The Furnace of Gold

By PHILIP MIGHELS Author of "The Pillars of Eden," etc.

(CHAPTER XXII.—Continued) "Yes, I kissed you without your asking," he confessed.

"I expect to kiss you a hundred thousand times, I expect to make you my wife—for a love like ours is rare. Whatever else you think you want to say, Beth—now—don't say it—unless it's just good-night."

With a sudden forward he took her two shoulders in his powerful hands and gave her a rough little shake.

"You—Oh!" she cried, and turning she ran down the slope of the hill as hard as she could travel.

He watched her going in the moonlight. Even her shadow was beautiful, he thought but all his joy was grave.

She disappeared within the house, without once turning to see what he had done. He could not know that from one of the darkened windows she had peered forth and watched him depart from the hill.

He was not so assured as he had tried to make her think, and sobriety dwelt within his breast.

Half an hour later he and old Dave were up the mountain in the moonlight. The night from the eminence was glorious, one that the town was left behind. Goldilite lay far below in the old diked theatre of past activities, dotting the barren immensity with its softened lights.

He watched her going in the moonlight. Even her shadow was beautiful, he thought but all his joy was grave.

CHAPTER XXIII Beth's Desperation. The following day in Goldilite was one of occurrences, all more or less intimately connected with the affairs of Van and Beth.

Beth succeeded in making an early start to the southward in his car. McOppet had provided not only a couple of men as guides to the field where Lawrence was working, but also a tent, provisions, and blankets, should occasion arise for their use.

Beth was informed by her fiancé that word had arrived from her brother, Alphon Scarse said he meant to go to the business of buying Glenmore's mine, he said, required unexpected disbursements.

By that morning's train the body of Culver was shipped away, and the camp began to forget him. The sheriff was after Early in the afternoon the body of the girl who had never been known in Goldilite by any name save that of Quencie, was buried on a hillside, already called into requisition as a final resting place for such as succumbed in the mining-camp, too far from friends, or too far lost, to be carried to the world outside the mountains. It was, according to one of its many sub-headings, "A Humorous Outcrop concerning two Maids and a Man."

Mrs. Dick was prompt in pointing out the story, hence Beth was soon presented with a copy. In the natural annoyance she felt when it was read, there was one consolation, at least: Scarse was away, he had gone perhaps two or three days. He might not see the article, which would soon be forgotten in the camp.

Beth discovered her loss too late to interfere. She felt herself indeed, with Bostwick away, her brother off in the desert, and Van—the refused to think of Van. Fortunately, Mrs. Dick was more than merely a friend. She was a staunch little warrior, the protecting champion of her liberties were fairly in a cage.

It seemed already with its vines, woad, and joy, its comedy and tragedy, its fevers, stiches, and disturbing nothing of the vast serenity of the planet, ever rolling on its way. How coldly the moon seemed looking on the scene. And yet it had cast a shadow of a girl to set a man aflame.

It was late when at length he and Bostwick could snatch a few minutes to themselves. The gambler's first question then was something of a puzzle to Bostwick. "Well, have you got that thirty thousand?"

"Got it? Yes, I've got it," Bostwick answered nervously, "but what is the good of it?"

"What's the matter with your writing hand?" Is this Van-burgian holding their breath? What's the matter with Scarse? I wrote him two or three aces ago, when he might have been of assistance. Now I'm doing my eight hours a day in an effort to send you to China. You're on the brink, in a way, but not for long, for this is the land where opportunity walks night and day to thump on your door—and I'll grab her by the nape of the neck, if I can't get her by the nape of yours."

SAYS HOME FOR INEBRIATES IS NECESSITY Jail Not the Proper Place to Send Habitual Drunkards, Declares Ottawa Magistrate—Favors an Institution Ottawa, June 9.—That there should be some better method of dealing with habitual drunkards than sending them to jail is the opinion of the Ottawa Magistrate, O. K. O'Keefe. He considers that a home for inebriates, where such could be treated scientifically with a view to curing them of the craving for liquor is becoming a necessity in Ottawa and would be of great benefit.

By RUTH CAMERON WHEN you pick up a magazine what do you turn to first? If you are one of a sadly large class of magazine readers, I can answer your own question.

But how often do you read any of the non-fiction articles—the true stories of what men and women are doing to better the world and make it a more habitable world for other men and women, the descriptions of little known lands, the investigation and discussion of unsatisfactory conditions of government, the opinions of great writers, the stories of important inventions and discoveries, the memoirs of famous men?

THE INSPECTION OF THE ST. MARTINS ROAD

Attached to the suburban train which left St. John yesterday morning, was the official car of the deputy minister of railways, A. W. Campbell, which carried, besides himself, Dr. Pottinger, deputy chairman of the board of control; F. P. Brady, general superintendent; E. Tiffin, traffic manager; J. T. Hallisey, district superintendent; T. C. Barpe, engineer of maintenance of ways; R. W. Simpson, of the I. C. R., engineering staff; W. E. Foster, manager of the St. Martins railway; W. G. Scoville, one of the owners of that railway; Dr. D. H. McAlister, M. P. for Kings-Albert, and E. S. Carter.

At Hampton the party was met by S. H. Flewelling and R. G. Flewelling, who accompanied them to St. Martins. The trip was made in one of the passenger coaches of the St. Martins railway and was done in very good time.

The railway experts made a careful inspection of the road and while they did not express any opinion it is understood they were favorably impressed with the country through which it passed, and with the road as a good feeder for the I. C. R.

AMUSEMENTS FOR OURSELVES AND OTHERS

GREAT STORY OF CARMEN AT NICKEL. The Nickel theatre management announce that they have an especially good programme for today and Saturday and something that has been selected for the Saturday matinee with particular thought for the school children. This particular film is the Selig fairy tale wonder entitled The Land of Nod, one of those grotesque conceptions for which the Chicago firm of motion photographers is deservedly famous. The big feature of the whole show, however, is Carmen, the cigarette maker of Seville. The story contained in Brest's immortal opera Carmen is undoubtedly reproduced in this sumptuous Edison film, with Mlle. Blac-Morin, the eminent French pantomimiste, in the title role. Added to these special features is the irresistible comedy, Foolshead's Christmas, and a pretty melodrama, Baby Bet. Last evening Miss Betty Donn pleased everybody with her rendering of the Irish novelty, My Little Poppee, in appropriate costume, and Mr. Cairns' version of Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly, brought down the house. Saturday afternoon the programme at the Nickel will be over an hour long for the kiddies. On Monday the Biograph comedy, A Knot in the Plot, is booked. THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER. Miss Avis Paige and her company opened a three nights' engagement at the Opera House last night, presenting the comedy, The Farmer's Daughter. The play is a rural comedy drama in four acts, and the company were accorded a good reception by the fair sized audience present. Miss Paige appeared in the role of Rose Garland, the farmer's daughter, and made every woman in the city, who was supported by Harry Joyner as Jack Gordon, a city chap. Mr. Joyner has a very good stage appearance, and he and Miss Paige were forced to render a certain call. Allen O'Neill, as Professor Perry, and Harry C. Arnold, as Old Joe Garland, furnished the comedy of the piece. The other members of the cast were seen in minor roles. The play will be repeated tonight and at the matinee and evening performance tomorrow. PAUL GILMORE IN HIS GREAT PLAY. The patrons of the theatre in this city will be pleased to learn that the ever-popular society drama, The Mummy and the Humming Bird, will appear at the Opera House Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 10, 17 and 18; with Saturday matinee, it is a four act society drama, cleverly conceived and presented by a company, said to be of sterling merit. "OFFICER NO. 73" AT STAR. The Star Theatre has another headline for tonight and Saturday, one of these pictures the people prefer, in talking about, labeled "Officer No. 73," and tells a tale.

Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. The bride, who was unattended, wore white silk, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The young couple, being very popular, received a large number of presents. They will reside at North Gloucester.

SPORT NEWS OF A DAY; AT HOME AND ABROAD

Despite extraordinary gamesmanship and willingness to take the severest kind of punishment, Frank C. Conley lost a 10-round decision at Los Angeles on Wednesday night to Oscar Moran for some of the fastest boxing witnessed in years. Conley outpointed Moran in the first four rounds, but thereafter was all Moran. In the eighth Moran landed on the Kenosha fighter's jaw three times in rapid succession and the war was all Moran. The first large wager in Chicago on the coming Jeffries-Johnson prize fight was made between "Andy" Craig and Edward Robinson. Craig bet $10,000 to $5,000 that Jeffries would win. The wager was made at a hotel following a discussion of the fight among a party of politicians and sportsmen. Baseball. In the West End league last evening the Maple Leafs defeated the Sons of England, 15 to 9; McLeod and Allingham, battery for the former, and Neaves and Joyce for the latter. Eddie Ramsey, second baseman of the St. John baseball team, has received an offer from the Woodstock team of the Maine and New Brunswick league and may accept. On the Severy Day Club grounds last evening in the Commercial league, M. R. A. defeated B. & P., 8 to 7; Girvan Neil Sprual, battery for the victors, and Mahony and McIlwain for the losers; Geo. Stubbs, umpire. The Pirates defeated the Erins on the St. Peter's grounds last evening, 21 to 6; batteries—Pirates, McAnulty and Pierce; Erins, McIlwain and Griffin. A five team will be formed today. In the intermediate league last night the F. M. team suffered their first defeat at the hands of the C. M. B. A. Five innings were played, and the score stood 83, the game was exciting at times but was for the most part, especially on the part of the F. M. A., quite loose. Jennings and Hazel were the battery for the F. M. A. while Cunningham and Dever performed in good style for the C. M. B. A. On June 9—What is considered to be the greatest legitimate offer ever made for a ball player is the proposition of Manager Fred Clarke, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who is willing to pay Jack Dunn $100,000 in cash for Twiler Clarence Russell. Russell is a left-handed twirler and a year ago was pitching semi-professional ball. His work at Hagerstown, Md., and for the Washington Club brought him into much prominence and Dunn gave him $25,000 for the most part, especially on the part of the F. M. A., quite loose. BABY GIRL SMOKES LIKE A VETERAN. Four Year Old Child Acquires Cigarette Habit—Authorities After Mother.

Portland, Ore., June 9—A distressing case of hereditary degeneracy has been called to the attention of Mrs. Lola F. Baldwin, superintendent of the department of safety for girls, by the police, in a complaint against Mrs. Jessie Reynolds, who has been living with Nicholas Lovn, a disreputable character, well known to the police. In looking into the conduct of the woman, Mrs. Baldwin discovered that she has a daughter 4 years old, who smokes cigarettes like a veteran. The child has become so accustomed to the use of tobacco that if she is without it she becomes fretful and peevish. Mrs. Baldwin has been unable to learn where the little one acquired the habit of using tobacco. Lovn and the woman are now in the city of Seattle. The authorities there are asked to take possession of the child.

THREW STOLEN GEMS INTO RIVER. Railroad Baggageman Admits Theft of $15,000 Worth From Trunk. Philadelphia, June 9—If the story of Morris H. Maxwell, an assistant baggage master of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who has confessed to the theft of the jewels of J. B. Barton Willing, brother of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, is true, there is a $15,000 worth of jewelry and gems in the mud at the bottom of the Hackensack River under the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge from Harrison to Jersey City. Maxwell, in his confession to the Philadelphia police, says that after he had taken the jewels from the trunks of Mr. Willing on a train to New York, he became panic-stricken for fear he would be apprehended and searched on his arrival in New York, and threw the jewel case into the Hackensack River. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is erecting a new bridge at this point, and will add to the confusion. The jewels are being constantly stirred up, and it is doubtful if the jewel cases will be found. The above suspicion, I cannot help but think that if we would handle the Scriptures like some people would dismember the whole book. It is not what men say about the Scriptures, it is what the Scriptures themselves say.

FARMERS, IN TOWN FOR CATTLE SALE, TALK OF THE CROPS.

In talking with some of the farmers who were in the city yesterday to attend the sale of cattle and horses, it was learned that all are optimistic over the outlook for crops for the coming season. In Carlton county the farmers feared for a time that they would lose their potatoes on account of the continued wet weather but they appear more hopeful now that some fine weather is enjoyed. It is now thought that they will come through all right. In Albert county the rains have done much good. Many of the dikes in that section had broken down and the marsh lands were flooded with salt water that threatened to ruin the hay crop. The rain has, however, washed the salt away and most entirely and the outlook is much more hopeful. From Kings and the river counties the report is such as to indicate that this year will be a banner one for the farmers. Vegetable crops are well advanced and with a good crop prices should be reasonable.

REV. DR. CARMEN DEFENDS CHURCH UNION. Chatham, June 8—A forcible reply to criticism by Dr. Griffin against the basis of the proposed church union was made at the Methodist conference by Dr. Carman, the superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada. Dr. Griffin's criticism was that the clauses of the proposed agreement would wreck the Methodist superannuation fund.

A Squirrel Barometer. A merchant in a Western city has a queer barometer. It is a domesticated fox squirrel. He keeps the little pet in a large paint barrel, all inclosed with an exception of a small round hole in one end. Inside the barrel is a good supply of straw, old paper and leaves. During a sun of weather of any kind, hot, cold, wet or dry, the little animal is in and out of the house, keeping an open door. But should there be a change coming, say 10 or 12 hours off, the squirrel plugs up his hole with the matter from his bed and keeps it closed until the change comes. It is claimed the squirrel never makes a mistake, and that he gives no false alarm of his keeper. HARRIGAN'S ALLEY FIGURES IN POLICE COURT CASE TODAY

A rather complicated case was dealt with this morning in the police court, arising out of a report made by Policeman Linton against Wm. Scott for keeping a disorderly house in Harrigan's alley, Brunsell street. The outcome of the case was that the defendant was allowed to go his way in peace, while his wife was placed in jail. It developed that the man was not so much to blame as she. There are six children, three of whom are in the Municipal Home.

DRINKING, HE SAYS; DOES NOT KNOW OF THEFT

Suit Case Stolen and Sold for $4—Value Was $35—O'sen, a Sailor, is Arrested

A Norwegian sailor, named Harry Olsen, was arrested yesterday by Police Sergt. Caples in Brussels street on suspicion of having stolen a dress-suit case containing several articles of clothing from Morris H. Day, of Bridge street. The sergeant has received much praise for his promptness in making the arrest, as he was informed of the matter by Deputy Chief Jenkins only yesterday morning. The sergeant saw the man coming out of a saloon in Brussels street, and thinking he was the person wanted, placed him under arrest.

The suit case and its contents, valued at $35, were stolen from a recent store in Bridge street, on Tuesday morning last. Day had placed it there at 5.30 a. m. and when he looked for it at 12.30 a. m. it was gone. He identified the case and its contents as his.

The defendant disclaimed all knowledge of the charge, saying he was in liquor since Monday last. He told Deputy Chief Jenkins yesterday that he was a sailor from one of the larger vessels at Cape Spencer, but his discharge papers were dated in Philadelphia. The prisoner was committed for trial this morning.

Alex. Shann, clerk in I. Williams' pawn shop, identified the defendant as the man, who on Tuesday about 9.30 a. m., sold him the suit case for $4, the price offered by the witness after Olsen had asked $7 for it. The prisoner had signed his name as 'James Collins, 44 Mill Lane.'

In the suit case were articles of clothing, including an overcoat, raincoat, sack coat and vest, pair of boots, collars and other articles.

POOR SEASON LEADS TO LAW BEING BROKEN

Fishermen Out Sunday Night After Gaspereaux and Are Reported—Fine Let Stand

The gaspereaux season has been one of the worst for years. It has been so bad, in fact, that it forced several fishermen to take their boats and cast their nets on Sunday last, in the vain hope that they might make a dollar to help make both ends meet. Fishery Inspector Belyea was on hand, however, and as a consequence, the men were reported, and were in court this morning.

They were divided as to sections in which they lived. John Harvey, Wm. Daley, John McGinnis and Merritt Craft, were from Carleton; Fred Gosling, Richard McGuire, and Fred Logan from north end, and Wm. Evans from the south end. All pleaded guilty. The inspector asked that His Honor be lenient with the men, as it was true what they had said, the season was one of the worst on record. They had gone out too soon on Sunday night, however, striking the tide too early. The men were fishing from the Narrows to the Beacon.

His Honor struck a fine of $10 but allowed it to stand.

FIVE CRIMINAL CASES BEFORE JUDGE FORBES

Judge Forbes held a session of the criminal side of the county court this morning at 10.30 o'clock in the court house.

The prisoners will likely be arraigned sometime next week.

DEFOREST MATTER IS WITHDRAWN FROM COURT

In the King's Bench Division chambers this morning, the petition of the Anglo-American Direct Tea Trading Co. which was presented to Mr. Justice McKewen asking to have the H. W. de Forest Co. Limited, wound up, was withdrawn, a settlement having been reached.

County Court Chambers. The case of Henry Ganong vs. Smith Pickett, tried before George Hennessy, one of His Majesty's justices of the peace for Kings county, was up on review before Judge Forbes in chambers.

The action was for money had and received and for goods sold and delivered and the amount involved was $23.50. After the defendant had closed his case the defendant asked for a nonsuit on three technical grounds, and it was granted.

The plaintiff is now appealing, and after listening to the argument of counsel, His Honor ordered the nonsuit set aside. G. H. V. Belyea and Edward C. Weyman appeared for the plaintiff on review and H. Pickett for the defendant.

At the trial before the magistrate, Mr. Weyman appeared for the defendant and Fred. M. Sprout for the defendant.
