THE Lady of the Night
—OR—
Amelia Makes a Success

CHAPTER V.
"Is this all there is for lunch?" she inquired, looking disdainfully at the cold leg of mutton and rice pudding. "No one can say I'm faddy about my eating, but really—"
"I—dare say Martha could cook some little thing, eh, Nora?" said Mr. Ryall nervously; "a poached egg or some little trifle—you see, Amelia has been used to—"
"Something better than a poached egg," broke in Mrs. Ryall scornfully. "But I dare say that's the best thing that woman can manage. I never saw such a creature; she don't seem to have any idea of cooking; my coffee this morning was more like mud than coffee"—Mrs. Ryall pronounced it "corfee"—"I am sure what's the able to stand her long," she added, using Martha's own words. "I shall give her notice if she don't improve and get into my ways. What is there to drink?"
There was only water on the table, and Mr. Ryall timidly suggested a nice glass of ale; but the lady, who, only a few short weeks ago, had been more than content to quaff a glass of honest stout at the wings of a third-rate music-hall, turned up her nose at the home-brewed October.
"I appended to bring a bottle of whisky with me," she said, "it's on my dressing-table—no, if isn't—I remember I put it at the bottom of my wardrobe; you can't be too particular not to leave spirits about, especially with a woman like that in the house. Run up and fetch it, there's a good girl!"
Nora went up for the whisky. The room reeked of the cheap but strong scent which Mrs. Ryall favoured, and resembled, though Nora did not know it, the dressing-room of a quick-change artiste. Clothes of various glaring colours, all in consistency had been thrown about in every direction. On the table stood a glass which, by its odour, loudly proclaimed the fact that Mrs. Ryall had already partaken of the contents of the bottle. With her heart sinking still lower, with every fibre of her being in protest and disgust, Nora fled from the room.
Mrs. Ryall took the bottle and poured out a liberal dose of whisky, and an illiberal one of water.
"I don't usually touch spirits in the day-time, but I feel so low—it's the journey, I s'pose. And now, Reginald, dear, when we've ad our lunch, if lunch it can be called, you can show me round. I should like to see some of the other 'ouses and what the people are like. I'm fond of society, and I don't mind owning up to it; you see, I have always mixed in the very best—"
Nora, murmuring an excuse, escaped the threatened flood, which had, no doubt, been started by the generous spirit. It seemed to her, as she saddled Tommy and rode fast across the valley, as if she were trying to ride away from the situation, that she should never be able to endure it; and yet it would have to be borne; for look his men into his confidence, not seldom giving them the reason which prompted the order; but woe betide the man who, through neglect or carelessness, disregarded the order. With that man Elliot had a short and easy way which nipped neglect and disobedience, in the bud, and yet somehow or other did not disturb the friendly relations between himself and Elliot. As a matter of fact, the smallest details concerning the treatment of the horses seemed to Elliot of vital importance, and he quietly insisted upon his orders being obeyed to the letter. A man who is at once gentle and firm generally gets what he wants, and Elliot was well served.

He went round the stables, saw that the horses were comfortable for the night, held the usual little conference with Jim, a bandy-legged Irishman, and was going to his cottage, where he supper had long awaited him when he saw a figure, drawn by an Exmoor pony, coming down the narrow lane. In the figure was a lady whom he recognized, by her mass of golden hair, as Miss Florence Bartley. She was daintily dressed, with a golf cape thrown over her shoulders; and a book lay face downwards on the seat beside her—Exmoor ponies, even when they are twenty years old, do not permit of much reading on the part of their drivers, and Miss Florence looked as if she had been too fully occupied for a perusal of the latest social-problem novel.
Elliot, raising his cap, was passing on; but she glanced at him, her eyes grew suddenly sharp, and she pulled up and said—
"Does this road lead to the Hall?"
"No, it doesn't," said Elliot in his direct fashion; "you're going away from it. You must turn back till you get to the road to the left."
"Ah, thanks," she drawled slowly; but, unseen by him, her keen eyes ran over him quickly. She was a good judge of men, this fine London lady as Elliot would have called her, and she noted the stalwart form, the grace of his bearing, and the handsome, boyish face. She remembered him in an instant, remembered the girl in whose company she had seen him, and half-unconsciously it seemed to her that such a face and figure were wasted on a farm-girl. Besides, the voice in which he had replied to her had added to the impression his personal appearance had made.
"I have lost my way," she said with a touch of coyness and appeal which she had found very effective in her dealings with what is erroneously called the stronger sex. "I got rather bored at the Hall, and I begged them to let me have this pony and this absurd carriage—I think you call it a jingle—and to let me go for a drive by my very own self. I meant to have a thorough lase; but this little beast does not appear to be happy unless he is going full pelt. We have been half round the world, and he only consented to stop when he got into this road."
"He knows the place—knows me," said Elliot, taking hold of the pony's diminutive head and pressing it against him affectionately. "He often runs in here when he is turned out to grass, and I have got into the habit of giving him a bit of cake." Elliot always carried some linseed cake in one of his pockets, and he produced a piece now and put it into the pony's mouth. "Yes, he knows me."
"He has the advantage of me," said Miss Florence pleasantly. "What is your name?"
"Elliot Graham," he said in a matter-of-fact tone. Strangely enough he felt none of the tremors, the shyness, which assailed him when he was speaking to Nora.
"That is rather a nice name," said Miss Florence, raising her lids and then looking at him through her long lashes. "And what are you? I mean, what do you do?"
"I am a sort of stud groom," said Elliot, "and I look after some of Sir Joseph's horses."
"How very interesting!" she said. "I am awfully fond of horses. Dear me, how hot it is, quite like summer!"
"It often is here in April," said Elliot.
"Do you think you could get me something to drink?" she asked.
"There is nothing but water," he said.
"That will do capitally," she responded graciously.
He went into the cottage and brought her a glass of water. He brought it on a plate, and as she took the glass she glanced up at him with evident interest and curiosity. She sipped the water—she was not in the least thirsty, it is scarcely necessary to say—and as she sipped daintily her eyes still scanned his face.
"Thanks," she said; "I should like to see your horses; may I?"
"Certainly," said Elliot, but with no great enthusiasm, for his supper was waiting, and he was very hungry.
As he was hitching the pony to the railing in front of the cottage, she wondered how he, obviously a gentleman, came to be in that subordinate position. Now, Florence Bartley was not the kind to ask questions, even of herself, for mere curiosity's sake. She was a type of the numerous girls who move in smart society. Her father was an important Irish baronet, one of the men who hang about successful speculators like Sir Joseph in the hope of picking up some of the financial crumbs which fall from the Berwick, Ont.—"I had organic trouble, and after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Medicine all my troubles passed away. I was made strong and well and have been ever since. Now we have a fine baby boy six months old, and I know that I would not have this baby and would still be suffering if it had not been for your remedies. My husband had myself say that your remedies are worth their weight in gold, and I recommend them to my friends. One of my aunts is taking them now."—Mrs. NAPOLEON LAVIGNE, Berwick, Ontario, Canada.

Among the virtues of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is its ability to correct sterility in many cases. This fact is well established as evidenced by the above letter and hundreds of others we have published in these columns.
In many other homes, once childless, there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, writes Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. rich man's table. Sometimes these hangers-on act as guinea-pigs; that is to say, they figure as Directors of the more or less bogus Companies promoted or financed by their patrons, receiving a fee of a guinea for each attendance at the Board, where they are supposed to transact business of which they understand little or nothing, and are expected to sign their names to any statement, however wild and improbable, and to attest balancesheets which act as bait for the simple and credulous investor.
It is not difficult to imagine the kind of life such a girl as Florence would lead, in such a position, and in such circumstances; a life of continual struggle with what is termed general poverty; a hard-to-mouth existence, which is bad enough when one is born into it, but is almost intolerable when it falls to the lot of a person who, by birth and position, is considered to have a claim on prosperity.
From an early age she had been compelled, so to speak, to fend for herself; and as smart Society consists of two classes, the pigeons and the rooks, by sheer necessity Florence had become a rook, and worse—a decay. Not a few of the young men, and, alas, the young girls, who had come to grief recently had been lured to the bridge or baccharat table by the apparently innocent and ingenuous Miss Florence. Sir Joseph found her almost as useful to him as his father; for, though he did not openly countenance gambling at any of his houses—he generally went to bed before the card-playing began—he relied upon her to secure guests who would be useful to him; people with titles and no money, whose names, when printed among the list of his visitors in the Morning Post, gave him a certain social prestige in the City; and other men with money, who, with fine art, could be induced to buy shares when Sir Joseph was anxious to sell them.

Dear Sir,
I am forwarding photos of my little boy, aged 3 years. At 3 months I commenced giving him "Virol". This is the result. I found it a really wonderful food. He is just recovering from influenza, and again it proves his best food.
I strongly advise all mothers to try it.

BERLIN'S HOPES.
BERLIN, May 14. An exchange of view declared to be proceeding between the Allies, concerning the cancellation of Allied penalties, placed on the Germans in March, especially the Rhine Custom barrier and the occupation of Ruhr ports, in view of Germany's acceptance of the terms. It is reported here that Great Britain favors cancellation.

A RESIGNATION.
BERLIN, May 14. Prince Von Helldorf, German plenipotentiary in the Upper Silesian Plebiscite area, has resigned. His resignation was due to dissatisfaction over the attitude of the Inter-Allied Commission there.

IRISH ELECTIONS.
DUBLIN, May 14. Except for four Imperialist candidates, who were returned unopposed in the Dublin, not a single opponent has been nominated for the Southern Parliament against Sinn Fein candidates, who, therefore, will be returned unopposed in the Southern constituencies. These Sinn Feiners will refuse to take oath of allegiance to the Crown, and therefore, the new Parliament will never function. It will devolve upon the Viceroy to nominate the Executive on the lines of a Crown Colony Administration, unless the Government should decide to recognize all members elected in the North and South as a constituent assembly. More than half the members elected are in jail. The elections were the quietest ever known in Ireland, no polling being necessary.

ANOTHER FUME.
LONDON, May 14. Efforts on part of Polish insurance companies to create in plebiscite areas of Upper Silesia a situation similar to that which existed in Fiume during the Fascist regime, are sternly opposed by the British. The attitude of the British Government was made very clear by Premier Lloyd George, speaking in the Commons yesterday, who sharply challenged the Polish Government's disavowal of responsibility. It would appear that his words, which lacked nothing of frankness, would call for declarations from the chiefs of the Allied Powers, setting forth their positions.

RESCUE FAILED.
DUBLIN, May 14. An unsuccessful attempt was made this morning to rescue Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein organization, from his confinement in Mount Joy prison.

CHARGED WITH TREASON.
BERLIN, May 14. Allegations of high treason are made in proceedings instituted by the Ministry of Defence, against the radical newspaper Rote Fahne (Red Flag) as the result of publication by the paper of documents alleged to prove that the German military administration had planned an invasion of the Upper Silesian Plebiscite area, last October, and had plotted the assassination of Adalbert Korfanty. The Ministry declared the documents are fabrications.

UNEASY LIES THE HEAD.
LONDON, May 14. The denunciation of the Polish revolt by Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons yesterday, did not receive anything like unanimous support from London newspapers today. While there were strong expressions of approval, there were also sharp attacks upon Mr. Lloyd George, who was told, among other things, that he and his Allied colleagues were largely to blame for the situation and that the Polish Government was really powerless. The Daily Express commended the Premier's honesty, courage and statesmanship, and insisted that Poland "must be taught she cannot be allowed to become a distributing element in Europe." The Daily News held that Poland was "fatally and irretrievably in the wrong." The Morning Post described the Premier's speech as "a torrent of abuse invective and hysterical excitement," concluding the hope that the British would not allow itself to be rushed into acquiescence in the Premier's contemptible and senseless pro-Germanism.

ANOTHER MEETING.
LONDON, May 14. Following a conciliatory speech in the House of Commons on the miners' strike situation yesterday by Premier Lloyd George, it was learned unofficially that the Premier will bring the miners' leaders and the mine owners' representatives together again for a conference early next week.

PRINTERS OF PETERBORO.
PETERBORO, May 14. The printers' strike in Peterboro terminated with the adoption of a tentative agreement granting job printers forty-four hour week and thirty dollars a week scale. News-men go back to work at forty-eight hours and increase of one dollar and fifty cents weekly. They receive $31.50.

FRANCE ASSAILS L. G.
PARIS, May 14. French newspapers to-day assailed Lloyd George for his recent speech on the Upper Silesian situation and uphold Premier Briand's statements in an interview with foreign correspondents here Saturday.

Roumanian Funds.
Exporters to Roumania, who have been paid in Roumanian Treasury script payable in sterling during 1921, says the Mercantile Guardian (London) of April 21st, will be disappointed to learn that these bills will not be met when they fall due, the Roumanian Government proposing to renew them for one year, at 8 1/2 per cent. interest. I believe, however, that few of these bills are in this country, but interested parties will do well to communicate with their bankers without delay.

Shipping Notes.
S.S. Canadian Sapper, from Montreal via Charlottetown reached port Saturday evening with general cargo to the Furness Withy Co. About 100 head of cattle from Charlottetown also came by her.

The four masted schooner Cutty-sark, 10 days from New York via Halifax reached port yesterday morning with 1012 tons of anthracite coal to A. J. Harvey & Co.

MONDAY, May 16th, 1921.
NOTICE OF MOTION.

Hon. The Prime Minister—To ask leave to introduce a Bill entitled: "An Act to amend the Election Act, 1913."

Hon. The Prime Minister—To move the House into a Committee of the Whole to consider certain Resolutions respecting a loan for requirements of the Colony, and certain obligations to Municipal Council.

Hon. The Prime Minister—On Thursday next, 19th, inst., I will move the House into Committee of the Whole on Ways and Means.

NOTICE OF QUESTION.
Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister if he is aware that large numbers of people are returning from Grand Falls as a result of being unable to secure work there owing to the existence of a strike, and if so what steps the Government proposes to take to find employment for these people or to assist them in getting supplies to prosecute the fishery, and if he does not consider the time has come when the Government should formulate some broad and comprehensive policy with reference to the widespread industrial depression now existing in this country?

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister, in the absence of the Hon. Minister of Finance and Customs, if it is correct that the imports from abroad since the beginning of this year have been smaller in volume than any year the past decade; if this result is not attributable entirely to the disaster brought upon the business people by the policy of Fishery Regulations enforced last year, and what steps the Government proposes to take in the effort to stimulate trade between this Colony and the outside world in accordance with the promises made by him in his Manifesto before the last election?

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in his capacity of Chairman of the Railroad Commission:

- (a) If the six locomotives recently imported here from Philadelphia are too long to be turned on any turn-table in the railway system except in St. John's;
- (b) If any other turn-tables are long enough to turn them, to give the names of the same.

Mr. Lewis—To ask Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries if it is correct that there are only two vessels under construction in the country at the present time; to state where the said vessels are being built and by whom, their tonnage and the amount of bounty that will have to be paid for them; to ask if either of these vessels is being constructed by the Union Shipbuilding Company at Port Union and if so what is the reason why the promised extensive development which the Minister foreshadowed when urging the guaranteeing of bounties for the construction of ships a few years ago has not produced better results than are now evident?

Mr. Bennett—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister, in view of his statement a few days ago to the committee of the unemployed of St. John's, that the plans for the construction of a new "Long Bridge" have not yet been prepared, how it is that no action in this important matter has been taken before this date, seeing that the "Advocate" of December 1st, announced that the Railroad Commission sat for four hours the previous day and decided upon the building of a new Long Bridge and also on dredging the water above the bridge, and why no steps to carry these important decisions into effect have been taken for a period of five months?

Mr. Moore—To ask Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in his capacity of Chairman of the Railroad Commission, if it is the intention of the commission to operate a suburban railroad service between Holyrood and St. John's this Summer, beginning on June 1st, as decided upon at a meeting of the Commission on September the 11th, last, and if not why not?

POTATOES BOILED IN SEA WATER.
News has been received at Lowestoft of the safe arrival of the sailing smack Chance, 46 tons, which left the East Anglian coast on December 8 last, and reached Cape Town on March 8, travelling 8950 miles in 90 days.

The Chance, built by an Oulton Board firm of shipbuilders, was bought by a Mr. Elsarro, of Cape Town, who proposed to use her for line fishing and sealing. Captain Owen Phillips, of Newport, Mon., took command, and he had a crew of five with him and a passenger—a Mr. Villa. The vessel was fitted with a motor, but it only rendered three and a half hours' service during the voyage. A log kept by Mr. H. W. Drew, describes the privations and adventures of those on board. From first to last the vessel never called anywhere or reported herself except on arrival at Cape Town.

"Tanlac is Simply Grand," Declares Montreal Woman

"The Way It Helped Me is Nothing Short of Wonderful."

"Tanlac is simply grand, and I've already told all my friends about it, and want to make a statement for the benefit of others who are trying to find the right medicine for their troubles," said Miss Edwina Brousseau, a popular young lady residing at No. 30, Notre Dame St., East, Montreal, P.Q.

"For a whole year before I got Tanlac I don't remember eating a single meal without suffering dreadfully with pains in the pit of my stomach and frightful palpitation of the heart. My liver was out of order, I was constantly nauseated, and often got so dizzy I couldn't stand up. Mornings I had an awful headache, and felt tired and weary all the time. My condition worried me so much that I lost many a night's sleep, and just felt miserable all the time.

"But the way Tanlac has helped me is nothing short of wonderful. After taking the first few doses I began to get better, and now I feel just as well as I ever did in my life. My stomach is in the best of condition. I never lose a night's sleep, and feel good in every way. I'm always glad of an opportunity to praise Tanlac."

Further trying experience off the Brazilian coast. We were caught in a typhoon, and our gaff broke twice. Although we were well provisioned, we underestimated our supply of fresh water, and reached our last bucket 21 days from Cape Town, but fortunately we had heavy rains. We were boiling our potatoes in sea-water.

The Chance was frequently becalmed, and the crew suffered from the intense heat of the tropics. In the first seven weeks the smack covered 1500 miles, or roughly 107 miles a day.—Glasgow Herald.

Concealing Facts.

The Advocate complains that the Opposition in the House of Assembly are delaying the business of the session, and declares that "every day's delay of the Legislative (?) means serious consequences to those who are worrying over a means to get their bread and butter." How solicitous the motherly old Advocate can become when she has something to conceal behind maternal sympathy for those who are worrying over "their bread and butter." And whose is the fault if there is worry to-day over where the next meal is coming from? Has it not been because of the policy supported by the Advocate, at the direction of his master, that times are so gloomy and prospects so grimly unfortunate for the toilers; the same toilers whom that paper often described as the salt of the earth. (But pardon! Salt and Salter are sore points now with the Coaker following.)

The Advocate is deliberately, and with malice aforethought, deceiving his numerous readers North, who do not take any other newspapers published in St. John's. It is part of an arranged programme of keeping the North in the dark with regard to the startling occurrences in the House of Assembly, with the spot light of enquiry turned full upon Mr. Coaker, and it does not suit his book that his following of the F.P.U. shall learn of the shady transactions in which he has been mixed up, according to the recent exposures made in the lower House. Hence the instructions that have been sent to the Advocate that no mention shall be made of them, and that everything be blamed upon the Opposition. The business of the Assembly will go through, any more, will be expedited when all that has been concealed is revealed, and light finds out the dark places in connection with Fish, Salt, Sugar and many other matters of interest to the Colony.

The Advocate has not told its Northern readers the story of the cargo of the "President Coaker" nor the spiral manner in which that business deal was put through. To do so would be to give away the show. It is far better to trespass upon the credulity of the men who compose the F.P.U. by complaining that the Opposition are delaying the business of the country in the House. Let us tell these men, whom the Advocate is endeavoring to delude, that had it not been for the Opposition plying the Government with questions and demanding straight answers to them, that they would have awakened up some fine morning and found themselves part and parcel of the Dominion of Canada. Sold into Confederation without having had a word to say about the transfer. The business of the country will go through expeditiously when all the scandals underlying the deeds of the Government have been ruthlessly exposed and cleaned up. But not before. Responsible parties to these scandals have to be brought to book. There is not going to be any compromise, and no matter who is guilty of complicity, be he Prime Minister, Minister of Marine and Fisheries or private member of the House, his punishment will be meted out.

The story of the "President Coaker" and her cargo laden at Port Union last fall for Europe. Why does not the Advocate tell it in those lurid headlines for which that paper is famous? Why not tell the disgraceful episode of the exchanged cheques? Why not tell where the Bills of Lading and Charter parties are? Mr. Coaker, in the House the other day, in reply to a direct question of Sir John Crosbie, said he believed there was one copy of the letter on board the vessel. A mere evasion. Mr. Coaker with that superabundant business ability and knowledge which is his constant boast, should be aware that there is more than one copy of a Charter Party made. Never less than three; in certain cases six. Likewise Bills of Lading. Yet here is a Minister of the Crown, holding the portfolio of Marine and Fisheries, who has so frequently claimed to be possessed of a higher order of intelligence than any man in Newfoundland, and who does not hesitate to brand men in business longer than he has years, as incapables, having to confess that he does not know anything about the Bills of Lading or Charter Parties of a vessel belonging to a Company of which he is President, and that he cannot tell just how many of each were prepared. Some business man! The whole story of the "President Coaker" has not been told, but we fear that it will be a long day ere the Advocate mentions it. That paper might have done so but for one damning fact, viz., the fourth cheque produced in the House of Assembly by Sir John Crosbie on Friday last. That gave away the whole show and let the cat out of the bag. And there is more of this unsavory scandal to come. Concealment of facts will no longer save the Advocate, nor will there be any hushing up of this dirty business to save Mr. Coaker or those associated with him in the deal which has besmirched both him and them, in their easy handling of the Public Trust Funds of Newfoundland.

To-Night's Band Concert.

The concert which the Band of the C.L.B. Cadets, under Capt. A. Morris, is giving to-night in aid of Shannon Munn Memorial Company, promises to be most successful and enjoyable. The musical abilities of the C.L.B.C. Band are too well known to require any further mention. Suffice it to say that to-night they will be in their very best form and all who attend will be given a musical treat of no mean order. The Band is being assisted by several of the most popular local concert artists, whose efforts will undoubtedly be greatly appreciated. The concert will be under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor.

McMurdo's Store News.

Nuxated Iron is stated to be a form of iron in a readily assimilable form with other ingredients, of which Nux Vomica is presumably one, the whole forming what is claimed—with good reason, so far as we can judge—to be a tonic of quite exceptional value. It is used in cases of Anemia and functional weakness, and where the appetite is poor and the nerves in bad shape. We have had many requests for Nuxated Iron, and, as we have said, the accounts we get of the value of this preparation seem to warrant us in recommending it in such cases as those noted above. Price $1.85 a pkg.

A Striking Sermon.

"THE REIGN OF LAW."

Surrounded on every side by a powerful and complex force which pervades life and nature, individuals and communities are prone at times to resent the influence that appears to curtail freedom. Law may be defined as the subordination of the will of the one to the good of the many, or, again, the uniformity of power in operation. Law is universal, continuous, systematic, harmonious. It is a natural necessity. Education has been defined as the art of living together. The principle behind all human law is the subordination of the will of the one to the good of the many. When the rights of the community are concerned, the rights of the individual disappear.

Laws may be resented when they bring pressure to bear, but they can only be ignored with direful and calamitous results. All rebellion against law entails inexorable punishment in nature, and the penalty is not less inevitable when the law which governs the mind is broken. Civil law is a development consonant with the growth of the race, necessary and vital to its life. It is at the greatest peril to a community that the interruption of law is permitted at any time. The most unfortunate and appalling aspect of the present time is the tendency to ignore or oppose well established law, and great suffering and loss have already resulted in many cases from such a condition.

It is of the utmost concern to us that right in this community, the respect for law has lessened, and that there have been recent instances of resentment and opposition to the well established functions of law. When the mob of the gallery arrogates to itself the making of our laws, we are on the very brink of disaster, for distribution in such a case is as inevitable as Nemesis. Any man who induces a mob to the gallery of our Legislature for such a purpose, thereby applies a blinding torch to the pillars of the British Constitution. Other countries have already had the day when mobs were first incited to break down the barriers of law and order for the purpose of seeking a short cut to some fancied good. Can we not learn the lesson which they furnish? All restrictions bear heavily at times, but all these forms of law have their tendrils deep rooted in the soil of our lives, and to disturb them is to risk terrible disaster. We would be as safe with a lawless community as with a lawless Atlantic Ocean, or a lawless comet blazing its terrific trail through the skies.

The above were some of the thoughts and expressions of Rev. D. B. Hommeon, B.A., in his sermon to a large congregation at George St. Church last evening, spoken as he said with malice to none and charity to all. His thoughts furnish cause for reflection and those who are trying with community laws at the present time would do well to pause and reflect. There might be some fancied gain to be sought by juggling with the laws of this community, but is the risk commensurate with the object? Let us pause and consider—COM.

Shipwrecked Crew on Way to Terra Nova.

Captain Thomas Douglas and his crew of five men, of the schooner Tommy G., 117 tons, which was abandoned some 550 miles off Cape Race on April 9th, while on a voyage from St. Pierre to Oporto with a cargo of codfish, arrived in town this morning en route to their homes in Newfoundland.

In conversation with the Herald this morning, Capt. Douglas stated that he sailed from St. Pierre on April 4. When the schooner was several days out she ran into a big storm, which swept her decks, carrying away everything and damaging her rudder to such an extent that it was impossible to navigate her. The force of the gale opened up the planking forward, filling the cabin and foredeck. For two days the crew manned the pumps and succeeded in keeping the ship afloat until they were picked up by the Dutch steamer, Waldyk, bound from Newport News to Boulogne, France. The almost exhausted crew were rescued and taken to France. Before abandoning their ship the crew set fire to her, as her condition was a menace to navigation. From France the crew were shipped to England and were later given passage to Quebec on the S. S. Vedie. On the day when the mob were first incited to break down the barriers of law and order for the purpose of seeking a short cut to some fancied good. Can we not learn the lesson which they furnish? All restrictions bear heavily at times, but all these forms of law have their tendrils deep rooted in the soil of our lives, and to disturb them is to risk terrible disaster. We would be as safe with a lawless community as with a lawless Atlantic Ocean, or a lawless comet blazing its terrific trail through the skies.

Sudden Passing.

We regret to learn of the sudden passing of the esteemed wife of Deputy Mayor J. J. Mullaly, which sad occurrence took place at her home, Bond Street, at 1.10 p.m. to-day. The season is now advancing and no League meeting has yet been called. If the M.G. Comrades and the C.L.B.C. Scotch Concert.

The Scotch Concert which is being held under the auspices of St. Andrew's Society on Wednesday next in the Methodist College Hall, promises to be one of the biggest and most successful affairs of its kind held here in recent years. The musical programme has been carefully arranged and is under the direction of Professor W. Moncrieff-Mawer. Particular care has been taken to see that it is a varied one and whenever possible the performers will appear in a costume appropriate to the item. Amongst the varied items on the programme there will be songs, recitations, readings, dances, violin solos, and last but by no means least, the St. Andrew's Double Mixed Quartette. A most original idea in the matter of selling tickets was adopted, that of selling coupons through which reserved seats could be obtained. This plan ensures a larger sale of tickets and causes less confusion. Very few seats are now left unsold and those who intend going should hasten to obtain their tickets before it is too late.

In Memoriam.

Miss Sadie Burke, a lady highly esteemed by her many friends, passed to her eternal reward on Friday morning last, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Mahon, Harvey Road. In the early seventies she was one of the brightest and most talented of the Mercy Convent pupils, and on leaving school entered the teaching profession. In Salmonier, where she taught for some years, the Parish Priest, the late Mgr. St. John, the parents and children held her in the golden bonds of friendship, which the passing years have not severed. Finding teaching too strenuous, she lived with friends in Philadelphia, Pa., for some time, and returned to reside with her sister in the city. In the States, as at home, she made many friends. The funeral yesterday was attended by many friends. In the Cathedral the burial service was read by the Rev. Dr. Gregg, and at the graveside the Rev. J. Gough, P.P., said the final prayers. -AMICUS.

A Short History of the Firm of Baine
Johnston & Co.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

In a recent issue the Evening Telegram published the WILL of the late Hon. W. B. Grievé, O.B.E., the last surviving partner of the great firm Baine Johnston & Co. appointing J. C. Hepburn, Mr. Arthur Donnelly and Mr. Collingwood as his executors to carry on this time-honored firm that has survived the "Battle and the Breeze" for a century and a half of years.

I had the honor of Mr. Grievé's friendship for the greater part of my life and he, knowing how interested I have always been in historical subjects, at my request, ordered some of the clerks in Greenock to hunt up documentary evidence from the musty past of how their firm carried on business during the Napoleonic wars, also on other noted occasions, and account of which I have often published with reminiscence of my own, through the columns of the Dunelm Telegram, Trade Review, Analyst and other newspapers and magazines.

AN OLD AND A NEW PARTNERSHIP.

One of the last documents he gave me was the partnership agreement of his firm in 1866. Whether he was thinking of a new partnership of the firm or not I cannot say, but it is well worth publishing, and I give it at the end of this article. In this connection I have the greatest pleasure in giving a few words regarding the personal of the new partners of the old Scotch firm, which has outlasted all others of the early days, and has far to lead the way in progressive methods for another hundred years or more. What strikes me first is the nationality of these three Directors of the new firm. It was never more truly said, "The Thistle, Shamrock and Rose combined" Scotland for ever. Here we have Mr. Hepburn, a Scotchman; Mr. Donnelly, an Irishman; Mr. Collingwood, an Englishman, and these three nationalities are fighting for their Scotch House in Greenock, and may their efforts be crowned with success.

OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Now for a few personal remarks: Mr. Collingwood has been born and bred in Newfoundland, but his father came from England, and although it is not generally known, he is a direct descendant of Admiral Callingswood, who was Nelson's right-hand man at the Battle of Trafalgar. On the maternal side he is descended from the famous Viking, Capt. James Wilcox, of Brigus, one of the most enterprising planters and successful seal-killers Newfoundland has ever produced.

Mr. Donnelly is the grandson of William Donnelly, who carried on one of the largest and most prosperous businesses in St. John's in the hey-day of its prosperity. Many a story I have related, through the Telegram, about William Donnelly, who was an indomitable pluck and wonderful natural abilities rose from small beginnings to the greatest success in commercial life. Mr. Donnelly's father was the Hon. W. J. S. Donnelly, for many years representing the District of Placentia and St. Mary's—a member of the Legislative Council, and for three or four terms Minister of Finance and Customs in Newfoundland. Perhaps he was the most eloquent and cultured speaker in the Assembly during his day.

Mr. Hepburn is one of those typical keen and calculating Scots, who thinks a great deal more than he says, and a general favorite in social circles. He was Mr. Grievé's confidential adviser for many years, and no man is better qualified to handle the difficult problems that may arise in the carrying on of such an extensive and enterprising firm. These three partners have the confidence of the whole community and will undoubtedly uphold the dignity, prestige and popularity of the grand old firm, and at the same time, be favorites with their numerous outport dealers.

COMPLIMENTARY.

It will be my greatest pleasure to chronicle the success of this time-honored firm, and my heartiest congratulations go to these three gentlemen, now in the prime of life, who were selected by their old chief to carry on the destiny of this firm, which was so close to his heart, and is entwined in the memories of so many of our outport planters throughout the Island of Newfoundland and our great Dependency—Labrador.

Of course the old firm was in business in Newfoundland many years previous to the subjoined arrangement, and I have in previous issues of the Telegram given an account of their connection with Newfoundland, from the earliest days of the firm. During the later days of Mr. Grievé's life, we endeavored to ascertain if there was any connection between Mr. Thomas Patten of the old firm recorded in the annexed document and Mr. J. B. Patton, of the enterprising firm of Patten & Forsy, Grand Bank, but we failed to procure any information on the subject. The following is a copy of the co-partnership dated March 12th, 1866. One hundred and fifteen years ago!

AGREEMENT OF PARTNERSHIP.

It is contracted and agreed on between the parties following, viz: Thomas Lang and Walter Baine, Juniors, both merchants in Greenock and Thomas Patten, Merchant, of the Island of Newfoundland, but at present residing in Greenock, in manner aforementioned; that is to say, the said parties in consideration of the mutual trust and confidence which they repose in each other, have resolved to carry on and prosecute a Newfoundland Trade on the following terms and conditions: In the first place the said parties shall prosecute and carry on in company together the aforesaid Trade, or any other Branch of Trade the majority of their interest in the Concern may think advisable, for the term of Nine years, from the Twentieth day of February last, and none of them during that period will be concerned in any other Trade that will have a tendency to diminish his resources or be in any other respect inconsistent with its interests. Secondly the said Trade notwithstanding the date hereof shall be understood to have commenced from the said Twentieth day of February last, and the transactions already entered into by the mutual agreements of the parties, with a view to this connection shall be understood to be for behoof of this concern. Thirdly the said Thomas Lang, Walter Baine, Juniors, and Thomas Patten shall each hold one third share or part of the said Trade. Fourthly the Capital Stock of the Company shall be Four Thousand Pounds Sterling, and the same shall be paid by the partners in proportion to the interest they respectively hold in the Concern as the exigencies of the Trade may require. Fifthly a Majority of Interest in the Concern may afterwards increase or diminish the said stock in proportion to the aforesaid interest as the state of the Trade may suggest. TO-MORROW'S BIG EVENT.
There is an old superstition in the show business persistently believed that the difference in advertising a commercial product and an "show" is this: Talk a lot about merchandise, and they'll believe you. Talk about a show and the public will feel you are screaming for help! Not so with "Officer 666". The management are so enthusiastic about it themselves that they are doing their utmost to get YOU enthusiastic too! And there are two big things that everybody is going to be enthusiastic about—the laughs and the thrills.

Mr. T. H. O'Neill, our foremost dramatic director, has been putting a "punch" into "Officer 666" over the week-end. Mrs. Baxter, Miss Mary Donnelly and Miss Edith Cherry are for their respective parts. In the male characters we have Messrs. F. J. King, "Paddy" Grace, Dr. Howlett, Cabot Fitzgerald and others of experience and talent. And that's only the half of it!

Seeking Supplies.

A large number of outport people are now in the city seeking supplies for the fishery. With gilt edge getting there is not much difficulty in getting the necessary outfit to a limited extent. Many of those seeking supplies have the ready cash, but they are rather reluctant to part with it.

"Laugh and grow fat" is an old axiom. We advise the use of a good tonic, named "Brick's Tasteless". Price $1.00; postage 20c. extra.—ap22,tt

Salvage Notes.

The fine weather of April caused much activity around the vicinity. "Crusing" was the "order" of the day for a while, and at a time of writing most people have a twelve months' stock of fuel on hand.

Apart from the wood work, general renovations to public and private property have been carried on. The eastern end of St. Stephen's Church has been painted, the roof renovated, and likewise repairs effected to the teacher's residence; much fencing has also been in evidence, and to-day people are availing of the opportunity to paint the outside of the Orange Hall, several members of the fraternity being engaged thereto.

On Friday last the men of Flat Islands went to the ice, about five miles in their motor boats, and returned with from 15 to 20 seals per boat—taken on the ice. On the Wednesday previous they killed about 40 in the water. Relevant to the above we might say that the ice is now filling up the harbor, but options are divided whether it is much, or little. Several young seals have been killed here and to-day the boats did very well. There are many ducks around, but up to time of writing, very few have been killed.

The roof of the school has recently been "coated" porch, painted outside and tencing has been the order of the day (all round). Still more remains to be done—and there always will be.

The schooner owners who intend prosecuting the fishery this summer, have had no trouble in securing their crews; many men around here are "waiting" in the shape of fish has been taken except a solitary rockcod, Herring and white fish, however, have been very plentiful.

Mr. Eric Dyke arrived from Quebec a few days ago. He was working the past winter at the lumbering industry, making good pay—$25.00 a month and found. He is looking 'good' after his six months' absence.

Smallpox is still in the borders; on last week a fresh case appeared at St. Chad's, the first appearance in that settlement. Elsewhere there are no cases. Spring colds, of course is its evidence everywhere, but nothing serious, and people are beginning to move as usual.

Paris Love Tragedy.

Dr. Paul Jaquellier, a well known mental specialist and head doctor, at the Perray Vancluse Asylum, has been shot dead at his home in the Place St. Michel, Paris. His wife has been arrested and charged with the crime. She herself informed the police of the death of her husband. With tears in her eyes, she went to the police station and asked the Commissioner to arrest her. "I have just killed my husband," she stated. Subsequently, at the police station, Mme. Jaquellier stated that a year ago her husband's manner towards her changed. Before that they had lived happily, but then he became irritable and brutal, and she discovered that he had fallen in love with a young woman dentist. "I saw her and implored her to give me back my husband," declared the prisoner. "She told me she could never love a married man, and I came away reassured. My husband treated me worse than ever. When I found a letter he was going to send her, I stung myself on my knees before her, imploring him to give the woman up, but he only rebuked his brutality. Then I jumped up, seized his revolver, and shot him three times through the heart."

Miss Amy L. Metcalf, R. R. No. 3, Arthur, Ont., writes:—
"I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with the most favorable results. One spring I was very weak and run-down, and did not sleep well. I was very nervous and would cry for any little thing. My heart was weak and my head ached almost constantly. The doctor's medicine did me no good, and finally I began to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. After using six boxes of this medicine I felt fine. I have never used anything which has done me as much good as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have also found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills an excellent remedy."
"It was in fact to certify that I know Miss Amy Metcalf, and believe her statement with regard to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have also found Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have also found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills an excellent remedy."

REMINGTON UMC

"Wetproof" and Dependability

"WETPROOF" is a coined word; it is a REMINGTON word and stands for the special patented process with which all Remington UMC shotgun cartridges are now treated. Cartridge cases have long been made of so-called waterproof paper but this exclusive "WETPROOF" process is something different. It is a forward step in the manufacture of shotgun cartridges.

The wetproof compound of special oils is applied, not only to the body, but also to the top of the cartridge after loading, effectively sealing it against moisture and giving to the contents that protection which insures uniformity of ignition, pattern, speed and penetration. Sportsmen need not fear the effect of rain or damp weather on their shotgun cartridges if they use REMINGTON UMC brands treated with this special, patented "WETPROOF" process.

Sent Back From North Sydney.

A BAKER'S DOZEN BEING RETURNED TO N.E.

Eleven people, including women and children, and two Chinamen, who formed a part of the 161 passengers to arrive here this morning at an early hour on the steamer Sagonia from Port aux Basques, say, the North Sydney Herald of May 10, are being detained at the terminus shed by the relieving immigration officer, Mr. Congdon. The Chinamen, said they were on their way to Sydney to work in a restaurant there, but as they failed to comply with the provisions of the immigration act, they will make the return voyage on the Sagonia when she sails to-night for the ancient colony. In the case of the eleven men, women and children, who said they intended making their home in Cape Breton, where they came to seek employment, they, too, are far from being up to the standards of the act, and will be sent back to-night. Of the total of 161 passengers thirty of them were first-class, the remainder business men and domestics on their way to work in various parts of the province, principally in the Cape Breton coal fields.

THE DOORS MAN.
He must come back a better man, Beneath the summer bronze and tan, Who turns his back on city strife To neighbor with the trees; He must be stronger for the fight And see with clearer eyes the right, Who's faces beneath the open sky And welcomes every breeze.

The man who loves all living things Enough to go where Nature flings Her glories everywhere about, And dwell with them awhile, Must be, when he comes back once more,

A little better than before, A little surer of his faith And readier to smile. He never can be wholly bad Who seeks the sunshine and is glad To hear a songbird's melody Or wade a laughing stream; Nor worse than when he went away Will he return at close of day Who's chummed with happy birds and trees, And takes time to dream.

Canso, N. S., May 7.—The Boston fishing schooner Mayflower, candidate for defender in the international fishing schooner race off Halifax next autumn, sailed at 11 o'clock this morning for the Magdalen Island. The Mayflower was given a rousing send-off. The Gloucester fishing schooner, E. A. Dunton, which was defeated by the Mayflower on the first two legs of the race from Gloucester to Magdalen, sailed soon after the Mayflower. Captain Hogan, skipper of the Gloucesterman, having changed the trim of his vessel here, hopes to make a better showing on the final leg to the Magdalens than he did on the trips from Shelburne, and then from Shelburne to Canso. The schooner has a light northeasterly breeze today to carry them through the straits of Canso.

St. John, New Brunswick.—An abundance of scallops have been discovered in the Annapolis Basin and local fishermen are making large catches, which they retail at prices ranging from 35c a pound near where they are found to $1.50 a quart in St. John. Two fishermen are said to have caught 2,700 pounds in one day which sold at 35c a pound, would net them a very handsome profit. Another revenue to be derived from scallops is pearls. One man in Nova Scotia, is reported to have taken 47 from one shell alone. These pearls were on an average of very high quality.

Presentation at Government House.

A very pleasing function took place on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Government House, when His Excellency the Governor presented Messrs. George Fowlow and George Budden with two silver watches, in recognition of their heroic efforts in the rescue in December, 1919, of the three surviving members of the crew of the S.S. "Anton Van Driel," which ship was wrecked at St. Shott's. The S.S. "Ingraham" went to the vicinity of the wreck, and in a dory the two men named above risked their lives, and made three trips to the wrecked steamer, taking off one man each time. The rest of the crew had attempted to reach the shore in the ship's boat, but the storm was so fierce, that the boat could not live, and the men were drowned; the people on the shore were unable to effect the rescue because it was impossible to launch a boat in the teeth of the gale. The action of Messrs. Fowlow and Budden was so heroic that His Excellency brought the same to the notice of the Royal Government of the Netherlands, through the Secretary of State at Downing Street, and the Government have shown their appreciation of the bravery of these men by awarding them the watches which were presented on Saturday afternoon. His Excellency in making the presentation, spoke of the valour shown at all times by our seamen, but he was glad to be in a position to give special recognition to the work of Messrs. Fowlow and Budden, as it not only showed initiative and courage, but also the willingness to risk their own lives for the sake of others. The watches have the Royal Arms of the Netherlands engraved on the back of the cases, and on the inside is an inscription setting forth the facts, and stating that the presentation is made by the Netherlands Government in grateful recognition of an heroic act. Besides His Excellency the Governor and his Aide de Camp, there were present, Colonel Sullivan, one of the representatives for the District of Placentia, the Deputy Colonial Secretary, who introduced the recipients and their friends to His Excellency, Mr. and Mrs. George Fowlow, Rev. Ralph Fowlow, Mr. and Mrs. Budden, and Mr. Bannister. This is not the first occasion upon which Mr. Fowlow has rescued persons from sinking ships, as some 19 years ago, in passing Trinity Bay, he found the schooner "Tasso" bound from Bonavista to St. John's, with fish, in a sinking condition, and although a storm was raging, he stood by and took off the crew, saving them from a watery grave for the vessel foundered within half an hour after the crew had left her. Mr. Budden's brother was one of the rescuing party who took the survivors off the wrecked S.S. "Florizel." His Excellency congratulated the wives of the recipients, and their friends, intimating how pleased he was to be the means for the recognition of such int bravery which is so characteristic of Newfoundland seamen.

St. George's Day Wreath

Roses For Zeebrugge Heroes at a London Hospital.
On St. George's Day (April 23) a beautiful wreath was laid at the door of the Genotaph in Whitehall by the Royal St. George's Society. In accordance with its custom, the society has a basket of red and white roses laid at Buckingham Palace. The famous action at Zeebrugge on St. George's Day, 1918, was remembered at one London hospital, where a number of seamen and marines are suffering for their gallantry on a memorable occasion. Irises and fuchsias were presented to the men of those names, and roses to the men of other ships which part in the action.
At Dover a thanksgiving service at St. Mary's Church was attended by representatives of the Navy, Royal Marines, Army, and civic authorities.

The service was held in the Dome instead of in the Chapel of the Order, and the customary custom of lowering the banners of the Knights Grand Cross who have and affixing in banners of those who have been created in their place not performed.—Daily Mail.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

BELGIAN SYMPATHY. ANTWERP, May 15. Four hundred thousand tons of coal are tied up here as a result of the refusal of members of the Dockworkers' Union to load coal destined for England. All freight yards are choked. Dockworkers have refused to handle coal for England in order to show solidarity with the striking coal miners in Great Britain.

BOREALIC DISTURBANCE. NEW YORK, May 15. One of the severest electrical disturbances within the last thirty years, arising from influences exerted by the Aurora Borealis last night, disturbed telegraph communications throughout United States.

CAUSED BY SUN SPOT. WASHINGTON, May 14. The unusually severe Aurora Borealis of last night was caused by an immense sunspot, officiating as the National Observatory said. The spot, which was ninety-four thousand miles long, and twenty-one thousand wide, was observed May 10. Officials said it was visible through smoked glasses to-day.

EMULATING BOSTON. DUBLIN, May 15. One policeman was killed, and two wounded, when bombs were thrown at a lorry in Blackpool yesterday. Sergeant Coleman was shot dead in a shop. Three tons of lead tobacco from United States have been thrown into the Liffey because they were consigned to Ulster.

GERMAN GUERRILLAS. PARIS, May 15. German bands are operating in Upper Silesia, maitreating and arresting Poles, said Premier Briand in an interview with foreign newspapers on Saturday. Not all the disorders in that Province are produced by the Poles. The French Government could not permit German military forces to intervene in such a situation. "I protest with all my energy against a false impression being spread throughout the world. The French Government has fulfilled to the utmost of its power, its duty in Upper Silesia," said M. Briand.

DISORDERS IN CORK. CORK, May 15. Saturday night was a night of terror in Cork, following the bombing of police barracks at Blackpool during the day. The home of a Sinn Fein member of the British Parliament was raided. Mr. Reiliste was absent at the time, but a priest, Father O'Callahan, who was staying in the house was shot and died later from his wounds. Patrick Sheehan, Republican, who was newly married, was shot through the heart while in his bedroom. After the shooting, Sergeant Solomon Middleton and four policemen, while going for a priest, were fired upon. Two constables were killed and another was wounded. At Youghal, 27 miles East of Cork, military raids were started at eleven o'clock Saturday morning, and continued until 3 o'clock Sunday morning. During the raids there were intervals when rifle and pistol shots were heard. Houses throughout the town were searched. A constable was shot dead outside the barracks at Inishatton.

TERROURISM IN LONDON. LONDON, May 15. Violence, involving bloodshed, and which police attribute to a Sinn Fein campaign to terrorize London, commenced at midnight Saturday in various parts of London, and also at St. Alban's, 21 miles northwest of London. Several of the suburban towns were visited by armed men, whose object appears to have been arson, but who, when interrupted, resorted to shooting. Three persons were wounded, one of them probably fatally, and a man and his wife in St. Alban's were shot. In the majority of cases houses set on fire were occupied by persons connected with the Royal Irish Constabulary. The police assert that for some days there have been rumors from Dublin that raiders were planning a campaign in London. A band of raiders, who set fire to the house of one member of the Royal Irish Constabulary, also shot and critically wounded a tenant of another member of the Constabulary. At Tooting raiders set fire to the residence of the father of a member of the Constabulary. Attempts at arson were made at East Greenwich and Battersea, but were frustrated. In North Woolwich raiders set fire to a margarine factory, but the flames were extinguished before any extensive damage was done. At St. Alban's a former member of the Royal Irish Constabulary and his wife were shot by the raiders, who visited their home. Raiders also knocked them on their heads, and left them for dead. The wounds, however, proved only superficial.

Charles Barrington, of Glenstal Castle, County Limerick, and head of the Masonic Order in North Munster, and Police Inspector Beggs were shot dead from ambush Saturday night by civilians, while motoring from Killmuckle to Newport, County Tipperary. The father of the dead woman in the former High Sheriff of County Limerick. Nine policemen, two soldiers and a number of other persons were killed Saturday and to-day in attacks and counter attacks at various places, and numerous persons were wounded. More lives may have been lost in the Macroom ambush, held on Red Sunday, but for general and organized police. Saturday and to-day, probably were the worst since shootings on a large scale were inaugurated in January, 1919. All the casualties, except one, occurred in the area covered by the Southern Parliament. The exception was at Dormore, Tyrone, where a Sinn Feiner was shot dead. Miss Barrington was travelling with two other women and Inspector-Major Beggs and a military officer, when she was killed. The military officer was wounded. Constable Bridges was shot dead and two other constables were wounded, while purchasing groceries Saturday at Drumclogher. A party of police going to their relief was fired upon, and two of the policemen were wounded slightly. Pierce fighting followed an attack on Bandon police barracks. The military and police swept streets with machine gun fire, and the police were obliged to throw themselves up on the ground for safety. Also at the same time armed civilians marched through Dunmanway, County Cork. Being followed by auxiliaries in motor lorries, they shot and killed several horses in the streets so as to obstruct the path of their pursuers. All roads south and west of Cork have been trampled at many points. The belief prevails that the rebels intend to carry out a general attack on military and police barracks. One hundred civilians attacked Colonskilly barracks with rifles and machine guns, Saturday afternoon. The attack was repulsed. Four members of the attacking party were seen to fall. Police suffered no casualties. Two gunners of the Royal Marine Artillery, stationed at East Ferry, near Middleton, County Cork, were shot dead Saturday night. This was the first attack that has been made on naval forces. At Castletown and Borehaven, County Cork, to-day, two soldiers were shot and killed by armed civilians. Bombs were thrown at military lorries on three occasions in Dublin district to-day. Some of the occupants of the lorries were wounded. Rosslare Pier Barracks, County Wexford, Bridgetown Barracks, Wexford Spidal Barracks in Galway, and Holy Cross Barracks, County Tipperary, were unsuccessfully attacked Saturday night. There was brisk fighting for half an hour at Rattimore Barracks, Saturday. Police resisted the attack with bombs and rifles. There were no casualties.

ITALIAN ELECTIONS. ROME, May 15. General elections were held throughout Italy to-day. Members of Parliament were chosen, but so far as related to the whole country, no definite results were known this evening. In Rome, Constitutionalists claimed a great victory. The Fascist, or Extreme Nationalists, armed with clubs, kept order in the most turbulent districts.

Saint Cecilia.

St. Cecilia, saint and martyr, flourished in Rome about 230 A.D. A painting of her hangs in the gallery at Bologna, where she is pictured standing with a set of Pandean pipes in her hand, her radiant face looking up into Heaven, and surrounded by four saints, of whom St. Paul with his sword, seems to be one.

The angels above her are chanting heavenly strains from open books. The ground before her feet is strewn with different musical instruments. There is another picture of her in the Louvre, Paris, in which St. Cecilia, looking skyward, is playing on a large brass viol, while a little angel holds the manuscript music before her. In the church at Trastevere, Rome, which she is supposed to have preferred to all other churches, there is a beautiful sculptured figure of her lying prone near the altar.

Early she vowed to be the bride of Christ and Him only, but her parents would have her marry Valerianus, a Pagan youth of noble family. She confided to him the vows she had taken, and he said: "If I can see your angel I shall become a Christian." To which she answered: "The way to obtain that favor is to go to Urban, a Christian leader hiding in the catacombs, and get baptized by him."

He and his brother Tibertus both sought Urban and both embraced the faith. On their return, it is gravely declared that they saw the angel, Cecilia's daily companion. Eventually all three Christians won the crown of martyrdom. Cecilia died in prison, and her body was buried in the Vatican. She was placed in a bath of boiling water, then an attempt was made to stifle her. That failing to kill her, an executioner struck her Roman fashion, on the neck three times and three days later she died in great agony.

There is some difference of opinion as to why St. Cecilia is called the patron saint of music. There is one tradition to the effect that in the services, "While the organ was playing, Cecilia sang to the Lord, saying: 'May my heart be pure, and so I shall never be confounded.'" While others assert that her singing attracted the very angels in Heaven. Whatever the reason, there were from early days celebrations on November 22, and musical contests in her honor. In 1571, at Evreux, in Normandy, was established "Le Puy de Musique" at which the celebrated Orlando de Lasso and Jacques Salomon, both of whom were in the city in 1592, a society was formed and put under the patronage of St. Cecilia, and in Rome, the Society of the Order of Palestrina was changed by Pius IX. into an academy of music under her patronage. And finally Rugeberg and Raisibon under Witt, accepted our saint as their patron.

St. Cecilia is always spoken of as playing the organ, but the organ proper was not invented till the fifteenth century. The earliest poem on St. Cecilia was by the Italian Castaletti—"The Triumph of Cecilia, Virgin and Martyr." Coming nearer our own times there is a story he glimpsed poets and musicians. Dryden, his poet, wrote a glorious ode on St. Cecilia: "From harmony, from heavenly harmony, this universal form began."

Purcell, the greatest musical genius in England up to Handel's time, set it to music; also Dr. Blow, Clarke, and other musicians labored on this side. Pope also wrote an ode for St. Cecilia's Day. All his polished verse and expanse of keen wit and fancy were expended on this poem which begins:—
Glorious Cecilia, martyr and pure Virgin,
Love then enshrined thee for heaven's bride,
Proudly despoiling all earthly weddings
For Jesus only.

THE VERY THING. Street Seller—Here you are, gentlemen, the greatest invention of the age. Onlooker—What is it?
Street Seller—A magnetized key-hole plate for front doors. It will attract an ordinary steel key from a distance of two feet. All you have to do to find the keyhole is to take out your key and hang on to it. (Three men were injured in the crowd that rushed to buy).

SUFFICIENT REASON. Mrs. Jobson had gone away from home leaving Mr. Jobson lamenting. On arrival at her destination she missed her gold brooch and sent a postcard to her servant asking the girl to let her know if she found anything on the dining-room floor when sweeping it next morning. The servant duly replied—"Dear Madam,—You ask me to let you know if I found anything when sweeping the dining-room floor this morning. I beg to report that I found thirty matches, three corks, and a pack of cards."

Mrs. Jobson returned by the next train. Mrs. F. J. King will sing "Angus Macdonald" at Scotch Concert, Methodist College Hall, Wednesday, May 18th.—may17,17

King Albert's Cup Race.

(New York Herald) When the announcement was made that King Albert of Belgium had offered a cup for a race for sailing yachts from Sandy Hook to Ostend, to start on July 4, nothing was said in the condition as to the minimum number of entries. Now, two months before the date set for the start, the Belgian race committee informs the American committee that "if three bona fide entries of yachts as defined in the terms for this cup are not received by May 31, 1921, there will be no race this year, but the contest will be postponed until such time as three bona fide entries are received by the American committee."

Up to April 29, the date of this announcement of the terms of the race only two entries had been made. These were the schooner Undaunted owned by Commodore Francis R. Mayer of New York, and the ketch Siesta owned by Professor Walter F. Clayton of Annapolis, Maryland. On March 29 it was announced that the Siesta had been sold and that her new owner would withdraw the entry. On the day the race was announced, George A. Cormack, secretary of the New York Yacht Club, expressed the opinion that it would be impossible to tell until June how many boats would enter.

That there has been a decided lack of interest in this ocean race as compared with that sailed in 1915 for the Emperor of Germany's cup, has been apparent. That race was scheduled to start on May 16, with eleven yachts listed as contenders. By February 24 seven entries had been received, four American, two British and one German. Business conditions are now such that men owning ocean-going sailing yachts want to be assured before entering their boats for the race, that they will be in a position to give up to sport practically two months of their time.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE. Although he is 105 years of age, James Murray still works ten hours a day as a gatekeeper at Trinity cemetery, New York city. He goes on duty at eight in the morning and works until six. Murray has held the job for 60 years and has never asked to be retired. There is no cleverer locomotive engineer in Spain than the Duke of Saragossa, a wealthy member of the nobility, who is closely related to the royal family. Since the unrest in Spain has been so accentuated, each time that King Alfonso journeys by train the locomotive is conducted by the Duke.

Whom will she marry? is a query already puzzling European royalty concerning pretty Princess Marie, the fifteen year old daughter of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium. He must be a Catholic, which eliminates the English princes, German and Russian are, of course, off the list. Perhaps he'll come from Spain—more likely, though, from Sunny Italy.

Captain Marshal Field of Chicago has gone into the banking business, hoping to make the Field name a distinguished one in finance as his grandfather did in the dry goods business. He has been "a regular fellow" in social, business and military activities. Princess Juliana of Holland, who celebrated her twelfth birthday anniversary on April 30th, is a plump, fair-haired girl of the true Dutch type. She goes out in all weathers. She is particularly fond of skating, and when there is ice on the canals is frequently seen there, skimming along with her mother, the Queen. She frequently accompanies her father, the prince consort, or her mother, on trips about Holland, when her geography teacher goes along and instructs her at first-hand in her own country's features.

Mrs. Lydia Hoyt, regarded as one of the most beautiful women in New York and Newport society, has announced her intention of becoming a motion picture actress. She will appear with Norma Talmadge in "The Wonderful Thing," a comedy in which Jeanne Eagels scored last year. Mrs. Hoyt, who before her marriage was Julia W. Robbins, has taken a keen interest in dramatic art and has appeared in numerous society plays and tableaux.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mr. and Mrs. King and family wish to tender their sincere gratitude to all those who were in attendance at the death bed of their son, William, who died at the General Hospital, St. John's, April 24; to Rev. Dr. Carter, who administered to him the rites and privileges of our Holy Mother Church; to Dr. Keegan and the night nurses in charge, who did everything possible to alleviate his sufferings; also to Mr. P. O'Reilly, who was so very kind and even accompanied the remains to his home. They also wish to thank Mr. Bonia and Mr. Mansfield and others from whom they received very kind letters of sympathy in their bereavement.—adv.

"The Forgotten Child." A STORY WITH A MORAL. The place where the Neglected Child lived was a place of poverty. One reached it through a side street—dusty and smelly. Squalor was almost everywhere; squalor and neglect. The buildings were grimy weatherbeaten structures crowded one against the other; old gaps of tenements, filthy, gloomy, forbidding. The streets thereabouts—if they might be called—were rough and dusty, and hollowed in spots where the Neglected Children made their mud pies and played "shop" in the dirt and grime of the garbage. The heated breeze from the higher levels blew down the narrow funnel of the lane, blinding the glass of the "freshest and thickest" milk she had ever tasted—it was so wonderful and refreshing! Even now, as she sat hot and panting on the little doorstep she could close her eyes and glimpse that fairland. The cows, the beautiful swans at the Park; the Big Man with his double team ploughing the Field; the beautiful red-breasted robins with their chirping twelfth-de-tweel-de-de; the birds; the big shady trees; the tumbling in the soft sweet scented hay;—was there anything lacking? It all passed before her in a most bewildering dream, and oh! how she longed with all the pent up eagerness of the brave little heart in the ill nourished frail little body for just one more day where she could paddle in the cool soothing water, and be content. Her mamma had said only a day or two ago times were so hard that God must have forgotten them. So, with a convulsive sob that shook the weakened little frame, she mounted the narrow winding flight of stairs that led to "home." At the very top she pushed open the door and entered the room. Her mother had drawn the blind in an effort to keep as cool as possible the little room which must suffice for living and bed room alike. The darkened sunlight feebly revealed its interior, the paper on the walls was torn and faded, and only a few pieces of battered furniture relieved its barrenness. A woman was seated at a table, her hands folded in her lap and her body relaxed with a great weariness. From early morning she had laboured for this "home" and the child, and she was very, very tired. To her the child went without words. The woman stopped and kissed her and pressed her close, with arms that had a convulsive tremor in them. Later she placed a plate before her—a piece of bread and a few scraps of salted meat—then a saucerful of lukewarm tea. There was nothing else in the house. The food had no relish for the child but it was eaten as a matter of course. Oh, for a glass of that milk she had heard her mother often say that every day the rich people in the town gave their pussy-cats big generous saucerfuls. Something in her little heart seemed to swell and murmur "It is not fair! It is not fair!" Her scanty meal finished, the child slowly undressed. Her thoughts were long, long thoughts. Dimly she understood the burden of life and through silence strove to take a share. When she was quite ready for bed she murmured a little prayer for the good lady at the farmhouse, and then drew the ragged coverlet across her. God! she was stifling, and her throat burned, and she was hungry and thirsty—but not for food as she knew it. The woman watched her with a pathetic tenderness. At the little act of childish faith her eyes grew heavy, with the weight of unshed tears, and she quickly crossed the room and kissed the child's burning cheek. After a while—but what matter afterwards in the homes of neglected children. "Suffer little children to come unto me." She had passed out. After all it was only the broken heart of a little child—forgotten and neglected. And in our city—the thoughtless city—a thousand hearts might have grown tender with sympathy had they but known! But in the room the neglected child.

G. W. V. A. Notes.

A Select Committee of the House of Assembly, consisting of Mr. H. Small, convener, Mr. F. P. LeGrow and Lt.-Col. Sullivan have now been in conference for some time with a committee of the G.W.V.A., consisting of Messrs. H. A. Anderson, Garland, McLeod and the Dominion Secretary and with representatives of the Pension Commissioners and the Militia Department over the matters pertaining to Pensions, Naval Prize Money and an insurance scheme. These subjects will be further discussed at a meeting this afternoon.

The following is a brief outline of the insurance scheme suggested by the G.W.V.A. representatives:

1. Any returned soldier, sailor, nurse and widow of men who died on service and resident in Nfld., may be insured to an amount of from $500.00 to $5000.00.
2. This insurance to be granted without medical examination.
3. The rate of premium to be as reasonable as possible, e.g., man 23 years of age $1000.00 premium rate $14.00 per year, straight life policy.
4. The policy cannot be assigned or transferred.
5. One-fifth of policy to be payable on death of insured and the balance in annual instalments or as a life annuity.

Newfoundland has received $9782.33 as part share of the profits of the Expeditionary Force Canteen and altogether it is expected that $20,000 will be received as our share. As there are 4,000 men to share in this, which necessarily means a very small amount per capita, it has been suggested that some of this money be allotted for the organization of outpost branches and that some of it be used to relieve the distress amongst returned men in the city. A general meeting will probably be convened shortly to consider the matter.

A public meeting will be held in the Casino Theatre on May 25th to discuss the erection of a War Memorial to those who went overseas and never returned. The meeting will be presided over by His Excellency the Governor and all citizens should attend.

The G.W.V.A. have decided to hold a Sports Day during the summer and the programme will be a most interesting one. It will be followed in the evening by a dance, which will be organized by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Opening New Road.

On Saturday morning the City Engineer with a staff of assistants started work on the proposed new road along the water line. The East End Road Inspector had a number of men with horses engaged ploughing the sod on the line, which begins at the rear of Anderson's houses. This morning about 70 men started work on this job. There is a great scarcity of tools, and Saturday evening the West End Road Inspector had to go to the Railway Commission for the loan of some picks and shovels. About 100 picks were secured but they had no handles. These were later purchased from the different Hardware Stores. There is a large number of picks and shovels belonging to the Commission out at Grand Falls and these have been sent for.

Overriding Council.

A great deal of dissatisfaction has been caused by the Prime Minister appointing a strong personal supporter to be general superintendent of the projected Municipal work. The committee of workmen have strongly objected to this appointment and are instructing the men to pay no heed to his orders. This appointment was made in spite of the promise of Premier Squires and others that no political jobs would be given. The appointee in this instance was a well known worker in the Harbor Main Election.

St. George for England.

On St. George's Day (April 23) Englishmen—who were not too shy—wore the rose and honoured the patron saint of their nation. Of St. George himself little is known, but that little is all that we need. Seemingly a reticent and modest person, he killed the dragon. So did the English when the 4th Division finally broke the Hindenburg Line and dealt the deadliest blow in the greatest battle which has ever been fought. Naturally, in St. George, Englishmen see the qualities which they admire and desire to emulate. A soldier and a Christian, St. George resigned his commission rather than countenance the persecution of the religion for which he was to suffer torture and death. That was English, and typical of a people who may be slow to move but have never been known to "quit."—Daily Mail, April 30, 1921.

Forty-Two Years in the Public Service--The Evening Telegram.

Moderate Prohibition.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—Your correspondent "Moderation" was somewhat in error when he stated that 18,000 signed the petitions for a modification of the Prohibition Act. Nearly 21,000 signed these petitions, composed of voters from every district in the Dominion. The Districts of Trinity, Bonavista and Twillingate contributing the largest number.

Now that the matter is before the public, I should like to ask the Moderate Prohibition Committee why they are not taking some steps to have the matter brought before the Assembly. Have they got cold feet, or are there other reasons? Come, gentlemen, now that the matter has gone so far there can be no turning back. The 21,000 voters look to you to do something. When they affixed their signatures to the petitions they were sincere—and now look to you to help them fight the thing to the bitter end.

Surely the request of this large number of voters cannot be ignored. Thanking you for space, I am,
 Yours very truly,
 MODERATE PROHIBITIONIST.

Dempsey Has Novel Stunt for Training.

New York—Equestrian recreation was added to-day to the daily routine of Jack Dempsey, World's heavyweight champion, in his preparation work at Freddie Welsh's farm at Long Hill, N.J. The champion still is engaged in light training preliminary to the arduous campaign which he will enter probably before the end of the week. A jaunt over nearby roads about Summit, N.J., in the morning, about an hour's gymnasium work in the afternoon, and a session in the saddle comprised Dempsey's day. The Champion, after his morning road work, exercised in the gymnasium with the dumb bells, pull-weights, and indulged in some floor work and calisthenics. In addition he let himself loose in a session of shadow boxing. Then Dempsey and Joe Benjamin, California lightweight, sparring several fast rounds and the champion, after a cooling shower, went horseback riding with Benjamin.

Dempsey's camp retinue, which now includes Benjamin and Jimmy Darcy, a Portland welterweight, will be increased by one shortly. Alex. Trombides, Portland middleweight, who is regarded as a likely successor to the champion by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, will join the heavyweight champion and will assist in testing Dempsey in sparring matches. Manager Kearns was in Atlantic City all day, ostensibly arranging for the champion's permanent training camp in the New Jersey resort city. It is planned to shift camp soon.

He painted the picture over twenty years ago for the academy, where it was refused admission.

The True Story of His Master's Voice

(Dominion News Service.)
 London.—A simple story, mingled with romance and pathos, is associated with the painting of the world-famed picture "His Master's Voice," by Francis Barrand, to whom the Gramophone Company has awarded a gratuity of 250 pounds in recognition of the debt they owe to the picture for the wide success of their business.

"My brother, who was a scenic artist in Bristol," he said, "had a very cunning and clever little fox terrier named Nipper, and when he died Nipper was inconsolable. 'I said I would take Nipper out for a walk, and was told the dog would not follow me. I love dogs, and, curiously enough, Nipper took to me at once. 'I had a talking machine, and when I set it going Nipper used to go and sniff in the horn and, cock his head knowingly on one side. Well, that's the origin of a doggie listening for his master's voice. 'My introduction to the Gramophone Company arose through my going to their shop to ask for the loan of a brass horn as a copy to paint my picture. The Gramophone Company asked me for what purpose I wanted the horn, and on learning the reason asked to see the picture. They instantly recognized its trade value, and bought it at my price of 100 pounds there and then."
