THREATEN GERMAN BASE!

KRONPRINZESSIN GEGILIE HIT BY HUN SUBMARINE

U. S. Transport Mount Vernon Was Craft Which Put Into Bar Harbor.

BIG STEAMER IS ABLE TO RETURN TO PORT

Steamer Almirante Sunk in Collision Off New Jersey Coast.

Washington, Sept. 6.—The United States army transport Mount Vernon, formerly the North German Lloyd liner Kron Prinzessin Cecilie, was torpedoed by an enemy submarine yesterday 200 miles from the coast of France while homeward bound, but was able to return to port. The report to the navy department today made no mention of any casualties and it was assumed that no one was injured by the explosion.

No military units were on board, but the big liner probably was carrying some sick and wounded American soldiers in addition to her crew of probably 600 or 700 navy men. The extent of the damage was not given in the department's advice, but from the fact that the vessel was able to return to France at a speed of fourteen knots, officials concluded that she was not badly damaged.

Mad Much Gold. The Mount Vernon when she was the German steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie, was on her way to Hamburg from New York with a large passenger list and more than $5,000,000 in American gold when the war broke out. When the captain heard of it, he, fearing capture by the British, put back and reached Bar Harbor, Me. The steamer was afterwards towed to Boston, where she was interned and subsequently seized after her crew had damaged her machinery. Her tonnage is 8,554 net. The vessel was named after the wife of the German Crown Prince.

Almirante Sunk. New York, Sept. 6.—The United Fruit steamship Almirante carrying passengers was sunk today off the Jersey coast, in a collision with a government vessel. The passengers were all reported to have been rescued although it is feared that some of the crew are missing.

The Almirante left Pyla bound for West Indian and Central American ports in command of Captain Farquhar Grant, who it is understood, was saved. The number of passengers was said to be small. She was a vessel of 5,000 tons gross, built in Belfast, Ireland, in 1905.

CLAIR MERCHANT UNDER EDICT

D. J. Long's License Cancelled For Shipping Sugar From Madawaska To Fort Kent.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—As a result of a thorough investigation by the Canada Food Board of cases of sale of sugar and flour for export to the United States, D. J. Long, general merchant of Clair, N. B., has been cancelled and action is pending against other merchants in terms along the border line east of the Great Lakes.

Germans on Their Base At Chemin-des-Dames In A Precarious Position

Capture of Couchy-Le-Chateau By the French Makes Enemy Positions on Their Important Base Practically Untenable—Gen. Debeney's Army Turns Ham-Guisard Line. At Dampcourt, South of Chauny--French Again At Hindenburg Line.

British South of Peronne Advance Approximately Seven Miles East of the Somme and Astride Amiens-St. Quentin Line Three Miles on Twelve Mile Front—Germans Offering Strong Resistance To Haig's Men.

Paris, Sept. 6.—The capture of Couchy-Le-Chateau by the French makes the German positions on the Chemin-des-Dames precarious and practically untenable, according to French military officers.

With the French Army in France, Sept. 6.—(By The Associated Press)—General Debeney's army has turned the Ham-Guisard line at Dampcourt west of Chauny. The Germans are retreating rapidly all along the front south of the Somme.

French troops this afternoon reached Petit Barisis, on the eastern side of the lower forest of Coucy and immediately in front of the Hindenburg line.

French cavalry this morning passed through the town of Chauny, from which the enemy had fled. The troopers are advancing towards Tergnier, four and a half miles northeast of Chauny and have reached the region of Viry-Nourouil, two and a half miles from Tergnier.

London, Sept. 6.—(By The Associated Press)—British troops are reported to have advanced this morning astride the Amiens-St. Quentin line on a front of twelve miles to a depth of three miles.

The British are at the western edge of Templeux-Le-Fosse, three and a half miles northeast of Peronne. The Germans are strongly resisting the British advance by rear-guard actions.

Seven Mile Advance. London, Sept. 6.—The British troops south of Peronne are advancing approximately seven miles east of the Somme on the general line of Monchy-Legache, Vraignes and Tincourt, all of which villages have been taken by them, according to Field Marshal Haig's communication issued tonight. The communication issued tonight in the Lys sector slight advances also have been made by the British. The text of the communication follows:

"On the southern portion of the battlefield our progress continues in close touch with the French Army on our right. South of Peronne we already are nearly seven miles east of the Somme and advancing on the general line of Monchy-Legache Vraignes and Tincourt, all of which villages are in our hands. The resistance of the enemy's counter-attacks who had attempted to delay our advance has been rapidly overcome and a number of prisoners have been taken in this sector."

Sharp Fighting. "South of the Cologne River, on the high ground about Nurla, the enemy has contested our advance with great obstinence. Sharp fighting occurred about this village and around Equancourt, in the valley north of it. Both these villages now are in the possession of our troops."

"Pressing forward beyond this line we have captured Longuevoies and Lianmont and are approaching Metz-Ba-Conteur and the southern portion of the Hindenburg Wood. A number of prisoners have been taken on this part of the battlefield."

"North of La Bassée there has been local fighting. West of La Bassée and east of Bac St. Mart we captured a few prisoners. In the latter locality our line has been advanced slightly opposite Esquinghem and southwest of Ypres."

RUSSIAN PREMIER LENINE IS WORSE

London, Sept. 6.—The condition of Nikolai Lenine, the Bolshevik premier, against whose life an attempt was made last week, is weaker, according to a Russian wireless dispatch received here tonight from Moscow. His temperature is higher as the result of effusion of blood in the pectoral and shoulder.

Amsterdam, Sept. 6.—Dora Kaplan, a member of the social revolutionary party, who last Friday attempted to assassinate Nikolai Lenine, the Bolshevik premier, is in a critical condition at a hospital in Moscow as the result of rough handling by a mob after the attack, says a despatch from Moscow to the Rhenish Westphalian Gazette, of Essen.

The Bolshevik commissioner of justice, the dispatch adds, has ordered that everything be done to save the woman's life for the purpose of tracing the plot which undoubtedly existed.

A WAGE RAISE FOR MILLION

United States Railway Employees and Scotia Coal Mine Workers Get Advance.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 6.—Superintendent T. H. Brown yesterday granted the Scotia colliery workers a general increase of twenty cents per day and will ask the president and directors for certain additional increases for the lower paid classes of mine workers. The raise dates from July 1st.

Raise for Million. Washington, Sept. 6.—Nearly a million railroad employees, including all clerks, track laborers and maintenance of way men are to receive wage increases of $15 a month, the equivalent of one dollar a day or 15 cents an hour over the pay they received last January. Under a wage order issued today by Director General McAdoo, advances are effective as of September 1.

This order, affecting half the railroad men in the United States and adding approximately $150,000,000 to the annual pay roll in calculations of labor representatives, represents the second largest aggregate wage increase ever granted in American industrial history. It is supplementary to the general railroad wage order issued four months ago, providing for about $500,000,000 increases, and for the classes of employees affected. It supplants provisions for that order.

PTL. TAYLOR WOUNDED. Mrs. Lottie M. Taylor, of Cole's Island, has received word from her husband, Pte. Frank L. Taylor, that he has arrived safely in England, and is now stationed at Cambridge Hospital, Aldershot, having been severely wounded in the last arm and neck by shrapnel on August 14. Private Taylor speaks of feeling very comfortably and getting along very nicely. His many friends wish for a speedy recovery, and that he may soon return back to Canada.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED. Yarmouth, N. S., Sept. 6.—George Swaine, nineteen years old, was drowned while bathing in front of his home at Little River last evening. He was a good swimmer, and is supposed to have taken a cramp.

IMPORTANT TOWN OF HAM TAKEN BY THE FRENCH

Chauny Also Falls and Enemy Thrown Back on Whole Aisne Front.

AMERICAN TROOPS PROGRESS FURTHER

French Advance East of Canal Du Nord Reaches Ten Kilometres.

Paris, Sept. 6.—The French have re-occupied all their old trenches along the whole of the front to the north of the Aisne River, and also captured the towns of Ham and Chauny in the salient southwest of St. Quentin, says the official communication issued by the war office tonight.

South of the Aisne the American troops have made further progress in the region of Villers-Im-Prayer and Hevillon. The French advance east of the Canal Du Nord at some places has reached a depth of more than ten kilometres.

The text of the communication follows: "On the whole of the front between the Aisne and the Aisne the advance of our troops has not slackened during the day, in spite of the efforts of the Germans to stem it, particularly to the north of the Aisne."

"We hold Ham and Chauny. To the east of the Canal Du Nord we have brought our front on a line running past Lauchy, the forest of Villers-St. Christophe, Estilly, east of Ham-Brouchy, Villeneuve, Chapelle-Viry, Loureuil and northwest of Chauny."

"Since yesterday our troops have made progress in several places to a depth of ten kilometres. Germans Fall Back. "To the north of the Aisne we have occupied the Basses Forests of Coucy up to Petit Barisis. The Germans were compelled to abandon the forest, materials and considerable quantities of stores."

"Further to the right we hold the outskirts of Fresnoy, Quincy-Basson, Lailly, west of Vauxaillon and the Laifaux Farm. "We have reoccupied our old trenches on the whole of the front to the north of the Aisne. South of the Aisne the Americans have made further progress in the region of Villers-Im-Prayer and Hevillon."

PRESENT NO TIME FOR PEACE MOVE

Germany and Austria Decide That No Offensive To End War Will Be Started Now.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Germany and Austria have agreed that the present is no time to start a peace offensive, according to a despatch from Switzerland today, reporting on the recent conference at Vienna between Admiral Von Hatzfeldt and Count Berian.

This message said the "Teutonic" foreign ministers agreed that the Bismarck must be made to realize that Marshal Foch cannot break the German front, and that years would be required to defeat Germany.

An official French statement commenting on the report notes that the ministers did not speak as in the past of a victorious Germany dictating peace terms.

TOWN OF HAM PRACTICALLY IN HANDS OF FRENCH

FRENCH TROOPS CONTINUE TO PUSH FORWARD ON THE SOMME

South of Peronne Gen. Petain's Men Make Further Crossings of River in Region of Epenancourt—Several Additional Towns Taken and Progress Made on River Vesle — The Fall of Ham, Important Centre.

Paris, Sept. 6.—French troops last night continued to push forward on the entire front between the Somme and the Vesle, says today's war office statement.

South of Peronne French troops made further crossings of the Somme in the region of Epenancourt. Farther south the Ham-Peronne road was reached at several points.

South of Ham the towns of La Plessis-Patte-D'Oie and Beriancourt were captured, and still farther south the French pursuing troops pushed beyond Guivoy, Cailloux-Crepigny and Abbecourt.

In the region north of the Ailette the French reached the outskirts of Sinecy and the plateau north of Landricourt, and south of the Ailette the advancing forces are along the Vaux Ailon ravine.

General Humbert's army is making steady progress today in the region of Guiscard and Ham. Advances from the battlefield say that the town of Ham has virtually been taken by the French forces.

Americans At The Aisne.

The American troops advancing from the Vesle have captured the town of Clemis, southeast of Reuil-lun, and have advanced their lines as far as the outskirts of Villiers-Prayeres, on the Aisne.

With The American Army In France, Sept. 6.—(By The Associated Press, 11 p.m.)—

French-American troops reached the south bank of the Aisne to night between Conde and Villiers-Arcy, eight miles front. American forces this afternoon occupied the towns of Druis and Barbonval virtually without opposition.

Grip on Ailette.

THE BRITISH TRADE COMMISSIONER HERE

G. T. Milne, in Board of Trade Rooms Yesterday Afternoon, Outlined British Plans For Trade Expansion.

At a meeting held at the Board of Trade offices yesterday afternoon, G. T. Milne, trade commissioner in Canada and Newfoundland, who recently arrived from Australia, where he has been acting as British trade commissioner during the last five years, outlined the organization of the recently created imperial department of overseas trade (development and intelligence).

It is about twenty years since the imperial Board of Trade, which among its many other functions, exercised that of a minister of commerce, formed a commercial intelligence branch for the purpose of affording to British manufacturers and exporters means of obtaining information regarding trade possibilities throughout the world.

At the imperial Trade Conference, held in 1917, it was decided by the imperial government to appoint four trade commissioners—one in each of the self-governing dominions. In response to the public demand and in view of the recommendations made by the Dominion Royal Commission, the number of commissioners has now been increased to sixteen. In Canada, where there was until recently, only one commissioner, there will now be three, namely, one at Headquarters (Montreal), one at Toronto and one at Winnipeg. At a later date presumably, an additional appointment will be made at Vancouver. In the provinces, where there is no resident commissioner, there are imperial trade correspondents, who attend to local inquiries and keep in touch with the department in London, and with the commissioner in Montreal.

Mr. W. E. Anderson, St. John, N. B., is the imperial trade correspondent in New Brunswick.

The work of the commissioners consists in reporting to their departments opportunities for British manufacturers and exporters in their territory. Contemplated public works, new factories and other developments likely to create a demand for British goods are promptly reported, while classified lists of Canadian importers and merchants are compiled and are available for reference in London. Tariff changes are of course duly noted, as well as any legislation likely to affect the Canadian import trade. The trade commissioners also serve as a means whereby British exporting firms may be brought into touch with representative firms in the Dominion, who are ready to undertake the representation of the home firms.

CHURCH BRIDGE HAS COLLAPSED

Lack of Repairs Nearly Caused Accident To Motor Car Near Welsford—Impassable To Automobiles.

The Church Bridge at Welsford, a decayed and quite dangerous passageway, succumbed to the elements a few days ago. An auto was on the bridge when it started to fall, but luckily it got off before the crash. The bridge settled four feet, and the direct cause is low repairs during the year on this particular structure, and the removal of one of the bents by last spring's freshet, which again remained without any repairs. Little attention was paid to the entreaties of the citizens in that locality, by the government, to institute repairs.

Two main stud-braces collapsed at the one time, and resulted in the bridge falling down. Happily the water is very low and teamsters can circumvent the decayed structure, by fording. Automobiles, however, have to go other routes. The bridge is built over the Douglas Valley Brook near the Episcopal Church.

The dances tent will be open tonight at the fair. Come and enjoy yourself.

LT. TWEEDIE WOUNDED

Chatham, Sept. 6.—Lieut. Arthur T. Tweedie, son of the late Lieut. Governor Tweedie, has been wounded in France.

Miss Nellie Arthurs, of Silver Falls, left on Tuesday evening for a visit to her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Arthurs, and also her brother, Harry Arthurs, of Frelate, Sask.

Peggy Hyland has only one athletic vice. That is playing golf. And it's an expensive vice, too, because the balls she loses, it is estimated, would reach from Fort Lee to Forty-second street, if placed end to end.

They will be higher before they are lower. Every day you delay you run the risk of paying more. Wide variety now, splendid colors and patterns. Attractive models for men of all ages. The workmanship in these suits is a credit to Canadian tailors—that's about the highest praise.

Where Germans May Try To Stand Behind Hindenburg Line

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week—September 7th—is accompanied by a helpful Map which shows the present Hindenburg line, and also clearly indicates the line behind it at the River Meuse, which, in the opinion of experts, will be where the Germans will make their new stand. It also shows the territory the American troops are holding in Alsace, Lorraine, and along the Vesle, including cities, rivers, etc.

This article analyzes all the important war news of the past week from the Western Front.

One subject of paramount interest holds today the first place in the hearts and minds of the fathers and mothers of America and of the millions of anxious women here at home, the wives, sisters, and sweethearts of the gallant fellows who have gone "over there." It is the question of how the "boys in brown" are faring on the battlefields of France, what they are doing, whether they are making good and holding their own successfully against the onslaughts of the

Teuton. The one sure way to get this information in an accurate and comprehensive form, is to read from week to week in THE LITERARY DIGEST the exact facts regarding our men abroad, their movements, their various activities, their share of the fighting, and the measures that are being taken for their comfort and support—facts drawn from all the authoritative sources and that may be accepted without question, forming a continuous history of our part in the war that is well worth preserving. # THE BRITISH TROOPS CAPTURE NEUVE CHAPELLE

GERMANS CONTINUE GENERAL RETREAT, BURNING VILLAGES

In Large Section East and Northeast of Peronne Enemy Are Burning Vast Quantities of War Materials and Entire Villages Are Afame—Marshal Haig's Forces Capture Many Important Points.

London, Sept. 6.—(Canadian Press despatch from Reuter's Ltd.)—The French are now close to Tergnier, eastward of Chauny.

With the British Army in France, Sept. 6.—(By The Associated Press)—Substantial advances are again reported all along the southern part of the line. The Australians have crossed the Somme on a wide front south of Peronne and after overcoming heavy opposition have driven into the territory the enemy was holding. St. Christ, Brie, Le Meunil, Doingt and Athies Wood all have been taken and progress is reported to have been made east of these places.

MEN CHARGED WITH CUTTING MAIL BAG

Herve Bedard and Rene Guerin Arrested At Grand Bay—Bag of Mail Cut Open At Ketepec Station.

Herve Bedard and Rene Guerin, aged 17 and 18, respectively, were arrested at Grand Bay yesterday morning, on suspicion of cutting open the mail bag at Ketepec station.

The early train carried out mail for the station post office, which was left at Ketepec station. Soon afterwards Matthew Adams of the firm of D. Magee & Sons, city, happened along in that vicinity and noticed two rather undesirable looking men in the vicinity of the station. The two at once walked off at his approach and Mr. Adams upon noticing that mail bags called the men to return but they refused.

Mrs. Bonnell, the postmistress, seeing the mail bag cut, got in touch with the post office authorities, who in turn notified the police. Post Office Inspector Woods was soon on hand, being advised from Westford. Chase was given the mail bags which were taken at Grand Bay station and placed under arrest. They appeared before Justice Allingham at Fairville for a hearing and upon the information of the post office inspector were remanded until Monday.

That the young men endeavored to make their getaway on a passing freight, was evidenced when one pitched his suit case on a passing freight train but evidently they were unable to climb on as the freight was moving swiftly. Conductor McCrackin of the freight train now holds the suit case. The young fellows when arrested, gave their addresses as Montreal.

Marie Walecamp is to be starred in a Bret Harte story, "In the Carquinez Woods," being directed by Colin Campbell. Al Whitman plays opposite.

NEW FOREST RANGERS FOR N. B. APPOINTED

L. A. Gagnon To Be Chief Game Warden in N. B. Dr. Smith's Department.

Fredericton, Sept. 6.—The result of the recent examinations at the crown land office for the forestry service was made public today. There were 200 applicants for positions for forest rangers, and out of 139 who presented themselves for examination sixty-three passed. It was found that some had not sufficient experience as scalers, while some of those who passed the examination were beyond the age limit of fifty-five. Following is a list of those who have accepted positions: L. A. Gagnon, to be chief game warden and to supervise work in regard to game protection; A. Murchie, to be chief scaler and to superintend the work of inspectors for whole province in regard to scaling.

The inspectors are A. C. McElvane, with headquarters at Campbellton; E. A. Roberts, at Bathurst; M. A. Craig, at Newcastle; William Kerr at Chatham; and George F. Burden at Fredericton.

Forest Rangers are: Montague Fowler, White's Brook, Restigouche; Theophile Roy, Enoch M. Bamford, Kedgwick; Edward Baldwin, Bathurst; W. R. Crocker, West Bathurst; James Drapau, Pettit Roucher; A. J. Branch, Burnsville; Wm. McConnell, Blackville; J. W. Jones, Doaktown; J. E. Estey, Boiestown; P. T. Robichaud, Harcourt; Thomas O'Halloran, St. George; Havelock Kelly, Chipman; G. ## NOTICE

For the information of the public generally in and around the Port of St. John, N. B., the following Order-in-Council is published. This order is issued under the authority of what is known as "War Measures Act" in Canada:—

No. 58. Canada Gazette, 19th Dec., 1914. Order-in-Council prohibiting disclosure of movement of forces or Military Operations. P. C. 2358. AT THE GOVERNMENT HOUSE AT OTTAWA, Saturday, the 12th day of September, 1918.

His Royal Highness the Governor-General-in-Council: His Royal Highness the Governor-General-in-Council under and in virtue of the Provisions of Section 6 of the War Measures Act, 1914, is pleased to make, and doth hereby make, the following orders and regulations for the prevention of the giving out of information calculated to be, or that might be, directly or indirectly useful to the enemy, and for the prevention of espionage and generally for the security of the forces of His Majesty in Canada, and the welfare of the people of Canada.

1. No person shall without lawful authority publish or communicate any information with respect to the movement or disposition of any of the forces, ships, or war materials of His Majesty, or of any of His Majesty's Allies, or with respect to the plans of any naval or military operations by any such forces or ships, or with respect to any works or measures undertaken for or connected with the fortification or defence of any place, if the information is such as is calculated to be or might be directly or indirectly useful to the enemy.
2. No person shall without the permission of the competent naval or military authority make any photograph, sketch, plan, model, or other representations of any naval or military work, or of any dock or harbour work in or in connection with a defended harbour, and no person in the vicinity of any such work shall without such permission have in his possession any photographic or other apparatus, or other material or thing suitable for use in making any such representation.
3. No person shall without lawful authority shall interfere, or tamper or interfere with, any wire or other apparatus for transmitting telegraphic or telephonic messages, or any apparatus or contrivances intended for or capable of being used for a signalling apparatus, either visual or otherwise, or prevent or obstruct, or in any manner whatsoever interfere with the sending, conveyance, or delivery of any communication by means of telegraph, telephone, or otherwise, or shall be in possession of any apparatus capable of being used for tapping messages sent by wireless telegraphy or otherwise.
4. No person shall with the intent of eliciting information for the purpose of communicating it to the enemy, or for any purpose calculated to assist the enemy, give or sell to a member of any of His Majesty's forces any intoxicating liquor; and no person shall give or sell to a member of any of His Majesty's forces employed in the defence of any railway, dock, or harbour any intoxicating liquor when not on duty with intent to make him drunk, or when on sentry or other duty, either with or without any intent.
5. No person shall do any injury to any railway or be upon any railway, or under or near any bridge, viaduct, or culvert over which a railway passes with intent to do injury thereto.
6. No person shall by the discharge of firearms or otherwise endanger the safety of any member of any of His Majesty's forces travelling on or guarding any railway or of any authorized person guarding any railway.
7. No person without the permission of the competent naval or military authority, shall in the vicinity of any railway or of any DOCK OR HARBOUR BE IN POSSESSION OF DYNAMITE OR ANY OTHER EXPLOSIVE SUBSTANCE, but nothing in this Regulation shall be construed as affecting the possession of ammunition for sporting purposes.
8. No person in, or in the neighborhood of, a defended harbour shall by word of mouth or in writing, apply to create a panic, or a feeling of alarm among any of His Majesty's forces or among the civilian population.
9. No person shall, if an order to that effect has not been made by the competent naval or military authority, light any fire or show any light on any hill within such radius from any defended harbour as may be specified in the order.
10. The competent naval or military authority at any defended harbour may by order direct that all lights, OTHER THAN LIGHTS NOT VISIBLE FROM THE OUTSIDE OF ANY HOUSE, shall be kept extinguished between such hours and within such areas as may be specified in the order; and all persons resident within that area shall comply with the order.
11. The competent naval or military authority at any defended harbour may by order require every person within any area specified in the order to remain within doors between such hours as may be specified in the order, and in such case no person shall be or remain out between such hours unless provided with a permit in writing from the competent naval or military authority, or some person duly authorized by him.
12. If any person with the object of obtaining any information, or for the purpose of communicating it to the enemy, or of assisting the enemy, or with intent to do any injury to any means of communication, or to any railway, dock or harbour, forges, alters or tampers with any pass, permit or other document, or uses or has in his possession any such forged, altered or irregular pass, permit or document with the like object or intent, or with the like object or intent personates any person to whom a pass, permit, or other document has been duly issued, he shall be guilty of a contravention of these Regulations and may be tried and punished accordingly; and where in any proceedings against a person for contravention of this Regulation it is proved that he has forged, altered, or tampered with the pass, permit, or other document in question, or has used or had in his possession any forged, altered, or irregular pass, permit, or document in question, or has personated the person to whom the pass, permit, or document was duly issued, he shall be presumed to have forged, altered, or tampered with it, or to have used or had in his possession, or to have personated such person as aforesaid, with such object or intent as aforesaid unless he proves the contrary.
13. Any person who attempts to commit, or procures, aids or abets the commission of any act prohibited by the foregoing special Regulations, or harbours any person whom he knows or has reasonable grounds for supposing to have acted in contravention of such Regulations, shall be deemed to have acted in contravention of the Regulations in like manner, as if he had himself committed the act.
14. No person shall without lawful authority sell, give, distribute or permit the selling, giving or distributing of any newspaper, tract or pamphlet or other publication, whether printed or published in Canada or not, containing any information which is forbidden to be published or communicated under paragraph One of these orders and regulations.
15. Any person contravening any of the provisions of the foregoing orders and regulations shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS OR IMPRISONMENT FOR ANY TERM NOT EXCEEDING FIVE YEARS OR TO BOTH FINE AND IMPRISONMENT and such penalty may be recovered or enforced by summary proceedings and conviction under the provisions of Part 15 of the Criminal Code.

Made-To-Measure Garments Tailored To Fit Are Cheaper Now Than Ready-Made Clothes

As everybody knows, woollens that were woven two or three years ago are far better quality than any that have been made since. Such woollens are now selling at twice their original price.

But the English & Scotch Woollen Co. are still able to supply suit and overcoat patterns in these 1915 and 1916 fabrics—and we have not advanced the price to correspond with their present value.

You can order from us, made-to-measure custom tailored perfect fitting garments made from these high grade fabrics, at our standard prices, that are actually 50% less than you will be asked to pay for ready-made clothes made from cloths that cannot be as good.

The clothes you buy now should be bought with particular attention to their durability. The prices of ready-made clothes have doubled, and the fabrics have declined in quality.

Our Made-to-Measure custom tailored garments are a thrifty investment.

More Quality Less Money

IN all seriousness and in your interest as well as our own, this is our advice—ORDER NOW, two or three suits and a good, protecting overcoat against the time when prices will be doubled, as they surely will. Even now our offer is one that we do not believe is being equalled by any tailoring concern anywhere—a thoroughly dependable suit or overcoat, made to your individual measure from imported fabrics of your own choosing, at $17. Neither do we believe that any ready-made store is offering at twice our price as much in quality and workmanship as we assure you. You will be wise to act on our advice and order as many suits as you can spare the money for now.

FURTHER TERRITORY TAKEN BY MARSHAL HAIG'S FORCES

Neuve Chapelle, Bussu, St. Christ-Briest, Dongt, Le Mesnil-Bruntel and Other Places—Canal du Nord Crossed on Whole Front Except From Havrincourt North To the Scarpe.

London, Sept. 6.—British troops today captured Neuve Chapelle and Bussu.

Field Marshal Haig's forces crossed the Canal du Nord on the whole front, except from Havrincourt north to the Scarpe.

Advancing east of the River Somme to the south of Peronne, the British have captured the villages of St. Christ-Briest and Le Mesnil-Bruntel. Field Marshal Haig reported in his official statement today. Prisoners were taken by the advancing troops.

On the Flanders front the British are established in portions of the old German front line east of Neuve Chapelle and in the old British line in the Fauquissart sector. The British also have advanced northwest of Armentieres.

North of Peronne British troops are in possession of the town of Bussy and are in the immediate vicinity of Templeux La Fosse, Nurlu and Equancourt.

Southeast of Peronne the British have reached Athies and Mons-En-Chaussee. They have captured the village of Doingt.

"East of Peronne we have taken Doingt and have made important progress on the high ground between Peronne and Nurlu. We hold Bussu and are close to Templeux-La-Fosse, Nurlu and Equancourt. Sharp fighting took place last night on this line.

"On the Lys front ground was gained by our troops during the night west of La Bassee and an attack upon one of our new positions in this locality was successfully beaten off."

150 U-Boats Sunk.

London, Sept. 6.—(British Wireless Press)—Although the British government does not intend to attempt the practice of giving proof of official utterances made by its ministers, it has been thought desirable to print in today's papers the names of the commanding officers of 150 German submarines which have been disposed of in order to substantiate the statement of Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons that "at least 150 of these ocean pests have been destroyed." The statement to be published does not include the names of officers commanding Austrian submarines put out of action.

A majority of the 150 officers mentioned are dead. Some of them are prisoners of war, and a few were interned in neutral countries where they took refuge.

IS NOT MISSING.

Mrs. Estey of Bellevue avenue has received word that her son, Pte. George Estey, who was reported missing on Sept. 4, is no longer missing and is in the best of health. The young man is only nineteen years of age and left here with a machine gun corps.

LOCAL CASUALTY LIST IS GROWING

Pte. John E. Robinson Killed—Ten Other St. John Heroes Have Been Wounded and Admitted To Hospital.

A number of St. John homes were saddened yesterday by the receipt of news that loved members had suffered in the fighting now going on in France.

Pte. John E. Robinson. Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson received official notification that their son, Private John E. Robinson had been killed in action August 24. The lad who was only nineteen years of age, crossed overseas with the machine gun unit but was later transferred to the New Brunswick battalion. Besides his parents two sisters survive, Mrs. H. M. Harriety and Miss Mabel Robinson. Major H. G. Wood.

Word was received by Mrs. Ada Wood, Prince William street, that her son, Major Harold G. Wood, had been slightly wounded on August 28, but had remained on duty.

Major Wood crossed with the 56th as lieutenant and has won his promotion on the field. He has been decorated with the Military Cross and the Belgian War Cross.

Lieut. William McQuade. W. H. McQuade has been notified that his son, Lieut. William McQuade, was slightly wounded on August 28, but was remaining on duty.

Sergt. H. McIntyre. That Sergt. Mark McIntyre had been wounded and gassed was the word received yesterday by Miss Pearl McIntyre, 29 Hanover street. This is the fourth time this gallant soldier has been a casualty.

Pte. P. J. G. Carlin. Mrs. Robert Carlin has received notice that her son, Pte. Percy Carlin, had been admitted to hospital on August 28, with gunshot wounds in the right leg. Pte. Carlin enlisted with the Army Service Corps but was transferred to the New Brunswick battalion.

Corp. G. J. Duffy. John Duffy, Mill street, Fairville, has been notified that his son, Corp. C. J. Duffy, had been wounded on August 27 and was in hospital.

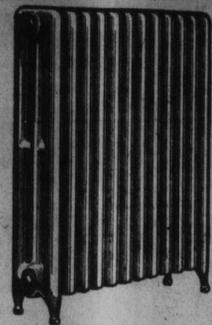

Pte. G. W. Frost. That Pte. George W. Frost, an original member of the 26th, had been wounded on August 28 and admitted to hospital was the word received yesterday by his mother, Mrs. O. W. Taylor, St. Andrews street. Pte. Taylor had only been back at the front a short time as he was wounded over a year ago.

Pte. J. E. Dean. Mrs. Richard Dean, 72 St. James' street, was notified that her son, Pte. J. E. Dean, was in hospital suffering from a fractured skull received by the explosion of a shell.

Pte. Roy Francis Maher. Mrs. Annie Maher, 154 Rockland Road, received notice yesterday that her husband, Pte. R. F. Maher, had been wounded in the head and admitted to hospital on August 30. Pte. Maher, who is one of the original 26th, was wounded one year ago and spent four months in hospital.

Pte. Stanley N. Keating. Mrs. L. M. Keating, Fairville, has received notice that her son, Pte. Stanley N. Keating, was wounded in the leg August 28 and was in hospital. He enlisted with the 116th and was later sent to another unit.

PURIFIED GAME OF BASEBALL

FOLLOW THE CHAOS OF WAR
New Era to Come With End of Great Conflict Is Joyous Prediction — Heydler Boom on Secretary-Treasurer Popular Choice As Tenser's Successor.

When the war lords of Germany and Austria decided the time was ripe to start their big push on that fatal afternoon in Potsdam in July, 1914, writes "Shortstop" in the New York Sun, one Hun with a little more foresight than the others, coyly remarked: "If you throw a match into that powder keg there is no telling where the sparks will fly."

In all probability the sparks flew even further than this Hun Knight dreamed of. For instance, never having heard of professional baseball in America, he hardly could have been expected to see a spark light among the honorable members of the National commission in the summer of 1918 and raise all sorts of havoc. There is no doubt that many things the world over will get a thorough overhauling after the war. They are being put through the crucible now and will come out purified and refined.

In the new era which will follow the war from the present outlook professional baseball will have a new form of government with a new set of governors. The old national agreement is obsolete and it seems time for men like Johnson and Herrmann to fade from the sporting screen.

Among the real lovers of baseball there would be keen regret over the finding of the National commission, of which he was a member. It will be remembered he permitted Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics, to start a "civil injunction" suit to set aside the commission's findings in the Scott Perry case.

Friends of Tenser also realize he was too big a man to tolerate the peanut politics which have come to the front in the National league. As a former United States congressman, a former governor of the second greatest state in the Union and a man who had shown unquestionable financial sagacity as a bank official Tenser would have had a number of lucrative positions to select from at the end of his term of governor not to mention the National league tendered him the presidency of the National league a year before his term expired.

Sentiment and a great fondness for baseball influenced Tenser when he decided to accept the offer made him by the National League club presidents. He always had been fond of his ball playing days, and when an opportunity came to Tenser to take charge of a young company with great promise which offered inducements he could not afford to resist. However, at the solicitation of a number of his club owners Tenser agreed to remain in office, giving as much time to National League duties as he could spare from his other activities.

The arrangement was a poor one and for this reason Tenser declined to be re-elected for any period of years, but only agreed to serve further as the National League executive with the expressed stipulation that either the league or he could withdraw from the compact at any time during the year. Tenser saw such an arrangement could not be lasting and would have retired before he did had it not been for the progressive element in the league which was anxious for him to lead a fight against the reactionaries. He was also unwilling to leave the league at a time of great stress. The Scott Perry case forced an issue in which he decided he could not remain in office and hold its dignity.

Heydler is Able. If the National League has any wisdom left it will consider only one candidate for Tenser's successor, and a man who can do baseball more good than a dozen Robert Browns, namely, its able secretary-treasurer, John A. Heydler. John Heydler has one unique claim to distinction. He is the only baseball magnate who never has been passed. The National League has always been a sort of a pet subject for the sports writers to fire their harpoons into. It has received many a grilling in the last ten years. But when the league was panned as a whole or in part the writer invariably added: "This goes for all of them but John Heydler."

The perpetual Robert Brown of Louisville, who is the Bryan of baseball, again is running for the National League presidency. He is a Herrmann man pure and simple and has the endorsement of Herrmann, Dreyfus and Ebbetts. It is significant that it was this trio that Tenser last winter named as the three reactionaries who had failed to grow with the times, and were continually thwarting the efforts of the progressive element in the league. It was largely to lead the fight against this group that Tenser consented to retain the National League presidency this fall.

A change of presidents also may not be far away in the American League. Ban Johnson had a stormy meeting out in Cleveland in which a statement was given out in which Charles Comiskey, Harry Frazee and Clark Griffith declared they were through with Johnson's Caesarism, and that his "rule or ruin" policy had gone entirely too far. Since then Comiskey has given out an interview, in which he claims he knew nothing of the statement in question but the news association

CHICAGO BEATS BOSTON 3 TO 1

(Continued from page 1) Comiskey Park, Chicago, Sept. 6.—The Chicago Nationals evened up the world's series today by defeating the Boston Americans three to one. Tyler's pitching was largely responsible for the result, but on several occasions he was rescued from threatening situations by fine fielding. Bush, who pitched for Boston, was unsteady. Tyler, who had the better of the contest, pitched for the Cubs in the third game of the world's series here tomorrow, according to Manager Barrow of the Red Sox tonight.

Today's game was a tough one to lose, especially as we nearly broke it up in the ninth inning," Barrow said. "The Cubs had the better of the breaks, I think, and piled up a lead in the second inning too great for us to overcome. I do not mean to take credit away from Tyler, who pitched great ball, and deserved to win. I expect to start Mays tomorrow and hope to make it two to one."

Task Easier. "The task of the Cubs is now easier," said Manager Mitchell, of the Chicago club. "We are on even terms with Boston. The Cubs certainly recovered their batting eye and they are confident of retaining it. Tyler pitched a wonderful game and never was in danger except in the ninth, when he grooved them over for Strunk and Whitman. Those two triples saved Boston from a shut-out. I expect to send Hendrix against the Red Sox tomorrow."

McLatchey, returned this week to his home in St. John. Mrs. Alex. Mowat who has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. A. R. Fraser, in Dalhousie, has returned home. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robinson spent a few days of last week with friends in Dalhousie.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Scott of Dalhousie announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Draper, to Lieut. Alfred Allen Putman of the Canadian Engineers, Toronto, son of the late Alfred and Mrs. Putman of Matfield, N. S. The marriage will take place early in September. Mr. Harry Calder of Matapedia, Que. spent last week with friends in town. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Payne and two little sons, who have been the guests of Mrs. Payne's sister, Mrs. F. Matheson, have returned to their home in Halifax.

Mr. James W. Patterson spent part of last week with relatives and friends in Moncton. He was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Davies, Highfield street. Miss D. Richardson, who has been visiting friends in Newcastle and Chatham, has returned to her home at Athol. Mrs. Fred Shirley and Mrs. Uland Killam spent a few days of last week with friends in Dalhousie. Miss Freda Davison has returned from a visit with friends in Dalhousie.

FREDERICTON Fredericton, Sept. 6.—The weather man smiled on Fredericton on Monday last (Labor Day) much to the delight of citizens and visitors of whom there were many, who came to spend the holiday in town. Thirteen gentlemen of Woodstock came to enjoy a golf competition with the local players, and certainly the view from the club and the links never looked prettier. At noon a luncheon was given to the players. A committee composed of Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Chas. Hall and Mrs. W. J. Scott, looked after the affair and much credit was due for the dainty manner in which the tables were arranged. Profusion of sweet peas adorned the tables, and the mantel-piece was banked with the same fragrant flowers. In the afternoon large numbers drove to the club for tea, after which the visiting gentlemen returned to Woodstock by automobile. Among the visiting gentlemen were Dr. Sprague, Messrs. A. D. Holyoke, W. R. Jarvis, George Mitchell, A. E. Jones, T. M. Jones, George Balmain, H. V. Dalling, F. Stewart, Rev. Frank Baird and Rev. A. S. Hazel. Three matches were played, all of which resulted in a tie. The Fair held by members of the labor council, and assisted by ladies of the Red Cross, proved to be a most successful undertaking. The grounds were illuminated by red, white and

KEYSTONE KING MAKES BIG HIT WITH SOLDIERS

Army Officers, French and American, Are Enthusiastic Over Future Diamond Tilt.

Paris, Sept. 4.—Johnny Evers is over here. The star of a thousand memorable American baseball struggles stepped from a transport into France on a Thursday and on a Sunday afternoon he was out there covering the middle bag for the army ambulance team with such pep and ginger in his movements that the soldier team leaders in the now famous Paris League, took the short end of an 8 to 6 score.

The ring of Evers' bat against the old-fashioned horsehide sounded almost as merrily to the crowd of yelling doughboys who cheered his playing as it used to back in the good old days of the Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance combination of the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs. And among the boys in khaki who did the cheering was more than one loyal Cub rooter who yelled himself hoarse at the exploits of the red-headed player from Troy, N. Y., who had come across seas in the uniform of a Knights of Columbus secretary.

The effect of Evers' entry into the athletic work of the Knights among the American fighting men already has had results. The last of the eight runs which Johnny helped the Army Ambulance team to score scarcely had clattered across the plate when the stalwart face of another American baseball hero bobbed up in the crowd and the peppery Evers was shaking hands with the equally indomitable Hank Gowdy, among the very first of the major league baseball players to get into khaki and who have been over here so long now that his soldier companions say he speaks French without even a trace of the Yankee accent acquired during his years of service with the champion Boston team, which he quit to get into the war league.

Evers Arranges Series. Out of the first conference between Evers and Gowdy, which was held with a crowd of whooping, yelling soldiers camping on their trail, were made for a series of games at American hospital centres as a means of entertainment for wounded Yankees, who so far have not been able to enjoy many outdoor diversions.

Army officers, French and American, are enthusiastic over the scheme and the games, it is understood, soon will be under way, with Evers as one of the star players, and with Gowdy in the line-up also, whenever the old Boston catcher can drag himself out of the trenches long enough to exchange a gas mask for the old steel face covering used behind the bat.

Evers already is laying plans for bringing over here whichever of the champion American teams that wins the approaching world series. If they come the world's series winners won't have things all their own way. With Evers and Gowdy as a foundation the army has enough major league material to put a real team of contenders in the field against the world champions, and it's a hardy lot of ball players who are wearing the khaki in Uncle Sam's legions.

Soldiers Are Interested. The suggestion to have the world series winners come to France for a set of games with an all-army team has aroused a tremendous amount of interest among the soldiers, and the American officers are as enthusiastic over this suggestion as they have been over the plans for a series of games that are to be played for the entertainment of the wounded boys in the hospitals.

Evers' advent into the work that is being done for the soldiers along athletic lines by the Knights of Columbus has lent new spirit to the task. He played in Sunday's game with all his old-time skill and the roars of the rosters could be heard for many miles beyond the field where the game was played.

Already Evers, because of the brilliant game he put up has been dubbed by the soldiers "Big Bertha," which is the name they have given to the long range gun which has been shelling Paris intermittently. But there were mighty few Americans in Paris on Sunday who knew whether the original "Big Bertha" was piling shells into the French capital or not. They were all too busy mingling their shouts with those of the soldiers at the ball game.

Joe, the orange-outant, is still a star around the Lasky studio. Robert Vignola happened into a set where the simian was working, and looked at him critically for a moment. "That's what I call momenting with the film industry," he remarked.

THAT TIRED FEELING CERTAINLY CURED AT OPERA HOUSE

A Musical Artist Who Makes a Hit—Every Act on New Programme Last Evening Scored a Success.

There is a chap at the Opera House this week that is a positive cure for the blues, that tired feeling or anything else that might ail a person. He held the stage about 20 minutes last night and during all the time he was there the audience just doubled up in spasms of laughter. What he can do to curious looking musical instruments is a caution—a calabash pipe turned out to be a piccolo—strange sounds came from a long telescope looking affair that he called a bassoon.—It was good music, however, after he got it adjusted to suit; hat racks gave forth sweet music—and to cap the climax, when he made a set of bagpipes from an old gun, the audience broke loose. Coupled with the musical selections was a running fire of witticisms, all good clean stuff and genuinely humorous. The name of the genius is Chas. Semon, and it is safe prediction that he will be long remembered here as an entertainer whose like comes but seldom.

Following the picture, the program opened by Glen Echo, who proved to be a charming young girl—who sang, knit-knected and made herself very well liked before she was half way through her offering. She had a likeable personality—looked as though she enjoyed being present, and there was no doubt but what the audience enjoyed having her there.

Early and Laight followed—in a special setting—a good natured fat man and a lady partner, and after a few minutes a clever line of reported matrimonial troubles flew back and forth. Good witty stuff it was, too, with many a point that was picked up quickly by the audience and at the conclusion of the act there was heavy applause.

Reno and Wagner in a setting representing Toyland, came next, and attired as a mechanical soldier and a doll, introduced a number of eccentric dances and also songs. This act will make a special appeal to all the children, especially the cat and doll dance at the finish. A good act all the way through, and it was appreciated.

Following the riot caused by Chas. Semon, came Shinto and Yossi, two young Japanese, in a series of sensational acrobatic feats, contortion work and balancing—all well done. This act is one of the best Japanese specialties the Opera House has ever had and they kept the audience in their seats until the very last bow.

Everybody went out smiling and audible in praise of the excellence of the show right through.

DASTARDLY CRIME

Theodore, Sask., Sept. 6.—Mrs. Edward Beatty, wife of Chief Wagoner, died Wednesday night from the effects of an attack made on her by Barney Belcourt, a half breed farm hand, after which he abducted her twelve year old daughter. After holding the girl a prisoner all day in a grove within four miles of the home, he released her at sunset, when she returned home to find her father grief-stricken at the loss of her mother.

The half breed was captured.

ONLY MARITIME EXHIBITION IS AT ST. STEPHEN

Big Show Will Have Many Notable Attractions in Addition To Fast Horse Racing and Free Amusements—Exhibition Will Last From Next Tuesday Until Friday Evening.

St. Stephen, Sept. 6.—The Charlotte County Exhibition opens at St. Stephen next Tuesday morning, to continue until Friday evening, and the directors have every reason to feel assured that their efforts are to be fully rewarded.

Every department is full at present almost to overflowing and some features are already on the grounds, the proprietors wishing to make sure of desirable locations.

It is the only exhibition to be held in the province this year, and none is to be held in Eastern Maine, and there is every assurance of a very large attendance on each of the four days.

Special rates are offered by the C. P. R. and the Maritime Railway, and the border town will be filled with people from all directions. On the Shore Line, a special train will leave Penfield Thursday morning, arriving here before noon and leaving to return at ten o'clock at night, giving excursionists a full day on the fair grounds.

Plenty of Music.

The Fredericton City Band is coming Wednesday with an excursion party and will furnish music on the grounds Wednesday and Thursday. The Temple Band of St. John, will furnish music Friday evening and will be accompanied to the border by a large number.

The Midway at the St. Stephen fair has always been a live one and will be this year, the biggest and the brightest in the history of the society. Ten big tent shows and a number of smaller ones have booked ground and applications are still coming in.

The free attractions, always a feature at this show, are the best they have ever booked, and will lead to amusement, mystify and delight young and old. Four big acts will be given each afternoon and evening.

The Horse Racing.

The horse racing will be the fastest and the most exciting ever seen in New Brunswick, with speedy horses from all over Maine, New Brunswick and Vermont.

Tuesday will see two big events. The 2:17 Trot and 2:30 Pace has such horses as Brage from Halifax, Will Be Sure from Bathurst, Vassar C. from Bangor, Lady Ashbrook from St. Stephen, Evelyn B. from Milltown, Russell Blingen from Vermont, Irving Heart from Woodstock, Bluejay McGregor from St. John, Robert P. from Presque Isle, The Lady from Fredericton, Jen McKinney from Bangor, Trystart from Presque Isle and Belmont Miller from Halifax. The second event will be the 2:32 Trot and 2:35 Pace, with twenty-two entries.

Wednesday will see three events. The 2:13 Trot and 2:16 Pace has Belmont Miller, 2:16 1/4, Texas John 2:17 1/4, Little Gigg, 2:14 1/4, Lady Ashbrook, 2:17 1/4, Jennie Peary 2:17 1/4, Nancy Whitson, 2:18 1/4, Alcyo E. 2:10 1/4, Dan Paine, 2:15 1/4, Irving Heart, 2:14 1/4, Maine Time, 2:18 1/4, Dessie J. 2:15 1/4, Homer Baughan, 2:08 1/4, Lady Fondly, 2:14 1/4, Garry A., 2:14 1/4. Some of these are admitted on "time allowance" rule. The 2:35 straight trot has nine good entries and a "Matinee race" will have four local horses.

The 2:20 Trot and 2:23 Pace.

Thursday will have two good events. Friday has three events. The 2:15 trot and 2:18 pace has thirteen entries. A race for which "over night" entries will be received, will complete a splendid racing program. The enterprise of the directors in

Manly Strength Self-Help Book Free

It matters not who, any man, young or elderly, needing more vital strength, who is not quite the man he should be, who feels himself weakened as a result of past practices and excesses, can, beyond the shadow of a doubt, hope for self-restoration of his lost or weakened powers if he is willing to make a fair, square effort along certain perfectly natural lines (of which he can easily learn), and will lead that sort of a decent existence which Nature demands that all of us SHALL lead, if we are to prove up to the normal standard of vigor and manly capacity, as we see it exemplified in the best men of the world today.

Just what I believe you yourself should do or should not do where more manly strength may be desired is told in a perfectly plain, commonsense, practical, every-day sort of way through the medium of a little 72-page illustrated book of advice that I publish and am now sending free, sealed, by mail, to men all over the world who write for it. This little compendium of self-help has, I hope, been of more lasting benefit to my fellow men than any similar publication of its kind before used. Over one million copies have been distributed since my first announcement that they would be sent free of charge. Therefore, reader, please use the coupon below, which entitles you to this wonderful little free book, a copy of which will go to you in a perfectly plain, sealed envelope by return mail. Remember there is absolutely nothing ordered for sale in the whole booklet, excepting in that part which speaks of my little invention, the Sander's Vitalizer, and when you retire to bed, it starts its work at once. It sends a stream of a certain agent, penetrating power which we call Vital Force into the body, your kidneys, liver, stomach, bladder, nerves and blood while you sleep. Men everywhere have said it takes that nervous weakness or pain out of the small of the back in short order—sometimes from first night's use, and that often strength and manly vigor is restored in 60 to 90 days.

With special attachments, the Vitalizer is also used for rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, etc. If, after reading the free booklet, you decide that you would like to wear the Vitalizer, we shall be pleased to make special arrangements for you to have one to use. If in or near this city, we should be glad to have you call, otherwise please write for book. Hours 9 to 6. Satisfaction guaranteed in every case.

Notable Tribute To Britain By Philadelphia Journal

Public Ledger Tells of Some of Achievements of the Empire in the War—When It Comes To Self Laudation the British Are the Poorest Advertisers in the World.

(From the Philadelphia Ledger.)
We must not let our delight in the astonishing achievements of our boys, bearing themselves like veterans on the bloodiest battlefields in history and against the most intensely trained troops ever sent into action, blind us to the other "big things" that have been and are being done in this tremendous tournament of the nations. Even in our appraisal of the great deeds of our Allies, we have naturally dwelt chiefly upon the unexpected and the glorious—bizarre—the slaying of the Goliaths by the daring Davids. We have not stopped to comment on the solidity of Mont Blanc.

But it is after all on the solidity of Mont Blanc that we build. We all knew the stuff of which Old England was made. What she has done in this war—quietly, unobtrusively as her wont—has surprised as one who knew English character, English stamina, and English history. Imaginative writers have mentioned various moments at which the blundering bully of Berlin lost the war and his chance to conquer and enslave the world; but those who take long views of such things and recognize the primal forces which have shaped the destiny of nations since the disintegration of the Roman Empire will agree that the doom of Germany's despotic ambition was sealed on the day that Britain's councillors wheeled that nation into line with the forces of freedom.

If the Kaiser possessed prescience or had read his history, he must have chivered—as tradition says we do if someone steps on our grave—when he knew for certain that his spies had told, and that the stubborn, stick-to-it, bulldog British had decided to live or die with the French. The British have a bad record for an ambitious despot to face. They brought Philip of Spain to his knees—they curbed the power of Louis the Great of France—they grappled with the mighty Napoleon and never let go.

So they entered upon the task of bringing down—to paraphrase Kipling—the Beast that walked like a Man. They were under obligations to send some eighty thousand soldiers to help the French. The Kaiser, measuring their honor by his own thought, they would perfunctorily and literally redeem this pledge and let it go at that. Hence his remark about their "contemptible little army." The fact is that Great Britain alone has sent on land and sea a total of six and a quarter millions. Her Empire has added two and a quarter millions more to this. Over eight millions instead of eighty thousand.

England was no more a military nation than America when the war began. She learned to fight by fighting—and dying. We are profiting today by her tragic experiences. Thousands of American lads will come home to us alive and whole because thousands of our blood brothers from the British Isles have been killed and mangled—and have taught us how to escape. Britain made her armies while France and her navy held the gap, and then she poured them into France and Flanders by the million to fight back the eruption of Cave Men that threatened to submerge civilization.

What the English have done in this war is too recent to need recapitulation. They gradually took over greater and greater sections of the front. They first fought defensive actions with all the dogged courage for which the British are famous—then they created that early turn in the tide which released the series of Allied offensives that finally sent the Germans back to the Hindenburg line—and beyond. They were the permanent military partner of France—and there is no higher rank.

For all this they paid. There is hardly a home in Great Britain which does not have its unvisited grave in France or Belgium—not to mention the thousands of British soldiers who have been killed in the front lines. The percentage of casualties from the Mother Country exceeds the percentage from the Overseas Dominions thus disposing of one of the vilest, meanest and dastardly lies of the whole Satanic German propaganda which charged that the English were putting the Colonials and their Allies in the forefront of the battle. Lord Northcliffe estimates their killed alone at 900,000.

England's contributions outside the western front have been worthy of a great nation, even though she has Her navy has kept the seas free for the commerce and the troop transports of the Allied world. It has bottled up the German navy from the West. Her ships have coaled, fed and munitioned the French—brought legions and food supplies from the Seven Seas. We are proud of our own swift shipment of troops to the firing line during the days of soul-shaking danger this last summer, but well over half of them went in British bottoms conveyed by British warships.

Then where have not the British fought? The Suez was in danger. It was the British that protected it. There were German naval squadrons in the Pacific. The British stopped them up. Russia asked help by way of the Dardanelles. The British tried to give intervention was needed on the Tigris. The British supplied it. The British were at Salonica. British ships were in the Adriatic. The British Colonial troops freed Africa from the Germans. British diplomacy steadied the Moslem world when the Turkish Sultan and his Sheik-ul-Islam proclaimed a holy war. The British today are moving south from Archangel and are at Vladivostok.

Britain financed the Allied nations till we came in to share the Titanic task. Her industries have clothed, munitioned and supplied them in various vital ways. The Germans say that she has "prolonged the war." By that they mean that she has kept up the fighting spirit of the Allies and supported their morale. The Briton is a dour fighter and knows no end to a struggle save victory or death. He never fights a limited liability war—he goes in with his whole soul. The day that British khaki appeared upon the battlefields of France it was decreed that there could be but one of the two ends to this conflict—the collapse of the British Empire or the final failure of Germany's dream of world conquest.

Archaeologists go so far as to assert that Macedonia must have had a civilization as early as 3000 B. C., and that gradually its culture was influenced by that of other regions, especially to the north, the trade routes of those ages running through the Vardar Valley to the Danube. Strange to say, beyond some connection with Thessaly early Macedonia does not seem to have had intercourse with Greece, and the pottery found seems to deteriorate the nearer we get to historic times.

As heads, a bracelet of black stone, and other polished objects of the Neolithic period have also been turned up in and about the trenches. A store of grain, consisting of wheat, millet, and sesame, discolored but excellently preserved was discovered in one of the earliest village mounds. The troops experimented in sowing part of the seed, but their labor was in vain. When we remember that in Roman times Macedonia was a rich grain country, it is easy to believe that it may also have been so in ages which to us are prehistoric.

As was to be expected, the tombs of a later date have given the richest treasures—ornaments of gold and bronze, hair ornaments, knives, lamps, and vases of pottery, with ornamentation akin to that of Central Europe rather than to the Greek forms; all pointing to the fact that Macedonia linked more with the Danube than with the Aegean.

General Guillaumat—who was Franchet d'Esperey's predecessor in command at Salonica—issued an order to all British and French troops that they should be reported to headquarters, and a provisional museum has been opened. Systematic excavations are being made by both the French and British in a certain place, and it is fortunate that both armies have in their ranks a number of trained archaeologists.

The "Factor of Safety"

WHEN an engineer designs a bridge he provides not alone for the exact stresses and strains the structure is expected to carry. He makes certain that unforeseen loads will be taken care of by providing extra strength. This is called the "factor of safety."

Financial institutions provide the "factor of safety" by means of surplus funds. The Mutual Life of Canada, has assets of $32,165,432 and included in the assets is a magnificent surplus. That surplus is the factor of safety—the amount held against unexpected stress and strain.

The Mutual Life bridge is the net government reserve plus the factor of safety, which in the case of this company amounts to millions of dollars.

There are more than 50,000 Canadian homes whose security, should death remove the head of the household, is dependent upon the solidity of the Mutual Life of Canada, yet there is no shadow of a doubt but that every guarantee of the company will be more than fulfilled because of the factor of safety. Well has it been said that—

"There is nothing in the commercial world which approaches even remotely the security of a well-established life insurance office."
When selecting a company, look for its "factor of safety."

Twelve Tire Tests No. 10

The series of twelve tests is designed to take the uncertainty out of tire-buying.

Experience

In previous talks we have shown you that the durability of a tire depends on the quantity and quality of the materials used; and we have already shown you how to determine the quantity. But you cannot gauge the quality of rubber and fabric in a tire simply by looking at it. You must be guided by the experience and reputation of the tire maker. The world's first pneumatic automobile tire and tube were made by Michelin back in 1895. Since that time the House of Michelin (founded 1832) has concentrated on the production of pneumatic tires only, and today has factories in the United States, France, England and Italy, with selling branches in every corner of the world. Thus the scientific brains of the entire globe have been and are at Michelin's disposal. More and Better Materials is the Michelin watchword. Yet Michelin Tires are not high priced.

THE RETENTION OF GERMANY'S COLONIES IS VITAL QUESTION

Dr. W. S. Solf, German Secretary of State, Declares Working Classes Anxious — Germany Desires To Compromise Regarding Colonial Questions on Basis That These Possessions Shall Correspond To Economize Strength of the Nations.

Amsterdam, Aug. 29.—Speaking before the German Society in Berlin, Dr. W. S. Solf, German Secretary of State for the Colonies, said that the German working classes were becoming conscious of the fact that the retention of Germany's colonies was a vital question. He said that Germany desired to compromise regarding colonial questions on the basis that these possessions shall correspond to the economic strength of the nations. On this point Dr. Solf said:

"I dare say the safeguarding of our colonial future is not only the aim of our government and certain groups of individuals, but it has become an aim of the German people. A lively consciousness now extends far into the workers' ranks that the retention of our colonies is a vital question for the honor of Germany as a great Power. Our colonial war aims are second to no other in national importance. The growing realization of German workers as to Germany's position is especially gratifying in view of the plans of our enemies, which have been clearly revealed during the last few days."

Referring to the recent address by A. J. Balfour, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Dr. Solf said:

"He formally announced Great Britain's claim for the annexation of our colonies, and did not hesitate to advance on moral grounds this claim for annexation. He not only concerned himself as to our colonial methods, but goes into high politics with all sails set. Mr. Balfour in his speech announced the British creed, which amounts to representing Britain's right to world domination as something self-evident and morally annihilating Germany's claim to be a great Power."

Muller Fiat Doctrine.

Declaring that Mr. Balfour's accusation against Germany demanded a reply, Dr. Solf continued:

"Mr. Balfour asserts that intellectual Germany is dominated by the Muller fiat doctrine. Here there are chauvinistic linguists, people who worship the eternal yesterday and anxiously, and without an understanding await the approach of a new era. Before the war these people formed a small group without political influence on the government, which constantly combated them. During the war their number, indeed, increased, not because the struggle for German supremacy in the world had taken deeper root, but because their ranks were swelled by numerous sober and solicitous patriots."

"Among these are many who before the war held high ideals about an understanding of peoples, good will and fair play in international relations, but whose political creed broke down under the experience of the war."

"Where does the blame lie? No where but in the spirit which animates our enemies—that spirit which is a dishonor and has turned to scorn the grand ideal of a league of nations by a simultaneous demand for a commercial war against Germany."

"If I believed that the spirit which at present seems to prevail in England, and which speaks clearly of Mr. Balfour's speech, and which was manifested against us in the Pemberton-Billing case—if I had to believe that this spirit would always have the upper hand in England, then I also would advocate that the war should be fought to the death.

"I am, however, firmly convinced that before the end of the war commercial and intellectual revision must and will supervene against this knockout spirit. Otherwise the realization of a league of nations remains a utopian war aim."

Mention of Belgium.

"Mr. Balfour first mentions Belgium. How small a part regard for Belgium plays in the plans of the Entente is most clearly shown by an extract from the American press, which England's Minister of Propaganda, Northcliffe, printed with enthusiastic approval in one of his papers."

Dr. Solf cited a statement from the New York Times that Germany's attitude toward Belgium was unimportant, as the Allies would drive the Germans from Belgium and France and quoted the London Evening News comment on this that Germany "must be destroyed by bloody and irreparable defeats on the battlefield."

Dr. Solf exclaimed: "Thus speak the protectors, who for the sake of Belgium have drawn the sword!"

Referring to Mr. Balfour's "second charge," he said:

"This is directed against our eastern policy. To this I reply that the Brest-Litovsk peace came about by agreement between the Russian and German governments that the frontier peoples of Russia after centuries of oppression should be permitted to live their own national life for which object they had been striving. This agreement on the date of the border people is a fact of world importance which never can be erased from history.

"Not about the aim, but about the ways and means leading to conferring their own, as well as in the general separation of the Russian and German conceptions differ. Our conceptions was and is that the path to freedom shall not lead through anarchy to wholesale murder. Between the first bursting of the bonds and full capability for self-determination of the border peoples there lies a natural transitional period. Until the regulation forces should co-operate in the various countries, Germany felt called upon to protect these communities in their own, as well as in the general interest as indeed she has been called upon to do by both national majorities and minorities."

Brest-Litovsk Peace.

"The Brest-Litovsk peace is a framework, and the picture which is to appear within is only sketched in rough lines."

"England has forfeited the right to act as moral champion of the Russian border states in their unparalleled time of suffering. During the war they repeatedly appealed to England for help. It was always denied them."

Dr. Solf said there was a time when England combated czarism in Russia in bitterly the any nation, but he added: "When in the course of the war in czaristic Russia, the oppressed people were plundered and murdered, England remained mute and before the world exposed and falsified the facts about the conditions in Russia. Thus thanks to England's moral support, Russia committed murders on an unparalleled scale without interference from the conscience of the world. The receiver of stolen goods cannot be the judge."

He declared that England's attitude toward Russia was most selfish, saying: "Were Ivan the Terrible to rise to weld Russia together again he would be a welcome ally to England in her crusade for freedom and right."

"The recognition of the Czech-Slovak—those landless logical bastards—as an allied power is the logical keystone of the singular structure of Anglo-Russian friendship."

"The economic distress in the territories occupied by us is undoubtedly great, but it is cynicism when England laments this, because her hunger blockade is directed against the occupied territories just as it is directed against us, against neutrals and against the whole world."

Action in Finland.

Dr. Solf denied that Germany had ill treated Finland and the Baltic provinces, and said that not a single soldier of those countries had been forced to fight for Germany's cause. Concerning Roumania he said that the recent elections were held without influence from the German government.

Speaking of Mr. Balfour's reference to the improvement in the condition of the colonies which had been taken from Germany, he said:

"This means that England conquers land and asserts that she can govern it better than its lawful owners, and from this derives her claim to annex it. Does the British Foreign Secretary know nothing of the decimation of the colored populations of the various African colonies by the Entente's action? Nothing of the enforced recruiting in British East Africa? Nothing of the gigantic armies of warriors and workers from the British and French colonies?"

"Has he any idea of the immeasurable damages to the colonial mission of all civilized races which must result from the use of black armies in battle against the white races and the singing of the former to Europe?"

He asserted that Germany was the only Power waging war which had definitely adopted the demilitarization of Africa as a war aim, and asked if England was ready to do the same.

"The short history of our colonies," he continued, "shows that neither in Africa nor in the Pacific have we pursued an aggressive policy. We strive for no supremacy, no preponderance of power. We wish for a compromise between the colonial possessions which shall correspond to the economic strength of the European nations and to the merits they have shown in the protection of the colored races entrusted to their care. Economic energy alone is not a sufficient claim."

Germany's "Moral Right."

Dr. Solf asserted that Germany before the war had won the "moral right" to be a colonial power "on the principle of restoring humanity." He cited a sentence in Mr. Balfour's speech to the effect that the abyss between the Central Powers and the Allies was so deep that it could not be bridged.

"Mr. Balfour can go on," he said, "and claim for himself that he has made this abyss deeper."

He quoted Kant to the effect that amidst war there must remain some confidence in the enemy's way of thinking; otherwise hostilities would become a war of extermination.

"The time must come," he declared, "when between peoples and peoples something like an impulse of confidence shall germinate; when oppressive doctrines, hatred and threatening to suffocate the innermost human affections. Mr. Balfour feared such a reaction and this is precisely why he directed accusations not solely against the German government, but against the German people itself. . . . Our enemies do not want peace by negotiation."

Dr. Solf concluded with the statement that there are today groups and men who can be regarded as centres of the European conscience.

"In these centers," he said, "there stir something like recognition of the fact that the way into the open can only be found if the war waging nations awaken to the knowledge of their common tasks. . . . The victorious march of the common aims is certain. Mr. Balfour can postpone that victory, but he cannot prevent it."

Discussing the German policy in Russia, Dr. Solf said:

"The German government is fully resolved not to misuse the protection which has been asked for and which has been granted, because forcible annexation would bar the way now open to oppressed peoples—the road to freedom, order and mutual tolerance."

The Colonial secretary also outlined the German attitude toward Belgium as follows:

"The Imperial chancellor declared last month in the Reichstag that we do not intend to retain Belgium in any form whatever, Belgium shall arise again after the war as an independent state, a vassal to no one. Nothing stands in the way of the restoration of Belgium but the enemy's will to war."

FRANK C. ROBINSON HAS BEEN APPOINTED THE THIRD MEMBER

Government Selects Brother of Hon. C. W. Robinson As Member of Workmen's Compensation Board—Sessions Closed Last Evening.

The provincial government finished its session last evening. The most interesting announcement made was that Frank C. Robinson, of Moncton, brother of Hon. C. W. Robinson, had been appointed the third member of the Workmen's Compensation Board.

In the afternoon, the government met as commissioners of the provincial hospital and paid a visit to that institution. After the evening session Premier Foster stated that the Workmen's Compensation Board had been completed by the appointment of Frank C. Robinson, of Moncton, as the third member. The selection of the members of the organization, filing of payrolls by employers and in general those concerned with the working of the Act had been proclaimed.

That on January first the other sections of the Act would in all probability be proclaimed and the Act come into force. When asked if the government had taken any action in the matter of the retirement of Magistrate Ritchie, in view of the action of Commissioner McLellan in removing his name from the payroll, Premier Foster said their course of action had been decided on at the Wednesday evening session and this would be communicated to the council.

BUSINESS MAN'S PREMISES RAIDED

Detectives and Liquor Inspectors Visit Office While Important Business Was Being Transacted—Search Unsuccessful.

An uptown business man was given a surprise about noon yesterday when his place of business was raided for liquor. Speaking of the occurrence the gentleman says that he was talking over a contract with two visitors from the city when all at once two city detectives and two grey inspectors under the Prohibition Act, entered his office, and when asked what they wanted they said that they heard that he had received a case of liquor during the morning and that they were there to search for it. They also told who sent them there. The business man said that the two gentlemen with whom he was doing business at the time became alarmed and left his place while the officers searched for liquor. The man says that he is greatly wronged in having his place searched and that the visit of the officers would probably be the cause of injuring his business. He intended to lay the matter before Premier Foster and also Chief Inspector Wilson.

EXECUTIVE REPORTS SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Attendance and Interest Shown in Playgrounds During Past Season—Meeting Held Last Evening.

A most successful season was reported by the supervisors of the playgrounds at an executive meeting held last evening. Both in point of attendance and interest the playgrounds have gained during the past summer. Some of the really fine work in basketry and sewing done by the children were shown and the executive decided to give six prizes for the best sample.

R. S. Ritchie who has taken an active interest in the Aberdeen playground was elected a member of the executive. It is hoped to have next year a young athlete on each of the new baseball playgrounds during the holidays to take charge and if possible a new baseball field will be provided at the East End. A committee was appointed to act in co-operation with the Rotary Club on their Field Day in aid of the playgrounds. This committee, Mrs. A. J. Mulcahy, Mrs. J. H. Doody and Mrs. A. M. Belling, will arrange for drills, folk dances and other attractions.

WHEAT GROWING WAS SUCCESSFUL

Minister of Agriculture Says New Brunswick Farms Will Yield One and Quarter Million Bushels.

That New Brunswick would grow about one million and a quarter bushels of wheat was the statement made last night by Hon. J. F. Tweeddale, Minister of Agriculture. He said the greater production campaign in this province had been a great success and this had been made possible very largely by the importation of seed grains by the government and who had brought in and supplied to the farmers about 110,000 bushels of seed grains.

In order to provide for the milling of the wheat grown in the province the government had decided to offer a bonus of $2,000 to four mills of fifty barrel capacity. This was an addition of $1,000 to the bonus before offered.

DOMINION EXPRESS EMPLOYEES WILL GO OUT ON STRIKE

A Strike That Might Reach Alarming Proportions Is Possible on Sept. 10 Unless the Government Acts Quickly.

Dominion Express employees will quit work on the tenth day of September and they may be followed by many railway employees through the Dominion unless the Government grants the application of the employees for a Board of Conciliation or settle the question at issue.

Employees through their committee and officers of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees, to which they belong have done everything in their power to avoid a strike. The Canadian Brotherhood is one of the very few railway organizations in Canada that has not talked strikes for the past three years. Officers and members have gone about their business in a quiet way, done their utmost to smooth over difficulties and pour oil on troubled waters in order to avoid strikes. The strength of the organization has steadily increased and is today the strongest (numerically) railway organization in Canada.

Officers of the Brotherhood expressed deepest regret that they are forced to take drastic actions at such a critical time, but that the responsibility must rest with the Company and the Government, neither of whom will lend their assistance to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

In a letter addressed to the Prime Minister, Sir R. L. Borden, and signed by Grand President of the Brotherhood, A. R. Mosher, he emphasizes the situation existing between the Dominion Express Co. employees and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. Two disputes arise, and are set forth for consideration. These refer to the former between the employees of the Dominion Express Co. and the C. P. Railway Co.; the latter between the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and their employees in the dining car service.

Organization of the employees of the Canadian Express Companies was completed over a year ago, and signed schedules are in the hands of both parties concerned. The Dominion Express employees amalgamated with those of the Canadian Express Company, which when officials of the company learned—called a meeting of their employees from various points for the purpose of organizing a union of their own. The majority of the employees between Port Arthur and Sydney, N.S., and in Vancouver, joined the Brotherhood at once, and drafted a proposed schedule. When submitted to the company, it was rejected. The employees then met to discuss a portion that might be changed with mutual satisfaction, the company denied their appeals, and refused to meet a committee of employees. A strike vote was at once taken, and an application made to the Department of Labor for a Conciliation Board to adjust grievances.

This conciliation board was opposed by the company on the grounds that they already had a schedule with an organization governing these employees. The Minister of Labor in turn accepts the Company's statement, and declined to establish a Board.

The letter again points out that the steps being taken by the company combat bona-fide Labor organizations among employees, and urges a board to be established without hesitation. The number of employees involved in the strike is at least 1,000 men, who have unanimously decided to go on strike on September 10th, if a settlement of their claims is not forthcoming.

Mention is made of the men in the dining car service. When the company learned that these employees were organizing they immediately began to dismiss them, and replaced them with negroes brought over from the United States. However, the Board was established, in spite of difficulties. The Brotherhood contends that it was a rank discrimination to dismiss any employees on the above grounds; and further added that many of those dismissed were "Returned Heroes," who had done their bit before.

The letter continuing begs that the company further refrain from dismissing employees; and further, that those dismissed be re-instated. Regarding colored men being employed in the places of those who were dismissed, the Brotherhood take no objection to their being employed, but do object to the regular employees being dismissed to make room for the colored men, or in fact any one else.

Concluding the letter urges prompt action to be taken with the Labor Department in connection with their just dispute, as expressed in their report and adds, the sentiment mentioned in the report is that the Canadian Brotherhood of all railroad employees and further of the C. P. R. and Dominion Express companies, cannot be brought to a realization of the fact, that their respective employees have rights; and again that if the government declined to exercise its power in appointing independent tribunals to investigate the matter under consideration between employers and employees—the only medium and rightful weapon is for the employees to lay down their tools, and quit work, awaiting readjustment. The letter sets forth the employees' demands in their true light, and action is awaited.

A. R. Mosher, the Grand President of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, has forwarded the letter, as mentioned above to Sir Robert Borden.

MEETINGS HELD BY CATHOLIC LADIES

Object To Secure Co-Operation of Ladies in the K. of C. Campaign — Executive Formed and Convenors Appointed.

Two very enthusiastic meetings were held this week in the K. of C. Building by the Catholic ladies of the city in connection with the campaign to be held September 13th to 22nd for the K. of C. Army Huts. The object of the meetings was to secure the co-operation of the ladies in the campaign.

The first meeting was held Wednesday evening and was attended by representatives of the Catholic women's organizations. A special executive was formed with Mrs. D. P. Chisholm as chairwoman and Annelia K. Haley as secretary. Plans were made for the organization of a tag day to be held on September 13th, and convenors for the different wards in the city were appointed.

The second meeting was held by the ladies on Friday evening, September 13th, at the Columbian hall. A special executive committee was formed for the purpose of conducting an evening garden party and fair in the K. of C. Building and the surrounding grounds on the evening of September 23rd and 24th. Mrs. Richard O'Brien was appointed chairwoman and Mrs. B.T. McCafferty, secretary. Convenors of booths were appointed as follows:—Home cooking, Mrs. Travers; refreshment, Mrs. W. E. Scully; apron and fancy work, Mrs. Henry Regan; flowers, Mrs. A. C. Wilson; groceries, P. J. Fitzpatrick. The meeting was addressed by Dr. W. P. Broderick, Grand Knight of the K. of C. Final arrangements for both undertakings will be completed at meetings to be held the early part of the week.

NEW SUGAR RULING IN BOARDING HOUSES

Boarders Who Are Non-Tea or Coffee Drinkers Receive No Sugar For Other Purposes.

That some boarding house keepers in the city setting a wrong construction on the new sugar ruling, which limits each person to two pounds of sugar for every ninety meals, and that they were putting their patrons to inconvenience by putting a too strict interpretation on the ruling, was the opinion voiced yesterday by a gentleman employed in the city. In support of his statement he cited a case of a boarding house where patrons who took tea or coffee at their meals were given their allotment of sugar, but those who preferred to go without were not given sugar even though they might want it for some other purpose. He stated that he considered the meaning of the ruling to be that each person could use his quota of sugar as he saw fit providing only that he did not take more than his share.

A strike vote was at once taken, and an application made to the Department of Labor for a Conciliation Board to adjust grievances. This conciliation board was opposed by the company on the grounds that they already had a schedule with an organization governing these employees. The Minister of Labor in turn accepts the Company's statement, and declined to establish a Board.

FIRST PLATOON IS FILLING UP

Temporary Quarters For Siberian Contingent At Camp Sussex—Recruits Who Are Admissible.

Local military headquarters announced that the first platoon of New Brunswickers in the Siberian contingent is gradually being filled up. Temporary training quarters are being established at Sussex, for recruits, until a mobilization centre is named. All men not subject to the M. S. A. and who are physically fit are admissible to this unit. This applies to men for the cavalry with the exception that they be graduates of the Royal Military College or other chartered military schools. Cavalry officers are at present quite scarce, but men admitted into this branch, can qualify for instructors, as is the case in other units—providing they have the necessary executive and instructive ability. A few men daily reach the city for this unit, and are being sent to Sussex for training. Local soldiers, not under the M.S.R. have signified their willingness to go in this unit, but many are experiencing difficulties in procuring the necessary transfers.

DELIGHTFUL OUTING

Mr. and Mrs. William McIntosh, and the twenty-four Natural History girls, who left on a canoe trip several days ago, returned to the city yesterday afternoon after having a delightful journey on the river steamer. On the way down the river to Gagetown the flotilla, composed of nine canoes, created a lot of attention and many appreciative comments were made on the way the party handled their craft.

London House DANIEL Head of King St.

On the arrival of the gaily decorated ship "Navy League" at King Square on Wednesday evening the campaign for funds for the Navy was started. During the evening an interesting program was carried out and thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience which crowded the walks long before the appointed hour.

On Thursday the collectors—representatives of all the local patriotic organizations in the city—in many cases wearing the familiar naval cap, with white dresses, took up their positions on the street corners, while others tagged the business houses and private residences. The campaign was under the capable sponsorship of Mrs. M. B. Edwards, who, with her staff of helpers worked faithfully throughout the day, and with the response from an ever-giving public made it financially an unqualified success.

Mrs. George K. McLeod was the hostess at an enjoyable luncheon at her residence Burpee Avenue on Friday last week in honor of her sister Mrs. Hazen Hanson of Winnipeg, and Mrs. Charles Eason, of Toronto. The guests were Mrs. William Pugsley, Lady Hazen, Mrs. F. N. Sayre, Mrs. Walter Foster, Mrs. Simon Jones, Mrs. J. Roy Campbell, Mrs. Sherwood Skinner, Mrs. Leonard Tilley and Miss Helen Sidney Smith.

Williams, Miss Alice Williams, Mrs. A. M. Rowan, Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Gregory, Miss Olivia Gregory, Mrs. Beard, Mr. Amherst Beard, Mrs. Norman Gregory, Mrs. M. F. Smith, and Mrs. William Turner.

Among the hostesses during the week were Mrs. William Turner and Mrs. F. E. Williams. Mr. Frederick C. Macneil has purchased the summer residence of Mr. John Sayre in Rothesay Park.

Miss Jean Anderson, Miss Agnes Anderson and Miss Starr were among the week-end guests of Mrs. Peter at her summer residence, Westfield.

Miss Sylvia Ferguson entertained a few friends very informally at a sewing party on Friday afternoon last week, at the summer cottage of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ferguson, Duck Cove. Among those present were Miss Angela Macneil, Miss Althea Hazen, Miss Caroline Foster, Miss Muriel Ford, Miss Joan Foster, Miss Elizabeth Morrison and Miss Margaret Carvill.

The auditorium of the Y. M. C. I. was well filled on Tuesday evening the occasion being the graduation of the first class of professional nurses from the St. John Infirmary. During the evening an enjoyable program was carried out, after which refreshments were enjoyed and refreshments served. Among those who contributed to the musical program were Madame Kathleen Furlong Schmidt, Mrs. Marie Furlong Coleman, Miss Helen Furlong, Miss Eleanor Tapley, Miss Gertrude O'Neil and Miss Kathleen O'Neil.

The many friends of Lieut. Kenneth Golding, of the Royal Air Force, youngest son of Mrs. Edgar Golding, Padlock street, were delighted to read this week that he is at present in London and will return to St. John in the near future. Lieut. Golding has been a German prisoner for many months and until recently was interned in Holland.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Hayward and family have returned from an extended vacation at Bay Du Vin.

FAMOUS STORY "M'LISS," MARY PICK-FORD'S NEW WESTERN PHOTOPLAY

While several of Bret Harte's fascinating tales of the days of old and the days of gold in California, have been transferred to the screen, it has remained for Mary Pickford to translate to celluloid, Mr. Harte's great feminine creation, "M'Liss," the heroine of his immortal story of that name.

The character of "M'Liss" provides Miss Pickford with abundant opportunities for the display of those characteristics which have made her foremost. While the story of "M'Liss," which contains a murder and the subsequent rescue from a mob of lynchers, of an innocent man accused of the crime, is dramatic, its treatment is so different from ordinary pictures of the west that it will prove a pleasant surprise to all who see it.

Miss Pickford will be supported by a notable list of players, including Theodore Roberts, Thomas Meighan, Tully Marshall, Helen Kelly, Winifred Greenwood, Monte Blue and others. "M'Liss" will be presented at the Imperial Theatre next Monday as the first of the theatre's notable fifth anniversary features.

HAMPTON

Hampton, Sept. 6.—The re-opening of the schools has brought about the return of the summer visitors to their homes in the city. Among those leaving this week-end are Mr. A. H. Wetmore and family, Mr. John Malcolm and family, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Connors, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Percy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huntington and family, and the Misses McConnell.

Mr. J. Wilson, Provincial Prohibition Secretary, was registered at the Queen during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKay and two sons were guests during the week of Mr. McKay's brother, Mr. H. D. Dowling, at his home on Prince William St.

Miss Martha Butler, of St. John, who has been the guest of Miss Florie Lee, has returned to her home.

Miss Stella Fowley, Miss McIntyre, the Misses Henderson, Miss Madeline Flewelling, Miss Eileen O'Leary, Miss Harriet Barnes, Miss Rhona Lloyd, Miss Jessie Robinson, Miss Treva May, Miss Louise Alward, Margaret Adams, Helen Corbett, Alberta Crandall, Vivian Fowler, May Smith, Ruth Humphrey, Sybil Barnes, Messrs. Fred Chipman, Eric Warnford, Bryant Fairweather, Frank Barlett, Miles Schofield, Gordon Kenny, Arnold Fowler, Ren Smith, Stuart White. The wide veranda was artistically decorated with Japanese lanterns and the drawing rooms with ferns and cut flowers. Dancing and cards were enjoyed by the guests after which dainty refreshments were served. At the close of the evening Rev. Gordon Lawrance in a bright speech presented to Lieut. Harrington on behalf of those present a silver engraved cigarette case and a driver match case for which Lieut. Harrington expressed his gratitude and appreciation.

The schools re-opened on Tuesday with the following staff: Principal, Mr. Frank Keirstead; advanced department, Miss Celia Wetmore; grades V. and VI., Miss E. Alward; grades III. and IV., Miss E. G. Howard; Domestic science, Miss M. Burgess; manual training, Mr. W. J. Biggar.

The Strathcona prize for physical training has been awarded to Miss Bessie Howard, thus making the fourth successive year in which the prize has come to one of the Consolidated staff.

Mrs. S. S. King and son, Master Kilburn, returned on Sunday from a visit to Grand Falls.

Mrs. Fenton Kierstead and young son, John, left on Monday for a visit with friends in Fredericton.

Miss Evelyn Chipman left on Monday for Wolfville where she has accepted a position with Dr. DeWolfe and will also resume her studies at Acadia Seminary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wetmore Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. McNeill, Mr. Edwin Peters, St. John, are among the recent guests at the Wayside Inn.

An unusually interesting meeting of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Judeon Blypp.

Instructive readings were given by Mrs. Bedy and Mrs. A. H. Chipman, after which the motto boxes were opened, the sum of $20.00 being realized in this manner. Mrs. S. E. Alward was made a life member of the society.

A matter of regret among the women is the loss of their president, Mrs. O. N. Chipman, who leaves next week for her new home in Nova Scotia.

An evidence of appreciation of her work among them Mrs. J. H. DeLong presented to Mrs. Chipman a gold mounted fountain pen and a cut-glass vase.

Mrs. A. H. Chipman was appointed to fill the place of the retiring president.

Mr. Doekrie, Miss Doekrie, Mrs. Paul and Miss Edith Stevens, St. John, were guests on Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. E. Wetmore.

Mrs. James Adams is enjoying a visit with relatives in Moncton.

Miss Catherine Mosher, St. John, was a week-end guest of Miss Edna Crawford.

Mrs. E. V. Wetmore and party were invited guests in Hampton on Wednesday.

Miss Carol Brown, of Dover, Delaware, is the guest of her aunt, the Misses Abbott at their home on Prince street.

Mrs. McNair, who has been spending the summer with her brother, Mr. A. A. McCloskey, left on Monday night for her home in Portland, Ore.

Miss Edith Baird, of Philadelphia, is the guest of Mrs. James McBride, at her home on Prince William St.

Miss Hazel Eastman has returned from a pleasant visit with friends in Fredericton.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Sumner Baird left on Friday for their home in Beverly, Mass., after having spent the summer at their home in town, as is their usual custom.

Miss Louise Webber is a patient in Chipman Memorial Hospital.

Mr. O. J. Fraser, Chief Telephone Superintendent of St. John, accompanied his wife and young daughter, Louise, and the Misses Constance and Natalie Reed, motored to St. Stephen on Saturday and were registered at the Queen, returning to St. John on Sunday.

Miss Herbert Grant, who has been the guest of his brother, Collector W. L. Grant, has returned to his home in New York.

The community was shocked on Friday last to hear of the very sudden death of Miss Margaret Whitlock at her home on King St. Miss Whitlock had been about her house and garden all day apparently in her usual health, and death came very suddenly about two o'clock in the afternoon. She leaves three brothers, Mr. J. T. Whitlock, Mr. Campbell Whitlock and Mr. Wm. Whitlock, for all of whom much sympathy is expressed.

Miss Mabel Topping, of St. John, spent Labor Day in Ontario, the guest of Mrs. Wm. J. Hartley.

Miss Alice Hannah has returned from a pleasant visit in St. John, where she was the guest of Mrs. Mary Topping.

Mrs. W. D. Foster, of St. John, addressed the W. A. of Christ Church on Tuesday afternoon. While in town Mrs. Foster was the guest of the Misses Vroom.

Mr. Fred Keyes, of Vancouver, B.C., was the guest of Mrs. Gordon Lawrance, at their home on Mark St.

A Regular Saturday Page for the Kiddies

Motto: Kindly Deeds Make Happy Lives

Uncle Dick's Chat With the Children

My Dear Kiddies:-

By the time you have this page before you this week, you will have already had five days of school. Now tell me, how do you like being back again after the splendid holidays you had this summer? Of course, I know that some of you will say that teacher is very nice, or a dear, or something like that, whilst others, perhaps, will have quite a few criticisms to give. After all however, I am sure that if instead of thinking as to what teacher is like, when she does not exactly suit you, if you looked at your own little pranks you might find that instead of teacher not being quite as you wished, the blame is to be found in yourself. Just think it over.

In spite of the hurry and worry of going back to school, I am very pleased to see that such a large number of kiddies are answering in the last Big Contest. From all parts of the Maritime Provinces, splendid entries are arriving, and I can see a very busy time before me when I get down to judging them all. Even at this stage, I must compliment you who have entered for the most original work submitted.

It was going to make a most important announcement regarding a new contest, this week, but think it might be better to hold it over until later, so that you will have a chance to get settled down at school again.

By the way, I am awfully pleased that you are beginning to write me more than you have been recently, and I was beginning to think that the editor of the Standard would be firing you Uncle Dick, if all your nephews and nieces did not take more interest. However, I think that the danger is over at present at least, that is if you keep up your bombardment of letters to me. Of course, I know that all you who are reading this Corner every week, are most deeply interested in same whether you write or not, but when the letters come in steady then Mr. Editor is thoroughly convinced that such is the case. Just to be on the safe side, you had better write me more often than you have been doing during the holidays. You know that at one time I was receiving some hundreds of letters every week, but lately only about fifty have been arriving in the same time.

I simply love you to write to me, telling of all the little details in which you are finding interest. Whether it is about your pets, the new baby, your school teacher, or lessons at the farm, or in fact anything at all so long as you write, and find pleasure in doing so, so far as possible I shall answer all letters through the columns of the Children's Corner, which in two weeks of the receipt of the letter, so that you will have very little time to wait. Now give the letter carrier a busy time.

You remember that some time ago, we were chatting about the subject of adopting some Belgium orphan kiddie? After having heard all that you different members had to say, I have decided that at the present at least, we had better not undertake the responsibility, because if we once commenced we would have to keep it up, and perhaps some of you might not be able to do that, and it would be very hard for the rest.

I shall be pleased to hear any suggestions whatever which you think might add to the interest of the Children's Corner, and at the same time be helpful to others.

Before this letter gets into the paper, the big drive for the Navy League will have taken place. I hope that you all have done your best, because if there is one branch of our valiant forces, that demands our fullest support, it is that of the Navy. I was very much surprised to hear some one say that they could not afford to give to the Navy League. Someone present remarked that it was better to GIVE to the Navy, than to be DEMANDED by the Huns to hand over everything. That's just it. If we had no navy or army to assist even in our small way, there would be a huge army of brutes in grey uniforms taking everything we possessed. Instead of giving us free men and women, or boys and girls, we would be slaves with the most horrible task masters the world has ever seen. Boys and girls, don't be stingy with your dime and the Navy or Army calls. Better by far to deny yourselves little luxuries, in the form of candy or the movies, than that the brave men of either branch, not have everything they require.

Now that you have finished your vacation you will not have so much time as previous, but I hope you are not forgetting to visit any sick kiddie who may be in your neighborhood, and like to have you visit. It is surprising what an amount of cheer you can give other.

The other day I was in a large hospital, in the room opposite to where I was in, a little girl from the States lay in much pain. Presently she stretched forth her hand and rang the bell at the side of her bed. When the nurse arrived and asked what she wanted she simply replied, "Oh, nothing, I was just wanting to have you near me."

Now kiddies, you who are well and running about, just remember that and visit some of the sick kiddies. They would like to have you near them.

Good bye for this week, boys and girls, and here's hoping that you will write heaps of letters in the future, to

Your loving,

Uncle Dick

Children's Editor.

A DAY'S SPORT

A Continued Story For the Elder Boys.

It was the biggest day of the year!

At least the boys thought so when the day came, the same boys annually through Christmas the biggest day of the year, but memories soon fade. Every day is the biggest and best day on that day.

But this was really a big day. All summer they had looked forward to it. All summer they had been preparing for it, too.

It was regatta day! That meant that all the boys in camp would on this day compete in aquatic sports.

There were rowboat races, canoe races, swimming and diving contests and tilting matches. The boys had divided into teams and there were to be team prizes as well as prizes for the individuals.

All summer the boys had spent as much of each day as the camp guards would permit in the water. They had swam and rowed and canoed and sailed in cat boats. Each was eager to make a good showing on this day of days. They had read books on how to dive, and on how to swim, and how to paddle a canoe. They had put into practice all the books had taught them. Each boy looked upon himself as the sure winner in at least one of the events of the glorious day. Each pictured to himself a bright faced boy proudly wearing a huge gold medal on the lapel of his coat when he arrived home from the camp on the day after regatta day. Each pictured that day marching down the street of his home town, the medal glittering on his coat, and all eyes turned toward him, and in the mind of each the image of that boy bore a strange resemblance to the boy who imagined it.

Jack was one of these boys who pictured himself as a doer of great deeds.

So were Jim, and Harry and George. They had come to camp together, and though they mingled freely with the rest of the boys at camp, and made many good friends, and stuck together, retained their affection for each other, and had for the events of this great day, teamed up.

The night before they had gone over

WOODLAND WISDOM

Telling of the Little Habits Peculiar to the Animals of the Lumberlands.

It must not be imagined that the wild creatures are born wise, knowing by instinct all those things which in their grown-up days, help them to guard against the many foes and perils of their daily lives. Believe me that the little wolf cub, in his downy days is as foolish as anything living; but as he grows older he is taught by his parents what things he must always fear. He is taught carefully and strictly, and if he does the wrong thing, he is punished upon by his mother and told in language plain as daylight that he "mustn't do that again."

Wild deer are among the most shy and cautious creatures on earth, and will flee in terror long before one can get near them; but I remember once, in Algonquin Game Reserve, Canada, finding a little spotted fawn crouching under a thicket. His mother had evidently told him to lay quite still, for he did not move a muscle tripped after me, bleating as he came. There was a crash in an adjacent thicket, and I caught sight of a very ferocious-looking moose racing towards me. Of course, she dare not attack me, but she uttered a hoarse bleating cry, and instantly a look of fear came into the eyes of the fawn, and he scrambled off after his mother.

The fawn had never been taught that man was a creature to be feared and that day he learned one of the first and most important lessons of his life—fear man at all times. Never again could one get near him.

The first lesson a young moose is taught is to crouch under the water, only the tip of his great nose above the surface. The cow moose lives by the lake margin while her calves are small, and on receiving the well-known danger signal from their mother, the calves (often two) dash for the water and crouch down, remaining there perhaps for hours, till their mother comes back to fetch them.

If the threatened danger be wolves, these marauders soon pass by, the water hiding the scent of the calves, so that the wolves cannot locate them. Then if the danger be forest fires, the young moose in the water are in the safest place possible.

The cow moose is a very devoted mother, and often she loses her own life by the fire through her anxiety for her calves. They, being small, must crouch in shallow water, and while the fire rages, she either tries to hide with them, where there is insufficient depths to cover her or else she keeps wading up to see how they are faring.

I remember once, after a serious fire, we saw lots of cow moose going about with their calves, which were unharmed, while the back and shoulders of the cows themselves were badly burnt and blistered.

Let us picture the schooling of a litter of wolf cubs. First they are taught the preliminaries of hunting: how to bring their food right to the den, the parents leave it some little distance off, and the youngsters must learn to use their noses, or they will go hungry.

In this way they soon learn to judge by scent and a week or two later they are taken to the grass slope half a mile away, and taught how to catch mice by the old trick of panicking them from the grass clump.

From such small games they are taught how to catch larger and more difficult quarry—squirrel, musk rat, and so on, and during one of their nightly rambles they suddenly find themselves face to face on the forest trail with a white and brown animal. He is not very large, and the cubs of course, want to attack him, but their mother gives them a warning snarl. Straight towards them trots the brown and white beast, and the mother wolf quietly steps aside, and gives up the trail to him! She then no doubt, explains to the cubs that this much respected gentleman is a skunk, who turns aside for no one, and whom no one argues with, because of his very effective mode of defence. For the skunk, to defend himself, discharges from his musk glands a stifling and burning spray, so evil smelling that no animal can face it.

There is yet another woodland prowler whom the wolf cubs are taught never to meddle with—the foolish slow-moving porcupine, under whose coarse hair are thousands of needle pointed quills, each quill having a thousand barbs, which raise up immediately the quill becomes embedded, for slowly the burning points of fire work inwards, till finally they

as I stooped over him and scratched his head. He seemed to like it, and before I knew where I was he was sucking one of my fingers. Finally he scrambled up, and as I walked away the pretty little creature calmly

But in the canoe tilting match, in which the object was for two boys in a canoe to upset two others by trying to dislodge them from their positions in their canoes by the use of long poles paddled at the end, not one of our friends were successful. They formed two teams in this event. That is, Jack and Jim manned one canoe and Jim and George another. But both of the canoes were upset and their occupants thrown out. This was rather discouraging. They had practiced long at this sport, and had hoped to make a success of it. But the team which they most feared won.

reach some vital organ. The Canadian porcupine by the way, must not be confused with the large black and white African species, which has quills, but no barbs.

One night the she wolf stops dead, and sniffs the breeze. The cubs, of course, imitate her. Slowly her hair bristles. The cubs also bristle. Down the wind a strange scent is wafted—neither of man nor beast, but the scent of steel.

The mother wolf backs away, bristling and growling, and the cubs also back away, bristling and growling. They do not know what the danger is; they only know that in the centre of the trail there is a mysterious peril, and that whenever the scent reach their nostrils they must back away in fear and suspicion! And that night the foolish skunk stumbles into the trap and dies there, and the following night the wolves feast upon his remains.

Yet another lesson learnt—the game of cap robbery!—and the result of the whole experience is that the young wolves know now that they must not approach an untrapped trap, it is just as well to watch it in case some one else walks into it!

Thus, bit by bit, lesson by lesson, the young wolves become wise and clever as their parents. Their schooling is a matter of time.

Even fear itself has to be taught them. And when spring and summer are gone, and the lone winter comes, they have received that foundation of knowledge on which to build up their own success or failure in life.

The foolish, the dull, the careless do not survive the terrible northland winter; only the wise and the cautious live to see next spring and to rear their own families and teach them wisdom.

SWEET CONTENT

Just the Kind You Will Like As a Fairy Story For Bed-Time.

Sweet Content, our rosy-cheeked fairy, was watching the wind fairies flying their kites. They had taken the delicate rose-tinted petals from the blossoms in the old apple tree and fastened cob-web thread to them and were running madly over hill and dale while the kites fluttered higher and higher.

It just happened that down close to the root of the old apple tree sat the Red Ant Tribe. They were cousins of Andy Ant, the grocerman. He always dressed in black, while they wore scarlet coats and trousers.

"I wish we might ride on the kites," said Alan Ant, combing his whiskers. "There's not the slightest chance," answered Archie.

"Till ask Gentle Breeze to let you ride on them," said Sweet Content. "Please do," begged Alan Ant. Our fairy clapped his tiny hands for Fluffy, her big white buttercup, picked up the golden web rags and rode off. She had quite a chase before she found Gentle Breeze.

Gentle Breeze was dressed in white and held a feather fan in one hand and the cobweb string of her kite in the other. When she heard about the Red Ant Tribe she squealed with joy. "That would be lots of fun. We can have a good time as long as the Merry Breezes keep away, but if they come you'll have to run back to earth."

Sweet Content agreed and the wind fairies pulled in their kites and floated down to earth. Gentle Breeze sang as they landed:

"Come, come take a ride Over the happy world so wide, On the back of an apple blossom kite You can ride from early morn till night."

The Ant Tribe came tumbling and tumbling from their homes, some carrying their babies, while the old grandmothers hobbled along behind. The wind fairies helped them into the kites, tying them on with bits of Red Ant Tribe's squealed they look like very gaily colored kites in the air. Alan, Archie and Arthur were all seated on another. Old Grandmother Ann was the funniest sight. She wore spectacles on her nose and at her side was an ear trumpet, for she was very deaf.

At a given signal the kites were allowed to rise and the Ants screamed with laughter. Meanwhile a crowd of flower fairies in their bright gowns gave the fun below and quickly gathered some dandelion fluff balloons. They tied over the stems little baskets woven of sweet grass in which to sit and they, too, rose in the air and raced with the kites. Sweet Content was in the larger balloon of all and carried Wee Rose, her maid, with her.

Now the wind fairies were singing, and so were the flower fairies so the children in Cuddletown thought that silver bells were ringing that is all except Billy, the lame boy, who knew it was the fairies' song.

Right in the midst of their greatest fun came Whirlwind and the Merry Breezes. When they saw that the Ant Tribe was on the kites and that the flower fairies were in balloons they immediately began to mischief (To mischief anyone means to tease them.) They tipped the kites first one way and then the other, until the ants began to tumble off. Some of the kite strings were broken and the kites bumped into the balloons, upsetting the fairies, who grasped their flower bud parachutes and floated down to earth.

She helped Grandmother Ann to her house on the hill and then hurried into supper.

The other flower folk did the same as soon as they were safely inside the wind fairies raised such havoc that the Cuddletown children shivered in their beds. The wind fairies kept it up until morning, when the sunbeams came down on their golden ladders, for Merry Breezes and Whirlwind think it great fun to chase both fairies and mortals in doors.

NOW AND THEN THE FRIVOLOUS TOUCHES FOR GREATER CHEER

Some Little Things That Lead To the Gaiety of Dress Without Too Much Expense—Quaint Ear-Rings, Fans and Necklaces Add To the Brightness of Sombre Costumes.

The world would be a harder place than it is to live in if there were no lighter side to dress. There is a movement under way, headed by well known and highly respected women, to abolish the wearing of mourning during the period of the war, because of the inevitably depressing and discouraging effect of quantities of sombre garments of bereavement where people congregate together. The war must be won and despondency and the evidences of despondency will not help towards its winning—this is the argument advanced in the campaign against mourning garb—and it is a good argument which should have weight with thoughtful and unselfish women. Arguments against the wearing of jewelry, against indulgence in pretty clothes and new fashions have not the same merit or excellence. Attractive clothes help to keep women's spirits up, and help lift the spirits of other folk who behold the charming raiment, says The Bangor Daily Commercial. It would be a dull world, a drab world indeed, if women folk went about looking shabby and pass, garmenting themselves in a dull, to the eye, nor a claim to attractiveness or smartness. Would the soldier home on leave enjoy his holiday half so much if all his women folks presented themselves before him in hopeless looking raiment neither a delight to the eye nor a satisfaction to the soul? Would the cause of patriotism be conserved if women should forever wear all the pretty things that help make their sex charming? Would it naturally bring about more optimism, more courage, more high-hearted gladness in working as hard as one can—to feel that you are looking your worst and plainest? Not while human nature is what it is.

The carping souls who criticize severely the returning fashion of earrings, probably do not stop to think that fashion has added ear-rings to feminine costume just now, to relieve it of austerity and over-plaeness. Women's dress has been growing more and more simple, frippieries and supereruous trimmings have been cut away. Tailored styles lean more and more toward the severely masculine. Why not ear-rings, to lend that indispensable little touch of femininity and charm? Surely the modern ear-rings cost very little. Nobody need cut down very substantially on war contributions to own a pair of new screw-in or drop ear-rings (some of which cost but fifty cents or a dollar the pair in very good styles), and oh, the difference the foolish little trinkets make in an austere tailored suit and business like any-weather sort of urban! Dash and style and charming femininity are added to starchy to the costume—if the right sort of ear ornaments have been selected.

The idea just now is not to express great levities of expense on any sort of jewelry, but rather to make it, by reason of its own individuality or some happy choice of color, an interesting touch in an otherwise unobtrusive costume. Imitation pearls, jade that is not real jade, colored enamels and reconstructed jewels are all permissible, provided the ornament is in good taste and the mountings are not cheap and tawdry. Indeed a pair of imitation jade ear-rings costing say, two-shilling-eight would be better taste, these war-days, than a pair of diamond sparklers worth several hundred dollars that might be working for the Government in Victory Bonds.

Styles Oriental.

Most of the earrings seen are rather Oriental in suggestion, and jewelry of this type is very fashionable just now. Some pretty drop earrings at the upper left hand corner are in green gold and black enamel in green-gold chains. Others have topazes and sapphire pearls in dull gold setting. Some interesting ear-rings are seen. Jet and pearl beads are another odd combination, silver. Individuality and not high price is the thing, just now, in ornaments that are guaranteed to be displayed in selection. Good luck emblems and trinkets are the craze in Paris these days and many interesting and beautiful things are being created to supply this demand for symbolic gifts. A great quantity of jet jewelry is being worn and pearl and jet in combination are especially fashionable. Cameos also are the rage and cameo lockets and rings are in such manner that it may be raised to reveal a hidden space for a picture or lock of hair.

Elephant's hair is supposed to be a wonderful luck charm and there are keepsake rings with elephant's hair hidden inside—or so the jewelry claims—that are guaranteed to preserve the wearer from death, injury or imprisonment while at the front. Touch-wood rings are popular too and some very attractive ones are of polished ebony with smoken imitation pearls all the way around.

Despite the superstition about pearls meaning tears, women dote on pearls more and more. If they cannot afford genuine pearls they achieve competition in "scientific" pearls. If they cannot have even these, they wear pearl beads. Pearls become more and more expensive and a string of genuine ones represents a small fortune. Even the "scientific" pearls cost up to fifty dollars the necklace—more, if the necklace is a lengthy one—but the beauty of pearls can never be rivaled by any other jewel, however rare or costly, and no fashioning gem of brilliant hue is so revealing to femininity as the creamy white pearl. Opals also defy their reputation for ill luck and pronounce themselves favorites for the season. A very beautiful necklace of green opals and pearls was noticed. The fine, ribbon-like links hold flagstone-mount opals and a large, very fiery opal is set in the pendant, under an exquisite wrought Egyptian head, the green-gold of the setting and the very use of the opal making a most beautiful combination. Like most of the new neck ornaments, this one has dangling tassels.

HOUSEWIVES LEAGUE HEAR ABOUT SUPPERS

Two Good Dishes For Tea-Time Demonstrated By Miss Hazel Winter.

The usual Friday Demonstration was held at the Food Centre, Calvin Hall, yesterday by the Demonstration Committee of the Housewives League, and was well attended. Miss Hazel Winter was an excellent speaker and a swift capable cook as the results of her demonstration showed. She made mock hamburg steak patties and a vegetable loaf which was baked in a Pyrex dish loaned by Messrs. Emerson and Fisher. These were both conservation of meat dishes suitable for supper during the winter months. Mrs. Hooper gave out the circulars for the War Garden and Housewives League exhibition, and told how the canning and food preservation work was judged. The work of Mrs. W. E. Raymond and the Demonstration Committee was highly praised. Miss Winter urged that members plan balanced menus for the present, and to try to try it for a week. A special meeting is announced when Mrs. Lawlor will be present.

Necklaces for wear with summer dresses and blouses are of colored galalith and some of the chains are very beautiful in design. From these galalith chains hang lockets, medallions or tassels and the tassels are as likely to be of colored wood as of metal. A string of jewelry which is worn in Paris now, one wears on one's lorgnette chain, not a lorgnette or vanity trinket but a little enameled and gilt sugar-box which carries one's supply of sugar for the afternoon cup of tea. No one else will provide it, if one does not look out for herself, so the cunning little sugar boxes have been added to war-time trinkets.

Fans play an important part in adding grace to the simplified costumes and two new fans are seen at both recent arrivals from Paris. One is a so-called Indian fan in amber, orange and red hues dashed with black. The other is the "beak of wavy" fan, an exquisite affair of sea-green and white ostrich, like a foam tipped wave just curling over to break.

ABOUT WOMEN

The effect of the war is shown in the personnel of this year's graduates at the universities in the British Isles. The modern and rather technical nature of the subjects is shown in the typical instance. The whole of those receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts are young women (fifteen in all) and the whole of those receiving the scholastic profession—while on the technical side the B.Sc. honors are practically divided between English girls and Japanese students. Two-thirds of the new Masters of Science are Japs, and four-fifths of the Bachelors of Medicine are girls. Science is making an increasingly strong appeal to Orientals.

MRS. G. T. MILNE TELLS OF AUSTRALIAN V. A. D.

Wife of British Trade Commissioner Acted As Matron of Red Cross Rest House in Melbourne—Praises Work of Girls.

At over the Empire girls are doing their best to help in the work of war relief, and it is deeply interesting to learn what our sisters of other lands are doing. So it was a privilege for the Standard's representative to hear from Mrs. G. T. Milne, wife of the British trade commissioner, of the volunteer workers in Australia's volunteer aid department there.

Mrs. Milne said that she was so glad to speak of these girls as she had been associated with them, and it was a pleasure to testify to their splendid organization and self-sacrificing labors. The girls wanted to go into the Military Hospital, but the Defense Department will not accept voluntary workers. There was a great need for a home for convalescent men when this need was made known the citizens of Melbourne erected and furnished what was known as "The Red Cross Rest House." Voluntary workers being the engineer, who looks after the heating apparatus, 200 articles are washed a week in addition to all the new sheets, etc., which are sent in to the Central Red Cross depot from outside branches.

"I was chosen matron at the Rest Home," Mrs. Milne went on to say, and her bearers could judge from Mrs. Milne's bearing, personality and capable manner of speaking that the choice was a fortunate one, and there was for a year, beginning March, 1917. A trained nurse was necessary. Our great days were when the transports came in, the interstates came from Queensland, Tasmania and New Zealand were taken to the Home. They were given a hot three course dinner, and those from Tasmania and New Zealand kept till the next boat. Sometimes we would have to stretch the 200 beds to 300, sending over to the steamship company for mattresses. On boat days from 500 to 1,000 men would be provided for. It took quite a lot of managing. An extra staff of V.A.D.'s for the dining room would be notified and 3,000 meals would have to be cooked after a stretch of the room seating 240 was filled three and four times. All would be washed up in two or three hours' time by the girls.

One of the most faithful workers was Lady Doris Blackwood, a niece by marriage of His Excellency the Governor-General, Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson, who was known as the best pot-potato peeler. She used to accompany her aunt on trips but was at ways back at the Home early after her return to Melbourne. A feature of the Red Cross Rest Home was that the men could stay there without pay until they found employment. They received all kinds of massage and treatment for shell shock. There was a beautiful concert hall where entertainments were given as a reading room supplied with magazines. The V. A. D. assist at entertainments given the returned men at Government House and elsewhere. There is a Church of England service held each Sunday by the Army Chaplain, a V. A. D. playing the organ. A "week-end staff" is formed of girls who are in banks and offices, but who wish to give their spare time to this noble service.

Mrs. Milne, who has done much Red Cross work, was much interested in seeing the sphagnum moss committee at work and paid a visit to the Natural History rooms to view the moss, as she is brought in, and to the Red Cross depot where she was shown the finished dressings.

Mrs. W. E. Anderson entertained at luncheon at the Star of England yesterday in Mrs. Milne's honor, in viting to meet her guest Mrs. G. A. Kuhring and Mrs. H. A. Powell.

MANY GIFTS VOTED AT LOYALIST MEETING

Energetic Chapter of the I. O. D. E. Yesterday Plan Many Activities.

Votes of donations to various funds and plans for a season of great activities marked the meeting of the Loyalist Chapter, I. O. D. E., held yesterday. Mrs. Hugh Mackay presided. It was decided to fill 100 Red Cross Christmas stockings, and $150 was voted for this purpose, Miss Frances Kerr being appointed convener. For the Red Cross 98 pairs of socks were received and 7 suits of pajamas; $10 was voted to Miss Violet Whitaker for the Blue Cross appeal.

The report from the committee in charge of the Navy League Tag Day was heard, and that of the sphagnum moss committee. It was agreed to assist with the making of dressings at the Red Cross Depot.

A child in whom the Chapter is interested, was sent to East St. John where treatment will be given. Plans were made for a rummage sale to be undertaken shortly, and for a field day to be held at Lakeside, for which novelties in the way of entertainment will be provided.

Comforts for the new recruits, soldiers will be one of the many gifts of the Chapter.

The following appeal to patriotic patience came to us in a parcel received from a northern firm of manufacturers, says the London Daily Chronicle. Keep your temper, gentle sir. Write the manufacturer. Though your goods be overdue For a month, or may be two, We can't help it. Please don't swear! Labour's scarce and looms are rare. Can't get yarns, can't get dyes; These are facts, we tell no lies. Harry's drafted, so is Bill; All our work is now uphill. So your order, we're afraid, May be still a bit delayed. Still, you'll get it, don't be vexed; May be this week, may be next. Keep on hoping. Don't say die; We'll send your order by-and-by.

WHAT THE "PICTURE PETS" ARE DOING

Carl Lemmie, president of the Universal, has issued orders to producing executives of that company, desiring that hereafter it shall make only films in which happiness predominates. He stipulated that there must be no more productions based exclusively on dreary drama, or stories with dismal elements. The order is ironclad, and will mean the doom, so far as Universal is concerned, of melancholy themes.

Lavine Monsch, who plays the role of one of the sisters in "The Fallen Angel," a William Fox production, is exceptionally proud of her hair. On numerous occasions Miss Monsch has been offered large sums for the sale of her hair, but she has always turned these offers down.

MARY DRAWS THREE OF A KIND

Mary Pickford—the motion picture actress, you know—has no fewer than three leading men in "Johnna Eliza," her forthcoming Arctur photo-play. Most plays have to worry along with only one leading man, but expensive is no object to Miss Pickford. Having provided this striking novelty, Miss Pickford concluded to go the limit; so she arranged for a whole regiment of men—not leading men, but just plain men. The regiment was the 143d Field Artillery, known as "Mary's Own," commanded by Colonel Ralph J. Panett.

The Pandora's Top

Three-quarters of your rangework is done on the top of the range. So the Pandora Range top has been designed to perform as many duties, simultaneously, as it is possible for a range to do. The Pandora flue system gives you five holes in the top upon which you can boil. The six-hole top is made with two interchangeable sections. On wash day this enables you to set the boiler on the far side and cook dinner on three front holes. There is a reducing cover for smaller sized pots. Also a check cover to hold the fire in at night. And then when the work is cleared away, by one gentle rub with a cloth you instantly restore the burnished brilliancy of the top—less work by half than even the "lick and a promise" you used to give the old style, rough and rattling cast iron covers that would not shine without black-lead and a backache.

SIDE TALKS

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Someone was telling me the other day about the heating system established in a large factory.

The system had heated the factory very successfully, but it had not been installed in the most economical way, and experts estimated that hundreds of tons of coal had been saved by a more carefully thought out system.

Think of Wasting Coal!

Of course, every one was horrified at the waste of anything so infinitely precious as coal, and there was the usual chorus of horror and condemnation.

In which I joined.

That afternoon it chanced that I was overhauling my last summer's wardrobe with a view to weeding out and renovating.

One garment was a dress, bought last summer, which I had worn but little and which I disliked so intensely that I wanted to give it away. As I looked at it and questioned whether I ought to try to wear it or not, a sudden thought came to me: "This is an example of the sort of mistakes you make in spending your clothes appropriation. You make one every once in a while. You are not trying to cheat yourself or anyone else; you are just doing the best you can, and still you make mistakes in the way you spend that money."

The corollary is self evident. Following the same channel, my mind went back to my one experience in building. Did you ever build a house?

Did you make any mistake when you built your house?

And did you get exactly what you wanted? And did you spend every cent of the money in the wisest way possible? Or did you find yourself saying, "Next time I build a house, I will not do this and so."

Waste may be the arch-enemy of Dame Thrift, but Haste is by no means to be considered her friend.

YOUR HEALTH

BY ANDREW F. CURRIER, M. D.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA, NO. 2.

This disease, then, is called locomotor ataxia because the want of co-ordination between the will and motion is chiefly in the muscles by which walking, or locomotion, is produced.

There is, also, some absence of feeling in some areas of the skin and terrible pain in others, great pain in some of the organs like the stomach, and gradual wasting of certain muscles and nerves.

The disease begins insidiously and progresses very slowly. Perhaps the first sign will be numbness or tingling in the feet or sharp pains in the legs and fatigue from ordinary exercise.

THE EVENING STORY

THE NEWCOMER

By Lincoln Rothblum.

Behind every blind on Maple Square, in the face of the warm afternoon sun, lingered eager eyes straining to see all that was to be seen as the brassy teamsters unloaded the newcomer's household belongings.

Moving in Maple Square, it must be understood, was an event. With the exception of the Santleys who had left as mysteriously as they came, and the talk about which had not yet subsided, though it was two years past, going and coming were rarities. In fact, the absence of "For Rent" signs had become a source of great pride to all the householders on the square, and it is little to be wondered that the slim girl who stood so resolutely on the bottom step of the former Santley home should cause such agitated interest.

Mrs. Gregory, wrapped in a shawl, regretting that some married couple with two or three children and likely to remain permanently were not taking the premises.

As the piano was laboriously unloaded, each watcher came to the conclusion the newcomer was a piano teacher, come to turn Maple Square into an out-of-the-way music school.

But today, neither gavel nor green silk dress could hush the buzzing voices and shortly a very ruffled Mrs. Chandler announced the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. Gregory, emerging from the kitchen with the china hastily gathered, commenced to distribute her stock supply of cream-cheese-and-easy-to-prepare, as she once confessed in an unguarded moment.

It was Miss Tucker, richer in dollars than in sense, who fired the first shot. "We forgot to suggest our new neighbor for membership; a committee ought to be appointed to call on her."

Mrs. Chandler did not like the idea. "I must agree with you," Mrs. Chandler assented. "I am particularly averse to unattached females at all times. Wait's last letter was all about some vampire who has him in her clutches."

her set up the beds and got things sort of straightened out.

He paused to wipe the knife in his apron. "She offered to pay well; it's Ed an' Ben'll ben eatin' the extra money with school startin', so I sent them over. She's a right smart woman, and knows a deal about groceries—more as a great many of married folks."

Mrs. Gregory tried to look haughtily offended. Capping the bags of limes, prunes and cheese in the crook of her left arm, and gathering her skirts together with her right, she swept out of McCann's Cash Grocery, secretly vowing never to set foot in there again, only on his special Tuesday sales, when it must be admitted, he sold without any qualms of conscience, nineteen cent cans of peaches marked down to twenty-cent.

The weekly meeting of the Maple Square Ladies' Club had an unusually large attendance, compelling Mrs. Gregory, at whose home the club convened that week, hastily to dispatch her small daughter via the back door for the loan of additional china with which to accommodate her guests.

Mrs. Chandler, president, and very conscious of her new green silk dress, rapped for order. Mrs. Chandler liked to rap for order. She felt the gavel lent for dignity. The gavel had been donated by Mr. Chandler on his wife's installation into office. Thrice elected president of the Main Street Business Men's Association, he understood parliamentary law and how such things should be conducted.

But today, neither gavel nor green silk dress could hush the buzzing voices and shortly a very ruffled Mrs. Chandler announced the meeting adjourned.

FASHIONS FOR CANADIANS

No type of garment offers so much encouragement to the home dressmaker as the negligee. Advice to the designer of a negligee may be summed up in a single sentence, "Do not cut the material." Of course, the scissors must be used in moderation; but a negligee must never have a fitted look.

The selection of fabrics are selected for negligee garments, and these should be draped or allowed to hang on soft, straight lines.

The sketch illustrates a charming negligee for the September bride. The foundation of this garment, full ankle length bloomers or haven skirt and sleeveless attached bodice, may be of rose colored satin, with over drapery of pale pink Georgette.

The edges of this over drapery are finished with a heavy bead fringe, and the square train is banded in satin matching the foundation. A very lovely color scheme may be attained in the development of this beautiful garment if two layers of Georgette are used, one in pale flesh pink, the other blue, and while the rose colored bloomers will be excellent as the foundation, if preferred one of the paler shades may be selected.

A beautiful negligee may be made by using a perfectly straight section of material twice the length of the figure, cutting an opening for the neck, and two slits on either side of both back and front section through which a ribbon or self-fabric girdle is drawn. Bloomers or haven trousers form the foundation, and, if desired, the selvage edges of the over section, back and front, may be finished with narrow bands of fur or marabou.

The little straight breakfast coats of plaid or flowered taffeta or satin continue to be great favorites, and these are worn, of course, over petticoats of silk or satin, with lace ruffled bows, and other embellishments.

Boudoir garments that the sufficiently conservative to qualify as hostess gowns are worth while investments, and the one shown in the sketch might be worn for an informal afternoon tea or slipped on for dinner.

Investment Talks

AN OPPORTUNITY OF THE HOUR.

War has in many lines multiplied America's business opportunities. Fortunately they are opportunities which are not limited to the war period.

"What do you regard as the business opportunity of the hour?" was the question I put the other day to a successful business man. His reply was given promptly and definitely.

"Investment in food production, through corporate farming," he replied. "I am so confident of this that I have gone into it myself."

It is to be noted that he said corporate farming. "Corporate organization," he pointed out, "is the medium and stimulant of efficiency, and it gives competitive power. But that is not the whole reason why such organization should be applied wherever possible to agricultural enterprise."

"Because the public has had the opportunity to invest in the securities of our great industrial organizations in a cozy armchair before the large bay window, she watched in excited anticipation the children shuffling through the fallen leaves swept into the gutter. She was thinking of her son, expected that day, and of the debt she owed this girl who had taken her into her home and heart. Truly she had learned goodness was more than living straight—it was loving gentleness and generous kindness.

"Look," she cried out, striving to rise from her armchair, "there comes Wait! Call to him before he passes by! Quick!"

And Mrs. Chandler was due to another shock as she saw her stalwart son enfold the newcomer in his arms—just as if he had done it many times before.

"Sure, mother," he was explaining once again, "didn't we know how you'd be so kind as to let me know you were here first—for I knew she'd make you love her."

Mrs. Chandler smiled through her teeth. "She's done more than that, Wait."

Salute the Dead!

Salute the dead as you pass by. Salute the brothers brave who lie 'neath little mounds on Flanders' field!

Give them the sign you'll never yield. Their souls are hovering near to see The lines new-formed for liberty. Salute them as you pass that they May know you honor them today.

Salute the little wooden cross. The symbol of a mother's loss That dots the way to where you tread, That he who sleeps among the dead May know you follow in his train. And that he has not died in vain. Salute the heroes who have gone, Their fight for freedom still goes on.

Salute the dead as you pass by. Not outwardly with hand to eye, But inwardly, as soul to soul, That they may know, though ages roll Across the fields where now they lie And countless warriors pass and die, Their brothers still shall cross the sea To bring them peace and set them free.

Salute the dead! Tell them who sleep Their faith, undaunted, you will keep. They held the line till you could come, Their eyes are closed, their voices dumb. But now their spirits wait to lead You forward in this hour of need, Salute the glorious who have gone! It is their work you carry on.

Well, this famous Orchestra, which Jimmy Coon heard on that August Twilight, was a very large Orchestra, with thousands of Musicians. All the Musicians were dressed in Green Uniforms, and it was wonderful to see and hear them play on their lovely instruments. Their instruments were very much like Violins. You have seen a player on a Violin draw his Bow over the four strings of his Violin; and then you have heard the lovely music floating on the vibrating air!

Scheme To Destroy Kiel Canal By Fast Motor Boats Laden With Dynamite Suggested.

Suppose: A thousand swift motorboats loaded to the rails with dynamite, dashed at the defense of the Kiel canal like a swarm of hornets at a boy's face.

Loss of Something.

"I'm puzzled. My boy writes me from England that he's lost 20 pounds."

Tangle of Mines to Pass.

Take the first idea, for instance, the swarm of motorboats laden with high explosives, and listen to what he says of it:

Before getting to the Kiel canal, where the German fleet lies at anchor, there are mines and booms and nets to be passed.

There is nothing much more to be said about the idea of the giant torpedo steered by an airship. The original feature of this is that the dead machine is not towed by airship, as has been suggested by many inventors, who fail to consider that a torpedo of any size would stop the airship instead of being towed by it.

REDDY FOX DISCOVERS THE NEW HOUSE.

In his half completed new house, digging himself, for he was curious to find out why there was no one in that hole.

There Hooty Sat and Stared as Only Hooty Can Stare.

Hooty the Owl was the first to discover the new house. Hooty was flying past in the moonlight on his way back to the Green Forest, when he caught sight of the hole of sand Johnny Chuck had thrown out.

"Hello!" exclaimed Hooty. "Hello! What has been going on over there? That wasn't there last night. Someone must have moved over there and dug a new house. I wonder who it can be?"

On silent wings Hooty turned and seemed to float over to the tree nearest Johnny Chuck's new house. There Hooty sat and stared as only Hooty can stare.

"I know anything about it, and I think I do," muttered Hooty. "That is the home of a Chuck or I never have seen one. I hope it is a young Chuck who has dug it, for young Chucks make very good eating and this is a very handy place to pick up a dinner."

He had gone only a little while when Reddy Fox came trotting along the dusty road. Opposite the Old Orchard he scrambled up the bank and lightly leaped over the old stone wall.

"Ha!" exclaimed Reddy under his breath, and grinned as an eager look crept into his eyes. Then very carefully he stole forward and examined the pile of sand Johnny had thrown out, and after this the hole Johnny had dug.

"Ha!" said Reddy again, as his nose told him that there was no one in that hole. He did a little

"Ha!" said Reddy a third time. "That fellow couldn't dig any deeper here, so he has had to move on. Probably it was a young Chuck, and this was his first attempt to dig a house. If that was the case, he wouldn't go far before trying again. I must look into this. I certainly must look into this. A tender young Chuck would make a mighty nice meal. It would be almost as good as chick-

Reddy smacked his lips. Then he looked sharply along the old wall, in both directions, for he was absolutely sure that the Chuck who had started to build there would try again somewhere along the old wall.

Alarmed at once the sand on the doorstep of Johnny Chuck's new house gleaming in the moonlight, caught his attention.

"I knew it," he chuckled. "I knew it. The fellow has made his house down there in the corner and he couldn't have picked a place to suit me better. He certainly must be young and innocent."

Wouldn't Johnny Chuck's ears have burned had he heard that.

WARTIME HOUSEWIFERY

By Frances Marshall. How To Serve Dried Meats. (Copyright 1917 by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The thousands of women who have heard the government's call to patriotism, set about drying all the fruits and vegetables in sight, on top of the stove, in the oven, in the sunshine, and in the vigorous breeze of an electric fan.

The dried meat will become a feature of our winter dietary. And it is quite possible that many of us have gone to work at drying food without knowing anything about how to serve them.

Perhaps one reason why the government bulletins and the newspaper articles based on these bulletins for drying food, gave so little information about how to use them, is because it is a very easy matter to add the water needed to rehydrate dried vegetables, and so make them ready to serve.

But in this, as in every other kind of cooking, the work may be well or badly done. You know there are two kinds of cooking—good cooking and bad cooking. And it is to be feared that many of the dehydrated vegetables this year will be served by a cook of the second class.

The first process in preparing dehydrated vegetables is to soak them up and in endeavoring to maintain the streamline formation as much as possible.

Now you inventors, here are a few ideas, each of which seems practical; you are welcome to them, and if after due experimentation, you are able to develop them into actualities, who knows but that they may have an important bearing upon winning the war?

HOUSEKEEPING

HOOVERIZED DESSERT.

With the price of meat so high, milk so scarce and the increased demand for more wheat to ship abroad, the problem of preparing three satisfactory meals a day requires constant attention.

But for all this, we women are not to be lured or pushed out of the line of home patriots. Hoover has called us, and by him we stand. It does not occur to us to wonder sometimes just what he means; but that is not essential. Ours is not to question why, but to follow his orders. There are not many of them, but if there were thousands we should accept them just the same.

If Hoover can stand corn meal, we can. Though I loathe it, and know others who do, I can swallow a lot of it and not make a face. To keep thinking and saying you do not like corn meal and other substitutes, is a willful, one-sided, childish, weak way of fighting. We must just eat what Hoover permits us, and let the soldiers' foods alone, and there will be less trouble. I wish that a law passed that every woman who complains and makes her family uncomfortable, and every man who enears and is supercilious, could be in the Food Administrator's place for just one day.

We are so fortunate in being allowed such a wide range of substitutes, and if we do not try them all, we are not in a position to say that we have made the best of circumstances.

Desserts are not now considered necessary on the menu, but if they furnish a real food and are made of a substitute, cereal, they belong in the list with rice flour and corn meal, and are in no way to be thought a luxury. The sago and tapioca dishes are good looking and good tasting, and supply some of the elements we miss when we use all brown bread and little wheat.

The quick cooking tapioca comes in packages. Two tablespoons of it, cooked in a quart of milk with eggs and sugar added, will make a dessert for six persons. Dates, raisins, apples and prunes, or any canned fruit, may be used with it, and the dainty thus made into a concentrated food of great value.

The coarser tapioca can be bought in bulk, and seems to have more substance and character than the finer grade. It requires soaking overnight and if you soak it in a cup of fruit juice or in milk, you will find it most delightful.

Tapioca, or sago, with pineapple is an original combination; soak the cup of grain overnight in the liquor from a can of grated pineapple. The morning put the pineapple, a pint of water, a pinch of salt, and sugar to suit your taste in a double boiler. Stir it occasionally while it cooks (so it will not settle) and when the tapioca is clear, add the juice of a lemon. Remove from the fire and when it is cool enough, pour into a glass serving dish and heap the sweetened, stiff whites of two eggs upon it. Serve hot or cold with sauce or with cream and sugar.

Lemon juice or extract is the best liked flavoring to use with tapioca.

BEAUTIFUL TEETH.

No other part of the body can be improved as easily as the teeth. And this, of course, includes the mouth, and often the chin; for the shape of these depends largely upon the formation of the jaw. And frequently the correction of some defect in the teeth improves the shape of the entire face. Sometimes the teeth grow too close together, which means that in time they will overlap, probably in front, and push out the upper or lower lip in a most unbecoming way. Sometimes the eye teeth will grow out from an upper part of the gum, giving a curious look, like fangs, and holding out the lips at the sides. Sometimes, growing in wrong, the teeth make the whole mouth stick out and give the chin a receding look.

These things can be remedied by good dentists. In place of the laced wires, most of the advanced dentists are using little wedges, which are taken out and renewed in varying thicknesses, from time to time. It is remarkable how, by correcting the teeth, and changing ever so slightly the shape of the jaw, the whole expression of the lower face is improved.

Of course, the smile is ruined if it discloses uneven, dark teeth. This is a matter, too, of regular visits to a good dentist. Teeth should never be pulled, if there is the slightest chance of saving them; for empty gums mean sunken cheeks and deep lines at the corners of the mouth, which add years and years to a woman's age.

Which brings us down to the best way of saving the teeth and of keeping them young and beautiful; the twice-a-day brushing, with a good tooth brush, powder or paste, and a mouth wash, are essentials.

Questions and Answers.

Christensen—Unless you want to be foolish, of course, there is only one way to make it darker. This is by using a hair-castor oil especially, which is a tonic, actually makes the hair darker. But you say your hair is already off; how often do you wash with an egg shampoo, each time by rubbing the egg, beaten up into the scalp and letting it dry on. When this is washed off, dandruff comes from the scalp, and the hair is fully clean and making the hair silky and fine. Use an oil tonic, just a little bit, and rub it well into the scalp, and massage the scalp, gently, but thoroughly, with the finger tips, keeping it so it feels loose as you move it over the bone.

As a matter of fact, I don't know if it's patriotic to use castor oil—which is the best oil for the delicate parts of aeroplane engines, and it's very scarce.

CHINA.

China is a large, overgrown lemon entirely surrounded by missionaries. It is the oldest nation on earth, and is thickly crowded with people who need religion and a manure. Several attempts have been made to change the Chinese religion, which consists in worshipping broken-nosed idols, but all have failed, much to the astonishment of Americans who worship money, clothes, society and somebody else's wife.

China is inhabited by a hardy race of people who live on rice and laundry work. Every year China sends to this country thousands of expert laundrymen who speak English on their fingers and compete with the plain laundry. If it were not for this practice thousands of American communities would not know what a Chinaman looks like and would be more inclined to increase their contribution to the foreign missionary movement.

China is very rich in natural resources and every year raises a bumper crop of heathen. It is not a warlike country, and could be overpowered in about thirty minutes by a regiment of German soldiers. At one time China had the growth in population kept so far ahead of the census-takers that it was abandoned. The Chinese of China are opium, rice, superstition and sleep. It grows more sleep to the acre than any other nation, unless it is Spain.

For some time China has been operating as a republic, but a vote of the upper classes was taken recently and it was decided to change back to a monarchy. The Chinese mind prefers a monarchy, as it was never able to get used to the Australian ballot or Working broken-nosed idols, much to the astonishment of Americans, who worship money, clothes, society and somebody else's wife.

The foreign nations have been using China as a meal ticket for several years, coming in through the open door and retiring choked with plunder. Just now Japan is taking a few choice bits of Chinese territory, all of her neighbors being too busy with other matters to protest. Japan will exercise a fatherly care over China, and will see to it that nobody else gets any of her money. This teaches us that there are some things worse than a standing army, with an unprotected hen roost.

Compton may be disappointed in his prospects of succession to the marquisate of Northampton and to the extensive entailed estates through the marriage of his cousin, but Lord Northampton does not seem happy in his matrimonial ventures. He backed out of his first engagement, to Violet Moss, the musical comedy actress, paying her a very large sum of money by way of compensation for her injured feelings, while last year his subsequent engagement to Mrs. Arthur Coke, widow of Lord Leicester's younger son, Lieut. the Hon. Arthur Coke, of the royal navy, was broken off almost on the very eve of the day set for the wedding. It is said that after these two experiences Lord Northampton has definitely made up his mind to live and die a bachelor.

OUR SHORT STORY

SAFETY FIRST.

Myxama Plinth was the blondest and prettiest girl to apply in answer to Gregory Mallov's advertisement for a stenographer, so after mature deliberation, he selected her.

The first morning she reported for work, her employer greeted her with a chuck under the chin and a friendly, "Morning, dearie, make yourself right at home, and if there's any little thing you need that would help you in the work, such as a box of candy or a few orchids, just speak right out."

Then he sat down to look over his mail. The first letter he opened was anonymous. It read:

"Sir: We take this opportunity to inform you that a low down trick is being played on you. Your new stenographer is really a spy in your wife's employ to report all misconduct on your part in your relations to her. A word to the wise, etc.

A Friend."

"Er—ah—er—Miss Plinth," said Mallov, "I—er—er—want to apologize, er—that is to say, explain my greeting to you a little while ago. You see, my attitude of all my stenographers has been one of strictly disinterested business, and I have never tolerated the presence of any girl who—er—expected me to be in the slightest degree—er—personal, in my attitude towards her. Therefore, I always begin by testing every stenographer, and I want to congratulate you, Miss Plinth, on the cool manner in which you have so bravely advanced this morning. Ah—er—"

And he returned to his mail, and Miss Plinth, who in her last three positions had made everything comfortable for herself by working the same little, anonymous note game, merely smiled chillily and sharpened her pencils.

FRIGHTFUL ARC RAY

NEW WEAPON OF WAR

An annihilating enemy trenches with one powerful flash of the Powerful Arc Ray.

From large tractor-type airplanes or from big fighting air-cruisers, the enemy's position would be made unobtainable. The weaker arches thrown from battleplanes would be sufficient to fire an ammunition train, while the strongest ones, if reflected from the big hand batteries, would explode the most carefully protected magazines.

In the following description Mr. Randall paints a vivid picture of what would happen with this machine in action: "In a few moments every enemy airplane or any feet of them—no matter what the numbers—would fall to earth, a crumpled wreck! At the touch of a button, a lance-like bolt of electricity would suddenly shoot forward with inconceivable speed, accompanied by a tremendous clap of thunder. And what a moment before had been a soaring airplane would be a flaming mass, and the next instant, a few charred parts dropping to earth like a burned-out rocket.

"In holes or orators in 'No Man's Land' a scout could lurk with his deadly weapon, concealed by wire with the generators and the concentrators behind his lines. When the enemy charged, he could sweep the whole line as they passed him and annihilate each successive wave of infantry."

Mr. Randall says that few electrical engineers in this country care to declare arbitrarily whether or not all or any part of this can be accomplished, but in this connection he quotes as follows the chief engineer of one of the largest electrical concerns in the world:

"I can't say that I know this has been done or will be done—but I don't dare suggest that it cannot be done. We can reflect light and heat and rays of other kinds—why cannot this too be accomplished?"

"This much we all know—that once this problem is solved there will be no more war. If the Allies were possessed of equipment that would permit the arching at a distance of powerful electric currents the war would march unchallenged into Berlin."

"This much we know, too. War has always been a contest of wits and mechanical genius. Armour was invented to meet the attack of sword and spear, and it was applied to battleships and land vehicles to stop shot and shell; the gas mask was devised to combat the horrors of chlorine; sound detectors and nets to protect ships from submarines, and, so on down the years of military history, each weapon has brought forth another to neutralize the deadly effect of the first. Combined German infriends, and yet not on speaking terms with one another by reason of an ancient feud, though living almost within sight of each other.

Bride's Father Scotch Magnate.

As for Silvia Farquharson, the bride of Capt. Compton and the future Marchioness of Northampton, her father is one of the greatest territorial magnates in Scotland, owning about 150,000 acres. The estates "marry" with those of King George at Balmoral, on the one hand, and with those of Princess Arthur, Duchess of Fife, on the other. In fact, King George holds portions of his great Highland domain at Balmoral not as a freehold, but merely by more or less short leases from Farquharson, Invercauld and by virtue of arrangements made by Queen Victoria with his grandfather when she first established her High-land home at Balmoral. She was wont to complain bitterly that the Farquharsons were greedy and grasping landlords and that each time she made any improvements at her own expense on the leased property they raised the rent on her. Col. Farquharson's father, the late Col. James Farquharson, was particularly independent of the old queen, and his son, the present owner of Invercauld, has followed his example as regards his royal tenants.

Thus, a few years before the late queen died she had a battle royal encounter with Alexander Farquharson, a scion of a stretch of some seven miles of the left bank of the River Dee, together with the fishing of the half of the river. But with the object of securing additional privacy she leased from Farquharson the right of the river as well, thus monopolizing the fishing.

DAUGHTER OF KING GEORGE'S LANDLORD ENGAGED TO WED.

Capt. Edward Robert Compton of the Scots Greys, next heir to the many honors and estates of his cousin, the Marquis of Northampton, has just announced his engagement to the daughter of Col. Alexander Farquharson, of Invercauld, and of Mrs. Farquharson, who was Zoe Musgrave, of the Margraves in Eden Park. Capt. Compton was engaged last year to Lady Angela Forbes' daughter, Marjorie, but the match was broken off in the fall.

Quite recently the fair but fickle Marjorie bestowed her heart and her hand upon Capt. Sir Archibald St. Clair, of the Second Life Guards, whose mother was Miss Mabel Sande of New York, and through whom he is connected with a number of New York families. Sir Archibald makes his home at the Castle of Thurso and owns about 150,000 acres in Scotland. Marjorie Forbes' marriage is now about to be followed by that of her former fiancée, Capt. Compton, to Silvia Farquharson.

Raised Queen's Rent.

One of the South African millionaires—I believe it was the late Bar. say Barnato or his partner and relative, Scaly Joel—offered Farquharson three times the rent paid by her for right bank of the river and for the fishing rights associated therewith. Alexander Farquharson thereupon informed his venerable sovereign that she would have to pay him thenceforth three times as large a rent as she had been paying until then or that he would be compelled to accept the offer of the South African millionaire and to give her notice to quit.

She complained bitterly of such an extortionate raise of rent as this, but ultimately had to give way, with a great deal of reluctance and considerable indignation. There has always seemed something comical in the idea of Alexander Farquharson, who was then a very much younger man than he is today, holding up his aged sovereign for increased rent under a threat of notice to quit.

Castle of Ancient Type.

Invercauld is one of the most beautiful places in Scotland, which has been in the possession of the Farquharsons for considerably more than 500 years, and the deer stalking, grouse shooting and salmon fishing are all excellent. The castle is in old Scottish baronial style, with an immense tower. Of course, it has been considerably modernized by the three last chieftains of the clan.

But the grand old dining hall remains as it was in 1715, when the Jacobite leaders met at Invercauld to arrange their plan of campaign. It was, indeed, on that occasion and from Invercauld castle that the fiery

HOW THE WAR BECAME A BATTLE OF ENGINEERS' BRAINS

By LLOYD C. EDDY, JR.

THIS war is said to be an engineers' war. Few realize that engineering in warfare is a development from past ages. Long before the days of Cyrus, King of Persia, Umlah, King of Judah, used "engines, invented by cunning men, on towers and upon bulwarks, to shoot arrows and great stones." Primitive savages used fortifications and made bricks (or brick and rubble) walls. The walls of Babylon and Nineveh, for instance, were 100 feet high and 33 inches thick. Solid and flanked ramparts were used at a later date.

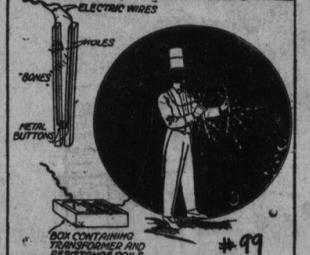

Stones, bows and arrows, darts, etc., were the first weapons. Helms, spears and shields were used in Babylonia before 4000 B. C. Then appeared battle axes, battering rams, catapults, etc. In Elshah's time the Israelites used slings and they "beat down the cities and on every good piece of land cast every man his stone and filled it, and they stopped all the wells of water, and felled all the good trees; only in Kirharsath left they the stones thereof; howbeit the slingers went about it and smote it." In the time of Saul there were "valiant men able to bear buckler and sword, and to shoot with bow." About the 10th century B. C. iron began to displace copper and bronze for tools and weapons. During the siege of Syracuse Archimedes invented engines of war which terrified the Romans.

In Caesar's Commentaries (Book VIII), we read that Caesar ordered his camp to be fortified with a rampart 12 feet high, with breastworks built on it proportional to its height, and two trenches, each 15 feet broad, with perpendicular sides to be sunk. Likewise he ordered several towers, three stories high, to be raised, with a communication to each other by galleries laid across and covered over, which should be guarded in front by small parapets of osiers that the enemy might be repulsed by two rows of soldiers the one of whom, being more secure from danger by their height, might throw their darts with more daring and to a greater distance. The other row, which was nearer the enemy, being stationed on the rampart.

REMEMBER the last minstrel show you saw, when the "end men" rattled their "bones" so delightfully? Sure you do! Well the end men of the next minstrel performance you witness may spring a novel surprise on you, for a New York inventor, Mr. Samuel Sussman, has patented a new kind of electric, fire-spitting "bones," which give promise of being a real novelty in the hands of a good minstrel.

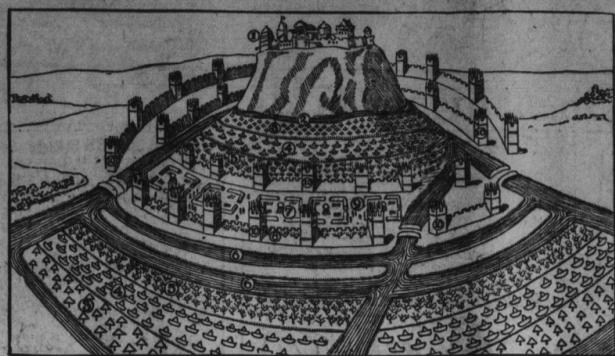

How this invention produces a dramatic lighting effect in addition to the rhythmic sounds produced by the performer with the bones and synchronous with the movement of the same is described as follows in the Electrical Experimenter: Two electric wires connect with two elongated parts made of bone or ebony or some such hard substance. Through the centre of these are holes drilled part of the way through for the insertion of wires. At or near to one end of each of the bones and at one side of each, are attached metal spark electrodes. To each of these metal parts is attached one end of a wire. A suitable portable box is provided in which would be protected by their galleries from darts falling on their heads. At the entrance he erected gates and turrets of a considerable height, as shown in the illustration.

Gunpowder consisting of a mechanical mixture of sulphur, charcoal and saltpetre is believed to have been used by the Chinese long before its appearance in Europe during the 14th century. Smokeless powder was adopted about the year 1886. During the latter part of the French revolution both hydrogen gas and fire balloons were used for reconnoitering. Many remarkable descents were made in parachutes. Recent developments in aviation eclipses all that has preceded.

Since the Franco-Prussian war there have been many improvements in arms. There is now an abundance of death-dealing devices such as winged torpedoes, automatic machine guns firing 1000 bullets a minute, mines, poisonous gases and grenades. Armored tanks and machine diggers do the work of several hundred men.

Transportation of troops and supplies is greatly facilitated by railroads, bridges and motor trucks. There are mobile batteries and tractors for bad roads. Searchlights, describable more than 90 miles away, set paper alight at a distance of 250 feet. Wireless signals sometimes direct the operations of the men in front line trenches; some of the wireless receivers used in French trenches are sufficiently sensitive to receive time signals from Washington through three-inch quick-fire guns, six-inch howitzers or mortars, illuminate the battlefield for 30 minutes. The art of camouflage makes troops and camps invisible to airplanes or armies of the enemy. Range finding is an exact science. The introduction of expensive guns and engineering devices has greatly increased the cost of war. But a small force of modern engineers could probably destroy the entire army that Xerxes led from Persia into Greece in a short time.

HOW HORSES GO TO SLEEP

HORSES seldom lie down to sleep. Throughout their entire lives most of them sleep while standing on their feet. The reason for this is believed to be that the horses are afraid that an insect might crawl into their nostrils. This is a very likely explanation when it is considered that a horse's nostrils are the most sensitive part of his body. If the insect could not be removed, it could easily irritate a horse to death. Many horses will not lie down because they have once been "foundered," that is, unable to get up unassisted.

Another curious fact about a sleeping horse is that he seems always to keep his facilities working. His ears, for instance, keep constantly twitching, and he seems to hear the slightest noise. Because of this, it would probably be impossible for a man to enter a stable quietly enough to prevent his waking up every horse in it. Horses act peculiarly also in time of fire. They will hurry to death rather than rush out from the stable.

BORN BLIND OR GOING BLIND---WHICH IS LESSER MISFORTUNE?

AT the present time the attention of the public is turned toward that section of itself known as the blind community, to an extent hitherto undreamed of, and, in consequence, a number of problems have arisen in the public mind concerning matters relating to the blind. By no means the least interesting of these is the much-discussed question as to which is preferable -- to be born blind or to lose one's sight in later life.

The man who is born blind develops his other senses to a degree that seems almost uncanny to sighted people. His hearing forms one of the principal channels through which he obtains knowledge of what is taking place around him.

The slightest variation in sound conveys a wealth of information to him, because he learns to associate these sounds with their origin and the manner in which they are produced. For shape and texture he depends upon his touch, and the touch of a man who has never had sight is wonderfully sensitive and delicate.

To find his way about he depends upon his senses of direction and obstacle, which have become highly developed owing to the fact that he has always been entirely dependent upon them. For that part of his education which can be derived from books he depends on Braille.

The man who has never seen has no conception of color, and although he will refer to the various colors, they are to him but meaningless expressions. He is also quite unable to visualize great spaces, such as the sea, or an open moor. To him is denied the grandeur of wild and rugged scenery, the glory of the setting sun, the beauty of a flower garden in summer, and so on ad infinitum. He can never realize what these things are and can derive no real pleasure from them.

So much depends upon the wisdom of those responsible for his upbringing, unless he is encouraged to think and act for himself, he lacks independence, possesses no initiative, no sense of responsibility, and his character will be apt to become weak and his mental development stunted and cramped. It is often stated that he cannot miss his sight, because he has never known the true meaning of it. This is only a half truth, however, because he realizes very acutely that he is deficient of something that prevents him from entering into the work and pleasures of those around him.

The man who has lost his sight after reaching manhood has, needless to say, to be at a disadvantage as compared with his comrade who has never seen. His hearing is by no means so acute, his touch is usually heavy and far from being sensitive, and he will need patience and tenacity of purpose to develop these senses to the same degree. He is also very much at a disadvantage when finding his way about, especially for the first few months. He has been so accustomed to rely upon his sight that he has not trained his other senses to assist him in this direction.

He has, however, one asset which more than compensates for the slight disadvantages shown in the previous paragraphs; this lies in his memory, which is a veritable mine of treasures. By making comparisons with the things he has seen he is able readily to grasp details of new objects from the descriptions supplied by his friends.

Why FISH as a FOOD Really Should Be Classed with MEATS

THE necessity of restricting the use of meat in its various forms in practically all parts of the world now involved in warfare has directed attention more forcibly than ever before to fish as sources of human food. The response has been prompt. Long known species of fish have attained a sudden popularity, and new ones have been brought into dietary prominence. Furthermore, fish have been made available either in fresh or preserved form where they were formerly obtained with difficulty. Friday no longer offers the only opportunity to eat fish. Every day is fish day nowadays.

Although the reputation of fish, as a class, for suitability as a food has come to be fairly satisfactory," says a writer in the Journal of The

Is the Earth Now Getting Warmer?

SCIENTISTS claim the earth is becoming warmer. It is said that explorers of the antarctic regions have established the fact that the great cap of ice over the south pole is shrinking. This means, according to Dr. Marsden Manson of San Francisco, that the gradual disappearance of the age of ice is still going on, the polar ice-caps being the existing remnant of a great ice sheet that once covered a large part of the earth's habitable surface. This would indicate that the forces that caused the ice age to disappear are still at work, that if the antarctic continent is being slowly uncovered, a new habitable region will ultimately be offered to the human race.

"The importance of this to the world's future history can scarcely be overestimated," writes Dr. Manson in Science. "Recent antarctic explorations and researches have yielded significant evidence regarding the problems of the ice age and of the similarity of the succession of geological climates in polar with those in other latitudes."

"The data secured by these expeditions are alone sufficient to establish the following premises:

"1. That Antarctic ice, although covering areas several times larger than all other ice-covered areas, is slowly decreasing in extent and depth.

"2. That the same succession of geological climates has prevailed in antarctic as in other latitudes.

"This impressive and conclusive evidence is corroborated by the greater and still more impressive evidences of the comparatively recent uncovering of temperate land areas, and the progressive retreat of the snowline to higher elevations in temperate and tropical latitudes and toward the poles at sea-level, being far greater in arctic than in antarctic regions. We are therefore confronted with the conclusions:

"1. That the disappearance of the ice age is an active present process and must be accounted for by activities and energies now at work, and that the use of assumptions and hypotheses is not permissible.

"2. That the rates and lines of retreat are and have been determined by exposure to solar energy and the temperatures established thereby; and by the difference in the specific heat of the land and water hemispheres.

"3. That the lines of the disappearance of ice are not conformable with those of its deposition, and mark a distinctly different exposure and climatic control from that which prevailed prior to the culmination of the ice age.

"4. This retreat also marks a rise in mean surface temperature along these new lines, manifestly due to recently inaugurated exposure to solar radiation and also the inauguration of the trapping of heat derived from such exposure; which process is cumulative and has a maximum not yet reached."

Many PECULIARITIES of MARTIAN CALENDAR

IN discussing periodic phenomena observed on the surface of Mars it is desirable to have some way of recording their time of occurrence with respect to the Martian year and seasons. A Martian calendar proposed a few years ago by Prof. Douglass of the Lowell Observatory divided the planet's year into 365 parts, corresponding to 365 equal angular divisions of its orbit, but to unequal periods of time, owing to the eccentricity of the orbit. A somewhat different calendar is described by Prof. W. H. Pickering in his "Tenth Report on Mars."

A Martian year is about 687 terrestrial days in length, but contains only 685.6 Martian solar days, as Mars has a slightly longer period of rotation than the earth. In order to avoid the complication of leap years, Prof. Pickering ignores the solar day, by which an inhabitant of Mars would presumably regulate his daily life and set his clocks. For the purposes of the calendar the planet's year is divided into exactly 689 parts or calendar days, the length of one of which is about 53 seconds less than that of the Martian solar day. These calendar days begin all over the planet at the same time. The year is divided into 12 months, named to correspond with our own. The first nine months contain 56 Martian days, and the last three 55. The date depends upon the longitude of the sun as seen from Mars. Thus it is Aug. 55 in Mars every time the sun's longitude is 159 deg. The terrestrial date corresponding to the same solar longitude is Sept. 1.

COTTON and EXPLOSIVES

SOME striking facts regarding cotton in its relationship to the manufacture of high explosives were recently given by Sir William Ramsay. In the first place it should be explained that gun-cotton is really cotton waste, carefully cleaned, combed, and dried, soaked in one part nitric acid to three parts sulphuric acid. It is afterward dried and pressed into cakes. It is employed in both a wet and dry condition, the former, with 30 per cent. of water added, being much safer to handle.

Sir William Ramsay points out that there is no adequate substitute for cotton for propulsive ammunition. Other substances have been tried—wood, hemp, straw and other material with woody fibres. But they have not the propulsive power of cotton. To propel as far with woody materials would need a large charge, which would entail the enlargement of the barrel of every gun and rifle.

The expenditure of ammunition in this war is unprecedented. At a conservative estimate, Germany requires 1000 tons of cotton a day. A whole bale of cotton is required to fire one of their big guns, or for every 50,000 rounds of rifle ammunition. The total cotton stocks in Germany at the outbreak of the war was estimated at 250,000 tons. This would have carried on the war for 250 days, or about eight months, had cotton, in the opinion of experts, been made available at the beginning of the war.

Food Values of Meat and Poultry Compared with Those of Fish.

On an average, fish contain more than 15 per cent. of protein, and about 4 per cent. of fat. Generalizing from these data, it has been pointed out that fish may be divided on the basis of their fat content into three classes: Those with more than 5 per cent. of fat, such as shad, salmon, butterfish and herring; those containing from 2 to 5 per cent. of fat, such as whitefish, halibut and pollock; and those containing less than 2 per cent. of fat, such as bluefish, haddock and cod.

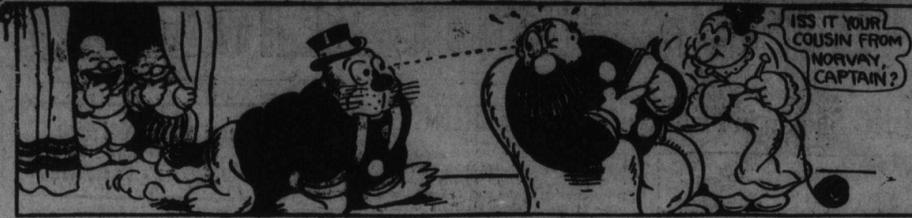

Were it not for the confusion that still seems to prevail among many persons—even among physicians, in whom it is less excusable—regarding the position of fish in the classes of foods, it would seem ridiculous to make reference to the matter here. As Holmes has summarized the facts: It is evident that fish, like meat, may contribute materially to the fat of the diet, particularly if the fattier varieties are eaten. On the basis of the protein that they supply they also resemble meat, and this is true, too, with respect to the ways in which they are used in the diet. Accordingly, fish should be considered as a protein food and classed with the meats."

What MAKES You LAUGH When You Are TICKLED

THE habit of tickling is supposed to be somewhat dangerous, according to physicians. The ticklish areas are located over the least protected parts of the body, where delicate vital organs are to be protected. The reason for the ticklishness is that the skin is highly sensitive there and "aware" of intrusion, as a means of protection from possible injury.

This sensitiveness, or awareness, the physicians say, is a relic of the days when man's prehistoric ancestors had to guard their lives constantly against creeping insects and the heavy penetrating pressure of animals' teeth. This is why, according to this theory, the tickle reflex is elicited principally by a light running motion over the skin and by sudden prods.

The reaction, in this age, is a violent discharge of energy in the form of laughter and efforts to be free. But it is easy to imagine the shrieks of terror or pain that might have been the forerunner of the laughter. Humanity takes ages to outgrow its prohibitive impulses.
