Lord Frederick's Funeral—A Reply From Michael Davitt—Wm. Johnston's Reply From London.

The news from Ireland this morning is not of a startling nature. There has been no important arrests made as yet, or at least the police have not made them public if there was. The imperial parliament will assemble to-day after the funeral of Lord Cavendish, which will be largely attended by commoners and the nobility. It is understood Mr. Gladstone's Irish bill is ready for immediate presentation to the house, and it is said to resemble Parnell's bill in many respects. Mr. Davitt makes a scathing reply to an article in the London Standard.

LONDON, May 10.

At a meeting of Parliamites to-day the opinion is expressed that if Gladstone's bill continued to its nominal objects of the improvement of the administration of justice and the suppression of secret societies it would meet very general acceptance.

Heybourne, the American Irishman suspected of complicity in the assassination, has been released.

Hunter, inspector-general of the Irish constabulary, has resigned. A distinguished military officer will succeed him.

Replying to an article in the Standard, the land leagueers to come forward and make a clear breach of the information that would throw light on the assassinations, Davitt recalls that he came out of Portland prison at 8 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, after being confined in solitude for fifteen months without seeing a newspaper or a letter that did not pass through the hands of the governor of the prison. He rebuts the implication that he and other leagueers must possess information that would enable the authorities to track the assassins, the greatest danger to them. Dillon cannot lead any more assistance in bringing the assassins to justice than he given in their manifesto. He agrees a pilgrimage ought to be made through Ireland now to denounce the assassination and to divide the heinous crimes of the leagueers.

From the first initiation of the league he warned the Irish people against outrage and the greatest danger to the movement, he says when he delivered speeches in the United States he did his best to lay the blame on the league and not on the individual. He declines to have his name connected with the league and refers to the reports of his addresses. "Whoever forward and declare on what ground I was deprived of liberty or if under an imprisonment having removed me because my stand against the league was a hindrance to murder and outrage. Had I been a party to the league I would have been a part of the outrage and I would have been a part of the outrage against murder and mutilation of the cattle, I could have prevented numbers of innocent lives from being lost, and I might have averted the horrible deed of Saturday." Davitt refers to a speech he made in the City of London, in which he predicted a reconciliation of the league with the law, and he holds him responsible for doing so.

Limerick is being patrolled by police in civilian clothes, the authorities having received information that a number of the murderers are concealed there.

Nearly 500 members of parliament will attend the funeral of Lord Cavendish. One of the by-elections says Lord Cavendish got up after he was knocked down, but cut off by the police, and he was carried to his home.

REVOLUTION IN EGYPT.

THE MINISTERS PASSING OVER THE KHELVIE'S HEADS.

Instructions to Consul Generals in Cairo—Assurances from the Ministry—The Khevie Firm.

CAIRO, May 10.—Egypt is in a state of revolution. The ministry, in violation of organic law, has summoned the chamber of notables over the head of the Khevie, their nominal object is to settle differences which have arisen between them and the Khevie, but it is considered the latter deposition has been virtually achieved in favor of the government under Arabi Bey unless immediate intervention occurs.

The diplomatic agents of Germany, Austria and Italy have received strict instructions to abstain from intervention. The Egyptian ministers stated the foreign consul-general that the Khevie threatened their lives or the property of Europeans, but the intervention they are resolved to defend their country. The Khevie's person will be held sacred.

The Khevie, at a private audience, declared he was resolved not to give way at any cost. He relied upon material support from England and France, by whose advice he had been advised to sign the agreement with the Cretan officials.

THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 11, 1882.

CHINESE COLUMBIA.

There is a province in the Dominion of Canada which has heretofore been known by the name of British Columbia. Whether this name and designation will be permanent is, however, somewhat doubtful; circumstances may perhaps render a change of name necessary.

A Victoria despatch dated May 9 says: "Ships and steamers continue to arrive with Chinese, who are forwarded to the mainland as rapidly as possible. It is said that twenty-four thousand in all are expected before August." The Chinese in the province will then number about thirty-two thousand, and will outnumber the whites. Fears are expressed of the mongrelization of the province.

Another despatch says that 60,000 Coolies are now at Hong Kong, awaiting shipment to America. Now, it seems quite a matter of course to say that the eighty thousand are coming to "America," but let us find out, if we can, what the word "America" really means in this connection. First and foremost, then, we say most emphatically that it does not and cannot mean the United States. Here are the facts: Some few weeks ago congress passed a bill practically prohibiting any more Chinese immigration for twenty years to come.

President Arthur vetoed it, on the ground of treaty obligations made, with an implied reference to commercial interests. It soon appeared that public opinion both in and out of congress was too much in earnest to be put off with a veto. By a large majority the house voted to suspend the rules in order to allow a new bill to come up for immediate consideration.

As readily as parliamentary forms and necessary allowance of debate would permit, the new bill, with the term of prohibition altered to ten years, was passed. Opponents of the measure managed to spin out rather a long debate to be sure, but though they delayed a little they could not prevent, and the bill passed, differing very little from the first one except as to the number of years to remain in force.

Then the senate took it up and quickly passed it. President Arthur did not long deliberate this time, but signed it with little delay, and it is now the law of the land. The eighty thousand therefore cannot come to the United States; they will have to land somewhere else on this continent. There is no chance at all for them in Mexico, or in Chili, Peru or any other of the South American countries.

They might go to Central America, to help build M. De Lesseps' canal across the isthmus; but we have nothing to indicate that such is their intention, or, rather, the intention of their owners—the masters to whom they belong. They cannot land anywhere in the United States, and there is but one country left in America—in North America, at all events—in which they can come at all. The name of that country is Canada, and the particular province they are coming to is Chinese Columbia, formerly called "British Columbia."

From the day the news came that the first anti-Chinese bill was before congress, The World has continued to press upon public attention the important truth, in legislating against Chinese immigration, our American neighbors were legislating, not for the States only, but also for Canada. This seems at first view a strange thing to say, but it is practically and substantially true. Shut the Chinese out of the Pacific States and what more natural than for the vast human tide to turn itself in upon Canadian territory! The thing is as plain as a pikestaff, anybody with half an eye can see it. A terrible calamity is impending over the Pacific province; something that will bring some suffering and bitter repentance to generations yet unborn, may, to thousands, be passing in the possibilities of Chinese immigration are practically incalculable; it is quite within probability that thousands and tens of thousands may come where only hundreds are coming now. And all the time our great party leaders at Ottawa, on both sides respectively, are so occupied with the party election game that they are mum on this most important subject, and have not a word to say. Why don't Mr. Bonter get up and make a motion to consider it? The matter has now become so serious that the house scarcely dares laugh at it. Either he or Mr. DeCosmos should bring it up without delay.

ERASTUS WIMAN SHOWS HIS HAND. The World has always opposed the telegraphic deal which Jay Gould through the agency of Erastus Wiman, a New York-Canadian, gobbled the Montreal and the pseudo Great Northwestern for that matter, did away with competition, raised the rates, and gave an inferior service. These facts are known to every Canadian. The public bath to be erected on the island will commemorate the deal.

Now that the deal has been consummated by the recent legislation at Ottawa Mr. Wiman can afford to show his hand. This he does through a special despatch to the New York World of May 6th. The World says Gould's own property and personal organ. The despatch in question was inspired if not actually written, by Mr. Wiman, and is the most barefaced exhibition on behalf of monopoly that we have ever seen. It describes exultingly the manner in which Mr. Wiman effected the lobby which passed the gobbling bill—the "shabby" promotion for character, organization, and justice to start Canadians in a revolt. The management of the matter, however, was committed to Mr. Wiman who "has been consulted by his friends here [Ottawa] as in New York a decided and important triumph." But that Canadians may see the real

LEGISLATION IN CANADA.

The Organization of the Entire Telegraph System of the Dominion Legislated.

(New York World, May 6, 1882.)

OTTAWA, May 4.—The senate of Canada this evening by a vote of 35 to 11 confirmed the act recently passed by the house of commons legalizing the amalgamation of the entire telegraph system of the Dominion, under the charter of the Great North-western Telegraph company, of which Mr. Erastus Wiman of New York is president.

This consolidation was consummated some time ago under the auspices of the Western Union company, which by the privileges now granted to its annex, the Great North-western Telegraph company has secured several substantial and important advantages. The result of the legislation give to the combined companies a virtual monopoly, not only of the business of the older provinces but the possibilities of a large extension incident to the rapid progress of the country, especially in the new North-western territories.

While the rate for ten word messages is made low and uniform at twenty-five cents, irrespective of distance, the government and parliament have practically made a contract with the Great Northwestern company by which the entire telegraph business of the Dominion is solely committed to it just as long as the service is performed efficiently. A strong disposition to imitate the mother country was evinced in the desire to have the telegraph system made a part of the postal service as it now is in England, but this has been successfully averted by the arrangement arrived at, which, while it gives the telegraph proprietors a liberal return, enables the Canadian government to accomplish without any expenditure whatever what it has cost the British government $50,000,000 to perfect, followed by years of deficiency. The rate in Canada for the past two years under competition has been twenty cents for ten words, irrespective of distance. But this rate has been successfully advanced 25 per cent to twenty-five cents, and is by to-day's proceedings legalized in such a manner as to leave the government a credit for the amount of the advance.

An attempt to make it otherwise should the profits be exorbitant, was proposed in an amendment of which the following was the concluding sentence: "An act of parliament reducing the maximum rate herein provided shall be deemed an infringement of the privileges granted by this act." This amendment was voted down by a large majority, all the members of the government voting against it, parliament being practically a united front. The result of the recent telegraph legislation is of the greatest importance to the kindred interests of the Dominion. The fact that almost the entire cable business of the continent is now controlled by the Great North-western and its annexes, and that the cables leading on the shores of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland makes it most important that the interests of the numerous land lines now in the grasp of the Western Union company should not form part of a government system regulated by some arbitrary and despotic government.

Perhaps it may be quite a jump from Mr. Gladstone to Mr. Mills, the member for Bothwell. But in gerrymandering that electoral riding so that an old opponent, an ex-minister, and one of the leaders of the opposition, can only seek re-election to be defeated in an unparliamentary manner, Sir John Macdonald has done an uncharacteristic act, and he will have to take the consequences, for if there is one thing more than another on which the public mind is fixed it is regard for fair play. They may overlook acts of mis-government, departmental blunders, and injurious legislation, but they never forget politicians who play with loaded dice.

HARD ON THE GLOBE.

The elections will be on soon, sure. La Minerve of Montreal, has begun quoting the anti-French anti-Catholic articles of the Globe, written twenty-two years ago, when George Brown was riding the Protestant horse. These articles have gone through a dozen election campaigns—and are good for a dozen more.

FEMALE EDUCATION HAS MADE SURPRISING PROGRESS IN FRANCE OF LATE YEARS.

Female education has made surprising progress in France of late years. The latest phase of its development is in the order of the educational department establishing state colleges for the training of young women. This is a measure which not long ago would have been denounced as revolutionary if not absolutely degrading, so narrow were French ideas on the education of women. The policy of exclusion has had its day.

THE SACRED BOOK.

Annual Meeting of the Upper Canada Bible Society.
The forty-second anniversary meeting of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held in Knox church yesterday evening. Professor Daniel Wilson presiding. Among those on the platform were Rev. J. F. Stevenson, I. L. B. D.D. of Montreal, Dr. Castle, Rev. H. M. Parsons, W. S. Ramsford, J. M. Cameron, John Potts, D. D. and Mr. J. George Hodgins. The congregation was fair in size, but it would undoubtedly have been much larger had the weather been propitious. The chairman in his address described the good effects of the society.

The forty-second annual report of the society was then submitted. From it some interesting information is gleaned. The total income of the society during its financial year just closed, has been $28,852, showing a decrease of $321 as compared with the previous year; and the total number of issues 3,527, being 47 copies less than in the preceding twelve months. The decrease in the number of issues is not nearly so great as might have been expected, considering the remarkable demand for the revised version of the new testament. The falling off in total income is more than accounted for by the fact that money received in the shape of donations and bequests has been $350 less than in 1880-81. The total issues of the society since its commencement in 1,179,183. There has been an encouraging increase of $130 in the ordinary free contributions to the bible cause. There are 405 branches and 15 depositaries on the list. The directors are glad to report an increasing number of branches are forming sub-branches, or holding meetings in surrounding villages, or are at least endeavoring to canvass more thoroughly the outlying portions of their fields. The past year of the history of this society will probably be long remembered by many for the great gap which death has made in the ranks of her veterans. Rev. Dr. Loring, Rev. A. R. McGee, Rev. Dr. Ryerson, Alex. Christie, Dean Grosset and John Lowry have passed away after years of zealous and faithful work for the society.

The following are the officers for the year — Patron, His Excellency the Marquis of Lorne, governor general; President, Hon. George W. Allan; Vice presidents, Rev. E. Wood, D. D., Alex. Sweeney, J. Police Court Yesterday.
John Shea, the wooden leg inebriate, was stored away for twelve days. Persons in the habit of swearing on the street should take warning by the fate of John Reid and Charles McCarthy who each got a month for this offense. The complainant in the case of Margaret Rodgers, charged with stealing a belt quilt, did not wish to prosecute and the woman was discharged. For having threatened to kill Matilda Williams, Ellen Hagan was ordered to find two sureties of $100 each. James Gallagher, the crank from Kansas, was put back until to-day when he will probably be liberated. His whiskey that ails him. Wm. F. McKell was committed for trial on a charge of attempted highway robbery.

Queen's Own Notes.
The regiment departed at the armory last night. They were put through the manual and firing exercise and practised few devoirs. There were two parades a week—Wednesday and Friday nights—until Queen's birthday.

Corporal J. C. Gordon who left D. Company to join the mounted police, was last night presented by his late comrades in the company with a gold mounted riding whip, and an address.

The preparations for the regimental entertainment at the Royal Opera house Monday night next are being made with the utmost care and the affair promises to be a great success. There will be a full dress rehearsal at the theatre Saturday night.

University Intelligence.
At the last meeting of the senate of Toronto university, Rev. Principal Caven and the Rev. Dr. J. Macdonnell, who have been reappointed by the Ontario government for the next three years, took their seats. The third retiring government appointment, Mr. Justice Patterson, was also reappointed.

As the same meeting a petition from over 200 students, signed by many honorable men, was presented, praying for the abolition of scholarships.

Playing Horse Thief.
Bobby Crawford, better known as "Bumper" Crawford, was arrested and lodged in the western police station last night charged with stealing Dr. Archibald's horse and buggy. The doctor left his horse and buggy on University street, when Crawford took possession of the rig. He drove around the city until the afternoon when he was caught about 7 o'clock. He will likely be charged in the police court this morning with "horse stealing."

True Blue Officers.
The following officers of the grand regiment of Orange true blues were elected at the meeting for the ensuing year:—W. F. Allan, Ontario, deputy grand master; R. Henderson, London, grand chaplain; J. H. Smith, Hamilton, grand secretary; H. Stevenson, grand treasurer. For a full list, see the next page of meeting.

ESCAPE OF TWO CONVICTS.

How W. L. Brooks and John Moore Got Out of the Central Prison—One of Them Captured.
Two convicts escaped from the central prison Tuesday evening. Their names are John Moore and W. L. Brooks. The latter was only sent there for twenty-three months for stealing a value from the union station. Moore had served several months of a term for different thefts from Grand Trunk cars. While the convicts were marching to the chapel, the two men slipped from the file and groped their way from the cellar to the kitchen and thence to the butcher shop. By means of a small crevice they managed to push back the bolts, and so escaped into the street into which the door opens. Half an hour later their escape was discovered by a guard, who found the doors ajar. The alarm was given and a posse started in pursuit, but the convict had such good start that it was difficult to find out what direction they had taken. Late at night Moore was found in a lot near the old fort. Brooks is still at large.

GUINEA'S FATE.

Larrye Reed Questions His Arguments on the Bill of Exceptions.
WASHINGTON, May 10.—Reed resumed argument in his bill of exceptions in the Guinean case before the court in banc this morning. He mentioned a revision of the district code by two reputable lawyers in 1885, which was never adopted by congress and which would be in the law upon the question of jurisdiction was met by a special act. He proposed to argue the bill for five of the exceptions. He discussed the evidence for the prosecution objected to by the defence, making a vigorous argument against the evidence of D. B. Baker.

Reed also argued that the opinion of the former wife of the defendant as to the latter's sanity which the court allowed her to give was based upon facts it would be incompetent for her to testify to. He contended that the defendant was not clearly a lunatic as any man ever tried. It was an error on the part of Judge Cox to admit the evidence of the former wife's counsel asking the court to charge that to constitute sanity there must be not only discrimination between right and wrong but also power to follow discrimination. Concluding, he appeals to the court to save the country from shame and the judiciary from the disgrace of setting an insane man at large. Adjourned.

HISTORY OF FEMINISM.

Where and by Whom the Organization was inaugurated.

A member of the Fenian directory has in his Magazine, what he evidently considers a very reasonable article on feminism. The original body known as feminism was raised by James O'Mahony and James Stephens. In September 1848, the former raised a little band in Ireland, only to make a ludicrous failure in his attempt to gain justice for his countrymen. He and Stephens then met in Paris and decided to make the United States the theatre of their operations, and if possible, to engage the union in a war with Great Britain for the advancement of their aims. Stephens returned to work in Ireland in 1857, but in a twelvemonth his proposed nucleus of a republic had broken up. He then scattered all over the continent, O'Mahony's work in this country was better done, and by 1860 he had organized 130 circles with an average of 400 men each. Among them were such men as Gen. Shields and Col. Corcoran. In 1865 Stephens, then in Dublin, suggested the American party then in Ireland was ripe for revolt. This period of boastfulness was also marked by banquets, picnics and other reckless excursions of the vast sums so easily raised. But the end of such gaiety came quickly, when, in September of the same year, the Fenian government struck its first blow by seizing the "Irish People" newspaper, its staff, and the staff of the Brotherhood, soon after the American party, the true Fenian Brotherhood, deposed O'Mahony from his office as chief. The body now split into two factions, one clinging to O'Mahony and the other to Stephens, called the Fenian party, and the other called the Fenian party, and the latter party, in September 1867, elected Wm. Roberts their president. In June 1866, occurred the Fenian action in American territory, there was nothing for the "professional" portion of the company but to fall in with Stephens, which the Fenian party did not do. But immediately such bitter contentions arose among themselves that there was no possibility of their remaining together. The Fenian party, in the information of an annexed and wandering world. Stephens went so far as to publicly fix the day for the Fenian party for Ireland on Irish soil.
