Dr. McEwen is away on a short business trip to Toronto.

Mr. Peter McLaren, of Ottawa, has been spending a day here with his mother.

The Perth Horse Show has been cancelled for the present, but may be held later on.

Miss Annie Burnie, of the post office
staff, is off duty through illness. Miss Costello is substituting meanwhile.

Next Saturday will be the King's Birthday. God Bless Him, and may he have many happy returns of the day.

J. C. C. Wilkinson, Brockville,
druggist, who pleaded guilty to selling
ice-cream on Sunday, was fined $5 and $5 costs.

Miss Tena M. Stewart, daughter of
Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stewart, Appleton

FIREMEN'S DEMONSTRATION at Carleton Place, July 1st, 1916, under auspices Eastern Ontario Firemen's Association. Reserve the date, we want you with us. Very full programme.

It is likely that captain T. A. Kidd,
of the 2nd Battalion, C.E.F., who recently returned from the front, will be selected as next year's grand master of the Orange Young Britons of North America.

Mr. J. C. Elliott lost a valuable three-year-old cow on Saturday afternoon on the 11th Line. She was crossing the C.P.R. tracks when the 4:18 train came along and struck her throwing her over 100 feet. The animal was valued at $75.00.

Victoria Day was very quietly observed
in Carleton Place this year, there being no public demonstration. Many took to the lake for the afternoon,
others went visiting to Perth and Ottawa. A "hop" in the evening in the town hall was well patronized.

Mr. F. R. Saul, general agent for Wall's Great London Shows, was in town last week making arrangements
for a visit to Carleton Place of this popular Show. They are coming on the 7th June, and a good clean entertainment is promised. They will pitch their tents on Riverside Park.

Mr. W. J. McNally and family motored from Montreal last week and spent a day or two here. They travelled by way of Roules Point and Plattsburg,
thence to Ogdensburg, crossing at Prescott, then to Brockville and on here.
The worst piece of road was between Smith's Falls and Franktown. Mr. and Mrs. F. Spoor were also in the party.

Mr. Archibald Dewar, the veteran
reeve of Beckwith, sustained a stroke
a few days ago that laid him aside, but we are pleased to learn that he is rallying again, and has every prospect of an early recovery. Mr. Dewar is over 80 years of age and has always enjoyed good health, and we trust he may still be spared to continue his career of usefulness.

A Carleton Place Boy's Success.

Mr. Thomas H. Kirk, of Vancouver,
spent a day in Carleton Place last week
looking up old friends. He was accompanied by his cousin, Mr. James Latimer, of Ottawa. "Tommy," as we knew him when here, lived with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Latimer, was educated here and started work here.

He moved with his uncle to Port Elmsley and Perth, and in the county
town started into business for himself.
From Perth he went to the Pacific coast,
engaging in the laundry business in Vancouver and made good, and—to use
a common expression—is now on easy
street, having retired from active business and depending entirely upon his investments. And yet he is a busy man.

He takes a deep interest in public affairs,
and is an alderman in the progressive western city. Not only that, but is chairman of the finance committee, and is now on his way home from a three months trip to London and New York,
where he has been endeavoring to consolidate the city's debt of some $20-000,000 by issuing new bonds that will be more favorable to the taxpayers, and hopes to attain the object of his visit.

In manner Mr. Kirk retains the humor
and vivacity of youth, and was heartily greeted by his boyhood friends—whom he chanced to meet on his brief visit, all of whom were pleased to hear of his success. He is a married man with four of a family.

Miss Jessie Dolan, of Perth, visited friends here last Wednesday.

Mr. Mossop, of the Bank of Ottawa
staff here, has been transferred to Casselman.

Rev. Mr. Newton will take preparatory service in St. Andrews church on Friday evening this week.

The Canadian Press Association meets
in Toronto on Thursday and will wind up with a water trip to Port Arthur.

Pontiac County Council will appeal against Judge Weir's decision which had the effect of rendering impotent the County prohibition law.

Mrs. A. W. Fairbairn, wife of a well-known commercial traveller of Brockville died last Wednesday. Besides her husband she leaves two sons serving in France and two daughters at home.

Rev. S. B. Phillips purposes leaving in a day or two to visit with friends in Toronto, Welland, Chicago and as far west as Missouri, visiting relatives en route, and expects to be gone two months.

So greatly has the price of white paper increased in England most of the newspapers over there have doubled their subscription rate. The rise in price is general and in the case of Ottawa Valley newspapers it is less than one cent a week, due entirely to the fact that all materials have increased to such an extent as to make the present
prevailing rate of one dollar prohibitive.

The department of railways and canals is preparing for the traffic rush
this season on the Intercolonial and Transcontinental railways and have placed an order for thirty heavy locomotives and one thousand box cars.

The engines are to be made by the Kingston Locomotive works at a cost of $37,000
each. This is an increase of about $1,000 over the cost last year owing to the increase in the price of steel.

Presented with Colors.

The 130th Battalion was presented with colors at Perth on Saturday, when many visitors, some of them from Pembroke, were present. The battalion paraded the streets full strength before the ceremony. The members of the I.O.D.E. attended in a body, and pupils
of the schools marched in line, each one carrying a flag. The 130th will leave Perth for Kingston this week.

With Queen's Ambulance Corps.

The following Carleton Place boys have joined the colors by enlisting with
the Queen's Field Ambulance Corps and have gone to Kingston, succeeding the visit of Capt. J. Fred Houston.—Herb Sinclair, Argyle Mc-Farlane, Warner Morphy, Joe Corkery,
Harry Humphrey, Lloyd Devlin, Roy
Saunders, Arthur Houston, Stanley Mc-Cullough, Harry Robertson, Wm. Coyle,

Death of Judge Elliott.

Judge Edward Elliott died at his home in London on May 22nd. He has been in failing health for some time.
Judge Elliott was born in the township
of Elmsley, on the 23rd of June, 1844.
He was of Irish descent. The family came to Canada in 1818, and shortly afterwards settled in Lanark. He received his education at the Grammar school at Perth and in 1863 began the study of law with the late William Oscar Buell, barrister of Perth. He was called to the bar in 1869 and practiced law in Perth. In September, 1893, Mr. Elliott was appointed Judge of the County Court at London.

Death of William J. Lever.

After a prolonged illness Mr. William James Lever, of Perth, passed away on Sunday, May 21st, at the age of 67
years. The late Mr. Lever was born in Franktown and was a carpenter by trade. His wife predeceased him seven years ago. Two daughters and one son survive: Mrs. Arthur Hartwell, town;
Mrs. Thos. Mander, Toronto and Fred
L. of Toronto. Messrs. Peter and Henry Lever of Carleton Place are brothers
of deceased and Mrs. Robt. Grant, Mrs.
Frank Johnston and Miss Fanny Lever,
of Carleton Place, are sisters. The funeral which was well attended took place from the family residence, Gore street, Tuesday afternoon at Elmwood cemetery, Rev. D'Arcy Clayton conducting the services. The members of Cart Tay, C.O.F. of which organization
he was a member, attended, and six fraternal brothers acted as pallbearers.

Death of William Lewis.

Early on Sunday morning Mr. William Lewis, who had been in poor health for three or four years, passed quietly to rest. The deceased was born in Drummond township in December, 1843, and so was in his 73rd year. He was a son of the late James Lewis. In early life he left the farm and went to Glen Tay, where he entered the textile industry, becoming a spinner. In 1870,
he married Lucinda Morris, who survives, the ceremony taking place at Perth on March 3rd. In 1873 he came to Carleton Place to live and has been a resident ever since, with the exception of short intervals when his employment took him away. Four brothers and one sister survive, Robert, Alexander, George and Henry, and Mrs. J. McNaughton.
A sister, Mrs. Andrew McCoy, died five weeks ago. Mr. Lewis was a member of the Methodist church, and for 21 years was a member of the Board. The funeral took place this afternoon, Rev.
Mr. Henderson conducting the services
at the house and the grave.

Turner-Weir.

Last Wednesday morning, May 24th,
Miss Zephyr Victoria, daughter of Mr.
John Weir, Ramsay, and Mr. John S.
Turner, one of our prominent young men, accompanied by their near relatives and friends motored to Perth and were married in St. James church at 11 a.m. Rev. Mr. Clayton officiated.
The bride entered the church, which was beautifully decorated with flowers, on the arm of her father who gave her away. She looked very cordial and handsome in a suit of Russian green
silk poplin opening on a shell pink georgette crepe blouse with hat to match and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, roses and maiden hair
fern which completed this most becoming costume. The groom's gift to the bride was a twin heart necklace set with pearls. After dinner the young couple took the train for Toronto, Niagara and other western points amid showers of congratulations and good wishes. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Turner will take up residence on Morphy street.
The wedding presents were both numerous, costly and useful including an oak rocking upholstered in leather from St.
John's choir, Innisville, of which the bride was a member.

Drowned in Creek at Torbolton.

A sad drowning accident occurred
last Friday near Woodlawn, in the township of Torbolton, when Thomas Vahey, son of Mr. David Vahey, lost his life in the waters of a creek that empties into Lake Constance. The deceased who was in his 16th year, with an older brother, was turning some cattle out to pasture on a property they rented from Mr. Paul Brown, and in trying to make them ford the stream one of the animals knocked him into the water.
Owing to the recent rains the water was deeper and the current stronger than usual, and being unable to swim, it was impossible to help himself. The elder brother, seeing his brother's peril jumped in after him but he too being unable to swim could render no assistance, and with difficulty saved himself after he saw Tommy go down for the last time. The body was recovered about an hour afterwards and on Sunday was interred in the Roman Catholic cemetery at Fitzroy Harbour. Deceased is survived by four brothers and his father. The latter has been ill some time and at present is at the point of death. The mother died only a couple of weeks ago.
The surviving members of the family
have the sympathy of the community in their trouble.—Carp Review.

Gordon Scott, youngest son of the MacLaren Estate Valued at Million.

Application for probate of the last will of the late David MacLaren, lum-berer, of Ottawa, and ex-president of the Bank of Ottawa, was filed in the Surrogate Court of the County of Carleton, by the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, the executors and trustees named in the will. Mr. MacLaren left an estate inventoried at $992,612.81.
This, however, is irrespective of $9,500
life insurance payable direct to the widow, and does not include the large family residence and grounds and household furniture and effects comprising
the domestic establishment belonging
also to Mrs. MacLaren.

BREED MORE CATTLE.

A very competent authority estimates that, having reference to last year's trade, average prices current for beef on the Smithfield market in London, England, for 1915, show an increase of 40%, since the outbreak of the war. The last English produce report to hand quotes Irish beef at 19 to 20c per lb. for sides wholesale and English at 20 to 21c per lb., as against a price of 15½ to 16½ for Irish and 15½ to 16½ for English, during the last week in December 1915. It further quotes South American chilled fore-quarters at 16½ and hind quarters at 19½, as against 12½ and 16c respectively for fore-quarters and hind quarters in December. "Supplies of frozen beef are practically exhausted, only a few small odd lots of bull beef being obtainable. These, in view of the strong demand ruling for all classes, realize high prices. The absence of frozen supplies has again forced buyers on to the chilled article, with the result that values have advanced sharply."

The general beef situation, from the standpoint of the home and foreign market, further emphasizes the shortage of supply. One feature is particularly noteworthy. It has never been indicated from any country that is an undue accumulation of beef in storage or a congestion of cattle going forward to market. Present prices and present demand fully confirm this fact. The position in Europe is well known. The Argentine output has been absorbed for army supply to such an extent that very little frozen Argentine beef is available for civil consumption in Great Britain. Australia has passed through a severe season of drought and her exportable surplus has been greatly diminished. Moderate supplies of cow beef are going forward from New Zealand but these are not of first-rate quality. Canada and the United States have not appreciably increased their cattle population and are clearly able to find a remunerative market in Europe for any of their product available for export. The steady and continuous rise in price definitely reveals the condition of the world market for beef and emphasizes the fact that the situation is growing worse with the progress of the war.

Contrast the position with respect to grain. Enormous stores of wheat are tied up in Russia. In Siberia alone it is estimated that there is an accumulation of over 9,000,000 tons of grain. Until peace is declared, this accumulation will probably become more pronounced. After the war, the production of grain will again be undertaken on an enormous scale in all the contending countries. In view of this fact and with the release of the accumulated stocks, it is undoubtedly true that grain will then drop in price to a very considerable extent. With an overstocked grain market and a pronounced under-supply of cattle the farmers of Canada should have little difficulty in making up their minds as to what their policy shall be for the future.

One warning, however, should be given. We must emphasize quality before quantity. On the British market, Canadian beef does not equal in quality the beef exported from United States or from the Argentine. Unless we can improve our cattle, both as regards quality and as regards finish, we need not expect to be able to effect sales at Smithfield but shall be obliged to seek a market in France or Italy. Even our best grass fed cattle, when offered on the Chicago market last year, yielded disappointing returns. In Canada there is any number of good beef cows but we can never develop a beef trade by breeding these to dairy bulls, to grade bulls, or even to pure bred bulls of inferior type. A really good pure bred sire is an asset to any community. He should have the patronage of all the farmers in the neighborhood. The maintenance or use of a scrub bull, under the present circumstances, should be deemed an unpatriotic act.

One other non-progressive practice should be eliminated or, at least, superseded by a better one. Reference is to the sale and purchase of stocker and feeder cattle, whether for finishing in the stable or on grass. In the case of the farmer who sells, this practice, unless in exceptional circumstances, is a mistaken one. He should feed and finish his own stock. On the part of the farmer who buys, a speculative and non-productive enterprise is continued and encouraged, which has neither an economic nor a practical argument in its favor. He should grow his own feeders, or a part of them at least. Trading of this nature has done as much as any other one factor to destroy the beef cattle industry in many parts of Canada. It can only be built up by a change of system.

A good herd of milking beef cows will bring in a return as regular as the change of the seasons. If labor is not available to milk all of them, two calves may be put on a single cow, possibly followed by a third, and better calves reared than if fed by hand. The feeding of these calves until fit for market, whether as baby beef or as butcher or export stock, will insure a steadier income than can possibly be obtained by the continuance of the old methods. No practice will so tend to conserve female stock nor so speedily and steadily add to our available supply of beef.

AN EXCELLENT MEDICINE FOR CHILDHOOD AILMENTS.

Baby's Own Tablets are an excellent remedy for childhood ailments. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, banish colds and simple fevers and cure all minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. H. N. Eism, Owls Head, N.S., writes: "I always use Baby's Own Tablets for my little ones and find them an excellent medicine for childhood ailments." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Business Man's Attitude.

In an Illinois town near Chicago a youth named Cohen joined a preparedness league. Military drill was a part of the duties of a member; and young Cohen, who was foreign-born, did not take kindly to the drilling. His commanding officer sought to hearten him up.

"Back up, Herman!" he said. "You learn how to be a soldier, and some of these days you may go back to the old country and be a field marshal."

"I think," said Herman, "I'll rather stay here and be a Marshall Field."

Railway Girl As Orator

It is not often that the Canadian Club of Montreal asks a woman to address it, but the fame of Miss Kathleen Burke, the special delegate to America of the Scottish Women's Hospitals for Foreign Service, had preceded her and when her address was actually delivered no one regretted the invitation. A great grandchild of Edmund Burke, whose "dagger speech" was perhaps the most theatrical incident in the history of the British House of Commons, this lady has a wonderful gift of oratory and her descriptions, humorous and pathetic, of the hospital conditions in Serbia during the typhus epidemic and of the magnificent heroism of the British nurses in the Balkans and in France during the war, moved her hearers to the very heart. What Miss Burke, however, is most proud to be is that she is a railway girl. She is the daughter of the late Thomas Francis Burke, Continental Manager of the London & North Western Railway, and until she became a nurse lived, talked and thought of railways. In her present mission she has achieved extraordinary success, raising in a few weeks over $250,000 by her oratory. After addressing some recruiting meetings in Montreal, she plans to tour the United States, but later in the year hopes to visit the Canadian West where she will probably address the leading Canadian Clubs on the subject which she has so much at heart. The hospitals to which Miss Burke has herself been attached as a nurse were originally started by a group of Scottish political women, but now include nurses and women doctors from all over the Empire. Their work has been enthusiastically endorsed by both the French and British Governments.

For Spring Brides.

A dainty and acceptable gift to tuck into the bride's traveling bag as a little surprise to her when her destination is reached is a boudoir set of cap and ribbon slippers. The whole outfit may be folded very small in its tissue paper wrapping and will take up scarcely any room at all in the bag—not as much as the handful of rice which is sometimes slipped in by a mischievous bridesmaid. The cap is an ordinary boudoir cap of white point d'esprit, filled with fine white lace and trimmed with the best quality satin ribbon in pale blue or pink shade. A bow of the ribbon is caught against the cap with a tiny rhinestone buckle.

The slippers have very flexible soles, cut from pale blue or pink goldenrod satin; two layers of satin for each sole, and a thin layer of cotton batting may be slipped between if one fancies a little thicker sole. Two inch blue or pink satin ribbon is sewed around the edge of the sole and fastened together at the back. About two inches of the ribbon are gathered along the upper edge over cord elastic to hold the slipper on the heel.

Ragged Sailors.

Materials.—Two cupsful flour, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, one-half cupful sugar, an egg, one-half teaspoonful salt, three tablespoonfuls butter, one-half cupful chopped nuts, two-thirds cupful milk.

Directions.—Sift the flour, salt and baking powder, rub the butter in; then add sugar and nuts. Mix to a soft dough with the egg and milk, roll out thin and sprinkle with sugar. Roll up with the sugar inside, cut in slices three-quarters of an inch thick, place on a greased baking tin, brush over with beaten egg and bake about fifteen minutes.

Attractive Suits.

Every woman who can possibly afford it will invest in one of the attractive suits of pongee, poplin or silk homespun. They are a delightful combination of style and utility and, though rather high priced, are well worth the cost. They are to be had in white, cream and oyster white, tan, brown and biscuit Dutch, navy and gray blue, besides different tones of green and gray.

Now It's a Book Wagon.

Now we have little wagons to use in the library. Their rubber tired wheels move noiselessly over even hardwood floors, and their top is edged by a framework high enough to hold books, while two lower shelves contain the two different sizes of the magazines of the moment. These book wagons do not take up much space in the library.

Satin For Blouses.

A new blouse of white satin shows a delightful touch of color in the lining of primrose yellow taffeta that appears in turnover points of the high collar and the jabot-like frill on the front and in the lower side of the frills that finish the long sleeves.

A Complete Car in Every Particular And It's a Car You Will Be Proud to Own

It's the first complete car at anywhere near so low a price.

It stands out alone—boldly—unapproached—a powerful five-passenger touring car complete for only $850.

Note that word "complete."

That means Electric Starter, Electric Lights, Electric Horn, Magnetic Speedometer—in fact, every necessary item. Nothing is lacking. There are no extras to buy.

Note that it is not a small car. The wheelbase is 104 inches. The tires are four-inch size—many cars costing more have smaller tires.

And it is a perfect beauty—snappy, stylish, speedy.

In every way it's a car you will be proud to own and ride in.

No wonder there's a rush to possess the car the world has been waiting for.

Don't delay—see us at once and talk it over.

An Old Man's War.

Napoleon's armies were nearly all commanded by young men. So, too, were the Northern armies in the American Civil War. In the present conflict all the great commanders are past middle life, and most of them are old men. The youngest of the French generals is 47, and the average age of fifteen is past 60. General Joffre is 64; Foch, 65; de Castelnau, 65; Dubail, 65; de Maud'huy, 60; Langle de Cary, 67; Villaret, 64; and Roques, 60.

In the German army, the average age is higher still—63.5—though a list of twenty-one names includes that of the Crown Prince, who is only thirty-four. Field-Marshal von Hindenburg is 69, and Field-Marshal von Mackensen, 71.

On the British side the youngest general is 46, the age of Wellington and Napoleon at Waterloo, and the average age is 54.

Against Pockets for Women!

1. Because pockets are not a natural right.
2. Because the great majority of women do not want pockets. If they did they would have them.
3. Because whenever women have had pockets they have not used them.
4. Because women are required to carry enough things as it is, without the additional burden of pockets.
5. Because it would make dissension between husband and wife as to whose pockets were to be filled.
6. Because it would destroy man's chivalry toward woman, if he did not have to carry all her things in his pockets.
7. Because men are men, and women are women. We must not fly in the face of nature.
8. Because pockets have been used to carry tobacco, pipes, whiskey flasks, chewing gum and compromising letters. We see no reason to suppose that women would use them more wisely.—From "Are Women People?"

PARALYSED AND HELPLESS

Prominent Merchant Restored to Health by "Fruit-a-tives"

Bristol, N.B., July 26th, 1914.
"I had a stroke of Paralysis in March, and this left me unable to walk or help myself and the Constipation was terrible. Finally, I took 'Fruit-a-tives' for the Constipation. This fruit medicine gradually toned up the nerves and actually relieved the paralysis. By the use of 'Fruit-a-tives' I grew stronger until all the palsy left me. I am now well, and attend my store every day."

DAIRY STANDARDS ACT.

The Dairy Standards Act passed at the 1916 session of the Ontario Legislature and which comes into force March 31st, 1917, provides that:

"All milk and cream received at a factory shall be paid for—
(a) On the basis of its fat content as determined by the Babcock test—
(b) On the basis of its fat content as determined by the Babcock test plus the factor 2."

A conference was held in the office of the Minister of Agriculture on the 11th inst. for the purpose of discussing the best way of meeting the situation which will arise when this Act comes into force. Mr. Frank Hens, London, and Mr. G. G. Publow, Kingston, Chief Dairy Inspectors for Eastern and Western Ontario, as well as other officials of the Department were in attendance. It was the general opinion that the tasting of the milk would be the greatest problem.

At the present time about one-seventh of the factories in Western Ontario and one-twelfth of those in Eastern Ontario are paying for milk upon quality basis as determined by the Babcock test. In Western Ontario the maker is, in nearly all instances, held directly responsible for the testing of the milk, and in most cases receives additional pay for this task. In Eastern Ontario a number of the makers are doing the testing while in some districts a special man is employed for the work at so much per visit, the amount paid depending upon the number of patrons in the factory.

No doubt a number of makers are not at present qualified to do the testing, while others who are qualified would prefer not to accept the responsibility. An independent person will, no doubt have to be employed to do the testing in a number of factories, and the Department will be prepared to assume the responsibility of seeing that such persons are qualified for the work in hand. The factories concerned will, of course, pay for the services of this man on the basis of actual cost, as is done at the present time where payment is being made on the butter-fat basis. Experience has shown that from $1.00 to 1.25 per patron for the season will cover the outlay.

Information will be collected throughout the summer as to the number of makers who will be qualified and willing to undertake the work of testing next year, and as to the various other phases of the work, so that final conclusions based on reasonable information may be reached in the fall.

As soon as plans are further developed more definite announcements will be made.

Value of the Home Paper.

Co-operation is the foundation of a good home paper. The city dailies, even do not depend on their reportorial staffs for personal items. These items are sent in by people who wish to honour their visitors. Pretence aside there is much gratification in the fact that the newspaper has reported one's movements. The county newspaper has a different field to its larger brother of the city. The daily is full of national questions, fearsome tragedies and things of extraordinary import, while the home paper deals with questions and with people nearer the heart than the most sensational story ever featured in the mighty metropolitan edition. — Athens Reporter.

NOW ON THE MAP.

Kut-el-Amara, Formerly Insignificant, Has Attained Importance.

"The remarkable achievement of the English General, Townshend, in withstanding the siege of the Turkish army at Kut-el-Amara since early in December will ensure this insignificant town, which is situated on the east bank of the Tigris River, a conspicuous place in the geography of the world war when the history of the great struggle is written," says a bulletin of the National Geographical Society of Washington.

"Before the English army was hemmed in at this unhealthy coaling station for steamers plying between the great date port of Basra and the important city of Bagdad, Kut-el-Amara, 100 miles south-east of the latter city, was nothing more or less than one of the myriad out-of-the-way places 'to fortune and to fame unknown.'"

"The town, which at the beginning of the war was a Turkish post controlling the lower reaches of the Tigris, is situated at the juncture of the old river channel and the new, the former forming the still navigable Shatt-el-Hai Canal, flowing into the Euphrates. The Tigris and the Euphrates which approach within thirty-five miles of each other at Bagdad, are nearly 100 miles apart at this point. At Basra they converge and form the Shatt-el-Arab, sixty miles from the Persian Gulf.

"All of the meagre accounts which have come from this zone of the war in recent months have emphasized the suffering which the high waters have caused the European troops. Unhappily, these sufferings have not yet reached their limit, for the Tigris, which begins to rise in November, is not at the maximum stage until the latter part of May. Then the plains become vast marshlands and the inland sea is dotted with islands of date palm groves.

"When the Tigris is in flood in the vicinity of Kut-el-Amara it flows at the rate of four miles an hour and brings down from the headwaters quantities of mud, which is deposited in banks and shoals in the river bed, resulting in frequent changes in the channel.

"Numerous abandoned canals weave their way through this section of Mesopotamia and through the country lying to the north-west of the Tigris, between the river and the foothills of Persia.

"In a former age an extensive irrigation system made this land a wonderful garden of fruits and flowers. Centuries of disuse have caused the canals to become choked with silt and refuse, converting much of the once productive district into miasmatic marshes, which are a menace to health.

"When the veterans of the Kut-el-Amara campaign return to England a large percentage will bear as scars of the siege, the deep, disfiguring 'Bagdad date mark' or 'Aleppo button,' a painful, but not dangerous disease prevalent in Mesopotamia. The 'mark' is a boil which attacks the face, neck, hands, and soles of the feet. Natives are said to escape with one sore, as a rule, but Europeans often are afflicted with several, which do not heal for a year. The marks are of two varieties, the male and the female, the first a dry, scaly sore, the other a running boil. If the survivors should be called upon to make a second campaign through Asiatic Turkey in years to come they will be immune, as the 'button' seldom appears a second time on the same person."

Marvellous Prophecy.

In the latter half of last year an officer called on his bank manager in London, Eng., with regard to certain dispositions of his balance preparatory to his departure for the front.

"You won't be away long," said the manager.
"How do you know?" was the reply.
"You will be back in quite a short time, wounded in the hand."

When the officer actually returned with a wounded hand and in a short time he was puzzled. However, his wound healed and he was off again. He went to bid "Good-bye" to the bank.

"Any more prophecies?" said he jocularly.

"You will be away longer this time," replied the manager, "and then you will be rather badly wounded in the leg." When the officer was wounded in the leg and came home he sought the first chance to interview his farseeing friend at the bank.

"As you can foretell my wounds, can't you give me the date of the end of the war?" he asked.

"The war will end," said the manager, "on June 17 next. But I shan't live to witness it. I shall just about see New Year's Day, and that's all."

Nine Germans an Hour.

The story of a British sniper who hid himself in a well and picked off scores of Germans is related by a correspondent home from the front. The sniper was a corporal, sent out to annoy the enemy. He selected a well, into which he crept, making a little barrier of earth in front of him. Here he installed himself for 15 days, doing deadly work. One morning he brought down no fewer than nine Germans in an hour. By the fifteenth night he had grown haggard and "nervy." He dozed a little longer than usual and awoke shivering at dawn. To his dismay he found his whereabouts in the well had been discovered. A fair-haired German giant arose in the grass 40 yards away. Recovering himself, the corporal promptly shot him dead. A few hours later he was relieved.

THE CARLETON PLACE HERALD.

COVER CROPS CAN BE CONVERTED INTO HAY.

The legumes gather nitrogen from the air for the building up of the soil.
Winter cover crops protect soil from washing, prevent soil from blowing away, prevent soluble plant food from being lost by leaching, furnish winter and early spring grazing and enrich the soil by adding vegetable matter and humus.

WEEDS' HARBOR INSECTS.

Pests Winter in Vegetation Along Roads and on Waste Lands.

Getting rid of grass, weeds, and undergrowth about the farm during the fall and early winter is one of the best protective measures the farmer can use against crop damaging insects the following year. Weeds, matted grass, dead vegetation and brambles along fences, roadsides, margins of fields, banks of little streams or ditches, especially in irrigated territories, are the natural hibernating and often breeding places of many destructive insects. This vegetation gives grasshoppers, chinch bugs, and other insects most favorable conditions for reappearance the following spring and summer. Similarly, voluntary growths of wheat harbor the Hessian fly, while stray alfalfa plants in the fields and around them may be the source of the incursion of grasshoppers. The Hessian fly in the absence of volunteer wheat at times lays its eggs on the young crab grass which may spring up in the fall after a tract has been burned over. At present, in some parts of the country, the late sown wheat is being infested by Hessian flies that have developed in and spread from volunteer wheat. Late sowing cannot be expected to protect winter wheat from attack in spring if volunteer wheat has been permitted to grow up either in nearby fields or among the late sown grain. Grasshoppers lay millions of eggs along the banks of canals and ditches in the western country. Chinch bugs hibernate in bunches of broom sedge, and many other destructive pests could not endure the winter were it not for these natural nurseries.

The entomologists therefore commend to farmers that they fall plow soil lands intended for other than grass crops another year and clear up roadsides, fence margins, and all waste lands, ditch banks, and similar places by burning over, pasturing, or, in case of ditch banks, by plowing or disking in the fall. This will tear up the roots and expose the eggs of grasshoppers to the excessive moisture and cold of winter, and will also turn up those insects which hibernate in the ground. Burning vegetation where possible will destroy many insects, though in the case of grasshoppers it probably will not be as effective as cultural methods. In addition, cultural methods by turning humus into the soil benefits the land.

Movable Hayrack-Hoghouse.
Farmers who feed cattle and keep a bunch of hogs following them all practical corn belt feeders do, will welcome this suggestion from a Nebraska feeder. The hayrack is built over the hoghouse, which is an A shaped affair, running the full length of the rack and opening at both ends to allow the hogs to enter. Those who have fed cattle in hayracks know the usual troubles with having a little strip of hay left at the bottom that the cattle strain to reach as they clean up the supply. This arrangement obviates that trouble and keeps the hogs warm and out of the way of the cattle when they seek their beds.—Farming Business.

Storing Cabbage.
Owing to the low prices for cabbage last year, many growers are turning to some method of storing the crop, says Albert E. Wilkinson in the Country Gentleman. One of the cheapest and most satisfactory methods is to put the severed heads in a square pile in the woods, where the trees are thick enough so that the direct rays of the sun cannot penetrate.

The ground should be cleared of underbrush and the cabbage laid with butts up. The pile should have sides as straight as possible and should be flat on top. Over this pile of cabbage put straw or leaves to the depth of one foot.

As soon as the snow falls it should be packed down over the pile. The cabbage will keep in perfect condition throughout the winter.

Ensilage for Lambs.
Lambs that are being fattened need some kind of succulent food, and for this purpose corn ensilage is a good substitute for roots. The expense of growing and the additional labor required in caring for them make the growing of root crops unprofitable for many of the flock owners, especially when ensilage can be produced more easily and for less cost per ton.

Buy Good Seeds.
Don't purchase the lowest-priced seed for the garden. In nine cases out of ten the highest-priced seed is by far the cheapest.

England's Egg Imports.
For many years the value of eggs consumed in England has exceeded $20,000,000 annually, and most of these are imported.

VIRTUE OF A GOOD LAUGH.

A Tonic That Stimulates the Body and All Its Organs.

There is not the remotest corner or little inlet of the minute blood vessels of the human body that does not feel some wavelet from the convulsion occasioned by good hearty laughter.

The life principle, or the central man, is shaken to the innermost depths, sending new tides of life and strength to the surface, thus materially tending to insure good health to the persons who indulge therein.

The blood moves more rapidly and conveys a different impression to all the organs of the body as it visits them on that particular mystic journey when the man is laughing from what it does at other times.

For this reason every good, hearty laugh in which a person indulges lengthens his life, conveying, as it does, new and distinct stimulus to the vital forces.

Doubtless the time will come when physicians, conceding more importance than they now do to the influence of the mind upon the vital forces of the body, will make up their prescriptions more with reference to the mind and less to drugs for them and will, in so doing, find the best and most effective method of producing the required effect upon the patient.

And All This Was Petite.

Royal banquets in France at any era between the reign of Francis I. and Louis XIV. would show the duchess, her napkin tied securely around her neck, nibbling a bone, the noble marquis surreptitiously scratching himself, the belle marquise withdrawing her spoon from her lips to help a neighbor to sauce with it, another fair creature scouring her plate with her bread, a gallant courtier using his finger or the tablecloth as a towel for his fingers and two footmen holding a yard of damask under a lady's chin while she emptied her goblet at a draft. All of these at one era or another were the usages of polite society. During a feast of inordinate length it was sometimes necessary to substitute a clean cloth for the one which the carelessness or bad manners of the guests reduced to a deplorable condition.

A Queer Thing About July.

How we came to pronounce July as we do now with the accent on the second syllable is one of the unsolved mysteries of speech. Named, of course, after Julius Caesar, it should really be pronounced to rhyme with "duly," and so our forefathers actually did pronounce it. Spenser, for instance, has the line, "Then came hot July boyling like to fire," and even so late as Johnson's time the accent was still on the "Ju." It is one of many words which would startle those ancestors of ours, spoken as we speak them now.—London Telegraph.

"A great man's mind is superior to envy," remarked the philosopher.
"Yes," replied the ordinary person, "it is if he's great enough to get what he goes after instead of having to see some one else walk off with it."

"She twists her husband around her little finger."
"Why, I thought you said she had him under her thumb."

Callahan and Schmidt were fishing from a pier one day. Callahan bet Schmidt $10 that he would catch the first fish. The two kept fishing earnestly until noon.

"If you are going to dive after him, the bet's off," he shouted to his companion struggling in the water.

One of the steadily growing evidences of the extravagance of the Ontario government in years when they should have been economical and thus have avoided the necessity of taxing the people of Ontario in such onerous ways as they are now doing, is furnished by official information secured from the government upon request of the opposition showing the increases in the Civil Service staff. In the last ten years the employees in the Ontario Civil Service excluding the Department of Public Works, has increased from 779 to 1383, an increase of 549 or over 77%. If the Public Works Department figures were included this increase would be still greater.

BECKWITH COUNCIL

The Municipal Council of Beckwith met in the Township Hall on Saturday, May 27th, 1916. Members all present excepting A. Dewar, Reeve.

Moved by R. O. Gardiner, seconded by W. J. Lightbody, that D. B. McLaren be appointed Chairman of this sitting of Council.—Carried.

The minutes of last Session were then read and adopted and signed by the chairman.

After each member had taken the necessary Declaration they then formed into a Court when the appeals of John McTavish and Wm. Marshall were heard and the assessor was sustained.

The Council then resumed general business.

Moved by W. J. Lightbody, seconded by R. O. Gardiner, that the Assessment Roll as revised be now adopted for all Municipal and School rates for the year 1916.—Carried.

A deputation from Carleton Place on behalf of the Horse Show was heard before the Council but Council declined to take any action.

A petition from A. C. Stewart and 35 others asking for a grant to complete side road 5 and 6 in the sixth concession.

Moved by H. R. Ferguson, seconded by W. J. Lightbody, that John McDiarmid get seven sixteen-inch tile for 9th line, east; also R. McLoughlin get seven twelve-inch tile for Kilmarnock road; Jas. Bell get eight six-inch tile for Gillis and Franktown road; Joseph Kidd get six six-inch tile for Prospect road 5 and 6 concession.—Carried.

Moved by W. J. Lightbody, seconded by H. R. Ferguson, that A. W. Cram be allowed to do his Statute Labor on side road from 12 h to the town line under supervision of Pathmaster. Also John Conrie be allowed his Statute Labor on 10th line opposite lot 18 under the Pathmaster and Patrick Timmons get six six-inch tile for side road 20 and 21.—Carried.

GREEK FORTS SEIZED

Bulgar Forces Occupy Posts on Greek Side of Frontier.

They Gave the Defenders Two Hours in Which to Surrender.—Allies Had Expected the More—Greek Cabinet Has Consented to Occupation of Forts in Consideration of Concessions to Allies.

LONDON, May 29.—A Bulgarian invasion of Greece, which it has often been stated would inflame the Hellenic nation that the latter's entry into the war would become inevitable, has taken place with the consent of the Greek Government. In giving this consent and explaining it to the diplomats at Athens, King Constantine's Government stated that no other course was left open to Greece after she had made similar concessions to the Entente powers in the past. "Greece possesses no option to act otherwise," a Greek statesman is quoted as saying, explaining the consent to the Bulgarian invasion.

The actual crossing of the frontier occurred on May 25 (last Thursday) near Demir-Hissar, via Rupell pass. The invaders, about 25,000 strong, occupied Demir-Hissar station and bridge, and also forts Rupell and Dragatina, Spatovo. It is stated that they are marching towards Kavalla.

The crossing of the Greek frontier by the Bulgarian Macedonian army and the occupation by it of four Greek forts, coupled with the report that the Bulgarians are advancing in the direction of Kavalla, are interpreted here as foreshadowing a Bulgarian drive on Salonica. Such a drive is believed here to be instigated by Bulgaria's ally, Germany, with the view to forestalling any possible allied campaign in Macedonia and thus depriving the Entente powers of the initiative, repeating the performance at Verdun and on the Trentino.

The Daily News' Athens correspondent, announcing the Bulgarian occupation of Rupell, says: "No allied troops are there. The Greek garrison of the fort, which is part of the organized defences of Demir-Hissar, fired 26 shots against the invaders."

"Considerable doubt existed at Athens whether the advance was made by the Germans or Bulgarians. There was a desire to regard the invasion as being undertaken by the Germans, but I have the best authority for saying that the invaders are Bulgarians, led by German officers. "The latter explained that they had definite instructions to occupy the fort in order to protect the Bulgarian left wing against an attack by the Allies. The Greek garrison was given two hours to evacuate, which they did after receiving instructions from Athens."

The officers taking possession of the fort, signed a document promising to return the fort to the Greeks as soon as the military necessity of holding it ceased. They also promised to indemnify Greece for any damage done by the occupation. "My information is that the Bulgarians have been practically abandoned by the Austrians and Germans in the Balkan war area, and were consequently forced themselves to take measures which they regard as necessary against an advance by the Allies."

The papers here declare that the Bulgarian advance is a violation of the arrangements concerning a neutral zone.

A despatch from Athens says: After a long conference attended by Premier Skouloudis, the Minister of War, and the members of the general staff, the officials announced Sunday that the Government had consented to the occupation of Rupell by a German-Bulgarian force in consideration of the concessions made to the Entente Powers and of the wish of the Government to maintain strict neutrality.

SERBIAN ARMY IN FIELD

Eighty Thousand Men Have Been Landed at Salonica.

PARIS, May 29.—After crossing the Aegean Sea without loss the Serbian army in full strength has now been landed at Salonica, according to a despatch received here Sunday.

Serbia's new army has been variously estimated at a number between 80,000 and 100,000 officers and men. It was reorganized on the Island of Corfu, which is approximately 700 miles distant by water from Salonica.

The Serbian army totalled about 300,000 men at the outbreak of the war, but this force was greatly depleted as a result of an epidemic of typhus and by the engagements fought in an endeavor to check the Austro-German and Bulgarian invasion of Serbia and Montenegro. The survivors are reported in despatches from Mediterranean points to have included some of the best Serbian regiments.

On reaching the sea coast the Serbians were transported to the Island of Corfu, where they were supplied with new rifles and clothing, and efficiently equipped for further service on the Balkan battlefield. When the reorganization had been completed the Entente allies sought permission of the Athens Government to transport the soldiers from Corfu to the base at Salonica across Greek country by rail. Greece, however, steadfastly refused to allow the troops to cross her territory, taking the stand that it would be a violation of her neutrality.

Fell With Aeroplane.

LONDON, May 29.—Capt. Grimes Jones was killed and Lieut. Henry Tennant, son of Harold J. Tennant, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for War, was seriously injured Sunday in Kent, when a biplane in which they were manoeuvring fell a distance of a hundred feet.

Camp Borden is to be ready for troops by the middle of June.

Sarah Olaky, aged 4 Toronto, was killed by an automobile.

Sir Julian Byng has assumed his duties as head of the Canadians at the front.

Gen. Smuts has occupied several towns in East Africa, meeting with little opposition.

Canadian patrols have been kept very active during the last few days on the Western front.

The various Irish leaders have agreed to confer with Mr. Lloyd George with a view to reaching an agreement.

Matthew Lownds and his wife were found dead under a carriage in the outskirts of Halifax, where the road winds along a cliff, and the body of Sidney French, a dredgeman, was found in the dock at the new ocean terminals.

To-morrow the greatest criminal trial ever staged in Canadian court will open at the Winnipeg Assizes before Judge Prendergast and a jury. The great preliminary encounter will be when the Crown will endeavor to have the trial of Thomas Kelly, contractor for the Parliament buildings, placed ahead of the ex-Ministers, Sir R. P. Roblin, Hon. George R. Coldwell and Hon. J. H. Howden, one of their number. Hon. H. Montague, has died. Ex-Premier Roblin is in good health and is anxious to have the trial over. Coldwell is paymaster in a Brandon regiment and Howden has been living in Neepawa. All three are out on $50,000 bail.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

tained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. W. F. Caldwell.

BOYD'S

Beautiful weather and everything is growing very quickly.
Mrs. Ross, of Cobden, visited over the 24th here.

A large number assembled at the cemetery here on Victoria Day, and with spades, shovels, rakes, etc., made a nice improvement in the appearance of the city of the dead.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Bowland and family, of Carleton Place, spent the 24th
visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Sutherland and Miss Lou Dunlop, all of Carleton Place, spent the week-end at the old homestead.

Seeding is not nearly finished here
yet, there still being water on the low lands.

We were very sorry to hear of the heavy loss Mr. Will Hammond had on Sunday, one of his best horses having died of inflammation.

Some from here went in to Perth
Saturday to see the soldiers celebration.

Mr. Harry Warren and little daughter spent over Sunday at his old home in Eganville, a brother is leaving soon for overseas as a private.

INNISVILLE.

The annual meeting of the Innisville
Women's Institute was held in the Orange Hall on Tuesday, May 23rd.
The officers elected for the year are:—
President, Mrs. J. S. Hammond; vice-president, Mrs. T. R. Ireton; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. John Channney; sec-treas., Mrs. W. Dezell, jr.; district
dir., Mrs. J. H. Morris; directors—Mrs.
W. Bolton, Mrs. H. Rath, Miss Laura
Cooke, Miss Mabel Churchill, Miss Bessie Waters. The past was a very successful year for the Institute. The total amount received was $97.46, and the total amount paid out for Red Cross Work was $91.29, leaving a balance on hand of $6.17. The ladies wish to thank those who in any way
helped in the work or made donations
of money.

Mrs. M. L. Woelard, of Toronto, is to address a public meeting in the Orange
Hall on Wednesday evening, June 7th.

OMPAH.

Special to THE HERALD.

Ompah Union Sunday School, which had only been held every fortnight
during the winter months, opened on May 7th and will continue, God willing and weather permitting, every Sunday
until October. The following officers were elected for the year: Superintendent, J. Emery; assistant superintendent, Mrs. Wm. McCulloch; teachers—
John Tennent, Mrs. Banks and Mrs. A.
J. Emery; sec.-treas., Mrs. F. Cledgett;
organist, Mrs. Wm. McCulloch; caretaker, John Tennent.

Miss Margaret McCulloch intends
going to Plevna on Thursday next to try "A" part of the Entrance Examination.

The largest trout of the season, which tipped the scales at eleven pounds, was landed by Mr. H. McFadden of Carleton Place.

The 146th platoon of soldiers, who have been stationed at Plevna the past four or five months, passed through here
this morning en route to Barriefield Camp. The ladies of the community provided a lunch for them, which was served at Mrs. Banks' and Mrs. Mc-Culloch's, and was heartily partaken of
by all.

One of the Carleton Place fishermen, holidays here, noticed on one of his

self around an island with its tail in its mouth. (A fish story.)

Donald McDougall visited his aunt
and uncle Miss L. and Mr. J. Mc-Dougall.

Mumps are still prevalent, Mrs. Wm.
McDougall and Mrs. Stanley Massey
are now suffering from an attack.

Miss A. M. Fraser spent the weekend at Mrs. M. Hermer's.
Service was conducted in the Anglican church at 7 p.m. Sunday by Rev. H.
Pringle, P. Wm.

Messrs. H. McFadden, R. A. Galbraith and D. Patterson, of Carleton Place, were here for a few days fishing
on Trout Lake.

ALMONTE.

From the Gazette.

Miss Mildred Maguire returned home
to Carleton Place after a week-end visit with Dr. and Mrs. Oliver.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. White arrived
home from St. Petersburg, in Florida, on Friday evening, and have since been receiving a hearty welcome back by their home here.

George Scanlon, aged about nine years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Scanlon while returning home on Monday, was walking on the embankment at the rear of Mrs. Metcalfe's property, when he slipped and fell into the water. Another lad, Jack Allman, bravely jumped to his rescue and got him safely out of danger.

LANARK.

From the Era.

Mr. James Watt has purchased a Chevrolet, the first of that make to come to Lanark. It is a neat, comfortable looking car.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barr, of Poland,
visited the latter's brother, Mr. C. D.
Bingley, on Saturday. Mr. Barr recently underwent a critical operation in Kingston for an abscess behind his ear
and his many friends here were delighted to see him around again almost completely recovered.

Mr. James Griffith, harness-maker,
has purchased from Mrs. Thos. Mc-Guire the business stand on George street, lately used as a recreation room
by the soldiers.

One of the big plate glass windows of the Era office was shattered yesterday by some Perth youths who came out for a game of baseball only to find all the Lanark sports away to the military demonstration in the county town.
Following the usual custom of visiting teams, the boys were giving a public exhibition of their skill on George street
when a wildly thrown ball crashed
against the window with the above-mentioned result.

A telephone message to Mr. Wm. J.
H. Mason yesterday evening from Kingston yesterday conveyed the shocking
news of the death of his wife while undergoing an operation for goitre, for which purpose she had gone to that city only yesterday. Deceased, whose maiden name was Jennie McDougall,
was a native of Dalhousie but has been a resident of this village the greater part of her life and was respected by everyone who knew her. Twenty-two years ago she became united in marriage to Mr. Mason.

Lieut. Thomas Harold Fennell, of Englehart, Ont., whose name appeared in Sunday's casualty list as killed in action, was a first cousin of Mr. George J. Hunt. He was a resident of this village some nine years ago while filling the position of language teacher in the Continuation School and was a splendid type of a young man.

At the morning and evening services
last Sunday in Zion Congregational Church, Miss Diadem Bell, returned missionary from Chisamba, Africa, gave
two very interesting addresses.

An interesting event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dunlop, Union Hall, on Wednesday, May 17th,
when Mrs. Dunlop's sister, Myra Boyle,
was united in marriage to Mr. Duncan Hamilton, of Carleton Place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Merrills, of Blakeney, at the hour of four o'clock. The bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Alex. McKay, of Middleville. The bride wore a military suit of midnight blue serge and cream silk blouse with hat to match. A small number of guests witnessed the ceremony and after it was over supper
was served and a few hours were spent
very pleasantly in music and in a social way. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton left the same evening for their home in Carleton Place.

Alexander Graham-Bell

Is Classifying Data
Regarding Long Life

AN abundance of intensely interesting material on long-lived people has been collected by Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, the celebrated Canadian scientist and inventor of the telephone.

His work is associated with the problems of evolution and eugenics.

First and foremost Dr. Bell asserts that long life is due to heredity; and many authorities maintain that 90 per cent. of an individual is what heredity made him and only 10 per cent. the product of environment.

A popular and erroneous belief among the majority of people is that long life is attained through some particular method of living, such as practicing calisthenics, conforming to a prescribed diet, living persistently in the open, keeping cheerful, consistently riding a hobby, deviating not one whit from the abstemious life, making hard work one's motto, etc.

As a rule long-lived people are those who walk in the humble paths of life and are not addicted to luxurious habits.

The prevailing opinion is that there are comparatively few old men and women in the world. In the face of this popular idea it is astonishing

DR. ALEXANDER GRAHAM-BELL to learn that statistics report in 1910 32,000 people over 90 years of age in the United States, and it seems extraordinary, indeed, that there are approximately 4,000 centenarians.

Another incorrect impression that is prevalent among the people is that old age is synonymous with decrepitude, great feebleness, impairment of the faculties, and general physical debilitation. But a surprising number of the cases investigated showed no infirmity whatever. Many of them reported being hale and hearty and possessed of the greatest vigor.

Dr. Bell wished to learn the facts concerning the ages of fathers and mothers of long-lived people. In order to provide himself with a complete and thoroughly accurate record from which to compile authentic tables he inquired into the full particulars of life, habits, and characteristics, as well as the ages of various members of a family, brothers, sisters, their children, etc.

He has proved to his own satisfaction that long life is inherited from young fathers and mothers. The children of a young mother will live longer than the children of an old mother. The age of 25 is the average for mothers; those under that are regarded as young mothers. Likewise, the children of young fathers have been found to live a greater number of years than the children of old fathers.

Another interesting point discovered was that children of families of eight live longest, and of these the third child is the longest lived. The only child is, as a rule, the shortest lived. In families where the children exceed eight the tendency to great years is not so noticeable. The birth of more than ten children weakens the mother, and as a result infants born after the tenth child are liable to die while very young.

This seems to be a day of exploding theories. The well-known theory of family intermarriage is another one relegated to the scrap heap. If first cousins marry and both sides are of good stock their issue will be sound of mind and body, proving that such a marriage is of a distinct advantage. It is only when one or the other party is the victim of some weakness that such a union is bad.

There are countless letters on file at Dr. Bell's office, written by men and women 90 years old and over. Many of them show a smoothness and firmness of penmanship that is amazing. The letters are also well written and clearly expressed, and show no mental confusion nor muddling of facts, faults so frequently attributed to old age.

Walter Rathenau Is

Striving to Prolong
Germany's Endurance

THE man who has done a great deal more to enable Germany to keep up the fight than all of von Hindenburg's drives put together is an individual by the name of Walter Rathenau. He is the man who is teaching the Germans how to "hold out."

Son and heir of the "electrical king," Emil Rathenau, who died in June last, he has had command since the hours the war began of the vast German scheme for defying the laws of blockade by converting the empire into an almost completely self-contained and self-sustaining community. It is he who insisted to the German war office that the grip of the British fleet might be turned into something of a national blessing, if the country would proceed to prove that necessity is the mother of invention.

It is he who directed the energies of the chemical and engineering alchemists, who have been creating substitutes for practically every essential of war except cotton that many of the artificial products have turned out to be more effective than the real article.

The intriguing to Rathenau's hands of the purely business side of the war is in keeping with the German theory that specialists only should be called upon to do expert work.

Walter Rathenau is a super-business man, and, indeed, a super-German, for his gifts are astonishingly diversified, and the interesting fact is that he is a Jew. He is still in the early 40's, standing 6 feet 3 inches in his stockings, he is a remarkable type of the highly-trained man who combines with eminent commercial ability intellectual gifts of high degree. Trained by his father to be a practical engineer, who had to work his way up in the "A. E. G." (General Electric Company) shops in overalls at $7.50 a week, young Rathenau, after graduating from Charlottenburg Technical College and taking his doctor's degree at the university, revealed literary bent which, had he confined himself to the writing field, would have given him rank in Germany.

An expert engineer and literary thinker of advanced liberal views, Rathenau has also revealed attainments as a banker. Until a year or two ago he was a managing director of the Berliner Handelsgesellschaft, one of the most important German institutions. As chairman of the governing board of his father's colossal electrical company, young Rathenau specialized in directing its financial operations, which covered the entire globe and represented interests worth $1,000,000,000.

Like nearly every modern young German business man, Rathenau speaks English like a Londoner, French like a Parisian, and Spanish like a grandee. He can quote Dante in Italian, and knows more about Tolstol than most Russians. He has toured Europe from Archangel to the Bay of Biscay, and can write with equal authority on economic conditions in South America or the United States, both of which he has visited and studied.

Metropolis of Asia Minor. Smyrna, where a revolt is reported to have taken place against German influence, is by far the greatest city of Asia Minor. It has the further distinction of having preserved an unbroken record from the dawn of history to the present time. Its favorable situation between Lydia and the West raised it as early as the seventh century (B.C.) to the height of splendor and power. A Greek city, it lost its place afterwards by foreign conquest, for three hundred years. It is mentioned by Pindar, and in the New Testament; Alexander the Great conceived the idea of restoring it, and Lysimachus enlarged and fortified it.

Afraid of Roumania. The Cologne Gazette is showing symptoms of fright as to Roumania's action. It declares that the Roumanian army, numbering 450,000 men, 600 modern guns, 300 machine guns, and 18,000 cavalry, is ready to enter the war on the side of the Allies. There is no doubt, it declares, of Roumania's attitude.

LITERARY FORGERIES. Stuff With Which Vrain-Lucas Duped An Aged Scientist.

The most remarkable literary forgery on record was perpetrated in 1870 on Michael Chasles, a French scientist of European reputation. Chasles, who was in his dotage, purchased within a few years from one Vrain-Lucas no fewer than 27,000 autographs. A. M. Broadley tells the story in his "Chats on Autographs."

"Beginning with a supposed correspondence between the youthful Newton and Pascal, Vrain-Lucas proceeded to fabricate letters of Rabelais, Montesquieu and La Bruyere. Before he had finished M. Chasles became the possessor of letters in French, and written on paper made in France, of Julius Caesar, Cleopatra, Mary Magdalene and even of Lazarus after his resurrection."

Vrain-Lucas was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, and among other forged manuscripts from his pen there were produced in court letters from Alexander the Great, Herod, Pompey, Judas Iscariot, Sappho, Pontius Pilate and Joan of Arc.

Battlecry of the Cat. The piercing wailing of the cat in the night startles and exasperates us beyond all bearing—not by its loudness, but by a certain vicious, weird, half terrifying, half infuriating note in it that makes us spring to arms with the bootjack or other substitute for the boomerang, as the warwhoop of our tribal enemies did a century or centuries ago, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson.

One of Mark Twain's wise old frontiersmen had caught this note when he explained to the tenderfoot that animal speech had rules of composition and grammar, just like human speech, and that "the reason a cat riles ye so makes, but on account of the noise she makes, but on account of the sickenin' bad grammar she uses." And he was right, for the grammar of scalp lifting and the whole alphabet of battle, murder and sudden death tangles and screams in the rasping cry.

Warning Him. "My dear, I can give you a satisfactory explanation of my delay in getting home this evening."

"You may have an explanation, Henry, but I can tell you in advance that it won't be satisfactory."

FOR OVERSEAS CONSTRUCTION

GIGANTIC steam shovels weighing sixty-five tons each, capable of eating up the earth at the rate of 150 to 200 cubic yards an hour, and self propelling extension track pile drivers, are part of the equipment recently purchased by the Government for Col. C. W. P. Ramsay, of the Canadian Overseas Railway Construction Corps. This plant was selected by Col. Ramsay's colleagues in the Engineering Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway and is being prepared by that company at the request of the Government for shipment abroad. The Canadian Overseas Railway Construction Corps has already built many miles of track at strategic points and is all the while engaged in surveys for further construction. The work has often to be done under fire, and though there have been so many narrow escapes there have been no serious casualties. Out of the non-commissioned officers and sappers that enlisted on the foundation of the Corps 18 have already received commissions. In the Royal Engineers, a remarkable tribute to their efficiency, while Col. Ramsay and Major Harvey have been mentioned in dispatches. The splendid work of these Canadian engineers has been highly appreciated by the allied commanders.

WHEN YOU GREET A FRIEND.

Tell Him He's Looking Fine and See How It Cheers Him.

"By George, old man, you are looking fine!" Did you ever notice how you perk up, no matter how poorly you were feeling before, when some friend greets you in that way?

According to the secretary of the Colorado board of health, the human system just naturally begins to tone up under the stimulus of such greetings.

He declares it is an aid to health and a help in preventing disease, and to that end he advocates a "tell your friends how well they look" movement.

"It is not only bad taste to talk of your pains and ailments," says the doctor, "but a reflection on your intelligence and knowledge of sanitation and good health. We are not far from the time when the cause of illness will have to be accounted for personally."

"In other words, nature is no longer going to be blamed for sickness when it is simply the result of ignorance, indifference or wrong ways of living."

Do you not think it worth giving the doctor's idea a try?

We do! So here goes:

"By George, you are looking fine!"

Vanilla Beans. The vanilla bean is the costliest bean in the world. It flourishes in Mexico, chiefly in Papantla and Misantla. It grows wild and is gathered and marketed by the natives. Just as they come from the forests the beans sell at $10 per 1,000. After the beans are dried and cured they are worth from $10 to $11 a pound, according to quality. They are used by druggists and confectioners and are an important article of commerce.

The Weather Changeth Not.

The oldest weather diary known to be in existence was kept by a Lincolnshire parson, William Merle, close on 600 years ago. From 1337 to 1344 he wrote it up, often day by day, in Latin, and his manuscript, being on vellum, was somehow preserved and is now in the Bodleian. Merle did not trouble himself with the popular lore about "skye influences," but stuck to an accurate record of fact, in the spirit at least of the modern meteorologists. And from his jottings it seems that he had pretty much the same kind of weather to deal with as folks in his parish of Friby experience now. Contrary to theory, the changes of six centuries have not reduced the number of wet days in the year.—London Chronicle.

SYNOPSIS.

Dudley Larnigan, district attorney, because of his fight on the vice and liquor trusts, is killed by an agent of a secret society, the committee of fifteen. The fight is continued by his son, Bruce, who is elected district attorney. Several efforts to frame up the intraplay young district attorney fail. When Larnigan saves the children of one of the conspirators this man agrees to expose the trust and is murdered. Dorothy Maxwell, whose father is head of the insurance trust, over the telephone hears of a plot to kill Larnigan, with whom she is in love. She warns him, he escapes, and two more of the conspirators are killed. When Bruce Larnigan goes to Chicago to fight the grain trust he is assaulted and thrown overboard. He is rescued by his brother Tom, who takes up the fight. Dodson, head of the grain trust, fearing exposure, kills himself. Tom Larnigan opens a fight on the textile trust. Ayres, the head of the trust, in an effort to kill Tom, kills his own son. Dorothy, gagged and bound, is taken by the conspirators to a roadhouse. Tom, Ben Travers and Stevens go after the railroad monopoly. An attempt is made to wreck the special train on which Tom and Ben travel. Dorothy escapes from the conspirators and, with Kitty Rockford, gets on the special. When Kitty is saved by Tom and Ben the railroad president declares he'll help expose the grafters.

SEVENTH EPISODE

America Saved From War

By Mrs. WILSON WOODROW
 Author of "The Black Pearl," "Sally Salt" and "The Silver Butterfly"

BRUCE LARNIGAN, slowly recovering from the effects of the adventure on the wheat schooner that had so nearly cost him his life, began to take a more active interest in the war of extermination against "The Fifteen," the Graft Syndicate that had murdered his father. During his illness his brother Tom, who had been his rescuer, had pursued the work Bruce had sworn to finish, but Tom, willing as he was, was limited in his power.

"As district attorney here, Tom," he said as he lay in bed, "I was hampered by the limits of my authority. My jurisdiction didn't go beyond my own county, you see. At the same time I hated to give up my official position, and I would never have done it if I hadn't had something in mind that would take its place."

"What was that?" asked Tom.

"An authority that has no limits—that gives me equally great powers in New York and Seattle, Florida and Dakota! The authority of a state, even, is limited—the authority of the Federal government is not!"

"Oh!" said Tom, startled. "You'd been fussing with Washington?"

"Decidedly so! It was all arranged and would have gone through long ago if I hadn't been hurt. I was to be made a special investigator or examiner, with the secret service fund and the secret service itself at my disposal. You see, I had gone into the whole business very fully with the President, and he agreed with me that the criminal operations of these great trusts constituted a terrible menace to the country. So I have arranged for you to receive the appointment that would have gone to me. You will have the official paper to-morrow—and your first task is to see what is being done by J. Brooks Carney."

"The head of the munitions trust?"

"Exactly. At Washington they are convinced that he is determined to drag this country into the European war. You can imagine what that would mean to his trust—orders of a tremendous importance."

"I'll do my best to scuttle him, Bruce! Now that I've got you within reach, I want to hold conversation with you when it's necessary to get your advice, I'm much less afraid of the rotten crew than I was!"

Bruce and Tom had hoped to keep Tom's appointment to the Federal service a secret, but they had known, too, that the Graft Syndicate was so well served by spies that there was little chance of success in this. And so it proved, for Carney himself, the man immediately affected, knew of the facts almost as soon as Tom himself. He went at once to Stanford Stone, the real head of the Fifteen—although neither Bruce nor Tom was aware of Stone's connection with the enemy.

"Here's bad news!" said Carney, when he had told Stone. "It seems to me it's more imperative than ever that we should get rid of this man Larnigan. He was bad enough before—you can guess how dangerous he will be with the whole power of the Federal government behind him!"

"Yes," said Stone, frowning. "And he should be kept out of the way especially just now—since it would be a frightful thing if our present plan were revealed! That would be a blow from which we'd find it almost impossible to recover."

"You mean our plan to blow up the interned warship?"

"Exactly! You know, Carney, how important it is that we should get into this war."

"And war means orders that would bring us a prosperity such as the world has never seen," said Carney. "There's only one thing—I don't trust this man Bean."

"We'll have Dunn watch him. Dunn has fallen down pretty badly against the Larnigan brothers, but I have found him useful enough in the past."

The conspiracy was widespread. Roger Maxwell, the head of the insurance trust and the father of Dorothy Maxwell, the girl whom both Bruce Larnigan and Stanford Stone loved, was concerned in it—not so much because he was likely to be of use as because Stone in order to increase his hold on Dorothy saw to it that Maxwell should be involved in every disgraceful undertaking of the syndicate. And it chanced that Dorothy overheard part of the talk of the plan for the destruction of the warship. With Dorothy at the time as her guest was Kitty Rockford, the daughter of the railway magnate, whom Tom and his friend, Ben Travers, had won from his allegiance to Stone.

"Kitty," said Dorothy, "we've got to interfere here. Your friend, Tom Larnigan, is in danger!"

"Oh," said Kitty. "Do you really think there's any danger?"

"I do. And I've an idea as to how we can make sure too. I told you about my experience with Dunn? He has an office, you know. I think I can contrive a note that will get you work there as a stenographer. If you find anything out write a note and drop it from the window. I will be watching below and will get it. Are you game?"

"Yes. I'm a good enough stenographer to pass muster. I took a course once just for fun."

There had proved to be no difficulty about getting Kitty into Dunn's office. And at last Kitty heard something that sounded important. By listening in she discovered that a certain telephone call for Dunn was from Stanford Stone, and she managed to overhear Dunn's end of the conversation, though it proved impossible to hear what Stone said.

"The best chance is 63 Pell street—hop joint," was what Dunn said.

Kitty could not guess the meaning of this. But she wrote down what she had heard and dropped the note to Dorothy. Dorothy was also mystified, but she decided to take a chance and sent an unsigned note to Tom advising him to see what there was to be discovered at the hop joint at the address given by Dunn.

"The best place is 63 Pell street—hop joint," Dunn said.

What Dunn had actually told Stone was the address of the place where Bill Bean, the eccentric and half mad inventor, was usually to be found. It was a hang out of his, it was explained.

Stone and Carney meanwhile had seen Bean and concluded certain arrangements with him. He had invented a wireless transmitter of extraordinary power, so diminutive that it was capable of being carried in a waistcoat pocket.

"It looks good to me," said Stone when Bean at Carney's request had explained the principle of his invention. "I think it's safe to try it out to-night, Carney."

"You understand?" asked Carney. "We want you to give us a convincing demonstration. If it is satisfactory we stand prepared to pay you $200,000 in yearly installments of $50,000 for the rights to your invention."

"I'd do anything for that," said the Bean.

"Then give me two of your prepared magnets," said Carney, "and tonight at 8 o'clock go to a certain dock—I have written down the location for you—and set your current to work."

"Why at the dock?" asked Bean.

"I could do it from here."

"Because you are to wait for a signal; something might go wrong with our plans. From the dock you will see a small boat. Three flashes of an electric torch will tell you to go ahead."

"All right," said Bean.

Carney believed in doing things himself; he took no chances with helpers who might fail him. Therefore he prepared two packages of explosives with a good deal of care, attaching to their fulminating caps by means of a fine wire the magnets Bean had given him.

One of these packages he left with Mrs. Larnigan, Bruce's mother. He understood that Tom was to return home a little before 8 o'clock and asked her to give him the package as soon as he returned. This, entirely unsuspecting, she promised to do. The other package Carney meant to fasten to the stern of the interned warship as she lay at her anchorage.

Bean had obtained some money in advance upon his promise neither to drink nor to visit a hop joint until he had completed his work. But he could not resist the temptation, and by the merest chance he went to his favorite resort, the one to which Tom had been advised to go.

Once in the joint, Bean grew boastful and displayed his money. This was too much for the other habitués of the place, and in a moment they fell upon him, meaning to rob him and if necessary kill him. It was in the midst of this struggle that Tom appeared. On general principles he went to Bean's aid, and it proved easy for him to beat off the drug weakened wretches who were attacking Bean.

Filled with gratitude, Bean left the place with Tom. And to show his gratitude Bean took Tom home with him and showed him his invention.

"I'll make you my assistant," he declared grandiloquently, and Tom, laughing, accepted the offer.

"We've got a big job on tonight," said Bean importantly. "You stick by me. Come on. It's time we were starting."

On the way, despite Tom's protests and quite forgetting his promises, Bean insisted on making numerous stops at saloons. He grew more and more exhilarated, and at last he sent by messenger a note to Stanford Stone. Tom did not know of this. He would have given much, had he done so, to read the note, which ran:

"I'm on my way to the dock. No chance of my getting drunk. I've hired a new assistant to look after me, a bully fellow called Tom Larnigan."

Stone was almost frantic when he read this note. Carney was already on his way to do his part of the work. There was no way of getting in touch with him. And so he got Dunn on the telephone, urging him excitedly to send men to kill Tom Larnigan at the dock where he was to be with Bean.

"Get Tom Larnigan!" he cried. "Have him killed. Do whatever is necessary. Take any risk—but get him."

Meanwhile Tom and Bean had reached the dock, and now Tom pined Bean with questions, judging that Bean would be willing in his drunken state to tell the truth. This proved to be the case, and Tom, filled with horror, learned of the dreadful plot.

Tom thought fast. And he made a sudden lunge for Bean. In the struggle, with Bean resisting, the crazy inventor's hands were forced together. And at once out in the river there was a blinding flash—a terrific explosion. Carney in his boat, carrying the explosives, had been blown to pieces. The death he had planned for others had come to him.

And just then, too, the men from Dunn's office appeared, attacked Tom and flung him into the water. But Dorothy Maxwell had arrived, too, having been warned by Kitty Rockford, and she sprang over to his rescue, while Ben Travers held off the miscreants who would have tried to stop her.

So the situation was saved, and the country was spared from the war into which Stone and Carney would have plunged it.

Lesson X.—Second Quarter, For June 4, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xvi, 6-15.
 Memory Verses, 9, 10—Golden Text, Acts xvi, 9—Commentary Prepared
 by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

It is beautiful to see Paul and Barnabas and Silas and others teaching and preaching the word of the Lord at Antioch after their return from Jerusalem. Personally I am heartily grateful to God that He ever led me to give myself wholly to the study and exposition of His word and that He has been graciously pleased to use me to help many to know Him better. This morning (May 25, 1915) among other mail was a letter which said: "Many, many years ago (it must be twenty-five at least) I learned to love my Bible through your teaching, and now I am teaching large classes each week. I have a class of 165 ladies and am teaching in Genesis—My heart cries, 'I will extol Thee my God, O King, and I will bless thy name forever and ever'" (Ps. cxlv, 1). It is not comforting to read of the contention over John Mark which led to the separation of such good friends as Barnabas and Paul, but the Lord overruled it for good by sending forth four missionaries instead of two, Barnabas and Mark sailing to Cyprus, while Paul and Silas went through Syria and Cilicia (xv, 35-41).

The first missionary tour ended at Lystra and Derbe, whence Paul and Barnabas retraced their steps by the way they had come, strengthening the saints and assuring them that tribulation was the way to the kingdom (xiv, 21-26). Now we find Paul again at Lystra and Derbe and are introduced to Timothy, of whom Paul spoke as "my own son in the faith" and of whom he wrote saying, "I have no man so dear unto me" (I Tim. i, 2; Phil. ii, 20; margin). He also speaks of his mother, Eunice, and his grandmother, Lois, and of their unfeigned faith, which had been granted to Timothy likewise (II Tim. i, 5). Being well reported of, by the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconium, Paul took him along with him on this journey, and we find him associated with Paul in his letters to several of the churches, while in each of the letters to the Thessalonians the greeting is from Paul and Silas and Timothy.

It will certainly be interesting if Timothy shall tell us some day in the kingdom that he saw Paul stoned, dragged out of the city as a dead man, return to life and return to the city, and that with the teaching at home led him to receive the Lord Jesus; whether in that way or just by the word preached he was one of those whom God gave to Paul and in a special way a man after his own heart (verses 1-3). As they went from city to city they were able to comfort and strengthen the disciples by the decision of the Jerusalem council (verses 4, 5).

Having passed through what is known as Asia Minor to the extreme west, they were forbidden by the Holy Spirit to preach the word in the province of Asia or in Bithynia (verses 6, 7), and this leads us to notice the control and guidance and power of the Holy Spirit in all this working of the risen and ascended Christ through His messengers.

Whether it be our Lord Himself or Peter or Stephen or Philip or Paul and his companions, the Holy Spirit is the speaker, the worker, the teacher, the guide, the controller in all things. He is mentioned fifty times in seventeen chapters of this book. There is nothing that a believer needs so much as to be filled with and controlled by Him, for only thus can the risen Christ manifest Himself in us and work His works through us. We are not told how the Spirit forbade them to go to Asia or suffered them not to go into Bithynia. It may have been by circumstances or by a direct message, as when He told Philip to speak to the treasurer, or Peter to go with the messengers from Cornelius (viii, 29; x, 19). Oh, for ears to hear and a readiness to obey, a heart in tune with God, a life fully yielded to Him!

While at Troas Paul saw, in a vision of the night, a man of Macedonia, in Europe, and he heard him say, "Come over and help us." Therefore they concluded that the Lord was calling them to Europe, and so they crossed to Neapolis and went to Philippi, the chief city of that part of Macedonia (verses 8-12). If we have no wills nor plans of our own the Lord will in His own time and way give us sure guidance (Ps. xxxiii, 8; Isa. xxx, 21; Ex. xxiii, 20). They did not at first find the man of the vision, but in our next lesson in this book we shall see a man and his household made glad.

They did find on the Sabbath a woman's prayer meeting, and as they spoke the word of the Lord, the heart of a woman named Lydia was opened to receive the message, and being baptized, she and her household, she constrained the apostles to make her house their home for the time being (verses 13-15). She had worshiped God according to her light, and no doubt she and the others had prayed for more light, and God, who sent Philip to the eunuch, and Peter to Cornelius, sent Paul to this meeting. What a happy home this now was! Let all praying women be encouraged and those inclined to be discouraged by circumstances consider this first preaching of the gospel in Europe.

 Compound.

Indianapolis, Indiana. — "My health was so poor and my constitution so run down that I could not work. I was thin, pale and weak, weighed but 109 pounds and was in bed most of the time. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and five months later I weighed 133 pounds. I do all the housework and washing for eleven and I can truthfully say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a godsend to me for I would have been in my grave today but for it. I would tell all women suffering as I was to try your valuable remedy."—Mrs. WM. GREEN, 332 S. Addison Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

There is hardly a neighborhood in this country, wherein some woman has not found health by using this good old-fashioned root and herb remedy.

A SOLDIER'S DEATH.

Late Oscar Lloyd's Friend Writes to His Parents, Telling of his Death.

April 10th, 1916.

Dear Mr. Lloyd,
No doubt by this time you will have received from the War Office the sad news of Oscar's death. Knowing that such bold statements as the War Office sends tell so little, I thought you would want to know more details, we were great friends, Oscar and I, we worked together ever since he joined the scouts, and promised each other that in case either of us fell the other would write his parents. The last time we were sent back to the trenches, we made desperate efforts to be together, but we were sent to different platoons and so separated. Two days later (April 5th) or rather at night we moved into that part of the trench which was being heavily bombarded. At 3 a.m. the enemy bombardment was at its highest pitch but remained like that until the next afternoon. Oscar was in the next dugout to ours, though I did not know that. At about 10 a.m. in the morning a shell exploded on the top of his dugout burying all inside. Oscar died an instantaneous and painless death, he never suffered at all and it is a blessing to us all to know that. Of the other five in the dug-out, one was killed and the others all wounded. One of them told me that a few minutes before Oscar was killed he said, "well boys, if it is to be, it's to be." I did not know Oscar was in that dugout until we dug them out, or I should have gone into it with him. I cannot tell you how many fellows have come to me and said, well Lara, I hear your chum Lloyd is gone. He was a fine fellow, was Lloyd. The doctor, the major and the Y.M.C.A. captain all expressed similar sentiments to me. He was very popular, and deserved all the esteem and popularity he had. No one who ever came in contact with him could fail to appreciate his character and friendship. It is only a real sterling man who can live a christian life and be popular and esteemed by all, and he was so cheerful and ready to help anyone. In fact, I have often seen him volunteer to help in work all considered irksome, and his cheerfulness and readiness to help anyone made him a general favorite. Scores of fellows have come to me these last few days asking for details of his death, and all would say "well he was a fine fellow, and was jolly." His initials J. O. L. and his natural cheerfulness under all conditions gave him his nickname Jolly, a good nickname too. It is surprising how few men really make any impression on us in travelling along the road of life. One can really count them on the fingers of two hands, (perhaps one). Jolly was one of these to me. He often told me that God seemed to him to be behind a cloud, but he saw the gleam, never doubted that light was there all right and followed the gleam. He was a man who never turned his back, but marched breast forward, never doubted clouds would break, nor dreamed, though right was worsted, wrong would triumph. Held we fall to rise, are buffeted to fight better, sleep to awake. We see God very dimly, most of us, but cultivating the friendship of Oscar has made me anxious to at last follow the gleam, who knows, it may end in a glorious day for us all. I live in the hope of seeing him again smiling as of old, where neither wars destroy nor doubts discourage. With you I mourn, but mourn in hope, knowing that after the night, day dawns. Time passes as a dream. The morrow and the awakening will come for us all. Yours sincerely,

LEONARD LARA.

"BOY DAY" IN HONOLULU, T.H.

Dear Sir—Local Japanese yesterday celebrated the Tango Festival, the Boys' Day of the Nipponese. Dia-Nippon celebrated the children's fete days in the year. The first is Doll Day, having been celebrated March the 3rd.
"Tango Day" sees every Japanese family, especially those where there are young boys ready to fly the giant Carps—the sign of the festival. The Carps is called koi in the Japanese language. The housewives have prepared the feast of "Kashiva Mochi," a sort of a dumpling with oak leaves inside, and most homes are decorated with a display of dolls representing the armed "Samuria" of old Japan. "Boys' Day" was evidenced by the large number of fish streamers which were being flaunted to the breeze on the tops of Japanese homes through the city. Upon the fifth day of the fifth month in every year the Japanese all over the world celebrated "Boy Day," and a streamer so flaunted, indicates that during the year, a boy was born in the home. However, the day is generally observed and whether a boy was born in the home or not during the year, the streamers are displayed. The Japanese have adopted the Carp, as a symbol for this annual custom. The Japanese Carp being a sturdy, aggressive, up-stream swimming fish. They liken the qualities of the Carp to the Japanese boy, whom they hope to raise as a sturdy, aggressive and up-stream swimming factor in the Japanese nation. In Honolulu there are beautiful Japanese gardens and picturesque little homes, which have all the atmosphere of Japan in and about them. There are also the picturesque customs of the Oriental to be seen on all the streets. In fact the traveller right here in "Hawaii" may without going to Japan or China or other far Eastern countries gain a glimpse of some of the picturesque life of those nations.
I. J. WILSON.
Honolulu, T.H. May 8th, 1916.

A Fight to the Death.

One day recently a citizen living in the suburbs of Brockville noticed a large chicken hawk circling round in the air then dart suddenly to the ground and rise with something held tightly in its claws. The "something" had fur on it and the spectator was surprised to see that there was a battle going on in mid air between the hawk and its intended victim, and the bird was soon seen to be having difficulty in maintaining its equilibrium. After considerable thrashing about the air the hawk suddenly collapsed when upon being picked up was found to have a dead weasel in its claws, while the weasel had brought death to the hawk by fastening its sharp teeth in the throat on the militant bird.

STINGING NEURALGIA

The Trouble Due to Nerves Starved
For Lack of Good Blood.

An eminent medical writer has said that "neuralgia is the cry of starved nerves for better blood." The one great symptom of this trouble is pain fierce, stabbing pain, that almost drives the sufferer frantic. The one cause is poor blood; the only cure is to enrich the blood. Heat applied to the inflamed nerves will give relief, but does not cure. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills furnish the blood all the needed elements, and the blood conveys them to the nerves. The only way of getting food or medicine to the nerves is through the blood, and the only way to enrich the blood is through a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In this way neuralgia, sciatica and other nerve disorders are promptly cured and the whole system benefited and strengthened. Mrs. M. Gleason, R.R. No. 1, Uxbridge, Ont., who was a great sufferer from neuralgia, says: "I suffered intensely from neuralgia for four years. My blood was thin and I was completely run down. I suffered intense pain all the time. At different times I consulted three doctors, but their treatment did no more than give me temporary relief. Then I tried different medicines, but the result was the same—they seemed no good in my case. I was growing steadily worse, and finally could not leave the house nor do a bit of work. The last doctor I consulted could do nothing for me but give me morphine tablets to ease the pain, and by this time I had about resigned myself to a life of pain. Then one Dr. Williams' almanac came to our house and I read of similar cases cured through the use of Pink Pills. I got three boxes and before they were all gone the pain began to decrease, and I began to have a better appetite. By the time I had taken six boxes I was again a well woman, and my neighbors could hardly realize that such a chance could be made in so short a time. Later I was bothered with eczema and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me. I have found these Pills worth their weight in gold and I cheerfully recommend them to all who are ailing."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
According to the Wall Street Journal, a single gallon of gasoline will do wonders almost anywhere, but no where has it been applied to better purposes than on the farm. It will milk 300 cows, bale four tons of hay, mix thirty-five cubic yards of cement, move a ton truck fourteen miles, plough three-fifths of an acre of land or generate sufficient electricity to illuminate the farm house for thirty hours.
