STORMY TIME LAST NIGHT

John Kerr and His Stephens Rooters Cause Commotion at Nazary Hall Conservative Rally.

A Well Attended Meeting With Some Disorderly Features—Dr. Thornton's Splendid Address the Feature.

There was a lively time at Nazary Hall last evening at the political meeting, which was called in the interests of Herbert S. Clements, the Liberal-Conservative candidate.

Dr. Thornton, S. B. Arnold, ex-Mayor T. A. Smith and W. K. Merrifield were there to speak for Mr. Clements, but at the time of opening the meeting no opposition had arrived so that the program was made out accordingly and Chairman Robert Day opened the speaking.

After the meeting had started and everything was passing off pleasantly and in good order—for there was a good crowd and an interested and attentive audience—J. G. Kerr and N. H. Stevens arrived on the scene and took up a position in the rear of the hall. Mr. Kerr was accompanied by an organized gang of rooters, who it turned out were evidently there for the purpose of breaking up the meeting and putting things on the "rough" generally. Several times the chairman had to call Mr. Kerr and his comrades to order and their conduct throughout was anything but gentlemanly. The Liberals gained nothing in the East end by insulting the people of that part of the city by trying to break up their meeting.

Dr. A. W. Thornton, who is recognized as possibly the most able speaker in this Western Peninsula, opened the meeting and in a scholarly and eloquent manner dealt with the issues of the day, from a Conservative standpoint. He was given an excellent hearing and was frequently interrupted with cheers and applause.

He referred to his own work among the people of Dresden when he advocated that the children should attend public schools together and how his work was successful in that town 15 years ago.

The Liberals say that the county is prosperous but what have they done to bring about this prosperity? Commercial union and unrestricted reciprocity were two of their pet policies when they came in power.

Are they advocating these two policies now? What always told us, who is promised a Government portfolio about these? Speaking the other day he said Free Trade exists only in theory and we must be protectionists. This is Sir John A. MacDonald's National Policy over again.

Some one here interrupted with "Hold on Doctor."

The Doctor—There is evidently here, some one who has the cold shivers when he hears cold reason. (Laughter.) You can always tell which dog is hit by the yelping. (Laughter.) How many of you have been made rich by the reduction in the postage? (Applause.) The reason we have had prosperity is because the great Northwest has been opened up and at the time the C. P. R. was put through the Liberals opposed it, so that we are having prosperity not on account of, but in spite of the Liberals. (Applause.)

I recognized that the speaker's greatness but I want admit that he discovered Canada. Applause.

He went on to deal with the sending of troops to South Africa, which was opposed by Sir Wilfrid until he was forced into it; an expedition the many broken pledges made and broken by the Liberal party, and the appointment of men to public office.

The Doctor then concluded by appealing to the electors to use their franchise in assisting Mr. Clements to victory.

EX-MAYOR SMITH.

Ex-Mayor T. A. Smith was the next speaker. He made an able speech, attacking Geo. Stephens on his parliamentary record and ended by asking the electors to vote for Herbert S. Clements, the young men's candidate and leave Geo. Stephens at home to grant the needed rest that his added brains require. Applause.

BISHOP WILMORE QUESTIONS

Bishop Wilmore, who was in the audience, rose to ask Mr. Smith a question. The permission was speedily granted.

Mr. Wilmore—While I am here among my people I thought I would ask you a question and I also have one for Dr. Thornton.

Mr. Smith—Go on.

Mr. Wilmore—I understand that a year ago last September you said that I bought votes against you—

Mr. Smith—Yes sir.

Mr. Wilmore—Can you prove it?

Mr. Smith—Yes sir.

Mr. Wilmore—I hope you do it. I will give you a chance. We used to be friends and I never said anything but gentlemanly words about you and I have done so in the Liberal committee rooms. Surely I may vote as I please.

Mr. Smith—Certainly. Mr. Smith then explained that he was told on reliable authority that Bishop Wilmore said untrue things about him, but not incensed because the Bishop bought votes against him but when the Bishop spoke against his character Mr. Smith said he would denounce him.—Applause.

Bishop Wilmore—I don't blame you.—Applause.

All this time the organized gang at the rear of the hall were making themselves heard.

Dr. Thornton—Rising and walking to the platform—I believe the Bishop wishes to ask me a question.

Mr. Wilmore—Yes. Dr. Thornton has told you how he looks upon the colored men as brothers. I would like to ask him if he considered them such just previous to the Crossley & Hunter revival services and did he then at a meeting of a committee appointed to arrange the meetings, speak against inviting the colored preachers because they were offensive and not desirable and that at a convention in the south all the colored men were made to stand in a corner.—Yells and applause from the gang at the rear.

Dr. Thornton—I will be pleased to answer the Bishop's question. I was at the meeting in one of the smaller rooms of the Methodist Church and I was one of the men who stood up and said that God made all men of one blood and I was one who said I was in favor of having all the colored people of the city at our meetings.—Deafening applause.

Bishop Wilmore has referred to the convention in the South. I may say that my heart has thrilled at I have seen Bishop Hawkins stand on a platform and sing the song "I'm on the road to Canada where colored men are free," and I rejoiced that no such state of affairs as that which occurred in the Southern States is possible in this glorious Canada of ours.—Applause.

I have been at a convention where Bishop Hawkins has been present and where he sang that song and at the conclusion a hat was passed around and a collection of $100 was taken up for the Bishop.

DUTY OF BOTH PARTIES

There are few bigger men, bigger in all that true manliness implies, than the esteemed and popular President of the West Kent Liberal-Conservative Association, Dr. A. W. Thornton. Large-hearted, generous to a fault, broad-minded, fair, honest and conscientious, the eloquent doctor stands out as a type of the cleanest and best in Canadian citizenship. It is well that some such men take a deep interest in public matters of state—it would be better for our country if more of them did.

It is doubly hard, under these circumstances, to understand the purpose of the malicious and untruthful personal attack upon him prepared by the Stephens organization and duly delivered the other night by Bishop Wilmore. True, it was no trouble to promptly and absolutely demonstrate its falsity. Those who knew Dr. Thornton never considered it seriously for a moment; it was so utterly, so completely, foreign to the character of the man. But it must appeal to the good people of Kent that these petty, irresponsible personal charges, that have no foundation in fact, should be firmly put an end to—and this can, perhaps, be best done by a wholesome condemnation visiting itself upon either party that attempts to trundle with such methods.

It would be human nature to "fight the devil with fire," and the temptation is doubly acute when the ammunition is so plentiful and handy. But, if the best interests of our country are to be considered and the elevation of our public life, this style of contemptible and untruthful campaigning, degrading to the users of it and insulting to an intelligent public, should be firmly and emphatically stamped out by the men of both political parties.

CANDIDATES IN EAST KENT

B. W. Willson and D. A. Gordon Will Battle for His Parliamentary Representation.

Nominations for the East Riding of Kent were received at Dresden yesterday by Returning Officer John Howat, of Thamesville. When two o'clock arrived, the names of D. A. Gordon, of Wallaceburg, Liberal, and B. W. Willson, of Ridgeway, Conservative, had been deposited, and these two gentlemen will contest the riding.

After the time for receiving nominations had expired a public meeting was held, and on motion of Messrs. B. W. Willson and D. A. Gordon, Mayor Bibbe, of Dresden, was appointed chairman. Mr. Bibbe made a few complimentary remarks regarding the two candidates and said he thought East Kent would have a clean election.

The first speaker called upon was Chas. Stephens, an independent, who termed himself a member of the "sweating brigade." He took up half an hour calling the farmers down for being so slow in looking after their interests. He drew attention to the law suit in Chatham this week over loss of cattle on the railway near Dresden, where $410 had been granted the farmer who lost his cattle, and dwell on the cattle guards.

After some length, quoted from the Farmers' Sun re taxation, etc. Mr. Stephens said some thought he was "butting in," but he intended to do so every chance he got.

The next speaker was Andrew Caracallan, of Wallaceburg, who was heartily received. He said he would not attempt to follow all the remarks of the previous speaker, who had travelled all the way from "little Henry trees to the plains of Macphellie." Mr. Caracallan made a fine speech. He touched upon the tariff question and referred to Mr. Gordon's speech a year ago when Mr. Tarte visited this section. He noticed Mr. Gordon had flopped right over from the stand he had taken at that time on this important question. He referred to the prosperity of the country, how that the Reformers were taking the credit for same and said we have prospered so much that in the coming Legislature will be six members less than formerly.—Applause.

He asked who has made this prosperity and answered by saying it was the farmer, not the Reform Government.—Applause.

Mr. Caracallan then took up the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme and handled it in a convincing manner, showing the folly of the Government building the road and handing it over to a company as a present.

He spoke of the resignation of the Auditor General, John Lorne Macdougall, who would not approve of the methods adopted by the Reform administration. The so-called surplus was next dealt with by the speaker and he showed conclusively this was an election cry.

He referred to Mr. Willson's long term in the Howard Council, as Mayor of Ridgeway, and as Warden of the County. He had nominated Mr. Willson, and now asked the electors to grant him a favor by electing Mr. Willson on Nov. 3rd.

D. A. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, was well received. He said he had been received with kindness all over the riding and thought it foretold victory for him. He spoke of the rates charged for sending freight from Chicago to the seaboard as being less than sending from points in Ontario and said this would now be remedied as a commission had now been appointed which had been given greater power than any former board. Mr. Gordon spoke on the tariff, the G. T. P., the public debt, and referred to Kent County being the banner county of the province, alluding to the products of this section. He thought great responsibility rested on the representative sent to Parliament. He appealed for support.

B. W. Willson, the Conservative candidate, was given a hearty reception. He referred to the convention at which he had been the unanimous choice of the Conservative party in East Kent. He said he was in hearty sympathy with Mr. Borden's policy but at the same time if he was sent to Ottawa and any question came up which would be in the best interests of his constituents he would support it. Mr. Willson brought forth great applause when he alluded to the remarks that had been made about such wonderful prosperity, and asked who had made it. How much cheese and butter has the Government made? Has the Government had hens to lay eggs? It is not the Government, continued Mr. Willson, but you gentlemen of Kent who have helped to make this prosperity. He thought the people should own the Government rather than the Government own the people.—Applause.

He said, if I am sent to be your representative on Nov. 3rd—and I believe I will—I will come back to you and give you a history of what I have done. Mr. Willson was given great cheers in closing his speech.

J. G. Kerr appeared in the interests of the Liberal candidate. He said he was pleased to be present and discuss the questions uppermost in the minds of electors at the present time. He was glad that was what they were doing in East Kent. It was very much different in West Kent, where they were engaged in dealing with personalities. Mr. Kerr made reference to "adequate protection," saying it could not be explained. He said it was an easy thing to make charges. He tried to square the Auditor General question but found it rather difficult. He also touched on the G. T. P. scheme but when he was referred to Mr. Blair it rather put him off his feet.

J. S. Fraser, of Wallaceburg, was given a hearty ovation. Mr. Fraser first dealt with the remarks made by the previous speaker in reference to "adequate protection," and said Mr. Kerr was like Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Hamilton, who couldn't explain what it meant, but Mr. Aylesworth, the man who had always defended the "machine," had explained it, and the Liberal Government has always been in favor of "adequate protection."—Applause.

Mr. Fraser next handled the Grand Trunk Pacific question and did so in a very masterly manner, giving as strong evidence of the absurdity of the course adopted by the Government. Mr. Blair's action in resigning his position as Minister of Railways. He quoted Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who had said, "Mr. Blair is the ablest railway man in Canada." He said Sir Wilfrid had made the statement that he (Sir Wilfrid) was not a business man, and the G. T. P. proposition was a good thing, that such was true, and yet this was the man who wished to be returned to power. He took Mr. Gordon to task on the tariff question and referred to Sir Wilfrid's speech in Chatham when he had said that previous to 1898 the name of Canada had not been pronounced outside of Canada. He thought for a modest man Sir Wilfrid took the cake.—Applause.

He referred to the South African war, where if Sir Wilfrid had had his way no troops would have been sent from Canada to assist the Motherland, but that when announcement had been made by Sir Wilfrid that the Government couldn't send any troops outside of Canada, word was flashed over the wire from nearly every Mayor and Board of Trade in Canada insisting that Canada should join in the great conflict. And such was done.—Applause.

He pointed out how the Canadians had taken such a prominent part in that battle and showed themselves equal to the bravest of the brave. Mr. Fraser closed his excellent speech with great cheering.

N. H. Stevens was the next and last speaker. He dealt with matters in general, spending a great deal of the time in giving an account of his travels over the Continent. Mr. Stevens' remarks proved to be quite interesting.

The hall was crowded and all the speakers were given a good hearing.

The meeting closed with cheers for the candidates and a vote of thanks to Mayor Bibbe as chairman.

HALIFAX CHEERED BORDEN.

Greatest Political Gathering Ever Held in Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 28.—Mr. Borden's meeting last night was the greatest political gathering that ever took place in Nova Scotia. At 7.15 when the doors of the spacious Academy of Music were thrown open the crowds on the street in front of it were sufficient to pack the building to its utmost capacity. As the people surged inwards the police, who had been secured to regulate them were swept from their feet and in fifteen minutes every seat was filled and all the standing room was occupied.

Hundreds were left outside and the doors of St. Mary's Hall, the next largest auditorium in the city, were thrown open for an overflow. This hall, too, became packed, and several thousand people were forced to return to their homes.

It was a splendid showing of the popularity of the Conservative leader. Mr. Borden was in fine voice, and for about two hours addressed this immense audience, his remarks being punctuated by tremendous applause.

In Westmorland County, N. B., technical objection to Hon. H. B. Emmerson's nomination was made, but not allowed.

A kind of glorified milk rennaissance last night makes some handsome evening costs.

NO CONTRACT WITH G. T. R.

No one disputes the fact that the Laurier Government Transcontinental railway contract places the Grand Trunk Pacific railway absolutely under the control of the Grand Trunk Railway Company. It will be to all intents and purposes a part of the Grand Trunk Railway system. Why, then, did not the Grand Trunk Railway Company enter into contract with a paper Company called the Grand Trunk Pacific, a company without money and without resources instead of being made with the Grand Trunk Railway Company direct? The Government was very careful to provide that the Grand Trunk Railway Company should have absolute control and get all the profits, but it did not make the Grand Trunk Company responsible for any of the obligations of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

The evident intention was that the Grand Trunk Railway Co. should be absolutely free from all liability. That is why the contract was not made with the G. T. R. The Conservatives in Parliament moved amendment after amendment making the Grand Trunk Railway Company responsible for the carrying out of the contract, but every amendment was voted down by the Liberal majority, thus leaving the Grand Trunk Company free to do as it pleases. There are many reasons why this is regrettable for all sections of Canada, but the people of the Maritime Provinces have most reason to complain, as the traffic of the Canadian Northwest tributary to this railway will be carried to Portland, Maine, the Grand Trunk terminus, instead of being taken to St. John and Halifax, as would be the case if the Intercolonial were extended to the Pacific Ocean, as Mr. Robert L. Borden proposes.

WHAT FARM DOES A FARMER LIVE ON?

This is an easy question to answer. But what do you mean by living? Is it just grubbing upon a hundred acres or making money and putting by? Is it growing barley enough to keep the family going, or is it raising a surplus every year and so laying up something that will mean wealth later on?

Now if living on his own farm is to represent increasing prosperity, what is the farmer's first want? It is surely a market for his crops, his bacon, his eggs and his butter. And this market the free trader wants to put across the line, over the ocean, or anywhere except hands to the farmer. He likes him to sell his wheat at Liverpool prices and his bacon through the Chicago Produce Exchange.

In 1866 the farmer's market was in the United States because its population was very large and Canada's very small and chiefly agricultural. Since 1878 the market has been growing at home. Why is that? Simply because Canada's population has increased, and the increase is not caused by more farmers settling in Canada. If it were, each new farmer would be adding to the farm products to be exported abroad.

The increase has been in people who do not produce wheat, butter and eggs, but consume them. Take some instances. Wheat produced in 1902; ninety-three million bushels, exported only thirty-one millions. Butter produced in 1901, one hundred and forty-one millions of pounds—exported only twenty-seven millions of pounds. Eggs produced in 1901, eighty-four million dozen, exported only eleven million dozen.

The home market takes the balance. But as the home market does not consist of farmers it must be made up of workmen, artisans, miners, factory hands, fishermen and toilers of all sorts. They came here because they could find work in all sorts of industrial occupations.

It must pay the farmer better to have a ready home market than to be compelled to take the prices fixed for him by the industrial masses across the line. And those people are making money behind a high tariff wall. Why can't we gather a like quantity of workers in Canada with money to buy all that Canada can produce. We can do it if the farmer has faith in the policy which brings in population. And he needs a population that doesn't compete with him but buys all he can produce and enables him to live on his farm in comfort and prosperity. This he can only get by the encouragement given by adequate protection.

For the fourteenth time we ask the Stephens' organ why Mr. Stephens was afraid to let Reeve Purser and Counsellor Boyer speak at his Big Point meeting after challenging them to be present. Why do they dodge this simple question?

Listen to the hum of honest work in Clements' camp.

The people will profit by sending Herbert S. Clements, to parliament, not the corporations.

Vote for Kent's interests. This county doesn't want to be saddled with big corporation bonuses.

When did George Stephens ever work as hard for a single elector as he has for the corporation bonus-seekers.

Clements has fought a clean and honorable campaign. No contemptible and untruthful roboracks have been traced to his committee rooms.

Don't be over-confident. If you have got it won, work to make the majority bigger. Show them what West Kent can do.

Yes, Mr. Purser regarded it as a bribe and so did the eminent legal adviser for Dover township when he heard of it next day.

Once again, beware of the roborack. Remember the one already traced to Stephens' committee rooms and look out for others from the same source.

Herbert S. Clements didn't need Toronto, Montreal and Windsor lawyers and corporation bonus-seekers and promoters to plead his case. He had the people of Kent with him.

If Herbert S. Clements goes to parliament he will act forthwith to bring about a proper investigation of the hog cholera scandal and the farmers of Kent will not suffer hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of loss because of his inaction.

Herbert S. Clements will go to parliament to represent the farmers of Kent. He will not spend his time hobnobbing with and working for big corporation bonus-seekers and promoters, and so have no time to consider the loss the farmers are suffering through the hog cholera scandal. A vote for Clements is a vote to have the people's interests looked after. He is not a director of some bonus-seeking corporation.

WHY APPENDICITIS

Why is appendicitis so common today? Because we have got into "the pernicious habit of eating too fast."

Dr. Curtis, the great authority on this disease, says: "Appendicitis often follows the eating of a very hasty or particularly large or indigestible meal."

After carefully following a foolish custom, you can assure your safety by taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. It is an accepted, scientific truth, which admits of no dispute, that if you will only keep your digestive apparatus in good order, you will never suffer from the dread disease, which, at rest, means a weakening operation, with long weeks wasted in bed, and big doctors' and surgeons' bills to pay as a result.

Keep your appendix in health by the proper use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, whenever you have laid yourself open to danger by overeating, and upon the least sign of stomach or intestinal trouble, for otherwise, at any time, this dangerous disease may lay you low.

The curative influence of this great medicine is quickly shown in the gentle, soothing effect it has on all inflamed conditions of any part of the digestive tract.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets tone all these parts up to a proper condition of perfect health, and regulate their functions into a proper working state.

They also make away with all the causes of irritation, inflammation or indigestion, by helping to dissolve, digest and assimilate, or put to proper use, all the food which is lying around in odd corners of your digestive apparatus, fermenting, rotting and curdling, like so much garbage in a dirty sink.

In these natural and perfectly simple ways, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets restore all sufferers, from any form of dyspeptic trouble, to health.

They are safe and reliable. They never fail to relieve and cure, quickly and permanently.

Use them, and you need never worry about your appendix verminiformis.

DISTRICT DOINGS THAMESVILLE

A wedding of great interest to many of our readers took place on Wednesday in the Methodist church, at high noon, when Miss Annie Lavina Smith, daughter of Mr. J. W. Smith, of this place, was united in marriage to Dr. Alex. Johnston McKenzie, of Port Huron. The bride was gowned in white silk, trimmed with chiffon and guipure lace, with a white veil caught with white carnations. AS A WORKING TOOL for the student and the writer, as an authoritative reference book for schools, teachers, families, business and professional men, there is one book which offers superior advantages in the solid value of its information, and the ease with which it is obtained.

One's admiration for Webster's International Dictionary increases daily as it comes to be better known. It never refuses the information sought and it never overwhelms one with a mass of misinformation illogically arranged.

The St. James Gazette of London, England, says: For the teacher, the pupil, the student and the literateur, there is nothing better; it covers everything.

The New and Enlarged Edition recently issued has 25,000 new words and phrases, a complete revised Biographical Dictionary and Gazetteer of the World, 2800 pages and 800 illustrations.

The porky's coat of quill and hair was so thick that a blow on the back did not trouble him much. If my friend could have hit him across the nose it would have ended the matter then and there, but the canoe was too narrow and its sides too high for a crosswise stroke.

My friend couldn't even kick, for he was kneeling on the bottom of the dugout, and if he tried to stand up he would probably capsize.

Just then the canoe drifted round so that I could look into it, and I beheld the porcupine bearing down on me like a steam locomotive.

THE UPSETTING OF A PORCUPINE

One hot August afternoon two men were paddling along the edge of a lake, each in a small dugout canoe.

Mr. W. D. Hulbert, one of the travelers, tells in Forest Neighbors of an adventure which befel his companion.

They had noticed a porcupine asleep in the sunshine on the near-by horizontal trunk of a tree, the roots of which had been undermined by the waves till it leaned far out over the lake, hardly a foot from the water.

My friend, by the way, writes Mr. Hulbert, is the foreman of a lumber-camp. He has served in the British army, has hunted wharfs off the coast of Greenland, married a wife in Grand Rapids, and run a street-car in Chicago. He is quite a chunk of a man, tall and decidedly well set up, and it would take a pretty good prize-fighter to whip him, but he learned that day that a porcupine at close quarters is worse than a trained pugilist.

"Look at that porky!" he called to me. "In going to ram the canoe into the tree and knock him off into the water. Just you watch, and you'll see some fun."

I laid my paddle down and awaited developments. Bang! went the nose of the dugout against the tree, and the porcupine dropped, but not into the water. He landed in the bow of the canoe, and the horrified look on my friend's face was a delight to see.

Manager W. A. Brady's press representative has coined the phrase "The play that will live forever," which he makes free to use acent "Way Down East." Perhaps he is a trifle premature, but on the face of the return he is not far wrong.

The celebrated rural play as already seen several seasons, and that length of time in things theatrical, brings a play to old age. But "Way Down East," has not even thought of outliving its usefulness. Three companies representing the play are booked solid for three years to come.

Undoubtedly the majority of theatre-goers have seen the play but there is a certain fascination that brings them to the theatre for a second and even third visit.

Then again the local manager will tell you that "Way Down East" brings people to the theatre who will not be seen at any other play during the entire season.

Manager Brady has wisely kept his companies and productions up to their original excellence of standing, and so long as he continues along the same lines, "Way Down East" will remain the mainstay of his growing bank account.

A feast for the eye, and pleasure for the senses, such as the revival of "Twelfth Night" with Miss Marie Wainwright as Viola, which Manager Jules Murry will present here on Wednesday, November 2nd, at the Grand Opera House. The success of play star, company and production has been phenomenal, not only financially, but artistically as well.

Wherever Miss Wainwright has appeared the full capacity of the theatre has been tested, and the most glowing eulogiums have been showered upon her and her support. In all the wide range of English dramatic literature there is no play so diversified of incident and character as "Twelfth Night." Shakespeare never showed versatility in his study of men in a more marked degree, nor touched them off with more delicious humor than in the variety of characters he brings into view in this charming comedy.

Miss Wainwright is the best Viola on the American stage seems to be the consensus of the general critical opinion, and that as Cessario, that is, as Viola in male attire, she is the most exquisite picture, a beautiful vision of supreme grace is the generally conceded fact.

TRAINED DOGS ON THE BATTLEFIELD

The Russian government is in communication with Major Hautonville Richardson, a retired officer of the British army, on the subject of his supplying canine ambulance corps for the Far East.

Major Richardson considers that the best dogs for ordinary work in the field are black or sable collies. Intelligence, not breed, however, is the chief consideration. The Russians have adopted the Caucasian dog; France favors the "amuglers" dog; well known on her frontiers; Austria employs Dalmatians; Turkey finds Asiatic sheep dogs most suitable and Germany generally selects collies.

A trained dog can be employed in a number of ways. He may act as a scout, as an outpost to the outposts; in an actual engagement his services are readily available for the transport of reserve ammunition to the firing line. In a siege of investment he may be used as a sentry and in this capacity would prove invaluable in guarding against surprise.

But it is in ambulance work that the dog may provide the greatest service to man and it is to this special and important phase that Major Richardson has devoted many years, training his dogs to perform their life-saving work with almost human human skill and intelligence.

The beginning of training for field service is to take the dog at night to some quiet spot and have an assistant creep up slowly toward dog and master. The dog scents the approach and gives warning by growling—barking being always checked by the trainer, since in war time it would betray the dog's presence to the enemy.

In ambulance work, the dog, finding a wounded man, lies down beside him and the man, if not too seriously injured, helps himself to the brandy carried by the dog in a flask upon its back.

The dog also carries bandages, a waterproof sheet, a pencil and a piece of paper. The wounded man scribbles a hasty note to inform his comrades in what part of the field to find him; then, intimating to the dog by a wave of the hand that it is to return, the dog dashes off again to the ambulance headquarters.

He is despatched at once, the ambulance party being led to the spot by the dog itself. The wounded man

The Liberals made an effort to capture the Conservative meeting at McGully's school house, Creek Road, last night and it is a high tribute to H. S. Clements and J. M. Pike that in the face of a superior number of opposition speakers and of a majority of a hostile audience, they were able not only to prevent the capture of the meeting but were able also to get off with flying colors.

THE SHADOW OF WAR OVER GREAT BRITAIN

Confessed Now That the Dire Word is With Russia.

Admiral Rojestvensky's Explanation Characterized As "Home Manufactured" and It is Not Accepted by the British Public—Britain Prepares For War—All the Dockyards Busy—Cabinet Meeting Called—Movements of the British Fleet.

London, Oct. 28.—How much longer?—This is the burden of newspaper editorial articles this morning. Commenting upon the continued delay of the Russian Government and what is characterized as the amazing story Admiral Rojestvensky presents in defence of his action, little disposition is displayed to listen for a moment seriously to the admiral's story. Some St. Petersburg special correspondents even go so far as to suggest the explanation "home manufactured." The most serious of the morning newspapers confess that the country is under the shadow of war and that the word is now with Russia.

The fact that the second Pacific squadron appears to have fired on vessels of various nations is regarded as proving that its officers were in a condition of nervous panic, rendering the squadron a danger to the world's commerce.

Notwithstanding the diplomatic check in consequence of Admiral Rojestvensky's report, it is evident that Great Britain is preparing for the possibility of war. Tremendous activity is reported from all dockyards where vessels under repair are being made ready for sea under urgent orders from the Admiralty.

Cardiff it is stated that Admiralty agents are securing great quantities of coal for Gibraltar, Portsmouth, Malta and other ports and paying high freight. The Mediterranean fleet is hastening in the direction of Gibraltar, and it is announced that the Channel squadron, with decks cleared, will leave Gibraltar early this morning. The admiral's report, it is said, is a "sham attack on the rocks." The home fleet, likewise, is concentrating. In fact, almost the entire British navy is pointing in the direction of the Baltic fleet, a portion of which is expected to sail from Vigo during today.

Cabinet Meeting to Day.
Perhaps the most significant development in the Cabinet meeting which is called for noon today. While the meeting was ordered prior to the receipt of Rojestvensky's report, which changed the situation considerably and appears to place some of the burden of proof upon Great Britain, the meeting undoubtedly marks the reaching of a serious stage.

While up to the present time the Government has maintained an almost complete silence with regard to the progress of the affair, it is considered almost certain that Premier Balfour, who will make a speech at Portsmouth to-night, will after a conference with the cabinet be in a position to make some definite announcement. Public sentiment, which hitherto has kept under remarkable control, hardly can stand the passing of another day, and especially the opportunity offered by Mr. Balfour's appearance on the platform without some satisfactory explanation being made.

Public Greatly Agitated.
It might be said that yesterday was the first time that any real excitement was exhibited on the part of the public. Early editions of the afternoon papers, calculated to arouse the most intense national feeling, positively announced that a time limit had been set for Russia to reply, and that the cabinet had been called to assemble immediately.

This brought out a crowd in Downing street, but it quickly dispersed when informed that Mr. Balfour had not arrived from Hatfield House, and that they were 24 hours ahead of time.

Admiral Rojestvensky's report seemed to stagger almost everyone. Its statements were met with incredulity and eventually the reply was regarded as merely an adroit counter in order to gain time. The text of the admiral's telegrams, received at a late hour last night, were calculated to inflame instead of to allay the sentiment of the British public. His statement that he endeavored to spare the trawlers and ceased to fire as soon as the torpedo boats were out of sight, together with the virtual accusation of complicity with supposed Japanese torpedo boats against the fishermen, hardly likely to reconcile an angry nation to the possibility that there is another side to the case calling for investigation.

Allowed to Repair Ships.
Madrid, Oct. 28.—Scovitch, the Russian Ambassador to Spain, and Foreign Minister San Pedro, had a long conference here yesterday. The Government has authorized the Russian ships at Vigo to remain in port and complete repairs, on condition that they leave immediately after the repairs are completed.

ATTACKED BY THE JAPS

Admiral Rojestvensky's Explanation of North Sea Tragedy.

Solely Declares Two Torpedo Boats Crept Up to Him From Direction of British Fishing Fleet and He Fired At Them—Stopped Firing When He Saw the Fishing Fleet—Expresses Regret For His Victims.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—The naval general staff publishes the following two despatches from Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky:
First despatch: "The North Sea incident was caused by two torpedo boats advancing to attack without lights under cover of darkness against the vessel leading the detachment. When the detachment turned on its searchlights and opened fire the presence of several small steamboats resembling steam fishing boats was discovered. The detachment endeavored to spare these and ceased firing as soon as the torpedo boats were out of sight."

"The English press is indignant because a torpedo boat left by the detachment on the spot until morning did not aid the victims. Now, there was not a single torpedo boat near the detachment and none was left behind, consequently the vessel remaining near the small steamboats was not sunk, but only damaged. The detachment did not aid the little steamboats, because we suspected them of complicity, on account of their obstinately cutting into the order of the positions of our vessels. Several of them showed no lights and others only very late."

Second despatch: "Having met several hundred fishing boats, the squadron showed them every consideration except when they, in company with foreign torpedo boats, of which one disappeared, while the other, according to the fishers' own evidence, remained among them until morning. They were not a Russian, and were indignant because it did not aid the victims; but it was a foreign one and remained until morning, seeking the other torpedo boat, its consort, either to repair damage, or through fears of betraying to those who were not its accomplices. If there were also the spot fishermen imprudently dragged into the enterprise, I beg in the name of the whole squadron to express my sincere regret to the unfortunate victims of circumstances under which, in the name of the whole squadron, even in time of deep peace, could have acted otherwise."

WHAT ROJESTVENSKY SAYS.

Alleges That He Was Attacked By Torpedo Boats—Reply to Press Criticisms—Japs From Hull.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—Admiral Rojestvensky's explanation of the trawler incident is fully as sensational as the news of the firing upon the fishing fleet, which set all England a-fire.

He declares he was attacked in the dark by torpedo boats which came upon the squadron from the direction of the fishing fleet. He opened fire and believes he sank one of the torpedo boats, the other making off for cover among the fishermen. As soon as he noticed the fishermen, Admiral Rojestvensky ceased firing.

He proceeded on his way without leaving any vessel behind, and says he believes the vessel which the fishermen reported remained on the scene for six hours without offering succor to the drowning men was the other torpedo boat, either waiting for his consort or repairing damage inflicted by the fire of his ships.

It is stated that torpedo boats attacked the leading Russian ship. They disregarded the signals to keep off when picked up by the searchlights and fire was opened on them.

Replies to Press.

Rojestvensky refers to and replies specifically to the reports in the British press, showing that he had the press accounts before him when he wrote his report. Some of his language is sarcastic, especially when speaking of the appearance of the torpedo boats from the direction of the British fishermen, covering an intimation which will certainly arouse resentment in England. He declares that no other naval commander at sea under similar circumstances would have failed to open fire, and suggests that a court of inquiry could be held at Vigo.

Admiral Expresses Regret.

In concluding his telegram Admiral Rojestvensky expressed in the most warm-hearted way the regrets of the whole squadron to the fishermen who had suffered and to the families of the victims.

Rojestvensky's report was telegraphed from Vigo direct to the Emperor, who received it Wednesday night. It was communicated yesterday morning to Ambassador Hardinge by Foreign Minister Lamsdorff himself.

According to word received here Great Britain will at once begin the most formal and most searching inquiry into the affair.

In diplomatic circles Rojestvensky's report created the keenest interest. The feeling is that the situation demands impartial investigation to determine the facts to the satisfaction of both parties and to the world generally. The mystery is not considered to be cleared up.

I defy Mr. Kerr to say that Free Trade was not the Laurier platform. Mr. Kerr—It was not—Crisis of "Put him out" from the electors.

Mr. Arnold—You know how true those denials are—Applause. Mr. Kerr is going around through the country trying to ram just such things down the intelligent electors of Kent.

Vote from the rear—Talk politics. Another—Give us fair play.

Then followed a general riot again at the rear. The gang was evidently well instructed and they were doing their work nobly.

Dr. Thornton ended it by saying—There has only been one meeting where the opposition was not allowed to speak and that was at Big Point, when Messrs. Purser and Boyer were refused a hearing. At a Conservative meeting held at the same place Mr. Kerr was given all the time he wanted, and now he whines like a whipped "cur" that he does not get fair play—Applause. Wherever he speaks he makes votes for the Conservatives, so he will give him ten minutes and I will take ten minutes to answer him—Applause.

This shut up the crowd at the rear. Mr. Arnold then referred to statements made by Harry Westman at the Dover Centre meeting. A. D. Westman, a brother of Harry, was in the audience, and interrupted with—My brother is not here to-night, but if he were it would only take three minutes from him to offset all that Mr. Arnold has said.

A voice—That is in Mr. Westman's opinion—Laughter and applause.

Mr. Westman tried to speak again, but he was hooted with yells of "Sit down! Sit down!" from the electors. Dr. Thornton explained to A. D. Westman that there would be other meetings when his brother could speak for himself.

He was evidently taken by surprise when he got a hearing, for he had nothing to say when he did get the platform, and took up all of his ten minutes and more in furling abuse at the Conservative party.

I am given 10 minutes, said he to reply to speeches which have lasted all night.

A voice—What about Purser?—Laughter.

Mr. Kerr—I would like Mr. Clements to be here so that you could hear one of his speeches. He tells how the farmer is abused.

A voice—He'll tell you on the 3rd of November—Laughter from the electors.

Mr. Kerr—I don't think we will hear from either him or you after the third of November—Cat yells from the gang. Dr. Thornton would have you believe that you are indebted to the Conservative party for all the good things—A voice—He's right—More applause.

Mr. Kerr—They say that they are the Moses that took the children of Israel through the wilderness but Providence kept them out of the Promised Land and we will help Providence in keeping them out. They say that we have got their policy. Well, if we work it better than they do why not let us continue working it? Borden stands for adequate protection but he doesn't say what adequate protection is.

Mr. Kerr then went on to score the previous speakers on the G. T. P. scheme.

Dr. Thornton replied and scored Mr. Kerr badly on every point brought up by the latter. He referred to the searching Mr. Kerr got from Mr. Clements at Dover Centre. He said that Mr. Kerr had studiously avoided the question of free trade and referred to Blair on the G. T. P. scheme. Mr. Kerr seemingly doesn't know a fish plate from a handkerchief—Applause. Dr. Thornton also referred to the bills announcing Mr. Laurier's visit to Chatham in which was printed Laurier and adequate protection—Applause.

Mr. Kerr and his gang introduced three cheers for Laurier but Dr. Thornton proposed the King first, then Borden and Clements and the meeting closed.

—Applause. Are you answered, Bishop Wilmore?

The Bishop, rising—No, and I will tell you why I was told by Clarke Tinkler, William Sharpe, and Rev. Mr. Locke.

Bishop Wilmore—I have been here 50.

Dr. Thornton, continuing—And I have not lived the life of a hermit. No man can point to a single action of mine which will not stand the closest scrutiny.

A voice—Hear! Hear!

MR. MERRIFIELD SPEAKS.

W. K. Merrifield then gave a lengthy and clever speech on the Grand Trunk Pacific deal. Mr. Merrifield has made a study of this question and his speech was interesting and well received. He was interrupted several times by the rowdism at the rear of the hall and several times the chairman was forced to call Mr. Kerr and his rooters to order.

MR. N. H. STEVENS PROTESTS.

One noticeable incident in connection with the rowdism was that N. H. Stevens, who was standing at the rear, made clear his disapproval of the interruptions by walking to the front and sitting down in front with the audience. He evidently did not mind being mixed up in the disgraceful conduct of Mr. Kerr and his followers.

MR. ARNOLD SPEAKS.

S. B. Arnold followed, but he had not spoken long before the rooters at the rear tried to break up the meeting by yelling out "Kerr! Kerr!" Mr. Arnold scored the "Liberals on their cry of free trade, and the fact that they don't advocate it now. You don't find J. G. Kerr going around through the country advocating "Free Trade like they had it in England."

Mr. Kerr—I never advocated Free Trade as they have it in England—Tells and cheers and general hubbub.

Mr. Arnold—I came here to address the intelligent electors and I didn't expect that the people here would be insulted by the Liberals. Of course these things hurt them and they would like to break up the meeting.

EMPHATICALLY REPUDIATED

Rev. Dr. Hannon and Mr. Warren Martin Says the Doctor Always Spoke Strongly for Rights of All.

Relative to the unseemly charge preferred against Dr. Thornton last evening by Bishop Wilmore that at a meeting of the church workers preparatory to the visit of Evangelists Crossley and Hunter, he spoke against inviting the colored clergy to participate, The Planet interviewed this morning the fellow members with Dr. Thornton on the committee in question. They are all estimable men whose word will be at once accepted without question, and it is very unfortunate that Mr. Wilmore lent himself to the publicity of such untruthful statements.

Warren Martin, who was at the meeting mentioned by Mr. Wilmore, was interviewed by The Planet this morning. Anyone who knows Mr. Martin respects the man and respects his word, as he is one of the oldest and most earnest and sincere Christian workers in the city. Mr. Martin said:

"I was at the meeting and I did not hear anything of the sort as stated by Bishop Wilmore. At that meeting there was nothing said reproachful of the colored people. Dr. Thornton said that the last man in the world to say anything like that, he has always, to my knowledge, been strongly the other way. Dr. Thornton did not say anything against the colored people at that meeting."

S. F. Gardiner, who was also at the meeting, was also interviewed. Mr. Gardiner expressed surprise to hear that such an accusation had been made.

"I do not recollect anything of the sort," being said, said he to The Planet. "I do not remember any such words being used by Dr. Thornton."

Daniel Jordaa, who was also present at the meeting, said:

"I don't remember anything like that being said and I don't believe that Dr. Thornton said anything like what Mr. Wilmore accuses him of saying. I do not know Dr. Thornton as the kind of a man to make such statements."

REV. DR. HANNON EMPHATIC.

Rev. Dr. Hannon, of Exeter, was secured by his solicitor and his statement relative to the matter was as follows:

"Most emphatically Dr. Thornton said nothing of the kind, nor anything like that, possibly he construed in that way what I said at the meeting in question and nothing offensive was said by anybody there relative to the colored people. As far as Dr. Thornton is concerned neither on that or any other occasion have I heard him say anything reflecting on the colored people. He has always been outspoken in their behalf. You are at perfect liberty to use any name in denouncing the statement made, most emphatically."

BACK DOWN

Young Man Made Bet Against Clements and Secured Lawyer to Call it Off.

Frank Mount, a young man who placed a bet of $30 against the chance of Herbert S. Clements in the city, this morning secured the services of his solicitor to call down the wager. He had come to the conclusion that he was a sure loser and was anxious to get his money back.

Mount was doing some loud talking for Stephens and professed thirty greenbacks that George Stephens would beat Herbert S. Clements right in the city.

"Did I hear aright?" quietly put in Mac McLeod, "you want to bet $30 that George Stephens will beat Herbert Clements in the city?"

"That's what I said, and I have the money to back it," was the lusty response.

"Thank you, I'll take the bet," was Mr. McLeod's reply. "Mr. Clements looks good to me." And the money was forthwith produced.

Fred Cowan, who was passing nearby, was hailed and the $60 duly deposited with him.

Yesterday Mr. Cowan received a visit from Mount. He had been thinking over the matter and didn't want to bet against Clements. He wanted his money back.

Mr. Cowan asked him to wait and they would go together and see Mr. McLeod.

"No," said Mount, "I just want my 30 back. I've got no chance to win it on Stephens."

Mr. Cowan said he could not pay it over without the consent of Mr. McLeod and Mr. Mount had better see him.

This morning Mount's solicitor waited on Mr. Cowan and demanded on behalf of his client the return of the money bet, or suit would be instituted.

Mr. Cowan took the solicitor's receipt for the money and turned it over to him. It was an interesting question to decide what rights Mr. McLeod would have in the matter after Nov. 3rd.

IN MUKDEN THE SACRED

Chinese Much Concerned for the Welfare of Their Holy City in Manchuria—Ponderous Stone Elephants and Camels Seen at Hand—Where the Russian and Japanese Armies May Meet in Battle Clash.

The armies of General Kuropatkin and Marshal Oyama are now fighting on ground that is associated with some interesting Oriental history and that possesses in some sense a sacred character in the eyes of the Manchoo class of Chinnamen. The latter have been much concerned lest the forces of the Czar and of the Mikado in seeking to destroy each other might do harm to the tombs at Mukden where repose the venerated relics of the Manchoo monarchs. The subjects of the "son of heaven" do not care how many thousand Japanese or Russians fall in battle, but they are vastly disturbed lest ill befall the tomb of some monarch who has been several centuries dead.

This is in accordance with Oriental ideas, and the greatest veneration is paid to the tombs at Mukden of Manchoo Emperors. Indeed, it may almost be said that to the Manchoo class of Chinnamen Mukden is what Jerusalem is to the Jews or Mecca to the Mohammedans. The royal burying ground is ornamented with stone images of elephants as ponderous as some of the stone figures used to mark the graves of Egyptian Kings. The figure of the camel also appears among these strange funeral emblems.

The Chinese Empire is now ruled by a dynasty which originated in Manchuria some centuries ago. Manchuria means land of the Manchos. Mantchoo means clear or pure, and it was applied to his tribesmen by Aisin Gioro Bukul, a great chief of the Ming dynasty. He was supposed to be the ancestor of the family now on the throne of China. Seventh in descent from him was Nurhachu, who was born in 1559, and who in 1616 took the title of "Heaven decreed." In the following year he declared war on China, defeated with immense slaughter an army of 200,000.

000 sent against him and took Mukden and Liaoyang, making the latter city his capital. In the seventeenth century there were rebellions in China. The Ming dynasty had been seized with decay, and one of the rebel leaders had captured Peking. It came about that Wu San Kwei, the general operating against the Manchos, made peace with them and sought their assistance in restoring order in China. The Manchos therefore marched into China and took Peking and placed on the throne the grandson of Nurhachu with the reign title of Shunshi. Since that time the Manchoo dynasty has continued to reign in China, the Manchoo language being the court and official language.

Four miles to the east of the city are the tombs of Nurhachu, known as the dragon chief, and of his son, Tientsung, who invaded Peking in 1627. Under him Manchuria became powerful and so was able to conquer China when the rebellion against the Ming dynasty occurred, resulting in the placing of Shunshi on the throne. The Manchos are a Tungusian race. They are of a lighter complexion and more powerful build than the Chinese, but have the same conformation of the eyelids. Their countenances are more expressive and intellectual. Before the war between Japan and Russia began the population of Manchuria was estimated at about 22,000,000.

A curious story is connected with Shunshi, the first of the Manchoo Emperors of China. It is said that General Wu San Kwei was moved to invite the Manchos over into China because the rebellious General Li, who had overthrown the Ming Emperor, took from him a beautiful slave girl he had received among the spoils of Peking. He felt so resentful over the loss of the girl that he turned against Li and in conjunction with the Manchos laid siege to Peking. When the combined armies were before the walls of the capital Li sent out word that Wu's father was in his custody and that he would behead him unless the invasion was called off. This Wu refused to do, and in consequence his father lost his head. He was decapitated in sight of both armies.

JACK'S ADVICE TO HIS FRIEND.

Why, Tom, thou'rt a seaman; and may every wind That thy wishes can prosper and favor, Still sit in thy soul, that each port thou mayst find, While honor shall guide thy behavior; While good, true and hearty, the stays of thy mind. Are steadily braced by thy duty; While to king, wife and friend, thou art constant and kind, And thou driest up the sorrows of beauty.

But may all thy tackles, grown rotten, give way; Thy vessel, may leaks fairly fill her; Thy timbers all splintered, no rope to belay. Broke thy compass, and shattered thy tiller, When shook in the winds are the sails of thy heart, And thou'rt false to thine honor and duty. When from king, wife and friend thou wouldst basely depart, And thou mock'st at the sorrows of beauty.

—Charles Dibdin.

WHISTLER SUBDUED FOR ONCE.

Once when Whistler was in the country and walking through a field, the great impressionist suddenly became aware of the fact that a huge bull was making straight towards him. The master ran as he had never run before, and succeeded in getting to the other side of the fence before the bull got to him. When he reached the other side he saw a farmer, the owner of the field, coolly watching the proceedings.

Mr. Whistler was furious, and shaking his fist at the farmer, he said: "What do you mean, sir, by letting a savage brute like that roam at large? Do you know who I am sir? I'm Whistler."

"Are you?" replied the farmer.

"What's the good of telling me? Why didn't you tell the bull?"—Tit-Bits.

DR. S. GOLDBERG.
The possessor of 14 diplomas and certificates, who wants no money that he does not earn.

In order to convince patients that he has the ability to do so, he says, Dr. Goldberg will accept your case for treatment, and you need not pay one penny until a complete cure has been made; he will then hear from patients who have been made to get cured, as he guarantees a positive cure for all chronic, nervous, blood and skin diseases, which he accepts for treatment. He not only cures, but he also teaches you how to make claims and another thing to back them up so he cures you, and when you are cured, he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It seems, therefore, that it is the best interests of everyone who suffers to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him, which will receive careful attention, and a correct diagnosis of your case will be made free of charge. If you have lost faith, write him, as you have everything to gain and nothing to lose; you must remember not one penny need be paid until you are cured. All medicines for patients are prepared in his own laboratory to meet the requirements of each individual case. He sends a booklet on the subject, which contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply Dr. S. Goldberg, 28 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Michigan. Medicines for Canadian patients sent by mail. Dr. Goldberg, Ont., consequently there is no duty to be paid.

THE YUKON PATHFINDER

HOWARD FRANKLIN AND HIS CAREER IN THE NORTH.

Stories of the Days When There Was No Dawson City and the Klondike Was an Unknown Stream—The Law of the Northland—An Unreliable Signboard—Exploring the Sands of Forty Mile River.

The pathfinder for Bob Henderson, for George Caranack, and for all other past, present or prospective claimants of the honor attached to the "discovery" of the Klondike gold field—Howard Franklin, prospector and miner—is dead at Dawson City, aged sixty-one. It was Franklin who first found gold at Forty Mile, and it was this discovery of coarse gold at Forty Mile which brought about the exploration, from which resulted the bursting upon the world of the Klondike with its dazzle of untold wealth in yellow dust and nuggets. Yet until his death Howard Franklin has been practically unheard of. Even in his own country, the Yukon, he was without particular honor.

Fading of Historic Figure.

On Friday, June 3rd, while still pursuing the adventurous and hard career of a working miner, the veteran fell into icy Bonanza Creek at "No. 56 below," as the claims are designated, washing down stream about two hundred yards before he was able to stem the swift current and make land again. The effects of the water, still carrying drift of ice, and the exhaustion incident to the adventure, produced a rapid illness, congestion of the lungs intervening and causing death the following Sunday. With Franklin's death there passes one of the historic figures of the newer north, and one of the last of the picturesque "old bridge" of western mining camps.

Franklin was born March 2, 1843, at Schenectady, N.Y., but before he was a year old his parents moved to Chatham, Ont. He lived there until 1873, when he journeyed to Vancouver, B.C., by way of California and went out with the island staff on a preliminary survey for the Canadian Pacific Railway. In 1875 he went on to the Cassiar country, and afterwards mined on Spruce Creek, which empties into Chatham Sound. He passed on to Juneau in 1880, and worked a claim in the basin there. Hearing vague Indian reports from the Yukon valley that seemed to indicate that it might be a good country to prospect in, he left Juneau for the unborn Eldorado on April 20, 1883, in company with Tom Boswell and Henry Matherson.

The first place that the trio had any luck, according to the autobiography of the old miner, was on a bar some twenty miles below the Little Salmon, which they struck on June 20. It paid as high as $40 a day to the rock and they cleaned up $1,500 in less than ten days' time. They then dropped down river, late autumn finding them still working their way down stream and north, with only moose meat in the larder. They passed on to the Klondike River on the afternoon of October 4th in a heavy run of ice, reaching Fort Reliance shortly thereafter, and being there joined by Joe Ladue. The quartette made their headquarters at the post, but there were no supplies to be got there, most of the time was necessarily devoted to hunting, and for ten days the little company camped and hunted the numerous moose up Bonanza Creek and to the present site of "the fort," a little distance that they were treading a land of gold, whose fame a few years later would be in the mouths of everyone. Outfitting the following spring upon the arrival of the steamer New Klondike and being joined by several other old-time friends, the prospecting expedition was resumed.

The Law of the Northland.

"That felt something happened which I recall with anything but pleasure," says Franklin in his biography. "Tom Boswell had made several remarks as to not going hunting, declaring that instead he intended to rob the Indian caches. The Indians at that time were very friendly with the whites. It would not do, we agreed, to let the white men hunt in any way. The fact that Matherson, Joe Ladue, John Fraser, Mike Hess and I came to the conclusion that we must protect ourselves, and so the following note was handed by me to Boswell:

"If you are caught robbing Indian caches you will be shot on sight."

"The warning bore the signature of all five of us. It seems a rather cold-blooded proceeding, but it was absolutely necessary for us to keep on good terms with the natives, and there was only one way to do it—punish by death anyone who would upset the good feeling then existing."

Boswell hunted and prospected the entire season a lonely, isolated man, and then struck for the outside. The Franklin party of six continued their explorations, and during the summer of 1884, struck what is known as and as Steamboat Bar.

An Unreliable Signboard.

"When we started up the Stewart warm weather had just set in," says Franklin, "and we struck the Bar just after the snow had disappeared and had left the ground thawed, yet the river showed no sign of breaking up. Before the ice did go out we had cleaned up $30,000. It was a regular thing for each rocker to clean up from $200 to $300 per day. Another incident which comes to mind as being interesting: When we were going up the river we had cleaned up $30,000, reached a point about 65 miles up, we came to a tree blazed so carefully that it immediately attracted our attention. We investigated, and found it to have been done by five men in 1882. In letters about 'an inch in size were the words, 'No gold here.' The only name I can recall upon it was that of Charles Parson. The tree was at the head of an island, and just about twenty feet from it was the only place that I have ever seen gold in windrows. For a few days we worked as high as $300 a day. Pans went from $1.50 to $2.00. We simply skimmed off the top of the bar, for that was all that carried pay."

On the Forty Mile. September found Franklin and his associates exploring the sands of Forty Mile River. It was on the evening of the 7th that the discovery of historic interest and importance was made. "I had walked up stream about two miles from camp," Franklin says in telling his story, "until I found a place where the bed-rock was exposed, and in a crevice succeeded in getting out about half a shovelful of dirt. When I panned this I was surprised to find it had much coarse gold in it. I hastened back to camp and showed the boys what I had got. We weighed the prospect, and if I am not mistaken, it weighed a half an ounce, or about $8.50 as gold went in those days. This place was about 50 feet inside the American boundary line. The next day we panned up, but could not find anything else on the bar, and then we continued our tramp for some distance, and finally got good prospects on a bar which I staked and named Discovery Bar, but which afterwards became known as Franklin's Bar. I sold out in 1888 and went to San Francisco, where I had a good time after being away from civilization so long. In 1889 I went to Cariboo, and afterwards prospected in Oregon and Washington, returning to the north in 1895.

"The coarse gold I had got at Forty Mile was given by us to Harper & Mayo, who some years later despatched Williams and an Indian to Dyea, the former being instructed to go to San Francisco and tell Jack McQuestin about the find. They left Stewart on December 3rd, and were caught in a storm on the summit. Williams died there of exposure, and the Indian had a narrow escape, only reaching Dyea with great difficulty. Men went to the summit and got Williams' mail, and at a miners' meeting it was decided to open the letters and see what news had been sent out. In one reference was made to the coarse gold, and upon it being found on Williams' body the news spread, and was the direct cause of the stampede which followed shortly after, and did more than anything else to open up the Klondike country."

Dominion Day's Lesson.

This is summed up in the word "Unity." In a general sense we have a united country, and if our sober thoughts will dwell for an hour, during celebration days, upon their serious significance, we may in time have a thoroughly united nation. And, surely, on a Dominion Day morning while the mother is packing the sandwiches and calculating how far the holiday fund will go, good-natured dad might get his pipe going in the garden, and with the youngsters around him, chattily explain to them the nature and origin of Dominion Day. It would at least simplify the tangle of dry school history and make the day's observance a more sensible thing. Youngsters have brains, for were it not so we should have had no "Fathers of Confederation."

Scratch your head, "daddy," and dig up all you know about Confederation. Your own bright-eyed boy may take a great part in Canada's history, and, depended upon it, he won't forget that garden chat. Or, let the splendidly limbed young man, whose glorious vigor has been in such evidence during the day, take a quiet stroll in the cool of the evening and ask himself this question: "Do I care a about Confederation; or, do I see nothing in Dominion Day save peanut shells and banana skins?"

Depend upon it, Mr. Muscular, this question needs answering. Increased Land Values. One evidence of the increasing value of land in Vancouver is that whereas houses were formerly built on the regulation-sized lot of 66 feet by 132 feet, they are now being put up on half lots and quarter lots, so that the city is growing not only in extent but in density of population. It is needless to say that under existing circumstances the value of urban land has greatly increased. During the past three years the appreciation has averaged fifty per cent. I.e., lots that were worth $1,000 in 1900 are now worth $1,500. These prices refer to the residential district in the west end. In the centre of the city land is worth from $300 to $600 per foot frontage, and the increase of value has been even more marked. An important factor in the rise of values in the west end of the city is to be found in its being a peninsula. The surrounding tide-water forms a fixed boundary within which only a few hundred lots now remain vacant. The main peninsula ends in a smaller one, our incomparable Stanley Park, of the impressive grandeur of which so much has been written. Other parts of the city are available for residential purposes, but they are comparatively remote and demand a longer ride in the street car—Bernard McEvoy in Toronto Telegram.

When the Boss Made a Mistake. A senior of one of our large manufacturing concerns came through the store recently and noticed a boy sitting on a counter, swinging his legs and whistling merrily. The senior eyed him severely as he confronted him and inquired: "Is that all you have to do?" "Yes, sir." "Very well; report to the cashier and tell him to pay you off. We don't need boys like you around here." "But, sir," said the astonished boy, "I don't work for you. I have just brought some goods and am waiting for the bill."—Toronto Star.

Miss Whittaker, a prominent club woman of Savannah, Ga., tells how she was entirely cured of ovarian troubles by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a Uterine Tonic and Regulator. I suffered for four years with irregularities and Uterine troubles. No one but those who have experienced this dreadful agony can form any idea of the physical and mental misery those endure who are thus afflicted. Your Vegetable Compound cured me within three months. I was fully restored to health and strength, and now my periods are regular and painless. What a blessing it is to be able to obtain such a remedy when so many doctors fail to help you. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is better than any doctor or medicine I ever had. Very truly yours, Miss EASY WHITTAKER, 604 99th St., W. Savannah, Ga."

No physician in the world has had such a training or such an amount of information at hand to assist in the treatment of all kinds of female ills as Mrs. Pinkham. In her office at Lynn, Mass., she is able to do more for the ailing women of America than the family physician. Any woman, therefore, is responsible for her own trouble who will not take the pains to write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. Her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is free.

NONE BY ACCLAMATION

There is a Runner in Every Riding in the Federal Contest.

R. L. Borden Accorded a Victor's Triumph in His Home City, Where He Addressed For Two Hours the Greatest Political Gathering Ever Held in Nova Scotia—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Runs For Two Seats.

Nominations took place in nearly all of the Dominion constituencies yesterday. The exceptions, with the dates on which the candidates will be officially placed in the field, were: Thunder Bay and Rainy River, Nov. 4; Dauphin, Manitoba, Nov. 11; Mackenzie, N.W.T., Nov. 15; Coquich-Wain, B.C., Nov. 22; Kootenay, B.C., Nov. 22; Yale-Garibou, B.C., Nov. 22; the Yukon, Dec. 18.

There were no elections by acclamation. In North Middlesex, however, there is no Conservative running, but the Conservatives will give their support to Valentine Ratz, a former member, who will oppose the regular nominee of the Liberal convention, Robert Boston. At the last moment the Liberals put up a man to oppose Dr. Barr, who is practically elected already.

Four years ago two Liberals and one Conservative were elected by acclamation in Ontario: John Charlton (North Norfolk), C. A. McLeod (Nipissing), Liberals; J. E. Seagram (North Waterloo), Conservatives.

The Independents. Jabel Robinson, who represented West Elgin as an independent in the last Parliament, withdrew from the race after making a speech at the nominating convention, leaving the field to Jackson, Conservative, and Stewart, Liberal. It was expected that he would draw equally from each of the old parties, so that his withdrawal will not change the outlook.

There are still several independents asking for support in Ontario. There are no Socialists. In Russell, Kingston and North Middlesex two Liberals will divide the vote, while Leighton McCarthy, in North Simcoe, though nominated as an independent is also standing on the straight Liberal platform. The only labor candidate is Peltier in Thunder Bay.

In the Province of Quebec, where the Conservatives intend making a dead set on 30 or more constituencies, they have men in the field in every division.

At the nominations for Wright County in Hull Sir Wilfrid Laurier was nominated for the Liberals and F. A. Labelle for the Conservatives. The Conservatives claim that having Sir Wilfrid run in Wright County is a mere bluff, and that if he is elected he will retire in favor of Mr. Devlin.

"It will be no disgrace to be defeated by the Premier of the Dominion, but it will be all the more creditable for me to win, which I intend to do," said Mr. Labelle, the Conservative candidate.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was also nominated in Quebec East. He will run in both ridings, and take his choice if elected in both, after the event.

In Quebec Province there are candidates for every seat and indications are that the Conservatives will make a considerable gain. Candidates were nominated by both parties in all of the 20 constituencies in Manitoba and the Territories. In Brandon Hon. Clifford Sifton is opposed by Mr. Richardson, and in Winnipeg there is a three-cornered contest between W. Sanford Evans, Conservative; D. W. Bole, Liberal, and A. W. Puttee, labor.

The following candidates were nominated in the Little Girl's Sad Death.

Forest, Oct. 28.—Yesterday morning about 9 o'clock Pearlle Spearman, the little 8-year-old daughter of H. A. Spearman, of the township of Bosanquet, Lambton County, was almost instantly killed by being run over, near Jura, by the heavily loaded wagon of Arthur Dale, who was taking a load of oats to Forest. Mr. Dale did not see how the accident occurred, but it is supposed the little girl, while playing around the wagon with others, caught on the side. Losing her hold she slipped under the wheel and was crushed so badly that she lived only about half an hour and was dead before a doctor could be got. No blame attaches to Mr. Dale.

Some people have the taking-cold habit

The old cold-goes; a new one quickly comes. It's the story of a weak throat, weak lungs, a tendency to consumption. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral breaks up the taking-cold habit. It strengthens, soothes, heals. Consult your doctor about this.
