"IT SAVED ME DOLLARS."

Forcible Words from an Honest Man Interesting Experience of a Milstream Blacksmith—A Happy, Well Man.

"If you are the boss I'd like to talk with you?" These were the words of Mr.
E. I. Ellison, who called at our office yesterday, without invitation of anyone, prompted only by a thankful heart.
He addressed the manager of the Grocer Co., with above words. Finding he was right he continued: "I consulted a physician for CHRONIC DIARRHOEA, from which I suffered all summer. Somehow he did not help me. Just then I saw a testimonial from a man I knew, who had been cured by your remedy. We got a bottle on curing. Now I'm all right; can eat, sleep, work, and enjoy life. Guess it saved me a large doctor's bill; and I know that that's cured. Took less than three bottles, and my case was a very bad one."

Such words come from the heart. Such a willing does good to other sufferers.

The Vicar of Cropedy, an Oxford-attached to the church door with regard to rice-throwing at weddings: "It is particularly requested that no rice be thrown at the conclusion of weddings when the bride and bridegroom leave the church.

The bride's home, and not the church, is the right place for obnoxious which has no connection with the religious ceremony, and is sometimes a cause of disorder and irreverence."—South Bucks

A German in China.

HE IS ONE OF LI HUNG CHANG'S MOST TRUSTED ADVISERS.

One of the most interesting figures in the conflict between China and Japan is the German, Constantine von Hanneken, who has long played a prominent part in the Flowery Kingdom. His life was almost miraculously spared when the K'w-Shing was sunk a few weeks ago.
The early part of Hanneken's life was prosperous enough. He was born in Wiede-n, in 1854, the son of the late Lieut.
Colonel von Hanneken, and took the usual course of officers' sons. After serving a year or two in the German infantry he resigned and became a bank clerk in his native town. In 1879, an old friend of the family, who had long been in China and knew Li Hung Chang well, induced him to go to China. There he was introduced to the viceroy, who, being favorably impressed, appointed him military instructor.
He became a master of the Chinese language in a year and could read and write it almost perfectly. Then he was indispensable to Li Hung Chang, who made him his adjutant, gave him a large salary and showered honors upon him.
Despite the intrigues of jealous Chinese he retained his place and the confidence of his chief. His influence soon spread; he advanced from rank to rank until he was finally appointed commander-in-chief of the northern army by the emperor himself. As proof of his great energy, he successfully built the war harbor of Port Arthur, although he had never made a special study of engineering.
In 1887 he returned to Europe for a year, owing to illness. Upon going back to China he found that his enemies had been successful and had brought him into disfavor. But he disproved the accusations against him and regained his former place. But he became tired of the continued intrigues and in 1893 he resigned. His resignation was accepted with regret. He went back to Europe and sailed last June, again landing there in time to offer his services to Li Hung Chang.

Von Hanneken is a man of medium height, broad shoulders, and a pair of blue eyes. He wears a pointed beard and may be called a good-looking man. His house in Peking has always been one of the most popular in China among foreigners, and although he is not married, he has entertained lavishly. He is now a man of considerable wealth.—New York Tribune.

Stilish But Not Healthful.

New York Press.

A chubby little lady, with several inches of brown hair leg between the top of his stocking and the bottom of his knee breeches, passed before the window of my book-maker on Broadway.
He was led by his nurse, and had evidently spent a summer in the country.
He looked like a child who had been born well and had been taken the best of care of ever since. My book maker pointed him out mournfully and thus expressed himself:
"If this child doesn't die of consumption before he is 12 years old he will grow up to be a gouty young man and probably die of apoplexy. Nothing is good for a child of that age than bare legs at any time, particularly in the autumn. That's the way fashion kills off its victims. Every child should wear boots, I mean boots with laces on them, reaching up nearly to the knee, and for the matter of that, so should every man I have worn boots all my life, both in summer and winter, and I have also seen experiments made by turning a draft of cold air upon the legs of men who were asleep. The effect is the same as when a wet blanket is applied to the feet of a sleeping man. It chills the stomach, congests the brain and generally disorganizes the system. The man who wears high-topped boots lengthens his life by ten years and a bare-legged child is doomed to an early grave."

The College Woman Again.
In his sensible and unprejudiced book on "The College Woman," Prof. Thwing recounts the whole story and answers all criticisms in his final paragraph.
"The excellence of the womanhood which the college trains is the ultimate and supreme test of the worth of the college. The type of character which it forms and the influence of this type are now becoming revealed. The woman's college is not to introduce a new type, the early years that moulded her would supplant, womanliness in the graduate have been proved groundless. The early years, too, that educated women would prefer to enter professional rather than domestic life have vanished. So long as the family is the unit of civilization, so long will most women prefer to be at the head of a home to being at the head of any professional or commercial undertaking. And all the acquired knowledge, all the force of disciplined character, which the college may have contributed, will find in the home fitting opportunities for use."

—The death of James Anthony Froude deprives English literature of a most profiteable author, who has been almost constantly at work book-making for half a century. He is most widely known in England for his earnest effort to whitewash the memory of Henry VIII., the unfortunate king who had such bad luck in his wives; while in this country he will be chiefly remembered for his lecture on the French Revolution, in which he is not only a more or less of the relations between England and Ireland.
His history of England has been spoken of as brilliant as a novel and about as trustworthy, a criticism more aptly applied than just.

—The French actress, Mme. Rejane, is now setting the fashions in Paris having dejected the divine if somewhat heretic Sarah Bernhardt in this regard.
Rejane's hair is of a slightly brighter red than mahogany, and Parisian fashions are beginning to take on this hue. Rejane is plump, too, which doubtless accounts for the fact that the heretofore followers of the slim Sarah are beginning to eat again.

—The flash of lightning which recently struck the new palace of Potsdam may be congratulated on a measure of safety and consideration seldom seen in connection with the electric fluid. Having greatly endangered the safety of the royal building, the current instantly hurried along the telegraph wires to the fire alarm and set the bells ringing.
Through the palace from the town and upon the spot and the fire was nipped in the bud.

—The department of Greek and Roman antiquities of the British museum has recently bought one of the choicest examples of ancient art, in solid gold, that is to be found in any collection. It is a vase of absolutely pure gold, without impurities, measuring nearly eight inches in height and about four inches in diameter. It is of Roman origin, perhaps of the period of Augustus. An inscription on the bottom of the vessel indicates that its weight nearly corresponds to two pounds of Troy of the modern scale. It was lately found by a sponge diver in the sea off the island of Samos, and may be all that remains of a vessel which occurred there nearly 2,000 years ago.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Every Japanese barracks has a gymnasium, and the Japanese soldiers rank among the best gymnasts in the world.
In half a minute they can scale a 14-foot wall by simply bounding on each other's shoulders one man supporting two or three others.

—A Fort Madison, Ia., doctor has a gold watch that was worn by Edgar A.
Poe, whose name is engraved on the case, and which Poe gave to a Philadelphia tailor named Albright, to whom he became indebted.

—There is a monastery at St. Honor-at, on an island near Cannes, France, which was built in the fourth century.
No woman has ever been allowed to enter its walls during the 1,400 years of its existence.

—A married couple in Sawada, Japan, according to a native paper—the father 132 years old and the mother 138—have a family of fourteen, including a son aged 105, and a daughter 108.

—A curious find has just been made in Aberdeen. A short time ago the repositories of a deceased lady were being overhauled, and a cheque signed "Walter Scott," and dated "Aberdeen, 21 October, 1824," was discovered.
The amount is for twenty-five pounds, and it is drawn on the Leith Banking company. With other effects of the deceased lady, the cheque has found its way to the Aberdeen Auction company, by whom it will be sold.

—A man in Germany recently bought 1000 cigars and had them insured against fire. Then he smoked them and demanded the amount of his policy from the insurance company. The company refusing to pay it, he brought suit and got a verdict.

—A piece of iron has been found in an air chamber of the great pyramid.
It is believed to have been there 4,000 years.

—Twenty years ago southern planters paid men to haul away cotton seed and burn it. Now they get from $6 to $8 a ton for it.

—The conquest of Egypt by the Saracens deprived Egypt of papyrus, and caused the destruction of innumerable ancient works, the writing of which was scratched out that the parchment might be used again.

—Many Chinese temples are provided with a bell at the entrance and when the worshippers enter he gives the rope pull and rings the bell in order that the deity may be notified of his coming and be on hand to attend to his business.

—A prairie about one mile wide.
Likewise about one mile long. This is square. At the northeast corner, speeding toward the northwest corner, appeared a woman in a buggy. To the buggy was attached a horse. At the southwest corner, speeding toward the southeast corner, appeared a woman on a bicycle.
The watching angels shuddered at the thought of the coming collision. But it was inevitable, for the prairie was only a mile wide.—Ex.

—The bees of Brazil hang their combs outside in the branches of trees at the very summit and at the end of the slenderest twigs, to be out of the reach of monkeys.

—A cable record has been made by the sending of a message from Hyde Cross, near Manchester, to Victoria, British Columbia, and the receipt of the reply—all within 90 seconds. The distance by wire out and return is 18,000 miles.

—The Salvation Army has taken up "living pictures" as a means to an end.
In Chicago they are presenting a series at their meetings. The first one is the drunkard's home, called "Hell in a Cottage," then follows one in which the "Army" goes to the rescue, after which is shown the happy home in which is the drunkard reformed. The audience approves each picture wildly.

—At the celebration of last Fourth of July in Reading, Pa., a citizen touched off a skyrocket. The descending stick struck in its course a young lady, penetrating the joint of her elbow, inflicting a painful wound, for which a jury says she is entitled to $1,500 damages.

—At one of the Washington hotels there are special sets of "Honeycomb Appartments," each one of which is fitted up to suit a peculiar type of color Blonde, brunette, or nut-brown brides, are thus specially catered for.

—A colony, as far as practicable on the line of Mr. Bellamy, is to be started at Berkeley, Mass. To begin with two thousand acres of land are to be bought and upon this estate houses, factories, schools and libraries will be put up and industries started as development progresses and the grand colony which is to have the control decrees. There is to be no pay roll in the ordinary sense, but everybody is to receive the same reward for his or her labor as laid down in Bellamy's famous book, by a standard token, not transferable. Hiring or working for wages for one another will be forbidden, all work being done under a "superintendent," and all goods distributed by the company. The membership fee will be $50. The experiment will be watched with interest.

Personals.

—At a recent wedding in Mokane, Mo., the groom's name was Abraham Lincoln Strickland and that of the officiating clergyman was Jefferson Davis Greer.

—Two nieces of Kosciuszko—patriot of Poland, friend of America and aide upon Washington's staff during the Revolution —are living in advanced age and great poverty, one at Krakow, and the other at Dresden.

—The most curious paper weight in the world belongs to the Prince of Wales.
It is the mummified hand of one of the daughters of Pharaoh.

—H. W. Young, of Augusta, Ill., owns a Bible that was printed in the year 1615.
It is believed to be the oldest Bible in America.

—In his lecture about himself and his career in literature Conan Doyle tells his audience that during the ten first years that he was engaged in story writing, he did not earn more than $250 during any one year with his pen.

—Every Friday the Duchess D'Uzes, the wealthiest woman in France, puts on the ordinary dress of a nurse, and, going to the cancer hospital, acts as one of the regular attendants, placing herself entirely under the orders of the superior tendant.

—The mother-in-law of the Mikado of Japan was recently ill, and though having 425 physicians in attendance, yet she recovered. A Buddhist priest said that the cause of her illness was the introduction of railways!

—Professor W. S. Wyman, of the University of Alabama, doubts the common explanation of the letters O. K. which is to the effect that they were President Andrew Jackson's abbreviation for "all correct." He thinks that Jackson borrowed the phrase from the Choctaw language, in which the word "okeh" means "it is all right."

—The Rev. Dr. Arbutnot, vicar of Stratford-on-Avon, says that his old church is in much the same state as it was in Shakespeare's time. Of the few genuine relics of the dramatist preserved in his native town the most interesting are his signet ring, with the initials "W. S." on it, and the desk at which he sat in the grammar school of Stratford. The average number of visitors to the poet's home and church is 25,000 a year, of whom 6,000 are Americans.

—The grave of Eve is visited by 400, 000 pilgrims each year. It is to be seen at Jeddah, in a cemetery outside the city walls. The tomb is fifty cubits long and twelve wide. The Arabs entertain a belief that Eve was the tallest woman who ever lived.—Chicago Interior.

—Lady Henry Somerset tells a Boston reporter:—"I feel that women here are making great progress, and the outlook is most promising, yet we shall have full suffrage in England before you see, as ready women have all votes except the parliamentary, and that is in the near future."

—The youngest son of President Garfield, who was graduated from Williams College in 1893, is now coaching the football team of that college.

—Bismarck has fought in twenty duels and has been wounded once. And even that was through an accident, his adversary's sword flying from his handle and cutting his face.

—Gen. Booth, of the Salvation Army has six children engaged in the great work he has in hand, and they are clever sensible, eloquent and earnest enough to do credit to his training.

—Dr. James B. Cooke, a successful Boston, physician, is, perhaps, the only man in the country, who, though blind from infancy, took up the study of medicine and excelled in its practice.

—Gen. Sir William Opherts, V. C. is the possessor of a unique sobriquet. The manner in which he obtained it shows the kind of metal of which the fine old hero is made. At the time he was serving before Lucknow he was dashing, daring captain. He was told that one of his guns would burst if it were served with another shell like the last. But a nother shell was necessary, and Opherts was determined it should be fired. His gunners hesitated, and without another word the captain seated himself astride the gun "Arab, ye devils," said he, "will ye fire now?" They did: the gun did not burst; and the captain dismounted the cheers of his men. This is how the general is known unto this day as "Hell-fire Dick," but why "Dick" instead of "Bill" that, however, must be asked the soldiers.—London Leader.

deprives English literature of a most pro-
fiteable author, who has been almost constantly at work book-making for half a
wash the memory of Henry VIII., the
will be chiefly remembered for his lecture on the French Revolution, in which he
relations between England and Ireland.
trustworthy, a criticism more aptly applied than just.

—The French actress, Mme. Rejane,
is now setting the fashions in Paris hav-
etic Sarah Bernhardt in this regard.
Rejane's hair is of a slightly brighter red
again.

safety and consideration seldom seen in connection with the electric fluid. Hav-
fire alarm and set the bells ringing.
upon the spot and the fire was nipped in
the bud.

—The department of Greek and
has recently bought one of the choicest
examples of ancient art, in solid gold,
that is to be found in any collection. It
is a vase of absolutely pure gold, with-
out impurities, measuring nearly eight
in diameter. It is of Roman origin, perhaps of the period of Augustus. An
indicates that its weight nearly corre-
sponge diver in the sea off the island of
vessel which occurred there nearly 2,000 years ago.

How often we here remark "What is there to be done any way in temperance work? We would gladly help if there is anything we could do." For those who believe in temperance work along the line of moral suasion the following suggestion made to a Christian Endeavor temperance committee by Frances Willard may furnish some methods unthought of before, and certainly not too difficult for earnest men and women to carry out. We clip out these suggestions and pass them on to the readers of the Women's Column.

The Succession Tax.

The succession duties legislation of the Bistur government is again before the court for interpretation. The point already decided by the court was that where the estate was over $50,000 and less than $200,000, any legacy less than $50,000 did not pay duty. This curious result arises from the legislation, that if a man was kind enough to leave his son $49,999 the son took the whole of it; but if he was so thoughtless as to leave him $50,001, the government appropriated $2,500 and all the legatee got was $47,499. The argument in the Bistur case reveals a lot of other absurdities. If the above estate a legacy of $50,000 went to a son he paid $2,500 tax to the government; it now turns out that if it goes to a grandson he pays nothing. Again if a man took the legacy of $10,000 on an estate worth $50,000 he has to pay a tax to government of $125. But if he took the legacy where the estate was worth $200,000 he would have to pay a tax of $500. It seems tolerably clear by the act as first passed that the legatee pays the duty in all cases but by the amending act of '93, Mr. Blair makes it doubtful whether the legatees or the executors pay the duty. The Senator bequeathed $10,000 to Mrs. Parsons his step daughter who is now living in New York with her husband and if she has to pay the taxes to the government she will be obliged to hand over to the receiver General $2,000 out of the $10,000, and if she is not to pay the duty the residuary legatees will have to pay it for her. Mrs. Bastedo who resides in the province of Quebec has a legacy of about $6,750 and if she has to pay the taxes she will have to hand about $1,350 of this amount to help run Mr. Blair's government. Mrs. Parsons' lawyers contend that the act is so stupidly drawn that she is included under the term legatees and that neither she nor the estate pays any tax on her legacy. Mrs. Bastedo has retained counsel and she puts forward the contention that the act does not apply to her and the government gets nothing. Meantime in addition to the huge steals that the government will probably make out of the Bistur estate the poor residuary legatees who are all nephews and nieces of the Senator will be mulcted in hundreds of dollars of costs in the vain endeavor to hammer out sense from the government's stupidity. The widowed estate pays any tax on her legacy. Mrs. Bastedo has retained counsel and she puts forward the contention that the act does not apply to her and the government gets nothing. Meantime in addition to the huge steals that the government will probably make out of the Bistur estate the poor residuary legatees who are all nephews and nieces of the Senator will be mulcted in hundreds of dollars of costs in the vain endeavor to hammer out sense from the government's stupidity. The widowed estate pays any tax on her legacy.

The above explanation shows the extreme vanity and vexation of spirit connected with the accumulation of wealth in New Brunswick. If there is a moral to be drawn from this, a man should use his money while it is his. It is better to squander for one's own enjoyment than to accumulate for the travelling expenses of Messrs. Blair and Tweedie.

QUERY.—What steps are the trustees in School District No. 11 taking, to bring about an investigation into the cause of the late fire?

The Transcript is suffering from an attack of nervous excitement over some articles that lately appeared in the Post, as if this paper has not always exercised its undoubted right to be independent in its utterances whether right or wrong. Hide bound partyism hardly takes root in speaking and no doubt the Post's utterances strikes the Transcript as being as surprising as irrational, but the Tory party is one founded and knit together by a fixed policy and principles, and not by slavish servitude to any man. The Transcript and it encourages freedom of thought and expression. It is a hundred fold more interested to the Tory party than the Editor of the Transcript says and does. The normal strength of the Conservative party in this constituency is between 600 and 700 majority, but at the last election with the very valuable and able assistance rendered by the editor of that paper both with his pen and on the platform, with his weight and convincing arguments the majority rose to over 2,000 votes. If the Transcript uses arguments equally able and convincing at the ensuing election the majority ought to be over 3,000, but we have to remember there is a limit to the voting capacity of even this large constituency.

The Dominion Coal Company has shipped almost three-quarters of a million tons of coal so far this year.

An attempt is being made in Truro, N.S., to form a joint stock company, with a view of testing the lead deposits in Colchester county, Nova Scotia.

The American Street Railway Association will meet in Montreal October 15, next year. The Association is the largest in America. The convention will last three days and over 300 delegates will attend.

During September nearly three million bushels wheat were carried east by the C. P. R. from Manitoba and the North-West, compared with 1,100,000 during the same month in 1893. This represents over 5,000 loaded cars.

Probably the greatest quantity of coal ever raised in one day from a mine in Cape Breton, says a Maritime Province exchange, was taken from the Reserve colliery, when within two days of 1,400 tons was raised from the mine, and the average quantity of coal raised for the same week was 1,260 per day.

Mr. W. C. Gibson, the King street, St. John, jeweller, is in financial difficulties and is offering to compromise at 35 cents on the dollar. His liabilities are about $5,000.

Mercier Dead.

Hon. Honore Mercier died at 8.30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Mercier's last words were: "I am ready to die, but it is not to leave my dear wife and children. Tell my friends that my last thoughts were for them. Tell my opponents that I have forgotten all, and that I labored for my country." The ex-premier had no property, but his life was insured for $27,000, which goes to Madame Mercier. The funeral will take place at ten o'clock on Friday morning from the Jesuit church. It will be the largest ever seen in Montreal. Deputations will attend from all over the province.

The Hon. Honore Mercier was one of the most talented and prominent French-Canadians of his day. As a lawyer he stood high in his profession, and as an orator he had scarcely a superior in the country. As a party leader he long ago gave evidence of more than ordinary ability. The Hon. Mr. Mercier was descended from an ancient family from France, which settled in the district of Montmagny nearly two centuries ago. The late Mr. Mercier was born on the 15th of October, 1840. He was the son of M. J. B. Mercier, a farmer of St. Albans. He was educated at St. Mary's college and went through a brilliant course of studies. He studied law in St. Hyacinthe and was admitted to the Quebec bar in 1867. In May, 1866, he married Miss Virginia St. Denis, of the same place. Mr. Mercier made his mark as a journalist, and was editor of Le Courrier de St. Hyacinthe from '62 to '64 and for a few months in 1869. He entered political life at an early age, and in 1872 he was elected to the commons for Rivest, and sat in that body until 1874. He was first elected to the Quebec legislature in 1879 by a majority of 306 and entered the cabinet as solicitor general and remained until the cabinet of five of the Hon. Mr. Joly's supporters. At the general election of 1881 he was returned by acclamation, and by a majority of 600 at the succeeding general election. In 1883 he was elected leader of the opposition in the House of Commons. He was appointed Minister of the Interior in the cabinet of Mr. Joly.

On the resignation of the Tailor administration, Jan. 27, 1887, he formed an administration. He was at the height of his power when the Bais des Chaleurs railway deal was exposed in a committee of the dominion senate. An investigation into his and other matters of administration followed, at the instance of Lt. Governor Angers by whom the Mercier cabinet was finally dismissed. In the election that followed Mr. Mercier vigorously defended himself and assailed the government, but though he was himself elected to his party in the house was almost annihilated. Mr. Mercier retired from the lead of the opposition, and during the first session did not take any part in the business of the house.

Mr. Mercier was appointed Knight Grand Cross of the Order of Gregory the Great in 1888, and during his last visit to Europe was created a Companion of the Holy Roman Empire, a semi-eclesiastical distinction.

A correspondent writes to the N. Y. Shipping and Commercial List, "While we do not look for so long a period of depression to follow the panic of 1893, it is useless to shut our eyes to the fact that railroads throughout the country have been overbuilt and overburdened; that manufacturing plants and facilities have been enlarged far beyond the consumptive demand, and that even the grain fields of the West have been developed with the aid of modern machinery far beyond available market demands, and unprecedently low prices are the inevitable result. The labor market has also become greatly overstocked, and wages, the price of labor, must continue to go down with the price of commodities. Neither the labor unions nor the general government, nor both combined can sustain the former scale of prices and wages any more successfully than the cotton market could maintain the price of silver. The capitalists also must recognize the downward tendency and must accept a lower interest return upon their investments. Willingly or not, and even the grain fields of the step nearer to the condition of older civilizations of Europe. In doing this all are in the same boat, manufacturer, farmer, banker, laborer, and remembering how rapidly our country up to this time has grown in population, wealth, and resources generally, we all should be prepared to accept the natural results, namely, much greater competition and smaller returns. As a people we must take a few primary lessons in economy."

Cowardly Chinese.

ABANDON A STRONG POSITION BEFORE IT WAS ATTACKED.

A despatch from Tokio says that Field Marshal Count Yamagata has reported to the emperor that at daybreak on Oct. 25th the Japanese army, under his command, completed the crossing of the Yalu river, and in the forenoon attacked and defeated the Chinese near Fu Chang, also capturing a fortress on the right bank of the River Ai. The enemy were eighteen battalions strong. The Chinese lost two hundred killed and a large number wounded. The number of Japanese killed or wounded was five officers and ninety men. The Japanese began to transport the main body of their army across the Yalu on the evening of October 24th. The force of crossing continued throughout the night, and at daybreak on October 25th all the guns, horses and men had crossed without mishap, and were in the greatest of spirits. In the meantime, Colonel Sato, who had taken a flying column on the morning of October 25th for the purpose of reconnoitering, came upon the Chinese, who occupied a fortified position near the village of Fu Chang, on the right bank of the Ai river. Col. Sato attacked the Chinese at 10 o'clock. The Chinese, the fight continuing until past noon, destroyed the fortress and rejoined the Chinese at 10 o'clock. The Japanese report to the emperor adds that the Chinese engaged in the fight greatly exceeded the Japanese in number.

Today's attack on Kallienchao was made by four columns acting in concert. The Japanese troops were in position early in the morning and began to advance at daybreak. There was no sign of the Chinese. The Japanese soon came back with the news that the place had been vacated by the Chinese. When the full significance of their flight was realized by the Japanese, they gave round after round of cheers. It is believed the arrival of the defeated Chinese troops in the morning and began to advance at daybreak. There was no sign of the Chinese. THE NOON MAIL from the West was delayed about two hours on Tuesday by the breaking down of an engine at Dorchester.

CRYSTAL COUNCIL No. 480 Royal Arcanum will meet at Powell's Hall on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock. Full attendance of members is requested.

NO GOLD IN THE MINE.—The Memorial Gold Mining Co. (Ltd.) held a special meeting at Dorchester, Friday afternoon to announce the result of the recent test at the mine. Among those present were J. B. Neilly, the organizer of the company; A. O. Vanmeter, W. P. Cunningham, H. J. Logan, C. E. Freeman and J. W. Y. Smith. The result of the recent test showed that there was not enough gold in the mine to make it a paying business. The company has decided to close the thing up at once and sell the machinery, etc. This is what the majority of the people anticipated before the result was announced.

MR. ALLISON.—The Earthenware room in the new University residence will be dedicated to-morrow evening and as previously intimated Sir Leonard Tilley will perform the dedicatory service. The following program will be rendered, beginning at 7 standard: Opening address by the president of the society Mr. Marr; dedication by Sir L. Tilley; music by Miss Lachs; oration by H. A. Powell, M. P.; music by college club; speeches by Dr. Allison, and Josiah Wood, M. P.; music by Webb Quartette and Miss Schreder; speeches by Judges Easton and Landry and a number of others. Entry will be by main entrance. Admission twenty-five cents.

—According to established custom the Ladies' College students provided the banquet for the banquet for the football players on their return from the Fredericton and St. John matches. The feast was substantial and was most thoroughly enjoyed.
—The regular monthly reception will be held Saturday evening the Ladies College. Friends of the institution are cordially invited to be present.
THE BOTSFORD ESTATE.—The matter of the estate of the late Senator Botsford was brought up before his honor Mr. Justice Hanington, sitting in equity at Dorchester Monday afternoon at two o'clock. This estate is valued at about $75,000. J. Fred Allison of Sackville and Edwin B. Basted of Montreal are the executors. This was on application, by the executors for directions respecting the succession duty payable on the estate legacies of $10,000 to Mrs. A. T. Parsons of New York, and of $6,500 to Mrs. E. B. Basted, of Montreal, the question being whether under the terms of the act and the construction of the will, should the duties on said legacies be deducted therefrom, or be paid out of the residuary estate. After the argument His Honor, in view of the importance of the question, referred the matter to the full court for decision. H. A. Powell, Q. C., appeared for the executors C. A. Palmer, Q. C., for Mrs. A. T. Parsons, Messrs. M. G. Tec and H. C. Hannington for the residuary legacies, about fifteen in number.

FOOTBALL.—The Sackville men have returned from their first trip and the fate of the trophy is still in doubt. At Fredericton Mr. Allison showed a decided superiority over the U. N. B. boys and throughout the game kept the ball well pushed down on the home team's goal line. Scoring was a different matter however. The U. N. B. forwards and backs fought like Trojans on the defensive and only two tries were secured. Neither was created into a goal and the score stood Sackville 6-0. During the second half Tibbatts a U. N. B. player had his leg broken near the ankle.

—The Sackville boys report the game at St. John to have been a slow one, they being too tired and bruised by the previous day's game to follow the ball. Richards who scored at St. John last year and who played a brilliant game at Fredericton on Friday received a severe kick on the head in the early part of the game and in consequence was to a great degree unfitted for play. Twice the ball was carried across each goal line. Richards for Sackville and Ted Jones for St. John carried the ball but such was shown into touch before he could touch it down. S. Jones for St. John and Shewen for Sackville carried the ball over but Shewen's touch down was not allowed on the ground that the ball had been held and not scrimmaged. The M. A. boys claimed that S. Jones play was offside but the referee allowed it and gave St. John a try which was converted into a goal. The score stood St. John 6-0.
—St. John and Sackville have now each won three victories and each suffered defeat once. Sackville plays Moncton in Moncton Saturday.

The concert has been given in Sackville and Amherst and was highly enjoyed. A rich musical treat is in store for the people of Dorchester.

FAIRVIEW SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The annual closing of Fairview Sunday School took place Monday evening and was in every way a success. The children were treated to confectionery and fruit. Music was furnished by Mrs. Mark Crompton, the organist, who also made much of the entertainment. The entertainment was due. The school which has 125 members enrolled and an average attendance of 81 is the largest on Dorchester circuit.

ATTEMPTED INCENDIARISM.—Some time during Sunday night last an attempt was made to burn the pattern warehouse at the Enterprise Foundry. A pane of glass was broken out, a considerable quantity of birch bark thrown in, and the bark and floor well saturated with kerosene oil. Four inches from the bark were found two cords of burned matches. It is not known whether it was really intended to burn the building or whether the whole thing was arranged as a scare. Where the bark was found the floor and walls were well treated with pieces of sheet iron which had been left there by workmen and these greatly lessened the danger.

"This well known minister, Rev. D. C. Lawson, was born at Sackville, Halifax Co., Oct. 28th, 1822. In his early days he spent one year in the Nova Scotia office with the late Hon. Joseph Howe, for whom he entertained a warm feeling through life. He then taught school for some years, and while teaching in Rawdon, he filled the position of lay reader in the Anglican Church. During his change of views, after a period of great anxiety, Mr. Lawson was converted to the Christian faith, and was ordained at Stewiacke, Rev. D. W. C. Dimock, who is still living, being one of the council. In 1827 he removed to Point de Bate, where he was pastor and at Amherst Shore, etc., for some years. He then, for reasons which seemed justified to his own conscience, separated from the Baptist body (though his sentiments remained essentially the same) and for the remainder of his life ministered to congregations in Cookville, Dorchester, Cape, Hopewell, and elsewhere. He resided at Westmorland Point, in a residence very prettily situated, owned by himself, and when at home he was very popular with his neighbors. For the last year or two his health has gradually failed, and at St. John, on Sunday evening, Oct. 7th, he literally "fell asleep." Our dear friend whose he reposed almost instantly to the gospel theme of which his mind was full. Such a man, though distinguished by some peculiarities, must do a vast amount of good—must leave behind him a train of influences which will be helpful to posterity, and his death is a great loss to the community. He was a man of great faith and of true integrity. He had the "good name" which is to be chosen rather than great riches. Few men have left more friends in the community than he. Our dear friend was married to Mary Eliza Moxon and four sons and a daughter survive him—one daughter having preceded him during the present year. George C. H. Lawson, now in the residence of his son, B. J. Lawson, and was conducted by Rev. D. A. Steele, H. G. Estabrooks and D. McGregor (Presbyterian pastor). His body reposes in the cemetery, Amherst Highlands."

The occasion was the marriage of Mr. Allen's second daughter Clissie to Mr. Frank Tingley. The bride was led to the door by her father presented various attractive features being rided in a dress of cream cashmere with lace and ribbon and snowed all around with a crown of blossoms on her bosom and head, and carrying a bouquet of natural flowers. A NARROW ESCAPE.—Last evening about five o'clock while Miss Grace Torne was in her room at the house of Mr. Eugene Bowser, a bullet crashed through the window and passing within a few inches of her imbedded itself in the opposite wall. It appears that Ernest Fillmore, who is employed at the Ladies' College, had been shooting and wishing to empty his gun aimed lengthways of the sidewalk running by the side of the University residence on York Street. The bullet did not enter the plank but glanced off, was deflected from its path about 60 feet, and entered the second story of Mr. Bowser's house. Fillmore could scarcely believe that his carelessness had caused an accident so nearly fatal in its results. The affair should prove a warning to others.

New Brunswick Romance.

RETURN OF A HUSBAND WHO DISAPPEARED FOURTEEN YEARS AGO.

A despatch from Boston dated Oct. 25, says: W. D. Mansfield, husband of Mrs. Maggie Mansfield, of this city, formerly well known in different parts of New Brunswick, who has been missing for fourteen years and mourned as dead, has been heard from by his relatives. The startling information that he was alive was received by Mrs. Mansfield a short time ago, and to-day the Boston Globe published a detailed history of the family and Mansfield's disappearance. Mansfield, who is a native of Framingham, this state, met a Moncton girl, Miss Maggie Wallace, in Lynn, over twenty years ago, while the latter was visiting friends there. She was a handsome girl, and of a well known family. Her father was David Wallace, a Canadian government contractor. Her uncle was John Wallace, a New Brunswick politician, and J. J. Wallace, of the I. C. R., her brother. Mansfield and Miss Wallace were married in 1871, and after living two years in Lynn, where a daughter was born, they went to Mrs. Mansfield's old home and purchased a hotel at Hillsboro. For nine years they lived apparently happy and one morning Mansfield went away. His wife said that he went west to make money for her. He wrote for a few weeks, the last letter bearing a New York date. Her reply was never answered, and after a few years she gave him up for dead. She sold the hotel and came to Boston, where her daughter is now married. Three weeks ago she heard that her long lost husband was alive, and that he had telegraphed from Buffalo to J. J. Wallace, Moncton, asking if "Maggie" was alive and married again, and if his daughter was married. Mr. Wallace replied, it is said, answering the questions. Upon this Mansfield wrote to George Wallace of Dorchester, N. B., giving an explanation of his departure years ago. He said it was his own fault. George Wallace replied and also told Mrs. Mansfield here. She also received a copy of her husband's letter, and her daughter addressed a letter to Buffalo, but no answer has yet been received. They have not given up hope, however. His family are still true to him and the door plate still bears the name, W. D. Mansfield.
