

he proposed on the subject of the Langevin block. This is Mr. Mulock's pet theme and he will probably make the motion.

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—After routine, Sir John Thompson moved the third reading of the Dominion Elections Bill. This bill, which will be remembered, is made up of half a dozen little bills brought in by members of both parties, has been several days in committee and was twice referred back for amendment. Today Mr. Barron moved that it be sent back a third time in order that a clause be added providing that returning officers be punished by fine or imprisonment in cases where ballot boxes or ballots were tampered with, unless it could be proved that the offence had been committed without the officer's connivance.

Sir John Thompson objected that no man ought to be punished unless he were proven guilty, and did not see how the amendment might be so worded over to be consistent when the proposed amendment next year were taken up.

The discussion occupied the whole afternoon and covered a wide range of topics, including the Queen's County, New Brunswick, case, and the famous trap door trick in Jacques Cartier, which was worked for the benefit of a girl minister of justice.

After discussing the amendment to the Dominion Elections Bill this afternoon, the mover did not venture to divide the house on it and the amendment was declared lost on division.

After recess several other amendments shared the same fate.

The house afterwards went into committee on the controverted Elections Act, which was discussed until after 11 o'clock, Dalton McCarthy proposing a number of amendments. The committee rose and reported progress.

The supplementary estimates were laid on the table to-night. The total amount of consolidated fund, $77,000; capital account, $145,000; and territorial revenue, $2,500.

Among the items of interest are $2,400 for the appointment of A. R. Gordon, Lieut. R. N., naval adviser to the marine department and commander of the fishery protection service and allowance to Archibald Gilles, constable of Inverness, wounded while making seizure of illicit stills.

For Northern New Brunswick the following grants were made:—
HARBORS AND RIVERS, NEW BRUNSWICK.
Campbellton Lallist wharf $2,500
Clifton Breakwater 1,000
Coquaine wharf 2,500
Tracadie wharf 3,500
Dalhousie wharf 500
Lower Nequae wharf 3,000
Carleton Place wharf 800
Telegraph line, Shippegan to Pt. Misou 4,000

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—In the house of commons, after further discussion of the land subsidy bill in the Northwest, the East Northumberland case was taken up.

Mr. Skinner, without remark, moved that the report signed by the majority of the committee be adopted.

Mr. Cameron of Huron moved in amendment that the report signed by himself, Mr. German and Mr. Mulock be substituted. Mr. Cameron addressed the house nearly an hour, summarizing the evidence in support of his contention.

He in turn disclaimed all party bias, and it ought to be said that his tone was much less violent than is usual with him. He practically admitted that Mr. Cochrane received no direct benefit from the payments or contributions of money by Simpson and Goodrich and others.

The money did not go to him, it was true, nor for any political purpose in which he was personally concerned. What he did argue was that Mr. Cochrane had made himself liable as endorser for a portion of the old debt incurred in the local protest and that to this extent he profited by the extinction of the debt. The main part of his speech was devoted to proof that Mr. Cochrane was aware of the payments by persons obtaining offices, and that he tacitly or actively consented to them.

Mr. White of Shelburne made the first argument on the other side. He is a member who takes little part in discussion generally, but who deals clearly and concisely with any question on which he speaks. He started out to prove that Hadley Simpson and the others who were said to have purchased offices were not levied upon, but contributed voluntarily. This position he supported by the evidence of the persons themselves.

They were examined and swore that no amount was demanded of them and that they contributed of their free will. In the case of two of them, it required no forcing to cause them to contribute for the retirement of the old note, for they themselves liable on it. The whole case against Mr. Cochrane, Mr. White argued, rested on the evidence of Armand Simpson. This man, he said, was one of the most unsatisfactory witnesses he had ever seen on the stand. He contradicted his own sworn affidavit. He contradicted his own first day's testimony on the second day, and he was contradicted again by the three other witnesses.

Nothing anything about the matter on which he testified. Mr. White showed that the minority of the committee had reported that Mr. Cochrane had sent to Hadley Simpson a letter by Armand Simpson and reported a statement by Armand Simpson's testimony to that effect. Armand did swear that Mr. Cochrane in Stanley's presence gave Armand a letter for Simpson, in whose house it was read aloud by the wife of Hadley Simpson, who, with her husband, was present when it was delivered. But, as Mr. White pointed out, the Simpson who was said to have received the letter swore that he had no recollection of any such letters; that when asked by subpeena to bring it he could not find it, and that he did not believe there was any. Mr. Stanley swore that he was never present at the delivery of such letter, while Mr. Simpson positively and repeatedly swore in the face of severe cross examination that no such letter was sent by her or read by her and yet in the face of all this, without a word of evidence corroborating Armand, who was shown to be unreliable, the minority found that the letter had been written and moreover quoted in their report Armand's evidence to show it, and never mentioned that it was contradicted. This was the report which Mr. Cameron wanted the house to accept.

The next speaker was Mr. Barron, who acted as counsel for the present in the committee. He was speaking at six o'clock.

The Cochrane debate was continued, after recess, by Mr. Barron until after nine o'clock. He was followed by Mr. Germain, one of the majority in the committee, on the same side, and Mr. Masson spoke till midnight in reply. He was followed by Mr. Flint. The speeches were all of the nature of arguments of course dealing with the evidence reported to the house. Mr. Flint had the somewhat unpleasant duty of dealing with the case of Henry May, on which case Mr. Flint himself took the responsibility of making a charge in the house against Mr. Cochrane. The majority of the committee find that this charge was wholly unfounded, and that not only was there no evidence in support of the charge, but that the testimony given clearly showed that the officer referred to was one in the gift of the government and that the evidence disclosed that Mr. Cochrane had not intervened in any way; that the charge was not only groundless but was made without information from parties who could have shown that no reason existed for making the charge. The minority says that 'no evidence was offered in support of the charge and that it was therefore not proved.' Obviously Mr. Flint is in an awkward position in respect to the charge. He scolded the majority for what he called the impertinent reference to his having made the charge without evidence or reason or information, but he did not give the evidence or information on which he proceeded, or his reason for making the allegations, but a brother member had said an officer with which the latter, or the government he supported, had nothing whatever to do.

OTTAWA, Sept. 18, 2:10 a. m.—Mr. Skinner, who replied to Mr. Flint, as well as to the speakers who preceded him, made a careful analysis of the case. His address was brief and pointed, but was delivered too late for reporting.

Mr. Mulock was speaking at 2 a. m. to a very thin house.

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—Mr. Mulock spoke until after 3 in the morning.

Col. O'Brien of Muskoka condemned both reports.

The vote was taken at half-past three on Mr. Cameron's amendment, which was lost by a vote of 99 to 74.

Majority, 25.
Mr. Tarte voted against the amendment.

SUICIDE.
HALIFAX, Sept. 20.—The body of a well dressed man between 30 and 40 years of age, was found in the words at Windsor Junction, this afternoon with his throat cut from ear to ear. Letters found on the body show it to be that of Alexander M. Liddell, a well known commercial traveller. He had been on a prolonged spree for three weeks. He had been dismissed from employment and was returning to Halifax. His last words to his wife in going away were, 'don't worry about me, I shall come back with a new record.' Immediately afterward he went on a terrible drunk. He had been given chance upon chance, and ashamed to meet his family and employers, he sought refuge in suicide. His wife belonged to a wealthy Prince Edward Island family, but he squandered her means. His brother also a commercial traveller, suicided by cutting his throat in Montreal five years ago.—Sun.

Alexander M. Liddell, a native of Glasgow, was about 45 years of age. He came to Halifax over 20 years ago and was employed as a traveller with Parnes & Murray. Subsequently he travelled for Montreal houses. He resided some time in Prince Edward Island, where he married a lady belonging to one of the best families and with considerable means. About five years ago he returned to Halifax with his family and became bookkeeper for J. P. Chetwynd. Mr. Liddell was a well known traveller and during the first few years he was on the road, attained much success. But he was his own worst enemy, he could not resist the appetite for drink and frequently went on prolonged sprees. He had been drinking heavily for several months and his unfortunate habit caused the greatest grief to his wife and family. Recently he was given special employment by J. A. Morrison, commission and tea merchant, and three weeks ago started on a trip along the north shore of New Brunswick. He was then in good spirits and went away with the determination to come back with a new record. But at Chatham he went on a big spree which lasted for over a fortnight. Nothing had been heard from him during that time and another gentleman was sent to transact the business that had been entrusted to him. On Wednesday parties connected with the hotel at Chatham put deceased on the train for Halifax. He was just then recovering from his debauch. As he neared home he appears to have been overcome by remorse and was buried in the sea.

Corpses. Hundreds of Franciscan priests have displayed heroic devotion in recovering and interring bodies which were now badly decomposed owing to the extreme heat. The superintendent of military works gallantly saved the lives of 60 persons by means of a hastily constructed raft of furniture secured from floating wreckage. Though badly injured himself, he did not flinch in his efforts to save his fellow beings. Other similar heroic deeds are reported. A chaplain plunged repeatedly into the flood at the danger of his own life, to rescue women and children. An official report of the disaster says 530 buildings in Consegua have vanished from their sites, while 150 are in a precarious condition and need to be demolished. The lines of 48 streets of the town have been completely obliterated.
