ALMANAC.-1893.

We have just received a supply of this very popular annual. It contains the usual good things in the shape of stories, poems, historical and biographical sketches, plenty of pretty, interesting pictures, an unusual number of portraits of Bishops, priests and laymen, and for a frontispiece a fine oil-color plate of The Crucifixion, a better being.

Congresses give aid by directing congresses give aid by directing congresses. to be framed. Among its contributors are Rev. Richard Brennan, LL. D., Rev. John Talbot Smith, Francis J. Finn, S. J., Maurice F. Egan, LL. D., Eleanor C. Donnelly, Eliza Allen Starr, Sara Trainor Smith, Margaret E. Jordan, Anna T. Sadlier, Katharine Jenkins, and others. Price by mail 25 cts., in stamps or scrip. Address, Thomas Coffey, CATHOLIC RECORD Office, Lon-

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.

We give below a synopsis of the beautiful address recently delivered by this distinguished prelate at the inauguration ceremonies of the World's Congress in Chicago:

The solemn commemoration of the discovery of America has been allotted to the United States. It was the right and the duty of the first nation of the continent to charge itself with the gracious task. She, as none other, is the giant daughter of the pro-gress of the age; she, as none other, has the power to command the splendors which should mark the commemoration. She has inaugurated the Exposition of Chicago. Proper, too, was it that among the cities of the United States, Chicage be the chosen one within whose portals the exhibition be enthroned. Chicago, fifty years ago the prairie village, the stupendous city of the present time, is the world's object lesson of progress. The monarch of our inland seas, the central city of the nation, she exhibits to the visitor the fullness of growth with which the United States has been blessed. Almost half-way across the continent commanding the highways of nations, the mart in which meet for mutual exchange the offerings of Europe and Asia, Chicago forebodes the mighty destiny of the United States to sit among all earth's nations the admired queen, the arbiter in the arts of peace and civilization of their the magnet in resistless attraction knitting all peoples into one harmonious and indestructible brother

I am stating the purpose of the World's Auxiliary Congress of the World's Columbian Exposition. The organization known as the Auxiliary Congress is an integral part of the Columbian Exposition, whose directors authorize and support it. It has received from the United States Government recognition and approval. Its special mission is to organize and cause to be held, during the several months allotted to the Exposition, in-ternational conventions of the scholars and workers of the world along all the lines of human progress in the various departments of civilized life, and in this way present, through the living voice of the chief actors clear and comprehensive statements of the questions in all the fields of activity, which vex to-day the souls of men. The idea to-day the souls of men. is truly grand, and most important carrying out of it. All countries are asked to send to Chicago their best and most active minds. The several conventions or congresses will bring into actual contact the leaders in the several departments of thought. thinking world will be under our eyes; the whole trend of modern activity will be under our touch. for learners! What workshops of new ideas, where mind in friction with mind provokes unto higher flights and rises into broader visits of truth !

ress stat-lin P. O., 730-2

Modern

wing

There is danger lest expositions where all is wood and marble, gold and silver, machinery and cereals; where matter alone feasts the eye and speaks to the soul, silently teaches false lessons of progress. All is well with the world, it might seem, if matter is improved. Men seek matter and ad mire matter; matter, then, is the allimportant. The tendency of the times is already more materialistic than its well-wishers desire. Nothing should be done to accelerate it. There is need to repeat aloud the poet's warning :-"Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey, Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

"The plans of the Congress Auxiliary are most comprehensive. They extend along all the lines of the growth of man. There are the departments of agriculture, engineering, commerce and finance, etc., in which his relations to matter received due consideration. Man lives upon the earth, derives hence his subsistence, and in subjecting it to his service, he enlarges by exercise the powers of his soul. Far be it from us not to recognize as vital elements in progress, and as strong evidence of it, the triumphs of mind over things. God gave to us the prescribes in favor of man are not material universe, that we study it and merely those relating to the spiritual this region of His predilection, gress, in its grandest flights, fails unless man retains throughout his higher nature, and is made by it a greater and outside social currents, the influences of which make strongly for good or evil. Hence, we have the department of moral and social reform, including congresses on charity, philanthropy, prevention, reform, etc., and the department of temperance, marshalling into mutual counselling the devoted legions of men and women who are giving battle to a giant evil of the times. We will have congresses on municipal and national administrations, international law, peace arbitration, the several divisions of jurisprudence and practical government. The department of labor will discuss the intricate and pressing questions, arising from the relations of labor to capital, of employee to employer -- maintaining the rights of all, prescribing the duties of all, and guarding over all for their protection the reign of planes: social order. The health of the body of Forward. man is instructed to the department of medicine. Man, in the fulfilment of his destiny, can neglect neither body nor soul. Be there a healthful body to house a healthful soul. There are, too, the department of art, music architecture, The instinct of the beautiful is deeply imbedded in man; it must be

There is the department of woman's progress, providing for a general congress of representative women of all countries. At the same time, as I have already stated, there is in connection with each congress organized in the several departments of the Congress Auxiliary, wherever the mind, heart and finger of woman may be invited to give aid, a woman's committee, for the purpose of obtaining the co-operation of woman in the work of human progress. At no previous world's congress was there the marked recognition of woman which the Columbian Auxiliary accords her. In this recognition we rejoice. It is a noticeable token and promise of progress for woman herself and for the world at large. Woman for her own good has been to dependent upon the stronger sex, and in the battling for the better things in the life of humanity we cannot longer afford to keep off the open field the deep charity and exhaustless energy of woman's soul. Columbus could not reigns, and that man is His servant, that all progress begins and ends with Him who is the Alpha and Omega of all things. Religion is at home amid parliaments of men working for progress in men. There is no progress deserving the name where no provision exists for the growth of man's spiritual nature. Nor can laborers in the field of progress afford to overlook the powerful aid which comes from religion to progress in the moral and social Without God's love inspiring and God's justice rewarding, men' hearts are warped, souls are chilled, enthusiasm is transient sentiment The fatal enemy of the spirit of sacrifice and self-control, from which springs all moral and social progress is the cold positivism which unbelief seeks to substitute for the religion of a living God. Positivism is despair and practical pessimism. England's lamented laureate wrote lines of which all feel the truth :

Why should we bear with an hour of torture, a moment of pain, If every man die forever, if all his griefs are in vain,
And the homeless planet at length will be wheeled through the silence of space, Motherless ever more of an ever-vanishing race?

Exception has been taken to religion congresses on the ground that on so many points there will be no harmony ught and that truth will suffer by the juxtaposition of error. There is no force in the remark. The vital primordial truths regarding the Sup reme God will be confessed by all. The proclamation of these truths will be a great gain. Beyond this those who believe they possess the truth need not fear. Truth should not be timid. Rather should she court publicity in this as on all other occasion, in order that she be-known and loved. There shall be no discussions, no controversies The purpose shall be to show forth in methods of peace what are the professions of faith and the religious works of the world at the present time. From the plans of the department of religion of the Congress Auxiliary naught but good results can follow.

The lines of work which Christ than progress moral and spiritual.

The whole man must grow, and grow in all directions. I am as investigation of the solacing of the captive the healing of the solacing of the captive. BENZIGER'S CATHOLIC HOME use it. Material progress is no less life; they are those, also, relating to in all directions. I am as impatient of the crushed and suffering heart, within the narrowness which limits God's sweet religion is wherever work him in one direction as that which limits is done for man's welfare — wherever him in another. The sole lesson which humanity is benefited, and lifted up-I inculcate is that the earth is the foot-stool of man, and that material pro-hair of the head. There is religion within cathedral walls, where God is spoken to, and loved; there is religion in the wheat field, where clay and air combine to produce food for man; there is religion in the factory, where matter is turned into new forms for man's comfort; there is religion in the sanctuary of philosopher and writer, dreaming of new upliftings for the race; and oh! there is religion, when the weary one is comforted, the outcast saved, and the hand of the hungering is filled with bread. There is religion wherever there is work for man; religion expands her heavenly wings over all the palaces of your great Exposition.

> The history of humanity is a story of progress. A narrow survey of the scene will not always bring out this important truth. There are in the important truth. tide of progress backward currents and tortuous windings. We must consider the general movement, of which the trend ceases not to be toward higher

Forward, then; but still remember how the course of time will swerve,
Crook and turn upon itself in many a backward streaming curve.

Disguised in a rhythm of rise and decline, of ebb and flow, of growth and decay, the progress of humanity, con-tinues, and the hopes of the workers in the cause of humanity obtain their

Through the ages one increasing purpose runs And the thoughts of men are widening with the progress of the suns.

The future! What will it be? Material progress, no doubt, will continue onward with ever-increasing velocity. The wildest dreams scarcely, I believe, foreshadow the realities; nothing need be unexpected. The travellers to the Columbian Exposition a hundred years hence will, perhaps, birdlike, sail through the air, journeying in a sail through the air, journeying in a half-dozen hours from the Atlantic coast to the city of the North-west on the banks of the Mirsissippi. More unlikely would the prophecy of travel by rail, or steam, or electricity, have seemed to our forefathers one century ago. I trust in Providence and in humanity, and I have confiand in humanity, and I have confidence that the moral and social forces, which now so profoundly agitate the world, will work into an increase of goodness and happiness among men. Much will depend upon the intelligence and zeal of those whom position and have succeeded without the practical patronage of Isabella. Be Isabella tory did such deep responsibilities lie tory did such deep responsibilities lie upon the leaders of their fellows as there upon the leaders of their fellows as there by America's generous recognition of woman's sphere.

Finally, there is the department of religion, crowning the work of other similar opportunities offered to accompany them with the second of the similar opportunities of the similar opportunities of the similar opportunities. departments and perfuming them with the fragrance of heaven. Sublime the thought to have the proclamation go out from the great Exposition that God without the nearness of evening shades, without the nearness of evening shades, no life without the menace of death There will be inequalities among men, and passions will disturb the peace of souls. But I do believe there will be more mercy in the world, more justice, more righteousness. There will be more respect for manhood, more liberty for the individual. The brotherhood of men will be more widely recognized, and its lessons more faithfully prac Servitude and oppresion will be banished even from the darkest thickets of African forests. The boon of civilization will reach all races of the human family; civil and political liberty will speed across all seas and oceans. Nations will see in one another assemblies of brothers, and peaceful arbitration will, in settlemen of disagreements, take the place of the murderous sword. Brute force wil more and more yield before reason mind will more and more assert itse over matter, and over passion. All this will not come to pass without delays and backward movements, without reactions and repressions, but the victory will be for truth and justice.

In the course of history God selected now one nation, now another, to be the guide and exemplar of humanity's progress. At the opening of the Christian era, mighty Rome led the vanguard, Iberia rose up the mistress of the times, when America was to be born into the family of civilized The great era, the like of which has not been seen, is now dawning upon the horizon. Which will be Providence's chosen nation to guide now the destinies of mankind?

The noble nation is before my soul's Giant in stature, comely in every feature, buoyant in the freshness of morning youth, matronly in prudent stepping, the etherial breezes of liberty waving with loving touch her tresses she is, no one seeing her doubts-the queen, the conqueror, the mistress, the eacher of coming ages. To her keeping the Creator has entrusted a great continent, whose shores two oceans lave, rich in all nature's gifts, imbosoming precious and useful minerals, fertile in soil, salubrious in air, beauteous in vesture. For long centuries had He held in reserve men when men were worthy to possess it. Her children have come from all countries, bearing with them the ripest appeared the following able letter from fruit of thought, labor and experience. Rev. Dr. Burns, a distinguished embodies the hopes, the ambitions, the London Times: dreaming of humanity's priests and seers. To its daring in the face of that Mr. Goldwin Smith has made the progress, to its offerings at the shrine Blake reception the occasion of furnishing therety there seems to be no limit; and yet prosperity, order, peace spread letter against Home Rule. over its vast area their sheltering name it? Your hearts quiver, loving beautiful style as well as his scholarly America four hundred years ago. hold the crowning gift to humanity from Columbus, whose caravels plowed ocean's uncertain billows in search of a great land, and from the all-ruling Providence, whose wisdom and mercy inspired and guided the immortal Genoese mariner-the United States of expected Public Announcement. We clip the following from the Liverby the realization of their greatest hopes. That great and glorious Catholic Church which ramified the civilized all that is said and implied in his stateone-sixth of the entire population of carried on by 126,000 priests. through the land and to profess that to the earliest years of the Christian Since the day when the great Master Himself taught His humble and yet elegant lesson in Galilee, extending His heaven-born teaching until rouchsafed to the great and glorious Speaking for himself, he would only millions of mankind who had found within the pale of the Catholic Church much that was sheltering, more that vas hope giving, and still more that lifted the human soul whilst here to the position of feeling that they had knit their faith to and placed their hope in something which, although little understood by mortals, was nevertheless nearly akin to-nay, was part and parcel of-a life which lay beyond, and in which only that which was near to God, and indeed part o Him, could ever dwell. He personally was and had long been what perhaps they would consider too cosmopolitan in his religion, believing that any form of religion which had God and Master's teaching in it could not fail to do other than bless humanity He pinned his faith to no special creed. but he had an intense longing to at tach himself to that Universal Church which in the days that were to come must hold the world within its heaven-

Pray for the Departed.

November is the month of special de no greater charity than to pray for no greater charity than to pray for them who cannot pray for themselves. In the Communion of Saints our prayers avail them. We are still of the Church militant, and our works are meritorious and may be applied to them.

They can only suffer, purging away be included by the Church militant, and our works are meritorious and may be applied to them. They can only suffer, purging away be included by the church with the occasion for the effervescence of bigotry and sectarian bitterness. But They can only suffer, purging away awaiting the propitious moment in humanity's evolutions to bestow it on SMITH.

In the Toronto Globe of October 25, fruit of thought, labor and experience.

Adding thereto high inspirations and generous impulses, they have built up a new world of humanity. This world

For years I have read every line I ould see from the pen of Goldwin The nation of the future! need I Smith, and have admired his clear and criticisms—always fearless, and gen-erally impartial. But "aliquando Sweet land of liberty, of thee I sing.

We commemorate the discovery of commemorate the discovery of commemorate four hundred years ago. Beoold the growning gift to humanity the afflatus that produced that letter to the Times. I have read that letter more than once. No one can doubt its meaning. He tells the Times, and through it all England and the world, that a Catholic majority cannot be trusted with self-government-its Par liament would be by the nomination and under the domination of the priest READY TO JOIN THE CHURCH. and under the domination of the priest-hood; its legislation would be hostile to England and oppressive of the Protestant minority. In one part of the British Empire--the Province of Quebec-a Catholic majority has self-gov-We clip the following from the Laverpool Catholic Times: Alderman E. D. Walker, the mayor of the borough of Darlington, delivered a remarkable address at the opening of St. Augustine's bazaar a short time ago. He said he hoped the object for which they had worked so well, so carnestly and so determinedly would be abundantly blessed by the realization of their greatest by the realization of the letter. The bulk of it is prophecy. Let us examine the use he with the realization of the letter in subjection. It is also well to re-Let us examine the use he world, had within its pale to-day 228, all that is said and implied in his state ments be true, it would not justify Mort Smith's attitude. The British North the globe, and nearly one half of its America Act, under which the Prov-Christian population. It was generalled—if he might use the term—by eralled—if he might use the term—by 1100 Bishops and Archbishops, and its grand and glorious work was being carried on by 126,000 priests.

was allowed to retain "all laws in force at the union." If Quebec has laws oppressive to the Protestants, Only those who knew the great and mighty difficulties of a Church representing one-half of the Christian populary one-half one-h Church was the greatest factor in stemming, in warding off and in repelling that modern tide of socialism which had the effrontery to stalk power to legislate on Imperial matters, and bidding the British Parliament to they were going to measure God and and bidding the British Parliament to to understand that which God had not impose whatever restrictions they given power to human minds to grapple with. The Roman Catholic of the empire and the rights of the Church was in the proud and enviable position of being able to date back local not ask for the Quebec laws for Ireland. On the contrary, we say, in the language of the address presented to Mr. Blake, "If American and Canadian safeguards are not sufficient for ing IIIs heaven-born teaching duting in its hope-inspiring and beneficent and Catholic, we suggest, nay, more, influence it had been as far-reaching we demand, that others be introduced. That is the attitude of the tion beyond her numerical rights?

In their contempt for the Irish race,

so common in some quarters, and so offensively proclaimed, some will tell wish to say that for many years his us in spite of the laws the Irish would mind—he hoped not altogether an irreligions one—had been very much exercised as to whether he ought not to throw in his lot with the hundreds of millions of marking the response of t the protecting arm of the Dominion shields the Protestant minority from "the power of the priests." the protecting arm of Canada, that has neither army nor navy, is sufficient Protestants in Onebec surely the danger of the Protestant minority in Ireland must be micros copic or imaginary. An army of over 30,000 is stationed in Ireland now. and the British fleet could enter he harbors at an hour's notice. The Par liament of Ireland is prohibited by the Home Rule Bill from legislating regard ing army, navy or militia, and the new bill leaves the Irish constabulary under the control of England for som years. For the right to manage her own affairs Ireland is willing to make oncessions that are humiliating, to submit to restrictions that neither the Provinces of Canada nor the States of the American Union would entertain for Under Home Rule she would be on her good behavior. slightest move towards the dismemberment of the empire or the ignoring of the rights of the Protestant minority would alienate her best friends, would votion for the suffering souls. There is fulfil the predictions of her worst enemies, and would dash from her lips

the sins of their past lives. We may to the true statesman it must appear merit for them through the infinite among the most important questions of merit for them through the merit for Jesus Christ. Tennyson the day. England needs the tran-makes the dying King Arthur say in the true Catholic spirit: the true Catholic spirit: the true Catholic spirit: Pray for my soul. More things are wrought by prayer Than this world dreams of. Therefore let thy voice Rise like a fountain for me night and day.
For what are men better than sheep and goats.
That nourish a blind life within the brainer If knowing God they lift not hands of prayer
Both for themselves and those they call their no surer way to alienate them than to be continually questioning their loyalty and making disparaging and insulting references to their creed. For some reason or other it seems to be taken for granted that Catholics are the legitimate butt of the ridicule of all comers, the quarry of every after column of the most stinging and irritating editorials are poured forth London Times:

Sir—I see from last Saturday's Globe daily in a city containing thousands of loyal and law-abiding Catholics.

The painful plainness of speech, the harshness of tone, and the utter absence of that delicacy that should always soften a reference to another's I have read every article I could find against Home Rule, and, so far as the press of Canada is concerned, all might be condensed into one sentence. "Ireland is Catholic." Her creed alone is sufficient to debar her from self-government. As a Protestant, I enter an emphatic protest against such contemptuous treatment of my Catho-lic countrymen. I know nothing in the history of Ireland to justify it.

But if the rights of Ireland are de serving only of contempt and ridicule, one would think that the interests of England would be considered in the matter. For weal or for woe "Great Britain and Ireland are inseparably united united under one sovereign." Could a union of hearts be secured Ireland would be tower of strength to England, and should trouble arise would furnish an army 200,000 strong her in subjection. It is also well to remember that the greater Ireland is on Now, granting for the moment that this side of the Atlantic, and intensely interested in the fate of their native land. Could England socure the cordial and harmonious co-operation of Ireland and her children, it would enhance her strength immeasurably. I consider their alienation the most serious weakness in the British Empire. It is time that recriminations should cease and mutual forbearance prevail. We are disgracing both country and creed by our insane bigotry. If those invectives, their loyalty better entitled to the name.

I cannot but think that Ulster is losing the greatest opportunity in her history for the exercise of patrotism. If she would throw herself into the present movement for self-government it would pass the British Parliament with a shout. Such a movement on her part would do more to heal the breach between Irishmen than anything that ever transpired. Ireland, as Home Rulers, Protestant formation of the Parliament in and Catholic, we suggest, nay, more, College Green who can doubt that Ulster would have a representado not remember a patriotic movement in Irish history in which the Catholics did not yield to their Protestant compatriots the lion's share of the honors. Mr. Blake's predictions would be more than realized. There never was a grander opportunity offered to a people than that presented to Ulster to-day, and I covet for my native Province the honor of embracing it, and thus end-ing the fratricidal strife that has for enturies weakened and disgraced that unhappy country. With your permission I shall in my next refer to another feature of this The College, Hamilton, Oct. 21.

English Politics.

Under the insistent monition of his physician, Gladstone has decided to limit his presence in the House of Commons during the coming session. He will attend the sittings only on the days when important measures are under consideration. His deputy in the Government leadership of the House will be Sir William Vernon Harcourt.

The Ministerial declaration on the ase of the Irish political prisoners will involve the question of taking part in the dynamite outrage of a few years ago. The principal prisoners serving sentences on these charges are in English prisons. The Conservative papers sentenced. Even Mr. Matthew, when he was Home Secretary, admitted that clemency might early be extended to these men, but they say the Govern-ment will not dare to force the consequences that would follow the re-lease of Dr. Gallagher and others concerned in causing explosions in London. Arrangements have been con cluded whereby the Paris fund will now be released and applied to the re-ping the brim to his pale little moustache. He took a sip before answering, and, still retaining his graceful position, rolled up a pair of very light-blue eyes as he said, in a lisping voice that was insufferably supercili ous: "Ma never does, unless it's some-

The clear, pale profile opposite him

sharp glance, before which his fell.

The little drawling speech had been and it seemed that there was a slight significant. Gerald had not taken any great pains to conciliate his prospec-tive brother-in-law, and Louis liked to remind him occasionally that the ad-

Lawrence rose carelessly from the table, an filliped a crumb of bread off his vest. "I say, Louis," he remarked, "do you know you have rather your food to your mouth? Remindsone of - well, now, it's a little like the quadrupeds, isn't it? Excuse me, that not sure but quadrupeds have, on the whole, rather better manners than bipeds. Grace isn't everything. Money gild such wooden things with it. I'm going to talk about it with your mother. Good-by! Don't take too

He sauntered out of the room and place!" he muttered, going through the entries. "Worsted rainbows everywhere. I wonder Annette did not know better." A contrasting piture floated up before his mind of cool, darkened chamber, all pure white colden flames burning in a shady nook

A contrasting pic-

efore a marble saint, and one slender sun-ray stretched athwart, as though the place had been let down from heaven, and the golden rope still held it moored to that peaceful shore. The

As he passed the drawing-room door.

he saw Annette seated near it, evistarted up and ran to the door the

"Don't mind if mamma is rather rough way of speaking, but she means

He looked down, and only just suf-

"I would help it if I could, Law

do the best I can, but there are times with her promised husband. He tried rence," she went on tremulously.

not to mind what she may say contrast gave him a stifled feeling.

dently on the watch for him.

anxious entreaty.

hurriedly.

shut the door behind him.

and celestial blue, with much wine."

may be taken as a compliment. I'm vantages were not all on one side.

(PLUG.) No other brand of Tobacco has ever enjoyed such an immense sale and popularity in the same period as this Oldest Cut Tobacco manufacturers in Canada.

brand of Cut Plug and Plug Tobacco.

MONTREAL.

Cut Plug, 10c. 1 lb Plug, 10c. 1 lb Plug, 20c.

-THE-

RECOGNISED STANDARD BRANDS

"Mungo" "Kicker" "Cable."

Universally acknowledged to be superior in every respect to any other brands in the market. Always reliable, as has been fully demonstrated by the millions that are sold annually and the increasing demand for them, notwith standing an increased com petition of over One Hundred and Twenty · five Factories. This fact speaks volumes. We are not cheap Cigar manufacturers.

5. DAVIS AND SONS,

Montreal,

Largest and Highest Grade Cigar Manufac turers in Canada.

DR. NEY'S

ANTIBILIOUS PILLS.

A sovereign remedy for Bilious Aflections: Torpidity of the liver, Excess of bile and other indispositions arising from it: Constipation, Loss of appetite Headache, Etc.
Dr. D. Marsolais, a renowned physi cian of many years' practice, writes as I have been using DR. NEY'S ANTIBILIOUS PILLS for several years past and I am quite satis-

Fig. 10 reversal years past and I am quite sat field with their use.

I cannot do otherwise than praise the composition of trees pills which you have made known to m Containing no mercury, they can be taken withe danger in many causes where mercurial pills wou be quite dangerous.

danger in many causes where mercers are danger in many causes where he was of these pills in my practice, but I have used them many times for myself with the most gravifying vesures. It is therefore a pleasure for me to recommend DR. NEW'S ANTIBLIOUS PILLS to those who require a MILD, EFFECTIVE AND HARMLESS purgative. Lavaltrie May 1st 1887. Dr. D. MARSOLAIS.

For sale everywhere at 25 cts. per box THE PARE BY MAIL ON RECEIPT OF PRICE.

SOLE PROPRIETOR L. ROBITAILLE, Chemist

Joliette, P. Q.

ENNET FURNISHING COMPANY LONDON, ON FARIO.

Manufacturers of CHURCH, SCHOOL

AND HALL

FURNITURE.

BENNET FURNISHING CO'Y,

BY EMMA P. SEABURY A good-bye kiss is a little thing.
With your hand on the door to go;
But it takes the venom out of the sting of a thoughtless word or a cruel fling
That you made an hour ago.

A kiss of greeting is sweet and rare
After the toil of the day,
But it smooths the furrows out of the care,
And lines on the forehead, you once called fair,
In the years that have flown away.

"Tis a little thing to say," You are kind,"
"I love you, my dear," each night.
But it sends a thrill through the heart, I find,
For love is tender, as love is blind,
As we climb life's rugged height.

We starve each other for love's caress,
We take, but we do not give;
It seems so easy some souls to bless,
But we dole love gradgingly, less and less,
Till 'tis bitter, and hard to live.

GRAPES AND THORNS.

By M. A. T., AUTHOR OF "THE HOUSE OF YORK," "A WINGED WORD," ETC. CHAPTER III. -- CONTINUED. She stood a moment fixed in thought, her face brightening." I declare," she muttered, "I've a good mind to—" but did not finish the sentence. A wavering smile played over her lips; and as she sat on the edge of the sofa, with a stout arm propping her on either side, and her heavily jewelled buried in the cushions, Mrs. Ferrier sank into a reverie which had is the chief thing, after all. every appearance of being rose When she was moderately pleased, this woman was not ill-looking, though her insignificant features were somewhat swamped in flesh. Her eyes were pleasant, her complexion fresh, he eeth sound, and the abundant darkbrown hair was unmistakably her She started, and blushed with appreension, as the door was briskly opened, and her daughter's head thrust in What if Annette should know what she had been thinking of?

"Ma," said that young woman "you had better wear a black grena-dine, and the amethyst brooch and ear-

Having given this brief order, the girl banged the door in her energetie way; but, before it was well shut, opened it again.

"And pray, don't thank the servants at table.

Again the Mentor disappeared, and second time came back for a last ord. "O ma! I've given orders about the lemons and claret, and you'd better begin to day, and see how you can get along with such diet. I wouldn't eat much, if I were you. You've no idea how little food you can live upon till you try. I shouldn't be at all surprised if you were to thin away beautifully.

At last she departed in earnest. Mrs. Ferrier lifted both hands, and raised her eyes to the ceiling. ever heard," she cried, "of anybody with an empty stomach sitting down to a full table, and not eating what they wanted?"

Poor Annette! She had not yet learned not to make that tender plea This poor creature had probably never heard of Sancho Panza, and perhaps it would not much have comto hide that it irritated him forted her could she have read his slumber. These things did not, how ever, sweeten her temper, nor soften er resolutions. It may be that they t is certain that Mr. Gerald did not rendered her a little more inexorable find her remarkably amiable during the repast, and was not sorry when she left the dining-room, where he and Louis Ferrier stopped to smoke a cigar.

She did not leave him in peace though, but planted a thorn at parting.

about something in particular, as soon as you have got through here," she said, with an air that was a little more commanding than necessary.

He smiled and bowed, but a slight he looked after her. What track was indictment is, Louis?" he asked presently, having lighted a cigar looked as though the jury had found a

Louis Ferrier, whom we need no

what the row was,

couldn't tell: never troubled himsel about ma's affairs.

Lawrence smoked away vigorously

reased. Presently he threw the cigar end impatiently through an open window near, and brought his feet to the floor with an emphasis that made his companion stare.

"If there is anything I hate," he cried out, "it is being called away into a corner to hear something partic ular. I always know it means some-set me wild, just step up to me mysteriously, and say that you wish to speak to me about something particular.

Men never do, unless they are police-really

"I want to see you in the library

"Upon my word, I begin to think that something terrible is coming," he said, forcing a laugh. "The sooner We pass over the toilet scene, where Nance, Miss Annette's maid, nearly I go and get it over, the better. Don' drove the simple lady distracted with her fastidious ideas regarding colors be alarmed. I promise not to resent anything except personal violence and shapes; and the dinner, where When it comes to blows. I must protect Mrs. Ferrier sat in bitterness of soul myself. But you can't expect a man to promise not to mind when he doesn' on her plate, and a tumbler of very know what is going to happen. much acidulated claret and water, in A door at the end of the hall wa place of the foaming ale that had been ont to lull her to her afternoon for my sake!'

'Anon, anon, sir!" the young man cried. "Now for it, Annette One, two, three! Let us be brave and stand by each other. I am gone! Let us stand by each other! Oh! yes; for ever and ever! The light came back to the girl's face at that She no longer feared anything if she and Lawrence were to stand together.
Mr. Gerald walked slowly down the hall. If his languid step and careless air meant fearlessness, who can tell He entered the library, where Mrs. Ferrier sat like a highly colored statue carved in a green chair, her hands in her lap (her paws in her lap the young man thought savagely)

She looked stolid and determined rown settled on his handsome face as The calm superiority which he could she on now? "Do you know what the assume with Annette would have no effect here. Not only was Mrs. Ferrier not in love with him, which made a urned his side to the table, on which vast difference, but she was incapable he leaned, and placed his feet in the chair Annette had occupied. "Milady of appreciating his real advantages over her, though, perhaps, a mistaken perception of them inspired her at times with a sort of dislike. There is nothing which a low and rude mind occupy our time in describing, didn't more surely resents and distrusts than gentle manners. The self-possessed and supercilious about ma's affairs.

Lawrence smoked away vigorously, two or three lines coming between his smoothly-curved eyebrows; and, as the soft a science? What shrinking would she have from the insulting gigar diminished, his irritation inword, the coarse taunt? What fine sense had she to stop her at the point where enough had been said, and prevent the gratuitous pouring out of all that anger that showed in her sullen face? Lawrence Gerald took a strong hold on his self-control, and settled instantly upon the only course of action possible to him. He could not defy the woman, for he was in some way in her thing disagreeable. If you want to He could marry Annette in power. spite of her, but that would be to make Annette worse than worthless to him. Not one dollar could he ever hope to Women are always doing such things. receive if he made an enemy of Ferrier; and money he must have. He felt now with a new keenness, Young Mr. Ferrier sat opposite the when he perceived himself to be in speaker, lolling on the table with his danger of loss, how terrible it would elbows widespread, and a glass of wine be to find those expectations of prosbetween them, from which he could perity which he had been entertaining drink without raising it, merely tip- snatched away from him.

not lady enough to point him to a seat, asked. or to smooth in any way the approaches to a disagreeable interview. There was no softness nor delicacy in her nature, and now her heart was tull of jealous suspicion and a sense of outraged justice, as she understood jus-

thing about money. You may be pretty sure it's something about The young man seated himself in a chair directly in front of her-he would suddenly turned a deep pink, and Lawrence looked round at him with a not act as though afraid to meet her plans regarding their marriage. on his knees, looked down at the eye glasses he held, and waited for her to delivered with more of a drawl than that habitual to Mr. Ferrier, perhaps, begin. A more polite attitude would have been thrown away on her, and he needed some little shield. Besides. emphasis which might be regarded as her threatening looks had been so undisguised that an assumption of smiling ease would only have increased er anger. The woman's hard, critical eves looked him over as he waited there, and marked the finish of his toilet, and reckoned the cost of it, and snapped at sight of the deep purple amethysts in his cuff-buttons, not knowing that peculiar way of putting your head down to your food, instead of raising they were heir-looms, and the gift of his mother. He was dressed quite like a fine gentleman, she thought; and yet, what was he? Nothing but a pauper who was trying to get her money. She longed to tell him so, and would have expressed herself quite plainly to that effect upon a very small provocation.

"I want to know if you've broker that promise you made me six months she said roughly, having grown ago, more angry with this survey. "I hear that you have."
"What promise" he asked calmly, glancing up.

"You know well enough what I mean," she retorted. "You promised never to gamble again, and I told you what you might depend on if you did, and I mean to keep my word. should like to know the truth. I've been hearing things about you.

A deep red stained his face, and his lips were pressed tightly together. It was hard to be spoken to in that way, and not resent it. "When I make a promise, I usually keep it," he replied, in a constrained voice. 'That's no answer to my question,

Mrs. Ferrier exclaimed, her hands clenching themselves in her lap. "I'll have the truth without any roundabout. Somebody-no matter whomoment he appeared. Her face had been very pale, but now the color fluttered in it. She looked at him with has told me you owe fifteen hundred dollars that you lost by gambling. Is it true or not? That is what I want to know.'

> Lawrence Gerald raised his bright · odd," she whispered yes, and looked steadily at her. is false!" he said.

This calm and deliberate denial disconcerted Mrs. Ferrier. She had not xpected him to confess fully to such a fered her slender fingers to rest on his charge; neither, much as she dis-trusted him, had she thought him capable of a deliberate lie if the charge were true - some sense of his better qualities had penetrated her thus far when mamma won't listen to me. Try -but she had looked for shuffling and

He was not slow to see that the battle vas at an end, and in the same moment his perfect self-restraint van-ished. "May I ask where you heard this interesting story?" he demanded, drawing himself up.

Her confusion increased. The truth was that she had heard it from her son: but Louis had begged her not to betray him as the informant, and his story had been founded on hints merely "It's no use telling where I heard it," she said. "I'll take your word. But since you've given that, of course you won't have any objection to giving your oath. If you will swear that you opened, and Mrs. Ferrier looked out don't owe any gambling debts, I'll say ore, unless I hear more.

He reddened violently. "I will not be it!" he exclaimed. "If my word do it!" he exclaimed. s not good, my oath would not be. You ought to be satisfied. And if you will allow me, I will go to Annette now, unless you have some other sub-

He has risen, his manner full of aughtiness, when she stopped him: 'I haven't quite got through yet. Don't be in such a hurry.

He did not seat himself again, but, eaning on the back of a chair, looked at her fully.

"I wish you would sit down," she "It isn't pleasant to have you said. standing up when I want to talk to

He smiled, not very pleasantly, and seated himself, looking at her with a steady gaze that was inexpressibly bitter and secretive. She returned it with a more piercing regard than one would have thought those insignificant eyes capable of. She had not been able to understand his proud scruple, and her suspicions were alive again

"If all goes right," she began, watching him closely, "I'm willing that you and Annette should be married the first of September. I've made up my mind what I will do for you. You shall have five hundred dollars to go on a journey with, and then you will come back and live with me here two years. I'll give you your board, and make Annette an allowance of dollar of mine do you ever get, no matter when I find it out.

"I will speak to Annette about it," e said quietly. "Is that all?" he said quietly. She answered with a short nod.

Annette was anxiously waiting for "What is it?" she asked, when she saw his face.

He snatched his hat from the table. 'Come out into the air," he said; "I

She followed him into the gardens, where an arbor screened them from the house, with a high roof, and tall

Mrs. Ferrier looked at him glumly, 'mother was going to say to me?" he "No!" It was all had strength to utter. " Nothing of it? "Nothing, Lawrence. I saw that she did not mean to tell me, so I would not ask. Don't keep me in suspense

He hesitated a moment. Since she did not know, there was no need to tell her all. He told her only her mother's "You see it's a sort of ticket-of "You see it's a solution in You see it's a solution in You see it's a solution in Your see it's a solution in Your are to be under surveillance. you better give me up, Annette? She will like any one else better." The sky and garden swam round before her eyes. She said nothing, but

"I only propose it for your sake," he added more gently, startled at her pallor. "In marrying me, you run the risk of being poor. If that doesn't frighten you, then it's all right."

Her color came back again; but no smile came with it. These shocks had been repeated too many times to find her with the same elasticity. "This cannot go on a great while,"

she said, folding her hands in her lap, and looking down. "Mamma cannot always be so unreasonable. The best way now is to make no opposition to her, whatever she proposes. I may be able to influence her as we wish after a while. You may be sure that I shall try. Meantime, let us be quiet. I have learned. Lawrence, never to contend unless I can be pretty sure of victory. It is a hard lesson, but we have o learn it, and many harder ones, too The best way for you is to laugh and seem careless, whether you feel so or r not. The one who laughs succeeds. It is strange, but the moment a person acts as if he felt humiliated, seem to be possessed of a desire to humiliate him still more. It doesn't do in the world to confess to any weak ness or failure. I have always noticed that people stand in awe of those who appear to be perfectly self-confident and contented

Lawrence Gerald looked at her in surprise as she said this in a calm and steady way quite new to him. Some ful in other ways besides money-bringing glanced through his mind "You know the world at least, An nette," he said, with a half-smile.

No smile nor word replied. She wa looking back, and remembering how she had learned the world. poor, low-born girl, ignorant but en thusiastic and daring, had been sud denly endowed with wealth, and thrown upon that world with no one to teach her how to act properly. had learned by the sneers and bitterness, the ridicule and jibes, her blunders had excited. Mortification anger, tears and disappointments had taught her. Instead of having been spurred along the way of life, she had seen her best intentions and most generous feelings held as nothing, be cause of some fault in their manifestation; had found the friendships she grasped at, believing them real, change to an evasive coldness with only a surface froth of sweet pretence. Strife lay behind her, and, looking forward, she saw strife in the future. As she made this swift review, it happened to her as it has happened to others when some crisis or some strong emotion has forced them to lift their eyes from their immediate daily cares: and as the curtain veiling the future wavered in that breeze, they have caught a glimpse of life as a whole, and found it terrible. Perhaps in that moment Annette Ferrier saw nothing but dust and ashes in all her hopes of earthly happiness, and felt a brief longing to hide her face from them for ever.

"Your company are coming," Lawrence said. He had been watch ing her with curiosity and surprise It was the first time she had ever dis regarded his presence, and the first time he had found her really worthy of respect.

She roused herself, not with a start as if coming back to a real present from ome trivial abstraction, but slowly and almost reluctantly, as though turn ing from weighty matters to attend to

"Can you be bright and cheerful now?" she asked, smiling on him with some unconscious superiority in her "These little things are not worth fretting for. All will come right, if we keep up our courage. As she held out her hand to him, he took it in his and carried it to his lips.

"You're a good creature!" he said most sincerely. And in this amicable frame of mine they went to join the company.

Crichton was eminently a musical In the other arts, they were city. In the other arts, chey perhaps superficial and pretentious; but this of music was ardently and assiduously cultivated by every one. Wealthy ladies studied it with all the devotion of professional people, and there were not a few who might have made it a successful profession. Among those was Annette Ferrier, some business for you. But I won't pay any debts; and, if any such debts pay any debts; and, if any such debts requiring strong passion in the rendering. All this talent and cultivation contact the contact of the con heard turns out to be true, not one means allow to be wasted in private life. Clubs and associations kept up their emulation and skill, and charit objects and public festivals afforded them the opportunity for that public display without which their zeal might have languished. The present rehearsal was for one of these concerts. They were to sing in the new conservatory, which was admirable for that purpose. It was only just completed — an immense parellelogram joined to the southwestern corner of "Did you know what your pillars making a sort of porch at the end. No plants had yet been arranged, but azaleas and rhododendrons in full bloom had been brought in and set in a thicket along the bases of the pillars, looking, in all their airy roseate flush of graduated tints, as if a sunset cloud had dropped there. Against this background the benches for the singers were ranged, and Annette's grand piano brought out for Mr. Schoninger, their leader, Sofas and arm-chairs were placed near the long windows opening into the house for a small company of listeners.

"I wish Mother Chevreuse could have come," Mrs. Ferrier said, survey. ing the preparations with complacent satisfaction.

Mother Chevreuse was employed much more to her own liking than she would have been in listening to the most excellent music in the world she was waiting for her son to come from his collecting, and take tea with her in her cosy little parlor. If the day should prove to have been successful to him, then he could rest a whole month; and, in expectation of his success, she had made a little gala of it, and adorned her room and table with flowers. The curtains next the church were looped back, to show a group of sunlighted tree-tops and an edge of a bright cloud, since the high walls hid the sunset from this room. The priest's slippers and dressing were ready for him, and an arm-chair set in his favorite place He must rest after his hard day's work The evening paper lay folded within reach. Mother Chevreuse looked smilingly about, and saw that all was ready The green china tea-set and beautiful old-fashioned silver that had been preserved from her wedding presents made the little table look gay, and the flowers and a plate of added a touch of poetry. Everything was as she would have wished it—the picture beautifully peaceful and hor

"What would be do without me? she murmered involuntarily.

The thought called up a train of sad fancies, and, as she stood looking out toward the last sunny cloud of evening, ong quivering rays seemed to stretch toward her from it. She clasped her hands and raised her eyes, to pray that she might long be spared to him but the words were stopped on her lips. There was momentary struggle, then "Thy will be done!" dropped faintly.
At this moment, she heard a familiar step on the sidewalk, the street door opened and banged to again, and in a moment more F. Chevreuse stood on the threshold, his face bright with exercise and pleasure. "Well?" his mother said, seeing success in the air.

He drew himself up with an expres sion of immense consequence, and began to declaim:

"'Dick,' says he,
'W hat,' said he,
'Fetch me my hat,' says he,
'For I will go, says he,
'To Timahoe,' says he,
'To the fair,' says he,
'To buy all that's there,' said he."

"You've made out the whole sum!" was her joyful interpretation. and more," he answered. "I am rich, Mother Chevreuse. All the way home, my mind has been running on golden altar-services and old masters. Mother Chevreuse seated herself behind the tea-tray, set a green and gold cup into its appropriate saucer, and selected a particular spoon which she always gave her son - one with wheat-ear curling about the quaint half-effaced initials; he, insensible man that he was, unconscious whether it was silver or tin.

"While you have a resting-place for the Master of masters, you need not give much thought to any other. thoughts often run on a golden altarservice. Only to-day I was reckoning that what I possess of my own would buy one. "O vanity!" laughed the priest. "You want to make a show, mother. Instead of being content to help with the brick and mortar, or the pillars, you must approach the very Holy of Holies, and shine in the tabernacle itself. Fie, Mother Chev

"I mentioned it to F. White," she German Syrup" For Coughs & Colds.

John F. Jones, Edom, Tex., writes: I have used German Syrup for the past six years, for Sore Throat, Cough, Colds, Pains in the Chest and Lungs, and let me say to anyone wanting such a medicine-German Syrup is the best.

B.W. Baldwin, Carnesville, Tenn., writes: I have used your German Syrup in my family, and find it the best medicine I ever tried for coughs and colds. I recommend it to everyone for these troubles.

R. Schmalhausen, Druggist, of Charleston, Ill., writes: After trying scores of prescriptions and prepara-tions I had on my files and shelves, without relief for a very severe cold, which had settled on my lungs, I tried your German Syrup. It gave me immediate relief and a permaneut cure.

G. G. GREEN, Sole Manufacturer, Woodbury, New Jersey, U S. A. cheerfully. "F. W though he grudges me I'll remember that whe begging for his org says I, it's sheer va organs when there are in the world. A tobac than an organ-pipe, oath in the mouth of a who has no other

NOVEMBER 5,

said, "and he almos

feeding the hungry

gold endures, but breach of bread saved from the

and put hope into a it was making finer be wrought into a ch deal of grace may be of bread, said F. Whit

"That's true," answ cheerfully. "F. W

nd he answered tha

golden altar-vessels.

said that there w

smoke. Much grace a clay pipe, F. Whi Merry, foolish tall and restful.

"And, by the way priest, "that same F. away, and I must sick call for him. I as I came along. "Not to-night!"

claimed. "Yes, to-night. I would come. The r Besides, I could no morrow forenoon. five miles before ter rest of the night ther in the morning in at six o'clock. That I don't care to be out "It is the better we looked disappointed.

you such headaches.'
"Headache is ea heartache, mother,' brightly- and went give Andrew his orde Have it ready in f at a quarter before said. "And, And in the sacristy.' Mother Chevreuse her son, urged him lest the night air sh poured a second c and, when he was re looking earnestly pride of his stalwa in tender, motherly accident should befa lonely drive. "Hadn't you be with you?" she sug "And why shou with me?" the pri a stole in his pocket

"Why. . . ashamed of her won 'An excellent re "No, madame; I with me but my buggy holds but Sleep soundly, and She stood with parted, watching fearful of losing s glance; but his ch smile in her face. He would not a thing unusual in h going out, when sh "Give me your fore you go," she on her knees befo he had given it,

The priest was you feel well to-"Yes, quite gently. "Perhan so nervous about y a lonely drive.

smile.

stood there till she the church, step drive away.
"Good - night! said, listening till carriage-wheels then, breathing a she went back to Jane had clear

She followed h

lamp, and had go pany in the kitch What does m fearful?" exclain ing her cold hand She busied her folded the paper time to read, p nearer the table covering a flake which his boot l took it up, and t brought a faint s

The careless "He never cou his boots on com was a mere lad. face now as it mind was occupi he said ; he coul boots and mud. but who knows then have been business!"

Dropping in thinking over boy's childhood peaceful their chiding herself have ca would into her bedroo little trunk, in souvenirs mem

There was his shook out the le of her fingers broidered sleev "How little future is to be

I was embroid

ranged. s in full and set es of the eir airy nts, as if benches ed, and ight out leader, ced near

into the isteners.

, survey. mplacent

employed

ng than tening to e world

to come tea with success-a whole

of his e gala of and table

next the o show a s and an the high his room.

dressing

and an te place. y's work.

ed within

smilingly

as ready beautiful and been presents

, and the ney-comb

verything ed it—the

and home-

out me?"

in of sad

king out to stretch asped her to pray

d on her struggle, " dropped

a familiar treet door

n, and in use stood ight with d, seeing in expres-ence, and id he."

nole sum !"
. "Yes;

I am rich,

way home, on golden s." d herself

green and te saucer,

one with the quaint insensible is whether sting-place

you need ny other," that my that my lden altar-reckoning own would he priest.

w, mother.

the iron the very

ther Chev

Vhite," she an

Colds.

ex., writes:

rup for the e Throat,

the Chest

ay to any-nedicine—

ille, Tenn.,

ır German find it the

for coughs t to every-uggist, of fter trying

d prepara-id shelves,

evere cold,

feeding the hungry than of buying golden altar-vessels. I told him that gold endures, but bread is soon eaten; and he answered that, if the eating of bread saved from theft or starvation, and put hope into a breaking heart, it was making finer gold than could be wrought into a chalice. A good deal of grace may be found in a loaf of bread, said F. White."

"That's true," answered the priest cheerfully. "F. White has sense, though he grudges me a gold chalice. I'll remember that when he comes here the priest for his order. F. White begging for his organ. F. White, says I, it's sheer vanity to talk of organs when there are suffering poor in the world. A tobacco-pipe is better than an organ-pipe, when it stops an oath in the mouth of a poor hod-carrier who has no other comfort but his smoke. Much grace may be found in a clay pipe, F. White, my darling."
Merry, foolish talk, but innocent and restful.

"And, by the way," resumed the priest, "that same F. White has gone away, and I must go and attend a sick call for him. I got the telegram as I came along.

"Not to-night!" the mother exclaimed.

"Yes, to-night. I sent word that I would come. The man is in danger. Besides, I could not spare time tomorrow forenoon. I can drive the five miles before ten o'clock, stay the rest of the night there, and come home in the morning in time to say Mass at six o'clock. That is the best plan.

I don't care to be out very late."
"It is the better way," she said, but looked disappointed. "I don't like to have you out late at night, it gives you such headaches."

"Headache is easier to bear than heartache, mother," said the priest brightly- and went to the window to give Andrew his order for the carriage. Have it ready in front of the church at a quarter before nine o'clock," he "And, Andrew, light the gas in the sacristy.'

Mother Chevreuse anxiously served her son, urged him to take a muffler, lest the night air should prove chilly, poured a second cup of tea for him, and, when he was ready to start, stood in tender, motherly anxiety lest some accident should befall him on the long, lonely drive.

"Hadn't you better take Andrew with you?" she suggested. "And why should I take Andrew with me?" the priest asked, putting a stole in his pocket.

"Why. . . ." she hesitated, "Why. . . . " she hes ashamed of her womanish fears.

"An excellent reason!"he laughed.
"No, madame; I shall take no one with me but my good angel. My buggy holds but two. Good night. Sleep soundly, and God bless you!" She stood with her lips slightly parted, watching him earnestly, as if fearful of losing some slight word or glance; but his cheerful talk woke no smile in her face.

He would not appear to notice anything unusual in her manner, and was going out, when she stopped him.

"Give me your blessing, dear, be-fore you go," she whispered, and fell on her knees before him; and, when he had given it, she rose and tried to

The priest was disturbed. "Don't you feel well to-night, mother?" he

"Yes, quite well," she replied ment. gently. "Perhaps I am foolish to be so nervous about your going. It seems a lonely drive. Go now, or you will stood there till she saw him come out of the church, step into his buggy, and drive away.

"Good - night! good - night!" she said, listening till the last sound of his carriage-wheels died into stillness; then, breathing a prayer for his safety, she went back to her own room.

Jane had cleared away the table, drawn the curtains, and lighted a lamp, and had gone down to her company in the kitchen. What does make me so lonely and fearful?" exclaimed the lady, wringing her cold hands.

She busied herself in little things, trying to drive the trouble away; re-folded the paper her son had not found time to read, pushed his arm-chair nearer the table for herself, and, discovering a flake of smooth-pressed clay which his boot had left on the carpet, took it up, and threw it into the fireplace. That homely little service brought a faint smile to her face.

"The careless boy!" she said fondly.
"He never could remember to wipe his boots on coming in, even when he was a mere lad. I can see his bright face now as it looked when he would argue me out of scolding him. His mind was occupied with lofty matters, he said; he could not bring it down to boots and mud. It sounded like a jest; but who knows if he might not even then have been about his Father's business!' Dropping into his chair, she sat Dropping into his chair, she sat thinking over the old time and her boy's childhood. How happy and peaceful their life had been! Half chiding herself, as if she knew he would have called it folly, she went into her hadron and brought out a into her bedroom, and brought out a little trunk, in which were preserved souvenirs memorable in her life and There was his christening-robe. She shook out the length, and pushed two of her fingers through the tiny em-

"How little we dream what the future is to be!" she murmured. "I wonder how I would have felt if, when I was embroidering this, there had "Mrs. DAVIDSON, Winnipeg, Man.

No other Sarsaparilla has effected such remarkable cures as Hood's Sarsaparilla, of Serofula, Salt Rheum, and other blood diseases.

said, "and he almost reproved me. risen before my eyes the vision of a said that there was more need of chasuable hanging above it? But I couldn't have been prouder of him than I was. He was a fine healthy boy, and had a will of his own even then. When he was baptized, he got the priest's stole in his baby fist, and had to pull it away finger by finger, the little fellow clinging all the time."

There were boyish toys, school books adorned with preposterous pencil-drawings, in which the human figure was represented by three spheres set one over the other, and supported to two sticks; there were letters written his mother while he was away from home, at school or college, and a collection of locks of hair cut on successive birthdays, till the boy had laughed her out of the custom. She placed these side by side now, ranging them according to their dates, and studied the gradual change from the silken-silvery crescent of a cural cut from the head of the year-old babe, through deepening shades, to the thick brown tress cut on his twentieth birthday. Every little lock had its story to tell, and she went over each, ending with a kiss, in fancy kissing the child's face she seemed again to see. And as she sat there conning the past, memory struck every chord of her heart, from the sweet, faraway vibration when her first-born was placed in her arms, and coming down through deepening tones to the present. She lifted her face, that had been bent over these mementos. is Father Chevreuse, and I am an old woman !" she said ; and, sighing, rose and put the souvenirs all away. "We have had a glad and prosperous life; how little of sorrow, how little of adversity! I never before realized how much I have to be thankful for."

Presently she put a veil over her head, and went through the basement into the church to say her prayers. She always said her evening prayers before the altar; and now she had double cause to be scrupulous. She must atone for past unthankfulness, and pray for her son's safe return. By 10 o'clock, the house was closed for the night, and the inmates had all gone to their quiet slumber. Mother Chevreuse's uneasiness was all gone, and, after devotions of unusual fervor, she felt an unwonted peace. "Father, looking earnestly at him, half in into thy hands I commit my spirit," pride of his stalwart manliness, half she said, and sank to sleep as soon as her head touched the pillow.

About midnight, she started up, wide awake, and listened. There was a low, stealthy sound, as of a door being softly opened. Could her son have changed his mind, and come home again? Some one was certainly in his room. She stepped out of bed, and listened keenly. There were and listened keenly. There was a faint noise like the rattle of a latch or lock, and then a soft step retreating.

"It is he come back!" she thought joyfully; and, even in thinking so, was smitten by a wild and sudden fear. She slipped on a dressing-gown and scandals, and hurried toward the door. "My son!" she said breathlessly as she opened it. Faintly seen in the dim light, a man's form was leaving the room by the entry. A shawl or cloak wrapped him from head to foot, and he held a little chest in his hand. In that chest F. Chevreuse kept his money.

All personal fear deserted her mother's heart at that sight. She thought only that the fruit of her son's long labors was being carried away under her eyes, and that, after the brief joy of his success, he would come home to bitterness and disappoint

She followed him to the door, and lood there till she saw him come are to the control of the poor. It is the money of the poor.

The man bent down, and wrapped his form still more closely from recognition, as he wrenched himself loose. But while forced to let go his arm, she caught at the casket he held, and clung with all her strength, calling for help.
"Let go!" he said, in a hoarse

"Let go, or I shall do you whisper. harm!

As she still clung and cried for help, they stood at the head of the stairs leading to the basement of the house Steps were heard below, and Jane's voice calling Andrew, and screaming from the window.

The man made one more fierce effort to free himself. Drawing back from the stairs, he turned quickly, and threw himself forward again. There threw himself forward again. There was a sharp cry, "My son!" and a fall. Then a fainter cry, "My God!" and then silence.
TO BE CONTINUED.

There is no secret or patent in the production of "Myrtle Navy" tobacco. It could be produced by any manufacturer, but no manufacturer could make it pay at that price, unless he could purchase on a large scale and sell on a large scale. He could not sell below the present price without a loss even if he could purchase on the lowest advantageous terms. To get a large market therefore, without which he would have no inducements to go on, would be the work of many years. That is the reason why Messrs. Tuckett & Son have the command of the market, and they are wise enough to know that they can retain it only by keeping the price down to hard pan figures.

Doubly Commended.

Sirs.—I had a very bad cold and was Doubly Commended.

SIRS,—I had a very bad cold and was cured by two bottles of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. I cannot do without it.

MRS, W. C. H. PERRY, Sea Gull, Ont.
DEAR SIRS,—I can highly recommend Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam as the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

MISS F. STEPHENSON, Oakland, Ont. Indigestion Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—I was thoroughly cured of indigestion by using only three bottles of B. B. B., and truthfully recommend it to all suffering from the same malady.

MRS. DAVIDSON, Winnipeg, Man.

Great Temperance Apostle. In Frank J. Mathew's life of Father Mathew is given an interesting account of some of the minor traits of the famout preacher's character.

"He had no wish for the world's praise, but had a weakness for the praise of children and of nuns, and liked being present at convent school feasts, and hearing high-flown and long-worded addresses read to him by the piping voices of small children. He treasured these addresses, and his relatives still have a great collection of them (written in flourishing pen-manship, and full of the pomp and circumstance of convent rhetoric), yellow with age, now that the children who read them have grown to be elderly women. A story (probably untrue) tells that once, at a certain convent, he hinted that the nuns looked needlessly grave and sanctified; the abbess at once ordered increased gayety, and for some time the poor

FATHER MATHEW.

Some of the Characteristics of the

The book says:

nuns were to be seen going about their daily work replacing their usual bright quietness by forced hilarity, and smiling from ear to ear. "He judged his temperance bands by his other worldly standard, and they were musical to him when to most they were horrible. He loved to hear his bandsmen, each working zealously at his instrument, with an entire disregard of harmony; or to watch some burly blacksmith furiously pummeli-ing the big drum. It was not their music but their zeal that delighted him. Much in the same way, when on winter nights we hear the Salvation Army tramping past in the wind and rain, we can feel respect for the enthusiasm that fathers the murderous discord—provided the band is at a distance. There is a legend of certain monks who every night sang the "Magnificat" with much zeal but little melody, as, unluckly, living in the Fens they were hoarser than frogs. Once a musical stranger sang the hymn for them, and they listened in delighted silence; but that night an angel appeared to the abbott and blamed him because the "Magnificat" had not been sung-the stranger's singing was only mouth worship, while the monks' un couch hymn of praise came from their hearts and was heard. "Father Mathew usually had some pets to enliven the loneliness of the friary, that abode of lofty-minded bachelorhood, undisturbed of any 'tempestuous petticoat.' He owned a succession of dogs; the chief of them was a truculent brute named Sober, a grim puritan, most faithful to his master, most ferocious to everyone else. Sober was executed by the minions of the law for nearly killing a harmless stranger. His master vainly moved heaven and earth to save him, ascribing his crime to playfulness. The favored pet was a sparrow named Peter. Once upon a time sparrows were common pets, and were surely preferable to demoniac cockatoos. Lovers of seventeenth century verse will remember Cartwright's quaint lines, 'Lesbia on Her Sparrow.' "Tell me not of joys: there's none, Now my little sparrow's gone.

He, just as you, would sigh and woo,
He would chirp and flatter me.
He would hang the wing awhile,
Till at length he saw me smile.
Lord! how sullen he would be!"

"Peter was free of the house, and fluttered about at will; his favorite perch was on the priest's shoulder. He suited his master's love of old fashsne ran after the retreating figure, and caught it by the arm. "Shame! shame!" she cried. "It is the money of the poor. It belongs to God

"The only pause Father Mathew allowed himself was an hour or so in the evening, seated cosily by the fire-side, with Peter on his shoulder and a dog on his knee, while one of his nephews or some young friend read aloud to him. He was companionable, and liked to have someone to dine with him. A stranger seeing him seated by the fireside would have seen in him only a chatty, easy-going, old-fash-ioned clergyman, not troubled by any tendency to asceticism or enthusiasm.

Words of St. Francis De Sales.

Those who spiritually digest Jesus Christ feel that Jesus Christ who is their food is diffused through every part of soul and body. They have Jesus in their mind, in their heart, in Jesus in their mind, in their heart, in their breast, in their eyes, in their hands, in their tongue, in their ears, in their feet. But what does this Saviour do in all these parts? He redresses, purfies, prunes and vivifies all; the Heart loves through Him, the mind understands through Him, the breast breathes through Him, the eyes see through Him, the tongue speaks through Him. Then we can say, "We live now, not we, but Christ Jesus lives in us." I show you to what we must aspire though we must be content to attain it by degrees. — St. Francis de Sales.

The Fear of Death. The Fear of Death.

The fear of death is excited by any severe attack of disease, especially colds or coughs. This need not be where Dr. Wood, s Norway Pine Syrup is kept on hand for family use. This unrivalled remedy cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis and all throat and lung diseases. Price 25c. and 50c. Sold by druggists.

He Quit the Doctor.

GENTLEMEN — I was troubled with dys-

RUSKIN'S APPEAL FOR STREET WAIFS.

"Outside of your own rose covered wall there are flowers neglected and life, love God and their neighbor, and dying, flowers that could bless you for having blessed them, and will love you for having loved them-flowers that have eyes like yours and thoughts like yours and lives like yours—which once saved you save forever. Far among the moor lands and the rocks, far in the darkness of the terrible street, these feeble florlets are lying, with all their fresh leaves torn and their stems broken. Will you never go down to them and set them in order in their little fragrant beds, nor fence them in their shuddering from the fierce deemed us, and in whom we must ruse the deemed us, and in whom we will be deemed us, and in whom we will be deemed us, and in whom we will be d in their shuddering from the fierce wind? "Shall morning follow morning for you, but not for them; and the dawn rises, but no dawn rises to breathe upon these living banks of wild violet and these living banks of wild violet and woodbine and rose, nor call you through their casement as they did Dante's great Matilda, who stood wreathing flowers with flowers, and, as the English poet pictures the scene, as the Saying:

"Come into the carden, Maud,
For the black bat, night, has flown,
And the woodbine spices are wafted abroad,
And the musk of the roses has blown?"

"Will you not go down among them? among these sweet living things? and whose purity, washed from the dust, is opening, bud by bud, into the flower of promise; and still they turn to you, and for you the 'larkspur listens-I hear, I hear! and the lily whispers-I wait."

"Did you notice that I missed two lines when I read you that stanza, and think that I had forgotten them?

"'Come into the garden, Maud.
For the black bat, night, has flown;
Come into the garden, Maud.
I am here at the gate alone.'
"Who is it, think you, who stands at the gate of this sweeter garden, alone, waiting for you?

"Did you hear, not of a Maude, but a Madeline, who went down to her garden in the dawn, and found one waiting at the gate, whom she supposed to be the gardener? Have you not sought Him often—sought Him in vain at the gate of that old garden where the fiery sword is set? He is never there, but at the gate of this garden He is waiting always—waiting to take your hand—ready to go down o see the fruits of the valley, to see whether the vine has flourished and the pomegranate budded.

"There you shall see with Him the little tendrils of the vines that His hand is guiding: there you shall see the pomegranate springing where His hand cast the sanguine seed. You shall see the troops of the angel keepers that with their wings wave away the hungry birds from the pathsides where He has sown and call to each other between the vineyard rows: 'Take us the foxes, the little foxes, that spoil the vines, for our vines have tender grapes.' Oh! you queens! you queens! Among the hills and greenwood of this land of yours shall the foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests? And in your cities shall the stones cry out against you that they are the only pillows where the Son of Man can lay His head?" And now as winter comes on and you think of providing yourself with warm homes and comfortable clothing will you not think of the little body with the scant frock which perhaps may be its only garment? Out of your bounty remember the orphans.

A Fatal Mistake.

had been much annoyed while he was tion, which really is not Catholic preaching, by the way the members of his congregation had got into of looking around while he was preaching to take stock of the late comers. After enduring the annoyance for some time, he said on entering the pulpit one day:
"Brethren, I regret to say that your attention is called away from your religious duties by your very natural desire to see who comes behind you. I propose heneforth to save you the trouble by naming each person who may enter, and I hope that the service will then be allowed to proceed without interruption."

He then began, "Dearly beloved," but paused halfway to interpolate: "Farmer Stubbins with his wife and daughter." Farmer Stubbins looked rather surprised, but the preacher, with perfect gravity, resumed his ex-horting. Presently he again paused —"Sam Curtis and William Diggle."

The abashed congregation kept their eyes studiously bent on their books. The sermon proceeded in the most orderly manner, the preacher interrupting himself every now and then to name some new arrival. At last he said, still with the same gravity:
"Mrs. Simpson, of the Red Lion, in a new bonnet." In a moment the reverend gentleman was aware of his mis take, but it was too late. Every feminine head in the congregation had turned round.

Monthly Prizes for Boys and Girls, Monthly Prizes for Boys and Girls.

The "Sunlight" Soap Co., Toronto, offer the following prizes every month till further notice, to boys and girls under 18, residing in the Province of Outario, who send the greatest number of "Sunlight" wrappers: 1st, 49: 2nd, 35; 3rd, 31; 4th, 31; 5th to 1th, a Handsome Book; and a pretty picture to those who send not less than 12 wrappers. Send wrappers to "Sunlight" Soap Office, 43 Scott St., Toronto not later than 22th of each month, and marked "Competition;" also give full name, address, age, and number of wrappers. Winners' names will be published in The Toronto Mail on first Saturday in each month.

A HAPPY HINT — We don't believe in

He Quit the Doctor.

GENTLEMEN,—I was troubled with dyspepsia for about four years and tried several remedies but found them of little use. I noticed an advertisement of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I quit the doctor and started to use B. B. B., and soon found that there was nothing to equal it. It took just three bottles to effect a perfect cure in my case, and I can highly recommend this excellent remedy to all.

No other Sarsaparilla combines economy and strength like Hood's It is the only one of which can truly be said: "100 Doses $1."

Can Protestants be Saved?

Catholics do not believe that Protest ants who are baptized, who lead a good are blamelessly ignorant of the just claims of the Catholic religion to be the only true religion (which is called being in good faith), are excluded from heaven, provided they believe there is one God in three Divine Persons; that God will duly reward the good and punish the wicked; that Jesus Christ is the Son of God made man, who redeemed us, and in whom we must trust have these dispositions, and who have no suspicion of their religion being false and no means to discover, or fail in their honest endeavors to discover the true religion, and who are so dis posed in their heart that they would at any cost embrace the Roman Catholic religion if they knew it to be the true one, are Catholics in spirit and in some sense within the Catholic Church, with out themselves knowing it. She holds that these Christians belong to, and are united to the soul, as it is called, of the Catholic Church, although they are not united to the visible body of the Church by external communion with her, and by the outward profession of her faith.

Very different is the case of a person who, having the opportunity, neglects to learn from the genuine trustworthy sources what the Catholic religion is and really teaches, fearing, that were he to become convinced of the truth of Catholic Faith, he would be compelled by his conscience to forsake his own religion, and bear the worldly inconveniences attached to this step. This very fear shows a want of good faith, and that he is not in that insurmountable ignorance which could excuse him in the sight of God, but that he is one of those whom it is said in Psalm xxxv. 4: "He would not understand that he might do well."

Fairness, no less than common sense, teaches that a man should study and examine the teaching of the Catholic Church from Catholic sources before condemning her. Surely no man ought to reject Catholic doctrines if he has not made himself well ac quainted with them. Nor is it fair to form a judgment from misrepresentations made by ill informed, interested, or prejudiced persons; one should rather, by the study of authorized Catholic works judge of the truth with that calm and unprejudiced mind which the all-important subject of Religion deserves. Thus having heard both sides, you will be in a state to pass a right judgment and not in danger of being misled by preiudice.

Our Saviour gave no hope of salvation to the Samaritan woman unless she entered the one true Church of that she entered the one true Charlet of that time, saying to her who was destitute of a sure guide: "You adore that which you know not; we adore that which we know; for Salvation is of the Jews." (St. John iv. 22.) So likewise there is no salvation for any one who, having by God's grace come to the knowledge of the truth, obstinately refuses to join the true Church of God

It is hard to understand how a Prot estant can daily say in the Apostles' Creed, as many happily do still say, "I believe in the Holy Catholic Church," without at least a thought arising in his mind, that perhaps after all the Church which alone is truly Catholic or universal, both in name and fact, has more claim on his love An eccentric clergyman in Cornwall and obedience than his own denomina-

> "La Cadena" and "La Flora " Insist New Fall SUITINGS! upon having these brands.

G. A. Dixon, Frankville, Ont., says: 'He was cured of chronic bronchitis that troubled him for seventeen years, by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

The superiority of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is shown by its good effects on the children. Purchase a bottle and give it a trial.

a trial.

THE WILD CHERRY combined with Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion makes it delicious in taste and perfect in curative Minard's Liniment cures Colds, etc.

Epileptic Fits, Falling Sickness, Hysterics, St. Vitus Dance, Nervousness, Hypochondria, Melancholia, Inebrity, Sleeplessness, Dizziness, Brain and Spinal Weakness.

This medicine has direct action upon the nerve centers, allaying all irritabiliies, and increasing the flow and power of nerve fluid. It is perfectly harmless and leaves no unpleasant effects.

A Valuable Book on Nervous Diseases and a sample bottle to any ad
gress. Poor patients also get the medicine free.
This remedy has been prepared by the Rev. Father Kogbilg, of Fort Wayne, Ind., since 1856, and is now under his direction by the KOENIC MED. CO., Chicago, III. Sold by Druggists at S1 per Bottle. 6 for $5. Large Size, $1.75. 6 Bottles for $9. Agent, W. E. Saunders & Co., Druggist, London, Ontario.

"ANAKESIS" gives instant relief and is an infallible for for Piles. Price $1. By Druggistator mail. Samples free. Address" "ANAKESIS" gives instant relief and is an infallible to the property of the propert

Of Augusta, Me., says: "I do not remember when I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla; it as several years ago, and I have found it does be a great deal of good in my declining years.

I am 91 Years

months and 26 days old, and my health is per-ectly good. I have no aches or pains about me. Hood's Sarsaparilla gulates my bowels, stimulates my appetite, ad helps me to steep wroll. I doubt if a reparation ever was made so well studied to the wants of old people. 22 L. B. HAMLEN, Im Street, Augusta, Me., Sept. 26, 1891.

> HAVE YOU TRIED THE

"CABLE EXTRA" CIGAR?

APOSITIVE PILES.

reliable, and has more than met the anticipa-tions of those physicians who have used it in their practice. PILEKONE IS A POSITIVE CURE when other treatments fail to relieve. Testimonials furnished. Price 81. For sale by druggists, or by mail on receipt of price. W. T. STRONG. Manufacturing Chemist, 184 Dundas street, London, Ont.

IS HIGH

AND IN ALL PROBABILITY WILL BE HIGHER.

It is more important than ever to buy the We handle nothing but the

GENUINE SCRANTON CLEAN. BRIGHT. DRY. Your order will receive careful and prompt

CAMERON'S

City Office-421 Richmond Street.

New Fall OVERCOATINGS! New Fall PANTINGS!

CALL AND SEE OUR

PETHICK & McDONALD, 393 Richmond Street.

DUNNS BAKING THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

MASS WINE.

WILSON BROTHERS LONDON, ONT., Have just received a direct importation of the Choicest and purest Mass Wine, which will be

SOLD AT REDUCED PRICES. They hold a certificate, attesting its purity, from Rev. Emmanuel tilea, Vicar-General of the Archdiocese of Taragona. The rev. clergy are respectfully invited to send for sample.

ONTARIO STAINED GLASS WORKS.

STAINED GLASS FOR CHURCHES.
PUBLIC AND PBIVATE BUILDINGS
Furnished in the best style and at prices low enough to bring it within the reach of all. WORKS: 484 RICHMOND STREET; R. LEWIS.

SMITH BROS.

Plumbers, Gas and Steam Fitters,

y lungs, I o. It gave a permafacturer, sey, U S. A.

The Camplic Lecord. Published Weekly at 484 and 486 Richmond street, London, Ontario. Price of subscription-$2.00 per annum.

REV. GEORGE R. NORTHGRAVES, Author of "Mistakes of Modern Infidels."

THOMAS COFFEY. disher and Proprietor, THOMAS COFFEY, MESSES, LUKE KING, JOHN NIGH, P.
J. NEVEN and M. C. O'DONNELL are fully authorized to receive subscriptions and transact all other business for the Catholic Record.
Rates of Advertising—Ten cents per line each nsertion, agate measurement.

Dominion.

Correspondence intended for publication, as well as that having reference to business, should be directed to the proprietor, and must reach London not later than Tuesday morning.

Arrears must be paid in full before the paper can be stooned.

London, Saturday, Nov. 5, 1892. NOVEMBER AND THE COM-MUNION OF SAINTS.

The Church of Christ on earth is beautifully styled in the Apostles Creed "the Communion of Saints." It is thus indicated to us that within her fold there is close intimacy and intercourse between the saints within her bosom such as cannot be attained elsewhere: and this indication is realized fully in the Catholic Church by the spiritual intercourse which exists between her members, in heaven, on earth and in purgatory, constituting the three parts of the Church known as the Church triumphant in heaven, the Church militant on earth and the Church suffering in purga-

The present month, November, should be specially devoted to the purpose of making still more close this intercourse between the three portions of the Church we have named, and for this cause the Church has instituted the two important feasts with which the month opens. All Saints' Day on the 1st, and All Souls' Day on the 2nd inst.

All Saint's Day is instituted that we may give due reverence to the saints. inasmuch as they are the friends and servants of God. As such they are to be honored, for St. Paul says. "glory and honor and peace to every one that worketh good." (Rom. ii. 10. The inspired Psalmist also says, "but to me thy friends, O God, are made i., 17.) exceedingly honorable, their principality is exceedingly strengthened. (Ps. exxxviii., 17.)

But not only are the saints to be honored; they are likewise to be invoked. They are in heaven like to the angels and equal to them, according to the words of our Lord in St. Matt. xxii, 30; St. Mark xii, 25.

It is among the angelic occupations to pray for mankind, and to obtain blessings for man from Almighty God Thus we find Jacob invoking an angel to obtain a blessing for the sons of Joseph. (Gen. xlviii, 36.) We find throughout the Old Testament that the angels are guardians of the nations and individuals: (Josh. v., 13, 14: Ex. xiv, 19: Zach. i; xii, Dan. x., etc. and in Zach, i.12, 13.) that an angel's prayers hastened the deliverance of Judea from the Babylonian captivity similarly occupied in aiding man kind, and we find them actually so occupied, whereas God was accustomed to hear the prayers of Moses and Samual long after their death, (Jerem. xv. i.) Jeremias prayed for the people of God (2 Mace. xv, 14), and prayers of saints were offered before the throne of God as in a golden censer (Apoc. v, 8; viii, 3, 4.)

The communion of the saints in heaven with those of earth is thus kept up by the prayers which they offer before the throne of God for us, and for the souls in purgatory, and by our honoring and invoking them.

The souls suffering in purgatory are also of the saints, because though still enduring the punishment for lesser sins, or making up for the aton ing punishment which they did not sufficiently endure on earth for sins which have been forgiven them, they are in the state of grace, and on the

The prayers we offer for them, and heaven, shorten their term of suffering; it is a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead that they may be xii. 48.)

The most efficacious form in which

that we should not neglect to pray for Dr. Langtry's views were sustained of the day always loses by these con- who is to him a father and a friend, be everturned at any moment by a noneglect this duty during the other unanimously, on motion of the doctor months of the year.

In return for our good offices for them, when the suffering souls are ad-Church triumphant-all the sooner for our assistance-they will in gratitude be the more earnest in assisting us by their prayers.

This interchange of good offices between the different parts of the Church of God, together with the mutual benefit which members of the Church confer upon each other on earth, constitutes the community of interests which is called the Communion of Saints, and It is consoling to know that the ties which unite us on earth as members of the same mystical body, the Church and Spouse of Christ, will not be severed by death, but will become much stronger as the interests subserved by the intercourse and communion are of greater importance than they were, while all were merely members of the Church militant.

The communion of the members of the Church militant consists chiefly in the ties of Faith, Hope and Charity, which bind them together, that of Charity being the greatest because this virtue consists first in our love for God, whereby we are all made one with the three divine Persons, in grace. The second part of Charity, love for each other, derives its excellence from the former, or our love for God, and

The participation of the same sacraments, subjection to the same Supreme Head of the Church, and in general a participation in all the benefits which are received from our divine Lord, through His Church, which dispenses His mysteries, also constitute part of this communion. The chief of these benefits is our Redemption by the blood of the same Saviour.

For the benefits of this Communion of Saints our gratitude must be given to God, from whom cometh "every best and every perfect gift." (St. James,

CURIOSITIES OF COURTESY.

ions which have been made during the last two or three years especially that a union must shortly be forthcoming between the principal denominations of Protestants, and of the negotiations which have even taken place with the object of bringing about some understanding whereby such union might be effected, it is interesting to observe the way in which these denomnations which are expected to unite regard each other.

We already mentioned in a former ssue of the RECORD the greeting which was sent by the Provincial synod of the Anglican Church in session recently at Montreal to the Pan-Presbyterian council, assembled at the same time in Toronto.

At first sight it might seem to a cursory reader cordial enough, but the Presbyterians did not regard it as at all satisfactory or encouraging as tending towards the desired union. It was as follows:

"That the prolocutor be requested o communicate to the Pan-Presbyter ian Council now assembled in Toronto an assurance of our good will and our ontinued earnest desire for the restor ation of the corporate reunion of all professing Christians."

It will be noticed, however, that the desire here expressed is not for that kind of union which has been so much talked of as the only desirable and possible union which can take place between the various sects-a federal union whereby each body should still have its own doctrines and discipline, while all should work harmoniously together for the propagation of a kind of common Christianity. The corporate union spoken of means the union into one body with one supreme head, and presumably with one faith and a uniform system of Church government, those offered for them by the saints in including the recognition of the Episcopal ordination as the essential confor the Holy Scripture teaches us that dition of a duly authorized ministry.

The circumstances under which the resolution was passed made it evident loosed from their sins. (2 Maccabees that such was the intention of the synod, for when it was proposed to convey greetings and expressions of our prayers for the dead can be offered goodwill simply, objection was raised is by the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, especially by Rev. Dr. Langtry, who which is daily offered up for the living is reported as having said "he did not and the dead, and is the same sacrifice think the synod should do anything which Christ offered on the cross. The that might be construed into recognizsame victim, Christ, is offered, and ing the growth and prosperity of Pres-Christ is the High-Priest in the Mass, byterianism. For his part he did not represented by the priest who officiates wish to see it prospering and growing. The only prosperity he wished them The Mass of All Souls' Day is offered was that they should get into line with for the dead, and is a reminder to us the old Apostolic Church."

ber especially, though we should not resolution as above given was carried majority must suffer thereby also. as expressing his views.

The Presbyterians were, of course sharp enough to see the point, and mitted to their reward, to join the they very naturally inferred that the greeting meant that Presbyterianism should be absorbed into Anglicanisma solution of the problem of unity which they are not disposed to entertain for a moment. They maintain the validity of Presbyterian orders. which are known to be non-Apostolic, and they are consequently not willing to admit even by implication that apostolicity of succession is requisite at all. Hence, while for appearance sake is so consoling to devout Christians. they did not wish to make manifest to the outside world the radical difference which exists between the two denominations on this subject, they wished to incorporate into their reply an expression of the Presbyterian sentiment, so it was resolved that the words of good will should be reciprocated with the hope expressed that Christians may attain "the unity of the Church for which Christ prayed."

There is in this a touch of sarcast which would be amusing if it were not on so serious a subject as the unity o professing Christians in the one fold which Christ established. It is, of Christian unity which is possible is unity in faith and subjection to the divinely appointed Supreme Head of the Church, the lawful successor of St. Peter. But this is denied by both Presbyterians and Anglicans, and hence arise the attempts to create a novel kind of union by a compromise of doctrine, such as Christ never contemplated or authorized.

The Anglican proposal, it is acknowledged, hurt their pride, and the only way they could show their resentment was to pass the resolution of reciprocity of greetings and good will in the form they adopted, with the clause which means that the unity desired is not such as the synod indicated, but the "unity for which Christ prayed." which is understood by them to mean 'the sanctification of Christians through the truth."

This is very vague, for we may well In view of the amount of the predic. | ask, will a unity effected by a compromise of Christian doctrines be the sanctifying truth referred to?

It is evident that both assemblies left the terms of union purposely vague, even while interchanging these bits of sarcasm, which they term greetings, so that if any future negotiations take place, both may say that their Churches have not committed themselves to any particular opinion on terms of union. Of course we know at present what the two resolutions mean, for they were interpreted by the speakers who moved them; but hereafter when the speeches of members shall be forgotten, they will be regarded as not defining anything in particular.

It must be remarked, however, that Christ instructed His Apostles to teach n a very different style, that is, defin-"whatsoever I have comitely, manded."

This touch of half-latent sarcasm does not strike us as quite the spirit which would have predominated in an assembly of the Apostles; and certainly it would not have been found in the proceedings of a Catholic General Council, which is always regarded as a serious matter.

IRELAND'S PROSPECTS.

Notwithstanding numerous prognos ications by the enemies of Home Rule that the Liberal majority of forty in the British House of Commons being a heterogeneous one which would soon oreak up, thus endangering the success of the Irish Home Rule Bill, there is no appearance of any tendency in this direction. On the contrary, there is every reason to hope that the measure will be carried through triumphantly by a compact though small majority. The dangers which it was supposed would threaten to break up the Gladstonian majority were said to be loomng up from various quarters. First comes the certainty that in so large a body as the House of Commons there must occur many vacancies from time to time, which, of course, will require to be filled up.

Already Mr. Gladstone has lost one seat by a bye-election, his majority being thus reduced to 38. No one, unless he were a prophet in his own estimation, would venture to predict dogmatically what the casual by-elections may bring forth; but there are a few wise-acres who profess to be very learned on this point who express most must be the discomfiture of the Libby-election which has taken place, where the Liberals were under the disadvantage of having a stranger to the constituency opposed to a well-known and personally popular Conservative, can be an indication of dissolution in the Liberal ranks. There was but a tion. All this he could not do so small Liberal majority to be broken down, and it was broken down, giving the Conservative candidate a majority of three. But we believe that the tendency of British public opinion will be what it was during Lord Salisbury's regime, and that tendency arose from a growing desire to give justice to Ireland, a desire which we believe is still growing. We are not oversanguine, therefore, in expecting that this growth of a love of fair-play will result in increasing, rather than diminishing Mr. Gladstone's majority, though there may be an occasional regrettable loss of a seat. The three labor candidates were another source of danger, it was evident are of frequent occurrence, supposed. It is now almost certain that no danger will arise from this ill-gotten goods, or as obliging the quarter. It appears that the labor candidates have fallen into the ordinary course of those Independents who are known to have a leaning toward course, clear to Catholics that the only the Government side. The experi- the Liverpool Catholic Times is one of ence is that they become much more tractable under Parliamentary discipline than they were when they were only candidates for Parliamentary view, as well as to the penitent personhonors; and the usual fate seems to ally from a spiritual standpoint: be that of the labor men in the new House.

The Irish party, of course, number power, but an address issued recently by Mr. Justin McCarthy positively states that the relations between the Irish party and Mr. Gladstone's Government are most cordial and friendly. The Nationalists know what will be the terms of Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule Bill, and they declare themselves satisfied therewith. Almost simultane-Mr. John Redmond appearing in the Nineteenth Century Magazine, in that party are not disposed now to assume an attitude of hostility to Mr. Gladstone. In fact Mr. Redmond's demands on behalf of his section of Irishmen differ so little from those of Mr. McCarthy that there is really no reason why the followers of both leaders should not cordially unite. At all events all danger of defeat to Mr. Gladstone seems to be now averted, and there is no reason to suppose that the Home Rule scheme will meet with serious opposition from any section of the Liberals.

THE CONFESSIONAL.

There is no practice of the Catholic Church more persistently assailed than that of confession of sin to the priest who has from Christ the authority to absolve the sinner. Yet it is a matter of frequent occurrence that practical evidence is given of the utility of confession as the most powerful of means for bringing back the sinner from his evil ways, and leading him to make full reparation for the past in a way to which he could not be induced by any other means known.

We are told, indeed, that we should confess our sins to God alone, who alone is able to forgive, and "if we confess our sins. He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all iniquity." (1 Jno.

But those who reason thus completely overlook the fact that God has Himself given to man the power of forgiving sins. The Apostles were men to whom Christ said, "Receive ve the Holy Ghost, whose sins you shall forgive they are forgiven them, and whose sins you shall retain they are retained." (Jno. xx., 23.)

It will be noticed that it was the same Apostle and Evangelist who records in his Gospel that Christ gave this power to men, and who stated in his Epistle that God grants forgiveness, and cleanses from all iniquity those who confess their sins. This confession must therefore be made to those to whom God has granted the power of forgiving sins, that is to say, to menthe Apostles and those who succeed legitimately to the authority of the Apostles, the pastors of the Catholic Church.

The reason why our Blessed Lord has instituted confession of sins to the pastors of His Church as the medium by which forgiveness is to be obtained indifferent regarding the result, and lawyer for the office of Judge. They is readily understood to be because did not register. We presume that decided convictions that their result through confession of his sins the must be the discomfiture of the Lib-penitent Christian is brought into erals. They say that the Government immediate intercourse with his pastor, desire its perpetuation if it be liable to, evidently gone mad in Detroit.

the dead during the month of Novem- by several other speakers, and the tingencies, and that Mr. Gadstone's to advise and encourage him to return Popery outcry, or if it is to be made a to God, and to avoid sin and its pretext for exciting religious rancor We cannot believe that the single occasions for the future. The pastor at every annual school election. is also his spiritual physician, who by probing the maladies of his soul is enabled to prescribe the most efficacious remedies against his falling again into the same sinful habits, and to > effectually unless he knew the maladjes which afflict the penitent's soul; and it is easy to see that he can obtain this knowledge only through the humble confession of the penitent.

The priest who hearscon fessions is also by the terms of his commission a judge who by a knowledge of the penitents disposition decides whether his pated at the time, the triumph was of or her sins should be forgiven or retained. To fulfil this office he must hear the penitent's confession, as he has no other means of ascertaining the grounds on which he must form his judgment.

Cases in which the good resulting from the confessional has been made whether as causing the restoration of penitent to repair an injury done to another's character.

The following incident recently reported by the Roman correspondent of these occurrences which prove the great benefit of confession to society in general, even from a material point of "About a month ago, Joseph Gottardi, an advocate of Milan, lost his pocketbook, containing the sum of 1,500 francs in bank-notes. He informed ing seventy, have the balance of the police of his loss, and promised to give 500 francs to the restorer of the lost property. Nothing more was heard of the matter, and the advocate had lost all hope of ever seeing his pocket-book again, when a few days since he received a visit from a priest, who announced himself as messenger of a repentant sinner, and, at the same time, t ld him that one o his penitents had found the lost pocket book and its contents; that at first she ously with this we have an article from had rejoiced at her good luck, but that conscience had now made itself heard, and in her remorse she had gone to her confessor for pardon. The priest, how which the position of the Parnellites is ever, made her undertake the axion defined, and from this it appears that of justice that sin is not remitted as ong as restitution is not made to others. Briefly, the penitent charged the conessor to restore the pocket-book to its owner on condition that her name should be kept a secret. The ad vocate, on his part, begged the faith ful guide of souls to convey the promised 500 francs to the better-latethan-never penitent.

HISTORY REPEATED.

The virulence with which the parsons ppose Catholic education in every possible way has been recently exemplified at Faribault, Minn. This was one of the two places in Archbishop Ireland's diocese where an experiment was made by compromise with the Public School Board, whereby out of school hours Catholic instruction should be given to Catholic children, while uring school hours the curriculum of the Public schools was duly followed. Arrangements were also made by which the Catholic children were taught by a religious community, the teachers being legally certificated.

With this arrangement the Catholic schools of the town were placed under the management of the School Board, and the Public School funds were apportioned to them the same as to the other Public schools of the town. This is the celebrated Faribault plan about which there has been so much discussion throughout the United States.

It was perfectly well understood that this plan is not all that might be desired in the way of Catholic education, but Archbishop Ireland agreed to adopt it experimentally in certain places where it might be expected to work satisfactorily as a partial solution of the much discussed school problem.

For more than a year this compromise has been in operation, and it was supposed that it might continue without interruption for many years. But the parsons of the town had a notion that the arrangement is in some way favorable to Catholics. and worked indefatigably to defeat it. with the result that, as was done two or three years ago in Boston, the Protestant women of the town, induced by strong representations from the pulpits, registered as voters, and at the elections held recently turned out 450 strong to elect School Board candidates opposed to the plan.

They succeeded in their wishes, as the Catholic women appear to have been

The consequence will be that the compromise will be abandoned, and the Catholic schools will be re-assumed by the parochial authorities, and will be worked as distinctively Catholic strengthen him against future tempta- schools.

The women's voting crusade in Boston was a subject for much boasting by fanatics all over the United States and Canada, and soon after it occurred the notorious Justin D. Fulton boasted in Toronto of the part he had taken in bringing it about. It was also a theme for self-gratulation with the anti-Catholic press, but, as we anticithe most transitory character. The fanatics were themselves out, and in two years the reaction was so great that fanaticism was defeated at the polls by a majority of about 13,000.

We have no doubt that at Faribault the results would be somewhat similar, though on a smaller scale, if the Catholics think fit to resent what has occurred, but we understand that, having satisfied themselves that they need not expect any fair play from the pretended friends of civil and religious liberty, they will act on their own resources and continue their schools as parochial schools; and under the circumstances this is perhaps as wise a course as can be pursued.

The Catholic religious have made their contract as teachers for the coming year, but as they would probably be subjected to petty persecution by the new School Board, it is altogether likely that they will seek to cancel at once the precarious arrangement which has been made.

The chief difficulty in such arrangements seems to be that the enemies of Catholic education have too much power to interfere with and practically nullify them. A like arrangement had been made at Stillwater, another town in the same diocese, but the experience there has been similar to that at Faribault, and two months ago the Catholic school authorities found it necessary to notify the Public School Board that the parochial schools would be taken from the jurisdiction of the Board and reopened as Catholic schools at the termination of the current school year.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

MR. STUART KNILL, the Catholic new Lord Mayor of London, was received by Baron Herschell, the Lord Chancellor of Great Britain, according to custom. in the House of Lords on Monday, 24th inst. He was accompanied by the city officials. The Lord Chancellor made some comments upon the determined hostility which had been manifested against Mr. Knill's election owing to his creed, and said that "undoubtedly the time is past when it was impossible for a Catholic to hold office without paltering with his religious convictions. Happily the battle of religious liberty has been fought and won, and the creed in which a man believes is no barrier to privileges, rights and honors." Fanatics on this side of the Atlantic would do well to ponder on Baron Herschell's words of wisdom. If they had thought of these things in proper time we would not have had the nsuccessful anti-Catholic agitations which have disgraced Canada within the past few years, and certain legal lights would not have been guilty of such a breach of decorum as to main tain in the Canadian House of Commons the incongruity that penal laws against Catholics, which are obsolete in England, are still in force in Can-Even where any such laws have apparently retained their theoretical force, for want of having been repealed by positive legislation, they must be ignored; and if that be not sufficient, they must, and will, be blotted out by new legislation. THE Detroit Public Board of Education have stultified themselves by passing a resolution that "no person shall henceforth be eligible to teach in our Public schools who has not received his or her entire education in our Public schools and shall be a graduate of one of our higher schools." This is, of course, aimed at the Catholic teachers, but beside the bad grammar, the Board have brought upon themselves the ridicule of the whole Repub lic by their folly. According to the resolution, no one who has graduated in any University, or who has learned anything out of the Public schools is to be employed. The New York Sun says of these Detroiters that evidently "they do not want teachers who know too much." It adds: "This enlightened action is very much like the course pursued Farmers' Alliance party in Kansas, which forbade the nomination of any succeeded in electing one candidate to

Special to the CAT ARCHBISH

NOVEMI

His Grace, A

Sunday, the 2 special interes Niagara Falls. their memories ing fondness to occasion-the 1 of their commod school. On S. signor Rooney and became the and energetic Dominic O'Mall Sunday more brated early M an eloquent a on the gospel Very Rev. Mo great and ab dedicatory cere the afternoon. Long before the grounds ad crowded with a people, young a Catholic-all al the important c the C. M. B. A. while the school bright, happy f light, occupied the old to the n

His Grace soc parochial resid Monsignor Ro Dean Harris of ite Monasterv Proceeding th formed by the members of th Grace stopped a the new schoo entrance, His the walls with I building and each room in st After the con ing ceremony the front balcon McCarney, a yo of age, approa distinct voice, 1

ADDRESS FROM

To His Grace th Archbishop of Archbishop of MAY IT PLEA
the children of St Falls, extend to welcome on this ti of our new school
With eager lor joyful event whice ilege of welcomin
ing you the tribu devotedness. H month have we le that your blessing the labor of the s to employ well ti are glad to assur
our progress hith tory, we anxiousl our progress hith tory, we anxiousl advantages to be well-equipped be occupy, which, we monument of th
among the ratepunanimous aid to We believe the due to our much whose wise admi
the parish, the pe
the management
We express the be pleased with y at Niagara Fallyourself as it is HisGrace rep the children. regular attenda and strive ear learning and v women and go was then Quillinan, the county, of wh

Ni.
To His Grace to Archbishop of MAY IT PLEA auspicious occasion the purpose of head Catholics of this Grace a most cor Grace a most cor sincere love and to manifest our Archbishop once enloyment of goo Knowing the d in Catholic educations and the control of th appliances, we prosper more an Divine Model, to advanced in with God and me As members Benefit Associat manner to ten profound homas Adviser of our we unmindful odays of its in Your Grace w diocese, its succence—was due to agement which hands. Hence i your diocese befwhere. Now, lik it has grown to it by a no-

made a rancor

that the ed, and assumed and will

Catholic

e in Bosboasting

ed States occurred boasted taken in with the e antici-was of

r. The

and in so great

at the aribault similar,

he Cathvhat has hat, hav-hey need

the pre-religious

r own re-chools as the cir-

s wise a ve made for the ould propersecuard, it is ll seek to arrange-nemies of o much

d practi-arrange-tillwater.

ocese, but n similar

o months

athorities

he Public

al schools

risdiction

s Catholic of the holic new ceived by hancellor o custom. day, 24th y the city lor made termined anifested owing to doubtedly mpossible without religious eves is no

de of the isdom. If things in ve had the agitations

la within ain legal guilty of to main-

of Com-

enal laws

obsolete e in Can-laws have heoretical repealed must be sufficient,

ed out by oard of selves by no person

o teach in received our Pubraduate of

This is,

Catholic

grammar,

pon them-le Repubng to the

is learned hools is to ork Sun evidently hers who : "This ry much

by the Kansas, on of any ge. They

ing sense

to qualify ticism has it.

3,000.

ARCHBISHOP WALSH AT

INIAGARA FALLS.

His Grace, Assisted by Monsignor

Rooney, Dedicates the new Separate School.

Sunday, the 23rd inst., was a day of special interest to the Catholics of Niagara Falls. For years to come their memories will revert with pleasing fondness to the ceremony on that occasion—the blessing and dedication of their commodious and beautiful new extending over our fair land, affording shelter and comtort and assistance to the needy and destitute.

In conclusion we beg to solicit Your Grace's blessing and assiste Your Grace that our fervent prayers shall be offered up before the throne of the Most High, that your health and strength may be spared the spiritural wants of your extensive discess.

James Quillinan, John Fry, Wm. Burke, P. Kelly, Louis Drago, Jas Abbott, P. Kelly, Louis Drago, Jas Abbott, P. Ghagon, James Bampfield, Jas. J. Flynn. Geo. Seales. occasion—the blessing and dedication of their commodious and beautiful new school. On Saturday evening His congratulated the Catholics of the par-ish upon the completion of the school, signor Rooney arrived from Toronto, and expressed the sincere pleasure he and became the guests of the worthy and energetic pastor — the Rev. Dominic O'Malley.

an eloquent and impressive sermon on the gospel of the day. The 8 o'clock Mass was celebrated by the Very Rev. Monsignor Rooney. The great and abiding interest of the parishioners, however, centered in the dedicatory ceremony at half past 3 in the afternoon.

Long before the appointed hour the grounds adjoining the school and church, and the avenue in front, were church, and the avenue in front, were crowded with an expectant throng of people, young and old, Protestant and Catholic—all alike anxious to witness tinuings. His Grace very nignty edited that great divided the zeal and ability of that great divided the appearance of the appearance of the orator the Post says:

"It was a striking figure, a personthe important ceremony.

The members of Branch No. 18, of the C. M. B. A., were present in full force, wearing their handsome badges; while the school children, with their bright, happy faces beaming with delight, occupied the route leading from the old to the new school buildings.

Father Kreidt, Superior of the Carmelite Monastery at the Falls, and the pastor, Rev. Dominic O'Malley.

Proceeding through the double line formed by the school children and the members of the C. M. B. A., His Grace stopped at the front entrance of the new school. Having blessed the entrance, His Grace and assistants passed around the building, sprinkling the walls with holy water as they proceeded. His Grace next entered the building and blessed and dedicated each room in succession.

After the conclusion of the interesting ceremony His Grace returned to the front balcony, when Master Charles McCarney, a youth of about ten years of age, approached, and, in a clear, distinct voice, read the following

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR GRACE.—We, the children of St. Patrick's school, Niagara Falls, extend to Your Grace a most cordial welcome on this the occasion of the blessing of our new school.

His Grace replied in a few well chosen words of encouragement and advice to the children. He hoped they would be regular attendants in their new school, and strive earnestly to acquire both learning and virtue at the same time, and thereby grow up to good men and women and good Christians.

An address on behalf the C. M. B. A. was then read by Mr. James Quillinan, the District Deputy for the county, of which the following is the

Niagara Falls, Oct. 23, 1892. To His Grace the Most Rev. Dr. Walsh, Archbishop of Toronto:

Replying to this address His Grace purpose as the dedication of so fine a building wherein their children would Sunday morning His Grace celebrated early Mass at 7.30; and at the High Mass at half past 10 he preached welfare demanded that they should be welfare demanded that they should be thoroughly instructed in secular education, while their spiritual welfare, which was of infinitely greater importance, made it absolutely necessary to have their youthful minds fully im-pressed with the knowledge and practice of our holy religion. everywhere, and have been earnestly sought for to establish their schools in various parts of the great West. He was not not, therefore, surprised to learn that their labors were so satisfactory at Niagara Falls. His Grace and a half addressed the audience on stated that he regarded the school as the portal of the Church; without the land.' parechial residence, accompanied by Monsignor Rooney, the Very Rev. Dean Harris of St. Catharines, the Rev. Father Kreidt, Superior of the Canadian tously with their good to know that the Liberals, now a member of the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals, now a member of the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals, now a member of the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals, now a member of the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals is a liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals is a liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals is a liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals is a liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals is a liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals is a liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals is a liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals is a liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals is a liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberals is a liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberal to the British iously with their good to know that the Liberal to the British iously with their good to know the British iously with the British iously w wished to introduce to the people of eloquent and pointed sentences.

Niagara Falls the Very Rev. Mon
"Above the average height, a services. Monsignor Rooney gave a very interesting address on Cathone education. He had for years taken an active interest in their schools at are restless handcaps preceded the Toronto, which he was happy to state entrance of Mr. Blake, but when, under the escort of Mayor Matthews, the Hon. To priests seldom or never depends on the escort of Mayor Matthews, the Hon. Joseph H. interesting address on Catholic educadistinct voice, read the following ADDRESS FROM THE SCHOOL CHILDREN:

To His Grace the Most Rev. John Walsh, Archbishop of Toronto:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR GRACE.—We,

May IT PLEASE YOUR GRACE.—We, the competition was open to the entire province, this signal victory, achieved by a pupil of one of their Catholic utmost freedom of intercourse with our fervor and effectiveness. His long adbrethren of other religious denomina-tions. He eulogized very highly the profound attention, and interspersed intellectual training of our Public throughor schools, but considered they did not plaudits. schools, but considered they did not pay proper attention to the moral and spiritual parts of our complex nature. he delivered from prepared notes, he Greece and Rome attained a proud prepaid a fitting tribute to the genius of Charles Stewart Parnell and the results equally distinguished. Yet they were wanting in virtue, because they were religious belief and worship. Their civilization, consequently, became steeped in corruption, and were Ningara Falls, Oct. 23, 1892.

To His Grace the Most Res. Dr. Wath, Archistop of Toronto: GRACE—On the anything to the Catholic Charles of Your present visit for the purpose of blessing our new school, the Catholic Soft his parish desire to tender Your Grace a most cordial welcome, to express our to manifest our loy on having our beloved to manifest our loy of having our love to encourage the deep interest which you take in cash of manifest our recent progress in that respect will prove fully as gratifying to Your Grace and the mental, does not for a challed the form the encouragement and hearty cooperation the necessary expense. Now, however, owing to the encouragement and hearty cooperation of our cherished pastor, few. Father O'Malley, the heart of the encouragement and hearty cooperation of our cherished pastor, few. Father O'Malley, the encouragement and hearty cooperation of the encouragement and hearty coope civilization, consequently, became steeped in corruption, and was swept out of existence. The Catholic Church Parnell during the last months of his while there may be a few who pre-tended to do so for the purpose of are here to-night to welcome and listen archdiocese of Boston one of the most paying their respects to this Grace and intelligence of and inspecting the interior of the building. The latter is 60x40 feet, two stories, in height, containing four large school rooms, well lighted and ventilated, besides halls and clothes rooms. It is built of pressed brick with substantial stone basement able, benefit to the gause he has a prepared himself useful to the land of his ancestors, and he will be of incalculations. brick with substantial stone basement. The latter affords place for the heating apparatus, and supply of coal, besides ample play rooms for the scholars when the weather would be unfavorable for outdoor amusements. From the school His Grace and assistants adjourned to the church, where he brought the interesting ceremony to a close by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Warm Reception by the Hub's Home Rulers.

The Boston papers gave Mr. Blake's address on Home Rule a great deal of space. The Herald devoted four columns of space to the meeting, published by the character of his reception. doth it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Continuing, His Grace very highly eulo-iously with their good pastor, and forceful speaker, and again and again trusted they would continue to second the Temple rung with generous aphis efforts in the future. He said he plause at the conclusion of one of his the most effective presentation of the

"Above the average height, a wellsignor Rooney, who was chairman built frame in a long frock coat, locks of the Board of Catholic School Trustees tinged with gray, one of which fell in of the city of Toronto, and who had a Beaconsfield curl on a massive fore-been recently honored by His Holi-ness, the Supreme Pontiff, by being tache to hide their clear, marbled outelevated to the dignity of a Prelate of line, a sensitive mouth and eyes which the Papal household, as a mark of at times glanced fire behind a pair of appreciation of his long and eminent gold-rimmed spectacles, these are some of the characteristics of the statesman who was accorded such a grand welswelled into an ovation.

"Cheer after cheer arose as the great Parliamentarian placed the notes

reals, extend to our Grace a most cordial welcome, this signal victory, achieved welcome on this the occasion of the Descape and province, this signal victory, achieved welcome on this the occasion of the Descape and province, this signal victory, achieved by a pupil of one of their Catholic Grace and the victorial province, this signal victory, achieved by a pupil of one of their Catholic Grace and the victorial province, this signal victory, achieved by a pupil of one of their Catholic Grace and the victorial province, this signal victory, achieved by a pupil of one of their Catholic Grace and the victorial province, this signal victory, achieved by a pupil of one of their Catholic Grace and the victorial province, this signal victory, achieved by a pupil of one of their Catholic Grace and the victorial province, this signal victory, achieved by a pupil of one of their Catholic Grace and the victorial province, this signal victory, achieved by a pupil of one of their Catholic Grace and the pupil of one of their Catholic Grace and seven in the pupil of the schools. The thermal devotedness. How often during the past much have well easily and the province of the schools were fully abreast of the times of his speech on the radiing of the schools were fully abreast of the through the victorial province of the school.

The Catholic Church favored the had smilling the that the mental and physical to the short of his speech to the had smilling with the people and inclusted, hand in the pupil of one of their clearning, their piety and their business ability; but it has solitory that the position of the schools were fully abreast of the through the victorial province of the school and catholic Church favored cannot have well as the pupil of one of their clear and position out with the schools and the pupil of one of their clear and the position out when the great archideces, and devotedness. How the mental and physical to the suppose and and the question of the schools and province and position out when the great archi throughout with volleys of enthusiastic behalf of his country; but, in dwelling upon the present needs of Ireland and benefit to the cause he has so manfully espoused. No Tory can stand in the House of Commons and say what Home Rule is not while

'We who have heard his eloquent, patriotic and philosophical discussion in Tremont Temple to-night, much of which was new to us, are heartily glad of the opportunity to meet him here in the land of true freedom. We MR. BLAKE'S BOSTON MEETING. are glad that he has taken us in on his way to England to permit us to shake his hand and wish him God-

dward Blake is there to proclaim speed in his battle."

AN EDITORIAL EXPRESSION.
Speaking of the meeting editorially, the Post says:—The Hon. Edward Blake has reason to understand, we tion here in Boston, the ardent interes which this community feels in the success of the cause which he repre sents in the British Parliament. There is probably no other city in this country in which exists a more intelligent appreciation of the merits of the Home Rule question or a more general and hearty sympathy with those who are laboring secure the rights of Irishmen in Ire-

Mr. Blake's address at Tremont Temple last evening was therefore delivered before a sympathetic audience, and one which was quick to understand the full bearing of his remarks and to Liberals, now a member of the British House of Commons, is a logical and forceful speaker, and again and again dress was admirable in its style and Home Rule question which Boston has heard, and this is saying a great deal.

CATHOLIC BISHOPS.

Sound Business Ability of More Value

Says the New York Sun: The re mark has been made frequently that the clergy of the Catholic Church are, as a rule, inferior, in the matter of eloquence, to the ministers of Protest ters are usually promoted according to the qualities they display in the pulpit. Whether this is a fact or not, it is certain that the men who have reached the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the United States are not generally dis-tinguished for their eloquence. They McCloskey's successor.

Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, primate of the American Catholic Church, has never been described as AN ELOQUENT PREACHER. Like Archbishop Corrigan he is a pleasant, fatherly talker, and, like him, he has managed his Archdiocese with signal success. His winning personality has had much to do with his advancement. He is regarded as the ablest diplomatist in the hierarchy. He is as orthodox as the Pope, yet his liberality of opinion in matters not relating strictly to dogma done much to remove prejudice against the Roman Catholic Church in his Archdiocese and throughout the country. It is said that he has made his clergy a model for the whole Church in the matter of harmony and united effort in any direction of endeavor suggested by him. The Cardinal was always distinguished for his power to attract men and mould their minds to his way of thinking. And he did it, too, without the gift of eloquence.

Archbishop Williams of Boston does not figure conspicuously in the pulpit, and never did. He is an able business man, has an attractive persono the ality, and is an example of piety. He prosperous in the country.

Archbishop Janssens of New Orleans is a poor orator, but an able prelate. As vicar-general of the Richmond diocese he showed remarkable business talent, and was made bishop of Natchez. Later on he was elevated to the archbishopric of New Orleans. He is the handsomest of the arch-bishops, and has all the qualities the cause of Home Rule in the British | which make up a popular society man, in the best sense of that term.

Archbishop Elder of Cincinnati seldom appears in the pulpit. He is, perhaps, the least eloquent preacher in the hierarchy. He generally READS FROM MANUSCRIPT

-a practice very rare in the Catholic Church. Business ability won for him the pallium. He was Bishop Natchez when Archbishop Purcell of .

After the addresses His Grace gave of the Irish Parliamentary party to a reception in the new school, where the people spent a pleasant half hour paying their respects to His Grace heart, experience and intelligence of willing to undertake the work of respectively.

The venerable Archbishop Kenrick of St. Louis, the oldest prelate in the American Church, did not reach his present dignity by efforts in the pulpit. He is a good speaker, but not eloquent. Yet he founded and built up one of the great Archdioceses of the country, and manages it with great ability, and without even the assistance of a coadjutor since Bishop Ryan was transferred to Philadelphia.

Archbishop Feehan of Chicago was known as a man of great executive ability while he was Bishop of Nashville, Tenn. He was a fair speaker, but some of his friends were more eloquent. He was made Archbishop of Chicago, because he Chicago because he was the abliest business man available at a time when the Chicago Diocese needed to put its affairs in order.

A BUSIMESS MAN

Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco, the only man in the history of the Church in America who was taken from the priesthood and made an Archbishop, is what is commonly termed a good preacher; but his remarkable promotion was due to his business talents and his majestic personality, Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul might be described in much the same way.

The two really eloquent wearers of the pallium are Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia and Archbishop Gross of Portland, Ore. The former was called the "Bossuet of the Missouri" when he was coadjutor to the arch-bishop of St. Louis. He is also known as the "golden-tongued orator of the Roman Catholic hierarchy." most men of genius he is a shrewd business man.

Archbishop Gross was a Redemptor ist priest in Boston when he was made Bishop of Savannah, Ga. He was the most powerful speaker in his order and had been heard in missions in all parts of the country. The title generally conceded to him is the 'silver-tongued orator of the hier-

There are many good speakers among the Roman Catholic bishops, but few have gained fame by their eloquence. Bishop J. J. Keane of the Catholic Universty at Washington ranks first among the few. He is the only bishop, within the writer's knowledge, who was elevated to a bishopric solely because he was a great preacher. When he was made Bishop of Richmond, V., he had not been even pastor of a church. His reputation was gained in the pulpit as an assistant priest in Washington.

bishop of Newark, made him Cardinal tive answer would carry me to too great a length. I may say, however, that the general principle underlying the answer is that a Catholic may no take part in the religious services of a false religion, and that a strict conse quence of this is that he may not even seem or be understood by men to take part in such service. Fidelity to the Divine Founder of his religion forbids him to participate in the functions of any non-Catholic religion or sect, while duty towards his neighbor forbids him even to appear to be wanting in fidelity to the religion established by his Divine Redeemer. This general prin-ciple remaining intact, I answer that there may be cases in which a Catholic might be present at a service in a non-Catholic place of worship in an official capacity, as, for instance, in the case of soldiers and policemen on duty, and of certain official attendants upon the person of a master or sovereign. But as a Catholic is in no case allowed to enter into communion with another religion, so he is in no case allowed even to appear to enter into such com-munion. To proceed further and discuss the question of what constitutes an appearance of the kind referred to is beyond your inquiry, and might lead to refinements and distinctions which it is well to keep clear of when possible. In concluding my reply, I may, per haps, be permitted to express my ad miration for the impartiality and Eng lish fairness which have to-day decided a debated question in the city of Lon

Believe me, sir, Yours faithfully, HERBERT,

Archbishop of Westminster. Archbishop's House, Westminister, S. W., Sept. 29.

The man who is suspicious lives in a constant state of unhappiness. It would be better for his peace of mind to be too trustful than too guarded.

There are seasons when to be still demands immeasurably higher strength than to act. Composure is often the highest result of power.

All our life is made of little things, Our chain of life is forged of little rings, And little words and acts uplift the soul,

Aristocratic "Jags."

Lady Frederick Cavendish, in her recent speech to the Women's Congress in England, has been "letting the cat out of the bag." She boldly charges that in the higher circles of English society, the women—most of them are Ladies—are becoming alarmingly addicted to looking upon the wine when it is red. And worse than that they have recourse to opium and morphine, "cocktails" and "gin fizzes" to vary the monotony of conventional drinks. The result, according to Lady Cavendish, is a widespread degeneration of social femininity and frequent recourse to physicians for the cure of "nervous prostration" which is nothing more or less than

This is a nice state of affairs. When the "British h'Aristocracy" as Mr. the "British h Aristocracy as Mr. Yellowplush would remark, begins coing to the dogs, there is "no predicting h'anythink, nohow." To add to the horror of the situation, add to the horror of the situation, young girls are reported as secretly prone to smoking cigarettes and cigars. A bad old Duke of Norfolk used to say: "On Friday, with the blessing of God, I shall be drunk," and "Drunk as a Lord" was and is a common proverb to express the ne plus ultra of intoxication; but when plus uitra of intexteation; but when in the evolution and development of "h'Aristocraey" we have to revise the saying to read "Drunk as a Lordess," it is, as tragedy queens say, "too much." How long will the thickwitted middlemen of England this sort of thing from their tand this sort of thing from their 'divinely appointed " superiors? How ong will the British democracy suffer itself to be legally branded as of "lower caste" than these delectable drunkards? Or do the English commoners still, like little Tommy, "dearly love a lord "?-Buffalo Union.

> WEDDING-BELLS. MADDEN-KENNY.

Madden-Kenny.

A very interesting and pleasing event was witnessed for the first time in the church of St. Plus of Oscoola, on Tuesday, Oct. 25th. At a Octock on the morning of that day a happy couple became joined in the holy bonds of matrimony. The bridegroom was James F. Maiden, Esq., aiderman of the city of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and the bride Miss M. B. Kenny of the same place, first cousin of the Rev. Father Devine, the popular priest of Oscoola, with whom she had been residing for some time. The bride was most beautifully attired in a fawn travelling cult, and was attended by her cousin, Miss B. K. Devine, who is also sister of Father Devine. Mr. John P. Kenny, brother of the bride, performed a similar duty for the groom. Rev. Father Devine celebrated the algorithm Mass. Tresent in the sametuary were appeared by the constitution of Douglas, Mc. Cormacy. Fathers Marion of Douglas, Mc. Cormacy. Fathers Marion of Douglas, Mr. D. Shield spresded at the organ, and the choir rendered special presents of the price of the friends, the bride was made the resents of the conclusion of Mass, after receiving the congratulations of their friends, the bride was papered the friends, and New York also, on their way to their father home in Pittsburg. We heartly join with their numerous friends and acquaintances in wishing the happy couple the enjoyment of a long, prosperous and happy nuptial life.

GREAT OFFER

The CATHOLIC RECORD

FOR ONE YEAR

-AND-Webster's - Dictionary FOR $4.00.

By special arrangement with the publishers, we are able to obtain a number of the above books, and propose to furnish a copy to each of our subscribers.

The dictionary is a necessity in every home, school and business house. It fills a vacancy, and furnishes knowledge which no one hundred other volumes of the choicest books could supply. Young and Old, Educated and Ignorant, Rich and Poor, should have it within reach, and refer to its contents every day in the year.

As some have asked if this is really the Original Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, we are able to state that we have learned direct from the publishers the fact that this is the very work complete, on which about 40 of the best years of the author's life were so well employed in writing. It contains the entire vocabulary of about 100,000 words, including the correct spelling, derivation and definition of same, and is the regular standard size, containing about 300,000 square inches of printed surface, and is bound in cloth.

A whole library in itself. The regular selining price of Webster's Dictionary has heretofore been $12.00.

N. B.—Dictionaries will be delivered free of cost in the Express Office in London. All orders must be accompanied with the cash. If the book is not entirely satisfactory to the purchaser it may be returned at our expense, if the distance is not more than 200 miles from London.

I am well pleased with Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. I find it a, nost valuable work.

John A. P. NR.

LONDON. ONT.

Address, THE CATHOLIC RECORD,

A Prize Rebus.

The above is the name of a large American city Mail us fifteen cents in postage stamps or silver and we will send you a package of American Complex, ion Powder, and one American Perfume Package, worth 25 cents each. We will also give the following prizes: To the first person who gives the sorrect name of the above city, a Lady's Gold Watch; second, a Gold Bracelet; third, a Gold Ring; fourth, Gold Chain and Charm; fifth, a Coin Silver Watch; sixth, a Silk Dress, and a valuable prize will also be given to every person who gives the correct name of the above city, until one hundred and twenty-five prizes have been awarded, should thee be that many. Every letter must contain 15 cents for which we send the lowder and Perfume packet. State where you, seen this advertisment. Address, AMER' TOLKE & Co., Box 49, Yorkville P.O., Torouto.

I hid my love when near you, My pain for your sweet sake; But now that you are absent, My heart must speak or break. God save you from such passion, It never knows despair, For whether kind or cruel, You are the only fair.

You will not see me, sweetest, Nor answer when I call; But I will follow, follow Beyond the giant's wall. Go, shut your door against me, I will not doubt or fear; God still leaves one door open, The door of hope, my dear!

Could I have loved another,
That time is now no more;
I cover with my kisses
The threshold of your door.
Open the door of pity,
And hear my burning sigh,
For absent from you longer Is sadder than to die.
—Richard Henry Stoddard.

NOT IN OUR FAITH. ne of the Things that Catholics d

1. Catholics do not believe that there is any other Mediator of Redemption than our Saviour Jesus "For there is no other name under heaven given to men, whereby we must be saved" than that of Jesus (Acts of the Apostles, iv. 12); and when they call the Blessed Virgin or any other saint a mediator, it is not in the sense of Mediator of Redemption attributed to our Saviour, but in the sense of intercessor or pleader, in which sense any Christian may be called a mediator, whenever he intercedes, or mediates between God and his follow-man. as Abraham and Moses and St. Paul did, and thus prays for his neighbor. God Himself should pray for them, and God promised to accept his prayers.

2. Catholics do not believe that the Blessed Virgin is in any way equal or even comparable to God, for she, being a creature, although the most highly favored, is infinitely less than God. Nor do they claim for her any power beyond that which she derives from Him; for she is entirely dependent on God for her existence, her privileges, her grace and her

The strong, loving expressions used oftentimes by Catholics, which seem to attribute to the Blessed Virgin more than is here stated, are to be under stood in the limited sense meant by Catholics themselves, as here explained that is, in a way consistent with the Catholic teaching and not in the unlimited, un-Catholic sense which per-sons not understanding that teaching may be led to apply to them. These tender expressions ought not to be judged of by cold or hostile criticism, they spring from fervent, heartfelt devotion and unmeasured love.

It is common practice among men to use expressions which are true only in a secondary and limited sense. For instance, a great poet or artist is spoken of as "divine;" mothers often call their children their little "angels, "kings," and "queens," and are said to "adore" or "idolize" them; and no one thinks of blaming such tender exaggerations. And again, in the Marriage Service in the Book of Common Prayer of the Established Church of England, the bridegroom has to say to the bride: "With my body I thee worship."

No one should take offense at these expressions: indeed, it would seem captious to do so ; more especially when the speaker declares his meaning.

3. Catholic do not believe th any sin, even the least; or that a sin can be forgiven for money; or that a priest can give valid abselution to a in the hour of death. Yes, all this purpose to forsake sin and amend his life.

4. Catholics do not believe that a Jesus Christ and of His grace, obtain silvation, or acquire any merit.

Catholics do not believe that it is allowable to break a lawful oath, or tell a lie, or do any other wicked thing whatever for the sake of promoting the supposed interest of the Church or for any good, however great, likely to The false and pernicious principle that the end justifies the means, or that we may do evil that good may come, is utterly condemned by the Catholic Church. 6. Catholics do not believe that it the truths contained in the "deposit its glorious truths gradually fade from of faith," that is, to frame or enforce any doctrine which has not for its tion to the world, so that though we do source the written or unwritten word of God, or authority for the same. Nor do they believe, when the Church makes a definition in matters of faith that this definition or article of faith is a new doctrine; it is only a solemn declaration and a clearer statement of what was believed, at least implicitly (that is, in an implied way, or inferin the time of the Apostles, though some private persons might have doubted of it—Very Rev. Joseph Faa di Bruno, D. D.

To-Day Hood's Sarsaparilla stands at the head in the medicine world, admired in prosperity and envied in merit by thousands of would-be competitors. It has a larger sale than any other medicine. Such success could not be won without positive merit.

Hood's Pills cure constipation by restoring the persistaltic action of the alimentary canal. They are the best family cathatic.

canal. They are the best family cathatic.

Free and easy expectoration immediately relieves and frees the throat and lungs from viscid phlegm, and a medicine that promotes this is the best medicine to use for coughs, colls, inflammation of the lungs and all affections of the throat and chest. This is precisely what Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a specific for, and wherever used it has given unbounded satisfaction. Children like it because it is pleasant, adults like it because it relieves and cures the disease.

DEVOTION TO THE HOLY ANGELS.

If there is any truth at all in Christianity the invisible world is full of invisible spiritual beings, who are intimately connected with the welfare of the human race. Whatever the outside world may think, the Catholic Church has no doubt on the subject. She takes the teaching of Holy Scripture in its natural and obvious sense. She believes in the supernatural, and she alone gives full scope to the natural aspirations of the unsophisticated soul for the supernatural. She believes in the reality of the spiritual existences called angels. She scouts the materialistic idea that there is nothing real but what is obvious to the senses. Her traditional teaching is founded not merely on the testimony of Scripture, but also upon innumerable extraordinary manifestations which have taken place, and are constantly taking place, and which cannot be accounted for upon any known natural prin-

we persume almost everyone must have experienced at some period of his life some mysterious and unaccountable impressions; the sudden occurring of thoughts of an absent friend, for in stance, or of one supposed to be absent, when suddenly and unexpectedly that friend appears, unheralded by any external messenger. Or it may be the impression of the death of some friend at a distance, afterwards proved to be true. Then, too, there are the pre monitions of death or of some impend ing danger-a sudden impulse that arrests us on the brink of a precipice prays for his neighbor. God Himself commanded Eliphaz and his friends to apply to the Patriarch Job that he should pray for them, and God promeshould pray for them, and God promeshould pray for them. pare notes and wonder how it is, and perhaps never think of the possible explanation, so simple, so probable and so interesting. They never think of attributing them to the influence of the blessed spirits whom God has created and sent into the world for the express purpose of ministering to the welfare of man.

It is surprising that Christians at least should fail to realize this blessed ruth and to derive from it the consolation and encouragement which it is calculated to afford.

The doctrine of angels pervades the whole Scripture-both the Old and the New Testament. Let any one take a concordance, or read the Scriptures with the thought of the angels in view and he will be surprised at the fre quency of their mention and the variety of their occupations. "Are they not all ministering spirits," says St. Paul, sent forth to minister to those who shall receive the inheritance of salva Our Lord Himself, warning the people against scandalizing any of His little ones, gives as a reason, · for I say unto you that in heaven their angels do always behold the face of My Father who is in heaven." "Their angels"—what is that but saying that every one has a guardian angel who while he beholds the face of God in His heavenly courts, at the same time takes a special interest in that particular individual over whom he is appointed to keep watch and guard? That is the teaching of Holy Church, believed and acted upon from the earliest records of the race.

What a delightful thought! How inspiring to know that we have a heavenly messenger, constantly attending upon us; prompting us to do right checking us when we do wrong; injecting good thoughts into our minds; is any authority upon earth or in preserving us from temptation and heaven that can give leave to commit assisting us to raise when we fall; helping us in temporal and spiritual does our guardian angel do for us ; and fail in gratitude and devotion to these man can by his own good works, independently of the merits and Passion of must be cold, and hard, and insensible to all that is high and holy and inspiring in our holy religion! this? How shall we account for this want of appreciation of the immense blessing we possess in our holy guar dian angels?

In the first place we are too worldly -too much absorbed with the things of time and sense-the business, th pleasures and the ambitions of the world. The engrossing cares of life, the depressing influence of material things keep down our spiritual aspira-6. Catholics do not believe that it tions and appreciations. We have is in the power of the Church to add to faith, of course, but it becomes dim, and not doubt the existence of our guard ian angel we cease to realize hi presence and then even to recognize his existence by praying to him. the most effective But perhaps obstacle to devotion to our guardian angel is the consciousness of sin-sin whether mortal or venial, habitually persisted in. It is the same feeling that causes the sense of the presence of God to fade from our minds and our poor hearts to become cold and insensible to His love.

Oh, if we only loved God, or even tried to love Him, as we should, and to avoid sin, we should soon learn to love our guardian angel! We should love to pray to him, to converse with him, to invoke his aid and protection in times of temptation and danger, and we should constantly experience the blessedness of his intercession and kind offices. Shall we any longer be unmindful of our privilege, and of our duty to our guardian angels? Let us thank God for them and show our gratitude to them by a more earnest zeal and devotion in their service. -N. Y. Catholic Review.

Minard's Liniment cures Garget in Cows.

Identified by the Sign of the Cross. A Catholic pastor in England nar-

rates an incident that discloses in a new light the utility of the Sign of the

A poor widow having fallen ill, she was taken to a hospital, where soon afterward she died. Her only child, a boy of eight or nine years, had in the meantime been placed in an orphan asylum. The boy was an Irish Catholic, the asylum was a Protestant one. Fearing for the child's faith, his pastor desired to withdraw him from the institution; but on making his application, he discovered that the authorities had already placed the boy in a differ ent asylum, and had moreover entered him under a name other than his own. For a long time the priest was unsuccesful in his search, but finally he thought he had found the hospitable house where the little lamb of his flock should be living. He went to the asylum, examined the registers and interrogated the governor; but no Catholic child, nor even one bearing an Irish name, had been received into the institution.

As the pastor was about to retire, ar idea suddenly presented itself and he acted on it forthwith. He inquired whether he would be permitted to see all the orphans together. The gov ernor told him that the children about to enter the refectory, and that in consequence there was no inconvenience involved in his seeing them.

As soon as all had entered, the pries stood on a bench and said: "Children ook at me! In the name of the Father, and of the Son—" He had scarcely placed his hand on his forehead to make the Sign of the Cross when he saw one of the boys raise his hand and instinctively bless himself while all the others-there were three hundred and twenty - remained motionless, regarding the priest with open-mouthed wonder.

Turning to the governor, the priest exclaimed: "There is the Catholicthat is the boy I've been looking for! The governor acknowledged that he had heard a good deal of the Sign of the Cross as made by Catholics, but he would never have thought of its use fulness as a means of discovering a lost child. The boy is at present in a Catholic orphan asylum, and thor oughly understands that it is to the Sign commemorative of our redemp tion that he owes his preservation to the faith .- Ave Maria.

The Curse of the Wandering Foot.

"While I perceive," said the kindly man to the tramp, "that you are a sober fellow and not averse to the sound performance of any nominal work that may be intrusted to your hands, I am somewhat curious to know why you do not invite some continuous employment and settle down to that teadfastly, and cease utterly your unprofitable wanderings.

"Most willingly would I do the thing suggested," replied the tramp, "but hat in such effort I would assuredly prove a disappointment to any who night so seek to befriend me not of the caste that may abide. was born otherwise. Despite myself I must be moving always-on and on. It is my fate-a ban-a curse-at least often call it so-the curse of the wandering foot.'

All hope of rest withdrawn me!
What dread command hath put
This awful curse upon me?
The curse of the wandering foot!
Forward and backward and thither,
And hither and you again—
Wandering over! And whither?
Answer them, God! Amen.

The blue skies are far o'er me, The bleak fields near below :

The bleak fields near below;
Where the mother that bore me,
Where her grave in the snow,
Clad in her trough of a coffin,
The sad eyes frozen shut,
That wept so often, often,
The curse of the wandering foot!

Here in your marts I care not Whatsoever ye think. Good folk many who dare not Give me to eat and drink: Give me to sup of your pity— Feast me on prayers! O ye, Met I your Christ in the city, He would fare forth with me-

Forward and onward and thither,
And hither again and yon,
With milk for our drink together
And honey to feed upon;
Nor hope of rest withdrawn us,
Since the one our Father put
The blessed curse upon us—
The curse of the wandering foot.
—James Whit comb Riley.

Not That Long.

In the recent general election in Great Britain there has been a good deal of denunciation and very little wit, and there has been a conspicuous absence of good nature. The hard hitting that distinguished political life of old was tempered by epigrams, and even fun; all this seems to have disappeared; neither the Primrose dames nor their fair antagonists are the cause of any pretty speeches. Nobody offers to light their pipes at their eyes, as in the case of the electioneering duchess nor do they receive any encourage ment to do so. Even the sister of serious Mr. Wilberforce, when canvass ing for her brother at Hull, indulged in a pleasant stroke of humor; when his partisans shouted, "Miss Wilber force for ever !" she replied, "I thank you, gentlemen, for your good intentions, but I do not wish to be 'Miss Wilberforce forever!" One would have voted for that young lady's brother whatever were his politics -Argonaut.

Mr. John Blackwell, of the Bank of Commerce, Toronto, writes: "Having suffered for over four years from Dyspepsia and weak stomach, and having tried numerous remedies but with little effect. I was at last advised to give Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery a trial. I did so with a happy result, receiving great benefit from one bottle. I then tried a second and a third bottle, and now I find my appetite so much restored, and my stomach strengthened, that I can partake of a hearty meal without any of the unpleasantness I formerly experienced.

ST. JACOBS OIL.

He used it freely all over his bruises. I saw him next morning at work. All the blue spots rapidly disappeared, leaving neither pain, scar nor swelling. C. K. NEUMANN, M. D.

A Timely Legend.

That fear of cholera kills more people C tholles willing to travel short distances than the cholera itself was illustrated Apply with references to BENZIGER BROS. 88 and 38 Barclay st., New York City. 733-8w than the cholera itself was illustrated by a story told by an old German citizen yesterday. Many years ago, while the cholera was raging in parts of Germany and extending daily its baneful influence, an old doctor, takbaneful influence, as troll outside the particular of the story of the st gates of his town, saw coming towards him a horrible object. Its form and shape was human, but its aspect was a mass of corruption.
"Who are you?" asked the doctor.

"I am the cholera."

"Where are you going?"
"I am going to that town."

The doctor, terrified, pleaded and begged for the monster to change its route, but to no purpose. Its road led through the town, and into the town it must go. But to compromise with the good old doctor the cholera promised not to kill more than five people in the town. Next morning the physician was called to a patient, whom he found to have the cholera. The cases multiplied hourly, and consternation spread among the people of the city, and all those who could get away did so. There were not five but there were 5,000 deaths in the town. After the cholera had subsided, the doctor in his ST. BONAVENTURE'S COLLEGE, walks again met the cholera spectre, and upbraided for it not having kept its word with him. Said the cholera:

"I swear I have kept my promisenot killed more than five of your fellowcitizens. The others died of fear."-Cincinnati Commercial.

Back to Health and Strength.

Back to Health and Strength.
William J. Witter, Franklin, Man., writes:
—My sister had very poor health for six or seven years, and looked as though she was going to the grave. I got some of your Dr.
William's Pink Pills for her, and they completely restored her to health. I regard them as a wonderful medicine. Shun all substitutes, and beware of imitations. May be had from dealers or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

It Beats Jack Frost.

DEAR SIRS.—We have use Hagyard's Yellow Oil in our family and know it is a sure cure for lumbago and frost bites. My wife was so bad with lumbago that she could not straighten herself, and Yellow Oil completely cured her. It has been a fortune to us.

OLIVER ALLEN, Owen Sound, Ont.

Executed Our.—None but these who have

OLIVER ALLEN, Owen Sound, Ont.

FAGGED OUT.—None but those who have become fagged out, know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength is gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there is nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wenders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Pills.

Racked With Rheumstism.

DEAR SIRS,—For ten years I suffered with rheumatism in spring and fall. I have been confined to bed for months at a time, but since using B, B, B, I have not suffered from it at all. I also suffered from the dyspepsia, which has not troubled me since using the B, B, B., and I therefore think it a splendid medicine. MRS. AMELIA BRENN, Hayesland, Ont.

Minard's Liniment cures Distemper,

Most women know all IT RESTS Most wonten and about the misery of washday. To many it means THE Backache, Sore Hands, Hard Rubbing over steaming tub, and long hours. This falls to the lot of those who use poor, cheap, and injurious soaps.

This Soap does away with Hard Rubbing, Tired Backs, Hot Steam, and Sore Hands. It brings comfort to millions of homes, and will do so to yours if you will

WORKS: PT. SUNLIGHT LEVER BROS., LIMITEI

PROFESSIONAL. POST & HOLMES, ARCHITECTS.—Officer Rooms 28 and 29 Manning House, King street west, Toronto. Also in the Gerric Block, Whitby. A. A. Post, R. A. A. W. Holmes

A. W. HOLMES.

FRANCIS LOVE. R. H. DIGNAN. DR. WOODRUFF, No. 186 QUEEN'S AVE.
Defective vision, impaired hearing, nasal catarrh and troublesome throats. Eyes tested. glasses adjusted Hours. 12 to 4 winter buy good coal

George Patterson fell from a second-story indow, striking a fence. I found him using

ALL RIGHT! ST. JACOBS OIL DID IT."

Permanent Positions with good pay are few industrious, reliable

EDUCATIONAL.

A SSUMPTION COLLEGE, SANDWICH, Ont.—The studies embrace the Classical and Commercial courses. Terms, including all ordinary expenses, $150 per annum. For full particulars apply to Rev. D. Cushing, S. S. B.

BERLIN, ONT. Complete Classical, Philosophical and Commercial Courses,

ST. JEROME'S COLLEGE.

And Shorthand and Typewriting. For further particulars apply to REV. THEO. SPETZ, President.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, TORONTO, Ont.—In affiliation with Toronto University. Under the patronage of His Grace the Archishopo of Toronto, and directed by the Basilian Fathers. Full classical, scientific and commercial courses. Special courses for students preparing for University matriculation and non-professional certificates. Terms, when paid in advance: Board and tuttion, $150 per year; half boarders, $75; day pupils, $28. For further particulars apply to REV. J. R. TEEFY, President.

ST. JOHN'S. Mid
Under care of the Irish Christian Brothers.
This College affords, at moderate expense, excellent advantages to students. The healthiness of its situation, the equipment of the Schools and the general furnishing of the establishment leave nothing to be desired for the comfort and improvement of the purils.

Three Courses — Preparatory, Commercial and Matriculation (London University.

Terms—Day pupils, $12, $45, etc., per annum, according to class. Boarders, $160 per annum.

annum.

Prospectuses and further particulars on application to

J. L. SLATTERY.

BOURGET COLLEGE, RIGAUD, P.Q. On the Canadian Pacific R. R. and on the Ottawa River. English Commercial Course. Classical Course. Complete English Course. Board, Tuition. Bed and Washing, only si20 per aunum. Type-writing. Shorthend. Telegraphy, Plano and Violin, extra. Studies to be resumed on Wednesday, Sept. 7, 182. For prospectus address Rev. O. Joly, C. S. V., President.

DISTINGUISHED PATRONS.

Since Last January the Kingston Business Col lege has been patronized by His Grace Arch lege has been patronized by His Grace Arch bishop Cleary, Hon. Geo. A. Kirkpatrick Licutenant - Governor of Ontario, and Si Richard Cartwright, M. P. Young people why not let the good judgment of these dis tinguished men help you to decide which business college to attend. Send for circular

ADDRESS A POSTAL CARD TO ROBINSON & JOHNSON,

Ontario Eusiness College Belleville, Ont. And you will receive by return mail the 24th Annual Circular of the College, (a book o 12t pages) just published, and a specimen o penmanship by the best penman in Canada

ONTARIO BUSINESS COLLEGE is the most widely-attended Business Co lege in America.

Belleville Business college

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

Will send you a Book on Business Education FREE.

WRITE for it.

240 Students enrolled during the year. 225000 copies of Complete Book-keeping sold. BOX 1021.

NORTHERN M Business Ollege OWEN SOUND, ONTARIO, is the Very Best Place in Canada to get a Thorough Business Education

Business Education

TAKE A ROUND TRIP and visit a 1 other Business colleges and commercial Departments in Canada, then visit the Northern Business colleges; examine ever thing theorems I was all to produce the most thorough complete, practices and extraver current of study; the best college premium the same most complete and the best college premium and pollutions, we cannot be suppliances, we cannot give a full course, Subble For August and and uncertaint, giving full particulars, free, address U. A. Flewhyd, Principas.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of th Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors tem, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness, and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of EURDOCK these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of EURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO.. Proprietors. Torento. CONCORDIA VINEYARDS

ERNEST GIRADOT & CC

Altar Wine a Specialty.

Our Altar Wine is extensively used any recommended by the Clergy, and our Claret will compare favorably with the best imported Bordeaux. orted Bordeaux, orted Bordeaux, For prices and information address, E. GIRAPOF & CO, Sandwica, Ont

If you want comfort this

D.DALY&SON

WILL SELL YOU THE

BEST SCRANTON COAL

Bright and clean. No. 1 Brier Hill for grates. In wooc, our stock is No. 1—two-thirds maple. We have also maple and hemlock stabs, kindling, etc.

19 YORK STREET. TELEPHONE 348.

CAUTION.

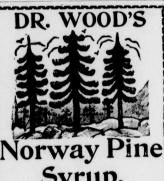

EACH PLUG OF THE

&

NONE OTHER GENUINE. Farms for Sale Cheap.

North half and one acre of south half Lot 29, Con. 3, Township McGillivray, Middlesex, less part sold to G. T. B. Good orchard and fine buildings. East half Lot 6, Con. 4, Township Saugeen, County Bruce. Frame house, barn, etc. $600. South-east half Lot 20, Con. 1, Township of Iosa, County Middlesex. No buildings. $800. Apply by letter to P. O. DRAWER 541, LONDON.

Syrup.

Rich in the lung-healing virtues of the Pine ombined with the soothing and expectorant roperties of other pectoral herbs and barks. PERFECT CURE FOR COUGHS AND COLDS oarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis, Sore Throat roup and all THROAT, BRONCHIAL and UNG DISEASES, Obstinate coughs which sist other remedies yield promptly to this leasest piny syrup. sist other remedies yield promptly to the asant piny syrup.

PRICE 25C. AND 50C. PER BOTTLE.

-OBJECTS OF THE-

New York Catholic Agency The object of this Agency is to supply, at the regular dealers' prices, any kind of goods imported or manufactured in the United States.

The advantages and conveniences of this Agency are many a few of which are: ported or manufactured in the United States.

The advantages and conveniences of this Agency are many, a few of which are:

Ist. It is situated in the heart of the wholesale trade of the metropolis, and has completed such arrangements with the leading manufacturers and importers as enable it to purchase in any quantity at the lowest wholesale rates, thus getting its profits or commissions from the importers or manufacturers, and hence.

2nd. No extra commissions are charged its patrons on purchases made for them, and giving them besides the benefit of my experience and facilities in the actual prices charged.

3rd. Should a patron want several different articles, embracing as many separate trades or lines of goods, the writing of only one letter to this Agency will insure the prompt and correct filling of such orders. Besides, there will be only one express or freight charge.

4th. Persons outside of New York, who may not know the address of house selling a particular line of goods, can get such goods all the same by sending to this Agency.

5th. Clergymen and Religious Institutions and the trade buying from this Agency are allowed the regular or usual discount.

Any business matters, outside of buying and selling goods, entrusted to the attention or management of this Agency, will be strictly and conscientiously attended to by your giving me authority to act as your agrant. Whenever you want to buy anything send your orders to THOMAS D. EGAN.

WILSON & RANAHAN GROCERS.

THOMAS D. EGAN.

Catholic Agency, 42 Barclay St. New York, NEW YORK.

265 Dundas St., near Wellington. NEW TEAS — Ceylons, Congous, Japans, Young Hysons, Gundowder and English Breakfast. NEW COFFEES-Chase & Sanbourne and

New CURRANTS, Raisins and Figs.

Finest and Cheapest Goods in London ALEX. WILSON, Late of Wilson Bros. THOS. RANAHAM

- - J. C. BURKE, -VETERINARY SURGEON. Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College. Office and residence, 398 Adelaide street, 2nd loor south of Lilley's Corners, London East. Calls promptly attended to.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING CHURCH BELLS & PIMES PUREST BELL METAL, COPPER AND TIM.)

MCSHANE HELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD. MENELLY & COMPANY WEST TROY, N. Y., BELLS Favorably known to the public citeds 1826. Church, Chapel, School, Fire Alexand other bells: also. Chimes and Poals.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.
Best Grade Pure Copper and Tin Best Frade Pure Copper and Tins.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Hest Wheel and Retary Vote Handing.
Prince & Parms free, Name this Journal.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL, 54 and 56 Jaryles street, Toronto. This hotel has been refitted and furnished throughout. Home omforts. Terms $1.00 per day.

M. DONNELLY, Proprietor)

There's not a pang in There's not a smother There's not a sorrow Unseen by God's dear There is not a moan a Not an angry word u Nor a soul cry: "wh Unknown to the Hea

NOVEMBE

Cons

Twenty-second Su

Our Lord made brethren, to the casked Him whet give tribute to Ca other words, whe pay taxes to su of the Roman E Jews were then was pagan, and impious and un hoped that He w not; for if He di very good chance before the Roman was a rebel and a and could thus h which they earne it really had bee taxes Christ would so; for, as they truth, though the betray the truth to escape any da answering in thi He surprised the ought to pay the posed on them : to obey the pov ways as it was, were. We must, the the power of the the land as it is in the name of C our obedience. quired those who

the Roman author require us to obe authorities und any time. For secuting pagan surely no more v our lot is like to And if we co to our duty in co St. Paul confir emphatically.
he says, "but that are, are ord And they that re selves damnati fore be subject for wrath (that sequences) sake." And con of which our Lo

ceeds: "Rend men their due but custom. We see then that the laws of conscience. An means need to The successors teaching in u ence to the civil Only last year, f Father Pope Lec lical letter, taug The Church. teaches that th comes from Go that, whatever ment may be-rulers are chose -it is not simp

their right to comes; the pe government do

although they

Of course no civil power ma forfeit its claim quiring of us th or plainly cont of the Churc it should requi tant worship, o make our Eas cases are very this country. enough when great respect f danger, rather laws as a mere we cannot help not help it, but interior revere festly unjust or of God and th Remember, render to Cæs Cæsar's. The governors and other powers tl vicegerents, th order as the sp place they tru quire ; confess regard or disre ess you wish t

which we comn

truth is that w

any law of the laws comes. The great vas as a remedy for thousands of peo COUGHS, CONESS, BRONCH Dr. Wood's N successful Thros MILBURN'S restoras streng and disobedien

restores strengt rich red blood. Minard's Linis Consolation. BY S. M. C.

here's not a pang in the human heart here's not a smothered sigh, here's not a sorrow veiled apart nseen by God's dear exts, stifled low, here is not a moan that's stifled low, of an angry word unsaid

FIVE-MINUTE SERMONS.

Twenty-second Sunday after Pentecost

OBEDIENCE TO THE CIVIL AUTHORITIES Render therefore to Casar the things that are Casar's, and to God the things that are God's.

Our Lord made this reply, my dear brethren, to the question of some who asked Him whether it was lawful to give tribute to Cæsar or not; or, in other words, whether it was right to pay taxes to support the government of the Roman Empire, to which the Jews were then subjected, and which was pagan, and in many ways an impious and ungodly power. They hoped that He would say that it was not; for if He did, they would have a very good chance to make against Him before the Roman governor, as one who was a rebel and a disobeyer of the laws; and could thus bring about His ruin, which they earnestly desired. Now, if it really had been wrong to pay these taxes Christ would of course have said so; for, as they had said to Him in truth, though they meant it as flattery, He was a true speaker, and would not betray the truth to please any man or to escape any danger. But instead of answering in this way, as they hoped, He surprised them by saying that they ought to pay the taxes which were im posed on them; he commanded them to obey the power hateful in many ways as it was, whose subjects they

NE.

alf Lot

rd and ne

gency ply, at the goods iml States.
es of this

the whole-completed g manufac-ourchase in rates, thus om the im-

harged its and giving erience and d. al different rate trades y one letter eryt and cor-t, there will e. k, who may ng a partic-ods all the Institutions agency are to buying and attention or be strictly your giving Whenever to GAN.

New York,

HAN

ington.

is, Japans, and English

bourne and n London

RANAHAN

GEON.

ry College. e street, 2nd ondon East.

UFACTURING CHIMES & PEALS is the World AND TIN.)

MPANY , BELLS

FOUNDRY,

AND CHIMES.

Proprietor)

Figs.

We must, therefore, conclude that the power of the states, or the law of the land as it is called, has a real claim in the name of God and of Christ to our obedience. For if our Lord required those who heard Him to obey the Roman authorities, He would also require us to obey the duly constituted authorities under which we live at any time. For the cruel and persecuting pagan empire of Rome was surely no more worthy of respect and obedience than any other under which our lot is like to be cast.

And if we could have any doubt as to our duty in conscience on this point, St. Paul confirms this lesson most emphatically. "There is no power," he says, "but from God; and those that are, are ordained of God.

And they that resist purchase to them selves damnation. . . Where-fore be subject of necessity, not only for wrath (that is, for fear of the con-sequences) but also for conscience' sake." And coming to the very matter of which our Lord has spoken, He proceeds: "Render, therefore, to all men their dues. Tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom. We see then clearly, my brethren, that the laws of the land bind us in conscience. And we do not by any means need to go back to apostolic times to find instruction to this effect. The successors of St. Peter, and those teaching in union with them, have always insisted on this duty of obedience to the civil power very strongly Only last year, for instance, our Holy Father Pope Leo XIII. has, in an encyclical letter, taught it to us very clearly "The Church," he said, "rightly teaches that the power of the state comes from God." And He tells us that, whatever the form of Government may be—that is, whether the rulers are chosen by the people or not street, while Pepsie brushed the child's -it is not simply from the people that their right to rule and to be obeyed comes; the people in an elective government do not make the power, although they designate the person or persons in whom the power of God is to

Of course no one denies that the civil power may, in particular cases, forfeit its claim to our obedience by requiring of us things manifestly unjust or plainly contrary to the law of God or of the Church; as, for instance, if it should require us to attend Protestant worship, or should forbid us to make our Easter duty. But such cases are very rare, at least here in this country. We shall know easily enough when they arise. There is little fear, as things now are, of too great respect for law among us; the danger, rather, is of our regarding laws as a mere decisions of a majority, to which we have to submit as far as we cannot help it, and because we cannot help it, but to which we owe no interior reverence, and by breaking which we commit no sin. Whereas the truth is that we do sin by breaking any law of the land which is not manifestly unjust or contrary to the rights of God and the obedience we owe to Remember, then, my brethren, to render to Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's. The President, Congress, our governors and legislatures, and the other powers that be are really God's vicegerents, though not in so high an order as the spiritual; still in their own place they truly act in God's name. Find out and consider what they require; confess and amend any dis-regard or disrespect fot their laws, unless you wish to be guilty of contempt and disobedience to Him from whom al

The great value of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh is vuoched for by thousands of people whom it cured.

COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, HOARSE-NESS, BRONGHITIS, etc., yield at once to Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the successful Throat and Lung Specific.

MILBURN'S BEEF, IRON AND WINE restores strength and vitality, and makes rich red blood.

MINDRY'S LIMPRONT SURGE DIPUTHERIA.

Minard's Liniment cures Diphtheria.

LADY JANE.

CHAPTER XI.

THE VISIT TO THE PAICHOUX. One bright morning in October, while Pepsie and Lady Jane were very busy over their pecans, there was a sudden rattling of wheels and jingling of cans, and Tante Modeste's milk-cart, gay in a fresh coat of red paint, with the shining cans, and smart little mule in a bright harness, drew up before the door, and Tante Modeste herself jumped briskly down from the high and very much alike; the same large, fair face, the same smooth, dark hair combed straight back from the fore-head, and twisted in a glossy knot at the back, and like Madelon she wore a stiffly starched, light calico gown, finished at the neck with a muslin scar tied in a large bow; her head was bare, and in her ears she wore gold hoops, and around her neck was a heavy chain of the same precious metal.

When Pepsie saw her she held out her arms, flushing with pleasure, and cried joyfully: "Oh, Tante Modeste, how glad I am! I thought you'd forgotten to come for Lady Jane."
Tante Modeste embraced her niece warmly, and then caught Lady Jane to her heart as Madelon did. "Forgotten her? Oh, no; I've thought of her all the time since I was here; but I've been so busy."

"What about Tante Modeste?" asked

Pepsie eagerly. 'Oh, you can't think how your cousin

Marie is turning everything upside down, since she decided to be a lady.' Here Tante Modeste made a little grimace of disdain. "She must have our house changed, and her papa can't say 'no' to her. I like it best as it was, but Marie must have paint and carpets; think of it—carpets! But I draw the line at the parlor — the salon," and again Tante Modeste shrugged and laughed. "She wants a salon; well, she shall have a salon just as she likes t, and I will have the other part of the house as I like it. Just imagine, your uncle has gone on Rue Royale, and bought a mirror, a console, a cabinet, a sofa, and a carpet.'

"You shall, my dear; you shall, if you have to be brought on a bed. When there's a wedding,"—and she nodded brightly, as much as to say, "and there will be one soon,"—"you shall be brought there. I'll arrange it so you can come comfortably, my dear. Have patience, you shall come."
"How good you are, Tante Modeste," eried Pepsie, enraptured at the promise of such happiness.

"But now, cherie," she said, turning to Lady Jane, whose little face was expressing in pantomime her pleasure at Pepsie's delight, "I've come for you this morning to take you for a ride in the cart, as I promised." Tante Pauline does n't know," began Lady Jane dutifully. "I must go and ask her if I can."

'I'll send Tite," cried Pepsie, eager to have the child enjoy what to her seemed the greatest pleasure on earth.

"Here, Tite," she said, as the black sage appeared at the door. "Run visage appeared at the door. quick across to Madame Jozain, and ask if Miss Lady can go to ride in the milk-cart with Madame Paichoux; and bring me a clean frock and her hat and Tite flew like the wind, her black peautiful hair until it shone like gold. Madame Jozain did not object Of course, a milk-cart was n't a carriage, but then Lady Jane was only a child, and it did n't matter.

While Pepsie was putting the finishing touches to Lady Jane's toilet, Tante Modeste and Tite Souris were busy bringing various packages from the milk-cart to the little room; butter, cream, cheese, sausage, a piece of pig, and a fine capon. When Tante Modeste came, she always left a substantial proof of her visit.

There was only one drawback to Lady Jane's joy, and that was the necessity of leaving Tony behind.

"You might take him," said Tante Modeste, good-naturedly, "but there are so many young ones home they'd pester the bird about to death, and omething might happen to him; he might get away, and then you'd never forgive us."

"I know I mustn't take him," said Lady Jane, with sweet resignation. "Dear Tony, be a good bird while I'm gone, and you shall have some bugs to-morrow." Tony was something of an epicure, and "bugs," as Lady Jane called them, extracted from cabbage leaves, were a delight to him. Then she embraced him fondly, and fastened him securely to Pepsie's chair, and went away with many good-bys and kisses for her friend, and not a few lingering glances for her pet.

It was a perfectly enchanting situa-tion to Lady Jane when she was mounted up on the high seat, close under Tante Modeste sheltering wing, with her little feet on the cream-cheese box, and two tall cans standing in front like sturdy tin footmen waiting for orders. Then Tante Modeste pulled the top up over their heads, and shook her lines at the fat little mules, and away they clattered down Good Children street, with all the children and all the dogs running on behind.

It was a long and delightful drive to Lady Jane before they got out of town to where the cottages were scattered out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of trees, into Frenchman out of the beautiful Esplanade, with its shady rows of the beautiful Esplanade, with the beauti street, and away down the river they she heard of Marie's intended mar stopped before a large double cottage that stood well back from the street, surrounded by trees and flowers; a good-natured, healthy-looking boy threw open the gate, and Tante Modeste clattered into the yard, calling

"Here, Tiburce, quick, my boy; unhitch the mule, and turn him out." The little animal understood perfectly well what she said, and shaking his little animal understood perfectly with such a distinguished family, you little animal understood perfectly with such a distinguished family, you little animal understood perfectly with such a distinguished family, you long ears he nickered approvingly.

Lady Jane was lifted down from her high perch by Paichoux himself, who seat, and entered like a fresh breath of spring.

She and Madelon were twin sisters,
Tante Modeste's good-natured brood. At first she felt a little shy, there were so many, and they were such noisy children; but they were so kind and friendly toward her that they soon won her confidence and affection.

That day was a "red-letter day" to Lady Jane : she was introduced to all the pets of the farm-yard, the poultry, the dogs, the kittens, the calves, the ponies, the little colts, and the great soft motherly-looking cows that stood quietly in rows to be milked; and afterwards they played under the trees in the grass, while they gathered roses by the armful to carry to Pepsie, and filled a basked with pecans for Made-

She was feasted on gumbo, fried chicken, rice-cakes, and delicious organic cream cheese until she could eat no able nore; she was caressed and petted to her heart's content from the pretty Marie down to the smallest whiteheaded Paichoux; she saw the fine parlor, the mirror, the pictures, the cabinet of shells, and the vases of wax-flowers, and, to crown all, Paichoux himself lifted her on Tiburce's pony and rode her around the yard several times, while Tante Modeste made her a beautiful cake, frosted like snow, with her name in pink letters across the top.

At last, when the milk-cart came around with its evening load of fresh milk for waiting customers, Lady Jane was lifted up again beside Tante was inted up again beside Tame Modeste, overloaded with presents, caresses, and good wishes, the happi-est child, as well as the tiredest, that ever rode in a milk-cart.

Long before they reached the noisy city streets, Lady Jane became very a soia, and a carpet.

"Oh, oh, Tante Modeste, how lovely;" cried Pepsie, clasping her hands in admiration. "I wish I could see the parlor just once."

Long before they reached the noisy is title, and Tante Modeste peeped under the broad hat to see if she had fallen asleep; but no, the blue eyes fallen asleep; but no, the blue eyes were wide and wistful, and the little face had lost its glow of happiness.

"Are you tired, cherie?" asked Tante Modeste kindly.

"No, thank you," she replied, with a soft sigh. "I was thinking of papa, the Sunflower, and the ranch, and dear mama. Oh, I wonder if she'll come back soon.

Tante Modeste made no repiy, but she fell to thinking too. There was something strange about it all that she couldn't understand.

The child's remarks and Madame Jozain's stories did not agree. There was a mystery, and she meant to get to the bottom of it by some means. And when Tante Modeste set out to accomplish a thing she usually succeeded.

CHAPTER XII.

TANTE MODESTE'S SUSPICIONS.

"Paichoux," said Tante Modeste to her husband, that same night, before the tired dairyman went to bed; I've been thinking of something all the evening."
"Vraiment! I'm surprised," turned Paichoux facetiously; "I did n't know you ever wasted time think-

"I don't usually," went on Tante Modeste, ignoring her husband's little attempt at pleasantry; "but really, papa, this thing is running through my head constantly. It's about that little girl of Madame Jozain's; there's something wrong about the menage there. That child is no more a Jozain than I am. A Jozain, indeed!—she's a little aristocrat, if ever there was one, a born little lady."

"Perhaps she's a Bergeron," suggested Paichoux, with a quizzical "Madame prides herself on smile. being a Bergeron, and the Bergerons are fairly decent people. Old Ber geron, the baker, was an honest man.

"That may be; but she is n't a Ber geron, either. That child is different, you may see it. Look at her beside our young ones. Why, she's a swan among geese.

"Well, that happens naturally sometimes," said the philosophic Paich oux. "I've seen it over and over in common breeds. It's an accident, but t happens. In a litter of curs; there 'll be often one stylish dog; the pup-pies 'll grow up together; but there 'll be one different from the others, and the handsomest one may not be the smartest, but he 'll be the master, and get the best of everything. Now look at that black filly of mine; where did she get her style? Not from either father or mother. It's an accident—an accident—and it may be with children as it is with puppies and colts, and that little one may be an example

"Nonsense, Paichoux!" said Tante Modeste sharply. "There's no accident about it; there's a mystery, and Madame Jozain does n't tell the truth when she talks about the child. I can feel it even when she does n't contra dict herself. The other day I stepped in there to buy Marie a ribbon, and I spoke about the child; in fact, I asked which side she came from, and madame answered very curtly that her father was a Jozain. Now this is what set me to thinking: To-day, when Pepsie was putting a clean frock on the child, I

riage, and that she had something superior, exquisite, that she'd like to show me. Then she took a box out of her armoire, and in it were a number of the most beautiful sets of linen I ever saw, batiste as fine as cobwebs and realace. 'They're just what you need fo 'They're just what you need for mademoiselle,' she said in her wheed ling tone; 'since she's going to marry

TO BE CONTINUED.

A LEEDS CO. SENSATION.

Story Containing a Lession for Parents—th Restoration of a Young Girl Whose Condi-tion Finds a Parallel in Thousands of Cana-dian Homes—Not Through Wildu Neglect but in Ignorance of the Terrible Conse

Brockville Times

Brockville Times.

The great frequency with which pale, sallow, listiess and enfeebled girls are met with now a days is cause for genuine alarm. The young girls of the present day are not the healthy, robust, rosy-cheeked lassies their mothers and grandmothers were before them. One all sides one sees girls budding into womanhood, who should be bright of eyes, light in step, and joyoua in spirits; but alas, how far from this is their condition. Their complexion is pale, sallow or waxy in appearance, they are victims of heart palpitations, ringing noises in the head, cold hands and feet, often fainting spells, racking headaches, backaches, shortness of breath, and often distressing symptoms. All these conditions betoken chlorosis or anæmia—or in other words a watery and impoverished condition of the blood, which is thus unable to perform the functions required of it by nature. When in this condition unless immediate resort is had to those natural remedies which give richness and redness to the blood corpuscies, organic disease and an early grave are inevitable results. It was in a condition closely resembling the above that a young lady in Addition, beeds county, was when Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People came to her rescue, and undoubtedly saved her from premature death. The case was recently brought to the notice of the Times by H. S. Moffatt, general

Friends had almost despaired of a cure, some person who had purchased Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at Mr. Mofatt's store, and tested their virtues, advised their use in the young lady's case.

The advice was acted upon, and Mr. Mofatt says the results were marvellous. In a short time after beginning their use a decided improvement was noticed. The color returned to her checks; her appetite was improved, and there was every lodication of a marked improvement of the system. After taking a few boxes she was completely cured, and is now as well as ever she was. In his business Mr. Moffat deals in various kinds of proprietary medicines, but says he has never handled any medicine that has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The demand is large and is constantly increasing, thus affording the most satisfactory evidence that they are what is claimed for them—a blood builder, nerve tonic and general reconstructor, curing diseases hitherto held to be incurable, and restoring health where all other remedies had failed.

In views of these statements a grave responsibility rests upon parents—upon mothers especially. If your daughters are suffering from any of the troubles indicated above, do not, as you value their lives, delay in procuring a remedy that will save them. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is a remedy that will save them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a perfect blood builder and nerve saving and never said in any case arising from a vittated condition of the blood or a shattered condition of the nervous system.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a perfect blood builder and nerve restorer, curing such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus dance, nervous headache, nervous prostration and the tired sesses affine condition of the nervous wystem.

These Pills are menufactured by the Dr. Williams' Herefrom, the after effects of la grippe, diseases depending on humors in the blood, such boulder and nerve restorer, curing such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, part

When the merits of a good thing are considered, it only requires proof like the following to convince and settle any doubt.—Constantine, Mich., U. S. A., Feb. 16, 1887; "Was troubled 39 years with pains in the back from strain; in bed for weeks at a time; no relief from other remedies. About, 8 years ago I bought St. Jacobs Oil and made about 14 applications; have been well and strong ever since. Have done all kinds of work and can lift as much as ever. No return of pain in years." D. E. REARICK.

FOR CURS. BURNS. SORES OF WOUNDS.

FOR CUTS, BURNS, SORES OF WOUNDS, Victoria Carbolic Salve is the best healing and soothing ointment. BABY'S BLOOD AND SKIM

Cleansed and purified of every humor, eruption, and disease by the celebrated

CUTICURA REMEDIES

These great skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies afford immediate relief in the most torturing of Hehing and humor torturing of Hehing and hing, scaly, crusted, and blotchy skin and scalp diseases, permit reat and sleep, and polut to permanent and economical (the the best physicians and all other remedies fall. Thousands of grateful testimonials attest their wonderful, unfailing, and incomparable efficacy. Sold every where. Porter Druc And Ches. Corp., Boston, "All About the Skin, Scalp, and Hair," mailed free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by Cuticura Soap. Absolutely pure HOW MY SIDE AUREO.

Aching Sides and Back, Hip, Kidnay, and Uterine Pains, and Rheumatism relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain-killing, strengthening plaster.

CHURCH BELLS-TUBULAR CHIMES AND BELLS

John Ferguson & Sons, 180 KING STREET.

It's Soap, pure Soap, which contains none of that free alkali which rots the clothes and hurts the hands.

It's Soap that does away with boiling or scalding the clothes on wash day.

It's Soap that's good for anything. Cleans everything. In a word—'tis Soap, and fulfils it's purpose to perfection. SURPRISE is stamped on every cake.

ST. CROIX SOAP M'FG. Co., St. Stephen, N. B.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR

Annual S. les Exceed 33 MILLION LBS. For Samples sent Free, write to C. ALFRED CHOUILLOU, MONTREAL

Sustaining, Strength-giving, Invigorating.

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF

Invalids and Convalescents,

Supplying all the nutritious properties of Prime Beef in an easily-digested form.

Partly the Pland, correct all Disorders of the LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS AND ROWSLS.
They invigorate and cettors to health Debilitated Constitutions, and are invainable in all Complaints incliental to Fermeless of sile ages. Ear Children and the aged they are principles. THE OINTMENT.

THE OINTMENT THE OINTMENT.

Is an intallible remedy for Rad Legs. Bad Bressits, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers. It is famous for Scut and Rheumatism. For disorders of the Chest it has no equal. FOR SORE THEOATS, BRONCHITIS, COUGES, Coids, Glandular Swellings and all Skin Diseases it has no rival; and for contracte and stiff joints it nots like a charm.

Many Old FARMS that farms and gardens Won't Produce a Profit.

Worn-Out FARMS that farms and gardens Won't Produce a fine crop without this expense. The near markets, general healthfulness, without this expense. The near markets, general healthfulness, the statement freedom from cyclones, blizzards, together with good society, churches, etc., make Michi-

CATHOLIC - HOMR - ALMANAC FOR 1893. The BEST YET. It should be in Every Catholic Family. PRICE 25 CENTS. Address, THOS, COFFEY, Catholic Record Office, London

MEMORIAL

WINDOWS Churches, Halls, Private Houses,

Schools, Etc., Etc.

We are prepared to make special designs and quote prices for all kinds of Statued and Leaded Glass, Fancy Embossed Wheel Cut or Sand Blast. A. RAMSAY & SON

MONTREAL, (La GLASS PAINTERS AND STAINERS

MANUFACTURERS OF WHITE LEADS, OILS, COLORS, VARNISHES, Etc A. RAMSAY & SON, MONTREAL, Wholesale agents for Canada, manufactur-ers of White Leads, Colors, Varnishes, &c.

THE HURON AND ERIE Loan & Savings Company

Subscribed Capital, - $2,500,000 Paid up Capital, - - 1,300,000 Reserve Fund, - - - 602,000 J. W. LITTLE, President JOHN BEATTIE, Vice-President

DEPOSITS of $1 and upwards received at highest current rates.

DEBENTURES issued, payable in Can ada or in England, Executors and trus-tees are authorized by law to invost in the debentures of this company.

MONEY LOANED on mortgages of real

MORTGAGES purchased.
G. A. SOMERVILLE, London, Ont. MANAGER.

HEADQUARTERS —— ЕОВ ——

ESTABLISHED 1855.

ECKERMANN & WILL'S Beeswax Altar Candles.

ALTAR BRAND PURISSIMA BRAND The leading brands now upon the market, and the most popular with the rev. clergy. Send for our price list, list of premiums and special

PRICE, FREE BY MAIL, 25 CENTS.

A PRIMER FOR CONVERTS. By Rev. J. A PRIMER FOR CONVERTS. By Rev. J.
T. Durward.
HARRY DEE; or, Making it Out. By F. J.
Finn, S.J. With Frontispiece.
J. Finn, S.J. With Frontispiece.
PUBLIC SCHOOLS OR DENOMINATIONAL SCHOOLS? Pastoral Letter by Rt. Rev. W. E. von Ketteler, Bishop of Mentz. 8vo, paper,
SOCIALISM EXPOSED AND REFUTED.
By Rev. V. Cathrein, S.J. From the German by Rev. James Conway, S.J. net, 75c.
THE SACRAMENTALS of the Catholic Church. By Rev. A. A. Lambing, Li. D.
net, $1.25

BENZIGER BROTHERS, New York, Cincinnati, and Chicago.

Books We Ought to Read The Incarnate Word and the Devotion to the Sacred Heart. By Rev. 6, Tickell, S. J., 19mo, cloth.
Ancient and Modern History. This volume is copiously illustrated with colored maps and fine copper plate engravings, 12mo, cloth. 81,40.

Ancient and Modern History. This volume is copiously illustrated with colored maps and fine copper plate engravings, 12mo, cloth, 25 cents. History of England To The Present Time. By a Catholic Teacher. 12mo, cloth, 75 cents. History of The Middle Ages. By Rev. P. F. Gazeau, S. J., 12mo, cloth. 90 cents. Bible History of The Old and New Testament. By Dr. J. Schuster. Revised by Mrs. Jas. Sadlier. Fully illustrated, with fine engravings. 12mo, board sides, 50 cents. Ipse. Ipsa, Ipsum. A collection of controversial letters in answer to the above question, and a vindication of the position assigned by the Catholic Church to the Ever Blessed Virgin of the World's Redeemer, in the Divine economy of man's salvation. By R. F. Quigley, L. L. B., 890, cloth, net, 82,00. The Letters and Correspondence of John Henry Newman, With a brief Auto-biography. Edited at Cardinal Newman's request; vols., 12mo, cloth, 84,00. The Works of R. W. Emerson: Nature, Addresses and Lectures, 890, cloth, 81,25. Phases of Thought and Criticism: Principally a portrayal of the characters of Newman and Emerson. By Brother Azarias, 12mo, cloth, 81,50. Development of Old English Thought. This volume traces the development of old English thought as expressed in old English literature. By Bro. Azarius. 12mo, cloth, 81,50. Books and Reading. This volume serves as a criterion on what, and how to read. By Brother Azarias, 12mo, cloth, 90 cents. Oratory and Orators. The power and influence of the orator. Orator's helps, etc. By Wm. Mathews, LL. D. 12mo, etch. By Goents. Oratory and Orators. The power and influence of the orator. Orator's helps, etc. By Wm. Mathews, LL. D. 12mo, set. By Wm. Mathews, LL. D. 12mo, set. By Wm. Mathews, LL. D. 12mo, and phrases in common usc. By John Bartlett. 12mo, cloth. 12mo, cl

Life and Poems of John Boyle O'Reilly.

Jas. J. Roche and Mrs. John B. O'Reilly.

svo.,
eloth
Canadian Pen and Ink Sketches, containing a highly interesting description of Montreal and lits environs. By John Fraser. Svo., cloth, svo. 150 Any of the above books sent free by mail on discounts for quantities before p acing your order. Address

ECKERMANN & WILL The Candle Manufacturers, SYRACUSE, N.Y.

Any of the above books set: field yill all yill all of the above books set: field yill all yill all Branch No. 4, London, cets on the 2nd and 4th Thursday of every nth, at eight o'clock, at their hall, Albion lock, Richmond Street. J. Forrestall, S. Wm. Corcoran, Recording Secretary.

C. M. B. A.

New Branches,
Branch No. 181 was organized in Hespeler, Ont., on August 24, 1892, by District Deputy Adolph Kern.
Branch No. 182 was organized in Wolfe
Island, Ont., on October 11, 1892, by District
Deputy J. J. Behan.
Branch No. 183 was organized in Snyder, Ont., on October 22, 1892, by District Deputy James Quillinan.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Gananoque, Oct. 19, 1892.

At a meeting of Branch 7st, held this evening, the tollowing resolution, moved by Brother Thomas Rosch, seconded by Chancelor Mich.

McParland was passed:

McSolved Hat we, the officers and members of this branch of the C, M. B. A. hereby tender to his wife, children, brothers and sisters in this their great affliction the sympathy we all feel at heart, but which no words of ours can fully express. Death at all times is sad, but especially so when it takes from our midstone whose freeproachable character, youth and usefulness gave to all such bright hopes of a happy and successful future. But when we remember his great patience and resignation during sickness, and the courage and hope with which he found the end, we cannot help believing that our dearly happy and tranquil death. We therefore earnically trust that his sorrowing friends will derive the greatest consolation from the thought that God has taken him to Himself: and should He in His mercy extend to us, during life and at death, the virtues and graces He showered upon him we shall all meet again in a happler land, and part no more.

Resolved that this be recorded in the minutes of this branch and a copy be forwarded to the wife, sisters and brothers, also to the CATHOLIC BECORD and C. M. B. A. Journal.

J. B. McONN, Pres.

London Oct., 20, 1892.

Niagara Falis, on Saturday evening, the zend inst.:

Whereas our late Brother, John Dougherty, who was so terribly mangled this morning while discharging his duties in the G. T. K. yards in this town and who died in a few hours after the sad accident, was a member in good standing of this branch, and

Whereas our late Brother was a young man of excellent habits, held in the highest esteem by the public generally as well as by the members of this branch.

Resolved, that the death of our late Brother has deprived this branch of one of its most cherished members, the town of an honest, sober and industrious citizen, and his young wife of an affectionate, true and devoted husband.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 19, 1892.
At a regular meeting of Branch 132, held last vening, the following resolution was unanievening, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas it hath pleased our divine Master to call to Himself the beloved wife of our esteemed Brother, Wm. J. Butler,

Resolved that the members of Branch 132, while bowing with submission to the Almighty Bessie Smith.

Chorus—

Boys of the school.

Recitation—"Columbus."...

Clara Nagle.

Song—

Bella Smith.

will, beg to tender their most sincere sympathies to Brother Butler and family in their sad and sudden bereavement.

Signed on behalf of the branch
Jas. A. Cragg, Pres; Win. B. Wallace, Trustee; Jas. D. O'Connor, Rec. Sec.; Committee.

The Ryan Relief Fund.

Ingersoll, Ont., Oct. 17, 1892.

The following is a list of contributions towards the C. B. Ryan relief fund, received by me to date from the different branches of the C. M. B. A.: 98, Campbellford, 82; 4, London, 82; 27, Detroit, 85; 103, Buffalo, 85; 115, Chepstow, 81; 23, Seaforth, 82; 68, Costello, Pa., 82; 82, Corning, N. Y., 83; 24, Eddrid, Pa., 82; 82, Corning, N. Y., 83; 24, Eddrid, Pa., 82; 68, Chubelin, 82; 93, Rochester, 83; 105, Watertown, N. Y., 81; 14, Rousville, Fa., 81, 50; 119, Tonawanda, N. Y., 82; 10; 67. Pembroke, 85; 53, Renfrew, 81; 64, Port Jervis, N. Y., 81; 148, Arthur, 82; 105, Waterloo, 82; 67, Neustack, 82; 43, Arthur, 82; 105, Waterloo, 82; 67, Neustack, 82; 41, Arthur, 82; 105, Waterloo, 82; 67, Neustack, 82; 62, Cleveland, O., 82; 121, Arnprior, 83; 9, Elmira, N. Y., 81; 57, Orillia, 83; 39, Carbondale, Pa., 85; 81, Smith's Falls, 85; 3, Louisville, Ohio, 82; 41, 139, Fort Erie, 81; 55, Lulesville, N. Y., 81; 139, Carbondale, Pa., 85; 81, 139, Carbondale, Pa

Mingara Falls, on Saturday evening, the 22nd inst.:

Whereas our late Brother, John Dougherty, who was so terribly mangled this morning while discharging his duties in the G. T. R. yards in this town and who died in a few hours after the sad accident, was a member in good standing of this branch, and
Whereas our late Brother was a young man of excellent habits, held in the highest esteen by the public generally as well as by the members of this branch.
Resolved, that the death of our late Brother has deprived this branch of one of its most cherished members, the town of an honest, sober and industrious citizen, and his young wife of an affectionate, true and devoted husband.
Resolved that as a mark of respect for our decased Brother, that our members do all attend his funeral in a body, wearing the usual emblems of mourning; that a suitable foral emblems of mourning; that a suitable foral emblem be procured to place on the bier of decased. And that our charter be draped in mourning for the next thirty days; and be it further
Resolved that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the widow of our deceased Brother, that our charter be draped in mourning for the next thirty days; and be it further Resolved that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the widow of our deceased Brother, entered no our record, and published in our official organ, and in the local papers.
Signed, James Quillinan, James Abbott, James F. Gharan, J. S. McDonough, Committee on Resolutions.

Hallfax, N. S., Oct. 19, 1892.

Reading-.....

Kindergarten Chorus—
Children of third department.

Reading—
Mary Kelly.
Chorus—"The Maple Leaf."
Pupils of the School.
The readings and recitations were so well rendered by all that it would be unjust to particularize; while the musical numbers, which had been prepared with the assistance of Miss Burke and Mr. E. W. Smith, were all that could be desired.

Interspersed with the programme were eloquent addresses by the Very Rev. Chairman and Messrs. Dowdall, O'Reilly and Smith which were as interesting as they were able and instructive. The speakers who would do honor to any occasion did ample justice to the character and achievements of the great Catholic whose only ambition was to be the means of carrying the gospel to those who knew not the true God, and his simple plety; his faith in his mission; his undomitable will; which no difficulties or roverses could daunt; his untiring perseverance; his many trials; the ingratitude, during his life, of those whom he served; the indignities heaped upon him; the malice of his detractors and the injustice of those who would rob him of the credit due him, were referred to and enlarged upon in forcible and graphic terms.

To encourage the pupils in historical research and to turn the occasion to practical account the chairman of the Board and others present offered a number of valuable prizes to the pupil who should, during the next month or so, write the best essay on the life and voyages of Columbus.

A control of the property of t

Mrs. Adolphus Mahon, London.

We are this week called upon to announce the death of one of London's oldest and most respected residents—Mrs. Mahon, widow of the late Adolphus Mahon, who, forty years ago, was one of London's most prominent citizens. Mrs. Mahon was in the seventy-first year of her age. She had been ailing but a short time, and on Sunday breathed her last, having received all the sacred rites of the Church at the hands of Rev. N. Gahan. The funeral took place on Tuesday, to St. Peter's cemetery, where the remains were placed in the family vault. We had the pleasure and privilege of knowing this good lady for upwards of a quarter of a century, and recall with pleasure as well as profit her many noble traits of character. To the poor she was ever kind and generous, and her donations to the Society of St. Vincent de Paul were most liberal and frequent, and given, too, with the true instinct of charity, God alone can count all the good works she had performed for love of Him; and now we may hope that on the great accounting day her lively faith, her earnest trust in our Divine Kedeemer, and her loving labors in His service here on earth will serve as a passport to eternal bliss m the heavenly kingdom. This will be the hope and the prayer of all who knew her.

James C. Kelly, London.

On Wednesday, at 3. 30 in the afternoon, at his father's residence, in this city, in the twenty eighth year of his age, departed the soul of James C. Kelly, fourth son of Mr. Patrick Kelly, governor of London jail. This young man, who has left a sorrowful void in a loving family, went from London about three years ago to join his brother Joseph, in Erie, Pennsylvania, where he secured a responsible position. The future appeared joyful and full of promise. The world, with its achievements, its honors, its pleasures and its duties, was opening before him, and the qualities were his that would help to bring all to fullest realization. But the ways of Providence are not the world's ways. As the fairest flowers of summer fade and wither and die, so oftentimes the purest souls in God's kingdom on earth are plucked by death for the adornment of His everlasting home. And such appeared, indeed, to be the case in this instance. James Kelly was from childhood remarkable for sweetness and innocence. He was a joy in a lappy home, and a model, beloved and cherished by his companions. About a year after his departure from London he was attacked with Bright's disease. Everything possible was done for the sufferer, but all to no parpose. A few months since he returned home, and after bearing his trying and painful illness with a fortitude and patience truly edifying, resigned his spirit into the hands of his Maker on the day named. His brother Joseph came from Erie three weeks previously and remained with him until the end.

The funeral took place on Saturday morning to St. Peter's cathedral, where solemn Requiem Mass was offered up for the repose of his soul by Rev. M. J. Tiernan. The interment afterwards took place in St. Peter's cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. Forrestal, Johnston, McCann, Fitzgerald, Masuret and Miller.

For the Cathelic Record:

Editor Catholic Record:

SIR — Your correspondent signed "J. N. D." from Belleville, expresses it as his opinion in the last issue of your paper, that the sonnet entitled "The Precious Blood" quoted in his letter and written by Frank Waters, is the greatest sonnet ever written in America. Poetry is so subtle, so evanescent, that it equally evades definition and appraisement. Nor is it possible with any degree of accuracy to set a value upon a poem as you would upon a box of tea in a grocery store. The sonnet referred to by "J. N. D." is certainly a fine one and charged—especially the last lines—with a divinity of inspiration which marks it off as tue poetry. My own opinion is that the two greatest sonnet writers in America to-day are Maurice F. Egan, of Notre Dame, Indiaina, and John Reade of Montreal. So excellent a critic as Stedman has given Prof. Egan this high place, at the same time noting the fact that the gifted litterateur of Notre Dame seldom publishes more than one sonnet each year, which, however, is as polished as the "bosom of a star." Here are two gens from the pen of Dr. Egan:

Fra Angelteo.

Art is true art when art to God is true.
And only then. To copy nature's work Editor Catholic Record :

You left us here the Paradise you gained!

Of Flowers.
There were no roses till the first child died,
No violets, no balmy-breathed heart's ease,
No heliotrope, nor buds so dear to bees,
The honey-hearted woodthine, no gold-eyed
And white-lashed daisy flower, nor, stretching wide,
Clover and cowslip-cups, like rival seas,
Meeting and parting, as the young spring breeze
Runs giddy races playing seek and hide:
For all flowers died when Eve left Paradise,
And all the world was flowerless awhile,
Unit a little child was laid in earth;
Then from its grave grew violets for its eyes,
And from its lips rose-petals for its smile;
And so all lowers from that child's death took birth.
The sonnet has of late years fallen into dis-

-The Owl, Ottawa.

NEW BOOKS.

The following works have been lately issued from the publishing house of Messrs. Benziger Bros., 38 Barclay street, New York: "Socialism Exposed and Refuted," by Rev. Victor Cathrein, S. J. From the German, by Rev. James Connolly, S. J., 12 mo., cloth 75 cents.

A new edition of "Birthday Souvenir, or Diary," with a subject of meditation or a prayer for every day in the year. By Mrs. A. E. Buchanan, author of "The Higher Life," "A Pocketbook for Schoolgirls," etc., Cloth, gilt, 50 cents.

"Public Schools or Denominational Schools? Pastoral letter on The Separation of the School from the Church," issued in 1873 by Right Rev. W. E. von Ketteler, Bishop of Mentz. From the German, by a Catholic priest. Paper, 10 cents.

R. C. W. Knights of St. John, Lee Commandery, No. 2.

To the Editor of the Catholic Record:

To the Editor of the Catholic Record:

DEAR SIR—At a meeting of the Leo Commandery No. 2, the following motion of condolence was moved, seconded and carried unanimously:

That whereas it has pleased Almighty God to call our lamented Brother, Arthur Seabrooke, to his eternal home; be it Resolved that this Commandery desires to express its sympathy and condolence with Mrs. Seabrooke for the loss of her husband, and with his parents for the loss of a son. Be it further Resolved that our charter be draped in mourning for sixty days, and that this be spread upon the minutes of the meeting, and copies of it sent to Mrs. Seabrooke and to the parents of our late Brother, also to the Catholic press; and as a mark of respect we do now adjourn.

T. HORAN, Rec. Sec.

Postponed.

The bazaar in aid of the Hotel Dieu, Windsor, which was advertised to take place this month, has been postponed until the second week in January, 1893, when it will certainly take place. The reason of the delay was the returns from outside the city were limited. The bazaar is for the purpose of raising money to help to liquidate a portion of the very heavy debt which encumlers this magnificent monument of Catholic faith and charity. The work the Hospitaliere Sisters of St. Joseph have undertaken is heroic; the personal sacrifice is sublime. Being cloistered, the community proper rely entirely on the assistance of friends to collect for them, hence the appeal through the press. The persons to whom tickets are sent will kindly dispose of the same; or those desiring a book may secure one of five tickets for one dollar. Please address Mother Superior, Hotel Dieu, Windsor, Ont

MARKET REPORTS.

London, Nov. 3.—Grain (per cental.)—Red winter, £1.08 to 1.91; cyth. 1.05 to 1.10; barley, mait, 91.05 to 1.10; tyte, 91.05 to 1.00; barley, mait, 91.05 to 1.00; beans, bush. 1.09; buck. Wheat, cental. 81.

Product — Eggs, fresh, doz. 19 to 20c; eggs, basket, 17 to 181; eggs, store lots, 17; butter, best roll, 21 to 22; butter, oy basket, 20; butter, large 1 roll, 20; butter, crocks, 20; creamery, retail, 27; creamery, wholesale, 25; creamery, retail, 27; c

Latest Live Stock Markets.

TORONTO.

Nov. 3.—Cattle—There was very little charge in the eattle trade to day, certainly none in toe way of an improvement. Shipping cattle sold at Tuesday's prices of from 3½ to 4c per lb, but trade was very flat and prices, if anything, ruled caster. Two of the best sales in this line were: One load of 22, averaging in weight 1,25) lbs at 4c per ib, and another load of 22 averaging 1,100 at 3½ cper ib. In butchers cattle there is nothing new to record. Good cattle met with a feir demand, while rough, thin cows and oxen were hard to sell and that at low figures. The best cattle in to-day changed hands at 3½ per lb, a few small picked lots being reported at even higher than this. The bulk of the offerings, however, sold at 3½ to 3½ per lb, for good animals and from ½c per lb up for common. Stockers were quiet and unenanged at 2½ to 3½ per lb, baftilers. Bulls were dull at 2½ to 2½ per lb.

MILCH COWS AND SPRINGERS—Good springers or continue to sell well at 3½ to 2½ per lb.

MILCH COWS AND SPRINGERS—Good springers or continue to sell well at 3½ to 2½ per lb.

MILCH COWS AND SPRINGERS—Good springers or continue to sell well at 3½ to 2½ per lb.

MILCH COWS AND SPRINGERS—Good springers or continue to sell well at 3½ to 2½ per lb.

MILCH COWS AND SPRINGERS—Good springers or continue to sell well at 3½ to 2½ per lb.

MILCH COWS AND SPRINGERS—Good springers or continue to sell well at 3½ to 2½ per lb.

MILCH COWS AND SPRINGERS—Good springers or continue to sell well at 3½ to 2½ per lb.

MILCH COWS AND SPRINGERS—Good springers or continue to sell well at 3½ to 2½ per lb.

Milch Cows and Springers—Good springers continue to sell well at 355 to 550 per head, white the demand for milch cows, chiefly on account of the poor quality of the offerings, remains dul.

SHEEP AND LAMBS—Lighter offerings and a better demand gave quite an improvement to the market to-day. Both sheep and lambs sold well to-day and at higher prices. Lambs sold $2.50 to $3.75 per head, and sheep at $1 to $5 per head. One bunch of 17 choice fat sheep, averaging 145 lbs, were reported sold at $6.25 per head. Calves—Offerings were only 25, which sold at $3 to $5 apiece for light veals and $5 to $7 per head for good medium weight calves.

Hots—The heavy offerings to-day did not by any means depress the market, which remained steady to the close. Prices were not quotably changed from those of Tuesday, best medium weight fat hogs selling at $5 to $5.19 per cwt, and heavy rough animals at $1.25 to $1.50 per cwt, and heavy rough animals at $1.25 to $1.50 per cwt.

East Buffalo. N. Y., Nov. 3.—Cattle—The

and heavy rough animals at $1.25 to $1.50 per cwt.

BUFFALO.

East Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Cattle—The fresh sale cattle to day were four leads, three of which were common cows and bulls and only about two loads of them sold. Market easy.

SHEEP AND LAMBS—The supply was heavy for the close of the week and a very slow market. The best of the Canadas were only bid $5.90 for and $5.50 for good lots, and only a few were taken at that range. Fair to good native lambs of $8.10s sole at $5.29 to $5.45 and in very limited inquiry, and fair light weights of $9.10s for $1.00 for $

84.5; cull and common sheep and lambs full low with yesterday.
Hoos—With the held over stock of yesterday, 25 cars, there were all of 50 cars on sale today; 19c lower values than yesterday's close, or 1 c to 156 decline from early prices of yesterday, with the strongest decline on Yorkers and light weights. The choice mediums sold at $5.90, a few at $6 and closely sorted Yorkers sold at $5.81 to $5.80 to $6.05; roughs, $5.10 to $5.25; stags, $5.25 to $5.55.

When the system is run down, a person be-comes an easy prey to Consumption or Scrofula. Many valuable lives are saved by using Scott's Emul-ion as soon as a decline

GRATEFUL-COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA. BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural govern the spectations of digestion and nutri-carrial application of the fine properties of Occor. Mr Eyps has provided on the sketch occors will be a special or the state of the observe fulls. It is by the jind coins use of and det that a conditution may be gradually be strong enough to resist every tennency to diseas

URES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.

Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use
in thine. Sold by druggie's. COMSUMBTION

C. C. RICHARDS & Co.
My son George has suffered with neuralgia round the heart since 1892, but by the application of MINARD'S LINIMENT in 1889 it completely disappeared and has not troubled him since.

Linwood, Ont.

Yes, but feed it with Scott's Emulsion. Feeding the cold kills it, and no one can afford to have a cough or cold, acute

Of pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites strengthens Weak Lungs, checks all Wasting Diseases and is a remarkable Flesh Producer. Almost as Palatable as Milk, Prepared only by Scott & Bowne, Belleville.

TEACHERS WANTED.

WANTED FOR THE R. C. SEPARATE School of the village of Arnprior, two assistant lady teachers, duly qualified. State salary, qualifications, and what knowledge of French, if any. Applications received until the 7th November, 1892. A. Chaire, Sec.
732-3w

Tor. SEPARATE SCHOOL NO. 2, Hullett, teacher holding 3rd class certificate. Duties to commence Jan. 1st, 1893. Section small, salary 8225. Address Thomas Carenters, Sec.-Treas, Clinton, P. O., Ont. 783-2 LEMALE TEACHER, HOLDING A THIRD l class certificate, wanted for Catholic Separate School Section No. 7, Ellice. State salary and experience. Duties to commence at New Year's. Address Rev. John O'Nell. P. P. Kinkora, Ont., or Henry Folky, Sec. Rostock, Ont. 732-2

Rostock, Ont. 782-2
TEACHER WANTED, FOR S. S. NO. 2,
Ashfield, Ont.; one holding second class certificate: duties to commence Jam, 1893; stating salary. Apply at once to DENNIS SULLIVAN, Kingsbridge, Ont. 782-2w

WAN, Kingsbridge, Ont. 732-2w

WANTED A FEMALE TEACHER, HOLDing a third class certificate, for Catholic Separate school, section No. 3, G. H. B. and Sullivan. One who could play the organ in church preferred. Address, stating salary, TIMOTHY MCKENNA, Secretary, Dornoch P.
O. Ont. 732-2w.

O., Ont.

WANTED A TEACHER, HOLDING A second class professional certificate, to teach Catholic Separate School No.6, Stephen. Duties to commence Jan. 6, 1935. Must be an organist; and will be required to take charge of the organ and lead the choir. Testimonials required. Apply, stating salary, to PATRICK J. BREEN, Sec., Mount Carmel P.O., Ont. 733-tf

TEACHER WANTED MALE OR FEMALE,

I for Separate school section No. 9 and 10, Wellesley. Must teach English. Address JOHN KEESNETTER, Bamberg, P. O., Ont. 733-2

SOOTHING, CLEANSING, HEALING. Instant Relief, Permanent Cure, Failure Impossible.

Many so-called diseases are simply symptoms of Catarrh, such as head ache, partial deafness, losing source of smell, foul breath, hawking and splitting, nauses, general feeling of de bility atc. If you are troubled with any of these or kindred symptoms your have Catarrh, and should lose no have the control of the contro FULFORD & CO., Brockville, Ont.

BAUTIMORE, NEW YORK, 22 & 24 E. Baltimore St. 148 Fith Ave. WASHINGTON, 817 Pennsylvania Ave.

The Recognized Standard of Modern

Piano Manufacture.

"MADRE È HIJO." (MOTHER AND SON.)

Packed in the following Sizes-LONGFELLOWS PERFECTOS

REINA VICTORIA

All of exceptionally fine quality.

Of different strength.

To suit all tastes.

LANSDOWNE

Millions Sold Annually.

S. DAVIS & SONS, Montreal

VOLUME

The Flight A BAL

There's a legend that's In the land where the And her robe was embry with devices, right was a light of the legender of the le He went down with S

This Egyptian held methinks, And the future was a For an obelisk marked On her threshold kep She was pensive and c In the haunts of the But communed with the I ween, Or with visitors wrap And there came an o

And there came an o one day, With a maid on a mu And a child on her bose Leet them straight to And they seemed to ha path, From their home man From a tyrant's pursuf Spent with toil, and And the gypsy came f

And the gypsy came f and prayed That the pilgrims we And she offered her co Who had come many And she fondled the caress. And she begged the "Here the stranger," access. And the wanderer by Then her guests from she led To a seat in her grot Where she spread then a shed, a shed,
With a manger, was
With the wine of the newly culled,
All the toil of the roa
And with song in a l lulled

When the gypsy anon Placed the infant's of Oh, 'twas fearful to seanned Of the babe in his sl Well she noted each n "For this child is o "From the village of plied,
"Where we dwelt is We have fled from a we have hed from a dyed
In the gore of the c
We were iold to rema Should appoint us t
But till then we inha
And in Egypt we in

On her bosom the wa

"Then ye tarry with "And ye make of m Many years have I pr (Blessed hope of the And kissed both the knelt, And adored him at C Lit the face of the dwelt With her host on th

EDWARD BL. The Distinguished Great Audience Canadian membe mentary party, ning of Wednes Tremont Temple of sympathizers which crowded and the galleries The subject of iliar one, but o cease to be of America till In righted. Mr. Blake's a participation in Dominion of Ca British Empire which Ireland

especial interest MR. BLA audience had said: "MR. MAYO GENTLEMEN: ago I received of those who h upon this occas the period was it seemed to m enough of pol or presuming

another country might sympathi "But I was find among the an abiding sy to be able to add even under si those (applause) fully to the re no insigni would confer u as members of achievements v the long strug hope, approach tion (applause), enlisted for the

"As long ag (hisses)-no, w he said - spok in those early d the condition o a revolution w controlled by force; and he the logical re England was and that the