PAINS IN BACK AND SIDE

Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kansas City, Kansas.—"I suffered from pains in my back and side caused by a functional derangement. I was nervous and had headache most of the time. So many people recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, I tried it and after taking six bottles I am well. I do not think the Vegetable Compound can be better for women's ailments."—Mrs. L. TIMMERMAN, 3011 N. Hutchings St., Kansas City, Kansas.

Women who suffer from headaches, nervousness, backache, the blues and other symptoms of a functional derangement should give this famous root and herb remedy a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such ailments of women after other medicines have failed.

If you want special suggestions in regard to your condition, write Lydia E. Pinkham, Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass. The result of long experience is at your service, and your letter will be held in strict confidence.

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 10. Women have been placed on an equality with men in all that affects relations as laymen of the Church. This was the unanimous decision of the Methodist General Conference this afternoon, but it was quite another question when the proposal to admit the rank of proto-priests and ordained ministers of the Church came up for discussion. Unanimity then was conspicuous by its absence and the first real debate of the Conference took place after the motion by Rev. Dr. James S. Ross, of Norwich, Ont., that the decision be indefinitely postponed and that the letter be left upon the table had been declared lost. The question was eventually shelved for another four years by the carrying vote of an amendment of Rev. Dr. Salem G. Bland, of Winnipeg, seconded by Mr. Justice MacLaren, of Toronto, ordering the matter referred to the official board of the Church during the next quadrennium for consideration and report to the next General Conference.

AFRAID OF TURKEY.

ROME, Oct. 10. The impression in Italian diplomatic circles is that one of the principal reasons for the German and Austrian movement in the direction of peace was to prevent Turkey from seeking a separate peace. Turkey was told she was not to do that following the new German Chancellor's speech and armistice proposal that there would be formed in all Entente countries and especially in America peace parties.

TO EXTEND DAYLIGHT BILL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. The daylight saving law would remain in effect until rescinded by Congress under a bill passed to-day by the Senate. The measure which was endorsed by Chairman Burch of the War Industries Board in the interest of fuel economy, now goes to the House. Under the present law the clocks would be turned back an hour on October 27.

APPROVES OF REPLY.

LONDON, Oct. 10. Commenting on the reply sent by President Wilson to the peace proposal of the Central Powers, the Manchester Guardian says: It is admirably conceived alike in form and substance. It is dignified, conciliatory and firm, and it lays down exactly the conditions which the situation demands.

RETURNED FROM PARIS.

LONDON, Oct. 10. Premier Lloyd George, Chancellor Bonar Law, Lord Robert Cecil and the Chief of the Imperial Staff returned to-night from Paris. They had been in conference with the French Premier, M. Clemenceau, the Italian Premier, Signor Orlando M. Pichon, Baron Sonnino and the naval and military advisers of the allied governments.

RETURNED TO THE ATTACK.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTH WEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 9. (By the A.P.)—American forces operating west of the Meuse River, returned to the attack against the formidable Kriemhild line to-day. This assault was made just south of Romagne and a brilliant speedy advance forced the Germans back through the positions prepared so long by them. Further to the right the Americans forced their way through Cimet Wood which was bristling with machine guns. This success made it possible to storm the Mamelle trench of the Kriemhild-St. Omer line by sweeping away the flanking fire which had previously rendered its capture so difficult.

NUMEROUS TOWNS CAPTURED.

LONDON, Oct. 10. (Official.) At dawn this morning our advance was resumed along the whole battle-front. At all points rapid progress was made in spite of the efforts of the enemy's rearguards to hold up the advance. Our troops approaching the large woods east of Bohain have entered Vauxandigny, north of that place we have reached the general line of the Selle River. From St. Sulpit to the neighborhood of Solesmes, we have captured Le Catelaux West of Solesmes we captured Vesnes and Rieux and then St. Martin. West of the Scheidt Canal we have taken Etrun. In the towns and villages captured in our advance to-day, numbers of civilians have been found, including 2,250 in the town of Coudry. Southwest of Louvour our troops have made further progress and captured Rouvrov.

The Lost Will;

OR,

LOVE TRIUMPHS AT LAST!

CHAPTER XIV.

"Good-afternoon," he said in a laboured fashion. Jealousy, hatred, were surging in his heart. He had sought her to upbraid her with her desertion of him, to accuse her of "making-up" to Mr. Jack Chalfont; but at sight of her his passionate longing for her conflicted with his anger, and the words of reproach were found difficult.

"What are you doing here, all alone?" he asked.

"What am I doing?" repeated Maud, pleasantly enough, but with a flicker of resentment in her eyes. "I'm resting, thinking. And why shouldn't I be alone, if I want to be? And I do want to be."

"I suppose that's meant as a hint for me," he said, moodily. "What's the matter, Maud? Have I offended you in any way?"

"There's nothing the matter, and you haven't offended me, Mr. Fleming," she emphasised the "Mr." "But I don't think you ought to call me 'Maud.'"

"You let me call you so last time we met and walked together; and now it's to be 'Miss Delman' and 'Mr. Fleming,' eh?" he retorted angrily.

"If I did let you call me by my Christian name it was very foolish of me," she said, reddening with annoyance; "and you mustn't do so again. My mother wouldn't like it. Besides, it's not the right thing between people who care only just acquaintances, friends."

"You know I want to be something more than that," he said. "You knew it that evening we walked through the wood. Maud," he broke out, with a passionate gesture, "you know well enough I love you, that I want you to be my wife!"

She had risen, biting her lip, and was moving away; but he caught her hand, drew her down to the tree, and sat beside her. She tried to wrench her hand away; but he held it in his grip and she sat still, rather afraid of him and thinking it better to humour him.

"I love you, Maud!" he said hoarsely. "My heart's set on you, and I can't be happy without you. I'm thinking of you and longing for you every minute of the day. Oh, I know I'm not much account; I've been a fool and a waster; but I'll change. I'll settle down on the farm and work hard to keep a home for you and make you happy, if you'll only engage yourself to me. Say 'Yes,' Maud; there's nobody will love you and work for you better than I will."

She drew her hand from his hot grasp and, with her head turned away from him—for the passion in his eyes frightened her—said, gently, soothingly:

"I'm very sorry; but I can't. I didn't know—I mean that I didn't know you were so serious. Why do you choose me? I know that there are many of the girls—"

"That's all gone and past," he said. "Oh, yes, I've flirted with many of 'em; but that's nothing." He jerked his head impatiently, contemptuously. "But it's serious with you, Maud. I tell you I right down love you; and you—mustn't say 'No.' I couldn't bear it. It's life or death with me—no, I couldn't bear it."

"Oh, but that's nonsense!" she said.

Impatiently. "It's no use my saying 'Yes' when I don't love you, when I know that I never could. I must go now—and please don't ever speak to me like this again; for it's no use."

He remained seated, his head pressing against the tree-trunk, his face working.

"No use?" he repeated. "You mean that?"

"Of course, I mean it," she said. "You've no right to speak to me as if I must accept you, whether I will or not. Please take my answer: it's 'No.'"

"I see," he said, huskily and slowly. "I see how it is, what's made you change like this. Your head's been turned by that—that swill Chalfont."

"You've no—no right—" burst from her, and she turned her flashing eyes upon him.

"It's true enough—I can see by your face," he said, still in the same thick voice. "Besides, I know. I saw you with him the other day; I know he's been here with you in the wood this afternoon. You and he together were alone for over an hour."

"You've been spying on me!" she said, with passionate indignation. "What right have you to spy on me? What business is it of yours what I do?"

"It's my business because I love you," he said, his lips set tightly, his eyes gleaming up at her broodingly. "A man's right to watch over the woman he loves; it's his duty to tell her, to warn her, when she's making a fool of herself."

Maud's face went white and her hands clenched at her sides; she was in too great a fury for speech, and

Stephen Fleming went on slowly, intently:

"Yes, that's what you're doing—making a fool of yourself and letting him help you. What can come of it, these meetings and talks with a swill like him? He's only amusing himself, playing with you. You don't suppose he loves you as an honest man does, as I do? You don't suppose he'd marry you, for instance? There's only one thing as can come of it—"

"You're insulting me!" she cried, finding speech at last. "You're saying things—oh, it's shameful! How dare you? You are not fit to mention his name; he's a gentleman, and not a low blackguard."

"He sprang to his feet with an oath, and for a moment she thought he would strike her; but his hand fell to his side, and he laughed harshly.

"Oh, he's a gentleman, and I'm a low blackguard, am I?" he said, between his teeth. "Well, I'm not low blackguard enough to lead a girl astray—and that's what he's trying to do. And it seems as if you were ready to be led. Oh, I've been watching you from behind the trees there; I saw it all—you giving him both your hands, while you wouldn't let me hold one, as if my touch was poisonous. But let him take care—"

Maud broke into a laugh, a shrill laugh.

"You threaten him!" she said contemptuously. "That makes me laugh. You can bully a helpless woman with no one nigh, Mr. Stephen Fleming, but you'll find it a very difficult matter if you try to bully Mr. Chalfont. No, I won't hear any more; I've heard quite enough!"

"She turned on her heel, but looked over her shoulder to fire a parting shot.

"And next time we meet, Mr. Fleming, you'll be good enough to remember that we are strangers for the future. Don't dare to speak to me!"

She left him, standing with his head bent, the veins swollen on his forehead, his breath coming panting-ly.

"I saw you with him the other day; I know he's been here with you in the wood this afternoon. You and he together were alone for over an hour."

"You've been spying on me!" she said, with passionate indignation. "What right have you to spy on me? What business is it of yours what I do?"

"It's my business because I love you," he said, his lips set tightly, his eyes gleaming up at her broodingly. "A man's right to watch over the woman he loves; it's his duty to tell her, to warn her, when she's making a fool of herself."

Maud's face went white and her hands clenched at her sides; she was in too great a fury for speech, and

CHAPTER XV.

JACK went up to the Hall, and on his way to the library looked around for Nora; there was no sign of her, but after he had been at work a few minutes Mrs. Feltham came into the room.

"Do you want Nora?" she asked. "She will be down directly; Johnson, the village tailor, is with her. She is going to let him make a habit for her."

At this moment Nora came in, and Jack said:

"A riding-habit by Johnson is a bit risky, isn't it, Miss Norton?"

"That is what I have been telling her," said Mrs. Feltham, with a laugh; "but she insists on employing local labour, and says it doesn't matter how it fits."

"Of course I'm going to let him make it," said Nora. "Why should one go to London when one's own people—I mean," she corrected herself, "when one has a tailor almost at one's door?"

"If you carry out that idea with all your things," said Jack, smiling, "well, you'll look like the other young ladies in the village; and they're scarcely the pink of fashion, are they?"

"I'm sure some of them look very nice," said Nora. "For instance, that pretty girl, Miss Delman, is always very well dressed."

"Ah, yes; but she's the exception, perhaps," said Jack; "she's got the trick of wearing her 'logs.'"

"Well, perhaps I shall get the same trick," said Nora, rather mischievously. "And, after all, why shouldn't I look as they look? They're just as good as I am."

"My dear Nora," remonstrated Mrs. Feltham, smiling.

"Well, so they are," insisted Nora. "I'm only a miner's daughter, and was poorer than any of them a few weeks ago."

"This is rank Socialism," said Jack, with affected gravity. "We shall have you addressing a meeting on the green, with a red flag waving behind you. All right; I'll come and distribute the hand-bills. 'Down with the idle and bloated rich; all men—and women—are equal; everybody is as good as everybody else, if not better.'"

No, Miss Norton; whatever you may have been, you are now the mistress of Chertson, and you must behave as such."

"Very good, sir," said Nora, meekly, and dropping him a curtsy.

"But I'm glad you've ordered a habit," said Jack, "because that means you're going to ride; and it will be good for you."

"Yes," said Nora. "It was Lady Blanche who suggested it to me, yesterday; she said I could ride the pony-carriage sometimes, and I jumped at the idea. Is there a horse I can ride?"

"I was just wondering," said Jack, thoughtfully. "I'll go round to the stables and see; there ought to be something fit for you."

"I'll come with you," said Nora, as he rose; and they left the house together.

"Did you have a pleasant time yesterday with the Fernandes?" he asked, as they crossed the stable-yard.

"Oh, delightful," she replied, her face lighting up. "They were wonderfully kind to me."

"Kind! I should think so. Why shouldn't they be?" But he spoke in a low voice, and more to himself than to Nora, and perhaps she didn't hear him.

Proclamation

By His Excellency Sir Charles Alexander Harris, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Comptroller-in-Chief and in and over the Dominion of Newfoundland.

Whereas by an Act passed in the sixth year of the reign of His present Majesty, entitled "The Prohibition Plebiscite Act, 1915," and Acts in amendment thereto, it is provided that "The term 'Intoxicating Liquors' shall be construed to signify all wine, malt, brewed or spirituous liquors containing two per cent. or upwards of alcohol in volume, and such medicinal, toilet and other preparations containing two per cent. or upwards of alcohol in volume, as may from time to time be directed by the Governor in Council by Proclamation, but not wines for sacramental purposes."

And whereas I deem it expedient that certain medicinal, toilet and other preparations shall be declared to be Intoxicating Liquors;

I do, therefore, by this my Proclamation, order and direct that on and after the First day of November next, the following medicinal, toilet and other preparations shall be declared to be Intoxicating Liquors, namely:—

Florida Water;
Beef, Iron and Wine;
Wincarnal; and Ferrovin.

Of which all persons concerned are hereby required to take due notice and govern themselves accordingly.

WAR REVIEW.

The men of the once formidable German armies holding the Hindenburg line from the north of Cambrai to St. Quentin are facing eastward, defeated and in retreat. Their backs are the targets of the British, American and French troops, who bitterly fought them step by step out of supposedly impregnable defences, and are now hurrying them across the open country towards the German border.

Nowhere is the enemy attempting a stand in force. True, the German border is yet a long distance away, but the past two days of chase has materially decreased the width of the area separating the invaders from their own Rhine line. Le Cateau, the important junction point twelve miles southeast of Cambrai, represented Thursday the point of deepest penetration by the Allied troops. The British are here the masters of it. All along the front, however, the British, Americans and French have been steadily pressing forward their infantry forces, taking numerous towns and villages, while far in advance of them the hoof beats of cavalry, intermingled with the roars of the whippet tanks and the staccato barking of the machine guns inside the moving forts. So fast have been the retreat of the enemy that at various points the Allied forces afoot lost contact with him. The retreat, which is over a front of about 30 miles from the south of Douai to the region east of St. Quentin, has left in the hands of the Allies, in addition to the towns taken, valuable lines of communication and strategic points of high importance and driven in a wedge that seemingly will force the Germans everywhere from the North Sea to the vicinity of Verdun to fall back. Southeast of Douai, one of the remaining strong points in the German line in the north, the British are standing in Etrun, twelve miles southwest of Valenciennes, the pivotal position in the enemy's known next defence line, and ten miles to the south the city is outanked at Solesmes. Meantime, the French and American armies on that part of the line running from the northwest of Rheims to the Meuse River, are still pressing forward in the converging movement with the armies in the west, and gradually are forming the entire war theatre into a huge sack. The Americans continue slowly to advance up the eastern side of the Meuse, while west of the River in conjunction with the operations of the French they have all but obliterated the great Argonne

WAR REVIEW.

The men of the once formidable German army holding the Hindenburg line from the north of Cambrai to St. Quentin are facing eastward, defeated and in retreat. Their backs are to the targets of the British, American and French troops, who bitterly fought them step by step out of supposedly impregnable defences, and are now hurrying them across the open country towards the German border.

Nowhere is the enemy attempting a stand in force. True, the German border is yet a long distance away, but the past two days of chase has materially decreased the width of the area separating the invaders from their own Rhine line. Le Cateau, the important junction point twelve miles southeast of Cambrai, represented Thursday the point of deepest penetration by the Allied troops. The British are here the masters of it. All along the front, however, the British, Americans and French have been steadily pressing forward their infantry forces, taking numerous towns and villages, while far in advance of them the hoof beats of cavalry, intermingled with the roars of the whippet tanks and the staccato barking of the machine guns in the moving forts. So fast have been the retreat of the enemy that at various points the Allied forces attack in contact with him. The retreat, which is over a front of about 30 miles from the south of Douai to the region east of St. Quentin, has left in the hands of the Allies, in addition to the towns taken, valuable lines of communication and strategic points of high importance and driven in a wedge that seemingly will force the Germans everywhere from the North Sea to the vicinity of Verdun to fall back. Southeast of Douai, one of the remaining strong points in the German line in the north, the British are attacking in earnest, twelve miles southwest of Valenciennes, the pivotal position in the enemy's known next defence line, and ten miles to the south the city is outflanked at Solesmes. Meantime, the French and American armies on that part of the line running from northwest of Rheims to the Meuse River, are still pressing forward in the converging movement with the armies in the west, and gradually are forming the entire war theatre into a huge sack. The Americans continue slowly to advance up the eastern side of the Meuse, while west of the River in conjunction with the operations of the French they have all but obliterated the great Argonne forest as an enemy defence position. To the west of the forest in the Aisne Valley and still farther westward the French also have made further gains. Throughout this entire region the Germans still are offering stubborn resistance, mainly with machine guns, realizing the importance of holding back their foes while their armies in Belgium and farther south make good their retrograde movement. Both in the Macedonian theatre and in Palestine the Allied forces are pressing the enemy hard. Albania is fast being cleared of the Austro-Hungarian troops, while in Serbia the enemy is nearing Nish, harassed by the Serbians. At last accounts General Allenby was still driving the Ottoman troops northward in Palestine. So lightning-like are the manoeuvres of the Allied armies on the various battlefronts from the North Sea to Verdun, in Macedonia and in Palestine, that except to the war expert with his military maps constantly before him, it is almost impossible to visualize the situation and realize the swift strides the Allies are making in defeating the common enemy. In France and Belgium in three weeks five important cities, which had been in German hands for four years, have been recaptured. Dixmude, Armentieres, Lens, Cambrai and St. Quentin are now in Allied hands, while Lille, Douai and Valenciennes seemingly are all but captured. Serbia shortly is to be fully reclaimed and the Turks soon will know the Holy Land no more.

DETAILS OF THE FIGHTING.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY ON THE CAMBRAI-ST. QUENTIN FRONT, Oct. 9th. (By the A.P.)—Last night the British and Americans had reached a point where it was certain that the German line with probably one hard blow could be cracked. As a matter of fact cavalry might have gone through the German lines last night in considerable numbers. Only sharp patrols were sent out, however, while the main bodies were held back of the line. After a night of heavy fighting the British guns during which the sky seemed to be ablaze with shells, the third and fourth armies again attacked this morning from Cambrai south to the front held by the French. At the same time Canadian and English troops after a crash barrage launched powerful attacks extending some miles north from Cambrai. For the first time the Canadians had had going at one place just north of Cambrai, but with great gallantry swept on after annihilating the Germans who tried to bar their way. From there on the resistance weakened and the Canadians with the English hurried eastward smothering the usual screen of German machine gunners who met in the centre of Cambrai which was entered from north and south and quickly mopped up many Germans who had escaped. But many hundreds who had been held there to launch a counter attack were either killed or captured. Some of the enemy troops are still in deep cellars, two storeys under ground and in the tunnels which the Germans dug during their occupation of the city. These are being routed out and sent back to the cages. Although many fires were started by the Germans, the town was found not to be as badly damaged as had been feared. The solid buildings withstanding the flames well. It was quite evident, however, that it was no fault of the Germans that the city had not been levelled to the ground by the many fires they had kindled south of the city. The third and fourth armies rapidly overcame enemy opposition. The Germans started fleeing soon after the attacking began, for they realized that they were fighting a battle in which they could hope for no success. The front line for twenty miles began moving rapidly eastward, then came reports from airplanes with which the sky was literally crowded, that Wambaix had been taken. Soon the capture of Harcourt was reported. From then on tidings came in rapid succession of villages falling before the Allied advance. Selvigny, Callury, Ligny, Montigny and Maretz were quickly reached and passed, and soon the Allies were closing in on Caudry and Bertry. At the same time from the north it was reported that Escouevres, east of Cambrai, had been taken, and that Inchy was being approached. The Cambrai-LeCateau road was crossed, and then the railway between St. Quentin and Bertry was cut. Subsequently was then in sight and Fontaine Notre Dame, further south had been reached by the French. By that time it was clear the enemy was badly smashed and that the British and Americans stood on the threshold of the wide open country. It was about that time that the cavalry which had been waiting poured through the wide breach in the now shattered Hindenburg system and streamed out into the country. Behind fast whippet tanks and armored cars also crashed forward and came into action. They performed extremely valuable services in pursuing the fleeing Germans, killing many and rounding up a large number of prisoners. They smashed down strong positions held by the rearguard who had been waiting for the cavalry, knowing that it had come through the lines. Cavalry forces are now apparently well east of the towns reported captured. The Allies having thus broken through the Germans north and south for many miles are undaunted, for their lines are being thrust into retreats on even a broader scale than that now in progress. It may therefore be expected that such a thing as troops who have just attacked, marching through a town ten thousand yards from the place where they started is a thing that has not happened in this war for a long time. Such a thing could only happen now when the enemy is defeated, disorganized, disheartened and running for his very existence. The troops at Bertry did not tarry there, but kept right on marching. Where the Germans will stop is of course impossible to tell. British cannon had been on the move eastward all day long. In many cases batteries would gallop over the rolling plains of Artois. They would stop, wheel about, fire for a while, then dash on and repeat the performance. This has developed from a battle of slow movement to one of very rapid movement. There is no intention to let the Germans get a chance to regain their breath and organize their smashed forces. The British are absolutely confident they can break down any line the Germans may place in front of them. The ground in this locality is soaked with German blood and covered with German dead.

PRISONERS REACH 75,000.
LONDON, Oct. 10.
The official Syrian statement says: Prisoners taken by the Egyptian expeditionary force, exclusive of those taken by the Arabs, have risen to more than 75,000. It is estimated that of the entire strength of the Turkish fourth, seventh and eighth armies, not more than 17,000 have escaped. This figure includes 4,000 effective rifles. Many of the prisoners captured were in a lamentable state of exhaustion. They are receiving such treatment and attention as is possible.

WANT RETRIBUTION FOR VANDALISM.

LONDON, Oct. 10.
The demand for something more than unconditional surrender from Germany is becoming intensified in the newspapers here. Letters recalling the crimes of Germany and urging retribution include one from Professor Spencer Wilkinson who declares that a condition precedent for the cessation of hostilities should be the occupation by the Allies of Metz, Strassburg, Mainz, Trent, Trieste and Pola. Viscount Middleford, former Secretary of State for India, asks that the Allies make a declaration that peace shall not be made until retribution is exacted from German towns for vandalism in France. The Times describes the enemy's policy of burning and destroying towns as he retreats as a cruel and mean blackmail and says that German towns like Hamburg and Frankfurt must be marked down for ransom in return for French and Belgian towns destroyed.

WITHIN TWO MILES OF LE CATEAU.

LONDON, Oct. 10.
Further progress was made by the British last night towards the northern part of the present battlefront to the east of Cambrai. Fighting is going on southeast of Cambrai on both sides of Caudry. Field Marshal Haig reports to-day. The British are now within two miles of Le Cateau. Sallaumines and Noyelles have been captured.

A WAR FOR DEFENCE NOW.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 10.
Emperor William is thanking the German Industrial Association for its vote of confidence, is quoted by the Cologne Gazette as saying the hour is here. We are fighting for the future of the Fatherland and for the protection of the soil of the homeland. To that end we need the united action of the intellectual, moral and economic powers of Germany. On the co-operation of these powers our invincibility rests. The will for defence must bind all separate views and separate wishes into one great unity of conception. God grant us something of the spirit of the war of liberation.

OFFICIAL TEXT NOT YET RECEIVED.

BASEL, Oct. 10.
An authentic text of President Wilson's reply to Prince Maximilian's note has not yet been received by the German Government, according to a despatch from Berlin. Proper examination of the reply cannot be made until the official text is received, but in any case it is plain that a further declaration by the German Government will be necessary. Only military reasons could compel us to accept President Wilson's terms, says the Cologne Gazette in commenting on the American reply to the peace proposal. "It is possible Germany may require counter-guarantees for example, the evacuation of the colonies occupied by the Allies."

GERMAN TREASURY BONDS STOLEN.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.
A postal containing 7,000,000 marks of securities and treasury bonds, addressed by the post office to the Imperial Chancellor, was stolen the day before yesterday.

BOOTS CAPTURED IN SIBERIA.

TOKIO, Thursday, Oct. 3.
The Japanese War Office to-day announced that the booty captured by the Allied forces in the Amur district of Siberia, between Sept. 18 and Sept. 23, included five steamships, thirty cars, five automobiles, 513 rifles, one machine gun, seventeen cases of ammunition and thousands of bayonets and lances. The statement adds that cavalry and infantry pursuing the enemy from Zeya in the direction of Banbuki on Sept. 27. A detachment of the Third Division from Tchita reached Wefezynsk on Sept. 23. The Zeya river has been cleared by mine-sweepers.

AND STILL THEY ASK FOR PEACE.

A BRITISH PORT, Oct. 7.
The Japanese steamship Hirano Maru, of 7,935 tons gross, has been torpedoed and sunk. It is feared that 300 lives were lost. The Hirano Maru was outward bound for Japan, and carried about 900 (?) passengers. The vessel was torpedoed and sunk by a German U boat early on Friday morning, when about 300 miles south of Ireland. The few survivors who were picked up by the American torpedo boat destroyer Sterret had been brought here. They declare that the torpedo struck the steamer in the forward engine room. Nothing remained for those on board, including the women and children, but to plunge into the ocean. A large number, however, went down with the ship. The vessel disappeared completely within seven minutes, after being struck by a torpedo. The scene was indescribable. The weather was bad and rather hazy. The cries of the drowning were heart-rending. Everybody had been supplied with lifebelts, but only the strongest were able to stand the buffeting waves and exposure. Providentially the Commander of the American destroyer Sterret heard the explosion and steered his vessel for the point whence the sound came. He found the ship had disappeared and he saw a mass of people struggling in the water. There were no small boats available, so the destroyer in the bad weather steamed about picking up those who still were alive.

PEACE PROPOSALS FORCED GERMAN.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 10.
The Frankfurt Zeitung in explaining to its readers the reason why Germany asked for peace, says: After Bulgaria's collapse, Austria-Hungary resolved to approach President Wilson with an offer of an armistice for the purpose of bringing about peace negotiations. At the same time a similar step was being prepared in Turkey. Germany thereupon decided to join the movement, and Chancellor Maximilian made his appeal to President Wilson.

DEATH BED REPENTANCE.

LONDON, Oct. 10.
It is reported that the Austro-Hungarian Ministerial Council had decided to introduce national autonomy in order to make President Wilson's stipulation an accomplished fact says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen to-day. The Czech party did not take part in the deliberations the advice add. It is holding an important meeting to-day.

LUBENDORFF REPORTED GONE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 10.
From one of the European neutral countries to-day a report reached the State Department that General Lubendorff has suffered a physical collapse and relinquished command of the German army.

REFUGEES ENTER BRITISH LINES.

LONDON, Oct. 10.
Mesopotamian despatches received here record the arrival inside the British lines of 47,000 Assyrian, Armenian and Russian refugees from Urumiah, Persian Armenia, who broke through the Turkish front and made their escape. Another 10,000 refugees, according to the despatches, are distributed in Kurdistan towns, or are wandering in the hills. The Turks pursued them, but were driven back by British cavalry. Later the Turks entered Urumiah and massacred 20 persons, mostly old men. It is reported that six hundred Christian women have been distributed among the Turkish troops and the Moslem inhabitants of Urumiah.

IS THIS THE BEGINNING.

LONDON, Oct. 10.
Count Theodore Bathyamyl, former minister in the Hungarian cabinet, speaking at Budapest, emphasized the urgency of bringing about a separation between Hungary and Austria. Czech newspapers declare that preparations are under way for the regular working of a future Czech state and identical statements are being published regarding the Jugo-Slavs. Telegrams from Warsaw announce that a proclamation is about to be issued for the union of all Polish territory into a Polish state. The Congress of German associations in Austria, advice received here say, have resolved to favor the creation of a German state in Austria.

WILL HAVE NONE OF THE BROOD.

AIBERN, N. Y., Oct. 10.
Secretary of State Lansing, who is here attending the centennial of the Auburn Theological Seminary, in discussing the rumor which came from Stockholm to-day, that Emperor William had abdicated, said that it has been current for some time and unless we know in whose favor the Kaiser is abdicating the story has no significance whatever. If it is simply setting up one of his sons in his place the situation would not be changed in the least, but if he should abdicate in favor of a democratic government it would mean something.

IRISH MAIL BOAT TORPEDOED.

LONDON, Oct. 10.
The Dublin mail boat Lemsaher has been torpedoed, according to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The steamer was making a trip from Dublin to Holyhead.

COLOSSAL EXPENDITURE OF SHELLS.

LONDON, Oct. 10.
During fifteen successive days recently the British artillery hurled more than 10,000 tons of shells a day upon the enemy, according to a statement by Winston Spencer Churchill, the Minister of Munitions. Mr. Churchill showed the expenditure of such a vast amount of munitions was possible through the intense industrial organization of the country which had contributed a generous supply of shells. The great scope of this organization was revealed by the minister through his statement that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 persons were engaged in the manufacture of munitions in Great Britain.

German Made Peace

We have already quoted leading English, Canadian and French press comment on the recent peace proposals of Germany, and American newspaper opinion is now the less strong against the note of Maximilian addressed to President Wilson, who in effect has asked the German Chancellor, by what and whose authority he makes the request for an armistice, and enunciates several additional points, not contained in the German note, which must be incorporated into it, before any negotiations whatever can be opened. So far as the American press has spoken, Maximilian's proposals have been, in unequivocal and forceful terms rejected unanimously. From Maine to California, from the States washed by the great lakes to those on the Gulf of Mexico, all newspapers of the nation voice the demand that no peace terms shall be considered by the allied nations until Germany proffers her sword to the Commander-in-Chief of the allied armies, in token of unconditional surrender. The New York World says: "Military rulers of the Central Powers realize, at last, to some extent the judgment that is hanging over them." The New York Herald says: "The hit dog yelps." From Berlin and Vienna comes simultaneously peace walls, with the exhausted Turk echoing a feeble "no." What Prince Maximilian asks is peace by negotiation—a Prussian peace. What he asks is an armistice—the same old trap. There will be no armistice. There will be no negotiations until Germany prefaces its plea with unconditional surrender. "We have just begun to fight." The New York Tribune says that one condition of war has been laid down by the United States and one only. That condition is that force only, force to the utmost, force without stint or limit must be used until there is destroyed forever in this world the indecent, intolerable criminal thing that now holds out its dripping hand. The Boston Post is of opinion that there is and there can be and there will be one answer, "unconditional surrender first." It is impossible to regard this plea for an armistice as anything but a species of trickery either to gain military time, or to get around a peace table holding the better cards. Other influential journals, including the Boston Herald, and Providence Journal, voice similar sentiments, and the slogan of American public sentiment is unconditional surrender. And how could it be otherwise. A wild beast nation, mad with blood lust is running amok through civilization: a nation which has practiced in this war, vandalism unprecedented in history. Barbarism shows no parallel to the acts of the modern Huns. By them conventions have been set at naught, plighted faith disregarded. They have tortured, murdered, ravished, burned regardless of human decency or divine injunction. And now with the cup of their iniquity filled to the brim, they ask for pardon. There can be no pardon where will be no pardon. The cup which they have filled must be drained to the very dregs. The future safety of civilization and of Christianity (which according to the German Superman, is but a religion for slaves) demands it. Justice demands it and no remonstrances from pacifists anywhere, must be allowed to interfere with the course of retributive justice. Sentimentality and solicitude for German feelings must not be permitted to sway the minds of those who will yet dictate peace to Germany. The allies have travelled a long and bitter road to the victory which is now within their grasp, and the fruits of that victory must not be plucked from them by any sympathy displayed toward either the Kaiser or his myrmidons and satellites, yea, and people. There can be no peace, until Germany has been treated by the Allies, as France and Belgium, were served by the armies of the modern Attila. We want no vengeance, but we do want reparation, restitution and indemnity. But why can indemnify the people of the devastated territories of France and Belgium for all that they have suffered? Nothing that a crushed Germany can pay, nothing that she can do, will compensate the peasantry and landed proprietors of these countries for their loss. Germany does not feel their agony of body and spirit, and Germany will not feel their sufferings until the populations of German towns experience the terrors of bombing from the air and invasion by land. In France particularly, the Prussians have defiled, burnt or destroyed everything that they could not steal or convert to their own filthy use. At every place they occupied they left behind them on departure nothing but waste and ruin. Out of the fairest fields and towns they made deserts and wilderness. Out of mere savage brutality, and for no military object, they have left destruction in their train. They have treated the inhabitants with indignity and torture far more ruthless than ever the red Indian inflicted on his captives. These are the people that come now holding out the olive branch of peace, their peace, and are some foolish people who would advise acceptance of this offer, made with no good intention. No British or French or Belgian or Serbian prisoner in the hands of the Germans would advise the making. Rather would they act as did Regulus who taken prisoner by the Carthaginians in the first Punic War, was sent back to Rome under parole of honor to return to Carthage if he failed in securing peace. Standing before the Roman Senate he urged against peace, and in spite of the entreaties of his friends returned to torture and death at Carthage. He knew that Carthage was beaten, hence his reason for insisting that the war be prosecuted with vigor. We know that Germany is beaten, hence all the more reason why there should be no peace until war is carried into her borders, and she sees as a suppliant, for what she now demands, as an equal. "The cornered beast draws in its claws and offers us its blood-stained paw." Shall we accept the hand of Cain? NO. Peace only can come through Victory followed by Germany's unqualified and unconditional surrender.

To have two fatal motor accidents within the short period of three weeks, is going rather strong for St. John's, and if additional testimony were Fatal Motor Accident.

Old and Respected Citizen Killed. Dastardly Action of Car Driver. Police Drag Net Out.

The horrifying news that another fatal motor tragedy had occurred spot through the city last night, and citizens learned with deep regret that the victim was one of our most highly respected and aged citizens in the person of Mr. John Jeans, of Cochran Street. At nine o'clock last night Mr. Jeans, who was returning from a meeting of the Masonic Mutual and Beneficial Association, which was held at the Masonic Temple, was run down and killed by a motor car on Gower Street, at the junction of "Seaver's Lane." At the home mentioned Mr. James Aylward, who lives nearby, heard a sudden crash which led him to believe something unusual had happened in the street. Opening his front door he saw a motor car stopped and almost instantly saw a man jump in and drive away. At the same time he noticed a man lying in the street and he called to his assistant he found Mr. Jeans, who was dead. Mr. Aylward immediately reported the matter to the police. Supt. Grimes and several police officers hurried to the scene and tenderly raised the body and took it to the morgue. Dr. Anderson was sent for and examined the remains, pronouncing death as instantaneous. The car had struck Mr. Jeans in the left shoulder and passed over his body. There is no particular offender in this respect, unless it is the "newly rich" motorist who apparently takes a delight in showing open defiance of the regulations. If the accident of Monday, September 23rd, had not the effect of showing how easily such an occur, that of last night will surely have a similar effect on the pedestrians and motorists, that in the interests of both something must be done, and promptly, to obviate any recurrence of such happenings in future. The rights of the pedestrian are sacred. The rights of the car owner are restricted, and the latter must be brought to realize the power which, in spite of this restriction, he holds. The driver of the car which killed a worthy citizen last night is unknown. He is long he to remain unknown is a matter for the police, and we are sure that they will leave no stone unturned in their efforts to locate him. He must be found, and his name must be set out and gradually narrowed, until the killer is enclosed in its meshes. Whoever that driver was he is a first class miscreant. He is a man who is driving away in his car, after examining the body of his victim (whom he doubtless recognized) without rendering any assistance or calling for aid, places him in the criminal category and no expense or effort should be spared in rounding him up. No matter what his status or position, he is a criminal. HE MUST BE FOUND, even if it is necessary to have every car owner and driver in St. John's make affidavit as to his or his car's whereabouts at the hour of the accident last night. The killing of an aged and esteemed citizen was the result of reckless driving or criminal negligence or both, and the guilty driver must be apprehended, no matter how long it takes to finally locate him, and delivered to justice.

A Marine Feat.

Parties who watched the refloating of the Douglas Adams, says it was a magnificent feat, and J. H. Carter and Jas. Davis, of Summerside, Bay of Islands, are to be congratulated on the success of their undertaking. When large wrecking companies with all their outfit, fail to refloat a schooner and say it can't be done, give the job to "Herb" Carter and watch the results. On Friday, Mr. Carter went to St. George's, to consider the undertaking of the launching of the "Plett-Talk Company's" vessel Arnish. This splendid vessel, the queen of the fleet of 492 tons gross got stuck while being launched some weeks since, by sand washing on the ways and was delivered to justice.

Keep to the Sidewalks.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—I have been much interested in your editorials on the sidewalk traffic and believe that I may be regarded by the police if it would be great improvement on our present "go-as-you-please" methods. I would suggest that the police or Municipal Council place signs on the sidewalk which would read "keep to the right;" this would prove helpful in regulating the traffic. For some time I have been tempted to write on other phases of our street traffic, viz. the prevailing habit of using the street instead of the sidewalk. I have often heard it said that in Canada and the U.S. a Newfoundland is "known" by his fondness for the street instead of the sidewalk. This may be due to some extent because of the fact that the sidewalks in some places are not so smooth or attractive as the main street, but nevertheless I believe it is chiefly due to the fact that we all "go as we please." A campaign should be started to educate the people to stick to the sidewalk and use the main street only when necessary. This letter is not written to defend irresponsible motorists who should be checked for that and careless driving, but I firmly believe that fewer accidents would happen if our people would keep off the main street except when necessary. Yours truly, PEDESTRIAN.

The Oil Industry WANTED!

It is satisfactory to find that General Oilfields, Ltd., in continuing operations at Parson's Pond, despite well known local labor and war difficulties. The Ethie landed at Humbermouth a full deck-cargo of residual products to the management of the Gas Light Co. at St. John's. We learn that throughout the summer the company has sold gasoline and other refined products to the fishermen of some of the more northern outports. Unfortunately drilling operations were interfered with early in the summer owing to the management finding it impossible to secure sufficient suitable labor, most of the oilfield hands preferred to fish for the four months at the high wages paid for this kind of work, but it is hoped that at least two new wells will be drilled early next year. Meanwhile improvements are being made on the plant and new land is being surveyed.—Western Star.

Why She Did the Right Thing

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

In my neighborhood a mother recently saved her four year old son from burning to death. She had left him alone for only a moment but he had managed to climb up, get hold of the forbidden matches and set his cotton blouse afire. The tragedy which might have been too well known to require description. There was but one thing to do. And unlike most mothers, who either stand, spell-bound with fright, or pick up the child and rush blindly from the house, this mother did it.

It would not have been so notable, had she been one of those women who are so well poised, so self possessed, that they always do the right thing. She was a highly organized, extremely nervous little mother who, as she well knew, was quite apt to do the wrong thing at a crisis.

She Had Planned Just What She Would Do.

"I've always known that Junior would get those matches some day," she told her husband later. "And I have always had a terrible fear that I wouldn't do the right thing. And over and over I have said to myself 'You must stop and pick up the rug and then wrap him in it.' I have pictured myself doing that, over and over."

"This has, I will admit, a morbid tinge to it. To picture possible catastrophes is not pleasant. And yet, when the crisis came, when her conscious mind froze, the subconscious reactions served to carry her through.

There is a Mean Between These Two.

To be continually meeting imaginary dangers is an unhealthy state of mind. But never to consider possible dangers is even unhealthier.

A great many housewives recognize the need of a first aid cabinet and a book of instructions. But how many of them even open the instructions until a crisis arises?

You know there is something called a tourniquet? Could you achieve one, or would you be forced to read directions first,--and be too late?

One Mother Did This.

Are you in deadly fear that your children may get hold of the bottle marked "Poison" so carefully hidden away? If you are a mother, you are. But do you know that with only a funnel, and a piece of rubber tubing to thrust down his throat, and some soapy water you may save the child when the doctor's stomach pump would not have arrived in time?

Every doctor can tell you of one or two instances in his career, where a life was saved by somebody who did exactly the right thing.

To simply keep unpleasant possibilities from mind, is to be overwhelmed if they do occur. To plan for such possibilities is to arm yourself to meet them in a way that will leave no bitter regrets.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Dear Sirs,—Your traveller is here to-day and we are getting a large quantity of your MINARD'S LINIMENT. We find it the best Liniment on the market making no exception. We have been in business 13 years and have handled all kinds, but have dropped them all but yours; that sells itself, the others have to be pushed to get rid of.

Household Notes

In cakes and puddings one does not have to use so much sugar if raisins are used.

Crackers may be used instead of bread in bread pudding, and make a quite delicious dessert.

Always look into your gas stove before lighting, to see if anything by chance has been left there.

An excellent present for the bride is a cotton bread bag to keep the wash bread in good condition.

Save all scraps of soap, pound them and boil with twice as much water until they become a toilet jelly.

The use of bread-and-butter plates is economical, because every bit of unused butter can be saved this way.

Use sewing scraps or newspaper in the kitchen for wiping out greasy dishes, thereby saving soap and hot water.

Hang your towels on a flat white enamel curtain rod. This prevents rusting and the sliding of towels to the floor.

To save the corners of a new broom from breaking when sweeping under the furniture, pull an old stocking leg over it.

THE BATTLE CRY.

Oh! though to death we go,
On through the fields of pain,
Laughing at leaden rain,
Dealing them blow for blow,
Falling—but not in vain!
Dying—but living still—
This be our battle cry:
"Freedom they cannot kill,
Right was not born to die."

What matters death or pain?
What matters you or I?
All men are born to die.
They who depart, remain
Under earth's friendly sky,
Giving young blood a thrill
Holding high standards high;
Our dreams they cannot kill,
Our flag shall always fly!

Back from war's dreadful hour,
Out of the smoke and grime,
Out of the death and slime,
Our spirits shall return.
Brave to the end of time,
Here youth shall greet us still,
Here shall our banner fly;
Freedom they cannot kill,
Never her soldiers die,
Thou art gone but not forgotten.

A Bell Invention.

The inventor of the Bell telephone, Alexander Graham Bell, has another invention to his credit that very few know of; yet it is in constant use in France. It is called the "telephone probe," and absolutely locates the exact position of a bullet in the human body.

A Black Goliath.

A negro who arrived in camp with a contingent from Mississippi is six feet eight inches tall, and weighs 365 pounds. The shoes made for him are seventeen inches long, and there is just three times the quantity of cloth in his uniform that the average uniform requires.

VEGETABLES AS BEAUTIFIERS.

If your skin is in need of whitening and softening, the best remedy is the homely cucumber in your kitchen garden as they have been known as appendix beautifiers for a long time. There are several ways of using this friendly vegetable, the simplest of which is to pare it, cut it in thick slices and rub it upon the face without further preparation. The juice is left on, overnight and washed off with warm, not hot, water in the morning.

The best way to prepare a cucumber beauty lotion is to mash a cucumber into pulp, place the pulp in half a pint of milk and set the whole upon the stove to come to a slow boil. When it has come to a three minute boil, the lotion is removed and strained through a cloth or very fine strainer. The result is a cucumber cream, which is delightful to use if perfumed with rose water, essence of violet or lavender. This, too, is applied before retiring and washed off in the morning. It is an excellent whitener and is recommended for removing "collar lines."

Then there is the accommodating tomato. When our fingers are stained from cooking or the paring of vegetables, a piece of tomato rubbed upon them will whiten them nicely. The tomato juice is allowed to stay on the hands for some time, and is then washed off with soap and water. To whiten the chin use the common white potato. Pare the potato and rub it upon the chin or blind slices of it about the chin for a couple of hours daily. The potato is then removed and the skin washed with a mild soap and warm water, after which a good facial cream is rubbed in.

There is really no excuse for a woman being unbecomingly even if she has not the money with which to purchase expensive cosmetics, for there remains her own garden, a beautiful source of supply.

THE WAR MACHINE.

The mighty German war machine is busted in the road; the greatest engine ever seen broke down beneath its load. The wise mechanics flocked around and try to make repairs; old Hindenburg, he paws the ground, and Chuffer Wilhelm swears. Says Lundendorff, "This blasted old boat will never run again; it's got its everlasting goat, and we are hoodooed men." The kronprinz, smeared with mud and grease, crawls from beneath the car, and says, "Perhaps a plea for peace, just now, would travel far."

While this old ark could hit the plain at fifty miles an hour, all talk of peace gave me a pain—I gloried in its power. But while we pushed it we forgot, methinks, to knock on wood; our Jonah's got us now, I wot, and peace looks pretty good." And then exclaims his haughty sire, "The blame must go your way; you would put on that wretched tire, that blew out every day. If Me and Gott had run this boat, with none to interfere, I would not mourn my royal goat, which you made disappear." Says Hindenburg, "The motor's works kick up an awful din; we'll have to telephone the Turks to come and haul us in." The war machine is in the ditch, a sad and ghastly wreck, and Wilhelm mourns, in doleful pitch, the windshield round his neck.

HUGHES ON PEACE.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—Premier Hughes, of Australia, addressing Australian business men in London, declared that Germany knows she has beaten, hence the Socialists, who are the tools of autocracy get a place in the Ministry. The Kaiser's and Hindenburg's new Chancellor struts about the stage and talks about democracy and love of peace, while the Reichstag applauds, adorns and lays out the solemn farce. He declared that Germany's offer was a ploy to avoid the penalty for her recent deeds. The courage and tenacity, with which the Empire's troops, after withstanding terrific onslaughts at spring and again resumed the offensive with such decisive results, is the greatest chapter of our military history. Smashing the enemy's great offensive system in the west, which he aimed to be impregnable, is a feat of which we are all justly proud, and one for which the Empire will ever be grateful. Premier Hughes said "All the world knows that Prince Maximilian of Baden speaks not for the people, but for Hindenburg and the Kaiser. Moreover Prince Maximilian's letter to Prince Hohenzollern shows that his attitude towards democracy is sincere, let them prove it by deeds. If they abhor the Kaiser and military autocracy, let them show the world by deeds that they do not desire to think by this canting whine about peace, which is drowned by roaring flames, and the crash of the falling walls of France's and Belgium's and cities, to escape the penalty of their crimes? The present peace movement will be followed by others more menacingly devised, because they will because the people of the world will not listen to whines about peace, until the Tiger's claws and cut and his teeth drawn. Some people ask when will peace come. In view of recent developments in the military situation, the final crash of the Hunns may break upon our ears very soon, referring to raw materials. Premier Hughes reiterated that there would be enough to go round after the war. It must be just to our Allies and ourselves. Germany has crippled France and Belgium and she now asks for shares of raw materials. Well let her have it, but not until she has replaced the machinery of France she has wantonly destroyed or stolen. Her hand back these patterns and made secrets which she has also stolen, and let her compensate French and Belgian manufacturers and workers. (Applause.)

outlined in his message to Congress January, 1917. In his article Bernhardt fairly charges that the German Foreign Office has the peace steps in Washington at the end of the year and the beginning of 1917, by Count Bernstorff.

THE SCAPEGOAT.

COPENHAGEN, To-day. Apparently German writers are endeavoring to place the blame for the proclamation of Germany's intention of submarine warfare, and the failure to secure an early peace advantage to the shoulders of "the Government of Denmark." It is interesting to note that the Copenhagen Daily charges that the German Government had re the peace steps taken in Washington at the end of August, and the beginning of 1917, by President Bernhardt.

German Gazette says "We have reason to believe that the peace step which has been commenced will be continued."

NEW SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN.

LONDON, Oct. 10. The sinking of the Japanese ship Hiranu Maru, and the Dublin mail boat Leinster, are incidents of a new submarine campaign, which the Germans launched about ten days ago, according to the Mail. It adds, that at the time, renewed submarine activity became evident in various directions, notably along the routes followed by steamers carrying American troops. It is reported that the new U boats are much larger and more heavily armed than any which have been sent out previously by Germany. Among the missing from the Leinster is Lady Alexandra, Phyllis Hamilton, daughter of the Dowager Duchess of Abercorn.

Mother! Is Child's Stomach Sour, Sick?

If tongue is coated or if cross, feverish, constipated give California Syrup of Figs.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign of little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit-laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

A Plea for The Widow.

BACKED UP BY "MARY."
Dear Sir, It was with the keenest interest and approval that I read the letter of Rev. Walter R. Smith in today's Daily News. Even before the increase in the pay of the civil servants to my mind the poor widows should have been attended to. But, Mr. Editor, before going farther, I must say that I am not a widow, as my Tom is still hale and hearty, and working away at the Shipbuilding Company, making good money, and we are living well, although everything is so high. You see in that way we are contributing to the general revenue out of which the salaries of the civil servants come.

When I say that the widows should have been attended to before the civil servants I have one or two reasons, and these are (1) that a civil servant-policeman, for instance, who considers his salary too small to give him the necessities, can supplement it by keeping boarders, as some of our police officers find themselves compelled to do. Now, a poor widow whose only income is five or six dollars for three months has not even got that advantage, so to my mind that is one reason why I claim that the case of the widow should have been attended to before those who could keep boarders, or whose wives or daughters could earn quite a large sum monthly by dressmaking or other needle work.

In the second place, let me take the case of a poor old widow who is getting the paltry dole of five or six dollars a quarter. I am thinking now of one who raised a large family of sons and daughters who, while her family were at home, used to go through a barrel of flour every three weeks, together with all the other food, clothes, boots, etc., necessary for such a large family. Of course she was thus adding in no small way to the revenue that helped to pay the civil servants. Is it fair or honest, I say, when such a one is reduced to the humiliating position of having to apply to the Poor Commissioner for help to be handed such a miserable allowance? It must be admitted that $5 a quarter is about the same as one dollar a quarter was before the outbreak of the war. This is another reason why the widows dole should have been increased before the rise in the pay of the Civil Servants.

Now, Mr. Editor, it must not be thought that I am against giving our over-worked (?) civil servants an increase. Far from it. But I am against allowing our half-starved and sorrowing widows to be left longer in that condition, while many with good salaries have their incomes increased.

In closing I would tender my very best thanks to Rev. Walter R. Smith for his excellent letter in behalf of the poor widows, and to ask the Government to consider it carefully, and lose no time in giving the widows an increase in their allowance.

Thanking you for space in your valuable paper.

I am, yours sincerely,
MARY.

Destruction of Sheep.

Dear Sir,—The people of Carbonear have asked the Government and those in authority for policemen that will carry out the law to its fullness, but nothing has been done to protect them. It is really a disgrace that the Government and all in authority treat this matter of carrying out the law relating to the keeping of dogs, in such a light manner.

There were about five hundred dollars worth of sheep and cattle killed in the month of June this year, and about two weeks ago the dogs destroyed several large sheep, and Friday night past another good sheep fed the hungry brutes.

In Carbonear we have four policemen, but these savage dogs are allowed to run at large, destroying cattle and sheep without a log or muzzle on. Only last week one man had to sell his flock of sheep to the butchers. He would not risk keeping them any longer, and others will have to do the same, or kill them to save their lives.

At Hr. Grace the people keep both dogs and sheep. I am told that one man in that town has a flock of one hundred and forty-eight sheep, and several other people have good flocks, yet not one sheep has been killed by the dogs in that town for a number of years.

A dog with a seven pound log on his neck cannot catch a sheep, so the people of Hr. Grace can keep sheep while they hold police protection.

If the Government or those in authority had the law enforced, when they were first notified, there would have been a number of sheep alive today that have been destroyed by dogs. But it is poor people's sheep that are being killed, and what does the Government care about poor people's interests?

It is the Government that makes the laws, and its their duty to see they are carried out, so we sufferers intend taking action this fall, if they do not make a settlement for our losses.
Yours truly,
SUFFERER.

"OBSERVER" ON THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

Of course we kept our ears cocked while at St. John's, recently, to hear political news of any kind. The situation is this, men of all walks of life are heartily sick of the present aggregation. The "Government" apparently consists of Sir P. T. McGrath, and Hons. Cashin and Crosbie, the first named being the real head, with the last named holding a strong hand as well on the reins.

Nowhere did we hear an apology or word of praise for our "National" Government. Remember we went to look for it in no special party circles, but business men, clerks, cabmen and soldiers were all ready to denounce the existing party. It is quite apparent that a very strong feeling exists therefore against the ruling party, but—and here comes the difficulty—there seems no Moses to lead us out of Egypt. The only man whose name is mentioned is Sir Robert Bond. We are told that he is actually in negotiations with the present opposition, but as the price of his leadership he demands absolute control, and the choice of his own candidates. This is the point at which the negotiations are sticking, and there was to have been, we understand, a meeting last week to try and arrive at some conclusion.

However, the present party have voted themselves in till next May, and will probably continue to sit till the fall, so that no elections is at all likely until November, 1919. As for the bye-elections—and one of the worst features of the present misadministration is that one-third of the Dominion is unrepresented—it seems unlikely that either the Government will open the vacant districts or that the opposition has strength enough to force them.

The general feeling of the people of the city seems to be, therefore, that they are heartily sick of misgovernment and graft, but they are content to wait and would prefer to wait patiently for the formation of a strong opposition, rather than risk the chance of a dash from frying pan to fire.

Of course all sorts of rumours are current. One of these says that Baron Morris has written to some of his former supporters in the city in reference to his return to politics, suggesting a platform and offering as one of the planks a reformation of the present prohibition law, so that some of the thristier souls might more easily procure drinks. This is, of course, only a rumour, but we were assured in all seriousness that it was even so.

As for friend Coaker, he seems hardly to figure. Could he have broken with the government at the time of his return from his trip north in July, he might have even then rallied to his support the wanting enthusiasm of his former "stalwarts." But alas for William, the attack on the Executive in the Advocate over the Prospero and Reid freight rates was as quickly silenced as the telephone when one cuts the wires, and much as Mr. Coaker would perhaps have liked to have broken, he found himself too well ham-strung. Nothing sizes up his position any better than our article of two weeks ago—"They grasped the floor"—and though it is rumored that Mr. Coaker has handed in his resignation, so far it has not been accepted.

A new element is likely to appear sooner or later. Many of our young men have been over in France, where they have spent their strength, and their blood, and suffered much in hardship and pain. They are intensely angry to come home and find politicians making money at the price of their sufferings. As yet their voice is barely heard, but there can be no doubt that they are a power to be later reckoned with, a power which will insist on purity in politics.—Twillingate Sun, Oct. 5.

Fought the Good Fight

General sympathy will be expressed to the parents, relatives and friends of Ptes. Brigham Hann, Bonne Bay, and John A. Burton, Rose Blanche, both belonging to the Royal Nfld. Regiment, and who expired into eternal rest at the 36th Casualty Clearing Station on September 11, having died of wounds received in action. They fought the good fight and kept the faith, and now they have entered into their reward, and are joined with the many comrades in arms who preceded them.

You Are Deceived?

Have you been led to believe that the knife is the only cure for piles?
If so, it is unfortunate, for many thousands are being cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Some times after operations have failed and often when doctors have said that an operation was the only hope, it won't cost you much to try this treatment in your own home. It is sure to relieve and usually effects complete cure.

At the City Hall.

The Municipal Council held its regular weekly session last evening. The Mayor presided, and Councilors Morris, Brownrigg, Mullaly, Ayre and Vianicome were present. After the reading of minutes, etc., the following matters were disposed of:
The Secretary Public Works Department wrote asking if Council would undertake the repairs of Quiddi Vidi Road "Boulevard" near Government Oil Store. His Department was willing to bear the expenses of the repairs. The City Engineer is to give an estimate of the cost of the work.
W. H. Jackman applied for the extension of the water and sewerage pipes on Mundy Pond Road. Mr. Jackman is to be written that the Council recognizes that this locality is one where water and sewerage should be placed, but that it is not within the power of the Council to undertake this work at present, nor is the season of the year suitable.
Bowring Bros. Ltd., applied for permission to install an eight horsepower motor and planer in their carpenter shop, Southside. Application was granted.
The Solicitor reported that in the matter of the right of way east of Cochrane Street, he was of the opinion that the remedy was in the hands of private citizens. If it is a public right of way, any member of the public can abate the obstruction by cutting down the defence.
C. R. Thomson asked for plan of his ground, "Suburb," as he wished to reply to a number of applications for building lots. The plan will be prepared.
C. J. Chaplin asked that the grading in front of his door, Spencer St., be attended to. This matter was referred to the Sanitary Supervisor to find out the nature of the complaint.
James Murdock wrote that it is not his clients' intention to build just yet on the Toppal road. The street line was required so that a concrete wall might be built and trees planted to beautify the locality. It was ordered the street line be given, and the Secretary was authorized to treat with the owners as to the taking over of the necessary land.
Mrs. Anderson, Quiddi Vidi Road, wrote, complaining of a building recently erected near her house. As this is a private matter she will have to consult her Solicitor.
Ernest H. Willis was permitted to repair house, Gover Street, subject to the City Engineer's direction.
Plan of house for S. R. Oakley, Toppal Road, was granted.
Imperial Tobacco Co. requested permission to erect a galvanized addition to their factory, Flavin St. Plan passed.
The Sanitary Supervisor reported a number of gulleys attended to during the week. He also said there were a number of horses at the stables that required to be sold. It was ordered the matter be left in the hands of the Supervisor.
The Health Officer submitted his weekly report of the number of cases of infectious diseases in the city.
Road Inspector Neville reported on the bad condition of the bridge, Blackhead Road, and also the bridge on the South Side Road, near Cochrane. The Road Works will be asked to give attention to these matters.
The Sanitary Inspector reported on a number of houses in bad repair throughout the city. It was ordered the owners be written to have these houses put in repair.
The City Engineer reported that the old decking, Dillon's Bridge, was taken up; grading Barnes' Road commenced; work in connection with the water service for Church of England Orphanage begun; old intake pipe, Windsor Lake, was taken up; sewerage on Barter's Hill practically completed, and some other minor matters.
It was ordered that the City Parks be closed at 6 o'clock p.m., commencing Monday, Oct. 14.
After disposing of some routine business and passing pay rolls, bills, etc., the meeting adjourned.

G. F. S. Rooms.

The Girls' Friendly-Society new Recreation Rooms at Central Teachers' Home, were opened last night for the first time, and had those who have contributed and helped the good cause along, been present, there would have felt more than repaid at the sight of the happy faces and the sounds of merriment which greeted them everywhere. Despite the rain there was a large attendance, and not a cup of tea was provided for everyone, the general verdict being that "it was just like home". The recreation rooms will be open every night from 7-10 and girls of all denominations will be welcome and can partake equally of the sick fund and library. The new rooms include a library, which is used twice a week for reading and writing classes, a recreation room and a work-room, where on Thursday nights patriotic work is done, also a kitchen and cloak room. The need of such rooms is very apparent and supplies a badly felt want, particularly for those coming from outside the city.

As the Soldier Died.

An incident illustrative of the noble freedom from religious narrowness and bigotry which marks the men of the Allied armies at the front is related in a paper in Upper Canada. "During the fierce fighting along the Yser a Jewish rabbi stumbled upon a dying soldier—a Catholic. By signs the soldier made known his needs for the last sacrament. But no priest was near and the man was fast nearing the Valley of the Shadow. The rabbi—all honor to him—took two small twigs, fastened them together in the form of a cross, and held them to the dying man's lips." Whatever his own faith, who could fail to be moved by such an incident or miss its nobility? And what blessing to Canada if when the men come home from war they bring into our nation's life the spirit which the incident has typified! It is one of the tragic things that so often we forget that the one God rules all and loves all though there be many ways of worshipping Him.—(Ez.)

The Swan Safety Military Pen

fills a specific need. A moment's reflection on the question

WHERE CAN A SOLDIER GET INK?

convinces every one of the desirability of a pen which carries its own supply sufficient to write

150 Four-page Letters or 3 Letters Each
 Week for a Year.

It holds in its magazine 25 Swan Ink Tablets. All a soldier has to do is to fill the reservoir of the pen with water from his flask and drop in one Tablet.

Give your son, brother, sweetheart a Military Pen. You will be anxious to get his letters. Provide him with the means of writing them. Complete with Clip,
