Times article in the interest of Montreal port charges in the west and spoke strongly in support of the resolution.

Messrs. Ryan and McEllan followed in support when the resolution was adopted and reported and a bill introduced.

It will thus be noted that not only was the rate of interest to be paid by the harbor commission reduced but the sinking fund was wiped out altogether.

The purpose of all this, as explained by Sir Leonard Tilley, was to lessen the charges upon shipping by "probably sixty or seventy thousand dollars" for what purpose?

To benefit Montreal was forty years ago in relation to western trade. That trade is coming here, and in its interest there is the same need as there was in Montreal forty years ago to keep down the harbor charges.

Under the harbor commission act that cannot be done. The government that recognized the rights of the national port of Montreal in 1881 must now recognize the national port of St. John.

But there was another very illuminating discussion in the house on March 16, 1881. The Intercolonial Railway was under discussion, and the government policy of starving the road was sharply criticized by Messrs. Anglin and Ross.

The report goes on: "Mr. Weldon inquired whether an arrangement had been made for through freight to St. John, with a view to shipment."

"Mr. Blake said it had been intimated that there had been correspondence, in which a rate of three cents less per quarter than had been fixed for Montreal, was named."

"Mr. Pope said there was no correspondence."

"Mr. Killam reminded the government of their failure to carry out their voluminous promises about the winter port."

Then, as now, promises in regard to this national port were not kept. St. John, however, kept up the fight, built wharves, compelled the government at a later date, on threat of resignation by Messrs. Hazen and Chesley, to give this port the benefit of some of the subsidy that went to Portland, Maine, and from year to year gained a little more recognition of its rights.

Messrs. Hazen and Chesley, while the more trade offered in winter than the port can give quick despatch. The people held on to their harbor. Why give it away now, when time and events have so amply justified all the claims formerly made? Premier Meighen says we must conduct our own trade through our own ports or we cannot be independent. It is for him and his government to make Canada's independence of foreign ports a fact. That means terminal facilities at St. John and Halifax. And it does not mean harbor commission at St. John any more than at Halifax, where there is neither side nor top wharfage at Government wharves for steamers or other craft landing or taking cargo for or from the government railway.

Let us have done with an impossible harbor commission scheme and get down to business.

The Germans have agreed to the Allied terms regarding coal delivery, and now more the pessimistic prophets are disappointed.

The choice of Gov. Cox as the Democratic candidate for the presidency was described as a victory for the "wets."

It is explained, however, that while he was opposed to the prohibition amendment to the constitution he believes in law enforcement, and that when Ohio amended to the constitution he recommended enforcement laws to the legislature.

Moreover, we are told that "Gov. Cox has announced it as his opinion that the prohibition amendment is in the constitution to stay, and he maintains that, until the Volstead act is modified, it must be obeyed and enforced."

It pleases some American writers to create the impression that the Allied conference at Spa is a failure and that the Allies are at odds most of the time.

As a matter of fact the Spa conference has been a success. Even without the United States the Allies are doing very well, and the League of Nations is much more than a name. Had there been no international prejudices and jealousies there would have been no need of such a League. Its first task is to overcome jealousies and inspire mutual confidence, and that is a matter of time. Eventually the United States will stop criticizing and join the League.

STUDENT OF M'GILL BELIEVED DROWNED

Pedro Marconelli Started in Canoe on Cross Lake—Craft Found Upset.

Cobalt, July 17—Pedro Marconelli, nineteen years of age, son of a wealthy Peruvian copper mine owner and a student at McGill University, is believed to have been drowned in Cross Lake, a mile from here. Marconelli was on a visit to Carl Reinhardt, who lives near Cross Lake, and set out in a canoe for town. Later the canoe was found upturned in the lake, and there were no signs of the young man.

Who in the Christians' faith had passed the incident took place on a Monday.

No notice was taken of the affair on the following day. But the same evening Weekes went to the country to a tavern where he spent the night with his wife and others of like persuasion. No one knew what place there but as a result Weekes sent a challenge to the author of the "wets" and he must fight.

The meeting took place at a farm near the town of St. John. Weekes was shot so severely that he died soon after being carried from the duelling field.

A cross had reared a symbol that should tell. How near an Indian chieftain rested who in the Christians' faith had passed.

It may be that, arrayed in spotless white, That Chieftain harp before a golden throne.

And chants a psalm the endless ages through.

It may be—yet still, I think despite That cross, he stalks his quarry or his lone.

Glady's aged mind was inordinately proud of her baby brother, Tom, who was almost three years old. Mr. Wentwell, who lived next door and always made it a point to enquire of Glady about Tom each time he came to the door, on one occasion he put the customary question: "And how is little brother coming along?" to be met with the surprising answer—"Till Bits."

The teacher gazed sorrowfully at the small boy who had stood in front of her. He was convicted of the heinous charge of stealing toffee from one of his school-fellows. As it was his first offense, however, she did not desire to inflict corporal punishment—a moral lecture, she thought, would fit the case. "Dear in mind, Bobby," she concluded, "that these temptations can be resisted if determination is used. Always turn a deaf ear to temptation."

The child gazed solemnly at her. "But, teacher," he exclaimed, "I ain't got a deaf ear!"

Head of Hearing.

The train wreck occurred just two miles west of a small Missouri town and the editor of the local paper sent out his star (and only) reporter to get a story of the accident. Arrived at the scene of the wreck, the reporter found the train crew reluctant to talk for publication. Finally the conductor of the train candidly confessed that it was against the policy of the road to give out particulars of such accidents.

"Sitting on that tie, is the superintendent of this division. If he wants to tell you anything, why, all right."

The reporter approached the designated man and found him with his face badly scratched and one arm in a sling. "Can you give me any particulars concerning this wreck?" the reporter asked. "Wreck?" repeated the injured man. "Young fellow, if there has been any wreck on this road I haven't heard of it."

The removal of the restrictions on the export of sugar is being well and a great deal of commodity out of the country. High prices are being paid for sugar in the States and the exchange is in favor of the Canadian.

The Wheat Board will not function this year. The marketing of the crop will revert to the normal pre-war market. The government reserves the right to interfere if they see that the interests of the people demand it.

The board of commerce gives little hope of a reduction in the price of sugar in the near future. It is pointed out that there will be a further rise in the price of sugar after which some decline may be expected.

RIDDIGORE TREAT AT THE IMPERIAL

Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Given Delightful Presentation by Boston Company.

Riddigore, given its first presentation in St. John by the Boston English Opera Company at the Imperial last evening speaking with the brilliancy that is characteristic of all the Gilbert and Sullivan operas and is rich in tuneful airs and sprightly music that requires simultaneousness of tongue to keep the words in step with the score. It gives opportunity as well for display of the singers' art in solos of more serious tenor and there are excellent duets, trios and choruses. It is in all a very captivating medium of entertainment and was admirably presented by the company.

The leading soprano role was sung with marked clearness of diction and in excellent voice by Miss Helene Morrill. She was most pleasing in all her work and well sustained her position in the favor of St. John music lovers.

Miss Alice May Carley and Miss May Barron, both contralto principals, were in the cast. The former as Mad Margaret, in addition to singing a solo very effectively in the first act, did a clever piece of acting in the part of the half-witted girl. Miss Barron, as always, was excellent in acting and singing. She was very pleasing in "The Margatroyd Legacy" solo.

The part of Zorah gave Miss Margaret Gilbert opportunity for several solo numbers which were sung with excellent taste, as also Miss Lillian Chapdelaine as her sister professional bridesmaid. These maidens and their village companions caused a lot of merriment by their eagerness to assist at the nuptials of any pair offering. They were a vivacious band.

Mr. Deacon did fine work as a shy young farmer and brought a lot out of the role. Later as the baronet his dramatic talent was shown. His mellow baritone has been one of the treats of the opera season.

Mr. Bealmond was a rollicking and jolly sailor, with a lot of dash in his work. His singing in solo and in his duet with Miss Morrill was most enjoyable and he and Mr. Goltra scored heavily in a fanciful duo. Write Mr. Goltra down for another hit as the baronet, later deposed. He brought a wealth of comedy out and had the audience in great merriment. When he and Miss Carley sang their rich comedy duet in the second act, there were several encores and later, joined by Mr. Deacon, they kept all in roars of laughter by the patter song, which was one of the big successes of the night.

Mr. Northway, as an old servant, gave his usual good performance. Cecil George, as Sir Rodric, was very pleasing and his duet with Miss Barron was nicely sung.

The hornpipe dance and exit in Act 1, the finale of that act, the men's chorus in the picture gallery were all excellent chorus features and a grand volume of harmony swelling out in the final ensemble thrilled the audience as the performance concluded. This afternoon The Mikado will be repeated and tonight "The Pirates of Penzance" will end the engagement. The company will leave for Boston on Monday morning's train. They may be sure of a big welcome when next their wandering footsteps turn towards St. John.

METAL TRADES COUNCIL

The formation of a metal trades council was favored at a meeting of the St. John Trades and Labor Council, and it was voted to call a meeting of organizations connected with the metal trades. President Campbell was in the chair. A communication was received from Mayor Schofield asking the council's opinion as to the free employment service of the Dominion government. The council endorsed the service. The members of the executive committee on the one-man car believe this week for all points east, south and north in this province.

THE NOVA SCOTIA HEALTH CARAVAN

(Halifax Chronicle) The necessity for conserving human life as a national asset is being borne in upon every nation. And not only the conservation but the development of human resources is beginning to concern the whole people seriously. Public conditions are being adapted to this end. We are realizing that every child born to a country is a financial asset or a financial liability, and that it rests largely with the community which it becomes. The unity of a whole nation is beginning to be understood in a better sense than ever before. No nation can rise higher as a nation than its people rise as a people and as individuals. Where there are thousands of individuals handicapped in the race of life by physical defects, many of them remediable, and all of them amenable to the treatment of cruses can be done away with, there will be found a nation that cannot rise to its full stature of national manhood and intelligence. Such conditions must be changed. Nova Scotia is seeing one of the fruits of that new determination to change conditions. In the sending out of the health caravans which will carry doctors, nurses and supplies both medical, surgical and dental into sections remote from much access to public health. Many a child grows up in ignorance or suffers from the unjust acquisition of stupidity, delinquency or even feeble mindedness, when he is simply nearly blind, nearly deaf or suffering from adenoids and enlarged tonsils. The "caravans" will provide for examination, free advice, free treatment for children or adults suffering from these and other physical defects, and ailments which prevent them becoming wholly efficient members of the body politic. A new gospel of health will be preached to the people in all parts of the province, and moving picture films will be silent, effective preachers to support and sustain, and in many cases to make possible, the work of physicians and nurses. The Red Cross Society, feeling that its work was by no means ended at the close of the war, is financing and conducting this truly wonderful adventure in the interests of public health, and many physicians and surgeons have given of their time and skill freely, that the good work may be successfully inaugurated. Such "caravans" as have left Halifax this week for all points east, south and north in this province.

MORE THAN WERE FIRST EXPECTED TO BE IN CAMP

Applications Reaching Boy Scout Headquarters

Trinity Boys at Long Island—Prescott McLean Wins First Artist Badge in This District—Dr. Robertson's Plans.

Applications are being received in rapid succession by headquarters for the Provincial camp on the Bellisle. It now appears likely that a much larger number than was at first expected will be in camp after August 2. Owing to the absence of scoutmasters some boys have not as yet received the application forms and circulars. Any of these boys may secure them from headquarters either by mail or in person. It is the desire of the provincial officers that every scout in the province should have an opportunity to attend a camp this summer, and this opportunity is offered by the provincial camp. Any number may come from any troop and if there are sufficient they will camp as a troop, but if there are not enough for this they will be camped with another group. Final details are being attended to at present such as securing boats and all plans are maturing in excellent style. Trinity troop is at present in camp on their favorite spot on Long Island in the Kennebecasis, and the Scouts are having a splendid time under the guidance of Rev. Mr. Loweth and Mr. Campbell. Even the damp weather of the last week failed in its attempt to lessen their enjoyment of the open, and it is their healthy and strong group of scouts to return to the city on next Monday. Water sports, scouting games and general athletics occupy the larger part of the time, although considerable stress has been placed on badge hunting. Some of the scouts have constructed excellent huts in connection with their Pioneer Badges and intend to sleep in them hereafter. Among those in camp are, Troop Leader Walsh; Patrol Leader, Johnston, Walsh, Seale, Peck (Hillsborough troop); Scouts, Whelpley, Skinner, Krant, Bishop, Brennan, Campbell, Norman, Fitchard, Ring, W. Walsh, and Walsh. St. Jude's are again breaking into the lead. This time Prescott McLean has secured the first Artist Badge awarded in the district. The Artist Badge is one of the most important and the following are the requirements: 1. Draw a cylindrical object and a rectangular object grouped together a little below the eye, and show light and shade. 2. Make and present a free-hand pencil or pen drawing of a bird or animal showing its values distribution of color, or draw in any medium a flower spray, or leaf-spray, or a camp scene. 3. Make a drawing of some example of historical ornament. 4. Make an original decorative arrangement in color, using any motif, and state what use intended. 5. State the essentials of the reproduction process of etching, half-tone engraving, and lithography. Alternatives are allowed in architecture or sculpture. St. Jude's troop are now in a good position to issue a troop paper with Prescott to decorate it for them, as well as some others who are preparing for this badge. The chief commissioner, Dr. Jas. W. Robertson hopes to be in this province next month and will probably inspect the provincial camp. Dr. Robertson was possibly the greatest scout force that Canada had during the war and his decision to devote half of his time to scouting, now that his other duties are completed, is very much appreciated. It is a splendid tribute to the scout movement when such a man takes a very active interest in its welfare and progress. Head quarters has at last been able to secure the book, Scout Tests and How to Pass Them. There has been such a demand for this book that it was completely out of print for a period and is now published again, revised and enlarged, dealing in detail with the requirements for each badge. A sample "copy" tent will also be an attraction at that office soon. A delegation from Dominion Lodge No. 444, I. O. G. T., last evening called on J. Howe, 40 Main street, where a pleasant evening was spent in games and music. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the surprise party and just before the close, Mr. Howe was presented with a silver pie server. Miss Alma Law, of the General Public Hospital, has been appointed operating room nurse at the Moncton hospital. Miss Law will go to Moncton August 1.

How Lord Curzon Got Away To Ascot Races

Postponed Debate on Mesopotamia in House of Lords — Disraeli's Life in Book — The U-Boats and the War — News Topics of Week in London.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) London, June 24.—Ascot has passed with extraordinary brilliance. Everyone is full of praises of the arrangements which have made it much the most comfortable of English race-meetings. Indeed, if it were only nearer London, the racing would be at least as good, if not better, than the racing in the Bois de Boulogne.

It is curious how completely the king is left to himself to do the ceremonial side of a meeting of this kind. I do not suppose since Lord Roscher's premiership and prime minister has gone to a big race in England. Certainly Lloyd George has not. Last year in Paris when the peace conference was sitting, M. Clemenceau several times tried to persuade the prime minister to join him at Longchamps, especially on the occasion of the Grand Prix, just after the signature of Peace, when President Poincaré and M. Clemenceau attended in state. Lord Derby was there, but there was no Lloyd George, indeed, he confessed to M. Clemenceau that he had never been at a race meeting in his life. Perhaps he will start sometime, and it was possibly asking too much of him to combine racing with Sabbath breaking.

The Grand Prix being run on a Sunday. Mr. Balfour was a fairly regular attendant, but then all forms of sport appeal to him.

The sole ministerial representative at Ascot has been Lord Curzon, and there hangs a tale. That day there was to be a debate on Mesopotamia in the House of Lords, but it was postponed, at Lord Curzon's request, because he had to attend a meeting of the Council of the League of Nations on that day, and Lord Curzon duly decorated the royal enclosure at Ascot. The whole incident was a pleasant little trait in an otherwise somewhat austere character, and will be welcomed by thousands of people who got away from their businesses for a day's racing, with nothing like so ingenious an excuse.

Men, Women and Dress.

Broadly, it is true that men go to Ascot for the sport, and women for the fashion. Very few of the fashionable ladies really pay much attention to the racing, any more than they do to the actual cricket at Lord's, when the meeting of the rival blues there makes the pleasant grounds a cloth of gold. And, on their part, very few of the men pay much attention to the fashions worn by their women-folk. So, perhaps each sex may regard the other as living in a most foolish glass house, and no stones had better be thrown.

But I have heard some typical Ascot men criticising the fashions worn there by the ladies, and, though it may sound rather ungentle and rude even, I am bound to say my own casual observation bears it out. This criticism was to the blunt effect that the younger and prettier women were the simpler and less expensive frocks, and that the more extravagant and elaborate confections are invariably displayed by ladies who are hopelessly passe, and whose physical attractiveness their ultra-fashionable dresses merely accentuate. This has always been the case, no doubt, to some extent. Count de Garmont's quaint reminiscences contain other examples, besides the famous Lady Muskerrey of his day, whose husband was in constant terror of his spouse's fantastic fashion anachronisms. But certainly this feminine weakness is sadly emphasized nowadays by the prevailing short-skirted, low-necked habit. There have been many spectacles presented at Ascot, that were simply pathetic in their comic malapropos of face, figure and fashion. There is something to be said for the Victorian fashions for middle-aged and elderly ladies. And there is something worse than being what the modern matron sometimes calls "dowdy."

Old Time Fire Fighters.

In these days when motor fire engines dash through the streets and London boasts the finest fire brigade in the world, it is a little difficult to envisage the days when fire fighting was largely left to private enterprise. We are to have a reminder of those days during the present week, when both the Royal Exchange Assurance and the London Assurance are celebrating the bi-centenary of their foundation. Which is the older of the two is a little doubtful, since the records of the Royal Exchange were lost by fire many years ago. In my case, the point at issue is a purely sentimental one, since the charters were issued on the same day and neither company can probably claim precedence of more than half an hour over the other. Cox's Chances of Winning the Presidency

While Senator Capper's Topeka Capital (Rep.) considers Republican victory at the polls not even in question, declaring that "after November the Democrats will know that a political party can not carry a presidential election in this country by sprinkling a little booze on its clothes," other Republican papers agree with the New York Tribune that it "would be most foolish if they (Senator Harding's supporters) did not frankly recognize the formidableness of the Cox and Roosevelt ticket." The Chicago Tribune (Rep.) says that the bosses nominated Governor Cox because they thought he was "the best vote-getter and the best goat-getter Democracy had."

If you would obtain a practical idea of Governor Cox's chances of winning the election, as pointed out by newspaper editors of all shades of political opinions, you will do well to read THE LITERARY DIGEST for this week—July 17th. The leading article is a careful summary of American newspaper opinion of the Democratic nominee and the advantages and the disadvantages that will be his during the campaign.

HIGHER PAY, A STRIKE OR CUT DOWN OUTPUT

Proposal re Nova Scotia Coal Miners to be Placed Before United Mine Workers' Board.

(Canadian Press.)

Gloucester, N. S., July 15.—Silby Barrett, board member of the U. M. W., left last night for Indianapolis to attend a meeting of the board members of the U. M. W. A question of local interest to be brought before the meeting will deal with the royal commission at present investigating wages for the coal miners of Nova Scotia. Mr. Barrett will ask the board if it is prepared to sanction a strike of the coal miners of Nova Scotia in case the coal operators will not grant an increase following a finding by the commission against the miners. The miners are asking for an increase of 51 per cent for laboring men and a twenty-five per cent increase for other classes and their attitude is that if they do not get this increase they will take either of the two courses—a strike, or depressing the coal output fifty per cent.

If the international board cannot take up this matter at the present sitting, Mr. Barrett will ask for a special meeting to deal with it.

The teachers are camping out this year and no finer site could have possibly been chosen than where the camp is located, near the officers' headquarters on the Sussex military grounds.

Students are arriving by every train when they are met at the station by Boy Scouts and escorted to the camp, conveyances being also supplied to haul the baggage.

The opportunities for studying the forest trees, ornamental trees and shrubs and life in the pools and running streams is on every side. Recreation will be coupled with study. Games such as tennis, volleyball, croquet, will be included and the river affords excellent facilities for bathing.

A competent committee has been organized to carry on the activities of camp, working with a chaplain.

Wakefield, Mass., July 16.—United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Crop Estimates, has issued the following New England crop report, made by V. A. Saunders, field agent:

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring color, luster and youthfulness to hair when faded, streaked or gray.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of this Sage and Sulphur essence restores its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, ready for use. It is called Walth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and luster of your hair.

Everybody uses "Walth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it does not so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautiful; by dark and appears glossy and lustreous.

"A neighbor recommended Cuticura so we got them, and one cake of Soap and two boxes of Ointment healed her." (Signed) Miss Ella, 24, Soudard, R. F. D. 3, Randolph Centre, Va., March 10, 1919.

acres. Although there is some complaint of poor stands, growth has been good. Rest of Maine increased its acreage from 24,000 to 25,000—10 per cent; New Hampshire increased 9 per cent; Vermont increased 8 per cent; Massachusetts, no change; Rhode Island decreased 15 per cent; and Connecticut decreased 10 per cent. Growth has been only fair in the last three states, but in the others much better. United States potato acreage is 41 per cent less—$340,000 against 4,000,000 acres in 1919 and 8,500,000 the five years average, but growth is better than average and last year, forecasting 87,000,000 bushels, against 87,000,000 final 1919 and five years average of 87,705,000.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics gives preliminary potato acreage figures: Canada, 806,000 against 818,000 in 1919; United States, 4,000,000 against 4,000,000—1 per cent decrease; New Brunswick, 76,000 against 75,778—1 per cent gain.

Present prospect is that New England will have 9 per cent more commercial apples than last year—1,000,000 barrels against 1,460,000. Baldwin generally are lighter with earlier varietal heavier crops. Maine Ben and Greenings are heavy, and western counties have larger crops than eastern counties. Vermont and Massachusetts have general new large orchards coming into bearing—mainly higher quality varieties. Maine crop is less than last year, but the other states show increase, the gain in Connecticut is 25 points. New England apples are raising in quality with more orchards receiving care and fewer old neglected orchards left. The North-western Box apple crop gives promise of yields much below last year's bumper crop, but no means small one. New York prospects forecast nearly three times the crop of last year, and the prospect other important apple states is for a crop much larger than that of last year. The United States Commercial apple crop forecast is 62,250,000 bushels against 56,174,000 in 1919 and 54,748,000 in 1918.

New York prospects forecast nearly three times the crop of last year, and the prospect other important apple states is for a crop much larger than that of last year. The United States Commercial apple crop forecast is 62,250,000 bushels against 56,174,000 in 1919 and 54,748,000 in 1918.

The Canada Fruit and Vegetable Report, No. 2 Just issued, forecasts Nova Scotia Commercial apples as 1,000,000 bushels.

Present prospect is that New England will have 9 per cent more commercial apples than last year—1,000,000 barrels against 1,460,000. Baldwin generally are lighter with earlier varietal heavier crops. Maine Ben and Greenings are heavy, and western counties have larger crops than eastern counties. Vermont and Massachusetts have general new large orchards coming into bearing—mainly higher quality varieties. Maine crop is less than last year, but the other states show increase, the gain in Connecticut is 25 points. New England apples are raising in quality with more orchards receiving care and fewer old neglected orchards left. The North-western Box apple crop gives promise of yields much below last year's bumper crop, but no means small one. IF YOUR FOOD FERMENTS OR DISAGREES, JUST READ THIS!

Thousands of broken-down, dependent dyspeptics have recently been given back their health.

These happy people don't proclaim it was a miracle that endowed them with a new lease of life—it was simply their common sense in selecting a tried and proven medicine, one specially adapted to their particular ailment.

All these splendid cures were effected by Dr. Hamilton's Pills which beyond all question have a strange power to restore a weak or ailing stomach.

If your stomach is tired and overworked try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and before or after eating will disappear. You'll no longer feel that nauseating, heavy and fasting sensation. You'll get a real vigor and appetite and digest what you eat.

If you feel like a different person, in a month you'll be more ambitious. In a year you'll feel like a different person, in a month you'll be more ambitious. In a year you'll feel like a different person, in a month you'll be more ambitious.

For folks who are out of sorts, who feel just up to the scratch, perhaps bothered with headaches or constipation, no other Dr. Hamilton's Pills will prove so soon.

SAVED FROM LIFELONG MISERY

And a Dangerous Operation, by Taking "FRUIT-A-LIVES"

"I suffered with all the symptoms of Female Trouble, with chronic Constipation and constant Headaches. I had pains low down the back and sides of the body. I tried various remedies without relief, and then put myself under a doctor's care and he advised me to have an operation. I refused.

"Then, I started taking 'Fruit-a-lives' and, to my surprise, I felt better, and this medicine has completely relieved me of all my misery and suffering. My weight has only 148 pounds and now it is 108 pounds. I am free of pain and headaches and the terrible Constipation, and what saved me from misery is the splendid fruit medicine, 'Fruit-a-lives'."

ACCEPTING INEVITABLE.

(Toronto Globe.)
It would seem that the Canadian banks have made good headway in educating the business interests of the country to the necessity of accepting restricted credit under present conditions. At least that claim was made yesterday by representatives of two large banks with headquarters in Toronto. At first, the announcement to the business community that there would not be enough money to go around on the basis formerly pre- vailed was greeted as a measure of harsh- ness, but gradually business men have been educated to realize the necessity of the situation, the bankers said, and now things are running smoothly.
"It did seem hard," said one banker, "that reputable firms and manufacturers with expanding businesses should be un- able to finance on a generous scale, par- ticularly when they had large orders coming in, and it was not pleasant to say, 'You must curtail your operations simply because we have not enough money to go around.' However, it looks as if we are over the credit difficulty, and the situation is being accepted with a good grace. The banks are now in a good position to handle the crop, which we all hope and expect will be heavy. Of course, if the crop is heavy and we need extended credit for moving it, the note circulation will have to be increased temporarily, and while you may call that inflation, it is a step that would be abundantly justified on economic grounds if the wheat would really be better than gold, for it is something the world badly needs."

PERFECT DAY OF YACHTING EXPERT

Morning. Rises at 7. Blossoms out in fannels, rubber soled shoes, yachting cap and marine glasses.

Takes look at the weather. Shakes his head. His breakfast.

Strolls down to yacht club wharf. Notes fact that club burgee isn't stirring. Focuses glasses on distant sail.

Shakes head and returns to clubhouse writing room. Begins read to early morning story with 100-word picture of sea, sky, clouds along shore (not yet there), excursion craft (not yet in sight), and elaborate preparations to police the course.

Deephers regatta committee's signal—Race delayed, no wind.

Loafs on clubhouse veranda till noon.

Afternoon. Lunches at clubhouse "on" regatta committee. Feels better.

Plies 700-word despatch, describing outlook for a light breeze at start, freshening to a stiff fifteen-knot blow, and a thrashing finish with less scuppers awash and a bonc in the teeth of the racer.

Gets regatta committee signal—Race postponed till breeze picks up.

Wireless bulletin, start of race postponed.

Notes flutter in club burgee. Sends bulletins, breeze springing up. Yachts soon to start.

Prepares to board launch and follow race.

Gets signal from regatta committee—Race called off. No wind.

Wireless bulletin, race called off. Goes swimming.

Evening. Dines at clubhouse "on" regatta committee. Compares coat of tan with those of rival experts.

Sends overnight story of day's develop- ments, recalling the days when the Puritan and Genesta were similarly out of luck with the weather. About 1,200 words.

Later attends regatta hop at club- house. Swaps old yachting yarn with the commodore. Ends day by getting two weeks' extension of guest privi- leges at club—F. W. in N. Y. Evening Post.

The strongest endorsement a cigar could get is the repeat orders it receives.

The Pippin—the best 7c Cigar on the Continent—is strongly endorsed.

It is fascinating to think that one has to wait so long for the revelation of the kind of relations which exist between the prime ministers and the sovereign. Even without the purely affectionate and non-business side of the Disraeli-Queen Victoria correspondence the letters are extraordinarily interesting as giving an indication of how business is carried on. Things have been made very much more easy for ministers in recent years, especially by King George himself, who not only spends a far larger part of his time in London than even King Edward did, but who will take the trouble to come up from Windsor for the day to Buckingham Palace, to meet the prime minister, if public business should make it difficult for Lloyd George to go down there.

In a sense, since Disraeli's premiership there has been no case of relations so close as at the present exist between Downing street and Buckingham Palace as the king's action in going to the railway station to meet the prime minister on his way back from Paris last year bore witness. Correspondence, however, between them is still carried on in the old form: "Mr. Lloyd George to go down there."

One of the most prevalent of the popular fallacies about the war was the long-cherished theory that our submarines showed up very poorly compared with the Hun U-boats. The facts are, as revealed by Admiral Sims, that the most effective anti-submarine weapon we possessed was the submarine. While 500 allied destroyers sank thirty-four German U-boats and 8,000 auxiliaries of all types accounted for thirty-one, just about 100 allied submarines sent twenty to perdition. This is, as Admiral Sims points out, a curious commentary on the accepted naval theory that submarines could not possibly fight submarines. Another fact that emerges from Admiral Sims' interesting article is the tendency of American ammunition to be "dud."

He mentions cases in which actually an American naval torpedo got right home on a German U-boat, and an American bomb was dropped direct on the conning-tower of another, and both proved useless "duds." Our submarines operated under most appalling conditions. They kept under water mostly, having no need, like the Germans had, to economize electrical power, with the result that the temperature of the very best boats, in which the air was often so bad that a cigarette could hardly be kept alight, was that of the surrounding winter North Sea, with no possibility of artificial heating. Admiral Sims confirms our naval experts in the theory that the German super-U-boats were a mistake. And he shows the fallacy of the popular belief that U-boats are essentially underwater craft. They are primarily surface craft that submerge only to attack and escape.

The Party in a Box.
One of the big boxes overlooking the stage in a London theatre recently was occupied by a remarkable party. There were two men, an elderly lady, and two middle-aged ladies. None of them was in evening dress or anything like it. The elderly lady looked almost the perfect picture of a suburban lower middle-class matron who has just returned in to pay a call on an intimate friend. She was stout, very grey, and wore a fur box. One of the younger ladies wore rather black hair, had a handsome, rather massive face, and full figure, and her complexion, as well as the skin of her bare round arms, suggested the "Tory" of Russian papers.

The younger and less conspicuous of the two men, who occupied a back seat and kept very quiet, had a huge lionine head, with fine black hair, and very intelligent eyes and brows. He was wearing a dark lounge suit and smoking incessant cigarettes—not Russians, by the way, but ordinary Virginia. The other male member of the party, to whom Pavlova and the other dancers glanced with some interest occasionally, was obviously the important personage. He had steel-grey patches in his very black hair at the temples, very quick black eyes of unusual force and firmness, the same "olive" complexion as the bobbed lady, and a pointed beard which rather emphasized the stern angle of his black eyebrows, and he wore the favorite dark grey lounge suit which one had seen before at the Cafe Royal. It was M. Krasin and his party, enjoying an evening's relaxation from the affairs of state, and paying homage to their wonderful dancer-com-

Great Minds.
Now that a school of amateur military strategy has arisen, tutored by the Napoleonic and the sensational Londoner, which derides the late Lord Chamberlain as an overrated person, it is interesting to note one remarkable coincidence. The young and less conspicuous of the two men, who occupied a back seat and kept very quiet, had a huge lionine head, with fine black hair, and very intelligent eyes and brows. He was wearing a dark lounge suit and smoking incessant cigarettes—not Russians, by the way, but ordinary Virginia. A Public Defender.

The proposal to create an office of public defender, seeing that we also have a public prosecutor, appears equitable that criticism is dismissed. If the funds of the state are to be employed to establish guilt, they ought not to be withheld in the effort to establish innocence. That, indeed, has long been recognized, and the Poor Prisoner's Defence Act, passed in 1908, enables the

CHERRY BLOSSOM TIME IN JAPAN

Scene One Not to Be Witnessed in Any Other Country.

Japan is just now in the delights of cherry blossom time. The scene is one not to be witnessed in any other country, writes the correspondent of "The New York State Journal." All Western countries have their wealth of orchard blossoms in the Spring, but in Japan it is all so different. Here the streets of towns and villages are canopied by oocandonds of filmy-mist bloom, and from any eminence one gazes over the city lying buried in bloom as in an ocean of ethereal light. All squares and parks are simply a mass of bloom, and under the trees assemble numberless groups and parties, all in gala attire, eating rice cakes, drinking sake, and doing haman. Haman means flower-viewing. "Hama" means "flower," and "man" to view. Have you done haman? Is a question on the lips of every friend you meet, and to reply in the negative is ever a severe humiliation, for who would neglect to go flower-viewing? All classes, high and low, rich and poor, prince and peasant, old and young, go to see the blossoms annually without fail, holidays being given in schools and factories to fulfil this duty.

The centres of greatest concourse in cherry blossom time are the great parks, like Ueno, and along the river bank at Asakusa. In the latter, where the cherry blossoms have gone for centuries to behold the blossoms at their best. But all the more picturesque streets of the capital are lined with cherry trees, under which the street cars pass as through a tunnel of flowers in the best of bloom as in an ocean of ethereal light. The crush on the tramcars at this time is something indescribable. Yet there is no fighting as a rule, but the best of good humor.

In the midst of the cherry blossom season the Emperor gives a great garden party on the grounds of one of the detached palaces in Tokyo, where more than 2,000 guests, mostly princes of the blood, with their consorts, high officials of state, and members of the Corps Diplomatique assemble at 2 p.m. to receive their majesties and to partake of a sumptuous feast, after which they view the blossoms, which, indeed, are all the while around and above the guests.

In Japan the chrysanthemum is regarded as the queen of flowers, being the imperial crest, but the cherry blossom, revered as the national flower, representing the people. It is always a decoration on the Japanese sword, signifying the samurai. For centuries the samurai has been compared to the cherry blossom, verse or proverb, which reads: "As the cherry is first to bloom, so is the samurai first to die when he is ready for duty, whether it means life or death; both are immortal! Thus has the cherry blossom been celebrated in Japanese literature since the dawn of the nation's history. One of the most famous poems in the language is on the cherry blossom, namely, the waka verse by Motokuni, which was done into prose as follows:

"If any would know the heart of Japan, let him gaze at the blossom of the mountain cherry shining in the morning sun"

It Pays to Feed Empire Feeds!

Cattlemen, farmers and dairymen have learned that it is profitable to buy stock feeds by proteins and that the feed containing the proper amount of proteins is the feed that brings results.

Another consideration steps in, however, and that is, that beyond a certain point, protein ingredients may be present in too great quantity for the animal to use, and there is waste.

EMPIRE FEEDS are rightly balanced

Empire Dairy and Hog Feeds contain not less than 16% proteins (guaranteed), which will be used for the nourishment of the animal, without waste.

We aim to put up feeds that will pay the user. Only good sound grains and other ingredients are used, and certainly no filler or other useless stuff will ever enter into EMPIRE FEEDS. Try a quantity for a fair testing time. We will abide by the resulting improvement in your stock. Ask your dealer for the honest feeds—EMPIRE BRANDS.

"Costs More, but—It's Worth More."
