Fire Chief Attacked For Leaving City To Aid Farmer

FIRE CHIEF WITH SIX MEN ABSENT FROM CITY 9 HOURS FIGHTING BLAZE IN COUNTRY

Mayor Attacks Action-Declares Citizens Left in Danger-Had No Proper Authority To Take Fifteen-Mile Trip -Claims No Lives in Danger From Blaze in Barn.

CHIEF STATES HE USED OWN JUDGMENT

John Aitken, chief of the London fire department, was vigorously attacked by Mayor Wenige today for alleged bad judgment in answering to a fire in Lobo township last night. Leaving the city, without any authority except his own, the chief took a detachment of six men and the pumper truck and answered a call to the McInroy farm on the Nairn road. The detachment was away for nine hours.

Mayor Wenige censures the action of the chief, claiming permission should have been secured. Chief Aitken defends himself and declares that he has the right to help out in fighting rural blazes if apparatus is available and the fire is serious enough to justify a response.

Chief Aitken took six men and the $17,000 pumper truck to a fire on the farm of A. N. McInroy, concession 9, Lobo, on the Nairn gravel road. The call came in a few minutes to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The department returned nine hours later, at 1:55 o'clock this morning.

Firemen Bishop, Reid, Hartopp, Mason, Bolton and Smithson went out to the fire, acting on the chief's orders.

Bowser the Hound followed Farmer Brown's Boy and Farmer Brown over to the melon patch. He sat down at one side and watched Farmer Brown's Boy and Farmer Brown looking for footprints, Bowser was puzzled. He didn't know what they were looking for. He knew that they were hunting for something, but what it could be he couldn't guess. Finally, he decided that he would help themhunt,

He hadn't seen it before because he hadn't been looking for that kind of a footprint. There was nothing human about this footprint. It was very much such a footprint as a dog might make. The first thought of Farmer Brown's Boy was that the one or ones who had stolen the melons had had a dog with them.

But Bowser the Hound knew bet-It wasn't the scent of another dog that his wonderful nose picked up. In a moment or two his master derstood this, for Bowser wouldn't have barked in the way he did if he had found the track of another dog. Do Men of Today Kiss and Tell?—Do They Boast of Their Conquests?—Shall She Be a Movie Actress Against Her Parents' Wishes? The Man Who Loves His Wife's Sister.

Dear Miss Dix-Do you think a man will kiss and tell? Do you think that a man will show a love letter that a girl writes him? I say that unless a man is an utter cad he will not hoast of the favors that a girl shows him. My friend says that all men brag about their love some poor, foolish, little girl, who was perfectly crazy about him, figured. Also, he would carefully file away the love letters that girls wrote him in his safety deposit box. But, alas, perfect Sir Galahads are rare among the jellybean youth of the day, and the average young man loves to pose as a devil among the women and tell how he gets them going. Therefore, he not only kisses and tells, but he broadcasts the glad news to all who will listen.

Nor do I think the girl has any right to resent this or consider it dishonorable in the boy. Why should she expect the man to be more careful of her reputation than she is of it herself? Why should she expect a man to cover up her indiscretions? I never have any patience with people who age so against gossip. It is only those who do something wrong who bject to being talked about. As long as people discourse about our virtues ANNUAL IS PLANNED rage so against gossip. It is only those who do something wrong who they cannot say enough to please us. It is only when they begin discussing our faults that we brand them as malignant gossips.

Anyway, we are foolish to suppose that the world is going to enter into a conspiracy of silence to guard our good names. have to do that for ourselves, and so if you don't want boys to kiss and tell don't kiss.

As for writing a man a love letter, write only such words and use only such terms of endearment as you would be willing for his friends, his mother and sisters, his landlady and the chambermaids in hotels to read. Not every man shows his love letters as Exhibit A to prove what a fascinator he is, but all men are careless. They leave their letters in bureau drawers, on writing tables, in the pockets of coats, for any prying eye to peruse, and this is a fact that girls will do well to remember when they are tempted to slash over sixteen pages with sentimental gush under the delusion that it will be sacred to some man and that nobody but he will ever know of their indiscretion. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am thinking of going into the movies. Dancing seems to be my talent. Does it require a college education? My parents are opposed to my becoming a movie actress. Should I go against their wishes? I feel that I cannot make a success of anything else.

movies. All those who can rake and scrape the price of a ticket to Hollywood go there and about a week later most of them are hunting jobs as dishwashers or chambermaids in hotels.

So many girls want to be Mary Pickfords that the City of Los Angeles has broadcasted warnings telling them how little hope there is of their ever getting even inside the lots where they make pictures, still less of their ever being able to get a tryout, and of how infinitesimal the chance that they would succeed in the most hazardous of professions.

It takes the peculiar kind of beauty that screens well; it takes a vivid personality, and it takes the biggest sort of luck to make a moving-picture actress. And over and above all these, it takes pluck and courage, and the ability to take punishment and stand discipline, and to do such hard work as you never dreamed of.

Your next choice of a profession is to be a dancer. No, it doesn't take a college education to make a dancer, but it takes a physical education that must begin almost in one's cradle, when the bones are soft and the muscles pliable. And this also takes ceaseless work, and great courage and determination. And after all your labor, unless you are one of the very best, it is an ill-paid and precarious way of making a living.

So, little girl, if I were you I would cut out these more or less romantic occupations and choose something that was practical and for which there was a large, every-day demand. What about taking a good course at a commercial school and getting to be a crackerjack stenographer? How about studying domestic science, or dressmaking, or millinery? People will always have to eat and wear clothes, and will be ready to pay out good money to those who feed them well or make them snappy hats and dresses. I do not know if this girl loves me, but she still remains single, perhaps because she teels toward me as I do toward her. I have lived absolutely true to my marriage vows, with the exception of the love that I have for my wife's sister. Neither of these women know my true feelings. What should I do? Should a man's vows be more sacred than his love? As I grow older the burden is harder to carry and the will power that it has taken to guard my secret for twelve long years grows weaker. It is a horrible situation in which you find yourself, but it seems to me that your duty is clear. You should conquer your guilty love for your wife's sister and be true to your wife and your DOROTHY DIX.

Resumption of the Conference Turns Into Joy-Fest -Hastings Loudly Cheered.

CLYNES TALKS

Associated Press Despatch. London, Oct. 9 .- The conference of the parliamentary Labor party, begun yesterday morning just before the opening of the momentous House of Commons session which resulted in the defeat of Great Britain's first Labor government, was continued to-day, when it was turned into something which resembled a joy-fest and an enthusiastic election campaign meeting.

When Attorney-General Sir Patrick Hastings, whose conduct of the Campbell sedition case furnished the immediate cause for the Liberal at-tack on the Labor government which resulted in Prime Minister MacDonald's reverse last night, arrived at the conference this morning the delegates arose en masse, cheered for several minutes and sang the "Red Flag" with whole-hearted lustiness. The conference decided to aban-don, in the light of yesterday's devel-

The Result In Northumberland.

The government retains the seat of Northumberland, N.B., making three by-elections that have gone in its favor. Northumberland has had for parliament-2,456,000 against, 654,000 for. fourteen elections and three by-elections since Majority against, 1,802,000. Confederation, and in these the following have been the results:

Liberals

The constituency has been Liberal since 1904, and was thrown open by the death of Hon. J. Morrissy, who won the seat in the general election of 1921. Both parties brought their best speakers into the riding, the premier was there, and so was Mr. Meighen. There was a difference in tactics, as there has been in other by-elections in the east. W. B. Snowball, Liberal, appealed for election on the record of the King government and its policy of aiming to bring about an all-Canada development. Following the lead of A. J. Doucet, the Conservative who won the byelection in Kent, N.B., the party used the sectional appeal of "maritime rights."

It was a dangerous thing to do, but the Conservatives did it: it was the most forceful argument that could be advanced to arouse one section of the community to a sense of its neglect at the hands of the rest of the country. But it was not successful, and its failure can quite properly be regarded as evidence that the people there have confidence that their interests will be safely handled by the government at Ottawa.

"A Distinct Step Backward"

The Canadian Churchman of Toronto, the national Church of England weekly, discusses the plebiscite to be taken in Ontario on October 23. Its point of view is frankly stated, and with the knowledge that "within our own church there is a distinct division of opinion. Bishops, clergy and laity will be voting, some one way, some the other." Knowing that to be the case, the Churchman contends that "it is wise and just, therefore, that any expression of preference should be made charitably, and in good temper. But it is also wise and just that some opinion should be expressed. No one should be neutral."

The Churchman refers to the pronouncement of the Bishop of Toronto in his last diocesan charge, of which the following is typical:

"Domestic, social, economical, moral and spiritual conditions brought about a determination to try out prohibition in Ontario. Virtually around the parliament buildings must have a every department of human activity found the number of chores to attend to. liquor traffic and habit harmful and inimical to society, and many with new faith and hope in the new order essayed to make a fresh start in life under the new enactment." The tishop re-P. Graham. ferred to a publication setting forth what had been accomplished from September 17, 1916, to the corresponding date in 1922, and continued: "In the revival of the question I would advise study the facts contained in this pamphlet, bear ing in mind some of the altered conditions of bettered and happier home life, better and quieter hotel accommodation, greater orderliness and gested city, less poverty and pauperism, with an increase of thrift, and above all more hopeful conditions under which workers can carry on ocial and moral reform work. I plead with my clerical and lay brethren to consider carefully point here is that George can do it. the responsibility involved in connection with this revived question of the O. T. A., and only after deep study of the question in all its bear ing, to let conscience, with the vision of its accountability before it, determine the course that each for himself shall pursue."

The Churchman in the same article refers to the views of Rev. T. F. Summerhayes, which it reproduces. Mr. Summerhayes is chaplain of charitable and penal institutions in Toronto, and an advocate of the O. T. A. from conviction based on actual observation. He was opposed to prohibition even as a war measure in 1917 when the matter was discussed at the synod of Toronto, Mr. Summerhaves admits frankly that he "has come to his present position from the other side, and only after a long experience should have a little chat with Premier King on sun had gone and sink and sank and sunk. among people and study of the question."-

Mr. Summerhayes, from the very nature of his work, is in a position to give reliable evidence. He is not at all taken with the term government control. He states bluntly there is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. no such thing, because "the moment liquor is legally sold the government cannot control it any further." He is out plainly, with no apolo- thumberland, so the Montreal Gazette will again stricter enforcement.

The Bills In Peter's Hat.

Peter van der Meer wandered on the streets of Pittsburg last night, blind. He stopped at the entrance to the Fort Pitt hotel, took his old violin from its case, and started to play. Nor was it the rasping of the street fiddler, it was the work of an artist; no cheap, tawdry airs of the day, but the finest of the old masters.

Peter is blind. A few years ago he played to the elite of the country, heralded as an artist of first rank. Sickness, blindness, have passed over him, and all that remained was his violin and his passion for giving to the world the best. So when Peter took to the street he brought disarmament conference. with him all that he had, genius, a mind mellowed by suffering. He had passed through the furnace of anguish and could measure its story to those who stopped to listen.

And they did stop. They recognized they were in the presence of a masterful musician. The crowds forgot the blazing effrontery of the jazz orchestras and the slobbering sobs of the saxophone. They were listening to Schumann; they were standing on the street hearing selections from Tannhauser, and the crowd grew and kept growing.

Peter's old hat was the box office, and bills were paid for standing room at his performance, for he had nothing else to offer them. This old world will pause in its rush when it meets the master of the situation, and it has still sense enough with all its folly to pay a suitable reward | Said he: "But your Dad's worth a million,

They wouldn't let that old sun sink just like she ought to go and do, they fished the sun up, once again and made her sink beneath the blue.

We was a-thinkin' by this time the sun was sunk behind the sod, and that by now the moon and stars would be appearin' on the job. But I'll be blest if that could be, for Mr. Bass he hollers loud, as how the sun's a-sinkin' now and slidin'

When they got through I didn't know, I tried to give the thing a thought, I ain't quite sure though even yet if they had sunk that sun or not.-ARK.

THE PASSING OF SILVER.

Although silver will always have uses as a precious metal its day of adorning the table seems to be over. And for the very best of reasons; there is no one to keep it clean. Hired girls are too costly to be employed by any but the most fortunate, in polishing without end,, and daughters who are willing to spend the greater part of their lives burnishing silver are mostly things of the past.

All of us can remember when the silver water pitcher and soup tureen were objects of ornament for grandmother's table.

With the decay of Victorian prosperity, says the London Times, silver may have grown thinner, but its tradition was bravely maintained for a while. Daughters of the Trafalgar ladies liked their hairbrushes to glitter with the heads of Sir Joshua's angels; their prayer books and hymn books were bound in perilous filigree; they put up brackets between a couple of Japanese fans on which the heroes of South Africa were immortalized in silver statuettes. The progress of democracy carried silver into the humblest homes, where attenuated vases, conspicuously hallmarked, gave gentility to the wallflower.

All are gone or are going. The kingly tureen, which by reason of its extreme weight King James had so much difficulty in carrying, has gone with James. The vase, the statuette, and the filigree prayer book have been sent to the dealers. Even the rose bowl, which in its rich flutings used to reflect the surrounding flush of mahogany and distort the features of our hungry ancestors, has given way to stained steel.

We are all turning to substitutes and, the uniformity of silver being gone, we reveal ourselves in our choice of them. Cut glass, majolica and other understudies are doing its work.

By and by we shall only see silver articles of use and adornment

TECHNICAL SCHOOL HAS GOOD RECORD

PUPILS TOTAL 780

Other than commenting favorably upon the gratifying attendance at the Technical high school this year, the business dealt with by the advisory vocational committee of the board of education at a meeting held last night was largely of a routine nature. Principal H. B. Beal reported the enrollment for September as 780 stu-dents, with an average attendance of 713, as follows. First year 449, second year 152, third year 87, fourth year and specials 92; total, 780. Adolescents attending the school

The enrollment for the corresponding period last year was as follows: First year 368, second year 144, third year 80, fourth year and specials 28 total, 620

The chairman of the committee, Trustee A. N. Udy, who presided, commented upon the large attendance as speaking well for the young people of the city, at the same time portending the fact that something will have to be done soon in the way of providing additional accommodation at the school.

Trustee N. F. Willmot suggested that the present unsatisfactory col-legiate accommodation had resulted in a number of students entering the technical school who otherwise would have attended one of the three collegiate units in the city.

Principal Beal replied to this by stating that he had been in his office during the last two weeks of August during which time a large number of parents had come to see him personally about their children, and discussed the course they were to

"We have 458 new students at the school this year," said Principal Beal, "and those students came to the technical school because of the practical courses we have to offer here. Students come to us from all parts of the city and there is not a doubt but that the attendance next September will increase to 1,000 students. Parents come to us with the second, third and four child, remarking that their older children having attended the technical school and done so well they wished their younger children also to have the benefit of similar training."

The committee approved of the action taken by the principal in securing A. A. Neil of Brampton and Mrs. A. F. Raymond, city, for teaching junior academic work and dressmaking classes, respectively.

The committee approved also of the recommendation of the principal regarding the purchase of additional equipment for general day classes, totalling $700, and for electrical day classes of $300.

The committee congratulated Prin cipal Beal upon the success achieved by the technical school matriculation class at the departmental examina-tions last June, when 23 candidates passed 89.2 per cent of the papers written on, each student securing H. McCormick. standing on the average of 7.2 subjects. The technical school also secured the two junior matriculation scholarships offered by the University of Western Ontario for competition institutes of Western Ontario

GROH'S UNDERSTUDY STAR OF GAME

New York, Oct. 8 .- Walter Johnson, the "old master," buckled on his arm today in a fir.al fight for the glory of world's series victory that he has sought for eighteen years, but fate with the mighty bats of his foe turned him back. Unleashing a furious, ruthless attack, the New York Giants battered the great veteran into defeat for the second straight time, captured the fifth game of the series from the Senators by a score of 6 to 2, and left tonight for Washington with the 1924 world's championship within their reach.

The Giants, coming back today with the powerful type of attack that carried the Senators to triumph yesterday, now hold a formidable edge of three to two n games. They need but one more victory to clinch the series and give their leader, John McGraw his fourth baseball crown and a new major league record. The forces of McGraw, who shares the present record of three world's series victories with Connie Mack and his Athletics, are heavy favorites tonight to one. Miller went out to Terry unvictories with Connie Mack and his Athletic, are most spectacular battles, for assisted. If Art Nehf, McGraw's brilliant south-paw, who was prevented from starting today's game by a thumb bruise, sustained in his victory over Johnson on the opening day, is able to take the mound tomorrow, the Giants will have an excellent prospect of ending the series. If not, or if Nehf fails, the decision will go to the seventh game, which will also be played in Washington

Gallant Figure.

Through the smoke of today's conflict, Johnson stood out as a gallant but tragic figure, one of the most tragic baseball has even known. Another outpouring of 50,000 fans braving the chilliest day of the series, came chiefly in the hope of seeing Johnson hang up his first world series victory. Their sympathies, which have been with the Senators throughout the New York games of the series, were particularly evident for Johnson. They cheered him to the echo in the early part of the game, but as it wore on and Johnson's defeat seemed inevitable, they became quieter, realizing that "Big Barney," one of the game's greatest idols, was taking the bitterest setback of his career.

Johnson's famous fast ball, which had forced the Giants to twelve bitterly contested inmings before they won the opening game, held no terrors today. The National league champions pounded 'Barney' for thirteen safe blows, and Gallant Figure, rd fifth and eighth innings, by did all their scoring.

Ossie Bluege again did a good job at short, filling Peckinpaugh's shoes acceptably, but the Washington infield was a little weakened by not having Bluege at third. A feature of this series that has impressed me is that in all the expertopinions, spoken or written, I have seen no one criticize either of the catchers. In fact, Gowdy and Ruel both have been so steady that they have worked like machines. A lot of nice things should be said for those two players.

Woodstock, Oct. 8.—The lid was pried off in the local rugby season this afternoon when Woodstock collegiate defeated Norwich high school II to I in a game which was featured by brilliant running on the part of the local back field. In spite of the loss of seven of last year's regulars, the locals appear to have a snappy aggregation, and they made gains almost at will against the Norwich line. Loose handling of the ball at critical moments was responsible for the lowness of the score.

Scalisi uncorked a 40-yard run in the first quarter to score the first touch. There was no further scoring until the third quarter, when Norwich got a single point, as Scalisi fumbled behind the line and sent the ball into touch in goal. In the last quarter, Scalisi broke off for 60 yards, and Lockhart followed this by a 40-yard run for a touch.

Balley kicked to the deadline for the final point.

Polo Grounds, New York Oct. 8.—
The things that struck me most today as I saw the Giants climb in front again, one game from another world's championship, were:
First—The picture of a most marvelous hall player coming, and one equally as marvelous going. The kid Lindstrom, born at the tinie when Walter Johnson born started pitching, faced the old master—the really is that—and led the mattack. Even though we were fighting outside and inside ourselves to land that same. I actually felt sorry for Johnson me. To me it is pathetic, the should wait these long years and then fall down when he had a chance to will keep the player. The world's series or any other game never saw a line drive like that made by Terry, both for distack and for speed. While we had have had a decident of the same to the Johnson of old. GIANTS AND SOX MAY NOT PLAY AT OTTAWA

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Oct. 8.—An "enormous guarantee," and also the privilege of taking 65 per cent of the gate receipts in case the latter exceeded the amount of the guarantee, is what the New York Giants and Chicago White Sox demand of local sport promoters to play the first game of their exhibition tour here next Monday. They further requested the right to call the game off at any time prior to next Monday.
Negotiations have therefore reached a deadlock, and unless Tip O'Neill of Chicago, manager of the tour, will accept a straight guarantee of the amount asked, and nothing more, Franklin Ahearn, who is looking after the local end, will have nothing to do with what he considers a "one-sided arrangement."

Toronto Globe: "Recent victories scored by Frank Genaro, United States flyweight champion, over such bantams as 'Bud' Taylor and Eddie O'Dowd serve to emphasize the feat performed by Howard Mayberry last spring when he drew with the shifty little New Yorker. Mayberry's supporters point to this, as well as his other bouts in Toronto, to uphold their contention that he will wrest the bantamweight champonship of Canada from Bobby Ebber of Hamilton when they meet in their ten-round bout in the Coliseum ring Friday evening. Ebber and Mayberry both claim to be in better condition than was the case when they boxed their draw bout at Hamilton. There is more than a little rivalry between the former stablemates, which coupled with the fact that the winner will be given a bout with Carl Tremaine or 'Vic' Foley, the western star, should give added interest to Friday's bout.

"Hamilton fans are quite as interested in the bout as are those in Toronto, and will be well represented at the Coliseum. Hamilton promoters tried to secure the match for some time before the Queensbury club finally signed the boxers."

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of care was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me. Eugene M. Brantford, Ont.—"I take the greatest of pleasure in recommending Dr. Plerce's Anuric (kidney) Tablets to all sufferers of kidney and bladder ailments. Four years ago I first learned the value of the Anuric Tablets. I had suffered severely with backaches and my bladder was giving me considerable inconvenience, when I was advised to try Dr. Plerce's Anuric Tablets, obtaining almost immediate relief. Relatives have taken the Anuric (anti-uric-acid) Tablets on my advice and every one of them is enthusiastic in praising Anuric for the relief of backaches and kidney and bladder weakness."—Mrs. Francis Stone, 42 Grey St.

House of Lords Passes Measure by Vote of 71-38-No Amendments.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Oct. 8.—The House of Lords tonight passed the second reading of the Irish boundary bill without amendment, but by a vote of 71 to 38 carried Lord Salisbury's declaratory motion that the house "takes note" of the opinions expressed in parliament and elsewhere that article XII. of the treaty contemplated nothing more than a readjustment of the boundaries.

This amendment is not to the bill itself, and has no effect. In fact, some of the Conservative peers, including Lord Carson, opposed it on the ground of the inadvisability of forcing an appeal to the country on the Irish bill, which might happen if the lords insisted upon any amendments.

Before the Canadian Pacific

I HINK of a Canada without Vancouver and Victoria! Without Winnipeg! Without the wonderful cities of the plains! Think of a Canada ending at Lake Huron; its commercial arm reaching feebly by steamer to the head of the lakes; the fertility of its plains growing fodder for buffaloes; its trade with the mighty West a traffic in beavers' pelts.

That was Canada of the 'eighties.

Small wonder that the sovereign rights to the Northwest were transferred to the Dominion of Canada for £300,000. Without transportation Canada's boundless acres had no value. More, from a national view, that stretch of wilderness was a formidable barrier to a United Canada. For it lay between the mountainwalled colony on the Pacific and the older provinces of the East. Building the railroad across this unsettled, unproductive continent was the supreme test of the growing nation's courage, its vision, and its resources. The Canadian Pacific was young Canada's answer to those who questioned her political future. By binding together her widely-scattered peoples, by uncovering the wealth of the prairies, by opening the highway from the Orient to Europe, the Canadian Pacific laid the foundation of Canada's greatness. The achievements -and ideals-of the doughty Canadians of the 80's have been the inspiration for the great works of national development carried on by the Canadian Pacific.

DO YOU KNOW that the Canadian Pacific has spent $68,000,000 in colonization, in developing national resources and facilitating and improving the agriculture of the country.

Letter To Sir Adam Concerns Many Hydro-Electric Officials.

NAME COMMISSIONER

Certain Goods and Labor Alleged To Have Been Used

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Oct. 8 .- The charges in Clarence Settell's letter to Sir Adam Beck, it was learned today, at the parliament buildings, concern some seven or eight hydro officials. Principally, however, they involve Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the commission: F. A. Gaby, chief engineer for the commission; W. G. Pierdon, accountant for the commission; and A. V. Trimble, construction engineer for the commission.

As intimated by him last night and n response to Sir Adam Beck's request, Premier Ferguson, today nam ed a commissioner to probe the Settell charges. Selection of Judge Colin G. Snider was made for the task and his commission will be issued to him as soon as a cabinet council meeting be held for the purpose of confirming it, probably today.

The inquiry will take the form of a probe in which Judge Snider will have the power of examining witness under oath. The general impression in government circles 'is that the charges are not sufficiently serious to warrant the appointment of a royal com-
