DEBATE ON ADDRESS ALMOST COLLAPSED

mean between a high and a low tariff. Then came Sir George Foster who delivered an interesting but somewhat lengthy address on the League of Nations. It was observed that Liberals appeared more interested in Sir George's speech than the Conservatives. The latter were leaving the chamber in twos and threes during the speech, and those who remained left almost in a body as soon as Sir George concluded. They could see Andrew McMaster, the Free Trade Liberal member for Bromfield, getting ready to follow with an armful of books and papers stacked on his desk. They took it for granted that he would talk up to six o'clock and apparently ignored the fact that E. R. Devlin, instead of McMaster, rose to speak when Sir George Foster sat down.

Devlin has a way of talking and under ordinary circumstances would have taken up the balance of the afternoon, but no sooner were the government benches emptied than he abruptly closed his speech and loud cries went up from the Liberals for a vote. Then it was that Mr. Nesbitt rushed to the rescue. He declared himself against an election, but said he would give the government independent support. He criticized the reference to unemployment insurance in the speech from the throne. If any men were idle in Canada, he said, it was because they were unwilling to work, and intimated to the house that it was passing too much Progressive legislation. Mr. McMaster moved the adjournment of the debate.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—(Canadian Press)—The house passed today to the winter arena of international affairs. There were echoes in continued debate on the address of yesterday's duel between the prime minister and the leader of the opposition and appeal to the polls. But the major portion of the sitting was devoted to an exposition by Sir George Foster of the aims and purpose of the League of Nations.

He spoke of the league as working perfectly and emphasized the importance of the creation of an international court of justice. "Would a dispute between South Africa and Great Britain be referred to the international court of justice?" Hon. Charles Murphy pointedly queried. But on so delicate a point Sir George declined to give an opinion. He would leave it to the minister of justice.

Was it true, then, pressed Ernest Lapointe (Quebec E.), that there had been differences among the British empire delegates? There were no difficulties among the Canadian delegates," Sir George humorously replied. "We were a band of brothers." Different points of view had been held by the delegations from the different parts of the empire, but relations, Sir George said, were always of the best.

Negation of War. Sir George spoke of the league as a reversal of the policy of six thousand years. It was the "negation of war," the "apotheosis of peace." The United States was still outside it, but "the spirit, the prayer, the overwhelming conviction of the people of the United States, even with the desire of the covenant of the league." Sir George was preceded by D. D. McKenzie (Cape Breton, N.S.) who cited a "Tory newspaper" on the vince would have a deficit of $1,700,000, instead of $625,000. Hon. Peter Smith said it was. The good roads policy of the government was Hon. G. S. Henry's principal grounds for complaint.

Free School Books. The premier told the house that the government approved the principle of A. L. Bracken's bill to provide for the issuing of free school books throughout the province. But the government did not wish to act in an arbitrary manner regarding the matter and thought that if the bill passed it should be subject to an order-in-council before becoming effective. The measure, in short, required a great deal of consideration.

K. K. Hornum (Labor, South Waterloo) did not want to see the bill withdrawn. It had many advantages and should be fully discussed in the house. The minister of education might inaugurate a campaign pointing out the advantages of free school text books.

Hon. R. H. Gault, minister of education, who had seldom speaks in the house, rose to give his opinion on the subject. He suggested that propaganda in favor of free books should be inaugurated. The question of free school books should be put to a referendum.

R. R. Hall (Liberal, Parry Sound) strongly favored free school books and looked forward to seeing a national system of schools in the province. The bill was finally given a second reading and sent to committee.

Mex. Lewis (Conservative, North York) rose to give his opinion on the bill. He thought that the provincial government should supply free books. They should not be forced to supply them against their will.

R. T. Harding's Fees. Hon. Peter Smith, answering Hon. G. H. Ferguson said that R. T. Harding had not received any fees for his services as counsel for the timber inquiry. He was paid for his services as counsel for the government.

Major A. C. Lewis was told that Sir George Foster had purchased a new house for $10,000. He was also told that the U.F.O. had purchased a new house for $10,000.

Hon. Beniah Bowman informed Major Kennedy (Peel), that 10,000 bushels of oats had been purchased last season from the U.F.O. Co-operative Co. for seed for farmers.

Attorney-General Raney, in answer to Dr. George's question, said that the recent decision of the privy council in a mixed marriage case did not and would not affect his views regarding the bill.

Insurance Amendments. H. P. Hill of Ottawa introduced a bill in the legislature which will have the effect of increasing the amount of insurance in Ontario. It will provide that every U.S. company must print on its forms the name of the province in which the policy is issued.

At the end of Mr. Devlin's speech no one rose from the government benches and opposition members (who had momentary outbursts) began to shout "question." Mr. McMaster (Brome) was ready to move a motion of adjournment of the debate when E. W. Nesbitt, (Oxford) rose on the government side to object to the motion.

He did not, he said, blame the government for carrying out its term of office to the letter, but he was entirely opposed to a premier who would have which various groups to the detriment of the province in general.

Mr. Nesbitt said that, in his opinion, the speech from the throne, he thought the suggestion that the government should mark on a system of giving every man a chance to work, who were unemployed, might obtain to do so. They might not be able to do so, but there was money as they wanted, man who wanted it. His great aim was to get the government to do something for the unemployed.

SPECIAL E PENSES REPORTED BY OTTAWA

Unforeseen Outlays on Conferences and Congresses Totalled $35,000.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—(By Canadian Press).—A statement of miscellaneous unforeseen expenses, from April 1, 1920, to February 15, 1921, tabled in the house of commons this afternoon by Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, showed a total outlay under this heading of $35,137.14. The items included the following expenses: League of Nations, $17,859.13; international congress, $1,315.56; expenses of Canadian representative to international congress, $900; international congress versus alcoholism, $883; international telegraph congress, $1,024.24; international women's conference at Brussels, $1,069.19; Prince of Wales' visit, $3,544.83. The balance of the items were in connection with finance and congresses held in Canada.

Opposes Good Roads Policy. Mr. Henry seriously criticized the present road policy of the government. He told, for instance, that on upper Yonge street, the county authorities had called for contracts for road work and received a bid of 8c a square yard. Subsequently Hon. Mr. Biggs also called for contracts on the same specification and received from the same contractor a quotation of $1.30 a yard.

Hon. Mr. Biggs denied that any such contract had ever been called for on Yonge street. He said that he had the papers here in his hand.

The provincial treasurer was assured that the Conservative opposition would do its best to give the good name of the province.

J. C. Brown (North Middlesex), moved the adjournment of the debate on the subject of free school books. He said that the increased expenditure during the last fiscal year should give the people of the province cause for great concern. There had been a big deficit, and the provincial treasurer, who at the same time asked the opposition critics not to judge him too harshly.

Always Preached Economy. The present government in 1919 depicted the excessive expenditures and the death of the province. In 1920, so-called excessive expenditure had increased. So much for the promises of economy. The provincial treasurer would have a hard time to get the province out of the hole he spent with such a lavish hand.

When the public accounts committee met the treasury department might be expected regarding some items. For instance, hundreds of thousands of dollars had been spent for furniture of various kinds, and large sums for cleaning carpets, and so on.

The total was formidable, an explanation would be looked for. Between $700,000 and $1,000,000 would be required to meet the amount of the financial requirements for the present year, Mr. McCrae thought. The government should use the paring-knife freely, pull in a reef here and there, and keep the expenditures well within bounds.

Mr. Warren (U.O., North Renfrew) generally defended the present administration, and paid particular attention to the death of the province, which had whole-hearted support. But he would go further than the act did, and make it more thorough with which they went about their work would seem to indicate that the thing had been well planned by master minds.

MAKE APPOINTMENT IN NORFOLK COUNTY

Select W. E. Kelly, K.C., to Succeed Late T. R. Slaght as Crown Attorney.

Simcoe, Ont. Feb. 16.—Announcement of the appointment of W. E. Kelly, K.C., as county crown attorney for Norfolk county, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of T. R. Slaght, was made today. Mr. Kelly, who is a lawyer of the late David Kelly, a Woodhouse township farmer, attended high school here and graduated from Osgoode Hall in 1896 and shortly afterwards went to partnership with Mr. J. Foster here. The partnership still exists and Mr. Kelly is as well county clerk and county treasurer of the county. Mr. Kelly was K.C. in 1908. For many years he has been in and out of the county. Mr. Kelly has been for years a member of the board of education for Simcoe.

PROMINENT NEW YORK MAN PRAISES TANLAC

John F. Hyatt, of Albany, N. Y., Is Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism of Many Years' Standing.

JOHN F. HYATT 227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.

"I am now seventy-two years old and am just getting rid of a fifteen-year case of rheumatism that had me so crippled up I could not walk," said John F. Hyatt, 227 Pearl street, Albany, N. Y., in relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac, recently. Mr. Hyatt was chairman of the committee in charge of building the Albany County Courthouse and was four times elected a member of the County Board of Supervisors. At present Mr. Hyatt is Assistant Superintendent of the Albany County Courthouse, with offices in the building.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the pains struck me every time I took a step. My legs, hips and ankles hurt something awful and my joints were stiff and ached. I couldn't cross my legs without having to lift it up with my hands, and to turn over in bed, why, the pains nearly killed me. My appetite was gone and the sight of food nauseated me. My stomach was out of order, and I had a sluggish, heavy feeling all the time. I was weak, off in weight, and dispirited, so that it looked like I might as well quit trying to ever get well."

Committee of Nurserymen and Fruit Growers to Consider New Law.

TORONTO CONVENTION New System of Harvesting the Apple Crop Is Also Recommended.

The importance of a central sales agency in Ontario for fruit growers, nurserymen and fruit growers, with P. W. Nursery Control Act. The nursery control act was fully discussed following an address on it by W. J. Bragg, M.L.A., Bowmanville. The nurserymen felt that if passed in the form suggested, it would put the end of business. The growers contended that a higher degree of efficiency should be reached in the labeling of fruit trees, as too many cases in the past the trees had not been true to the label...

Mr. Bragg nominated three nurserymen as chairman, to confer with a legislative committee on the proposed bill, so that certain clauses could be amended or eliminated. The act clearly defined nurseryman, dealer and agent and was proposed as a protection against misrepresentation and deception in the sale of fruit, shrubs, ornamental trees, vines, shrubs, etc.

The proposed carriers' protective service was explained by G. E. McIntosh of the fruit division, Ottawa, who said that carriers should pay for the losses sustained thru frost or over-heating which the charges assessed by them should be fixed by the board of railway commissioners. This service would place a definite responsibility if the carriers were made responsible for the losses.

It was brought out during the discussion of the methods employed on the Liverpool docks, in classifying the apples as to bruising and correct packing that the English people were very willing to buy Ontario apples and some of the delegates thought a man should be at the docks to check up the losses, etc.

President David Allan, in his address in the morning session, said the reason for the indefinite postponement this year of the annual Horticultural Exhibition with the uncertainty of temperature and the impossibility of heating the C.N.E. building, he believed arrangements could be made to overcome this difficulty.

In 1920, the distribution system was largely inadequate, he said, and the market was ruined as many central points were glutted, while the thousands of baskets of fruit rotted on the trees.

The financial statement showed a balance for the year of $2,218.67. Professor Neilson and J. W. Crow of the Ontario Agricultural College also gave addresses on the winter injury problem and the alternate bearing in apple trees.

THURSDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 17.

Hands All Round—For a Shine.

Mackenzie King and his newspaper friends have started a debate on Ottawa and in the press that every one in Canada wants an election more than anything else, and therefore "hands all round" to that end.

For Mr. King, he knows that it means his extinguishment—something for which he has no desire. And the house knows that. And The Globe knows it. But they want to keep themselves on the stage.

And the farmers say frankly they do not want an election at least not after a redistribution of seats based on the enumeration of the people in the coming June. Nor do the Conservatives want the government of mixed colors want one.

Nobody wants one, and for two weeks the public is to be made to think if it can be made to think about it that everyone is crying for it.

But there are dissatisfied people and people more or less delocated by the war who'd like to do something to some one in consequence of unrest.

But the country and the people are largely sane, notwithstanding the war and its consequences; and they'd sooner see the country normal again, normal in business, normal in prices, normal in temperament and normal in outlook; and an unnecessary election would not settle things which only increase the unrest. There will be an election in due course. Why worry?

Provincial Financing.

The usual difference of view on budgets was in evidence on Monday, when Financial Treasurer Smith made his annual speech, showing deficits for the year of $302,000.

Mr. Sinclair, a Liberal critic, expanded this amount to more than two and a half million. An old-time critic of financial statistics said it is not the figures that he, but the liars that figure, and the public will be left pretty much to themselves to decide whether the provincial treasurer is correct in his statement or whether Mr. Sinclair has any authority for his contentions.

Whatever may be actually said of the financial conditions of the province, it is certain that the farmers government has lived up to the usual reputations of orties. Oppositions of all varieties never find difficulty in making capital out of their arguments, but it is astonishing in the replacement of the criticized by the critics how easily they fall into the same failures. A few years ago the whole bone of contention in provincial affairs was the expenditure of ten million dollars by the province. This has now reached the sum of over twenty-five million, and there is really less criticism of this large sum than there was of the former figure.

The farmers, as a body, have been usually regarded as frugal in expenditure, but if the provincial government is representative of them, the adjective does not apply, and the new form of political badinage might be: "If there is any money to spend, leave it to the farmers."

We have not much complaint as to the amount to be expended, provided it is distributed in the interests of the province. The good old city of Toronto, however, has usual, is to be called upon to contribute its full quota to the increased revenue. The estimate of two new mills on the dollar on real estate transfers is estimated to bring in a quarter of a million dollars. In imposing this, the honorable Peter will do away with the camouflage going thru the registry offices for years, when the consideration was stated as "one dollar or other consideration." With this remedy applied, Commissioner Forman will be thankful that at last he has been able to get a better basis for making his assessment for taxing purposes.

Business Improving.

Altho there is unemployment abroad and unrest among the unions because of cuts in wages, there are signs that with some adjustments a revival in business is not distant. In Toronto, when we consider the seasonal out-of-work employees, the situation is not so acute as many were led to believe last fall. Many manufacturers experienced difficulties in keeping their works going because of the price changes which were bound to go into effect following the tremendous advances which occurred after the armistice. In the United States it is certain that the prices have been rectified to a large extent, and even in Canada reductions have been made which have established business on a surer foundation than a year ago.

With a world shortage in many necessities, it does not appear possible that there can be any period of business stagnation. Prices of most of the basic commodities are below cost, and this, if nothing else, should be an incentive to manufacturers to stock up and get ready for the revival which is coming along shortly. The automobile business, which received, perhaps, the severest check of all, is already recovering. Several plants in the United States are opening again, and in the big plant at Oshawa, great activity is reported in the belief that with the opening of spring this business will set back to full-time prosperity.

Helping Small Homes.

This year's city council makes no further headway with the housing question than last year, altho there are builders in the council who might give suggestions. It has been pointed out that the homes erected under the former housing commission were beyond the means of poorer citizens; that there should be a program of cheaper dwelling to suit them.

Outside of the city limits there are many homes which have come up from modest beginnings, finally enlarged into dwellings of good appearance. It seems to The World that there might be a method by which men could be advanced small amounts to make the beginnings of a home and with their own labor and the help of their fellows sufficiently finish them for occupation. Even two or three rooms of this kind with some sanitary fittings, would be better than present conditions where family after family are crissed in two or three rooms in the downtown quarters, without any provision for recreation for the children, and certainly not of a character to build up a healthy citizenship.

It is not too late, we think, to get the provincial legislature to give the city power to issue bonds for a reasonable amount to try out a method of this kind. Surely some of the members, and especially Controller Hiltz, who has had a good deal to do with business, ought to be able to develop an idea along this line. The farmers' government are planning to advance money to farmers; why are their labor supporters not asking for some help to workmen to start small homes?

The Arctic Oil Leases.

The government is modifying its rules and regulations in regard to the leasing of oil lands in the north-west territories. They propose to keep a substantial interest in that country since the discoveries last fall. They are willing to give leases to the small number of applicants who have been in the country and have staked and filed claims in say about a hundred square miles and have paid in money on account thereof and have made arrangements for drilling. But much stricter rules are being framed for all new prospectors. Nor will any man or concern be allowed to monopolize the territory. Outside of the small territory first staked near Fort Norman, there will be strict limitations higher royalties and a three-fourths reservation for the state of all applications filed since those registered last fall. And the government still reserves the right to increase royalties at any time.

Some liberality to those who went in first and took chances on the then regulations will help to promote further exploration and drilling, and if it does this, and if there is a big oil field there, the opportunities of profit to individuals, and to the state will be to the benefit of all. Canada can afford to make a limited amount of concessions at the start in order to find how great the store or oil there is likely to be. And we hope there are great pools of it.

It is only a piece of hard luck that mining stocks which have been dead for years should begin to rise just as the mining fraternity are trying to convince the government that new taxation will mean ruin.

Members of the board of control do not always feel up to snuff, and sometimes they will go thru a whole meeting without a word against the federal or provincial governments.

BY H. C. WITWER. Copyright, 1920. By Small, Maynard & Co.

(Continued From Yesterday's World.) But the thing that was bothering Miss Vincent (Some damn, that! She was world's champion woman, believe me!) The thing that worried her was G. Herbert and Helen Dear, alias Mrs. Vincent. Helen Dear, alias Miss Vincent wanted to bust 'em together for good and all before the train pulled out.

It seemed the only objection the dame had to G. Herbert was the fact that he couldn't keep from laughing. She had him secured as an eighteen-karat snip and frequently told him so, addin' that she could never marry a man who was so on dignity. Then she got a flash at our old pal Jason Van Ness or Eddie Finn, as she called him, and she fell so hard for him she liked broke her neck.

Van Ness couldn't see Helen Dear and she did not turn a hair, appendix he hated 'em stout, and, if possible, had figured on weddin' somebody within ten days or so. He had a high opinion of himself and set sail for Helen Dear like a bloodhound after a nigger.

The old Miss Vincent to forget about the thing, and he would guarantee that G. Herbert and Helen Dear went away together, to marry each other. The dinner and dance that night was a knockout! The kid was so swelled up because Miss Vincent kept within easy call all night, that he forgot his promise to fix up G. Herbert with her Dear. The latter, as we remark at the laundry, was closer to Van Ness all night than he had been at any other time. He was like the kid was gonna have a tough time breakin' 'em up.

Along around eleven, Miss Vincent calls Scanlan aside and reminds him that he had better start workin' for G. Herbert, because they would all be beatin' it for the train in a hour. She also says that if he didn't make good, she was off him for life. Scanlan bows and takes me away down at the end of the pier. He didn't think he was so good. I tripped over what I thought at first was a dead body and it was the kid. "Ha, ha!" says "Tony he's laughin' at every body!"

"Stewed to the scalp!" says Scanlan. "I run my hands over Tony and bring forth a bottle of gin and another one of bourbon. He had looked 'em over, finally stokin' 'em both in his coat pocket.

"Come on!" he tells me. "They're no use here around here. If I don't get back there, some of them Wealthy Willies can have been wishin' all night, will be disappointed with Miss Vincent."

We went back to the party, and a crowd of heads and smelted twisted bowl calls to the party. He always was a riot with the women! Helen Dear is in the crowd, and Van Ness, and he's got to work her's patten' her hand, while G. Herbert stands in back of 'em lookin' for some one to take some salt to bite.

Finally, Helen Dear looks at her wrist and she says she'll have to tear herself away, because the train leaves in five minutes. She wastes five of that throwin' herself at Van Ness and he gives back as good as he got. G. Herbert gets up and wraps himself in a life long enough to make the request, but Helen Dear gives him a smertin' look and says there was servants for that purpose.

While Helen Dear is getting into a coat she notices that she has lost her hat. She looks at five thousand bucks, the kid gets up and calls Van Ness and G. Herbert aside. He says that if he doesn't get back there, some of them Wealthy Willies can have been wishin' all night, will be disappointed with Miss Vincent."

Now they that help themselves, we hear, are surely blessed three, and that he reached a doctor's care, who took the sage advice. In his appendix there was some pain; the thing was out of gear; and so he acted queer. But, then, unlike what you would expect, this clever doctor did not consult another bird, but did the trick himself. He propped himself upon a stool, and took a carving blade, and never let him get around here. If I don't get back there, some of them Wealthy Willies can have been wishin' all night, will be disappointed with Miss Vincent."

Geo. Orton Asks the Mayor
To Boost His Pensy Meet

G. W. Orton, the old Varsity runner, now on the athletic staff at the University of Pennsylvania, has written the following letter to J. L. Church, Mayor of Toronto:
I know how interested you are in track and field athletics. It is possible that you may remember me, for I ran for the Toronto Lacrosse Club many years ago, and won them many distance championships.
I came down to the University of Pennsylvania, and have helped to develop one of the greatest annual athletic meets held any place in the world. There is really nothing like it in the world. Last year I had nearly 100 colleges, teams here, including Oxford and Cambridge of Great Britain, and colleges from California. There was one representative from Toronto.
University, a man named Carruthers who,
if he had been under a first class coach,
would be one of the greatest athletes in America.
I feel, as an old Toronto man, that Toronto should be adequately represented at this big carnival. I have sent a special letter to Toronto University, and I am sending an invitation letter to the Varsity Athletic Club, and to the Varsity High School.
Last year I used 3,000 constantly tickets on these games, and the only reason that 50,000 people did not attend was because we did not have seats for them. I know how busy you are, but I am told that you are keen on track athletics. If you could find time to call on the authorities at Toronto and indicate to them that they should make a special effort to prevent the holding of the scheduled race meet at the State Fair track, Feb. 19, were abandoned today, and the meeting will be held at arranged by the Shreveport Jockey Club. Citizens who had decided to seek a restraining order against the State Fair Association, on the ground that its charter did not permit separate race meets, said it would be found inadvisable to proceed at this time, but that efforts would be made to prevent future meets of the kind.

BOSTON OFFERED TO TAKE THE OUTLAWS

Montreal, Feb. 16.—Urgent telegrams sent by R. M. Skilton of a Boston, Mass., amateur hockey team to Quebec Dufresne and Edmond Bouchard, Quebec amateur players, who were both at that time without amateur cards, will be forwarded today to the International Skating Union, governing amateur hockey in the United States, intimating that an investigation into the condition of amateurism in Boston should be instituted. These telegrams are three in number, one being forwarded to Bouchard, and two to Dufresne. The documents are now in the possession of President W. R. Granger, president of the Quebec branch. In all of the telegrams it is urged that the two players report immediately to Boston at Skilton's expense. In another it is mentioned that "everything is fixed." In one telegram it states that if they are not satisfied after reaching Boston they can return at Skilton's expense.
Dufresne is now in Boston, where he played under protest in an amateur game last Friday night against the Ottawa Six Patriots.

with one substitute and two individual entries. The relay team will be composed of Georges Andre, Gaston Furry, Maurice Mercery and other Maurice Delyart or Devaux. Andre is the quar-

Olympic championships at Antwerp.

holder of the world's record for 500 metres, and Devaux is a former quarter-mile champion of France.
The individual entries are All Ehan, the sensational French territorial printer, who was in the final heat of the 100-meter race at Antwerp, and De Nys, one of the best long distance run-

FIVE LAWN TENNIS TEAMS WOULD PLAY FOR DAVIS CUP.

New York, Feb. 16.—France filed a challenge for the Davis Cup at the headquarters of the United States Lawn Tennis Association here today. This is the fifth challenge received, the British Isles, India, Spain and Australasia having already given notification of their intention to compete for the international tennis trophy during the coming summer. Edgries will close on March 15, and it is expected that from three to five additional nations, including Canada, will be added to the list by that date. The drawing will be made immediately after the closing of the entry, and when the various nations have been paired for the eliminatory rounds the date and place of each match will be left to the countries interested. It is likely that several of these matches, either preliminary or semi-finals, will be played in the United States.

six hundred times and waddles out darn near hysterical. She grabs hold of her daughter and leans her head against "Oh, daddy, they've held him! My beloved Marc Anthony is coming to claim me for his own. Then we'll return to Egypt, and sitting upon a golden throne—"
Friend daughter pulls a weary smile and leads Cleopatra to the door.
"Oh, don't, mother," she says. "Don't!
If you only knew how sick the sickens me! This man has hypnotized you! Why don't you listen to me and take that trip to the States? I'll take care of you."
"What!" squeals the stout dame.
"What? Be away when my Marc comes!
How dare you think such a thing! I did that once, and if you have read your ancient history you must remember the terrible result!"
Daughter sighs, shakes her head, and they go out.
The Kid has been takin' all this stuff in without lettin' a peep out of him, and when the stout dame has led him to the door he looks at her with the soft and starts to laugh. On the level,
I bet he snickered out when she said
"What? Be away when my Marc comes!"
The Kid was takin' a little of her walk to the door without sayin' a single word to either her husband or her blonde hair, and he's now at the city hospital. "That's all you got to say and—"
A little electric buzzer makes good while Honest Dan is ravin' away, and Dan, gettin' white, grabs the Kid by the arm and begs him to come to the rescue.
"Jump in that cabinet there!" he whispers to him. "Now when this dame asks if you're Henry, say yes, and tell her the real Marc Anthony is the guy with the blonde hair, and he's now at the city hospital. 'That's all you got to say and—"
He shows the Kid back, of the cabinet and me back of a curtain just as Cleopatra blows in with her daughter. Honest Dan tells her to be seated quick, because the professor has just got the spirit of her husband where he's ready to talk to the reporters.
"Now!" whispers Dan to the stout dame, "speak quick!"
"Is that you, Henry?" squeaks Cleopatra in a tremulous voice.
"That's a riddle in the cabinet and then the real Marc Anthony is the guy with the blonde hair, and he's now at the city hospital. 'That's all you got to say and—"
"Merciful heavens!" yells the dame. "A sign! He's right!" says the Kid. "These guys is cheap crooks and they ain't no reporters."
"The lights go out," and Honest Dan comes to, rushin' over to the stout dame with a million alibis tryin' to be first out of his mouth. I bet if around to the back, but the professor has gone somewhere else while the gals was fair to mediums.

"You have deceived me, you wretch!"
screams the stout dame. "You have—"
That's as far as she goes because right in the middle of it she pulls a faint, and daughter comes her to the floor. The Kid wags out of the cabinet and grabs Honest Dan.
"Beat it, you rat!" bawls Scanlan, "before I commit mayhem!"
From the way Honest Dan went out of that room, he must have passed Samoa
the first hour.

"Well, what's all this gotta do with

With that he bows.

"Parson me!" he says, takin' off his

"You'll prob'ly find him over behind me. "He's a real actor. When his father

"Well, that's tough," I says. "He and

VIADUCT PLAN VITAL TO HARBOR DEVELOPMENT

Would Urge All Work Stopped If Railway Plan Dropped, Engineer Cousins Tells Board of Trade Meeting—Resolution Calls Upon Parties Concerned to Proceed With Viaduct—Cost of Undertaking—Would Close New Station Until Other Issue Disposed Of.

After listening to an address by Engineer E. L. Cousins of the harbor board, yesterday on the history of the viaduct order, the Toronto board of trade adopted unanimously a resolution, calling upon the parties to the viaduct agreement to proceed at once with the carrying out of this improvement.

The resolution, moved by Hugh Blair and D. A. Cameron, read as follows:

"Whereas, pursuant to certain orders of the board of railway commissioners for Canada, the construction of a viaduct along the Toronto esplanade and of the approaches thereto, an agreement was made on the 29th of July, 1913, by the corporation of the city of Toronto, the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company;

"And whereas the fulfillment of the terms of said agreement has been postponed owing to the war, now happily ended;

"And whereas the government of Canada are the legal successors to the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada;

"Therefore, be it resolved that the board of trade of the city of Toronto, in general meeting assembled, do request the corporation of the city of Toronto, the Toronto harbor commissioners, the government of Canada, and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, to at once carry out the provisions of the said agreement."

The meeting was attended by several hundred members of the board, Lieut.-Governor Lionel Clarke and Sir Adam Beck occupied seats on the platform and President W. H. Alderson presided.

Cost of Construction.
Mr. Cousins reviewed the history of the agitation for grade separation on the esplanade, which dated from 1853, when the first railway was built. In 1858 the Toronto board of trade had taken the matter up seriously and pressed for the improvement, either by means of a viaduct or bridges. The agitation had culminated in 1908 in an order of the viaduct board for the building of a viaduct, which order was revised in 1913. The cost of the whole proposition, as proposed in 1913 was $12,000,000, including the new Union Station, and the present estimate was placed at $22,500,000, made up as follows: Union Station and site, $9,000,000; land damages, $7,000,000; construction cost, $16,000,000.

The construction would have to meet a large share of the land damages and the city would have to bear a percentage of the construction costs, and he estimated that the total outlay which the two railways would have to meet in carrying out the viaduct order would be between fifteen and sixteen millions.

Vital to Harbor Plans.
The speaker emphasized the point that the carrying out of the viaduct scheme was vital to the city's harbor development plan, on which $19,000,000 had already been expended. If the viaduct was to be dropped, said Mr. Cousins, "it would be the first to urge that all work on the harbor scheme should be abandoned."

Railways Fought Shy.
After the signing of the agreement of 1913 the railways had, said the speaker, fought shy of the scheme and he had himself heard railway officials say the viaduct would never be built. The war came in 1914 and the proposition was allowed to drag. In August last they had proposed a postponement of the viaduct order for ten years, and the following temporary facilities in lieu thereof:

1. Bays Street bridge to remain as at present.
2. Bridge at John street to remain as at present.
3. York street bridge to be raised over Union Station tracks, with changes as to column foundations and south ramp approaches. Profiles do not show elevation of Union Station tracks, estimated about three feet higher than at present.
4. Bay street to be closed.

5. Construction of temporary overhead bridge at Yonge street, over head bridge at Yonge street and pedestrian tracks.
6. Construction of temporary overhead bridge at Princes street, over vehicular and pedestrian traffic only.
7. Construction of temporary overhead bridge at Parliament street, over vehicular and pedestrian traffic only.
8. Proposal to close Trinity street and Cherry street across the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway.
9. Acquisition of all property south of the esplanade from Yonge street to Cherry street in accordance with the terms of the viaduct agreement.

10. All of the above proposals are conditions on an extension of time for the carrying out of ten years, being agreed to by all parties and approved by the board of railway commissioners for Canada.

11. It is proposed, commencing at Parliament street, to elevate the main lines of the Grand Trunk Railway across Trinity and Cherry streets through the Don River and carry the main line elevated beyond the Don River to Logan avenue, thus separating grades at Eastern avenue and Queen street, and providing subways at the points indicated in accordance with the terms as provided for in the original viaduct order, also to elevate a portion of the Don yard tracks.

Made Alternative Plans.
This suggestion could not, said the speaker, be reasonably considered in the interests of the city and harbor commission, as the alternative plans were prepared and submitted to the railway companies, providing for permanent grade separation from Eastern avenue to Bay street, in accordance with the terms and conditions of viaduct agreement, and temporary subways for Yonge, Scott and Church streets with the suggestion that the remaining viaduct work be completed as far east to Logan avenue over a period of years to be agreed upon between the parties interested.

The city and harbor commission, Mr. Cousins stated, took the position that in the form of grade separation to be considered must of necessity be permanent for what was termed the central harbor waterfront, and that under no circumstances could a temporary grade separation for a period of ten years be considered. The subject was left in this manner for further conference with the city, railways and harbor officials at such time as conditions warranted.

Dealing with the plans of the harbor commission based on the carrying out of the viaduct order, Mr. Cousins said:

Result of Agreement.
"As a result of the viaduct agreement it was decided to extend the pier head or harbor head line a maximum of some 1,100 feet in the vicinity of York street, and to construct immediately the dock development between Cherry and Bathurst streets; also to reclaim an additional 100 acres of property along the inner harbor waterfront, in addition to the reclamation of some 1,000 acres of property known as the eastern harbor terminals, which was prior to 1912 Ashbridge's Bay marshes."

"The commission have proceeded absolutely along these lines, in accordance with their undertaking, and they and the Dominion government, have to date expended approximately $19,000,000 thereon, reclaiming in the inner harbor to date sixty acres of new land and constructed three miles of modern dockage, of which 27 acres of land is now under lease and option. In the eastern section 450 acres have been reclaimed and four hundred and 250 acres are now under lease or option. New industrial plant and equipment in the newly developed sections have been erected by private capital to the amount of approximately $8,000,000.

"The main entrance to the eastern harbor terminals is, as is well known, via Cherry street, at which point there are 16 tracks on the level. The viaduct order provided for the elevation of these tracks, and it was with the expectation that this would be done that the harbor commission undertook the reclamation and improvement of the eastern harbor terminals."

Public Inconvenience.
The speaker said much had been heard about the inconvenience suffered by the public on account of the present Union Station facilities. He did not think, however, the average citizen was suffering much, and his view was that the new station should be left closed until the grade separation issued was permanently disposed of.

Illustrating the manner in which industry on the waterfront is being hampered by the delay of the viaduct, Mr. Cousins said:

"Take, as an illustration, Bayville park considered some time ago by the T. Eaton Company to the extent that plans were prepared and steel ordered for the erection of a large mall order building occupying three acres and to cost some $4,000,000. The company, with their architects and engineers, spent months on planning floor layout with tracks of the level, as they were at that time, and flexible enough to be adaptable to a later date to the operation of railway service facilities with the tracks elevated some 17 feet, in accordance with the viaduct order. It was finally found impracticable to do this from an economic viewpoint and the T. Eaton Company decided, and so stated, that no further action would be taken until such time as it was definitely known the form of grade separation to be provided at Bay street.

"There is not a business man in this room who would think for a moment of either leasing or buying properties and planning his layout of tracks in the vicinity of Church, Yonge and Bay with the streets not knowing whether his property would be 17 feet above ground level, or on the present ground level, or 10 or 15 feet above the present ground level, and passing his property on grade."

MENTAL DISEASES AS CRIME FACTORS

Doctors Tell Kiwanis Club of Opportunities to Assist Defectives.

That a great opportunity for service lay before the Kiwanis Club if it furthered the movement for the betterment of Canadian mental defectives, by becoming interested in the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, was clearly defined at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon, where Dr. C. K. Clarke, head of the psychological department of the University of Toronto, and Dr. G. C. Hinks, of the committee on mental hygiene gave short addresses.

Dr. Hinks, said Dr. Clarke, were the greatest factors in crime and vice. Only 60 per cent of the pupils in the average school measured up to the standard of normal intelligence, five per cent were mentally deficient. They were the prospective criminals, said Dr. Hinks, and if they were given proper treatment, they would grow up comparatively harmless, instead of being a menace to the community. Out of 100 cases at the psychiatric clinic, 970 were male and 65 female. About 44 per cent of the latter were feeble-minded and 33 per cent of the former were defective. They constituted the origin of 75 per cent of the mental disease that was today menacing society, and it did not need a great deal of imagination to realize the good that might be accomplished if the right methods in dealing with such defectives, were carried out. It was being made in Canada, by turning back a greater percentage of defectives than the United States.

The city public health department, he continued, and all the provinces were willing to stand behind a definite policy. With the furtherance of that policy, the advancement and consideration of the danger to society of mentally deficient were not properly looked after.

Mentally Handicapped.
Dr. C. M. Hinks, of the executive of the 5000 club, who is mentally handicapped would be made happier and that society would be protected if the policy of the 8000 club for the betterment of the defectives were advanced and supported.

"I feel that every time we admit a defective into a custodial institution," said he, "that is a defeat for the nation." The institutions were improving but slowly and the new ones were endeavoring to see that those institutions based on the carrying out of scientific treatment. He strongly urged the support of the Kiwanis Club in this great humanitarian work, and in explaining the results that could be secured, told of the talent that lay hidden in some of the defectives and how, when they were given work that they liked best, they became more amenable to discipline and less wary to those in charge.

Dr. Hinks wanted to fit round pegs into round holes, and he said that we are dealing with one of the most difficult problems, folks who are most difficult to handle, and by caring for all these cases, we can add tremendously to the health and happiness of the communities."

The obligations of the club, according to Dr. Hinks, were to better the lot of the mentally handicapped, to improve the methods in dealing with them, to help in the carrying out of the Royal Ontario Society for the Deaf and Dumb, and to extend the field of usefulness of occupational therapy, together with an annual subscription of $10, $5 or $2 for the maintenance of the work, payable to Sir George Burn, 102 College street, Toronto.

During the luncheon a solo by Charles Leslie, chairman of Code's Presbyterian Church, was heartily applauded.

JUDGE THREATENS JAIL FOR JUVENILE THIEVES

Parents of wayward youths, who get into the hands of the police, shop-breaking, etc., and others who are responsible for these boys, were given warning by Judge Costoworth in the county criminal court yesterday afternoon that they must hereafter look after the habits and companions of these boys, or otherwise anticipate a jail term.

James Nicholl, James G. Jones and James Pashko, all youths, who pleaded guilty to receiving an automobile, the property of Frank Thompson, 40 Wells street, were given suspended sentence, and in doing so Judge Costoworth remarked this was no precedent, but a last warning.

The Toronto Housing Co. renewed its application to the board of control yesterday for a further guarantee of bonds to finance the construction of more houses. This concern built a number of houses some years ago on Bain avenue and elsewhere accounts guaranteed by the city. The Trusts & Guarantee Company looks after the collection of rents for the housing company, the city shares in the profits when the revenue exceeds a certain level. No dividend has yet been paid.

The application is for a further guarantee of $250,000. A. M. Ivy, president of the housing company, and John O'Neill and other directors made the appeal. They were given a sympathetic hearing and Major Church said a conference would be held not yet added to hospital accounts owing to pressure of other duties and he suggested that a lump sum be placed in the estimates for the hospital and the adjustment made later. The board concurred.

To Consult Real Estate Board Over Selling City Property
The special council committee appointed some weeks ago to report on the advisability and means of disposing of city lands held a preliminary consultation yesterday with the real estate board and decided to call the Toronto real estate board into consultation next Wednesday. Assessment Commission Forman submitted a statement showing that the city is offering the following lands for sale: the total being 11,142 feet: up to 335 a foot, 3,074 feet; up to 345 a foot, 2,553 feet; up to 455 a foot, 164 feet; up to 385 a foot, 557 feet; up to 475 a foot, 385 feet, and over 475 a foot, 871 feet.

Ald. Blackburn suggested marking the prices down from these prices in order to get the land disposed of, but the commission said it would not be fair to owners paying taxes to sell the land at prices lower than the value of properties adjoining.

Tuberculosis Preventable If Spitting Habit Stopped
Addressing the farmers' course at the University of Toronto yesterday morning Professor Fitzgerald of the Comnaught laboratories declared that pneumonia, influenza and tuberculosis were preventable diseases if people would refrain from spitting the faces of others. He commended the drastic action adopted by the Chicago authorities, who set aside one day per week to round up those guilty of such offenses. He attributed the deaths of many Ontario young men between the ages of 20 and 29 to the fact that they had been given infected unpasteurized milk, or because they had come in contact with people without a sanitary conscience.

Fire department estimates for 1921 total $2,247,719, as compared with $1,902,988 last year. The amount charged to the department for water is increased by $111,511, making the total for water $997,704.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR PROHIBITION MEETINGS
Preparations are practically completed for the great prohibition gathering to be held in Massey Hall on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 22, 23 and 24. Extra pains have been taken this year in the preparation of the program. While the main feature of interest, of course, will be the preparation for the approaching vote in April, and the consideration of various plans, and the best means for securing success at the polls, space is also given to other important social issues, such as law enforcement, run-running on the border, scientific temper, government control, narcotics, international responsibility, and domestic prohibition. There will be a large list of distinguished speakers.

In addition to the convention sessions on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, public mass meetings will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The convention is open to the public, the gallery being reserved for visitors, the ground floor for delegates.

SHOWS DESIRE OF PUBLIC FOR BOOKS

Dr. Locke Tells of Large Library Issues—Scores Hearst Publications.

That the boys and girls south of College street constituted the majority of the best-read people in Toronto was the statement made by Dr. G. H. Locke, chief librarian, at the Canadian Club luncheon yesterday.

Dr. Locke believed that the public library today was the only protection against cheap and vulgar reading, and that it was useless to argue that vulgar reading would not become popular if the libraries did not exist. The circulation last year of 1,500,000 books proved conclusively the public desire for reading. The use of a library was to keep people from making fools of themselves and no person was more apt to say they were given up and knew enough to discontinue their reading of books.

Some 60 per cent of the books read were fiction, said he, and it was the greatest power in the world of printed page, but popular novels were to be compared to widows and orphans—hard to carry thru the second summer.

Dr. Locke scored the Hearst publications, and in dealing with Canadian literature said he considered Bliss Carman, the poet, to be Canada's best literary representative. Canadian history showed he had a background of romance and one to be proud of, and Dr. Locke advanced a great deal of knowledge of Canadian authors and history, too little of both being known by the average Canadian who sought lighter reading.
