Rev. Sir and Gentlemen;

Rev. Sir and Genllemen; The Addreas of the Clergy, Magistrates and other Inhabitants of the South Lake Settlement and neighbourhood, which you have presented to me, is a very acceptable one, breathing the same spirit of loyalty and attachment to our most Gracious Quecen, which I have everywhere found among the inhabitants of Prince Edward Island, from West to East, from North to South. I observe, that you re-joice in the establishment of Responsible Government, and although the system is " new and untried to you," you offer it that generous suppart, which thous who compose the Government must feel grate-ful for, and encourage them to promote " every measure that can contribute to the honor of the Crown, and to the advancement of the part of the people". Lady Bancerman's and my visit to this part of the Island has been a very pleasant one, and we mest sin-cerely thank you for your very kind and good wishes towards us.

Mr. Flynn and Gentlemen-

Mr. Flynn and Genilemen-I was very desirous to visit this part of the Island, and I have now reached one of the oldest settlements in King's County-a cousty where the I habitants were lately represented to me, to be in no very enviable position, 'an object of submission to their Land-ords, with so free will of their own.' I have some among you to inde for myself, and I am surprised that three individuals could so misrepresent the inhabitants of this County; I have been surrounded which they sought for, to promote as far as in our power, the suf-far and prosperity of the Inhabitants of Prince Edward Island. The Queen's Representative has heard no sentiment utered in Krig's County that might not have been spoken in the presence of where the the State of the State of the County of the constitutional So-vereign who wears the Stinish Crown, to visit Her North American and Throue than in Island, which bears the name of her illus-to any, that she feels very sensible of the trouble yon have taken on he saccess which they util deserve, and Lady Banemernan desires me to say, that she feels very sensible of the trouble yon have taken on hard and for your kind expressions towards ber. At Souris, I allude to the subject in which I am glad to find you take an in-terest, and Lope that at no distant period, we shall see an Island the saccess which they will deserve, and w. ich I sincerely wish them.

THE CROPS IN EUROPE.—The ravages of the fly or worm in the turnip erop have elicited complaints from England, Scolland and Ireland. In France, and on the continent generally, although the harvest will not be so abundant as it was last year, there will be, if we may judge from the reports, a fair average yield of grain. The storm and insudations which have recently visited France, Switzer-ind, Belgium, Itely and Germany have inflicted a good deal of da-inage; but local losses will, so far as the general market is con-cerned, be editionated, by more than ordinary productiveness in other quarters. So far as can be seen at present, there is every prospect that the prices of food during the next twelve months will continue to be moderate.

I remember to have been told by a friend, that he could never get the knocker of a door to speak in a to of true dignity; he won-dered how this could be,—how brase in sepecial hands should have lost all its brazen quality,—till at last he discovered, that he was too feeble in the conset; that his first stroke was fattle, and that all the subsequent once, as like engeders like, were of the same deplorable insignificance.

E. & N. A. RAILWAY.—A large and enthusinstic meeting of the friends and supporters of the European and North Ameri-can Railway, was held at Perland on the 10th ut.—Hon C. Noyes in the chair. Several zentlemen addressed the meeting, and a number of resolutions in favour of carrying out the pro-ject were adopted. We subjoin the concluding resolution!— Mew Brunawick and Nova Scotia, as to the particular mode by which they will construct the pottions of the road within their borders, as liable unfavourable to effect the appeal for subscrip-tions to our own citizens, we see in it, from our knowledge of the circumstances, no reason for such unfavourable influence; merson to delay the subscription for the completion of the part in Mane; no reason to doubt that those Provinces will consideration, and early enter upon the construction, and pro-secute to completion in full time, to run their carrs in connexton with our own the, portion within those Provinces respectively.

TRADE AND SPADE.

BY CHARLES MACKAY.

- BY CHARLES MACKAY. Between two friends, in days of old, A bitter strifts began, And Father Spade with Brother Trade Diputed man to mma: "You're vain, anduifal and proud," Raid Spade with fashing eyes, "You carn your thousands while ( latro, You devell in how'r and hall; You spece at my fall. So, for this hwar, in shine or show'r, We'll learn to live apart, "Ye'll learn to live apart, Ta' d' tho earth, ere you were born; latro fall thou you for my heart."

- And Trade lost temper in his pride, Ho utter'd words of scorn; "Yoa do not know the ways of men, Amid your sheep and corn. You doze away the busy day, » Nor think how minutes run; Go, pat your shoulder to your work, And do as I have done; You've all the earth to yield you wealth, Both corn and pasture land; I only ask a counting house, And room whereon to stand. And, from this hour; in shine or show'r, I'll learn to live alone; I'll do without you well enough— The word shall be my own!"

And thus they wrangled night and day, Unfair, like angry men, "Till things went wrong between them both, And would not right again. But growing wiser in distress, Each grasp'd the other's hand— "Twas wrong," said Spade, "to rail at Traffe, He loves use in the land." And Trade as freely own'd his fault— "I have been unjact, "he said "To quarrel with the good old man Who grows my daily bread. Long may we flourish, Trade and Spade, Ta cizy and is plain! The people starre while we dispute, We must not part again."

- The people starve while we We must not part again.
- And all the people sang for joy, Tosee their good accord, While Spade assembled all his sons, And piled his plenteous board. He fed them on the Lest of fare— He fed them on the Lest of fare— Untax'd the famining ale— And pray'd in England's happy shore, That Trade might never fail. And busy Trade scut fleets of ships To every sen and strand, And built his mills and factories O'er all the prosperous land. And so we'll sing "God save the Queen, And long may brother Spade, For sake of all, both rich and poor, Unite with brother Trade!"

Darieties.

ECONOMY IS DUE TO OUR EMPLOYERS.--" Waste not, want not," is a good old proverb ." He that is faithful in little is faithful also in much." A person who takes no care of the materials committed to his hand by his master, will never duly hushand his own promotive. Economy and wastefulness are want not," is a good old proverb. "He that is faithful in little is faithful also in much." A person who takes no care of the materials committed to his hand by his master, will never duly hushand his own property. Economy and wastefulness are habits that will influence us in all things, both when we are engaged about our own substance and that of another. To waste another's goods is the same rs to rob him. The loss in both cases is equal, and the principles whence they spring yery much alks.—The man who takes care of his employer's goods is sure to low after his own, and thus is on the road to prosperity. It would be difficult to calculate the immense loss of property that every year occurs from carelessness and want of concomy. Some persons are worth nearly half their wages more than others, because they never injure nor waste anything. The employer being wealthy, or the stock aboun-dant, is no excuse for carelessness. A loss is a loss, and a robber is a robsery, whether taken from the heap of the miser or the smaller store of the indigent. "Gather up the frag-ments, that nothing he lost," is a divine command. Heaven allows nothing to be destroyed. There has not been a single drop of water wasted from the creation until now. The de-composed elements of last antama are the aliment of our pre-sent spring. Economy, rigid economy, is one of the laws of nature; and we ahall on trealize "the good time coming" un-til we have a careful and economical world. Let this sprint prevail, and sot only will the master be saved from the subor.

REFINED CONVERSATION AT AN EVENING PARTY — Miss Redow. — You have travelled through foreign countries with-in the last five years, Mr. Albrane, have you not?" Mr. Albrane. — Ah, yes, I've been so much along 'em that I almost feel sometimes as if I was a foreigner myself." Miss Redow. — Can you tell us, Mr. Albrane, what you aw in foreizn countries!" Mr. Albrane. — Men and things, Miss Ryelow; men and things. If we wish to study men and thinge, as men and things actually exist, we should travel where an opportunity offers itself to see man and things. Oh, you may depend up on it, Miss Ryelow, that there is no sublimer study for the contemplation of the human brain than men and things. There are some few brains, I am sorry to say, that contemplate men and things with an intense indifference, but there's nothing so due to a man of talent as the study of men and things." [Miss Ryelow here attempts to faint; and is caught in the arms of her devoted Albrane.]

PRACTICAL PHILOSOPHY.—Southey says in one of his let-ters—"I have told you of the Spaniard who always put on his spectacles when he was about to eat cherries, that they might look bigger and more tempting. In like manner, I make the most of my enjoyments; and though I do not cast my cares away, I pack them in as little compass as I can, and carry them as conveniently as I can for myself, and never let them annoy others."

Daxcrao.-"'I am now an old fellow," anys Cowper in one of his letters, " but I had once my dancing day, as you have now; yet I could never find that I could lears half so much of a woman's character by dancing with her, as conversation with her at home, when I could observe her behaviour at the table, or at the fireside, and in all the trying scenes of domestic life. We are all good when pleased; but she is a good woman who wants not the fiddle to sweeten her.

A few days since, a gentleman near West Point took into his service a verdant son of the Emerald Isle. On the first day of his service, he was startled by the sound of the evening gun, as it reverbrated through the highlands, and awakened the mountain's slumbering echoes, and axionaly inquired of his employer the cause of the explosion, and was told that it was the " sundown gun." " Och, bless me." exclaimed Pat, " and does the sun make such a thouder as that going down in this country!"
