TWO KILLED IN BELFAST HOTEL

Believed They Were of Irish Constabulary

French Newspaper Prints Alleged Interview With de Valera—Lord Mayor of Cork Drops Out of Sight.

Belfast, Jan. 27.—Two strangers last evening made inquiry at a hotel near the Belfast police headquarters for three persons. They were shown to the bedroom of the men, two of whom were shot dead and the third severely wounded. The assassins escaped. Later it was learned that the murder party consisted of five men armed with revolvers. Three of them kept guard while the shooting was taking place.

It has been confirmed that the victims were policemen, who were to be important witnesses at the military inquiry. The wounded man is Patrick Gilmartin of Coolmar, County Sligo. He was shot through the lungs, and his condition is critical.

London, Jan. 27.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph says that the men killed in the hotel at Belfast were named Quinn and Heffron, and that both were from the Royal Irish Constabulary depot in Dublin.

Mayor O'Callaghan.

New York, Jan. 27.—Donald O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, whose status in the U. S. was determined as that of a seaman awaiting a chance to re-ship from some United States port, has dropped out of sight.

DONALD O'CALLAGHAN, LORD MAYOR OF CORK.

His last public appearance was on Tuesday, when he addressed the executive committee of the American committee for relief in Ireland here. At headquarters of Harry Boland, secretary to Eamonn de Valera, it was said O'Callaghan's movements were unknown. The hotel at which he had been staying reported that he left several days ago.

I. Hollingsworth Wood, chairman of the committee of one hundred investigating the Irish question, said he knew nothing of O'Callaghan's future plans. It was in a quiet manner as this that de Valera disappeared when he slipped out of the United States this winter.

Alleged Interview With de Valera. Paris, Jan. 27.—Eamonn de Valera has been found "somewhere in France" by a correspondent of the newspaper Oeuvre. De Valera is quoted as saying:

"The Irish people claim the right of self-determination. If England should concede that right, there would be no further difficulties either with her or with the Ulster minority. If Ulster should claim autonomy, we would be willing to grant it."

"The Irish republican parliament received a definite mandate when elected. It will examine all peace proposals from England if not opposed that mandate but, unfortunately, it is too dear Premier Lloyd George's statements leave no illusions. Neither the unionist minority nor the republican majority will agree to a dominion government."

When asked about negotiations carried on with the British government by the Rev. Michael O'Flanagan, acting premier of the Sinn Fein, de Valera said Father O'Flanagan acted on his own initiative as a private individual.

Peace offers by Lloyd George, which have been reported by the press, were said by de Valera to be of little value. "What Mr. Lloyd George says today, he will not say tomorrow, if it suits his purpose," he is quoted as saying. In conclusion de Valera denied there was any division between parties in Ireland on the subject of a settlement with England.

New Orders.

Dublin, Jan. 27.—Colonel Oldman, commanding the garrison in the Dublin district, has issued a warning that any persons who, except in the pursuit of lawful calling, stands or loiters in any public place is guilty of an offence liable to arrest and prosecution.

All Dublin hospitals are required to furnish daily to the military authorities the names, addresses and descriptions of all persons admitted suffering from wounds due to gunshot or explosions.

Johns McArdle, one of the most eminent of Irish surgeons, describes the order as "a gross encroachment on a profession which since earliest times has had a definite code that has never been assailed." He expresses the belief that no power on earth can compel surgeons to violate the confidence of their patients.

REFORMS DENY STORY ABOUT BIG STEAMSHIPS

Montreal, Que., Jan. 27.—The Robert Reford Company announce that there is no truth in a story that the three largest Cunarders—Acquittania, Mauretania and Imperator—would be withdrawn from service, ostensibly for repairs, but in reality because of the slump in passenger traffic.

IN WALL STREET.

New York, Jan. 27.—(10.30)—Extreme dullness attended the early course of the stock market today, the nominal trading disclosing the usual irregular mixture of gains and losses. Royal Dutch soon rose 1 1/2 points and General Asphalt advanced a large fraction. American Vanadium, International Paper, People's Gas, Chesapeake and Ohio were higher by fractions to a point. The heavy issues included Atlantic Sugar, May Department Stores, Crucible Steel and American Agricultural Chemical. Mexican Oil also yielded to further pressure.

Noon Report.

In its essential features the market followed its dull and uncertain course of recent days. After a further advance in the European oils, especially Royal Dutch and Shell Transport, as well as more pool buying of General Asphalt, American Vanadium and Republic Steel. Among the specialties Sears-Roebuck lost three points and other miscellaneous shares fell one to two points. The money market was unchanged with call loans at 7 per cent, but the British rate of exchange made a further gain to $3.56 3/4.

IMPROVEMENTS IN YEAR IN POLICE FORCE OF LONDON

London, Jan. 27.—(By Canadian Press)—The year 1920 was remarkable for the great progress made by the Metropolitan Police in methods of prevention and detecting crime of every description. General Harwood, the commissioner, is a firm believer in the importance of motor-vehicles as an aid to the police, and it is in this direction that the improvements have largely been carried out.

Uniform and detective superintendents have now their own automobiles in which they can rapidly go from one point to another of their large districts. Motor side-cars are kept at various police stations for the use of officers in case of emergency, and divisional detective inspectors have their motorcycles and side-cars to drive to the scene of a crime or to visit outlying districts.

The mounted police, too, under Colonel Laurie, have been reorganized, their equipment improved, and the men mounted on some of the finest horses in the country. Under the new organization a large body of mounted police can be concentrated in any part of London within half an hour.

The effect of these improvements has been seen in the extraordinary number of clever snuffers that have been made of burglars, pickpockets, and other criminals. The flying squads of detectives attached to New Scotland Yard, working independently under the "Big Four" detectives, have done well in rounding up gangs of thieves who infest table stations, trains and omnibuses.

DON'T AGREE WITH THE FRENCH VIEW

British Delegates Said to Find It Impossible

Split on Rock of German Reparation—The Attitude in Berlin—Reported to Agree to Five Yearly Installments.

Paris, Jan. 27.—It was understood this morning that the British delegation attending the session of the supreme allied council considered it impossible to agree to the French view point regarding German reparations. The morning sitting was cancelled so that Lloyd George might have an opportunity to talk privately with members of the council regarding the French position as set forth yesterday by Paul Doumer, French minister of finance.

Louis Loucheur, French minister for liberated regions, conferred with Lloyd George this morning, continuing a private discussion begun last evening.

London, Jan. 27.—The German government, says a despatch to the Times from Berlin, refuses to consider that the conference of the governments at Geneva, which was promised at the Spa meeting, holds, cannot take the place of the pending discussion by experts or of the conference of the governments at Geneva, which was promised at the Spa meeting. Before all, there must be a discussion by industrial experts regarding deliveries.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—Official announcement was made yesterday that Germany has agreed to the plan of five yearly installments for the payment of reparations as the basis for further negotiations with the Allies.

Germany, however, desires that the negotiations fixing the amount of the installments shall be temporarily postponed for discussion of five methods of assessing the reparations and appraising Germany's capacity to pay.

A New York despatch to J. M. Robinson & Sons says the French finance minister suggests $100,000,000,000 marks gold as allied reparation total, but Lloyd George calls it too high. Conference has until May 15 to fix the amount.

Campbell, president of St. John Trades and Labor Council, said this morning that the delegation which appeared before the city council regarding the sugar refinery recently, did not intend to include colored workmen amongst those to which they objected. He said that organized labor drew no line at class, creed or color with the exception of the yellow race. He said that the colored people referred to were British subjects, being natives of the West Indies.

REPORT ON DEBS TO PRESIDENT

Matter of Pardon and Freedom From Atlanta Prison.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Recommendations of the department of justice for a pardon for Eugene V. Debs, now serving a prison term at Atlanta for violation of the espionage act, probably will be submitted to President Wilson within the next few days.

Officials of the department said today that a study of the case had been completed and put before Attorney-General Palmer. They gave no indication as to whether a pardon will be recommended. President Wilson has said, however, that he would not pardon Debs, as he believed such action might lower the morale of the people of the United States in the event of another war.

They Take Stand Against Dancing

Vital Problem, Declares Social Service Council

Present Period Amusement—Crazy, Says Clergyman—Classify Folk or Gymnastic Dancing Separate from Social.

London, Ont., Jan. 27.—At last night's meeting of the social service council an appeal for more consideration for Indians all over the dominion was made by Lieut. Loft of the Six Nations Tribe. He believed Indian affairs should be under provincial rather than federal administration.

General W. S. Hughes, dominion inspector of prisoners, favored doing away with capital punishment and substituting life sentences.

The question of dancing caused a hot discussion. Rev. E. H. Bean of Milverton advised the chair to defeat a recommendation favoring social dancing. He declared that the present age is amusement-razy and instead of putting on the brakes to save some of the young people, more dances were being added. He said he would like to know the difference between social dancing and commercialized dancing.

The following motion was finally accepted: "Not because it is the least important, but because we are still in the experimental stage, we mention dancing as one of the best types of recreation in which members of both sexes may unite. We think it wise to classify folk or gymnastic dancing and social dancing in separate groups. In many communities the former will be permitted where there is strong opposition to the latter. Unquestionably there is need for wise experimenting along this line. We cannot hold ourselves aloof from this vital problem."

New York, Jan. 27.—The proposal to hold the Dempsey-Carpenter championship bout in Montreal was discussed here today by Tex Rickard and two Canadian promoters, C. F. Graham and F. O. Goodspeed, members of a Montreal syndicate. Rickard said he had been requested by the Montreal men to consider their mission confidential.

William A. Brady, who, with Charles B. Cochran, recently withdrew from the bout said today he is prepared, whenever requested, to assign his interest and that of Cochran, to Rickard. The latter, however, said he intends to wait until February, when he has arranged a conference here with Jack Kearns, before tackling the project alone.

Did You Ever See a Yellow Coconut?

You certainly never did, therefore you must not be surprised that SWEET NUT is white, not yellow. It's churned, you see, from the white inside of the coconut and fresh pasteurized milk and it is the best and most economical spread for bread obtainable today. If you prefer it yellow, a few drops of pure vegetable color worked in, will give it in a moment the right appearance.

STANDING IN THE WAY.

Once more the Times extends a polite and earnest invitation to the Globe's anonymous correspondent on harbor commission to come out from under the barn and let us look him over. He must see that it is a rather ungracious proceeding to fire from ambush upon his fellow-citizens, imputing motives, insinuating political influence and the like. It would also be useful if he would demonstrate how harbor commission would bring trade to the port. There are now said to be steamers in port waiting for orders. Where is the freight? The railroads supply the freight. They do not wait to learn the views of a harbor commission. A recent report says that freight will be provided at Portland, Maine, both winter and summer. The railroads, which provides its own terminals, will provide the freight. There is no harbor commission at Portland. There is none at Halifax. Vancouver has one, but the government provides its own terminals. In St. John there are enough wharves now on the west side to serve the needs of the C. P. R., and when it needs more it always gets them. There is an agreement to that effect. The government has both the railroads and steamships. It has only to provide them with adequate terminal facilities on the east side of the harbor. But for the Globe's anonymous correspondent and his sympathizers the city council would long ago have rejected an impossible harbor commission proposal, and we would have been well on the way to more satisfactory conditions. Just now there is a great hullabaloo about increasing taxes, but there is no concerted effort to bring about harbor conditions such as would make the city grow and produce more taxable property and taxpayers.

THE QUESTION OF RENTS.

A correspondent of the Times gives instances where the increase in rents has been quite out of proportion to the growth in taxation. Other similar complaints have been made. The matter is one which might fairly be made the subject of inquiry. The average citizen is not in a position to judge in this matter, and if there is injustice it should be exposed. In the city of New York there is a board which deals with the question, and it seems to have been doing excellent work. A landlord is entitled to a fair return on his investment, but not an exorbitant profit. If there are any who make increased taxation, or the plea of an expected increase in taxes, the excuse for demanding far more than a fair return on investment it becomes a matter of public concern, and action for the protection of the tenant is justified. The theory that a man has a right to take advantage of another man's necessity, the man having a family to support, and being practically at the mercy of the house owner, is neither sound nor in the public interest. There are many landlords in St. John who have treated tenants fairly, and have not increased rates beyond what would yield them a fair return. If there are others who seek to squeeze the last possible dollar out of their tenants, regardless of service rendered, there should be a way to get at them and bring them to a more human frame of mind. The price of building material has declined and is still declining. Labor will not cost more, and is expected to be more efficient. If increased taxes are made the excuse for increased rates, the rate of increase should only be made proportionate to the tax. The housing problem is acute because houses are scarce. The temptation to make this a reason for extortion should not be encouraged.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

The vocational school board of this city has been savagely attacked. There is also a grossly unfair attack upon the vocational training act and upon the provincial director, Mr. Fletcher Peacock. The vocational training act was a non-partisan measure, endorsed by both parties in the legislature. Mr. Peacock was appointed director because he was thoroughly qualified. So far as the carrying out of the act in St. John is concerned, it has been in the hands of a reputable group of citizens who serve without remuneration. If anybody has helpful suggestions to make the board will be glad to listen and profit thereby. Its members, however, have a right to object to venomous attacks that are not prompted by any desire to serve the needs of the public. If the board is open to criticism, let that criticism be fair, and actuated by a desire to improve rather than destroy. To cut out the grant for vocational training would be a confession of failure, which a city like St. John should not tolerate for a moment. We want more, not less, of this training, and if the right persons are not getting the benefit a remedy can easily be applied.

Sweden has adopted equal suffrage without qualification, and women will be eligible to sit in either of the houses of parliament.

An Ontario bond issue of $10,000,000 and far more applicants than could be accommodated. This is a satisfactory indication of financial conditions.

FARMERS AND LIBERALS.

It suits the purpose of Premier Meighen and the high tariff advocates to represent the Farmers and the Liberals as advocates of complete free trade. The Grain Growers' Guide replies for the Farmers as follows:—
"The Farmers' platform does not call for absolute free trade either immediately or remotely. It calls for certain reductions in the tariff, and if the Tariff Commission has collected any evidence of value it will come in handy for the determination of those reductions. If it hasn't any evidence of value a reform government will dig it up for itself. In the meantime we will wait and see what the commission has for the public which is more than Mr. Meighen has done in his anxiety to blacken the Farmers' movement."
The Toronto Globe is equally emphatic in its statement of the position of the Liberal party in relation to the tariff. It says:—
"Liberals and Progressives are as deeply interested in the prosperity of the Canadian people as any high-class Haman's-gallows protectionist. They desire that prosperity shall be widespread, and that the fiscal policy of the country, instead of being so framed as to encourage the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few privileged capitalists of industry, shall make it easier for the average man to provide those dependent on him with food, clothing and shelter. They propose, in short, that the tariff of Canada shall be based on the principle of obtaining the maximum revenue possible from those who live luxuriously, and taxing as lightly as revenue requirements will permit the necessities of life. That is a very different thing from the free trade fanaticism Mr. Meighen has been endeavoring—without success—to ascribe to all who refuse to bow the knee to the group of reactionary Tories who have usurped power at Ottawa, and who propose to hold it till the end of the parliamentary term without securing the consent of the Canadian people."

Mr. Meighen has carried the tariff issue into the West Peterboro by-election, and hopes to win. With so many candidates in the field it would be folly to predict results there, but even if the high protectionist should not win it is a foregone conclusion that the tariff issue will be the chief one on which the government will go to the country, when it has mustered up enough courage to make its appeal in a general election. Allied with it of course will be the American bogey, and the delicate intimation that only a Conservative victory can save Canada from the Bolsheviks and all manner of reactionaries. Neither Farmers nor Liberals, however, will permit themselves to be wrongly represented in regard either to the tariff or the orderly conduct of public affairs.

The Sackville Tribune neatly describes one class in every community as those "who have lost everything except their money, which they guard with unusual care lest by any chance the revisors and tax collectors should learn of its whereabouts." It is members of this class who always see disaster hovering near when to their views. The Tribune makes it the same article another observation which is worth passing on to a wider circle of readers. It is as follows: "For a man in this enlightened age to place himself on record as being opposed to vocational training is sure evidence that he is living in the past, rather than in the present."

Eight hundred Ontario widows with children are receiving mothers' allowances from the province. They are civil servants raising children for the state—and there is no nobler or more valuable service. But for the aid given them their children would suffer deprivation, would be under-nourished, and likely to grow up to be less efficient citizens than those reared in comfortable homes under a mother's care. Indeed the ranks of delinquents are too often recruited from those deprived of proper care in their early youth. Ontario does well, and is not the only province having such a system. What of New Brunswick?

The birth rate in England for 1920 was the highest for ten years, and the death rate the lowest recorded, as was also the infant mortality rate. This is a remarkable showing. The total number of deaths was the lowest since 1862.

MIDWINTER SORROW.
Alas, there's trouble everywhere, according to the daily news, and countless cupboards now are bare of pumpkin pies and oyster stews, and children wail and tear their hair because they haven't any shoes. And we might preach to those who lack the pies that human critics need, reminding them how, some months back, they cut a gorgeous swath, indeed, and how we urged them to pack in brine the kopeck and the seed. But preaching is an empty craft when human innards madly ache; there always is a mighty raft of sermons when kids call for cake, when poor folks yearn to sit afloat a large and luscious sirloin steak. And so we'll brighten up the lives of those who walk knee deep in woe, and stake the poor gets and their wives from our abundant stack of dough; the Christmas spirit still survives in all of us, we'd have you know. We'd spring our platitudes when next you're down, when working men, when workmen, are not perplexed by absence of the good green; a pie is better than a text when meals are few and far between.

POPULAR BRAND.

(From the Boston Transcript.)
The new girl at the perfumery counter had received her training in a bookstore. She hadn't been long on her new job when a customer, after looking over the display, picked up a bottle and asked, "Is this a good brand of perfume?"
"That, madame, is one of our six best smellers," declared the newswoman.

SHE DIDN'T KNOW EVERYTHING.

"Bobby, your mother tells me you are a very bright boy, and she expects you to be a great man," said Mr. Blossom as she sat in the parlor waiting for Bobby's sister.

THE CASH CALL.

(Baltimore Sun.)
Marsie Henry Watterston said at a Louisville dinner:
"One day I met an old colored man toting a fat ham under each arm. It was a gray, cold day, windy and threatening snow, but the old fellow had on a ragged seersucker coat, and he carried three or four chickens with a ham—it calls for cash."

EXCITING MIDNIGHT CHASE OF CROWD IN STOLEN AUTOMOBILE.

(Montreal Herald.)
Coming from the Motordrome at midnight, M. LeMieux, of LeMieux and Coppell, motor distributors, and vice-president of the Montreal Motor Owners' Association, caught a sight of a $4500 Chandler coupe with four men and two women occupants. Requisitioning the car of a friend he commenced a thrilling chase which lasted a half hour. Before the end was in sight Mr. LeMieux had travelled many streets going 40 miles an hour. At one point in the chase a constable D'Almeida jumped aboard his car and was pulled to a seat in the auto as he caught the speeding chaser.
The hunt started when the owner saw his machine driven by and into the darkness of a side street. The car was stolen last Tuesday from in front of the Princecess theatre and when recovered Friday, was so dismantled that it cost the owner $884 to repair it.
Every tire was gone, and mud guards removed with all the essential parts of the car.
On the first day out, after the repairs had been made it disappeared a second time. The owner was at his place of business on Belmont street for a moment and was asked by a friend if he had loaned his car. The question sent him to the street to find that for the second time within a week his automobile had been taken without permission.
When he got a sight of it last night he requisitioned another auto and for a time there was nothing on the road to pass him. Through St. Denis around a square to Sherbrooke, to Berri street, up Montana to Cherrier, pursued and pursued held on. Several times it looked as if the followers would overtake the car ahead, each in turn street cars prevented capture. At Duluth the policeman jumped aboard and down the street to Pine avenue to a street car crossing, the race progressed.
Cars which had followed the capture twice, proved to be the means of arrest. With a tramway stopped in the street and faced to the south. The auto, containing the owner glided around the rear of the tramway and his chauffeur placed his car straight across the space between the street car and the curbing, blocking further passage.
Constable D'Almeida, who had been informed of the thefts, jumped out and captured the chauffeur, who gave his name as Angelo Perotti, and his address as Wiseman avenue. When Judge Leet heard the circumstances of the case he placed a bail bond of $2,500 which the accused will have to furnish to get his freedom, pending the enquiry. His five companions, with no charge upon which to hold them, were allowed to depart.

"LE GRAND FRANKLIN."

(From the Toronto Globe.)
The two hundred and fifteenth anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin is being observed this week in the United States by a national thrift campaign. His memory and teachings are being honored throughout the union by a wide variety of public functions in the hope that a people who have won a reputation for waste and extravagance may be persuaded that the large place their nation occupies in the councils of the world can be held practicing the simple and virtuous virtues of the great statesman and diplomat who wished to be remembered rather as a prudent printer.
A man in his difficult day played so prominent a part in moulding the destiny first of the American colonies and later of the young Republic as did Franklin, described by Rufus Choate at a banquet as "The great Philadelphia born in Boston." In 1723, when seventeen years of age, he entered the printing trade in Philadelphia. Next year found him in London in the same employment. Three years later he was back in Philadelphia with his former employer, Samuel Keimer. In 1729 he began the printing of the Pennsylvania Gazette, which thrives today under another name. He went to London in 1757 and won his first battle for self-government by obtaining from the British Government recognition of the right of the colonies to be consulted in the making of their laws. In his many subsequent missions to the British and French capitals, both before and during the American struggle for independence, Franklin created a deep impression by his candor and his perspicacity. John Adams wrote home from Paris once that Franklin's visits to Paris were of greater importance to the whole of Europe.
This printer-statesman and some relations were a pamphlet he published in 1760 had much to do with the determination of the British Ministry to retain Canada in the face of the argument that its retention might embarrass the Home Government in its dealings with the Thirteen Colonies. Sixteen years later he, with Charles Carroll, Samuel Chase and John Carroll, came to Montreal, conferred with General Arnold and unsuccessfully sought the cooperation of Canada in the War of Independence. He helped to draw up immediately afterward the Declaration of Independence at Philadelphia.
Franklin thought deeply, wrote much and worked hard at his trade. His publications administered a sharp turn to American thought in the nineteenth century as well as his own. He knew Adam Smith personally and by sympathetic reading of the latter's work, and he was an ardent free trade advocate. In the nineteenth century his high intelligence recognized in practice thirteen virtues—Temperance, Silence, Order, Resolution, Frugality, Industry, Sincerity, Justice, Moderation, Cleanliness, Tranquillity, Chastity and Humility. The greatest of these in the minds of his countrymen today, grown dizzy with prosperity and the Industrial Revolution, so by six days of oratory they would elevate themselves to the thrifty eminence of "Poor Richard," whom an abundance of France acclaimed as "Grand Franklin."

ENORMOUS PAPER BILL OF PUBLISHERS.

Newsprint to Value of More Than $380,000 Will be Consumed by American Press.
According to Editor and Publisher the newspaper bill of the American press for the calendar year 1921 will be considerably over $300,000,000 providing the contract prices announced by the big companies, rule firm for the entire year. This $300,000,000 should be compared with a paper bill in 1920 of approximately $280,000,000.
Roughly, the increased cost in 1921 for newspaper publishers now face is $75,000,000. This sum must be wrung from the very life-blood of the newspaper business, and in turn advertisers, and finally the public in general.
These figures are naturally conservative, because they are based upon a total production of 2,317,000 tons in 1920 and an estimated production of 2,500,000 tons for 1921 under an average selling price of the five largest manufacturers, and no account is taken of the spot market prices under which a percentage of the tonnage of 1920 was sold.

THE PERIOD OF PRICE TRANSITION IS HERE NOW

Geo. T. Creary is revising all Prices and is making a Great Mid-Winter Clearance of Men's Wear, Starting on Friday.

"For the whole month of February we are working to meet the transition period from which the readjustment of affairs must come," said Geo. Creary, in his preparation of bargains for Semi-ready great mid-winter sale for men. "It may be that we will have to devote more than a month to the clearing out of our stock, but we have decided to pocket a loss and be as cheerful about it as was Tom Sawyer's cat when he gave it a dose of Pain Killer. Somebody must lose, and the newspapers decided a few months ago that it should be the merchants, the while they raised their advertising rates. We will sell many garments for less than they cost us—though they are worth more today than what we paid for them. "Starting on Friday morning, bright and early, we expect to launch the greatest sale of high-class merchandise for men ever known in St. John. It is not fly-by-night sale of mixed up bankrupt goods that are without genealogy or reputation, but a sale of the best merchandise from the leading makers of reputations in Canada.

SMALLER PASSENGER SHIPS.

(Toronto Globe.)
The announcement that the International Mercantile Marine Company has abandoned the construction of the large passenger ship Homeric with a register of 38,000 to 40,000 tons, indicates a tendency toward smaller ships on the Atlantic.

The Homeric, which succeeds her in the White Star building programme, will have about 16,000 tons. The explanation of P. A. S. Franklin, president of the company, is that a small vessel can be operated to better advantage than a monster, that a great part of the first cost lay in the passenger fittings, and that there is a point beyond which it is prohibitive.

The larger ships built before the war might be operated with financial success because their cost was proportionately less than it would be now, but he believed that smaller ships would continue to be built, at least until cost of construction are materially reduced.

The great majority of passengers would undoubtedly prefer comfort on a smaller boat even if it took a day or two longer to cross the Atlantic. The course of events justifies the prediction made by the late Sir William Van Horne in his speech at the Garrison Club, Quebec, a few years ago, that the favorite Atlantic vessel would be ultimately of moderate size and speed, combined with the highest degree of safety and comfort, and even luxury.

Letters of Wolfe and Monkton Catalogued for Sale by London Dealers.

London, Jan. 9.—(By Mail, Canadian Associate Press.) A sale catalogue of peculiar interest has been issued by Messrs. Sotheby for February 10. Its main contents are the official correspondence of General Robert Monkton during his services in North America, 1758-63, and the special sale-order importance of this correspondence lies in the thirty-three autograph letters addressed to him by Wolfe to whom Monkton was second in command in the campaign culminating in the capture of Quebec.

BRITISH INVENTOR GIVEN U. S. MEDAL

Sir Robert Hadfield, Inventor of Manganese Steel, Awarded Distinction.

New York, Jan. 26.—Sir Robert Hadfield, inventor of manganese steel and leader of the British steel industry, has been awarded the John Fritz Gold Medal for notable scientific and industrial achievement. It was announced here by the John Fritz Medal Board, representing five leading United States engineering societies.

Manganese steel was first described by Sir Robert in 1863, but it did not become generally known until the war demanded armaments in which toughness was combined with great strength. Manganese steel is non-magnetic, and millions of helmets made of this material were worn during the war by British, United States and Belgian soldiers.

In addition to inventing manganese steel, Sir Robert discovered a magnetic steel of high permeability especially suited for use in dynamos and motors.

CUNNING RATS LAY CARPET TO CROSS A STICKY TRAP. London, Eng., Jan. 27.—An extraordinary story of the cunning of rats is touched for by one of the government's rat experts. The proprietors of a Leeds factory, to destroy the rats investing the plant, laid down attractive baits and paved the way to them with large plates coated with a sticky varnish. Such plates have caught and held hundreds of rats, but in the Leeds instance the crafty rodents carried to the scene large quantities of factory waste which they laid over the varnish. Over this carpet they passed to and from the baits.

YOW REPORTERS GOT THE STORY OF
THE BALLOONISTS

Strategy and Resource That Gave the Narrative to the Public Despite Handicaps.

(Ottawa Journal)
To "scoop" Secretary Josephus Daniels on the story of Hinton, Kloor and Farrell, in other words, to get the story of the "lost" balloonists into the newspapers before the United States navy department got it at Washington—such was the task of two score United States and Canadian reporters who swooped down upon the amazed natives of Cochrane, Mattice and Clute some ten days ago.

New York reporters are reputed to be daring and resourceful. The writer, eight years ago, saw them smash police restrictions when, on the occasion of the arrival of the Carpathia with the survivors of the Titanic, they strung telegraph wires into the homes of the rescued and got their interviews and "stories" by such means; saw them a few years later charter a large steamer in Quebec to go out and meet the cruiser Essex returning with the victims of the Empress of Ireland disaster, and witnessed them break through police lines in the Halifax catastrophe disguised as workers for the Red Cross. On none of these occasions, however, did the New Yorkers display quite the same ingenuity, resource and disregard for expenditure as when on the trail of the balloonists. They entered Cochrane equipped for any emergency. They came on a special car, with their own chef, with all kinds of provisions, with dozens of typewriters, stationery, books, maps, telegraphs, blankets and mackinaw coats. Cochrane merchants experienced a similar windfall, and prices, responding to the law of supply and demand, simply soared.

"Isn't It Comforting"—To know absolutely that every infusion is going to be Uniformly good, and "Just Right" to your taste?

for the rigors of the Arctic scene. The little Hudson Bay post at Mattice was swept clean of snowshoes, shopkeepers, mackinaw blankets and mackinaw coats. Cochrane merchants experienced a similar windfall, and prices, responding to the law of supply and demand, simply soared.

Two Likely Trails.
Cochrane, for the first few days, became the G. H. Q. of the crowd. Scouts were sent out on the trail, going out as far as fifteen miles, but the little northern town, innocently pleased at the thought of being "put on the map," was the base. There were two trails by which the balloonists might come—Clute and Mattice. The rappers and Indians in the neighborhood were divided in their opinions, some favoring Mattice and others Clute, and it was therefore found necessary to guard both trails.

This was done by sending out Indian runners from both Mattice and Clute. The Indian runners were sent out a figure that to them must have seemed fabulous—to go out and intercept the balloonists and beat them back to the telegraph station by eight hours. Thus the correspondents figured, they would be afforded ample time to get to the aviators before the messages of Secretary Daniels commanding not to let Mattice, of course, was a hundred miles away, but an engine stood by night and day under steam, prepared to take the party there within three hours. Two correspondents out of the two dozen broke from the others and decided to play a lone hand—namely the New York American and Crossland of The New York Tribune. Clermont, with two Indians, ten dogs and two toboggans, started out on the Mattice trail, while Crossland, with similar equipment, went out on Clute. Their hope was to meet the aviators fifty or sixty miles out, get their story and make a dash back with the news ahead of all the others. Both men had the worst of bad luck. Crossland, who has never been on snowshoes before, but who insisted on breaking the trail, stumbled on his first day out and was badly bitten by one of the huskies. He had to camp a day, but finally pushed on more than fifty miles, only to learn from a runner sent out after him that he had taken the wrong trail and that the other correspondents were coming into Mattice—100 miles away. This meant that his lone card had lost, for it was impossible to get back to Mattice in time. He was game, however, sending back this message to the more lucky ones at Mattice:

"You were right and have lost. Good luck with your story. Hope you'll meet soon again, with different success."
Crossland had expended several hundred dollars for his party and a dash combination of bad luck, was completely "scooped" on the story.

Met the Aviators.
Nor did Clermont, who pushed on nearly 90 miles, fare much better. He met the aviators, camped with them overnight, got their story, and began his dash back with it, but could not stand the pace. His feet, unused to snowshoes, blistered and bled, he suffered intensely from the cold, and his progress slowed down to not more than 14 miles a day. On the other hand, the Indian runners sent out by the other correspondents, and who met the balloonists the morning after Clermont did, came back like the wind. They even dropped pieces of tallow and cheese along the trail to slow up Clermont's dogs, and arrived in Mattice nearly eight hours ahead of him. Clermont, in fact, could only make Mattice six hours ahead of the balloonists, and not in time to pull off his "scoop," and then fell into the worst kind of hard luck by going on to Cochrane and missing the Farrell-Hinton fight, the best part of the story.

Getting Farrell.
Despite the warning of the Indian runners, the balloonists, who arrived two hours before expected, took the reporters unaware, and before a hundred words could be got out of Hinton and Kloor they had received and read Daniels' message enjoining silence. Fortunately, however, Farrell was a half hour behind the others, and a detachment (of the reporters) was sent out to cut him off from the main force—and Daniels' message—while others remained behind to take care of Kloor and Hinton. Farrell proved easier than the most sanguine hoped for, and the indictment of a cup of hot tea readily lured him into a shack—and into the arms of the newspaper men—about a mile out on the trail.

Here Edward Klauber of the New York Times, who was elected spokesman for the journalists, put Farrell through a grueling cross-examination, taking him from Rockaway to Moose Factory and back to Mattice, and finally producing the Hinton letters, which later caused such a row. It was just as Farrell had concluded his story that Hinton entered the shack with Daniels' message, getting a punch in the jaw for his pains.

It was one thing to get the story; another thing to get it out. There are only two wires out of Mattice, one via Winnipeg and the other via Quebec; and two wires are of mighty little consequence in carrying 75,000 words within the space of a few hours. The question, therefore, arose, as to which reporter of the two dozen should have a first go at the wires. After some hot debate it was decided that the fairest way would be to have the man drawing the lowest card getting first turn at the wire, and the man drawing the highest getting the last, those in between taking their turn in order of drawing. Thus, each man filing 200 words at a time, in this way everybody got a bit of chance; at three o'clock the following morning four reporters, handling two wires had sent out 800,000 words; six hours later the New York business man could read the story at his breakfast, and the next day could go and see the whole episode reproduced at his favorite movie theatre.

Consult the Imperial Chart of Recommendations for the grade of Imperial Polarine that is exactly suited to your car.

Imperial Premier Gasoline has a complete, unbroken chain of low, medium and high boiling points. It starts easily, "picks up" smoothly, and delivers more power and "More miles per gallon."

It is a straight distilled, all-refinery gasoline. It burns clean to the last drop, and all goes into power. You cannot buy better motor fuel than Imperial Premier Gasoline at any price.

FLEET STREET HAS PECULIAR CHARM
Characters Out of Dickens
Seem to Populate Famous Old Thoroughfare Still.
(Christian Science Monitor.)
The attraction of Fleet street for those who work in it and live in it is peculiar and intimate. In this respect it is perhaps different from any other street in the world. Its call to the exile is as strong as the call of his native village to the countryman; as the bond that unites the banished Scotman to his own land. The difference between the street eastward of Ludgate Circus and westward of the Griffin, where Temple Bar used to stand, would not, possibly, be recognized by the average passerby, but there is a difference. Old landmarks are constantly disappearing with the street widening, improvements, and so forth, but the people, the real community, of the place, are changeless and characteristic. No where else do you find such a curious mingling of past and present. Adopt Dr. Johnson's proposal and take a walk down Fleet street. You will meet faces that have been familiar there for the last quarter of a century, or more, if your memory goes back so far.
On a fine day you are almost sure to encounter the spruce, upright figure of Mr. Wardle. He frequently met Dickens as his father's house when he was a boy. The senior Wardle and the now-dead Mr. Wardle were great cronies during the father's Fleet street days, and it was this Wardle who gave Box the name for the jovial master of Dingley Dell. Knowing the son, it is easy to imagine that he supplied something more than the name for the estimable man who was such a good friend of the Pickwickians. There is a briskness about the present-day Mr. Wardle, such a happy twinkle in his clear eyes, combined with a kindly, old-world courtesy, that he puts every man in good humor and makes every man his friend.
Kitty, the flower girl, is another familiar figure in the street. Kitty, with an armful of carnations, roses, or chrysanthemums, the best to be found in London, brings a breath of a cleaner

REACHED 101 YEARS

Birthday Celebration of Mrs. Lois Caswell, Formerly of St. John.

It is not often given to mortals to spend 101 years on this earth, and when Mrs. Lois Caswell of Granville Ferry, N. S., reached that age it was decided to hold a birthday party in her honor.

This event was celebrated by about forty persons, on Thursday evening, Jan. 20th. During the evening letters of congratulations, from former pastors and others, were read.

Mrs. Caswell was born in New Brunswick nine days before George III, King of England, reached the end of his long reign. She has therefore lived under six sovereigns.

There are living four grand-children and six great grand-children.

Mrs. Caswell enjoys good health with full possession of all her faculties, and when the birthday party sang a closing hymn she joined in heartily.

HOCKEY.
Chatham Defeats Fredericton
Fredericton's jubilation resulting from their recent victory over Chatham in the New Brunswick Hockey League was short lived, their championship aspirations receiving a severe jolt last evening when the snappy North Shore team vanquished them by a score of 3 to 1. The game was played in Chatham and was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic number of fans. Bidlake, goal tender for the capital team, saved his team mates from being snowed under by his great work in the net. Chatham forwards attacked Fredericton and back checked the defence. Shorty Veno and Farther pratt played a game for the winners, the latter forming a pivot for the entire attack.

N. H. L. Results

Maraville Wants Share.
Boston, Jan. 26.—"Rabbit" Maraville appears reconciled to his passing to the Pittsburgh Pirates from the Boston Braves, with whom he has won fame as a shortstop.

"While I'd rather remain in Boston, I'll be thinking to death to go to Pittsburgh if things are fixed up satisfactorily by both clubs," he said in discussing the deal.

Bill Southworth and Fred Nicholson, outfielders, and Walter Barbare, infielder, are the players who come here in exchange.

Manager Fred Mitchell in making the announcement of the trade for President Grant of the Boston Club, said no money was involved. Barney Dreyfus, owner of the Pittsburgh Club, was reported to persist in the statement that in addition to the three players Boston received a sum in cash, said to be $25,000. Maraville said that he had heard nothing officially from the Boston management and would have no definite statement to make until he was notified of the trade by the club. "If they fix us up I'll go," he said, intimating that he wanted a share of any purchase money.

Although Maraville is popular here, many fans expressed satisfaction over the trade, which was not announced, though loth to see the diminutive shortstop go, they feel that the Boston team has been materially strengthened by the deal. Nicholson and Southworth, both good-hitting outfielders, will fill a gap in the wide range of the Braves' outer gardens that has existed for years.

LAUDER'S RETURN TO LONDON
(From the Westminster Gazette).
Congratulations to London, the Palace Theatre, and its prospective February audiences on the news that Sir Harry Lauder is to appear for a four weeks' season during February. For much too long a period now we have had to be content with merely reading of Sir Harry's triumphs abroad, but he will certainly find that London has not forgotten him in the interval.

Columns have been written in the last twenty years in the attempt to analyze the "Lauder craze," and they have gone very little beyond a general conclusion that Lauder is always Lauder and that there is not much else to be said. No doubt there are certain things which can be set down in detail. There is the unforced and infectious merriment, there is a certain tunefulness in the music of his songs, there is the fact that his wit, though racy of the soil, is never coarse, and that there is always some point in his songs. And yet, when all this has been said, there remains something—what is it? We shall come away from the Palace next month still wondering, still puzzled. Perhaps that is the secret.

MOVIES BEAT LEGIT, 2 TO 1.
Berlin, Jan. 27.—The "silent drama" here, elsewhere, recently has won surprising favor with the public. The Berlin statistical year book says attendance at moving picture theatres now is "27 to 1 in favor of the screen over the spoken drama."

MARSHAL FOCH BADLY BEATEN AT DOMINOES

Interesting Game in Which Three Prominent Men of France Took Part.

Paris, Jan. 28.—(Associated Press Correspondence).—Marshal Foch, whose strategy confounded the Germans, suffered a crushing defeat the other day. President Millerand or France shared the blame for they were partners.

It was not at war but at dominoes. The American ambassador Hugh C. Wallace and former President Poincare triumphed over the great marshal and France's chief executive. The incident is related by a writer of the Cri De Paris in the best journalistic style, substantially as follows:—

The presidential train carrying high personages of France and other nations to Verdun to attend the dedication of the monument marking the Bayonet Trench that had been under way for an hour and conversation had begun to lag.

"If we had a game of dominoes," exclaimed Marshal Foch.

Alas! the box of dominoes of the ex-lieutenant had been forgotten; and there were no dominoes in the restaurant.

"We must get some on the return," declared M. Millerand, who entrusted this important mission to his son, Jean.

When after the ceremony, they rejoined ed the train for the return journey, a magnificent box of dominoes was spread out on the table of the saloon-car. It had been borrowed from a colonel of the gendarmierie.

Two camps were immediately formed. The President had the Marshal for partner, the adversaries were M. Poincare and Hugh C. Wallace.

"Are we strong enough?" M. Poincare asked the Ambassador.

"The President and the Marshal are crack players."

"We too, I hope," replied Mr. Wallace smiling.

"Hm!" questioned M. Poincare. "You, certainly."

"The first game began. It went in favor of M. Millerand and Marshal Foch."

"I knew it," signed M. Poincare.

"Let us see how it goes in the second game," responded Mr. Wallace. "Never despair."

The second game commenced. It was a surprise. The Poincare-Wallace side gained a sweeping victory over the Millerand-Foch side.

"Let us have a revenge," the Marshal declared impatiently. "We cannot. Mr. President, allow ourselves such a defeat."

The revenge was palpitating, but in the end the game, which for a long time swayed in the balance, pronounced itself in favor of M. Poincare and Wallace.

"Well, Mr. Marshal, you are beaten," M. Millerand said.

"It seems to me, Mr. President, that you are, too," rejoined the Marshal. "But very adventures! Mr. Poincare plays very well and the Ambassador is a champion player!"

GRANTS ARE CONSIDERED

Delegations from Travelers Aid and Victorian Order

Some Figures Reduced, and Others Eliminated Entirely—City Receives Summons in Court Action.

Consideration of grants occupied the attention of the city commissioners this morning and several of the amounts were passed in the committee stage. Some of the amounts were entirely eliminated this year.

The Associated Charities asked for $400. It was decided to make the grant the same as last year, $225.

The Victorian Order, granted last year $2,000, asked for $3,000. The grant was left as last year.

The S. P. C. asked for $150, as last year. As it had received several bequests last year it was decided to eliminate the grant to this and the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Regarding the swimming scow, Commissioner Bullock said it was possible to make a small charge for adults. On his motion it was decided to make the grant $1,000.

No application was made by the Town Planning Commission, so the grant was dropped. The $10,000 exhibition grant was eliminated for this year, as it was not used last year. The board of health milk inspection grant was eliminated.

The grant to the public library was increased from $6,000 to $7,100, the amount asked for. The amount of $1,100 for repairs was eliminated.

WILL OPEN DIET KITCHEN FOR POOR

About thirty-five mothers of children attending the north end kindergarten met in the school room, Orange Hall, last evening, and it was decided to open a diet kitchen there. Mrs. G. A. Kurling gave a talk on the importance of nourishing foods such as soups and stews at this season. The diet kitchen will be opened tomorrow and soups and stews sold at a nominal price to those who are in need of them. Tickets can be obtained from the kindergarten teacher.

The mothers were very keenly interested and eager to help. It was related that a number of them, though having little themselves, are giving continual aid to two families in great need. It was also decided to make a survey of the needy families of the district and endeavor to help. Mrs. A. S. Robinson presided and Miss Winnifred Ross, kindergarten teacher, was present. A remarkable community spirit was shown by the mothers, and much good is anticipated from the movement started last evening.

SKATING EVENTS

As Halifax has decided to hold the Maritime skating championships there this year the New Brunswick championships will be held here on Saturday, February 19, one week prior to the Maritime events. The N. B. championships were to have been held on Saturday, February 5, but as three of the fastest local skaters are away participating in the Canadian and international championships in Montreal and Lake Placid it was decided to postpone them. This will also mean that winners in the New Brunswick championships will have an opportunity of participating in the Maritime events in Halifax. The New Brunswick championships are to be held on the east end open air rink under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and will include the 220, 40, half mile, mile and three mile for the seniors, and events for boys under twelve, under fifteen and under seventeen years.
