Hemming, THE ADVENTURER

BY THEODORE ROBERTS

(Continued.) "The poor fellows will be sadly disappointed when they get in and find the Petersons and the money gone," remarked Hemming, calmly, "though their stupidity in thinking them still here beats me."

His cigar. Suddenly Hicks bent forward, listening. "Did you hear that?" he said. "There did you leave the horses?" asked Hemming.

CHAPTER XIII. The Unexpected Sailor. Morning came, and with it the colonel, on Hemming's white stallion.

asked Hemming. "Well, sir, I couldn't catch much of it," replied Smith, "but there was something said about Mr. Peterson's steamers, the Alligator, and about the firemen and engineers being prisoners. From what I could gather, she was captured about half a mile downstream to-night on her way up. One of the men said that he had got a job on her, because he had some important business to attend to up here."

of you to damage government property for the sake of a few pounds it would mean trouble, my friend." The colonel sagged in his saddle like a bag of meal.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL. Few People Know How Useful It is in Preserving Teeth and Beauty. Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

MONTREAL MEN WERE EACH PAID $150 TO MARCH IN BORDEN PROCESSION.

The Conservatives attacked the Government for extending the Intercolonial Railway to Montreal; now they pretend that they want it built to the Pacific.

A new Pacific Railway means prosperity for St. John.

Who sneered at the claims of St. John to become the winter port of Canada? The Conservative Leaders.

The "St John Sun" supported the Harvey-Salisbury Railway to side-track St. John.

No Government has ever done as much for St. John as that of Sir Wilfred Laurier.

Why should the people of St. John take the advice of the friends of George E. Foster?

St. John waited 18 years under Conservative rule for an elevator, but never got it.

When did you make the most money, during the last eight years under Liberal rule or during the seventeen years of Conservative rule?

O'BRIEN AND McKEOWN ARE A WINNING TEAM

VOTE FOR THE National RAILWAY PORT TARIFF Policy

The Conservative Railway Policy demands that the road from coast to coast shall be OWNED BY THE PEOPLE and operated in their interests.

The Liberals would hand over the road to the Grand Trunk to be operated in the GRAND TRUNK'S INTERESTS, which are centered at PORTLAND, MAINE.

The road which the Conservatives WILL BUILD THROUGH NEW BRUNSWICK will bring the TRAFFIC of the new transcontinental to ST. JOHN because it will be owned by the Canadian people, who have NO INTERESTS IN AMERICAN PORTS.

The Liberals would build it for a GIFT TO THE GRAND TRUNK, which will only use it to steal local traffic from the I. C. R. as its through traffic is PLEDGED TO PORTLAND.

The Conservatives will make St. John a NATIONAL PORT. They will develop the harbor at the whole country's expense and will PAY BACK TO THE TAXPAYERS THE $800,000 they have spent at Sand Point.

The Liberals would not even promise to do enough DREDGING FOR TWO NEW WHARVES.

The Conservatives will ENSURE PROSPERITY AND HIGHER WAGES by protecting Canada from foreign slaughtered goods and foreign pauper labor.

The Liberals say to FOREIGN GOODS and FOREIGN LABOR: "Let em' all come."

Daniel and Steckton stand for the NATIONAL PARTY, the party whose motto is

CANADA FOR CANADIANS

G. T. P. CONTRACT SCORED BY THE PRESS OF CANADA.

(Charlotte Town Examiner.) It is wonderful that the Liberal candidates find it difficult to work up any enthusiasm for the Government which made the deal of which Mr. Blair said: "There is no necessity, there is no reason, there is no object, good bad or indifferent, to be obtained."

(Montreal Star.) The country builds the line from Winnipeg to Montreal, and we have to pay the money and we have to pay the money and we have to pay the money...

(Halifax Herald.) Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson told the Do You Choose YOUR MEDICINE WITH CARE AND INSIST ON HAVING Syrup of Linseed AND Turpentine FOR AILMENTS OF THE THROAT AND LUNGS.

(Toronto Mail and Empire.) Let us take as a test his statement that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will cost us but $15,000,000. Here is a road of 3,800 miles in length. The country builds 1,900 miles of it, and every mile will cost $40,000. Our initial outlay is $76,000,000. On top of that we have all the free rentals to carry and all the interest to pay. The free rentals alone on this particular section of the road amount to $22,000,000. And Sir Wilfred Laurier has the brass to stand up before a great Toronto audience and declare that we can spend all this money and that the total amount is but $13,000,000!

Grand Trunk shareholders in London that all the new transcontinental railway would cost the Grand Trunk company was $14,500,000. Every cent of the balance of the cost was to be furnished by the government of Canada. Yet Laurier and Fielding are going about the country trying to make the electors believe that all the people of Canada will be called on to pay will be $13,000,000.

(Berwick, N. S. Register.) In the bargain with the Grand Trunk Pacific the government undoubtedly has ingested several clauses seeking to bind the company to favor Canadian ports. But railway companies possess matchless ingenuity in discovering loop-holes in enactments which interfere with their interests.

Every elector in the city and province, and indeed in all Canada, has two all-sufficient reasons for voting against the Government and its candidates, namely, to rescue the country from the terrible evils which are sure to follow the carrying out of the Grand Trunk Portland deal, and to secure the great benefits which are certain to come from the People's Transcontinental.

THE POLICEMAN'S LOT IS NOT A HAPPY ONE.

Deputy Chief Jenkins Says the Force Works Longer Hours for Less Pay and Under Greater Disadvantages Than Any Other Force in Canada.

Deputy chief Jenkins of the city police force, in taking with the Times this morning, stated that the hours of St. John policemen were longer, and the pay less than in any city in either Canada or the United States. The chief and deputy chief came on duty at nine in the morning, and it is very indefinite as to what hour they return to their homes for the night.

The patrolmen have but two shifts, whereas in other cities they have three. In St. John the day patrol is from seven in the morning until seven at night. The night patrol comes on duty at 6.45 in the evening, and continues until 6.40 the following morning.

In both cases the men are on the street constantly in all weather and under almost all conditions, save only for the hour at lunch time. The deputy chief is of the opinion that these hours are unreasonably long, and that a man must have an exceptionally strong constitution to stand the work for a number of years. The deputy chief also pointed out that the long hours of St. John officers, and one official asked him if he really expected the men to perform such duty.

The deputy chief says that the men in the United States are allowed three shifts, and pays much better wages than are received by St. John policemen.

He says very little—almost nothing of the social side of life," said the deputy. The only time I have to see my family is when I meet them at the table.

In other cities both officers and patrolmen have an opportunity by turns to attend church a certain number of Sundays during each month. This is not so in St. John.

In referring to wages Deputy Chief Jenkins quoted the following figures furnished him by police officials of a number of Canadian cities.

Ottawa: Chief, per month, $158.85; Deputy chief, $108.38; Inspector, $85; Detectives, $75; Sergeants, $75; Patrolmen, $62.50.

Montreal: Chief, per year $1800; Detectives, $900; Captain, $800; Sergeant, $800; Patrolman, $12.50 per week.

Kingston: Deputy chief per year, $800; Patrolman, $600.

Winnipeg: Chief, per month, $206.25; Inspector, $141.66; Sergeant, $110; Patrol Sergeant, $85.38; Morality Officers, $10; Detectives, $51.66; Patrolman, $77.

Edmonton, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Joseph G. Riley, a teacher, was arrested here today charged with murdering a woman in his home in this city last night. The woman is in a hospital and is not expected to live.

In his cell tonight, Riley talked freely of the assault. He said that he had a dispute with his wife over money matters. He first attacked her with his hands, knocking her down. Then he stripped her clothes and whipped her into insensibility with the butt end of a heavy whip. He then thrust a hot iron into her mouth, burning away part of her tongue. Riley also applied the iron to her body and kicked the unconscious woman. He then left the house, leaving her in a neighbor's care for her last night.

Riley is held to await the result of his wife's injuries. The couple have been married five years.

A BRUTAL HUSBAND.

He Beat His Wife and Thrust a Hot Iron Into Her Mouth.

What did he mean? Perhaps some of the Times readers can answer a citizen who in talking to the Times today, asked: was it necessary for Mr. Riley to do so specially pledge all his personal and political support to Mr. O'Brien at last night's election? He said that each member of the government ticket would support O'Brien, that a special declaration became necessary? Or was it a more judicious reference?

SHORTAGE OF TEACHERS.

Toronto, Oct. 21.—A movement is on foot among the educational authorities of the different provinces for an arrangement for an exchange of teachers' certificates. At present the case is raised on separately in the North-West Territories accept Ontario certificates, as did Manitoba a few years ago. It is expected that Nova Scotia and Manitoba will agree to such an exchange. It is thought that Ontario may in this way be able to solve the problem which a shortage of teachers has raised.

HON. MR. EMERSON.

Hon. H. R. Emerson is at St. George, where he will address a meeting tonight. He will arrive in the city tomorrow morning at 2 o'clock, by special train. He did not pass through here, as stated elsewhere in this paper.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast.—Fresh southerly winds, fair to cloudy, Sunday, moderate to west and westerly gales, showery and turning colder.

Huntley.—Yes, I've just got back from Acadia. I got my money or did I not? Well, I saw several vanocose trees last night. (Catholic Standard and Times).

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

M. C. Lockhart, first legislator of the I. C. R., was in the city yesterday.

Pictou Brown left for St. John this morning where he will remain on a short visit. (Charlottetown Examiner).

James Reynolds, of 365 Union St., is eighty-four years old to-day and notwithstanding his advanced years is still quite smart. Mr. Reynolds was born in St. John and spent his whole lifetime here. He tells some interesting reminiscences of the past and his memory is very good. His many friends hope that he may be long spared to them.

Bishop Casey, of St. John; Bishop of I. E. Island, and Archbishop of Montreal will visit Rome next month.

Mrs. Fred P. Fisher will receive her friends on Tuesday afternoon and evening, Oct. 25, at 6 o'clock, at the Hotel, 222 Germain street, of Portland and Ernest Whittam, of Lunenburg, registered at the New Victoria yesterday.

Dr. J. H. Scammell was to leave Liverpool yesterday on the steamer Campania.

Miss Mary Daigle, daughter of Squire Daigle, of Chignassou, is visiting her aunt at 222 Germain street. Prof. Hutchings, of Lindsay (Ont.) is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Murray.

B. B. Rowlock, of Annapolis, is at the Victoria.

Rev. James Burgess of St. John's will preach in the Presbyterian church at St. Stephen, next Sunday.

J. N. Puroell, a well known New York promoter accompanied by his wife and little son, are at the Victoria en route home from Halifax.

Hon. H. R. Emerson, accompanied by Judge F. W. Emmerson, were passengers on the Atlantic express today to Moncton from Fredericton. Wm. McQueen and J. Welch, returned today from a trip to Boston.

Dr. Roy, E. M. McDonald, F. C. Bennett, of Sydney, passed through today, from the St. Louis exposition.

A POINTER FOR BOYS.

Which Tells the Secret of a Successful Career in Manhood.

The young man who never does any more work than what he is paid for never gets any more pay for what he does. The man who delivered himself of this remark, says the New York Commercial, was at the time traffic manager of one of the great southern railroads and is now president and manager of one of the great western lines, with a salary said to be in the neighborhood of $40,000—and he is not yet fifty years old. The story of this rise does not "read like a romance," but it shows what an intelligent, persevering American can do who has the proper mettle in him. His father, a small merchant, gave him a good common-school education, including the high school, and his standing was always near the top of the class. He went to school with a desire to learn, and he didn't shirk the study that was necessary. After graduation he secured a place as clerk in the freight department of a railroad, and his salary was only $25 per month. It was the same road of which he was first vice-president and traffic manager when he expressed himself as quoted above. From the start he was a working clerk. He studied all the forms used in the system as they came before him; he studied the account books until he understood them when that was no part of his daily duty. Whenever any other clerk was "stuck" with too much work he was willing to help out. He never complained of the night work and the long hours that came when the annual report was being prepared. In short, in less than a year he was the best posted clerk in the office. His salary was raised and at the end of the second year he was made assistant to the chief clerk. When he had been only four years in the service he was chief clerk in the freight department and had refused several offers from other roads that had come to him because he had earned the reputation of being exceptionally well informed in all freight matters. But his ideals were high. He was not satisfied with his $2,400 salary and chief clerkship. He worked as steadily and persistently as he had done when the "cub" of the office. He not only studied his own department but he read up on reports of all other departments and sought information from every chief from section foreman up. He pursued all manner of collateral branches; he read up on the durability of ties, the cost of concrete in bridge work, the consumption of coal, the economy in heavy freight hauling, the value of the excursion business and a thousand other matters that had nothing to do with his department. As everyone knows in the railroad business, for the right sort of man, the advancement of a chief clerk to an assistant manager, to manager and on up is easy. For this man it was a matter of course. Before he left the chief clerk's desk he knew more about the working of the road than the majority of those above him. He was consulted and referred to on all sides. At thirty-two he was general freight agent with a reputation throughout his section of the South and the West, and at forty he was first vice-president and had attracted the attention of the "big men" of Wall street who own the roads and who are always looking for capacity and are willing to pay for it. But he was in no hurry for a change. He waited until finally an offer came that he could not refuse. He was offered more salary than his road paid its president; he was to be given full charge and authority; and the offer came from a man who controls lines from ocean to ocean. This man's rise has not surprised him because he started out with that idea in view and never doubted his ability to reach the goal. It has not surprised his intimates because "he was that kind of a boy."

CHOKED THE RIVER

(From the Detroit Tribune.) The Kalamazoo Council has under consideration the dredging of Kalamazoo River from the city of Cooper, a distance of several miles for the deepening of the bed in some places and the removal of sandbars in others. The estimated cost of a thorough job is $30,000 and for half the money, it is believed, the situation can be materially improved and the damage by floods greatly lessened. If the dredging is undertaken, particular attention should be paid to that portion of the river within the corporation, which has never recovered, even with time's help, from the choking of the channel received during the hoopskirt era of forty years ago, when every cast-off article found its way to or near the middle of the stream as a wounded and outraged man member of the household would throw it. Those old hoopskirts are there yet, save the comparatively few—which are many—raised out by fishermen with hook and line. They are there by the thousand, a plague and pestilence breeder. They have dammed the river. The merits of these ancient skeleton balloons best brushwood kind for straining water and retaining residuum. All sorts of floating wood and trash found a foothold and lodged in them. They became shallows, and the shallows were persistence for which the hoopskirts were responsible. All these antique memories of the nation and mothers of many years ago should be scooped out of the Kalamazoo and something done to put them out of action, though heaven knows how it can be done. Possibly a deep pit in some secluded place would hold them. They should be planted near the center of the earth as possible, best some scientific researcher for prehistoric remains and exploit them as the bones of pre-Adamic Kalamazooites.

"Lovely weather, isn't it?" remarked one street car passenger to another. "Lovely!" echoed the party of the second part. "How can you say that when the rain is coming down in torrents?" "My friend," explained the other, "manufacture umbrellas."—Chicago News.

MODERNIZED CHURCH MUSIC.

Disappointment in the Abandonment of Ferocious-Producing Hymns.

In several of the larger cities of the East there is a growing sentiment for reform in church music. As a rule this sentiment is founded upon alleged concert programmes, which give an unecological tone to the services. The chief accusation is that music in many of the wealthier churches is becoming less and less an integral part of divine worship and is deteriorating into a form of secular entertainment. These communicants who were reared in the good old form of congregational worship, where all joined in the solemn and inspirational hymns, see in the modernizing influences a tendency inimical to true religious fervor. Some even go to the extent of charging that modern church music is not only inappropriate and harmful, but maudlin and cheap. That there is some ground for this agitation must be admitted. It is a common thing nowadays for church committees to advertise their musical programmes and "sets" their soloists. Churches vie with each other in engaging soloists and other musicians. Some congregations go to the extent of maintaining regular orchestras. The critics claim that these churches use the columns of the newspapers as fully as possible with a view of drawing out a large attendance. Based upon this claim is the statement that the smaller and more humble churches are drawn upon to contribute to the audiences. They cannot compete with their more prosperous fellows, either because they are unable to maintain a brilliant musical equipment, or, which frequently is the case, the members prefer to be unprogressive and adhere more closely to the traditions of a more simple form of worship. It is well within the memory of the most men and women of to-day when the rendering of music in churches was primitive and of beautiful solemnity. The choir of the old days was about the extent of the investment and the original object of the choir was not one of entertainment, but as a leader in the congregational singing. The members gave their services without pay and what few solo numbers there were merely filled in necessary places in the service. In the old days the voices of friend and neighbor mingled in "Old Hundred," "Coronation" and "Book of Ages." The effect of this congregational singing was to promote good fellowship, comfort distressed spirits and engender a proper humility to flubbe the Word. There has been a pronounced change. While congregational singing has not disappeared in churches where it was ever a part of the service, it has become of less and less importance. Professional vocalists are now featured, and before their superior performance the average

GREATEST CATARACT.

One That Surpasses Niagara Discovers in South America.

St. Louis, Oct. 19.—The greatest natural phenomenon, the sublime cataract in the world, has been discovered in South America. It is the falls of Igazu, infinitely greater than Niagara Falls or Victoria Falls on the Zambesi River. The existence of the stupendous Falls of Igazu was intimated at the recent Congress of Geographers, held at the World's Fair. The finding of the falls will mark forever the early years of the Twentieth Century. Nor is it remarkable that geographers have not known before of the splendid cataract. For it is concealed in a forest almost impenetrable, 1,000 miles by boat from the nearest town of size. Hecacio Anasagasti, Commissioner of Mines and Liberal Arts from the Republic of Argentina—to the World's Fair, enthusiastically and fully confirms the statement that the Igazu is the greatest waterfall in the world. He says: "I have recently been in a position to corroborate with my own eyes the marvelous character of the Falls of Igazu. I have seen them, I have measured them. I have seen and studied the Niagara and the Zambesi Falls, and of my own knowledge I assert, without fear of contradiction, that it is the greatest cataract in the world. It throws Niagara and Zambesi into the shade. I expect that many people will refuse to believe these assertions, which seem so incredible, but nevertheless, I confidently predict that within a year the Falls of Igazu will have taken their place before the world as the greatest natural wonder yet discovered." In the last seventy miles of its course the Igazu River is the boundary between Brazil and Argentina, just as is the Niagara between the United States and Canada. The Igazu's channel is twisted and winds through a lofty, hilly and broken country. Twelve miles above its junction with the Parana River the Igazu abruptly turns at right angles and at this bend are the Falls. The precipice over which the cataract plunges is 210 feet high; that of Niagara 167 feet. The falls of Igazu are 18,128 feet wide, about two and one-half times as wide as Niagara. It is estimated that 100,000,000 tons of water per hour roars and foams over Niagara; a like estimate gives the Falls of Igazu, 140,000,000 tons. At any time of the year the Igazu is the greatest cataract in the world, but the sight of it in the rainy season is said to far surpass in sublimity and grandeur its appearance during the rest of the year. During the rains, the river above the

INFANTILE MORTALITY

Not as Great as Formerly But Still the Record is a Terrible One.

The total population within the boundaries of the United States as returned in 1900, was 62,947,714, and the natural increase between 1890 and 1900 had been 17.7 per cent, or 11,000,000 of the population. The death rate in 1900 was 16.3 per 1,000, which was slightly lower than in 1890, when it was 18 per 1,000 of the population. The mean of these two rates is 17.1, which represents the average death rate of the decade. So there must have been an average birth rate in order to offset the loss of 17.1 per 1,000 by deaths and to produce the increase in population enumerated. According to these figures, the birth rate in the United States was greater than in any European country except Hungary, Austria, Germany, and Italy, while the excess of births over deaths here more closely approximated the average of striking averages. As an actual fact in the year 1900 (the date of last enumeration) 2,040,192 children, were born in the United States, and this gave a birth rate of 27.2 per 1,000 of the population. This enormous number of births increasing in proportion to the growth of the country were not for the fact that a terrible mortality among children and babies. In 1900 the death rate of babies under one year of age was 165.4 per 1,000. This rate decreases remarkably with the advance of age, so that among the population under five years of age it falls to 82 per 1,000. After that crucial period the death rate which a baby has to materially improve. From five to nine years the death rate is only 5, from 10 to 14 years, only 3.3; from 15 to 19 years, 2.2; and from 20 to 24 years, 7.4 per 1,000. The figures of previous censuses show that infantile mortality was proportionally greater formerly than it is now. Modern ideas of sanitation and the development of the medical science, are now preventing many needless deaths of children from such diseases as diphtheria, whooping cough, inflammation of the brain and meningitis, has been very marked. There is sufficient much yet remains undone for the protection and betterment of infant life.—Kansas City Journal.

A TIGER STORY.

(From the Weekly Indian Chronicle.)

The police station at Kaggara was few days ago the scene of great excitement and horror when the corpse of an unfortunate Nidan Patali, who met his lamentable death from the claws of a tiger, was carried there for inspection. Four persons were killed during the course of a few weeks, besides a number of persons maimed; while carrying away of cattle is going on almost every day. The tigers that have caused so great a havoc here are now proved to be four in number one tiger, one tigress and two big cubs, and our sympathetic deputy commissioner is said to have offered a reward of Rs. 40 for the destruction of each of them. The ferocious brute, having taken their abode by the side of the only important road leading from Kaggara to the village Gaggapur have practically laid siege to the village, with the result that communication on foot has been stopped. Several attempts that had been made to afford relief to the unfortunate villagers were all unsuccessful. A party of local militia mustered marched into the jungle at the head of our energetic Naid Tehaladar Maulvi Mahmood Ibrahim to hunt the tigers, but with all their efforts they could not make the master stripes come out of their recess. The next day, however, another party, consisting of four European gentlemen, with a large number of coolies, surrounded the jungle and succeeded in arousing the tigers, which managed to escape through the line without giving the hunters an opportunity of discharging bullets. They pursued the animals and made them swim across a well. It is a matter of regret that the brave hunters failed to hit the animals while they were struggling in the water although a good number of shots were fired. The tigers got to the other side of the well without encountering further opposition and fell upon the said Nidan Patali who was grazing cattle near his house and killed him on the spot.

RUSSIANS HATE AMERICANS.

(Washington Post.)

Whatever may be the result of the Russo-Japanese war one thing is sure Americans have permanently lost the friendship and good will which of yore the Russians had for our people," said Mr. Cyrus J. Finch, of Chicago. I found this from personal experience while on a recent stay in the dominions of the czar. They can tell an American over there from all the other races of the earth, and thus it was that early in the game I found myself getting the chilly shoulder. Without being treated to actual sentences, I was made to understand in St. Petersburg, Moscow, and other places that I was persona non grata. My passport was scrutinized in the most provokingly deliberate way and once or twice I was made to wait two or three hours because of some alleged defect in them. Just now an Englishman in Russia is the most disliked visitor in Russia. I would advise him to cut out that country in his trans-atlantic wanderings.

Difficulties Experienced in Marking the Line.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY

It Involves the Delimitation of 1200 Miles of Territory and is by No Means a Small Job.

Dr. Otto H. Tittmann, superintendent of the coast and geodetic survey, has just returned from Alaska, where he went to supervise the first section's work in marking the international boundary...

Dr. Tittmann reports that the summer work near a close has been unfavorable in Alaska for certain phases of the present work, particularly for those which require visibility of mountain tops...

The conical aluminum bronze monuments, previously described in these columns as the best markers for the region of heavy moisture, have proved satisfactory. On some of the mountains, however, it has not been possible to put anything in the way of a perpetual lecap to penetrate...

The one hundred and forty-first meridian, which was not affected in any way by the decision of the tribunal, except at its initial point to the west of the Mount St. Elias, will now receive attention throughout its length. The task is simple, yet it will require the attention of the government departments have a large capacity. There are now five large meat concerns in Alaska, and they have a capacity of 600,000 cattle and 7,000,000 sheep a year.

The Indian rhinoceros is nearly extinct. There are two specimens in the London Zoological Gardens and two on the European continent. Very few are left in a wild state in India and Assam, and unless special measures be taken for their preservation they will soon disappear.

The war correspondent of the Manchester (England) Guardian states that the portraits of Admiral Togo, which have been appearing so numerous in European and American newspapers and periodicals, are not those of Togo, hero of Port Arthur, but of an obscure rear admiral of the same name.
