Raney Would Curb Liquor Exports In Ontario

URGES LAWS TO HALT COMMON CARRIER TRADE

Ontario Government Considers Legislation To Restrict Means of Shipping.

MAY CONSULT OTTAWA

Would Amend Dominion Act If Necessary To Clean Up Province.

Special to London Advertiser. Toronto, Ont., March 21.—An attempt to curb the liquor export trade will be made at an early date.

The advisability of framing legislation with that end in view is being considered at the present time by the Ontario Government.

If such a measure is brought down, it is expected that it will narrow the definition of a common carrier in such a way as to make it illegal for export companies or distilleries to ship liquor by any other means than regularly chartered express, railway or steamship companies.

The whole problem of the liquor traffic between Ontario and the various states across the border has been brought to a head during the past few days by the Rosen case at Oakville, and the Campbell case at Hamilton.

In the first case 30 cases of liquor were seized, and in the latter 50 cases, these being in transit from the distillery to the frontier.

In both instances the court, citing the judgment of Chief Justice Meredith, ruled that the transportation of the liquor was legal since the shipments were duly covered by bills of lading to destinations outside the province of Ontario.

May Appeal Case. But the Hamilton authorities have already been instructed by the attorney-general's department to forward a full report covering the Campbell case, presumably with the purpose of having it appealed if the facts appear to justify such a course.

At government headquarters the feeling is that the present state of affairs is intolerable.

As the federal law now stands, export houses operating under Dominion charters, have an undisputed right to fill liquor orders received from customers in the United States. The result is that fleets of liquor lorries and high power motor cars are now operating a fly-by-night schedule between distilleries and the frontier along the St. Lawrence, Niagara, Detroit, St. Clair and Rainy Rivers.

Their cargoes of liquor are turned over to runners and thugs, ostensibly for the purpose of being smuggled into the United States. But much of this liquor never crosses the border, being unloaded on Canadian soil for domestic consumption.

The provincial authorities feel that they could not only stop this local short-circuiting but also succeed in practically drying up the deluge of "booze" which at present is sweeping southward over the border by the simple expedient of passing an act which will force all shipments to be made by railways or steamboats operating under international charter.

Would Be Confiscated. If such a measure was on the statute books, the export houses would still enjoy their technical right of shipping out liquor, but in practice it would be confiscated.

Ronald-Roy Gray Memorial Home Perpetuates Heroism of London Boys

ROY AND RONALD GRAY, WHO SACRIFICED THEIR LIVES IN FRANCE IN THE WORLD WAR. THE MEMORIAL, DONATED BY JAMES GRAY, FATHER OF THE TWO HEROES. JAMES GRAY, WHO SE BENEFICENCE MADE THE MEMORIAL POSSIBLE. ADJUTANT JENNIE HALPENNY, WHO WILL DIRECT THE DESTINY OF THE YOUTHFUL INMATES.

THE Ronald-Roy Gray Memorial Home for Children on Emery street will be opened Wednesday by Commissioner H. A. Sowton of the Salvation Army. Given by James Gray as a memorial to his two sons, Ronald and Roy, who sacrificed their lives in the great war, the new home will replace the Evergreen avenue home which is too small to take care of the kiddies. The home will be in charge of the Salvation Army.

The new home will be an ideal spot for the care of kiddies, who, for various reasons, are denied the care of father and mother. The house is of sufficient size to take care of the needs of the Salvation Army child work for some time, and there are three acres of ground in connection with the building, which will provide ideal surroundings in which to rear the children in charge of the army.

LORD BYNG GIVES CUP FOR TURF

Montreal, March 21.—With a view to encouraging the ownership of a better class of thoroughbred in Canada Lord Byng of Vimy, governor-general of Canada, has donated a gold cup to the Dorval Jockey Club here, to be run for at the spring meeting. The management of the club have decided to add a purse of $2,000 to the trophy and to have the race run for Canadian owned horses and over a distance of one mile and one eighth.

KING GEORGE IS SLIGHTLY ILL

London, March 21.—King George will be unable to attend the ceremonies surrounding the opening of the reconstructed Waterloo railroad station this afternoon, it is announced, due to the development of a slight cold and sore throat. Queen Mary will carry out the program in his stead.

Waterloo station, through which thousands of troops passed on their way to the various fronts in the war, has been enlarged and suitably decorated as a war memorial. A lofty arch at the entrance bears the names of France, Belgium, Mesopotamia, the North Sea and other regions where there was decisive fighting.

The King's condition has given rise to no anxiety, but it was not thought prudent that he expose himself to the cold winds at the station.

PRINCE IS AT COLOMBO.

Colombo, Ceylon, March 21.—The British battle cruiser Renown, with the Prince of Wales aboard, arrived here this morning.

Winter, Alas, Is Reluctant To Retire From London In Favor of Spring

"So this, this is spring!" declared the disappointed Londoner who stepped out this morning to realize that the calendar alone proclaimed today the vernal equinox. For a smiling sun and a clear blue sky were forbidden to join in announcing the beginning of spring this year. Light snow and rain blowing down in misty gusts reminded the pedestrian that the grey clouds hanging in the drab atmosphere, were responsible for such an awakening of nature from her winter slumbers.

People splashed along the muddy sidewalks, while the road traffic rudely obliterated the redeeming whiteness of the snow's thin covering.

As the flapper tripped along she was probably prone to think that although the season for golfshoes had passed away, the season for spring hats had not yet arrived to stay.

Occasionally a man was seen wielding a broom before an office or store, that he might flick the turbid waters from the sidewalk. He was thus aiding the pedestrian to believe that the latter's shoes approached a non-skid variety after all, and that he was really not so badly off because he could not journey in a sedan, closed in from sheet and other evidence that winter tries to remain with us a little longer.

BOARD TO MAKE AWARD ON WAGES

Hamilton, March 21.—The failure of the Dominion Power and Transmission Company and its employees to reach an agreement respecting wages, means that the board of conciliation which was appointed to deal with the question will have to make an award. On Friday, after having heard evidence, the board suggested a conference between the company and the men. This was held on Saturday. Each side made slight concessions, which were rejected, and in the hope of a settlement a second conference was held on Monday. This also failed of its purpose, and the board will now consider the evidence and send a report to the minister of labor.

START WORK ON NEW AGREEMENT

New York, March 21.—The anthracite coal mine owners and workers' committee of eight appointed to carry on the negotiations started last week when 35 representatives of labor unions presented to operators' representatives the miners' 19 wage demands, will begin official meetings today. Four representatives of the miners and a like number representing the owners, make up the arbitration committee, to which has been entrusted the task of negotiating a new contract. The present contract between workers and operators ends April 1, at which time work in the anthracite mines will cease if a new agreement has not been drafted and accepted by both sides.

MISS LEWIS DIES AT LONDON HOME

Miss Celestine Lewis, 23 years old, one of the most popular young women of the city, died at her home, 697 Talbot street, early this morning, following a brief illness. News of her death came as a shock to her many friends, although she had been in a critical condition for a few days.

A few weeks ago she was confined to bed with a severe cold. Thursday, however, when she was well on the road to recovery, she contracted sleeping sickness.

Her father, P. B. Lewis of Vancouver, is ill with rheumatism and will be unable to attend the funeral. He was wired concerning his daughter's illness some time ago, but owing to his condition was forced to abandon his intention of leaving the coast.

Besides her father, Miss Lewis is survived by one brother, Wilfred, her uncle, T. F. Lewis and Robert Walsh, and her aunts, Mrs. Robert Walsh and Miss Annie Lewis, all residents of 697 Talbot street.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

BROKER OFFERS TO PAY IN FULL

Montreal, March 21.—At the second meeting of creditors here yesterday of the bankrupt brokerage firm of Dunn & Co., 4 Hospital street, this city, J. A. Dunn made a proposal to the creditors undertaking to pay in full their claims, amounting to about $60,000, according to the statement of the company's affairs presented by the trustee, Alex. Burnett. The tentative offer which would extend payments over about a year, was well received by the creditors.

CRITICIZE WAY LABORITES VOTE ON ANNEX TAX

TO DISCUSS SITUATION

Alderman Ashton's Association With Hydro Delegation Is Resented.

That Aldermen John Ashton and Fred Watkinson, two of the city's three labor councillors, did not show to proper advantage at Monday's session of the council, is the contention at the Labor Temple.

Holding that they should have given their absolute support to their colleague, Ald. Henry B. Ashplant, when the latter introduced his motion to collect school taxes from factories in the annexed districts, several of the labor party who attended the city council Monday night stated Tuesday morning that "the affair was not ended yet."

Belief is expressed that a special meeting of the London Labor Party will be called shortly when the entire question will be considered, and arrangements made for other mass meetings in the annexed district.

Severely Criticized.

Both Aldermen Ashton and Watkinson were severely criticized by the rank and file of the party, and the opinion was expressed that "Ald. Ashton was drifting in the same direction as Ald. Watkinson." Discussing the question, Arthur Mould, a member of the executive of the London Labor Party, stated: "Apparently they cannot get it through their heads but that Ald. Ashplant's motion, if applied, would increase the tax rate for the householder as well as for the factory owner." "Ald. Watkinson seems to be considering the issue from a like angle. I should think that any person of intelligence would realize that right at this moment the householder pays his full assessment. In any event it struck me at the city council meeting last night that the delegation of labor men who attended were not at all taken with the stand of Ashton and Watkinson."

Not Out of Order.

Mr. Mould believed that special meetings would not be out of order to consider the question at greater length, and to allow the ratepayers of the interested districts to attend for their information. "It is a vital question," he commented.

Certain of the labor element also resented the action of Ald. Ashton, as reported from Toronto Tuesday morning, in aligning himself with Mayor Wilson and a delegation of aldermen who leave for the provincial capital Wednesday to represent London at a gathering of hydro municipalities. This meeting is to deal with the plan of the Drury government to introduce new legislation respecting the control of hydro.

As the mayor is said to have torned this legislation "particularly dangerous," the labor men say that at first glance it would appear that Ald. Ashton, as a labor councillor, is "somewhat out of place" in participating in any protest against a Farmer-Labor administration.

THREE SENT TO REFORMATORY

Hayes, Flowers and Wright Trio Get Indeterminate Burglary Sentence.

COURT PRAISES OFFICER

P. C. Graham Got Drop On Wright, Who Pulled Gun When Discovered.

Three men were sentenced to three months to two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory when they were found guilty of breaking and entering the second-hand store of Hiram Van Loon, 30 Wharncliffe road, West London, at 11 o'clock Monday night.

Maitland Hayes, of 11 Guelph street, pleaded not guilty, William Flowers, of 70 Holborn avenue, Manor Park, and Cecil Wright, 36 Dundas street, pleaded guilty.

P. C. Graham was responsible for the arrests. He testified that he found the glass in the front of Van Loon's store, broken, and on entering the building found the three men. Wright, the officer stated, pulled his gun, but Graham had the drop on him and covered the trio. Wright then dropped his revolver and the three men surrendered to the officer with their hands held high in the air. They had nothing in their possession when arrested, and had apparently only entered the store when the officer happened along.

Th police officer was complimented by Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon, for his brilliant arrest.

ORDER STRIKE OF COAL MINERS

New York, N. Y., March 21.—The order for a suspension of work in the anthracite and bituminous coal mines, affecting about 600,000 miners, will be issued late this afternoon, according to Philip Murray, international vice-president of the United Mineworkers' of America.

POLICE AWAIT PRISONER WHO SAILED ON 11TH

Londoner Is in Custody of Two Overseas Detectives.

TELL OF CHASE

Authorities Were On Trail Before He Left For England, Is Claim.

Accompanied by two overseas police officers, Harold R. Shillington, former accountant of a banking institution in this city, who was arrested in Edinburgh, Scotland, charged with the theft of stocks and securities to the approximate value of $70,000, sailed from Liverpool Saturday, March 11, and is expected to arrive in London in custody Wednesday.

All the documents required by the British authorities to facilitate Shillington's removal to Canada under the provisions of the fugitive offenders' act were dispatched to Edinburgh several weeks ago from the office of Major-General Elliott, Toronto, chief of the provincial police, and as exclusively explained in a Toronto dispatch in Monday evening's edition of The Advertiser, it was announced from the latter headquarters the same day that the alleged absconder was on his way back to his home city.

In November last Shillington, then an employee of trust with the local banking institution, was granted leave over the week-end. He did not return. While letters were received in the city purporting to be sent by him from Chicago, police authorities asserted after his arrest, that they followed close behind him to the east American coast.

Believing that he was sailing for the Old Country, they wirelessly outgoing liners and had no difficulty, they say, in locating him. From that moment on but little trouble was necessary, they state, in keeping close behind him.

Shillington, for a time following his arrival in England and subsequent visits to London, Manchester and Scotland, was accompanied by another Canadian, said to be a native Londoner, who had just returned to the city after several years in the Eastern States. Described as a man who had fled to Brazil, South America, and later returned to England, Shillington, after his apprehension, is said to have denied this in an alleged confession. This the police believe, as the prisoner stated, they say, that he could not get away, and was, as a matter of fact, about to seek passports for Australia when taken into custody.

The officers who are bringing the Londoner home state that practically all of the Grand Trunk and other bonds missing from the local trust company were recovered in the prisoner's possession.

STREET CAR MEN TO MAKE DECISION

All the "snare" motormen and conductors employed by the London Street Railway Company will gather at the Labor Temple Tuesday afternoon to voice their opinion as to what action should be taken relative to the three-cent an hour wage reduction, effective since March 1.

Day employees attended a general mass meeting Monday night and voted upon the suggestion by the executive that action should be taken through the courts to restrain the company from continuing its new scale of wages.

Officials of the union declared Tuesday that it will be definitely decided late that day just what action will be taken.

Dodge, the Millionaire Speeder, Out After 5 Days in Jail

Detroit, March 21.—John D. Dodge, possessor of a fortune of $1,600,000, left the Detroit house of correction yesterday with $5 in his pocket, having completed a five-day prison sentence for automobile speeding.

His release was carried out with the greatest secrecy.

Although his punishment for violating the city speed limit is ended, with the exception of the loss of his automobile driver's license for a year, Dodge is not yet "out of the woods."

He must appear in court today at Kalamazoo and face a charge of reckless driving, following a midnight race recently, during which Miss Edeline Kwakernaak, a Westland Normal student, jumped from Dodge's car while it was traveling at a high speed, and sustained serious injuries.

HOMELINESS IS DOMINATING NOTE OF RONALD-ROY GRAY HOME

GLEAMING woodwork, primrose-tinted ceilings, gay papered walls and above all, the elusive, undefinable quality which marks the home, those are first impressions of the new Ronald-Roy Gray Memorial Home for Children which is to be opened Wednesday.

Modernized to a degree, the house yet retains all the old-fashioned charm of spacious halls and wide fireplaces. Opening out of the wide front hall, on either side of which hang pictures of those whose names the home memorializes, are the living-rooms, where soft white curtains and tapestried wall paper lend a delightfully restful air. High French windows preserve for these rooms the quaint charm of the old-time manor-house. In the children's living-room, tiny rocking chairs and Morris chairs wait for their new occupants.

The kitchens and dining-rooms would be a delight to any housekeeper. A wide store pantry, amply shelved, opens out of the dining-room and is within easy access of the kitchen. Gleaming walls, a window arrangement which will make easy passage for all the breezes of summer and a gleaming stove and sink—these mark the kitchen, which is of necessity large, since there are so many tots to care for.

Nothing which would seem to make for convenience has been forgotten, both in the kitchen and the laundry which adjoins it.

But upstairs, even more than down, one is impressed with the fresh, homelike air of the building. A soft, cheerful yellow seems to have been the keynote of all the decorations, and seen in its glow, the tiny white beds, all made ready for the newcomers, have a delightfully inviting appearance.

The matron herself was putting the finishing touches of white paint in the room, which is being prepared for a sick room. Out of the dormitories upstairs open verandas and sunrooms, from which may be seen vistas of the beautiful country surrounding the home. On clear days, the tiny children will be able to see for miles around. The bathrooms are complete with an array of small-sized tubs and glossy basins and in the halls are wardrobes, in which a section has been provided for each child, so that each may have a little cupboard solely for himself.

But there is another wardrobe which shows perhaps more than anything else, that here the children have found a real home. Here all hanging suits and dresses, nearly all hand made by the matron and her assistant. No two dresses are alike, for, as the matron explained, it does not do to spoil a child's individuality.

There are blue and white Oliver Twist suits for the tiny boys, and white dresses for the girls, many of which are hand-embroidered—all the work of these two women. There are fireplaces in the dormitories which will lend an added touch of comfort in the winter and plenty of windows to allow for coolness in summer. On the third floor, the attic has been converted into a playroom, and with its quaint nooks and crannies is an ideal spot for youngsters to spend a rainy day. Here, too, are windows from which they will have a splendid view.

Rainy days, too, have not been forgotten in the arrangement of the downstairs, for in the rear entrance are cupboards, where each child may take off muddy boots and don a pair of slippers before entering the dining-room.

Adjutant Martin, who conducted the tour of inspection, also allowed the reporters a glimpse of the children in their old home on Evergreen avenue. The day was damp and the living-room, which is by no means large, was the only accommodation possible for about fifteen children to play. However, each little face was radiant in anticipation of the new home. One can imagine the delight of these youngsters as they catch their first glimpse of the yellow-brick manor, and the eagerness with which they will explore the spacious grounds, where there is an abundance of cedar trees and flowering bushes, and even more delightful to the childish minds, apple and pear trees.

Arrangements have been completed for the formal opening of the home and the program outlined. Following a song of praise and prayer led by Rev. David McKay of New St. James Presbyterian Church, Com. Sowton will turn the key and declare the home open. Short addresses will be given by Mayor Wilson, Brigadier De Brisev, Col. G. Miller, James Gray and Commissioner Sowton.

ASKS $1,800 FOR AUTO DAMAGES

Harry Schultze of Tavistock Sues H. N. Woollett, Former Londoner.

$3,300 COUNTERCLAIMED

Action Arises Over Accident Which Occurred Near Galt, September 6.

Apparently the jury in the automobile damage action, brought by Harry Schultze of Tavistock, against H. N. Woollett, formerly of London, are having difficulty in assessing damages.

The jury retired shortly after 11 o'clock Tuesday morning and was still out at press time. Schultze is asking for $1,800 as result of motor crash near Galt last September 6. Woollett entered counter claim for $3,300.

In explaining to the jury the nature of the action, J. C. Makin of Stratford, acting in behalf of the plaintiff, stated that subsequent to the motor crash, his client had been sentenced to a term in Kingston Penitentiary in connection with the theft of some liquor, and asked the jury not to let this fact bear any weight in the present case.

Harry Schultze stated that on Sept. 6 he was driving his car, a Cole Six, worth $2,500, to Toronto Exhibition. He was driving on the Hamilton-Preston highway on the outskirts of Galt, at about 10 or 12 miles an hour, when he came to a cross-road. Witness noted the horn, and was just about to turn on to the cross-road when the Woollett car crashed into him, at a terrific rate of speed.

The repairs to the car had cost about $900, he had been told. He considered his loss to be about $2,000.

Sold Car For $50.

Questioned by J. C. Elliott, K.C., counsel for Woollett, Schultze stated that he had sold his wrecked car to a garage man in Galt for $50. On the day of the accident he had no liquor in the car, nor had he had a drink, witness claimed.

Mrs. Rosalie Winbolt, a sister of the plaintiff, was riding in the front seat with him, when the accident occurred. Her brother was a good, careful driver, she said, and the car was not going more than 10 miles an hour when the crash came.

"After the accident Mr. Woollett said he would admit that he was driving about 35 miles an hour, but that we were speeding, too. I said we were not. He was a little bit snarly with me," declared Mrs. Winbolt.

Questioned by Mr. Elliott, witness denied having used any profane language to Mr. Woollett. In fact she did not know for sure if the man she had been talking to was Mr. Woollett, as she had not received any introduction.

Harvey Schultze and R. Winbolt, who were also in the car, gave similar evidence as to the speed of the car, and the horn being blown.

Arthur Graham, a farmer, said that he had seen the Schultze car shortly before the accident. It had not been going very fast.

Fenders Are Exhibit.

At this juncture the fenders of the damaged car were lodged into court. This action on the part of plaintiff's counsel, Messrs. Makin and J. C. Murray of Stratford, was characterized by the judge as "wasted energy."

David Phillip, garage proprietor of Galt, who brought the Schultze car for $50 thought it would be worth about $2,000 before the accident. It had cost him $629 to fix it up, so far.

Stanley McDermid, garage man of Tavistock, had ridden in the plaintiff's car a few days before the accident. He thought the car was worth about $2,500 to $3,000.

W. Blair, who drove the Woollett car the day of the accident, stated that they were on the way home from Toronto. He claimed that he had approached the corner at about 20 miles an hour, but had slowed down. He did not hear Schultze toll any horn, and did not see the other car until right at the corner.

Blair stated that the plaintiff's car was going about 25 miles an hour when it crashed into him. Witness stated that he was at the corner before Schultze.

Were Not in Court.

Blair told Mr. Makin that he did not know where Mr. and Mrs. Woollett were. They were not in court.

W. A. McCoy, a salesman of London, was a passenger in the back seat of the Woollett car with Mr. and Mrs. Woollett. The road they were traveling on was a poor one. He corroborated the evidence of Blair. The little Woollett girl had

Day's Legislative Doings at Ottawa

TODAY IN PARLIAMENT.

In the Commons.
Debate on the address will continue. W. G. Raymond (Liberal), Brantford, will be the first speaker.

In the Senate.
The Senate will not sit.

YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT.

In the Commons.

Debate on the address continued by William Irvine (Labor), Calgary East, who stated that the government today seemed to want to mould men to itself rather than to mould by them. The premier had said that he invited Progressives into his cabinet, but it was on condition that they become Liberals. The system tended to drive Labor members into the camp of the government or of the opposition.

Mr. Irvine suggested a committee composed of representatives of retail trades, manufacturers, labor and agriculturists to investigate the trades system.

J. J. Hughes (Liberal), King's, said that the idea of bringing immigrants to Canada to take up land was being favorably received, but it would be better to improve conditions so that those on the land would stay there. He urged the government to cease its methods of endeavoring to get income tax out of the farmers, declaring that this tax in respect to farmers was intolerable and foolish.

H. H. Stevens (Conservative), Vancouver Center, declared that the Conservatives stood for the integrity of a voluntary wheat pool system.

While not wishing to interfere with the powers of the railway commission he thought parliament might well deliberate on the advisability of reducing commodity freight rates. He was opposed to bringing in immigrants who remained in Canada but crossed over to the United States.

Herbert Marler (Liberal), St. Lawrence-St. George, Montreal, said that though he was opposed to government ownership and operation, he would do everything in his power to assist the government in giving the national railways a fair policy.

J. P. Ritchard (Progressive), North Wellington, took the ground that the Progressives were not seeking class legislation except where legislation of special interest to the farmers would be of benefit to the whole country. W. G. Raymond (Liberal), Brantford, completed his speech with a tax, and as such it was unfair to claim that farm implements should be free from it while the tools of the carpenters or blacksmiths were made to pay duty. Mr. Raymond moved adjournment of the debate and the House rose at eleven o'clock.

In the Senate.

The Senate did not sit.

USE DUMMY FIGURE IN DELORME CASE

Form, and Dressed in Sain Boy's Clothes, Used By Police At Re-sumed Hearing.

IS FRENCH METHOD

Detectives Often Reconstruct Crime In Every Detail—Small Crowd Await Prisoners Arrival.

Montreal, March 21.—Rev. Adelard Delorme, accused of murdering his half brother, Raoul Delorme, was this morning confronted with a tailor's dummy, fully dressed in the clothes of the murdered student when he appeared before Judge Cusson, for the resumed hearing of the enquiry.

The dummy was taken to the enquiry court by Detective Lajoie and was used to bring out various points in the evidence to be put forward by the crown. The figure represents a complete body with a head, in the clothes of the suit worn by the dead youth on the night he was killed and was complete in every detail.

This method of using a dummy to illustrate evidence is used to a great extent by detectives in France, who frequently reconstruct a crime in order to thoroughly explain the workings of their investigations.

The prisoner arrived at the courthouse annex at 9:20 this morning. As on previous occasions he was brought in Governor Seguin's automobile. He was immediately rushed to room seven. There was only a small crowd of spectators assembled this morning to witness his arrival.

WINDSOR PEEPER FLEES AT SHOTS

WINDSOR, March 20.—Two revolver shots were fired by Herbert Potter, 37, at an unknown "peeper," who was standing on a bench gazing into a room of his home, according to a report Potter made to police today.

Potter made to police today. They scoured the neighborhood, but were unable to find any trace of the peeper.

Dr. Charlton of Galt said he had attended the Woolletts after the accident, and that the father had three ribs broken; Mrs. Woollett was bruised, and the baby had had her knees bruised, and had been unconscious.

J. J. Beemer, S. H. Rowed and Roy Simpson, all stated that they had seen the Schultze car and would not give more than $400 or $500 for it.

Mr. Rowed was told that a six-cylinder Cole was obsolete in 1915.

Evidence Conflicts.

The chief justice pointed out to Mr. Simpson that a dealer from Galt had given evidence that the car was worth $2,500 before the accident.

Pressed for an answer as to this Mr. Simpson stated that it could not be true.

"He might return the compliment," suggested the court.

However, the star witness as to the worth of the car was Z. E. Gill, who had traded the Cole car to Schultze for an Overland.

"Personally I would have taken $500 for the car," stated Mr. Gill. "It was hard to keep up, and I was glad to get rid of it."

TO ASK VOTE ON GENOA PARLEY

Lloyd George, Chamberlain Announces, Wants Parliament's Confidence.

LOCKOUT IS DEBATED

Manchester Labor Member Defends Action of Union Workers.

London, March 21.—Prime Minister Lloyd George will resume his place in the House of Commons April 3, and will ask immediately for a vote on the government's policy regarding the Genoa economic conference. Austen Chamberlain, the government leader, announced in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Mr. Chamberlain added that the government intended to put a motion clearly raising the question as to whether it possessed the confidence of the house. "The whole house will recognize," he said, "that it would be impossible for us to ask the premier to go to Genoa if there were any doubt about his authority."

COMMONS DEBATES LOCKOUT.

LONDON, March 21.—The lockout of a voluntary wheat pool system was debated in the House of Commons this evening as a result of the Labor party's desire for the government to institute an inquiry by an impartial tribunal.

John Robert Clynes, Labor member from Manchester, said Labor wished to make opportune use of the new industrial courts act, and to prove that the unions had done everything in their power to maintain peace and prevent injury to the engineering industry. He contended that the question of overtime was the cause of the lockout, which he termed an astounding act of aggression on the part of the employers. He declared the question of management could not be considered apart from the rights of workmen regarding labor and pay which the employers could not so alienate.

Sir Allan Smith, coalition unionist of South Croydon, speaking in behalf of the employers, denied that overtime was the cause of the dispute. "The real question," he declared, "is dual control and interference with the management and the employers are not going to tolerate that."

Thomas MacNamara, speaking for the government, said an inquiry could not be instituted while other groups of unions affected by the lockout were balloting. He pleaded for both sides, whatever the result of the balloting might be, to try to get together and compose their difference. A motion to adjourn, introduced by the labor members was rejected by a vote of 162 to 80.

J. B. McKILLOP IS NOW UNCONSCIOUS

The condition of J. B. McKillop, crown attorney, was reported as unchanged at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon.

He is still unconscious and undoubtedly a little weaker, was the word from his home at that hour.

MINERS' OFFICIAL DELAYING REPLY

SIDNEY, N. S., March 20.—That he is too busy just now to make an extended reply to the minister of labor, was the statement of J. B. McLachlan, secretary-treasurer of district 26 United Mine Workers of America, today. He intimated that he might reply in a day or so to the Hon. James Mardock's message of congratulation on the promulgation of McLachlan's manifesto calling forth a policy of "striking on the job."

Mr. McLachlan's attitude this morning indicated that while he may not make an early reply to the minister he has no intention, when he ultimately does so, of retreating on his policy as outlined in the manifesto to the miners.

SAYS PROHIBITION IS LIKE GAME

Edmonton, March 21.—Half the population of Alberta is now trying to get a drink, and the other half is trying to prevent them, said R. C. Edwards (Calgary) in the legislature yesterday. "It is all like a game," he continued. "If you get a drink you win, and if you don't you lose."

Mr. Edwards urged the sale of lager beer of 2½ per cent. weight. He moved an amendment to the provincial liquor act, asking for the sale of a beer with higher alcoholic content, a general plebiscite of the electors to be called within a year.

REPARATIONS TO BE AS PROPOSED

Paris, March 21.—The sittings of the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission continued yesterday. There was a discussion of the payment of cash, and in kind. Germany is to make in 1922. It was reported that cash payments of 720,000,000 gold marks, and 1,450,000,000 marks in kind, adopted at the Cannes conference, the remaining balance of 472,000,000 marks will be demanded at the rate of 50,000,000 marks monthly.

BOY IS HELD FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Inflicts Blows On Head Which Resulted Fatally For Lady Alice White.

LIKES CHEAP NOVELS

Identifies Hammer Used Through Dent Found When Washing Off Blood.

London, March 21.—Henry Jacobi, 19-year-old pantry boy at the hotel where Lady Alice White was fatally injured last Monday night, was arraigned in the police court today charged with wilful murder.

Jacobi is alleged to have confessed to striking Lady White with a workman's hammer. She was found unconscious in her room Tuesday morning, and died the following day. Her skull had been fractured.

Lady White was the widow of Sir Edward White, late chairman of the London County Council, and was between 50 and 60 years of age. In a lucid moment after her injury she declared a burglar had entered her room and struck her.

Jacobi is a pale-faced youth, quiet and inoffensive in appearance. He had been employed in the hotel only a few days prior to the murder. His work consisted principally of washing crockery and cleaning plates. In his spare time, he said, he read a number of cheap novels, mainly of the detective type.

Since the death of his mother, thirteen years ago, the youth has been mainly cared for by his grandmother, a frail little old lady who lives in the east part of London. His father is employed as a bar man.

No evidence was presented in court to indicate the reason for Jacobi's alleged act. The detective who arrested him testified, and then the youth offered to pick out from the number of hammers brought in to court, the one with which Lady White was killed. He picked up one, saying he recognized it by a dent, which he observed while washing the blood from it.

Jacobi was remanded for one week.

WADIA VISUALIZES POSITION OF INDIA

Declares Country Wants Internationalism of Religious and Cultural Kind.

CHANGE ART CONCEPTION

Describes Religion As Matter of Spiritual Blended With the Natural Life.

Politics, art and religion present the threefold idealistic culture of the people of India, according to B. Pastonji Wadia, the theosophist philosopher, whose lecture was heard with interest by a large audience at the Theosophical Hall on Monday evening.

As a native of India, delivering the message of the eastern message of theosophy, mysticism and politics, the speaker clearly visualized India's position. He also declared that the world, particularly the west, had an important message for India. The message of the west is realistic, pertinent to material things, science and invention, while the message of the east, denoting modern and earthly institutions as affected by the old and spiritual influence of the idealistic school.

From the political point of view India is interesting, for her people seek political emancipation. They wish an internationalism of a religious and cultured kind which would doubtless give stability to the socialism of the western world. Socialism in India is rooted in sacrifice and love; all work for the state and the poor are raised by the rich.

Conception of Art.

With regard to art in that land, the sculptor and the painter of centuries ago placed not the exact appearance of the matter upon stone or canvas, but chiseled or painted the soul. Imagined spiritual beings, favored by the impressionist school, took their forms in art. But now the entire trend of artistic conception is undergoing a change wherein modern objects of art are presented in the ancient idealistic forms.

Religion in the home country of the speaker is a matter of the spiritual blended with the natural life. In India, man worships the life of God in idols and familiar objects. There the God of disease is regarded as the God of re-incarnation, for the spirit is set free in death. While the western world views God from the distance, the east beholds Him ever present. The religion there is the religion of soul expression. To make men Christ-like and thereby produce a higher tolerance is the noble aim of the east where the law of the body is struggle and where the law of the soul is sacrifice. To manifest not only the efficiency of the body, but to also manifest the power of the soul, is the double idealistic duty of the native of India.

At the close of the lecture, Mr. Wadia's answers to questions, written out by members of the audience, seeking information, proved interesting. Several of the queries were asked in reference to castes. In India all castes are fundamentally equal, as is held that a man's individual service counts in this life and the life hereafter.

ATTEMPTS TO KILL CHINESE MINISTER

Paris, March 21.—An attempt was made today to assassinate Mr. Chen Lo, Chinese minister to France. Four shots were fired at him by a Chinese youth, none of which, however, took effect. Mr. Tsan Gow, a Chinese engineer, who was accompanying the minister, was wounded in the head.

The minister's assailant, who surrendered shortly after the shooting, is a student, who gave his name as Lee Ho Ling. He was disgruntled with the attitude of the minister toward the Chinese in Paris, which he complained of as unkind.

New MODES Fresh as Spring

BECAUSE outdoor sports are given an ever-increasing importance among women of fashion—and one motors and lunches, dances and dines between sports as it were—the new fashions reflect the sports motif in a larger proportion than ever before. This sports theme lends a delightful spiciness to the mode, apparent in all things wearable, which gives a spring apparel exhibition an unwonted thrill, intriguing one mightily with its spirited aspect.

Spring Suits Speak a New Language

Very new is the smart, little jacket with its flare over the hips, its snug shoulders and sleeves quite loose from the elbow. To be consistent there must be a new hint of fullness in the skirt as well. Many favored models, however, show the jaunty, short box coat, so versatile in its wearableness. These are much admired.

QUASHES O.T.A. CONVICTION

Judge Gault of Hamilton Reverses Decision of Jelfs.

HAMILTON, March 20.—Judge Gault gave a decision in a liquor case this morning that will remove obstacles to the shipment of liquor for export. His honor quashed a judgment of Magistrate Jelfs, who confiscated eighty cases of whiskey shipped from Waterloo and which was being taken to the border in a motor truck driven by William Campbell, Brantford. The magistrate convicted Campbell of a breach of the Ontario temperance act, because he held that the defence had proved that the liquor had been sold to persons in a foreign country.

Today W. E. Heimlich of Buffalo went on the stand and testified that Campbell had been engaged to transport the eighty cases through the province from Waterloo to the border, and that the necessary customs papers had been handed to Campbell. Judge Gault held that the magistrate had given customs papers was not called upon before accepting the consignment to investigate the legality or illegality of the sale, and he quashed the conviction and the confiscation of the shipment, basing his judgment on Rex vs. Yarrow, a ruling given by Chief Justice Meredith. A land office business is now being done in shipping liquor across the border, and today's decision will have the effect of making the export much more easy.

MARK GAINING OF SELF GOVERNMENT

CAIRO, March 20.—Cairo today observed a general holiday in celebration of Egypt's independence. King Fuad held a reception at the royal palace, and many prominent persons, including members of the legislative assembly attended. Later the king visited Adly Yeghen Pasha, who headed the recent Egyptian delegation to London and thanked him for the part he played in obtaining Egypt's independence. The only incident that marred the holiday was a demonstration of followers of Said Zagloul, the Nationalist leader, who was recently exiled. The demonstration was staged in the main street leading to the palace. A number of persons returning from the king's reception were maltreated before the police interfered and quickly cleared the streets.

CITY ALDERMEN DEFEAT MOTION

Council Adopts Amendment to Ashplant's Annex School Tax Proposal.

TWO WITHDRAW SUPPORT

Decide to Send Delegation of Eight to Hydro Meeting in Toronto.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Adopted an amendment to Ald. Ashplant's motion, which was to have the school taxes in the annex collected legally and according to statute, providing a rider that orders of the railway board shall also be respected.

Decided to send nearly all the aldermen present to the hydro meeting at Toronto on Tuesday. Accepted the proposal of No. 2 committee to allow William street residents 5 cents a foot on their second sewer charge. Refused to allow the interest charge.

Put through a number of improvements by the initiative and two-thirds vote plan.

Asked that engineer report on length of service and names of employees recently discharged.

Referred to No. 2 committee proposal to charge 3 per cent of cost of the line road pavement to general tax rate.

Referred to No. 2 committee the petition of Grey street residents that turnbuckles be forbidden to locate in their block.

Charges by Ald. Ashplant that trickery was being practiced, which were later resented, and a similar charge by Mayor Wilson against Ald. Ashplant, featured the debate before the council Monday night regarding the annex agreement.

A motion by Ald. Ashplant started the discussion. It had been moved at a previous meeting, but the mayor had ruled it a notice of motion.

That the intervening time was a large number of aldermen, who during the latter part of last week adopted and approved of the resolution and who, besides sending a copy of their resolution of approval to the council, instructed their three labor representatives, Aldermen Ashplant, Ashton and Watkinson to support the resolution.

When the vote came the labor men saw Aldermen Ashton and Watkinson bolt and support the amendment, while Ald. Ashplant was supported by but one alderman, Ald. Douglass.

Ald. Ashplant's motion read that the tax rate should be levied legally, according to the statute on the whole rateable property in the city. The officials were requested by Ald. Ashplant to see that no property escaped its due proportion.

This latter point was struck out and the motion was made to collect the taxes as provided by the statutes of the Ontario Railway Board order.

With but one or two exceptions every member of the council participated in the debate.

Immediately Ald. Ashplant read his motion, notice of which was given at the last council meeting, the clerk read the prepared amendment of Ald. Childs.

Ald. Douglass said that while he might be awful dense, he would like to have the amendment interpreted.

Mayor Wilson—"It's English."

Ald. Douglass—"It may as well be in German."

Ald. Childs said that it was quite in keeping with Ald. Ashplant's motion, perhaps it was a little farther on, but it was a little better.

On the main point, Mayor Wilson, who was later accused by Ald. Ashplant of having a hand in the amendment, disagreed with Ald. Childs. The latter said that his object was the same as Ald. Ashplant's, namely, to have the taxes collected.

MOTION SUFFERS DRASTIC CHANGES

Ashplant Phraseology Fails To Receive Support At Monday Session.

WINS VOTE OF COUNCIL

Ald. Childs Suggests Amendments Which Aldermen Prefer To Original.

The Ashplant motion in regard to the annex was somewhat shattered by the amendments which Ald. Childs presented and had adopted Monday night. This is shown by a check over the changes which the new amendment read into the original motion.

It was learned that Mr. Nuttall received $500 and costs from the city, arrangements to that effect having been completed between Mr. Elliott and City Solicitor T. G. Meredith, K.C., Monday evening.

The action arose out of a motor accident on Dec. 15 last, when the cars of Fire Chief John Aiken and Mr. Nuttall collided on Albert street while the chief was proceeding to a fire.

The case of Price vs. McCrimmon was settled out of court.

Har War Record.

In addressing the jury in the Spurr action, W. S. Haney of Regina, setting for Dr. Spurr, stated that his client had served overseas with the imperial forces, and had attained the rank of major in the veterinary corps. Dr. Spurr had been mentioned in dispatches by General Haig.

A series of alleged libelous communications were sent through the mail at Parkhill, Mr. Haney stated, letters being sent among others to the local W. C. T. U. president, Mrs. Margaret George, wife of Rev. T. G. George.

Mrs. George, in the witness box, said she had received a letter on Sept. 20, 1920, which she gave to Mrs. Pumprey. Witness had received several letters of which she had burned. The others she had also given to Mrs. Pumprey. Her husband had also received a letter.

The Childs' amendment made the following changes:

Struck out the word "requested" and inserted "instructed" after the words, "Nor order of the railway and municipal board," after the word statute.

Struck out the words, "and that be so collected in the current year to the end that no property shall escape payment of its due proportion of the school rate to the injury of other ratepayers." It is here understood that the 15 mill annex rate shall be applied to the school rate so far as it goes.

Struck out the words "apply to the school rate as far as it goes, and substituted "levied and collected as in the past five years."

The amendment as it was accepted by the council read:

"That the city officials whose duty it is to carry out the statutory requirements relating thereto, are hereby instructed to see to it that the school rate is levied on all the rateable property of this municipality, which is not by statute nor order of the Railway and Municipal Board exempt from such school rate. It is ordered that the 15 mill rate in what is commonly called the annex district shall be levied and collected as in the past five years."

Nuttall Wins $500 Balm From City In Crash With Fire Department Auto

Before the libel action of Dr. S. F. Spurr, veterinary of Parkhill, against Mrs. D. J. McColl, wife of a rival veterinary in the same town, was commenced before Chief Justice R. M. Meredith at the spring assizes at the court house Tuesday morning, J. C. Elliott, counsel for Robert Nuttall, in his damage action against the city of London, stated that a settlement had been arrived at, and his request that the case be struck off the list was granted.

It was learned that Mr. Nuttall received $500 and costs from the city, arrangements to that effect having been completed between Mr. Elliott and City Solicitor T. G. Meredith, K.C., Monday evening.

The action arose out of a motor accident on Dec. 15 last, when the cars of Fire Chief John Aiken and Mr. Nuttall collided on Albert street while the chief was proceeding to a fire.

The case of Price vs. McCrimmon was settled out of court.

Har War Record.

In addressing the jury in the Spurr action, W. S. Haney of Regina, setting for Dr. Spurr, stated that his client had served overseas with the imperial forces, and had attained the rank of major in the veterinary corps. Dr. Spurr had been mentioned in dispatches by General Haig.

A series of alleged libelous communications were sent through the mail at Parkhill, Mr. Haney stated, letters being sent among others to the local W. C. T. U. president, Mrs. Margaret George, wife of Rev. T. G. George.

Mrs. George, in the witness box, said she had received a letter on Sept. 20, 1920, which she gave to Mrs. Pumprey. Witness had received several letters of which she had burned. The others she had also given to Mrs. Pumprey. Her husband had also received a letter.

Struck out the word "requested" and inserted "instructed" after the words, "Nor order of the railway and municipal board," after the word statute.

Struck out the words, "and that be so collected in the current year to the end that no property shall escape payment of its due proportion of the school rate to the injury of other ratepayers." It is here understood that the 15 mill annex rate shall be applied to the school rate so far as it goes.

The Childs' amendment made the following changes:

Struck out the word "requested" and inserted "instructed" after the words, "Nor order of the railway and municipal board," after the word statute.

The amendment as it was accepted by the council read:

"That the city officials whose duty it is to carry out the statutory requirements relating thereto, are hereby instructed to see to it that the school rate is levied on all the rateable property of this municipality, which is not by statute nor order of the Railway and Municipal Board exempt from such school rate. It is ordered that the 15 mill rate in what is commonly called the annex district shall be levied and collected as in the past five years."

Children who noticed him motor on Wharncliffe road saw him suddenly fling a collar dog from the side of the car, which he was driving, and it is now in the care of the Humane Society and ready for a new owner.

WILL NOT CUT CITY TEACHERS

School Board Takes Firm Stand On 10 Per Cent Slash.

PARED EIGHTH OF MILL

Salaries Paid Evening Instructors at "Tech" School, Subject to Quiz.

There will be no 10 per cent salary reduction instituted by the board of education. Such was the unanimous decision of the school trustees in special session Monday night. Incidentally the proposed estimates for 1922 were thoroughly considered again and reduced by $7,028, or one-eighth of a mill, leaving now a total appropriation of $321,554.93.

Upon the suggestion of Trustee Rev. A. B. Rice, chairman of No. 2 committee, the public school estimate for "repairs and renewals, painting, etc.," was reduced $5,000. In addition to this the dental appropriation was cut $1,000.

Technical school requirements were reduced $2,100, of which $500 was eliminated from the contemplated fuel account, and the remainder as a part of the architect's remuneration for plans and specifications of the suggested gymnasium, etc.

Salaries for night instructors at both the technical school and the collegiate institute were subject to a searching inquiry, and although Trustee Smith's motion that the same be reduced by $1 a night, was defeated, the question was finally referred to the salary committee for an exhaustive report.

Wish to Co-operate.

In opening the session, Trustee Smith, chairman, expressed a wish to co-operate with Mayor Wilson in any feasible manner, but was unable to discern how any reduction in salaries could be undertaken.

While Trustee Rice's suggestion that $5,000 be subtracted from the renewal estimate was approved, several other suggestions for reduction were frowned down. Trustee Silverwood declared, "According to the mayor, the big item to be considered is that of the salaries."

Trustee Rice contended that the salaries were small enough as they were. Trustee Smith agreed, but held that the people little realized that.

"These teachers," declared Trustee Rice, "have been engaged at a low figure in past years, with the understanding that they were to be increased at the rate of $100 a year until a certain maximum was reached. I believe that I am not honoring able to break these agreements."

Trustee Silverwood asserted that the teachers were the poorest paid of all workers during the war, and should not now be the object of attack.

Introducing for discussion the question of salaries of teachers at the technical evening classes, Trustee Smith explained that certain questions had been raised on the outside concerning the same. He had heard, he said, that the attendance was not at all satisfactory in all branches.

Principal Beal held that the attendance was satisfactory, and explained that an instructor received $5 an evening, duration of service being from about 7:15 to 9:15.

Had Heard Complaints.

Trustee Smith explained that he had also heard complaints relative to the fact that the principal received additional remuneration as supervisor of the evening classes. Principal Beal warned that if the present scale was reduced, the effect would be most undesirable. He claimed that he experienced the utmost difficulty at all times in obtaining sufficient instructors for night work.

Trustee Rowe questioned if day teachers were also employed in the evenings. He was informed that such was the case.

"As chairman, will Trustee Smith tolerate this?" queried Trustee Rowe. The chairman replied that he had just learnt that fact. While Trustee Rowe explained that he now favored the payment of a flat salary to Principal Beal, Trustee Silverwood questioned whether it was necessary for the latter to be on duty evenings. The principal replied that it was in a city like London.

As certain statements had been credited to Mayor Wilson, Trustee Silverwood questioned, "Where does the mayor get all his information from? He seems to have gone into the question pretty thoroughly. Where does he get it all? It looks as though someone was making the balls and he was firing them."

After considerable discussion, Trustee Smith urged that the salaries for night technical teachers be reduced from $5 to $4, but found no support.

Trustee Campbell took this opportunity to shoulder the blame for present conditions upon the educational department in Toronto. Principal Beal stated that as far as possible teachers were employed two nights a week. Chairman Smith contended otherwise, claiming that he had viewed the pay-roll and saw teachers down for 20 nights. He explained further that he had heard that the wood-carving class numbered two only.

Principal Denies Assertion.

This was denied by the principal, and Trustee Silverwood observed, "It seems to me, Chairman Smith, that you have a lot of information gathered from a lot of different sources."

Trustee Rowe questioned where pupils went after completing their course in wood-carving. The principal replied that they did not go anywhere. This was a cultural class he said, and most of the pupils were taking the work for recreation.

"At the expense of the ratepayers," remarked Trustee Rowe.

Little time was occupied in consideration of the proposed debenture issue. Trustee Udy moved that the purchase of a West London and a branch collegiate site be deferred until 1923. No one essayed to second this motion.

Trustee Casselman's suggestion that the proposed Dakin street public school be eliminated, was the signal for a wild outburst of "Nos."

Trustee Silverwood contended that "the board had been generous in its 'striking out,' and it was no time to overlook the purchase of suitable sites for the future."

Trustee Campbell came to the front at this juncture with a compromise. "Eliminate the collegiate site and retain West London," he suggested. This was greeted with scant sympathy.

Trustee Clark questioned if $20,000 was not quite a large sum for West London, while Trustee Campbell desired to know why the Eleanor street site was set at $10,000, when but $5,000 was demanded by the owners. Nobody knew.

MINE WORKERS MAKE REPLY

Halifax, N. S., March 21.—The Herald publishes today a telegram in which Secretary J. B. McLachlan of the United Mine Workers of America, District 26, is said to have addressed to Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, in reply to the latter's protest against the manifesto of the miners' secretary urging the miners to reduce production.

Mr. McLachlan says in a manifesto he issued, he strongly advised the miners to cut down their production to a point where all profits of the British Empire Steel Corporation would vanish. This, he declares, is a method of retaliation for a highly unjust encroachment of the employers upon the wages of the workmen, and an invasion of their already too slender living.

Mr. McLachlan added that the miners have no wage agreement and will not pay dividends on "acres of idle junk, known as the steel works."

Dr. Wiedfeldt is reputed to be one of the wealthiest Germans of the present day. He is an experienced diplomatist, having for years occupied important positions in the German Home Office.

SIDE LIGHTS AT OTTAWA

By JOHN J. McLELLAN, Advertiser Staff Correspondent.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, Ont., March 20.—Re-establishment of the wheat board within one month from today was one of the salient demands in the house of H. A. Stevens of Vancouver, former minister of trade and commerce in the Meighen government.

Coincidental with the words of Mr. Stevens comes the report of a statement made by the secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, N. P. Lambert, who accompanied the deputations to Prime Minister King a few days ago. Mr. Lambert declares that "the government and the official opposition are each bending every effort to win the support of the Progressives."

After hearing what Mr. Stevens said today, the truth of the secretary of the Canadian Agriculture Council's statement wherein it concerns the official opposition is very evident. Mr. Stevens was so amenable in his declaration that the policy of himself and those sitting immediately around him in the house was for the voluntary wheat pool, yet at the same time he urged the re-establishing of the wheat board immediately.

Whenever he affirmed a desire to see the immediate re-establishment of the wheat board, he received what he was soliciting, applause from the Progressive benches. The Progressives, it was apparent, failed to recognize inconsistency in the fact of a party's being quite amenable in support of an action they did not in principle believe the advisability of.

REORGANIZATION OF THE MILITIA

and naval air service departments will, it is expected, reduce the estimates this year $3,100,000.

This will bring the estimates for that department in the neighborhood of $24,000,000 unless still further economies are to be introduced.

Last year's expenditures in the department amounted to $27,000,000 approximately.

These expenditures can be said to aggregate the estimates, so that in all probability this year's estimates will approximate the above-mentioned sum.

WILLIAM J. MURPHY of Calgary East advanced in the house today the following novel scheme of national economy or credit reform.

He proposes that prices should be regulated and the real credit of the country be made available for the industries. He defined real credit with the definition of C. H. Douglas, a British economist. Real credit was, he said, the collective ability to produce and deliver goods as, when and where required.

He would regulate prices not by any arbitrary method, but by means of information secured from the bureau of statistics. The information obtained would bear on the ratio of the total national production to the total national consumption.

The minister of finance, acting on the information secured from the Dominion statistician, would issue an order to reduce the manufacture of goods. If the total national production was twice as much as the national consumption, as is the case in Canada, the price of Canadian goods to the Canadian consumer would be half the cost of production. The difference between the cost and the price would be made up to the retailer by a draft on the national credit.

The advantage of this system over the present is that, while the present system tends to inflate, this proposal would deflate.

It is understood that the system is receiving considerable attention in England, but it is generally considered to be frowned on as impractical by the banks.

The member from Calgary East declared that the present opposition was nothing but a crude burlesque. This was rather a frank admission on the part of the Laborite, but Mr. Irvine has tended to qualify the statement by saying that his reference was to all opposition connected with the party system.

IT was refreshing to hear today the character of the speech of the former minister of trade and commerce, H. H. Stevens. After hearing the meaningless utterances of Sir Henry Drayton last week the words of the member from Center Vancouver were appreciated. He confined himself to issues and problems and refrained from personalities.

Accompanying the speech of Sir Henry was a satiric smile and considerable sarcasm, and in contrast Mr. Stevens departed himself with considerable grace of manner.

CONGRATULATES JURY ON CLEAN COURT CALENDAR

Chief Justice Meredith Refers to Murrell Brothers in Address at Spring Assizes.

In addressing the grand jury at the opening of the spring assizes at the court house Monday afternoon, Chief Justice R. M. Meredith drew attention to the fact that there were no criminal cases to come before the jury, a very satisfactory state of affairs.

The only blot on this happy condition was that there had been a serious crime committed in the county not so long ago, and that those charged were not present to be put on trial. Through laxity these men were fugitives from justice, but the chief justice hoped that at some time they would be tried for the crime.

"When this has been done we may congratulate ourselves with greater pleasure on the state of criminal law in this county," declared his lordship, who had reference to the escape of the Murrell brothers, Sydney and William, from the county jail early last September. They were to be put on trial with H. J. Williams, charged with the murder of Russell Campbell at Melbourne last summer.

Members of the grand jury are J. M. Rose (foreman), Wesley Baker, Norman Bodan, Marshall Box, A. T. Carrothers, Charles Crummett, Alex. Dewar, Thos. Elliott, Ed. Fraeicheigh, H. Hayman, C. R. Willy and John Strahan.

Before the first case started it was stated that the action of Cole vs. the Gore District Insurance Company had been settled out of court.

The action of the Starr Company of Canada against the Berliner Gramophone Company was postponed till the next non-jury sittings.

"ALL'S FAIR IN LOVE AND WAR" PLEASES

Romantic Comedy Film Starring May Collins Well Received at Grand Theatre.

VAUDEVILLE HIGH CLASS

Novelty Juggling Act Certain to Entertain Most Exacting and Critical Patrons.

A well-balanced program commenced the week at the Grand Theatre Monday evening.

An Egyptian bracelet, reputed to bring both bad and good luck under certain romantic circumstances, caused a great deal of comic woe in the Goldwyn picture, "All's Fair in Love and War," which formed the feature of the bill.

May Collins as Natalie, the bride who has lost her husband by reason of the bracelet's supposedly malignant influence, is genuinely funny in her attempt at amateur vamping to regain her husband.

Miss Collins makes the most of her opportunities to display some very artistic exhibitions of hysterics. What the play lacks in swift action is more than made up for by the star's well simulated display of temper.

Retains Winsomeness.

The best of it is that throughout the picture, even in its most ludicrous moments, Miss Collins never loses a whit of her winsome prettiness. The plot lacks, depth, but as a burlesque of the scenic art of vamping it is hilariously funny.

Clever features mark the vaudeville offerings. Lew Palmer, billed as a "versatile mimic comedian," presents realistic imitations of various animals, which were well received. His mimicry of two cats howling drew repeated bursts of laughter from the audience.

Wilbur and Dawson present an old cycling act under a new setting which lent an air of comedy. The fair member of the couple is capable of extremely clever stunts which are a decided acquisition to the turn.

Gwen and Clarke are effective in a burlesque of rural life, while Sims and Jamison Trio flavored their turn with some original swift-change artist work. Soft-shoe dancing was also a clever feature of their act.

Are Clever Jugglers.

The best vaudeville turns were saved until the last. Leon and Adele, billed in "A Comedy Juggling Novelty," have the comedy, the juggling and the novelty. The setting is good, the patter clever, and the juggling of an extremely novel and clever nature. Even the most hardened of vaudeville critics would enjoy the dexterous work of this pair.

A Larry Semon film, "The Sportsman," and a Bruce Seanie, "The Castaway," completed the bill.

Be Suspicious of Tender Gums

Be suspicious of any tenderness or bleeding of the gums. This is usually the first stage of Pyorrhea—an insidious disease of the gums that destroys the teeth and undermines bodily health.

Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame, then shrink, thus exposing the unenameled tooth-base to the ravages of decay. Tiny openings in the gums form gateways for disease germs to enter the system.

Medical science has traced many ills to these infecting germs in the gums weakened by Pyorrhea.

They are now known to be a frequent cause of indigestion, anaemia, rheumatism and other serious conditions.

So watch carefully for that first tenderness or bleeding of the gums. Try Forhan's immediately. It positively prevents Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) if used in time and used consistently.

And in preventing Pyorrhea—it guards against other ills.

Forhan's (For the Gums) cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using For-

HEADS THAT ACHE AND PAIN

It is hard to drag along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

In nine cases out of ten, persistent headaches are due to poisoned blood, the blood being rendered impure through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels, but no matter which organ is to blame the cause must be removed before permanent relief can be obtained.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. which has been on the market for the past forty-five years, removes the cause of the headache by starting the organs of elimination acting freely, and when the impurities are carried off from the system, purified blood circulates in the brain cells, and the aches and pains vanish.

Miss Clara Murphy, Center Dummer, Ont., writes: "My system was greatly run down and my blood out of order.
I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and was very surprised to notice a decided improvement in my health. I took another bottle and it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to some of my friends who were in a similar condition, and they all say it is a wonderful remedy."

Fear Wrangle Looms O'er Wrangel Island.

OTTAWA, March 20.—Fears are entertained in some

The island, which is west of Behring Straits, but beyond the reach of Siberia, bears the dispute, have been unable to unearth any documents that would give the Russians any prior claim to ownership.

DROUILLARD CONVICTED OF PETITE COTE ROBBERY

Windsor Youth, Along With Five Others, To Be Sentenced Friday.

WINDSOR, March 20. — Russell Drouillard, 24 years old, arrested at Detroit five weeks ago, was this afternoon found guilty on three of four charges preferred against him by the crown.

Officials of Petite Cote branch of the Merchants Bank did not hesitate in identifying Drouillard as the armed bandit who swooped more than $15,000 into a canvas bag after backing teller Lewis against the wall, and cowering six customers of the bank.
He was also identified by George Meloche, turnkey of the county jail as one of two men who attempted to rob the Amherstburg mail car and who shot him in the leg.

MAGNESIA FINE FOR ACID STOMACH

Quickly Neutralizes Acidity, Stops Fermentation, Sweetens the Stomach.

Nine people in ten, when food upsets the stomach, causing distress, think they have indigestion. In reality they are suffering from "acid stomach." An excess of acid in the stomach causes gas, heartburn, bloating and sourness.
To have a strong healthy stomach, capable of easily and normally digesting three hearty meals a day you simply must keep these stomach acids neutralized and the stomach contents sweet. No artificial digestants are necessary. Just get a few ounces of Bismarck Magnesia from any good drug store and take a teaspoonful of the powder or two tablets in a half glass of water right after eating, or whenever the slightest pain is felt. The result is amazing and you will be delighted with the almost instant relief it brings. This famous stomach-sweetener combines Magnesia and Bismuth in desirable proportions and is not only splendidly effective but perfectly harmless. Its regular use keeps the stomach sweet, strong and healthy all the time.

Bismarck Magnesia is well known to druggists everywhere and is used as naturally by more than a half million people who now eat as they please, in reason with no more fear of indigestion.

The Case of the West.
WESTERN CANADA cannot charge that its members are not placing its case faithfully and well before the House of Commons. A. J. LEWIS of Swift Current took up the conditions faced by farmers in that district. A day or so ago THE ADVERTISER reviewed the speech of Mr. SPEARMAN of Red Deer, in which he pictured conditions and problems of Alberta, especially in the district north of the main line of the C. P. R. It may now be interesting to see what Mr. Lewis has to say for the Swift Current territory, much farther east.

Mr. Lewis took up the statement made a few days ago by Mr. McMURRAY of Winnipeg, that farming was not a paying proposition. "The same sentiment," he said, "has been expressed by a good many members of this House. I can only corroborate what has already been said. As far as my personal experience is concerned, I am intimately associated with at least 500 families of farmers, and I want to say without any exaggeration that not five per cent of these people have been running their farms on a paying basis. Just before I came to Ottawa a gentleman got on the train with me, and we were talking about conditions. He said to me, 'I actually paid out last year, or the year before, $11,000 more than I received. This year I have done almost the same thing, having paid out nearly $10,000.' Then, when you take into consideration the fact that he has an equipment valued in the neighborhood of $140,000, on which no interest has been paid, and that he did not receive a cent in wages for managing that great business, you can begin to realize the appalling conditions that exist in Western Canada. With regard to the great majority of these 500 families, almost without exception the half-section farmers have each lost in the neighborhood of $800 to $2,000. I am not going to say that these men are failures. We have the finest people that can be found in the country. As regards the land there, I believe it will make good; but it will make good only when conditions surrounding agriculture and those elements that enter into the production of agricultural commodities are made satisfactory to the western people. That is not good literature to induce immigrants to come to this country, and it is up to us to legislate to remove these conditions and to make the basic industry of Canada profitable to the masses. That is all we are asking for at the present time."

THE member for Swift Current went only half the distance. It was not necessary for him to come all the way to Ottawa simply to point out the poor conditions in the west today; any manufacturing concern in the east could have furnished the same information. What parliament exists for is to cure these conditions, and it is a right to expect that members, in debate, shall not only bring to the surface the conditions that need correction, but proceed to offer helpful suggestions as indicative of the lines along which reform should be undertaken. A man who has such a knowledge of western agriculture should be able to start on again where he left off at that particular part of his address.

Later on in his address he came to the question of the Canada Wheat Board, and it may be in this he intended to find a method for solving some of the problems that confront Western Canada.

Mr. LEWIS claims that seven-tenths of the wheat grown in Western Canada immediately finds its way to the market. This quick sale is necessary to pay the store bills, wages of hired men, threshing charges, etc. The result is that with this great rush of grain, the market becomes flooded, the price drops and the European buyer comes in and stocks up at the lowest ebb.

"Anyone who has observed the conditions of the market during the last four or five months," said Mr. LEWIS, "will see that the demand for Canada Wheat Board is based upon an economic fact. There was no reason in the wide world why the farmer should get $1.64 at Port William as soon as the grain was threshed, and then immediately following Christmas, $1.06. Today the price has gone up to $1.40."

Figures from other sources show that the average price paid to the farmer for the 1921 grain crop was $1.14, while the average value of it now is $1.56.

It should be accepted, as a cardinal fact in the situation, that government should be willing to foster any measure that will give the farmer the full advantage of the market price of his grain, and that will see to it that the grain goes to the market at the most favorable time. Agriculturists cannot, and are not asking more than fair world prices for their produce, but they do ask that the marketing machinery be so adjusted that they be brought close to the ultimate consumer, and that there shall be an elimination of those who get in on the line between growers and consumers, and make more money out of grain they never see, or ever hope to see, than do the men who prepare the land, sow and reap the harvest. The details of such a scheme could be worked out by those who are experts in such matters.

There can be no question about it—Western Canada needs attention. It has problems that have never been settled right. Ontario manufacturers and merchants are as much interested as any section in that matter, and any reasonable plan that does not involve national credit beyond the stage justified by improved receipts to actual growers, will be certain to get a careful hearing in the House.

A Worthy Record.
THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE has issued the second volume of "Letters from the Front." The first volume gave in letters home the experiences of the boys at the front. The second volume contains short biographies of all the B. of C. boys who fought or fell in the great war. They form two large volumes.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce is one of Canada's big banks, among the big four. Its agencies cover not only Canada, but a large part of the world. One is struck in reading the places in which the boys served and fought, with the fact that if the bank is extensive, the boys covered, too, a "far flung battle line," in every phase of the great war. From the prologue we take the following: "Their story for the most part is, naturally enough, that of the Canadian corps, but many served with imperial units, and not a few with the allied forces, not only in France and Belgium, but also on the high seas and in Italy, Serbia, Turkey, Egypt, India and Southern Africa."

The first member of the staff to come into action was a reservist in the Coldstream Guards, who was stationed at a branch in Western Canada, and rejoined his regiment in the field during the advance of French's "Contemptibles" from the Marne in 1914.

Another thing that strikes one very forcibly is a mental comparison between the portraits of the bank's boys and the portraits that appeared from time to time during the war in the London Illustrated Times. It would be hard to find finer looking boys than either. The mind was taken back to the portraits in the London Illustrated by looking at the faces of the boys who fell.

The publication of these volumes does great credit to the hearts of the men who control the bank. It brings home to all the personal part of each, and will be cherished in the homes of many thousands. It will be a freside companion in the ages to come. The great war will never be forgotten and the preservation of the records of the glorious part taken by these boys is a very worthy work. We little knew how great the

NO. 167—MATHEMATICAL ABILITY.

If you were hiring a bookkeeper you would want to get one to whom mathematics came easily, wouldn't you? One to whom mathematics is, so to speak, second nature? But it does not follow that the man who is well grounded in mathematics, and who is able upon occasions to pass severe tests in one or more of its branches, is necessarily one who can live with mathematics eight or more hours a day, year in and year out, and be happy at it.

If you want to know whether mathematics and the man or woman to whom you are talking mix well, look straight into his or her face. If your subject is a natural-born mathematician, there is a good development of the skull back of the external angle of the eye, below the eyebrows. It gives a squareness and width to that part of the face.

A good development of the brain under this part of the skull is essential to all the processes of mental calculation. The person who has it is the one who can add up a column of figures unhesitatingly and with confidence. It is the faculty principally of arithmetic. For in the higher forms of mathematics other faculties, having to do with reason and logic also are involved.

TO THE EDITOR

CIVIC MATTERS.
Editor Advertiser:

Sir,—I permit me to ask for a small space in your paper on a few matters that might be of interest to the taxpayers of London. I noticed recently that Ald. Ashton stated at a meeting of No. 2 committee that something should be done to relieve some of the citizens who are complaining of the excessive paving charges and sewer charges, that they are being asked to pay, and on work that was put through on the two-third clause in the council, and also on work that exceeded the engineer's estimates in some cases 25 per cent.

This seems a rather late time to look at this matter. Why did he in every case in 1921 vote for each and every job that came up on the two-third clause, knowing that the ratepayers on the streets affected did not sanction the job? It looks like working the two ends against the middle, wanting to serve two masters, and the worst of all, the ratepayers are being asked to pay for it.

The mayor also claims he is opposed to the two-third clause, and was opposed to it last year, but only in talk, as you will find his name among those that voted to put improvements down on the two-third clause last year. Why all this talking, and believing one way and doing another? Action is the only thing that counts, so we must be guided by the minutes of last year's council, and you will find both of these names voting for the two-third clause.

Springbank Dam.—The people voted this down, and in spite of this the council is trying to slip it over under the silly disguise that it won't cost the citizens one cent. Who ever heard of anyone in any place on earth putting down a $141,000 dam at no cost to the citizens? Sounds very much like the fake advertisements one reads in the yellow journals and publications, that never question anything that appears in their columns. The mere fact that the parks commission did not use more than half of their mill last year is no sign that the time will not come when they will use it, and by not using it the citizens simply saved that amount. Now they want to capitalize that other half mill and make it fill up a twelve or fifteen thousands dollar sinking fund and interest charge on the capital expenditure to build the dam, and still it will not cost the citizens one cent. It would be a good lesson if someone would get out an injunction and prevent the building of it under these conditions. There is no one more anxious than the writer to see the dam built, so that the river improvements can go on, but the rights of the citizens' vote must be respected, otherwise there will be more dissatisfied people than ever before, and justly so. Besides the time is not ripe for building the dam. The price of cement has only come down a very little since the peak price, and in another year the chances are that it will be much lower, and in the meantime at the next election put it to the people again to vote on.

Another side of the question—suppose that they do use up the unused half mill for interest and sinking fund, and then the park board decides in a year or so that they will require a full mill for parks work, the act permits them to get it, and they will have it. I am only pointing this out to show how ridiculous is the idea that the citizens will not have to pay one cent for the dam. It is high time that trying to kid the public stopped.

I am in favor of building a dam and all river improvements, and voted for it, and will vote for it again, and will do all I can to boost it along in the future, as I have done in the past, but I try to fool the public on this "no cost game." The mayor also made the statement that any expenditure over $25,000 would have to go to the people. This, of

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

Editor Advertiser: Sir,—I do hope and pray that the present government which has just been voted into power by this country will see their way clear to amend the criminal code for the purpose of abolishing capital punishment in this young nation.

In my opinion, the law as it stands today comes in direct conflict with Christianity. We are safe in saying that capital punishment is in flagrant contravention of the teachings of our Lord and Master, a usurpation of power that no custom can justify, a rebellious defiance of the Saviour who came upon this earth to teach mercy, truth and forgiveness.

No country can ever hope to prosper which retains capital punishment on its statute books. Capital punishment and Christianity can no longer march shoulder to shoulder. We are coming to the parting of the ways. Christianity objects to capital punishment because the Lord himself condemned it.

Legalized killing must go. It is the only form of crime denied the individual, but preserved in the process of the state. It falls in its aim to serve society. It writes God's law in earthly statute books and becomes the chief offender. It destroys, but it cannot renew. It punishes! Yes, if we think of the broken hearts of wives and mothers and innocent babies. It works an example! True, but an example of blood and revenge and murder, and as it sows so it reaps. It protects! It protects the world from one man's hand that may easily be held, but it gives a shield against the malignity of a thousand passions by its crime unloosed. It deters; but it deters only love and good and the growth of the brotherhood of man. Criminal tendencies are due largely to conditions for which the state, rather than the individual, is responsible.

Because the commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill" applies to the state as well as the individual—that imperative command amidst the thunders of Sinai leaves no room for debate or doubt; it is succinct, positive, direct, and comes direct from the Father. The command is still here, old, but ever new, immutable, imperishable, and leaves no space for quibbling or dissimbling. "Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord." Theoretically, we

COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL
How to Avoid Spring Fever

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

HERE will come balmy days soon when the pleasant weather will seem to sap all the strength from your muscles, and that tired feeling we call "spring fever" will lay hold on you. Our grandmothers at this time would always go to the shelf and bring down the spring tonic. Or they would send us out for some special herb which would be brewed as a tonic.

What value these home remedies had lay in digging for them in long tramps in the open air. Fresh air and exercise is the best tonic for "spring fever." One of the best ways for the average city man to take this Mother Nature tonic is by planting a garden. No matter how small the plot, it will serve the purpose by taking you out into the open air and by giving you exercise through digging and hoeing and planting.

Working regularly in the garden will relieve that mental and physical condition that makes you feel only half alive—that chronic grouchesness, "sluggish liver" and general rundown condition in which winter often leaves the body. And if your garden is a good one you will get more strength and stamina from radishes and onions than from all the sassafras tea you can drink. There is a tonic, too, in young Irish potatoes cooked with jackets on.

Hoe-handle medicines will not cure all diseases, but it is better for preventing and curing "spring fever" than medicine out of a bottle.

Those Pretty Teeth
How careful people get them

Careful people—millions of them—are brushing their teeth in a new way. They do it almost the world over, and largely by dental advice. Whiter teeth is one result. You see them everywhere. Now we urge you to try the method which they use. Ask us for a ten-day test.

Just remove the film
It is film that makes teeth dingy. That viscous coat clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. The tooth brush used in old ways has left much of it intact. Film is what discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. Most people's teeth are kept cloudy by it, more or less. Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. It breeds millions of germs, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

All these troubles have been constantly increasing. And most of them are traced to film which old-way brushing left on teeth.

What must be done
Dental science, after long research, has found two film combatants. Able authorities have proved

SCORES GENOA CONFERENCE AS "BAD BUSINESS"

Mrs. J. G. McLennan Declares Proposed Plans Are Fundamentally Wrong.

ATTENDED ARMS PARLEY

Washington Woman Gives Interesting Address Before London Canadian Club.

From the point of view of Mrs. John Stewart McLennan of Washington, a woman who had the privilege of attending all the plenary sessions of the disarmament conference, of discussing it with the members of the British delegation from Mr. Balfour down, and who has been closely in touch with the American delegation, the outstanding achievements of the conference were cementing a permanent and unbreakable friendship between Great Britain and the United States; setting the Pacific question for the next forty years and possibly for all time to come; the agreement reached upon the part of the nine powers involved with regard to a ratio of naval strength; rebuilding of the Pacific wing of a world in ruins, and the concrete example thus afforded for the rebuilding of the other wing.

The strongest meat presented by any speaker for assimilation to the Women's Canadian Club this season was offered on Monday afternoon by Mrs. McLennan, "American by birth, British and Canadian by choice, wife of a Canadian senator," in a masterly review of the disarmament conference, in the course of which interesting sidelights were given on the various delegations participating and their backgrounds at home.

It behooved the members of her audience to put on their best thinking caps and keep their wits nimble. Every sentence contained some bit of valuable authentic information, closely related to what preceded or followed.

Explains Genoa Parley.
In addition to an illuminating description of the conference and its achievements, the speaker lucidly explained the Genoa conference, though she laughingly related, she had been warned in certain quarters in Toronto not to touch it, while half a dozen or so outstanding men of the province had encouraged her to "go to it."

Beginning with the genesis of things, Mrs. McLennan emphasized the complete harmony existing from the beginning with regard to the conference between Great Britain and the United States. It would never have been called unless months before it had been recognized that the two great powers would co-operate. In the face of this, the attitude of the French politicians was amusing. They had conceived the idea that Britain was on her last legs, the American conference an offensive against Britain, and that the part of France was to carry the olive branch to Washington to patch up the trouble, and in addition, to get all she could out of the conference for herself.

To Mrs. McLennan, Mr. Balfour had stated while her guest at dinner two nights before the close of the conference, "If the United States and Great Britain keep on as now, the world has stopped reeling." France, throughout the address was shown up in an unfavorable light, which evoked a searching question from a former president of the Canadian Club, Mrs. Donald McLean, at the close of the lecture.

Criticizes France.
Two criticisms levelled at France by the speaker and at the politicians rather than the people ("No place in the world is politics and the people more widely separated," she said), were France's protest against naval disarmament reduction and insistence upon retaining submarine protection, obviously not to insure safety from German aggression, and her attitude with regard to insistence upon Germany paying the full indemnities fixed by the "Versailles fiasco."

Japan, one of the important nations, while coming to the conference with something of the attitude of "the young man feeling his oats," ultimately revealed a fine altruism. The conference, according to the Ingersoll's Tax Rate Set at 41 Mills on Dollar.

INGERSOLL, March 20.—At tonight's meeting of the council a bylaw to provide for the levying and collecting of taxes was passed. The amount to be raised is $127,688.62, for which a rate of 41 mills on the dollar will be required. The tax rate last year was 39 mills on the dollar. The total assessment this year is $3,180,275.

A grant of $500 was made by the council to the citizens band, for which they will give ten open air concerts during the summer.

Permanent street work on Bell street was discussed, but no definite action was taken. speaker, could best be likened to a fever chart, running high at first, everybody in Washington, down to the least important door-boy, filled with the expectancy, feeling that the millennium was about to arrive. The trouble began when the naval powers around the table got down to details regarding the scrapping of naval armaments and fixing a ratio of strength. Down, down went the chart to depths of depression and discouragement, to a point where it was scarcely dared to hope the conference would not be wrecked.

Mutsu Was Obstacle.
The first big obstacle presented was the Japanese super-dreadnought of the Elizabethan type, the Mutsu. The Japanese refused to scrap it, and this refusal would throw out all the ratios. What the conference did not know, and what the Japanese mistakenly believed the conference understood, was that the ship had been paid for by the offerings of the children in all the schools of Japan, an act of self-sacrifice and finest sentimentality. The Japanese delegation consulted with the Japanese government at home, with the result that messengers were sent out to all the schools, and just at the time when things seemed darkest in the conference the message arrived that the children of Japan would see their battleship scrapped as a sacrifice for the peace of the world.

Graphically, the speaker told of the springing of a bomb by the French in refusal to give up any part of naval armaments, and insisting upon increase by 75 per cent. Building of a new navy on the part of one nation would make futile all the agreements of other nations concerning ratios. "American sympathy for France of generations standing succumbed that day," she said.

The failure to outlaw submarines was the regrettable feature of the conference, but, "making the best of a bad bargain," declared the speaker, a concession which kept France in the conference and saved it from wreck.

Lauds Japanese.
The Japanese government was lauded for doing another beautiful thing, taking a further step in the policy of renunciation in voluntarily offering to withdraw from Shantung, thus starting the fever chart on the upward grade again to the high-water mark of triumphant achievement. Great Britain followed the example of Japan. The renunciation of trade concessions in China, with attendant need for protection removed the chief barrier to settling China's tariff. A further step in making China safe was the placing of the Chinese Eastern Railway under a board of administration responsible to the nine powers.

A triumph of the conference was the "four-power pact" of Great Britain, Japan, France and the United States not to form an offensive alliance or take any critical steps without first taking time to "breathe and discuss."

So far as the place of the conference was concerned, it was termed by the speaker the logical one, midway between east and west, the least exhausted of the powers in the great war, the one likely to incur the least risk by such a conference, the only power which received no indemnity, for the valid reason it had no right to indemnity. Canada, in the same geographical position, could not act, owing to British connection.

Concerning the Genoa conference, Mrs. McLennan stated she had talked it over with all the British delegation, seen all the records of the American delegation, and thoroughly discussed the matter with seven representatives of different points of view. The Russian embassy the night before leaving for Canada, the Russians with one accord declared they had not slept for 48 hours before the decision of the United States was announced for fear the States would participate in the conference.

Claims Plan All Wrong.
The first call was for an economic conference. France was insisting that Germany should pay the ratio of reparations fixed at Versailles. It had been economically proved that Germany could not pay the indemnities with gold for the reason she had none. The only way to meet these would be with goods, which would spell unemployment in Great Britain and the United States, ultimate liability falling upon the Allies and further unbalancing of world trade. When the speaker was in Birmingham a year ago there were 500,000 unemployed in that city alone. A bathroom tap, the product of one large firm, was selling for 9s. A similar tap of better quality, made in Germany, was retailing for 2s 6d.

The only way such a conference would be possible, stated Mrs. McLennan, would be to give the soviet government recognized standing at the conference, give the Allies trade concessions for exploitation purposes in Russia, to be turned over to Germany, the money to finance Germany to be supplied by the United States. The United States did not believe any more in the exploitation of Russia than in the exploitation of China. Before the answer of the United States was given seven of the smaller powers of Europe had formed a military alliance ready to register their disapproval by going to war in a month.

Earning About Social Service

London Girls Getting Insight This Week Into Local Welfare Activities.

The Social Service Week, held under the auspices of the London Girls' Unit, opened Monday evening, at the Memorial Parish House, a well-attended meeting. A program has been admirably planned to give the C. G. I. T. groups and other organized classes of the city insight into the meaning of social service work carried on in the city.

Miss Bertha Smith, supervisor of the Welfare Work, gave a most interesting address on the way our needs of the city are met, and the following heads, bringing the various ways the girls could carry on their work: public health department, child welfare, hospital nurses, sanatorium aids, pensioners, institutions, the industrial exchange, and the juvenile court. Speaking of the juvenile court, Miss Smith stated that it had been instituted just, but hoped it would be soon. "This court deals with children who have broken the law and prevents them from mixing with hardened criminals. The prevention of crime is the object of it," she said.

Speaking of the Day Nursery, Miss Smith stated: "In my opinion, the institution is the best we have in the city. We find children left at nursery by mothers who are working all day. These children receive wonderful care and the charge is only 25 cents for the first child and 10 cents for others of the same family."

Miss Symonds of the Victorian

Clever Miss 1922 Evolves New Type of "Fascinator"

ANYBODY who was alive and old enough to take notice of the sartorial doings of womankind during the prudish eighties and the modern nineties, will recall without effort the "fascinators" with which lovely women were wont to swathe their heads in winter, her shoulders in milder weather.

Fashioned of yarns both soft and otherwise "ice wool," and especially prickly variety, was esteemed as ultra-smart—these little shawls, capes and scarves were as essential a part of a maiden's equipment as today her many sweaters are.

Order of Nurses, also gave a short address, during which she outlined a typical day of a Victorian Nurse. Mrs. R. M. Graham of the Mothers' Pension Board, who investigates cases in London and Middlesex county, related to the girls many ways in which they could assist her, in helping needy families with whom she comes in contact.

Following the addresses, the girls went into committee, and the following ways in which they thought they could assist were brought up, under the various heads discussed: Public health, by cultivating their own health and spreading public health ideals; child welfare, by helping with well-baby clinics and reporting children that look undernourished, also by helping at the Day Nursery; out-patient department at Victoria Hospital, by urging people to make use of the department and helping in the free children's clinics Tuesday mornings, also by arranging for children to attend the clinic; school nurses, by getting in touch with nurses and helping to supply clothes, etc.; sanatorium aid, by helping to give out milk and clothing; Victorian Order, by providing layettes and old linen; juvenile court, encouraging the Big Sister movement; getting working girls in homes into church groups and gym classes, and by visiting girls in the detention room at the shelter; mothers' pensions, by finding names of girls and children who might be added to groups or looked after in some way and helping mothers to make clothes; institutions, entertaining the children and forming groups, arranging sing-songs and providing clothing, music and books, also by reading to patients and making scrap books for the hospitals and shelters.

Miss Dorothy Wilson presided at the meeting and the following field work was planned for the week: Visits to the shelter, Salvation Army Home, Protestant Orphans' Home, Aged People's Home, Technical School, especially the domestic Nursery.

The W. M. S. of Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Robert Heard, Hamilton road. An interesting paper, "The Planting of the Seed" was given by Mrs. Cree. Mrs. Davis acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Butterworth. Several delightful solos by Mrs. William Sells were greatly enjoyed. Tea was poured by the hostess at an attractive table, decorated with daffodils and narcissi, and was assisted by Mrs. Davis and Mrs. James Hendries.

GRACE COUNTRY CLUB.

At the last meeting of the Grace Country Club, held at the home of Miss Agnes C. McKay, two splendid papers were given by Misses Anna-belle McKay and Mabel McKellar, the "Life of Dr. Margaret McKellar," following which the social committee entertained the other girls for the remainder of the afternoon. Tea was served.

HUNTER-PARSONS.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the Methodist parsonage, Dorchester, Wednesday, March 15, at 10:30 a.m., when Miss Mae Parsons, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Parsons, Dorchester, became the bride of Mr. Roy Hunter, also of Dorchester. Rev. S. J. Thompson officiated. The bride wore her traveling suit of navy blue with sand-colored hat. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter left by train for London, taking the train from there to Detroit, where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will take up their residence on the groom's farm near Dorchester.

HAPPY HOOLIGAN.

Many thanks for the large donation of seeds. Seeds sent in by the Box-ites have been a great help in swelling our hospital fund.

GIVES HELP IN RETURN.

Dear Miss Grey—I saw where someone wants little things for a friend's new baby. If you send me her address I'll mail a few things my baby has now grown out of. The readers kindly helped me the same way, and I was very grateful, so will try and pass on to another the same way. No. 9 was a bonny boy, Miss Grey, and I am sure glad to say, all of my children are fairly well. The next to this baby, Miss Grey, are twins, aged 2 years (boys), and the next again twins a boy and a girl, aged 4 1/2 years, so without the other bigger ones even it keeps me very busy I can tell you. Good luck to the fund. I'll send some next time.

MOTHER OF TWINS.

You have a large family to take care of, Mother of Twins, and I am quite sure you are kept very busy. It is splendid of you to help others in turn, as you were helped in your time of need. I am mailing the address you asked for.

MISS GREY

OFFERS HOME TO YOUNG GIRL.

Dear Cynthia—This is my second attempt to get into the Mail-Box, but each time, guess I only found the W. M. S. E. hope to be more successful this time. I like every one else, am coming for help, or shall I say to offer it? I was wondering if through the Mail-Box I could get in touch with a poor little city girl who would like a holiday in the country this spring and summer. There is only my hubby and self, and as hubby is away nearly all day I often get lonely, so I was wondering if there was any girl about 15 1/2 to 16 (or older) who would like to come and stay with me. I have some nice dresses she could have and would give her pocket money every week, also we would pay her fare here. I cannot have a school girl as we live too far from a school, but I thought one who had just left school might like to come, what little work there is to do is always finished in the morning, then go for a drive in our car to the lake or elsewhere, as I like to be out as much as possible. So you see she would have a good time with us and be one of us. I wonder if you have any seeds to spare? I have some Oriental Hoolylocks if "Leap Year Girl" would like to change for some Red Poppy. I am enclosing mite for sick kiddies, also 5 cents for postage on seeds. IMA WEE SCOTT.

P. S.—Perhaps there is a lady who knows of a poor girl who would like to come and who does not take The Advertiser. My address is with Miss Grey for anyone wishing to write. Would like answer before April.

I think you are offering help, more than asking for it. It is a wonderful

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN POTATO SOUPS

JUST at the end of winter potatoes are at their worst. New potatoes are always high when they first come into market and the old ones are soggy when cooked and wilted and shriveled and hard to pare.

But this vegetable is high in food value and must be included in the spring diet. Use it in soup for luncheon and see how good it is.

Potato Soup.

Two cups thinly sliced potatoes, 1 onion, 1-2 cup diced celery, 4 cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg. Wash and pare potatoes. Slice into cold water and let stand 15 minutes. Drain. Slice onion. Put onion, potatoes and celery in a smooth saucepan and pour over cold water to cover.

Let cook until the potatoes are soft. It will take about half an hour. There should be just enough water to prevent burning during cooking, but the water should be all boiled away when the potatoes are done.

Mash the potatoes slightly with a wire potato masher. Add milk and bring to the boiling point. Do not let boil. Break the egg into a cup and mix slightly with a fork. Do not beat. Stir egg into hot soup. Add butter, season with salt and pepper and serve at once.

This is a delicious and substantial potato soup. If a decided onion flavor is liked use two onions instead of one.

Potato Soup With Cheese.

Three cups milk, 1 onion, 1-2 cups mashed potato, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-3 cup grated cheese.

Slice onion and put in milk. Scald and remove onion. Stir potato into milk. Melt butter and stir in flour. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Add salt and pepper and cook gently for five minutes. Add cheese and keep hot over hot water until cheese is melted. Serve at once.

If you use an aluminum pan to cook the soup in be sure that the inside is not the least bit discolored. A smooth granite-iron saucepan is preferable to aluminum. A stained saucepan will make the soup dark colored and unappetizing.

Cream of Potato Soup.

Two large potatoes, 1 quart milk, 1 onion, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-4 cup tomato catsup.

Wash and pare potatoes. Cut in quarters and boil till tender. Drain and put through a ricer or rub through a sieve. Scald milk with onion. Remove onion and add mashed potatoes. Melt butter and stir in flour. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Season with salt and paprika and stir in catsup. Serve at once.

PARLOR FUN FOR EVERYONE

MATERIALS—Thin sheet of glass, tub of water, scissors.

PROBLEM—To cut the glass with the scissors.

SOLUTION: The secret of this lies in the fact that the glass will not break or crack while being cut under water. The water deadens the vibrations of the glass and scissors. The whole hand, all of the scissors and the glass must be completely immersed to assure success of this experiment.

A Newsboy Who Was Cheated of Ninety Pennies

BY JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, March 20.—It was Christmas Eve. A newsboy, not yet 9, was on his way home. His day's sales had netted him 90 cents.

A man stopped him. "Want to earn a quarter?" he asked. "Sure!" "Run over to Third Avenue and get my overcoat—wait a minute. How do I know you'll come back with the coat?" For answer the boy gave him his 90 cents to hold as bond.

The boy couldn't find the tailor shop. He returned. The man was gone—so was the 90 cents.

That was 43 years ago.

Today a little man stood in an office overlooking Times Square. He was in a building named after him. Below, on Broadway, his name was displayed to the world in electric lights. "The sign read 'Loew's State.'"

The little newsboy who was cheated of the returns of a long day's work in the cold was Marcus Loew. Today there is a theatre bearing the Loew name in every large city on the American continent, including London, Ont.

"That was my first lesson in the ways of the world," Loew told me. (How similar to that of Benjamin Franklin when he paid too much for his whistle.)

"When I was 9 I left school," he went on. "I worked for 35 cents a day in a map-making plant. I lost that job when I led a strike among the boys for 40 cents."

"When I was 11 I published a weekly newspaper. I solicited the ads and edited the paper by clipping news from the big dailies."

"I next went to work in a furnishing goods store for a relative. I worked from 6 in the morning until 10:30 at night and midnight on Saturdays."

"I left that job after I was given only half an hour for lunch on the day I was confirmed. I went to work for a concern employing my two older brothers. One had charge of the fur trimmings, the others of the dress trimmings. When I was 16 I was superintendent and boss of them both."

"I started a fur business of my own when I was 18. I failed when I was 19. I scraped together $6,000. I didn't pay much on the dollar. I paid in full those who came to collect first. Then I still owed $1,800. I worked as a salesman for $25 a week. It took me four years to pay that debt. And all the time I was courting. I would not get married until I was free of debt."

"That failure was my real start. When I went into business again I was known as an honest man. I re-

property next to some owned by David Warfield, the noted actor. Warfield was a better actor than business-man. Loew told him others were imposing on him. Before long Marcus had assumed control over Warfield's property so complete that he would not allow Dave to go near it. That marked the beginning of one of the most unusual friendships in the world. Warfield and Loew eat lunch together every day that both are in town. They are often referred to as Damon and Pythias.

It was Warfield who induced Loew to enter the show business. Loew started with a penny arcade sixteen years ago. Then he bought one on Fountain Square, Cincinnati.

One day Loew went across the Ohio River to Covington, Ky. He saw his first movie there. It was in a private house. After the owner had filled the house with children he locked the doors so none could sneak in—and none could have escaped in case of fire. The owner operated the projector and lectured as the film unrolled. "There, he hit him! Ah, the villain is dead!" He told what had happened after the audience had already seen it.

Loew telegraphed for a machine and some film. He partitioned off 25 feet of his penny arcade and rented chairs from an undertaker. His first theatre cost him $150. Almost 5,000 attended the first day.

Loew built 27 theatres the past year. They cost from one to six millions each.

"How many theatres do you own now?" I asked him.

"One hundred and thirty odd," he answered.

POLLY AND PAUL AND PARIS

CHAPTER LI.—The Serpent's Tongue.

By Zoe Beckley

VIOLET'S Breton maid with her quaint full skirt and starched cap, opened the door to Paul.

"Come in," called Violet from another room, "take me as you find me."

She was seated before a writing-table littered with papers, typewritten sheets, odds and ends of work. She rose with an air of weariness but flashed a welcoming smile.

"But I'm interrupting," apologized Paul with a glance at the desk. "Ought to have known better than to come at this hour."

"Not a bit of it! I was bored to death. Can't make my work come right. I've written this story five times—and it's all wrong still."

"You're out of sorts, Vi—what's the matter?"

She moved restlessly about the room, trailing her vandyke-grown hair and came to a stop before Paul, looking at him meditatively.

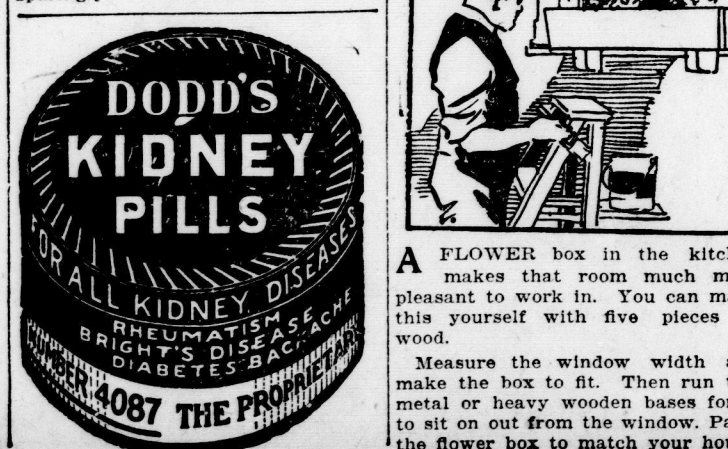

"I am out of sorts. Don't know why. Just a mood . . . I'm like that."

"Listen, Violet, you need a walk in the sunshine. Let's have a tramp in the Bois."

"All right," She disappeared, returning in a few minutes in smart street clothes.

They took a taxi to the Place de la Concorde and strolled from there up the broad, tree-shaded Champs Elysees.

The cool marble walls of the famous seafood restaurant were grateful. Although it was early, the big semi-circular oyster-bar was busy, well-dressed men and women perched on stools around it, intent on their oysters and crabmeat and their shells of luscious scallops. The little brown-clothed tables were filling up, but Paul found a vacant one in a corner. Violet sipped her white wine but ate sparingly.

4087 THE PROPRIETOR

He began to write plans to her. She should come to the station if she could; if not, he would be at the Great Western Hotel. She would telephone to him there and they could arrange to meet and discuss what they should do. . . . He would like to go away with her directly they met, but there were certain things to see to. He wrote, "But I can only take you—"

His pen stopped. Familiar words! He repeated them to himself, and their conclusion and their circumstance appeared and stood, as with a sword, across the passage of his thoughts. "But I can only lead you downwards. I cannot lead you upwards."

As with a sword—

He sat back in his chair and gazed upon this armed intruder to give it battle.

The morning passed and the afternoon while still he sat, no more moving than to sink lower in his seat as the battle joined and as he most dreadfully suffered in its most dreadful onsets. Towards five o'clock he put out his hand without moving his position and drew towards him the letter he had begun. The action was as that of one utterly undone. He very slowly tore it across, and then across again, and so into thinnest fragments till his fingers could no more fasten upon them. He dropped him arm away and opened his hand, and the white pieces fluttered in a little cloud to the floor.

Presently he drew himself up to the table and began to write, writing very slowly because his hand trembled so. In half an hour he blotted the few lines on the last sheet:

"So, simply what I want to do is to let our step—if we take it—be mine, not yours. We shall forget absolutely that you ever wrote. It's as though it had never been written. On Tuesday I will write and ask you, 'Shall I come up to you?' So if you say 'Yes' the action will have been entirely mine. It will start from there. This hasn't happened. And during these days in between, just think like anything over what I've said. Honor can't have any degree; Nona, any more than truth can have any degree; whatever else the world can quibble to bits it can't partition those: truth is just truth and honor is just honor. And a marriage vow is a pledge of honor like any other pledge of honor, and if one breaks it one breaks one's honor, never mind what the excuse is. There's no conceivable way of arguing out of that. That's what I shall ask you to do on Tuesday and I'm just warning you so you shall have time to think beforehand."

He took his pen, and steadied his hand, and wrote:

"And make every failure a gain, make it serve as a lesson for future action."

He could hear the homeward movements about the office. It was time to go. He wheeled his bicycle to the letter box at the corner of The Precincts. As he dropped in his letter, the evening edition of the paper came bawling around the corner.

AUSTRIA DECLARES WAR ON SERBIA

He shook his head at the paper the boy held out to him and rode away. What had that kind of thing to do with him?

Unutterable darkness! He lived within it during the days that followed while he awaited the day appointed to write to Nona again. He had put away that for which, with a longing that was almost physical in its pain, his spirit craved; and he craved the more terrible for his denial of it. Whatever she said when he asked, whichever way she answered him, he would be brought relief from his intolerable stress. If she maintained honor above love, his weakness, he knew, would be welded into strength, as the presence of another brings enormous support to timidity; if she declared for love, his mind surged within him at the imagination of bursting away once and for ever the squeamish principles which for years, hedging about his conduct on this side and on that, had profited nothing those on whose behalf they had been erected and his own life had desolated into barrenness.

He was little disposed, in these dismays and in this darkness, to divert attention to the international disturbances which now were rumbling across the newspapers in portentous and enormous headlines. Ireland was pressed away. It was all Europe now—thrones, chancelleries, councils, armies. He tried to say, "What of it?" Many in Great Britain tried to say, "What of it?" Crisis and deadlocks again! Meaningless and empty words, for months and years past worked to death and rendered hollow as empty vessels. Some one would climb down. Some one always climbed down.

Nobody climbed down.

The cauldron whose seething and bubbling had entertained some, agitated some, some nothing at all concerned, suddenly boiled over, and poured in boiling fat upon the flames, and poured in flames upon the hearth of every man's concerns.

On Friday the Stock Exchange closed. On Saturday Germany declared war on Russia. In Sunday's papers Sabre read of the panic run on the banks, people fighting to convert their notes into gold. One London bank had suspended payment. Many had shut out failure only by minutes when midday permitted them to close their doors. People were besieging the provision shops to lay in stores of food.

And poured in flames upon the hearth of every man's concerns. All his concerns, the crisis with

BOOKS

EDITED BY CABR.

THE PHARISEES. By M. Morgan Gibbon. New York: Doubleday, Page and Company. $1.75.

ONE of the characters in this story defines "Pharisees" to another as being those who pretend to be different from what they really are.

It is, perhaps, a simplified and expanded definition, but under it the people in the story to whom the title is applied become illustrative of a large section of life everywhere, as well as in the unimportant dot of earth wherein, for the most part, they live.

The scene is, except for some chapters whose action is transferred to London, in the South of Wales, and the author seems to know that region and the Welsh people and temperament well, and to have for them a genial, half-loving, half-festive feeling that charmingly manifests itself in various ways.

To the Ethiopian who cannot change the skin the author comments upon one occasion, "and the leopard whose spots remain while life lasts might be added the typical Welshman. For however far he may roam from the principality, however years he may be in exile, he remains intrinsically Welsh, being entirely lacking in the quality of acquiring even the veneer of any other nationality."

So it naturally follows that Welshmen abroad—this term includes England—foregather, and if you have any doubts of the veracity of this statement, look at any prominent Welshman in office, and you will find that he partly takes upon himself with fellow-countrymen.

The story is partly taken up with the development of a young fellow not lacking in talent but oversupplied with temperament, sensitive to his surroundings and liking to have his human contacts comfortable. He does lack the firm fibre of character that would enable him to make this sensitiveness an asset instead of a liability, and the foolish attitude of his mother toward him as he grows through the teens makes him weaker instead of stronger.

The structure of the story complicates in a lifelike way the destinies of several of its numerous characters. David is the name of the weak young man, and David's engagement to one girl, and his sudden marriage to another, the devotion of a fine young fellow, a farmer with a passion for books and a longing for some means of self-expression, to the young wife, the man's love and loyalty of another upstanding young Welshman for the girl who loved David and was left in the lurch, make an interesting complication in human emotions and in motives for consequent action.

The story touches many times on tragedy, some of it a bit sordid and some of it deeply touching; skirts the dark, the gloomy, the morbid, to be of the sort that genially mocks human frailties, and has much interesting narrative and graphic portrayal of varied character.

The author does not always sufficiently motivate the actions of his people, but, if one is generously minded, that may be attributed to their Welsh temperament; and the disintegration of David seems to proceed rather more rapidly than it would in reality. All the characters are refreshingly vital and distinctive in their personalities, and the story as a whole is written with noteworthy charm of manner.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

ELECTRIC FLOWERS

(By Olive Roberts Barton.)

"Oh," he laughed, "I'd forgotten I had you, Mr. Feather, until you pricked me."

When the large horseshoe had stopped talking Nick picked up the red feather again and put it into his pocket. "Well, I guess we've lost enough time and we'd better be on our way, Nancy," he said.

"Goodbye," called the horseshoe, "I'll be back with me more electricity into me remember not to touch me on your way back. What's the big black thing you are carrying?"

"It's a photograph record with a message from Longhead, the Wise-man," answered Nancy.

"Well, it's made of hard rubber, so electricity can't hurt it," said the horseshoe, "but take my advice and don't touch anything more on the Electric Mountain. Not even the flowers and ferns you see growing on the slope. They are not real, they are made up of all sorts of colored metals and full of electric shocks. They are put there to tempt you. If you touch them you'll be shocked so that you'll lose your memory, the same as when you touched the Cloth of Dreams."

"Thank you for your advice. We'll be extra careful," said Nick. "Come on, Nancy."

The walking now, although it was down hill—or down mountain—was good. No more cross-cross wires, no more sparks, no more ugliness. Everywhere there was lovely dewy green grass with mountain flowers of all kinds and colors scattered about. Yellow, red, purple, blue, pink and white, and smelling like their own dear old orchard at home in Maytime.

"I should love to take the princess a bouquet," sighed Nancy, looking at the blossoms longingly.

"No, no, come on," insisted Nick. "They're all dangerous. Humph, what's that?" Reaching his hand in his pocket he pulled out the red feather. "Oh," he laughed, "I'd forgotten I had you, Mr. Feather, until you pricked me. Do you wish to write another message?"

The red feather wrote on the magic paper, "Keep your eyes closed the rest of the way down the mountain. I shall guide you."

GRANTIES RUN CORLERS THREE GOALS IN THIRD PERIOD

Surprised With Two Goals in First 15 Seconds of Play—Vics Outscored Them in Second.

TORONTO, March 20.—Outskating Regina Victorias both ways and checking them close and hard during the last period, Granties ran in three goals and won the first game of the Allan Cup final at the arena tonight, 6 to 2. The O. H. A. champions scored the bulk of the westerners in the first fifteen seconds of play when Munro breaking up a Regina attack whirled towards the other goal and shooting as he hit the defence, beat McCusker for the first goal. Watson followed with another counter shortly afterwards giving a lead in the first three minutes of play.

The Victorias settled down after that and held their own during the balance of the period, which on the whole proved some ragged hockey. They scored the Corlers 2 to 1, and the period ended 5 to 2 for the Granties.

The second period was scoreless, but Regina had the best of the play. They outskated their opponents, took the bumps from their heavier attack without a whimper and kept boring in on the Granties' defence in a two and three-man attack. They also checked better than in the first period, dropping back fast to form a four and five-man defence which baffled Granties completely.

Granties Solve It. Granties, however, were solving it in the last five minutes of the period and only wonderful goalkeeping by the Victorias prevented Granties from adding to their score. There was nothing to the third period but the Corlers, they dominated the play from the start, forcing Regina back on their own goal, and keeping them there during almost the entire twenty minutes. McCusker was kept on the jump, but he played a great game, and in him can be credited the best of the Victorias' defence. They were away for an attack on the Granite goal, and they very seldom penetrated centre ice, and only a couple of occasions did they actually penetrate the Granties' defence at all. Granties have played better hockey, but the four-goal margin was earned.

An immense crowd, perhaps the largest of the season, witnessed the game. It was not a rough exhibition, but there was considerable tripping and hooking. Most of the real hockey was displayed in the second period.

IRISH THINK THEY'LL LIKE 7-MAN STYLE

Figure Their Subs Will Be Bigger Asset Tonight Than On Friday.

TORONTO, March 20.—Tonight's jammed house and the interest over the Allan Cup final has not detracted one iota from the interest in the second Stanley Cup game between Vancouver and St. Pats here tomorrow night. Tomorrow's game is under the Patrick rule of rule-seven-man hockey, and the difference between the two styles is a difference between the farthest boundary of no man's land.

St. Pats will be fighting for their lives tomorrow night. The Millionaires have one game under their belts under the Patrick rule, and if they do not win tomorrow will be handcuffed and shackled as far as the series is concerned. Friday night's game was a dingy, peppery affair, quite the best game of the year, and there is no reason why Vancouver's seven-man hockey should be a disappointment. St. Pats will not be as badly handicapped as generally considered in seven-man hockey. They have seven good men now, and both Rod Smylie and "Splash" Andrews will be far more useful in the seven-man game than they were in the six-man game. Smylie's heavy body-checking will count big with the extra two men on the ice. Andrews will be a terror in the seven-man game, and if he can dodge the husky ex-Dental boy's charging checks, Randall and Noble both lose the close-checking and Dye also loses his edge when he has to run for his cover.

Six-man hockey is the speed artist's game. Seven-man hockey is the slower, sturdier type, provided he can stickhandle.

SARNIA CARD LOOKS GOOD

Prudhomme, Canadian Amateur Welter Champ, Meets Frisco Fighter.

SARNIA, March 20.—The boxing card scheduled here Friday night with Art Prudhomme, Canadian amateur welter champion and former Olympic champion, and Jimmie Dugan of Frisco, east in the main event, promises to be the best staged here yet.

The other bouts carried all look good. Norman Cave, the husky Toronto 135-pounder, takes on Young Ott of Sarnia, and two bantams, Billy McCarty of Galt and Battling Esau, Port Huron, compete in two 125-pound bouts. Prudhomme has left the army and taken up boxing as a profession. Critics have seen him in action and claim he has improved a lot in every way. The heavy-hitting ex-Pat packs a punch and has the skill to back it up. He put four opponents away in a row over that route.

CAYUGA

Special to London Advertiser.

CAYUGA, March 20.—Two splendid papers were given at the March meeting of the Cayuga Women's Institute. Mrs. Eric Lewis spoke on "Telling the Story of Life to Children," and Rev. W. C. Almacor on "Social Service," with special reference to children. At the business meeting preceding the address $10 was voted to the famine fund and $10 to the Muskoka Hospital. It was also passed that an effort would be made to have the pupils of the Cayuga Public School take part in the annual school fair held in Cayuga each season. Arrangements are also being made for a course in sewing to be held the first two weeks in April.

The annual meeting of the directors of the Haldimand Women's Institute will be held in the basement of the Methodist Church on Tuesday evening, March 21. Dinner will be served by the ladies of the Cayuga branch of the W. I.

William Wild, a pioneer of North Cayuga, is receiving congratulations upon passing his 97th milestone on March 16. He is in fairly good health and in the possession of all his faculties.

The ladies of St. John's Church realized over $40 at their second sale of home-made cooking.

GETS CRACK FOOTBALLER

Sam Wilson, Member of Famous Soccer Family, Settles in Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, March 20.—Sam Wilson, a member of the famous family of Wilsons who have been international footballers in Scotland, has settled in Woodstock, and has been secured to play for the Oxford Rifles Football team of this city. He is a brother of Andy Wilson, the star centre forward, who has played in dozens of international games and who toured Canada with the Scottish team last year. He is expected to be a great asset to the Rifles team and to the Woodstock team in the W. F. A. series this summer. The football league this year will consist of six teams. It is expected, and Woodstock will probably be entered in the senior and intermediate series. Wilson plays outside left, and has a great reputation as a footballer.

Sport Flashes from Southern Camps

BOSTON, March 20.—The Red Sox staged a swatfest of fifteen hits, including homers by Harris and O'Rourke, better than in the previous period, dropping back fast to form a four and five-man defence which baffled Granties completely.

Workouts in the morning, and a first and second team contest in the afternoon on the Braves' schedule at St. Petersburg, Fla., today. Manager Mitchell said he was much encouraged by the pitching of Miller and Oeschger of the squad, promising the men harder work during the next two weeks.

At Eagle Pass yesterday the Athletics defeated the Braves 5 to 3. Hasty, Moore and Harris did the pitching for Mack's men, and held the Bronchos to seven hits.

DETROIT, March 20.—Twenty-one members of the Detroit American club are on their spring tour in the Pacific Coast, today with the Rochester club of the International League for a week's rest of the season. Among the players who will be on exhibition games are Anderson, Union, Columbus, Hamlet, Raleigh and Charles.

CLEVELAND, March 20.—Manager Specter of the Cleveland Americans will probably be out of the game for a week, according to advices received from St. Paul. Specter was injured by a knee in the second inning of yesterday's game with Cincinnati.

CHICAGO, March 20.—All the Chicago Nationals looked good in their 8 to 6 win over the Vernon Coast Stars at St. Paul. The Nationals' reports sent here. Arnold Stutz and blacksmith, new outfielders, got three hits and drove in three runs. Alexander pitched four innings with only one hit against him.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Manhattan's two big league baseball teams have far to go before they can hope to compete with the Yankees. The success with the teams of their respective circuits, fans of this city agree, is a long way off. The Yankees' small end of a 12 to 6 score against the White Sox yesterday at San Antonio, Texas, while the Yankees were beaten at New Orleans by the St. Louis Cardinals, the score being 13 to 10.

Brooklyn came through against the Louisville American Association team at Pensacola, Fla., winning 3 to 0. A feature of the game was the pitching of Earl Brown, who held the Louisville hitless for the three innings he was on the mound.

A Brooklyn defeat was made doubly bitter through the fact that Babe Ruth permitted a single to pass through the catcher's hands in the fifth inning. The White Sox sent Walter Hoyt on a balloon trip that lasted long enough for the Mount City lads to clinch the verdict.

Del Gainer has settled his salary differences with the St. Louis Cardinals. He will be paid $10,000 for the season. The Cardinals face south-paw pitching.

"Pie" Traynor, the Pittsburgh recruit from the Southern League, is showing such great form that it will be impossible to keep him from winning a berth on the Pirate infield.

The death of Catcher Dillhoefer leaves the St. Louis Cardinals with only Eddie Ainsmith and Clemens. A third string catcher is needed, and the recruits Benninghouse has the call. That is a tough name for the box scores.

Pat Moran says that he feels confident that his all San Francisco infield, made up of Bohne, Fonseca, Pinelli and Caveney, will fill the bill. Caveney's short has already made a fine impression on the Cincinnati manager.

Pat Collins, who developed into a worthy running mate to Hank Severell last year, is going big in the spring training work, and was certainly a lot of catching for the Browns.

Art Nehf of the New York Giants saw a bull fight at Piedras Negras, Mexico, the other day. One of the matadors was killed in the fight. Nehf has no desire to pitch in Mexico. The match today most of the fans was too good.

The Athletics are training at Eagle Pass, Texas, close to the Mexican border. Recently they played a game in Mexico, and were advertised as champions of the world. The Mexicans thrive on the "bull," also Mack, as a big crowd saw the game.

Harvey Hendrick, a former football and baseball star at Vanderbilt University, has been given a chance with the Boston Red Sox. He is an outfielder. Hitting seems to be his only weak point.

The failure of Catcher Schmidt to report to Pittsburgh is Manager Gibson's greatest worry. The Pirate leader is fortunate in having such a promising youngster as Gooch, although Schmidt will be badly missed if he continues to hold out.

Center field is Eddie Roush's regular position with the Cincinnati club. Geo. Burns played the same position for the Giants. Roush fails to sign up, Burns will be used at center, otherwise he goes to left field.

It is a certainty that George Burns' place in center field for the Giants will be taken care of either by Cunningham, with the club last year, or Shinnars, a recruit from Indianapolis.

Ty Cobb says that the addition of Peckinpaw makes the Washington club a strong pennant contender.

HUDSDONFIELD WINS. LONDON, March 20.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—In a Northern Union rugby match today, Hudsonfield defeated Oldham, 14 to 0.

PLAY FOR TITLE ONLY AT OLYMPIA

C. A. H. A. Agrees to Acceptance of Wills as International Trophy.

WON'T PLAY GERMANS

Canadian Body Votes in Negative Against Their Inclusion in World's Hockey League.

TORONTO, March 20.—W. R. Sexsmith of Portage la Prairie, Man., was chosen president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at the annual meeting of that body here this afternoon.

The other officers elected are: Honorary president, W. R. Granger, Montreal; vice-president, S. H. Quilty, Ottawa; honorary secretary-treasurer, F. H. Marples, Winnipeg; board of registrars, S. C. Holland, Montreal; R. C. Chambers, Port William; E. M. Thompson, Moose Jaw; W. A. Hewitt, Toronto, and the president, W. R. Sexsmith.

Registrars, W. A. Hewitt, Toronto, Messrs. F. H. Marples of Winnipeg, D. N. Gill of Ottawa, and W. A. Hewitt of Toronto were appointed a committee to revise the by-laws, constitution and rules. The committee will deal with the no outside issue raised by the Quebec association.

Allan Intermediates. The Allan Cup trustees will be asked to allow an intermediate team which defeats the senior champions in the branch play-offs to take part in the Allan Cup elimination. At present the rules admit only senior teams to the Allan Cup competitions.

It was decided to accept the Hamilton B. Wills Trophy as an international trophy for the championship of America, under certain conditions, one of which is that two of the trustees should be Canadian citizens, residents of Canada.

The trustees already appointed are William S. Haddock of Pittsburgh, president of the United States Amateur Hockey Association, and W. A. Hewitt, registrar of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. A third trustee is to be appointed and named by the Olympic committee, suggested by Mr. Wills. The Allan Cup winners will have the privilege of challenging for the trophy, which is defended by the United States champions.

Only in Olympic Years. The C. A. H. A. decided to recommend to the International Hockey League that the world's championship be held only in Olympic years, the next competition to be held in 1924 at Paris.

The report of the A. A. U. of C. investigation received from the committee, of which Dr. D. Bruce Macdonald was chairman, was adopted. It was decided that for the purpose of maintaining and increasing the interest in amateur hockey, the finals of the Allan Cup (senior Canadian championship), and O. H. A. Memorial Trophy (junior Canadian championship), be played alternately in the East and West, and on the best available ice, viz., artificial ice when weather conditions preclude the use of natural ice.

It was also decided that the presidency and annual meeting of the C. A. H. A. alternate yearly between the East and West. Thunder Bay being the dividing line, and considered in western territory.

NEW PRO LEAGUE REALLY FORMED

MONTREAL, March 20.—Definite announcement of the formation of the new Eastern Canada Baseball Association was made today. Joe Page, noted baseball scout, has been chosen president of the organization. Teams will be placed in Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec and Three Rivers.

The league will be limited to fifteen players each at a salary limit of $2,000 a month. The season will run from May 14 to Sept. 1, when clubs will be required to post $1,000 as forfeit money.

There is a runner on third base and three balls and two strikes on the batter. The next ball delivered, is a wild pitch that gets away from the catcher and rolls to the grandstand. It is the fourth ball on the batsman. The runner from third crosses home and the batsman is sent to second while the catcher is chasing the ball to the grandstand. The batsman failed to touch first base on his way to second. The ball is thrown to that base by the catcher, making the third out, retiring the side. Does the run score?

THE run scores. The four balls first on the batsman entitles him to first. In fact, the touch that bases on his way to second he made himself liable to be put out. However, it is impossible to make this play in the field in which the batsman fails to reach first, because he is entitled to that base on four balls. The act of the batsman in failing to touch first base has no bearing on the run.

MUTT AND JEFF.

THE MANAGER IS A REGULAR SLAVE DRIVER. ALL OF US BALL PLAYERS GOTTA DO TEN MILES ON THE ROAD EVERY MORNING.

WHOW! I AIN'T COVERED HALF THE DISTANCE AND MY FEET FEEL LIKE LEAD. I WONDER HOW JEFF'S STANDING IT?

I'M ALL IN. I DON'T THINK I CAN GET BACK TO THE HOTEL. WHOW!

WHAT'S THE IDEA?

WHY, I FIND I CAN DO THE TEN MILES MUCH QUICKER THIS WAY AND I AIN'T ALL IN WHEN I FINISH. EITHER?

GIDDAP!

Promising Yankee Recruit

A PLAYER who has been little heralded in the advance word, but who has an excellent chance to stick in the big show, is Camp Skinner of the New York Yankees. Skinner, a native of New York, is a promising pitcher. He was acquired from the Dallas team of the Texas League. He hit .327 in that league last season.

Letter From Pirates' Camp Gives An Intimate Glimpse of Happy Family

Mr. William Haddock, well-known ball sports enthusiast who is making the training trip with George Gibson's Pirate crew, writes a letter to a London friend that gives an intimate picture of the big happy family of ball tossers which came so near last year to grabbing the National League flag.

"Our trip from that famous little health resort in Indiana, Arkansas, to the training grounds in the Ozark Mountains. The air was a trifle cool until we arrived in Memphis, where we found the Tennessee breezes quite mild and springlike. Our train stopped for half an hour at Memphis, and we had a bird's-eye view of the city of the South."

Missed Gibby. "It was here that Mr. Gibson mysteriously disappeared, and I thought what a fine joke it would be for him to get left and have to walk all the rest of the way, but when we resumed our journey we discovered him in a hotel in Memphis. He was with Mrs. Gibson and little Billy. When we were within eleven miles of Hot Springs, the engine became disarranged and we were stuck for a clearing at the edge of a pine forest. There we lay for five hours. The Pittsburgh Pirates' train arrived at the same time, and the arrival of a hand-car saved them this trouble. The railroads consented to carry the Pittsburgh train, and the Pittsburgh war correspondents tossed up a coin, and this picked out the man who was to accept the invitation. The second of the articles written by his comrades of the press and clambered onto the hand-car. Fifteen minutes later we were on our way to Hot Springs, and all the stories at the telegraph office. Ever since that trip this reporter has gone by the nickname of "Pittsburgh Traveler" with a ball team is a novel experience. Pitcher Johnny Morrison is a clever mandolin player, and his brother Philip, also a pitcher, can make a guitar talk. Clyde Barnhart, infielder, also is a mandolin artist, and he and his brother, who find out how his train into Hot Springs was delayed four hours on account of an equalizer trouble in the engine, it will mean back to London for him.

"By the way, when I came into the hotel with that trout, Gibby had the nets to tell me he was better angled than he was a trainmaster. If he ever goes to railroading, and they find out how his train into Hot Springs was delayed four hours on account of an equalizer trouble in the engine, it will mean back to London for him."

"The ball players practice twice a day when the weather permits, but I found that they were better angled than he was a trainmaster. If he ever goes to railroading, and they find out how his train into Hot Springs was delayed four hours on account of an equalizer trouble in the engine, it will mean back to London for him."

LONDON LIFE WINS BANK TROPHY

Beat Moisons-Merchants 3-1 In Heavy Going Following Mfrs. Finals.

London Life defeated Merchants-Moisons 3-1, in the finals of the Bank League played after the Manufacturers' games at Westminster last night, and become first holders of the Bank Trophy.

The ice was heavy, and little combination was essayed by either team. London Life were in danger at any stage of the proceedings as they got but a goal per period. Merchants-Moisons went scoreless until the last canto.

Chapman and R. Sumner, with Bickell sniping at goal, started the winners. Craig and Redfern headed around in the spotlight for the combination outfit.

The line-ups only were handed out by Referee Legg, one going to London Life, and three convictions to Merchants-Moisons.

London Life—Bickell, Henderson, Sumner, Chapman, Sumner, Mowat, sub, Kerr, Kirkpatrick, Bickell.

Merchants-Moisons—Cornish, Grey, Greenish, Baker, Routhier, Wainwright, sub, Crawley and Scott.

Referee—Corker Legg.

WILL SIGN UP JUNIOR PLAYERS NEXT WEEK

L. and D. Junior F. A. Will Have Registrations Forms Ready Then.

At the next meeting of the London and District Junior Football Association, the registration forms will be available, and the meeting last night decided to convene again next Monday.

Secretary McLeod has been appointed registrar for the season. Last night a committee consisting of President Bisset, Mr. Haggis and Bandman, decided to advise and adapt the Hamilton and District constitution for local use.

Applications from referees will close on March 27. Any referees in the district who wish to help out the juniors will be welcomed. Bandman, Carr, Mr. Stoddard and Barney Devlin are three who have come forward and expressed a willingness to do what they can to provide referees for the juniors.

The case of J. Turner, who signed a senior form with Machine Gunners last year, but failed to make the team, will be taken up as soon as the player signs an application for reinstatement. A resolution to decide that junior players who signed senior forms but failed to make the team send in applications for reinstatement covers Turner's case.

Application will be made for the use of Carling Heights, Springfield Park and G.T.A.A. football fields, at the entry from Knox Church, which is rumored wish to enter a team, was not received, and it was much to be regretted that it was not made to get into touch with the club.

MAKE WATERLOO HEADQUARTERS

WATERLOO, March 20.—Waterloo will be the headquarters of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association's championships in future if arrangements between the Waterloo Parks Board and C. W. A. officials are arrived at. The parks board at a special meeting here, at which H. K. Roos of the C. W. A. executive was present, outlined a plan that will make the Waterloo race track the official track of the association. Waterloo possesses the track at Scarboro Beach, Waterloo possesses the only quarter-mile dirt track in Canada.

"A group of us went fishing in one of the mountain streams yesterday, and we caught a fine mess of trout, which were served at the Eastman Hotel, where the players practice twice a day when the weather permits, but I found that they were better angled than he was a trainmaster. BULLET MARKS IN CEILING

Dr. J. Hawkins Slips at Hospital, Breaking Leg at Ankle.

Special to London Advertiser.

GALT, March 20.—The only developments in Saturday night's murder and suicide at 22 Shade street today were the discovery of two bullet marks in the ceiling of the parlor of the house, and thus the five empty shells are accounted for, and the fact that Joe Verun, the murderer and suicide, had $1,122 in his trunk, and it is reported that he had recently withdrawn all his money from the bank.

The bullet which killed Klaszorny passed through his head, hitting the door. Two more bullets were fired into the door frame, while it would appear that Verun in taking his life missed one shot, but with the second killed himself, the bullet going through his head into the parlor ceiling.

Where Verun got the gun, one of the most dangerous of the automatic type, is unknown. He had received no permit locally. There were two bullets in the gun after the shooting. Separate inquests are being held into the deaths of the two men, both of which opened today, that into the death of Klaszorny, the murdered man, being adjourned to Thursday and that into the murderer and suicide's death until Friday.

The two men will be buried together, and the double funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon.

He was in his 67th year, was born in Hespeler, and came to this locality some 35 years ago, engaging in the lumber business. He leaves besides his widow a family of four sons and one daughter, Norman, Nelson and Elmer at home, Watson at Dundalk, and Miss Agnes at home. In politics he was a Conservative, a Presbyterian in religion, and a member of both the Oddfellows and Masonic orders. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at Harriston Cemetery, services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Wilkin.

WORLD NEWS CUT SHORT

PARIS, March 20.—The Virgin Mary is declared the patron saint of France and Joan of Arc, now St. Joan, the secondary patron saint, in Pope Pius' first order concerning France, published today in the Catholic organs.

The order was issued in response to a request from the French ecclesiastics, submitted to Pope Benedict, who did not act upon it, his death intervening, but which was taken up and granted by the new pontiff.

SAN SALVADOR, March 20.—A new link in the International Railway of Central America was opened with the arrival here yesterday of the first train on the line which has been constructed between this capital and the town of Zacatecoluca, about 45 miles to the southeast.

A throng of 20,000 persons gathered to witness the arrival of the train, and cheered Rend Kellhauser of the railway company's directorate.

PARIS, March 20.—Jules Cambon, who was French ambassador to Germany at the outbreak of the world war, and who has held important posts in the foreign office since that time, has resigned to accept the vice-presidency of the Banque de Paris et des Pays-Bas, according to the Echo de Paris.

M. Cambon lately has presided over the council of ambassadors, which deals with questions touching on the execution of the peace treaties.

TOKIO, March 20.—Japanese evacuation of Shantung under the agreements reached at the Washington conference will begin April 1, it was announced today.

It was reported that Masanao Hara, former vice-minister of foreign affairs, and a delegate to the Washington conference, will be named head of a commission to put into effect the Shantung agreements.

VIENNA, March 20.—The communication from Edward H. Young, the British controller in the Austrian government, which averted the downfall of the Schober ministry, and which was criticized as an ultimatum by the Pan-German press, was explained today by Chancellor Schober as a personal letter from the British official.

Chancellor Schober said Mr. Young in his letter expressed personal willingness to make advances to the Austrian government from the British loan, pending the requisite legislation, provided Herr Schober was retained as head of the Austrian government.

LONDON, March 20.—The Coalition Unionists won by a plurality of 2,943 in the recent Cambridge by-election against a divided opposition.

The election was for a successor to Sir Eric Geddes, Coalition Unionist, former minister of transport, resigned. The successful candidate was Sir Douglas Newton, who polled 10,897 votes against the Labor candidate's 6,954 votes, and the Independent Liberal's 4,529 votes, it was announced today.

At the general election in 1918, Sir Eric Geddes defeated the Labor candidate by a majority of 7,764.

LONDON, March 20.—Silver gods from the palace of the Gaekwar of Baroda have been brought to this country for sale. One of these is the four-armed, elephant-headed Ganesha, the God of Wisdom and Remover of Difficulties. It stands seven and one-half inches high and is jeweled with rubies. Other gods to be disposed of are Kandeel Rao, the form of Shiva, as worshipped in the land of the Maharras; Anna Purua, the Giver of Food, and Surya, the Sun God, seated on a lotus.

MOSCOW, March 20.—"Time Is Money." "Do It Today," and other mottoes, as popular as wall and desk decorations in Canadian offices and factories, have been translated into Russian and distributed to many bureaus of the soviet government, which is trying to cut bureaucratic red tape.

Persons going through the many formalities necessary to secure action from some of the bureau declares, however, that the mottoes have little effect. One diplomat who had to visit twelve government offices to get possession of an automobile which had arrived here free from customs duty, said: "If time is money, it evidently is only soviet money on Russia."

PARIS, March 20.—An attack on the system which keeps garrisons of Senegalese troops in France is made in L'Oeuvre today. The writer points out that France is the only European power which maintains regiments of colored troops on its territory.

He declares there is no necessity to force them to live in France and endanger their own health in times of peace, and that their presence serves as a pretext for anti-French propaganda.

LONDON, March 20.—The "keep to the left" system, which in London's traffic has been a source of bewilderment to many a confirmed "keep to the right" Ontarian, is being gradually introduced among pedestrians.

At the recent annual meeting of the Safety First Council it was announced that the rule had been adopted by many local councils and the hope was expressed that it would be followed in Central London.

BERLIN, March 20.—The plight of the former Emperor Charles and Empress Zita of Austria on the Island of Madeira, to which they are exiled, is described today in a letter from a former court lady of the empress, in one of the Berlin papers. Under date of Punal, the letter is addressed to a German baron and reads:

"You cannot picture the emotional sight when the empress arrived with her children. The Emperor Charles could not repress his tears when he saw the children. "Since the emperor was with us in October at Hertenstein, his hair has turned entirely white. My heart grieves for him when I see him pacing the garden of our house as impatiently as a caged animal. Sometimes he stands for hours, looking after the ships bound for Europe.

"There is only one nurse for the seven children. We must soon move from the Villa Victoria, because funds are not enough to pay the rent. A noble Portuguese gentleman has offered to place his home at the empress's service free of charge.

"Where we are the emperor and empress must sleep in a small room which has only space for a wash table, in addition to the bed. There is no coal and no wood."

FIRE TOTALLY DESTROYS SAWMILL AT WIARTON

Kitchener Lumber Company Suffers Loss by Blaze of Mysterious Origin.

WIARTON, March 20.—A spectacular fire occurred here tonight which completely destroyed the sawmill of the Kitchener Lumber Company. The outbreak is considered to be of a mysterious origin on account of the mill not having been in operation throughout the winter. It is believed that it was the work of some incendiary.

The firemen were on the scene a very few minutes after the fire was noticed, but the blaze had gained such headway on the building, it being of frame construction, that their efforts were of no avail.

A strong east wind which was blowing carried the sparks over the lumber yard wherein there was lumber stored valued at between $20,000 and $40,000, but a heavy snowfall which had occurred two hours previously prevented another outbreak.

The loss sustained is estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000.

HEART WOULD BEAT LIKE A TRIP HAMMER

Heart trouble has of late years become very prevalent. Sometimes a pain catches you in the region of the heart, now and then your heart skips beats, palpitations, throbs, or beats with such rapidity and violence you think it is going to burst.

You have weak and dizzy spells, sinking sensations, are nervous, irritable and depressed, and if you attempt to walk upstairs or any distance you get all out of breath.

We know of no remedy that will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy normal condition as will

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. Chadwick, Delhi, Ont., writes:—"I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exercise, such as going upstairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip-hammer and at times I was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation as if my time were near."

"A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I procured three boxes, and by the time the first one was used I began to improve. In all I took six boxes, and now although in my 66th year I feel like a young girl, no dizziness or heart-thumping, and can walk miles without fatigue. At time of sickness I weighed 120 lbs., now I weigh 150."

SPRING DEBILITY

Loss of Appetite, That Tired Feeling and Sometimes Eruptions.

Thousands take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a spring medicine for that tired feeling, nervous weakness, impure blood and say it makes them feel better, eat and sleep better, and "makes food taste good."

Spring debility is a condition in which it is especially hard to combat disease germs, which invade the system here, there and everywhere. The white blood corpuscles, sometimes called "the little soldiers in the blood," because it is their duty to fight disease germs, are too weak to do good service.

Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens the "little soldiers" and enables them to repel germs of grip, influenza, fevers and other ailments; relieves catarrh and rheumatism. It has given satisfaction to three generations. Get it today, and for a laxative take Hood's Pills.

CLAIM IRELAND ON BORDERLAND OF CIVIL STRIFE

Morning Newspapers Hint At Possible Joint Action Between Governments.

BELFAST CARMEN STRIKE

Cease Work Because of Insufficient Protection From Gunmen.

London, March 21.—The dangers of the situation in Ireland are emphasized by the morning newspapers, several of which take the view that little more would be needed to start actual civil war. Sniping between the entrenched forces on either side of the Ulster border has been going on for several days, and yesterday machine guns were reported to have been brought into action. Meanwhile disturbances continue throughout the city-center area of Belfast.

Moderate opinion in the south favors joint action by the northern and southern governments to relieve the tension on the border, according to the Times Dublin correspondent, and it is hinted elsewhere that the earnest conference between Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins yesterday was partly concerned with the possibility of securing such action.

It was thought this might involve a preliminary meeting of Mr. Collins with Premier Sir James Craig of Ulster. Reports of murders, incendiary and other outrages in the northern districts, where the tension between the Protestants and Catholics is most severe, fill a large space in the newspapers. The violent denunciations of each faction against the other suggest that apportionment of the blame in numerous instances is difficult and perhaps impossible to decide, but they show the fierceness of factional feeling which dangerously threatens the general peace.

No late development in the affairs along the border is reported for the moment but the Belfast police late last night reported that the telephone and telegraph wires in county Tyrone and parts of counties Litcham and Londonderry had been cut and Belfast was consequently unable to communicate with those districts.

BELFAST MAN KILLED.

Belfast, March 21.—James Magee was shot by snipers in Hargrave street last night. Military forces were rushed to the scene but met with a fusillade of revolver shots under cover of which the assassins escaped. Magee died this morning.

Many cars failed to report for work today in protest against the lack of protection from snipers.

PROPOSES AMENDMENTS TO COLD STORAGE ACT

Bill Is First of Session To Be Presented in Senate at Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 21.—(Canadian Press)—The first bill of the present parliamentary session, introduced in the Senate by Senator Bradbury, provides for several amendments to the cold storage warehouse act. Senator Bradbury's bill would provide among other things that "no article of food which is tainted or otherwise unfit for human consumption shall be placed in cold storage."

Articles of food placed in storage would be required to bear labels showing the date on which the article was manufactured, killed, packed or cured, and also the net cost on the date of storage. The date of removal from storage would require to be indicated in red letters at least half an inch high.

Senator Bradbury would also make it compulsory that cold storage articles shall be indicated as such when offered for sale, and that managers of storage warehouses shall report monthly, showing amounts of food held, and also the net cost of such.

PART OF STREET SLIDES INTO RIVER

Saranac Lake, N. Y., March 21.—A part of Main street slid into the Saranac River yesterday, leaving a hole 23 feet square. The slide came a short time after a number of automobiles and busses had passed over the road, which leads to Ausable Forks.

The cave in, caused it is thought by a leaking water main and overflowing drainage pipe which washed away the sand occurred within a stone's throw of the business section. Big boulders, trees and a section of sewer pipe were carried away by the slide.

legally as by statute and the order of the railway board.

Mayor Wilson declared that there was no use beating around the bush. The motion and amendment were opposed to each other. Ald. Ashplant's was a clever motion, and it was worth watching the latter's methods in order to keep up with him.

Ashplant's Offer. Ald. Ashplant asked the mover of the amendment why he struck out the section of the clause which stated that the officials should act so that no property should be escaping paying its just proportion of taxes.

Ald. Childs stated that if such a clause were incorporated in the amendment he would withdraw his motion and let the amendment stand.

Ald. Childs refused, and Ald. Ashplant said that he must conclude that the former feared the effect of such a clause.

Ald. Ashplant said that if those favoring the amendment were basing their case on the order of the railway board, then he was quite content as the solicitor had ruled that the order in question did not exempt.

Mayor Wilson said that it was not a question of whether the agreement was legal or not. The city made a bargain, and though he granted that it was a bad one, the city could not go back on its word.

Ald. Ashplant contended that if one part of the agreement were broken it would break the whole thing.

Ald. Judd said that the difference between the motion and the amendment was that the latter referred to the railway board's order. He expressed the opinion that to decide the whole matter, the solicitor's view should be obtained and the matter taken before the court by an individual ratepayer.

Ald. Ashplant said he believed he had brought out the "nigger in the fence." The mayor, or those who thought with him, were not interested in seeing that the law was carried out legally, but to see that the annex factories are protected.

Let us make a real and sincere effort to play the game, and eliminate trickery, which will make some private individual take the matter to court instead of the city. Let the officials serve the proper notice on these people and let the courts of law decide if they are not liable for further taxes rest on them. They will then have to go into court at their own expense.

Challenge To Mayor. "The mayor speaks of faith, word of honor," said the alderman. "There is no resolution on the minutes of the council in regard to such. It may have been what is termed a gentleman's agreement with some mayor, chairman or some alderman, but that is not legal." For the life of him he could not see why the council wanted to dump this burden on the city. He concluded with a challenge to the mayor to produce some document, bylaw, resolution or agreement which embodied what they may claim to be the city's agreement with the annex.

Ald. Childs expressed regret that Ald. Ashplant had deemed it necessary to charge his opponents with trickery. He said that all the integrity was not under one bonnet. There was no "nigger" so far as he was concerned. He wanted to settle the matter for all time.

Mayor Wilson said that despite the charge of insincerity leveled against him, he was sincere in trying to protect this street, railway and gas agreements as it was admitted there was in connection with the annex agreement.

Ald. Ashplant was caustic when he said that his labor colleague knew that there was no agreement and that there could not be two laws in regard to the annex. He accused the Asplant of turning and covering up.

Ald. Ashplant wanted to know why Ald. Ashton changed around after his declaration at the recent labor meeting.

Ald. Ashton said that it was because he had learned of the railway board order, and its details, in the meantime. He said that this was something which Ald. Ashplant had not mentioned.

Ald. Ashplant said that there was an attempt being made to camouflage his position. He might be forced in the end, as a result, to take the matter before the electors.

Ald. Holmes reviewed the details which led up to the agreement, and declared that the council should uphold it.

The vote followed, with the amendment carrying by 8 to 2.

Negative Report.

When the report of No. 2 committee, recommending a rebate of five cents a foot on the charge for the William street sewer, was presented, Ald. Holmes moved that the charge for interest, $2,000, which piled up between the time the sewer was completed and the bills sent out, be charged to the general rate.

The vote was 5 to 5, and the mayor declared it negative. Aldermen Watkinson, Judd, Holmes, Ashplant and May voted for the amendment and Aldermen Childs, Ashton, Bean, Douglas and Drake against it.

When several bylaws were presented to carry on the laying of sidewalks and curbs and placing gutters by day labor, Ald. May objected. He was in favor of tender to reduce the cost. It was a matter of business, he said.

Ald. May asked for details in regard to recent dismissals in the engineer's office.

Ald. Ashton said that the staff would be reduced, since a half dozen little works would go on, and several employees were given an opportunity to look for other work.

Ald. May said that he understood that some of the oldest employees were let go and younger men retained.

Ald. Ashton said that the youngest in service were being relieved.

Ald. Holmes said he was told the oldest were going.

Mayor Wilson said that the engineer was the head of his department and his advice had to be taken. That official should say who were to be allowed to go.

Ald. Ashplant said this was all right unless there was partiality.

Ald. May was told that he would get information from No. 2 committee regarding the term of service of these employees, and whether they were Canadians.

Debate Pavement Charge. Ald. Ashton's motion to grant a 30 per cent cut in the cost of the Pipe Line road pavement and charge it to the general taxes was sent back to No. 2 committee to see what can be done. It was pointed out that the motion was illegal.

The motion reads: "That whereas the Pipe Line road pavement was constructed in part for the convenience of the ratepayers as a whole for the purpose of providing a means of convenient access to Woodland Cemetery and Springbank Park; and whereas the assessment of the whole cost of the pavement on the property abutting on the said local improvement is an unfair tax burden on the ratepayers affected; and whereas it is expedient that the ratepayers as a whole should bear a portion of the cost of the construction of the said pavement;

"Be it resolved that the council of the corporation of the city of London direct and authorize a transfer of 30 per cent of the cost of construction of the Pipe Line road pavement, under bylaw 6183, and the same is hereby transferred to the city's proportion and the clerk instructed to make the said transfer of 30 per cent from the property-owners' proportion to the city's proportion by certificate."

"Be it further resolved that this action should not be taken as a precedent for making payment on pavements constructed as local improvements, determine the portion to be paid, if any, before passing the construction bylaw."

BANK MERGER IS APPROVED

Government, Fielding Reports, Decides in Favor of Union Project.

DEALS WITH OBJECTIONS

Minister of Finance, After Reviewing Situation, Confirms Predecessor's Action.

OTTAWA, March 20.—(Canadian Press).—The government has approved the merger of the Merchants Bank and the Bank of Montreal, it was announced tonight by Hon. W.
S. Fielding, minister of finance. In his report to the cabinet on the merger, Mr. Fielding touched on recent banking amalgamations, remarking that he would, in ordinary circumstances, be unwilling to recommend further restriction of competition by the amalgamation of any two larger banks. From this point of view the proposal to unite the Bank of Montreal and the Merchants Bank was open to objection.

On the other hand, failure of the government to confirm the agreement would create a situation in which the shareholders of the Merchants Bank would almost certainly suffer further loss and probably a condition of alarm be created among Canadian banks generally. For these reasons and as the requirements of the bank act appeared to have been fulfilled, Mr. Fielding recommended approval of the merger.

In his statement, Mr. Fielding says:

Many Inquiries Made.
"Many inquiries have been made in the public press with respect to the action, if any, to be taken by the government in relation to the difficulties that have arisen in the affairs of the Merchants Bank of Canada.

"The view taken by the government has been that the first and most important matter to be dealt with was the application of the Bank of Montreal and the Merchants Bank

bathrooms of the most fashionable hotels have been set with traps, and rats have been seen even upon the smart dresses of chic ladies in some of the best restaurants. So it is no wonder that the Pied Piper has come back as well.

He has arrived in Budapest and claims to be able to rid any building of rats in twenty-four hours. So great has been his success that already he has earned 32,000 Hungarian kronen in a fortnight.

His methods are precisely the same as those of the Pied Piper of Hamelin.
He seduces the rats into following him not by playing upon a flute, but by a strange cry—half moan, half song. In the cellar of the infested place he prepares in the darkness a great brew of poisonous herbs and hanging over the poison containing copper kettle, with a black cloth shrouding his head and shoulders, he drones a strange Tartaric song.

of Canada for permission to amal-gamate. Permission was granted, so far as the late government was concerned, through the minister of finance, Sir Henry Drayton.

"There was, however, a later stage which had to be considered by the present government. The law provided for certain delays in the procedure. In the views of the government it was expedient to await the time expiry required before taking any action. Any move, it was felt, in advance of decision respecting the application for the merger would be unwise.

"The time required for these proceedings under the bank act expired a day or two ago, and the government was free to consider the application of the banks. The government, after reviewing the whole matter, have decided to confirm the action already taken by the late minister of finance, and give the final approval necessary to authorize the merger."

Reasons Set Forth.

The reasons for such action by the government are set forth in the report made to the treasury board and the governor-in-council by Hon. W.
S. Fielding, minister of finance. This report, after reciting the various proceedings taken under the bank act to effect the merger, concludes as follows:

"The combinations of banks that have taken place in recent years have diminished the number of banks operating in Canada, and there is in the public mind a pression that in this way competition is unduly restricted. Sympathizing in some degree with this feeling, the undersigned would, in ordinary circumstances, be unwilling to recommend further restriction by the amalgamation of any two of our larger banks.

"From this viewpoint, the proposal to unite the Bank of Montreal and the Merchants Bank of Canada, the undersigned believes that the proposed amalgamation is the best available means of dealing with the question.

"Failure of the treasury board and the governor-in-council to confirm the agreement that has been made between the two banks would create a situation in which the shareholders of the Merchants Bank of Canada would almost certainly suffer further loss, and there would probably be created a condition of alarm concerning our banks generally, which would be prejudicial to the public interests.

All Requirements Met.

"For these reasons, and as, from the evidence submitted, it appears that all requirements of the bank act with regard to the purchase of the assets of the bank have been fulfilled in the present instance, the agreement referred to and herewith submitted, is recommended by the minister for the approval of the treasury board and of the governor-general-in-council."

During discussion in the house
tonight, Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce in the Meighen administration, brought up the merger.

Mr. Stevens said there was need of careful study in regard to amendments to the bank act which was due next year.

The banking and commerce committee of the house should take the matter up this session and find out what changes were necessary. He did not subscribe to the statements that the banks were not working in the interests of the people. On the whole the Canadian banking system was the soundest in the world.

See Flaws in Act.

There were, however, flaws and loopholes in the act, he thought, which had been brought to attention
by recent failures, or incidents.

The Merchants Bank management, declared Mr. Stevens, must have made false returns to the finance department for several months before the crash came. Otherwise he did not see how the matter could not have been checked up before it reached such a serious stage.

The committee on banking and commerce should call before it the president and other officials of the Merchants Bank and examine them and parliament should be given full information as to the steps which led up to the crash of that bank. The committee could well make this investigation in view of the need of amending the bank act next session.

TRIBE RECEIVES

the first installment on the sale of the about 4,000 Indians, so that they will receive about $20 each.

HAY LEAVES FOR NEW YORK.

LISTOWEL, March 20.—F. W. Hay,
today for New York to meet his wife and niece, who are returning from Bernuda after spending the winter

Immediately bright eyes begin to peep from the corner, then soon whiskered faces emerge into the half-light, and, as he sings, the rats swarm around him from every corner and crevice of the building.
Swaying toward the pot with a strange motion of his shoulders and head, he lures the rats to leap into the pot, where they are instantly poisoned. The contents of the cauldron he empties into the Danube.

The rest of the story follows closely the legend of the Pied Piper. When he was eagerly sought after and earned much money, rat poison manufacturers, and companies organized to build buildings of vermin in more conventional ways, demanded he should be licensed.

The name of the rat charmer is Peter Joseph Dallos. He comes from a little village of the Hungarian plain where the remnants of the Kuns (Cu-manians) still live. These Kuns tribes were the first Asiatic settlers on the Hungarian plain in the fifth century.
Like the gypsies, the members of this tribe are famed for possessing strange psychic powers.

COMMISSION WILL EXAMINE SCULLY

Self-Confessed Murderer May Be Returned to Hospital at London
if Adjudged Insane.

NOW HELD IN PORT HURON

Alternative Finding Will Result in Prisoner Facing Trial for Slaying of Father.

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, March 20.—Judge Harvey Tappan of the United States circuit court, has named a commission to inquire into the mental condition of Anthony Scully, the self-confessed murderer of his father, Cornelius Scully of Port Huron, Ont., at Port Huron, Feb. 13.

Doctors W. B. James and T.
Heavenrich will take charge of the investigation and prosecuting attorney Henry Baird and W. L. Jenks will represent Scully. A date will be set later for the hearing of the medical findings.

If it is determined that Scully is insane, an effort will be made to deport him to Canada to the insane asylum at London, Ont., where he was previously held as insane before making his escape. If found sane he will be tried next month by the United States circuit court at Port Huron, for murder.

Discharge Charge.

In the county criminal court today, Judge A. R. Taylor dismissed a charge against Russell Fulkerson, a well known employee of the Imperial Oil, Limited, of obtaining money by false pretenses, from Stephen Woloshin, a Russian, residing on Rose street. Woloshin alleged at the preliminary hearing that Fulkerson, representing himself as an officer of the law, called at his home and attempted to obtain the sum of $50 for keeping quiet with regard to liquor which he alleged Woloshin was manufacturing illicitly. The com-plaintant was not in court, and the judge overruled the effort of the crown to put in a deposition of the evidence taken at the preliminary hearing. J. R. Donohue defended Fulkerson.

Would Retain Fees.

Mayor George Crawford announced today that a delegation will probably be appointed to accompany delegates of other municipalities in Western Canada to Ottawa in connection with a requested amendment to the criminal code to permit municipalities maintaining police courts and departments to retain fines and fees imposed therein. City Treasurer
P. A. Blackburn will likely be chosen as one of the delegates. A letter was received from Sir Lomer Gouin, minister of justice, advising that March 29 has been set as the date for hearing the delegation.

HEARS CHIEF ENGINEER

Elgin Motor Club Presents
Membership to George Hogarth.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, March 20.—George Hogarth, chief engineer of the highway department of the Ontario government, addressed a meeting of the St. Thomas and Elgin County Motor Club at the Shriners' Hall Monday night. At the conclusion of the address a smoker and social evening was held.

Mr. Hogarth, assisted by lantern slides, explained in full the work accomplished by the department in the construction of provincial highways during the past two years, and he outlined the program to be undertaken this year.

He made reference to the permanent highway to be constructed in the local district this year. One mile and a half of concrete would be laid from Talbotville southward this summer, he said. He intimated also that other work would probably be undertaken in the vicinity of St.
Thomas, as well, but he did not say how extensive it would be.

It is expected that construction work would be started as soon as weather permitted. The tenders for all provincial work, Mr. Hogarth said, closed March 5. More than 200 sealed tenders had been received for work in different parts of the province.

Mr. Hogarth was presented with an honorary membership in the St.
Thomas Club. The badge was presented on behalf of the club by Mayor
C. E. Raven.

WOODSTOCK MEN FINED FOR SUNDAY GAMBLING

Eleven Plead Guilty to Charge, and Are Assessed $10 Each.

Special to London Advertiser.

WOODSTOCK, March 20.—Eleven young men with ages ranging from 16 to 20 were today fined $10 each or 20 days in jail on a charge of gambling on Sunday. They were discovered by the police on Sunday evening in a shack near the northern boundary of the city, and when brought into court they looked on the affair as a joke. All pleaded guilty.

Simon Henry, an Indian from the Brantford reserve, died in the General Hospital here last night after a week's illness with pneumonia. Although he had been working in the woods near Woodstock for some time, nothing is known of him here, outside the fact that he is married and his wife lives at Oshweken. The Indian agent at Brantford has been notified of his death.

The last of the 21 houses built by the Woodstock Housing Commission under the terms of the provincial housing act have been rented. Although the houses were completed eighteen months ago, only four of them have so far been sold, and the remainder have been rented. It is expected that several of the tenants will eventually buy the houses, some of which have been rented by new residents of Woodstock.
