RUSSIAN DISASTER IS OFFICIALLY REPORTED BY THE WAR OFFICE

Two Army Corps Lost and Three Generals Captured--People Remain Calm and Confident of the Final Outcome of the War.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 2.—10.10 a.m.—Advices have been received here from St. Petersburg to the effect that the Russian general staff frankly confesses to disaster to two army corps including the loss of three generals.

GENERAL IS LOST
LONDON, Sept. 2.—A telegram to Reuters Telegram Company from St. Petersburg, says: "Lieutenant-General Samsonoff, who commanded a corps in the Russo-Japanese war, and until recently was chief of the Russian Turkestan military district, is deeply regretted."

INVADED GERMANY
LONDON, Sept. 2.—9.40 a.m.—A despatch to the Daily News from Rome says: "Besides advancing in East Prussia, the Russians are also invading Germany in northern Galicia, their objective being Koenigshtutts, in Prussian Silesia, whence presumably they will march on Berlin via Breslau."

CAN BE BELIEVED
LONDON, Sept. 2.—Telegraphing from St. Petersburg, the correspondent of The Times declares that the war reports given out by the headquarters staff in the Russian capital are generally rather meagre, but in contrast to what is the case in Berlin and Vienna, they are always true. Up to the present time they have had nothing to announce but a series of victories. That the headquarters will stick to this plan also when the news is had is proved by the announcements of to-day. This attitude shows their confidence in the fortitude and staunchness of the Russian people, which undoubtedly is deserved and augurs well for the future.

The wording of to-day's announcement indicates that other Vistula fortresses besides Graudenz and Thorn have been sent reinforcements. The news arrived last night, and the people of St. Petersburg received it with firm-

GERMANS KILL THEIR OWN BADLY WOUNDED

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 2.—5.25 a.m.—The Express quotes Leon Hiard, The Ostend correspondent of senator of Hainault, as testifying: "That the Germans killed their own severely wounded on the battlefield only tending those who would soon recover."
ing to the despatch that the Germans suffered heavily at Mons. Returning remnants of those who were in the fight, spoke bitterly of ness. Their faith in a final Russian victory remains wholly unshaken.

General Samsonoff, who is reported dead, was considered one of Russia's most capable and brilliant generals.
He was very popular and his name was a household word among all classes of the population.

General Martos was commander of an army corps, the Times correspondent goes on, who General Pesitch was attached to the general staff.
From Galicia, the only news is that a fierce battle is still raging. The situation in this Austrian province is probably as follows: "A large Austrian army with its base upon Cracow and Przemysl, 50 miles west of Lemberg, has occupied the southern portion of the Russian-Polish Governments of Lublin and Kielce. It advanced in two columns to the north, one on either side of the River Vistula. Against the column advancing on Lugin marched the largest part of the third Russian army. The hostile forces met south of Lublin and towards Tomashov, where the battle announced more than a week ago is in progress."

At the same time the Russian fourth army crossed the eastern frontier of Galicia and after a series of minor encounters, in which it was everywhere victorious, it drove back the advanced Austrian forces massed there until a general battle ensued, about 30 miles east of Lemberg. After long sustained and heavy fighting at this point, the Russians captured several places, where the Austrians had taken up positions fortified by field works, namely at (names deleted by censor). Of the continued advance on Lemberg there is no further reports.

In conclusion, the correspondent of the Times says that the information given out at headquarters in St. Petersburg indicates that the Russians, in spite of the Austrian stubborn defence, will bring victory home in this long sustained and terrible battle in which there has been more than 1,000,000 men engaged.

British courage. One force of 250 British, it is stated, must have accounted for thousands of Germans. All along their line of retreat they had prepared a defence made with bags full of potatoes, found in a neighboring factory. Through these were placed maxims and on top German helmets. The first time the Germans came up to this seemingly friendly line, the maxims spoke and soon no Germans were left. Mons is reported to have suffered heavily, and its whole neighborhood has been devastated.

Graphic Description of Paris With Possible Siege Soon by the Germans

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 2.—"With the Germans so near, there has not been a day in the last month when Paris presented the appearance of such complete calm," says the Paris correspondent of The Chronicle. "More shops are open and rows of chairs have appeared before the chief cafes."

"The possibility of a German raid is very slight. Solitary fortresses may perhaps be masked, but the attempt to cut down the Oise Valley towards Paris, except as a trial raid without first routing the masses of the army, is madness."

"We may assume therefore that if the Germans have faced eastward and turned their backs on the British and other forces now in Picardy, (an old province in the north of France, but now forming the department of Somme and part of Oise, Pas De Calais and Aisne, they must either win an immediate victory or risk being caught between the hammer and the anvil. If they win they still have to meet other armies."

"Common sense is shown in preparing against any contingency. More than one edition daily of any newspaper is prohibited on pain of permanent suppression and the lights on the Seine bridges and the river side have been greatly reduced, no doubt out of regard for the Zeppelins and aeroplanes.
"No considerable change is perceptible in the military situation and it is believed that the main French army and the British wing still hold the line. So far the German turning movement by western Belgium, which cost enormous losses and risks has been successful, but now the position is very different. The best Prussian and Hanover troops are now accepted and the Germans have now the main bodies of the allies to meet.

"The forts on which so many brains have been spent, are not silenced. What prospective defeat, flight and piecemeal slaughter is open for the Germans.
"A brief official review just issued reveals the vast extent of this unprecedented battlefield, 75 miles long and 45 miles southward from their main army the allies blocked the German path."

"Whether the same British force is fighting on the Somme to the southwest or another, we don't know. Near Sedan the French troops had to effect a slow retreat, but it repelled another German attack and in so doing inflicted heavy German losses. Fresh German reinforcements then appeared from Bocoai a fortified town in the Department of Ardennes, making towards—and fighting is now going on between—and the Meuse.

"The official note on the fighting describes it as a kind of siege warfare. As every position previously captured by the French in the Vosges region has been strengthened and organized, the French advance there is necessarily slow.
"The Parisians in reply to the request from an aeroplane to surrender says: "What did you bring under your wing that we should surrender to you. You brought death—a bomb. That is all. That is why I will never have Paris. Paris is civilization in its beauty. You are barbarous."

"Many wounded continue to arrive in Paris, some with trophies, such as swords and helmets.
"The Red Cross Ladies have been officially informed that 12 of their number were killed and that others are missing."

Russian Victory Over Austrians

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 2.—The announcement from Vienna that preparations have been made for the evacuation of Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, in view of the inevitability of an approaching Russian occupation, is the first official admission that the Austrians have been worsted in the prolonged fighting in Galicia.

Russian accounts from this field of operations have been continuously cheerful. Even the defeat of Russians by the Germans in East Prussia has unabated the optimism of Petrograd. The Russian chief of the general staff calls the affair merely a reverse, due to the unexpected appearance of heavy German reinforcements, accompanied by siege guns apparently from the fortresses of Thorn and Graudenz.

Nothing so complete as the present censorship of news from the actual-battle line in France has been known since the beginning of the war.
The significance of the removal of the German military headquarters at Coblenz to an unknown destination is difficult to estimate, but the change is regarded as highly interesting. The announcement by a Paris paper that fourteen German staff officers have been captured and interned at Nimes is the first intimation of this incident.

The Russian embassy here has thought it desirable formally to deny reports of pogroms at Vilna, which it attributes to German and Austrian sources. The embassy has received a despatch from Petrograd (St. Petersburg) declaring the reports to be without foundation and stating that Vilna is perfectly calm. The Christian and Jewish populations are working together for the relief of the wounded.

The Prince of Wales relief fund to-day passed the $10,000,000 mark.

Re-assuring News

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
PARIS, Sept. 2.—Commenting on the war situation to-day, the Temps says:

"It is not the few troops which the Germans can push ahead that can besiege Paris. The important point is the centre, where we perceive a hesitation. The German troops are out of breath, and one of their army corps has been transferred toward their eastern frontier. It is probable that we have in front of us on the centre forces diminished by fatigue, by our fire and by withdrawals to reinforce the east Prussian army."

"In any case, our contingents have had their vacancies filled and their ammunition replenished, while the enemy is encountering great difficulty in getting supplies."

WAR SUMMARY

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
The fourth day of the second general battle between the Germans and the allies find, find Emperor William's forces pressing with unprecedented strength their advance on Paris. The right is reported to be within fifty miles of the French capital.

In the absence of official announcements it is indicated by news despatches that the British and French continue a stubborn resistance-giving way, slowly, however, whenever this strategy is necessary to keep their line intact and prevent an enveloping movement by the German right.

In the east the fighting progresses with unabated fervor. Both the Russian and the Austro-German armies have met successes and reverses. It is admitted in Petrograd (St. Petersburg) that two army corps were defeated by the Germans in East Prussia and that three Russian Generals were lost.

On the other hand the Austrians appear to have been defeated in Galicia, where overwhelming successes are claimed by the Russians. This report gains authenticity in a despatch from Vienna which stated that the Austrians had decided to evacuate Lemberg.

Official despatches from Petrograd coming by way of London, show evidence of having been closely censored in London.

The attitudes of Turkey and Italy are anxiously awaited by all the belligerents. A semi-official despatch from Petrograd says that Turkish troops have landed on the shores of Asia Minor at Smyrna. Further pressure is reported to have been brought to bear on Italy by Germany and Austria to have her support the Triple Alliance.

The Japanese foreign office has issued a statement complaining of the alleged unfair treatment of Japanese non-combatants in Germany.

A corner of the curtain of the battle drama in northwestern France, has been raised momentarily. It shows the allies battling desperately to prevent the success of the German assault on the upper Oise, less than 50 miles from Paris.

On the eastern war stage, Russia frankly confesses to disaster to two army corps, including the loss of three generals, Samsonoff, Martos and Pestich.

Elsewhere the Russian arms seem to have triumphed. Galicia has been successfully invaded and Lemberg will soon be evacuated according to the advices from the St. Petersburg war office.

If this is true the Austrian menace to Russian Poland will be ended, and the Russian forces can be sent to converge for the march on Berlin, the Russian objective in North Galicia appears to be Koenigshtutts, whence they can reach Berlin via Breslau.

On the upper Oise, the British are fighting desperately to prevent the Germans from securing one of the most direct routes to Paris. News of this battle reaching here from two recent sources is the first definite information since the end of the battle of Mons. The battle on Sunday and Monday, and the weight of numbers, the British secured a slight advance.

Military experts point out that from the present position on the upper Oise River, the German advance will become increasingly difficult, owing to the natural obstacles of the country, and to the artificial obstacles which will have to be encountered.

It is becoming evident that along the western line, the allies are playing for time in the hope that the enemy will become exhausted.

On the diplomatic side Germany is making renewed efforts to bring Italy into her camp by a proclamation which cites that a victory for England and France will deprive Italy of all chance of dominating the Mediterranean.

The western coast of Belgium and the northwestern coast of France are apparently clear of Germans.

Antwerp has asked for an increased garrison. The town has also experienced a shudder because of another Zeppelin visit. The great dirigibles were fired upon and departed without dropping any bombs.

BATTLE OF MONS WAS MORE TERRIBLE THAN A WATERLOO

Wednesday Was a Very Hard Day—Fiercest Frontal Attack in all History Was Made by the Germans on British.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 2, 4.27 p.m.—The Chronicle correspondent gives a description obtained from officers of the great battle of Mons on August 26. It says: "All soldiers agree that Wednesday's battle was by far the most terrible. Certainly it came at the end of several days' fighting, but they tell me the Germans put more strength into that day's work than perhaps any other."

"An officer told me it was a terrible day. I think the Germans knew there was an opportunity to wipe out the British force and they brought up vast numbers of their best and freshest men. The German forces assailed the British position not only with determination, but with what I can only justly call ferocity."

"No doubt the German General Staff were of the opinion that the British force could not stand before an attack by an enemy twice as strong in number and much so in artillery. It was really the first occasion in history in which a battle has taken place between a German and a British army and I think when we can read its story as we can that of Waterloo, it will be found that that battle, in which twice as many men were engaged as at Waterloo, deserves a far higher place, purely as a military achievement."

"It was something really awe-inspiring, one officer said in speaking of the same day, to see those terrific German rushes. The attacking forces were well served too by artillery and that has not always been the case."

Generally the artillery fire from the Germans has been rather poor.

"When you saw the rush start, you thought nothing on earth could stop it. That those tremendous charges were stopped and the attacker driven back in disorder is due in the first place, I am certain to the magnificent marksmanship of the British soldiers. The officers naturally expected a good deal in this particular direction, but I don't think they thought the men would do so superbly in actual warfare."

"At the end of practically a week's hard marching and harder fighting and in the face of perhaps, the fiercest frontal attack ever delivered in modern warfare, it must have surprised the Germans and judging from what they saw, the officers stated, Wednesday was the most serious day for Germany since the war began."

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

WAR CORRESPONDENTS SEND STORIES OF HARD FIGHTS

Retirement of British Troops Was Part of Strategy -- Allies Gain in Strength--Spirit of Kitchener Pervades Whole Army.

LONDON, Sept. 2, 5:03 a.m.—The Paris correspondent of The Times sends the following:

"To-day I pushed up as near the front as possible, but could only get general impressions of the events of the recent days.

"It must be borne in mind that although on the left flank the allied armies have been forced to withdraw, their lines so far remain intact. At no point has the enemy succeeded in driving a wedge through the circle which is drawing closer and closer around the capital and gaining in strength as it retreats.

"Amid all the welter of war the British troops produced the great quality of efficiency. The spirit of Kitchener apparently pervades the whole British expeditionary force. The transport and commissariat are all excellent and they have withstood the slaughtering tactics of the German general staff with wonderful equanimity.

CUT UP REGIMENT.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The correspondent of The Daily Mail at Boulogne reported that a regiment of German infantry has been cut up and almost completely destroyed by the allies. "Since Friday night," he says, "a large body of German troops has been surrounded in a forest which is being shelled by bombardment on all sides by the allies.

"Heavy slaughter occurred during a two days' battle which finally ended with the retirement of the Germans who left large numbers of dead and wounded on the field. The losses of the allies were also heavy.

No location is given in this despatch as to where the fighting occurred, but it undoubtedly refers to the German attacks on the French left flank.

A THIRD BATTLE.

LONDON, Sept. 2, 4 a.m.—The Chronicle's correspondent sends a report of a third British battle in the Upper Oise Valley, where the Germans are flinging the whole of their weight to force a wedge.

The battle raged throughout Sunday and Monday, when the Germans it is stated, sacrificed lives recklessly.

The British were compelled to give way slightly, but are maintaining the defence heroically. The battle is still undecided.

(The point from which the correspondent filed his despatch is omitted.)

TERRIFIC FIGHTING.

PARIS, Sept. 2, 4:15 a.m.—The number of wounded arriving at different points shows that the fighting in the north continues great violence. Yesterday 700 wounded soldiers arrived at Cherbourg, 500 at Orleans, 300 at Briancon and 200 at Paris.

Nearly all of them had wounds in the legs and arms. The number of prisoners is also considerable. One convoy of 768 has arrived at Nimes, another of 480 at Troyes, and 100 at Clermont.

It Was Repulsed

(By Special Wire to the Courier)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Telegraphing from Paris to-day, the correspondent of the Daily News says that an old campaigner who came in at the northern railroad station, describing the battle he saw Tuesday morning, said: "Of one thing you can be assured; murderous as was the German onslaught, their attack was repulsed."

Continuing, the correspondent says: "From news which has reached me from many sources, I fear you must be prepared to hear of heavy losses."

GRAND TRUNK WRECK TO-DAY NEAR KOMOKA

FIFTEEN WERE INJURED ON THE CHICAGO TO MONTREAL TRAIN.

(By Special Wire to the Courier)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Running at a high rate of speed in an endeavor to make up lost time, Grand Trunk Limited Express No. 4, eastbound, Chicago to Montreal, broadside Chicago No. 1008 of an extra way freight from London at the crossover at Komoka, at 6:20 o'clock this morning.

W. H. Webster of Sarnia, fireman on the express, was thrown across the cab, and sustained two broken shoulders and several scalp wounds. Sixteen passengers received minor cuts and bruises caused by flying glass and being thrown from their seats.

The engine of the way freight was thrown clear of the rails when the heavy locomotive crashed into it, blocking traffic on both main lines.

The freight was attempting to cross from the westbound main line to the east track. As engine No. 1008 pushed her pilot across the intersection, the heavy locomotive of the express bore down upon it. There was no time to reverse and the two locomotives met with a terrific crash.

The express is almost a solid pullman steel train, and that was what saved many passengers from serious injury. Sleeping passengers were thrown from their berths to the floor.

Hurry up calls were sent in for the London and Hamilton auxiliary crews and the local apparatus was sent to the scene of the accident within a few minutes after notification of the collision was received.

The passenger cars on the express were re-routed via Strathroy and sent into the city. The train arrived at 9:45 a.m. and the engine fireman taken to a hospital. The injured are: W. H. Webster, both shoulders broken, and scalp wounds; C. C. Covington, Wilmington, N.C., neck twisted; C. T. Atkins, Minnesota; R. P. Chicago Publishing Casualty Lists.
LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Mail says the German military authorities have forbidden the publication of further casualties in the newspapers. The local newspapers are allowed to publish the names of purely local interest from the lists posted in the offices of the local administration.

French Aviator Escaped Death.
PARIS, Sept. 2.—Lieut. Campagne of the aviation corps, while flying over the German lines at a height of 1,800 yards, was subjected to the enemy's fire. A shell struck his machine and he stopped the motor. The aeroplane oscillated violently in the wind, but the lieutenant succeeded in righting it and in veering into the French lines. He landed safely and gave important information concerning the German positions.

MUST STAY IN CITY.
LONDON, Sept. 2.—A despatch to the Reuters Telegram Company from Paris has ordered that no private motor cars be allowed to leave Paris after to-day.

MEN ARE LANDED

PEKING, China, Sept. 2.—Japan has landed between 10,000 and 15,000 troops from 18 transports at Lung-Kow, a newly opened port about 100 miles north of Tsing-Ha-Tu. This is declared to have been done in violation of China's neutrality.

FOREIGNERS MUST LEAVE.
PARIS, Sept. 2.—A despatch from Antwerp to the Havas Agency reports that by decree of the government, all foreigners who were not registered August 1, must leave the city at once.

WILL DONATE TO FUND.
OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Information has been sent to the Government that the Canadian Club of New York has cancelled its annual dinner on account of the war and will ask the members to donate to the Canadian patriotic fund the amount they would have expended on this dinner. The club will also contribute from its own funds.

ZEPPELIN OVER ANTWERP.
LONDON, Sept. 2.—A despatch to the Reuters Telegram Company from Antwerp says that a Zeppelin from ship passing over that city this morning dropped several bombs. One struck the railway, doing no damage, but others seriously damaged ten houses.

A RICH CAPTURE.
NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Sir Courtenay Bennett, British consul-general in this city, announced this afternoon that he had been informed by a trustworthy friend that the German Lloyd Steamer Kron Prinz Wilhelm had been captured in near-by waters by the British flotilla of cruisers and taken a war prize to Bermuda. His information he said, had not been confirmed, but he thought it true.

SENSIBLE JUDGE
TORONTO, Sept. 1.—"One of the ways of displaying and encouraging confidence is for the legal profession so to deal with the courts that the courts will be applied to only in exceptional cases, and as a last resort," remarked Mr. Justice Hodgins at Osogode Hall this morning in opening the weekly court. The words were apropos of the statement of the finance minister that the supreme patriotic duty of the hour was to have confidence in our country and in one another.

WE CAN HAVE PIE.

There was once a good woman who couldn't make pies, but had two kind neighbors who kept her supplied with that article of food.

One day her two neighbors got to fighting, and so badly injured one another that neither of them was able to make pies for some considerable time.

What did the pie-less one do? Go without pie? Not much. SHE HUNTED UP A COOK BOOK AND FOUND OUT HOW TO BAKE PIES HERSELF.

Canada to-day is in the position of the lady who couldn't make pies.

There are many things she does not make at home because she has been getting them so easily from Continental Europe. But now her neighbors in Europe are at war with one another and so—for some time to come—cannot supply those things.

Canada is too thrifty and serious and sensible a housewife to sit with hands folded at such a time.

While loyally contributing a number of her best sons to help settle things in Europe, Canada will not entirely overlook her other sons who remain at home.

The manufacturers of Canada will get out the recipe book and learn how to MAKE many of the things that Europe can no longer send us because of the war. And in the making of those things the manufacturers of Canada should have the support of the financial interests and the people of Canada.

The manufacturers of Canada are now making much of the woolen goods, motor cars, rubber goods, corsets, millinery, hosiery, silverware—and countless other things—that are used in Canada, and generally speaking, are making these goods at least as well as they are being made anywhere else. The people of Canada know that most of these things are being made by the manufacturers of this country. They do not know yet whether the manufacturers of Canada are going to serve them still more by making many of the things that were formerly imported from Continental Europe.

The manufacturers of Canada should tell the people of Canada at this time, more than ever, just what they are making and the merits of their products. Let them drive home the facts through the great modern message medium—advertising. Let them use the newspapers to inform the people that they "have the goods." Let them explain that notwithstanding the war the people of Canada CAN have "the pie"—"home-made pie," and all the better for being home-made.

And after the war is over—if not before—perhaps our neighbors in Europe will be coming to Canada for some of this "pie"—importing from Canada some of the things Canada now imports from them.

THE SITUATION

There is very little to be said with reference to the war at the present time, except that the greatest battle of the series is now waging between the Germans and the allies. The Kaiser's troops, owing mainly to superior numbers, have forced their opponents back to take up stronger ground on more than one occasion, but there has been nothing in the nature of a defeat. Their losses admitted, they have been enormous, and for this third locking of horns they are not as strong as in previous engagements, although still very formidable. They are still about seventy miles from the enormous forts of Paris—the best and most thoroughly protected city in Europe.

The Russians have apparently received a very severe check. They are always an unknown quantity in any war, not because of any wavering on the part of the troops, but for the reason of inefficient generalship. In any event, it would be well that they should not invest Berlin alone, or their claims at the close would be altogether too insistent.

Harry Jukes of Parry Sound was drowned in the south channel about seven miles from that town, being knocked out of his launch in collision with a towed scow.

CANADIAN SILHOUETTES

Revelstoke on the Columbia

REVELSTOKE impressed me as a scattered town of many hotels where people stay for one night. If you stay there for a week, in any hotel, you will hear, after you have gone to bed, somewhere in the quiet hours sounds of people coming into the hall below. Jangling of keys, slamming of doors, coughing, clearing of throats—and then silence reigns again.

In the morning you will be wakened long before your time by banging on various doors, banging here, banging there, and as you turn over for your last nap the voice of the hotel omnibus driver in the hall shouts to the breakfasters: "All aboard!" When you get down to breakfast with the residents there are signs in the dining-room that it has been busy there already. The trains all seem to come into Revelstoke very late at night and go out very early.

The number of people who have put up there in the dark, fallen tired into bed, and imagine that the clerk called them up two minutes later to a rushed breakfast and a drive through chill morning to the depot, must be tremendous.

To most people in British Columbia that is the meaning of Revelstoke—the spirit which burned in Drake, Grenville or in Nelson.

For a month the British North Sea fleet has been a mystery, its presence and activity being only revealed by results attained, the preservation intact for British boats of every channel of communication on the high seas. By these signs the world could judge that passively at least, Britain was still mistress of the sea.

CASUALTIES OF THE BRITISH

LONDON, Sept. 1, 11 p.m.—The official casualties suffered by the cavalry brigade, and of three of the divisions, less one brigade of the British force in France, follow: Killed: 36 officers and 127 men. Wounded: 57 officers and 629 men. Missing: 95 officers and 4,183 men.

Notes and comments. Some meeting that. Villa and Roosevelt are both out of the limelight these days.

Asquith, Balfour, Lloyd-George, Bonar Law, and others, are about to address joint meetings regarding the war, its causes and its necessities.

One hundred thousand recruits have gone into training in the Old Land as a first response, and the Irish volunteers mustered under Carson will probably offer their services in a body.

SEVERE RHEUMATIC PAINS DISAPPEAR

Rheumatism depends on an acid in the blood, which affects the muscles and joints, producing inflammation, stiffness and pain. This acid gets into the blood through some defect in the digestive process.

"For All We Have And Are"

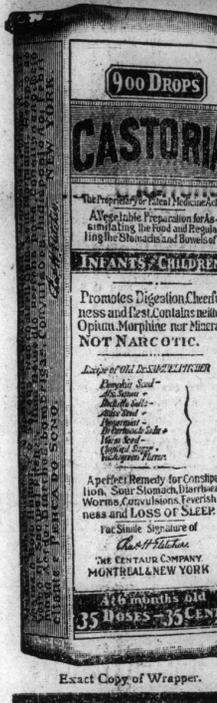

By RUDYARD KIPLING

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Rudyard Kipling contributes the following poem to the London Times:

For all we have and are, For all our children's fate, Stand up and meet the war— The Hun is at the gate! Our world has passed away In wanton overthrow; There's nothing left to-day But steel and fire and woe. Though all we know depart The old commandments stand— In courage keep your heart, In strength lift up your hand.

Once more we hear the word That sickened earth of old, No law except the sword, Unsheathed and uncontrolled. Once more it knits mankind, Once more the nations go To meet and break and bind A crazed and driven foe. Comfort, content, delight, The ages' slow-bought gain, They shrivelled in a night. Only ourselves remain To face the naked days In silent fortitude, Through perils and dismays, Renewed and re-renewed. Though all we made depart, The old commandments stand: "IN PATIENCE KEEP YOUR HEART! IN STRENGTH LIFT UP YOUR HAND!"

No easy hopes or lies Shall bring us to our goal— But iron sacrifice Of body, will and soul. There's but one task for all, For each, one life to give; Who stands if freedom fall? Who dies if England live?

Next Sewing Bee. A week from to-day the ladies of the House Committee of the Children's Shelter, will hold their next sewing bee for the soldiers. In the meantime material will be solicited and secured.

Caught Unawares. The sudden showers of yesterday managed to make it pretty uncomfortable for some and a number of shopkeepers were to be seen clearing out their window stocks. The rain frame in some cases. One merchant had his show window entirely flooded and some stock damaged.

Will Hold Half Holiday. The local shopkeepers association has kindly consented to allow such of its members as wish to observe the usual half-holiday throughout the week. Some injustice is felt that the stores outside the association cannot see their way to consider such course, and permit their clerks to have equal facilities for practice.

Employed in Old Land. A letter received from Dr. John Montgomery, the well known veterinary surgeon states that he is now in Aldershot in the employ of the Imperial government. He writes enthusiastically and hopefully of the war prospects there.

Falling to Pieces. Little by little, the old, venerable City Hall is passing to the home of the fathers. Apparently affected by a large portion of the ceiling of the city clerk's office this morning fell, with a crash to the floor and gave those around a shock. Wet shaking hands, Janitor George Smith lovingly gathered together the fallen plaster and deposited it outside of the mother pile to await times decay.

SCHOOLS ARE CROWDED BY RECORD NUMBER

Two Schools Alone Have Over 600 Pupils Each in Attendance.

The attendance at the city schools broke all records yesterday when there were 642 scholars at Central and 623 at King Edward, while the others were similarly well filled. So great has the attendance been that arrangements will be made at the meeting of the school board for the care of an overflow. Mr. Kilmer is busy obtaining two large rooms for the accommodation of the scholars. Although yesterday's attendance was large, a still greater attendance is to-day expected, as the weather is much more promising. The question of supplying the educational needs of the three thousand, four hundred scholars, who are on the registers, will be a much debated question if the present crush continues, as it is likely to do.

For some time there have been some two hundred city scholars attending the county school and Grand View, and now it seems that another similar arrangement must be come to with other county schools.

The Collegiate Institute yesterday broke all records when 405 were in attendance, and a further increase is expected.

CITY WILL OPEN UP WORK IN PLENTY WITHIN A FEW DAYS

Mayor Spence and City Treasurer A. K. Bunnell were in attendance yesterday at a meeting of Board of Trade representatives in Toronto to discuss province-wide plans to make provision for unemployment. All of the speakers declared that any effort to be made must not be to give them work. This view was endorsed by the meeting. Accordingly financial arrangements will have to be made not only for the municipalities, but for the manufacturers as well and this can only be done by both provincial and federal governments assisting. A strong executive of which Mayor Spence was made a member was appointed to wait on the government. What will be asked for will be worked out at a meeting to-morrow. It is probable that a loan will be asked for to enable municipalities and manufacturers to carry on business as usual. Some manufacturers reported having orders which they could not fill owing to the banks shutting down on them and refusing advances. "As far as Brantford is concerned," said Mayor Spence today, "our position is a city is satisfactory. Financial arrangements are now being made which will enable within a week or so the Board of Works to go ahead with city work which will take care of a lot of unemployed. We believe that this city will be alright."

PATRIOTIC CONCERT FOR LOCAL FUND BY THE COURIER

Arrangements are now under way for a popular patriotic concert in the auditories to be conducted under the auspices of the Courier and under the direction of Mr. J. R. Cornelius, the popular organist of Park Baptist Church. The concert is to be a popular one in every sense and the proceeds will go entirely to the Brantford Patriotic Fund. Well-known leaders in the musical world of Toronto and other places will be secured. Mr. Cornelius having undertaken to secure their engagement without charge to the cause. The aim of The Courier and those assisting, is $1,000 for the Brantford fund. At the same time prices will be so arranged so that every one can do their share. The program to be given will, needless to say, consist of an array of talent not usually secured for any one occasion in Brantford or elsewhere. It will also be of a patriotic scope. It is proposed to hold the concert some time in the near future. Further announcements from time to time will be made.

FRIGHTFUL GUN

New German Shell is Described by Wounded French Officer.

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 2, 4.30 a.m.—The Boulogne correspondent of The Express sends his paper the following: "A French artillery officer who has just arrived, wounded from the front spoke with the greatest earnestness regarding the new siege guns which the Germans are using. He says the gun uses a new and highly explosive shell which has a most devastating effect. "This new gun and shell were recently developed at the Krupp works and the fact that the Germans had it was kept a profound secret until it was brought into action at Liege, Namur and Louvain. "In all my experience I have seen nothing like it," declared the French officer. KILLED IN BATTLE TORONTO, Sept. 2.—Word has reached the city of the death in battle of Lieutenant Bertram Denison, King's Own Yorkshire regiment. He was the son of Admiral John Denison and a nephew of Col. George T. Denison, this city. He was 34 years of age and was born in London, England. He married Miss Gladys Nordheimer, daughter of Albert Nordheimer, Toronto. He was visiting in Toronto this summer with his father and sailed for home July 25. He had been in the navy but changed to the army. He gave up a position in the war office to join his old regiment when the war broke out. The first 100,000 recruits for Britain's new army went into training camp in England.

ARMY VETERANS WILL PROTECT LOCAL WORKS

Resolution Was Passed at Meeting of Association Last Night.

At the meeting of His Majesty's Army and Navy Veterans society last evening the business included some features of public import. The president, Mr. G. Lambden's address on the war and the probable results was quite appropriate. Colonel Spence moved the following resolution, seconded by Itinerary Fielding: "Whereas the war is increasing in magnitude and with prospects that the Brantford volunteers will be called to the Canadian front; and, whereas the members of the United Army and Navy Veterans of Brantford are all men, who have been trained and have seen service, and are now ready to guard the city, guard the public buildings the bridges, and support the police; therefore, resolved that this society of Army and Navy Veterans of Brantford be now organized into a home guard that the officers of this society be the officers of the Home Guard, and that an application be forwarded to the Minister of Militia asking to be supplied with 50 stand of arms and 2,000 rounds of ammunition; and that this organization will guarantee the proper care of all militia stores entrusted to them."

Nine former C. P. R. employees were committed for trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud.

PARIS IS EASIER

It is felt that Germans Are Withdrawing Numbers of Troops.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] PARIS, Sept. 2.—An air of great uncertainty continues in the faces of the laconic communications from the war office, but last evening there appeared to exist an easier feeling, arising from the supposition that the Germans were withdrawing part of their troops operating in the north. There is nothing to confirm this excepting the fact that Lille, Tourcoing and other exposed points are reported free of the enemy. The admission of the war office that the French troops are retiring south and southwest is not taken as being inconsistent with the above theory, because naturally it would be the strategy of the allies to let the Germans draw their lines out, if so disposed, in order to take advantage of the resulting weakness at the right moment.

STILL THEY PRESS LONDON, Sept. 2.—The correspondent of The Mail at Boulogne, says: "It is quite evident, except on the south, the German forces are pressing on all sides towards Paris. It is reported today that a German patrol with a quick firing machine gun, in a motor car and fifty cyclists, was in Arras, capital of the Department of Pas De Calais, yesterday."

SPY ARRESTED. LONDON, Sept. 2, 8.30 a.m.—Baron Lewis Von Horst, of Cobourg, Germany, was arrested in London today on the charge of espionage and placed in one of the concentration camps as a prisoner of war. Baron Von Horst has extensive hop interests in California.

TURKEY AND GREECE SURE TO MAKE WAR

Report is That It is Only a Matter of Two or Three Days.

(By Special Wire to the Courier) LONDON, Sept. 2, 4.40 a.m. A St. Petersburg despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company conveys a semi-official statement to the effect that in well-informed circles in St. Petersburg the opinion is expressed that war between Turkey and Greece is now only a question of two or three days. Numerous Turkish troops, the despatch states have landed on the shores of Asia Minor at Smyrna, while near Chatalja and to the east of Scutari fortifications are being feverishly thrown up under the direction of German officers. General Lemay Von Sanders will command the second Ottoman army and Enver Bey will be commander-in-chief.

PLEW OVER ANTWERP. LONDON, Sept. 2.—A despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Antwerp reports that another Zeppelin flew over Antwerp last night. It was fuelled and cannonaded, but with what result is not stated in the despatch.

CIVILIAN RIFLE CLUB AN ASSURED SUCCESS

Meeting Attended by Over 200, Was Held at the Collegiate Institute Last Night—Will Get Rifles From Ottawa.

The success of the Civilian Rifle Club was assured at the organization meeting held last night at the Collegiate Institute. There was a large attendance of those interested, some two hundred men being present. One hundred names were attached to the form drawn up by Mr. Ed. Sweet for the occasion, and officers were appointed. The merchants will continue their Wednesday half holiday indefinitely, in order that their assistants might find time to parade with the club.

The procedure of forming themselves into a rifle club, as pointed out by the chairman, was that they send to Ottawa an official application form, and if it could have to be signed by all desiring to join and they must then organize and apply for rifles and ammunition which would be supplied free. The only cost to the member was a fee of one dollar. The speaker saw no reason why there should not be a good rifle corps in Brantford, but it must in no way interfere with the military troops of the city. If a man was affiliated to any of these they did not want him to sign and cause friction with the military authorities of the city. Their desire was to help and not knock in any way.

Mr. Burt spoke briefly upon the rifles used in the schools, and gave some pointers upon the art of shooting. He advised the starting with a light rifle and a general advance to the heavy Ross rifle. He assured the club, as far as he was concerned, that the school ranges were at the disposal of the club.

Perhaps one of the heartiest talks of the evening was given by Lieut.-Colonel Ashton, who was cheered as he began. Firstly, he said he had only come to offer his service to the Rifle Club in any capacity in which they could be used. He was heart and soul behind the club, now that his own little crippled squad had gone to Valcartier. Those who had joined were moved by the true sense of patriotism and were banded for home protection. We never knew when the opportunity might occur, but at least these men would learn what was of inestimable value to them, how to handle a rifle. It took long practice to make a rifle marksman and he advocated field practice. Sights were very complicated; the art of marksmanship was now a science, and a distance had to be judged, and also velocity. There was more in rifle shooting than was generally thought. On the field men must be able to handle themselves, take up advantageous positions and also alter their position and beat a hasty retreat if necessary. The British had shown that they had studied this line or he was sure they could not have made a hasty retreat as they had effected against the overwhelming odds against them on the Belgian frontier.

Armen Amirkhanian, the Armenian missionary, said the Armenians were anxious to join the club and were loyal Britishers. Many of those sitting in Victoria Park, because of unemployment would willingly give their lives for the Union Jack, if they were allowed to fight. They were eager to join and the speaker hoped they would be kindly received by all members.

Judge Hardy in a masterly address said he had come to add his name to the Rifle Club which he thought was a fine institution. He was, indeed, pleased to be present and he referred to the battles being fought by the British, which would go down in history as the most brilliant achievements of his roll of glory. He then ascribed his name to the club, "God Save the King and three lusty cheers concluded the meeting which was a huge success.

STORIES OF BATTLE TOLD BY WOUNDED ARE PICTURESQUE

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The stories collected from arriving wounded are endless. While these notably are of little value from a military point of view many of them are picturesque and illuminative. Another man told a strange little war picture. He got mixed with a French regiment on the right. In returning to his own regiment he says he crossed a field and passed up big avenue of trees. Half way up the avenue was a German officer of Lancers, lying dead at the side of the road. "How he got there was a mystery," the soldier continued. "We had seen no cavalry, but there he lay. Someone had crossed his hands over his breast, and had put a little cellophane crucifix in them. Over his face lay a handkerchief, with lace edging. The handkerchief, too, was a bit of a mystery, for there wasn't a woman within miles of the place."

Use of Sea Mines and Why Great Nations Permit Their Use

The submarine mine is playing a large part in the present European conflict. Probably it will cause more havoc than in the Japanese-Russian war. Already one British ship, the Amphion, has been destroyed by a North Sea mine laid by the Germans, with a loss of 120 men. It might be possible that the ship which placed the mine, the Koening Luise, was caught red-handed and sent to the bottom. However, the Kaiser's mine-layer already had sown the seed of disaster, and the North Sea may see as many sunks hit below the water line as were sunk by mines in the Yellow Sea in the Japanese-Russian struggle.

This may seem barbarous, for there was a day when the submarine mine was abhorred, as Robert Fulton found out early in the nineteenth century when he sought to interest the British Admiralty in this manner of annihilating the most formidable of fleets. Since then the susceptibilities of civilized nations have undergone a change and the submarine mine is now an accepted engine of destruction.

England alone is said to have 20,000 of these mines ready for service. But in military logic, there is a rational excuse for the sowing of contact mines in the open sea. According to the old Roman law, territorial rights in adjacent waters extended up to the middle lines, just as two neighboring states upon a river have their boundaries in the centre of the stream. Applied to oceans and seas, this was deemed too extended a field of control, and accordingly the territorial limit of three miles, sometimes called marine league, was set, because in those days the range of artillery did not reach beyond that.

To-day the great guns of the newest dreadnoughts have a bombarding range of nearly fifteen miles. Therefore, if the enemy can bombard coast cities from that great distance out at sea, why should it not be permissible to mine the open waters that far off the coast?

The Germans are not new at this form of coast defence, and in this war they are but probing by past experience. The moral effect of submarine mines was amply demonstrated in the Franco-Prussian War of 1870. When the Prussians defended their principal harbors in the North Sea and the Baltic by means of mechanical and electro-mechanical mines.

The Kaiser's own people were the first to reap the fruit of their own planting. On raising their mine field after the war of 1870, the Germans lost a great many lives through unexperienced explosions.

The present type of submarine bomb was perfected by the Italians. There are two types of contact mines, those that explode only when an electric current is switched on from the shore. These latter mines are only for harbor defence. They are harmless so long as there is no current, but become active when the electricity is turned on. Thus these mines are a menace to hostile ships, VALCARTIER CAMP, Que., Sept. 1.—"If mother could only see her hero now" was called out a member of the new Highlanders in camp here to a comrade. The hero did not raise his head. His dirk was out and he was intently cutting off the Kaiser's moustache or any similar feat of arms. With the sleeves of his grey flannel shirt tucked up and with his kilt covered with a piece of sacking, he was, in camp vernacular, skinning spuds.

Just Common Life This camp is opening the eyes of many to the amusing fact that war is not altogether a matter of charging up hill with a hurrah, or even of gritting hard on a bullet, and sticking gamely through an exhausting march. An army is a community as well as a fighting machine, and like most community it requires cooks, butchers, scavengers, truck drivers, mess orderlies, tent orderlies, cooks assistants and quartermasters, fatigue men at work on time.

The general manager of the regiment, the orderly officer of the day, sees to it that his assistants, orderly corporals, tent orderlies, mess orderlies, and quartermasters, cooks assistants and quartermasters, fatigue men at work on time. While the grey mists of morning still hang low over the tents parties from each regiment mounted motor trucks and rode away to the railway siding to unload stores. First were boxes of boots and clothing. Office workers and students filled their hands full of splinters, while tough skinned comrades from rural regiments were busy with their tools. "I'm earning my pay to-day all right," said a bank manager, who resigned his position to take the rank of a private in the O. R.

Beef and Biscuits After boxes came sides of beef. The greasy fat beam completed the ruin of the city suits of a number who had come to camp without uniforms. Boxes of biscuits for the messes formed a load that men sought to handle, and with good reason, for every little while a box would break accidentally on purpose, and pockets bulge suspiciously immediately afterwards. The men who have been in camp two or three days soon learn to be real "scouts" and look after themselves.

By the middle of the morning all the boxes and sides of beef and bags of potatoes were loaded on trucks, and the trucks were being driven all road back to camp. Meanwhile the rest of the regiment was miles away, marching, and shooting. The fatigue battalions were shining hon by walking up the road to a little house where hot meals are served to hungry soldiers on real tables and real table cloths. "Three nice meals I had, boys," remarked one of the leaders, while his comrades chewed bull beef. The ensuing riot lasted for five minutes.

Welcome Relief. The cooks' assistants, usually five or six in number, spend their mornings peeling potatoes and their afternoons in cleaning out the pans. Men tired from hard marching welcome a change to kitchen duty. The majority of men, however, are still romantic enough to prefer dusty marching and grizzly beef to the light work and choice morsels of meat which are the lot of the cooks' helpers.

No Social Amenities for Our Soldiers In Camp at Valcartier

VALCARTIER CAMP, Que., Sept. 1.—"If mother could only see her hero now!" called out a member of the 8th Highlanders in camp here to a comrade.

The hero did not raise his head. His dirk was out and he was intent on his work. No; he wasn't cutting off the Kaiser's moustache or any similar feat of arms. With the sleeves of his grey flannel shirt tucked up and with his kit covered with a piece of sackcloth, he was in camp vernacular, skinning spuds.

Just Common Life
This camp is opening the eyes of many to the unpleasant fact that war is not altogether a matter of charging up hill with a hurrah, or sticking gamely through an exhausting march. An army is a community as well as a fighting machine, and like most communities it requires cooks and waiters. And every man in the ranks has to take his turn to these occupations—"fatigues," as they are called.

Work on Time
The general manager of the regiment proper, the orderly officer of the day, sees to it that his assistants orderly corporals, get their gangs of mess orderlies and tent orderlies, cooks assistants and quartermasters, fatigue men at work on time.

While the gray mists of morning still hang low over the tents parties from each regiment mounted motor trucks and rode away to the rail-way siding to unload stores. First were boxes of boots and clothing. Office workers and students filled their hands full of splinters, while tough skinned comrades from rural regiments jeered un sympathetically.

Beef and Biscuits
After boxes came sides of beef. The greasy fat beef completed the ruin of the city suits of a number, who had come to camp without uniforms. The fat men climbed on top, and all rode back to camp. Meanwhile the rest of the regiment was miles away, marching and shooting. The wagon improved the shining hour by walking up the road to a little house where hot meals are served to hungry soldiers on real tables and real table cloths. "Three nice eggs I had boys," remarked one of the waiters, while his comrades chewed bull's head. The ensuing riot lasted for five minutes.

Welcome Relief
The cooks' assistants, usually five or six in number, spend their mornings peeling potatoes and their afternoons in cleaning out the pans. Men tired from hard marching welcome a change to kitchen duty. The majority of men, however, are still romantic enough to prefer dusty marching and grizzly beef to the light work and choice morsels of meals which are the lot of the cooks' helpers.

Mess orderlies have to act as waiters, but they don't get any silver.

even silver speech. The orderly corporal is always calling them down for being tardy in responding to the "Cook House" bugle and the men abuse them for not bringing around enough jam or enough meat, or enough coffee. They have to report for duty ten minutes before the meals begin, and carry the food supplies in great square tin tubs to the lines of each company, where it is doled out. After meals they have to clean out the tins, eat their own meals, usually a few lukewarm drops and fragments and get out on parade with the rest of the regiment. Fortunately the job lasts one day.

Keeping the Camp Clean
The tent orderlies are the housemaids of the camp. They have to go over all the ground around the tents and pick up every scrap of paper and rubbish. "I never thought," said a university man, who is a private in the ranks, "that I would be, to quote Browning, 'a humble picker up of learning's crumbs.'" He was collecting fragments of bread. The care which is taken to keep everything about camp clean and tidy is surprising to the ordinary citizen. Blankets have to be shaken and folded regularly, tents rolled up, and kits piled neatly before breakfast every morning. Leaving fragments of food or scraps of paper about is a hideous offence. If a man walked around shedding banana peel in the parks of Ontario he would probably be taken out and shot at dawn, or given some other heavy punishment. Strict discipline is necessary to keep clean a camp of 30,000 men living in a narrow space in the open air in good health.

The Ban on Liquor
Men passing along the main road of the camp from the station Monday night had a vivid object lesson in what discipline means. Stretched on the ground, cursing thickly, lay a dark object. Early in the evening this man in uniform had come into the lines wickily drunk, showing a whiskey bottle. When an officer stepped up to question him, the man kicked him. Five minutes later he was "pegged out" to cool off. He will never get to the front.

So far as is known, this is the first case of drunkenness in this 31st "straps zunoq oooq jo dunoq likely to be the last.

"The Soul of London"

From an Article by Harold Begbie, in London Chronicle

I found the soul of London near Nelson's tomb in the crypt of St. Paul's. An old woman rose slowly to her feet, after a silent prayer for her son, who is in a British warship in the North Sea.

"I ain't goin' to cry," she muttered. "I ain't goin' to cry, I'm goin' to hold myself in, like 'e begged me to."

She hobbled away to the door of the great cathedral and looked out on marching soldiers, and heard the news lads shrieking out a tale of a naval disaster. But she "held herself in." She stood for London. Her look of calm resignation, reflected our great city's soul.

London is holding herself in. Our minds are fixed on the British fleet, and its glorious heritage. When we hear the beating of the drums and see the gleaming helmets and the colors sweeping proudly by, we raise our hats. There is a cheer, of course, but no "mafficking."

A wonderful new spirit has come to town, a spirit which is not a mere strength, and which silences the raucous roar of those who shout but never fight. London was shaken to the beginning, but she is firm once again.

There are soldiers everywhere, in twos, in threes, in large companies, in trains and omnibuses, and on bicycles. The city clerk of a few days ago may be seen in khaki and puttees, driving a lumbering dray, that is packed with foodstuffs for the Territorials.

All strange. But London has stopped gazing. She goes about her business as usual. Women are quietly weeping against the railings of a big barracks. One carries a baby. A soldier comes out in fighting kit. If he doesn't laugh he would cry, to see the chink and the gleam of a big bayonet.

A kiss and then she goes, wondering if she will ever see her husband again.

The Angel of Death is beating her wings, but we pretend not to see. We try not to visualize the fearful scenes on the Belgian battlefields. We look at the glitter and try to ignore the gloom. We pick up the news with a brave attempt to appear unconcerned, and tell nobody about that tightening at the throat when we read "simply mowed down," "asked for mistakes to bury their dead" and "40,000 casualties." London is "holding herself in."

London's feeling is shown in the housewives quiet determination to practice economy. "I'm 'er husband," resolve to draw less money out of the bank in the coolness which is seen on all sides.

They served from a sense of duty. The officers were keen and the discipline good. The Western Cavalry were just right. They rode daintily and well. They were as blood as mist and, as for, horses, the bronchos of the prairie showed their stamina.

Of the Eastern Cavalry, Sir Ian said that with more instruction they might be very useful. Of the rural infantry, he said that they had not enough chances as their training was insufficient. Their hearts, he added, were in the right place, and they were physically fit.

The Cavalry Journal for August contains an article on the Canadian cavalry of to-day, written by Lieut.-Colonel V. A. S. Williams, Chief Staff Officer in the Ontario Command.

First comes the Royal Canadian Dragoons, part of the Permanent Force, which has lately been increased from two to three squadrons. The regiment is a smart body of men of fine physique in a smart body of men.

The Active Militia is stated in the official returns to consist of 5,230 officers and 67,755 N. C. O.'s, and men. The force is made up as follows:

Cavalry: Governor-General's Body Guard and 34 Regiments. Field Artillery: 13 Brigades and 3 Independent Batteries. 9 Regiments and 2 Siege Companies. Engineers: 4 Field Troops and 9 Field Companies.

Infantry: Governor-General's Footguards and 98 Regiments, besides a few separate Companies and a Signalling Company.

Colonel Sam Hughes, the Minister of Militia, has been indefatigable in his efforts to make the force efficient. He believes in every man being able to do his own work. With this idea he has encouraged the formation of cadet corps, and these have been eagerly joined by school boys. There are now in Canada some 34,000 cadets. We in this country have lately seen samples of the smart lads these cadets are, in the fire units who paid a visit to London recently.

The militia is organized for war as follows: Field Army: 7 mounted Brigades, 6 Divisions, 3 Mixed Brigades, Lines of Communication units, garrison troops for Halifax, Quebec and Esquimaux. In round numbers the Field Army consists of 5,500 officers and 143,000 N. C. O.'s, and men and the Garrison Troops of 400 officers and 10,000 N. C. O.'s, and men. The number of fully trained men were quoted in the report as follows: Permanent force, 250 officers and 2,500 men; Active militia, 3,350 officers and 40,500 men.

General Sir Ian Hamilton, who, it is quite certain, is taking a more than prominent part in the Army preparations, has an intimate knowledge and high opinion of the Canadian forces. As Inspector General of the Overseas Forces, he has come closely into touch with Canada's troops, and in his report said that the great major-

Austrian Navy is Weak in Big Fighting Ships

(Morning Post)

The navy of Austro-Hungary, like the Russian navy, exists chiefly in the future. Austria has projected an ambitious shipbuilding programme, but it is only now beginning to be carried into execution. At this moment, Austria has in active commission one squadron of four battleships: Viribus Unitis, Tegethoff, Radetzky, and Franz Ferdinand, Erz Friedrich, and Erz Ferdinand Max. Of older battleships she has six, of small size and of little fighting value.

Austria has three armored cruisers carrying 7.5 inch and 9.4 inch guns. The light cruiser Novara may have been completed. Apart from her Austria has three light cruisers of small value and six older and smaller craft. She has, however, a considerable force of torpedo craft; altogether fifty-six destroyers and six submarines. Austria has three armored cruisers carrying 7.5 inch and 9.4 inch guns.

The British fleet consists of four battle cruisers, four armored cruisers, and four light cruisers. The French fleet consists of three "battle" squadrons, numbering sixteen ships altogether, six armored cruisers, three light cruisers and a powerful force of torpedo craft and submarines.

There are many millions of people in whose minds the thought of the North Sea is continually present. It is not a single Englishman who desires to know anything concerning that fateful place which could be of slightest help to the enemies of England, nor can reticence be too strict. To publish accounts of the state of the weather in any part of that sea, for instance, is an indiscretion. Information of that kind may be of essential service to the enemy. The difference between fair weather and fog make exactly the difference between the success and the failure of an attack.

THREE MISSING

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Frank Kelly, Allan, Frank Scott and another man who went out in a sail boat on the lake on August 24, have not been heard from and fears are entertained here that they have been lost. James Kelly, 74 Markham street, father of Frank Kelly, says he has no reason to think the men enlisted or went west on a harvest excursion or were anxious to get away from the city.

MOVING ON ANTWERP

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Ostend correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company reports that an extensive movement of German troops towards the north has been seen from Brussels. It is believed the Germans are going to Antwerp, where an investment and bombardment are expected.

WOUNDED OF RUSSIA ARRIVE

The Empress and Party Walk Through Hospital Train Cheering Soldiers.

[By special wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent from St. Petersburg wires as follows: "By special order, a train with the first contingent of wounded soldiers from the front halted at Tsarkoe-Selo station, where the Empress and the heir apparent, and the Grand Duchess Olga, the imperial party walked through the train and listened to the medical reports and made enquiries concerning the condition of the patients. The disabled men to ambulances in which they were taken to Tsarkoe-Selo hospital. Most of the men received their wounds in the fighting near Soldau, in East Prussia, 13 miles southwest of Neidenburg. "More stringent regulations against the sale of alcohol in the railway stations have been issued. Intoxicants may be sold only at bars, and then only when full meals are ordered. Their sale at tables is absolutely prohibited."

A GOOD EXPEDIENT

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—The Order of Railway Conductors through its representative, Mr. Harvey Hall, will ask the Minister of Labor to disregard the railway companies not to discharge men, but rather that regular men be requested to lay off one day per week in order that spare men may make three or four days.

THE STORY OF Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN.

Copyright, 1913 by Kate Douglas Wiggin.

Patty's plans were all made. She was out of her pew before the Wilsons could possibly leave theirs and in her progress down the aisle securely annexed her old admirer, old Dr. Perry, as well as his son, Philip. Passing the singing seats, she picked up the humble Cephias and carried him along in her wake, chatting and talking with her little party while her father was at the horse sheds making ready to go home between services, as was his habit, a cold bite being always set out on the kitchen table according to his orders. By means of these clever maneuvers Patty made herself the focus of attention when the Wilson party came out on the steps and vouchsafed Mark only a nonchalant nod, airily flinging a little greeting with the nod, just a "How d'ye do?" Did you have a good time in Boston?

For what Waitstill, with some of the girls who had come long distances, ate their luncheon in a shady place under the trees behind the meeting house, for there was an afternoon service to come, a service with another long sermon. They separated after the modest meal to walk about the cemetery, where there was a fine view.

Two or three times during the summer the sisters always went quietly and alone to the Baxter burying lot, where three grass grown graves lay beside one another, unmarked save by initials painted on them, were almost hidden by the tufts of clover. The girls had brought roots of pansies and sweet alyssum and with a knife made holes in the earth and planted them here and there to make the spot a trifle less forbidding. They did not speak of each other during this sacred little ceremony. Their hearts were too full when they remembered a fresh the absence of headstones, the lack of care, in the place where the three women lay who had ministered to their father, borne him children and patiently endured his arbitrary and loveless rule.

Even Cleve Flanders' grave—the Edge-wood shoemaker, who lay next—even his resting place was marked and, with a touch of some one's imagination, marked by the old man's own lapstone, twenty-five pounds in weight, a monument of his workaday life.

Waitstill rose from her feet, brushing the earth from her hands, and fastidiously, that he had ever removed her name from her proper sphere. She did not intend to, fit into the conditions of life in Edge-wood, and it may be that her most glaring fault had been to describe Patty Baxter's hair at this very Sunday dinner as "carrot," her dress altogether "dreadful" and her style of sobriety. "I don't know why we've never done it before. There are no children to take notice of and, after all, she belongs to the family."

"There is no family and there never was," suddenly cried Patty. "Oh, Wait, Wait, we are so alone, you and I. We've only each other in all the world, and I'm not the least bit of help to you as you are to me! I'm a silly, vain, conceited, ill behaved thing, and will be devoted chiefly to the families."

FOR RELIEF OF SUBJECTS

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Two hundred thousand marks ($50,000) has been appropriated by Germany for the relief of German subjects in Great Britain. The distribution of this fund began to-day by Lieutenant von Zepkau, U.S. and will be devoted chiefly to the families.

CHINESE DENIAL

TOKIO, Sept. 1.—The Chinese Minister to Japan to-day made emphatic denial of the report that he had protested to the Japanese foreign office concerning Japanese military movements in China directed against the German leased territory of Kiaochow. Speaking in this connection, the minister said that the relations between China and Japan had never been more cordial.

"Oh, Wait, Wait, we are so alone." but I will be better, I will! You won't ever give me up, will you, Wait, even if I'm not like you? I haven't been good lately!" "Hush, Patty, hush!" And Waitstill came nearer to her sister with a motherly touch of her hand. "I'll not have you say such things; you are the help-fullest and the loveliest girl that ever was, and the cleverest girl that ever lived, and the best company keeper."

"No one thinks so but you," Patty responded dolefully, although she wiped her eyes as if a bit consoled. It is safe to say that Patty would never have given Mark Wilson a second thought had he not taken her to drive on that afternoon in early May. The drive, too, would have quickly fled from her somewhat fickle memory had it not been for the kiss. The kiss was indeed a decisive factor in the situation and had she a new, if somewhat fictitious light of romance over the past three weeks. Perhaps even the kiss, had it never been repeated, might have lapsed into its true perspective.

A special meeting of the National Council of Women was called for Tuesday afternoon, and in spite of the heavy rain there was a large attendance of the presidents of the affiliated societies, and many of the members. Mrs. V. C. Livingston, president of the local council, presided. Plans were discussed in regard to forming a patriotic league, to which every woman in Brantford is asked to assist through the various affiliated societies for the work of making out lists for our Canadian soldiers, and assist with the necessities of the Red Cross. No definite plan of action has yet been worked out.

Victorian Order. The regular meeting of the Victorian Order was held this morning in the public library. After the usual business of the order was transacted, a letter was read from Colonel Ryerson, Toronto, regarding the requirements of the Red Cross society. Three things most necessary were emphasized, shillings and pillow cases, sheets and wristlets, the latter to be made of grey flanneling yard inches long. Two members of the Victorian Order contributed two bolts of sheeting. These will be cut off at Mrs. Digby's to-morrow morning, and any member wishing to help, kindly go to Mrs. Frank Cook's, Sheridan St. to-morrow, Thursday afternoon when the articles will be made. The first bale is to leave Toronto by September 2nd. These goods go forward under the auspices of the Red Cross Society, which is being formed in Brantford.

JAPANESE ARMY. SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 2.—Travellers, who arrived here to-day from Japanese ports are responsible for some remarkable statements regarding the military activity of Japan. The Japanese consular here denies any knowledge of these reports.

McKenna choked to death 7-year-old Signe Ekstrom in the cellar of an apartment house in the Bronx, then hid her body in a coal bin.

NOT CONFIRMED. LONDON, Sept. 2.—The London office of The Chicago Daily News said to-day it had no confirmation of the report that a young Frenchman named Maurice Gerbeault, representing The Chicago Daily News in Belgium, had been arrested and shot.

LEMBERG MUST BE TAKEN IN VAIN

Capital of Galicia is German Army Badly Spent on March to Paris.

LONDON, Sept. 2, 5 a.m.—The Times correspondent at Dieppe, France, has telegraphed his paper as follows: "In the main northern theatre of the war the German advance appears to continue without slackening its pace. "It must indeed be an over-wearied army that the Germans are bringing towards the forts of Paris. They have made an effort which nearly deserves to be called superhuman. Nothing like it ever before has been seen in the war. "Yet we may be sure they have spent themselves in vain."

PARISIANS IN DEPARTURE, OTHERS REACH THE CITY

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The exodus of Parisians continues from the stations, but it is not greater than the influx, at the north stations of refugees from Belgium and northern France mingled with returning wounded. Nearly the total population of the departments of North Oise and Seine-et-Oise have fled at the first sound of cannon. The crowds became so great that the police were obliged to clear the streets adjoining the stations, which, however, did not prevent an enthusiastic manifestation at the sight of two English generals who had come to Paris for instruction. Immigrants from Crepy En Valois, in the Department of Oise 23 miles southeast of Compeigne, report that the Germans were crushed near there, and that piles of bodies were lying yard high. A sergeant wounded in the neighborhood of Compeigne declares he witnessed the annihilation of an entire German division by the French artillery.

At the eastern station the refugees are nearly as numerous but there are few wounded among them. An injured artilleryman who arrived there a few mysterious hours ago, described the terrible effects of certain French projectiles. The arrival of 140 wounded English soldiers at the North station, who made the occasion of a great manifestation of sympathy. All wore flowers presented by Red Cross ladies at Chantilly, and also distributed refreshments to the contingent. At the medical service station the English, passed a number of Belgian soldiers, who were stopping to shake hands, while the crowd applauded. The reports of refugees given in this despatch, that the Germans were fighting in the vicinity of Compeigne, in the Department of Oise, indicate a further marked advance of the Germans. Previous reports had them fighting at La Fere, in the department of Aine, about 70 miles from Paris. Compeigne is less than 50 miles from Paris and the department of Oise, which is north of the department of the Seine in which Paris is located.

YUKON'S MEMBER. OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Dr. Alfred Thompson, member of Parliament for the Yukon, who started south as soon as he received telegraphic notice of the emergency session, arrived to-day. He is accompanied by H. Gestock, a South African veteran, who is paying his own way to Vancouver to enlist. Yukon people contributed $6,000 to the hospital ship funds.

BRITISH PEOPLE WILLING TO MEET

Last Drop of Blood Campaign as Fried Out—Major Losses.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The British people continue to accept with stoicism the lack of news concerning the operations of the British army on the continent. The government has repeatedly assured the public that all inconsistencies in checking the Germans would be given out, and that people are accepting that assurance.

The French official reports throw further light on the operations than those of the British. The French reports say the army on the right of the northern wing has resulted in checking the Germans for a time. The influence plainly is that the Germans are employing all their force in an enveloping movement against the allies' left wing. That part of the allies' army is retreating to the south and west indicating that the Germans have not outflanked them.

Apparently the Germans have abandoned the west of Belgium to pour all their forces toward the road to Paris. Reports that they are preparing to attack A. were widely believed here. There seems to be some doubt as to the strategic reason for such a move. Military experts agree that the Germans are unlikely to win.

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS ARE REALIZING NOW

The commander-in-chief of the Austrian front appears plans to drive in strongly one army from the east, starting from the Russian provinces of joining Rumania, and in meantime merely aims to rest the Austrian advances into Polish provinces, thus keeping Austria on the alert along the two to three hundred miles. "While pushing temporary advances in South Poland, the Russians were forcing their wayward from Podolia and Bessarabia upon Lemberg. When Austrians finally realized this, they attempted to turn Russian left flank near the junction of the Dniester, a sanguinary fight took place there two days ago. The Austrians were signally defeated, 5,000 killed and many prisoners, including one general, guns, a standard and quantities of supplies. "Apparently the progress of southern Russian army from Podolia in Galicia has been a series of fights on an increasing scale until a third river, known as the Lipa was reached. The fight for the possession of the valley of the Foul Lipa was severe. Austrians had resisted strength of the Russians and strongly fortified a naturally
