ONTARIO VISITED BY STORM WHICH DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Woman Killed by Lightning and her Daughter Paralyzed—Crops Badly Damaged by Wind.

Parham, Ont., Aug. 30.—While at work preparing breakfast this morning, Mrs. Anthony Rondon was struck and killed by lightning. A twelve-year-old daughter is nearly paralyzed from the shock. Other members of the family escaped injury. The house was badly damaged.

CROPS DESTROYED.

Simcoe, Ont., Aug. 30.—A very heavy electric storm passed over this section at noon to-day. Many trees were either uprooted or broken by the force of the gale. A few miles north of this place the hail simply threshed all the wheat out of the stalks. The winter apple crop, as well as the pears and plums, was destroyed. Reports are to hand to-night advising that some buildings as well as stock, were struck by lightning.

BUILDINGS WRECKED.

Kincardine, Ont., Aug. 30.—During a gale of wind, which prevailed here about midnight, last night, Chalmers' church on the 7th concession Kincardine, in course of erection, the foundation having been laid with Masonic honors two months ago, had the western wall blown down. A mile further east, the residence of Murdoch Melvor, the brickwork of which had just been completed, was also badly wrecked. The storm only lasted for a few minutes. Winds of this nature are rarely experienced in this neighborhood.

MAPLE CITY MERCHANTS SPEAK OF HALF HOLIDAY

Views of the Employers Who Gave the Vacations During the Past Two Months—Generally Satisfactory.

The Planet has interviewed a number of the merchants of the city, who observed a half holiday on Thursday during July and August, as to whether it was fully satisfactory to them, although a number of them do not think very highly of the idea, there is no doubt that such a move, with some amendments, would be favored again next year. The prevailing opinion is that a general half holiday would be far more beneficial than a holiday for certain lines.

This is what they say.

Mr. Gordon, of Thornton & Douglas.—Putting it on its own merits, it is a good thing. I think it is a move in the right direction.

Mr. Foreman.—It is a good scheme, but a general holiday would be far better.

Spencer Stone, of Thos. Stone & Sons.—It was a good thing for the clerks, giving them a half holiday outing. I do not think it interfered with the business at all, and my impression is that I would do the same next year.

Wm. Stone, of Wm. Stone & Co.—It was a good thing for the clerks, but a lot of money was spent out of the city that without a doubt we had been spent here.

G. J. Peace.—I don't think I lost anything by it. What I did not get on Thursday I got at other times, but at the same time, I don't think it will go another year. It would be a good idea to have two half holidays a week and let half of the clerks off one day and the remainder the other day and thus not have to close up the business. Any other thing I wish you would mention is that there is a law in Hamilton that the stores are to close at a certain hour Saturday excepted, the other day I was reading in one of the Hamilton papers where a man had been fined for selling goods after the stated hour of closing. This, I am sure would be a good thing here.

A. H. Vonquies.—It is a good idea and I don't think I lost by it. I don't see why all the merchants should not go into it and make it a general holiday, but change the day to Tuesday for several reasons.

Mr. Jordan said.—I don't think I lost much by it, but it was a detriment to the farmers as it was not advertised enough in the papers and many of them knew nothing of it. I will go into it next year but I want to see it advertised by the merchants.

Camel said.—It was a good thing for the clerks, but was a great inconvenience to farmers coming into the city. They would find the stores closed and would then go home and get what they wanted at the small general stores nearer home.

CHILD BURNED

Tupperville Girl Fatally Injured by Explosion of Coal Oil.

(Special to The Planet.)

Dresden, Aug. 31.—A sad and fatal accident occurred in Tupperville on Wednesday at 1.30 p.m. causing the death of Gertrude Barber, aged nine years and three months, better known as Dolly Shaw.

She was pouring coal oil into the stove when the oil took fire and the can exploded setting fire to her clothing.

The child was attended by Dr. Mitchell, of Wallaceburg, but succumbed to her injuries at seven o'clock yesterday morning.

Mr. Shaw's hands were also badly burned in putting out the fire.

The funeral took place to-day to the Dresden cemetery.

MUNICIPAL MEN

Officers Elected and Important Resolutions Passed at Convention.

Toronto, August 30.—The Canadian union of municipalities, at the closing session of its convention here to-day, elected the following officers, and decided to leave to the executive, the selection of the next place of meeting:—President, Mayor Howland, Toronto; Ontario section, First Vice-President, Mayor Morris, Ottawa; Second Vice-President, Mayor Reid, Owen Sound; Quebec section—First Vice-President, Councillor Knowles, Westmount, Montreal; Nova Scotia section—First Vice-President, Mayor Hamilton, Halifax; New Brunswick section—First Vice-President, Acting Mayor McRae, St. John, N.B.; Manitoba section—First Vice-President, Mayor Arbutnot, Winnipeg. The executive will fill the vacant vice-presidential places in the various provinces. The meeting passed resolutions favoring the extension of the principle and of municipal ownership, and control of public services depending on the use of the streets and retaining control, especially of all franchises for electric railways and supporting the movement for tree planting on city streets and along country roads.

BIG BETTING

Nearly Half a Million Dollars Will be Put Up on the Yacht Race.

New York, Aug. 30.—What is said to be the greatest wager in the history of the sporting world was arranged to-day upon the result of the international yacht races. Twenty English and American capitalists are interested in a venture which involves nearly half a million dollars. W. F. Mustin, president of the Pittsburg Stock Exchange, representing ten wealthy residents of that city, gave assurance to Walter J. Kingsley, that the $150,000 which he brought on the Deutschland yesterday from an English syndicate of prominent men, to be placed upon the outcome, would be covered at odds of 5 to 3. This afternoon the principals met to discuss details, and Mr. Kingsley will wire to England the exact state of affairs.

GLOOMY WINTER

Cold and Starvation Will Soon Enslave the Peasants of Russia.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 30.—The day on which the first results of the harvest were blessed in the churches, which was celebrated throughout Russia, this week, must have been a gloomy one for many of the provinces. The outlook has grown worse almost everywhere during the last four weeks. Even vegetables, including potatoes, have been largely burned up by the scorching heat in some districts. The approaching winter will be one of the gloomiest Russia has ever seen.

The government already has begun preparations for feeding the population in districts where starvation is threatening. By a law adopted some time ago the zemstvos, or district assemblies are relieved from all responsibility in the matter, the famine relief funds being now turned over to the central government. Agents of the ministry of the interior are engaged in buying up grain though the Russian press is forbidden to mention the matter.

For Labor Day, Sept. 2nd, the L. E. & D. R. will sell round trip tickets at single fare, good going August 31st and Sept. 2nd returning, Sept. 2nd. Edw.

to have an interview with M. Constantin, the French ambassador to Turkey. He came incognito, in order to avoid being handed his passports. What transpired at the interview is not known, but it is believed it will lead to a modification of the situation.

The fête planned in honor of the anniversary of the accession of Abdul Hamid II, which it was intended to give at the Turkish embassy to-morrow, has been canceled. The minister of war, Gen. Andre, withdrew the permission enabling a military orchestra to participate in the celebration.

CHANGES AT COLLEGIATE

Local Board of Trustees Making Many Improvements to the Building.

A New Gymnasium for Next Year—Other Equipment Contemplated.

Chatham has one of the finest Collegiate Institutes in Western Ontario. The building is sanitary and commodious and the staff of teachers could not be improved upon. Chatham is also fortunate in having a Collegiate Institute Board composed of men who take an interest in the school and thus contribute materially to the efficiency of the institution. Special mention should be made of the shorthand and typewriting department. Here scholars may learn this branch of study as well as in any Business College.

This year the building has undergone a number of improvements and repairs. The walls have been kalsomined and the doors and woodwork painted and grained. The steps have also been painted, adding greatly to their appearance.

The Property committee of the Board, consisting of Mr. Scullard, Mr. White and Dr. Battisby, made an inspection of the work yesterday and found everything highly satisfactory. They made a thorough inspection of each room and found everything in first class condition ready for the reopening of the school. The work on the walls reflects much credit upon Mr. Trato, the artist. The blackboards have been painted by J. E. Hammond.

The question of a new gymnasium came up. The present one is in a much demoralized condition and is really unfit for use. The roof is in a very poor condition, and it was thought advisable to put a new roof on the building.

As Mr. Scath, the inspector, has reported very unfavorably on the present "gym" it was thought advisable to scrap it up for this year and build an entirely new one next year. It was also decided to advertise for tenders for 150 cords of wood, soft maple and elm.

Mr. Scullard will notify the city engineer to have the sewers flushed.

RETALIATES

Sultan Withdraws French Concessions in Syria—France Qu'et.

Paris, Aug. 30.—The Matin to-day says the Sultan's first retaliation against France is the publication of an irade withdrawing the concessions and tax exemptions from the French religious community at Beyruth, Syria. The French community at Jerusalem are also taxed.

The Franco-Turkish situation remains unchanged. It is understood that the French government will take no active measures to coerce the Sultan until after the Czar's visit to France, in order that nothing may occur to mar the festivities attending that event.

Munir Bey, the Turkish ambassador to France, who is residing in Switzerland, has made a flying visit to Paris.

HORRIBLE DEATH

Former Chatham Railroad Man Has Head Crushed Between Couplers.

Detroit, Aug. 31.—Malcolm McNichol's head was crushed between the couplers of two dining room cars at the foot of Seventeenth street yesterday, and instant death was the result. It is presumed that McNichol was crossing the track as the cars came together and that he fell so that his head was caught by the automatic coupling machinery. Coroner Hoffmann sent the remains to McNeely's morgue, 43 National avenue, and will hold an inquest Tuesday afternoon.

Deceased had been in the employ of the Union Station & Terminal Association since January last, working as a switchman. He boarded at 146 Michigan avenue for some time. His brother, Duncan McNichol, of Grand Rapids, who is in the employ of the Walcott Railroad Co., will take charge of the funeral arrangements. A sister of deceased lives at Chatham, Ont.

McNichol is well known in the Maple City. He was for some time employed as brakeman upon the Erie & Huron railroad, on the Eau Claire and always proved a courteous and popular official.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 31

THE CONVENTION.

Next Saturday the Liberal-Conservatives of West Kent will meet in the Oddfellows' auditorium to select a candidate for the Provincial Legislature.

It will be a splendid convention. Enthusiasm and activity are universal throughout the constituency. Delegates are being selected from every polling sub-division. The gathering will be a most representative one.

And the standard-bearer whom the delegates select will be the coming member for West Kent.

OUR SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The suggestion of Dr. A. W. Thornton, that the Public School trustees be invited and urged to meet with the teachers in their coming convention, is a good one. It has the hearty endorsement of President James Brackin, of the Teachers' Association, and the inspectors. It should be carried out.

The value and excellent influence of the teachers' convention is thoroughly recognized. The interchange of ideas, the discussion of the work and the association of professional colleagues has resulted in a wonderful impetus to activity and the development of successful school government.

The presence of the trustees would be a benefit alike to the teachers and themselves. It would be an evidence of the progressive character of educational work. It would give them a better conception of their responsible duties and bring them into closer touch with the practical side of the sphere over which they preside.

THE HALF HOLIDAY.

The Thursday half holidays which many of our merchants generously gave their employees during the months of July and August, are now at an end.

That they have been keenly enjoyed and appreciated by the clerks is well known and this will doubtless be practically demonstrated by increased devotion to duty and the best interests of the employers during the months to come.

Generally speaking, the merchants are well pleased with the result. It is well that they should be, and gives promise of the inauguration of some permanent movement of the kind every summer. The Planet would be glad to see it.

And the clerks themselves will largely influence the consummation of such a project. They have been treated most generously by their employers during the past few months. It is quite possible that this generosity has cost something, but if so, it was given freely and cordially. This consideration of the interests of the employees should now be reciprocated. In a large measure the interests of the merchants are in the hands of the clerks.

Let them learn of your appreciation in a most practical manner.

CHATHAM'S CENSUS.

The more one enquires into the government figures regarding the population of Chatham, the more definite and convincing becomes the conclusion that they are absurdly inaccurate and incomplete.

And the more emphatic grows the conviction that this city is entitled to an investigation and correction of them by the government.

The interview with ex-Ald. Robert Cucksey, which appeared in The Planet of yesterday, furnishes a striking illustration of the state of affairs which this journal believes exists to a considerable extent in the recent census taking. Mr. Cucksey says his home was never visited at all, and a family of six consequently omitted from the figures.

When it is considered, as Mr. Cucksey aptly points out, that his home is situated upon the corner of two of our large residential streets, in a comparatively open part of the city, is it not the reasonable and proper deduction that omissions occurred to a much greater extent in the more thickly settled and populated portions of Chatham?

And The Planet has stated previously, and reiterates now, that it knows of other cases.

Local Commissioner Waugh in his reply to this journal, admitted that the enumerators had "accidentally omitted" eight names, to which later his attention was directed, and the government notified thereof. This was two weeks ago, but the government has not yet given our city credit for the extra eight. More are now coming to light. Doesn't Mr. Waugh begin to think that those "accidental omissions" were, at least, fairly frequent?

When The Planet some days ago, made the announcement that this city had been badly maligned in the matter of the census, this journal knew what it was talking about. Facts were at its disposal. Since that time it has received numerous additional complaints. Mr. Waugh in his letter asked this journal "why there had been an increase of some 107 families and 90 dwellings in the city since the census of 1891 was taken, and only 33 of population." We feel quite confident now that we can enlighten Mr. Waugh materially as to the cause of this absurd discrepancy in the figures.

The remedy lies with the Ontario Government—the custodians of the rights of the people of this province. It is their duty to demand justice for their splendid constituency, and to see that it is secured. Ontario is entitled to a full and thorough investigation and a properly conducted and accurate count. Has her government the zeal, fidelity, and backbone necessary to secure it?

Time will tell.

Steps are being taken in Chatham to erect a monument to Tecumseh, an act of justice to a noble Indian.—Toronto Star.

But ex-Ald. Cucksey and his family must not feel specially slighted. They were not the only ones. There were others—plenty of them.

First thing the world knows the Turks will commence burning people alive, and then your Uncle Samuel will be one of the first to send in a protest in the name of humanity.

Monday being Labor Day—a statutory holiday—there will be no issue of The Planet. The Planet employees will have a holiday. And, by the way, when this great home journal promotes its employees a holiday, they all get it.

Just about now when the parents are called upon to purchase school books at the prices of the Ross government monopolists they are brought to a forcible realization of the truth of that pithy statement—"It's time for a change."

It is simply a shame that Minister of Militia Borden should let the excellent 24th Regiment band stay at home, and gather dubs of bands at Toronto to salute the duke with disorders. There are not too many good bands in Canada.

A school teacher in Pike county, Kentucky, says the Windsor Record, wears a .45-calibre revolver in school, and the State superintendent commends the practice on the ground that "it is the first duty of a teacher to make his school as homelike as possible." A rival teacher is said to be contemplating the installation of a moonshine still as a counter attraction.

Great or little, bad or good, Kipling has not changed. He is the same Kipling that was slobbered over by men who abuse him now. He is paying the penalty of extravagant praise. Most of the present censure of him is just as excessive. He knows perfectly well what he is trying to do. He is trying to beat certain ideas into British public opinion. In so trying, he makes verses that are frankly faulty; yet we have seen as bad by a much greater poet, Tennyson. It is by his generally good work and not his occasionally bad work that Kipling should be judged, and will be judged.

The census commissioner at Ottawa lets out a batch of figures of the alleged population of places one day, and the next, or the day after that, sends out a list of corrections of errors in the first announcement. The machinery of the bureau must be in an extraordinary muddled condition, when those who direct it allow it thus to cast doubt upon its own work.

Heed not those voices, whether hoarse or borne.
Through leagues of mist from lands where Envy grows
At unassailable greatness, and your scorn
Of powerless snarls and scowls.

Or hissed out, noisier home, from foul-fanged throat,
Of Treason eager to besmirch, and slay
Our far-off hero-brothers, and to vote
An Empire's weal away.

But hearken only to the imperative voice
Of your own conscience, purified from lust
Of victory or vengeance, and rejoice Solely in what is just.

And, as a firm-willed, steadfast-steering barque
Against buffeting winds and tempest-scattered spray,
Mid jarring clamor, on through day, through dark,
Cleaves its appointed way.

And, while keels feebleer toss, the swiftest sport
Of multitudinous billows, drenched and drowned,
Then derelict,—thinks only of the port,
To which its chart is bound.

So keep male mind and unrepentant soul,
Set to your purpose, free from dread or ire,
Until you sight and gain unto the goal
Of duty and desire.

Forgetful never that the Strong still must,
If cherishing freedom keep her flag unfurled,
Long as God wills, give to them in trust
The welfare of the World.

LOWERED BY A ROPE

St. Paul's Remarkable Escape From Damascus.

PATIENT, UNCOMPLAINING WORK

Rev. Dr. Talmage Shows on What a Slender Tenure Great Results Hang—All the Ages of Time and Eternity Affected by the Simple Incident on the Wall of Damascus.

Washington, Aug. 25.—A Bible incident not often noticed is here used by Dr. Talmage to set forth practical and beautiful truth; text, II Corinthians xi, 33, "Through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall."

Sermons on Paul in jail, Paul on Mars Hill, Paul in the shipwreck, Paul before the sanhedrin, Paul before Felix, are plentiful, but in my text we have Paul in a basket.

Damascus is a city of white and glistening architecture, sometimes called "the eye of the east," sometimes called "a pearl surrounded by emeralds," at one time distinguished for swords of the best material, called Damascus blades, and upholstery of Damascus fabric called damask.

A horseman of the name of Saul, riding toward this city, had been thrown from the saddle. The horse, which at the same time was so bright it blinded the rider for many days and, I think, so permanently injured his eyesight that the defect became the thorn in the flesh, he afterwards speaks of. He started for Damascus to butcher Christians, but after that hard fall from his horse he was changed man and preached Christ in Damascus till the city was shaken to its foundation.

The mayor gives authority for his arrest, and the popular cry is "Kill him! Kill him!" The city is surrounded by a high wall and the gates are watched by the police lest the Christian preacher escape. Many of the houses are built on the wall, and their balconies project over the street and over the gardens outside. It was customary to lower baskets out of these balconies and pull up fruits and flowers from the gardens.

To this day visitors to the monastery of Mount Sinai are lifted and let down in baskets. Detectives prowled around from house to house looking for Paul, but his friends hid him, now in one place, now in another. He is no coward, as 50 incidents in his life demonstrate, but he feels his work is not done yet and so he evades assassination.

"Is that preacher here?" the foaming mob shout at the house door. "Is that fanatic here?" the police shout at another house door. Sometimes on the street incognito he passes through a cloud of clinched fists and sometimes he secretes himself on the house top.

At last the infuriated populace get on sure track of him. They have positive evidence that he is in the house of one of the Christians, the balcony of whose house reaches over the wall. "Here he is! Here he is!" The vociferation and blasphemy and howling of the pursuers are at the front of the balcony.

"Fetch out that gospeller and let us hang his head on the city gate. Where is he?" The emergency was terrible. Provisionally there was a good stout basket, the balcony of whose house reaches over the wall. Paul steps into it. The basket is lifted to the edge of the balcony on the wall, and then the basket is lowered down, carefully and cautiously, slowly but surely, farther down and farther down, until the basket strikes the earth and the apostle steps out. The foot and elbow starts out that famous missionary tour the story of which has astonished earth and heaven. Appropriate entry in Paul's diary of travels: "Through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall."

I observe first on what a slender tenure great results hang. The rope-maker who twisted that cord fastened to the basket, and never knew how much would depend upon the strength of it. How if it had been broken, and the apostle's life had been dashed out? What would have become of the Christian Church? All the magnificent missionary work in Pamphylia, Cappadocia, Galatia, Macedonia would never have been accomplished. All his writings that make up an indispensable and enchanting part of the New Testament would never have been written. The story of resurrection would never have been so gloriously told as he told it. That example of heroic and triumphant endurance at Philippi, in the Mediterranean Euroclydon, under flagellation, and at his beheading, would not have kindled the courage of 10,000 martyrs. But that rope holding that basket, how much depended on it! So again and again great results have hung on slender circumstances.

The passage at Epworth, England, is on fire in the night, and the father rushed through the hallway for the rescue of his children. Seven children are out and safe on the ground, but one remains in the consuming building. That one awakes, and finding his bed on fire and the building crumbling, comes to the window, and two peasants make a ladder of their bodies, one peasant standing on the shoulder of the other, and down the human ladder the boy descends—John Wesley. If you would know how much depends on that ladder of peasants, ask the millions of Methodists on both sides of the sea. Ask their mission stations all around the world. Ask their hundreds of thousands already sent to join their founder, who would have perished but for the living stairs of peasants' shoulders.

An English ship stopped at Pitcairn Island, and right in the midst of surrounding cannibals and

Muscle

Does not make the man. "The blood is the life," the vital force of the body. So it is not infrequently happens that the man who looks to be a picture of physical strength falls a sudden victim to disease.

A proper care for the blood would prevent many a serious sickness. The cleansing of the blood is perfectly accomplished by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It drives out the impurities and poisonous substances which corrupt the blood and breed disease. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and increases the supply of pure blood. It builds up the entire body with good sound flesh.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" does so to gain the little profit paid by inferior medicines. There is nothing "just as good" for the blood as "Golden Medical Discovery" therefore accept "Golden Medical Discovery" for your blood.

"I took five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' for my blood," writes Mr. William D. Shambelin, of Rensselaer, N. Y. "I had a bad case of Remy, Cherokee Nation, Indian, and they were on me when I commenced using 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and they went away. I haven't been bothered any more since." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

The passengers discovered a Christian colony of churches and schools and beautiful homes and highest style of religion and civilization. For 50 years no missionary and no Christian influence had landed there.

Why this oasis of light amid a desert of heathendom? Sixty years before a ship had been wrecked, and one of the sailors, unable to save anything else, went to his trunk and took out a Bible which his mother had placed there and swam ashore. The Bible held in his teeth. The rough and vicious population were evangelized, and a church was started, and an enlightened commonwealth established, and the world's history has no more brilliant page than that which tells of the transformation of a nation by one book. It did not seem of much importance whether the sailor continued to hold the book or not, but it fell in the breakers, but upon what small circumstances depended what mighty results!

Practical inference: There are no insignificance in life. The minutest thing is part of a magnitude. Infinity is made up of infinitesimals; great things are aggregation of small things. Bethlehem manger pulling out a star in the eastern sky. One book of a drunken sailor's mouth the evangelization of a multitude. One boat of papyrus on the Nile freighted with events for all ages. The fate of Christendom in a basket let down by a window on the wall. What you do, do well. If you make a rope, make it strong and true, for you know not how much may depend on your workmanship. If you fashion a boat, let it be waterproof, for you know not who may sail in it. If you put a Bible in the trunk of your boy as he goes from home, let it be remembered in your prayers, for it may be the mission as far-reaching as the book which the sailor carried in his teeth to the Pitcairn beach. The plainest man's life is an island between two eternities—eternity past, eternity to come touching his brow. The casual, the accidental, that which merely happened so, are part of a great plan, and the rope that lets the fugitive apostle from the Damascus wall is the cable that holds to its mooring the ship of the church in the storm of the centuries.

There are said to be about a hundred and fifty thousand ministers of religion in this country. About 80,000, I warrant, came from early homes which had to struggle for the necessities of life. The sons of rich age, and I endured without complaint all their querulousness and administered to all their wants for 20 years." Let us pass on round the circle of thrones. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? "I was for 30 years a Christian invalid and suffered all the while, occasionally writing a note of sympathy for those worse off than I, and was generous of all those who had trouble, and once in a while I was strong enough to make a garment for that poor family in the back lane." Pass on to another throne. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? "I was the mother who raised a whole family of children for God, and they are out in the world Christian merchants, Christian mechanics, Christian wives, and I have had full reward for all my toil." Let us pass on in the circle of thrones. "I had a Sabbath school class and they were always on my heart, and they all entered the Kingdom of God, and I am waiting for their arrival." But who are thou, the mighty one of heaven on this other throne? "In time of bitter persecution I owned a house in Damascus, a house on the wall. A man who preached Christ was hounded from street to street and I hid him from the assassins, and when I found them breaking into my house and I could no longer keep him safely I advised him to flee for his life, and a basket was let down over the wall with the maltreated man in it, and I was one who helped hold the rope." And I said: "Is that all?" And he answered: "That is all." And while I was lost in amazement I heard a strong voice that sounded as though it might once have been hoarse from many exposures, and triumphant as though it might have belonged to one of the martyrs, and it said: "Not many mighty, not many noble are called, but God has chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty, and base things of the world and things which are despised hath God chosen, yea, and things which are not to bring to naught things which are, that no flesh should glory in his presence." And I looked to see from whence the voice came, and lo! it was the very one who had said, "Through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall."

Henceforth think of nothing as insignificant. A little thing may decide your all. A Cuneiform tablet out from England for New York. It was equipped, but in putting up a stove in the pilot box a nail was driven too near the compass. You know how that nail would affect the compass. The ship's course, decided by that distracted compass, put the ship 200 miles off her right course, and suddenly the man on the look-out cried, "Land ho!" and the ship was halted within a few yards of her demolition on Nantucket shoals. A six-penny nail came near wrecking a Cuneiform. Small ropes hold mighty destinies.

Nothing unimportant in your life or mine. Three naughts placed on the right side of the figure one makes a thousand, and six naughts on the right side of the figure one a million, and our nothingness may be augmented, limited. All the ages of time and eternity affected by the basket let down from a Damascus balcony.

Pure Romance. Mrs. Henpeck—I saw a book today I thought. Why, a ship was crossing the Atlantic in six days. Can't sail away from that. A sailor or finds them on the lookout as he takes his place and finds them on the mast as he climbs the ratlines to disentangle the rope in the tempest and finds them swinging on the hammock when he turns in. Why not be frank and acknowledge it? The most of us would long ago have been dashed to pieces had not the ratlines and ladders been steadily and lovingly and mightily held the rope.

But there must come a time when we shall find out who these Damascenes were who lowered Paul in the basket, and greet them and all those who have rendered to God and the world unrecognized and unrecorded services. That is going to be one of the glad excitements of heaven, the hunting up of those of those who did great good on earth and got no credit for it. Here the church has been going on 19 centuries, and yet the world has not recognized the service of the people in that Damascus balcony. Charles G. Finney said to a dying Christian, "Give my love to St. Paul when you meet him." When you and I meet him, as we will, I shall ask him to introduce me to those who got him out of the Damascus peril.

We go into long sermons to prove that we will be able to recognize people in heaven, when there is one reason we fail to present, and that is better than all—God will introduce us. We shall have them all pointed out. You would not be guilty of the impetuosity of having friends in your parlor not introduced, and celestial politeness will demand that we be made acquainted with all the heavenly household. What rehearsal of old times and recital of stirring reminiscences! If others fail to give introduction, God will take us through, and before our first 24 hours in heaven—if it were calculated by earthly timepieces we have passed we shall meet and talk with more heavenly celebrities than in our entire mortal state we met with earthly celebrities. Many who made great noise of usefulness will sit on the great seats by the front door of the heavenly temple, while right up within arm's reach of the heavenly throne will be many who, though they could not reach themselves or do great exploits for God, nevertheless held the rope.

Come, let us go right up and accost those on the circle of heavenly thrones. Surely they must have killed in battle a million men. Surely they must have been buried with all the cathedrals sounding a dirge and all the towers of all the cities tolling the national grief. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? If others fail to give introduction, God will take us through, and before our first 24 hours in heaven—if it were calculated by earthly timepieces we have passed we shall meet and talk with more heavenly celebrities than in our entire mortal state we met with earthly celebrities. Many who made great noise of usefulness will sit on the great seats by the front door of the heavenly temple, while right up within arm's reach of the heavenly throne will be many who, though they could not reach themselves or do great exploits for God, nevertheless held the rope.

Come, let us go right up and accost those on the circle of heavenly thrones. Surely they must have killed in battle a million men. Surely they must have been buried with all the cathedrals sounding a dirge and all the towers of all the cities tolling the national grief. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? Thou, by choice the unmarried daughter in a humble home that I might

age, and I endured without complaint all their querulousness and administered to all their wants for 20 years." Let us pass on round the circle of thrones. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? "I was for 30 years a Christian invalid and suffered all the while, occasionally writing a note of sympathy for those worse off than I, and was generous of all those who had trouble, and once in a while I was strong enough to make a garment for that poor family in the back lane." Pass on to another throne. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? "I was the mother who raised a whole family of children for God, and they are out in the world Christian merchants, Christian mechanics, Christian wives, and I have had full reward for all my toil." Let us pass on in the circle of thrones. "I had a Sabbath school class and they were always on my heart, and they all entered the Kingdom of God, and I am waiting for their arrival." But who are thou, the mighty one of heaven on this other throne? "In time of bitter persecution I owned a house in Damascus, a house on the wall. A man who preached Christ was hounded from street to street and I hid him from the assassins, and when I found them breaking into my house and I could no longer keep him safely I advised him to flee for his life, and a basket was let down over the wall with the maltreated man in it, and I was one who helped hold the rope." And I said: "Is that all?" And he answered: "That is all." And while I was lost in amazement I heard a strong voice that sounded as though it might once have been hoarse from many exposures, and triumphant as though it might have belonged to one of the martyrs, and it said: "Not many mighty, not many noble are called, but God has chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty, and base things of the world and things which are despised hath God chosen, yea, and things which are not to bring to naught things which are, that no flesh should glory in his presence." And I looked to see from whence the voice came, and lo! it was the very one who had said, "Through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall."

Henceforth think of nothing as insignificant. A little thing may decide your all. A Cuneiform tablet out from England for New York. It was equipped, but in putting up a stove in the pilot box a nail was driven too near the compass. You know how that nail would affect the compass. The ship's course, decided by that distracted compass, put the ship 200 miles off her right course, and suddenly the man on the look-out cried, "Land ho!" and the ship was halted within a few yards of her demolition on Nantucket shoals. A six-penny nail came near wrecking a Cuneiform. Small ropes hold mighty destinies.

Nothing unimportant in your life or mine. Three naughts placed on the right side of the figure one makes a thousand, and six naughts on the right side of the figure one a million, and our nothingness may be augmented, limited. All the ages of time and eternity affected by the basket let down from a Damascus balcony.

Pure Romance. Mrs. Henpeck—I saw a book today I thought. Why, a ship was crossing the Atlantic in six days. Can't sail away from that. A sailor or finds them on the lookout as he takes his place and finds them on the mast as he climbs the ratlines to disentangle the rope in the tempest and finds them swinging on the hammock when he turns in. Why not be frank and acknowledge it? The most of us would long ago have been dashed to pieces had not the ratlines and ladders been steadily and lovingly and mightily held the rope.

But there must come a time when we shall find out who these Damascenes were who lowered Paul in the basket, and greet them and all those who have rendered to God and the world unrecognized and unrecorded services. That is going to be one of the glad excitements of heaven, the hunting up of those of those who did great good on earth and got no credit for it. Here the church has been going on 19 centuries, and yet the world has not recognized the service of the people in that Damascus balcony. Charles G. Finney said to a dying Christian, "Give my love to St. Paul when you meet him." When you and I meet him, as we will, I shall ask him to introduce me to those who got him out of the Damascus peril.

We go into long sermons to prove that we will be able to recognize people in heaven, when there is one reason we fail to present, and that is better than all—God will introduce us. We shall have them all pointed out. You would not be guilty of the impetuosity of having friends in your parlor not introduced, and celestial politeness will demand that we be made acquainted with all the heavenly household. What rehearsal of old times and recital of stirring reminiscences! If others fail to give introduction, God will take us through, and before our first 24 hours in heaven—if it were calculated by earthly timepieces we have passed we shall meet and talk with more heavenly celebrities than in our entire mortal state we met with earthly celebrities. MURDER PLOT

Anarchist's Planned to Kill Austria's

Ruler—One Arrest Made.

Budapest, Aug. 30.—A plot to assassinate Emperor Francis Joseph is believed to have been averted by the arrest at Drebezin, in Hungary, of an Anarchist. The prisoner gave the name of Johann Nagy, and refused further information about himself. He is an Austrian.

Letters were found in his possession revealing the plot to assassinate the Emperor, and it is said, implicating

others in the conspiracy.

The secret police who made the arrest are guarding these letters most jealously and details of the plot are not made public.

It is intimated many arrests will follow. The news has caused a sensation throughout Austria and Hungary.

Francis Joseph has several times been threatened with death at the hands of Anarchists, both before and since the assassination of his wife, Empress

Elizabeth in 1898. The Emperor's life has been full of tragedy. He lost by sudden death Emperor Maximilian, his brother; his son, Crown Prince Rudolf, and his wife, the Duchess of Alencon, were killed in the Chateau

Bazant fire in Paris.

THE CENSUS

Report That Royal Commission May be Appointed to Investigate.

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—Influential men on both sides of politics have been turning their attention to the question of the small increase in Canada's population, as shown by the census lately taken, and that of 1891.

Apart from the question of whether either or both of the censuses were incorrectly taken, and the appointment of a Parliamentary committee

next session to investigate this, there seems to be a general idea that an investigation of a more thorough and searching nature should be made.

In this connection report has it that a Royal Commission will be formed when Parliament opens, for the purpose of looking into the census which are preventing what would seem to be a natural increase of the population of the Dominion.

HONORED

W. M. Bensen Elected to the High Court of Foresters

Hamilton, Aug. 31.—The discussion

at the Foresters' High Court to-day was over the report of the committee on Organization. It was suggested that the district chief rangers should be paid to do organization work, and another suggestion was that organizers should be done away with altogether. The final result, however, was that the matter was left to the discretion of the executive, it being empowered to take whatever action might be deemed wise and expedient.

In convention the work of the delegates in committee of the whole was briefly considered, and some of the proposed amendments to the laws knocked out. One of those killed was the proposal to make it necessary for the High Court medical examiner to reside at the place of the head office of the court.

The principal officers elected were:

S. H. Kent, Hamilton, High Chief

Ranger.

H. J. Boyd, Winnipeg, High Sub-

chief Ranger.

Dr. L. Secord, Brantford, Medical

Examiner.

H. E. Griffith, Toronto, treasurer.

W. E. Scott, Mount Forest, Senior

Woodward.

A. Dynes, Hamilton, Junior Woodward.

W. H. Bensen, of Chatham, Senior

Beekeeper.

W. Mills, Ingersoll, Junior Beadle.

L. Heyd, Brantford, solicitor.

W. Williams, Permanent Secretary.

After putting in a busy day, the delegates got through at 6 p. m.

and adjourned. It was decided to meet in Peterboro in 1903.

RALPH CONNOR AT HOME

Planet Correspondent Meets the Author of The Sky Pilot.

He Also Fell in With Many Chathamites in Winnipeg—Impressions of the West.

Portage La Prairie, August 15, 1901.

Winnipeg I have visited and Winnipeg I have left behind. I liked the Prairie City greatly but now away from it, one feature of this great oasis of civilization on the plains has left its impression on me. It is funny that which seems the ludicrous side of what otherwise is a very stately and matter of fact metropolis, should leave the strongest impression on the visitor, yet in this case it is so.

The signs of Winnipeg are truly humorous. Instead of having a sign "keep off the grass," as we tenderfooted easterners do, the Winnipeg notices are an appeal to the citizenry, and the placards read "Citizens, protect your boulevards." If they do condescend to use our eastern expression, it is thus modified, "Please keep off the grass."

I asked a native why this was thus. His reply was characteristic of the Winnipeggers. "You see," said he, "the people of the West are so contented with their lot, they are so used to putting up signs ordering the people to keep off the grass, the green verdure would soon be trampled out of existence, but the western citizen cannot resist an appeal. He is as susceptible to an entreaty as a potato bug is to the plant named after it or as a western mosquito is to a tenderfoot."

There is another sign that is gruesome in the extreme and seems to be a relic of barbarity. This latter is the business sign adopted by the undertakers on the main street of Winnipeg and consists of a little white baby's coffin and funeral wreaths displayed in the windows of the shops who bury people as a means of livelihood. These windows are offensive in the extreme to the eyes of the easterners and more like a bold display of vulgarity than a business advertisement. It is really horrible, and popular disapproval would put down any such display in any eastern city.

Winnipeg is really a charming city and its wide clean streets, stately public buildings and many pretty residences make it a very pleasant place indeed. Its history is closely united with the development and settlement of the West. It was just three miles north of Seven Oaks that Governor Semple and 20 men were massacred. The spot is marked by a plain stone column. This murder put an end to the war between the two great fur trading companies, i.e., the Hudson Bay Co. and the Northwest Co. The rivalry between the two companies resulted in the taking of Fort Gibraltar by the Hudson Bay Co. The Northwest Co. retaliated, and the feud continued till after the massacre of Gov. Semple and his men. Then the Hudson Bay Co. built Fort Garry, the gate of which is still standing on Main street, Winnipeg.

Old Fort Garry is an interesting historic spot. A big stone wall surrounded the Fort and the houses within. There were two entrances, one from the front, the other from the river. This is the stronghold in the early eighties, when a man with more ideas than common sense, foresaw great wealth in a monster hotel and he purchased the stone in the walls of the Fort from the Hudson Bay Co. On the corner opposite he began the erection of his large hotel and he used all the stone in the construction of the foundation. This old Fort Garry was destroyed, and a whole block was excavated, a foundation built, and has stood for 20 years, resembling a huge honey-comb. The work cost some $100,000 and never returned a cent. Had the man put the money into the purchase of Fort Garry, and left the old stronghold intact, he would have made much money. As it is even his name is forgotten and the foundation of the hotel that never was built is pointed out as the folly of one man, during the boom days of the old days, with its guard room overhead, is left standing, and the city of Winnipeg has purchased the property and will make a park of it.

There are many ex-Chathamites in Winnipeg and all are doing splendidly. Those I met were Will Birch, traveller for the Corticelli Silk Co.; Geo. James, manager of the stationery department in the Imperial Drygoods Co.; Will Ozard, assistant foreman at the Free Press office; Lindsay Ireland, with the Massey-Harris Co.; Roy Cameron, in the office of the Dominion Express Co. at the station, and Sid Thompson, who had just returned from doing the Boers.

There is one thing that attracts the attention of every visitor to Winnipeg, and that is the large number of hotels. The westerners are surely a very dry crowd. I asked a citizen how many hotels there were in the Prairie City. He said that he had counted 75 before he got tired and quit. There is one respect in which the hotels of Winnipeg differ from the hits of the late Chatham league baseball team. They are bunched. They are within a stone's throw from the station. Sid Thompson put it very well when he said, "You can stand on the C. P. R. station platform and throw stones, break enough hotel windows to keep you paying for them all the rest of your natural life."

I was in Winnipeg two days and on the afternoon of the second day Sidney Thompson looked me up and took me over to see Reel's grave in the churchyard of the Catholic church in St. Boniface. St. Boniface is the French village that lies just across the Red River from Winnipeg, yet is separate from the Prairie City in everything, even language. It is true that a bridge does unite the two places, but even this has a two cent barrier in the shape of toll that each foot-passenger must pay.

The town is very quiet and almost rural in its appearance, and cows roam at large in the streets. Something about the quietness and peace in the place recalled Longfellow's Evangeline and the description contained therein of the French settlement on the Basin of Minas. Even Father Gabriel was seen wandering his way down the village street as if to complete the delusion. In the churchyard of St. Boniface lies the body of Louis Reel, that man who possessed of a restless spirit, was responsible for two rebellions. A plain brown stone column about four feet high marks his resting place. It bears the simple inscription "Reel, 16th November, 1885."

Whittier in his "Canadian Voyager" has made the church of St. Boniface famous:

"Is it the clang of the wild geese, is it the Indian's yell,
That leads to the voice of the north wind
The tones of a far off bell?

"The voyager smiles as he listens
To the sound that grows apace,
Well he knows the Vesper ringing
Of the bells of St. Boniface."

On my return I intend to stay in Winnipeg over Sunday and then I shall hear those chimes.

In company with George James, I called on the Rev. Chas. Gordon, who under the pen name of Ralph Connor has written a story that is admired by all who have read it. I was interested in Rev. Mr. Gordon because once upon a time he was a master in the Chatham High School and, away from home, one is always interested in those who have lived in the home town. First we went to St. Stephen's church, where Mr. Gordon is pastor. St. Stephen's was only a little wooden mission church away out Portage avenue.

There is no fence around it. A notice on the front tells you that the church is St. Stephen's, that its pastor is Chas. Gordon, and also the hour of service.

We found the residence of the pastor at the corner of Broadway and Balmoral streets, a couple of blocks from the church. The house was a pretty structure of white brick with well kept lawn and some flowers. The natural bashfulness of Geo. James prevented him accompanying me within, but I wasn't troubled in that way.

Mr. Gordon was in and his kindly welcome made me feel at home. He had to hurry away to attend some meeting where he had to speak, yet he took time to ask after many Chatham people, friends of his in the old days. I can't remember all, but among those he inquired after were members of the following well known families: Malcolmson, McNaughton, Tilt and Northwood. He also asked if Fred Stone was as good as natured as he used to be. Then Mr. Gordon had to leave, but he first exacted a promise from me to call on my return to Winnipeg, and, as he shook hands at parting, he said, "remember me to all my old Chatham friends. You know I cut a pretty wide swath myself, when I was there."

After I had left, I realized the great personality of the man. Those who had heard him preach had told me that Mr. Gordon was a powerful orator, but he had a wonderful power in holding his congregation during his sermon. To meet the man who could well believe this, you could well believe this. He is a man of ordinary height, but rather slight in build. His hair and beard are inclined to be dark. He looks a man in the prime of life, yet delicate, and who might have been written "Sky Pilot," or who might be the pastor of a mission church on the outskirts of a great city. His personality doesn't intrude into the conversation and you leave his presence feeling that you have met a great man, yet nothing more than a fellow being. No greater tribute can I pay anyone.

There may be other great men in Winnipeg, but I don't meet them. Winnipeg claims to be a city of rapidly, yet in some ways it is slower than the East. In the matter of alarm boxes, for instance, I noticed that on each box was the number of the house where the key was kept. In case of fire, unless one knew the exact location of the key, much valuable time would be lost in seeking it. Ottawa, on the other hand, has its alarm boxes equipped with a crank, and all that is necessary for the person turning in the alarm to do, is just to turn the crank.

One day a civic workman hung his coat on the crank, the weight of the coat sent in a fire alarm and the department turned out. In Chatham, we do things differently, and I think Chief Priestard will agree with me that our system is the best of any.

One thing noticeable about the Winnipeggers is that, as a class, they are honest, at least as far as bicycles are concerned. The boys there leave their wheels standing on Main street all night and no one touches them. I would like to see the owners try the same thing in Detroit.

Sid Thompson had visited Lower Fort Garry, which lies some 18 miles or more below Winnipeg, on the Red River, and he furnished the following information.

Lower Fort Garry stands as it did thirty years and more ago, with the stone walls, bastions, etc. The Hudson Bay Co. still use it as a post. Lower Fort Garry has served other purposes besides that of a stronghold. It was used as a prison during the building of the St. Mary's River railway. There are many graves in and around the old fort and one stone marks the place where lies a private in the Warwickshire regiment who was frozen to death while doing guard duty.

If Winnipeg has many hotels, it also has many churches. Holy Trinity is the finest church in the city, probably the finest church in the west, brought all the way from Calgary, and the interior is finished in oak. A tab-

FILLED WITH GAS

Every Meal was a Fresh Cause for Pain and Distress.

One of the most unpleasant results of dyspepsia, is the formation of gas in the stomach. This arises from the sordid, undigested mass of fermenting food which the weakened stomach has been unable to assimilate.

Any person troubled with gas in the stomach should remember that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets swallowed after each meal will prevent the fermentation of food, and the consequent formation of gas. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets actually digest the food sent to the stomach, and prevent the stomach from overcharging and worming itself, which cannot of itself manage its own work.

Pastry, for instance, causes pain and distress to a great many dyspeptics. It does not, however, cause the stomach to ferment, but it does cause the stomach to ferment, and the consequent formation of gas. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, because the moment one starts to use them one is practically speaking no longer to a dyspeptic.

One is no longer a dyspeptic when one's food digests all right. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets digest the food perfectly. Heartburn, gas, waterbrash, pain in the stomach cease and it is then only a matter of time before Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure the stomach of its disease or weakness permanently.

"For eight years," writes Mr. W. J. Binger, 20 York street, Hamilton, Ont., "I have been a sufferer with dyspepsia. I could not eat a hearty meal for fear of being taken with those dreadful pains. I should say any kind of food I would suffer after with heartburn and my stomach would fill with gas. My digestive organs failed to do their work in spite of all the remedies I used. My friends advised me to take a treatment with the doctor, but I did not think any result would come from it, refused to have such an operation as was suggested. An acquaintance who had used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, advised me to try them. I have now used two boxes and am able to eat a hearty meal without any fear whatever."

let has been erected in the church to George Swinford, killed at Fish Creek, April 30, 1885, during the Red Rebellion. In front of the city hall on Main street, is a monument erected to the Winnipeg soldiers who fell during this rebellion, and near by is another monument erected to Queen Victoria in year of the jubilee.

Winnipeg boasts of four Colleges, Manitoba College, the Presbyterian College, St. John's College, and Wesleyan College, and in addition the city is well supplied with public schools. The residential streets, and Winnipeg has many beautiful residences, are all landscaped, while the business streets are paved with asphalt. The mud here is just like Chatham, and crossing Main street after a rain-part of this street is block paved—I imagined I was crossing the Jubilee pavement in Chatham once more to The Planet Office.

Winnipeg is certainly an odd city in many ways, bounded on all sides by prairie situated hundreds of miles from any other large city, still you find all the advantages and conveniences here of a great modern city. It just seems as if a huge portion of civilization had just trekked off into the world beyond, and settled far from friends and kin. It is certainly a remarkable city in more ways than one.

There is no city like Winnipeg in the eastern Yankee to the Galician here in Winnipeg. You see Italians, Hebrews, Germans, Doukhobors, Galicians as thick as bees in a honey-comb. There is no city like Winnipeg. It is different from any other great metropolis in situation, in components, in everything.

George James was telling me that one day in the spring time he was taking a walk in the morning when he espied a man with a scoop net dipping something from the river at the mouth of the Assiniboine, where the waters of the Red River enter the city. He investigated and found that the man was fishing with a scoop net and was getting lots of fish. The suffering public can thank themselves that Vital Gendreau, A. C. McKee, E. J. MacIntyre, L. P. Wilson, Thos. Gutridge, or Chas. Hicklin don't live in the west.

The Ontario men, or Easterners, as they are called, are far from the orchards. There are none here, but berries are quite plentiful, especially wild raspberries, and raspberries are cultivated, but the supply of berries by the residents of the city is obtained from the Indians who pick them in Nature's gardens. Wild strawberries, raspberries, saskatoons, and blueberries, are most utilized in the making of preserves for home consumption.

The residents of this city are a people who like to live in tents during the summer months after the fashion of the Indians. Perhaps the prediction for their life is hereditary. However that may be the citizens are bound to camp out, and if they can't do any better pitch their tents in the west.
