AUSTRIA CONVERGE OF STARVATION

Revolution Threatens, in Wake of Reduced Food Ration

Hundred Thousand Workmen On Strike in Vienna, and Martial Law is Likely to be Enforced -- Demand Voiced That Former Bread Ration be Restored

Riots are reported in suburbs of Vienna, and one hundred-thousand workmen, in important war manufactory are on strike. The situation apparently is growing beyond control of the civil authorities, and martial law in the Austrian capital is not unlikely. The workmen continue to demand more bread, and the agitation is spreading. Advice received in neutral countries are to the effect that the present trouble is the most serious the Austrian government has faced, and is causing grave apprehension throughout the country. Germany appears unable to help because it is faced with a serious food situation itself.

REPORTS CONFIRMED
LONDON, June 21.—Further information confirming reports of intense excitement and resentment in Austria over the reduction of the bread ration is quoted from Austrian newspapers by the correspondent of The Times at the Hague.

Among the subsidiary causes of the anger is the fact that notification of the reduction was not made until noon Monday, although it had been enforced from early that morning when loud and excited protests were raised.

Premier von Zeydler is accused by the Socialist Arbeiter Zeitung, of Vienna, of producing a disastrous situation by favoring the agrarians and traders. It says the situation could certainly have been prevented. The paper rails against Germany and Hungary, and tells the authorities they must immediately draw the attention of those countries to the fact that the food conditions in Austria are intolerable, and demand necessary assistance. It adds: "The Austrian population cannot starve while Germany and Hungary have tolerably adequate rations. The Austrian Government must be placed under tutelage even in matters relating to the food supply. It has deserved to be subjected to guardianship, but the population must not be punished with starvation for the future of the government."

The weekly food ration in Austria, The Daily Mail's correspondent at the Hague, quotes The Arbeiter Zeitung of Vienna as reporting is as follows: "Twenty two ounces of bread, one pound of potatoes of which half cannot be eaten; one ounce of black bran mash, one ounce of another mill product, an ounce and a half of fat, six and one half ounces of sugar, one egg seven ounces of meat and a little jam and coffee substitutes.

The Vienna newspaper says that the meat allowance is obtained "if the applicant waits all night for it."

WORKMEN'S DEMANDS

LONDON, June 21.—The Workmen's Council of Vienna in an all night session, ending Thursday morning, adopted a resolution demanding that the bread ration be raised immediately and until it reached normal size, greater quantities of other victuals be given the population, according to reports reaching Copenhagen and transmitted by the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The council protested the adoption of a policy of not summing parliament and demanded that wages be raised and night work in the factories limited, as the men and women are unable to do hard work owing to the lack of food. Finally, the council requested the working people to prevent riots in the streets.

IN GERMANY ALSO

LONDON, June 21.—Food conditions in Germany are becoming worse and there is great discontent there owing to reduction in the bread ration, according to a Dutchman interviewed by the correspondent of The Times at the Hague.

by the correspondent of The Times at the Hague. The Dutchman had just returned from working in the Krupp plant at Essen, which he left because he could not stand the food conditions. The German people, he added, feared to grumble openly lest they be sent to the front.

The correspondent says the testimony corroborates what he has heard from many others and adds: "One popular saying is that the people will pay 100 marks for a sick day to eat."

"The war is becoming very unpopular among the workers, but the feeling ebbs and flows with the tide of Germany's success and the English are generally cursed."

ATTACK KAISER

Geneva, June 22.—Several German newspapers openly attacked the speech made by Emperor William at German great headquarters, on the occasion of his anniversary.

EXCHANGE DROPS

AUSTRIAN OFFENSIVE HAS NOW DEVELOPED INTO DEFENSIVE MOVE

Foe Fighting on Defensive Both in Mountains and Along Piave—Austrian Government Harassed at Home By Food Shortage and Grave Unrest Among Populace

By Courier Leased Wire
Austria's offensive against Italy apparently has resolved itself into a defensive movement both in the mountains and along the Piave. While facing Allied counter attacks on the fighting front, the Austrian government is being harassed in Vienna and elsewhere by popular outbreaks caused by food conditions.

Spurred by their successful resistance, Italian troops are making repeated attacks against the enemy positions west of the Piave, and have gained some ground in the mountains around Asiago. Franco-Italian troops have re-occupied important positions. Wednesday, the bag of Austrian prisoners aggregated nearly 2,000, bringing the total captures to 11,000.

Vienna, in its official statement, admits that its troops are on the defensive, and is content to report that all Italian attacks especially along the Piave, have been repulsed. The fighting is now in its seventh day, and the Austrians west of the Piave probably are in a more precarious position than at any time since last Saturday.

Around Montello, on the northern end of the Piave line, the Austrians have been driven back slightly. Their efforts to advance near Zenson, near the centre of the line, have been checked with severe losses. At San Dona di Piave and on the Fossalta canal, the Italians have

FRESH DRIVE COMING

Present Lull in Activity Continues—Minor Operations Only

By Courier Leased Wire.
PARIS, June 21.—Grave events are impending on the British front, according to military experts, the preliminary steps of a German attack. It is pointed out that the fourth army group, under Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, has had leisure for re-organization during the three weeks since it was engaged in battle, and now is ready for a new effort along the front.

RAIDERS ACTIVE

LONDON, June 21.—Balletin.—Further extensive raiding and patrol operations were carried out by British troops last night in the Arras region, and on the front to the south, towards Albert. Attempts by the Germans to regain the ground won yesterday by the British near Merris, on the Flanders front, were repulsed today's war office announcement states. The text of the statement follows: "During the night we captured a few prisoners and machine guns and inflicted many casualties on the enemy in raids and patrol encounters in the vicinity of the neighborhood of Hebuterne and Boyelles, and on both banks of the Scarpe.

SEVERAL HOSTILE ATTEMPTS TO RECAPTURE THE GROUND GAINED BY US YESTERDAY, NORTHWEST OF MERRIS, WERE REPULSED WITH LOSS TO THE ENEMY.

"There is nothing further to report."

THE SITUATION

Sub-normal fighting activity continues generally on the front in France and Belgium. West of Montdidier, American troops, after a short engagement, have cleared out German trenches and machine gun nests at Châtigny.

Germany makes claims that German troops have penetrated the American trenches at Selcheprey. The falsity of this report is shown by a dispatch from the American front, which says that the similar infiltration was only an attempted raid by 68 Germans.

FRENCH OFFICIAL

Paris, June 21.—French troops last night carried out operations on the front southwest of Soissons, which resulted in the improvement of their positions in the neighborhood of Faveroles. A similar improvement was effected further south on this front, near Hautevesnes. The war office made these announcements to-day.

HOME RULE BILL HAS BEEN ABANDONED

By Courier Leased Wire
New York, June 21.—An Associated Press cable from London this morning says: Earl Curzon's speech in the House of Lords last night, immediately seized upon in the lobby as an admission of a breakdown in the government's Irish policy, indicating, as it did, the abandonment to the present at least of any attempt to introduce a home rule bill, is treated in this morning's newspapers as a sensational development, and is made the theme of sharp comment. "Home Rule is dead, Irish conscription is dead," reads the radical Daily News, "and the whole Irish policy of the government has fallen crumbling to the ground."

GREAT POTATO WASTE

Can Be Prevented by Thorough Spraying. Women's Meetings in Full Swing—The Summer Institute Meetings Are of Benefit to Every Woman Who Attends—Topics to Be Discussed and Work Planned.

POTATOES are sprayed to prevent such fungus disease as Early Blight and Late Blight and Rot. These diseases are caused by plants known as fungi...

Efficient spraying of potatoes depends: 1. Upon the use of the proper fungicide. Bordeaux mixture has so far proved to be the only satisfactory spray mixture for potato disease.

2. Upon timely and repeated spraying. Spraying should be commenced when the plants are from six to eight inches high and repeated at intervals of from a week to ten days throughout the growing season.

3. Upon the liberal use of Bordeaux mixture. From 50 to 150 gallons of Bordeaux mixture should be used per acre at each application.

4. Upon thorough spraying, which means the covering of every portion of the plants with the Bordeaux mixture in the form of a fine mist. This can be done only when the solution is applied with good pressure so as to insure covering every portion of the plant.

5. Upon spraying before rather than after prolonged rainy periods. Infection of the plants takes place during or soon after rain, therefore if it is of the utmost importance to have the spray mixture on the plants when the rain comes.

AUSTRIA IS STARVING

Latest Drive Against Italy Nothing But a Hunger Offensive

ARMY SHORT OF FOOD Troops Encouraged With Promises of Abundance of Plunder

PRISONERS ARE WEAK

By Courier Leased Wire
 Italian Army Headquarters, Wednesday, June 19.—(By the Associated Press)—That Austria's drive against Italy is positively a "hunger offensive" has been proved by new orders and addresses found upon prisoners. These were signed by officers ranging from Field Marshal Conrad von Hotzendorff down to regimental commanders. One which was issued by the commander of the famous regiment bearing the name of Archduke Charles says: "Soldiers: Remember the spoils we got last fall from the Italians; the sheep, steers, warehouses full of good clothes and grocery stores full of wines, canned goods, flour and sugar. Think of your family. Think of white bread you may win for all."

The correspondent has visited groups of hundreds of prisoners, all of whom are thin and weak. They said they had had little food for the past month, and spoke with horror of the winter months they had passed. A sample of their black bread showed that it was made of rye straw and potatoes.

Many of the prisoners have strong, well spiked shoes, but these they claim they made themselves or bought. Their clothes however are falling apart, having been patched frequently. Most of them have mere rags for shirts. The majority of the prisoners have money, but it is either in paper bills or iron coin. The most of them wear medals for valor, some of them having two or three of them, but these decorations are of base metal and none are of gold or silver. One is stamped with a likeness of Empress Zita and encircled with laurel wreaths, and is made of a zinc composition. The prisoners part readily with these medals, saying they have no pride in them, for a few pennies of Italian money. Most of the captured men are young and light haired, and generally have bad teeth.

The Italian soldiers tell humorous stories of captures effected by persuading the Austrians that they will be well fed. One Italian officer, who had been wounded and picked up by a group of Austrians who intended to take him prisoner, explained how foolish they were. He said: "Come with me and you will get meat, wine and real bread." Thereupon the whole party went over to the Italian lines.

It is said also that at the beginning of the offensive, the Austrians in the front line each received three rations of meat, one for each day of the attack, until they reached the Italian stores. They were so hungry however, that they ate all of them the first day.

USE OF SUGAR IS LIMITED IN U.S.

Three Pounds Per Person a Month is New Order—Dealers Must Check up Customers' Purchases

New York, June 21.—In new food regulations just issued by the Federal Food Board the public is asked to limit its consumption of sugar to three pounds a month for each person, and dealers and manufacturers are ordered to restrict sugar sales to two pounds on each order. For rural residents this limit is increased to five pounds.

By the new order, dealers are directed to limit the sale of sugar to three pounds a month for each person and are instructed to "inform" the families to which they are selling and govern their transactions accordingly. Specific suggestions as to how this order may be executed are mysteriously lacking.

Sugar for canning purposes is not to be limited, however. But purchases for this purpose must be made only on canning certificates, which have been issued to dealers by the Federal Food Board. It is specifically ordered that sugar bought for such purposes must not be diverted to other uses.

Restaurants are directed to reduce their consumption to the lowest possible figure, proceeding on the basis of three pounds of sugar to each person served in the month. It is while no specific reason for this action has been assigned other than that it is a precautionary measure, many believe there is fear that sugar shipments may be curtailed as a result of the new submarine warfare.

BEST TOOLS FOR GARDEN

Laying Hens Are More Profitable Than Ever

Frequent Change of Pasture Protects Lambs from Disease and Ensures Steady Gains—Annual Pasture Has Proven Satisfactory.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

MOST gardeners use a hoe, rake, spade, and digging fork in their gardens. The three last are used chiefly during spring preparation of the soil and again in the fall during the harvesting of the crop. The hoe, however, is used almost all summer.

Most people in buying tools simply take what is offered, never considering that in using the heavier types sold in many stores much energy is spent in handling these, that could be used more profitably in doing other garden work. Besides, it is expected that women and children will do much of the garden work this season and it is necessary to give them implements suited to their strength.

For these reasons it has been urged on the gardeners to buy a hoe called the tri-union or best hoe, with a cutting edge 4 1/2 inches wide. This hoe is light to handle and does very satisfactory work, especially close in around the plants in the row. With it should be used the "Bucco" type of cultivator with the two outside tines removed. These two tools will do better work than any of the ordinary hoes with a great deal less expenditure of strength and in shorter time.

Where one has a larger garden, say 50 x 100 feet, it will be well to invest in a wheel hoe to help out the two above-mentioned tools. With the "Bucco" to make a deeper mulch after a heavy rain or continuous tramping over the soil, the wheel hoe makes close weeding of the wheel hoe makes it much easier to maintain a good mulch during the dry season, thus conserving moisture and advancing the growth of the plants. # HOT WEATHER POULTRY CALENDAR

The hen that laid 123 eggs in 1917 made the same profit as the 128-egg hen in 1914.

The hen that laid less than 123 eggs in 1917 made a smaller profit than in 1914.

The hen that laid more eggs than 123 in 1917 made a larger profit than in 1914.

In view of the high price of feed can the farmer afford to keep the poor-laying hens in laying pens? The rooster, unless kept for next year's breeding, is too expensive a luxury to keep—and he'll help relieve the meat shortage.

The market for the cull stuff promises to be good this month—and by marketing in June the distribution is more equalized.

The good layer of the yellow-legged breeds at this season loses the color from the feet and bill and these latter becoming almost white. The sleek plumaged, fat, yellow-legged hens are usually very profitable. It will pay to cull them out now.

The abdominal cavity, or the space between the pelvic bones (situated under the tail) and the end of the breast or keel bones should be relatively soft and flexible. If it is full of hard fat the hen is usually a very indifferent layer.

As a rule the earlier maturing pullets are the earlier and most profitable layers. By marking these the best breeders may be selected.

In grading up a laying flock pure-bred eggs should be purchased from the chicks good female breeding stock may be secured. The male may be secured in very many cases in Ontario from eggs secured by children taking part in school fairs. Watch the school fair winners this year.

It saves work to let the hens feed themselves—a hopper may be built at home without great expense.

Keep hens that lay over 100 eggs yearly and feed them carefully: Kill the rooster and sell infertile eggs; gather the eggs daily and keep in a cool place in clean baskets; send the eggs to market quickly and regularly.—Prof. W. R. Graham.

Frequent change of pasture is beneficial to, and relished by, all classes of stock and this applies with special emphasis to the case of sheep. It is true for two reasons. Sheep are subject to parasitic diseases which may be prevented to a large extent by not pasturing on any one area for too great a length of time. In addition to this they are possibly more fastidious about their food than some other farm animals. It is not practicable on every farm to arrange for a succession of pastures during the grazing season. However, the same area will sustain considerably more sheep if such an arrangement is feasible. Rye sown early in the fall furnishes the good deal of pasture in the late fall and early spring. After the rye is eaten off in the spring rape may be sown on this land and will come along for pasture in June or July. Alfalfa and red clover are satisfactory pasture crops and will serve until the rape is ready. An annual pasture consisting of one bushel each of wheat, oats and barley together with eight pounds of red clover provides a good pasture for the early summer months, and the clover coming along in the autumn will give a nice piling up of annual pasture may be very gay time early in May. Without a great deal of additional labor it is possible to have a succession of crops ready for feeding throughout the entire season. The increase in health and condition of the flock will amply repay any such outlay of time and expense.—J. P. Sackville, B.S.A., Ontario Agricultural College.

 HOME OF ROYALTY

Site of Buckingham Palace
 Once Covered With Mulberry Trees

In Stuart days mulberry trees grew where Buckingham Palace now stands. Bird Cage Walk and The Mall are both names belonging to the town of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries, the Restoration and Queen Anne. Swift in his letters to Stella witnesses the fashion to be met with in the Mall of an evening. "It is prodigious," he remarks, "to see the number of ladies walking there. Stretching along the Mall on the north side was once a row of fine old trees which overhung the road by the park wall.
 In the shade of these near the entrance to Spring Gardens was the memorable institution of the Milk Fair, established probably when the game of Mall began first to be played. The keeping of cows and the selling of milk to the rank and fashion was a privilege granted by royal decree to the gate keepers, the practice being kept up by the descendants of the original milk sellers until quite a late period. Evelyn in his Diary records having "treated divers ladies of his relations" in the Spring Gardens in June, 1654, is taken by "Lady Gerrard" to Mulberry Gardens "now the only place of refreshment about the town for persons of the best quality to be exceedingly cheated at."

When Anne Was Queen.
 Arlington House was the first to stand on the site of King James' Mulberry Garden. In 1702 it gave place to a red brick structure built by John Sheffield, Duke of Buckingham, and other walks being one of the attractions of the house which George III subsequently bought, and settled on Queen Charlotte in the Strand. It became known as Queen's House. At that time the palace was practically rebuilt, nothing could be said to the credit of its appearance. "Complacence" it was, and commonplace it remained at any rate in its external appearance.
 Two royal interviews which took place in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries between George III and Dr. Johnson and Charles Dickens and Queen Victoria, relieved somewhat the tedium of the palace chronicles. Dr. Johnson had what may seem, at his distance, a peculiar view containing the merits of some of the kings of England. He had notably an "extraordinary partiality for Charles II," and "took fire" whenever anything was said against the monarch. James II, too, he thought a very good king, except that he "unhappily believed that it was necessary for the salvation of his subjects that they should be Roman Catholics." On one occasion Johnson drew comment between Charles II and George I, all to the advantage of Charles. "George the First knew nothing and desired to know nothing; did nothing and desired to do nothing," etc. As for George II, the worthy doctor was "prodigious violence against" him. The storm was happily allayed by an Irishman present who exclaimed comically, "Poor George II."
 The Finest Gentleman.
 Johnson appears to have put up with George III, and to have gone so far, after an interview, as to compare him favorably with Louis XIV of France and Charles II. "Sir," he said to the King's librarian, "they may talk of the king, as they will have ever seen." Dr. Johnson was in the habit of frequenting the library of the palace which he had helped to form, and King George on being informed of his visits, "signified a desire that he should be told the next time that Johnson did come." Boswell describes the interview: "Accordingly, the next time that Johnson did come, as soon as he was fairly engaged with a book, on which, while he sat by the fire, he seemed quite intent, Mr. Barnard stole round to the apartment where the King was, and, in obedience to His Majesty's commands, mentioned that Dr. Johnson was then in the library. His Majesty said he was at leisure and would go to him," upon which Mr. Barnard took one of the candles that stood on the King's table, to light. His Majesty through a suite of rooms, till they came to a private door into the library, of which His Majesty had the key. Being entered, Mr. Barnard stepped forward. "Dr. Johnson who was still in profound study, and whispered to him, 'Sir, here is the King.' Johnson started up, and stood still. His Majesty approached him, and at once was courteously easy.
 The King appeared to have asked Johnson's opinion on a number of literary subjects and persons, and the conversation ended with a proposal by His Majesty that the doctor should undertake a literary biography of England. The whole conversation is given in great length by Boswell in the incident of the interview between King and Com-moner being regarded by Boswell

NEW SWISS ALMA HELMET
 This new helmet has been adopted by the Swiss army. It is said to be more durable than any yet devised by any of the warring nations and it weighs only 6 1/4 pounds. Note how well it covers the entire head and yet leaves plenty of room for the eyes.

A Different Meeting.
 With Dickens and Queen Victoria things passed somewhat differently. The first time that the Queen had expressed a wish to see Dickens was in 1857, after his acting of "The Frozen Deep." She sent around asking him to come and receive her thanks, but Dickens said, that being in his "farce dress" he must beg to be excused, and persisted in his refusal. It was not till 1870 that Dickens presented himself before the Queen, who in the meantime had expressed a wish to hear him read the "Carol," but in the 1870 interview arose out of Dickens' possession of some remarkable photographs of the battle-fields of the Civil War, which he had brought from America. The Queen, hearing of them, expressed a wish to see them, and Dickens sent them, and then finally went to Buckingham Palace at Her Majesty's request that she might thank him. Among other subjects Dickens and the Queen conversed about New York and President Lincoln. The Queen then asked him to give her his writings, wanting them, if possible, that afternoon; but Dickens asked to be given time to prepare her with a bound copy. Then Victoria took from the table the book he had written on the Highlands in which he called the "Goblin Dick-ens," and gave it to him with a little remark about "the hum-blest" and "one of the greatest of writers." The effect of the royal interview on Dickens was not un-like that produced on Johnson. Fos-ter remarks that it carried him into "new ways," and so it would seem for Dickens wrote to him on March 26, 1870, "As my sovereign desires that I should attend the next levee, don't faint with amazement if you see my name in that unwonted vic-tory of murder."

CURING SKIN TROUBLE

These Are Always Due to Bad Blood
 Which Must Be Enriched and Purified.

So many people, both men and women, suffer from skin troubles, such as eczema, blotches, pimples and irritations that a word of advice is necessary. It is a great mistake for those suffering from troubles of this kind to smear themselves with greasy ointments. Often they could not do anything worse, for the grease clogs the pores of the troubled skin and the condition becomes actually worse.

When there are pimples or eruptions, or an irritating or itching rash a soothing boracic solution may help to allay the irritation, but, of course, that does not cure the trouble. Skin complaints come from an impure condition of the blood and will continue until the blood is thor-oughly purified. It is well known that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have effected the best results in many forms of skin disorders and blem-ishes. This is due to the fact that these pills make new rich blood, and this new blood attacks the im-purities that give rise to skin troubles and disperses them. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure skin dis-orders from within the system—the only sure way. Mrs. W. Ritchie, Parkberg, Sask., says: "Two years ago I was attacked with eczema on my hands. I tried almost everything that was advised, but as the trouble was growing worse, I consulted a doctor and took his treatment for some time with no better results. By this time my hands were a mass of sores and I began to despair of find-ing a cure. A friend strongly ad-vised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so. After using two boxes I could see an im-provement, and I got a further sup-ply. I used altogether eight boxes by which time every trace of the eczema had disappeared and there has been not a single symptom of the trouble since that time. BRITISH DETECTIVE PROTECTED KAISER

A short time ago there passed from this earth a man whose name the public had repeatedly heard in connection with great criminal cases, but about whom they knew very little. That man was Inspector William Melville, of the Criminal Investigation Department of Scotland Yard.

For years it was believed that Anarchists and their kind left the Kaiser alone, because he was "such a good fellow," etc. But the truth is that no monarch in the world takes greater precautions to guard himself than "Big Willie" does.

It was at Windsor that Melville met the Kaiser, who was aware that the detective was renowned as the greatest enemy of anarchism.

Within Challenges Melville. For thirty years Wilhelm has been haunted by the shadow of anarchism, and on the occasion I am referring to he created much perturbation and not a little amusement.

that he had no chance against such a personality and so gave in."

Melville took about half a minute to pronounce judgment. "This letter was composed in Germany," he said, as if speaking to a class of students.

"The Kaiser was too astonished to contradict him, but Count von Buelow hastily repudiated the correctness of the unexpected solution."

"I will start with your Excellency's servants," said Melville, as impassive as ever. "I have only one," snapped the diplomat, crossly.

Instantly Melville was on the alert. He saw at once again the Anarchist had practised one of their oldest tricks.

W.C.T.U. MUST MAKE WAR SACRIFICES Praise Given Union Government for Suppression of Liquor Traffic

By Courier Leased Wire. Ottawa, June 20.—War work and war sacrifices might be the first consideration of the W.C.T.U. and without brothers, fathers, and husbands we must face the tyrant enemy and suppressed," declared Mrs. Gordon Wright, President of the W.C.T.U. convention in her address here last night.

Mrs. Wright was all praise for the union government for its prompt action in suppressing the liquor traffic. She expressed her deep regret that England has not seen fit to bring in similar legislation.

"We, the women of Canada, protest against our sons being debauched and degraded by liquor and its consequences," she said. "When we have given our best and our bravest to help the mother country in her fight for right and we white ribbon mothers are not asking too much when we say that such an undesirable alternative of the wet article should not be handed our boys when they cross the seas."

She deplored the fact that so many women in Canada should send cigarettes and tobacco cigarettes for the soldiers and she quoted an officer in a training camp, stating that the over-indulgence of the cigarette habit was hindering the boys in their training.

Regarding the question of venereal disease and conservation of child life, the president said: "Surely we need the women's viewpoint in the government. With their powers of citizenship she saw great hope and expressed her conviction that the Senate of the Dominion of Canada should be the first point of attack by the women's house-cleaning touch."

and the presidents of the regular organized provinces." Among those who spoke during the discussions was Mrs. May R. Thornley of London, Ontario.

HAIG'S BROTHER LEFT ONTARIO MINE FOR ARMY

Nearly Sixty, Brother of British Commander-in-Chief, Fought His Own Way WON A COMMISSION

Eldorado, Hastings Co., Ontario, June 21.—When the outer circle of the great maelstrom of war caught and swept John Haig, elder brother of the British Commander-in-Chief, Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, away from the almost primeval quiet of a mining district in Hastings county, Ontario, into the tremendous whirlpool, whose concentric point of engulfment is the Western front, it but added another to the remarkable and even romantic coincidences brought about by the titanic conflict.

Douglas Haig went across to France as a renowned general; his brother, almost 60 years of age, enlisted in the army, unknown to the present commander-in-chief. Unable to en'ol in the ranks, he finally obtained a junior commission.

Older Than Sir Douglas
John Haig is the senior of his soldier brother by several years. Early in life he devoted himself to mineralogy, and became a mining engineer by profession. His father was John Haig, J.P., of Cameronbridge, Fife-shire, and his mother, Rachel, fourth daughter and co-heiress of Hugh Veitch, of Stewartfield, Midlothian. While John was studying, assaying and speculating on the world-wide openings which exist for the mining pioneer, Douglas joined the 7th Hussars, fought at the Athara, Khartoum and in South Africa, gaining fresh laurels in each successive campaign until the war with Germany gave him his great chance as the successor to Field Marshal Viscount French as commander of the British forces in Europe.

Almost Sixty Years Old
Not much is known locally regarding John Haig's career before he appeared in Hastings county at the head of a reconstituted company for working a tale mine, but here in this comparatively remote and sparsely populated part of Ontario he worked for almost three years until the clarion call of war led him to abandon all his business interests and offer himself for service. At this time he was about sixty years of age, but this did not weigh with a member of a fighting family, and he determined to cross the Atlantic and volunteer for service at the front. He had had some experience in the militia, but the age difficulty was the chief and apparently insurmountable barrier in the way of his ambition to reach the firing line.

Used No "Pull."
It is characteristic of the man that he never appears to have occurred to him to use any influence with his brother towards the realization of his hopes. He went forward on his own initiative, and made straight for it, without the slightest attempt to pull a string. As a matter of fact, he was trying to get into the army, and he was serving for months before the Commander-in-Chief was aware of his presence at the front. Those who know him say that was John Haig's way.

Sturdy and Vigorous
Having closed his personal connection with the tale mine near Eldorado—a high sounding name for the tiny village on the C.N.R., and not far from Madoc—John Haig and his wife at once sailed for England, where he promptly volunteered for service with the colors. He gave his age as fifty, and he did not look a day older. His life in the open had preserved his erectness of carriage, clearness of eye and general air of vigorous manhood. His figure was sturdy built, and to use the description of a man who used to work at the mine: "John Haig was a fine figure of a man, and to look at him one would have thought that he had been in the army." The speaker did not know that the man to whom he referred had served as a commissioned officer in the militia, but it is evident that his early training and experience had left their mark.

Gazetted Second Lieut.
While young men were plentiful in the early days of the war, John Haig's efforts to enter the army were in vain, and it was just at this stage when he was experiencing successive disappointments, that he might have been expected to turn to his brother and eventually his pertinacity, patriotism, or personality, perhaps all three combined, triumphed, and he was gazetted a second lieutenant alongside men young enough to be his grandsons. He is to-day a captain in a British infantry battalion on the Western front upholding the name of his distinguished family.

Brothers Meet
It was not until months after he had been on the firing line, and constantly in and out of the trenches with his regiment that his younger brother knew that he was "out there" and met him.

"He was not the kind of a man who would ask a favor of any one," said a man who had been employed at the mine, "and he left as coolly and with as much indifference as if he were just taking a trip to Toronto. He used to run up to the city now and then to visit some friends, and when he and his wife went to England, it was just as though he were making a short call on some city folk."

Lived in Shack
For three years John Haig and his wife had lived in the woods. When they first went to Eldorado, the couple boarded in the village, but when things got busy he had a three-roomed shack built, and here they lived in summer heat and winter cold. About fifteen men were permanently employed, and the daily output was some forty tons. Two shafts were sunk to a depth of about 30 feet, and their connected, but according to the owner of the land, George C. Gordon, the workings are now flooded and the machinery is rapidly becoming worthless.

Mine Derelict
To-day the calm of desolation prevails at "Eldorite." The bush is creeping back to its wonted luxuriance, rising over the shafts, pushing upward through bits of abandoned machinery and equipment and wiping out traces of man's handiwork in many places. All round the mine is a heavy growth of spruce and hemlock, and the shack in which the manager and his wife lived is almost completely bowed in gloomy timber. The outbuildings, however, are in a good state of preservation, and the mill does not seem to be much the worse for the stoppage of work.

Picture of Desolation
John Haig would not know his office if he saw it to-day. The glass top of the door has been removed and the desk drawers inside have been turned out, so that the contents are strewn half a foot deep over the floor. Daily production sheets, way bills and memoranda of various kinds are scattered about, and the place looks as if it had been thoroughly ransacked from one end to the other, but nothing appears to have been removed. A fine safe lies in one corner, but if any attempt has been made to open it no traces have been left. But the general aspect of the place is one of complete desolation and abandonment. It is said that Sir Douglas Haig had an interest in the undertaking, but that is only a country rumor.

TO LICENSE STOCK YARDS
Washington, June 20.—All stock yards in the United States today were ordered by President Wilson to be put under federal license. Presidential proclamation was issued which requires that licenses must be obtained from the Food Administration on or before July 15.

Licensing also is required of commission men, order-buyers, traders, speculators and scalpers handling or dealing in live cattle, sheep, swine or goats, "in or in connection with some stock yards," except those exempted by the food and medicine laws.

The recommendation of the investigating committee upon which the president based his proclamation, follows: "The stock yards should be placed under license and regulation by the Department of Justice, which should also be a government system of animal grading under suitable regulations and methods of price reporting of actual transactions. Daily reports should be made on distribution and destinations of live stock, meats and other products from principal packing points."
