Mr. Cameron, of Huron, Propounds a Pertinent Question to the Government—Sir Hector On the Stand.

THE SENATE'S SCANDAL.

The Senate Railway Committee had another unprofitable meeting yesterday. No evidence was taken and no witness held out a hope of giving any except C. N. Armstrong, who promises to be here to-morrow. As to Ernest Pacaud, there was a laconic dispatch conveying the intimation that he had left town, and Mr. Garneau is still ill.

A TIMELY QUESTION.

Mr. Cameron, of Huron, gives notice of the following inquiry for Thursday: "Does the Government intend instituting criminal proceedings against Michael Connolly, one of the contractors of the Kingston graving dock, for fraud, forgery, or any other criminal offense for signing the name of F. C. Bancroft, a fictitious person, to a check to the Department of Public Works; for signing the name of said fictitious person to a tender for the construction of said dock; or does the Attorney-General of Canada intend to do so or instruct any other person to do so?"

THE PAPER DEAL IN THE PRINTING BUREAU.

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—The Public Accounts Committee met yesterday, Mr. Clarke Wallace in the chair. An employe of the bureau stated that Mr. Arnoldi frequently took his wife and sister-in-law while cruising, and frequently took friends.

Mr. W. A. Allan, contractor, with whom Mr. Arnoldi claimed to have business transactions involving $50,000 or $60,000, was called.

Mr. Lister—Mr. Arnoldi says you and he are intimate friends, and that there are no business transactions between you.

Mr. Allan—He is rather drawing on his imagination. I have taxed my memory for any particular transaction, and found that ten years ago we had a private transaction involving $5,000 or $6,000. From that day to this we have had no transactions except the building of my dredge. The Joe was entered here in my name because Mr. Arnoldi said he desired to avoid notoriety. Soon after I asked to be relieved, and the boat was entered in Mr. Wilson's name.

The Printing Bureau inquiry was then taken up by Mr. Foster. It was decided that the clerk of the court in Montreal should be summoned to produce the agreement signed by T. D. Berthiaume, lessee of the newspaper, in which Mr. Chapleau is said interested, and the New Paper Company.

Mr. Brown Chamberlain, Queen's Printer, described how paper was purchased for the use of the Government. He knew of a case where a purchase was made by Mr. Bronskill under instructions of Mr. Chapleau. That was the purchase from the New England Company. Mr. Bronskill said he was going to give the company a chance. It amounted to 250 reams. This paper was for the Postoffice Guide. That company tendered several times to supply the Government, but its tender had always been refused. The paper for the Postoffice Guide did not require to be tendered for. He presumed Mr. Bronskill was acting under the instruction of Mr. Chapleau.

Mr. Lister produced an account from the New England Paper Company to the department, dated Nov. 25, 1889, for 252 reams, amounting to $1,074. On the account were the words, "Taken into stock by Mr. C.'s order." Mr. Chamberlain would not say who Mr. C. meant.

Mr. Lister produced another account from the same company, dated a month later, for the same amount. It bore these words, "Approved, J. A. Chapleau."

Mr. Chamberlain admitted that he did not know another instance in all the paper purchased by the department where Mr. Chapleau certified to an account. H. J. Bronskill, superintendent of stationery, being called, said he did not think there was any necessity for the Secretary of State to certify an account.

Mr. Lister—I don't think so either.

Witness' impression was that this second account came to him with a letter from Mache, Mr. Chapleau's secretary, ordering it to be paid. He had been in his office since July 1, 1889, but did not know of a single other account certified to by Mr. Chapleau. A short time after a conversation with Mr. Chapleau the latter went to Montreal, taking a sample of the paper required, and made the negotiations for the purchase. Mr. Chapleau gave the order to the New England Paper Company.

Mr. Chapleau said that if there were any intention of trying to prove a corrupt arrangement by an agreement of which he knew nothing, he would challenge Mr. Foster to make the statement. In the House, he said, he had denied any knowledge of any such an agreement, and if his statement was contradicted he wanted Mr. Foster to make the statement in the proper place on the floor of the House. Further inquiry was postponed until Thursday.

COMMENTS ON THE RESIGNATION.

The evening Conservative paper at Ottawa, commenting on Sir Hector Langevin's resignation, says: "The most generous construction thtt can now be placed upon Sir Hector's administration of the department is that he was extraordinarily ignorant or careless about the details of its operations and of the proceedings of some of his officers. This may have arisen from an honorable man's over-confidence in his subordinates and in human nature, but from whatever cause it did arise it had effects which have permanently destroyed Sir Hector's administrative usefulness."

The Free Press (Liberal) says: "Sir Hector Langevin has resigned his seat in the Cabinet. Messrs. Haggart, Dewdney, Foster, Costigan, Abbott and Carling should follow his example. They are all quite as deep in the mire as he is."

SPECULATION AS TO LANGEVIN'S SUCCESSOR.

The Mail's special says: It is believed, however, that Mr. Abbott will shortly intimate that Sir Hector may go for good. Sir Hector says the influence which dictated to him the course he has taken was the desire that the party might be free to pronounce upon him. But there is more than this beneath the resignation. There has been a wish among the Conservatives that Sir Hector would relieve them of the embarrassment which his continuance in a leading position produces, and on Friday Mr. Abbott announced in very strong language that all wrong-doers were to be visited with summary vengeance. The two circumstances have decided the Minister, and he is said to have written his resignation, declaring as he did so that all old associates were deserting in his hour of need. Sir Hector's withdrawal at this time is a sad ending to a long and active political life. It is understood that Mr. Chapleau was a participant in the assault which has brought about Sir Hector's downfall. Anyway, Mr. Chapleau is triumphing over the enemy within the rank who, he has claimed has persistently stood in the way of his advancement. Whether or not Parliament rehabilitates Sir Hector Langevin he will not return to the Cabinet, as it is felt he would be a heavy load to carry in the face of the evidence that has been adduced against him during the last few weeks. An effort, it is reported, will be made to induce Mr. Angers to take his place. Mr. Angers is now Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec and his term is nearly up. He represents the better class of Conservatives in Quebec, and would be an important addition to the Ministry. But it is said that he is not anxious to become a Minister. He would infinitely prefer the elevation to the chief justiceship of Quebec, which was rendered vacant recently by the death of Sir Antoine Dorion. In the race for this position, however, he has a strong competitor in the person of Speaker Lacoste, of the Senate, who is a friend of Mr. Chapleau, now the controlling influence, so far as French questions are concerned, in the Cabinet. If Mr. Angers should after all not be available, ex-Speaker Ouimet will claim the vacant position.

THE BAIE DES CHALEURS AFFAIR.

[Associated Press Dispatch.]

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—The Senate Railway Committee met to-day. Mr. C. N. Armstrong, the original contractor, was examined. He refused to answer questions as to alleged payments he had made to Mr. Eugene Pacaud for services in securing the payment of subsidies from the Quebec Government. He gave the history of how the new company was formed. Witness admitted he had been shown a statement, purporting to be Hon. Mr. Mercier's, of debt, aggregating $57,000. The creditors include Mr. Tarte, M.P., and Mr. Carroll, M.P., Kamouraska. He refused to say what he had done with the moneys arising from the discounting of letters of credit. He had paid it out as soon as received.

SIR HECTOR ON THE STAND.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 12.—Not very much of importance came out in the cross-examination of Sir Hector this morning. Before beginning Sir Hector amended his statement to say that he knew of John Rochester's subscription of $500 to his testimonial fund; $200 he paid to the treasurer and the balance in two installments of $150 to Sir Hector himself.

Mr. Geoffrion's first question was: "Since when has Mr. McGreevy lived at your house when in Ottawa?" "Since '78," was the reply. "During that time he supplied nothing for the house, save delicacies."

Mr. Geoffrion pointed out that it was about this time that the notes for $10,000 were made, when Sir Hector explained again that requiring money for election expenses he applied to his old friend of 25 years for aid. McGreevy said, "I have no money now, but get your notes discounted and I will look after them. They had been renewed to his knowledge by McGreevy ever since each four months. He (Sir Hector) simply gave him his signature and McGreevy did the rest. About the purchase of Le Monde he knew that Lessard and Tasse were interested with him.

"Did you not know that they had no money?" asked Mr. Geoffrion. "Yes," admitted Sir Hector, and afterwards said that he thought they went to McGreevy for the money.

"Did you know where McGreevy got the money?" "No," came sharp and prompt. "If I had been asked," added Sir Hector, "I would have said that he paid it out of his own personal funds."

Sir Hector's own advances to Le Monde continued up to a year or eighteen months ago. He did not make them with a view of getting any money back, but only to have political control of the paper if at any time it were needed.

Mr. Geoffrion asked about the rebate of $19,000 allowed Larkin, Connolly & Co. on the old plant they had to take in connection with the British Columbia works. Sir Hector was positive that he had not discussed Perley's report with that gentleman allowing this rebate. There are only 24 hours in a day, he said, and he could not therefore presume to discuss every report made by his officers with them. Eighteen hours a day, he said, he frequently worked trying to keep up with his parliamentary, departmental, ministerial and private duties. Patrick Larkin had sworn that he had a long conversation with Perley and Sir Hector about this reduction in the value of the plant, and that he would not have taken the contract if he had not understood that such reduction was to be made. Sir Hector said that he had no recollection of this, but was quite sure that he had promised no reduction.

Following is a continuation of the ADVERTISER'S special from Ottawa, summarizing Sir Hector's cross-examination before the Tarte committee yesterday:

Reading from the evidence Sir Hector showed that Larkin did not say that Sir Hector had made any promise, Sir Hector had only said that he would look into the matter, "which was no promise." "If Mr. Larkin so understood it," Sir Hector added, "he did not understand the usages of the department."

"But as it was finally done it would seem that he understood right," said Mr. Geoffrion.

"With this provision," said Sir Hector, "that I did not know of the change."

Mr. Tarte took a turn and began by asking Sir Hector about his denial that he had promised Thomas McGreevy the control of the St. Annes road. Sir Hector reread his statement on this point by way of answer. He knew later, however, that they had come to an understanding in the matter, but he took no part in it, but he was glad when he learned that they were not fighting.

Mr. Tarte then read him this letter:

OTTAWA, Oct. 11, 1887.—Dear Mr. McGreevy,—You remember having deposited in my hands a large envelope, and C. N. Armstrong also put in my hands one later on. I wish to know now what is to be done about these two papers. I have written Mr. Armstrong to the same effect. If your answers are the same I will know what to do.

(Signed.) H. L. LANGEVIN.

Sir Hector said that this letter was authentic, but that he never knew what was in the envelopes. He returned them to McGreevy and Armstrong.

IN THE SENATE.

Before the Senate Committee C. N. Armstrong gave sensational evidence to the effect that $57,000 of the Baie Des Chaleur Railway bonus went to pay Mr. Mercier's private debts. Among the debtors the name of Mr. Tarte figured.

A MITCHELL TRAGEDY!

Daniel Whale Charged With Killing His Wife.

The Outcome of Drinking and Family Disputes—The Prisoner Held for Manslaughter.

MITCHELL, Ont., Aug. 13.—Tuesday, the day fixed for Mitchell's civic holiday, was marred by a cruel murder. The principals in the case are prominent people in the town, and the supposed murderer, Daniel Whale, is a man worth between $40,000 and $50,000. Whale and his wife have lived here for about nine months, coming from Toronto, where they kept a hotel. The couple, who are between 60 and 70 years of age, did not live happily together.

Tuesday morning about 9 o'clock while Whale was under the influence of liquor he rushed from his house and called a neighbor, William Taylor, telling him to go into his (Whale's) house, as he had to get a doctor. Entering the house a ghastly sight met Taylor's eyes. Lying on the floor with her head resting on a sofa was Mrs. Whale, with her face and clothes covered with blood. Taylor made an attempt to lift the unfortunate woman on to the sofa, and asked her what had happened, but she was unconscious, and made no reply. Taylor then called in his wife, and with her assistance lifted the body on the lounge and washed the blood from the face.

When Whale returned to his house he was greatly excited, but offered no explanation as to how the tragedy occurred. He said he and his wife had had many a row but thought this one would be the last, and said: "I suppose this job will go hard with me." He blamed his son-in-law, John Seldon, for the whole trouble, and told Taylor that he would shoot him. A revolver was afterwards found in Whale's bed.

Taylor heard quarreling in Whale's house during the morning, and it is supposed that in the row Whale struck his wife with some instrument, inflicting the wound which caused her death. The wound, which is in the shape of a rough cut about one and a half inches long, is on the back of the head. The blow or fall did not fracture the skull, but caused concussion of the brain. Mrs. Whale died from the effects of her injuries about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Whale was arrested. He has the reputation of being passionate, and when under the influence of liquor has no control over his temper. He is well connected. His daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Seldon, ran the Royal Hotel in this town.

Coroner Shaver, of Stratford, was notified immediately after Mrs. Whale's death, and the inquest began in the Town Hall.

The testimony showed that Whale had a row with his wife; neighbors had heard him using harsh language to her on the morning of the tragedy, swearing at both his wife and daughter; he appeared to be under the influence of liquor.

The post-mortem statement of Drs. Wood and Hurlburt stated that bruises were found on the face, ribs, and right and left arms, and several contusions on the right leg and ankle. They also found one rib broken and a very severe wound on the back of the head. The cause of death they believe to be the compression of the brain tissue by hemorrhage affecting especially the right hemisphere. In reply to the coroner, Dr. Wood expressed the opinion that this was the result of violence. He believed that all the wounds had been made recently, and at the same time.

THE VERDICT.

At 2:35 o'clock this morning the jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter against Daniel Whale.

Hurricane and Hail.

CHARLTON, Minn., Aug. 12.—A hurricane demolished a Chippewa Indian village at Sawyer yesterday. It was accompanied by a great hail storm which destroyed all the gardens and grain fields between Sawyer and Big Lake. Many Indians were injured, but none killed.

Picnickers in Peril.

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 13. — Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock two steamers, Princess Louise, Capt. Rothwell, and Swan, Capt. Craig, collided on the River St. Lawrence a short distance from the city. The Swan had 100 passengers on board when she struck, and the Princess Louise was running her regular trip to Gananoque. Both boats were damaged. The passengers on the Swan were returning from a picnic and were very much excited and put on life preservers. Fortunately there was no occasion to use them. The captains blame each other for the collision.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Minister Haggart's Ditch Declared a Public Necessity.

The Government Majority This Time Reduced to Eighteen.

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—The report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections on the refusal of Thomas McGreevy to answer certain questions, was presented to the House of Commons this afternoon. The Minister of Justice said that the matter might require action on the part of the House, and he proposed to move to-morrow.

The time for receiving reports on private bills was extended to a week from Friday next.

THE TAY CANAL.

There was an amendment to supply moved by Mr. M. C. Cameron, of Huron. It referred to the Tay Canal. In 1882 Sir Charles Tupper asked Parliament for a grant of $50,000 towards the construction of the canal, the cost of which he estimated at $132,000. Parliament voted the $50,000. Next year Sir Charles got Parliament to continue the construction of the canal, the cost of which then had jumped up to $240,000. In 1887 an additional vote of $55,000 was proposed by Sir Charles Tupper, and up to and inclusive of 1877 the appropriations amounted to $311,000. In 1837 Sir Charles said that this additional sum of $55,000 would complete the work, including the basin at Perth. In 1888 Partiament was again asked for more money, this time $78,000, and Sir Richard Cartwright had his suspicions aroused, and in reply to him it was stated that the work had been finished and this $78,000 was to pay up the balance due the contractor. Sir Charles Tupper then told the House that the total cost would be $358,000. In other words, the expense up to 1888 had exceeded by $118,000 the estimated cost. In 1889 the present Minister of Finance asked Parliament for an additional sum of $25,000 required to complete the basin and carry out the other works. Mr. Foster then said the total cost would be $364,000, or $124,000 in excess of what Sir Charles Tupper assured Parliament would complete the work. This was not all. In 1890 Sir John Macdonald asked Parliament for $11,000 more. His eyes were apparently opened to the utter folly of this work from the beginning, and Sir John remarked: "This canal drains the county of Perth, and if it does not drain the county of Perth it drains the public treasury." Sir John added that this additional $11,000 was to settle with the contractors and finish the work. This was the Minister's pledge to Parliament for the third time. There was another sum in 1890 of $20,000, part of which was spent and a portion not expended. Up to this time the original estimate had been exceeded by $155,947. Up to Aug. 3, 1891, Parliament was informed that the total cost of the Tay Canal had reached $440,613, or $200,613 more than Sir Charles Tupper solemnly assured Parliament would be the total cost. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Cameron went on to say that in the estimates now going through Parliament for the current year a further sum of $30,000 was found, which would bring the total cost of this canal up to $470,613, or $230,000 more than Sir Charles Tupper assured Parliament would be sufficient for the work. (Hear, hear.) Nor was that all. (Oh, oh.) No; that was not all. There is now under construction an extension of the Tay Canal to Haggart's mill—an extension estimated to cost $18,000, but would more likely cost $50,000 Thus it was that the work which Parliament was assured would cost $240,000 would cost ultimately half a million. (Hear, hear.) In return for this they had a revenue last year from tolls of $51 80. This demonstrates what Mr. Cameron termed a work of supreme folly. In further proof of this Mr. Cameron gave the House a list of the craft navigating that canal. There was one tug, the John Haggart, which made one trip a week from Perth to Kingston, via Rideau Canal; another tug making one trip a week to Montreal; one pleasure yacht belonging to Senator MacLaren and two small boats about the size of ordinary row boats and in addition one old scow. "What a screaming farce," exclaimed Mr. Cameron, and he asked any fair-minded man opposite to say if he could approve of such expenditure. It was a lasting monument of departmental imbecility if not worse. It could only be characterized as a gross fraud. This was bad enough, but the extension of this canal from the center of the town up to Haggart's mill was an act of the maddest folly ever perpetrated by any Government. It was a willful waste of public money.

In conclusion Mr. Cameron moved an amendment reciting the facts of the case as set forth in his speech, and declaring

"That this House is of opinion that the said expenditures on the Tay Canal are in violation of the pledges and assurances of the Government to Parliament, and this House is further of the opinion that the said extension of the canal to Haggart's mill is not a work that should have been undertaken at the public expense, and is not warranted by any public necessity."

Mr. Bowell as acting Minister of Railways and Canals replied. He found no fault with the admirable manner in which Mr. Cameron presented the subject to the House. He argued that the estimates of the Minister as to the probable cost of public works should not be taken as reliable. He took it that this motion was made because the Postmaster-General was the owner of the mill. Had Mr. Haggart not owned the mill the House would never have heard of this Tay Canal. (Loud "Hear, hears" from the Opposition.)

Mr. Somerville—It would never have been built.

Mr. Gibson and Mr. Watson said they had visited the canal and came to the conclusion that the extension of the canal was a mere blind to increase the head of water from the mill owned by the Postmaster-General. It would have paid the country to have moved the mill down to the basin. It was a small mill, grinding 75 barrels of flour per day. Mr. Haggart's supporters there said the work was undertaken to benefit the country, a plea that might cost the country a good many millions if admitted to be a good one.

Mr. Macdonnell charged that Messrs. Gibson and Watson had been "so full of tangle leg and benzine that they did not know whether they were on the canal or the St. Lawrence.

Mr. Watson rose and raised the point of order, at the same time denouncing Mr. Macdonnell's reckless statement as false.

Mr. Speaker ruled that Mr. Macdonnell, in charging two members of the House with drunkenness, was quite in order.

Mr. Fraser took Mr. Macdonnell sharply to task and roundly denounced him for his mean references to two honorable gentlemen who were vastly his superiors, so far forgetting himself as to drag in a falsehood about them, and using language that he would not dare use outside that House. The severe but merited rebuke was loudly applauded by the Opposition.

Hon. Mr. Haggart briefly defended the course taken by the Government in providing for the extension, and admitted that it was on his advice that the expenditure was undertaken.

Sir Richard Cartwright said the colleagues of the Postmaster-General must be astonished at the moderation of the Minister in contenting himself with half a million. He reminded the House that on estimate of a practical man like Mr. Gibson, of Lincoln, the annual cost of this little six-mile canal, including interest, would be $28,000, and asked if it was wise for the people of Canada to bear this annual expenditure in order to save the town of Perth even $36,000 a year in freights, as claimed by the Postmaster-General, whose calculation moreover rested on a basis of twelve months' navigation, whereas for nearly half this period the canal would be sealed up. The extension up to Mr. Haggart's mill, which must benefit the mill property, was undertaken without consulting Parliament. Sir Richard dwelt on the effect on the Minister's supporters of the Minister's plea that this $500,000 expenditure benefited his county. If that plea was good there was a blue lookout for the Dominion funds under the present Administration.

Mr. Mulock challenged Mr. Haggart to say that the trade of Perth required additional wharfage by the extension of the canal, but Mr. Haggart declined to do so. Mr. Campbell, a practical miller, said the canal would be worth $1,000 a year to Mr. Haggart, and so far as he could see it would be of no further benefit. Mr. McMullen referred to the canal as "Haggart's ditch," and the discussion was closed.

The result of the vote was 82 yeas and 100 nays, a majority for the Government 18. The Opposition cheered the clerk's announcement of the figures.

A WHIP'S BAD BREAK.

Mr. Taylor, the Conservative whip, rose and said that the member for Russell (Mr. Edwards) was paired with the member for Lisgar (Mr. Ross), and yet the member for Russell had voted.

Mr. Edwards indignantly repelled the slanderous accusation, and informed the House that he had a letter from Mr. Ross himself stating that the pair ended last Saturday night.

This prompt exposure of Mr. Taylor's statement evoked cheers from the Opposition and Mr. Taylor, white with anger, tried to say something which was drowned in loud cries of order, and Mr. Speaker told Mr. Taylor to sit down, which he did with an ill grace.

THE SPEAKER WITHDRAWS.

Before putting the main motion the Speaker announced that he had been mistaken in a ruling made during the discussion, and he now called upon Mr. Macdonnell to withdraw his unparliamentary charges against Messrs. Gibson and Watson, which was done.

THE INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY.

Mr. Weldon advocated that a change be made in the management of the Intercolonial Railway. He argued strongly that the road be put under commission, citing the management of other railways in Australia as evidence of the success of such a change. Sir John Thompson said the statements and figures of Mr. Weldon were worthy of consideration, and said the Government would investigate the system suggested. Mr. Mills and others spoke, and the House adjourned at 1:45 a. m.

THE WALSALL ELECTION.

Vigorous Contest on the Home Rule Question—The Gladstonian Gets There.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—In the election held in Walsall, Stafford county, yesterday, for a member of Parliament to succeed the late Sir Charles Forester (a Liberal in favor of home rule), Alderman Holden (Gladstonian) defeated F. James (Conservative). The vote stood: Holden, 4,899; James, 4,361. Holden's majority, 538. Holden is president of the Liberal 400 at Walsall. Sir Charles Forester had sat for Walsall since July, 1852. Walsall is one of the few seats that have never before been contested on the home rule plank. The fight has been unusually bitter and exciting. The constituency has been uninterruptedly Liberal since 1841. Both sides in the contest had good candidates. T. D. Sullivan took up his residence in the district in order to keep Ireland before the electors. Some disorder was apprehended to-day, and a large force of police was in readiness, but polling was orderly. The day being a general holiday the poll largely exceeded that of 1885. In that year the Liberal majority was 1,877.

The congress will also discuss the question of a prime meridian, a universal hour, and rules to be observed in the spelling of geographical names.

Details of a Recent Collision on the Sea,

By Which 260 Passengers Were Drowned—Chinese Murderers Executed.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Advices from Yokohama give further particulars of the sinking of the steamer Tamaye Maru and the drowning of 260 passengers. The Tamaye Maru and another steamer, the Myoshi Maru, were racing, when the latter steered across the Tamaye's course and the vessels collided. The Tamaye Maru sank immediately, and only about 60 people who were on the deck were rescued.

DROWNED IN RICE LAKE.

Sad Fate of Mr. and Mrs. John Hawkins and Miss Florence Maybee.

BOWMANVILLE, Aug. 13.—People here were thrown into great excitement yesterday on receipt of the intelligence that Mrs. Hawkins (nee Maggie Stephens), youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Stephens; Mr. John M. Hawkins, her husband, and Miss Florence Maybee, only daughter of Mr. Benjamin Maybee, Ross Mount, Hope township, were drowned in Rice Lake. There was a large party camping at Lee's Point. Five of them, Mr. Henry Bean, Mr. John M. Hawkins and Mrs. Hawkins, Miss Nellie Peters and Tutie Hawkins left camp in Mr. Bean's sailboat to get the mail at Beaudley. On their return they were joined by Miss McElroy and Miss Florence Maybee, a girl 16 years of age. When nearing their camp a squall struck the boat, which, owing to the heavy load, was swamped by the chopping waves and upset, throwing the whole party into the lake. They all clung to the boat except Miss Maybee. Mr. Hawkins went to her assistance, and his wife, seeing that they were going down, also left the boat to try and save her husband when the three were drowned together within 40 rods of the shore. Mr. W. A. Lee, teacher, and Mr. Wm. Martin rowed out and rescued all that had clung to the boat. Mr. Hawkins was a well-to-do farmer of Canton, son of the late Morgan Hawkins. The young couple leave a daughter about three years of age. The bodies were recovered.

Seventh Annual Session of the Dominion Council at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Aug. 12. — The seventh annual session of the Dominion Council, Royal Templars of Temperance, convened in the Royal Templar Hall yesterday morning. Every Province was represented in the council. By the report of the officers it is seen that the year, which ended June 30, was more prosperous than any previous year. At the last annual session 16,000 members were reported; this year, according to the books as they appeared on June 30, there was a tax-paying membership of 20,130, and the actual membership was 3,000 in advance of this. During the year the order formed 74 new councils in Ontario, 13 in Manitoba, 9 in Quebec, 6 in the Northwest Territories, 4 in New Brunswick and 1 in British Columbia. The present membership is divided as follows in round numbers: Ontario, 16,000; Manitoba, 2,500; Quebec, 2,500; New Brunswick, 1,000; British Columbia, 400; Newfoundland, 150. In the beneficiary department during the year new business to the extent of almost $750,000 was written, bringing the total insurance up to $6,000,000. The death rate during the twelve months was barely up to the average of four years past, 6 in 1,000, which is considered very low. The receipts in the beneficiary fund amounted to $72,349 62, and after paying all death claims there remained a balance of $27,500 42 to be added to the surplus in the bank. In the general fund the receipts in the Dominion Secretary's department were $11,728 81, and the expenditure $11,461 20. These figures do not include the receipts and expenditures of the publication department, as follows: Receipts, $7,271 03; expenditure, $3,673 71. The opening of a book room in connection with the publication house was a new feature of the year. The results were so satisfactory that they will no doubt encourage the order to increase its investment in this particular. A codification of the laws has been made and will be presented during the session.

HAMILTON, Aug. 13.—At yesterday's session of the Dominion Council, Royal Templars, the question of placing the total disability moneys in a separate fund from the mortuary fund and reviving a special assessment to sustain the disability claims fund was discussed. The delegates have also under consideration the advisability of having the order incorporated. The reports of the cadet work were most encouraging. A simple form of securing the affiliation of the cadet work to that of the Sunday schools was adopted by the council. The publication interests of the order were also discussed. It is likely that the International Royal Templar will be made a weekly publication.

Why It Is Popular.

Because it has proven its absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unequaled record of cures, because its business is conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true—these strong points have made Hood's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day. f

"CONFIDENCED."

A Forest Farmer Fooled by London Sharpers—The Culprits Captured and Sentenced.

The following is from the People, a London (Eng.) newspaper:

At the Mansion House Police Court, George Mackenzie, 62, and William Hall, 35, were charged before Mr. Alderman Davis with obtaining money by means of the confidence trick. The complainant was John Thomas Kerr, a farmer at Forest, Ontario, Canada, and on Monday as he was leaving the Tower of London, the prisoner Mackenzie spoke to him, stating that he was a religious philanthropist from Glasgow, and was on a visit to London. Kerr asked him the way to St. Paul's Cathedral, and the prisoner volunteered to accompany him there. Outside St. Paul's the prisoner, observing that he was himself a temperance man, invited him to take some refreshment, and they went together to a neighboring tavern. While they were there Hall made his appearance, and asked if they had seen "a lady," whose description he gave them, stating that he had shown her over St. Paul's, and that she had borrowed a sovereign from him, and had then disappeared. Resuming his conversation, Hall stated that he had come to London to secure some property to which his brother laid claim, and which consisted of £36,000 and 36 acres of land. Mackenzie asked him if he was sure of getting the money. Hall replied that he was, and that he had got some already, producing what appeared to be a roll of bank notes. Mackenzie warned him not to be so free with his money among strangers. Hall upon that shook hands with Mackenzie and the prosecutor, and asked the former if he would like a present. Mackenzie said he would like a ring. Hall said his lawyer advised him not to show confidence in strangers unless they could produce some money of their own earnings. Mackenzie showed him what seemed to be a £5 note. After some more conversation, Hall asked the complainant to show him a proof of his confidence, and he would give him a watch. The complainant, at Hall's request, placed his purse, containing some American notes and money, into his (Hall's) breast pocket. On this both prisoners left, but they were arrested by Detective-Sergeant Outram and other detectives, who had been watching them the whole time. The purse and money were found on Hall, together with some notes on the "Bank of Engraving." Both prisoners were known to the police, and Mr. Alderman Davies sentenced them, as rogues and vagabonds, each to three months' hard labor.

Through Pullmans and Dining Car Attached to New York via Erie Railway.

The Erie is the only line running through Canada that gives the people of London the above service, and it is to be hoped they will take advantage of it by purchasing their tickets via the favorite Erie and save themselves the annoyance of changing cars and jumping off the trains for meals. 11-tf

"Guaranteed Havana Filler."

The cheapest rubbish made into cigars in many cases is branded on the cigar box or label "Guaranteed Havana Filler." The guarantee may be readily understood when the public are informed, which is a fact, that Havanna fillers can be bought from 12½ cents per pound upwards. The only safe guarantee, and the only one we offer to smokers, is brands of cigars that have stood the test for nearly half a century, that are recognized as honest goods, and always reliable as is attested by the many millions of Cables, Mungos, El Padres and Madre E Hijos that are sold yearly, and for which the demand is constantly increasing.

It is quite a fixed belief among the Russian peasantry that throwing the dead body of a drunkard into the river is sure to bring rain.

BRANT.

The taxation rate of Brantford township council has been raised from 3⅔ to 3½ mills. This was rendered necessary in order to comply with the new school act, which calls upon every township to vote $100 to each public school and $50 for each assistant. The South Brant Argricultural Society was voted $100.

BRUCE.

A few days ago three workmen in the woods taking out timber on Horse Island, which is about twelve miles from the mainland at Tobermory, on the Bruce Peninsula, made a horrifying discovery. In a certain spot some distance inland from the water they discovered the partially decomposed remains of a human being. A search revealed the fact that the remains were those of, apparently, a middle-aged man, as the head was cut off and no trace of it could be discovered anywhere near. The deceased was well dressed, the clothes being of good material and well made. The names of the men who found the body are William and Albert Lister and George Belrose, residents of Tobermory.

ELGIN.

The services in connection with the induction of Rev. Dr. Thompson into the pastorate of Knox Church, St. Thomas, were held in the church Monday afternoon and in the evening a reception was given the new pastor, when the resident clergymen and members of the London Presbytery took part.

The Quarterly Board of the First Methodist Church, St. Thomas, met Monday night and re-engaged the pastor, Rev. Mr. Treleaven, for another year at a salary of $1,500.

ESSEX.

Five systems of waterworks have been completed in Essex county during the past year.

On Friday night $1 in cash and a quantity of tickets were stolen from the McGregor station of the M. C. R., including a number for Rev. E. A. Griffith's excursion to the Falls. They were numbered 1,576 to 1,600. It is supposed that a boy had secreted himself in the freight house and was locked in by the agent. The thief then made his way into the ticket office and took the box containing the tickets.

Kingsville has several cases of typhoid fever.

Leamington is having a bakers' war. Prices have dropped away down.

The brick work on the new Epiphany Church, Kingsville, is completed.

The latest victims of the patent bed men are J. M. Renaud and John Miller, of Mersea, for $150 each.

Bush fires are reported to be doing great damage in Colchester South. Thousands of dollars worth of cordwood has been destroyed.

HURON.

The heavy wind and rain storm of Sunday afternoon did much damage both south and north of Exeter to crops and buildings. Near Centralia it must have been a cyclone. The spire of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church was blown down, carrying with it a portion of the roof and western gable. Fortunately it swung clear of the main body of the church, or the damage would have been greater. The church was built about fourteen years ago, and has been a prominent landmark since that time, with a tall, cross-tipped spire. Last year the congregation expended a large sum on repairs and new painting, and were just on the eve of purchasing a bell. The loss will be fully $1,500. The Rev. Father Kealey and his congregation have the sympathy of all who know them.

Crops are very good. Thomas Swab, whose farm is a mile south of Exeter, threshed last week, and his wheat averaged fully 40 bushels per acre. Providence thus proves greater than McKinley, as this same yield is general through Huron and North Middlesex.

KENT.

Mrs. Brattersby, wife of Rev. Dr. Brattersby, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Chatham, died Monday evening. The deceased was a sister of Mrs. Brown, wife of Rev. J. A. Brown, of Belmont. She had an attack of la grippe last winter, from the effects of which she never recovered. She leaves two children. The funeral took place at Newmarket.

LINCOLN.

Eddie, the 7-year-old son of Constable Lanagan, of St. Catharines, fell into the Welland Canal on Monday, and before he could be rescued was drowned.

MIDDLESEX.

About 11 o'clock Monday night two stacks of wheat, consisting of 42 loads, one stack of rakings, about 10 loads, and one stack of hay, consisting of three or four tons, the property of Robert Miller, county constable, Lawrence, were destroyed by fire. Miller states that there were about 800 bushels of wheat, and he estimates his loss at $1,200. He believes the fire to be the work of an incendiary.

Mrs. Joseph Hadden, of Mount Brydges, died suddenly on Monday night.

Miss Sarah Pettit, who has been teaching in Colorado during the past year, is visiting friends at Belmont.

On Tuesday Gilmour Bros. shipped four carloads of choice steers to the Glasgow market from Dorchester Station—72 in number. The average weight was about 1,400 pounds. Andrew, son of James Gilmour, and William John Hawthorn go with them.

The South Dorchester Agricultural Society will hold their fall fair on Oct. 1 and 2 this year. As this is the first time a two days' fair has been held in Belmont, it will probably be a good one. The officers are doing everything in their power to make it a success.

Rev. Geo. W. Racey, the new rector of St. George's Church, Belmont, preached his initial sermon to a fair-sized congregation on Sunday evening, and made a very favorable impression on his hearers.

NORFOLK.

Chauncey, son of Adam Ruby, of Berlin, was drowned at Port Rowan on Sunday.

OXFORD.

During Sunday night's storm a barn belonging to Frank Howes, East Nissouri, was struck by lightning. In the building at the time were 600 bushels of wheat that had just been threshed, and this was destroyed, together with all the other contents.

News has been received of the accidental death near Seaforth of Daniel Ross, a former resident of Woodstock. Mr. Ross, who was a farmer, was found dead, the evidence going to show that he had been kicked by a horse.

PERTH.

The inquest at Stratford on the body of May Weaver's illegitimate child resulted in a verdict of "death from natural causes."

WATERLOO.

Rudel Reinhardt, who resides near Shauntzs' station, met with a heavy loss on Sunday night, his barn being struck by lightning and was completely destroyed. His crop was nearly all in, and he loses all his hay and grain, together with his farm implements. One colt also perished in the flames. The only things that were saved in the way of farm implements were the plows which were not stored in the barn. The building was insured for $700, and there was also a small insurance on the contents. Mr. Reinhardt was at Breslau at the time, the only person at home being a little boy.

WELLINGTON.

The death is recorded of James Evans, which took place at Guelph on Monday afternoon, at the age of nearly 81 years. The deceased was a native of Staffordshire, England, and was born on the 22nd of November, 1810. He came to Canada about 50 years ago and settled in Puslinch, where he resided until some nine years ago, when he removed to Guelph and has resided there ever since. Mr. Evans was well known in Puslinch and Guelph. The cause of death was congestion of the lungs, after an illness of about ten days. He leaves a wife, three sons and two daughters to mourn his loss. The sons are George, farming in Leamington; James, general storekeeper in the same place, and Smith, well known as a successful sheep breeder. The daughters are Mrs. Wm. Broughton, Bright, and Mrs. J. C. McLean.

THE HOUSEKEEPERS' MISSION

A Very Deserving and Useful Organization.

Fruit is plentiful this year, and fruit jars are "down," and sugar, as everyone knows, is "free." All of which is very encouraging to that useful organization, the Housekeepers' Mission, which has to do with supplying the sick and convalescent in the various charitable institutions of the city with cooling and refreshing fruits. The busy housewife, who perhaps has no time to spare for charitable purposes, sets aside a jar or two of fruit after a day spent in pickling and preserving, and sends them when convienent to the "Y" rooms, which, as all London is aware, are on Dundas street opposite McCormick's factory. Here they are left in charge of Miss Kirkpatrick, who is there to receive them every morning from 10 to 1.

Those who know the "Y" rooms only as a cool and attractive spot bestrewn with recent literature and always open to the public, may be interested to learn that its innermost apartment boasts a huge cupboard, in which all fruit brought to the rooms is stowed. From this central point it is distributed every week to the various public "homes" of the city, where to needy sufferers it brings a refreshment and pleasure unknown to those who regard fruit as a customary part of their everyday diet.

The Housekeepers' Mission is a branch of the Young Women's Christian Association. It is a charitable institution, running almost entirely without funds, the membership fee of $1 being devoted to paying for the use of the rooms. It is arranged on the most labor-saving and time-saving basis, every housekeeper who deposits canned fruit at the rooms receiving on the spot an equal number of empty jars.

This means that it is only the fruit that is donated and the time spent in cooking and sealing it. It is not advisable to send fresh fruit, as it is too perishable for weekly distribution. Nor is it necessary for contributors to confine themselves to fruit alone, as catsup and cordials, raspberry vinegar and relishes are equally wholesome. It is an easy matter for the busiest housewife to set aside a few jars from her winter stores for the benefit of the needy. Yet simple and easy as this charity is there is none so much appreciated by the suffering poor of the city.

SIMPLE REMEDIES.

A very good authority gives as a very simple remedy for hiccough a lump of sugar saturated with vinegar. In ten cases, tried as an experiment, it stopped hiccough in nine.

Pimples are due to impure blood. Diet is the first thing to be attended to. Eat simple and laxative but nourishing food—oatmeal with milk and sugar, baked apples, rare steak and brown bread. Bathe in warm salt water and use brisk friction afterwards. As an outward application try this mixture, which any chemist will make up for you: Camphorated spirits, two drachms; corrosive sublimate of mercury, one grain; rose-water, half a pint. Use this night and morning.

What! Limping Yet!

Why should you go limping around when Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor will remove your corns in a few days? It will give almost instant relief and a guaranteed cure in the end. Be sure you get the genuine Putnam's Corn Extractor, made by Polson & Co., Kingston, for many substitutes are being offered, and it is always better to get the best. Safe, sure, painless.

The male locusts have the power of emitting loud chirping sounds, the means of effecting which varies in different families.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of and other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

Zola receives about £4,000 for each novel, irrespective of the £1,200 he receives in the first instance for serial publication.

His Inference.

"I tell you frankly," said the young lady to the young journalist, "that your company is agreeable to me, but I am sure my papa will not permit me to receive any attentions from you, for he is awfully down on the newspapers."

"He is down on the newspapers, is he?" said the young journalist, smiling. "What scrape has he been in?"

SUMMER SALE

Is Meeting with General Approval.

We are busy all the time selling goods at popular prices. We have been reading the advertisements of others---it's amusing the desperate efforts being made to gather up the pennies. London, Thursday, Aug. 13.

A DEFENSE THAT CANNOT BE ACCEPTED.

The ADVERTISER has already given a summary of the written defense of Sir Hector Langevin placed before the Committee at Ottawa that is investigating the scandals in which he figures. It was not to be expected that Sir Hector would own up to having been either grossly corrupt or criminally negligent in the conduct of his department, yet to one or other of these conclusions the unbiassed student of the evidence in the case must be forced.

Sir Hector does not deny that the country was robbed by the most barefaced peculations, perpetrated right under his official nose. He cannot deny that Thomas McGreevy, M.P., was his bosom companion, and his benefactor to the extent of thousands of dollars; but he does deny that the large sums of money handed out by the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., in exchange for opportunity to rob the Dominion treasury, reached his control. Where documentary evidence exists to show his anxiety to bleed contractors for election funds—as in the case of Peters—Sir Hector is more frank. He practically owns up, and tries to palliate his conduct by asserting that the contractor had not then a contract with the Government.

To judge the man correctly, and reach a conclusion as to whether he or the other witnesses in the case, who are supported by documentary proof, shall be the more readily believed, it is fair to remember Sir Hector's record. He was one of the beneficiaries of the Pacific Scandal in 1873. As chief distributor of the Quebec share in the corruption fund then obtained from Sir Hugh Allan, he was called on to make a confession. He was more cunning than his leader, however, and having declined to give Sir Hugh any voucher brazened the whole matter out, and denied complicity. Yet it was subsequently proved that he got at least $32,000 of that fund, for which he never accounted, and when, a year or two since, the Langevin and Chapleau factions fell out, and a good deal of the party linen was washed in public, a writer in Mr. Chapleau's organ charged that Sir Hector's share of the swag was not $32,000, but $75,000, and that the discredited Conservative leader had failed to supply any record of how it was distributed. Sir Hector's denials on the present occasion are probably not worth more than were his denials when last he was a leading figure in an exposure that led to the downfall of the Government of which he was a member.

The resigned Minister of Public Works pretends that the huge robberies that have taken place under the auspices of his department are the result not of his own shortcomings or connivance, but of the criminality or incapacity of his assistants. He would have us to understand that a Minister is not an administrator of his department, but an ornamental figure-head. That, indeed, appears to be the view taken by his colleagues who are also in trouble, but it is not a tenable one. It cannot, it will not, be accepted by the country.

Sir Hector would have it understood that while every contract for public works given out by the department was "jokeyed" for the benefit of favorite contractors, while millions of money was stolen in this way, on the understanding that it was permissible provided a portion of the swag went into the Conservative election funds, he was in blissful ignorance of the wrongdoing, and was under the impression that the country was getting full value. If past experience of the man did not lend one to suspect his professed guilelessness, abundance of evidence is in existence to show that the excuse is most invalid. Several years ago, while the family quarrel was in process in the Conservative party in Quebec the writer in Mr. Chapleau's paper made the bold statement that not one contract had been given out since Sir Hector was given control of the Public Works Department which was not "milked" for the benefit of the Minister or his friends. This was a strong statement. It was grossly libellous, if true. It was made by a man who was serving under the same leader as Sir Hector. How did the Minister treat it? He left it unanswered. He ordered no inquiry to be made as to its truthfulness. He knows the reason why. Honest men must take the corrobation given before the committee as a corroboration of the charge of shameful malversation in the Public Works Department. They cannot hold Sir Hector guiltless. Indeed, in these parts they do not. Liberal and Conservative, meeting in private life, hesitate not to declare that Sir Hector's shortcomings cannot be condoned.

But the condemnation must go further. Sir Hector says that no matter where the money thus stolen from the country went, he received none of it for his own use. Perhaps not; but how much went to buy constituencies that gave him and his associates the right to retain office and power and to perpetuate the scandalous transactions unearthed daily in his and in every department at Ottawa? How much went to keep afloat newspapers that could not exist on their own merits, and which were subsidized to laud the Ministers and blackguard all who opposed them in their career of self-aggrandizement? These and other ugly questions are being answered as the evidence is dragged from unwilling witnesses and from the still more unwilling keepers of the records. The answer to them all must be that not only Sir Hector but his associates have misruled at Ottawa too long, and that a cleaning out of the entire crowd is in the best interests of the whole people.

DISTINGUISHED MEN DEAD.

A telegram from Boston, Mass., says that James Russell Lowell, the distinguished writer, died at his home in Cambridge, Mass., this morning at 2:10. The deceased, who was in his 73rd year, studied law in his youth, but for over 50 years he devoted his attention to literature, and as a writer of poetry and prose has achieved fame. One of his best known productions was "The Biglow Papers," a witty and humorous satire, mainly directed against slavery and the war with Mexico. From 1857 to 1862 he edited the Atlantic Monthly, and from 1863 to 1874 he was joint editor of the North American Review. In both magazines he wrote freely. His Commemoration Ode at the close of the civil war is probably the most notable of his poems. In later years, he has written a number of novels, and has retained a high position in the literary world. His death is a distinct loss to literature.

Another death chronicled to-day is that of Mr. Geo. Jones, editor and proprietor of the New York Times. George Jones and his paper achieved very great and deserved celebrity by the persistent exposure of the Tweed ring—a species of municipal Langevin-McGreevy combination that held on to and robbed New York for years, mainly through political influence. The Times has remained a high-class, reliable exponent of correct, popular government and is to-day doing excellent service in combatting class laws of every kind.

SENATORS IN TROUBLE.

The Dominion Senate has undertaken the investigation of a portion of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway scandal, but it meets with the difficulty at the outstart that no one believes it to be in earnest. In the first place, it refused to begin the investigation on a regular basis, by failing to compel the accusing lawyer to formulate his charges as Mr. Tarte did in the Langevin-McGreevy case. Then it bungled in the summoning of the witnesses, some of whom tired waiting and went on their holidays, as previously arranged. Others were given opportunity to slip out to avoid giving evidence. And so on. The investigation should certainly take place, even in an irregular form, rather than any guilty man should escape, but the trouble with the amusing Senate investigators is that they have played so long at legislation, and have done so little real work, that no one seems to mind them. They are being guyed even by their professed friends.

A NOTABLE WORK.

There is now in progress of compilation an illustrated dictionary of the English language which is unique in point of completeness and price. We refer to the remarkable work undertaken by Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls, of New York, and soon to be issued. It will be a large single volume work, containing nearly 2,200 pages, over 4,000 illustrations and 200,000 words, or 70,000 more than are found in any single volume dictionary now on sale. Dr. Funk is editor-in-chief, and leading scholars in Europe and America are in charge of the various departments. Among other editors we note Prof. Shale, of Harvard, Prof. Max Muller, Prof. Huxley, Graham Bell, the Canadian telephone inventor, and Dr. B. J. Lossing. School Inspector Carson, of London, who has examined the sample pages of the new work, points out its superiority over the International and Worcester. Indeed, the testimonials in favor of the dictionary, now lying before us, could scarcely be couched in stronger terms of commendation. When such eminent English lexicographers as Prof. Murray, of Oxford University, Prof. Skeat, of Cambridge University, and Prof. Hunt, of Princeton, signify approval of the new work, further proof is given of its adaptability to the wants of all English-speaking peoples. The dictionary will be published simultaneously in the States, Canada and Britain, at a cost to present subscribers of $7 a copy.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

THE summer hotel proprietor rubs his hands with glee these days.

"A PAINFUL feeling" has been caused in the Hamilton Spectator editorial chamber by the sudden resignation of Sir Hector Langevin. No doubt, no doubt.

‡‡‡

THE PARISIANS have gone almost crazy with excitement over the visit of the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia. They look upon him as the representative of the Czar and the Czar as their chief ally in the next European conflict. It is a strange combination, but if it holds good a great deal may hang on its future development.

‡‡‡

WHY do high tax papers persist in lying about the position of the Liberals on the trade question? They never tire of asserting that under complete reciprocity in trade with the States the Liberals would permit the United States to control our tariff. They know that this is an unwarranted assertion, and that under no circumstances would Mr. Laurier and his colleagues consent to sacrifice Canadian interests. "Canada first" is the Liberal motto.

‡‡‡

TURKISH papers, published in the Mussulman interest, make a point against Western Christian countries that object to receive refugee Jews from Russia. "See," they say, "how intolerant Christians are; they have no place for the poor Jew, while Mohammedan nations like Turkey and Persia take them in." The Terjiman I. Hakikat, of Constantinople, reasons from it that "the whereabouts of true civilization and justice appear revealed in the most astounding manner by this fact!" It is well to see ourselves as others see us sometimes.

THE Hamilton Herald, which supported the Conservative candidates at last election, says it is a sad thing to see a public man make such an exhibition of himself as Sir Hector Langevin has done. It says:

"Sir Hector is an old man now. He has been in public life many years and it was said of him that he was one of the most efficient departmental heads the country has ever had. But the revelations which have come to dishonor his gray hairs and besmirch his reputation, showed one of two things very clearly—he was either dishonest or wholly incapable; he was either a knave or a fool, and his blunders, if they were blunders, were worse than crimes.

‡‡‡

THE American roof garden is likely to take the place of the German beer garden. As its name implies, it is a garden situated on the roof of a large business block, and used as an evening resort by people who, finding it inconvenient to go out to the country in summer, are glad to have a few country pleasures come to them. A typical roof garden is to be found at Minneapolis, Minnesota, occupying the top of the Guaranty Loan Building, which stands twelve stories high, and is one of the most imposing structures in the city. The garden, first opened in June, has met with liberal patronage. Graveled walks, brilliant foliage and flowers, with rustic tables and seats, all situated 200 feet above the streets, and enlivened by a nightly concert, have made this roof garden a decided success.

THE DIFFERENCE.

[Dundas Banner.]

The farmers are slaving in the fields in order to make both ends meet, while contractors and officials are living like fighting cocks at Ottawa on the money raised by the Government in duties on what the farmers buy.

A LESSON IN OIL.

[Montreal Herald.]

The Hamilton Spectator has taken to publishing each day what it calls "Tariff Lessons." Its latest is to show that the imports of coal oil were, in 1890, something about 5,250,000 gallons, while in 1878 they were less than 100,000 gallons. Are we to assume that the purpose of the tariff is to increase the imports? I have always been under the impression that the declared object of the National Policy was to keep Canada for the Canadians. The Spectator's argument tends the other way.

"TURN THE RASCALS OUT."

[Richmond Guardian (Con.)]

The voice of the better element of the party calls loudly for the punishment of all the "boodlers," "swindlers" and "perjurers" found guilty—no matter what their official status may be. The inquiry must go on until the whole rotten business is exposed. Better lose the National Policy than the national honor, if that be the alternative. Spare none; let justice be done though the heavens should fall. * * * * We know that we are voicing the sentiments of the Conservative party when we say: Rather than these abominations should continue, let the Liberals come in. We shall not support a government that is found guilty of such methods of administering the country's affairs.

A GREAT FOOTRACE.

Between Billy Boyd and Ben Coyne.

Baseball, Turf, Aquatic and Various Sporting Events.

SPRINTING.

A GREAT RACE.

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—Just as the last heat of the trotting races at Dufferin Park had been finished on Monday evening, two young men who were passing along Dufferin street in a buggy were attracted to the track by a footrace which was in progress along the stretch near the grand stand. After the race one of the strangers offered to run any man on the ground a 100 yard race for $100, $200 or $300. Chadbourne, driver of Molly Clark, accepted the challenge and matched an unknown against the other unknown for $250. The money was deposited and the match was arranged to take place over the track yesterday morning. The stranger who had at first suggested the race asked Chadburne to produce his man, which was done at once, and the two contestants went toward the scratch. When they stripped off it was discovered that Billy Boyd, of Woodstock (Chadburne's unknown), was going up against Ben. Coyne, of Chatham. When the names of the men went round to the crowd bets were made, and by the time they got away, which was by mutual consent, fully $700 was pending on the result. Here was a race between two of the fastest men on the continent, and while Jack Fleming, Tom Flynn and a few others acted as if they knew all about it and were in with something it is doubtful if any person knew who would win until the race was over. If it was a job the spectators witnessed probably the greatest race they had ever seen. The time made for the 100 yards up, according to a dozen watches was 9 4-5 seconds, a shade above the record. Coyne, the winner, offers to meet any man on the continent, in a race for from $500 to $1,000. Here is a chance for Bethune, of Cornwall, who, from all accounts, would make the Chatham man go some.

BASEBALL.

American Association scores, Tuesday—Columbus 2, Athletics 5; Cincinnati 3, Boston 9; Louisville 3, Baltimore 2; St. Louis 6, Washington 4.

National League scores, Tuesday—Pittsburg 5, Boston 12; New York 2, Chicago 0; Philadelphia 6, Cleveland 1; Brooklyn 8, Cincinnati 6.

Eastern League scores, Tuesday—Lebanon 1, Rochester 7; Providence 1, Syracuse 9; New Haven 3, Albany 1; Troy 9, Buffalo 4.

La Roque is with Duluth.

Kinslow has a batting average of .250 and fielding of .918 up to date.

Beckley, of Pittsburg, leads the League batters with a percentage of .376.

Scheibeck is doing well with the Sioux City club. His fielding to date is .909 and batting .251.

Denny Fitzgerald, formerly with the Tecumsehs in 1889, is now manager of a theatrical company.

Beard is doing well since he left Louisville. He is with Denver and has a battery record to date of .376 and fielding of .956.

Cleveland papers try to run the League in the choice of umpires. If a close decision is to be given they want it all their way. They roast them all.

Donovan's batting record to date is .322. Of late he is not doing so well with the stick, but the poor work by the Louisville club is enough to dishearten any good batter. He had been to bat 397 times up to Aug. 4, more times than any other Association player.

The seven clubs in the American Baseball Association have signed a paper requesting President Renan, of the Cincinnati club, to resign. The seven clubs own and support the Cincinnati club. The president gets a salary of $300 a month. He is considered useless, hence the request for his resignation.

THE TRIGGER.

REDPATH'S GREAT SHOOTING.

OBITUARY OF PROCTOR KNOTT.

Lung fever was the malady that carried off that most sensational of thoroughbreds, the 5-year-old gelding, Proctor Knott, winner of the Junior Champion Futurity stakes, and other big 2 year-old events in 1888. He was probably the best 2-year-old of his year, defeating Salvator every time he met him, and winning more than $75,000 for his owners, Bryant & Scoggan. In his 3-year-old form Proctor ran Spokane to a head for the Kentucky Derby in wonderfully fast time. He won the Sheridan stakes at Washington Park, Chicago, and ran second to Longstreet in the Omnibus stakes, defeating Salvator for the third time. At the fall meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club Bryant & Scoggan dissolved partnership and the horses in their stable were sold at auction, Proctor Knott bringing $17,500. The following spring Proctor Knott received a special preparation for the Suburban Handicap, and was brought to Sheepshead Bay in superb condition. Before the race he went wrong and spent the rest of the summer in Sheppard's veterinary infirmary, near Sheepshead Bay. The gelding was fired and sent back to Kentucky in the autumn, and when he started last spring was said to be as sound as ever. He won a few races, but did nothing of note, and while possessed of some speed which marked his performances as a 2-year-old, he did not seem able to carry it any distance. Proctor Knott was 5 years old, sired by Luke Blackburn out of Tallapoosa. He was a chestnut gelding with a white face and four white legs, and cost Sam Bryant $425 at the Belle Meade sale of yearlings.

BALFOUR'S SURRENDER

To the Exigencies of Party and the Necessities of Election.

DUBLIN, Aug. 12.—The National press says Mr. Balfour's proposal will send a cold shiver through the heart of the aristocracy and their supporters in Ireland. Every coercion upholder will read with dismay of the scheme to establish and endow a National organization which the first five years of Mr. Balfour's regime have been spent in vainly trying to destroy. The Nationalists are entitled to enjoy the situation.

The London Daily News says Mr. Balfour's abandonment of the Irish landlords is a peculiarly base proceeding. After the Government had fooled them to the top of their bent it calmly sacrifices them to the exigencies of the party and the necessities of election.

His Honor the Mayor.

There is one thing to underscore. If a half-bottle cures so many, it is, logically, just twice as good as a remedy which takes a whole bottle to cure. Here's another sample from a distinguished citizen. Huntingdon, Pa., U. S. A., February 6, 1889: "I sprained my ankle about five years ago; had to go to bed. I used half a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil and it cured. I was able to get about next day and have had no return of pain." JOHN A. PORT, Mayor.

THE FORESTERS.

Annual Meeting of the I. O. F. High Court.

Satisfactory State of the Order—Compliments for the S. C. R.

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 11.—The fourteenth annual session of the High Court of the Independent Foresters for Ontario was opened at 10 a.m. to-day in the Court House here with Bro. N. F. Patterson, Q.C., high chief ranger, in the chair.

The high chief ranger presented his report, showing that the order had made marked progress in Ontario. He said:

During the year just closed our beloved order has been attended with a marked degree of prosperity, the total membership falling but little short of 30,000. In this High Court jurisdiction the initiations numbered 3,836, the largest number for any year since the instituting of the order in this Province. The total membership at the end of the year was 14,937; the net increase, after deducting withdrawals, lapses and deaths, was 3,122. Seventy-four new courts were instituted during the year. The financial standing of the order has kept pace with the increase of members, and now shows a surplus of upwards of $350,000. The finances of our High Court are in a most satisfactory state. With a view to making the procuring of badges and sashes an easy matter the High Standing Committee decided to recommend the adoption of a smaller, neater and yet cheaper badge, to bring them within the reach of all. Having now 352 courts in this Province, the High Standing Committee have deemed it proper to repeat to you the recommendation made last year that you should consider if it is advisable to divide the territory and appoint an additional officer to visit courts. The high chief ranger referred to the advantages of the "benefit" feature of the order; the duty of members to work for an increase of members, and thanking them for their confidence and support during his term of office.

Mayor Booth and Ald. Lyman, of Brockville, presented an address of welcome, and extended the freedom of the city to the members of the High Court during their stay. The H. C. R. replied in felicitious terms, after which Dr. Oronhyatekha, with the consent of the brethren, tendered the mayor and Ald. Lyman an honorary membership in the High Court. Chaplain McGillivray then rose and read the following:

That the High Court of Ontario desires to express their great satisfaction at the presence in their midst of the supreme chief ranger, Dr. Oronhyatekha, and would avail themselves of the present opportunity to convey to the S. C. R. their hearty congratulations on the distinguished honor that was recently conferred upon him by his unanimous election to the position of right worthy grand templar, the highest office in the gift of the Independent Order of Good Templars. The High Court regards this distinction not only as an honor to the supreme chief ranger, but also an honor to the Independent Order of Foresters, and their earnest hope is that he may be spared to advance both offices by that high character and those splendid abilities that have combined so largely to the advancement of both orders."

The doctor made an eloquent and effective reply. He said:

"High chief ranger, officers and brethren of the High Court of Ontario, I do not feel like taking up the time of this High Court in response to the generously worded resolution except to say that no man with a heart within him could fail to be deeply grateful for such kindness as you have shown me. There was a time when it seemed that there was neither honor nor profit in working for the order. Some of the members know how much hard work was necessary to build up the order in times past. Some of you know also that I have done my share of that work. In this work I have been aided by the splendid men whom you have given me as colleagues and by the able officers who have been elected from time to time in this and other high courts, and by the many noble and zealous Foresters in our rank today. Our order is now prosperous beyond our most sanguine expectations, which is ample reward for all my work. But, above all, I prize your regard and confidence, which I hope always to merit."

A motion to permanently hold the High Court in Toronto was rejected.

A motion to pay the delegates $2 per diem and 5 cents per mile one way for mileage was referred to the Finance Committee.

The report of the Committee on New Business stated that they had examined clause 26 in the high ranger's report, and would recommend that the jurisdiction be divided as suggested by the high chief ranger and two officers or inspectors appointed to visit courts on salary and under the control of the High Court ranger and High Standing Committee. Carried.

The Finance Committee report recommended that the offices of supreme chief ranger and supreme secretary should not be changed except for urgent reasons which might affect the order at large; and the committee requested that the representatives of this High Court to the Supreme Court should give this matter their most serious consideration at the coming meeting of the Supreme Court in September. The following recommendations were made and adopted:

1. That the H. C. R. receive $250 for his efficient services; also that the sum of $150 be paid the retiring H. V. C. R., and that the salary of the high treasurer be $275; that $2 per diem and 5 cents per mile one way be paid delegates to the High Court and $50 each be paid the high auditors; the salary of the high inspector to remain unchanged; the high journal secretary to receive $15 for his services; $8 to be paid the high messenger and $5 to the caretaker. The reports of the high secretary were considered very satisfactory, as was that of the high auditors and high treasurer, all of which were unanimously adopted.

It was proposed that the Supreme Court be memorialized to appoint a memorial or decoration day for the society and add a service suitable for such day to the ritual. This was laid over as a notice of motion for the meeting of the next High Court.

Dr. Oronhyatekha presented the report on the state of the order, which was of the most satisfactory character. Seventy-four new courts have been instituted during the year. The total membership at the end of the year was 14,937. The net increase after deducting withdrawals, lapses and deaths was 3,122, the greatest number during any one year. The report paid a very high tribute to the services of Bro. C. C. Whale, organizer. It was adopted unanimously.

On motion of Dr. Oronhyatekha the court proceeded to select the next place of meeting. The following places were named: Toronto, Barrie, Sarnia, Owen Sound, Cobourg, St. Thomas, London, Galt, Uxbridge and Ottawa. Barrie was the unanimous choice of the court upon a show of hands upon the second voting.

Brother Watt presented a report of the Finance Committee, recommending the appointment of an extra inspector at a salary of $900 per year and expenses. This recommendation was freely discussed, and on amendment, moved by Dr. Oronhyatekha, seconded by Brother Milne, it was decided that the salary should be $600 to begin with, and that it be left in the power of the High Standing Committee to increase the same to $900 should they secure a man whom they, in their opinion, believe to be worth the extra salary.

THE WATER COMMISSIONERS.

Meeting of the Board—A Batch of Communications—Col. Tracy's Resignation—Offer to Sell Sulphur Baths—Mains to be Laid.

The water commissioners met Tuesday night, when Commissioners Jones (chairman), Davis, Mayor Taylor, Engineer Moore and Inspectors Platt, Plastow and Acting-Secretary Pope were present.

A. C. Wifton was heard as to the merits of the meter of the Ontario Water Meter Company. A sample meter will be forwarded to the city at once which will be given a fair test.

A request from Mr. Craig was heard for a larger main at his box factory on Richmond street. He will put in a hydrant if the committee will enlarge the main. The matter was referred to the engineer and chairman with power.

Inspector Plastow's report of water service of Canada Pacific Railway was read. The engineer will report back to the Board his estimate of a proper rate.

The engineer estimated the cost of a two-inch main on Maitland street, from Victoria to Regent street, at $150, and also one on Victoria, between Waterloo and Colborne streets, at $200. Both mains will be laid.

A communication from Thomas Browne, secretary of the Western Fair Board, was read requesting that pipes be laid through the exhibition grounds at once, as some brick work will be commenced immediately in the machinery hall, and the boiler is to be tested. The mayor, chairman and engineer will look into the matter.

Colonel T. H. Tracy's resignation as engineer and superintendent was read and accepted.

A communication was read from Mrs. Mary Dunnet about her bath house, and offering to dispose of her property to either Leonard Bros. or to the city. The communication was filed.

The engineer will report on the matter of increasing the water supply and pumping power.

Mr. Davis reported on the condition of the north end of the dam at Springbank. He was glad when he had recrossed it safely. The engineer will oversee the stop-log work on the dam.

A communication was read from T. G. Meredith with respect to the Griffith property. The matter was left in the hands of the solicitor.

A pipe will be laid to supply the fountain at the Richmond street gore, and the engineer will report on the amount to be charged contractors in laying concrete walks.

Accounts were passed to the amount of $7,445.

FIVE YEARS IN PENITENTIARY.

A Youthful Housebreaker Sentenced on Five Separate Offenses by Police Magistrate Parke.

Seventeen-year-old Harry Sare, caught breaking into Mr. John Ferguson's house, South London, on Sunday, came up for examination yesterday before the police magistrate on charges of larceny and housebreaking. He pleaded guilty to stealing a $25 revolver from Mr. R. W. Cootes house, South London, in June last.

The second information accused him of breaking into the residence of Mr. J. L. Fitzgerald, 387 Princess avenue, on Sunday afternoon, June 28, and stealing a gold watch, a gold ring, money, and a number of coins. To this the prisoner pleaded not guilty. Detective Rider produced the articles which he had procured in Detroit while the defendant was there in jail. The latter, said the detective, acknowledged the theft.

The third complaint charged the young prisoner with entering into the dwelling house of Mr. George McNab, 270 Central avenue, on June 28—the same evening—and carrying off a number of coins and a gold watch. To this he pleaded guilty.

The magistrate remarked on the Ferguson escapade and other offenses, and warned Sare that he could send him to prison for the rest of his life. He would give him five separate sentences of five years each in the Kingston Penitentiary, but would, however, make them concurrent. He knew that every effort had been made for the prisoner, but he was utterly incorrigible.

DEATH ON THE TRACK.

William Steel, a London Township Farmer, Killed at Hyde Park Crossing of the London, Huron and Bruce Railway.

William Steel, a well-to-do farmer, residing on the fifth concession of London township, met his death Tuesday afternoon at the Hyde Park crossing of the London, Huron and Bruce Railway. He was driving home a team of horses with a wagon load of flour and was struck at that point by the north-bound express which leaves this city at 4:25 p.m. Death was not instantaneous, but resulted shortly afterwards, a fracture of the skull being the direct cause. The horses galloped on unhurt. A special train conveyed Coroner Smith and others to the scene of the accident, and an inquest was held yesterday at the village. Mr. Steel leaves a widow and a small family.

The inquest on the body yesterday resulted in a verdict of accidental death. According to the evidence there was no culpability on the part of the railway men, as the crossing is a perfectly safe one from the westerly direction, in which deceased was driving. It was adduced that the victim had been drinking before his death.

Fatal Railway Collision.

KENT, Ohio, Aug. 12.—A collision occured at the freight yards here last night. A freight engine was backing two cabooses in which were a number of trainmen, three of whom were asleep, from the west shops to the east shops. A yard engine coming westward ran into the cabooses smashing both into kindling wood. The three sleeping men were unhurt. Frank Miller, a switchman, was killed; Geo. C. Carmen was crushed, it is believed fatally; A. W. Brost and Frank Curtiss were badly injured. Several others were more or less seriously hurt. The dead and injured are all of Meadville, Pa.

NOVEL CURE OF EPILEPSY.

Recovery of a Boy After Falling Thirty-Three Feet.

READING, Penn., Aug. 12.—Eight-year-old Willie Rothenberger is the object of great wonder and interest to the doctors here on account of his strange and instantaneous recovery from a prolonged case of epilepsy. He is the son of Jacob H. Rothenberger, a street car conductor, living at 213 North Tenth street.

When the boy was 2 years old he gave evidence of some serious mental malady. At the age of 4 he was afflicted with epilepsy, which gradually grew worse until at 6 years he had from 20 to 30 fits each day, and had wasted away to a mere skeleton. Recently the disease deprived him of all intelligence, and his mind seemed to have become a blank.

Many different systems of treatment were pursued by half a dozen physicians, but the child steadily grew worse. The other day, however, he had a more distressing fit than usual, and fell out of an attic window, 33 feet to the pavement. A woman next door saw him fall, and ran into his mother's house to inform her of the accident. The mother rushed outdoors to pick up the child, but he had picked himself up comparatively unhurt and walked into the yard, whence he called: "Mamma, I fell out of the window."

Before the fall he had not been able to say anything intelligible for months. Better still after his bruises and other slight injuries had been treated, it was found that his mind had again become perfectly sound, and the epileptic fits ceased entirely.

His Long-Lost Brother.

Detroit Correspondence to the St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Of the many touching scenes of recognition that have been witnessed during the week in the meeting of the veterans there was one that borders on the sensational. Last night two brothers met at the corner of Woodward and Jefferson avenues who have not seen each other for 30 years. When the war broke out S. M. Duvall and William Duvall were lads in the city of Pittsburg. They enlisted in different companies, and when the strife was ended they went in different directions. Last night a battle-scarred old man stood in front of a store as a Pittsburg post passed by on the way to the camp fire. Of one of them he asked if S. M. Duvall was there. He was informed that he was, and in a moment a veteran, the exact counterpart of the inquirer, except that he was somewhat stouter, stepped from the ranks.

"You want to see me?" he inquired in astonishment.

"If you are S. M. Duvall I want to see you," he answered.

"Well, I am the man you are seeking."

"Don't you know me, brother? Why, I am your little brother who went to the war and never came back."

They stood and gazed at each other for a moment, while tears came to their eyes, almost blinding them.

"You are not my brother," said S. M. Duvall, incredulously.

"Yes, I am your brother Sam."

"But you don't look like Sam did."

"But I am Sam, just the same."

"Why! Don't you remember the old house just off the lane, where we used to live! There was a little sister Mary, and the brindle cow that used to kick over the bucket. You must remember it, Sam!"

"I think you are my brother."

"You must remember it, Sam, how the horses used to get into the graveyard, and how one of them got shot, and how we composed the song, 'They filled the hoss all full of bullets.'"

The last incident was too much for Sam, and the two fell on each other's necks. Then they locked arms, and went away relating other incidents of their happy boyhood days."

BOMBARDING THE HEAVENS.

Alleged Success of Recent Rain-Making Experiments in Texas.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 12.—A special from Midland, Tex., to the News says: The rainfall expedition from the United States Department of Agriculture reached Midland Wednesday, and have so far made two successful experiments. Saturday and Monday last part of the rain-making apparatus only was up, and a preliminary trial made simply to test the efficiency of the special blasting powder which is being manufactured at the grounds. Several bombs were exploded by means of electrical dynamos. About two hours after the explosion clouds gathered and a heavy rain fell, extending many miles. "We do not think," said one of the party, "the explosions actually produced the storm, as they were not on a large enough scale, but they were undoubtedly instrumental in precipitating the moisture which the clouds brought to that locality, and greatly increased the intensity of the storm. The quantity of rain fall was greater in the immediate vicinity of the operation." The reporter did not witness the experiment referred to, but can testify to the rain fall in and for over 40 miles from the spot of operation.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Hon. C. B. Farwell has received a telegram from Professor Dyrenfurth, in charge of the rain-producing experiments provided for by the last Congress, now being conducted on the ranch of Nelson Morris, in Texas. The professor says the first experiment was made Monday, powder being exploded high in the air, that clouds soon began to gather and that it rained heavily there yesterday.

"August Flower"

What Is It For?

This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is AUGUST FLOWER FOR?" As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brimful. We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia. 6

WEEKLY REVIEW.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 12.

The amount of trading done on this market during the past week has been good. The general supply of grain was more than expected; prices ruled steady and strong towards the close. Millers paid 85c per standard bushel, and the shippers $1 42 to $1 45. Mostly all lots of wheat coming forward are weighing well, some lots running up to 61 lbs, 62 and 63 being very common figures.

Oats came forward steadily all week and sold easy at $1 to $1 05. On Wednesday there were almost no receipts, and a good demand sent prices up to $1 10, closing steady.

Two lots of barley came in; the quality was very poor, and the price paid, although low was full value.

Peas sold at $1 20 per 100 lbs, last year's crop.

New rye brought 60c per bushel at private sale—there was none on the open market.

No beans, corn or buckwheat offered.

The provision market was easy on mostly all lines. Butter sold down 1c from last week, and eggs the same. Beef and the rest of the meats were easy. Vegetables sold low and dull, potatoes bringing 40c to 60c per bag.

SOUTH LONDON VOTERS.

The friends of good government in the South London division of South Middlesex have only from now till Friday evening to get their names on the lists of Dominion voters without going before the court. To facilitate arrangements the necessary forms have been placed in possession of Mr. Currie, J. P., corner Elmwood avenue and Cathcart street, who will be glad to fill them up. All young men who have come of age since last revision, all men (young or old) who have moved into the district since last revision, and all who desire to qualify as owners' sons, should make the necessary application to Mr. Currie any evening from now till Friday between 7 and 9 o'clock. The revising officers close their lists on the 15th inst.

Voters, see to your rights now, and avoid disappointment on election day, which may be here very soon.

EAST LONDON.

Ward 5 of the city is as yet a portion of East Middlesex. It may be that the new Dominion voters' lists for this year will be made up on the municipal lists of 1890, instead of on this year's lists as in Ward 1, 2, 3 and 4. The 1890 list, antiquated though it now is, is being used by the revising officer in South Middlesex. New comers in Ward 5, or those who are qualified as earners of $300 a year, or owners' sons, since the list of 1890 was made up, will have to declare their right to vote before the 15th inst., or be compelled to go to court to establish their claim. To facilitate operations, the papers can be signed at Robertson's stationery store, Dundas street, any evening from now till Friday night, between 7 and 9 o'clock.

HINTS FOR THE ELECTORS.

The Dominion voter's lists close on Friday evening next. Young man, new-comer in the city or suburbs, is your name there? If not, get you to the place of declaration.

Residents in Wards 1, 2, 3 and 4 register at Liberal Rooms, Oddfellows' Hall, any day between 2 and 5 and 8 and 10 p. m.

Residents in East London (Ward 5) will report at Robertson's stationery store, Dundas street, any evening between 7 and 9 o'clock.

Residents in South London at 'Squire Currie's, Elmwood avenue and Cathcart street, any evening between 7 and 9.

By registering now voters avoid a personal appearance in court.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

They had flirted a couple of weeks or so,
The youth and the maiden shy;
But the time had arrived for him to go
And he came to say good-bye.

And he said, "Ere we part will you give me a kiss?
Refuse not, I pray, the boon;
For I should like to remember this
As a sort of souvenir spoon."

—In the recent entrance examination the diploma for North Dorchester was carried off by Sarah Johnstone, of school section No. 12, known as the "Mossley school." This makes the third diploma secured by pupils of that school within the last two years, under the efficient teaching of Miss Susie Watts.

—Fred. Macdonald, who shot his brother John a week ago Sunday in London West, was further remanded until Aug. 19 by Squire Smyth yesterday. John has disappeared, and has done so, it is said, to shield his brother from the damage which his evidence would inflict upon the prisoner. Mrs. John Macdonald and Sarah Moulton, inmates of the house, were bound over to appear at the trial. It transpires that a Toronto Associated Press reporter and a commercial traveler were in the place at the time.

A Loss for the Academy.

City Engineer Graydon has written to the mayor and Council informing them that in taking cedar block surveys he found the Sacred Heart Academy fence eight feet out on the Dundas street line from the west side of Burwell street to Maitland street. The academy has a frontage of 250 feet on Dundas street, and the discovery means a probable loss of 8,000 square feet. In a real estate deal this would represent a considerable figure.

A Love Story.

Alex. H. Macdonald, aged 67, living in London West, was before Judge Elliot yesterday charged with insanity, the chief witness being his sweetheart, Miss Duncan, aged 30, a domestic employed by Mr. O'Higgins. Miss Duncan told how Macdonald had represented himself to be a millionaire, and had promised to cover her with diamonds. She believed him and consented to become his wife. Macdonald claimed that the woman made the proposal, creating a scene in court that made even the judge roar with laughter. The prisoner was found insane.

THE EMBARGO ON RYE.

Russia's Grain Duties Will Seriously Affect Austria and Germany.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Berlin Times says: There is no chance of Chancellor von Caprivi complying with the radical request to reduce the grain duties. The Russian ukase will seriously affect Eastern Prussia, which is almost entirely dependent upon Russian supplies. Ninety per cent. of the foreign rye imported into Germany this year from January to July came from Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 12.—Such an extreme measure as prohibiting the exportation of rye has not been adopted in Russia since the Crimean war. The measure will seriously effect Austria and Germany, but not England or France, which import only white wheat.

Mr. Macdonald's Libel Suit—The Trade Outlook—Good Prospects of the Provincial.

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—The libel suit brought by ex-Ald. E. A. Macdonald against J. F. Coleman was called in court yesterday. Mr. Hilton tried hard to get a remand until the return of B. B. Osler, Q.C., from Ottawa, he being counsel for Coleman, but the court and defendant objected and the case was commenced but adjourned immediately owing to the non-production of necessary documents by the first witness called by Mr. Macdonald to prove publication of the libel.

The Globe's commercial article says: The realization of the encouraging promises of an abundant harvest generally throughout this Province is having a beneficial influence on trade, and inquiries from country traders are getting more numerous. While the movement during the past week has been limited in most lines it has been a fair average for this period, and the outlook is generally very good. Payments both in the city and country are somewhat slow.

A summons was issued last night requiring City Engineer Jennings to appear at the Police Court this morning to answer to a charge of having used abusive language to Mr. C. J. Smith.

As Saturday next, the last day for receiving entries for the Industrial Exhibition, approaches, the crowd of applicants for space increases at the offices of the association, public library building. It is now quite evident that a few days more will see every available foot of space occupied in all the buildings.

Dr. W. H. B. Aikins performed a post-mortem yesterday morning on the body of Edward Allingham, who died from injuries sustained from a fall in York Chambers, and who has not so far been identified. Dr. Aikins found that the forearm had been tattooed on one side with a representation of a crucifix, and on the other side with the figure of a woman. The skin has been preserved, as it may lead to the identification of the man.

Abandoned Their Offspring.

MONTREAL, Aug. 13.—It is stated that the petition to the Pope, printed the other day as having been prepared and forwarded to him by leading Bleus in French Canada, was not sent; that it was drawn up but left incomplete and finally abandoned; and that the copy which has appeared in the press was obtained from the private papers of the late Mgr. Labelle, to whom it had been given by the authors.

Portuguese Barbarities.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Latest advices from southeastern Africa tell of appalling barbarities by the Portuguese with a view of bringing the natives to subjection. At Mozambique it is no uncommon thing to witness natives going about with heavy yokes about their necks, under which they can scarcely move. After enduring this torture for days some of them were beheaded and others sent back to carry terror to their tribes. The Portuguese have no hesitation in seizing the native women away from their families and making domestic slaves of them, while there is no doubt of collusion between the Portuguese and the Arab slave traders. Several of the latter, when captured by British war vessels, have confessed their relations with the Portuguese.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, is ear-ache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are specially subject.

A Cast for Fortune

By Christian Reid,

AUTHOR OF "VALERIE AYLMER," "A DAUGHTER OF BOHEMIA," "HEART OF STEEL," "BONNY KATE," ETC.

This was explicit enough, and sufficiently plausible; but the same instinct of distrust which he had been conscious of at first made Derwent say to himself that there was something in the transaction which might not perhaps reflect credit upon Senor Fernandez if known. It plainly did not concern him, however, to take up the vaguely-suspected grievance of an unknown Mexican. That must be settled between the parties concerned. All that he had to do was to look at the mine, and, if assured of its value, pay the price asked, in case a good title could be given him. It was settled that they would start the next morning, and, since nothing could be determined until this journey was made, Derwent, who heard seductive strains of music near by, proposed that they should finish their cigars in the open air.

"We will go to the plaza," said Senor Fernandez. "Every one is there to-night. You will see some very pretty women. Guadalajara is famous for its beauty."

"There are very pretty women in Mexico," observed the young man. "In fact, I think that one face which I saw in the Alameda last Sunday morning is the most beautiful I ever saw anywhere."

"Oh, Mexico, being the capital, gathers its beauty from all parts of the country, and of course it has more fashion, more style," replied Fernandez. "But it is hard to surpass Guadalajara for lovely girls. Come and judge for yourself."

They passed out into the soft, tropic night. The plaza from which the music proceeded was only a block distant, and when they gained it Derwent thought that he had seen nothing more handsome and imposing even in the city of Mexico than the surroundings of the beautiful garden which occupied the center of the large hollow square, the old Plaza de Armas, that was always the scene of tumult and fighting whenever revolution arose or war invaded the city. To-night, however, it was difficult to imagine that it had ever witnessed such scenes. In the middle of the garden rose a light Moorish pavilion, from which a military band was pouring forth music. Orange trees that filled the air with the fragrance of their blossoms lined a broad walk surrounding the parterres of turf and flowers and fountains, where between opposite rows of well filled benches two streams of promenaders were walking—all the ladies in one direction, all the men in another, thus passing and repassing each other as often as the circuit of the square was made. Electric lights shed their white radiance over the scene, people were coming and going constantly, joining the ranks or dropping out of them, sitting down to talk with their friends, or passing from group to group. There was animated movement, but not the least disorder for the perfect manners of the people are never more fully displayed than in these large open-air gatherings, where the same courtesy and decorum reign which would distinguish a private company in the most exclusive drawing-room.

Derwent sat down with his companion on the first bench where vacant seats presented themselves, and looked at the setting of this attractive scene. One side of the square was faced by the long and handsome front of the governor's palace, the other by the great mass of the cathedral buildings, a picturesque mixture of Byzantine and Greek architecture, with its tall towers rising against the deep violet sky. The remaining two sides were lined by brilliantly-lighted arcades, and the whole effect was of a long-established order and opulence.

"Oh, yes," said Senor Fernandez, in answer to a remark to this effect, "Guadalajara has been a place of great wealth and importance for more than two hundred years. It is only second in importance to Mexico itself. But observe whether or not I have spoken to you correctly of the beauty of our ladies."

"I have already seen a number of pretty faces," answered Derwent. "Guadalajara is evidently 'La Perla del Occidente' in many respects. But—by Jove! it can't be possible!—yes, it is—— Well, this is certainly extraordinary!"

As he uttered these quick, disjointed remarks, his companion turned, stared at him for an instant, and then, following the direction of his glance, saw in the line of promenaders a tall, handsome man of distinguished bearing advancing with a beautiful girl on his arm. She walked with a step as firm, a carriage as stately, as his own, and they were both of appearance so striking that they would have attracted attention anywhere.

"Oh! you know Don Maurizio, then?" said Fernandez, in a tone of surprise, which, had Derwent observed, would have struck him as not being very well pleased. But he did not observe at all. He was looking at the lovely face of the girl passing by, as he answered, absently:

"Don—who? No, I don't know the man at all. But that is the same lady I saw in the Alameda in Mexico last Sunday. How curious that she should be here!"

"No more curious than that you are here yourself," answered the other, smiling. "Those people have a large hacienda near this place, and Don Maurizio has evidently come to meet his daughter on her return from Mexico."

"But Morell told me that her father was an Irishman."

"Well, so he is. Do you think he looks like a Mexican? He is Don Maurizio Ormond, who married the great Cardella heiress. She had a magnificent estate, but he has doubled or trebled it since it came into his hands. He has remarkable business capabilities; but then he had such opportunities as do not come to many men. His daughter is very handsome, and a greater heiress than her mother. It is said that her father will look at no one less than a prince for her."

"But princes do not exist in Mexico."

"No, we have only a few great landed aristocrats to represent them. But Don Maurizio, it is said, will go to the Old World for an alliance for his daughter. He comes, I believe of a noble family himself; and as for the Cardellas, everybody knows that they are of pure Spanish descent and have held their lands by royal grant since the conquest."

"Their matrimonial prospects of the Senorita Ormond seem to be a good deal canvassed," said Derwent. "Morell told me, when I saw her in Alameda, that she would probably marry her cousin, the representative of her mother's family, in order to restore the lands to the name."

"The Cardellas are, of course, anxious for that; but it is said that Don Maurizio does not favor the idea. How Dona Zarifa stands herself I have never heard, but she will certainly have a word to say in the matter, or report does her injustice."

"She has too noble and too strong a face not to have a word—the most important word—to say," Derwent remarked, positively. "That girl will never allow her hand to be given away for considerations of family or ambition. But they do not return. Surely they have grown tired of walking very soon."

"Probably they were only taking a turn around the plaza while looking for seats," said Fernandez. "Shall we walk and look for them?"

"By all means," answered Derwent, rising lightly. As with his companion he fell into place in the circling masculine throng, he did not think of the difference between the first time he had seen Dona Zarifa and the present. The first time he had been indifferent whether he saw her again or not, while now he was conscious of a strong desire to look once more on a face that fascinated him like a rare and exquisite picture.

But although he made several circuits of the plaza, and scanned as closely as was compatible with good manners the row of faces on each side of the promenade, he had no further glimpse of Don Maurizio or his daughter.

CHAPTER IV.

A labyrinth of mountains, which, arid and desolate, lose themselves in the distance; infinitely varied in form, suggesting inexpressible and awful contortions; full of deep, sad shadows, lonely, terrifying, like a sombre and tempestuous ocean suddenly petrified with awe at the whisper of God."

So has a Mexican writer impressively described the region of the great Sierras that lift their desolate heights above the fertile table-land. The flanks of these vast ranges, as they stretch down to the tierra caliente, (the "hot lands" of the coast) are clothed with tropical forests, but as they rise above the plateau—in itself from six to eight thousand feet above the level of the sea—they are bare of all vegetation, and their rugged forms, rent and torn by volcanic action into deep chasms and gorges, wild, inaccessible peaks, and wonderful serrating ridges, suggest the immediate presence of nature's most terrible and resistless forces. No one can shake off a sense of awe, and of a distaste amounting repugnance, in traveling through these regions, so wild, so desolate, and so forbidding.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the sytem. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and conver the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

—The following London delegates are attending the I. O. F. High Court now in session at Brockville: Alex. Aikman, Geo. Parish, W. Gerry, Henry Pratt, W. H. Bartram, R. Crosby, John F. Hicks, Jas. Lucas, Atwell Fleming and T. G. Davey.

—The band concert Tuesday night was not as largely attended as usual, no announcement having appeared in the papers. The weather was delightfully cool and no dust annoyed promenaders. Scarcity of seats caused a liberal patronage of the boulevard railings.

—I went a-fishing with sweet Nell
One August day;
Up stream, through mead and wooded dell,
We fished our way.

That day to me was one sweet song,
From discords free;
I caught a trout three inches long
And Nell caught—me.

—Mr. G. E. Kennedy, who has for the past four years been engaged with the firm of W. E. Saunders & Co., of this city, left Tuesday for his home at Lyons. Ed. is a popular young man, and during his time in the city has made a large circle of friends, whose best wishes accompany him.

—A traveling correspondent of the Globe writes: "The spring crops from Hamilton to London look excellent. There is no exception in any variety. Root crops promise an abundant yield, and there is a large root crop put in. Farmers in the west say that the potato bug has been less troublesome than for many years."

—Ed. Brennan, the middle-aged man accused of breaking into a C. P. R. bonded car, was bound over yesterday to appear at the Police Court Monday. Mr. McKillop wants the evidence of a switchman who is sick at present. It is probable Brennan will be charged with larceny, as a quantity of cheese was taken from the car.

—On Monday next (civic holiday) another excursion will be given to Detroit for $1 75 via the Grand Trunk. The excursion is under the patronage of the C. M. B. A. Society of this city, and will be largely attended. The train leaves at 7:30 a.m. and returns at 10 p.m. Excursionists will have the opportunity of seeing the Barnum circus, which is in Detroit that day; also a number of aquatic sports, which will be held on Detroit River.

—John Jaynes, the liquor informer who was the cause of a good many exposures in that line in this city last fall, has been giving similar evidence in Hamilton, where a number of hotel and saloon keepers have come before the police magistrate's notice through the exercise of his profession. In the course of his testimony there, Jaynes detailed some of his London experiences and said he worked at the carpentering business here for a Mr. Tuckett. Mr. Jaynes, it will be remembered, was assaulted in East London one evening and was laid up for some weeks with severe injuries.

Died from His Injuries.

Oliver B. Harris, the man who was injured Monday by falling from a ladder while working at his residence, died Tuesday afternoon in the City Hospital. The deceased was badly hurt about the head having alighted on that part of his body. He was about 44 years of age, was employed at Stevens & Burns, and leaves a widow and family. The funeral takes place this afternoon from 363 Hill street.

Promenade Concert in the City Hall.

"D" Company band rendered sweet music at a promenade concert given Tuesday in the City Hall, by London Lodge, No. 139, Order of Fraternal Guardians. Invitations had been sent around by the society members and the attendance was satisfactory. The Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes draped the platform. Mayor Joseph C. Smith, of Philadelphia, supreme guardian, and his party were expected, but sent a telegram stating that a wash-out on the C. P. R., would prevent their appearance. The local secretary of the committee, Mr. John Paul, spoke for a short time, dealing with the principles of the order. The membership was about 9,000 with 200 lodges, rapidly increasing in numbers. Philadelphia was its center, but it was international in operation. U. S. Consul Leonard also made a brief speech, landatory of the fraternal orders. He considered they had a good educative and brotherly influence.

A Good Idea.

Secretary Browne has laid before the Western Fair Board a very nice idea, which, if put into practice, will make an agreeable addition to the great Western Fair. He communicated with several societies in the city, and also the bicycle clubs, asking if they would co-operate in a proposed parade on one of the Fair days, probably the Monday. The answers received were very encouraging, and the suggestion highly approved of on all hands. It was decided by the Board to solicit the aid of the various fraternal orders, the city cyclists and others in the project, and no doubt the effort will materialize very creditably. The scheme is an enterprising one, characteristic of Western Fair management. If carried into effect it will form a handsome and perhaps permanent feature of the exhibition and tend to impress visitors as an evidence of the interest taken by citizens.

A Significant Difference in South London.

It is announced that in South London (Ward 6 in the city) the "assessment roll of 1890 has been made the basis of the Dominion voters' list in the south riding of Middlesex. In consequence of this difference from the mode adopted in the city it becomes necessary for everyone who lives in London South, and who has not been a householder for at least two years, to make a declaration of his right to vote." To secure a vote everyone who has purchased property in the ward within two years, or who has only become resident since Jan. 1, 1890, should call on Squire Currie, corner Elmwood avenue and Cathcart street, any evening between now and Friday evening next, 14th inst., when the list will close. Mr. Currie will attend to take the necessary declaration from 7 till 9. The task is an important one, as whether the new ward will be a portion of the city or continued as a division of South Middlesex, it is well that the full Liberal vote should be secured.

A man in New York deluged his pet cockroaches with naptha. To light his dreary task he used a candle. For coolness and comfort he wore little clothing. When the police carried his senseless form out of the burning building the bystanders were shocked. But the roaches were roasted alive. The experiment was a success.

Sir Walter Raleigh introduced the use of tobacco in Europe centuries ago, but if he could to-day smoke a Highland Lassie cigar manufactured by H. McKay & Co., London, he would as readily consider himself one of the greatest of public benefactors. It is a five-cent cigar and has no superior on the market. The composition is of the choicest nature, the workmanship of the best and the flavor delicious. Try them.

Mrs. Brown—What makes that baby cry so, Benjamin? Mr. Brown (who is doing the perambulating act)—I'm pinching him. Mrs. Brown—Why, what in the world are you doing that for? Mr. Brown—I can't keep awake long enough to get him to sleep unless he cries."

Mr. Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, sour stomach and lame back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."
