LIFE FOR AN OVERCOAT.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Harry Brainard, of Albany, a trainman on the New York Central, shot two 32-calibre bullets into John Myer, of Kingston, N.W., formerly a railroad man, at the Central station, in this city, at 9:20 o'clock this evening. Meyer had Brainard's overcoat on his arm, which about an hour before had been stolen from the locker of one of the coaches of train No. 8, on which Brainard was employed. Brainard was placed under arrest. Meyer was taken to St. Joseph's hospital. He will recover.

PLUCKY BANK CLERK.

Owen Sound, Ont., Oct. 9.—A determined effort was made at an early hour this morning to rob Molson's bank here. The noise of breaking open the rear door aroused a clerk named VanDusen, sleeping in the bank. The robbers opened fire on him, and he returned it, hitting one of the burglars, who thereupon decamped. The police are working on the case.

NEW JUDGE.

made much out of the Jap saying he saw no guns pointed, while the other Jap said guns were pointed at him. This is easily accounted for, the Jap who did not see the guns had his back turned pulling down the sail. It was not necessary to point guns, however, if they were there endangering the public peace. An authority in England had stated that since prisoners had been allowed to speak for themselves there had been more perjury in the courts than ever before. The prisoners contradicted each other in their evidence on some points. He did not consider their evidence of any great weight in this case.

D. G. Macdonell, counsel for prisoners, asked the court if he would explain to the jury that these prisoners might have gone out on the gulf with the impression in their own minds that they were carrying weapons for self protection, Justice Drake replied that the men were not compelled to go out on the gulf, therefore there was no justification in their carrying weapons.

The jury were 30 minutes deliberating. No one expected an acquittal, the most favorable verdict expected for the prisoners being disagreement.

The prisoners are detained as was anticipated, Mr. Bowser having brought other charges against them. There is possible difficulty in getting a jury to convict on the legal aspect of the case owing to bitterness against Japs entertained by many in the community and wide sympathy for the prisoners. The court room was packed to suffocation all day, but was very orderly.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 9.—(Special.)—The news of the death of (Hon. N. C. Wallace, was received here with many expressions of regret. The late Mr. Wallace during his many years sessional residence in Ottawa had made scores of friends here. For some years past he had been a shrewd investor in city property, and turned it over to good advantage. Flags are half-masted on the Parliament buildings and Orange hall in memory of the deceased. Vancouver, Oct. 9.—The trial of six fishermen charged with unlawfully having firearms in their possession for purposes of endangering the public peace, was concluded today, the jury returning a verdict of not guilty. Witness said he was, After counsel addressed the jury, Mr. Justice Drake summed up the evidence, charging the jury very strongly against the prisoners, not admitting a single extenuating circumstance. In effect he said counsel for the defeace had pointed out that the punishment was five years for the crime. This the jury had nothing to do with. They simply had to weigh the evidence and give a verdict according to the evidence. It was for him to award the punishment. Mob law he said was the most disastrons thing could happen to any country. In this case the prisoners admitted the fact that they had dangerous weapons in their possession, but said they were carrying them for 'self protection, what possible self protection, said Justice Drake, would they want in going for a row in the gulf. It had been shown there was a strike of so-called whites on one side (although there seemed to be all colors on that side) and Japs on the other. It was the world against the Japs. A newspaper had published an article advocating the use of force against the Japs. These unfortunated men had been influenced to such an extent by this advocacy of force that they had armed themselves with three shot guns, a rifle and two revolvers, a weapon each, and six of them getting into a boat, thus armed, it was remarkable how they had met quite by accident and decided to zo out for a sail in the gulf, a server sail for their own amusement, a smill for their own amusement

Capetown, Oct. 9.-The Gazette today

Elizabeth and East London.

The proclamation is the outcome of the recent visit of the premier of Cape Colony, Sir John Gordon Sprigg and the under secretary of native affairs in South Africa, J. Rose Innes to the British High Commissioner, Lord Milner. It places under military control the few points in Cape Colony hitherto exempted and the constitution therefore is now suspended over the entire colony. The action taken probably foreshadows the commencement of vigorous measures, which those on the spot are understood to believe necessary to end the war.

MURDERS IN PHILLIPPINES. nces of Death Carried Out For Revolting Crimes.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8.—Horrible stories of murder and rapine are contained in the records of a number of court-martial cases in the Phillippines, copies of which have reached the ward department. Five natives seized three Phillippine residents of the town of Posorrubio together with an Igorrote harvester. Conveying these captives to an isolated spot they murdered them with bolos and illtreated the women of the families of their victims. The motive for the deed appeared to have been that the victims had damaged a stream which diverted irrigating waters from the lands of the murderers. All five were sentenced to be hanged. A native mamed Blatinga with one or more companions assassinated with daggers private James T. Burgey, company "C" 26th infantry, while the latter was acting as a guard of prisoners pulling water for the garrison stationed at Bara Neevo Banay. The native was sentenced to death. With a rock, a rice beater and a club, one Fustino Ruiz and some of his companions sat upon a native named Aacasta, whom they suspected of having aided the American cause and beat him to death. Today the Party Takes Train

Lake Manitoba, via Poplar Point, Oct. 7.—Yesterday and today were probably the most informal spent by His Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall and Discovery of Rich Gold Quartz Leads to party since they began their tour through Canada. After arrival at the Lodge last evening the party partook of a splendid dinner, served in banquet style in a marquee erected for the purpose, immediately adjoining the cottage occupied by His Royal Highness. The arrangements made by Senator Kirch-offer for the entertainment of his guests offer for the entertainment of his guests were perfect in every detail. At a very early hour this morning the camp was astir and the canoes carrying the distinguished sportsmen were under way to the haunts of the wild duck. There were in all seven canoes, and each chose a different route, a capable guide, or veteran duck hunter taking charge of each boat. The well known hunter and trapper, John Atkinson, handled the paddle of the canoe carrying the Duke. The morning was an ideal one for duck shooting, the sky being slightly clouded and a light breeze blowing and the party took every advantage of the morning flight. were perfect in every detail. At a very

For five hours the sound of the guns could be heard from every part of the big marsh, and shortly after ten o'clock the cances arrived at the Lodge. The first to land was the Duke, and althere were no cheering crowds to greet his arrival, this did not appear to depress his spirits, for the excellent morning's sport and splendid luck had thoroughly delighted him.

Lord Minto, Sir Charles Cust, Prince Alexander of Teck, Major Maude and Senator Kirchoffer arrived in quick succession and the duck laden cances were landed. As a result of the morning's sport nearly 200 ducks, including all varieties known to Manitoba hunters, were brought in, and in addition to this number numerous birds were shot, but could not be secured because of the impassable marshes. His Royal Highness proved himself an exceelent shot, bagging 52 birds, and of the adventurous ducks coming within range of his undering aim, few indeed escaped. He expressed great pleasure, and was enthusinstic over the outing.

Barly this afternoon the party started out again to remain until sundown. The guests are thoroughly delighted with the sport here, and will embark for civilization from row with feelings of regret. Lord Crichton and Commander Godfrey Fawcett are the guests of Messrs. Galt.

Chicago Clergyman on the Raising of the Money.

Rochester, Oct. 7.—Prof. Graham Taylor, of Chicago Theological Seminary, who is visiting his brother-here, said concerning the appeal which the American Board of Missions has sent out for funds with which to ransom Miss Stone from the Bulgarian bandits: "Of course it is a terrible precedent to set, because if the money is raised and paid over to the bandits, it will simply put a premium on such crimes in the future until a swift reprisal is made. If the United States government does not follow this outrage up immediately with the most strenuous efforts to punish the bandits and make the matter an international affair, I should say the raising of this ransom is a very hazardous thing to do, but we have got to be human in such a matter."

It was the climax of a week of delight for the young folks of business and pleasure intermingled with the grown up and one of recreation and reflection for the gaged. Like the circus with its magnetic powers of attraction for young and old, the fair came and went like a flash. But there was one thing about it that will make the memory of the fair lasting. From the fact that it was opened by His Royal Highness the Duke of York, it will always remain a conspicuous event in the annals of the association. In time to come the present year will probably not be known in the debates of the association as plain 1901, but "the year that the Duke of York was here."

Opened by royalty, in royal weather, the show was a royal success, all things considered, from first to last. And it is a satisfaction to believe that with the last night, the dying out of the music, the stoppage of the machinery, and the turning off of the lights, the fair according to the managers, is likely to be a yearly event in the arturnous the races approved the feature, while at night the main building, brilliantly illuminated, was the principal attraction. Many of the exhibitors on the main floor were swarded diplomas. Shortly before the close of the fair, word was given out that exhibit can be removed to morrow, although in cases where there has been large quantities of heavy material laid down, the directors may extend the time until Tuesday.

R. P. RITHET & CO. Solid and substantial as befits the hature of the goods, is the exhibit of this firm. First the huge arch built up of sacks of the choice flours made by the Columbia Flouring Mills of Enderby, which is owned by this company, as is well known, these mills are situated in the finest wheat growing section of British Columbia, and the resulting flour is second to none on the market. As a sort of garniture, innumerable tins of canned salmon—were also displayed, these latter, with their bright labels, adding just the requisite dash of color tainly be second to none in the line. Harness for all purposes, and all finished in the most workmanlike manner are displayed—the heavy, serviceable tackle for the lubering draught horse, as well as the pretty silver-mounted trappings of the high stepping hack—all are perfect in their kind. This firm makes a specialty of catering to the farmer's wants, and in this connection their goods find their way into all parts of the province.

B. C. POTTERY CO.

The pottery and terra cotta display of the B. C. Pottery Company was to the left of the main entrance, and while sewer pipes and chimney pots do not lend themselves to artistic grouping with any appreciable degree of success, the substantial nature of the articles shown, as well as the variety of shapes, convey a good idea of the solidity of this local industry. It is gratifying to note that the wares of this company find a ready market in all parts of the province, and the superiority of the drain pipes turned out may be judged when it is stated that large orders are received from the south of the line. Among the many large contracts executed by the pottery company was that of furnishing the miles of pipes required in the construction of the sewerage system of this city.

LEIGH & SON. LEIGH & SON.

This firm made a first class showing of glass show cases, doors and windows. The former particularly were worthy of note, and attracted a great deal of attention, owing to their fine finish and taxty appearance generally. One of these store fixtures, which was of very generous dimensions, and together with a number of others, was purchased by Spencer's Arcade.

WEILER BROS.

As was befitting the premier furnishing house of the northwest, Messrs. Weiler Bros. made a most imposing display. A very large space had been allotted to this firm, and they put it to the very best use. The most delicate weaves of Turkish carpets and rugs, and restful looking divans brought to mind the poet's dreams of "Avaby the Blessed." To say that the whole exhibit was elegant in the extreme gives but a faint idea of the taste displayed in arranging the rich draperies and furnishings of the apartment.

BOMELIER BROS.

Mr. Carpilo, of Cowichan, entered an objection to the award of the judges in butter. It was pointed out that the butter, which received one of the awards had attached to it the name of the creamery. After discussion, it was found that the rules did not affect the award and he decision was allowed to stand, but on account of the vagueness of the rules the protest fees were returned.

Mr. Hayward also spoke of the value of district exhibits at the exhibition. He pointed out that at Westminster fair the district prize had been taken by a remote place as against local competition, and that it was absolutely essential that the judges do their duty irrespective of feeling or favoritism. In the general discussion that followed, a spirit was shown in favor of giving the district exhibits a much more prominent place at the Victoria exhibition next year, although Mr. Price pointed out that after all, the industrial exhibitors had been well looked after this year in the matter of money, as they were receiving $3.088 as against $12, which was all that was being received by the merchants in the main hall.

NEW BRUNSWICK PRECEDENTS.

The Neison Economist in reply to the colonist's request that it would show wherein Mr. Dunsmuir has violated the constitution, says that it will look up the New Brunswick precedents and see. We appreciate the good humor of our contemporary, but propose to deal with it a little seriously, for the constitutional government of a country is a serious natter. Others besides the Economist ave spoken of the fact that the Colonist has on several occasions mentioned two reasons for this. One of them is that we are familiar with those precedents, but the principal one is that in New Brunswick constitutional questions have during the last one hundred and fifteen years been very fully discussed. In Ontario and Quebec constitutional government was established ufter armed robellion. In New Brunsick and Nova Scotia it was attained by the slower but more valuable means of discussion in the respective legislatures of the provinces, and before the electorate. Hence in those provinces many phases of the subject were dealt with, which did not come up for consideration elsewhere in British North America.

An incomplete system of sewerage is better than none at all, we suppose, but it is certainly not much better, for if contagious diseases arise through defective sanitary arrange neuts, they are quite as likely as not to istaken, for the Times has had several letters urging ratepayers to vote in the regative. It seems a little unfortunat that this subject has been before the pub lic at a time when politics, the Exhib tion and the royal visit have occupitem is not a dead asset. It is revenue sion how we think this can be accomplished. But the present is not the time to discuss this. All sanitary authorities agree that the extension of the system is imperative, and that the plan proposed is a good one, and much the cheapest that can be adopted. This being the case there is really no negative side to the discussion. It can surely not be necessary to do more than remind the majority of ratepayers that the voting takes place on Thursday, and that they should see to it that so desirable an improvement does not fail for lack of interest in it.

Paine's Celery Compound

Cures Chronic and Complicated Cases of Rheumatism.

IT BANISHES EVERY TRACE OF POISONOUS ACID FROM THE BLOOD.

Has Made More Permanent and Won-derful Cures Than All Other Medicines in the World.

All rhoumatic sufferers dread the variable and trying weather of October and November. Sufferers from the various forms of rheumatism—articular, muscular, inflammatory, gout and lumbago—suffer more intensely in the autumn months. Chilling winds, damp air, cold rains and night frosts, aggravate existing misery and agony.

Thorsands of victims of rheumatism have come back fro. summer health resorts only to find themselves as badly tortured and crippled as they were before they started for their raise Meccas of health. Mineral springs, baths and massage systems can never drive out the morbid principle of terrible rheumatism from the blood and joints.

Careful medical tests and a long experience prove that Paine's Celery Compound is the only agent and medicine for the cure of all forms of rheumatism, and succeeds when everything else falls. With a confidence created and strengthened by thousands of victories over rheumatism, we urge suffering men and women to use Paine's Celery Compound. Its marvelous virtues will meet your case and do for you what it has done for others. Mrs. J. Vince, Barrie, Ont., says:

in the season just over succeeded in taking 22,672 skins, as compared with 22,470 taken during the season of 1900; a gain of 202 skins. This year's catch proved unexpectedly large during the latter part of the sealing season, and disappointed the prediction of Agent Lembkey, made in a report recently published in the Fur Trade Review, to the effect that there would be probably a falling off this year.

"The explanation is offered, however, that following the method pursued last year of taking a very large proportion of two-year-olds, the lessees were able to do better than they had anticipated early in the season. The seals were rather late in arriving at the islands because of the presence of the ice, which completely surrounded both St. Paul and St. George until the latter part of June. In the drives made early in the season there was a marked preponderance in the number of seals too large to be desirable, but prime two-year-olds appeared in considerable numbers later on. The experience of the lessees during the London sales of last December fully justified the policy of taking small seals. As reported by the Fur Trade Review, while contains about 30 per surface.

Evidence of Treason Brought Agains

London, Oct. 8.—Dr. Krause, the former governor of Johannesburg, who was arrested on September 2, on the charge of high treason, was arraigned in the extradition court at Bow street today charged with high treason and incitement to murder. The former charge is connected with the surrender of Johannesburg when, according to the public prosecutor, Dr. Krause obtained from Lord Roberts 24 hours' armistice on the plea that street fighting would thereby be obviated, and utilized the period in getting all the Boer fighters out of town, and sending £18,000 to Pretoria. After Dr. Krause had been paroled he went to Europe and applied to Dr. Leyds, the agent of the Transvaal, for money on account of these services.

The prosecution introduced evidence to show that Dr. Krause had been in communication with Dr. Cornelius Boeckmann, the public prosecutor of Johannesburg, who was executed on September 20 last for treason, and had urged the necessity for shooting or otherwise disposing of Douglas Foster, an English lawyer attached to Lord Roberts' staff, who was very active against the Boers.

The prosecution introduced letters in

Remnant of The Buffalo

A Few Small Herds Left of the Once Countless Thousands.

They Are Scattered In Various Countries and Are Increasing In Number.

From Winnipeg Telegram.

There are many men still living who can remember the time when the buffalo roamed in countless thousands over the illimitable prairie, furnishing food and raiment to hunters of all races and all colors.

According to a well preserved legend St. Patrajek drove out the snakes with a staff. Just as true is it that the Indian, assisted by thoughtless white men, drove out the buffalo with the rife. Instances are not wanting of mighty hunts in which the infuriated herds, firing before a corps of skilful arivers, were goaded to their death in score. There was, and may be yet, unmistable prairie belt. Such massacres as these irradicated the buffalo, and made from Moose Jaw. There lay a while black piles of bleaching bones, remnants of what must have been a great herd such as would delight collectors of the present day. They had been driven to death over a deep bluff, the foremost pressed to destruction by a maddening crowd behind. It is a sad but unfortunately all too common sight through all the prairie belt. Whatever might be the intellectual vigor of a surgeon or whatever might be his manual deftness, death was almost inevitable. In 1868 and 1869 two of the wisest and most careful surgeons in the world experienced the sorrow of witnessing all their patients dit. Just as the sower sows his grain in the furrows, so the surgeon with his dressing materials, his instruments and his hands—above all his hands—sowed the swarming microbes of infection. Ignorant of the cause, ignorant of the nature of infection, they were completely disarmed. They were despairing and powerless.

But, like Moses, who, with a stroke of his rod brought forth a fountain from the rock, Pasteur with a stroke of his genius caused a new world to come out of the great unknown, the world of the infinitely little, of the microbes. Of all discoveries, none have contributed so largely as this to the alleviation of human misery.

No one before Pasteur had a suspicion human misery.

No one before Pasteur had a suspicion of it. All revolutionary ideas are long in preparing there is no Christ without his precursors; and so before Pasteur there were great spirits pressing on toward the light. But his was the discovery that there were microbes swarming in the hospital, that they were transmitted from one patient to another by the force of the air in which they floated, and, above all, by the instruments and appliances of the operating surgeon. ed, and, above all, by the instruments and appliances of the operating surgeon. Lister created the first antiseptics, now no longer in use, but developed since into a perfect system, so that everything that comes in contact with the operation is completely sterilized and every infection averted. Antiseptics have opened a new domain—that of visceral surgery. Erected with great labor and stone by stone, but with prodigious rapidity, it has rendered every operation possible, so that the surgery of to-day knows no limits save those imposed by physiology.

Surgery is now playing a beautiful role, and deserves that some poet should rise to hymn her praises.

whole time, but the Minerva used hers but little.

The maximum power developed by the Minerva was about 8.760 h.p., while that developed by the Hyacinth was nearly 10.000 for at least two hours, during which time the Hyacinth did not perceptibly gain on the Minerva. The Hyacinth average power when running clear of fog was about 8,400, and the Minerva's about 8,400 h.p.

From the results of the outward run it appears that the radius of action of each of these vessels at 7,000 h.p. as far as the coal is concerned, should be, roughly-Hyacinth, 2,930; Minerva, 3,000 miles. Na difficulty was experienced in either ship at any part of the outward or homeward runs in keeping up a sufficient supply of coal to the fires.

The report of the Portsmouth Dockyard officers is also given, together with various tabulated statements.

KILLED BY A MINISTER. Rev. Joseph McGammish Shoots J. C. Brown in a Quarrel.

Carbondulo, Ills., Oct. 5.—A tragedy was enacted here today at a time when the streets were crowded with people. John C. Brown was shot by Rev. Jos. McGammish, dying 40 minutes later. The two men had been bitter enemies for nearly a year owing to Brown being jealous of the relations between his wife and the minister. During the early morning houts, Brown told several citizens that he would kill McGammish hefore sundown. The word reached the minister, and he armed himself. McGammish had gone into a store to transact some business and Brown seeing him, went to him with an open knife in his hand. He opened a quarrel and raised his hand to strike McGammish, when the later drew his revolver and fired, the ball passing through Brown's lung.

COPPER SMELTING. During his travels through Asia, Dr. Futterer saw some of the primitive During his travels through Asia, Dr. Futterer saw some of the primitive copper-smelting places, which he describes in his book, says the Trade Creighover road, near Capt. Gaudin's property, and the other at the end of Russell street. The outlet of the former would be into the Arm and of the other into the outer harbor. The tanks are built under ground, the only thing visible being a man-hole, the same as on the streets, for the ordinary sewer. There is no smell whatever from the tanks, which do not have to be cleaned out and the water which flows from them is quite clear.

As has been explained before in the Colonist all the solid matter which flows into the tank is consumed by a certain microbe life and the water comes out clear and without any smell to it.

On motion of Mr. Redding seconded by Mr. Cave, the meting endorsed the bylaw and all pledged themselves to work for its passage.

Another meeting will be held in the Oddfellows' hal', Spring Ridge, this evening. The meeting will be worth attending, if only to hear an explanation of the latest scientific system of disposing of sewerage.

A Serious Question to Live Upon Army Pay.

A Serious Question to Live Upon Army Pay.

When presiding at a function at Aldershot a few weeks back, Mr. Brodrick is reported to have said that he wished he could come into closer touch with the army, and could devote some of the time that at present was sacrificed to the House of Commons to becoming ucquainted with the views and desires of those whose interests were in his charge. A very proper sentiment, and expressed no doubt in good faith. But without neglecting the House of Commons which is impossible for the best of reasons, that the House of Commons would not suffer itself to be neglected—Mr. Brodrick might take note of and deal with some of those minor grievances of the service with which he must be familiar, or which at all events are not far to seek. He must be aware that the expenses of the service are no less and the incomes of officers are no greater than they used to be. He must know indeed that living in the service is dearer, and officers as a class are poorer than formerly was the case. His wish is to cheapen the living and improve the incomes of the commissioned ranks. It is not easy to lay down rules of economy, much more to enforce them, and we fear that any attempt to limit the personal expenditure of individuals is bound to fail. On the other hand, to increase the pay of the officers of the army is a serious matter. A few shillings a day extra means an addition of some hundreds of thousands of pounds to the annual army estimates, and there is the argument against increasing officers' emoluments that the country commands a full supply of men of the type it wants for the price it pays. The law of demand and supply caunot be ignored, and it will only be when the demand increases and the supply fails that the war minister will be able to persuade his government to sanction an addition to the scale of officers' pay.

When Labouchere left Cambridge howen travelling. Mexico was a country he desired to see. Having resided in the capital some little time, he rode off on his own horse and with fifty dollars in his pocket. After a rambie of eighteen months he returned to the capital and fell in love with a lady of the circus. He travelled with the troupe and took money at the doors, or rather oranges and haize as equivalents for coin. By and by he tired of this occupation and went to the United States. He found himself at St. Paul, which was then only a cluster of houses. Here he met a party of Chippeway Indians going back to their homes. He went with them and lived with them for six months, hunting buffelo, joining in their work and sports, blaying cards for wampum necklaces, and living what to Joaquin Miller would have been a poem in so many stanzas, but which to the more prosale if advertureus Englishman was just seeing life and passing away the time. Leaving the Chippeways, he went to New York, and, making the city his headquarters, he visited the towns about. It occurred to him to go into the diplomatic service. He had influence, and he went into it. Dou't timagine that he did all this without money. When I mentioned his fifty dollars it did not think it necessary to say that Mr. Labouchere could draw upon his bankers or his father. He was now and then hard up, however, not to say hungry, while waiting remittances, but he was generally quite equal to all emergencies. He has always seemed to take the world more as a jest than the serious business it is. When he strides forth, sword is really only a lath like hardequin's in the play were really tragic, that is only his way of pretending. His sword is really only a lath like hardequin's in the play. S.—An Association fooball game was played here today by teams composed of members of Captain Bosanquet's English cricketers and the representatives of the Belmont cricket club. The Englishmen won by a score of six goals to nothing. The Englishmen are all experts at the game and outclassed the Belmonters. About five thousand persons saw the contest.

Specimens of Native Woods, Etc., Received at Sydney Museum.

The department of agriculture has received an acknowledgment of the received of a collection of British Columbia woods from the technological museum, Sydney, N. S. W. In acknowledging receipt of the specimens, Mr. Richard T. Baker, curator of the museum, says they are very suitable exhibits, as the museum is a purely commercial institution. He also promises to draw attention through the press of fruit growers and others interested to the articles sent by the department. Mr. Baker returns sincere thanks to Mr. J. R. Anderson for his trouble in procuring, arranging and forwarding the collection.
