'Margaret,' The GIRL ARTIST, OR, The Countess of Ferrers Court.

CHAPTER IV.

"Stay!" said the earl; "our quarrel—if it can be called one—is over. You will oblige me by remaining for one night at least. I do not wish it to be said all over the country that we could not exist for twenty-four hours under one roof, as it will be said if you go at once. Stay, if you please."

"If you wish it, sir, certainly," said Lord Blair, not very joyously. "But I'm afraid I shall bore you dreadfully, you know."

"The boring will be mutual, I have no doubt," said the earl grimly. "I may remind you that we need meet only at dinner."

"That's true," said Lord Blair, frankly. "Well, until then, I'll walk round the place."

The earl inclined his head, and rang the bell which stood at his elbow.

"Lord Leyton will remain here tonight," he said to Larkhall, and that exemplary servant, holding the door open for Lord Blair to pass out, hurried off to tell Mr. Stibbings and Mrs. Hale the extraordinary news that the future earl was to sleep at the house which would some day be his own.

Lord Blair had spent a remarkably bad quarter of an hour; but before he had got half way down the broad staircase, with its carved balustrades and magnificent cross panelling, he began to shake off the effects with that wonderful good-humored carelessness which had lost him nearly all his lands and won him so many hearts.

He went down the stairs into the hall and looked round him with a smile, as if his interview had been of the pleasantest description; then he lit a cigar and, with his hat on the back of his head, went out into the warm sunshine.

He walked along the terrace and across the lawns, and then as if by instinct found his way to the stables. And he remarked, and it is worth noting, that he had not—as many a man in his position would have done—given one glance at the magnificent place with the thought that it would some day all be his.

Strange to say, for an heir, he did not wish the earl dead. Blair Leyton hankered after no man's property, not even his uncle's; whatever sins may

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about 82, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 18-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Follow directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough, and also heals the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of pine on the membranes is known by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with quinine and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

have been laid to his charge, he was innocent of that love of money which is the root of all evil.

So without a spark of envy or covetousness or ill-will, he went to the stables and, nodding pleasantly to the head groom, went into the stalls.

Of course the man knew who he was—the news had spread all over the Court in five minutes!—and was respectful, and in a second or two more than that; for Blair's manner was as pleasant with high, low, Jack and the game all round.

"Some good horses," he said. The man shook his head doubtfully.

"Some, my lord," he assented. "But not what they ought to be for so big a place—begging your lordship's pardon. You see his lordship the earl only has the carriage horses—and them only once now and again—and there's nobody to ride. I try to keep 'em up, but a man loses heart like, my lord."

"I understand," said Lord Blair, sympathetically. "It's a pity. Such a fine hunting country."

"Ah, isn't it, my lord!" said the man with a sigh. "If the earl 'ud only take the hounds—but there"—and he sighed again.

Lord Blair went up to a big black horse and smacked him, a little attention which the animal responded to by launching out viciously.

"Nice nag!" said Lord Blair, approvingly.

"All but his temper, my lord," said the man. "He's as crooked-minded a hoss as ever I see."

Lord Blair laughed.

"He's straight enough in other ways," he said. "Put a saddle on him and I'll take a turn."

The man hesitated a second.

"He's an awkward one to ride, my lord," he ventured.

"So I should think," said the young man, cheerfully; "but I like them awkward."

The horse was saddled and brought out, and immediately commenced to verify the character bestowed upon him.

"Ill-tempered dev—beast, I'll take him back, my lord," said the groom; but, with a laugh, Lord Blair got into the saddle, and as the horse reared brought him down in so neat a style that the groom's misgivings fled.

"All right, my lord," he said, with an approving nod.

"Yes, it's all right," said the young man, with another laugh. "He's rather hot just at present, but he'll come back like a lamb, and I shall be hot, I expect," and off he rode.

"There," said the groom to a circle of his helpers, "that's my idea of a young nobleman! There'd be some pleasure and credit in keeping a stable for him."

"What a pity he's such a bad young man," murmured a maid-servant, who had crept out to look on.

"He may be a bad young man," retorted the groom sententiously, "but he's a darned good rider."

"He's dreadfully handsome," said the girl, with a little sigh, as she ran in again, and they unconsciously expressed the general opinion of the two sexes of Blair, Viscount Leyton.

The announcement that the young lord was to remain the night at the Court threw Mrs. Hale into a state of excitement.

"I must see Mr. Stibbings about the lunch and dinner at once, and there's the room to prepare. I shall have to leave you to yourself to-day, my dear," she said to Margaret. "Bless me, if I'd only had an hour or two's notice I could have got something nice for dinner. The earl doesn't care what it is, and often sends the things away untouched; but a young man from London, and used to the dinners they get there at the London clubs, is very different."

"Don't mind me, grandma," said Margaret. "I suppose I can't help you at all!"

"You?—Good gracious me, no!" said the old lady quite pityingly. "Then I'll get my hat and go into the garden," said Margaret.

"Do, my dear; but keep this side of the house, mind, and do not go in front of the earl's windows."

"Very well; I'll take care," laughed Margaret. "I suppose if the earl should happen to catch sight of me twice in one day it would be fatal!—or would he only have a fit?" But Mrs. Hale, fortunately for her, did not hear this.

Margaret went into the garden, and carefully kept out of sight of the great windows. She was very happy, and now and again she would break into song. The garden attached to this wing was a large one, and filled with flowers, and when she came in to lunch she had a large bunch of roses and hellebore and pinks in her hand.

"There was no notice—Do not pick the flowers!" grandma. I hope I haven't been very wicked!"

"No, no, my dear," said Mrs. Hale, who was in a fine state of flurry. "What a beautiful bouquet you have got!"

"Isn't it?" said Margaret, pinning a red rose in the bosom of her dress. "Where shall I put these?" and she looked round for a vase.

"Anywhere you like, my dear. Oh, Margaret, how nice they would be in Lord Leyton's room! It would make it seem more homely like; do what you will, a room that hasn't been used for months does look cold and formal."

"Doesn't it?" agreed Margaret. "And there is nothing like flowers to take off that effect. His lordship is welcome to them; so there they are, grandma."

"Yes, thank you," said Mrs. Hale, hurriedly. "I'll ring for Mary, unless you wouldn't mind running up with them; you'll arrange them decently, while she'll just throw them into a vase."

"Very well. Show me the way, Mary, to Lord Leyton's room," said Margaret as Mary entered.

Mrs. Hale had given him one of the best rooms in the house, and Margaret, who had never seen such an apartment, was lost in admiration of the silken hangings, which stood in place of paper on the walls, and the old and priceless furniture.

She arranged the flowers in a deep glass dish, and placed it on the spacious dressing table.

"His lordship ought to be pleased, miss," said Mary, shyly, as they were leaving the room.

Margaret laughed.

"I daresay he will think them very much in the way and throw them out of the window. I hope he won't throw dish and all," she said.

As she entered Mrs. Hale's sitting-room, she saw Mr. Stibbings approaching.

"I have been looking for you, miss," he said. "I have had a table put in the gallery, as his lordship directed, and his compliments, would you like any blinds put to the windows to shade the light?"

"Grandma, he did mean it, after all," said Margaret, delightedly.

"How kind? Oh, thank him, Mr. Stibbings! No, nothing more. I've got a portable case and everything, and the light will do very well. Grandma, I may go now?"

"Yes, I suppose so," said the old lady, absently; "but mind, dear, if you hear the earl coming, you must get up and go away at once."

"Very well," said Margaret, with a smile, and she ran up and got her folding easel and painting materials. Mr. Stibbings wanted to place a footman at her disposal, but she laughingly declined, and with her impudent under her arm, and her paint-box in her hand, she made her way after lunch to the gallery.

"In the future, when I hear any one remark—as proud as a lord, I shall correct them and say—'kind as a lord,'" she said to herself. With all the eagerness of a artist she set up her easel before the picture and commenced at once; and in a few minutes she had become absorbed in her work, and was lost to everything save the burning desire to catch something of the spirit of the great original she was copying.

"It is almost wicked to be so great," she murmured. "How can I do more than like you, you beautiful face?"

The afternoon glided on unnoticed by her. She heard a great bell booming overhead in a solemn fashion, but she gave it no attention beyond the thought, "the dinner or dressing bell," and went on with her copy.

She was so absorbed that she did not hear some one who had entered the gallery, and it was not until the some one stood close beside her that she knew of his presence.

With a start she looked up, and for a moment saw nothing but a handsome young man in evening dress.

His beauty of the manliest type—gave her a pleasant sensation—she was an artist, remember—but the next moment she recognized him.

It was the young man whom she had called a savage, the gentleman who had fought Jem Pyke. Her eyes grew wide and her lips opened, and she sat and stared at him.

As for him, his astonishment equalled and surpassed hers. He had seen her back as he was passing the door of the gallery, and being unable to resist the temptation to ascertain what the face belonging to so graceful a figure was like, he had entered and softly approached her.

Margaret was a beautiful girl, but she was never lovelier than when under the spell which falls upon an artist absorbed in her work.

The clear, oval face grew dreamy, the large eyes softer and mystical, the red lips sweeten with suggestiveness.

It was the loveliness of the face as well as the recognition of it which struck him—Blair Leyton, of all men—dumb and motionless.

They looked into each other's eyes while one could count fifty, then, with an embarrassment quite novel, he spoke.

"I've disturbed you?"

"No," said Margaret, and the word sounded blunt and cold in his ears. Who could he be, and how did he come here? Yesterday, fighting on the village green, this evening at Leyton Court. Then it flashed upon her: it was Lord Leyton! "No, I didn't hear you," she added.

The Eastern Trust Company.

A few reasons why an estate can be better administered by the Eastern Trust Company than by a personal executor or administrator:—

1. The Company affords the estate absolute security; it has a paid-up capital of $831,000.00, and a reserve fund of $229,500.00.
2. It has a long experience in the work of administering estates; it is incorporated in this business of acting as a trustee, and, unlike many other trust companies, it does no other.
3. Its existence is perpetual. Your estate, in the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, must look around for a substitute, and the work of administration is impeded during that time, and the new executor is unfamiliar with the policy of his predecessor, and confusion results. This company's existence is perpetual, and there is a continuity of policy in its administration that the death of its officers does not break.
4. It possesses the confidence of governments, universities and prominent charities and administers their funds.
5. A number of other advantages which will appear in due course.

liver action.
When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are tak-

well.
Quite unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary reand thus permanent cures are effected.

from the headache, bad stomach or

Mr. Edwin Murray Visits Wands- worth Hospital

AND MEETS OUR BOYS.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I had the pleasure recently of visiting the 3rd General Hospital, London, where some of our boys are, and I thought a short description of my visit might interest your readers. Wandsworth is one of the suburbs of London about four miles out and is easily reached by underground and surface railways in about twenty minutes. After arriving at the station one has a walk of about a mile to the Hospital over Wandsworth common, nicely laid out in walks and artificial sheets of water and shrubbery and in the spring and summer it must be a delightful spot. The hospital itself is an immense building of considerable architectural beauty surrounded by fields and shrubs which in this country remain green all the year round, and is capable of accommodating 1,500 patients, but since the war its capacity has been greatly extended by the addition of temporary wards so I suppose 2,000 at least can be provided for.
The different wards are separated by long aisles from each other and it takes a long time consequently to get about and as only two hours are allowed for a visit one really cannot see and talk to many in the time, and of course many are round about the building and grounds and so hard to get at. My wife and I had a very pleasant chat with Lieut. Cyril Harper who was very cheerful and happy notwithstanding his long time in hospital, and also had a chat with Messrs. Hutchings, Clouston, Oke, Moore and several men from Trinity and other places whose names I cannot now remember. They all looked fat and jolly and were pleased to see some Newfoundland faces; they seemed to be very comfortable in every way and had the best of food and attendance. Many had been discharged as cured and the others were looking forward to getting out in a short while. It gave us much pleasure to see them and to hear of their experiences and welfare. It was also very enjoyable to chat with the boys at the Newfoundland Pay and Record Office and to hear from them the good records our men had "in the face of the enemy." It is very interesting to see cool under fire and showed much resource and bravery in action. They were given the place of honour in the retreat from Suvla and Anzac and held the ground, while the troops embarked. This was good hearing and made one proud of one's fellow countrymen.

New Purchase.

We understand that Messrs. Baine, Johnston & Coy., have purchased a new vessel in Lunenburg. She will be used in the foreign fish carrying trade. Capt. George Hearn, late of the ill-fated Idalia, is going in command of her and leaves for the Nova Scotian port shortly to bring the new purchase here.

TO DRESS APPROPRIATELY.
The simple tailored lines in quiet colors can make of a woman who is no longer slender, a pretty fair rival for her more fortunate sisters of sylph like tendencies. If you are short and thick and attempt to wear things designed for a spineless, boneless, chestless woman, you do an injustice not only to yourself, but to the whole of the feminine world.

There are, of course, any number of women who know how to dress, who know just what colors are best suited to them and the type of clothes they look best in, and they rigidly adhere to these lines and proportions. You can't look stunning in clothes designed for a type entirely different from yours.

For instance, if your ankles are not at all your skirts should not be too short, nor should you wear light skirts or light topped shoes. Wear a skirt of reasonable length and an inconspicuous but good looking shoe and you will hide the fact that your ankles are not as trim as those of a girl who can wear light topped shoes and short skirts becomingly.

The wide and bitowly skirt, flounced and beruffled, is charming on the tall, thin girl. It breaks her height and gives her just the fullness she requires. Put that same skirt on a short thick woman and she looks only ridiculous. So it is with large patterned goods. Huge flowers and plaids if worn at all should only be worn by tall and slender women. Put a huge plaid girdle, or one that is horizontally circled on a heavy woman and you lose her waist line almost completely.

Temptation lies, too, behind the well counter, so don't fall for the curtain veil if you are fat. It cuts your height and adds breadth. The difference between a woman of stoutness who is not smart and one who simply uses common sense is that the smart one uses her mirror, has no illusions and is made happier and more beautiful thereby.

My England.

(By William Winter, in the "Times,"
New York.)

My England! Not my native land,
But dear to me as if she were,—
How often have I longed to stand With those brave hearts who fight for her!

Beneath Fortuna, worn with Age,
My life is all I have to give,
But freely would that life engage
For those who die that she may live.

Mother of Freedom! Pledged to Right!
From Honor's path she would not stray,
But, sternly faithful, used her might
To lead mankind the nobler way.

Her task was hard, her burden great,
But round the world her edict ran
That feared and ruled a Sovereign
State,
Securely, on the Rights of Man.

No vandal foot should tread her land,
No despot hold her realm in awe;
The humblest peasant should command
The shelter of her righteous law.

In vain her lion port was braved!
Her pennant streamed o'er ev'ry sea,
And whoso'er her ensign waved
All fetters fell and Man was free.

To-day he all her faults forgot,—
The errors of her nascent prime,
Or wily politician's plot,
Or blunder that was almost crime.

To-day, when desperate tyrants strain,
By Greed, and Fear, and Hate combined,—
To blast her power and rend her reign,
She fights the fight of all mankind:

She fights for us,—for this fair clime,
Our home beloved, where freemen dwell,
Columbia, grandest born of Time,
That Teuton malice burns to quell.

My England! should the hope be lost
In which she taught the world to strive,
Then all the Virtue would be lost
And naught of Manhood left alive.

But 'tis not in the Book of Doom That Justice, Honor, Truth, should fall,
That earth be made a living tomb,
And only brutal Wrong prevail.

It cannot be the human race,
Long struggling up to Freedom's
sun,
Is destined to the abject place
Of vassal to the murd'rous Hun!

In ev'ry land that knows the ills
Of Bondage, and has borne its aches,
The deathless pulse of Freedom thrills
And Reason's noble rage awakes.

See splendid Italy advancing,
And grimly issuing from his lair,
To grasp the hand of glorious French, Stalk forth th' intrepid Russian bear!

My England!—patient, valiant, true!
Nor foes without, nor frauds within
Will shake her purpose to subdue,
The cohorts of embattled sin;

The swinish horde, the gilded beasts,
In whom no touch of ruth survives,
Who ravish women, murder priests,
And strew the sea with infant lives;

The Lords of War, who kill and maim,
Exultant, while their people groan; Steeping themselves in crime and shame,
To keep a despot on his throne;—

That pigmy, to whose wildered brain
Himself in Attila appears,
Who takes the name of God in vain,
And drowns the earth in blood and tears!

My England, strike! Droop not, nor pause,
Till triumph on your banners shine!
Then take a grateful world's applause,
Millions of hearts that beat like mine.

Recruiting in Electoral Districts.

The table of the number of men who have joined the Naval Reserve or the Regiment which we published yesterday, gives the figures according to electoral districts, but these districts vary very considerably in population. At the last census, in 1911, Carbonear had a population of 5,114, as against St. John's 45,685. It is clear that we must take the size of the population into account when considering the number of men who have enlisted in the army or navy from these districts. In order to find out how the districts have done in relation to one another we have divided the population according to last census by the number of men now serving the King in the Newfoundland sea and land forces. This gives us an average of the number of people in each district it takes to provide one soldier or sailor for the King.

The table of honourable precedence comes out as follows:—

Elec. Districts	Fighter	People
St. John's	One out of 36
Trinity Bay	One out of 55
St. George's	One out of 63
Hf. Grace	One out of 72
Bonavista Bay	One out of 85
St. Barbe	One out of 88
Hf. Main	One out of 90
Terrington	One out of 95
Fogo	One out of 99
Carbonear	One out of 134
Ferryland	One out of 165
Burn	One out of 176
Fortune Bay	One out of 212
Burgeo & LaPoile	One out of 216
Bay de Verde	One out of 329

This table of honourable precedence emphasizes as we have many times mentioned the need of bringing before the young men of the different districts a knowledge of their duty. The need is greater in some districts than in others. Where recruiting is low, we believe the opportunities of learning and knowing their duties to King and Country are lacking and the distribution of recruiting numbers of the daily papers is to bring home these duties to young men and to their parents.

Harbor Buffett's Patriotic Effort.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Let me use the columns of your paper to show that the people of this place are not behind in helping to provide the necessary articles for our soldiers and sailors who are fighting that they may live in peace and righteousness. A basket sale was held here at the Buffett Hall, on Tuesday night, Feb. 29th. The women provided the baskets gratis, in number about thirty. Rev. A. Shorter opened the sale with a short address, in which he explained to the people the reason for getting up the sale, and asked them all to try and do their best. At first it was thought that owing to such a small gathering there wouldn't be much money raised. But to our surprise we found at the end of the auctioning, we had made the handsome sum of one hundred and twelve dollars. Some baskets which were worth 25 cents went for the sum of fourteen dollars. This seems an enormous profit, but the people had all realized the necessity of providing our fighting boys with the proper equipment, and were willing to do so at any cost. Thirty dollars of this sum is going to buy wool for the soldiers, the remainder is going to the Patriotic Fund. Much thanks are due to the members of the hall, who gave it free as well as providing it with fuel. Thanking you for the space, I am, Yours truly,

W. H. HATCHER,

McMurdo's Store News

TUESDAY, March 14th, 1916.

Our full stock of Messrs. Sutton's Seeds which arrived by the "Tabasco" is now in course of being unpacked, and will be available for sale in a day or two. In the meantime our Seed Catalogue is in the printers hands, and will be ready very shortly. Though to some it might seem a trifle early to talk about seeds for the coming season, we would remind those and others that Sutton's Seeds are every year in greater demand, and that the quality of these seeds is what we stand on, and Messrs. Sutton's claim that their seeds surpass all others in fertility and in the size and perfection of individual vegetables becomes more clearly established every season. Send your name and address on a post card, and we will send you our catalogue post free.

Dr. H. Tait attending Nfld. Wounded and Sick

Charlie White, formerly purser of the S. S. Portia and now of the Newfoundland Regiment and the biggest and heaviest man who left with the First Contingent, is now in London recovering from his serious illness. Writing to friends in the city by last English mail he intimates that while at Malta he was attended by Dr. Harold Tait and he pays a tribute to the skill and ability of that physician whose work among the wounded and sick is spoken highly of. The numerous friends of Charlie White will be glad to know that he is on the mending hand, and St. John's folks will be equally pleased to hear that Dr. H. Tait is doing well.

The Distinguished Conduct Medal.

We had the privilege this morning of seeing the Distinguished Conduct Medal which have been awarded to Sergeant W. W. Green and Private G. G. Hynes, of the 1st Battalion of the Newfoundland Regiment. They are large sized silver discs, somewhat the size of an English crown piece. On the front is impressed the words: "For Distinguished Conduct in the Field."

and on the reverse a picture of the King, and round it, "Georgius V. Britt. Omn. Rex et Imperator. The medal hangs from a silver brooch to which it is attached by a cardinal ribbon with a dark blue stripe down the centre. The medals were sent out to the Newfoundland Regimental Record Office in St. John's and were shown to us by the courtesy of Mr. Howley.

Committed for Trial.

The enquiry into the casting away of the schooner Birch Hill and for which John Mahoney, Sr., James Mahoney, William Day, John Mahoney Jr. and Patrick Hyde were charged, finished yesterday afternoon before Mr. F. J. Morris, K. C. James Mahoney, Jr., was discharged, Patrick Hyde, Wm. Day and John Mahoney, Sr. pleaded "guilty" and James Mahoney pleaded "not guilty." These four men were committed for trial to the Supreme Court and will be arranged before the Grand Jury in the course of a few days.

FINAL PICTURE OF THE GODDESS

The presentation of the final chapter of "The Goddess" at the Nickel Theatre yesterday drew large audiences at each session. This pretty story is one of the most attractive ever produced for the movies, and everyone in St. John's who is fond of moving pictures has been pleased with the style and action of this grand picture. The final chapter is one of the best. It will be repeated to-day and we advise all who were unable to attend yesterday to go and see it, that they will be delighted with it there's no doubt. The other pictures are also well worth seeing. To-morrow there will be another grand bill including "The Exploits of Elaine." Big holiday show on Friday.

CENSORING MAILS.

LONDON, To-day. While maintaining right to censor all mails which by coming through England enjoy the facilities of the English postal system the British Government does not undertake to examine first class mails, seized on neutral steamers for anything except possible merchandise. While not even in case of Dutch liners which call voluntarily at Falmouth has the Government yet asserted a right of censorship, although the officials of the Foreign Office feel that much can be said in favour of Britain's rights to censor these mails. It is declared the above expresses the attitude of the Foreign Office which states that an examination of mails in transit has been more than justified by results, as traders of hostile belligerent nations were not hesitating to use British postal facilities to forward their plans.

$2,000,000 SECURITIES SEIZED.

LONDON, To-day. Securities valued at $2,000,000, suspected of being of German ownership were seized from mails in transit and are now in possession of the Prize Court. According to an announcement yesterday of the Foreign Office, securities have not yet been declared absolute contraband but possibly they will soon be placed on the contraband list. Meanwhile the seizures are continued to be made on the ground that under Orders in Council these securities establish credit for hostile belligerents and, therefore, can be legally held up.

SMUTS' SPIRITED ENGAGEMENT.

LONDON, To-day. British forces under Lieut. General Smuts, recently appointed to the East African command, have had a spirited engagement with Germans, entrenched in the Kitovo Hills west of Taveta. The positions were taken and retaken several times. Finally the Germans were driven back. General Smuts under date March 12th telegraphs the War Office a brief description of the action, the substance of which was given out to-night as follows: The action which was commenced on the morning of March 11 against a German prepared position in the Kitovo Hills, German East Africa, westward of Taveta, resulted in a most obstinate struggle, continuing until midnight with varying fortune. The most formidable obstacle was presented by the densely wooded steep hills held by a strong force of the enemy. In the course of the engagement, portions of this position were taken and retaken several times. A final bayonet attack by two columns of South African Infantry secured a hold, which enabled them to maintain the position, until reinforced the following morning, when it was seen the German native troops were retreating towards Kiba to the southwestward; while the engagement at Kitovo was proceeding the German Smuts' mounted brigades was engaged clearing the enemy's forces from the foothills to the northeast of Kitmanjaro. These having been cut off from the main body by the rapid British advance of March 8-9 and 10. Movements are now in progress to bar the retreat of these isolated in the forest to the westward. Simultaneously with these actions a strong column under General Stewart, coming from the direction of Longido appeared at Arusha Mushi road in the rear of the German concentrations, the enemy consequently retreating southward.

WANTS GENERAL LONG BACK IN CHARGE.

LONDON, To-day. All the morning newspapers express the regret over the resignation of Major General Long, Director of Supplies and Transport of the British Army. All editorials this morning demand that unless there is something behind the resignation which makes acceptance imperative, the acceptance be revoked and that Long be reinstated in control of the Department, which from nothing he has brought up to velous efficiency.

THE WAR BUDGET.

LONDON, To-day. Switching their activity from east to northwest of Verdun, the Germans are again hammering at Le Mort Homme, in the region of Bia Bourras, in an endeavor to bring their line further south on the western flank of the fortresses. To the east of the Meuse and in Woerze district there has been a noticeable let-up in the bombardments on both sides. Infantry everywhere on the Verdun front has been inactive. In a line with the bombardment of Le Mort Homme and Nols Bourras the Germans are assembling men in the region between Forges and Bois des Corbeaux, probably with the intention of throwing them into the fray, should the intense bombardment meet with success. The French artillery, however, have this assembling point under the fire of their guns. No advantage is claimed by either side in the latest fighting around the fortresses. Back of the German line north of Verdun a French air squadron has dropped 130 bombs on the station at Briulletes, and on numerous points around Verdun French and German aviators have met in combats in the air with advantage incontestably in favor of the French. According to Paris at least three German aeroplanes are declared to have been brought down, while others were seen by French observers to have been in distress. In the region of Sappes, Upper Alsace, the Germans essayed an attack on trenches the French had captured, but were repulsed with considerable casualties. French guns have done damage to German positions north of Alsace, in Champagne and in the eastern portion of the forest of Argonne. In northwest Russia, around Riga, Ikskul districts on the Jacobstadt sector, there have been violent artillery duels, and in Galicia, southeast of Kolk, along the middle Stripa River, the Russians have been successful in small engagements with the Teutons. In the coastal region of the Caucasus front the Russians are still driving the Turks before them.

MANITOBA GOES DRY.

WINNIPEG, Man., To-day. By a vote of a little over two to one the Province of Manitoba voted to-day in favor of the Manitoba Temperance Act, which closes all bars, wholesale licenses and club licenses throughout the Province from June 1 next. Liquor may still be imported by private persons from outside the Province and the manufacture of liquor in the Province for export is still permitted. These are constitutional limitations placed on the Province. Legislation along this line by Federal authorities to remove these limitations at a mass meeting of citizens last night amid great enthusiasm was endorsed and a resolution calling on Sir Robert Borden and his Government at Ottawa to introduce a Dominion wide Prohibition Act.

NOON.

BETTING ON END OF WAR.

LONDON, To-day. British bankers see signs of impending German collapse in the fall of the mark. The financial difficulties of the Teutons are being watched with interest here, and a crisis in German finance is confidently expected. The French defence of Verdun leads to the belief that the war will end this year. The betting at Lloyds is one to two that hostilities will cease in July or August. General opinion favours next winter.

Recruiting.

"Out of the Mouths of Babes and Sucklings." A fourteen year old St. John's boy at school in Canada, writes "Are there any recruiting sergeants in St. John's? There certainly ought to be. In Toronto and all over Canada a man of military height and age can't show his face without being besieged by Recruiting Sergeants. Canada has done splendidly, better than I'd even though I say it myself—271,000 soldiers have been recruited. They have big recruiting meetings all over Canada all the time. Newfoundland ought to get a move on and get it quick, too."

URGENT PROBLEMS.

LONDON, To-day. The Coalition Ministry will face two very urgent problems in the debate on the army estimates, which begins in the Commons to-day. Both questions have become matters of greatest public interest within the last few days. The first problem is that of married men under enlistment who are holding meetings all over the country to protest against the manner in which the Compulsory Military Service law is being carried out. The second is the Air Defence problem which has been given fresh prominence by the remarkable victory of Pemberton Billing, in his election to Commons over the United forces of the Coalition on a platform demanding a sweeping change in the Air Defence of England.

Mr. F. G. Bradley Lectures

To Cochrane St. Epworth League. The regular session of Cochrane St. Epworth League was held last evening in the Primary Department of the new Sunday School building. Mr. F. G. Bradley, LL.B., delivered a lecture on "Neutrality," and for over an hour treated the audience to a discourse that was well worth hearing.

Mr. Bradley divided his subject into several divisions, laws of neutrality, blockade, and contraband. These divisions were also sub-divided into different parts, and in explaining their meaning, the lecturer quoted incidents that happened in different wars that occurred the past century. Such cases of capturing neutral vessels running blockade, and carrying goods to other neutral countries with other intentions, and capturing vessels carrying contraband, also prize Declaration of London and of Paris were all fully explained. Judging from last evening's lecture Mr. Bradley will rank as one of our foremost platform speakers. At the close the Pastor moved a vote of thanks which was carried by acclamation. Miss Vincent and Mr. Hatcher also contributed patriotic solos which added to the success of the meeting.

Detectives Busy.

MAKE ARRESTS FOR EMBEZZLEMENT, LARCENY AND INDECENT ASSAULT ON A LITTLE GIRL.

Within recent months the police have had their hands full working on larcenies, burglaries and other cases reported to them. Last evening they arrested under warrant a 28-year-old clerk, charging him with embezzlement of a quantity of goods valued at $1.50 and the property of Monroe & Co., where the accused was employed. On Saturday last he sold a piece of beef and a bushel of oats to another employee and never gave any returns for the goods. He was convicted to-day before Judge Hutchings and fined $10 or 30 days.

Last night two boys, aged 10 and 15 years, respectively, were arrested for the larceny of a quantity of copper tubing, a pair brass tops, 27 thumb screws, valued at $20, the property of the Fishermen's Union Trading Co. Both were sentenced to-day. The oldest lad was sentenced to two months, without a fine and the youngest fined $10 or 30 days.

A 29-year-old blacksmith was also arrested last night, charged with indecently assaulting and ill-treating a 8-year-old girl on the 11th inst. The case will be heard in camera this afternoon.

The Rossley Co.

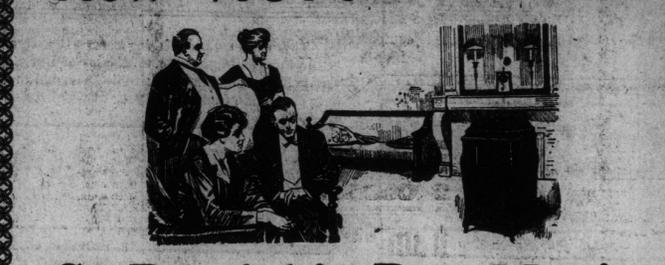

The Rossley Pantomime Company which was booked into Pictou, N.S., made so great a hit that they have been booked solid for several weeks in various theatres opening next week in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, followed by New Glasgow. The Rev. Father Le Coste, Catholic Priest of Pictou, visited the Company at the Stanley Hotel where they were staying during their engagement. Mrs. Rossley introduced here pupils to him and he shook each girl by the hand.

One of the girls by the name of Barron sang a patriotic song for the Priest who complimented the Rossleys and said the girls were under splendid supervision. They all went to Confession and attended Holy Communion. They were also asked to visit the nuns. The youngest member of the Rossley's Pantomime Co. is twelve years and the eldest twenty-two. They are all happy and looking well and eager for their work, and are being carefully trained by the Rossleys in a profession they can be proud of. At the Pictou Opera House where this splendid Co. is now appearing there is a great military night under the patronage of Major Mahomet and Officers of the 10th Regiment. Capt. Welford Macdonald and Capt. Arthur McKay will occupy the stage for a few minutes for recruiting purposes. The marching song of the 8th regiment will be sung by Miss Bonnie Rossley and Co.

Four of the popular songs hits that have been sung by the company will be sold for the benefit of the Red Cross.—March 9, 1916.

A Most Extraordinary Cure of Epileptic Fits

Wisher Had Appealed to Three Doctors in Van—Cured Four Months Ago by Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This letter from Mrs. Nozel is endorsed by Mr. H. J. Mahaffy, druggist, Port Colborne, Ont., as being true and correct. While it reports a most remarkable cure of epileptic fits by use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, it only goes to corroborate similar cures reported by others.

Mrs. Henrietta M. Nozel, R. R. No. 1, Humberstone, Ont., writes: "I cannot help writing to you, as I want you to know what a blessing Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills have been to my boy. He was taken with very violent fits, would twitch all over, his eyes would turn towards his nose, his jaws set and his lips turn almost purple. He would clench his fists tightly, become unconscious and then go into a long sleep. After several hours he would wake up sighing and so weak he could not stand. I was afraid he would die and took him to the doctor, who pronounced his case epilepsy. As his medicine was not effective and the fits continued, I took him to another doctor at Point-ville, but his medicine seemed to make him worse.

"As the boy's nerves were in such a state that he could not sit down or lie down, and the fits continued, I took him to a third doctor, who said

WASHINGTON, March 13. President Wilson told a delegation of Scandinavians to-day that nothing was nearer his heart than keeping the United States out of the war. He assured the leaders of the delegation that his efforts on behalf of peace had been strongly approved throughout the country.

COLUMBUS, N.Y., March 13. Actual concentration of United States troops for the expedition into Mexico to try to capture Francisco Villa, was begun to-day. Villa with but a small body of men, is reported here, is fleeing further from the United States border.

ACCEPTS CARRANZA'S PROPOSAL.

WASHINGTON, March 13. The United States this afternoon accepted General Carranza's proposal for reciprocity arrangement, by which either his troops or American troops may pursue bandits on either side of the border. The note of acceptance was sent forward to General Carranza at Queretro.

ARMS AND AMMUNITION FOR CARRANZA.

NEW YORK, March 13. A large quantity of small arms and ammunitions has recently been shipped from this port for Mexico in the steamer Esperanza, which left here for Vera Cruz last Thursday, carrying 600,000 rounds of rifle ammunition for the Carranza Government. The steamer reached Havana to-day, and is due at Vera Cruz on Thursday. The steamer's officials said that they had received no orders from the States Government relative to shipment of arms or ammunition. They said in all probability the shipment could not be stopped, once the Esperanza reached Mexican waters.

DENIES HUMOR.

COPENHAGEN, March 13. The Danish Foreign Office denies the rumor that Germany offered $2,000,000 for the Danish West Indies. The American Minister, Dr. Maurice Egan, has also taken occasion to say that there is not the slightest foundation for this report. In the opinion of the Danish Government the value of the Islands has greatly increased since the opening of the Panama Canal, and the sum suggested would be regarded as entirely inadequate. A semi-official news agency from Berlin on Feb. 21, characterized it as a nonsensical story that Germany had attempted to obtain control of the Danish West Indies.

ACTIVITY OF ARTILLERY.

DOGS--The Greyhound

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Siwash." The greyhound is a slim, elegant beast with Chippendale legs and a waist that would make a French cheflet of coil springs. He is built for his speed, having little weight and wind resistance. A greyhound will project himself from hither to yonder faster than any other style of dog, but is singularly devoid of business when he arrives. In this he resembles the aeroplane, which can travel from New York to San Francisco in two months at a rate of ninety miles an hour and arrive in ample time to be shipped back.

Greyhounds flourish mostly in poetry and picture-books and are not a familiar object on the landscape, except in England, where they are used extensively for decorative purposes. From all pictorial information which we can gather, the chief object of this celebrated dog is to provide a resting place, with his long needle-like head, for some beautiful lady's hand. The fact that no greyhound has been trained to act as a messenger boy or a pipe cleaner, leads to the suspicion that there is no place in the animal's sparse and economical body large enough to stow a brain of working size.

In the west the greyhound is sometimes used for chasing jack rabbits. His success can be estimated from the fact that these animals have been multiplied until they can be rounded up in droves of 10,000 and killed with clubs. A greyhound can run as fast as an ordinary John rabbit, but when the latter begins to dodge and evade the issue, the brow of the noble dog becomes corrugated with perplexity and he soon retires with a headache.

They greyhound makes a fine family pet, and has no bad habits, living an eminently respectable life. If a greyhound is fed lightly on pine needles and spaghetti and is bundled up in an old umbrella-cover during cold weather, he will remain slim and beautiful for many years, provided he doesn't step in a rat-hole and break one of his delicate legs.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, March 13.

At Verdun, fighting, frequently desperate, is continued. The enemy attacked west of the Meuse from the north, and in Woerze is making some progress at certain points. His losses are very heavy. There is nothing special on the British front.

Germany has declared war on Portugal.

In Asia Minor the Russians are advancing to the coast, and are within thirty miles of Trebizond. They have also occupied Coia, thirty miles west of Kermanshah.

The British destroyer Coquett, torpedo boat 11, and the fleet auxiliary Havette, struck mines and sunk on the east coast. Six officers and fifty-three men were lost.

After preliminary successes, General Smuts forces have, after obstinate fighting, driven the enemy's forces from prepared positions on Kitvor Hills. The pursuit continues southwards towards Usambara railway.

The enemy's position was attacked at Esauin, seven miles east of Kut-el-Amara, but the enemy were not dislodged, though they suffered severe losses.

REPORTED FIGHTING IN GERMAN CITIES.

NEW YORK, March 13. A cable to the Tribune from London this morning says that reports continue to be published here of fighting in German cities, consequent upon the failure of the Crown Prince's army before Verdun.

IN ALBANIA.

BERNE, March 13. A correspondent of the Berno Bund at the Austrian headquarters in Albania, telegraphs that the Austrians have advanced far southward, since their capture of Durazzo. The Italians and Albanians are retiring on Avlona, and blowing up the railway

NO, JONES, I WASN'T SATISFIED WITH THAT BARBER YOU RECOMMENDED. YOU SEE, DURING THE COURSE OF A WAR ARGUMENT HE FORGOT ALL ABOUT THE SHAVE I ASKED FOR AND GAVE ME A FACE MASSAGE INSTEAD!

BUT THIS IS HOW HE DID IT

Are you using WINDSOR Table Salt? It's the best the Grocer has.

Household Notes.

A toy iron is useful in ironing baby clothes. Cornmeal is excellent for waffles and girdle cakes. Young turkeys have smooth black legs and short spurs. Successful cake baking is the result of constant care. Honey should be reckoned as food and not merely a confection. Whole wheat bread is always best made up in very small loaves. Whole potatoes or onions will last longer if kept in a wire basket. A straight, wide-mouthed pitcher is excellent for beating eggs in. Fried clams on toast are a very good dish for a summer luncheon. When one undergarment of a set wears out, save it to patch the others. Put a pinch of salt in the starch. It will prevent the irons from sticking. WINDSOR'S LINIMENT FOR SALLS. WINDSOR'S LINIMENT FOR SALLS.

The daily meals should be set with as much care for one member of the household as for the entire family. else the servants will grow careless. If the fatirons are to be put away for some time, they should be rubbed on the bottom, when slightly warm, with a mixture of vaseline and sweet oil. Children love to be in the kitchen and they should be allowed to come in, for in this way they unconsciously learn much about foods and their preparation.

The Governor at Botwood.

Botwood was honoured yesterday with a visit from His Excellency the Governor Sir Walter E. and Lady Davidson. The train from Grand Falls with the A. N. D. Co.'s private car reached Botwood shortly after noon. The Magistrate, H. Burt, Esq., and Capt. Storm with others were present to welcome them and members of the Orange Society and S. A. Bands had assembled and as His Excellency and Lady Davidson with Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, of the A. N. D. Co.'s staff of Grand Falls, who accompanied them, left the train the band played God Save the King. After the usual introductions His Excellency briefly addressed the members of the band. After this the band playing popular airs led the way to Capt. Storm's residence where the Governor and Lady Davidson were entertained. It was not known until late the previous evening what was to be the arrangements. A meeting in the Orange Hall at 3 o'clock in the afternoon was planned and notwithstanding the brief notice a large representative gathering filled the hall. Mr. Thomas A. Chairman of the Patriotic Association presided at the meeting. On the platform besides His Excellency and Lady Davidson were members of the P. A. and W. P. A. The Chairman briefly addressed the meeting expressing regret that on account of receiving such short notice they had not made better arrangements for the reception of His Excellency and Lady Davidson whom they were glad to welcome to Botwood. He then called upon Harry Burt, Esq., Stipendiary Magistrate, to read an address. After which he gave the list of volunteers from Botwood also the list of amounts subscribed. He expressed a wish that he was 40 years younger that he might be a soldier of the King. The Chairman then called upon His Excellency to address the meeting. In a very clear and forcible manner His Excellency referred to the great struggle in which the Empire is engaged. The great principles at stake were emphasized and the way the Nation had risen as one man was beautifully described so as to call forth loud applause. He expressed his great pleasure at the noble response Newfoundland had made with other of the sister Colonies. At the beginning of the war he had ventured the opinion that Newfoundland would raise 500 volunteers and it was now likely to be 5,000. He referred to the noble response of Canada and Australia. He left no doubt upon the minds of his audience as to the ultimate triumph of our cause. In a very touching manner he referred to the after effects of the war when the sons of Terra Nova would return wearing not only honourable scars but medals for distinguished service. It is impossible to do justice to the address which was greatly enjoyed and applauded again and again. In conclusion His Excellency most heartily congratulated the people of Botwood and the surrounding places for what they had so generously contributed of men, material and money.

In the absence of the President, Mrs. P. D. Park, Mrs. Newman, Vice-President of the W. P. A., then read an address to Lady Davidson. Lady Davidson in a very pleasing manner reviewed the history of the work of the W. P. A. in Newfoundland. She fully explained the way the various shipments of goods had been made for the soldiers. During the progress of the war the work had grown, and the different branches of the work of the W. P. A. were clearly and satisfactorily set forth. It was evident to all that Lady Davidson with the Women of Newfoundland had rendered great service not only to our boys but to the cause of the Empire. The Women of Newfoundland under her leadership are deserving of great praise. She congratulated the ladies of the Botwood W. P. A. for their help so generously given.

The Rev. J. T. Newman moved a vote of thanks to His Excellency and Lady Davidson for their instructive and inspiring addresses. The Rev. M. K. Gardner seconded the resolution in a brief address. The Chairman put the resolution which was carried by acclamation. His Excellency suitably responded for himself and Lady Davidson. The National Anthem was then sung after which three cheers were given for Our King and Queen also, three cheers for His Excellency and Lady Davidson who then went to the door and shook hands with all as they left the meeting. This visit of our beloved Governor and Lady will long be remembered by the people of Botwood. Botwood, March 9th, 1916.

Sergeant James's Story of Gallipoli.

Our Newfoundland soldiers soon got seasoned to the heavy, continuous shelling of the Turks, as did all the other regiments of the 29th Division also. Like the sound of the whistle of a train or steamer the huge bombs, even though sent several miles away, would rent the air and this would be a warning to our troops to get under cover in the trenches. When a shell would drop it would plunge into the earth with awful violence and explode throwing up about twenty tons at a time. Especially dangerous was it when a shell came in contact with a big rock, of which fragments would fly in all directions for a long distance away, combined with pieces of shrapnel. Still with undaunted courage and cool-headedness the Newfoundland soldiers did not seem to mind. While the shelling was on, they would lay in the trenches and after the danger was passed would stand up again as if nothing had happened. They were complimented by all the other regiments of the 29th Division as well as by the Australian troops. As regards trench warfare, Sergt. James was not prepared to say anything, as he did not keep any diary in the remotest way of incidents that happened, any more than the 29th vacated and re-occupied positions in the firing line and were continuously victorious in nearly all engagements with the Turks. The custom was ten days in the firing line and a week out of it. Sunday was the same as Monday, and he never remembered any dates of happenings.

Speaking of the Caribou Hill battle, Sergt. James remembered the incident well. The 9th Battalion was right in the firing line. It was a custom in fact a daily one, to send an advance party to do outpost duty, or in other words to scout and signal when they located the enemy coming. The scout party this day consisted of Lieut. Donnelly and eight other men. They were only about three hundred yards in front of the battalion. A squad of a hundred Turks or more advanced in a different direction than expected and were about to attack the scout party when Lieut. Ross and fifteen men were despatched to the assistance of officer Donnelly. Sergt. James says Donnelly's party began the onslaught and Donnelly's promptly took part. An unfortunate circumstance was that Lieut. Ross was one of the first to get put out of commission by a bullet in the arm. Sergt. Greene, who was with Lieut. Ross, then took command of the relief party and added Lieut. Donnelly in forcing the Turks under rapid fire. The battle lasted forty-eight hours, Caribou Hill was gained and the enemy was annihilated. During the encounter marked heroism was displayed by Lieut. Donnelly and Ross, and Sergt. Greene. To quote Sergt. James correctly he says: "Lieut. Ross saved the whole situation at the start as he and party were the first to open quick fire on the enemy."

The 9th Regiment proved excellent fighters and was held in the highest esteem by every other regiment on Gallipoli. The Turks outflanked all other battalions in turn, continued our informant, but met their Waterloo with "Ours." The Turks, he said, were desperate, though clean, fighters. Their snipers did effective work and usually got some one. Day and night, asleep or at work in the trenches, one could always hear the whizzing of a bullet coming through the air from the snipers. The 9th soldiers got so well used to it that they did not mind. In reply to a query from the Telegram representative as to whether the Turks were using women snipers, Sergt. James said that was a rumor started by the Australian troops. The Turkish men snipers all wore peculiar long dressing gowns and one would imagine they were females. Sergt. James said the only adversaries he found hard to bear with was the frightful stench from the dead bodies of the Turks and the weather was not a bit too favorable. There was a great contrast in it. In the morning the weather would be unbearably hot and in the night exceedingly cold. He also had a lively recollection of the wonderful thunder storm which flooded the trenches and about which he had read over and over again, but he did not mind it, as it was all in the day's work.

The Newfoundlanders were designated the "Lucky Regiment" on Gallipoli, because their casualties were comparatively nothing to the other battalions. It was peculiarly remarkable, and no one could ever account for it. Sometimes it happened that the Turks, particularly the snipers, would get an opening at a Newfoundlandier, but somehow he would pass unnoticed, whereas as soon as the form of a soldier belonging to any other regiment showed in sight the Turks would immediately open fire on him, hence it was that "Ours" were christened the lucky ones. Sergt. James was wounded in the right knee by shrapnel the last of November. He was in hospital at Malta, had the missile extracted and now he says he feels no pain and is well, arrived by Sunday evening's express train after a tedious and wearisome journey, especially crossing our railroad.

Sergt. James is a splendid type of soldier. He stands 6 feet high, has a fine pair of broad shoulders, is of strong physique and with all is a most unostentatious young man.

Obituary.

Fortified by rites of Holy Church, there passed peacefully away, at the Convent on Thursday last, to its eternal reward, the soul of Sister Magdalen Rooney. The deceased religious was born at Dublin, Ireland, eighty-one years ago, and came to this country at the request of the late Bishop Mullock. In 1859 she entered the Presentation Order, at the Mother House, Cathedral Square, St. John's, and three years later made her solemn profession at Whittle's Bay. For over half a century the deceased Sister zealously discharged her duties as a religious, labouring for many years both in Whittle's Bay and Torbay. Thirty years ago Sister Magdalen entered on her duties here and until forced by advancing years to retire from active work efficiently performed them. The past few years found her completely invalided but she bore all with a resignation that was truly edifying. Her death was a fitting culmination to a holy life. After Solemn Requiem Mass, in the Parish Church this morning celebrated for her eternal repose, the remains of the deceased religious were laid to rest in the Convent plot there to await the Resurrection Morn. The large congregation attending the Mass and funeral testified to the esteem in which deceased was held. May her soul rest in peace.—Com.

The 9th Regiment proved excellent fighters and was held in the highest esteem by every other regiment on Gallipoli. The Turks outflanked all other battalions in turn, continued our informant, but met their Waterloo with "Ours." The Turks, he said, were desperate, though clean, fighters. Their snipers did effective work and usually got some one. Day and night, asleep or at work in the trenches, one could always hear the whizzing of a bullet coming through the air from the snipers. The 9th soldiers got so well used to it that they did not mind. In reply to a query from the Telegram representative as to whether the Turks were using women snipers, Sergt. James said that was a rumor started by the Australian troops. The Turkish men snipers all wore peculiar long dressing gowns and one would imagine they were females. Sergt. James said the only adversaries he found hard to bear with was the frightful stench from the dead bodies of the Turks and the weather was not a bit too favorable. There was a great contrast in it. In the morning the weather would be unbearably hot and in the night exceedingly cold. He also had a lively recollection of the wonderful thunder storm which flooded the trenches and about which he had read over and over again, but he did not mind it, as it was all in the day's work.

The Newfoundlanders were designated the "Lucky Regiment" on Gallipoli, because their casualties were comparatively nothing to the other battalions. It was peculiarly remarkable, and no one could ever account for it. Sometimes it happened that the Turks, particularly the snipers, would get an opening at a Newfoundlandier, but somehow he would pass unnoticed, whereas as soon as the form of a soldier belonging to any other regiment showed in sight the Turks would immediately open fire on him, hence it was that "Ours" were christened the lucky ones. Sergt. James was wounded in the right knee by shrapnel the last of November. He was in hospital at Malta, had the missile extracted and now he says he feels no pain and is well, arrived by Sunday evening's express train after a tedious and wearisome journey, especially crossing our railroad.

Sergt. James is a splendid type of soldier. He stands 6 feet high, has a fine pair of broad shoulders, is of strong physique and with all is a most unostentatious young man.

Recruiting Sergeant Wanted at Station.

We beg to bring to the notice of the recruiting committee, the necessity of having a recruiting sergeant meet every passenger train that enters the city. Yesterday a young man from a northern outpost, came in on the express to offer his services to King and Country, but found on landing that he was a stranger in a strange city. However, a respected citizen and father of one of our volunteers now on active service, offered to accompany the young man to the Armoury.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The harbour ice is gradually breaking up, but people are still crossing to and from the South Side in the upper part of the harbor.

Miss Farrell, a middle-aged woman of the South Side, fell on the harbour ice yesterday and sustained serious injuries. She was conveyed by friends to Dr. Cron's surgery and after being attended by the doctor was taken home by sleigh.

The S. S. Mary arrived from Bell Island this morning with another load of coal to R. D. McRae & Sons.

The teachers and pupils of the High School would like through the Telegram to thank everyone who helped to make the Sale and Tea such a success, especially the British Band who with bright music made the afternoon pass pleasantly.

Mr. A. Wilson, Secretary C. H. E., was in town on Saturday for a few hours. All his friends were pleased to see him.

"Finegan's Fortune," a three-act comedy will be staged at the Academy Hall on Friday night, March 17th, and a very enjoyable hour is assured. The proceeds will be devoted to the Palace re-building fund.
