MORE POWER—LESS COST

Too good to be true is the thought that strikes when one reads that a French chemist has perfected a motor fuel twice as efficient, bulk for bulk, as gasoline, and of fractional cost; a fuel, furthermore, that does not heat the engine or corrode the cylinders just how the miracle of heatless explosion is accomplished, is not stated in the report; and some other details may perhaps be taken with a certain allowance for enthusiasm, but the record of achievement as given in a Foreign Service dispatch of the New York Evening Post is specific, and will arouse the interest of every motorist. "Seeing is believing," and Camille Laurent, a French chemist, has eye-witnesses to prove that it was able to drive a twenty-five-horsepower car from Paris to Dieppe, a distance of about 125 miles, at a cost of five francs, plus twenty-five francs for oil, which in American money is $1.50. His source of power was a new explosive substance known as "rol," which was first discovered in powder form by the French chemist Muller, in 1923. The chief difficulty to be overcome was that "rol" in its primitive form was an explosive impossible to handle. Laurent after many trials, succeeded in transforming this raw product into crystals which proved to be slightly radioactive. Neither the heat of the sun nor dampness nor movement affects it in any way. The claim is made that the composition is such that it can be obtained in any quantities in France at a cost nominal. However, it is claimed that to start up the motor it is necessary to use gasoline, but when the engine is sufficiently warm "rol" is atomized and operates without further assistance.

—REVITALIZING POWER OF CHRIST

A rainbow is the transfiguration of a storm. The electricity that we depend upon for light and heat and power of a destructive agent turned to constructive use. The most beautiful sunset God ever gives us to see is the glorified dust of the lower atmosphere. There was Peter, who had a temperamental weakness—Inconsistency. Christ turned it into stability. There was Paul, a man of immoderate zeal. Christ laid His hand on Paul, and turned the stream of his zeal into a new channel. This is God's plan for us all—to turn our impotence into power, to make us strongest where we have been weakest.

What is your besetting sin? Christ can turn that bonanza into liberty and more. What can be more than liberty? To have the power to liberate others. Christ can not only cleanse impure hearts, but He can make them fountains of purifying energy.

—Tis better to be a coward than foolhardy.

Fruit Cheese

This mixture is good in sandwiches, as a candy or as a pudding.

1 pound raisins

1 pound blanched almonds

1 pound dates

1 pound layer figs

1 pound currants

Grind together, then knead the mixture thoroughly, making it homogeneous. Turn into flat pan and let stand in a clean place for one week.

Cut into bars, dip in coconut or fat bitter chocolate. It is easier to grind the nuts a little at a time, alternating with portions of fruit, as the nuts tend to prevent a clogging of the chopper.

—Everything a paroled slave want of.

ACROSS CANADA NOTES

The first lot of Scottish boys enrolled as farm apprentices for Canada arrived recently on the Canadian Pacific Liner "Metagama." They were brought out under the auspices of the British Immigration and Colonization Association in co-operation with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Canada's progress in the world of letters is illustrated by the fact that there is a Canadian literary section as one of the features of the Canadian pavilion at the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley. It presents French-Canadian and English-Canadian literature from the earliest dates down to 1924.

Ten conventions, comprising almost 8,000 delegates, will be held in Montreal between now and August 31, according to an announcement by the Montreal Bureau and Convention Bureau. It is hoped to obtain the 1925 Kiwanian Convention for this city which would mean that some 7,000 Kiwanians will visit Montreal next summer.

The Crystal Gardens, the splendid new pleasure resort for the city of Victoria, B.C., will be opened at the end of June and will form one of the unique attractions of that city. It will be both a winter and summer garden and possesses a salt water swimming tank, claimed to be the largest on the continent. Citizens of Victoria are already using the Gardens prior to its official opening.

Screening at the Capitol Theatre, Montreal, of the scenes through which the University of Montreal across-Canada trip and the similar journey of the Teachers' Federation of Canada will pass, attracted a large and appreciative audience. The film was a revelation of the beauty of Canadian cities and scenery. The University of Montreal trip will start from that city July 7 and will return July 23. The trip of the Teachers' Federation will commence July 20 and will conclude August 10.

Frank W. Ashby, secretary of the Manufacturers' Association of Australia, a recent visitor at Banff, said he found Canada to have a most delightful climate and "cities which are more modern than our own." Mr. Ashby said the impression in Australia had been that Herschell Island and Baffin's Bay were linked up municipally with Montreal and Winnipeg, and thought that the best way to correct these geographical misconceptions was to encourage more tourist travel from other parts of the Empire.

That 44 Beer now selling in the Province of Ontario had met with approval and was considered quite satisfactory by people of the province was the statement of Premier G. Howard Ferguson prior to his departure recently for England on the Canadian Pacific Liner "Empress of Scotland." Mr. Ferguson will endeavor to interest British and foreign capitalists in the industrial development of Ontario province.

W. J. Uren, Assistant General Superintendent, Quebec District, Canadian Pacific Railway, recently presented thirty employees of the system with certificates of First Aid, covering first to fourth year work. Mr. Uren said about thirty per cent. of Canadian Pacific Railway employees had passed examinations in First Aid and he was gratified to think that no accident could occur on the system without the high probability of there being some person on the spot who could afford expert First Aid.

ROD AND GUN FOR AUGUST

In addition to a full quota of unusually interesting stories and articles, the August number of Rod and Gun in Canada, the Canadian sportsman's magazine, contains a wealth of information for the outdoorsman, the fisherman and the gun crank in the regular articles and full synopses of the hunting and fishing seasons and laws for the provinces of Canada and Newfoundland. It also includes the announcement of the annual amateur photographic contest in which $700 in prizes is being awarded.

Among the stories of general sporting interest, Basswood Lake to Windigo, an account of a canoe trip, while it recounts the second part of the voyage, is a complete story, written in a swinging narrative. Sidelights of Nipigon, of trout fishing and is written by Oscar Ripley, who writes a rod even better than a very finished pen. Judge A. B. Cohn of Toledo, O. is enthusiastic over Canada as a sportsman's paradise in recounting his moose hunting experiences at Temiskaming under the caption A Judge Goes Hunting. Other rascals equally good contribute to make the issue a highly attractive one.

"Rod and Gun in Canada" is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

Blessings on the man who smiles! Do not mean the man who smiles to effect, nor the one who smiles when the world smiles. I mean the man whose smile is born of a inner radiance, the man who smiles when the clouds lower, when a fortune has frowned, when the odds are adverse. Such a smile not only mends the world for himself, but multiplies himself an hundred fold in the strength and courage of other men.

When the System is all Run Down

Often All That is Needed is a Tonic To Build up the Blood

There are many women who have been invalids or semi-invalids so long that they accept their condition as a life burden. They have endured broken sleep, stomach trouble, nervousness, headaches and weakness so long that they have given up hope of enjoying good health. In most of these cases a well chosen diet, fresh air and a tonic to build up the blood would do wonders. To all run-down, nervous people the experience of Mrs. H. J. Cameron, Waterville, N. S., will be of deep interest. She says:—"About two years ago I was in a miserable, run-down condition. I was unable to do my work, my head ached day and night, my nerves were all unstrung, and for three weeks I could not eat or sleep. I then decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial and got six boxes. By the time I had used half of them I felt much better, and when I had taken the six boxes I was as well as ever. I could work again and feel tired and have been strong and healthy ever since. I have never taken any medicine that did me so much good and will always highly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

YOUR OWN TOWN

Your own town is where your home is, where your business is situated, where your vote is cast, where your children are educated, where your neighbors dwell, and where your life, or the greater part of it, is spent.

It has a right to your loyalty. It supports you and you must support it. Your town wants your friendship—not partnership, co-operation—not dissension, sympathy—not criticism; intelligent support—not indifference.

Your town supplies you with law and order, trades, friends, education, recreation, and the rights of a free-born Canadian. You should believe in your town and work for it.

You will always find people who are willing to condemn their own town, their own country, and the world in general. You will also hear people say that the world is a funny place to live in, and that it is going to the dogs. On the other hand you will hear people say that the world is all right, but the people that live in it are all wrong, and we believe there is a great deal in this.

Compare our lives in Canada today with those of our forefathers fifty years ago. In those days there were few railroads, no motor cars, no telephones, no lighting plants, no radio, nor a thousand other things that make life worth living today.

In spite of the fact that conditions are not as good as we would like them to be, Canada is a good place to live in and your town is the best town in Canada.

A woman or a man are not to be known by their looks or outside.

Don't Wait for the Break

When your car is running good—you want to keep it going that way. It is a good plan to have your car looked over periodically, even though it may seem to be in the best of running order. If you do this, you may save many dollars by averting a bad break when on the road. Let us look over your car and do any necessary tightening and cleaning, oiling, etc. As a motorist you will understand the logic of this, and won't hesitate to take the necessary precautions.

We are always glad to help you with your car troubles.

CENTENARIAN PASSES AWAY PEACEFULLY

Harborville's grand old lady, Mrs. Rachael Robinson Morris, relict of the late Isaac Morris, passed away on July 23rd, 1925, aged 102 years, 3 months and 15 days.

The end was simply a peaceful passing away, and occurred at the home of her only daughter, Mrs. Emma Armstrong, at her home in Burlington, a mile or two from the old lady's home, where her grandson had taken her a car for a few days visit. The remains were removed to her home in Harborville where the funeral was held, being conducted by the Rev. Arthur Hocken, an old time pastor and friend of the deceased.

Rachael Robinson Morris, was probably the last of the Emory Loyalists in this country. Her father, the late Henry Enos Robinson, left the Colony of Massachusetts in 1812, came to what is now known as North Kingston, where he met the family of Benjamin Palmer, who about the same time came out from England and married Rachael, one of his daughters. Rachael was a daughter of record on the books of the Parish church at North Kingston, as having occurred there, March 16th, 1822.

They removed to the Bay Street at Morden where his daughter, Rachael met and married the late Isaac Morris, who died about twenty-five years ago.

Shortly after her marriage, they removed to Harborville and settled on the farm which nearly a century has been the home of the deceased.

When Mrs. Morris was a girl of fourteen, Queen Victoria began her long reign, so that Grandama Morris lived during the reign of three of Britain's rulers.

In her early years and until she was married, there was nothing known of kerosene or stoves. Cooking was all done in fireplaces, and baking in ovens of brick or stone.

She lived to see and enjoy the benefits of the telegraph, telephone, electric lighting, automobile and even airplanes, although she never enjoyed a ride in the latter.

She was essentially an out-door woman, active to the last day of her life. She leaves three sons: I. Bloomfield Morris, relict of the late Isaac Morris, at Harborville; Lockhart Morris, of Rockland, Maine; Lathrop Morris, of Boston, Mass.

Her daughter, Mrs. Emma Armstrong, of Burlington, this country; besides a score or more of grand and great-grandchildren.

Grandma Morris will be universally mourned by the people of Harborville, who will sadly miss her. Her remains were laid to rest beside those of her late husband in Berwick Cemetery.

Following the Flitlin'

Jock's wife was one of those invalids who could never stay long in one place. She was again removing, and as Jock, weary and dejected-looking, was walking behind the van he was accosted by an acquaintance, who asked him, "What are ye gunn doin' Jock?" Jock shook his head sadly, "Man," he said, "I dinna ken; I'm following the flitlin'!"

Hope is the dream of a man awake.

THINGS NONE TOO GOOD IN CHINA

According to Dr. Edward W. Kirk, who is Dean and Professor of Anatomy in the Kung Yee University Medical School, Canton, who was in Canton a month ago, the Government there is completely under the control of Bolshevik agents of Soviet Russia. Dr. Kirk is now in Canada on his way to England.

Cable advices from far Western China indicate that the wave of anti-foreign agitation has reached that area, but has not daunted the Canadian missionaries in Szechuan Province. Field headquarters advises that August sailings of missionaries need not be delayed, as the Provincial Government is strong and friendly.

Coincident with the receipt of these reassuring reports there comes word that the general situation in China is very serious indeed. The Russian Bolsheviks and Chinese Nationalists are closely allied and Russia is not only supplying the Chinese with arms and ammunition in huge quantities, but is declared to be urging China to declare war upon Great Britain. Such is the warning conveyed to Premier Baldwin by the General Council of the Trade Union Congress, a body well equipped to get reliable information from Russia.

Twelve foreign warships, including four British and four French, are on watch on Canton.

"The letter to have a peace with two regions than a war in which there is none."

"I Dreamt That I Dwelt in Marble Halls"

(1) The Chateau Lake Louise. (2) The Patio and the Terrace. (3) A section of the Dining-room. (4) The Lounge leading to the Dining-room.

This new nine-storey hotel, occupying the ground space of an entire city block, was taken over from the contractors two weeks before its opening on June 1, by the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is the new Chateau Lake Louise, built last winter at a cost of two million dollars on the banks of the famous Lake Louise, 6,500 feet up in the Canadian Rockies.

To equip this new hotel and stock it with food for guest occupancy on June 1, 800 beds, 390 bureau, 780 chairs, 390 pieces of upholstery, 230 desks for rooms, with sheets and pillow cases, box bed springs and other equipment to match, had to be transported three and a half miles up a narrow-gauge mountain railway. The perishable food, which had to be stocked in the hotel the day before opening, included 11,000 pounds of turkey, 8,000 pounds of roasting fowl, 18 whole hams, 32 whole hogs, 1,000 pounds of new cabbage, 40 cases of grape fruit, and 20 cases of fresh spinach. Approximately 7,000 eggs had to be rushed from the Canadian Pacific supply farms at Strathmore, Alberta, and placed in refrigerators.

Of the other foodstuffs, five tons of potatoes, 300 sacks of flour, 20 tons of sugar, 3,000 pounds of butter, one ton of tea and a thousand pounds of fresh coffee had to be placed in the larders.

All told, a special train of eight cars, carrying 350 tons of foodstuffs, was required to open this remarkable edifice. And all of this had to be hurried in at the last moment, for at the opening banquet the new dining rooms were almost full.

A staff of 425 men and women, including three managers, had to be on hand a week before its opening. These employees have a building to themselves equipped with rooms with bath, hot and cold running water, a rotunda and a ballroom.

The new Chateau Lake Louise has 400 rooms with bath, all outside rooms, 210 of them with southern exposure facing the famous lake. There are telegraph and cable offices in the rotunda, and each bed-room contains a phone which can be connected with long distance.

A resident doctor and trained nurse will have offices in the building to look after the health of its guests; and a special dining room has been built for the maids, nurses and younger children of the guests.

Chateau Lake Louise is now said to be the largest and most modern equipped chateau in the world.

The term printer's devil as applied to the boy who does the churning around a printing office has a peculiar history. In early days printing was styled the "black art", and printers were supposed to be in league with Satan. But it was in the time of Aldus Manutius in Venice that the master took a serious turn. This was the famous printer who first published the Greek and Roman classics. He took into his employ a negro boy who was homeless on the streets of Venice. The people supposed the boy was an imp from Satan and that he assisted in printing. Mobs collected about the office and were about to wreck it, when the boy was brought forward and exhibited showing that he was still called "the printer's devil" and every boy in his position ever since has been so-called.

Last fall one of our residents found it necessary to make a business trip to the South during the hottest months. As it was quite cool here when he left, it did not occur to him that the underwear he was accustomed to wearing might be uncomfortable in a warmer climate.

A few days later his wife received the following telegram: "S. O. S. B. V. D.'s, F. D. Q."

Help yourself, and heaven will help you.

OBLIGING SHOP GIVES BRIDAL PARTY FOR $50

Every Girl Wants to be a Regular Bride—So Shop Giveth the Whole Party

It costs less to get married in style in New York than almost anywhere else. Suppose the bride fancies white satin, tulle veil and a jeweled coronet. Give her half a dozen bridesmaids in lace and silk, a maid and a matron of honor—in beaded georgette, all with slippers to match, and add a ring bearer and a flower girl. Dress the bridegroom, the groomsmen and the ushers in awl- lowtail coats and pumps. Even throw in a matronly evening gown for the mother of the bride. The whole party may be clothed for $250 or less. What small town could dress up a wedding for that?

What shop could do it, a bride-elect may ask? Let her learn the secret of getting married economically yet elaborately.

The Secret

Gown, veil, shoes, orange blossom and paste pearls may be had for $30 or for $15. Attendants may be arrayed for $7 up and a flower girl and a ring bearer for $5 each. For $5 each man in the party may appear in a full dress regalia, and for $1 more he may wear the proper shoes and carry a derby in the crook of his arm.

The "wedding outfit" may be thanked for this. The undertakers, who supply temporary mourning have neighbors in Secord Avenue who equip wedding parties and guests.

"People in New York are just like people anywhere else," exclaimed one of these. "They like big wed- dings. Some of them wouldn't think they were getting married without all the trappings. But what use have they for wedding dresses and evening gowns? Maybe they wouldn't have another car or them until the clothes were out of style. Why couldn't the same clothes do for wed- ding after wedding as long as they last? Then all the brides and all the friends of all the brides could share the cost without its falling heavy on any."

That is what they do. They come here, and believe me, the girls are glad for the chance to be a regular bride."

Not a Canned Affair

Don't think the wedding equipped by the outfitter is a canned affair, each like the other, the same outfit being passed around complete. Here is all the picking and choosing, the clash of individual tastes, the com- poses and the special orders that the shop-bought wedding provides.

The difference is that the day after the "out-fitted wedding" one has less debt and no useless dress on hand.

Wedding outfitters accomplish wonders on short notice. One of them, whose shop is barely large enough to hold a bride and her maids, could dress a gathering of some 300 women and 150 men from his stock. All grades of weddings are turned out from this place. Everything may be spick and span, brand new and made to order. This is the top price wedding. If the bride's clothes are new and those of the attendants second-hand, the price goes down.

There is another rebate if the bride is willing to wear a used veil and shoes that have been "broken in" by another. Sometimes everything has appeared in some form at a previous wedding, and the price is reduced accordingly.

The day after the wedding is a busy one for the outfitter. Some- times he has trouble getting the dresses back again. When he sends for them the name given may not be "known" at the address. Often he gets back frocks that are little better than shreds. Some of these wed- dings are rough affairs, he concludes, with a sigh, and he and his wife, in their little workshop, rip, mend, clean and press.

GOOD RECIPES

Prune and Cereal Whip

1 pound cooked prunes
1/4 cup grape nuts
1/4 cup orange skin
3 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar

Strain or mash the prunes, soak the grape nuts in part of the prune juice, grate the orange skin and add to the softened grape nuts and the prunes. Whip the egg whites, add the sugar and fold in prune mixture. Bake in a moderate oven until a light brown.

Buttermilk Pudding

1 cup sugar
1 cup butter
1 teaspoon grated nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1 cup sour buttermilk
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon soda

Cream together the sugar and but- ter, add nutmeg and salt. Wash the raisins, cover with 1/2 cup water and simmer for three minutes. Drain off the water, add raisins, mix with but- termilk to butter mixture. Add flour mixed with soda, stir well. Pour into buttered bake dish and bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees—for 50 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

A RADIO TALK ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Broadcasted by Clarence Stearns, Rochester, Minn.

Photography has become such a part of our daily lives and most of us know so little about it that I hope the very few minutes I take of your time will prove not only instructive, but entertaining.

While it is said that the camera is a primitive form known to Euclid—300 years B. C.—photography is of very recent origin, having been discovered by Daguerre, a Frenchman, in 1839. It is said that Mohammed found his first believer in his wife but Daguerre was not so fortunate. His wife tried to have him adjusted insane for running around trying to catch sunlight in a little black box.

The pictures Daguerre made were called Daguerotypes and even today are considered photographically and colorfully and "Tintypes" and then the albumen process of the family album period and so on until today we have what we call modern photography, but photography is progressing so fast that what we call modern today will be obsolete tomorrow.

In fact, photography is the one art that is progressing today while other arts are on the decline. No sculptor today knows as much about sculpture as did Phidias, who lived nearly 200 years before Christ. We have no artists of the brush such as was Raphael; no poets such as Dante or Shakespeare; no musicians like Wagner and even architecture has improved in a mechanical way only. The tower of the Woolworth building is considered a great architectural achievement but it is copied from a cathedral in Belgium, work on which was begun two years before Columbus discovered America! In the midst of cubism, futurism and jazz, the art of photography continues to advance.

The essence of photography is that it makes permanent the instantaneous view—it takes a slice out of continuous action and fixes forever—filling the desire of Faust and all of us for that matter, to halt the fleeting moment.

We have many painted pictures of Washington, no two of them alike and we are not sure that any of them look like Washington. We have many photographs of Roosevelt, no two of them look alike but we know that they all do look like Roosevelt. The many different Roosevelt's of this versatile personality.

By photography the astronomer has discovered myriads of stars that could not be visible to the eye, even with the aid of most powerful telescopes. With X-ray photography the doctor can diagnose disease with an accuracy before impossible.

All newspaper and magazine illustrations are made by photography for even if the originals are drawings or paintings they are reproduced by the printer's plant by photography process.

Because of photography nearly the whole world's pictures every important place, all important persons and most important events. Writing was always necessary to make shift for describing scenes or places but now—even by the aid of the lowly picture post card—one part of the world knows what the other part looks like.

Photography won the war—from the airplane the camera saw more clearly than the eye—recorded more quickly than the pencil and retained more accurately than the mind. By its aid the army went into battle with maps of the ground over which it was to charge—maps correct in every detail up until the evening before. In 1918 the British army alone exposed over a quarter of a million films and made six million photographs.

A map was recently made of Washington, D. C. showing all details, every post and tree, made by piecing together 300 photographs which were taken from an airplane in a few hours' time—it would have taken a civil engineer years to produce such a map.

Photography has changed our ideas in regard to many things—one instance is the galloping horse—in all the old war pictures and racing pictures of the past two centuries the galloping horse was pictured like a bobby horse with his two front legs extended in front and his hind legs extended to the rear—an unnatural position which no running horse ever assumed. Why did the painters paint him so? Because in 1794 a famous race horse, Baromet, was painted that way by a popular artist and the artist got the idea from Japanese prints then being introduced in Europe for the first time. He said "What wonderful eyes the Japanese have, they see things so differently; let us paint as they do." But the Japanese did not originate this unnatural galloping horse. They got their idea from the Chinese and the Chinese from the Persians and the Persians from Asia Minor and this has actually been traced back 3000 years.

We would still be painting horses in this manner had not a racing man in California thought he could make horses run faster if he knew their actual motions and so in the rather early days of photography he hired a photographer to set up a number of cameras along the race track with strings stretched across and attached to the camera shutters, so that as the horse ran past he would break the string and take his own picture. The results were revolutionary. The camera showed positions we had never surmised but none like the hobby horse. But even then artists continued to paint us, but just for a happy holiday. For mother she lives eternally in that tear-stained photograph.

Photography has come to fill a place in all our lives and I hope Daguerre, who discovered it can look down from heaven and smile at us, and the funny one of dad taken in 1902, the year they gave him an interest in the business, and that good one taken last Christmas—and would you believe it, that freckled faced boy in the other photograph is now our six-foot Bob, and the little girl beside him is Mary, who is married and has children of her own, and last of all, tucked away in a trunk with a pair of tiny tattered booties, is the picture of Ethel the baby, whom the angels take us, but just for a happy holiday. For mother she lives eternally in that tear-stained photograph.

THE HUSTLERS IN BUSINESS

Dr. William S. Sadler, in a report to the Governor of Ontario, states that more Americans are dying of heart disease, Bright's disease, apoplexy and high blood pressure between the ages of forty and fifty than any other white people. Dr. Sadler describes this as "a needless loss of life" and preventable.

There are annually 240,000 of these deaths in the United States and Dr. Sadler explains the high and uncalculated mortality in this way.

"The hurry, bustle and incessant drive of the American tempo is responsible for this peculiar and characteristic American mortality increase during the dangerous age" period between forty and fifty years.

The American business man likes to think of himself as a man who is "always on the go," always "wide awake," and who never misses a trick. When he reads of the high mortality of business men, he is always "wide awake," and he is told that it is due to 15 years jumping and constant hustling, he will feel more flattered than alarmed. He will confirm his belief that he belongs to a class composed of the keenest hustlers in the world. He may feel that certain other men—who do not look any too well—ought to be warned by the statistics of Dr. Sadler, but as for himself he will tell you that he never feels better than when he is "in business."

It is especially cut for the strenuous life, and would have invented bustle, if it had not been here when he came. A family physician in Toronto whose opinions are valuable tells us that the increasing mortality among men who are nearing fifty is not due so much to the hustling they do in business, but to the lack of sense they have in hustling. They hustle and chase back and forth as if the harder they work their speedometers the more they accomplish. They go hard, but they go unnecessarily. It is not, this doctor tells us, the work a man does that wears him out, but the wasted effort. He does not so organize his efforts that success for him will be easy. He does not eat and sleep regularly—he fancies that everything that has to do with business is more important than eating and sleeping, and he does not know that if his habits are unsound in these two matters he is at no time as fit as he might be for the keen contests of business. He has not learned the strength that grows from composure.

The Toronto doctor's opinion is that most men who drop under fifty do not do so because they hustled in business or over-worked, but because they ate too much, too fast, and too irregularly. They stuffed unsuitable foods, and in every way put unreasonable strains on their physical and nervous resources.

There ought to be, he says, a certain ease, composure and rhythm in human effort if it is to be strong and long sustained.

Those Ballon-Tired Glims Colored Cook (asked by her mistress if she thought Bobby's spectacles becoming).—Yes'm, I think they becomes him all right. Course I does think they makes his face look kinda crowded.

He knows not on which leg to dance.

For the Glory of Nova Scotia

The one high-class apple which is capable of beating the McIntosh Red for the Gold Medal at the Imperial Fruit Show in England, this fall, is our magnificent Cox Orange. Nova Scotia grows this apple to perfection which allows us to compete against McIntosh as grown in Quebec and British Columbia.

Will Nova Scotian growers of high-class Cox Orange allow us to have the privilege of box packing them and trying to beat the Gold Medal, as my friend, Mr. Elliott Smith, of Wolfville, who represents Gerald DeCosta, the celebrated English Fruit firm, will advise us as to this exhibit and his firm will sell all our Cox Orange going to various markets.

I exhibit but the best returns, after we deduct our expenses, are what count. We will add all money prizes to the best class of boxed Cox and I think your cheques will please. Last year we returned $50.00 a piece, for four boxes each, of Cox Orange selected from those grown by F. M. Chase and Mr. Henry Watts of Waterville. (This is approximately $40.00 a barrel clear of all expenses). We do not hope to hit such extreme prices again.

WHEN AND HOW TO CULL HENS There is a difference of opinion as to the proper time to cull flocks. Culls are liability and should be put on market early in order to get good prices as possible, so we recommend getting into the flock the latter part of June, July and August. At this season the heavy spring production is over and the naturally distinguished members of the flock will soon quit.

The flock may be culled at any time and the careful poultryman will always keep a close watch for outstanding members. The culls should be culled into three classes: (a) The good performers can be culled and left in the pen. (b) The real culls should be marketed as soon as possible. (c) There are, however, a number of hens which are still laying but which are of poor type and will not be desirable members to hold over. These can be marketed temporarily and kept until they have ceased laying and then sold.

A good method of marking these birds is to cut out the tip of one wing. Every farmer knows that there is a big difference in the types of his cows and also that there is quite a difference in the types of his chickens. The head of a high producer is well rounded, has a fine texture of skin about the face, bright prominent eye well back in the eye socket, showing white membrane in the eye, the absence of wrinkles or beefiness over the eye and about the face. The head has vigour, action and pep which does not show the life and character which the other heads exhibit so plainly.

BODY CONFORMATION. This is the part of the hen which might be compared to the motor of an automobile. Here are all her vital organs, the heart, lungs, and digestive organs which must operate and produce eggs and build up body waste to stand the wear and tear of heavy production. If the hen is to develop good as a layer her motor must be large and powerful and it must have room to operate, this we find that the hen must possess good depth of rib and deep, flat side. The type can easily be ascertained by handling. Place the palm of the hand on the bird's back and allow the fingers to fall under the wing on one side and the thumb on the other, passing it along the bird's back to the tail. By so doing, you determine the length and shape of the body. The hen should run parallel with the back, sloping down. It should be long to support the abdomen. The underside type of keel is the one which has a decided upward direction towards the vent.

In order to determine the capacity of the egg sack the hen can be placed at the rear of the bird. The lower finger can easily find the position of the keel and the first finger the position of the pelvic bones. These pelvic bones are too thin bones projecting out on one side of the vent and just above it. The measure of the distance from these bones to the end of the keel is called the capacity and is spoken of in terms of the number of fingers one is able to insert, a good producer having capacity for four fingers and a poor producer having capacity for two fingers. The capacity of a hen is not always the same. If the ovary is dormant and no eggs are being produced the distance between the pelvic bones is very small. The vent is dry, small, puckered and yellow in yellow fleshed breeds.

There is an interesting study in egg changes. The first change in pigmentation is in the yellow ring just inside the vent. Two or three eggs will remove this color. The color then leaves the eye ring, the flesh just around the edge of the syphilis. It requires about six eggs to remove the yellow color from this part. After the sixth egg the color starts to leave the beak, commencing at the rear of the bill, and fades out white. As laying proceeds, the white area increases gradually crowding the yellow out towards the end of the beak. When the color is entirely gone from the beak the hen will have laid about thirty eggs. The shanks are the next to be affected. The yellow leaves commencing at the top of the front of the shank, the white area again appearing and the yellow receding down the front of the shanks and from the foot up the back, the last trace of yellow being on the back of the foot. It requires about 150 eggs to remove the color entirely from the shanks. There is a difference in the rate at which this color will leave. Plenty of green feed tends to produce the yellow color and prevents its disappearance. Birds in confined quarters show the color change more plainly than birds on range. When the hen ceases laying the color at once commences to come back. This only applies in yellow fleshed birds.

THE BROODY HEN—A hen loosed from 10 to 14 eggs every time she goes broody. This habit if present will soon reduce her egg production, especially if she goes broody more than five or six times in the season.

Disposition of the Laying Hen—Almost invariably the laying hen is a docile and does not object to handling. She will rest quietly in your hand and sit quietly all the time she is being handled, but always alert and ready to fly. The cull has a disposition quite in keeping with her head type. She is noisy, wild, and squawky.

Plumage—If a hen is laying heavily the plumage will become dry, hard and brittle. She certainly loses her natural beauty. Watch for the old lady with a full array of feathers all in good form, and see if she is not one of the brooders in your flock.

When is a Hen Laying?—This is very easy, and requires but a few observations. When a hen commences laying the conditions set up in the reproductive organs are very similar to conditions in any pregnant animal. Preparation is made for laying, quiet
