

A Rush in the Boys' Suits

We hardly expected the heavy onslaught on our Boys' Department that we had Saturday. We had the goods all right, but could have done with an extra salesman or two. However, all our customers showed unusual patience and good temper, so that we were able to wait on all, and we had one of the best days of our spring business. We have a magnificent showing of boys' clothes this spring. We have spared no effort to make it an easy matter for you to buy and with a price range that appeals to every pocketbook.

WONDERFUL NUGGET

One of the most remarkable discoveries on record is to be seen at the Pure Food Show in Massey Hall. People wonder at seeing a shoe polished with the "Nugget" polish, and immediately afterwards washed. The water runs off the shoe "like the water off a duck's back" and the shine is not destroyed, which proves that this paste is a waterproof polish. The demonstrator then proceeds to dry the shoe on a towel, but the polish does not rub off and sold it. This is conclusive evidence that it will come off on the clothes in wet weather. On sale at the usual price (4c a tin). "Nugget" will not doubt be universally used in a short time, particularly as it keeps the leather soft and pliable, which prevents the shoes from cracking. You are invited to have a shine free of charge.

THAW DENIES HIS LEGAL STAFF HAS FOUGHT AGAIN
Evelyn Nesbit Permitted to Visit Husband for the First Time on a Sunday.

New York, March 24.—Harry K. Thaw to-night made public another statement, this time denying a rumor, which he believes is current, that there is a dissension among his counsel. He also refers to the affidavits filed with Justice Fitzgerald by his attorneys, opposing the appointment of a lunacy commission to examine him.

The monotony of Thaw's Sunday at the Tombs was broken by an unexpected visit from his wife. This was the first time since his detention that the prisoner was allowed to receive callers other than his counsel on Sunday.

Mrs. Thaw had come to the Tombs with a message for her husband, and was agreeably surprised when told that she might visit him. The two were together for a half hour, and when Mrs. Thaw left she said: "Harry is in excellent health, and is sure everything will come out in his favor."

During the afternoon, which he devoted chiefly to correspondence, Thaw received a note from Lawyer Daniel O'Reilly, explaining that none of the affidavits presented to the court, that legal staff would call during the day, and that Mr. Hartridge and the writer were busily engaged in preparing briefs to be presented to Justice Fitzgerald to-morrow.

District Attorney Jerome for about two hours dictated to a corps of stenographers a long statement to be

SEES GRAVE DANGERS IN FUTURE OF INDIA

Capt. Scott-Harden Says That "Civilizing" Influences May Stir Natives to Rebellion.

Capt. Scott Harden, F.R.G.S., delivered two interesting lectures in succession in the chemical theatre of the university Saturday afternoon on "A Vision of India" and "Sidelights on the Russo-Japanese War," both of which were illustrated by superior lantern views, each one giving point to the able descriptions with which Captain Scott Harden portrayed the sociology and peculiar oriental life in that ancient land of mysticism and sun worshippers.

When discoursing on the late Russo-Japanese war, the pictures presented to the audience the battlefields, tactics and policy of each army, with wonderful accuracy and realism and were almost self-explanatory, so faithfully did they reflect the recent Titanic struggle between these two great powers.

WORLD PATTERN DEPARTMENT

2466—A CHARMING LITTLE APRON. The apron which forms so large a part of every small girl's wardrobe should be as attractive as its usefulness will allow. Little Lady Gay often resents having a pretty frock entirely eclipsed by the all-embracing folds of a prosaic apron, but when she realizes that it means more freedom in play and saves changing a frock, reason will prevail. Here is sketched a pleasing little apron of quaint design which is easily made and donned. The closing is effected on the shoulder in front, the garment being all in one piece. A lawn, chambray, percale or gingham may be used with or without trimming. The apron calls for 1-1/4 yards of 36-inch material in the medium size. 2466—Sizes, 4, 6, 8, 10 years. The price of this pattern is 10c.

YOUTH AGAIN KIDNAPPED.

Millionaire's Grandchild, Once Stolen by Mother, Disappears.

Berlin, March 23.—A despatch from Hanoover says that "Eddy" Krieger, 12 years of age, son of George Krieger of Chicago, who married the daughter of Dr. Bart, a millionaire, has been kidnapped by two masked persons.

The boy's father, after securing a divorce from his wife in America, secretly brought the boy to Germany and entrusted him to a friend in Hanoover, where he was educated.

The mother, who has since married a Dr. MacDonald, came to Germany, obtained possession of the boy and took him with great secrecy to Hamburg, from which place he has mysteriously disappeared.

Buchanan's Wife

The Story of a Woman Who Dared to Write to Marshall the Love and Happiness That Were Dealt Her by Cruel Circumstances.

By Darius Miles Forman and Published by Permission of Harper & Bros., New York and London.

"About an hour before you came in," he said, "I got this thing put of its case with some vague notion of making an end to a life which has become intolerable to me. I dare say I shouldn't have managed it. I dare say I'm too much of a coward. Of one thing I'm certain—his voice rose bitterly—"I have not the courage to go back there to-morrow—'morning—back to my—to my friends and live out this damned masquerade to its finish. I'm too much of a coward for that, if you like. I'm smothered here!" he cried; "I'm a prisoner in chains! I want to try 'em all—the 'appy roads that take you over the world! I want to get 'ence and go observin' matters, but I can't. My responsibilities won't let me and my friends—'if I have a friend—won't let me. I can't do that because I'm what I am, and I can't end it all because I'm here, and I was going to do for you so that I could take my time working."

Buchanan drew back with a little shivering intake of the breath.

"By the Lord, you're a cold-blooded fish!" he said, in a half whisper. Then he leaned forward again with sudden interest.

"Tell me," said he, "have you ever killed a man?—in cold blood, I mean, just because you wanted to get him out of the way? Have you?"

"What if I have?" said the man in the arm-chair.

"Oh, nothing nothing!" said Buchanan. "Of course, I'm not your judge."

"No," said the other, indifferently. "No, you're not." And then, as Buchanan dropped back into his listless silence, gloomy still, the hard, blue eyes of the man in the arm-chair did not brighten or show excitement, or show anything else, they only watched, steady and unswerving. Once the man's hand began to steel out across the table towards that which lay glittering in the lamplight, but there were glasses and books and the duster and other objects in the way. Also the table was broad, and so the hand withdrew once more.

"I want to lie on the earth," said Buchanan, after a long time. It is probable that he did not know he spoke aloud. "I want to be wet with the rain and soaked with the rain and dried again with the sun. I want to wake with the sun in my eyes. I still figure and the cold eyes across from him for a long time. Then he turned and began to walk up and down. Something subconscious in him, something which was on watch, warned him before he moved away, and he took the pistol in his hand as he went. The figure across the table, which had, at once, drawn itself up tense and rigid, relaxed again with a little sigh, and the blue eyes fastened themselves upon those calm, imperturbable eyes of Buddha, seated in his abraded, and became fixed there as if in a trance.

Buchanan stamped the floor. At times he muttered, under his breath, but the words were unintelligible, well-nigh inarticulate. At times his free hand—the hand which did not hold the pistol—waved or beat the air, or clenched fiercely in some hard wrung gesture. Once he halted near the lighted table and made as if to speak, but after a moment moved away again to his interminable tramp up and down, up and down. At least, after it may be ten minutes of this, he came to a halt beside the other man. His face was white and gray, and his eyes burned strangely. He must have been under very great strain.

"But how?" he demanded, weakly. "How?—I know nothing of such life. I should be helpless as a child. It's all very well to dream about and long for, but practically, it simply should not be able to get on."

"There," said the man in the arm-chair, "is where I come in." And again Buchanan stared at him in full incomprehension.

"A-ah!" he said at last, and for another turn or two took up his march.

"Look here," he said, when he had returned. "Let us talk business for a moment. Believe me, I do not wish to insult you or to pry into your affairs, but I should like to ask you a few questions. You are, I take it, from your mode of entering this room to-night, a professional thief."

"Yes," said the other man, without emotion. He looked up at his host with cold curiosity.

"You came here," Buchanan continued, "in the hope of being able to steal money or valuables which you could convert into money. That, too, money is a consideration to you."

"Money," said the other man, "is a necessity to me. You underestimate the case." Buchanan waved an impatient hand.

"I have in this room," he said, "safely locked in a safe—which I fear you would never have discovered, for it is well masked—something over a thousand dollars in money—ten, twenty, and fifty-dollar bills, I offer you one thousand dollars to leave this house with me to-night and spend one month in my company tramping the roads, teaching me how to beg, my hand, how to live in the open, and how to behave myself when I meet others of my profession."

"The hard, still face before him, the first time gave signs of being unmitigated amazement.

"Are you—serious?" demanded the man in the arm-chair.

Buchanan's white face writhed suddenly, and something like a sob broke from him.

"My God, do I look as if I were joking?" he cried. "I tell you I can bear this life no longer. I shall find some miserable scrap of courage and blow my brains out if I do not get away from it all. Don't you understand? Don't you understand? You said you did. It was that which made me say what I have said. I thought you understood. I thought you felt what I feel."

"Oh, yes," said the other, "I know how you feel, but—but what do you want to tramp for? What do you want to beg for? You could wait until to-morrow and then get together a great deal of money—how much money could you get together?—and you could slip away to the other side of the world and live like a prince under another name. For God's sake, what do you want to beg for?"

Buchanan turned angrily. "That's my affair," he said. "In time I may wish to do what you say. For the present I wish to live close down against the earth—unwashed, uncombed, as I have said. Put it that, it is a mad whim, if you like. Put it anyhow you wish to. The point is, will you help me for one thousand dollars?"

The other man did not immediately answer. He had lowered his eyes once more, and they seemed to compare with Buddha's beyond the shadows. His face was again a mask—expressionless.

First analysis of the urine showed that chronic disease of the kidneys was present.

A PHYSICIAN PROVES

By Analysis of the Urine that Chronic Kidney Disease is Cured by the use of

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

The case of Capt. Smith is unusually interesting, because it proves absolutely by analysis of the urine that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cured him of kidney disease. The doctor himself could scarcely believe it until he made the second analysis and pronounced the captain a well man.

Capt. Wm. Smith is a veteran of the Crimean war, living at Revelstoke, B. C., and earned his title in the British army. He reported his case in a letter as follows:—"I can testify to the benefits derived from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For years I was a sufferer from kidney disease, and could get no relief from it. The doctor examined me and analyzed my urine and told me I had chronic disease of the kidneys. As his medicine did me no good, I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and was benefited so much that I kept on taking them until I can say that I am perfectly cured. I told the doctor I was cured, but he would not believe me until he examined my urine again. After doing so he stated that I had no trace of kidney disease left. I have recommended Dr. Chase's medicines to many people."

It is not pleasant to contemplate the approach of Bright's disease, dropsy, gravel, rheumatism or apoplexy, and yet these are the very diseases which anyone may expect who neglects to cure derangements of the kidneys.

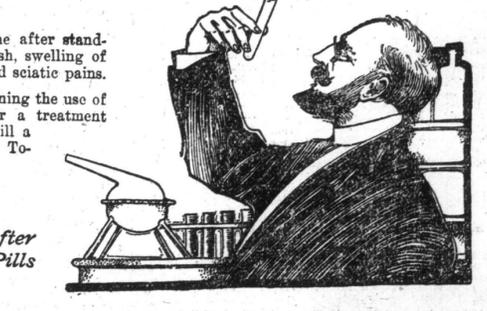

YOU CAN MAKE THIS TEST:

Should it not be convenient for you to have a physician analyze the urine, you can make this test yourself.—Put some urine in a bottle or tumbler and let it stand for twenty-four hours; if there is a sediment in the bottom at the end of that time, or if it is discolored, milky, cloudy or stringy, your kidneys are out of order and are not doing their work properly.

Among the other symptoms of kidney disease are:—Backache, scanty, highly colored urine, deposits in urine after standing, painful, scalding urination, continued paleness, loss of flesh, swelling of ankles and legs, irregular action of the bowels, rheumatism and sciatic pains.

If you suffer in this way there is no time to lose in beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. You will search in vain for a treatment which will so soon call a halt to this terrible disease. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Second analysis of urine showed that after treatment with Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills there was no trace of kidney disease left.

PROFESSOR BRYCE AS BRITISH AMBASSADOR.

Prof. James Bryce made his first official appearance in the capacity of ambassador from the United Kingdom to the United States, as the guest of the Pilgrim Society at New York. Unusual interest attached to the appointment of the late chief secretary for Ireland to an embassy which, within recent years, has increased rapidly in world importance and now stands at the head of British diplomatic positions.

SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES STANDARD OF THE WORLD

accepted as a signal mark of the approximation between the two great divisions of the English-speaking peoples, and as involving a serious attempt to settle once and forever all outstanding questions which might in the future tend to disturb the growing sentiment of friendship and sympathy.

This prevailing belief will do more of its strength, now that Prof. Bryce has spoken with full recognition of the weight of responsibility he carries. His speech at the Pilgrim's Society was not only happy in form and temper, but was a contribution to international and constitutional politics such as could only come from a man who had studied deeply and considered closely the points of similarity and divergence between the parallel developments in the United Kingdom and the United States.

The British ambassador did not directly touch upon any of the diplomatic controversies which are understood to be engaging the close attention of the governments interested. He said enough, however, to indicate that in his belief they are not only capable of arrangement, but that the present is a supreme opportunity for ensuring that the future history of the English-speaking nations shall be one of mutual help and joint service for the uplifting of the world.

What concerns Canada is that those of the outstanding disputes which concern her interests shall be arranged without the approval and assent of her own responsible government. And with whatever determination the new ambassador enters upon his task, his intimate knowledge of constitutional developments in the outer Britain cannot but make him alive to the necessity of conciliating a public opinion which is yearly becoming more inclined to resent arbitrary sacrifices of their rights, made for ulterior considerations.

great, and if he succeeds in negotiating a settlement acceptable to Canada, in no country will his labors be accorded more cordial recognition.

PAWNSHOP REGULATION.

By a bill now before the legislature certain amendments are proposed to the statutes regulating pawnbroking. At present it is the police practice to visit the pawnshops and examine the books with the view of ascertaining the number and nature of the previous day's transactions. What is now suggested is that brokers should deposit a statement of the business done, for the information of the authorities. An alteration is also included providing that in the licensed premises, there does not appear to be any public demand for amendments of the nature indicated, and so far as cases of recent date are concerned, it is urged that not the licensed pawnshops, but the unlicensed second-hand stores, are chiefly implicated.

Sunday's Free Breakfast.

The number of men who gather each Sunday morning at Yonge-street Mission to enjoy a good, free breakfast is still on the increase, as was shown yesterday morning when 215 men responded to the invitation, and listened to an address by Rev. D. McElwain of Central Presbyterian Church. After this address forty men raised their hands for prayer and ten took the stand. The breakfast next Sunday morning will probably be the closing one of the season.

The annual dinner of the "Canadian Watsons Club" will be held on Saturday, April 6, at 8 o'clock p.m. in the St. Charles Hotel, and it is hoped will be attended by all past pupils of Geo. Watson's College, Edinburgh, resident in or near Toronto. Mr. A. R. Muir, 219 Brock-avenue, has charge of the arrangements.

They affect people in the winter, too, in the case due to improper eating, in the other to congested conditions excited by cold. Quite easy to cure these troubles if the right remedy is used. Very small doses of Nerviline repeated every hour or two removes any sense of discomfort. If there is pain, relief is immediate. Nerviline treats causes, that's why it never fails to cure. Not a pain or ache, not a brulise or uneasy feeling that's not quickly cured by Nerviline. Hundreds of thousands of 25c bottles sold every year.

SABRE, SWORD AND RAPIER DEMONSTRATED BY EXPERT

Splendid Exhibition of Art of Defence by Sergt. McMahon in St. George's Hall.

The various scientific tactics and carefully-trained skill employed in the use of the sword, as demonstrated Saturday night at St. George's Hall by Sergt. McMahon and his pupils, was an exhibition of unique interest and instructive importance. In the different assaults-at-arms the sabre, sword and rapier all came under review, and the marvelous attack and defence tactics which are capable of in the hands of an expert were fully manifested to the pleasure and admiration of a large and appreciative assembly.

Perhaps the most dramatic item in the evening's program was the five point contest, with foils between Sergt. McMahon and one of his pupils, an expert fencer of the highest order. McMahon in which he handled his weapon, that, to her, like the blade of Fitzgibbon, which every movement harmonious and suggestive of the litheness of a panther, revealed new beauties in the female form divine which would appear to be singularly developed by this specially beautiful pastime in the added graces it imparts.

The sabre contest, which was with Lord Roberts in the celebrated march to Kandahar, and knew Kipling well, at the time and distinguished writer of the Indian military life, was obtained through his experience and the local coloring which made his works famous, was also one of eight survivors in eight hundred who formed a forlorn hope and charged at the fatal field of Majuba Hill. Saturday night, in full costume, he demonstrated how he defended himself in a hand-to-hand encounter against Havelock Major of the Afghan army on the battlefield of Chashala, the character of the Afghan being taken by G. A. G. McKenzie, who is a skilful swordsman and acted the part of the hill soldier to the life.

The terrible possibilities of the sabre in trained hands were powerfully illustrated by Sergt. McMahon and L. M. Blundell in a contest for points, and the proverbial mightiness of the sword was manifestly confirmed in the fine passage between G. A. G. McKenzie and L. M. Blundell.

The highly-finished and truly artistic exposition of the roll between Sergt. McMahon and L. M. Blundell made clear the reason why our forefathers of the eighteenth century were usually so punctiliously polite, as the danger and death that lurked in that gentlemanly weapon of the Indian empire, he has been in which they have been trained, presented fine examples of the value and advantages of advanced physical culture.

The art of fence is older than civilization and was always among the noblest of the human race. The native grace of movement and characteristic of the savage was largely attained by the free use of arms. The Emperor Nero had trained fencers in his palace, and in real contests for his special diversion. The revival of the science as a pastime in the modern world, in fact, has no other physical reaction imparts such department of motion, and, at the same time, gives such assistive exercises, training every part of the body to accurate obedience of the mind.

Besides the object lessons of Saturday night, the regular part of the instruction, as an instructor in all branches of physical culture, Sergt. McMahon has a record of ability and excellence in the various sports of athletic tuition, he is without a peer in this city.

In addition to his skill as a swordsman, for which he holds the championship of the Empire, he has been instructor at Aldershot, and fencing-master at the Royal College, where the present King received his military instruction. In the several battles in which he fought, with the hill tribes of India and the Boers in Africa, he has had many serious opportunities of testing the value of his skill in more than one duel, and Saturday night his extraordinarily agile performance on the horizontal bar would have been considered a supple exhibition for one less than half his age, but the regular physical training which has always been a part of his daily life has prevented any of the consequences of advancing activity or diminished strength. The age of chivalry has not passed, and while it is obvious that a knowledge and skill of the art of defence against attack is one that makes for peace rather than disorder, in the body politic, the beautiful advantages accruing from the exercises in connection with fencing and other forms of physical culture, are in themselves, their own reward, and do much to establish and perpetuate a sound and healthy people.

Managua, Nicaragua, March 24.—Santos Ramirez, director-general of telegraphs and telephones, to-day made the following statement:

"The Nicaraguan forces have captured Choluteca, Honduras, which was held by the Honduran and Salvadoran troops, and President Bonilla has fled by boat."

"Steamers will pursue the fugitive president, I believe the war is ended."

"The government is without further advice concerning the capture of Choluteca. Choluteca is one of the most strongly fortified towns of Honduras. It is on the Choluteca River, about three miles from the Gulf of Fonseca."

5 YEARS FOR PHILLIPS FOR SIGNING A FALSE RETURN SHOCK TO HIS FRIENDS

Entered Plea of Guilty in Expectation of Judicial Leniency—Plea of Restitution Availed Him Nothing—Two Other Charges Not Pressed—Friends May Try to Get Term Shortened.

Drayton appearing for the prosecution and E. Jones for prisoner. Phillips faced three indictments—for signing the false return for conspiracy to defraud and for theft of $250 from the company. Adjudgment was requested until 2 o'clock, but at 1 o'clock Phillips' counsel said he was prepared to enter a plea, and he was called to the bar by the judge, before a small crowd of officials and newspaper men, the final scene was enacted.

Facing Judge Winchester in the sessions court Saturday afternoon, with apparent calmness and quietly pleading guilty to a charge of having signed a false return to the government concerning the amount of assets of the now defunct York Loan & Savings Company, Joseph Phillips left the room trembling under a sentence of five years in Kingston penitentiary. The penalty came as a complete surprise to prisoner and counsel alike, and probably to several others of the small gathering, who witnessed the unexpected climax of this cause celebre.

"I do not deserve such a sentence. It came as a terrible surprise, was not prepared for it," were the heartbroken utterances of Phillips, after he had been taken into custody. E. Jones, his counsel, would not be interviewed, but his surprise and disappointment he could not conceal. Yesterday he conferred with Phillips at Toronto jail. No other visitors were allowed, but from intimate friends it was gathered that a strong effort will be made to have the term lessened.

"Phillips was gold-bricked," said one of them. "He pleaded guilty in the belief that his efforts and assistance towards restitution and straightening out the affairs of the company would be taken into more favorable consideration and result in only a short imprisonment. If not a suspension of sentence."

Letters for Clemency. This belief in probable clemency was strengthened by the presentation to the court by County Crown Attorney Drayton of a letter from Hon. J. J. Poy, attorney-general, which read as follows: "I learn from the liquidators of the York County Loan that Joseph Phillips has made full restitution, and has prevailed upon his friends to do the same, as he has done in the letter of the 16th April from Mr. Curry (of which you have a copy), and that Phillips has retained in his power in the winding up of the company. These facts should, I think, be made known to the trial judge, and I should be glad if you will bring them to his notice accordingly."

The letter written by J. W. Curry, K.C., in April last, in his capacity as then city crown attorney, was also read to the effect that Mr. Phillips had rendered the crown much assistance in the conduct of the case, and had seen to it that a large amount of money had been paid to the various claimants. Your honor will see that any man having the ghost of a claim will put it in the hands of the crown to receive it, but he cannot deal with the validity of those claims except thru the master's office, or the special legislation now asked for."

Under the circumstances, Mr. Jones concluded, this court could not pass on the matter in question. He could not know what the liabilities are. To Save Expenses. An explanation of the plea of guilty to his client felt necessary. He felt that nothing could come of a public trial, lasting weeks, except expense, annoyance and waste. This explanation was considered due in deference to the public opinion, which Mr. Phillips esteemed. People were liable to misconstrue what had been done and take the plea as an admission of guilt, when it was an action arising from a generous, magnanimous impulse. Phillips had never shown in any way that he was not willing to accept the full responsibility for everything that he had done or had not done. This charge which was before the court was the only one to be pressed. It was 1.30 p.m. when the judge concluded his remarks.

His honor began by referring to the charge as a most serious one, and declining to give credence to the claim that the false returns were unintentionally made. He believed that the prisoner had created subsidiary companies like the City Realty Co., to conceal the true position of the York Loan. Phillips knew the statement of mortgages was to deceive the government, to deplete the assets, so the

The bill as they ought. There is too much red tape, and the only sympathy possessed by the officials is for their salaries. "You should easily accomplish ten times more than any government office because the people who visit the World Bureau will know they will get disinterested and sound advice, that must and will encourage them in speedily adapting themselves to their new environment."

"Bravo, World," writes another. "There is any amount of work throughout the country and good openings for everybody able and willing to work. But, unfortunately, the government seems to think the only duties required is to spend a liberal amount of money in promoting immigration, as soon as these immigrants reach our shores to leave them to shift for themselves as best they can."

"Whereas, if they provide an efficient organization for the reception and distribution of all who come, they should not have so many stories of distress and disappointment; neither would these new arrivals have any occasion for a complaint of an anti-English feeling."

"A correspondent signing himself Sparrow writes, thanking the 'World' for starting the Welcome Bureau and asks why aliens are so welcome in Canada and the English are not? 'Who started the idea that Englishmen come to this country to take the bread from the mouths of the Canadian?' he asks, 'when the reverse is the case?'"

"All English and British subjects believe in having a fair wage for a fair work; but the alien is the one that introduces the low wage and sweating conditions that are so baneful to all industrial progress."

"Every man who called on Saturday was quickly found suitable employment. 250 emigrants arrived in the city on Saturday night, many of whom already are employed. Should there be any this morning who have not found work, and they will call at The World office, there are vacancies to be filled as follows: Three porters. One teamster. One cabinet maker. Several boys for farm work. Harry was enquired of by the one or two useful laborers. Women and girls also are in demand for the clothing trade."

"So all of you new arrivals who have not found work, call at The World Office, 83 Yonge-street (upstairs), at once. The number of enquiries on Saturday by well-wishers of the Welcome Bureau was enormous. The World is informed that several Englishmen have decided to call a public meeting at the Sons of England Hall on Wednesday to organize a purely English society, with the object of providing a suitable place for the reception of new arrivals and to give them advice and assistance in procuring employment."

Manufacturers, merchants, storekeepers and employers of labor who require the services of men, women, boys or girls, in any and every capacity, are requested to send particulars of the wants to The World. No matter where you are, out-of-town employers will receive the same attention as those in the city. "There is no longer any necessity for you to complain that you cannot obtain help. Simply write to The World; the help will follow."

COBALT CAPITALIZATION
THIRD OF ONTARIO'S WEALTH

Debtenture Debt $32.83 a Head—
Ontario Municipalities That Own
Public Utilities.

Another instalment of the report of the bureau of industries has been issued, forming Part III of the annual record. The figures given are partly for 1905 and partly for 1904.

For 1904 the debtenture debt was $88,195,775, on $22.83 a head of the population of 3,870,970, with a floating indebtedness of $9,509,982. The sinking funds held against this amounted to $1,516,290, leaving a net debt of $86,679,485. Against this may be further reckoned such assets as waterworks, electric light and gas plants and so forth, possessing revenue earning power. Cities, towns and villages owning and operating these utilities in 1904 were:

Belleville, Chatham, Guelph, Kingston, Niagara Falls, St. Thomas, Windsor, Woodstock, Alexandria, Almonte, Amherstburg, Aylmer, Barrie, Berlin, Blenheim, Bothwell, Brantford, Brockville, Collingwood, Dresden, East Toronto, Fort Frances, Fort William, Godfrich, Gravenhurst, Hespeler, Huntsville, Kenora, Kincardine, Kingsville, Leamington, Midland, Mitchell, Mount Forest, Newmarket, Niagara, North York, Owen Sound, Palmerston, Parry Sound, Perth, Picton, Port Arthur, Prescott, Preston, St. Mary's, Stratford, Sudbury, Thessalon, Thorold, Toronto Junction, Trenton, Whitby, Wingham, Beeton, Campbellford, Dundalk, Hagersville, Iroquois, Madoc, Miramichi, Port Colborne, Port Perry, Springfield, Tilbury, Tottenham, Weston, Woodbridge, Woodville, Wroxeter.

The total assessment for 1904 was $906,105,459, and in 1905, $1,026,910,130.

It is of interest to note that, allowing the same rate of growth up to the present time, the capital stock of Cobalt mining companies must now be equal to one-third of the total assessment of the province.

The taxes for 1904 were $15,553,950, a rate per head on the population of $7.49, or 17.2 mills on the dollar. In 1905 the taxes had risen to $16,589,322, or $7.90 a head, but the mill rate was lower, at 16.

In 1904 $4,820,258 of the floating debt represented current loans not bonded. The total assets are placed at $77,128,430, and liabilities at $77,705,707. Disbursements were $43,956,140, and receipts, $45,720,226. Of the liabilities, $4,901,793 was school debentures for which the municipalities are responsible, and the school corporation property has not been included in the assets as a set-off.

In 1905 the population of 2,101,260 was distributed among 522 townships, 1,081, 018, 116 towns and 132 villages, 482,254, and 16 cities, 507,988. The assessed area was 24,481,312 acres.

The draft from the rural districts to the towns is represented by a decrease in the township population of 7389, while the net increase for the province was 24,290.

A vast amount of detailed information regarding provincial industries is embodied in the report, combined with voluminous municipal statistics.

THE SLATER SHOE

The One Way to Know Shoes

BECAUSE of the present high prices of Leather many Shoes now on the market have been put through the cheapening or skinning process, simply to avoid increasing the prices. Their outward appearance may be the same, but the wear test soon reveals the lack of quality within.

Some of these false Shoes were being imported into Canada from the United States, hence the increase in duty to 30 per cent.

There is one certain way to get honest value; one way to know that the Shoes have not been "skinned" and cheapened; one true way to be assured of quality and correct style:—

Insist upon being shown the Slater Shoe and the Slater Trade-mark—the sign of the Slate stamped on every true Slater Shoe.

The Trade-mark is your protection; and it is our protection. It is the guarantee that each Shoe is worth the price stamped on it; and at no lower price is it possible for as good a Shoe to be made.

The Sign of the Slate hangs from every one of the 345 Slater Shoe Stores in Canada
