Which Was The Heir?

CHAPTER XXXVII. (Concluded.)

He wandered about Brighton for the remainder of the day, and at night he found himself, without any conscious volition on his part, standing beneath her window, or what he thought was her window; and Cottie, from an uplifted corner of her blind, looked down and saw him.

She slept little that night, for the flame of love was burning fiercely in her young heart, torturing her with pain one moment and consuming her with unspendable joy the next.

They met again the next day and the next; indeed, when he was not calling at the house he was scheming meetings with her, and once or twice he contrived to walk with her: in a vague kind of way her presence, her nearness, brought back the pleasure which he had experienced in Ronnie's society. Now, of course, neither Mrs. Setton nor Cottie were blind to his attentions.

'I don't understand it,' my dear, said the elder lady. 'He follows you about like a shadow; he is more devoted than all the other men. You must be mistaken about the lady at Starborough.'

'I saw him with my own eyes,' said Cottie in a low voice, and struggling with a sigh.

That evening he dined with them again. They were alone, and Mrs. Setton saw that he could not take his eyes from Cottie. The love spoke not only in his eyes but in his voice. Mrs. Setton spoke to him he listened with an absent-minded politeness; but at the lightest word of Cottie's he turned to her with a rapt eagerness.

It was a lovely night, with a nearly full moon, and when he was going, Cottie exclaimed on his beauty.

'It is a shame to go to bed,' she said.

He turned to her eagerly, crushing his cap in his hand.

'I suppose you—and Mrs. Setton—wouldn't care to come for a short walk? It would be beautiful up on the cliff.'

Cottie evaded his eyes and glanced at Mrs. Setton, who shrugged her shoulders with a resigned air.

'If you'll promise not to go far,' she said.

The maid brought the ladies a couple of fleecy shawls, and the three set out. When they had gone a little distance Mrs. Setton sank on to a convenient seat, declaring that she could not walk any farther.

'But you can go on just a little way, my dear,' she said to Cottie.

Cottie shot a reproachful glance at her, which Mrs. Setton pretended not to see; but she did not decline, and she and Geoffrey walked on. They sauntered along almost in silence—Geoffrey wondered whether she could hear his heart beating, and she wondered whether he could hear hers—and

'Is it so very dreadful?' she asked, with affected levity; but she drew the shawl partly across her face as if she felt the night air.

'It is very dreadful for me, Miss Setton,' he said. 'Dreadful for many reasons. Oh, I must tell you—I feel as if I must speak; though I know it's no use, though I'm afraid you'll think I'm insulting you.'

She stopped abruptly and in alarm; but Geoffrey was too agitated to notice the words which had almost given her away.

'See here,' he said, almost abruptly, 'Mrs. Setton—you—have both been kind to me, have both received me as if I were an equal. Oh, you have been kinder than you can think; and I am ashamed! For, Miss Setton, I am not worthy of your kindness—I—yes, I will tell you everything now I have begun. In the first place I am not—a gentleman.'

Cottie turned her beautiful eyes upon his pale anxious face with an incredulous smile. Geoffrey not a gentleman! To her he was the first gentleman in the land, the king of men.

'No,' he said, 'I have no claim to the title; I can scarcely claim to be a man, for—his voice broke and grew presently they came to a seat on the cliff overlooking the sea.

'Shall we sit down for a minute or two?' asked Geoffrey, almost gruffly; and Cottie, looking down to see that Mrs. Setton was within reach if she should be needed as a refuge, after a moment's hesitation, complied. But still Geoffrey seemed spell-bound; and, in desperation, Cottie at last said,

'I suppose you'll be going back to Australia soon, in search of your boy-partner, Mr. Bell?'

Geoffrey almost started, for in this charmed presence he had actually forgotten Ronnie.

'Yes—I suppose so,' he assented in a low voice. 'What makes you think he has gone there?'

'Oh, I don't know,' replied Cottie, rather alarmed. 'As he seemed so fond of you, I thought perhaps he might have gone back to join you.'

'Yes, I thought so,' said Geoffrey, musingly, 'and I have once or twice lately thought of starting; but something has kept me back.'

He took off his cap and passed his hand across his brow, half-rose, and then fell back. Was the something Eva Rashleigh? Cottie thought. Of course, it must be.

'It must be something of importance, as you are so anxious to find him,' she said, with affected indifference.

He looked at her. The moon was shining full upon her face—the face that was so Ronnie's—and its beauty stirred him to his depths. He began to tremble.

'Yes it is,' he said, huskily. 'I wonder whether you'd be angry if I told you. I want to tell you very much, but I feel that I dare not, ought not to do so.'

Cottie evaded his eyes and glanced at Mrs. Setton, who shrugged her shoulders with a resigned air.

'If you'll promise not to go far,' she said.

The maid brought the ladies a couple of fleecy shawls, and the three set out. When they had gone a little distance Mrs. Setton sank on to a convenient seat, declaring that she could not walk any farther.

'But you can go on just a little way, my dear,' she said to Cottie.

Cottie shot a reproachful glance at her, which Mrs. Setton pretended not to see; but she did not decline, and she and Geoffrey walked on. They sauntered along almost in silence—Geoffrey wondered whether she could hear his heart beating, and she wondered whether he could hear hers—and

'Is it so very dreadful?' she asked, with affected levity; but she drew the shawl partly across her face as if she felt the night air.

'It is very dreadful for me, Miss Setton,' he said. 'Dreadful for many reasons. Oh, I must tell you—I feel as if I must speak; though I know it's no use, though I'm afraid you'll think I'm insulting you.'

She stopped abruptly and in alarm; but Geoffrey was too agitated to notice the words which had almost given her away.

'See here,' he said, almost abruptly, 'Mrs. Setton—you—have both been kind to me, have both received me as if I were an equal. Oh, you have been kinder than you can think; and I am ashamed! For, Miss Setton, I am not worthy of your kindness—I—yes, I will tell you everything now I have begun. In the first place I am not—a gentleman.'

Cottie turned her beautiful eyes upon his pale anxious face with an incredulous smile. Geoffrey not a gentleman! To her he was the first gentleman in the land, the king of men.

'No,' he said, 'I have no claim to the title; I can scarcely claim to be a man, for—his voice broke and grew almost inaudible — 'I have no name.'

'No name!' murmured Cottie. 'No, he said, doggedly. 'My father was not married; I am illegitimate. Oh, don't you understand?'

She saw the great drops of sweat standing on his brow, saw his hands grip each other.

'That's enough to set me apart from all the rest of the world. And I'm poor, of no account, as well. In fact I am a nameless vagabond, and yet, with all this against me, I have been mad enough—yes, mad enough—to fall in love with the loveliest, the sweetest girl—'

His voice broke again, and he was silent.

Cottie's heart throbbed with pain and dread. 'Was he going to speak of Eva Rashleigh?'

'Now you know the truth,' he said after a pause, during which the boom of the sea rang thickly in her ears, so that his voice seemed to come from a distance. 'Don't you think I ought to be ashamed of myself for coming into decent society, for daring to fall in love? I love! He echoed with self-scorn. 'There can be no such thing, no such happiness for such as I am.'

'But why?' said Cottie, almost inaudibly. 'It—it is no fault of yours. If you told her, and she—she cared for you, she would not mind—at least I think—'

He looked at her in a whirl of amazement, of tremulous hope of incredulity.

'I have told her,' he said.

Cottie was sure he meant Eva, and she rose; but Geoffrey caught her arm.

A BROKEN-DOWN SYSTEM. This is a condition for disease to which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply weakness—a broken-down system of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be the cause for it, the symptoms are much the same: the most prominent being depression, some of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is absolutely essential in all such cases is increased vitality—vigor.

VITAL STRENGTH & ENERGY to three of these mercurial feelings, and experience proves that as night succeeds the day this may be more certainly secured by a course of the celebrated life-restoring tonic.

THERAPION No. 3 than by any other known combination. So surely as it is taken in accordance with the precise directions accompanying it, with the shattered health be restored.

THE EXPIRING LAMP OF LIFE LIGHTED UP AFRESH, and a new existence imparted in place of what had so lately seemed worn-out, "used up," and valueless. This wonderful medicine is purely vegetable and innocuous, is agreeable to the taste, suitable for all constitutions and conditions, in either sex; and it is difficult to imagine a case of disease or derangement, whose chief features are those of debility, that will not be speedily and permanently benefited by this life-restoring tonic. Its powerful essence, which is destined to cast into oblivion everything that had preceded it, for this purpose, and numerous cases of human ailments.

A Note of Appreciation

Editor Evening Telegram: Dear Sir—The Reid Nfld. Co's. general and popular agent at Kelligrews, Mr. H. T. Watts, has tendered his resignation, and the office which he occupied for the last two years is being transferred to another to-day, and we take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of the courtesy, kindness and attention to duty which has characterized his behaviour since first talking charge of this station.

When our names are blotted out and our place know us no more the memory of each kind service will remain. These words can in a sense be fitly applied to Mr. Watts, for it is safe to assert that never was this station conducted by a more obliging official, or one who gave such universal satisfaction to the public which his duties brought him in daily contact with.

him, and which coupled with faithfulness and ability raised him in the estimation of his employers as well as the public.

The people of this Shore learn with regret of his intention to leave his native land to seek his fortune in the great West of Canada.

Mr. Watts is a native of Briggs, that little town which has raised and sent forth so many sons to prove a credit to their native town and country in varied walks, and we do not hesitate to bespeak for Harry an upper wrung in the ladder of success in the world of telegraphy and railroading.

He has been fortunate in securing a very remunerative position as telegrapher with the C.P. Railway at Winnipeg, and will be leaving for that city during this week.

It seems a regrettable circumstance that inadequate remuneration should be responsible for depriving Newfoundland of those who become qualified and fitted to take part in her growing commercial activities. May we hope for better days to come.

As a token of the esteem in which Mr. Watts is held he has already been the recipient of some valuable presents including a beautiful watch chain and pipe.

In conclusion we wish him success in his new field and a safe return at some future day to old Terra Nova.

As we pray for your success in the City out West, There is one thought that can make our parting grand, As you sit beside the key, let our best thoughts sometimes be On your kind friends home in dear Old Newfoundland.

HOW CAN WE COUNTER-ACT

THE INCREASED COST OF LIVING?

A second's reasoning will supply the answer. Beef and pork are dear and getting dearer all the time, and the cost is out of proportion with their food-value.

There is more nourishment in a shilling's worth of bread than a shilling's worth of beef or pork. But the problem is not done with yet. The shilling's worth of bread is not always the same value. Breadmade from

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Yip, yip, yip, said the little fox terrier. And he jumped right up into the St. Bernard's face, and growled at him and snarled at him and tried just as hard as he could to provoke the big dog beyond endurance.

Bernard, who might have made way with the fox terrier with just about one snap of his powerful jaws, simply fitted his head out of the way of the hateful little thing's attack, and trotted about his business as if he were entirely unconscious of the fox terrier's presence.

And in a moment or two the fox terrier realized he wasn't getting any attention and gave it up. Don't you love St. Bernard people? St. Bernard in mind, I mean.

The kind who let their fox terrier critics and detractors and snubbers snap and growl and fly at them without appearing to notice anything is happening.

There was an epigram in "Life" the other day that appealed to me immensely. I quote it from memory.

"There is one class of people a little smaller minded than the gossips, and that is the class of people who mind what the gossips say about them."

In the same way it seems to me there is one class of people a bit more childish than the snobs, and that is the class who let the snobs look down upon them.

"No, Mrs. B. hardly notices me when she meets me on the street, and if we are on any committee together in the club, she acts too snobbish for anything—all because she has a little more money and a little bit nicer clothes than I do. And she my next door neighbour. I declare it riles me all up," I heard a woman say the other day.

She should have been ashamed to tell me that.

It showed a weakness in her as well as in the other woman.

By the foolish amount of attention she gave the other woman's attitude, and the mental disturbance she allowed to create, she placed herself very close to the other woman's level, and moreover gave the other woman encouragement to keep up her snobbish manner.

Whereas, if she had been a St. Bernard person, the fox terrier would have soon grown tired of trying to plague her.

The world is full of snobbish and petty and gossiping fox terriers.

We can't kill them off much as we'd like to sometimes.

But we can make them innocuous by being mental St. Bernards.

(If you happen to own and love a fox terrier, please don't get indignant at this article, but just amend it by substituting black and tan, or poodle, or any other kind of dog you don't like, for fox terrier.)

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good." It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures.

Our Montreal Letter.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Two Policemen Foully Murdered.

A sad scene took place on Friday evening, May 6th, when two policemen were shot to death by an unknown man they were bringing to the station, on a charge of trying to sell stolen goods. Officers Fortin and O'Connell lost their lives in the discharge of their duties. Death came to the former as he was lending a helping hand to his brother officer. Policeman O'Connell was dressed in plain clothes, and noticing a man coming out of a second-hand store with a large bundle of rubber boots, and in questioning him—not being satisfied with the explanation given, the officer told him he'd be obliged to take him to the station to give more explanation about the number of rubber boots he had in his possession. The man resisted any attempt to bring him to the station seeing that he could easily ward off the attempt of a single policeman. Officer Fortin at this time alighted from a street car, and seeing his brother officer in trouble, went to his assistance. The supposed burglar on seeing the second policeman submitted to go without a struggle. Everything went well till within fifty yards of the station, the place being a narrow street and poorly lighted, the man drew a revolver and shot both policemen. Officer Fortin dropped on the side walk shot dead, while Officer O'Connell fell near him badly wounded, and the murderer made his escape with the revolver still brandishing in his hand. Climbing over fences and going through dark alleyways he was soon lost to view. Officer O'Connell bent over Fortin's body to see if he were badly wounded, only to find that life was extinct, and death must have been instantaneous as he was shot through the brains. Officers from the Chabouzeau Police Station hurried to the scene and were horrified to find the lifeless body of Fortin, and O'Connell bleeding profusely and suffering much pain. A hurry-up call was sent to Notre Dame Hospital, and the ambulance conveyed the wounded policeman there, where at first his case was not considered serious, but complications set in and Officer O'Connell died early on Sunday morning.

The deceased policemen were good men, well liked by their superior and brother officers. Fortin was only 11 months on the force, and O'Connell three years. The funerals of both men were attended by over two hundred policemen. Three men are held suspected of complicity in the awful crime of Friday, which has now become a double murder.

One of these is at Plattsburg, another at St. Albans, over the border, while a third is retained in the detective office here, awaiting confrontation with those who witnessed the crime and the second-hand dealers to whom the boots were offered for sale. The man held here is employed as night watchman by a big shoe firm, and the chart of the recording clock he is supposed to punch shows that the man was away between 8.15 p.m.

and 9.25 p.m. Friday night. The shooting was at 9.15. This firm deals in the kind of rubber boots which were in the bag when the late Constable O'Connell arrested the man who afterwards killed him, and they are all of one size, showing that they came from a large warehouse, where cases all of one size are handled, while the smaller firms always order assorted cases.

A woman gave information to the police that at about 8.30 Friday night she saw two men at the back of this warehouse, and one of them was carrying a bag.

Mr. J. M. Vigliano, the Italian interpreter, one of the first to give chase when the murderer ran from Chabouzeau street to Inspector street, declared this man under arrest looks very much like the one whom he pursued, but he was wearing a hat instead of a cap he could not swear to the identity positively.

Chief Campeau has offered a reward of $200 for the capture of the assassin. Montreal is certainly growing in crime and is fast becoming a second Chicago in that respect. The large number of bodies found in the canal this spring, the murder of several Italians and others during the past year, the large number of hold-ups, and burglarizing of business houses and stores' all tell plainly that the Metropolis of Canada is being infested with a class of criminals that ranks with the worst that the world has ever known.

A Suspect Held in the Double Murder.

The detectives have arrested the man they think guilty of the awful tragedy, and everything points to the strongest kind of a case against him. He was the watchman mentioned in this article.

"We the undersigned jurors find that Jules Fortin died in the city of Montreal on 6th May inst., from a bullet wound at the hands of Timothy Candy, and Daniel O'Connell died on 7th May also from a bullet wound inflicted upon him by the same Timothy Candy, who is to be held criminally responsible.

Timothy Candy, ex-night watchman or Messrs. Ames-Holden, Limited, boot and shoe manufacturers, Inspector street, was held responsible by a coroner's jury for the shooting of Constables O'Connell and Fortin. He will be charged with willful murder. The verdict rendered by the coroner's jury was given as above.

Candy has been identified by the men he tried to sell the stolen property. Before Coroner McMahon at the morgue on Tuesday morning, May 10th, each of them swore positively that Candy was the man, and everything in the Ames-Holden building point to his guilt. The rubber boots were stolen from that firm. The reading of the time sheet of the clocks at the building shows that he was absent at the time of the double murder. Even the revolver which was furnished Candy by the firm, points to his guilt. The night watchman was allowed no spare cartridges, and when the revolver was found on Saturday morning on the desk of the oreman of the establishment it was loaded with Kynoch cartridges, not he sort supplied by the firm.

Timothy Candy, the night watchman, is 37 years of age, born in Liverpool and married. He came to this country some two years ago, worked for the Canada Refining Company, and settled in this city after his wife had one over from England. However, he wife did not like this country, and he returned to England, where he cined her last winter. A month ago he came back to Montreal, and after three weeks secured employment at the Ames-Holden Shoe Company, as night watchman, on the strength of former certificates.

Candy came to work Saturday and Sunday night, but, on Monday morning he showed a letter to another employee, saying his wife had written to him, asking him to come back. When first asked by the police about this letter, the suspect said he had torn it to pieces, but he later admitted that it was a fabrication.

Engineer Millard, of the Slater Shoe factory, for whom Candy was working last spring, said that the man was discharged on account of carelessness. He said that Candy had threatened to shoot him, but he paid no attention to this at the time.

At the Ames-Holden factory it was stated that before he was arrested Candy expressed the intention of leaving at once for England without waiting for his six days' pay still due. He said at the time he had only $7 in his pocket.

He dreads the ordeal of his trial, and says that he'd like the authorities to send him to the gallows immediately and be done with it.

Comet Night

To-night has been called "Comet Night," because the head of Halley's Comet will approach nearest to the earth in the course of 75 years which the comet takes to complete its elliptical orbit round the sun. Astronomers calculate that the head will then be fifteen million miles from the earth. Comets as a rule have tails. Sometimes they have none, and sometimes the tail is longer than at other times. In the majority of cases comets increase in brilliancy and the tail lengthens as it approaches the sun. Halley's Comet appears to be an exception to the rule. On its visit in 1835 its tail and head decreased as it approached the sun and the whole comet appeared somewhat like a star. About a month ago the comet reached its nearest point to the sun. To-night the head is at its nearest point to the earth, and the most interesting point about to-night is whether the tail will be long enough for the earth to pass through it.

Mr. Crommelin, of the Greenwich Observatory states the chance is an even one, and he is the one recently awarded the Astronomischen Gesellschaft prize for his calculation of the comet.

"What baffles us is the impossibility of determining the length of the tail until after the event," Mr. Crommelin explained to a representative of the Daily Mail. "There is nothing more treacherous than a comet's tail; nothing which is more uncertain in its behavior. Dr. Holtschek, the eminent astronomer of Vienna, who for years has specialised in the study of comets, has prepared a table which shows the varying lengths of the tail of Halley's comet since 1456. No man was more fitted to make the calculations than he, and accordingly they must be regarded as authoritative. Dr. Holtschek's figures, giving the length in miles, are as follows:

Year	Brilliant Tail.	Tail complete
1456	18,000,000	36,000,000
1531	13,000,000	16,000,000
1601	6,000,000	11,000,000
1682	10,000,000	21,000,000
1759	8,000,000	Not calculated
1835	8,000,000	16,000,000

"From these figures it can be seen that the length is certainly diminishing—if the earlier observations on which the calculations are based can be relied upon," continued Mr. Crommelin. "Certainly the 1682 figures show a great increase; but that year exceptional."

Now, as to the effect of a comet's tail striking the earth. Though extraordinarily large, the tail is infinite in tenuity. Norman Lockyer calculates that the tails of the largest comets do not weigh more than a few ounces or pounds. Modern science teaches us not to be alarmed at such a phenomenon. It is believed that on June 30th, 1861, the earth passed through the tail of a comet.

In 1776 a comet passed through the moons of Jupiter. The satellites pursued their course as if the comet had no existence.

So light in mass is a comet's tail that it would be as easy for it to make a draft of wind in the atmosphere as for a soap bubble to move Signal Hill from its base.

The local train arrived here at 10.10 last night bringing H. F. Watts, Mr. Lake, Mr. Lefevre, Mr. Cheeseman, J. O'Reilly, R. White, E. Hopkins and 29 others.

Louise Crew Arrive.

Capt. Baxter Barbour and the crew of the wrecked S. S. Louise—except two who remained at Wesleyville—arrived here by the Ingraham at noon today. Capt. Barbour said to a Telegram reporter that the Louise when the accident occurred had a fine run North. She left Dog Bay on Friday last at 9.30 a.m. for Indian Islands and had fine clear weather when she struck. Usually the ship went through Indian Island Tickle instead of Stag Harbor Run on this route, but the waters of the Tickle are shallow and the captain preferred the Run, considering it the safest course to follow. The ship, however, made too bold and was running at 8 knots an hour when she struck a submerged reef on Shoal Point, Indian Islands, going in bow on and running over the reef to the midship section. There were no passengers on board, the water was perfectly smooth, and from the start the captain and crew saw that she was doomed. Had a sea been running the danger of striking would have been apparent and could have been avoided. The bottom was practically torn out of the ship and she filled with water immediately. Skiffs from the islands were quickly alongside and all the freight was quickly taken out of her and returned to the owners at Tilton Harbor, Joe Batt's Arm, Foggy and Change Islands. Capt. Barbour and the crew remained by the ship from Friday evening until 7 p.m. Saturday. All the crew were sent ashore Saturday morning, but the captain, mate, chief engineer, steward and Mr. Stone, the Wreck Commissioner, remained on board until night-fall. A N. E. gale and heavy sea swept in Sunday and Monday and the vessel is now in two pieces, having broken amidships. Capt. Barbour and his crew saved all their clothing and effects.

Invermore in Collision

Mr. H. D. Reid kindly gave us a copy of messages received this morning in reference to the collision of the s.s. Invermore with another steamer when coming out of North Sydney last night on the way to Port aux Basques. A message from Capt. Parsons said:

"Collided with a steamer going out of Sydney; broke stem, bent in plate above the water line; not making any water. Will have to repair before leaving."

Another message in reference to the mishap was received from Capt. P. Delaney, whom Mr. H. D. Reid sent over to make a trip or two with Capt. Parsons:

"Have examined the damage caused by the collision. Bulkheads forward intact; stem broken in two places, plates bent back three feet; think ship is safe to proceed to Port aux Basques."

Mr. Reid on receipt of this message wired Capt. Delaney not to take any risks, but if he thought that temporary repairs there would make the steamer safe for the trip across to have them effected as soon as possible.

At 12.30 p.m. to-day Capt. Delaney wired back:

"Invermore not damaged as much as expected. Left for Port aux Basques at 11.30 a.m."

If the ship had not been in fit condition to cross the Gulf to-day Mr. H. D. Reid intended to make arrangements to despatch the Glencoe there to take her place. Another message from Capt. Delaney intimated that the other steamer in the collision was at fault and that each side had concurred in this opinion. In that case the owners of the other steamer will have to pay the cost of damages.

Sailors See Comet.

The barq. Dunure, Capt. Hartery, arrived in port at 2 o'clock this morning from Cadiz with a cargo of salt for Bowring Bros. The ship made the run out in 17 days and had fine weather until she made this coast when she had fog and head winds. She was off this port Sunday last, but the fog settling down she has been knocking about in the offing ever since. She sailed into port under square yards at the hour named this morning. Each morning as the ship came along when the weather was clear Halley's comet was visible shining at about 1 degree N. E. of the morning star. The captain and crew report that there is some uneasiness in Spain and other countries in Europe amongst some of the sailors and illiterates who fear that the comet will collide with the earth.

Murphy—An application by defendant for order to dismiss the action herein on the grounds that the statement of claim failed to disclose any cause of action against the defendant. A. J. McNelly is heard in support of the application. J. Fenelon for plaintiff moves that the summons be dismissed. By consent of counsel the summons was withdrawn without costs.

Scarcity of Salt.

Though several large cargoes of salt have arrived in steamers within the past few weeks from Cadiz, there is still not near enough here to supply all the fishermen who require it. The Dunure arrived here this morning with 1,100 hhds. of the article on board but this will not supply half the schooners waiting for it at Bowring Bros. The arrival of a couple of steamers soon expected will relieve this congestion.

The brig. Aureola cleared to-day for Glasgow with 266 tons seal oil, shipped by Bowring's and Job's.

TUESDAY'S PROCESSION.

London, May 12.—The procession to Westminster Hall on Tuesday for the lying in state will be almost as great as the funeral procession. The cortege will include King George and all the foreign sovereigns on horse back and the Queen Mother and the royal ladies in carriages. The body will be received by the members of the House of Lords and the House of Commons, while the choirs of Westminster Abbey and the Chapel Royal, and the band of Coldstream Guards will take part in the musical services. When the funeral procession starts on Friday every tram car in London will come to a standstill for a quarter of an hour. It is also proposed that all the public houses in London should be closed while the procession is passing.

ASKING BIG PRICES.

Hundreds of carpenters are at work erecting stands along the route that will be followed by the funeral procession, and owners of frontages are preparing to make the most of their fortune. Twenty-five to fifty dollars is obtainable easily for a single seat at points of vantage, while a small upper room with a couple of tiny windows overlooking the street is considered a bargain at $500. On the more fashionable thoroughfares, like Piccadilly, from $2,000 to $3,000 is asked for the use of the single rooms.

8454. A Practical Outfit for The Busy Woman.

The busy housekeeper will not fail to recognize in the accompanying illustration a most attractive and practical outfit, consisting of apron, cap and sleeves. It will afford protection to the daintiest gown, and will leave the hair neat and tidy even after a busy morning's work. The front is cut in Princess style and fits close to the figure. A prettily shaped bib extends out over the shoulders in a manner very becoming. Gingham was used for the making, but percale, linen and Holland are suggested. The medium size will require 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for the apron, with 1 1/2 yards extra for the cap and sleeves. Sizes—Small, Medium and Large.

BEWARE THE SO-CALLED 'RUBBER ROOFINGS.'

There are countless substitutes for the genuine Ruberoid which are advertised as "rubber roofings." Beware of them. For rubber in a roofing would rot in a single summer. "Rubber roofing" is either a fraud, on its face, because it contains no rubber; or it is a roofing so poor as to be almost valueless. The genuine Ruberoid contains no rubber.

Ruberoid Roofing is waterproof, like rubber. It is flexible, like rubber. But the resemblance ends there.

For, unlike rubber, it remains waterproof and flexible when exposed to the sun, the rain, the heat, the cold, the air.

Rubber rots after slight exposure. Ruberoid retains its life and durability under the severest weather conditions.

Rubber decomposes rapidly under the action of fumes and gases and acids, while Ruberoid resists them. Ruberoid Roofing has, in fact, been used to line vats in which acids are kept.

Ruberoid contains no asbestos. It contains no tar. It contains no asbestos. It is not an asphalt roofing.

PROTECTION AGAINST FIRE

Ruberoid is almost perfect protection against fire. Hot coals thrown on a Ruberoid roof will set fire neither to the roofing nor to the sheathing underneath.

Ruberoid is tasteless. It is odorless. It can be used on roofs from which drinking water is gathered.

And because of these wonderful properties there are to-day 300 or more substitutes to deceive you.

These substitutes have names which sound like Ruberoid. Before they are laid, they look like Ruberoid. But none of them can copy the vital element which gives to Ruberoid its properties. No other maker of roofing can use our exclusive processed Ruberoid gum.

This processed gum, too, is the basis of Ruberine cement which goes with every roll.

By means of Ruberine cement you can join the seams and edges of the roofing together, and make a one-piece roof—sealed against leaks—sealed against the weather.

Ruberoid can also be had in attractive colors, suitable for the finest residence. These colors, Red, Brown, Green, are not painted on the roofing—they are a part of it. They do not wear off or fade.

GET THIS FREE BOOK

But before deciding on any roofing, for any purpose, please ask for our free book. This book is really a gold mine of practical roofing knowledge. It tells what we have learned in twenty years of tests, not only about ready roofings, but about shingles, tar, tin, iron and other roofings. In asking for this free book, please address Department 000, The Standard Paint Company of Canada, Ltd., Montreal, or

Coal Cargo Here.

At 9 o'clock last night the S. S. Spirad entered port from Cardiff with a load of coal to Harvey & Co. She made the run out in 10 days; had stormy weather for a while but came along without mishap. She met some fog in making this coast. She will begin discharging to-day.

HONORARY ASSOCIATES OF CLUB.—The gentlemen whose names we mentioned in yesterday's issue in connection with the C. E. T. S. meeting held the previous night were elected honorary associates of the C. E. T. S. Club and not members of the C. E. T. S. itself. They have been given the freedom of the club rooms, but this does not admit them into the membership of the Society.

Placentia Notes.

During the past week the fishermen of the Bay have done very well with the fish. Some of them (Fox Harbor boats) have from 80 to 70 qts., others from 10 to 50, which is a very good sign. Bait is also plentiful at the N. E. Arm and a number of boats have baited and sailed for the grounds, including the Burn banker Bellona, Inkpen, master, she having secured enough to last for a long while.

The coal vessel Quisetta, Capt. Hynes, has discharged a cargo of coal at Job Bros. & Co. the past week. This was badly needed as at present there seemed to be a regular coal famine.

A billiard tournament for a dinner to be given by the losers is at present on at the Star rooms. Spot is now ahead 74 with two more from each side to play. In my next notes I will give the scores made by each player.

Since last writing the Empire has been plunged into deep sorrow by the loss of our Gracious King Edward VII. As soon as the news was received here flags were put at half-mast, and still remain so. "Edward the Peacemaker" for nine short years sat on the Throne and brought the Empire through trials and troubles. The Throne still remains and is filled by George V., who will, if he follows his father's example, do justice to all and injure none. May he for many long years rule over the Empire and bring it through all trials and troubles.

GOD SAVE THE KING!

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—The Treasurer of the Committee of the Church Ship Fund acknowledges with thanks the sum of $5 from Miss Feild, London, England.

NOTICE is particularly called to the May Month Music Sale at the White Piano and Organ Store. 20 per cent. discount on Folios and Sheet Music. Cash only. CHESELEY WOODS.—may 2, 11.

C. L. B. ATHLETES.—The C. L. B. Athletic Association will have their annual meeting after parade to-morrow evening. A church parade will be held next Sunday by the battalion.

MUSIC CLEARANCE SALE.—May month is fast running out. We are selling off Sheet Music and Folios this month at 20 per cent. discount. Come early. The White Piano and Organ Store, CHESELEY WOODS.—may 16, 11.

BUSY NIGHT FOR POLICE.—The police had a busy time on Water St. last night. There were a large number of passengers from the Siberian on the street and many of them were under the influence of strong drink.

LARACY'S have just received direct from the manufacturers per "Dronning Maud," from Antwerp, Tumblers, Glasses, Decanters, Goblets and Fancy Glassware. Selling at our usual low prices at LARACY'S, 345 and 347 Water Street, opposite Post Office, may 14, 11.

PLANTING WEATHER.—The suburban farmers are all very busy this week putting in winter plants. Most of those who set winter plants were very successful in raising them the past winter, and no doubt the cabbage crop will be a good one.

LEFT FOR STRAITS.—Mr. W. H. Whitley left here by yesterday evening's Bruce express for Bay of Islands. He will there join the Home for Bonne Esperance to prosecute the fishery there. Forty men accompanied Mr. Whitley and will fish under him.

DISCHARGING SALT.—The work of discharging salt (3,300 tons) from the s.s. Philae, now in the stream, is going on night and day. About 20 schooners are around her all the time receiving the salt through the shutes. About a dozen schooners (Goodridge's dealers) are "salted" every day.

THE KOHLER AND TONK Pianos are famous and their agencies are world-wide. Hundreds of users in Newfoundland can confirm their splendid points and should be better than one solitary opinion. Call and see them at the White Piano and Organ Store, CHESELEY WOODS.

IN THE PENITENTIARY.—Up to yesterday there were 34 prisoners in the Penitentiary, all of whom are males except four. Up to this date last year there were 47 incarcerated, and such a small number of prisoners is an evidence of the law abiding spirit of Newfoundlanders generally.

TREPASSEY BRANCH RAILWAY.—The work of surveying the new branch line of railroad to Trepassey will begin on the first of June. The surveyors will start off from a point near Donovan's and will continue the work during the summer months. The first sod of the new line will be turned on June 1st, 1911.

REJOINS THE HESPERIAN.—After the Siberian returns to Liverpool Capt. Williams will rejoin the Hesperian, which ship he made several voyages in before transferring to the Siberian. He commanded the Hesperian when she picked up the Carthaginian, disabled from a bent piston rod, a few weeks ago.

PLAYED WITH BAG-PIPES.—A passenger by the S. S. Siberian, a canny Scot, came ashore last night attired in Highland costume and with the bag-pipes on which he executed several Scotch airs, marched up Water Street to the West End and down near Gower Street. He was followed by a multitude of people who thoroughly appreciated his efforts to entertain them.

AMBULANCE OUT.—John Cadeau was taken from the hospital in the ambulance last evening and put on board the Siberian to go to his home in Halifax. He had been one of the crew of the cable ship Mackey-Bennett, and was landed from that steamer here last winter, as he was suffering from heart trouble and dropsy. He has been in hospital ever since and is now slightly improved.

SAILOR BECOMES DISORDERLY.—Last evening one of the sailor's of the Siberian on coming ashore drank more than was good for him, and refused to leave an East End saloon when ordered. The man wanted to fight all and sundry, and would certainly have been accommodated but the arrival of Officers Devine and Walsh prevented a row. The officers hustled him off to the station. He was released last night to go on board ship.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

If you must carry hot coals from the fire and fear that they will spill, why not try dumping them into a long handle frying pan. They cannot escape and cannot burn the pan.

To remove tarnish from gold braid, first rub it free from all dust and then cover it well with powdered rock alum. After half an hour rub this off with a stiff brush and the tarnish will disappear.

Molasses cake is improved by being baked slowly. Have the oven hot when first putting in the cake, then cool it off so that the cake may be at least forty minutes in the baking. A longer time will not hurt.

A careful seamstress always has a piece of cloth under the presser foot of the machine. This not only saves wear of the machine, but will absorb any drop of oil that may gather and would soil the next fabric stitched.

A delicious French dish consists of French plums stuffed with whole almonds, dipped in olive oil and roasted on a broiler over a hot fire then rolled in thin slices of bacon and grilled; they should be served piping hot.

If a plate of sandwiches is prepared beforehand for a luncheon it is a good plan to pile them on a plate and then wrap plate and all in waxed paper.

A good rule for making sponge cake is to devote exactly the same time to beating the yolks of the eggs as it takes to beat the whites to a perfect stiffness.

Soak old flour sacks in borax water over night to remove the printing and then boil for half an hour in soapy water, and they will make excellent wash cloths for dishes.

It is a mistake to think that ice tea can be cooled by a few lumps in the pitcher. There must be either finely cracked or shaved ice in the glasses to make it palatable.

If jellies are becoming candied, cover them with a quarter of an inch of pulverized sugar, underneath the paper, and they will remain in good condition, even for years.

To take out wagon grease, if it is the kind made of animal fat, sponge with ether; if it is the kind made with coal tar, it may be removed with a cloth dipped in petroleum.

To prevent thread from knotting when doing hand sewing, always make a knot in the end last broken from the spool. This done, stretch the thread by giving it several quick pulls.

If furniture has grown dull and streaked, try rubbing it with a mixture of equal parts of turpentine and coal oil, it polishes quickly and is much less expensive than prepared polishes.

Feildian Sports.

The Feildian sports will be held on June 15th and will provide an interesting hour or two between the start and finish of the twenty mile walk. There will be the usual items and football games, drill by the College Company, etc., and everything possible will be done to make these sports an even greater success than they were last year.

Now Cured of Rheumatism

Cost him $100.00 for medicines which failed—Cured by DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Mr. James Clark, Maidstone, Sask., writes: "I suffered for four years with rheumatism in my shoulders and could not lift my arms above the head. I tried nearly all the advertised remedies but none of them gave me relief. It cost me at least $100.00 for medicines before I used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. With the use of this medicine, I soon found relief. I followed up this treatment for six months and was then quite free from rheumatism. While using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I also used Dr. Chase's Backache Plaster when so stiff that I could scarcely bend. They always found the weak spot and gave relief while the internal treatment was bringing about a thorough cure."

The success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has been phenomenal. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmansons, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Recipes will be sent free on request.

Two Saved by Dog.

Terrible Experience of Family in Forest Fires.
Grand Manais, Mich., May 13.—John B. Elving and his wife, with their young baby, together with their six other children, the eldest of whom is 15 years, have reached here in an almost famished condition, after a thirty mile trip through the forest between here and Upper Brule Lake. It took five days to cover the distance and they were alternately almost burned and frozen to death. Two of the small children were saved from drowning in the swift current of the Brule River by the family Newfoundland dog. When Elving and his family were routed from their beds Sunday by advancing fires, they had a hasty retreat with a small stock of provisions. They found themselves entirely surrounded by fire. Elving with his hand axe cut limbs from trees on the bank of the Brule River, sought a favourite place in the stream, and stationed himself and his family near, deep in the cold water beneath a wetted screen of under-brush which they saturated from time to time until the fire burned out.

ROYAL CORTEGE TO WESTMINSTER HALL.

Procession Passed Thro' Double Lines of Red-Coated Soldiers and a Mass of Silent Black-Garbed Humanity.

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, May 17.

The body of King Edward the Seventh, the Peacemaker, was taken with stately pomp this morning from Buckingham Palace on the first stage of the journey to the grave, and now lies in State in Westminster Hall where hundreds of thousands will pay a last tribute to the dead monarch before the march through the streets of the Capital on Friday. The procession from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Hall passed through double lines of red-coated soldiers, flanked with rows of stalwart policemen and a mass of silent black garbed humanity. The buildings along the route were heavily draped with mourning. The first intimation that the crowd, which had been waiting for hours, had of the approach of the funeral cortege was the booming of 68 minute guns. Then a guardman with sword reversed, came down the street in measured tread, two other gentlemen following close behind. Then came the officers of the Headquarters Staff, the Army Council and the Board of Admiralty. As these appeared the troops came to a half salute with reversed guns, and remained thus until Field Marshal Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener, the Admirals of the Fleet, the India Orderly Officers in black uniforms and the Aides de Camp of the late King passed. When the gun carriage on which the King was borne approached, the order "Rest on your arms" was sharply given. With heads bowed the soldiers kept their eyes on the ground while the body of their late King passed, and by coming to attention again for the Royal Standard, which was carried immediately behind the casket and in front of King George, who, like the officers and other members of Royalty, was afoot. The greatest interest of the crowd was aroused at the approach of the Royal carriage, for in this rode the Queen Mother, Alexandra, to whom the hearts of all have gone out during the past week. Her Majesty, wearing the deepest mourning, had lifted her veil and the people reverently raised their hats to the pathetic figure who, even in the hour of her great grief, acknowledged the silent testimony of sympathy by bowing repeatedly. The dominating characteristic of the procession was the impressive simplicity. There were 12,000 troops afoot and mounted.

Explosion Kills Workmen.

Special to Evening Telegram.
CANTON, Ohio, May 17.

With a roar that was heard three miles away a battery of several boilers of the plant of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Co., exploded this afternoon killing from 20 to 30 men and injuring about 50. Among the injured are half a dozen who it is said will probably die before morning. The cause of the explosion is at present unknown. The firemen and engineers who were in the boiler room are dead. No one else about the plant who survived the accident can give an explanation. The force of the concussion was terrific. The big plant is in such a state of ruin as to be practically a total wreck.

The King and Peace.

King Edward's two greatest qualities—statesmanship and tact—have often aroused the admiration of foreign observers. The enthusiastic tribute paid to His Majesty by the Washington Post, which declares that he is "the greatest Prince of his dynasty," is but one of many similar appreciations. His Majesty has frequently been praised by prominent Germans for his services in the cause of peace. Count Berstein has said that King Edward "has won with his own people, as with all the nations of the world, the name of a Prince of Peace. He is incessantly endeavouring to bring nations more closely together, and to clear away misunderstandings between them."

With Austrians the King is exceedingly popular. In Vienna His Majesty's rare gift for diplomacy is highly appreciated. The last time he was in Austria a noted diplomat declared: "It does not matter to us who is your Foreign Minister; for it is your King, luckily for you, decides your foreign policy." His Majesty has no warmer admirers than the French, even among his own subjects. According to the Figaro illustre, he is a "Prince of Culture," and "the most democratic and august of ruling Sovereigns." The Reine de Paris is equally enthusiastic: "To-day he is recognised not only as the ablest diplomatist of his country, but as a great Constitutional Sovereign. Side by side with the German Emperor, and at his expense, he has conquered a great place in world-politics." To these tributes, which are only typical of many, must now be added that of the influential Washington journal, which firmly believes that "King Edward's greatest desire is to preserve the peace of the world and to keep the balance of power adjusted."—M. Narrow Escape.

Last week Mr. Jas. Fowlow, skipper of Rd. Davis' boat of Long Harbor, P.B., left there with 5 men of a crew to haul herring bait, and after nearly filling the boat, on the return they were overtaken by a storm and high sea which repeatedly came near swamping her. The men had to bail for their lives. They were buffeted for hours, all were drenched and exhausted and after dark made Bruce's Cove thoroughly worn out. Mr. Dan Bruce of the Cove treated them with the utmost kindness, and after they rested and were given food and dried their clothing, they returned home overland as it was impossible to proceed in their boat in the weather that prevailed.

Presentation to C. L. B.

Mr. W. R. Bidgood, of the Calypso, presented a handsome photo of the new armoury to the Non Coms. of the C. L. B. last Monday night after parade. The formal presentation was made on his behalf by Lieut.-Col. Rendell. Mr. Bidgood has taken a deep interest in the success of the Brigade since his arrival here two years ago. The presentation was a very pleasing function and the lads all expressed their appreciation of Mr. Bidgood's kindness.

WHY MANY A MAN MAKES A FAILURE OF LIFE

Not Because He Lacks Brains or Ability, But Because His Liver is Slow.

An inactive lazy liver makes plenty of men and women seem intellectually dull. They really have the "go" but are weighed down, pulled down by a sluggish condition of the system. In consequence lots of good chances are lost, enjoyment missed and pleasures refused—all because of a poor working stomach and a disordered liver. Men and women wake up your livers, give relief to sluggish kidneys—they are working hard, but can't keep on forever doing duty for both the kidneys and liver.

Let Dr. Hamilton's Pills help you—let them drive those poisons from the blood that depress your mind and brain.

Let Dr. Hamilton's Pills give you such inward wholesomeness that body and spirit will tingle and glow with health and ambition.

You can depend on this—that Dr. Hamilton's Pills clear the skin, brighten the eyes, purify the blood, send energy, vim and good spirits circulating to every part of the body.

Memorial Service Held at Topsail.

A Memorial Service for our late lamented King was held in the Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon, 15th inst., and was attended by the members of the L. O. A., and S. U. F., who despite the unpleasant weather attended in large numbers.

The preacher of the occasion was the Rev. C. H. Barton, of Queen's College, who delivered a most instructive and patriotic sermon, taking as his text the 9th verse of the 5th chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel: "Blessed are the Peacemakers, for they shall be called the Sons of God." The rev. gentleman dwelt at length upon that particular phase of the late King's character which had made him beloved, not only by his own loyal subjects but by various other nations; and urged that, like him, we do our utmost to make and maintain Peace in our spiritual as well as our material relations. He referred to the titles of various English Monarchs, which were indeed good, but none could compare with "Peacemaker" which in connection with our beloved King was not imaginary but profoundly real. He also thanked God that our late Sovereign was a member and defender of the Catholic religion, and in this he was not alone, as each heart in the congregation gratefully responded to the words.

At the conclusion of the service the Dead March was rendered by Mrs. Temple.

Would Use Knife.

Last night a resident of Bell Island who had taken too much drink got into a quarrel with some young chaps on George Street, and was attacked by several of them at once. He could not defend himself against them all, and threatened to use a knife on them. He was in the act of drawing it from his pocket when Officers Nugent and O'Brien arrived on the scene and brought him to the station.

Bankers Doing Well.

Passengers by the Glencoe, who arrived here by last evening's train, say that the banker Helene, owned by Paten and Forsey, arrived at Grand Bank a couple of days ago with 850 qtls. fish. A banker owned by John Rose of Harbor Breton arrived there also with 800 qtls. Both vessels report fish very plentiful on the Banks and that all the rest of the fleet are doing well and will have big trips. The shore fishery at Grand Bank and neighborhood is also turning out well and the boats get 2 and 3 qtls. per day on herring bait.

Well Kept Park.

Yesterday afternoon several of the passengers by the Siberian, and many people of the city, visited Victoria Park in the West End and expressed pleasure at the excellent manner in which it is kept by the caretaker, Mr. John Ryan. There are quite a number of flower plots there, some being added each season, and these are set with tulips, narcissus, jonquills and other pretty flowers which please the sight and perfume the air. These will be later replaced with annuals, an immense and varied number of which Mr. Ryan is rearing in the hot beds, of which he has the care of 50. Mr. Ryan says that the plants and trees will be in bloom earlier this season than last. Mr. Ryan's ability as a florist and gardener is well known. He economizes money for the city by sowing the seeds from the flowers each year. The gravelled walks, seats, band stand, fences and grass plots are well looked after, and the general excellence of the grounds reflects credit on Mr. Ryan. Yesterday ex-Const. Sparks was appointed as watchman at the Park, a wise proceeding, as heretofore at night, especially during band concerts, boys committed acts of vandalism and steal flowers and beat down the beds, besides destroying shrubs and trees. Mr. Sparks will look after them in future.

YOU MAY BE SICK TO-NIGHT.

Without a moment's warning pain springs upon you—from a sound sleep you are rudely awakened by aches and suffering. It may be a disordered stomach, perhaps cramps or acute indigestion. Ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water will cure instantly. Again your distress and wakefulness may be caused by sudden neuralgia.—Nerviline will cure—will relieve in one application, for its external action is no less certain than its wonderful effect when taken internally. Of course, Nerviline is powerful or it couldn't be so penetrating. But it's not irritating or caustic, that's why it's so popular. There are other remedies, but when you use Nerviline you realize the difference—others relieve, but Nerviline does cure sprains, strains, swellings, carache, toothache, lumbago, rheumatism—in fact all muscular pains. A large 50 cent bottle of Nerviline cures the aches and pains of the entire family—and keeps the doctor's bill small.

The man—a young and able chap—has been demented for some time past, was quiet coming along on the Glencoe, but became violent on the train. After leaving Placentia the officer had to watch him carefully.

THE VETO BILL.

Below we publish a copy of the Veto Bill which is founded on the Veto Resolutions passed by the House of Commons recently in consequence of the rejection of the Budget by the House of Lords last November. The fight around it will probably be the greatest constitutional struggle which has taken place for centuries.

Worry about the situation aggravated the illness which terminated in the death of King Edward.

The full text is as follows: Whereas it is expedient that provision should be made for regulating the relations between the two houses of Parliament:

And whereas it is intended to substitute for the House of Lords as it at present exists a Second Chamber constituted on a popular instead of a hereditary basis, but such substitution cannot be immediately brought into operation:

And whereas provision will require hereafter to be made by Parliament in a measure effecting such substitution for limiting and defining the powers of the New Second Chamber but it is expedient to make such provision as in this Act appears for restricting the existing powers of the House of Lords:

Be it therefore enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

MONEY BILLS.

(1) If a Money Bill having been passed by the House of Commons, and sent up to the House of Lords at least one month before the end of the Session, is not passed by the House of Lords, without amendment within one month after it is so sent up to that House, the Bill shall, unless the House of Commons direct to the contrary, be presented to His Majesty and become an Act of Parliament on the royal assent being signified, notwithstanding that the House of Lords have not consented to the Bill.

(2) A Money Bill means a Bill which in the opinion of the Speaker of the House of Commons contains only provisions dealing with all or any of the following subjects—namely: the imposition, repeal, remission, alteration, or regulation of taxation; charges on the Consolidated Fund; the provision of money by Parliament; the appropriation, control, or regulation of public money; the raising or guarantee of any loan or the repayment thereof; or matters incidental to those subjects or any of them.

(3) When a Bill to which the House of Lords has not consented is presented to His Majesty for assent as a Money Bill, the Bill shall be accompanied by a certificate of the Speaker of the House of Commons that it is a Money Bill.

(4) No amendment shall be allowed

"JUST LIKE PAPA"

Children Glad to Have Their Drink Like Their Parents.

More than any of the old folks realize the little folks at the table like to have food and drink the same as Father and Mother.

Perhaps you can remember the time when a fork-full of the meat or potato or a sip from the cup that your Father or Mother was using seemed to possess some remarkable merit and flavour.

If children can be given a strong nourishing food drink such as Postum, it satisfies their desire to have things like the older folks, and at the same time gives them a drink they love and fatten on.

A lady up in Oakes, N. D., says that since their family have been drinking Postum the children are stronger and better than ever before, and are so glad that they can have "coffee" to drink "just like papa."

The husband and father was taken sick with a very severe attack of stomach trouble and had to give up work, being confined to the house for some weeks, suffering greatly. For some time he had been in the habit of drinking coffee for breakfast, and tea for dinner and supper. The wife writes: "After reading some of your advertisements we wondered if coffee and tea had not been the cause of his sickness."

"We finally decided to have him quit tea and coffee and try Postum. He dates his recovery from the day he commenced to drink Postum, and has not had to stop work from sickness since then."

"Some years ago I tried a package of Postum and did not like it, but I knew now that it was because I did not make it right. It is easy to make good Postum if the simple directions on the package are followed. The only failure is when people do not boil it long enough."

Read "The Road to Wellville," found in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

to a Money Bill which, in the opinion of the Speaker of the House of Commons, is such as to prevent the Bill retaining the character of a Money Bill.

ALL OTHER BILLS.

(1) If any Bill other than a Money Bill is passed by the House of Commons in three successive sessions (whether of the same Parliament or not), and, having been sent up to the House of Lords at least one month before the end of the session, is rejected by the House of Lords in each of these sessions, that Bill shall, on its rejection for the third time by the House of Lords, unless the House of Commons direct to the contrary, be presented to His Majesty and become an Act of Parliament on the royal assent being signified thereto, notwithstanding that the House of Lords has not consented to the Bill: Provided that the provision shall not take effect unless two years have elapsed between the date of the first introduction of the Bill in the House of Commons and the date on which it passes the House of Commons for the third time.

(2) A Bill shall be deemed to be rejected by the House of Lords if it is not passed by the House of Lords either without amendment or with such amendments only as may be agreed to by both Houses.

CHANGES PERMISSIBLE.

(3) A Bill shall be deemed to be the same Bill as a former Bill sent up to the House of Lords in the preceding session if, when it is sent up to the House of Lords, it is identical with the former Bill or contains only such alterations as are certified by the Speaker of the House of Commons to be necessary owing to the time which has elapsed since the date of the former Bill, or to represent amendments which have been made by the House of Lords in the former Bill in the preceding session.

Provided that the House of Commons may, if they think fit, on the passage of such a Bill through the House in the second or third session, suggest any further amendments shall be considered by the House of Lords, and if agreed to by that House shall be treated as amendments made by the House of Lords and agreed to by the House of Commons; but the exercise of this power by the House of Commons shall not affect the operation of this section in the event of the Bill being rejected by the House of Lords.

SPEAKER'S POWERS.

4. Any certificate of the speaker of the House of Commons given under his Act shall be conclusive for all purposes, and shall not be questioned in any court of law.

5. Nothing in this Act shall diminish or qualify the existing rights and privileges of the House of Commons.

6. Five years shall be substituted for seven years as the time fixed for the maximum duration of Parliament under the Septennial Act, 1715.

7. This Act may be cited as the Parliament Act 1910.

They Thought They Were Poets, and Are Angry.

No doubt they thought they were poets. You couldn't blame them, for the generosity of the people allowed them to labor under the delusion.

No one bothered about telling them that they were only rhymers, and day by day they got off their load and felt glad, very glad indeed. People continued to be merciful and they (rhymers) grew more important. Up to this time they were satisfied in giving an account of a troutling excursion in rhyme, or making up a piece about "little Willie," but their modesty vanished and they sauntered out in waters too deep, and like the ancient Clementine they were lost and are now gone for ever as far as the "rhyming" circle is concerned. 'Twas ever thus. From this we learn a lesson, and it is no trouble in this little temper in a tea-pot, outside of "Sunny Jim," who is a born poet, there are no others grumbling, worth losing sleep over.

Shannah simply told the "second eleven" poets that they weren't fit. The public know their worth, and Shannah only gave expression to it. We can enjoy your humorous stuff, boys, enjoy it first rate, but when you get deep of voice you become hoarse, and 'tis hard to understand what you mean.

Keep at the light verse, for practice makes perfect. No one objects to a man trying to be interesting, doing his best to cause a smile to play now and again over the gloomy face; but surely you cannot be displeased with me when I tell you that death has enough terrors already without adding another of flimsy poetry.

Tell your tales of troutling excursions, your country walks, or of the days of your youth; you'll come on after a while, but leave the memorials to Sunny Jim, A. J. W. McN., E. C. and others who know how to handle them.

Amazon Roofing

Leads the list of so-called Rubber Roofings, and leads them in all the qualities that make a perfect Roofing. It has the appearance of Rubber, feels like it and is as thoroughly waterproof; but there the resemblance ends, for AMAZON is made of roofing materials only, and affords a Roof service that no composition of rubber could possibly offer.

ARTIFICIAL HUMAN EYES.

Never since the arrival of the illustrious John Cabot has anybody in Newfoundland attempted to cater to the needs of those who have been unfortunate enough to lose an eye.

WHY,
 Does it mean anything?
RATHER.

It means that hundreds must be kept on hand in order to match all the different sizes, shapes and colors within the range.

I have just received my first shipment of 300

In Greys, Blues and Browns, from these, no doubt, many can be matched. Come along or send and see what we can do for you.
