D devoted himself to the church and advanced so far on the road to preferment as to be allowed to hand round the plate.—These expedients, we are informed, have not been employed in vain; and this fact alone—the fact that such expedients could be successful—is almost enough of itself to put a stamp of infamy on the profession. We do not think it is going too far to say, that the law is among the last professions that one would recommend to a young man of honour, spirit and talent.—Among the elder members of the legal professions, there are men of the first respectability, of eminent talent and great worth; but it is not the profession for a young man to choose in the year of our Lord, 1853.

It is a talking profession; and what is young man to choose in the year of our Lord, 1853.

It is a talking profession; and what is wanted in these days is action, and the power of directing action. We want architects, who, to use the language of Mr. Greenock, can apply Greek principles, without imitating Greek forms. This nation, in the course of the next fifty years, is so be torn down and built up better. Of the two hundred and fifty churches standing this day in New York, not twenty will exist in the year of 1900—but will have been replaced by better ones, if architects can be found to build them. When we cousider on the one hand, the rapidity with which property is accumulated here, and on the other hand, the taste universally different for magnificence, we cannot resist the conclusion, that the United States is about to furnish the largest and best field for the practice of life architectural profession, than has ever been afforded at any period, in any country. But those who practice that profession must have ideas. Copyists we country. But those who practice that fession must have ideas. Copyists fession must have ideas. Copyists we have already, and copies we have already. We want men who will thoroughly master their art, not be enslaved by it: men who will seize the great idea, that Beauty is utility perfected, and make it live in structures that shall answer their purpose to admiration, yet gladden the eye and exalt the taste of those who behold them. There is a great deal of glory in reserve for the men who shall adapt the art of architecture to the wants, the climate, the genius of America—and not glory alone. ca-and not glory alone.

We want engineers, too. Within the next fifty years, a thousand tunnels will have to be excavated, ten thousand bridges will be built, a million miles of railroad must be laid out, the whole Rocky Mountain region is to be laid accessible; and things are to be done which we can no more anticipate now, than the people of the year 1890 could have anticipated railroads, telegraphs and steamships. What a field 1800 could have anticipated railroads, telegraphs and steamships. What a field for men of science and talent! The American mind is singularly adapted to the enterprises of this kind; and it is with the utmost confidence, that we urge young men who can choose what they will do and who have no tancy for an ordinary, humdrum career, to give the profession of engineering serious consideration. It is a profession for a man! It takes him out of doors up mountains, along torrents, across prairies, through forests. He bethe forces of nature to subdue nature; and there is something so honestly palpably and greatly beneficial in what he does, that and greatly benencial in what he coes, that the narrowest of utilitarians cannot refuse him his respect. Look at Colonel Serrell, who bridged the Niagara before he was twenty-two years old, and did the same service for the St. John's on his wedding service for the St. John's on his wedding trip. There is something better in that than stupifying the mind over "moral philosophy" and other antiquated trash in the "senior year." And there is the great difficulty. We want men of action; but the main effort of our schools is to produce men of talk. An engineer who had occasion, some time ago, "for two assistants in surveying for a "rafficiad, addressed the following question to three professors of mathematics attached to three colleges of high repute:—"In the class about to graduate from your institution, are there any young men complaces, but in New-York, the clite of the young men do not, as a general thing, become students of law. When they do, it is because an uncle, or a father, or an intimate friend, is the possessor of a business in which there is an apening and a prospect. In fact, to create a legal business in New-York; is understood to be just one degree within impossibility. In the country, it is less difficult; but to an honourable man, sometimes quite impossible. For example, there is a town about a hundred miles from your institution, are there any young man is resolved from your institution, are there any young man because from your institution, are there any young man because from your institution, are there any young man because from your institution, are there any young man because from young mank of the condition, are there any young man because from your institution, are there any young man how supported to young man a fact in the company of the class about to graduate from your institution, are there any young man competent to go upon the road immediately and because an uncle, or a father, or a intimate from your institution, are there any young man because from young mank our configuration, it is the possessor of a business in New-York; is understood to be just one degree within impossibility. In the country, it is a preparation for the duties of modern life our college course is searcely of any use at all; and we care not who hears us when we are not within impossibility. In the country, it is a preparation for the duties of modern life our college course is searcely of any use at all; and we care not who hears us when we are not within impossibility. In the country, it is a preparation for the duties of modern life our college course is searcely of any use at all; and we care not who hears us when we are not a fact is this? As a preparation for the duties of modern life our college course is searcely of any use at all; and we care not who hears us when we are not a fact is the court of the court of the court of the knowledge must be real, positive, modern. THE WAY THEY MAKE HOT-BEDS IN GERMANY.—Take white cotton cloth of a close texture, stretch and nail it on frames of any size you wish; take two ounces of lime water, four ounces linseed oil, one ounce of white of eggs, two ounces of yolk of eggs; mix the lime and oil with very gentle heat, beat the eggs well separately, and mix then with the former; spread the mixture with a paint-brush over the cotton, allowing each coat to dry before applying another, until they become waterproof. The following are the advantages this shade possesses over a glass one: 1. The cost being hardly one-fourth. 2. Repairs are easily and cheaply made. 3. They are light. They do not require watering; no matter how intense the heat of the sun, the plants are neverstruck down or burnt, faded or checked in growth—neither do they grow up so long. growth—neither do they grow up so long, sick, and weakly as they do under glass, and still there is abundance of light. 4. The heat arising entirely from below, is more equable and temperate, which is a greater object. The vapour arising from the manure and earth is condensed by the cool air passing over the surface of the shade, and stands in drops on the inside, and, therefore, the plants do not require as frequent watering. If the frames or stretches are made large, they should be inter-sected by cross-bars about a foot square to support the cloth. MR. WHELAN AND THE MAGISTRACY.

There is this great and essential difference between There is this great and essential difference between the transfer of real and personal property: the first can be conveyed only by deed under seal; the latter may pass by mere delivery. The law of every coun-try has thought proper to attach a certain degree of a slemnity to every change in the owners of land, and this for the heat of all possible reasons, that men may not head out false titles to the world,—that it may be the more occupant; and for this purpose our statute law, providing for the registration of all conveyances of real estate is subsidiary, and particularly so in that stringent clause which gives the registered title priorstringent clause which gives the registered litte prof-ity over all claimants by deeds unregistered. It is sound policy in all Governments, but particularly in that of young countries, that there should be no secret underhand conveyances of real estate. Now it would he a question, in a court of law, at all events in a he a question, in a court of law, at all events in a court of equity, in any case where it became necessary for either party to prove himself in the possession of a certain quantity of freehold or leasehold estate, of a determinate value free from every incumbrance, that the deed conveying it should be registered,—for without this ceremony the title is inchoate and imperfect. And, at all events, the want of registry carries with it so great a suspicion of fraud, that if the transfer he accompanied by other acts of irregularity and concealment, such suspicion ripens into certainty. And every unusual and, between honest men, unnecessary deviation from the accustomed methods of transacting similar basiness must inevitably cast a cessary deviation from the accustomed methods or transacting similar basiness must inevitably cast a shade over the aprightness of those concerned. When Mr. Whelan was making the negotiation with Mr. Dawson for the purchase of the land, it must have been either for a bona fide sale from Dawson to him, for a beneficial purpose, or it was for the purpose of conferring on Mr. Whelan a qualification for a seat in the Assembly. We think it could not have been the former, for many reasons. In the first place, the land could be of no possible use to Mr. Whelan; he was then, as he is now, a mechanic, and not a farmer, and therefore the acquisition of 73 acres of wild uncultivated land, a great part of it awamp, would be a decided incumbrance to him. He did not want it as an investment for his surplus capital, for so far from possessing any overplus of this world's wealth, he was at the time, notoriously poor,—so poor that he could not pay Dawson the £50 that he asked, or pretended to ask, for the land. Nay, his friends had to take him off the jail limits for a much less sum, to enable him to attend the hastings. Nor is it tikely that if he had possessed the £50, free and unencumbered, he would have had any dealings with John been either for a bona fide sale from Dawson to him bered, he would have had any dealings with John Dawson for a piece of land which neither had ever seen, and which just three years previously had been sold at public auction for £6, and which could not be expected to yield either cost or profit, when he could have invested his £50 in a way that would yielded him present profit and future gain from the increased value of the land. Every circumstance tends to shew that the intended transfer was designed for one purpose only, and that, for the purpose of qualifying, or attempting to qualify. Mr. Whelan to be elected a member of the Assembly. Now, there is no doubt at all but that a man may buy a qualification, or that another man may give him a qualification, as a father may a son, or a brother a brother, or a friend a man he is attached to and wishes to see a member of Parliament; and all that the law requires is, that it should not be granted or conveyed fraustiently. If this was to be an honest one file transaction between Dawson and Whelan, why was not a bone fide conveyance made out from Dawson to Whelan, and put spon the record, as it would have been if the parties had been honest and upright in their intentions? The answer is obvious. The instant the deed was put upon the registry, it would have been liable to have been taken in accountion for Mr. Whelan's debts,—which would have become incumbrances on any real estate even for it is conveyed to him. But Dawson might have been an incumbrance; therefore some other means must be reserted to. Without much stretch of the imagination, we may picture to ourselves Dawson and Whelan sitting in the private room behind the bar, and Dawson saying, "I'll tell ye what, Whelan, I'll do. Let's see,—what's the qualification sum? £50 is it?—ays. Well, I'll sell ye what, Whelan, I'll do. Let's see,—what's the qualification sum? £50 is it?—ays. Well, I'll sell ye the land for £50. When ye 're Gasen's Printery ye'll pay me the money, and until then ye min tocop the deed; and if anybody naise ye where his inite is; ye can just shew them the alord, and they will be content,—for there is not a expected to yield either cent or profit, when he could have invested his £50 in a way that would yielded max is the bind that would take the transfer of gaing as the Raginty Offices—drop paying a shilling utter. The state of th case. Had one, however, been anxious, or even willing to prosecute, an impediment was placed in the way of his exertions that it would be next to impossible to surmount. The Crown Officer of the day was to intimately bound up with the party to which both he and Mr. Whelan belonged, that he would not (had he even been willing) have been suffered to prosecute; but in the event of its being carried on, with the assistance of counsel retained at the expence of the prosecutor, might at any time, and doubtless would have been, compelled to enter a nolle prosequi, and thus frustrated the ends of justice and entailed considerable expence on him or them who should have taken an active or prominent part in the matter. No siderable expence on him or them who should have taken an active or prominent part in the matter. Nor indeed could the leaders of the party have with safety to themselves avoided having recourse to this method of stifling public inquiry, after the manner they had so iniquitously and unconscientiously sustained Whelan in the House of Assembly. His conviction, which would have been certain, must have included their own condemnation. This is one of the inevitable results of Departmental Government in a small Colony, and when intrusted to unacrupalous men. ny, and when intrusted to unscrupulous men.

In our next—and last — we shall advert to the fac of Mr. Whelan having been publicly charged with perjury, and his leaving that charge unrefuted.

Mr Editor:—The instructor of youth occupies an important and responsible office in the community. The care, of those who are soon to rise up and become actors on the stage of this earthly existance, is entrusted to him. Upon him, then, very much depends, what will be the state of society in time coming; whether it will be characterized by intelligence and moral worth, or the reverse. Of what immense consequence is it then that we should have well qualified teachers. Should our children be committed to the charge of those, who do not possess the requisite capability of instruction, not only will little or no progress be made, but their time, the value of which can scarcely be estimated, will be irreparably lost.

If then jit be of such great consequence that we should have properly qualified teachers, ought not all legitimate means be used to procure instructors of this description! ought not every thing calculated to encourage such be held out! Teachers of youth are not without their discouragements. In every school, indeed, which consists of any number of pupils, a few will be found that are talented and industrious, whose progress in learning will be delightful to the rightminded teacher. But there are also others, whose dulness and studies the pidity baffle all his ingenuity and efforts to a few will be found that are talented and industrious, whose progress in learning will be delightful to the rightminded teacher. But there are also others, whose dulness and stupidity baffle all his ingenuity and efforts to promote their progress. Others, again, although possessing a considerable share of talent yet are careless, wholly engressed by play, and will use no exertion to make improvement. Another class is vicious and ungovernable and the source of constant annoyance to the teacher. All these things are very discouraging to the instructor of youth. He has also to content with the unreasonableness, opposition and carelessness of parents. Some of these world take the management of the school out of the hands of the teacher. They seem to think that they understand the method of instruction better than he does; and do not fail to afford him unreasonable opposition, when he will not listen to their suggestions. Other parents take so little interest in the progress of their children in knowledge, that they will neither send them regularly to school, nor furnish them with books, pone, paper, nor other things requisite for use in the school. In addition to these things, many parents, whose children are dull, cannot perceive their deficiency of talent, and expect that their progress will be as great as that of those, who possessignester natural especity; and impute blame to the teacher because this is not the case. Finally the instructors of youth are often very scantily renumerated.

Teachers of youth, however, are not without much, encouragement under their causes of depression. Who can estimate the amount of good, which they may be the means of other way be the means of other way be the means of thus drawing forth from obscurity how they are a supported that they have been suggested by the reading of a communication in the New York Observer, signed with the initials B. Bedeque, 25th Dec. 1853.

We were visited on Friday night last, by the most violent and destructive Gale of wind, from the S. E., ever experienced in this part of the Island, in the recollection of the oldest inhabitant. To sleep was impossible, especially towards morning, when the Gale was at its height, and most were anxiously awaiting the results, as blast after blast passed by their habitations. Few have escaped altogether, without loss, several Baras have been blown down, and Horses, Horned Cattle, and Sheep crushed with the fallen, timber. Mr. John Burns, Freetown, lost two valuable Horses, two Horned Cattle, and some Sheep, in this way, Several buildings have been unroofed, and some, partially finished, completely destroyed, the English Church is among the latter. But the most serious calamity, is the destruction of Mr. Richard Clark's Dwelling House by fire—he, his wife and five children, barely escaping with their lives, in their night clothes. During the night, the outer door was forced open, and it is supposed blow the fire out of the fire place, into the kitchen, and thereby being fanned into a flame, caused the destruction of the House and all its contents.

His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor has been pleased, provisionally, to appoint the Hon. Joseph Hensley to be a Member of the Legislative Council of this Island, in the place of the Hos. Joseph Holsreyd, decessed.

Warrante from No. 338, of the date of the 19th May, 1855, to No. 377, of the date of the 28d-Jane, 1853, (both inclusive) will be paid at the Excelery on demand, together with the interest due thereon,

The Semi-annual Examination of the Central Academy, took place on Friday last, the 23d inst. The progress of the pupils, during the last half year, was satisfactory to the Trustees, and others who were present. We shall take an opportunity during the winter, of entering into the subject of the Acedamy, and Education in general. Much is required to be done with respect to this mean, for promoting the welfare of individuals, and increasing the respectability of the Colony.

GLEASON'S PICTORIAL.

On the first of January next, Gleason's Pictorial will commence its sixth colume, and will appear vastly improved in all respects, with a superb new heading, new type and dress throughout, and will be printed upon the finest paper. As the proprietor of the Pictorial has purchased the entire good will of Baraum's New York Rlustrated News. and has merged that journal in the Pictorial, the public will reap rhe advantage of this concentration of the strength of the two papers upon one, both in the artistic and the literary departments. The same brilliant host of contributors and artists will be engaged on Gleason's Pictorial as herectofore, and a large addition is also made to the corps, both in talent and number. The most liberal arrangements have been completed, and such as will enable the Proprietor to produce by far the finest illustrated journal yet published, and much superior to the present issue of the paper. The columns of the Pictorial will constantly be beautified by all that can please and instruct in art and nature, and its literary department will fully sustain the high reputation it has so long enjoyed.

The pages of Gleason's Pictorial will contain views of every populous city in the known world, of all buildings of note in the eastern or western hemisphere, of all the principal ships and stoamers of the navy and merchant service; with fine and accurate portraits of every noted character in the world, both male and female. Sketches of beautiful scenery, taken from life, will also be given, with numerous specimens from the animal kingdom, the birds of the air, and the fish of the sea, and will present in its mechanical execution an elegant specimen of art. It will contain fifteen hundred and sixty-four square inches, giving a great amount of reading matter and illustrations—and forming a mammeth weekly paper of sixteen octave pages.

Twelvetrees Brothers' Soap Powder IWelvetrees Brothers Soap Fowder
(an entirely new invention.)
Is the cheapest, safeet, best, and most effectual article for all washing purposes, a packet of which is equal to ten Penny worth of Soap!
The saving of Time and Labour is so astonishingly great, that a W E E K 'S W A S H can be accomplished BEFORE BREAKFAST
—no rubbing being required.
This wonderful Article is MORE SERVICEABLE THAN SOAP, as it produces a better and much quicker lather, and is adapted for purposes for which Soap cannot be safely or effectually used.

It will not injure the hands, or the most delicate material; but whilst it is incomparable for permanently whitening Linens, &c., after they have become discoloured by age, or injured by had Washing, it is also unsurpassable for improving the colors of FLANNELS, BLANKETS, WOOLLENS, COLORED PRINTS, MUSLIN and LACE. For Sale by GEO. T. HASZARD, QueenSquare.

ed to sabserve; it never advocated a measure because it was proposed or austained by the Whig party. It holds itself at all times as free to condemn unsound principles, unwise measures or corrupt acts should the twe former be propounded or the latter perpetrated by Whige's a though they had emanated from the hostile camp. In so far as Peace, Liberty, Education, Temperance, Internal Improvement and Industrial Development may be subserved by acting with the Whig party, it must continue to be, as it has been, Whig.

Though never acting with any Abolition or other one-idea party, THE TRIBUNE is and must be the relentless foe of Human Slavery, as of whatever else tends to degrade Labor and obstruct the intellectual and social development of any portion of mankind. Were it able to perceive that a vote in New-York could abolish Slavery in Carolina, it might attatch itself to some one of the expressly Anti-Slavery parties: lacking that light, it declines to abandon the substances for the shadow of political good. But while it does not see its way clear of any effective Political action against Slavery in the States which now cherish it, it regards the defeat of whatever effort to extend the giant wrong under the flag of our Union, or to obstruct by its power the progress of Abolition in other lands, as among the most urgent and sacred of public duties, not to be suberdinated to any party consideration whatever. And, while it does not propose to make Anti-Slavery the basis of Political action, other than defensive, it will neglect no opportunity, remit no effort, so to diffuse Light and Truth as to render the continuance of Slavery impossible in a land irradiated by the sun of Christianity and boasting itself the great exemplar of Political Justice and law-guarded Freedom.

For Temperance in all things, but especially the disuse of Intoxicating Beverages and the legal suppression of the Liquer Traffic, we shall struggle, as we have struggled, undischingly and untiringly. We regard the Maine Law as essentially the most b

Purishment son Penjury in Tunker.

A rather singular scene took place on the 22d ult., at Adrianople. Two men, the chiefs of a neighbouring village, who had been found guilty of perjury, were promenaded through the Bazzar mounted on donkeys with their faces turned towards the tails of the animals, and having their heads dressed out in a grotesque manner, with the hairy part of a sweeping brush on their forehead, and some cloves of garlic round their neck. They were preceded by the public crier, who announced the crime of which they had been guilty. After being thus for some time exposed to the hootings of the people, they were taken to the court of the Palace, were dismissed, and declar-PUNISHMENT POR PREJURY IN TURKEY the Palace, were dismissed, and declar-ed incapable of ever holding any public office. The offenders had been bribed to give evidence that the widow of Turk, recently dead, had been delivered of a child, afterwards deceased, and which circumstance would make the widow the sole heir of all her husband's property. The relations of the husband however, interfered, and clearly proved the guilt of the witnesses, and they were condemned to the punishment above mentioned. MARITIME CASUALTIES .- From the Ad-mirally register of wrecks, recently pre-sented to Parliament, it appears that in 1850 there were 681 British and Foreign vessels wrecked on the coasts and in the sens of the United Kingdom, and 784 lives lost; that in 1851 there were 701 wrecks on our coast, and so far as could be ascertained, 750 lives lost; and that in 1852 there were no fewer than 1,100 vessels wrecked, and about 900 lives lost. The greatest havoc took place about the latter end of last October and the begin-ning of November. In this interval, no fewer than 600 ships sought refuge in Humber. Many more, however, could reach no shelter; and thus, in the course of a few days, the unprecedented number of 300 vessels were lost or damaged, with the fearful loss of 217 lives. The greater part of this terrible work of destruction took place on the east coast of England, off Flamborough Head.

A SINGULAR WAIF .- We have heard of frogs and toads entombed in the heart of solid stones, and flies and straws in amber; but we have before us a sight quite as remarkable, and altogether unparalleled,—an old horse-shoe that was found imbedded in the middle of a stout tree in the forest, a few weeks back. The person who first related to us the circumstance of discovering the article has sent it to us, occompanied by a note, as follows :-"This is the Horse Shoe I was telling about. Mr. Martin Cleveland, of Horton, found it in the centre of a spruce tree, measuring 14 inches in diameter, about 6 feet above the root. The tree was solid and the heart of it run through the shoe; but the outside presented no sign of anything strange being enclosed within. The way Mr. Cleveland found the shoe was, he put a log on the fire, and when it was partly consumed he saw the corks stick-ing out of the brand."

The shoe is well made and in a good state of preservation. It may have belonged, perhaps, to a poney of one of the French inhabitants of Horton, that lost it in straying through the woods, when the tree that hid it so long and closely was just peeping above the ground.

Acadian Recorder.

THE EARL AND THE GUEST .- A noble lord of immense possessions had his house lately full of company. Among them was a somewhat dihipidited country squire, whose pride is much more in extent than his parchments. One day there was a new arrival. The stranger did not certainly smack much of the air of Belgravia, and the squire aforesaid, after few supercitious remarks upon his style few supercitious remarks upon his style and appearance to other people, at last, when he had an opportunity, asked the nobles host himself somewhat saucily. Who's your friend?" "Who's my friend?" he replied, with a chuckling sainle, "'tis only —, the member for ——; and, let me add, he's able to buy up you and me and all the rest of us, and still have a large surplus in his pocket;" and he added, with an emphasis of admiration which could not be mistaken, as it told of the proper price with which admiration which could not be mistaken, as it told of the proper price with which he regarded such men as his newly-arrived guest, "and he has made it himself!"

"Oh, do introduce me to him as soon as possible," said the crest-fallen squire, who already had conceived a "golden opinion" of the stranger, and saw in him a million attractions which he had not perceived at first. Such is the world:

"Morfals, like moths, are ever caught by glare. And mammon wins his way where seraphs might despair."

A CRIFFLE SETS ASIDE HIS CRUTCHES AFTER TEN YEARS SUFFERING.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Thompson, Chemist, Lt verpool, deted August 20, 1852.

To Professor Holloway,
Dear Sir—I am enabled to furnish you with a most extraordinary cure effected by your invaluable Ointment and Pills which has astonished every person acquainted with the sufferer. About 10 years ago, Mr. W. Cammins, of Salmey Street, in this town, was thrown from his horse, whereby he received very serious injuries; he had the best medical advice at the time, and was afterwards an immute of different infirmaries, yet he grew worse, and at length a malignant running ulcer settled in his hip, which so completely crippled him, that he could not move without cratches for early 10 years; recently he began to use your Ointment and Pills, which have now bealed the wound, strengthened his limb, and enabled him to dispense with his crutches, so that he can walk with the greatest case, and with renewed health and vigor. To Professor Holloway, Sim.—Some time since, one of my children was afficted with dreadful cruptions over the body and limbs. I obtained the advice of several eminent Surgeons and Physicians, by all of whom the case was considered hopeless. At length I tried your Ointment and Fills, and without exaggeration, the effect was miraculous, for by persevering in their use, all the cruptions quickly disappeared, and the child was restored to perfect health.

1 previously lost a child from a similar complaint, and I firmly believe, had I in her case adopted your medicines, she would have been saved also. I shall be happy to testify the truth of this to any enquirer.

To Professor Holloway
Ban Sam—I am authorised by Mrs. Gibbon, of 31, Balley Street, in this town, to inform you, that for a considerable period she had been a sufferer from de bility, and general ill health, accompanied by a dis ordered stomach, and great derangement of the system. In addition to this, she was terribly afflicted with ulcerated wounds, or running sores, in both her legs, so that she was totally incapable of doing her legs, and its streaming condition she adopted the use of your Fills and Ointment, and she states that in a wonderful short time, they effected a perfect care of her legs, and restored her constitution to health and strength; and that she is now enabled to walk about with ease and comfort. Several other persons in this neighbourhood have also received extraordinary benefit from the use of your invaluable medicines. licines.

CERTAIN REMEDY FOR SCORBUTIC HUMOURS -AND AN ASTONISHING CURE OF AN OLD LADY SEVENTY YEARS OF AGE OF A BAD LEG-

Copy of a Letter from Messra. Walker and Co., Chemists, Bath.

To Professor Hollowax.

DEAR SIR—Among the numerous cures effected by the use of your valuable medicines in this neighbourhood, we may mention that of an old lady living in the Village of Preston, about five miles from this City. She had ulcerated wounds in her leg for many years, and latterly they increased to such an alarming extent as to defly all the asual remedies; her health rapidly giving way under the suffering she endured. In this distressing condition she had, recourse to your Continent and Fills, and by the assistance of her friends, was enabled to persevere in their use, until she received a perfect cure. We have consolves been greatly astonished at the effect upon so old a person, she being above 70 years of uge. We shall be happy to estisfy any enquiries as to the authenticity of this really wonderful case, either personally or by letter.

Letter. A private in the Bath Police Force, also, has been perfectly cured of an old scorbatic affection in the face, after all other means had failed. He states that it is entirely by the use of your Ointment, and speaks We remain, Dear Sir, Your's faithfully.

The Pills should be used conjointly with the Ointment in most of the following cases:

BELLS! BELLS! BELLS!

THE Subscribes machineure and keep constantly on hand, all stone of Church, Factory, Estambent, Ferry, Loconstive, School Home and Plantaton Bella, with the feet description of Hangings.

Thuse Bells are made from the heat stock, and the small sizes undergo the same process in munufacturing as Church Bells. An experience of thirty years, with a great many recent improvements, and an entirely new method of casting, anables us to obtain the most melodious tone, combining also, in extraordinary vibration.

Nearly 9,000 Bells have been cast and sold from this Foundry, which is the best evidence of their superiority. We have fifteen Gold and Silver medals at our office, which were awarded for the "best Bells for sonoroneness and purity of tone." We pay particular attention to the getting up Feals or Chimes, and can refer to those farmished by us. Our establishment is contiguous to the Eric and Champlain Canale, and Kailroada ranning in every direction, which brings as within four hours of New York. Cash paid for old Copper. Old Clocks, Levels, Compusses, Transits, Theodolites, &c., for sale, of superior workmanship.

All communications, either by mail or otherwise, will have immediate attention.

FAMILY PHYSIC.

TREER has long existed a public demand for at effective purgative pill which could be relied on as a sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is aerimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain, nuless it axise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been specifily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languer and Loss of Appentite Litelium sees. Fritability.
