; the word rendered
"weary" properly means to beat black and blue. The unjust judge was afraid the widow would beat him black and blue. But the fears of an unjust judge, and the pugilistic tendencies of a woman can hardly be advanced in justification of military methods in the cause of female suffrage or in any other cause.

Starratt Wins Against the D. A. R

Jury Awards Apple Shipper Verdict
of $6,700 Damages

(Morning Chronicle.)
In an action brought by H. O.
Starratt, an apple shipper of Paradise,
Annapolis County, against the Dominion Atlantic Railway for failure to supply refrigerator cars for the purpose of conveying apples to Winnipeg in the fall of 1911, the jury had recorded a verdict awarding the plaintiff $6,700 damages. The case was tried at Halifax before Mr. Justice Russell, with a special jury of business men of this city, with H. L.
Hart as foreman.

The plaintiff, Mr. Starratt, had made a large contract with Laing Brothers, commission merchants, of Winnipeg, for winter apples, and was relying on an agreement made by the railway with him to furnish refrigerator cars. The railway failed to furnish cars and the result was that the plaintiff was left with a large quantity of apples which he had to dispose of in the English market at a price of $1.50 to $2.50 per barrel below what he would have received if he could have filled his contract in Winnipeg.

The railway denied having made any agreement to furnish cars.
The trial began on Friday before Mr. Justice Russell. The case was adjourned Friday night until yesterday morning and when the time for adjournment came last evening counsel for the respective parties has just completed their address.

The trial was adjourned from seven to eight o'clock last evening. On taking up the case again at eight o'clock
Mr. Justice Russell charged the jury fully on the matters involved for action. The jury retired at 9.30 to consider their verdict and returned twice during the deliberation for further directions.

At 1.30 this morning they finally rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $6,700 damages. The foreman reported to the court that the jury were unanimous in all the points except one, and on that question
they stood eight for the plaintiff and one for the defendant. Under plaintiff won on all points and a verdict was rendered accordingly.

This was the second time the case was tried. The first trial took place one year ago when the case was with-provisions of the statute, after four hours' deliberation a verdict can be entered into on the agreement of not less than seven jurymen out of nine in the panel, so that in the result the drawn from the jury by the then presiding judge.

The Court of Appeal on the application of plaintiff reversed this decision and sent the case back for a new trial and the foregoing is the result.

W. E. Roscoe, K. C., of Kentville, and C. J. Burchell, K. C., appeared for the plaintiff, W. A. Henry, K. C., and Barclay Webster, K. C., of Kentville, appeared for defendant.

Lecture by Rev. G. M. Campbell
D.D., Principal of M. Allison
Ladies College

The lecture room of Providence church was thronged last evening, the occasion being as outlined above.
Promptly at 7.45 Miss Jennie Vroom favoured the audience with a popular Scotch song, "My Ain Folk." Miss Hilda Brittain played the accompaniment. Miss Vroom possesses a sweet true voice, with good carrying power in the future development of which Bridgetown will have a soliloquy of unusual attractiveness in voice quality, interpretation and stage presence.
This item of the evening's program
was heartily applauded.

In a most appropriate manner did Justice Irvin, chairman of the exercise, introduce the Lecturer for the evening. Upon rising Dr. Campbell was given a hearty reception, and after in a few words, acknowledging the Chairman's complimentary remarks, plunged immediately into his subject, "Scotland and Scotsmen."
The occasion was a voyage to the Land of the Heather was depicted in eloquent and appropriate terms; the beauty, grandeur and attractiveness of Scotland's scenery, her bold, rugged heights and peaceful verdant valleys, rippling streams and sun-kissed lakes, her bold rocky shore-line, washed by majestic oceans, all these interests with most realistic language by metaphor and simile in the Lecturer's own inimitable manner held the rapt attention of the audience. Scotland's struggles, ecclesiastical, civil, national, next engaged the attention of the speaker,
passing over much of which in a brief report mention cannot be made. Dr.
Campbell by repeating some of her most beautiful poetry and prose presented to his hearers charming word-pictures of Scotland's poets, orators and statesmen than which no more grand array can be presented to the world by any country.

Following this rich and rare intellectual treat, Councillor Hicks moved and Rev. J. F. Duxton seconded a vote of thanks which, with much enthusiasm, the chairman presented to the Lecturer.

Methodist Church Circuit Notes

BRIDGETOWN.
The special exercises for the month of November began very auspiciously
last Sunday by the bringing in town of Dr. G. M. Campbell, principal of Mt. Allison Ladies' College. On Tuesday evening, Dr. Campbell gave his popular lecture "Scotland and Scotsmen." Though the evening was unfavorable still a generous audience assembled, and it is safe to say that a more interesting and instructive
lecture has not been given in Bridgetown for a long time. Mr. John Irvin, K. C. ably presided at the lecture, and, after a splendid rendering of that popular Scotch song "My Ain Folk," by Miss Jennie Vroom, introduced the Lecturer for the evening.

Next Sunday regular services will be conducted by Dr. Jost in the morning and the pastor in the evening.
Sunday, Nov. 23, will be observed as Anniversary Day and an interesting time is expected. Rev. William Brown, one of the foremost pulpitimen in the N. S. Conference, has been secured for the occasion and in addition to the sermons on Sunday,
Mr. Brown will remain over for Monday evening, at which time he will give an address on a recent trip across the Dominion.

BENTVILLE.
A library of new books will shortly be placed in the Sunday School. Service in this church next Sunday afternoon. The pastor will preach.

GRANVILLE.
Service here next Sunday morning
the pastor will preach.

Church Notes—Parish of St. James

ST. JAMES CHURCH
The first of the series of socials held monthly during the winter under the auspices of the Adult Bible Class was held last Wednesday in the schoolroom. A goodly number were present and all agreed in pronouncing
it most successful in every way.
Preaching last Sunday morning on Intercessory Prayer, the Rector made special reference to the series of Parochial Missions now being held in Cape Breton and announced a special service of Intercession for the same every afternoon this week at 4.45.
This service lasts not more than fifteen minutes.

CARD OF THANKS.
To the many kind friends who so freely and willingly gave all possible help and care for my sick horse and after my loss waited upon me with a handsome purse of cash. I do sincerely thank you one and all for such tokens of genuine kindness. Believe me, truly Yours,

OBITUARY

MRS. FLETCHER DURLING.
(From our West Paradise corres.)
On Thursday evening, the 6th inst.
our community was again saddened
by the news of the death of Mrs.
Fletcher Durling. She had been in delicate health for a number of years, but kept about the house until a few weeks ago, when she was taken worse and gradually sank to the end. She was a kind and loving mother and a friend to all. She leaves to mourn their loss a kind and loving husband, who ministered to her every want and wishes during her illness. Also two daughters, Mrs. Aubrey Boehner and Ina, also a large circle of relatives and friends. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. McNinch, assisted by Rev. Porter. The remains were interred in the Paradise cemetery. We tender to the bereaved ones our deepest sympathy.

FRANCES J. PHINNEY.

On Oct. 31, 1913, Mrs. Frances J.
Phinney died suddenly of heart failure at the home of her daughter, Mrs.
A. F. Preston, East Boston, aged eighty-five years, ten months. Mrs.
Phinney was a daughter of the late
John Ward, Esq., Centreville, Digby
County. Mrs. Phinney was twice married. Her former husband was Lewis Titus, who was drowned in the noted Saxby gale, Oct. 4, 1869, with her eldest son, Charles, from the schooner Ross. Her late husband was Capt. Stephen Phinney, who predeceased her some twenty years ago.
Mrs. Phinney had eight children by her first husband of which four survive her: Mrs. A. F. Preston of East Boston; Mrs. William Johnson, of Digby; John and Edgar Titus of Hampton. She was a member of the Methodist church at Centreville, Digby County. The remains were brought home by her daughter, Mrs.
A. F. Preston and Miss Lillian Barr of East Boston and conveyed to Hampton by Undertaker H. B. Hicks.
The funeral took place from the home of her son John F. Titus at Hampton
Nov. 6th, conducted by the Rev.
Asaph Whitman, pastor of the Hampton church.

Will all who took out dishes from the Halloween Supper please leave them with Mrs. Willoughby Anthony. And any whose dishes were not returned will please call at Mrs. Anthony's for them.

THE WONDER OF THE WEEK. One of our town parents last week actually wrote to the teacher who has charge of his child, thanking her for her interest manifested in the great advancement of the child in the studies of the quarter. Well, well! Wonders will never cease.

While telegraphic reports are telling of blizzards and snow storms all around us, we here in Nova Scotia are enjoying very open and mild weather. The few cold days of the first of the month have given place to warmer ones, but we must expect something different very soon.

Mr. Joseph H. Maclean has recently had a telephone put in his residence, and his call will be Bridgetown Exchange, No. 56-4. This exchange must be close on to the number of subscribers required for an all-night service. What about that "all-night service"? Is it not about time we had it?

In conformity with an order which has recently become obligatory that all Canadian customs officers must wear a uniform, our local officials, Mr. J. H. Hicks, customs officer, and Mr. E. A. Craig, preventative officer, are now wearing the uniform of blue with brass buttons. Regulation caps will also be worn.

His Excellency the Administrator of the Government of Canada has been pleased to make the following appointment, Richard P. Saunders of Annapolis Royal, in the Province of Nova Scotia, to be Wharfinger of the Government Wharf at that place in the room and stead of Reginald Miller.—Canada Gazette, Oct. 18.

Schr. Neva, Capt. Anthony, was the first vessel to reach Bear River in two weeks, navigation being held up by operations on the bridge at the mouth of the river. The Neva got through on Sunday and after discharging a cargo of one thousand barrels of flour and meal for Clarke Bros., will load piling for Boston.

Middleton Outlook: Jos. Burrell, who has rented the American House, took charge on Friday last. Mr. Burrell informs us he intends managing the house along the same lines as hitherto maintaining its high standard. Mr. Shaffer has rented G. W. Crowe's house and is opening an office in the L. S. Shaffer block and intends continuing his work as a book-keeper.

Mayor Freeman is having a concrete sidewalk made in front of his hardware store. This will add to the concrete walk put down by J. H. Longmire & Sons, and will be a great improvement to Queen street. It is rumored that two other large property owners on Queen street will also concrete the walk in front of their properties. Let the good work go on!

A recount of the ballots for Municipal Council for Ward 11 was asked for, and the same was duly held at the office of O. S. Miller, County Clerk, on Monday afternoon, with the result that Mr. Piggott's majority was reduced from 2 to 1. Three or four ballots marked for Mr. Piggott were thrown out, it being decided that they had marks of identification on them and were therefore not secret ballots.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Three cases were tried here last week at the session of the County Court, viz: Chipman vs. Elliott, Municipality of Annapolis vs. Church, Irvin vs. Gillis. Judgment was reserved in all three cases.

The death of William T. Blackadder occurred at the home of his sister, Mrs. Israel Parker, Belleisle, on Tuesday, Nov. 4. The deceased had been in declining health for some time. He was a native of Kings County and a brother of Dr. Edward Blackadder of Halifax. The remains were conveyed to Wolfville for interment.

Interest in foot ball centres this week at Sackville, where the teams of Mt. Allison and Acadia will try conclusions on Friday. Both teams have been playing gilt-edge ball this year. Acadia has not been beaten this season and should she win Friday's game she will have won the King-Richardson Trophy for the fifth time, and that coveted prize will be hers "for keeps."

In our report of the Municipal Election last week several of the majorities were incorrect. Mr. Outhit's majority in Ward 1 should be 85; Mr. Elliott in Ward 2, 127; Mr. Fitch in Ward 3, 36; Mr. Casey in Ward 4, 17. Most of the Wards have sub-sections for polling, and our source of information in many cases last week gave only the majority in one polling section of the Ward instead of the two.

LOWER GRANVILLE

November 10.

Miss Etta Schaffner left for Boston on Wednesday last.

Earle McLeod of Lynn, is spending his vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Elias Bent.

Kenneth Young of Lynn, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Young.

Miss Primrose Elliott spent this week end with her mother, Mrs. J. R. Elliott.

Reginald Young and Maurice Robins returned from the West last week, where they have spent the last three months.

We regret to report the death on Saturday last of Mr. James Morrison, senior, which occurred at the home of his son in Lynn. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison had been visiting relatives and friends in Massachusetts, and he was stricken with paralysis on Tuesday last. Mr. Morrison was of a kind and genial disposition and very highly respected. Much sympathy is felt for his family.

Officials at the naval hydrographic office at Washington manifested the keenest interest in the announcement that a new island has risen out of the sea of the Nova Scotian coast. Government scientists regard it as especially interesting in connection with the recent violent earthquakes in Panama, and other disturbances which have caused marked changes in the ocean bottom and shore conformation of the Pacific central American coasts.

Kitchener's Mysterious Bullet

Lord Kitchener, one of the most distinguished of the Knights of the Bath who recently were installed at Henry VII's Chapel in Westminster Abbey, once had as narrow an escape of his life as ever befell a soldier. It was in the course of the prolonged and fiercely fought campaign in the Sudan in the 'eighties in the first year of that decade in fact.

There was a lively Irish going on at a place named Handoub, just outside Suakin when Kitchener, who was then a rising young officer of Engineers, was shot at by one of the Mahdi's negro soldiers. The bullet found its mark in the side of Kitchener's coat at the back of the chest. It was a Remington bullet, and inflicted a really dreadful wound, breaking the bone at the base of the jaw. It took a long time to get the splinters of bone out, and the doctors were unable to operate, as the bullet and fragments of bone were too close to the jugular vein. The ball could not be located, and the doctors pronounced his case as hopeless. They said the patient could not live and his sister, accordingly, was sent for from England.

The future savior of the Sudan, however, differed from the surgeons, and steadily refused to believe in their gloomy prognosis of his case, and, though he had to endure a journey down the Nile to the hospital at Cairo, confined in a small cabin in sweltering heat, his thin, muscular physique and iron willpower kept the dreaded fever at bay. The hospital doctors also failed to find the bullet, and came to the conclusion that it had worked its way out during the voyage down the Nile. Kitchener himself was of the opinion that the bullet had, by some means, come out, unnotified by the surgeons or himself, and gradually the terrible wound healed, and Kitchener returned to duty.

A year or so after the skirmish at Handoub, Kitchener one day sat down to dine at a beefsteak which had been served up by Sergeant Bilton of the hospital staff. Suddenly Kitchener clasped his hand to his jaw.

"Bilton," he said, "was there a bone in that steak?"

"No, sir," replied the sergeant.

"Then that bullet was in my jaw after all," said Kitchener, "and I've swallowed it, for I felt it go down!"

"That proved to be the case, and that great soldier preserves the flattened piece of lead in his key-chain.—London Tit Bits.

PACKING APPLES AND PEARS

The price received for an article depends much on the manner in which it is presented for sale. This has become especially true in regard to food products whether offered in the natural or manufactured state. Fruit growers have recognized this change in public taste and have, during recent years, greatly improved their methods of putting up fresh products. Reputable apple growers no longer think of marketing their products in second hand barrels or boxes, or those that are soiled or clumsily made. It is regarded important not only that the packages suggest contents of fine quality, but that when opened the fruit shall present an undamaged and otherwise attractive appearance.

The packing of fruit in barrels and boxes involves a few general principles, easily mastered in the case of barrel packing but more difficult when box packing is concerned. In the opinion of Mr. Alex. McNeil, Chief of the Fruit Division at Ottawa, it is not too much to expect that a season's practice will make a fair box packer, working on right principles. To teach just how the packing of apples and pears in barrels and boxes should be done, Mr. McNeil has prepared an illustrated pamphlet on the subject which is designated Bulletin No. 34 of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner's Series. In his letter of transmission, Mr. J. A. Ruddick, the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, points out that this work contains a large amount of new material setting forth the more recent developments in fruit packing. The book constitutes an exhaustive treatise of sixty-seven pages, showing many helpful illustrations. It is published for free distribution to all who apply for it to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

The Rush for the Towns

Country life is lonely at times, though not more lonely than town or city life when one's friends are few and cool. Distances are long, amusements are few. But these things have not depopulated the farming districts.

Cash is scarce in the country, or so it used to be; but not even the desire to handle more ready money would alone have drawn off the farm population to the extent that has been done, says the North Sydney Herald. Curiosity, the wish to see the world, the desire to "seek one's fortune," as the stories of our childhood days used to say, have been big factors in the matter, but not these, nor all the other things we have mentioned could have brought about the wholesale desertion of the country districts, had it not been for the deadly mistake of holding the life work of a farmer in contempt.

The gray suited country boy has shrunk from the glance of contempt bestowed upon him on his visits to town, by some ignorant, clown of a town boy who, possibly, was making a far worse living than the country boy, and by doubtful methods. All the facts were in favor of the country boy; all the glitter and the sham were in favor of the town boy; and the country boy surrendered the facts to the flitter and the sham, and went home to his farm with a sore heart because a billiard marker or a bungstarter, or a "chucker out" had sneered at his country clothes or his shy manners. How many country boys have been turned forever against the farm by such trifling occurrence?

But the error goes deeper than that. Farmers have allowed themselves to believe that there was no future for farming as a business; and that it was a humiliation and a shame for any educated young man ever to go back to farming. Even when no special education had been received, the mere fact of a young man coming back from town or a city, no matter what he has been doing there, and going to work once more on a farm, was looked on as fairly good proof that he was no good.

This is the unquestionable fact. Explain it how you will, the fact remains. Farmers have thought, for generations past, that education was meant to deliver their boys from the farm. Farmers have thought it was manlier or more respectable to do a day's work for others and under the orders of others than to do it for themselves on their own homesteads.

A business or occupation may be unremunerative and still it may be crowded; it may be hard and dangerous, and suffer no loss of membership; it may be illegal, immoral, and a curse to the human race, and remain crowded; but place it in contempt, and it is doomed—unless men overcome the weakness which makes the contempt stick and fester and hurt. It has not been merely that the farming business has been made the subject of an occasional joke; but that every man and boy who lived inside the boundary lines of a town has most ignorantly and conceitedly 'put on airs' with regard to farmers.

There never was a day when the average of ignorance was not higher in the towns than in the country; and it is higher today, man for man, in spite of our big schools and their little ones, and some other things which are by no means as important as they look. A man may have a good deal of information of some sort and remain ignorant. Look around you all over Canada, aye, and other lands, and see where the country-raised boys fit in, that is the story of scores of North America's greatest men.

In fact, if this Canada of ours should at any time in the future, not have a farming population to draw upon for leaders in all professions and occupations, that will be a dark day for her.

We say nothing against the natural case of a farmer's boy going to a city or town, provided it does not happen too frequently, but every citizen who has at heart the welfare of Canada, must be sorry to see all the little, insignificant, two-penny, half-penny jobs in the towns and cities, filled by country boys who have left behind them the grand possibilities for brain as well as brawn that the farm offers to them.

We want our young farmers to realize that the business of farming calls for brains; calls for study; calls for agenuity; calls for all the qualities which brings success in the business of a merchant, or the business of a banker, or in any other business or occupation whatever.

The business of farming will never take its true place in the affairs of the country until the young men growing up on the farms grasp the fact that the problem of feeding the human race is the problem of the day; that the man who can get returns from an acre of ground now is the man of importance to the nation; that no one will ever again laugh at a farmer, merely because he is a farmer, unless he is seeking entrance into a lunacy asylum.—Exchange.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—A hurricane accompanied by a blinding snow storm was reported from Maine on Saturday, while heavy falls of snow were reported from other points below Quebec, with a strong north westerly gale blowing at practically every point. Bad weather in the river and Gulf was the report made by every incoming steamer today, with snow that covered the decks to a considerable depth.

A NECESSARY FOOD SUPPLY

Some comparisons of records indicate what infinitely better returns some dairymen obtain from their cows than do other owners of herds. One lot of milk testing 3.4 delivered at a factory last month was 21,580 pounds, the yield of twenty cows in two herds. Two other herds also totalling twenty cows and producing 3.4 milk gave only 12,380 pounds during the same month. These are not extreme comparisons because in many of the cases the test was lower and the total pounds of fat delivered would be consequently far lower. Apart, however, from the weight of the milk and the monetary value of the milk, think of one group of twenty cows giving in one month four and a half tons of milk more than the other group.

It needs no stretch of imagination to picture the consternation there would be of Canadian cows in general if they were marked men. They were as poor as these twenty cows. Surely, said the Bishop, "Sabbath people need milk, plenty of it, as a good, nutritious and cheap food in these days of high prices. But if poor cows with only low yields are kept, where would be this necessary and universally appreciated food supply?"

Fortunately, through systematic cow testing, these comparisons are possible, so that an incentive is furnished to every owner of a poor herd to keep cows more worthy the name of "dairy" cows. Simple records, easily kept, give definite information acting as guide posts to herds bred and fed for large yields.

THE SUNDAY QUESTION.

We would commend the following paragraph from the "British Weekly" to those who are clamoring for a relaxing of some of the provisions of the Lord's Day Act, and for greater freedom to devote Sunday to recreation and sport among ourselves:—"The Bishop of Southwall, in his diocesan charges, is at present drawing special attention to the Sunday question. Speaking at Chesterfield he said, Sunday was being marred by the wealthy and leisured classes. He had spoken to many privately and would be consequently far lower. Apart, however, from the weight of the milk and the monetary value of the milk, think of one group of twenty cows giving in one month four and a half tons of milk more than the other group.

The next step to making Sunday a day of pleasure is sure to be the curbing of it into a day of toil for the working men. The Lord's Day Alliance is one of the best friends of the laboring men in Canada.

PLANTING BULBS.

Ground Must be Mulched Over Bulbs Put in Late in Season.

Bulbs for flowering next Spring must be planted now. The most useful kinds are tulips, hyacinths, narcissi, snowdrops, crocuses and scillas. A judiciously chosen selection of these will give bloom from the time the snow goes until the month of June. Bulbs do best in loamy, well-drained soil. They will rot in soil not well drained in a wet summer. A sandy loam is better than a clay loam. The soil should be dug to a depth of twelve or fifteen inches and well-rotted manure worked thoroughly into it the previous Spring, if possible. If applied in the Fall, the manure should be buried below where the bulbs will be after planting, as when pure manure comes in contact with the bulbs they are liable to rot or become diseased.

While the bulb contains the future flower and considerable energy, this energy will not be exerted to the full unless the bulb is well rooted before Winter. Very often the cause of bulbs should be planted early enough to have good root system before Winter. Very often the cause of poor flowers in the Spring is the lack of roots. If planted during the latter part of September or early in October, bulbs will have ample time to get well rooted before Winter. If through any cause the planting is delayed until late in October or November, the soil should be heavily mulched with straw, straw manure or leaves, to prevent the soil from freezing early, and thus give the bulbs a chance to make roots for some time longer than they would if not mulched but late planting is seldom satisfactory.

The depth of planting and distance apart of the bulbs will depend on the size of the bulbs. Tulips, narcissi and hyacinths should be planted from four to six inches deep, measuring to the bottom of the bulb and about the same distance apart. Snowdrops, crocuses and squills or scillas, should be planted from two to three inches deep and about two inches apart. If the soil is clayey or if the manure is not well mixed with it, it is advisable to put a little sand under each bulb to prevent rotting.

Bulbs are more effective in masses and clumps than in single rows. While tulips and hyacinths are usually planted in beds (their place to be taken by annuals later on) and are very effective when used in this way, they may be used with good effect in small clumps dotted through the perennial border. By this method of planting there need be no larger bare places in the border without bloom after the bulbs have done flowering.

In addition to its value in keeping out frost while roots are developing in the early part of Winter, a mulch is very beneficial in affording the bulbs some protection from the changes of temperature in Winter and is especially useful when there is no snow on the ground. As soon as the snow goes in Spring the mulch should be gradually removed, as tulips especially make early and rapid growth and may be broken if left to grow through the mulch.

STRONGLY ADVISES "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Because They Cured Him, And They Will Cure You

WALKERTON ONT., MAY 9th, 1911. "I have been in Walkerton in business for a good many years and many of my townsmen know that my health, for long periods was precarious. My trouble was extreme Nervousness, brought on by indigestion and dyspepsia, from which I suffered in the most severe form. It was so bad that I could not sleep before about four in the morning. I noticed one of your published testimonials of how someone had used "Fruit-a-tives" for similar trouble and asked Mr. Hunter, my druggist, his opinion on the matter and he advised their use. I immediately procured several boxes and I am pleased to say that I now enjoy splendid health and could not possibly feel better. The Home

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Roomy arm chairs for the porch are made of French willow and have a pocket on one side. If by accident soot is dropped on the carpet, sprinkle salt over it and sweep all up together. Kerosene applied with a brush or cloth makes a good silver cleaner. Rinse in scalding water. After peeling onions, rub the hands with parsley or celery if you would counteract the onion odor. To prevent glass fruit jars from cracking while filling them, hold a wet dish cloth around them. When ironing lace, lay it on a Turkish towel and press the lace smoothly on the wrong side. If brass candlesticks are disfigured with verdigris, try rubbing them off with a cloth dipped in ammonia. Ugly cracks and splits in furniture can sometimes be filled with a beeswax so that they will hardly show. The most obstinate coffee stains can be removed by a solution of lukewarm water and the yolks of egg. A spoonful of oxgall to a gallon of water will set almost any colored fabric, if soaked in it before washing. If candles are well frozen before being lighted, the tallow will not run and the candles will last twice as long. Lower the temperature of an oven considerably after the roast has been in twenty minutes and the juices will be retained.

It is a good idea to have a pot roast for dinner the day you iron. The meat can cook over the ironing fire, thereby saving coal. When furniture does not actually need polishing it is a good idea to wipe it off thoroughly with a cloth dipped in linseed oil. To rid a room of flies instantly put a few drops of carbolic acid on a live coal on a shovel and wave the shovel around the room. Round centrepieces may be dried by laying them while wet on a sheet of clean glass, kept for the purpose. See that the linen is placed smoothly and then set the glass in the sun.

CARING FOR A PIANO. An upright piano should be so placed in a room that the back will not be exposed to draught. Dampness, extreme heat and moths are the instrument's worst enemies. Where possible, place it against an inside partition rather than an outside wall and thus run less risk of exposing it to sudden cold. Moths may be avoided by getting five cent cubes of camphor gum, wrapping them separately first in tissue paper and then in very fine cheesecloth and tying three on the inside of the top of the piano and three on the inside of the base. Care must be taken in tying these so that they do not interfere with the piano's action. Expose the keyboard to the light as much as possible in order to keep the keys from turning yellow. In fact, it is better to keep the piano open, except when sweeping or other dust threatens it. Never use alcohol on the outside case. If a blue cast forms on the outside of the case you may rub it away with a soft sponge dipped in tepid water and mild soap, doing but a small portion at a time and following this immediately with a chamolice. Soap and water should be used very, very sparingly.

HER BROTHER.

Ian MacLaren used to tell a child story as sweet as suggestive. While sauntering along a country road in Scotland he met a bonnie wee lassie who was red in the face from the exertion of carrying a chubby youngster in her arms. "Isn't the baby too heavy for you?" inquired the sympathetic minister. "Oh, no, sir, he's no' hivvy," gasped the child lovingly; "he's ma brither!"

A traveller in the West came across two men having a heated argument. The traveller drew nearer and heard: "What do you know about the Lord's Prayer? I'll let you ten dollars you can't repeat the first line." "I'll take the bet," said the other man, and, turning to the stranger, asked him to hold the money. "Now, what is the first line?" asked the first one. "Now I lay me down to sleep." "You win," said the first man. "I didn't think you knew it."

GOOD JUDGMENT.

At the dinner table father had just corrected his ten-year-old daughter for eating with her fingers and then wiping them on the front of her dress, which by this time was very soiled. Then he pointed to her little sister, Irene, and said. "Look at your little sister; she does not get her dress soiled as you do when she eats."

"No," said Irene, "my dress is nice an' clean in front. I wipe my fingers way down to the bottom of my dress."

"I always hate to tell a story," said a well-known actor at a banquet "because my listeners may have heard it before. What boredom that is for them, what agony for me! It is like the case of a friend of mine. He is deaf, but tries to conceal his deafness. One night at a dinner the host told a story at which everybody roared, and my dear friend joined in and out-roared the whole table, though in truth he hadn't heard a word."

"At the end of the laughter he held up his hand as a sign that he wanted to speak."

"That story," he began, "reminds me of another—"

"And then the poor fellow went on and told the very same yarn the host had repeated only a minute before."

Barber—"Poor Jim has been sent to a lunatic asylum."

Victim (in chair)—"Who's Jim?"

"Jim, my twin brother, sir. Jim has long been broodin' over the hard times, an' I suppose he finally got crazy."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, he an' me worked side by side for years, and we were so alike we couldn't tell each other apart. We both brooded a great deal, too. No money in this business now."

"What's the reason?"

"Prices too low. Unless a customer takes a shampoo it doesn't pay to shave or haircut. Poor Jim, I caught him trying to cut a customer's throat because he refused a shampoo so I had to have the poor fellow locked up. Makes me sad. Some times I feel sorry I didn't let him slash all he wanted to. It might have saved his reason. Shampoo, sir?"

"Yes."

An electioneer visited a man to get his vote. The man himself was out, but his wife said—"I can't promise you nothing about Jonathan, sir. He's independent. He will vote as seems best to himself."

The electioneer, after being as agreeable as possible rose to go. But first he patted a wretched, mangy kitten on the woman's lap.

"I'm very fond of cats," he said. "I shouldn't mind giving you $5 for that one."

The woman jumped at his offer. She locked the $5 in a drawer, she put the cat in a basket, and, as she ushered the man out with his purchase on his arm, she said—"I'll do the best I can for you about that vote, sir. As I told you before, Jonathan won't be influenced by anybody. The gentleman that's electioneering for your opponent spent a full hour here with me uselessly yesterday and by the way, he bought the brother of that kitten of yours for $10."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS FOR SOUR MILK.

The acid in sour milk is very helpful in removing certain stains from white clothes; it will remove ink if the stained part, before it is dry, is dipped in the milk and rubbed to wash out as much of the ink as possible; if there is still a discoloration, leave it to soak until the ink is quite absorbed by the milk.

Any article scorched in ironing should be immediately covered with sour milk and left over night.

A white undershirt muddled or much soiled at the back will wash more easily if soaked over night in diluted buttermilk.

Fruit stains yield readily to this simple solvent and sometimes newly contracted ironrust spots can be removed by soaking in the same way. The advantage of buttermilk over chemicals is that, in a farmhouse, it is always available and that there is no danger in its use.

White goods that have become yellow through age, or from having lain unused for some time or through bad washing, should be first wrung out of warm water, then covered with buttermilk and left to soak in it for some days, then washed in the usual way.

Wash linoleum with clean warm water—no soap—and then go over it with a clean cloth dipped occasionally in good thick buttermilk.

GOVERNMENT WILL SEND MAIL STEAMERS TO ST. JOHN.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 6.—The Gazette's London correspondent cables: Hugh Allan, Chairman of the Allan Line, states that the Dominion Government has now definitely completed arrangements for the winter sailings of mail steamships to and from Canada.

The lines will sail from Liverpool every Saturday afternoon direct to Halifax, operated alternately by the Allan and Canadian Pacific lines, commencing with the Virginian on November 22nd.

On Wednesdays will be the weekly sailings to St. John direct, operated alternately by the Allan and Canadian Northern lines from Liverpool and Bristol on November 19, and the Tunisian from Liverpool on November 26.

It is still possible, however, said Mr. Allan, that the Royal line steamers may make Halifax, and not St. John, their terminal. Regarding the new liners, Alsatian and Calgarian, Mr. Allan said he regretted that, owing to labor troubles, the Calgarian would not start on her maiden voyage before January 17, though he had hoped to send her as a Christmas ship to inaugurate the improved mail service.

NEW RAILWAY BRIDGE FOR WEYMOUTH.

It was welcome news to Weymouth shipping circles when the C. P. R. made the annual announcement of the proposed abandonment of the present D. A. R. drawbridge at that place and of their intention to divert track three miles further up the river at a point which would do away with a draw in the new steel bridge, a much shorter structure that is going to span the Sissiboo. This change will necessitate the station being of the opposite side of the river from the present location. Weymouth people in general favor the change all round and it means a large expenditure of money in the vicinity for some months to come.—Yarmouth Herald.

OUTLOOK IN MONTREAL BAD FOR MEN SEEKING WORK.

Little Employment Ahead for Unskilled Labor—Many Wives Driven to Look for Places

Montreal, Nov. 4.—"Judging from present conditions, unskilled labor will have a hard time of it during the coming winter," said F. Payette, manager of the Provincial Employment Bureau.

For four days of last week we had more than 1,200 applications for positions and of that number about fifteen per cent were placed," continued Mr. Payette.

"Soon the city will suspend its public works operations and that will place many men out of work. While there is plenty of construction work, it is largely in the hands of the big firms, and the smaller contractors who could employ a fair amount of labor are doing but little work just now. It seems that there is not much building of smaller structures.

"Another condition that will affect the labor market is that the lumber companies are not requiring as many men for the winter season. Last winter the lack of snow rendered haulage difficult and in some cases wood cut yet remains to be taken out. It is evident that there will be less demand for woodsmen."

MANY WOMEN WANT WORK.
The Provincial Bureau also looks after work for women. In this Mr.

Payette finds that there is an increase of applications from women workers. Commenting on this, Mr. Payette remarked: "I believe that in many instances the increased cost of living is sending wives from their homes seeking work, so that the family may live better. However, despite the increased number of applications, we are quite unable to fill all the positions available.

Women applications for work include a wide range from scrubwomen to stenographers, with many servants on the list."
