At Her Majesty asked if she might inspect the soldiers' guard-room, and the ranger at soldiers' guard-room, and the ranger at once conducted the Queen into the room, which, of course, was at that time unoccupied, except by the two men whose turn it was to cook their comrades' dinner, and by another Highlander. The visit of Her Majesty took these three soldiers by surprise: indeed, one of the cooks, hearing that Her Majesty had left the Palace, and wishing to catch a sight of her, was in the act of rushing out of the door when Her Majesty entered. Both cooks had divested themselves of their jackets, and with their shirt sleeves tucked up, they felt rather taken a back. Her Majesty first took notice of the stalwart Highlander, in full.

Pope had forwarded his blessing on Saturtaken a back. Her Majesty first took notice of the stalwart Highlander, in full dress, and graciously addressed him, inquiring his name and birthplace' as also the length of time he had been in the army. The man answered the Queen's inquiries, and modestly stated that he had been 20 years in Her Gracious Majesty's service. Her Majesty took note of and examined the four medals which decorated the stalwart fellow's breast—these being the Crimean medal, with the clasps, for Alma, Sebastopol and Balaklava; the Indian medal, the

She asked if the benches were the sleeping places of the men, and on being answered in the affirmative, the Queen was pleased to state that the whole place was clean and tidy. Her Majesty then advanced and spoke to the cooks—Grant and Wilson by name. She watched their operations a few moments. Wilson, who on the entrance of Her Majesty had been making a practical experiment as to whether the potatoes he was cooking were sufficiently boiled, was rather put about; and he could only Tay down his "dist-clout," touch his forage-cap, and in reply to Her Majesty's question, stammer out with great difficulty, "potatoes, your Majesty." To J. & S. LEONARD, and all concerned tempted to to jure me. by publishing your spite ful "Caution" in yesterday's Teterroph on Journal, I request your attention to the following statement of Acts, and the succeeding queries, which I publish for general information quite content to abide the public verdict.

In July last, I had occasion to go over to Digby on business. At that time there were several vessels at anchor in the harbor, lades with coal, and waiting for berths to discharge; one of them being the vessel in which J. & S. Leonard were to a very small extent interested and there were also two coal ships discharging in Walker's Slip. Before leaving St. John follows, in the series of any such Vessel to come into the Sip astern of any vessel then being there, or to make fast to the stern of any such Vessel; because any such Vessel amaged as they allege, also cautioned them in the same manner. Yet, in spite of these warnings, they persisted in bringing their Vessel into the Slip, astern of another Vessel, and thus willfully courted the danger and damage of which they had been thoroughly forewarned. Now, it is remarkable, that no claim against me for damage to their ship was ever made by J. & S. L. till yesterday, the 16th September, fully two months after the courrence when I sent in my Bill for Wharfage dues, amounting to some $12 or $13; upon which the fait J. & S. L. for the first time set up a claim of Set off for the damage to their ship was ever maker, therefore, to their malevolent "Caution" is that any damage occurring to their ship in July last, was entirely owing to their ship in July last, was entirely owing to their ship in July last, was entirely owing to their ship in July last, was entirely owing to their on the pic hand. which Mr. B. COMPOUND On SATURDAY, the fifth day of Ootober next, at 12 o'clock, noon, at Chubb's Corner (so-called), in the City of St. John, in the Province of New Brunswick; JUST RECEIVED-A large lot of CONCER TINAS, VIOLINS, FLUTES, DRUMS, &C. No. 9 North Market Wharf. by me and those in my employ, to prevent the mischief which J. & S. Leonard, like wilful fools, ran their thick heads into. I would, in conclusion, ask J. & S. L. why they never stirred his ridiculous claim for damages for before the 16th of September, about two months after the occurrence, when they found themselves called upon to pay my kittle bill; and why they abandoned their contemptible claim when they found I was determined to resist it? I would ask them, also, why they consider it necessary to publish their jessifical and casuistical "Caution" to the whole world, when it is ottensibly meant only to refer to "Mesters and Mates of Vessels in which we [they] are interested;" inasmuch as they could have given private instructions to such Masters and Mates, as they had a perfect right to doi without insinuating a general caution to the public at large to avoid using Walker's Slip.

Messrs. J. & S. Leonard may think themselves very clever in the adroit manner in which they have spitefully endeavored to injure me; but as their libellous "caution" may influence some weak minds besides their own "Masters and Mates," and thus cause me pecuniary loss, I hereby give them public notice [or "caution"] that I will hold them legally liable in damages for every dollar which I may hereafter lose, in consequence of the publication of their sneaking "Cautton."

Th. de Sausure, and are now able to furnish some further details.

Professor Soret, in delivering a most interesting report, based in review the operations of the Industrial section, in reference to Commerce, laying great stress apon the competition that has taken place in the manufacture of chronometers. This competition was instituted with the object of testing the workmanship and precision of chronometers turned out by Gere vese manufacturers and none but those adopted for pocket use were admitted. They were depoited in charge of the authorities at the Observatory, and underwent the most searching ordeal possible to be applied to pocket instruments of this class. The jury specially retained to decide the difficult question as to whom to award the paim of a coelioney unanimously decided in favor of Messra. J. M. Badollet & Co. This firm having carried off the sole prize by exhibiting a chronometer which fulfilled in the highest degree every condition required, crowned their first success by gaining honorable mention for two other chronometers. The allusion to this triple honor was received with enthusiasic applicance of the soles of the sole prize by exhibiting a chronometer which fulfilled in the highest degree every condition required, crowned their first success by gaining honorable mention for two other chronometers.
