The Secretary of the Berlin Public Library wrote for pointers on the rules governing the local Library. Secretary Twohey was instructed to reply to this communication.

Accounts from the Leonard, Scott Publishing Company for $12.72, and the Library Bureau for $1.25, were referred.

Secretary Twohey notified the Board that he had received a catalog of books published last year.

The payment of $15 to A. M. Fleming for framing and re-touching a painting of Joseph Woods, was ratified.

Mr. Humphrey moved, seconded by Dr. Charteris, that the Board thank J. E. Thomas for the donation of two useful volumes to the Library.—Carried.

Dr. Charteris moved that the Secretary write to the outside bookbinding company in London for their prices for binding books. His motion was seconded by Mr. Humphrey and carried unanimously, both gentlemen voting for it.

PRESS TABLE NEEDED IN COUNTY CHAMBERS

For some years it has been customary for the representatives of the two local newspapers to occupy one table in the County chambers in Harrison Hall, while the County Parliament is sitting. This fact has always been a source of a great deal of inconvenience to the reporters, who, though they get along quite amiably, needless to say, find that they are quite hampered for room. This inconvenience was particularly in evidence during the committee meetings yesterday afternoon, when the Auditor and Treasurer took France leave of the press table, and the representatives of the press were forced to use some of the Councilors' tables.

There should at least be one table each for the newspaper men, and it is understood that the majority of the Council are in favor of purchasing another one.

NEW REASON FOR THE COLD WEATHER

What, so raw as a day in June? This prod on the old compliment to the month of brides, seems to have an appropriate application to present weather conditions. Various causes are given by scientists for the unusual temperature. Some say the Gulf stream has gone wrong, and others claim that the sun is playing out, and has got spots on it.

But Mayor Wm. Stone has a new reason.

"I tell you," said His Worship this morning, "I tell you, that I think that the cause can all be attributed to John Falahoe's straw hat. Haven't you seen it? Well, John put on that hat away back in May, and from the first day he wore it, the weather man seemed to get sore. We haven't had a nice warm day since. That hat of John's is positively a Jonah as far as good weather is concerned. "I am going to try to induce him to have it lined with fur, and have ear-laps put on it, to see if we can't off-set the Hood-oo."

Women have decided that in case they cannot vote, they will opt out the "Stork" proposition. Perfectly proper. Take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, it is good for most everything. 35 cents. Tea or Tablets.

RATEPAYERS SPEAK OUT FOR MORE ADVANCEMENT

A Record Vote Was Polled in Spite Of Very Inclement Weather—Overwhelming Majority Sweeps New Industry Into The Maple City

The proudest moment which this city has known for some time was yesterday afternoon about twenty minutes after five o'clock, when the result of the polling on the Wolverine Brass Works By-law first became known, through the medium of a Planet Extra.

It was a glorious victory. A majority of 1180 votes in favor of a money by-law is something not to be underrated. It is a vote which is seldom secured in a city of this size, and it never would have been polled, had it not been for the faithful and untiring efforts of Chatham's much praised Board of Trade. Too much praise cannot be given to the officers and members of this thriving organization. All during the day the workers were out working hard. It was a rainy day, but the inclement weather could not stop the enthusiasm which prevailed in every quarter of the city. All day long rigs and automobiles were kept busy and the votes kept pouring in. Men who owned rigs generously handed them over to drivers who supported the by-law, and those who did not own rigs hired them for the day, and bore the expense personally. This is the kind of public spiritedness which tells, and the kind which builds up a community. The thanks of the community is especially tendered to the owners of automobiles. The streets were muddy, and it will take days to clean up some of the machines which were donated for the day, and this fact alone goes to show that the public spirit was genuine.

At five polls, over 100 votes were recorded in favor of the measure, and in every instance great majorities were polled. Special mention should be made of the excellent showing in North Chatham—Only 29 people voted against the measure in this whole district, while 350 voted for it. The people of North Chatham have shown that they are above the times. They know a good thing when they see it. Other polls where record votes were polled were at Jacques, where 113 were recorded for, and only four against. This is another progressive district. At No. 12, Calmyn's, 108 voted for and only nine against, and at No. 13, Mrs. Lawrence's, 126 voted for and only ten against.

When the polls closed and the returns commenced to come in, the Planet's phone was kept busy, receiving returns and answering queries. The result was known before the whole returns came in. With four places to hear from, it was found that a sufficient vote had been polled, thus securing the fate of the by-law. The majorities in those other four places only went to swell the grand majority. The Planet, as usual, had the honor of first communicating to the people on King street, the news of the result. A few minutes after the last vote was counted, The Planet Extra was on the street bearing the glad news. It was received everywhere with great delight and satisfaction. This Great Home Journal has been the

OLIVER MAKES GOOD

St. Thomas, May 27.—Frank Oliver, formerly of London, now of St. Thomas, was asked by the lacrosse enthusiasts of this place to secure a team for St. Thomas which could trim the Shamrocks, C. L. A. champions. Oliver is a pupil of Babcock, a veteran lacrosse manager, and he certainly shows great ability as a general of men. He has proved his worth as a manager, by getting together the fastest bunch ever entered in an intermediate district. The score on May 24 is the indicator. St. Thomas this year are likely winners of the championship. All honor to Oliver.

The Babcock mentioned in the above despatch is Frank Babcock, formerly manager of the Tecumseh Intermediate lacrosse team of this city.

Chatham Tug Sunk By Gale Near River's Mouth—Crew Were Saved

From Our Own Correspondent.

Jeannette's Creek, June 5.—Special.

The tug Vic, from Chatham was sunk by heavy seas near the mouth of the river last night.

The tug, which had a scow from Detroit in tow, was caught in the gale, when making the tug to come into the river.

Her line parted at this point, and the heavy sea running over the Vic, soon filled her with water, and sank it.

The crew was saved by Lighthouse-keeper H. J. Cartier with the Government life boat.

An attempt will be made to raise the sunken tug, when the storm is over.

Blenheim, June 6.—Blenheim is living in anticipation of having natural gas to burn. Mr. William R. ## JOKE WAS ON "UNCLE BILL"

W. R. Peck Buys A Dog and Gets A Red Brick

Big Hearted Ex-Chathamite Sees the Joke and Enjoys A Laugh

Wm. Peck, of Howell, Mich., formerly proprietor of the Rankin Hotel, this city, was one of the many whose love for the old town brought them back to Chatham to vote for the Brass Works By-law yesterday.

Incidentally, while here, Mr. Peck purchased a thoroughbred pup, which he intended taking back to the Michigan city with him. He had the pup carefully wrapped up in cotton batting, and securely locked up in a wicker basket. He stopped in at the Rankin House for a short time before his departure for home, to show the boys his new acquisition. Later, when he was about to leave, some of the crowd suggested that the pup might smother, all wrapped up as it was in a covered basket.

"Oh, no, he won't," replied Mr. Peck, confident that his prize was safe and sound.

"But you had better have a look and see."

Mr. Peck's fears for the pup being aroused, he deposited his precious burden on the floor, and opened the basket again. He was horrified to find that the contents did not appear to be very much alive.

Mr. Peck's surprise and grief may be better imagined than described. Needless to say, it was just a joke some of the boys put up on Bill for old acquaintance sake. While he was busy talking to a friend, some of the crowd exchanged the brick for the pup, with the above result.

The pup was afterwards safely re-deposited in the basket, and Mr. Peck went on his way rejoicing.

Charged by Capt. Ainsworth With Poaching On Sealing Grounds.

Schooner Cox Illegally Catching Seals—Had Seventy-Seven Skins on Board—Was During Close Season—Will Be Handed Over to Authorities at Nearest Canadian Port—Japs Are Also Offenders.

Washington, June 5.—The Secretary of the Treasury has received a telegram from Capt. Ainsworth of the revenue cutter Rush, stating that he had seized the British sealer schooner Charlotta G. Cox, which was found illegally catching seals in Fairweather grounds of Alaska.

The Cox, it is said, evidently was taking seals during the closed season within the area of the award in violation of the articles of the tribunal of arbitration agreed to by the Governments of Great Britain and the United States.

The Japanese also reported the presence of Japanese sealers in the same vicinity with a large number of seal-skins on board. The sealers, however, are not subject to seizure outside of territorial waters.

CANADIAN FISH TRADE.

Government Will Endeavor to Build It Up.

Ottawa, June 5.—The Department of Railways and Canals is convinced that if some system of co-operation can be devised between the fishermen and the consumers of fish, there is no reason why a very remunerative trade should not be built up between the Maritime Provinces and Ontario.

In view of the fact that New York State has within a few years built up a trade in fish by means of cold storage on the railways, which totals six millions dollars a year, it is felt that there is no reason why the Maritime Provinces of Canada, which produce a much better article, should not be able to secure a very valuable market in Ontario, and eventually as far as Manitoba.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE OVER.

Men Will Resume Work Within Twenty-Four Hours.

Paris, June 5.—The seamen's strike is regarded as being virtually ended, and the men are expected to resume work within 24 hours. The navigation companies have accepted the Government's recommendations and will restore the officers and crews without insisting on any penalties.

The only discord appears to be at Bordeaux, where some of the delegates, notably a man named Buscalet, finding that the local organization is discontented with the proposed compromise arrangement, are attempting to secure a reversal of the decision to resume work, but apparently without any chance of success.

She shuddered at thought of the innumerable times she had asked to share their seats—no. This time she was free from tradition. She would pick a winner! Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, bearing down, imaginary dizziness or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, or with irregular catarrh, is suffering from weakness and derangements that should have early attention.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional endorsement of eminent physicians. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system, and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow.

It Pays to Advertise. A theatrical manager was holding forth on the value of publicity the other day and pointed his moral with this: "When the teacher was absent from the schoolroom, Billy, the mischievous boy of the class, wrote on the blackboard: 'Billy Jones can hug the girls better than any boy in school.' Upon her return the teacher called him up to her desk. 'William, did you write that?' she asked, pointing to the blackboard. 'Yes, ma'am,' said Billy. 'Well, you may stay after school,' said she, 'as punishment.' 'The other pupils waited for Billy to come out, and then they began gazing at him. 'Got a licking, didn't you?' 'Nope,' said Billy. 'Got jawed?' 'Nope.' 'What did she do?' they asked. 'Shan't tell,' said Billy, 'but it pays to advertise.'"

The FLIRTATION OF ANNE.

By RITA KELLEY.

Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

The delayed invitation of Janet Fair's house party almost caused a rupture in the Halliwell family, so intense was the scramble to get frocks that matched the shoes, girdles to match the frocks, with sufficient everything into the traveling bags and Anne off to the station for the 4:50 train. At the last minute she snatched from a magazine a few pages torn from a magazine and stuffed them into her hand bag as she hurried down to the cab. Janet had sent her the story a fortnight ago, and the success or failure of the week end for her depended upon whether or not she waded through it before she reached Brentwood. Janet had set opinions about some things, among them her love for conventional Anne and an overweening desire to provide literature much diversified by commentaries for her best beloved.

Anne made the train. As she hurried down the platform and climbed into the car a feeling of wild good humor possessed her. The old cramping demureness that savored of self-consciousness in her personality had been lost in the excitement of the last hour. She found herself within the car with the exhilarating desire to do something rash.

He was a young man who would have his way, Anne discomfitedly admitted later. She had been playing fox and geese with him desperately all evening, with the dawning conviction that she was the singular goose. When he cornered her in the dim library as the other guests drifted into the music room she almost gasped surrender.

"Now, Miss Story Lady," he said, thrusting his hands into the pockets of his tuxedo and looking tremendously handsome, with an expression of mock severity on his clean cut face, "why did you do it?"

Anne squirmed preparatory to flight, but he blocked egress from the divan, and she settled back, with a laugh that tried to be trifling. "It was a great story, wasn't it?" she said irreverently.

"Don't you know," he said, dropping down beside her, "that you ought to apologize for causing me to discompose our hostess?"

Embarrassment enveloped Anne. She was groping desperately for that will 'o' the wisp, her daredevilry, that had got her into this difficulty and refused to extricate her. "Why didn't you get off?" she stammered, a flush mantling her cheeks. "I did not keep you there."

"But the story did," he smiled insistently upon her as he drew the pages from his pocket. Anne's heart stopped. She had forgotten the scribbles on the margins when she dropped the story in the car. "It seems we have a staunch admirer in Janet," he said gently, "and I, for one, quite approve of her. I was deep in a panegyric on your charms and virtues when the train went through Silox."

Anne groaned. She could not help it, knowing, as she did, the extravagance of Janet on paper. "She has everything arranged," he continued, smiling subtly down at the helpless girl half facing him. "Bridesmaids—think of it—bridesmaids! We didn't either of us know that when we started out this afternoon, did we?"

Anne suddenly buried her face in her hands. He looked at her a moment musingly, then ever so gently extricated her fingers and made her look at him. "Janet is a clever girl," he drawled. "She said you would have to be taken with a trick."

Anne blinked. Where was her vaunted demureness? "No such thing," she blurted out. "I did it myself. I knew you were a winner."

Had He That? On one occasion in an English court a prisoner was brought in for sentence who had been convicted of being a common gambler. He appeared in a loud checked yellow and black suit, with red necktie and a large past diamond horseshoe pin. The judge from under his beetling brows looked fiercely down upon him from the bench and remarked with intense scorn, "I sentence you to pay a fine of $50."

"That's all right, judge," interrupted the gambler nonchalantly thrusting his hand into his trousers; "got it in my pants pocket."

"and to three years and six months in state prison," continued his honor, with a slight twinkle in his eye. "Have you got that in your pants pocket?"—Bellman.

Cats. A cat may purr and purr and be a villain. Once let the cunning fall below the proper mark, and off goes the ungrateful but shrewd animal to stop with friends who will look after him better. That is the keynote of the feline character, shrewdness. It is the human traits in their characters which make men call cats selfish. The motto of the cat is "Business is business." If a man takes this as his motto and acts up to it, we call him a successful man, and we allow him to write absurd essays on "Hints to Young Lads," and so on, in our papers. But we do not honor the cat.—London Express.

You'll have to take him bodily, for Gladys Whitcomb has sharpened up her teeth and nails ready to spring and drag him off. "But, Janet," protested Anne, "I never went in for a man in my life. I couldn't do it. It's so dead common. I'd hate myself."

"I'm a deep eyed villain!" growled Janet, striking an attitude. "You blessed lamb, don't I know your proclivities? Rack your naive brain for a simple and good reason why I sent you a belated invitation, why I expected Aubrey Churchill on the 4:50 train, why?"

"W—was"—Anne started in consternation, lost her balance against the low railing and was reeling backward when strong arms caught her and set her upon her feet. Then a traveling bag was slung upon the balcony, and, emerging from the shrubbery beneath, a man vaulted beside the girls.

"My lady of the story," he said, smiling whimsically upon Anne, who after one swift look was trying vainly to melt into the shadow, "I have a score to settle with you after I get something to eat. Just look at this saturated brow, will you? It's like a sponge. And these aching arms carried that bag ten miles on an empty stomach."

"Oh, Jolly!" screamed Janet ecstatically, sliding through the French window. "You'll have a banquet, Aubrey Churchill!"

A terrifying silence followed the click of the window behind Janet's exit. Anne stood on the chilly balcony with the perfect stillness that precedes either attack or precipitate flight, gazing straight into the steady eyes of the man before her.

Then, turning swiftly, she wrestled with the window fastening for an instant and fled. The man, laughing softly, stepped into the library and called, "The tilt after the banquet, remember," as she escaped the room.

He was a young man who would have his way, Anne discomfitedly admitted later. She had been playing fox and geese with him desperately all evening, with the dawning conviction that she was the singular goose.

Anne squirmed preparatory to flight, but he blocked egress from the divan, and she settled back, with a laugh that tried to be trifling. "It was a great story, wasn't it?" she said irreverently.

"Don't you know," he said, dropping down beside her, "that you ought to apologize for causing me to discompose our hostess?"

Embarrassment enveloped Anne. She was groping desperately for that will 'o' the wisp, her daredevilry, that had got her into this difficulty and refused to extricate her. "Why didn't you get off?" she stammered, a flush mantling her cheeks. "I did not keep you there."

"But the story did," he smiled insistently upon her as he drew the pages from his pocket. Anne's heart stopped. She had forgotten the scribbles on the margins when she dropped the story in the car.

"It seems we have a staunch admirer in Janet," he said gently, "and I, for one, quite approve of her. I was deep in a panegyric on your charms and virtues when the train went through Silox."

Anne groaned. She could not help it, knowing, as she did, the extravagance of Janet on paper. "She has everything arranged," he continued, smiling subtly down at the helpless girl half facing him. "Bridesmaids—think of it—bridesmaids! We didn't either of us know that when we started out this afternoon, did we?"

Anne suddenly buried her face in her hands. He looked at her a moment musingly, then ever so gently extricated her fingers and made her look at him. "Janet is a clever girl," he drawled. "She said you would have to be taken with a trick."

Anne blinked. Where was her vaunted demureness? "No such thing," she blurted out. "I did it myself. I knew you were a winner."

Had He That? On one occasion in an English court a prisoner was brought in for sentence who had been convicted of being a common gambler. He appeared in a loud checked yellow and black suit, with red necktie and a large past diamond horseshoe pin. The judge from under his beetling brows looked fiercely down upon him from the bench and remarked with intense scorn, "I sentence you to pay a fine of $50."

"That's all right, judge," interrupted the gambler nonchalantly thrusting his hand into his trousers; "got it in my pants pocket."

"and to three years and six months in state prison," continued his honor, with a slight twinkle in his eye. "Have you got that in your pants pocket?"—Bellman.

Cats. A cat may purr and purr and be a villain. Once let the cunning fall below the proper mark, and off goes the ungrateful but shrewd animal to stop with friends who will look after him better. That is the keynote of the feline character, shrewdness. It is the human traits in their characters which make men call cats selfish. The motto of the cat is "Business is business." If a man takes this as his motto and acts up to it, we call him a successful man, and we allow him to write absurd essays on "Hints to Young Lads," and so on, in our papers. But we do not honor the cat.—London Express.

CAMERON—SHARPE

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday at the residence of Mrs. Miles Barker, of this city, when her daughter, Miss Lillian May Sharpe, was united in marriage to Mr. Ben. S. Cameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cameron, of Harwich. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate friends of the contracting parties.

Precisely at six o'clock the bridal party descended the stairs to the strains of the wedding march, and entered the bridal arch, from which hung floral bells, and beautiful decorations of flags, flowers and palms. The bride was gowned in cream silk mull, and carried white carnations. She was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie Sharpe, whose costume was of white organdie. The bridesmaid carried pink carnations. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Harvey Cameron. The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst of diamonds, to the bridesmaid a gold locket and chain, and to the best man a pearl crescent stickpin.

After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. J. W. Hoyt, of St. Thomas, luncheon was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Cameron left on the 9.24 G. T. R. for Detroit, Grand Rapids and Chicago. On their return they will take up their residence on the 3rd concession, Harwich.

At the house and station there was a very large crowd to see them off. Rice was there in abundance, but owing to the cleverness of the arrangements of the young couple, little of it was used. What was left over will in all probability be showered upon them when they return home.

BRIGHT YOUNG MAN COMES TO CHATHAM

A. A. Fraser, son of John Fraser, Auditor-General of the Dominion of Canada, has entered the offices of Wilson & Pike, barristers, of this city. Mr. Fraser was for some time connected with the City Solicitor's office staff in Toronto. He has passed with honors his final examinations in law, and will be called to the bar this fall.

Mr. Fraser is a bright young man of pleasing and intelligent personality, and he will be a valuable acquisition to the city. He is to be congratulated upon entering the offices of such an excellent firm as that of Wilson & Pike. Mr. Fraser should have a very successful career, and he will find the Chatham people genial and ready at all times to acknowledge ability and cleverness in young men. The Planet wishes Mr. Fraser unlimited success.

VICIOUS THUNDER STORMS IN JUNE

The Missouri weather man promises a variety of weather for the month of June. Along about the 5th a varying temperature will culminate in sudden and severe thunder storms, cloudbursts, hail, wind and possible tornadoes. About June 11th will bring excessive warmth, very low barometer, abnormal humidity and violent thunder and wind storms. Earthquakes will be reported in many quarters of the globe, within three days of noon on the 10th. June thunder clouds will break in hail storms and cloudbursts in many localities during this period. Rising barometer, west winds and change to much cooler will spread eastwardly over the country from about the 11th to 14th. Let no one, under any circumstances, take shelter under green trees during these vicious thunder storms in June. Look for an excess of lightning, some of which will be dangerous, but most of which will be harmless and sublime. The lightning of an on-coming thunder storm is a different proposition from the harmless sheet lightning which blazes all round the heavens in the June nights.

About June 20th we may look for phenomenal lightning and thunder, with violent wind in many localities, characteristic of the month will be too plentiful rain in some localities and a scarcity in others. The probabilities are that the heaviest and most general rains in June will fall during the closing period of the month.

Canadian Girls And Zam-Buk

Girls who are fond of canoeing, tennis, rowing, golf, and other outdoor sports find Zam-Buk invaluable, as well as do their male friends, who are engaged in the same sports, and baseball, etc. A smarting, blistered hand from a rough paddle is at once relieved by a little Zam-Buk. A bruise, a "sunburn patch," the pain from insect stings, a sore foot caused by a chafing shoe, a burn at a picnic fire—all these Zam-Buk is a quick cure.

Don't think because Zam-Buk is prescribed by doctors and used for the most serious skin diseases and injuries, that it is only useful for serious cases. What cures a serious skin injury can soon end a less serious one. Mothers will find Zam-Buk useful for the heat rashes and skin troubles to which young children are subject in the hot weather. Remember always that Zam-Buk is made from pure herbal essences, contains no mineral coloring matter, and is thus best for the tender skins of infants. All stores and druggists sell at 50c a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, six boxes for $2.50.

A good reputation robs many an act of a suspicious suggestion.

THE MOTHERS' CLUB

The first meeting of the Mothers' Club of the Central school kindergarten was held on Friday afternoon in the kindergarten room. The president, Mrs. Cowan, was in charge.

The meeting was opened with the Mothers' hymn and the Lord's prayer. Mrs. Bookmiller sang very pleasingly "The Dream Tree," after which Dr. Carson gave her paper on "Foods."

Dr. Carson's talk was a very interesting one, and it followed by the mothers should indeed prove of great benefit to the children.

A vote of thanks was very heartily given Dr. Carson for her kindness in addressing the club.

The meeting closed with the Benediction.

At the next meeting, June 28, the subject "Habits" will be discussed.

'FRISCO QUAKES AGAIN.

Shocks Also Felt In Ecuador and the Pyrenees.

San Francisco, June 6.—An earthquake shock lasting about 10 seconds was felt here at 12:27 yesterday morning. The oscillation was from the north to south.

No damage has been reported.

In Ecuador.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, June 6.—Two earthquakes were felt here at about 10 o'clock Tuesday night.

The first was slight, and the second, which lasted 25 seconds, was violent and made many families abandon their houses and remain in the streets for several hours.

In Pyrenees.

Pau, France, June 6.—A slight earthquake was felt in the Oloron region of the lower Pyrenees yesterday. No damage was done.

BOY DROWNED IN POND.

Playing With Sister Missed Footing and Lost Life.

Port Hope, June 6.—Herbert H. Taylor, the two-year-old son of Hirst Taylor, proprietor of the Hope Woolen Mills at Garden Hill, 10 miles north of here, was drowned yesterday afternoon in the stream near the mills. The little fellow was playing around the bank with his sister, when he missed his footing and fell into the pond. The body was promptly recovered, but all efforts to resuscitate it were without avail.

This is the first drowning accident at Garden Hill since it was settled about eighty years ago.

MURDERERS BEING TRACED.

Detectives Looking for Them at Various Seaports.

Quebec, June 6.—Local police report that several American detectives are looking up a clue to the supposed murderers of Armenian Father Kaspar, believed to be in hiding, awaiting a steamer for Europe.

The Armenian colony here is believed to be loyally aiding the detectives, though the murderers are said to be traced to this neighborhood.

Pinkertons in St. John.

St. John, N. B., June 6.—Several Pinkerton detectives are in the city looking for the murderers of Father Kaspar, the Armenian priest, who was killed some days ago in New York, and whose body was found in a trunk which had been concealed in a lodging house.

Other parts of the province are also being watched.

BOY SHOTS FRIEND.

Playing With Revolver Robert Scott Injures Companion.

Toronto, June 6.—Robert Scott, 13 years of age, shot his companion, Verney Mackie, in the calf of the right leg with a revolver. The lads were playing about a lane at 7.30 o'clock last night, and the shooting is thought to have been the result of an accident.

The injured boy was removed to his home, where Dr. W. C. Heggie dressed the wound. The bullet had passed clear through the leg. The injury is not serious.

Scott was much frightened at his act, and did not return to his home. At an early hour this morning he had not been located.

BIGAMIST GETS TWO YEARS.

Committed Perjury In Order to Get Necessary License.

Toronto, June 6.—Franklin J. Harrison, found guilty of bigamy and perjury, was sentenced by Judge Winchester yesterday to two years in Kingston Penitentiary. He is in poor health and his counsel, Mr. Robinette, pleaded for a mitigation of the sentence.

Harrison is 52 years of age, and his home is in Buffalo. He had been married two or three times, but as a bachelor wedded Annie Ballantyne in Toronto. The first time he crossed the line into Canada she had him arrested. He was acquitted, both by Col. Denison in the police court, and by Judge Winchester charged of bigamy. His swearing that he was unmarried when he got his last license in Toronto caused him to be convicted of perjury.

POLICE COURT

A young colored boy, who claims that he is under fourteen years of age, was up in the Police Court this morning, charged with stealing a copper boiler from John Simpson's place on Colborne street. The stolen boiler, which was found in Sammy Kovinski's junk shop by Officer Groves, was produced in Police Court and identified by Mrs. Simpson. The boiler was pretty much disfigured, and looked as though it had seen better days.

However, for all its battered appearance, it proved sufficient to convict the young man in the eyes of the law. He was found guilty and will be sentenced Monday. A peculiar feature of the case is that the young man says that his parents live in town, yet neither his father nor mother have made any inquiry about him, although he has been in the cells for three days. He was quite depressed this morning.

Sammy Kovinski was also up on the same case. He was charged with receiving the stolen boiler, and he had City Solicitor Lewis to defend his case, who held that Sammy had no knowledge that the boiler was stolen. Kovinski was dismissed. Crown Attorney H. D. Smith prosecuted in both cases.

Lady Bagot Suing For Restitution of Conjugal Rights.

London, June 6.—Lady Bagot's suit against her husband, Lord Bagot of Rugeley, for restitution of her conjugal rights, will be heard in the divorce court at the end of this week.

Lady Bagot, who was Miss Lillian May, a great belle of Baltimore, was married less than four years ago.

A daughter was born to her in London on New Year's Day, 1905. Father Bernard Vaughan christened the little one Barbara.

Soon after the christening Lord Bagot, who had been ill for some time, separated himself entirely from his wife. He has now had an income of about $4,000 a year. Lady Bagot, claiming the amount is not sufficient to support herself and her daughter, brought the present suit, which society regards as of the highest importance.

LASH FOR NATIVE.

Sentence in Mombasa Despite Punishment of Colonists.

London, June 6.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Mombasa says that a native at Nairobi has been sentenced to five years' imprisonment and to receive 24 lashes for an attempted assault upon the daughter of an European missionary. Feeling among the white settlers is intense in view of the recent imprisonment of colonists whose floggings of unruly natives were designed to prevent crimes against white women.

Reform seldom begins at home.

THE One Minute Washer

Revolutionized the soiled clothes question and makes domestic life easy. A fly wheel under the bottom of the tub of the One Minute Washer is the feature of the machine exclusively its own. This fly wheel is driven by a gear wheel with crank attached and revolves on little steel balls like the wheels of a bicycle. You would be surprised how hard it is to stop the machine when once it is in motion. Two strokes of the handle are sufficient to get up speed and then the fly wheel does half the work. The construction of this machine is the very best and is made of Louisiana cypress imported from the United States. The machine filled with clothes to its capacity makes from fifteen to twenty reciprocating motions (forward and backward) before coming to a stand still.

The Price Is $10 After you have used one, twice the money would not persuade you to give it up, if you could not replace it.

HOW DO YOU JUDGE A PIANO?

Musically inclined people naturally judge a piano by its tone—and that's why "Nordheimer" Pianos are found in the homes of so many musicians of note.

If you have an ear for tonal quality the remarkable beauty, sweetness, purity and volume, soothe "Nordheimer" will appeal to you.

We could explain at length the various mechanical contrivances which are incorporated in the "Nordheimer" piano to produce its unrivaled tone, but they would be understood by a mechanic only.

We much prefer you to judge this piano from what your own ear tells you about its tone—then you are sure to be satisfied.

Pleased to have you call at your earliest convenience and examine the "Nordheimer." The One Price System assures you a fair and square deal.

Our Mr. R. V. Carter will visit Chatham frequently in our interest and will be pleased to furnish you with any information you may desire. Correspondence addressed to him in care of the Garner House will receive careful attention.

THE BLACK BEAR.

Her Physic and Her Food After Her Five Months' Sleep.

The black bear has her cubs, from one to three, in her den during the months of March and April, and it is an interesting thing to know that she has the power to give birth to her young at least two weeks before the proper time if driven from her den. She will return to her cubs if let alone. In the den she cares for her young until the snows of the north country have sufficiently melted to permit of her getting about, when she "hits the trail" again. She eats nothing during the five months that she hibernates, except that from time to time she will lap the icicle which is made by the freezing of her breath on her paws. She ventures forth as soon as the snow has gettingly melted to permit of her getting about and for several days will eat nothing but hemlock bark and certain roots, which act as a physic. When in her normal state of health again she is ravenously hungry and will diligently fish the brooks and streams in search of a dinner of trout, will hunt up the carcasses of deer or moose which have been overcome by the severity of the winter or will prey upon porcupines by quickly putting her paw under the stomach and rolling the porcupine on its back, then with a slap tear out the entrails and escape the quills.—Field and Stream.

ANXIOUS MOMENTS.

The Quarter of an Hour Following the Winning of the Derby.

The anxieties of owners of race horses competing in the Derby do not immediately end as the horses pass the judges. The fatal "objection" may snatch the laurels from the victor. The possibility discovered itself over Caractacus' race. The owner had striven in vain to get a jockey of repute. His offer of a life annuity of £100 a year to Gostley in case of success had been declined. A stable boy named Parsons had eventually to be trusted, and to the surprise of the learned, he got the horse home, winning by a neck. Going to scale, the lad could not draw the weight. In breathless silence the bride was sent for, and that just enabled him to balance the scale. But now Lord Stamford appeared to object that only his own horse and two others had gone the full course. The winner and the rest were already past the starting post when the flag fell. Admiral Rous looked at his watch. "Twenty minutes," he said. "An objection to hold good must be lodged within a quarter of an hour." And so the stable boy's win passed into the records, but the owner of Caractacus declared that not for £1,000 a moment would he again endure the agony of that short period following the race.—London Saturday Review.

PILLS AS WEAPONS.

The Curious Duel That Was Arranged by a Doctor.

An extraordinary duel, which at the time created an immense sensation, was one in which the decision was arrived at not by swords or pistols, but by means of a deadly poison. The men—who, it is hardly necessary to say, had fallen out over a lady—had left the arrangement of details to their seconds, did not know by what method they were to settle their differences. One of the seconds was a doctor, and he had made up for the occasion four black pellets, all identical in size and shape. "In one of these," he said, "I have placed a sufficient quantity of prussic acid to cause the almost instantaneous death of any one who swallows it. We will decide by the toss of a coin which of you is to have first choice, and you will alternately draw and swallow a pill until the poison shows its effects." Two of the pellets were then taken as the toss had decided, but without effect in either case. "This time," said the doctor, speaking of the two pellets remaining, "you must both swallow the pill at the same instant." The choice was again made, and in a few seconds one of the men lay dead on the grass.—Pall Mall Gazette.

"He Who Keepeth His Tongue."

An old-fashioned minister was visiting his son in New York recently and was taken to a fashionable church for the Sunday morning service. The pastor is a young man of great culture, but evidently his oratorical efforts did not greatly impress the visitor, for when they were walking homeward the son remarked approvingly: "That was a good sermon, an excellent sermon. The congregation like Dr. Blank very much."

"Yes, a good sermon undoubtedly," his father replied. "It could not possibly have touched a sore spot anywhere."

Nonsense Literature.

I believe it was De Quincey who said, "None but a man of extraordinary talent can write first rate nonsense." He was right. And he might have added that none but a man of extraordinary taste can fully appreciate first rate nonsense.

Two Failures.

Homely Man—I married for beauty. Sarcastic Man—You remind me of a friend of mine who married for money. Homely Man—How's that? Sarcastic Man—He didn't get it.

Returned.

"Yes; this tower goes back to William the Conqueror."

"What's the matter? Isn't it satisfactory?"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

He needs Bu-Ju if he wants to enjoy health and his favorite drink for years to come. All Alcoholic drinks irritate the Kidneys. ### The Hair Apparent Sees Police Box.

The Prince of Wales and his two elder sons, with Captain Viscount Crichton in attendance, drove from Marlborough House to the city recently, to witness a demonstration of the course of instruction given to the city police in the methods of handling prisoners, and in the general discharge of the duties of the force. In the course of the demonstration, which took place at the Moor-lane station, the Princes saw boxing and wrestling matches, as well as the handling of supposed prisoners of varying types, and in a variety of circumstances. Most of the work shown was very smart and effectual, and their royal highnesses appeared to be greatly interested in it.

GOT A PAIN IN YOUR BACK?

You get a pain in your back, and you wonder what is the matter. You perhaps pay no attention to it. Backache is caused by imperfect action of the kidneys, in fact, is the first sign of kidney trouble to follow.

The kidneys, proper, are composed of a close network of fibrous tissue, interlaced with tiny elastic fibres. Their object is the excretion of the uric acid, and other poisonous matter composing the urine, from the blood.

They are continuously at work to preserve the general health of the body and most people are troubled with some form of kidney trouble, but do not suspect it.

Some of the symptoms are: A feeling of weakness in the small of the back, sharp pains in back, puffiness under the eyes, and swelling of the feet and ankles, urinary troubles such as suppressed urination, excessive urination, cloudy, thick or highly colored urine, etc.

Mr. J. L. Whiting, Oshawa, Ont., writes: "I suffered for two years with kidney trouble. I had terrible pains in my back, hips and legs. I could not sleep and had a poor appetite. I took four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, and the pains left me, my appetite returned and I now sleep well. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney trouble."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 8 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

Cocoa Plant.

The plant producing the cocoa of commerce is a tree seldom grown to a height greater than seventeen or eighteen feet, but is sometimes known to reach a height of thirty feet. It is known to botanists as Theobroma cacao. It bears an oblong fruit measuring from six to ten inches.

It's a big mistake to act small.

SERVIAN WEDDINGS.

The Bride Collects the Gifts, Which Must Be In Money.

If you receive an invitation to a wedding in Little Serbia on the west side, you must not buy a present and take it with you or send it. That would be bad form, and the bride would probably feel insulted, but when you went to the wedding you would take with you the price of the present in money.

At the wedding you would find several hundred men and women all making strange motions and talking in a strange, excited manner.

After the guests had assembled—and everybody in the colony would be welcomed—a young woman would pass around the wedding cake. Behind her would come the bride carrying a silver platter, and upon this she would collect the money given as presents. At the majority of weddings the platter is piled high with silver dollars, and around the edges are bills of various denominations, from $5 to $20. It is not uncommon for a bride to receive $1,000 in cash. This amount, it must be remembered, is given by men who are mostly laborers in the packing houses.

Sometimes the groom passes cigars, and every guest will take a cigar and hand him a dollar. Another custom is to place a dollar in the large glass of whisky and every man takes a drink, each drink costing a dollar.

These weddings are a great feast for the guest, and there is always plenty to eat, and sometimes the groom rents a hall where all may dance.

THE MONKFISH.

This Glutton Has Many Names and an Appalling Appetite.

Among the most curious of fishes is one known on the coast of Maine as monkfish, by Massachusetts fishermen as goosefish, by Rhode Islanders as the bellows fish, in Connecticut as the molligut, in North Carolina as the all-mouth. On the other side of the Atlantic it is called wide gird, kettle maw and other names. Its adult length is about four feet, its weight about forty pounds.

The fish is a glutton, with no finely discriminating palate. It is said to bolt the wooden buoy of a lobster pot with an apparent satisfaction equal to that with which it swallows a mackerel.

Dogfish, sculpens, squids, crabs and lobsters are items in its ordinary diet. Its Massachusetts name is said to have been given it because of its practice of swallowing geese. Seven wild ducks are said to have been taken from the stomach of one of these fish, which had pulled them down one by one from the surface of the water.

The fish habitually lurks upon the bottom, though it is occasionally seen near the surface. It is sluggish in its ordinary movements, but very quick and ready with its powerful jaws and well fitted by nature for its mode of life. Its margins have long fringes, which sway in the currents like vegetable sea growth, deceiving the unwary prey.

Sandy's Narrow Escape.

"An' hoo's the guid wife, Sandy?" said one farmer to another as they met in the market place and exchanged snuffboxes.

"Did ye no hear that she's dead an' buried?" said Sandy solemnly.

"Dear me!" exclaimed his friend sympathetically. "Surely it must have been very sudden?"

"Aye, it was sudden," returned Sandy. "Ye see, when she turned ill she had na time to send for the doctor, so I gied her a bit pouther I had lying in my drawer for a year or twa an' that I had got frae the doctor myself, but hadna ta'en. What the pouther was I dinna vera weel ken, but she died soon after. It's a sair loss to me, I can assure ye, but it's something to be thankfu' for I didna tak' the pouther myself."

The Chairman's Break.

Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota made a speech at Erin Corners, in his state, says the Saturday Evening Post.

His audience was very unfriendly. They howled at the gigantic Clapp, laughed at him, threw things at him and made it most uncomfortable.

Finally Clapp stopped and looked at the chairman. "Don't mind them, Moss," said the chairman. "Go right ahead. They're nothing but loafers and rowdies. None of the decent people would come."

Igneous Rocks.

Igneous is derived from the Latin word ignis, meaning fire, and igneous rocks are those which geologists say were produced through the action of heat. Igneous rocks are divided into two great groups, volcanic and plutonic. The volcanic, as the name implies, are those brought to the surface by volcanic action, while the plutonic are those which have solidified below the surface of the earth and have been exposed by the wearing away of the strata above them.

An Explanation.

"Effie," said Margie, who was laboriously spelling words from a first reader, "how can I tell which is a 'd' and which is a 't'?"

"Why," replied Effie wisely, "the 'd' has its tummy on its back."

Difficulty is a severe instruction set over us by the supreme ordinance of a paternal guardian and legislator who knows us better than we know ourselves.—Burke.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

When Kipling Was Ill.

Bishop Brewster, in talking to Yale students on "Robust Religious Faith," told a story of Rudyard Kipling, when he lay ill in New York some years ago.

A trained nurse, he said, was watching at Mr. Kipling's bedside during the crisis of his illness, and she noticed his lips move. She bent over him, thinking he wanted to say something, and heard him utter these words: "Now I lay me down to sleep," the old familiar prayer of childhood days. The nurse, realizing that he did not require her services, said, in an apologetic whisper: "I beg your pardon Mr. Kipling. 'I thought you wanted something.' 'I do,' faintly observed Kipling. 'I want my Heavenly Father. He only can care for me now.'"

"It is this masculine, robust religious faith that we see in Kipling's writings," added Bishop Brewster, "and it is a faith that young men may well carry with them in the performance of their daily duties."

Britain and Germany.

The Petit Parisien is still prosecuting its enquiry into the international situation, and now its London correspondent gives an account of an interesting conversation with Sir Charles Dilke, who professes no anxiety on the subject. Sir Charles assured the writer that there was not one sane man in the United Kingdom who would favor an attack on Germany, and that he certainly did not believe that Germany dreamt of attacking England. What harm could Germany do to England, who possessed, and would retain the supremacy of the sea? If Germany built more and more ships, England would do the same, and as she was richer than Germany she would win in that game. He was convinced that the peace of Europe would last many years.

CONSTIPATION CLOGS THE BOWELS

No other cause produces so much sickness as constipation, and therefore it is dangerous to allow the bowels to become clogged up. Bad blood, dyspepsia, headache, biliousness, boils, pimples, and piles, are all caused by constipation.

Avoid all of these troubles by the use of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS, nature's remedy for all diseases of the stomach, bowels and blood. It acts on the bowels and promotes their free and regular action, curing constipation and all troubles which arise from it. It has been on the market for over thirty years so you are not using a new and untried remedy. B.B.B. has cured thousands of others and will cure you. Mr. B. Woodcock, Nashua, Bridge, N.S., writes: "For over two years my wife was troubled with constipation. She tried several physicians but could get no relief, but after taking three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters she was completely cured and is to-day in good health. My wife and I cannot speak too highly of B.B.B."

YOUR PLACE.

Just where you stand in the conflict, There is your place; Just where you think you are useless Hide not your face. God placed you there for a purpose, Whate'er it be, Think you He has chosen you for it. Work loyally.

Gird on your armor, be faithful! At toil or rest, Whiche'er it be, never doubting God's way is best. Out on the fight or on picket, Stand firm and true, This is the work which your Master Gives you to do.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Being noisy is the only way lots of people have of letting the world know that they are here.

Slender crushed to earth will take the subway and bob up serenely at the next station.

The leading characteristic of most self-made men is their self complacency.

All men are liars, according to what we have heard, but that's no reason why some should make it a specialty.

A dollar in the old stocking is worth ten in that gilt edged mining proposition.

Some people make a specialty of earning money and a few others of getting it.

Business interests can do more to change the viewpoint than a university education can.

Some men fit the pipe when really they should kick it.

Greatness that can survive intimate acquaintance is real greatness.

What we need is a brand of insanity that can be turned on and off by touching a button for the benefit of our degenerate millionaires.

When duty calls, it usually gets the busy signal if a man has anything else on hand.

Handle With Care. Ladies, if you would be happy And have bliss in balms to burn, There are rules for running husbands That you would do well to learn. Do not load him down with burdens That may break his patient back, But, oh, sister, treat him rather As you would some bric-a-brac.

In the bank of matrimony You can draw a dividend If you only can convince him That you are at least his friend. Smile at him if he will let you, Bouquets often at him toss And, while you may run the household, Make him think that he is boss.

Don't forget he has a stomach; It's a most important part; You'll discover in his makeup And lies very near his heart. At substantial doctors proper He was never known to shy, And, to help the thing immensely, Don't forget to pass the pie.

Man's a most peculiar creature, As you'll learn from day to day, And almost as much as woman Does he like to have his way, But you'll manage to entice him And his inmost secrets share, Making him do to your bidding, If you'll handle him with care.

Probably, I wonder how you got in there? "She's just crazy about second hand furniture." "Yes, and I presume that she will harmonize it with a second hand man."

Protection. "See that baldhead man yonder?" "Yes. What about him?" "He has a past." "You don't say! Did he bring it with him?" "No; they made him check it at the door before he came in. This is a strictly moral party."

No Relation. "I hear your friend is a good Samaritan." "Not that I know of, but I had always understood that he was a good grammarian."

What They Miss. The fishermen who tell the truth Will find the sport is tame And not all play, which shows that they Don't understand the game.

Under Certain Circumstances. "Do you consider running halfhearted exercise?" "Well, that depends. I should say yes, if a bulldog is after you."

WHEN BESSIE MOVED.

By MARIE WAIT. Copyright, 1907, by Marie Wait.

Bessie sat with her face against the pane of the south window. Ever since the gathering dusk of the winter afternoon had settled down she had watched the road for signs of the team. Two of the loads had come and gone. The last should have started only an hour or so after the others, yet it was nearly 9 o'clock and the familiar form had not put in appearance.

Then a knock at the door startled her, and she covered into the darkness, hoping that the intruder, whoever it might be, would become tired and go away. Instead, the knocking continued, and presently there was a gust of cold air as the door was thrown open. It could not be the folks. They were coming from the south. It must be a tramp.

The furniture was still piled in the center of the room, and there was no hiding place save the great cupboard that had been Grandma Bailey's. Softly she stole across the room, but was just catching herself when a man entered carrying a lantern.

Tremblingly she obeyed his command to come out and stood facing him. There was nothing very terrible about his appearance. He was muffled up to his eyes in coats and scarf, but the eyes were frank and kindly, and there was a twinkle suggestive of fun.

"Give an account of yourself," he demanded. "Trying to steal the house?" "We are moving in," she cried indignantly. "I came on with the first load, and mother and father were to be here with the last. They have not arrived yet. I don't know what can be keeping them. I am Bessie Lyford," she added as an afterthought.

"And I'm Joel Ware," he introduced. "I just got back from town and saw the lights. I did not know that the new owners were moving in and came over to see if tramps were in the house. I live across the way."

"I have been here since 11," she said. "We are moving over from Grotton. I was to show the men where to put the things. The last load went—oh, years ago!"

"And you've been sitting here since then watching for your folks," he said, looking at the chair by the window. "Had your supper?" "I had a cold lunch," she said indifferently. "The kitchen things are on the last load."

"I'll bring something over," he declared. "I haven't had my supper yet." He slipped out, and Bessie sank into the chair by the window to resume her watch. After awhile he returned, and she went out into the dining room, where he was straightening out the chairs. The steam of the hot coffee filled the room with its delicious odor, and for the first time she realized that she was hungry.

"I brought mine, too," he explained. "He saved time." "I'll draw up a chair, and presently she found herself chatting as she sipped the coffee and munched the biscuit. Joel, she found, kept bachelor hall in the little farmhouse across the way. In the summer he had several hands helping him, but in the winter he lived by himself and was glad enough to have neighbors again.

She almost forgot her troubles until the tray was depleted and Joel rose. "I'll take these things over to the house," he said, "and then come back. You won't be scared, will you?" Bessie shook her head laughingly. There was a certainty of movement about Joel that induced confidence, and as she watched the light go up in his kitchen while he moved about in his work, the occasional silhouette against the light brought comfort to her. Then the light went out again, and she could see him striding through light snow that had begun to fall.

She looked up with a smile as he entered. "I was tempted to run across and help you with the dishwashing," she said. "I never thought or I should have offered to do so before you left." "I guess I can do my own chores," he laughed back. "I was wondering how it would do to hitch up and drive back Grotton way. I've got a fresh team, and if you don't mind being alone I can find out what's the matter. I brought my revolver over so you would feel safer. I don't suppose you'll need it, but it might be a comfort to feel that you had it."

"But it's such a long, cold drive," she protested. "I guess a little snow won't hurt me or the team much," he laughed. "You'll be worrying till you know what the matter is. I'll bring in some wood for the stoves and then get along."

He built up a roaring fire and then turned to Bessie. "This is a sort of back road," he explained. "The tramps mostly hold to the line of the railroad, so don't worry. I'll be back as soon as I can." She watched him drive out of the yard presently, and as the well matched team sped down the road a sudden sense of loneliness came over her. It was not quite the feeling she had experienced before. That had been the loneliness of solitude. Now she was lonely because Ware had gone, and even while she cried softly to herself her heart glowed as she remembered how quietly he had taken possession and had brought light into the gloom. She fell asleep after a time and was unconscious of the speeding hours until she was awakened by a light touch. She sprang to her feet with a cry of alarm, but was reassured by a glimpse of Joel's kindly face.

"I found 'em about seven miles out," he explained. "It seems that the sled tipped over turning out for another team. Your ma broke her leg and they took her into Deane's and set it. They have been so busy with their own troubles that they never thought that you might be worrying and did not send any one on to tell you. It's all right, though, and your ma said not to worry. She'll be in shape to move in the morning, and they'll bring her on here."

"Poor ma!" Bessie said softly. "But I'm glad to know that it's only that instead—instead of some of the horrible things I was thinking." "I thought you'd sleep better if you knew just what the matter was," he smiled. "Sleep?" she repeated. "I can't sleep tonight."

HAYWOOD MURDER TRIAL

Orchard Takes Stand And Tells His Story

Was Born In Ontario And Wandered About Considerably

Boise, Idaho, June 6.—The trial of Wm. D. Haywood, charged with the murder of former Governor Steunenberg was resumed yesterday at 10 a. m.

K. M. Brunzell of Nampa, a hotel-keeper, was the first witness. He testified as to the presence of Orchard and Simpkins in Nampa in 1905.

A. Finley, another hotel keeper of Silver City, Idaho, identified a register to show the presence of Simpkins at Silver City on November 8, 1905.

C. H. Wentz, bookkeeper for a mining company at Wardner, Idaho, identified a photograph of Simpkins and his handwriting on the register.

Guy Wright, of Nampa, testified that he met Orchard and Simpkins at Caldwell in the fall of 1905.

Orchard Takes Stand. Orchard was called to the stand at 9.42 o'clock. Mr. Hawley at once began his direct examination. Orchard said that he had been held on a charge of murder since January 1, 1906. He said he was born in Ontario and had been known as Orchard for 11 years. His real name was Alfred Hansley.

He became a member of the Western Federation of Miners in 1899 while at work as a mucker at a mine in Burke.

Mr. Hawley took Orchard through a close examination, taking up the Coeur d'Alene mining troubles in 1899. It was at Wardner the first trouble occurred.

Two of the Murders. The defence objected to the introduction of this evidence, as having no bearing on the case against Haywood.

Judge Wood admitted the testimony, saying: "The court could easily see it might be important."

Orchard proceeded in narrative form to tell how he lighted one of the fuses that blew up the concentrator at Wardner in April, 1899, when two men were killed. The defence objected continually. Orchard evidently avoided Haywood's glances as he testified.

Born In Northumberland. "I was born in Northumberland County, Canada, in 1866," said Orchard, "and am therefore 41 years old. Harry Orchard is not my true name. I have gone by that name for about eleven years. My true name is Alfred Horsley. I came to the United States in 1896, first to Spokane, where I remained a week. I went to Wallace, Idaho, in March or April, 1896. I first worked for Market Brothers, driving a milk wagon, and remained there until about Christmas, 1896. I then went to a wood and coal yard in Burke, Idaho, and was engaged in that business until the spring of 1899, and on my own account for two years. In 1898 I sold a half interest in the business to Mr. McAlpine. My business in Canada was making cheese."

Union to Hang Superintendent. "On the morning of April 29, 1899, when I got through breakfast, I was told there was a special meeting of the Miners' Union and everybody was expected to be present. I went to the meeting."

Mr. Richardson objected again and was overruled.

"The meeting was called to order," continued Orchard, "by the secretary, who said it had been decided that day to go to Wardner to bow up the mill at the Sullivan and Bunker Hill mines, and to hang the superintendent."

Orchard Leaves the Pen. Boise, Idaho, June 6.—Harry Orchard, the self-confessed murderer of former Governor Steunenberg, and who was on the stand yesterday to give testimony in the case against William D. Haywood, was brought into Boise Monday evening from the Idaho Penitentiary. For some hours he was closeted with the attorneys for the prosecution. This is the first time that Orchard has been out of the penitentiary since he was brought from Caldwell immediately after the assassination of the former Governor.

Notwithstanding the report of possible violence to Orchard on the part of friends of Haywood, he was surrounded with but little precaution on the drive into the city. Orchard is looking well and shows little apprehension of the ordeal he will be called upon to face while he is on the stand.

THEY WANT INVESTIGATION

Orangeville Red Hot Over The Jackson Douglas Case

Town Council Send Petition To The Attorney General

Orangeville, June 6.—The feeling of resentment over the result of the Jackson and Douglas cases has bubbled over, and the town council have unanimously resolved to make a direct appeal to the Attorney-General of the province.

The council appointed a committee of three to visit the Attorney-General and demand a searching investigation into the circumstances surrounding the trial of Jackson, the laundryman, and A. C. Douglas, both of whom were brought to trial in connection with the death, in July last, of Elizabeth Wells, and both of whom escaped scot free. The committee includes James Lynn, James Armstrong, warden and reeve, and Thomas Henderson.

The committee was given authority to formulate any charges necessary against officials, and they have prepared charges against at least two local officials, and have and are collecting evidence to substantiate these allegations. In addition, other old sores may be opened up, and the effect of the attempt to add another to the list of manipulated cases that have staggered this community will be to cause an investigation into the administration of justice here for the past 15 or 16 years.

The committee will go to Toronto early next week, in all probability. In the meantime it is probable that a public meeting will be held to give voice to opinions prevalent here.

Life is worth the living in spite of what the dissatisfied may say.
