BEAUTIFUL JIM

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

CHAPTER XVII

The hour of the inquest had come, and all Walsbury and the adjacent neighborhood was in a state of the wildest excitement.

The great criminal lawyer who had come down from London to watch the case on behalf of Beautiful Jim had given him as his cue two words, "absolute silence," and upon that line his client behaved.

There was a stormy scene with one Private Leader, who swore and swore himself until he was threatened with contempt of court, and was finally bundled unceremoniously out of it as a witness who was nothing better than an idiot...

On the other hand, there was the testimony of the officer commanding the regiment that since the time Capt. Owen and Lieut. Beresford had been in the service they had been on terms of unusual intimacy...

Then came the evidence of the other officers whose quarters were on the same landing, namely, the doctor, young Manners and Tommy Earle.

The doctor stated that he occupied a room overlooking the barrack yard, and next to that of Mr. Beresford. He was, therefore, the furthest away from the room in which the murder had taken place.

"But you were invited to enter Mr. Beresford's room?" "Certainly."

"And by whom?" "Well—practically by both of them."

"Can you give us the exact terms of the invitation?" "Oh, yes," answered the doctor, quietly.

"I did not," I told them that I was dead tired, that I had been up the greater part of two nights with a bad case of influenza, and wanted to get to bed while I had the chance."

"And that was the last time you saw Capt. Owen?" "Alive," replied the doctor.

"Did you hear Lieut. Beresford moving about his room after that?" "Yes, Well, I heard him, to the best of my belief, get into bed."

position, with only the partition between. "I can hear it creak very distinctly."

"I have often called out to Mr. Beresford from my room, and received an answer."

"And what more did you hear after you believed Lieut. Beresford had got into bed?" "Nothing."

"How was that?" "I suppose because I went to sleep; at all events, I heard nothing more until I was called in the morning to Capt. Owen's room and found him dead."

"The following some medical evidence, and the examination of the doctor was an end."

"Mr. Earle was called next and sworn. He had very little to say. He deposed that he occupied the room on the other side of Mr. Beresford that occupied by Dr. Foster."

"And to this she replied that she had never seen him in the hotel but once before, when she had spoken of hering the day of the murder was the first time she had ever had any conversation with him."

"After this, Miss Rose Meeking was put down, from none of whom could any evidence be elicited."

"There was a moment's pause in the proceedings, and then the name of Lieut. Beresford was called, and Jim stood up."

"I am," "What length of service have you?" "Eight years."

"You are a lieutenant in the Blankshire regiment?" "Yes, he was my best friend."

"You are on friendly terms with all your brother officers?" "Yes, and I have always been so."

"You have never had any quarrel or misunderstanding with a brother officer?" "Never."

"When the deceased came into your quarters before dinner did any dispute arise between you?" "He was very angry about something."

"How was that?" "That person never knew, and, to the best of my belief, does not know the name of Rose Meeking was called."

"And you say it was not a personal matter?" "Not in the very least."

"Did you hear any quarrelling or any dispute between them?" "Not a word."

"Could any such quarrel have taken place in Lieut. Beresford's room without your knowledge?" "I think not."

shadow of a violent and ignominious death, with the weight of his best friend's cruel murder still pressing upon him, did not lose his temper in the least—on the contrary, he became calm and still.

"Tommy," he began; when Tommy interrupted him passionately.

"My God, do you mean to say that you believe I murdered him?" he cried.

"Yes, in an inquiring tone—then, finding that the lad did not speak, went on—'and I am to infer—what?'"

"Tommy turned away his head and tried to force his arm from the grip of the other's strong fingers."

"Let go my arm and go out of my room, if you please, Mr. Beresford," returned the lad.

"But Jim stood still and stared straight into the lawyer's eyes, as if he would force out of them the plain words which apparently Tommy's tongue refused to speak."

"You—your—bound!" he exclaimed, between his set teeth.

"Answer for it!" echoed Jim, with might and main.

At last he looked up. "What are you going to do?" he asked, hoarsely.

"Do!" Jim repeated. "Why, what should I do but tell the colonel the whole truth at once?"

Young Tommy shuddered and buried his face in his arms once more.

"And a good thing, too," returned Jim, coolly.

"And what the devil has your name to do with it?" Jim returned, roughly.

not going to expose you, though I tell you candidly, if there was no one but yourself to think of, I should have called for the colonel, long before this.

By an immense effort Tommy pulled himself together and looked up at Jim.

"Look here, youngster," he said, sharply; "this sort of thing won't do."

"But I can't get out of Walsbury," Tommy exclaimed, fretfully.

"Tell him what?" contemptuously. "Get to bed and stop there."

"Look here," he said. "You had better understand clearly from the beginning that I am not doing this in any way for you."

EDUCATIONAL THOUGHT.

Interesting Selection of Values to Teach

The late Edward Thring, describing his experiences as an upright, cold, in an old-fashioned private school of the type...

Education is the knowledge of how to use the whole of one's self. Men are often like knives with many blades...

Human perfection is the grand aim of all well directed education. The teacher should have ever present the ideal man whose perfection he would realize in the children committed to his care...

The rich need education, the middle class need it, and the poor require it, so that all may know that this nation was not built up by one class, that it is not depending on one class, and that it will not be ruled by a class...

A fallacy is very common among primary teachers that the moral welfare of the children will take care for itself. They reason thus: When the child gets older he will know better what is right, and will behave properly...

To write the English language well, to read with dispatch, to have a neat legible hand, to be master of the first rules of arithmetic, to do as much of it as possible, with accuracy, every question of figures which comes up in practice...

No scheme of education, however comprehensive and elaborate, can be of value unless animated by the warm human sympathy of the teacher. It is the teacher who takes the bare outlines and with tenderness and earnestness makes them effective. Children must be first appealed to through the heart...

The microscopic germs, which are called bacteria, the smallest of organic beings, so small that it takes 100,000 of them placed lengthwise to measure an inch, belong to the plant family. They multiply both by division and by the formation of spores...

Dr. Miller's experiments, have conformed to these tests. He found bacteria filling the tubules of the decayed teeth; obtained pure cultures from them, and placing the latter in tubes with pieces of sound teeth, the microscope in from two to four weeks showed a similar caries, and the tubules distended with similar bacteria.

And all diseases of the throat and lungs can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion, as it contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. See what W. S. THE HOME CIRCLE.

A Word of Caution.

Don't be too hasty in getting your back up against the teacher of your children. Take the advice we find on this subject in an exchange. Before listening to any complaints of your children...

On the Verge of Starvation. "For three months I could not eat a full meal or do a day's work. I bought a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, began using it, and in three days my appetite returned, in a week I felt like a new man. It was wonderful what that one bottle did for me," writes Arthur Allchin, of Huntville, Muskoka, who suffered from Dyspepsia.

TEMPERANCE WORK.

Means from All Over Concerning the Cause.

The Christian at Work tells the following incident in connection with the Church in a certain town in Kentucky: "One of the members was in the habit of going into a saloon and taking a drink whenever he felt like it, but had a holy horror of an organ in church. In a discussion of the subject he said: 'If you bring that organ here you will split the church. I and a number of others will leave.' The pastor replied: 'I can preach either with or without the organ in the church. It is a matter of indifference to me. But as the church is divided about it, and some say that it will drive them out of the Church, I think the wisest course for us is to put the organ in the saloon and see if it won't keep them of that place also.'

On a railway train the writer noticed the entrance of a mother and a little son who were unexpectedly greeted by a friend of the mother's. The friend was only from one way station to the next, while the others were on a long journey. This happened to be but one vacant double-seat in the car; and into this the mother slipped, taking the seat next to the window. His mother, eager to improve the ten minutes with her friend, asked the son to give up his seat and take another for that little time, so that she could sit with her friend. "No, I won't because I want to sit by the window and all the other seats have people already at the window."

"No, I won't go. I want to sit by the window now." "But, dear, not give mamma pleasure?" "No." "Not for ten little minutes, when mamma wants so much to talk to her friend, and you can sit by the window the whole day long?"

"No!"—with impatient emphasis. And in spite of humble entreaty from the mother, and good-natured urging from the friend, that home-nurtured bit of selfishness kept his place, the mother never dreaming of insisting on the right and courteous thing, but murmuring gently that "Bobby did so enjoy looking out of the window." When seven-year-old Bobby becomes Robert the Husband, and his little wife wonders "Why is it that men have so little tenderness for their wives?"—From "Open Letters" in the January Century.

How a Dude Taught Cold. A slim young man in the height of fashion was violently sneezing in a street car, when a companion remarked, "Aw, Charles, dear boy, how d'ye catch that dreadful cold." "Aw, dear fellow, left my cane in the lower hall today, and in sucking the ivory handle, so dreadful cold, it chilled me almost to death." If Charles had used Dr. Harvey's Red Pine Gum his cold would not trouble him very much. For sale at J. Wilson's prescription drug store.

HEALTH.

Decay of the teeth (caries) is exceedingly common, especially so among civilized people. The lack of power to resist this vital injury due to the depression of vital vigor through over-taxing the nervous system, or through sedentary habits and luxurious living. In this, as in other matters, there are inherited tendencies, and the children of those whose teeth decay early themselves suffer the same evil.

But what is the immediate cause of dental decay? A paper on the subject was read by Dr. George S. Allen, of New York, before a meeting of the dental union, lately held in Boston. According to this paper, the credit of solving the question belongs to Dr. W. D. Miller, an American residing in Berlin, Germany. The solution is found in the germ theory, which has already settled the origin of so many infectious diseases.

The microscopic germs, which are called bacteria, the smallest of organic beings, so small that it takes 100,000 of them placed lengthwise to measure an inch, belong to the plant family. They multiply both by division and by the formation of spores. The spores, which correspond to seeds have great vitality, and are unaffected by the temperature of a boiling water bath. They are isolated from every other kind; cultivated outside of the body, and the pure cultivation must produce a similar caries when introduced into a healthy tooth, and this caries must show the same form of bacteria.

Dr. Miller's experiments, have conformed to these tests. He found bacteria filling the tubules of the decayed teeth; obtained pure cultures from them, and placing the latter in tubes with pieces of sound teeth, the microscope in from two to four weeks showed a similar caries, and the tubules distended with similar bacteria.

A Severe Attack.

Miss Beils Elliot, of Pontypool, Ont., writes—"My brother and I were both taken ill with a severe attack of diarrhoea, having tried other remedies, we tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Sarsaparilla, which gave immediate relief." "They have a larger sale in my district," says a well known druggist, "than any other pill on the market, and give the best satisfaction for sick headaches, biliousness, indigestion, etc., and when combined with Johnston's Tonic Bitters, Johnston's Tonic Liver Pills will perform what no other medicine has done before for suffering humanity." The Mud at the Bottom.

While the water is quiet the mud lies at the bottom, but when it is disturbed it rises to the top. Every cock boat can swim in a shallow river, but it must be a strong vessel that plows the troubled ocean. "The Lord give rest and the Lord take away; blessed be the name of the Lord." He gives before he takes, and takes what he gives. The hour-glass of outward happiness soon runs out. Today Job is the richest man in all the East; tomorrow Job is the poorest man in all the world; yet his heart was like a fruitful paradise when his estate was like a barren wilderness. Though God burned up his cut house, yet his palace was left standing. Outward mercies are like the tide, which ebbs as well as flows; like the sky, which sometimes is clear and at another time clouded; or like a budding flower, which a warm day opens and a cold day shuts again. If God blesses us in taking as well as giving, let us bless Him for taking as well as for giving.—Rev. William Secker.

'My son,' said a mild parent, 'it grieves me very much to see you keeping the company of worthless young spendthrifts. You should remember, my boy, that a fool and his money are soon parted.' 'Yes, father,' replied the prodigal, 'I know all about that. But don't the fools still seem to have the most money in this world?'—New York Evening Sun.

A Wonderful Organ. 'The largest organ, and one that plays a controlling part on the health of the body is the liver. If torpid or inactive the whole system becomes diseased. Experimenting with the Baby. That class of parents is unhappily large who appear to accept a child's strong constitution merely as a basis for experiments, remarks Harper's Bazar. The child has a habit of dropping asleep as soon as he is laid in his crib? Then let him be taken from it any time to be exhibited. If he goes to sleep again so easily, the raising him at all hours will do harm. He rarely catches cold? Then carry him out in all weather, keep him out late in the evening and dress him in as thin clothing in winter as in summer. His digestion is excellent? Then by all means let him eat whatever he wants and whenever he feels like it. He is of an inquiring turn of mind, and will ask anything you offer him, and it is very amusing to see the queer grimaces when some new viand fails to meet with his favor.

"But don't you think it is a good plan to accustom babies to eat everything?" said a pretty young mother, timidly. "Their constitutions will get used to all sorts of food. Of course, as my little girl is my first baby I have had no experience except with her, but her father insists she shall taste everything he has on his plate. She is a year old now, but she has liked potatoes and gravy ever since she was six months old and she is so fond of preserves and cake and of vegetable. I did protest when her father began feeding her with pickles and cucumbers and cabbage with vinegar on them, but she seemed to like them, and I can't see that it does her a bit of harm."

The baby in question was even then of a pale complexion, but she had plenty of flesh, although it was flabby and lacked the firmness that marks the body of a really healthy child. Following the course her parents had laid out for her, by the time she was sixteen years old she was a confirmed dyspeptic, her skin the color of dirty dough, her teeth decayed, her breath intolerable. Yet the parents, while mourning over their daughter's ill-health, utterly failed to connect cause and effect.

MR. JAMES E. HAYES, father of our townsman, Mr. R. C. Hayes was elected Warden of Huron on Tuesday. He is one of the "old heads" of the council, and purposes retiring from municipal life at the close of his term of office.

THIS old ark is moving. Goderich has begun to boom, and is now bound to go ahead. Today there is not a habitable dwelling house vacant in town, and the greatest deterrent to our increase of population is this cause.

COUNTY COUNCIL.
The Legislators from the Municipalities in Session.
The new County Council for 1889 began its labors on Tuesday last, at 3 p. m., all the members being present.

A ballot was taken resulting in 25 votes for Mr. Hays and 24 for Mr. Griffin, when the clerk declared Mr. Hays duly elected and he was sworn in by His Honor Judge Tomp.

A communication from the County Council of Perth in reference to the width of elch runways was referred to the Road and Bridge Committee.
Dr. Rollins and Messrs. Torrance, Kaine, Kelly and McMurchie, were elected by ballot a committee to strike the standing committees for the year, and instructed to have the list printed on cards for distribution to the members of the Council.

Moved by Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. McMurchie, that Peter Adamson and A. H. Manning be appointed on the board of criminal audit for the year 1889.
Moved in amendment by Mr. Kaine, seconded by that W. Proudfoot and Peter Adamson be appointed on the board. The amendment was lost by a majority of two, and the motion carried.

The usual appropriation of $3,000 for the improvement of boundary lines was made on motion of Messrs. Cox and Beck.
Petitions for the granting of pedlers' licenses free of charge to the following persons were read and referred to the Finance Committee, viz: Mr. Johnston, Wingham; Mr. Reid, Bayfield; and Mr. Stewart, Grey.

A circular from the County Council of Egin, and also one from the Council of Oxford, requesting co-operation in having the law amended so that all county officers appointed by the Government be elected by the people, were referred to the Special Committee.
A circular from the Ontario Agricultural College in reference to the admission of county students was referred to a same committee.

A circular from the City Council of Ottawa, asking co-operation to secure an amendment to the assessment act, so as to abolish tax exemptions for the year, was referred to the Special Committee.
S. P. Halls, of Goderich, and James Turnbull, of Clinton, were appointed on the Board of County Examiners.

A communication from Mr. Scott in reference to the erection of a joint House of Refuge for Huron and Bruce was read and referred to the special committee.
Petition of Mr. Fife and others of the township of Stephen to incorporate the village of Oredition into a police village was read and referred to special committee.

Petition from Mr. McCann in reference to a claim for repairing Holmesville Bridge was read and referred to the finance committee.
Communication in reference to a jam in the Maitland river at Wingham, was referred to the road and bridge committee.

Communication in reference to Mr. Hick's claim for damages was referred to finance committee.
Circular from the county council to hawkers and pedlers was referred to the special committee.

Circular from the county council of Kenebago, in reference to road money, and draining, was referred to the special committee.
Circular from the county council of Oxford, requesting the co-operation of this council to get the necessary legislation to prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage in this Dominion, was referred to the special committee.

The report of Mr. Tom, P. S. I., West Huron, was read and referred to school committee.
To the Warden and members of the Municipal Council of the county of Huron.
GODERICH.—I have the honor to submit my annual report of the public schools in the Inspectorate of West Huron.

benefit on those at the north of the Inspectorate and will not entail any additional expense.
The attendance at the Goderich high school continues to increase, and the work done during the year 1888 was very satisfactory, as shown by the non-professional, first, second and third class examination. It would be of great advantage to the people of Exeter and the surrounding townships if a high school were established there.

Cannot the council of the wealthy County of Huron carry out partially, if not fully, the excellent recommendation made by the school and printing committee in June last? It was: We recommend that the Warden and Clerk, in behalf of this council petition the Ontario Legislature to amend the Public School Act so as to provide for a system of uniform county promotion examinations in public schools and for the defraying of the necessary expense attendant in the same manner as other school expenses."

The council resumed, the warden in the chair.
The minutes of yesterday were read and approved.
A communication from Mr. Scott in reference to the erection of a joint House of Refuge for Huron and Bruce was read and referred to the special committee.

THE TOWN COUNCIL.
The first meeting of the council of 1889 was held on Monday in the forenoon, all the members being present.
Mr. Joseph Williams was re-appointed high school trustee, and Messrs. W. R. Robertson and H. W. Ball, auditors. Reeve Proudfoot and councillors Colborne, Nafel, Thompson and Nicholson were appointed a drainage committee and made the following report:—

Waterworks—Mayor, Morton, Nafel, Fire-Reeve, J. W. Smith, Dunlop, Thompson, Deputy.
Relief—Mayor, Nafel, Humber, Holt, Dunlop.
Market—Deputy Reeve, Dunlop, J. W. Smith, Pridham, Cantelon.
Public Works—Nafel, Reid, Colborne, Holt, J. W. Smith, Thompson, Morton, Humber, Deputy-reeve.
Harbor—Nicholson, Humber, Cantelon, Holt, Pridham.
Cemetery—Thompson, Morton, Cantelon, J. W. Smith, Dunlop.

It will be the duty of the Public Works Committee to see to the improvement of the Park. It should have a footpath from the gate to the top of the steps, a fountain, and some means of sprinkling the grass in dry weather, a summer house or pavilion for the use and protection of excursion parties in wet and extremely hot weather.
The Court House Square must have attention, four or more fountains will have to be erected, and provisions made for watering all the grass plots and keeping them green. People must be stopped from walking and making footpaths on the grass; this I think can be best done by improving the present approaches to the court house by preparing coal sidewalks and putting them, not only on those paths, but on both sides of West, East and North streets. This material makes a foot-path nearly equal to asphalt, much cleaner than gravel, easier to the feet, just as durable, and if properly put on every tender foot in town will praise the change. Some of our idle men should be put to work now, preparing the cinders at the salt wells and big mill; they will then be ready to be put on when the snow leaves. If this is done you will get rid of muddy boots on sidewalks at last.

It will be the duty of the Waterworks committee to see about the putting in of water services at an early day, and the farther extension of the mains as the requirements of the town demand. I apply the said funds for the purpose of assisting in the erection of a House of Refuge in the county.
The motion and amendment were referred to the special committee.

To the Editor of THE SIGNAL.
DEAR SIR,—During the summer before the rebellion broke out the young man named Chapman, was engaged here as teacher in the building now occupied by the fire engine behind the town hall. He and our townsman Mr. Dark's brother-in-law, Woodliffe, played first and second side with David Don, in ready mentioned on the date, led the music in the same building in lieu of an organ for the Episcopalian congregation every Sunday forenoon, and few professional musicians could have done it better, the Presbyterians occupying the same building in the afternoon. Chapman left this for Detroit a month or two before we were sent to the St. Clair, and all that we knew of him afterwards, was that he had got employment in a drug store. Now, when we arrived in Detroit about mid-afternoon, the Doctor who was still one of the commissioners of the Canada Company, went off to see and spend the evening with Mr. Smart of the firm of Brewster & Smart, merchants, and the then lessee of the Sauble Mills; the Young also left us, to visit some friends they had not seen since leaving Scotland, so Ben and I being thus alone resolved to hunt up our acquaintance Chapman, but not knowing his employer's name we called at several places before we found the right one, Doctor Theller's, where we were told that our friend had just gone to some place a little distant, to which we went and received a similar answer; and after trying once or twice more we became convinced that he had been and was avoiding us, but for what possible reason we could not conceive. On our return to the hotel, however, we learned from the landlord on our mentioning Theller's name, that he was a General of the "Patriot" army, of whom we had seen many bands drilling in different parts of

do not know if the late council prepared a water service bill. Rates should be made, water-takers advertised for, and our laborers who are idle given a chance to put in the services. My own belief is that the council might safely put the water into every house within reasonable distance of the mains, giving parties a chance to see its benefits for a time and then ask them to pay. I feel certain that no person would allow the water to be shut off, for it will be with the water as it now is with the electric light and town clock.

It will be the duty of the Harbor Committee to prepare a report, on which the council could not act, of the state of the piers, breakwater, docks, depth of water at the entrance, the lengthening of the North pier or the building of a pier at North side of Maitland river. In future the dredgings should be carried much farther away, as I believe most of the stuff taken out is worked back by the first south or southwest storm. The attention of the Government should be called to the fact that this is their own Harbor of Refuge, that they should keep it repaired, navigable and free from tolls. It was constructed by the country, for the use and benefit of vessel owners and sailors on both sides of the line, and from end to end of the whole chain of the harbor ought to keep it in repair, navigable and free from tolls. It does not look well to charge tolls and tonnage on distressed and disabled craft coming into any harbor of refuge.

The Fire Committee will require to make changes to suit the new order of things. A pair of shafts will be wanted for the large horse reel that a horse may be hitched to it, instead of men. Also a piece of hose with couplings to fit the hydrants, and the suction pipe of our steam fire engine that she may be used to throw water beyond the limits of our present system if ever required.
The Special Committee, or the Council will have to see to our Railway interests. The charter we have from Goderich to Wingham which costs us $300 will have to be renewed or extended, as it expires very soon and it will not do to let it go by default.

In conclusion, I beg to say that the rate-payers are generous, they will not grumble if money is spent so long as it goes to beautify and improve our town, making it a pleasure to the eye, comfortable to the feet, and a place to be proud of.
An application from the Board of Trade, asking that the town council take up the question of getting out a special illustrated edition of 5,000 copies to boom the town, was laid before the council.

Cost Among Women
There are few things more in American life than the idleness among women. Men are one another for what they do. Cast Among Women.
There are few things more ludicrous in American life than the ideas of caste among women. Men usually take one another for what they are; women for what they have or seem to have. The dominant form of caste is based upon money, and it has a graduated scale running downward from the women who are able to keep servants to perform almost every service for them except eating and sleeping, to the women who keep six servants, or five or four or three or two servants, and finally, out of caste entirely, the woman who is her own servant. Unfortunately, these circles or series of caste have their graduated lines in the church pews as well as on the calling lists. Neither Christianity nor courtesy, but caste, looks as lance at the plainly, perhaps poorly dressed worshiper intruding in the hundred dollar pew.

Dr McKenzie has examined Henry Irving, and found his throat in a bad condition, poisoned by London fog, and advises him to abstain from acting until he has recovered. Herman Vezin made a great success as "Macbeth" in Irving's place.

Premier Thomas Greenway, of Manitoba, is in Toronto, and will remain several days to consult with the Local Government regarding the matter of emigration to the Prairie Provinces during the coming summer. He stated that he expected a large influx of people from Ontario, as well as from the Old Country.

Frederick Villiers, the war artist of the London Graphic, now lecturing in this country, knows this world as other men know the pockets in their oldest coats. He has haunts and friends in all the principal cities, and his talk with his friends showed that he had messed with Skobelev, fought to rescue Gordon, seen the Czar crowned, sketched in Afghanistan and India, and, in a word, had been steadily knocking about in all the out-of-the-way corners of the world since his boyhood. He is a stalwart, sun-browned man, with a moustache and goatee, and a broad English accent.

THE WEEKLY RECORD.

A Batch of Interesting News Notes Prepared for Our Readers.

Ottawa claims to have the oldest voter in the Dominion in the person of Mrs. Jones, over 100 years, who voted in the municipal elections on Monday.

A Massachusetts mother went to the room where her little girl was sleeping, and when she turned up the light, noticed something dark under the little one's chin. Stopping to see what it was, a mouse sprang away like a flash and was gone. The little girl had been eating crackers in bed, and the crumbs had attracted mousie, who tried to hide under her chin when the light was turned on.

An Atlanta lady was dressing for a wedding the other evening, she happened to break one of her front teeth off close to the root. She thought she would try and stick it on with wax, and succeeded admirably, went to the wedding, and forgot all about her broken tooth until she took a swallow of hot coffee, when, when, as the tooth went down with the coffee, she remarked all about the accident.

Governor Haldane, of Aylmer jail; Mrs. James Thompson, Ottawa, and Mrs. R. Feater, Montreal, have fallen heirs of an estate valued at over $400,000 by the death of their father, who died recently in Montreal. Mr. Haldane will resign his position and go to live in Montreal.

An eight-year-old daughter of Mr. Jas. Hathaway to all appearance died on Saturday afternoon at Grand Rapids, Mich. She had been suffering from enlargement of the liver, apparently died in a spasm. Arrangements for her funeral were under way when she revived, and is now getting better.

Henry M. Stanley's real name is John Howlands. He was born in Wales, near the little town of Denbigh, and his parents were so poor that he was sent at the age of three to the poor-house of St. Asaph. When he was 13 he was turned loose to take care of himself. He was well informed, and a good school for a while. He shipped for Liverpool as a cabin boy when he was 14, and reached New Orleans. He was there adopted by a merchant named Stanley, who gave him his name. Young Stanley fought in the Confederate army. He is now if alive, 48 years of age.

Quebec is greatly agitated over a marriage question. A short time since two Roman Catholics, both of age, were married by a Protestant clergyman, and it is contended by the friends of the bride, who has left her husband, that the marriage was not legal, and an action to test the question has been entered in the Supreme Court.

Some time ago a woman was hired by a family at Cote St. Antoine, Que., in which five persons were sick with diphtheria. When they recovered she returned to Montreal without any attempt at disinfection and gave the disease to one of her own children. She then answered an inquiry at the registry office and entered a family in order to nurse children sick with the measles. In a short time diphtheria manifested itself and one of the children died from its effects. The woman will be prosecuted.

There is a good deal of excitement throughout the county over the disappearance of Mr. McLean, editor and proprietor of the St. George Journal. Mr. McLean's domestic and business relations were of the happiest and most satisfactory kind, but it is supposed that sickness and overwork together wrought on his mind till it gave way. He left St. George on Saturday afternoon and walked to Dundas where traces were lost of him, and it is supposed that he is now in Toronto with his brother on the Canadian Presbyterian. In the meantime the office hands and friends are getting out the paper.

A couple of weeks ago a young couple of Otonabee township, near Peterborough were married. Just before the ceremony was performed the bride burst into tears, and declared she would not go any further in the matter. Friends reasoned with and persuaded her to fulfil the betrothal, but she immediately after the ceremony repented her vows and showed her regard by refusing to become the wife in deed which she had in word. She fled from her new home and went back to the people from whose house she was married, and has not yet returned. Her friends are surprised at her action, which was wholly unexpected and unwarranted, as so far as any of the husband's doings are concerned, but they hope a reconciliation will yet take place.

"Joe Beef" is dead, and there is mourning among the wharf rats of Montreal. Few strangers have come to this city during the past twenty years without visiting the famous catfish on Commissionaire street kept by Charles McKiernan, a retired sergeant of the Royal Artillery, but commonly known as "Joe Beef." His establishment was the home of dancing bears, broken down sailors, chatter-monkeys and clumsy buffoons, and although deceased probably performed many kind acts to the shivering wretches who crowded around his bar, he gloried in being known as the wickedest man in Montreal, as John Allen had been in New York. Joe's death arrived suddenly this afternoon, and he has probably left a good deal of property. The widow is a fine-looking lady and is credited with being a good woman in every sense of the word. When McKiernan's first wife died several years ago, the disconsolate husband engaged the services of a brass band, and as the procession wended its way around the base of Mount Royal the solemnity of the occasion was relieved by the inspiring air of "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

Eye fever is a type of catarrh having peculiar symptoms. It is attended by an inflamed condition of the lining membranes of the nostrils, tear-ducts and throat, affecting the lungs. An acrid mucus is secreted, the discharge is accompanied with a burning sensation. There are severe spasms of sneezing, frequent attacks of headache, watery and inflamed eyes. Ely's Cream Balm is a remedy that can be depended upon. 50c. at druggists; by mail, registered, 60c. Ely Brothers, Druggists, Owego, New York.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

Interesting Paragraphs Relating to Christian Work.

Religion is living out the truth there is in us.—(Gordon.)

Religion is not a dogma, nor an emotion, but a service.—(Rev. R. D. Hitchcock.)

A nation of Mormons is impossible, but a nation of libertines is not.—(Prof. Phelps.)

The desire of more and more rises by a natural gradation to most, and after that to all.—(L'Estrange.)

It is admirable to die the victim of one's faith; it is sad to die the dupe of one's ambition.—(Lamarine.)

The Christian is like the ripening corn; the ripener he grows the more lowly he bends his head.—(Guthrie.)

It is not by attending to our friends in our way, but in theirs, that we can really avail them.—(Margaret Fuller.)

As Christian love becomes more in tense it becomes also more extensive. The fire that is the hottest sends its heat furthest.—(Rev. N. W. Wells.)

"To be made like God" was the noblest aspiration of Heathen moralists; and the spirit of Christ converts the aspiration into a fact.—(Canon Westcott.)

Repentance without faith is the devil's repentance, and faith without repentance is the hypocrite's faith. If they be true they go together; if rightly acted they act together.—(R. Traill.)

I believe in God. To say this is to confess that there is, in spite of every unpunished sin, every fruitless sorrow (save Judas), one purpose of victorious fulfilment about us and in us.—(Canon Westcott.)

The love of Christ is like the blue sky into which you may see clearly, but the real vastness of which you cannot measure. It is like the sea, into whose bosom you can look a little way, but the depths are unfathomable.—(McCheyne.)

CHRISTIANITY IS INFIDELITY.—The outlook for growth among the Christian Churches of America is in spite of their manifold and confessed defects, a bright one. The vain dream of infidelity that a time is approaching when man will live entirely in the brain and despite the heart, need not be feared.—Archdeacon Mackay-Smith, in Harper's Magazine for January.

The War Cry announces that Gen. Booth has recently had an interview with the imperial home secretary, Mr. Matthews, and has laid before him the claims of the rescue homes, eight refugees and prison gate brigades to the assistance of the government. Mr. Matthews, who is a Roman Catholic, evinced the keenest interest in the statistics laid before him and expressed his sympathy with the work, and promised the matter his serious consideration.

Miss Stirling, the Salvationist and latest "Prisoner of Chillon," after an imprisonment of fifty-nine days, has been released on bail, pending the hearing of her appeal against the sentence of imprisonment for 100 days. Miss Stirling's only offence against the law was exercising the rights of a female teacher or preacher. Her case has awakened much sympathy beyond Salvationist circles.

The still form of a little boy lay in a coffin surrounded by mourning friends. A man came into the room and asked to look at the lovely face. "You wonder that I care so much," he said, as his tears rolled down his cheeks; "but your boy was a messenger of God to me. One time, I was coming down by a long ladder from a high roof, and found your little boy close beside me when I reached the ground. He looked up in my face with a childish wonder, and asked frankly, 'Weren't you afraid of falling when you were up so high?' and before I had time to answer, he said, 'Ah, I know why you were not afraid; you had said your prayers this morning before you began your work. I had not prayed; but I never forgot to pray from that time to this, and by God's blessing I never will.'"

Conductor W. R. Snider preached on Sunday afternoon the anniversary sermon of the I. O. E. in the First Methodist church, Hamilton, recently. He had a crowded house. In the course of his sermon he said, according to the Spectator's report:—"Some will say there is no harm in taking a glass of beer or playing a friendly game of euchre. But when a man said that to the speaker, he told him he knew better. He had drunk beer and played euchre, and poker, too, and knew all about these things. He knew there was harm in them. At one time he was never so happy as when entertaining a convivia party with comic songs and stories and drinking with them. Thank God he could not derive happiness from those things now. It would be two years on the 26th of this month since he had been converted, and this was the 44th church he had preached in during that time. A Bible presented to him by his mother had laid in his trunk for thirteen years unused, but during the past two years it had been his constant companion."

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature. The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order. Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics. But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember!—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for the bottle. Seventy-five cents, evenly.

Greatly Excited.

People are apt to get greatly excited in case of sudden accident and injury. It is well to be prepared for such emergencies. Hagedy's Yellow Oil is the best remedy known for burns, scalds, bruises, lameness, pain and all wounds of the flesh. It is used internally and externally.

The Pretty Girls of Ireland.

The Irish ladies are perhaps the prettiest in the wide world. The features, it is true, are less regular than those of English women, but they triumph over them with their soft, creamy complexion, their large, sparkling grey-blue eyes and long lashes, and a sort of indefinable charm and demure coquetry, yet thoroughly modest manners. "Every third Irish woman," wrote the Queen in her diary when last visiting the country, "is beautiful, and some of them remarkably so. Their hair and eyes are simply lovely." Apart from personal charms, it is impossible not to admire the gentle grace and dignity of the wives and daughters of the Emerald Isle. Go where you will, I defy you to find an Irish woman who is otherwise than naturally distinguished—the very barmaids being superior in bearing and speech to many duchesses. The list of beauties is long one, and looking back we can recall histories of the extraordinary loveliness of the three Miss Ginnings, who, when they came up to London, had actually to be escorted in Hyde Park by a guard of soldiers sent by the order of the Secretary of State overhurlingly was the crowd pressing upon them. Then there was Lady Cairn, Lady Clara and many others, to say nothing of the present young Duchess of Leinster, one of the most attractive women of this or any other day.

Not a Book A Cent.

McGoode, druggist, is not a book agent, but has the agency in Goderich for Johnston's Tonic Bitters, which he can heartily recommend for any complaint to which a tonic medicine is applicable. This valuable medicine has been tried by many of the best medical men in cases of general debility, weakness, irregularities peculiar to females, extreme paleness, impoverishment of the blood, stomach and liver troubles, loss of appetite, and for that general wear of feeling that nearly every one is troubled with at some part of the year. Don't forget the name, Johnston's Tonic Bitters 50c. and $1 per bottle at Goode's drug store, Albion block, Goderich, sole agent.

How to Cook a Potato.

The cooking of a potato is a test of the cook's skill. She, or he, may make pastry that will melt in the mouth, salads that inspire verse and brown gravies that are the envy of all, but if the potato comes to the table hard, soggy, sudden ball, or a hasty, discolored mass, we know that the education of that cook is not complete. In the first place the potatoes should be carefully peeled, and the shape that nature gave them preserved, instead of chipping off the outside until they look like objects which to illustrate some geometrical problem. Those that are cut because of imperfection can be cooked and laid aside for warming up. After they are peeled they should lie for a while in cold water, and when put to boil, which should be just half an hour before they are to be served, should be put into boiling water; after boiling about fifteen or twenty minutes a handful of salt should be sprinkled over them. There should not be too much water, just enough to cover them, and it should not boil too rapidly, as the outside will flake off. The dish in which they are to be served should be well warmed and a folded napkin laid in the bottom. As soon as the potatoes are done, carefully lift them from the boiling water into the dish by placing a kitchen fork under them, and at once put a warm napkin over them and let them stand two or three or five minutes, then remove the top napkin and serve them, and you will have a delicious, white mealy ball that is an ornament to any dinner table, and a feast will be sure to ask, "Where do you buy such delicious potatoes?"—Springfield Republican.

Miss Brown—Why, what's the matter, Mr. Pauls, you look fatigued—hard white mealy ball that is an ornament to any dinner table, and a feast will be sure to ask, "Where do you buy such delicious potatoes?"—Springfield Republican.

More Remarkable Skill.

Found at last, what the true public has been looking for these many years, white mealy ball that is an ornament to any dinner table, and a feast will be sure to ask, "Where do you buy such delicious potatoes?"—Springfield Republican.

In Brief, next to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature. The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order. Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics. But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

A Profitable Life.

Few men have accomplished the same amount of work and good in this world as the celebrated Dr. Chase. Over 500,000 of his works have been sold in Canada alone. We want every person troubled with Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Headache, Kidney or Urinary Troubles, to buy a bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, it will cure you. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Sold by all druggists.

More Trouble May be Expected.

If you do not heed the warnings of nature and at once pay attention to the maintenance of your health, how often we see a person put off from day to day the purchase of a medicine which if procured at the outset of a disease would have remedied it almost immediately. Now if Johnston's Tonic Liver Pills had been taken when the first uneasiness made its appearance the illness would have been "suppressed in the bud." Johnston's Tonic Bitters and Liver Pills are decidedly the best medicine on the market for general tonic and invigorating purposes. Price 25c. per bottle. Bottles 50c. each and $1 per bottle sent by Goode the druggist, Albion block, sole agent.
