In order to bring this grand Blood Specific before the public in the shortest possible time, and to instruct them as to how many diseases can be reached and cured by a thorough bloodpurifier like Ozone Specific, the manufacturers have decided to offer

$200 IN CASH PRIZES

To those sending in the largest list of "Names of Diseases;" all doctors and druggists, or those connected with these professions, being barred from competing.

First Prize is $50; the next two, $25 each; the next five, $10 each; and the next ten, $5 each. Total, 18 Prizes.

The prizes will be awarded in rotation, to the first person from whom the largest list is first received, and so on until the end.

CONDITIONS FOR COMPETITION.—All those so competing must enclose 9 cents in postage stamps, for which we agree to register their names as competitors; to acknowledge receipt of list and mail them our treatises upon "Ozone Specific." This competition closes March 25th, and on April 1st the successful winners will receive Certified Cheques mailed to their respective addresses. No letters delivered otherwise than through the Post Office will be considered as competitors.

Now get out your old patent medicine almanacs and prepare a list; it will cause a surprise to many at the largeness of the list. Address all mail to TORONTO, SATURDAY, MARCH 4. 1893.

LD. HEWITT'S fake scheme for advertising Toronto is likely to result in a $10,000 job unless the Council are honest and courageous enough to sit upon the impudent proposal—which is very doubtful. The unscrupulous will, no doubt, support it on the chance of such pickings for themselves as it may offer; while the weak-kneed will be bulldozed by the cry of obstruction and pessimism. An "art newspaper and souvenir in book form," and the distribution of photographs and pamphlets at Chicago and Niagara Falls, are the leading features of the scheme. Among other modest and disinterested propositions is one by Ald. Lamb that the Council should have a junketing trip to the World's Fair. The cost of the latter proposal is its least objectionable characteristic-inasmuch as contact with the aldermanic body on the part of intelligent strangers would be more than sufficient to offset any favorable impressions of Toronto they might otherwise obtain. The whole thing is a rank attempt at jobbery. But if peop'e will elect Hewitts, and men of that stamp, to office what else can they expect?

IT is said that some of the members of the Protestant Protective Association are so firmly opposed to anything savoring of Roman Catholicism that they refuse to vote for candidates who persist in holding mass meetings.

UDGE GRESHAM, a prominent Republican, has been appointed Secretary of State by President Cleveland. Partyism is popularly supposed to be carried to much greater extremes in the United States than in Canada, but supposing either a Dominion or Provincial Premier, in making up his cabinet, should select a man from the opposition ranks it would be regarded as an improper and revolutionary proceeding. Yet there are probably far wider and more fundamental differences of opin on between many members of the same party than there are between the respective party policies. There is no just reason why the leader intrusted with the formation of a cabinet, whether he be president or premier, should not take the best available material wherever he can find it.

M. FOSTER'S little fifteen cent industries, which are only to be found in the census returns, have been exciting some discussion at Ottawa. Two Quebec members have been asking for the names of the thirty-seven manufacturers credited to Montmagny and the 128 set down for Sorel. Mr. Foster's reply was that the enumerators were sworn to secrecy as regards names and private informa-There is a better reason than that why tion received. these names will never be made public. According to the books of the Legal and Commercial Exchange there are only seventy tour people in business of any kind in Montmagny and but 127 in Sorel—a very small proportion of these being manufacturers. Secrets confided under oath do sometimes transpire in a mysterious manner, but the names of people who never had any existence are quite safe.

learn that the anti-Home Rulers propose to defeat the Home Rule bill by offering prayers against it in the Protestant churches. The weapon is, no doubt, an efficacious one, but it is equally available to both parties, and as a rule the Orangeman is not in it with the Roman Catholic as regards the frequency, fervor and persistency of his supplications. If the question is to be settled by prayer we should be inclined to back the Catholic Home Rulers, who are a great deal more proficient and experienced at that exercise than their opponents.

THE Empire notes the fact that during the local campaign nothing has been said against Mr. Meredith—"his policy, his principles, or his personality"—and claims that not one such word can be said. The Empire is right. Nobody knows what Mr. Meredith's policy and principles are, so it would obviously be difficult to assail them successfully—and personal abuse is going out of fashion except in the case of annexationists and such.

THE manner in which the tariff encourages Canadian industry is illustrated by the following, which appeared last week in the Mail's Ottawa correspondence:

Mr. John Connor, the proprietor of the cordage factory at St. John, N.B., arrived at the Russell this afternoon. It is understood that he is here to protest against the reduction of the duty on binder twine. If is the owner of a mill which has been closed by the Consumers' Company, and it is believed that he has some apprehension that his income derived from the combine will cease.

It would be interesting to know just how much weight the Government, which upholds the N.P. on the ground that it increases home production, will attach to the representations of a tariff beneficiary who is paid for keeping his mill idle so as to lessen production.

PROTECTED TO DEATH.

"INCREASE protection," bold McKinley cried,
"'Twill surely make us prosperous and great."
Up taxes went—the scheme was fairly tried,
And now McKinley's meets a bankrupt's fate.

Protected, tariffed, taxed to his desire, Blessed with restrictions till he couldn't rest; From frying-pan he jumped into the fire; He's stripped of all the wealth he late possessed.

Fools in a mortar you may vainly bray, If thus to cure their folly you expect, As thousands pauperized the self same way Still tell us that "protection does protect."

many religious books."

"Oh, yes. Many of my favorite volumes are very religious. At least I judge so by the way they keep Lent."

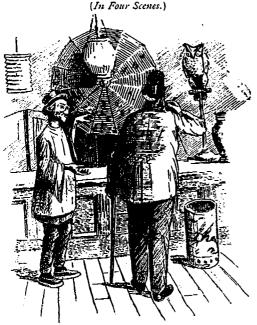

APPRECIATED.

THE Albert, N.B., Maple Leaf speaks thus appreciatively of one of our recent cartoons:

A telling cartoon in the last number of GRIP represents an officer of the Salvation Army rescuing a woman from perishing in the snow. At her side is a bottle of old rye. In the background another Salvationist is leading a staggering drunkard home. A bishop, with eyes uplifted to heaven, is evidently thanking God that he is not as other men are, nor even as this salvationist. Below is this inscription: "The only association from which we may hope any good."

THE LIMITATIONS OF COMPROMISE.

HE was a member of one of the junior political associations, and after a week's preparation, during which he hadn't been able to think of anything else, he had got off his maiden speech in the interests of Dr. Ogerson before an audience numbering at least fifty people in a suburban hall. It had elicited hearty applause, and, flushed with his oratorical triumph, the budding politician received the congratulations of the veteran campaigner who officiated as chairman, at the close of the evening.

"You did very well, Mr. Sprouter—very well indeed, for a beginner."

"Thank you," said the aspirant for campaign honors.
"I had hardly any preparation, you know. but I didn't make any bad breaks, I hope. It's hard to make a real rousing speech without offending somebody. So many different interests to be conciliated."

NEXT CUSTOMER (Six Notch Bill, from the Sierras)—"What's this hen, Waxysace, eh
HOP SING (glibly)—"Him? Oh, yeh, owlyoufool!"

"That's the secret of political success. It isn't in what you say so much as what you don't say. You never want to give the enemy a chance to make capital and quote your words against you, and I think you showed pretty good judgment in that matter."

"Ah," said the neophyte, "I'm glad you think so. You know I tried to make a point with the workingmen without offending the capitalists, and to catch the temperance vote without alienating the whiskey men, and to capture the Catholic vote and not offend the Protestants. And you think I succeeded?"

"Yes, I think you managed that fairly well. But there's just one point where you failed, just like the rest of them."

"And what is that?"

"To get solid with the Tories and keep your hold on

And they descended the stairs in a hurry, fearing that the bar-room on the corner would be closed before they could get inside.

A SOCIETY VADE MECUM.

GRIP has received the prospectus of what promises to be a very valuable work, and one which no member of the elite can afford to be without, to be entitled "The Politico-Social Directory—a Vade Mecum for Entertainers." It will aim to be a complete list of the people who are considered eligible to participate in society functions, and in addition to the usual information as to pedigree, profession and means to be found in such volumes, will contain a full statement of the political opinions (if any) of those whose names are given. This will enable discriminating entertainers to avoid the bad form of inviting Ministers of the Crown, militia colonels, official sinecurists, office seekers and other loyalists to meet men who, for anything that is known to the contrary, may be pessimists or even thorough-going annexationists. No expense has been spared to make the work comprehensive and reliable, and where ordinary inquiry has failed to ascertain the views of the eligibles, the services of a private detective bureau have been called into requisition. The book, which is an edition de luxe, will be sold to subscribers at $10 per copy, which, considering the labor and cost involved in extracting a political opinion of any sort from the large and important class of dudes, is an extremely moderate figure. From the numerous expressions of approval we select the following from Dr. Ryerson: "'The Politico-Social Directory' is just what is needed at the present crisis in the history of our country. Hereafter those unpatriotic or thoughtless persons who have been in the habit of extending the ordinary courtesies of society to annexationists and traitors will have no excuse for pursuing such an injurious course. I am delighted with the fulness with which you have given the pedigree of the Ryersons, whose escutcheon was never tarnished by the taint of treason. It would require the pen of a Gratiano to do justice to your patriotic enterprise. Put me down for ten copies."

EXPERIENCES OF A CONNOISSEUR.

s a consequence of the great success attending the efforts of Canadian artists in recent times, a flood of imitators and pretenders may be expected to ply their art on a simple and artless public, so to speak. To guard that public from imposition will give me pleasure. I can spot 'em every time. The pose of the figures in the much-talked-of "Angelus" is a hymnposition. Ask Samjones if it isn't. I claim that my test of a work of art is infallible. The way I came to find out about it was as thus:

I had for some time been wanting to buy some works of art that were good, not old masterpaintings, for they are, most of them, cracked and dim, and lots of them are not labelled, so that a body could'nt tell for certain what was the subject, but something slick and new, that would look as pretty as -well-as a picture, and I didn't know how to get about it. Some Canadian artists are real nice the way they let you know the value of their work: they'll put on a painting "only $40-very low," or "Morning Shadows, by E. Zell, only $75, extremely cheap." If they'd all do that I wouldn't have any trouble picking up what I wanted, but most of them don't know enough. Seeing a card in a dealer's window stating that some celebrated artists had their works on view, I stepped inside to I thought have a look. they might be glad of some lucre. I found a sale going on, and, while waiting for something to be put up that I thought worthy of a place in my salon, I began a study of a picture that seemed as forlorn and neglected as a last election defeated candidate. It was a painting of a woman and child in a boat, with some old buildings across the water in the background; I was so impressed by the picture that I finally said, to some one near me, "There is something fine, I wonder if they are going to sell it?"

He said, "What are you talking about?"

I indicated the picture, and said "this fine work of art."

He said, "What are you giving us?"

I stated that I was not in the act of making a donation but had spoken seriously regarding the chef d'œuvre. I got this word out of an art-criticism in the Week.

He asked if I had any money, and on learning that I meant to invest some hundreds of dollars in art, he took me by the button hole and began to chew my ear.

"Look-a-here, mister, I've got this thing down fine, and for a small commission I will coach you in what are genuine works of art so that you cannot make a mistake. Now this thing," pointing to the picture that drew my attention, "is as common as mortgage sales, part of a lot of second-hand stuff from a boarding house, used to be given away with soap and wouldn't sell for the cost of making the frame."

"But," I said, "it is pretty and could be got for a trifle."

"Oh dear!" he said, "you give me a pain—you don't want what everybody can buy cheap; your holt is to get as cheap as you can, what everybody is supposed to pay a good price for. You want something that other people will think nice, but the nicest soap chromo on earth won't look as well to your friends as a painting by Sable, for which you have paid $1,000, even if it was a picture of midnight without moon, stars, or even a lamp. Now," as a picture with a very expensive looking frame was put up, "let me test you. What value would you put on that one?"

"Oh, I don't know, say ten dollars for the frame and half as much more for the picture, it looks pretty nice, but that figure sitting by the table don't seem to be doing or thinking anything particular."

"Now here is where my services come in handy. Just look up this catalogue and you'll find number 40 to be 'Oil painting by Smith J., 'Repose.' Now Smith generally gets about 75 to 100 dollars for a picture that size, for he puts lots of color in them, on good canvas and is very particular about his frames. and, if he'd only make his figures look as if they weren't stuffed, he'd get $500 for them easy, so if you get that picture for $50 you've got a good thing."

I said, "but if there is no catalogue and no signature, what then?"

"In that caseand here comes the fine test-feel the picture to see if there are brush marks, if you can't tell by that smell it: if it is a genuine chromo there won't be much smell, but if is is a hand painting it will smell strong of varnish; if you can't find by these tests what the picture is, you can buy if its pretty, but it won't be worth, on the average, more than 30c., because it has no reputation.'

I said I saw the point, bought a picture that I took for a chromo but that cost me $100, when I found the proper marks, paid the agent his fee and determined to give the world the benefit of my experience.

MRS MULCAHY—"Fwhat's that? Desecrated codfish! An' is it to insult me religion that ye ax me to ate desecrated cod-fish in Lint. I moight betther be aitin' mate at wanst. Divil another ha'p'orth do I iver buy in your dirthy store."

VERY TRYING.

MRS. BANKS-"What part, Mr. Brandon, did you consider most difficult when you were on the stage?" MR. BRANDON-"Trying to 'live up' to the salary that I told my friends I was drawing."

THE OLD MAID REJOICES.

E members of the Hamilton Young Liberals' Club, on Saturday night, had a spirited debate on the resolution, "Resolved, that the Dominion Government should impose a tax of $100 per annum on all bachelors." The resolution was carried by a twothirds vote.

IIo, maidens fair, why in despair
Of finding husbands mope? To Hamilton, if you will run, There you may live in hope. Young Liberals there by vote declare

That bachelors should pay A heavy tax, then he who lacks A wife for one will pray.

True Liberals they, for that's the way To come to our relief;

Each selfish churl must find a girl, Or else he'll come to grief. This "single tax" upon their backs

Will prove a burden grea',

And none can thrive until they wive, So quickly they will mate.

Then let us haste, nor longer waste Our days in towns where none Our cause will plead, our interests heed, But rush to Hamilton. There waiting stand, on every hand,
The bachelors who must, 'Tis very plain, a wife obtain, Or pony up the dust.

And let us pray that Mowat may This proposition heed, And pass a law without a flaw, That he who runs may read, That single men mu-t marry when They come to twenty-four, Or pay such fine, that needs like mine Would cost them nothing more.

LOST HIS EQUILIBRIUM.

`HAPPIE—" Dudley fell on the street, to day." CHOLLY-" Deah me!"

CHAPPIE—"Ya-as. He got an old-fashioned penny in his pocket and it over-balanced him."

PROPRIETOR OF FAKE NEWSPAPER—"Here, Snooper, I want you to take in that Ryerson meeting to-night and bring me a full report of the Doctor's speech—a verbatim report, mind you."

SNOOPER—"If you say so, but a verbatim report of his speech won't be any good to publish. Why, he gets awfully mixed up—hunts around for a word, and sometimes breaks off in the middle of a sentence."

PROPRIETOR—" Publish? Who'd publish such stuff that didn't have to? It's just them broken sentences I want. They'll be just the thing for missing word contests. Are you on?"

A VALUABLE EXPERIENCE.

A PPLICANT—"You advertised for a person competent to assist you in studying the language of monkeys"

PROF. GARNER—"Yes. What are your qualifications?"
APPLICANT—"I was valet to a dude for several years and am thoroughly familiar with the speech of that variety."

PROF. GARNER—" You'll do"

A PRUDENT POLITICIAN'S PRECAUTION.

N view of Dr. Ryerson's arraignment of Hon. A. S. Hardy for the offence of being invited to a social function, some of the other guests at which were annexationists, the following correspondence explains itself. Politicians who have votes to lose cannot be too careful in these days, when hydra-headed treason rears its unblushing front at five o'clock teas, and sanguinary sedition threads the giddy mazes of the dance and deftly instils its subtle venom into the viands which grace the hospitable board: "TORONTO, Feb. 22nd.

'Mr. and Mrs. Algernon Q. Boodlesack request the pleasure of the company of Sir Hoggery Grabsneak and lady to dinner at 8 p.m. on the 27th inst.

"R.S.V.P."

"Toronto, Feb. 23rd. "Sir Hoggery and Lady Grabsneak, while returning thanks for the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Boodlesack, beg to say that in view of political exigencies they cannot accept the same unless the political opinions of the guests are unexceptionable. They would, therefore, feel much obliged if Mr. and Mrs. Boodlesack would kindly forward a list of the invited guests with a statement of their views on the political issues of the day, and more especially upon the subject of annexation as far as known. Sir Hoggery Grabsneak would take the further liberty of suggesting that on future occasions when Mr. Boodlesack and his accomplished lady see fit to honor him by their hospitality they should in the first instance furnish such a document, so as to allow time for ample investigation into the views and antecedents of all expected guests, as a little reflection will doubtless show that any person in Sir Hoggery's position might perhaps be seriously compromised by being held responsible for the opinions of those he might meet in social intercourse.

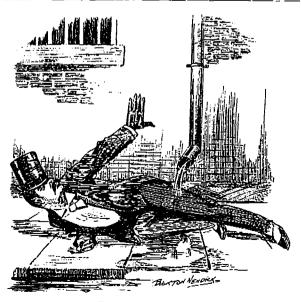

"THE WORST OF CRIMES."

THE LATEST SONG AND DANCE OF THE CANADIAN POLITICAL OPERA.

URRENDER your brains with your votes and dimes,
A mind of your own is the worst of crimes.
If you can't gag a man, why give him a thrust—
Trample the beggar into the dust!
Presumptuous freedom is quite appalling—
Knock him over, kick him for falling!
Lift faction-worship higher and higher—
Your manhood's for sale, and your party's the buyer.
Surrender your brains with your votes and dimes,
A mind of your own is the worst of crimes.

(Over)

HE WAS MARRIED.

"Shay, ge'r away, M'ria. You're always (hic) puttin' cold feetsh 'gainst me."

CLERGYMAN-"There are a great many children's funerals this season." GRAVE-DIGGER (reflectively)-"Yes, sir-but adults is scarce."

If any clever and worthy man Should strive to break from the party plan, Muzzle him straight, as a foul disease The men we want are the men like these: Hollow of heart, and empty of head-Hounds who fawn for a bite of bread— Graduates of the "heeler" school— Quick to crush and easy to rule.

This way, this way, with your votes and dimes, A mind of your own is the worst of crimes.

Should you find a fellow in the ranks Who can't subscribe to all your "planks," Kick him out ruthlessly, body and bones—
He's only a cast-off whom nobody owns.
Pile onto his back with club and knife;
Teach him he'll lead but a leper's life; And struggle forever, gainst hopeless odds, Who will not bow to the party gods. Surrender your brains with your votes and dimes, A mind of your own is the worst of crimes.

Pen yourselves in like pigs in a sty, And ask no questions of whither or why. Eat the swill and roll in the mireComplete submission is all we require.
Join "the lodge" or "the Church," and never forsake her,
Learn to cant and insult your Maker. Be hypocrite, liar, knave and fool, But never think-remember the rule. Up with your brains and your votes and your dimes, A mind of your own is the worst of crimes. JAS. A. TUCKER.

Important Books

Bond-Holders and Bread-Winners.

By S. S. King, Esg. A startling picture of political crimes committed in the name of Liberty. Facts and figures from the Eleventh Census, with maps and illustrations. Massachusetts enabled to accumulate more wealth than nine great Western and Southern States. Pennsylvania more than twelve. New York more than fifteen. Agriculture and labor robbed. Price, 25 cents, sent postpaid.

Is This your Son, My Lord?

A Powerful Realistic Romance. By Helen Gardener, author of "A Thoughtless Yes," "Men, Women, and Gods," Etc. This is probably the most fearless and terrible expose of conventional immorality and hypocrisy ever written. 25,000 copies sold in ten months. It is a book for teachers of youth. A fine portrait of the author forms a frontispiece. Price, paper 50 cents; cloth $1.00.

Who Lies?

An Interrogation. By Prof. Emil Blum and Sigmund Alexander. This is one of the boldest, most radical, and realistic works of the decade. It is as unconventional as it is unique, and will unquestionably call forth hostile criticisms in quarters where its shafts enter. In religion and ethics it is radical. In politics, strongly socialistic. In literature it is extremely realistic. In general, bold, frank, and truthful. Price, paper 50 cents.

Jason Edwards.

An Average Man. By Hamlin Garland, author of "A Spoil of Office," "Main-Travelled Roads," Etc. This powerful story depicts with startling fidelity the real life of the artisan and farmer today; a terrible picture of the unequal struggle of the poor for bread and roof. This story is rich in sunshine and shadows. Price, cloth $1.00; paper 50 cents.

Main-Travelled Roads.

Six Mississippi Valley Stories. By Habilin Garland, author of "Jason Edwards," Etc. These stories give the most vivid pictures of Western life among the farmers ever written. Mr. Garland has been justly termed the Ibsen of America. Price, paper 30 cents; cloth, $1.00.

The Irresistible Conflict between Two World Theories.

By Rev. Minor J. Savage. This work, which was suggested by Dr. Lyman Abbott's recent lectures on the "Evolution of Christianity," is unquestionably the most powerful presentation of the views held by evolutionary thinkers in the religious world that has ever appeared. Price postpaid, paper 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

Burdett's New Comic Recitations

and humorous readings, compiled by the celebrated humorist, James S. Burdett. In addition to the new and original pieces here contained, this book has the advantage of bringing together into one volume all of the very best selections of a comic nature which have hitherto attained a wide popularity through the public representations of the most renowned humorists of the day. It is the newest, handsomest and choicest of its kind.

TYPOGRAPHICAL MATTERS

DESIGNED FOR

Printers, Students, Teachers and Writers

JAMES P. TAYLOR

This little book of eighty-two pages aims to make every student of it an adept in the art of punctuation, and we do not think we claim too much for it when we say that it will accomplish all it aims to.

The exercises, one or two excepted, have not been taken from any work on the subject, but from every outside source that provided the best for illustrating the subject. Many have been taken from the School Readers; and it is believed that they are sufficiently numerous and well chosen to afford all necessary assistance to aspirants for proficiency in this much neglected art.
