

Red Rose Tea is Clean Tea

CLEANLINESS is as necessary to tea quality as to any other food.

Tea rolled by hand, cured by hand, weighed, blended and packed by hand may or may not be clean.

Every operation of making Red Rose Tea, on the plantation and in the warehouse, is performed by machines, the rolling and curing, the blending and weighing are all done by scrupulously clean automatic machinery.

Red Rose Tea is never touched by human hands from the picking to your kitchen.

Red Rose Tea is always clean. It cannot be otherwise, because it has no possible chance of contamination.

Its "rich, fruity flavor" cannot be impaired by foreign substance of any sort whatever.

EVANGELICALS IN CONVENTION

Gathering at Neustadt Heartily Welcomes Approach of Church Union.

Neustadt, June 18.—At this morning's session of the Evangelical Synod Conference of New York district, Dr. F. Macdonald, Dunkirk, N. Y., conducted devotional services; Rev. G. Braender, Townline, N. Y., read a very capable paper on the subject, "Difficulties in the Dogmatic Function of the Doctrine of the Lord's Supper." The report of the home mission board was adopted in substance, and a resolution passed, which was particularly complimentary to Rev. T. W. A. Elernann, of London, in appreciation of his work in Ontario, and particularly in London.

Monotony Leads to Insanity

Too much excitement—too much monotony. Both these extremes are fatal to the nervous system. Diseases of the nerves often result from the excessive mental work and worry and the strife and turmoil of city life.

But what leads to the paralysis, the locomotor ataxia and the insanity which comes frequently to the farmer or his wife living in rural sections, or to persons who work with machinery? It is the monotony.

Whatever your circumstances, it is wise to be alert for symptoms which denote exhausted nerves, headache and indigestion, irritability of temper and weakness of body and mind, and to begin at once the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Science has no more effective treatment to offer as a means of restoring vigor and vitality to a wasted nervous system. Naturally and gradually the health of mind and body are built up by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and weakness and disease are overcome; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Sunday School Literature Now, it seems a timely move to begin with the publication of English helps.

The Evangelical Synod has a mission field in India, from which encouraging reports are steadily received. During the past year a number of important steps could be taken.

Mr. W. H. Anderson, of Guelph, Ont., has been out to the mission field as superintendent of the asylum for lepers in Rampur, India. Rev. E. Schmidt has been elected field secretary for foreign missions. Several young men and women have expressed their readiness to go to the foreign field.

The word of God was liberally dispensed in three services. Rev. G. Braender, Townline, N. Y., preached in the morning service. Rev. T. W. A. Elernann, London, Ont., in the afternoon; Rev. A. B. Baltzer, Rochester, N. Y., and Rev. O. Wittinger, Buffalo, N. Y., in the evening.

The whole evangelical synod of North America consists of seventeen districts. Its president is Rev. J. P. Plaster, D.D., Cincinnati. His report was under discussion Saturday afternoon. The president himself was not present, but was represented by the vice-president, Rev. F. Buesser, Ph.D., Papineau, Ill.

The conference rejoices over the movements toward church union as being in accord with its fundamental principles, and instructs the synodical officers to ratify the suggested plan of federation of churches which was in convention at New York last fall.

At the afternoon session the election of officers took place amid much enthusiasm. They resulted as follows: President—Rev. T. S. Bode, Buffalo; vice-president, Rev. T. Spidell, Buffalo; secretary, Rev. D. Sanbreck, Buffalo; treasurer, St. Paul's Church, Buffalo.

In the evening the retiring president, Rev. J. Shaefer, D.D., Syracuse, N. Y., expressed the thanks of the conference to the hospitable people of Neustadt for the many kindnesses shown to the delegates.

The new officers were installed at the closing session.

The conference has been one of the best and busiest ever held.

Chicoutimi, Que., June 18. — Fire which started at 6 o'clock last night on Price's log wharf was got under control about 9 o'clock. About 75,000 feet of deals was burned and 60,000 feet was thrown in the water, but saved along the Saguenay.

Lightning clouds are always near the ground. They are seldom at a greater height than 2,000 feet.

City Council Will Go With Seventh Regt. to Ottawa

Mayor and Aldermen Accept Invitation of the Officers—Big Time Ahead.

Col. Little and the officers of the Seventh Regiment last night gave the mayor and members of the city council a pleasant surprise when the military men invited the civic dignitaries to go to the officers' expense to Ottawa with the regiment a week from Saturday.

Col. Little explained that the regiment will remain in the capital over Dominion Day, and that the Londoners will arrive home Tuesday morning.

A special sleeper had been provided on the military train, and he guaranteed the mayor and aldermen, on behalf of the officers, that all that it is possible to do will be done to make the visit a pleasant one. At Ottawa the party will have the run of the Russell House at the expense of the officers of the regiment.

Impress Ottawa.

The deputation which waited on the council appeared in full uniform, and was composed of Col. Little, Major Cronyn, Capt. Graham and Capt. Beecher. They formed a brilliant splash of color as they walked into the chamber from the anteroom, and when they made the invitation to the council, it was plain that both the uniforms and the offer dazzled the sedate city daddies.

Public Baths Scheme Was Shelved Until Next Year

No Money for the Purpose, Said the Council.

Several Claims for Damages Presented to the City.

New 'Phone Company Looking for Business—Unightly Billboards To Be Removed—Other Matters.

The city council met last night after a two weeks' adjournment, but as the holiday season has arrived, the mayor and aldermen were able to finish their business in a session which did not last much over two hours.

Ald. Armstrong's scheme for free public baths for the city was shelved for this year by a motion of Ald. Garratt, seconded by Ald. Saunders, that Ald. Armstrong be thanked for the trouble he had gone to to secure the information given the council, and that the matter be sent over to next year's council to place a sum in the estimates to cover the cost of the baths.

Ald. Armstrong put up a stiff fight for his scheme, but as there is no money in the treasury for the purpose, he lost his cause. The aldermen reminded the council that the matter of water is an important one. Now the city can secure 500,000 gallons per day for only $450 a year, but any day this water is liable to be bought by private parties and then there will be no water in the city for baths.

Ald. Cooper moved in amendment to the amendment that No. 3 committee be empowered to establish a public swimming bath at the clay banks, in the east end, the other side of Vauxhall bridge, with Chris. Butterworth as instructor, to teach the boys to swim.

No Chance for Baths.

Ald. Forriest accused the aldermen who had been talking of simply playing to the gallery. There was as much chance of getting the baths as there was of flying to the moon. If the council wanted to do something to teach the boys to swim let it make a grant to the Y. M. C. A., where there is now a fine bath and where they learn something good and be taught something good.

Ald. Greenlees moved in amendment to the amendment that a fee of two cents be charged so as to keep the undesirable element out of the baths, and that the matter be referred back to No. 3 committee to frame a bylaw for the submission of the matter of establishing the baths to the people in January next.

Ald. Garratt's motion was the one which carried, however.

Ald. Cooper then gave notice of motion to have No. 3 committee report on the cost of boarding up the clay banks for a public bath, and of having the services of Chris. Butterworth, a swimming expert. An amended motion to have No. 3 report on the best place in the river to establish a bath, and the cost of the same was then placed on the table.

Ald. Wyatt, seconded by Ald. Greenlees, gave notice of motion to notify the police not to interfere with bathers in the river on the north branch above St. James street, and on the south branch east of Adelaide street. The mayor didn't think this motion in order, but he accepted it conditionally.

Price Is Improved.

The council empowered No. 1 committee to sell a batch of local improvement debentures at not less than 92.5. These are the debentures for which Ottawa & Co. bid 98, but which the city refused. They then have asked a week's option at 92.5, and the committee has been given power to deal with them.

The request of the local lodge, No. 105, International Alliance Theatrical Stage Employes, for permission to hold a band concert in Victoria Park and take up a collection for the benefit of the lodge on the night of June 22, was granted.

The application of Ben Johnson to

The Age of Niagara Falls.

Is doubtful, but one thing sure and certain is the instant effect of Putnam's Corn Extract, which cures corns in one day. No pain, no ugly sore, but certain relief and cure in every case. Use only "Putnam's."

There was a pause for a moment, and then Major Cronyn added a little to what Col. Little had already said. He told the council that if they would consent to go with the regiment, he thought the Londoners would be able to show Ottawa a few things. It was the aim of the regiment to identify itself with the city, and the council would be conferring a favor on the officers if they would one and all take in the trip.

Colonel a Good Fellow.

Ald. Armstrong moved a vote of thanks to the colonel and officers of the regiment.

"You smile when I get up, Mr. Mayor," said Ald. Cooper, "but I really can't help it. (Laughter.) Not that I am so anxious to go, but if the rest go I really can't stay away. If we do go, it will not be the first time the members of the council of London have enjoyed the hospitality of Col. Little. Many a good time the members had with him when he was mayor."

"Bardon me, but it is not Col. Little, but the officers of the regiment, who are inviting you," Col. Little corrected. Ald. Greenlees then seconded Ald. Armstrong's motion, and a vote of thanks to Col. Little and the officers of the regiment was passed unanimously.

Subsequently, a meeting of the council was held to decide who would be able to go, and Ald. Greenlees, Booth and Matthews all begged to be excused. It was plain, however, that two of the above will change their minds and take in the trip.

have a sewer contract awarded to him which had been given to Fred Harding was again refused.

The following petitions for local improvement works were referred to the board of works: For a cement curb and gutter on Marley Place, between Erie street and Elmwood avenue; for a cement walk on the same street; for a cement curb and gutter on Dufferin avenue, Cartwright to Maitland; for a cement curb and gutter on Brighton street, Elmwood avenue to Bruce street; for a cement curb and gutter on Dufferin avenue, William to Adelaide street.

Crown Attorney McKillop notified the city that His Honor Judge Talbot Macbeth had sentenced one Roy McCallum to a period not exceeding five years in the Industrial School, and had ordered the city of London to pay the sum of $1.25 per week for his keep while there.

Claims for Damages.

Thomas Garside, owner of the premises at 125 Wharncliffe road, gave notice through his solicitors, Tennant & Coleridge, that his property has been damaged through the raising of the grade of the Wharncliffe, and that he is suffering serious loss in the construction of a railway street belt by the London Street Railway. He notified the city to cease the construction of the grade objected to by him, otherwise he will commence an action against the corporation. Referred to No. 2 committee.

McKillop & Murphy, acting for William Nesbitt, jun., presented a claim for damages to Nesbitt and a horse and buggy, the accident, it is alleged, having been caused through the defective condition of a travelled roadway at the corner of Briscoe and Edward streets, where the new Edward street belt is being built. Mr. Nesbitt, who, it is said, is very badly injured, claims $32 damages. If the claim is not paid a writ will be issued. No. 2.

Thomas E. Nicholls, of 125 Maitland street, presented a claim for $40 for damages received through an alleged defective walk on Bathurst street near Lawrence. Referred to No. 2 committee.

Engineer Graydon informed the council in a written report that after a thorough inspection he is able to report that the cement sidewalks of the city are in good repair, except where they have been driven over by careless teamsters. With the exception of walks on Wyatt street, King street and Brighton street, he knows of no bad walks which have been laid in London.

Mr. Graydon concluded:

"I can safely say that this city has the very best cement walks in Canada, and that they have cost the city at least 20 per cent less than any other town or city in Ontario." No. 2.

New 'Phone Company.

The Provincial Long Distance Telephone Company wrote the council, warning them to not grant an exclusive franchise to the Bell Company again, as the new concern will be ready for business shortly.

Edward E. Wasp, whose son was drowned in the Thames a week ago, asked the city to pay part of the cost of the men who searched for the body, as the total bill is more than Mr. Wasp, who is a baker by trade, is able to pay.

Secretary McElheran notified the council that the board of education had decided to cut the sum of $1,000 from its estimates.

The Sleeman Brewing Company, of Guelph, objected to the payment of $5.12 of business tax, as the agency had been closed in London on Feb. 12. No. 1 committee.

Bandmaster Pococke asked for the use of Victoria Park for a band concert on or about Wednesday evening, June 27, when a collection for the band will be taken up. Granted.

Unightly Billboards.

Ald. Armstrong again brought up the matter of unightly billboards on the streets and on buildings. The council accepted his motion to have the chief of police carry out the bylaw in regard to such matters.

On motion of Ald. Booth No. 2 committee was instructed to ascertain how much the G. T. R. and E. Leonard & Son are encroaching on Waterloo street, between York and the tracks. Now that there is a probability that the Grand Trunk may run its elevated tracks over the street the people are desirous of having the highway maintained at its full width.

Ald. Matthews gave notice of motion to have the city engineer's report on the condition of the London Street Railway Company's pavement on its portion of the street, on Richmond street, from Fullerton to Oxford street; also to report as to whether the fender used by the company on its cars is of the type approved by the Government.

Ald. Cooper gave notice of motion to establish the eight-minute service guaranteed the city on Oxford street and the Hamilton road, but as the company is drafting a new schedule the matter was allowed to drop.

Ald. Gillen asked what the delay is in the passing of the bylaw to change the names of certain streets in the city. The mayor replied that the bylaw is now awaiting the consent of the county judge.

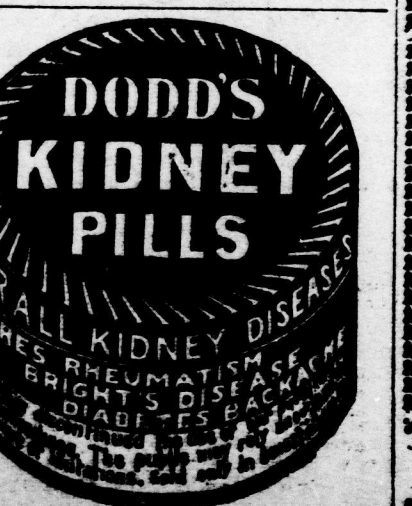

The council on the recommendation of the board of works laid the petition for a cement walk in front of 120-124 Maitland street, as the city does not wish to lay small pieces of walks.

The application of E. B. Galpin to tap and lay a sewer on Kent street was sent back to the board of works for reconsideration.

HODGSON RESIGNS

High School Inspector of Ontario Quits After Long Service.

Toronto, June 18.—Mr. John E. Hodgson, M. A., high school inspector since 1882, and one of the best known educationalists of the Province, has forwarded his resignation to the Government, having found the great amount of traveling necessitated by the position and the long absences from home somewhat burdensome. It is not improbable that Mr. Hodgson will return to the teaching profession. Mr. Hodgson was born at Whitby and is a graduate of the University of Toronto, being the medalist in classics in 1873. He was classical master at the Cobourg and Hamilton Collegiate Institutes respectively, leaving the latter to go to the high school at St. Marys as principal. Later he went to the Brantford Collegiate Institute, succeeding Dr. James Mills, afterwards president of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, and now of the Dominion railway commission, as principal. He left that position to become high school inspector in 1882.

CANADIAN BANKING PROGRESS.

The statistics of the chartered banks, compiled from the returns to the Government as required by the bank act for the year 1905, are very interesting when compared with the averages of former years. In 1868, for instance, the paid-up capital amounted to $30,507,447. In 1896 it amounted to $62,913,173, and on Dec. 31, 1905, it totaled $85,234,210. That is to say the paid-up capital of the chartered banks about doubled from the time of Confederation to 1896, and has since 1896 increased by about 88 per cent. These periods are very convenient for comparison, as they bring us from the dawn of our modern political history down to the fall of the Conservative regime in 1896, and then give us nine years under Liberal Government.

The monthly average of bank notes in circulation in 1868 amounted to $9,350,646, which had increased to $31,456,297 in 1896. The notes in circulation on Oct. 31 last were $76,890,863, which is considerably over double the circulation at the same date in 1896. The total bank deposits in 1868 were $33,653,594, and in 1896, $193,615,049, an increase of 470 per cent for the 29 years. The deposits on Dec. 31, 1905, were $567,846,794, an increase in nine years of 195 per cent. In 1868 the monthly average of discounts was $52,299,050, and in 1896, $213,211,995. The discounts for the fiscal year 1905 were $480,906,93, an increase of over 823 per cent since Confederation.

During the period under review, the liabilities and assets of the banks grew enormously, as the figures already quoted would indicate. Thus, during 1868, the average monthly liabilities were $45,144,854, increasing to $232,338,086 for 1905, and to $662,160,127 on Dec. 31, 1905; while the average monthly assets grew from $79,860,976 for 1868 to $320,937,643 for 1905, and to $815,533,302 on Dec. 31, 1905. Considering the amount of business done by the Canadian chartered banks, the number of them would seem very small, if we did not remember that the branches had increased so rapidly. There are now only 35 chartered banks as compared with 33 in 1896, but in 1905 alone 189 branch banks were organized, and the total number in the country is about 1,200. Some of the smaller banks in the Maritime Provinces and on the Pacific Coast have been absorbed in recent years by the larger ones, but several new banks have been organized in Ontario, and have had a rapid growth. As showing that the expansion of banking business has been accompanied by an increase in the strength and stability of Canadian banking institutions, it may be mentioned that the proportion of rest to capital has been increased from 42.20 in 1896 to 70.22 on Dec. 31, 1905, and the average price of shares in the same period has risen from 172 to 207. The average rate of earnings of 14 banks in 1896 was 10.70 per cent, and of 15 banks in 1905, 15.07 per cent. The average dividend paid increased from 8.13 to 8.87, showing that the bulk of the increased earnings has been applied to strengthening the reserves.

THE STRENUOUS BRITISH WOMAN.

The woman suffragists of Great Britain have been asserting the equality of the sexes by storming the hustings, and "demonstrating" against members of the Government who are known to be antagonistic to their views. The Premier admits that he is personally favorable to the cause, but, pleading that he cannot carry his cabinet with him, counsels the ladies to be patient, and to employ milder methods. His soft answers have not turned away their wrath. They accuse the ministry of a cowardly evasion of its pledges, and evidently intend to give it no peace.

The woman's suffrage movement had its birthplace in the United States, where it has achieved some success, but the British sisterhood in recent years has become far more militant and aggressive than the fellow-countrywomen of the late Susan B. Anthony. In fact women's activities in Great Britain take a wider public range than in any other country. British women mount the political platform and do not shrink from the hurly-burly of the canvass. It is the rule rather than the exception that the wife of a candidate shares his election labors. To cite a few instances which are by no means isolated: Mrs. Lyttelton, the wife of the colonial secretary in the Balfour Government, directed her husband's campaign during his illness. Winston Churchill's chief ally in all his campaigns has been his mother, now Mrs. Cornwallis West. The Countess of Warwick's efforts on behalf of the Socialist and Labor candidates were picturesque features of the late election.

Why is it that the dominating Mrs. Yankee Doodle takes a back seat to the Englishwoman in this respect? The explanation is to be found in different social conditions. The political woman in Great Britain is invariably a person of rank, and members of the nobility are still regarded, though perhaps in a lessening degree, as the natural leaders of the people. The opportunity of rubbing shoulders with the aristocracy is not despised by the average British elector, and he would be a churl indeed who would resent the attentions of a titled lady. Hence the source of feminine power in British politics. The leaders of the suffrage and other feminist movements in Great Britain belong to the upper classes, and are more privileged and influential than the women in a country where social distinctions are not so strongly marked.

MR. AYLESWORTH AND THE CINQMARS INCIDENT.

A careful reading of Hansard would have spared some Opposition newspapers the error of imagining that the Minister of Justice and the Prime Minister took contradictory positions on the Cinquimars case.

Mr. Aylesworth denied the right of Mr. Foster to prejudice the defense by putting a question to Mr. Cinquimars in a form which would have prevented the latter from citing any offensive utterances by Mr. Foster previous to the present session of Parliament, or outside its walls. Sir Wilfrid Laurier concurred in Mr. Aylesworth's objection, pointing out that it was a basic principle of British law that a defendant should have full freedom in the ordering of his defense. Mr. Aylesworth at no time contended that the case was not within the jurisdiction of Parliament, or that no action should be taken. His critics have twisted his utterances to make it appear that he said the case should be "laughed out of court." By way of retort on a member who accused him of unseemly mirth, the minister asked if his interrupter "had never heard of a case being laughed out of court," but not a word in his argument may be construed as exculpating Cinquimars or denying Mr. Foster's right to invoke the censure of the House. Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself questioned Mr. Foster's judgment in bringing the matter before Parliament, and probably nine out of ten members ridicule him privately for his action.

A lady nine feet seven inches tall has wedded a Lockport, N. Y., businessman. The ceremony would be correctly described in the society columns as a marriage in high life.

Mr. Foster indignantly denies that he used the words "A Vote for Hyman is a Vote for Laurier, Sbarretti, and the Hierarchy" in the London bye-election. Mr. Foster is correct. He said many biting things here, but nothing so foolish as that.

Miss Fannie Lee Hardin, of Denver, tells the Business Women's League there that a husband is becoming a mere incident in the fullness of the modern woman's life. The average bridegroom feels that way at the wedding ceremony.

The citizens of London will be sorry to lose Col. Culver, the genial United States consul, but are glad to know that he goes to so important a place as Cork, Ireland. Col. Culver is worthy of a good berth. He has served his country well, and has been most appreciative of this country. Londoners wish him all success in his new sphere of duty.

THE LAMP IN THE WEST.

Venus has lit her silver lamp
Low in the purple west,
Breathing a soft and mellow light
Upon the sea's full breast;
It is the hour when velvet winds
Tremble the alder's crest,
Far out, far out the restless bar
Starts from a troubled sleep,
Where roaring through the narrow straits
The meeting waters leap;
But still that shining pathway leads
Across the lonely deep.

When I sail out the narrow straits
Where the unknown dangers be,
And cross the troubled, moaning bar
To the mysterious sea—
Dear God, wilt thou not set a lamp
Low in the west for me?

SOCIOLOGY AND DIET.

Thus craftily did he manage to keep them contented with a more or less vegetarian diet.

THE BANANA.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.]
The banana, so 'tis said, is rich in nourishment beyond most other foods. In the Sierra Maestra Mountains, in Cuba, men, nourished solely on bananas, work fourteen hours a day and thrive. Sir Henry Stanley, while picnicking among the fevers and cannibals of Central Africa, found the banana his only solace, and coming back to the Broadway cafes he immortalized his friend in need by teaching the chefs how to cook steak à la Stanley, which is steak with sliced bananas. In these days it might be well to change the dish's name to "banana à la Stanley," and broil the banana whole with a few thin slices of carefully disinfected steak as a garnish.

Banana flour has been successfully prepared in Europe and banana bread is said to be distinctly gratifying to the palate. For food value it is said to have the old-fashioned bakers' products beaten several blocks.

Another fine thing about the "nice banana" is that it is always clean. The pulpy fruit may be eaten with the utmost confidence. The skin is so constructed as to render it utterly impervious to outside influences. Revelations of tarantula nests or of West Indian banana ships freighted with "yellow Jack" need not worry us in the least. The banana has a tightly locked domicile, and none may enter therein.

GLADSTONE AND MORLEY.

[Liverpool Post-Mercury.]
Mr. John Morley, in his biography of Gladstone, has told us that he never discussed religious topics with his great leader. There was, however, according to an eminent authority, one occasion upon which the subject was almost entered upon, certainly approached. Mr. Morley was staying at Hawarden, and going into "the temple of peace" one day he found Mr. Gladstone lying upon the sofa with his own Diadem in his hand. Mr. Morley experienced for a moment a kind of shock. It was years since the book was written, he had forgotten all that was in it; but he remembered enough to think that the book was absolute negation. Mr. Gladstone lowered the book to his lap, looked over his spectacles, and said: "Are you still a Determinist as you were when you wrote this book?" Morley paused for a moment, and then, standing very upright, with his head carried high, as the habit of a statesman, answered, "I am." Mr. Gladstone's only answer was one of his well-known, deep-chested "Humphs," which was neither sigh nor anger, but a conclusion of the whole matter. And "religion" was never touched upon again!

ANGELIC.

[Browning's Magazine.]
Miss Plainly—He kissed me in the dark!
Miss Spitzly—Well, then he is excusable!

BASELESS CRITICISM.

[Toronto Globe.]
Three Anglican bishops, addressing their respective synods recently, made an almost simultaneous attack on the high school geography on the ground that it promulgated theories of the evolution of the earth that were incompatible with Christian doctrine. An examination of the text, even without the personal explanations of G. A. Chase, its author, will satisfy anyone that the criticisms are quite exaggerated, so much so as to be virtually without foundation.

A FINE FIELD.

[Toronto Star.]
Dr. Torrey says there is a wonderful field before him in Ottawa; in fact, the best field in America for his work. And what a quantity of tares, thistles, wild mustard and barberry he must see to call forth praise like that!

BELIEVED IN PUBLICITY.

[Hamilton Spectator.]
The late Detective Murray was the reporter's friend. He always had a story for the press. And, by the way, he was quite as successful as a detective as those of his brethren who look wise, but will say nothing.

NEW STANDARD.

[New York Sun.]
Employer—What salary do you want?
Office Boy—Enough to place me above de temptation of graft.

THEY ALL CAN DO IT.

[Ottawa Citizen.]
The Brooklyn Standard-Union, commenting upon a Chicago proposal to issue certificates to girls who have demonstrated their ability to keep house on $10 a week, says it is "a superior provision for happiness than to insist upon a hundred-dollar-a-week husband." How many Ottawa girls can keep house on that sum?

MODERN EDUCATION.

[Judge.]
Harry, 7 years old, came home from school the other day and rushed into mother's room with the news.
"Mother, what do you think? We're going to have physical torture, twice a week now!"

TACT LACKED.

[Buffalo Express.]
Miss Clara Clemens, Mark Twain's brilliant daughter, was talking at Atlantic City about entertaining.
"Tact," she said, "is essential to good entertaining. With the most hospitable spirit in the world, one may, without tact, only render one's guests uncomfortable. Tact averts blunders."
"I once dined at a house where the hostess had no tact. Opposite me sat a modest, quiet gentleman. This gentleman suddenly turned as red as a lobster and fell into a horrible fit of confusion on hearing his hostess say to her husband:
"How inattentive you are, Joe. You must look after Mr. Blank. He's helping himself to everything!"

FASHIONABLE WEDDINGS.

[Montreal Herald.]
A fashionable wedding is not necessarily frivolous, any more than rice-throwing is necessarily accompanied by irreverence. But when fashion is more in the mind of those present than the fact that two people are taking the most momentous step of their lives, and when "brilliance" and gaiety are pursued at the cost of trespassing upon and oversteering the solemn ceremonies of the occasion, then we have the evidences of a state of mind that brings with it unhappy wedded life, divorce, social misery and vice, and the steady deterioration of the rising generation.

A MATERIALIST ON MARRIAGE.

[Rochester Herald.]
General Young, at a wedding in Washington, was condemning materialists and materialism.
"What, precisely, is a materialist?" a young girl asked.
"A materialist," said General Young, "is one who sees only the material side of things; one to whom the spiritual side is invisible."
"He looked about him at the happy bridal party."
"Thus a materialist," he went on, "would call marriage merely a state wherein you give a woman half your vitals to get the other half cooked."

CANNED MEATS AND THE ARMY

War Office as to Potted Stuff in the South African Campaign.

London, June 18. — Chicago again formed the subject of several questions in the House of Commons today.
Mr. Hicks-Beach (Conservative), son of the former chancellor of the exchequer, asked War Secretary Haldane what quantity of Chicago canned meat was supplied to the troops in South Africa during the late war, and what proportion of enteric deaths ought more properly to have been ascribed as due to ptomaine poisoning.

The secretary replied that rather more than half the canned meat had come from the United States. The war office knew nothing of any cases of enteric fever which would be classed as ptomaine poisoning.
Mr. Las (Liberal) wanted to know if the war office would not issue an order requiring every can of meat supplied to the army to be plainly stamped with the date of manufacture.

The secretary said that such had long been the requirements of the ordinary war office contracts.
To another question the war secretary said he was aware of only one case in the last twelve months in which troops had refused to eat canned meat, and that was a sample of which was now under the examination of an analyst.

ANTS AND INSECTS IN JAM FACTORY

Some English Purveyors of Food Are Also Given to Adulteration.

London, June 18.—It is more or less comforting to citizens of the United States temporarily living in this country to find from an authoritative source that English purveyors of food are quite as much addicted to adulteration and defilement of their products as their American cousins. For weeks British editors have been writing articles which have been extremely unsparing in reading to fellow-countrymen of the Chicago packers, and wherever an American has mingled in social life in Great Britain he has heard things that have brought the blush of shame to his cheeks. Some of us have imagined that every unscrupulous dealer against the Chicagoans is daily duplicated in this country, but Britishers have listened to us with pharisaic complacency and brushed aside our statements as unfounded. Now comes the inspector of the employ of the borough of Camberwell, with revelations which, the newspaper publishing them says, shows that the indignation poured out on Chicago might well be turned to give an impetus to the movement for the removal of horrible abuses at home.

For example, the inspector says it was shown recently that a firm engaged in manufacturing cheap delicacies, such as potted chicken and tongue, had acquired a large quantity of old tinned meat, and worked it over into new materials in circumstances too loathsome to detail. Thousands of tins of putrefying and poisonous meat were seized from this firm. The inspector alleges that large quantities of diseased meat brought from the country is sold in London constantly, and instances a number of cases where meat caws which had died of fever found their way to London butcher shops. The inspector says that even in London slaughter-house butchers, in spite of the inspectors, manage to slaughter and put on the market carcasses of tuberculous and other ailing animals, and that all sorts of refuse and dirty scraps are put into sausages made in London. "Recently," says the inspector, "I found in a jam factory a collection of dried raisins filled with ants and other insects, rotten apple pulp, orange peel, some filthy macaroni, a lot of blown tins of apricots and other refuse brought from grocer shops as unfit for food. It amounted to nine hundred-weight in all, and was being treated and made into jam."

In a confectionery the inspector found a case of 500 absolutely rotten eggs designed for use in pastry and creams. There was not a good egg in the place. The inspector says that a good many London confectioners invariably use rotten eggs in the preparation of their delicacies. At a time when the whole world is holding the tins of food in contempt on account of the canned meat scandals, it seems worth while to point out that all conscientious food purveyors in the world do not live in that republic.

BESTIAL AND BRUTAL

Scenes of Horror at Massacre of Jews at Bialystok.

Bialystok, Russia, June 18.—Noon.—Quiet reigns today throughout this devastated town. Firing was heard at midnight on the outskirts of Bialystok near the cemetery, but no further disorders have occurred. The total figures of the casualties are not available, but 70 bodies were buried today. This is estimated to be less than half the total of the killed. Jewish estimates say that not less than 200 were killed. The number of wounded is enormous. Surgeons have arrived here from Warsaw to assist the overworked staffs of the hospitals in caring for the injured. A feature of the excesses was the bestiality and brutality with which the victims of the massacre were treated. Some of the corpses were mere masses of pulped flesh, the wounded in some cases having scarcely a sound bone in their bodies.

The members of the commission of the Lower House of Parliament, who were here to inquire into the massacre, are greeted as saviors by the population, who flock out of their houses with pathetic joy and relief. The commissioners pass through the streets, the people call down blessings on their heads, and give them accounts of their sufferings. The commandant of the troops has furnished the commissioners with an account, and has promised them every facility in conducting their investigations.

CAN TALK WITH ANIMALS

Denverite Says Beasts Have Taught Him Universal Tongue.

Denver, Col., June 18. — Because he claimed to solve the universal language between animal and man, Thos. Sylvester, 72 years old, a member of a prominent English family, claims that his neighbors are trying to drive him out of his home at Seventh and Perry streets, in Barnum, by using explosives about the house at night. The aged man, who is said to be mildly insane, yesterday afternoon notified the police of his hallucinations. "Because I can talk to my dogs the neighbors don't like me," said Sylvester. "One of my dogs came to me when I was lying down. He put his nose close to my face, and I seemed to hear a clear voice say, 'I love you so.' And I knew the dog had spoken to me."

"Through investigation I found the great universal language was not speech at all, but thought transferred. I can now talk to and understand any animal in the world."

LIZARD IN STOMACH

French Woman Thought So — "Removed" by Fake Operation.

Paris, June 18. — An extraordinary story is told by a physician of repute here of the cure recently effected of a woman who was the victim of an imaginary malady.
The woman lived in the village of Eure and for 40 years had suffered from a nervous disease. She imagined that there was a lizard in her stomach which consumed the greater part of what she ate and so robbed her of nourishment.

The woman came to Paris to live with a relative who took her to a hospital.
The doctor determined to resort to strategy to effect a cure. He informed the woman that he would operate upon her. She was put to sleep and while she was unconscious a superficial operation was performed. When the woman recovered consciousness she was shown the lizard which she imagined had made its home in her stomach for so long. It was a toy lizard which the doctor had bought on the Boulevard Saint Michel, but the woman is still unconscious of this fact.

TANGLED THREADS

CHAPTER XXV.

Helen followed the young man into the room, softly closing the door after her, and at that instant Hubert became conscious of another presence there.

His startled eyes swept the slight form sitting beside the bed from head to foot; then the sweet, anxious face, as it was turning slowly toward him, embracing in the glance the tiny sleeper among the pillows, and a terrible shock went quivering through every nerve of his body.

"May! My God!" was the horrified exclamation that burst involuntarily and hoarsely from him.

Then an angry fire leaped into his eyes, an ugly frown settled upon his brow as the full significance of the situation flashed upon him, and, striving to the girl's side, he grasped her rudely by the arm, and shook her savagely.

"Have you dared to come here to tell her?" he demanded, fiercely, and without pausing to consider how his own words condemned him.

Quick as a flash, Helen sprang before him, with uplifted head and dauntless bearing.

"Release her!" she commanded imperiously, and with flashing eyes. "Do not add cowardly insult to the terrible wrong that you have already done her. Of course she told me," she continued, her delicate nostrils dilating with ineffable scorn, "and I cannot be too thankful to her for saving me from a fate that would have been worse than a thousand deaths to me; for, if I had learned the truth too late—after I had become irrevocably bound to you—I should not only have despised you beyond the power of words to express, but should have felt myself irreparably contaminated and degraded by my association with and bondage to you."

The young man's grasp had involuntarily relaxed, and his hand fell nervelessly at his side at her command, while he cringed like a whipped cur beneath her scathing words.

"By Heaven, Helen, but you are hard on a fellow!" he said in a tone and with an air of sullen shame, his face, even to his lips, almost as colorless as the immaculate white which he had donned for his wedding.

"Hard!" she repeated, and the single word, with the contemptuous intonation she employed, stung him even more keenly than what she had previously said.

"You little know how I have loved—"

"I love you now," he returned, with a shrill break in his voice.

At this confession, May, who had started to her feet as he laid hold upon her, sank back upon her chair, with a moan of anguish.

But Helen, with a crimson spot now burning upon either cheek, flashed a blighting look of indignation upon him.

"Hubert Alton, do not dare to use that word in connection with me and in this presence!" she cried, with a gesture which included both the wronged girl and her innocent babe.

"Love! I doubt if you have the slightest conception of the significance of the sacred word! Oh!" she went on in a pained, shocked tone; "you cannot conceive what a shock I have experienced in learning what I have learned this morning—for I at least respected you, even if I could not confer upon you the deeper regard which you pretended to crave. I believed you honest and sincere in what you had confessed for me—in your desire to befriend my mother in our extremity."

"I was honest," the young man passionately interposed. "I was sincere—I could not be fonder of Mrs. Seymour if she were my own mother—as I have told you many times, while, as for yourself, Heaven knows I have forbidden me to speak of my regard for you."

"Allow me to say I think your ideas of honor and rectitude are somewhat strained," said Helen, with curling lips.

"What do you mean?" Hubert demanded, with a start and a flush of anger.

"I will tell you what she means," May here interposed, with an air of determination. "She knows all the plot between you and Mr. Lancaster—"

"What!" cried Hubert, turning upon her, with a look of consternation, and feeling almost as if he had been shot through the heart.

"Yes," the girl went on breathlessly. "I am going to conceal nothing; I found that letter from him in the pocket of your overcoat, one night when you were asleep at the house. I saw the corner of it sticking out—I was jealous of you, for I had seen you with Miss Seymour, and I imagined it might be from her. Then, last night, when you went to your desk to get me some money, you dropped the telegram from him."

"Is Your Catarrh Any Better?"

Probably getting worse all the time. Why not give up that snuff and stop doing your stomach? The one sure treatment is Catarrhazone, sure to cure, because it goes where the disease really is. Certain to cure in your case because it has restored tens of thousands worse than you are. Catarrhazone is a thorough cure because it destroys the cause as well as the effects of the disease. Relief is prompt, cure is quick with this powerful remedy, which is guaranteed to cure Catarrh in any part of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes or lungs.

"The clergyman is here," she hastened to add; "you can easily detain him while you get another license made out, and mamma and I will sanction the union with our presence and

"Oh, curse you! You have, indeed, undone me!" Hubert broke forth in a frenzied tone, and he swung his hand aloft, as if he would strike her to the floor.

But Helen caught it with a grip the strength of which amazed him.

"Shame! Do not lower yourself still lower in my esteem by such an inhuman exhibition of passion," she said, as his muscles relaxed, and she released her hold upon him. "And do not blame her; it was the only right thing for her to do, to bring those evidences of a base plot to me. She has done me the greatest service in her power, and I am under everlasting obligations to her, while she has just now shown a moral courage worthy of emulation in so bravely confessing her agency in this matter to you."

"Are not your own ideas regarding certain points of honor somewhat strained, Miss Seymour?" Hubert questioned, with a sarcastic snarl. "Stealing and reading other people's letters is not regarded as a very creditable thing to do."

"No; under ordinary circumstances, I admit that it is not," was the quiet response. "But the honor and happiness of three human beings were involved in this instance, and Mary was perfectly justified in availing herself of the circumstances which threw the letter and telegram into her possession. I have them now—I have read both."

"You!" groaned the baffled schemer. "Yes, I had a perfect right to do so, for were they not weapons aimed at me, to destroy my whole life? Of course," she went on, with a little less of severity, "I have no means of knowing how large was the bribe offered you by Mr. Lancaster to assist him in carrying out this plot, the purpose of which is now as clear as the day to me; but I assume that it must have been considerable. I can understand, Hubert, that it was a great temptation to you, and I feel that the man was really more culpable in offering it than you in yielding to it."

The young man dropped his head upon his breast.

He felt exceedingly small and mean, in view of the revelation of the conspiracy between Mr. Lancaster and himself.

At the same time, he was too loyal to his employer, besides having always entertained a great admiration for him, to wish to have him blamed and humiliated.

"Lancaster is not a bad man," he said, after a moment of sullen silence. "He has always stood well, and been regarded as an exceptionally honorable gentleman."

"Indeed!" observed Helen in a voice of cold scorn.

"Well, he has," Hubert reassured, hotly. "He is a most philanthropic man, as well. He is always helping unfortunate youngsters like myself. His charities are enormous, and he is as tender-hearted as a woman—you would be amazed if you could know of the amount of good he has been doing for years and years. But—Rob is his idol, and since you know so much, there is no use in beating about the bush—being determined that he should not marry, except in his own position in life, he has, perhaps—for once—made a mistake."

"That is a self-evident fact, and a very mild term by which to express his methods," said Helen in the same tone as before, and which cut her listener to the quick.

"Great Scott, Helen, how hard you can be when your ideas of right and wrong are rubbed the wrong way!" he exclaimed, flushing to his temples.

"Right is always right, and wrong is always wrong. Truth and error cannot mingle, and when any one resorts to pernicious and underhanded means—regardless of the ruin and sorrow that must result to other lives—to carry a point, he or she certainly has no right to expect either the respect or esteem of high-minded and truth-loving people," Helen gravely and earnestly replied.

"Yes, I know that you are very rigid," said Hubert disconsolately. "and I suppose you will never forgive Lancaster, or me, either, for this affair."

Helen stood, silent and thoughtful, for a moment or two, and she looked very lovely in her pure-white dress, with that sweet, earnest expression on her delicate, refined face.

Presently, she lifted a clear, direct, searching glance to him.

"What my attitude toward Mr. Lancaster may be does not matter now; but do you really wish to be forgiven, Hubert?" she inquired.

"Surely, you do not need to ask me that," he responded in an eager but husky tone.

"Do you wish it enough to be tested?" He searched her lovely face an instant; then, all unsuspecting of her intention, replied:

"Try me, and see."

"I will!" said Helen, with a sudden energy. "If you will do your duty—if you will marry this dear girl, whom you have so wronged, I will forgive you heartily, and do all in my power to help and encourage you both. Stay!" she interposed, throwing out her hand to check him when he started violently, and would have answered her hotly: "let me have my say out. You have done Mary Wadleigh the greatest wrong that a woman can suffer: you are the father of her child, and it is your sacred duty to throw around them both your tenderest care, and give them the protection of your name. Hubert, let me entreat—I beg—I implore you to do this!" she urged appealingly, and bending a plying look upon the sad young mother, who was now weeping her heart out from mingled grief and gratitude.

"The clergyman is here," she hastened to add; "you can easily detain him while you get another license made out, and mamma and I will sanction the union with our presence and

"Hubert Alton, where is your manhood?" she demanded in clarion tones. "Look at that helpless darling on the bed! Have you no affection for the child who owes its being to you? See her!" she went on, smiling involuntarily, as the little one at that instant opened her pretty blue eyes, glanced around the strange room, with a look of surprise, and then began to coo softly and contentedly to herself: "Is she not lovely—the little innocent? Can you bear to think of having her grow up without a name—with the stigma 'No!' he burst forth fiercely, and for which you are responsible resting upon her throughout her whole life? Where are the gentleness, the kindness, the sympathy and tenderness toward my mother and me? Surely, they belong to your own flesh and blood. If to any one, and I will not believe that they were all assumed—that you have no real, inherent manhood, but have been playing the hypocrite merely to gain unworthy ends."

"Yes, you will drive me mad," cried the young man, between his tightly locked teeth; but she had caught the look which he had shot at the crowing little one, and which betrayed that he was not wholly indifferent to its infantile charms. "Let me go!" he added fiercely, reaching for the handle of the door; "let me go!"

"Then you will not do right?" persisted the dauntless girl, without moving from her place, while she held his eyes with a steadfast, reproachful glance.

"Let me—go!" he repeated doggedly, though falteringly, but dropping his head before her with a shamefaced air. "Very well, then, go," she said, stepping out of his path, and opening the door for him. "It would have comforted me to know that I had not been wholly mistaken in you—that you had, perhaps, been tempted, for the hour, beyond your strength to resist, and were not lost to all honor and manhood. Since you have repudiated this girl, who should be your wife—who is your wife before heaven—I will do what I can for her. I will try to repay some of the obligations which I have owed you, during the last year, by sharing my home—while I have one—with these two wronged ones, whom you willfully desert. Now go!" she concluded sternly, and pointing toward the hall.

Listen

Great fortunes—millions of dollars—have been made in the publishing business. Far greater fortunes are awaiting the making—more readily, of course, by those who have learned the lesson in the making of fortunes before.

Opportunities to share in them seldom come. The same opportunity never comes twice, for "the mill won't grind with the water that has passed."

An opportunity is here now for a few. Such an opportunity will not come again in Canada in many decades.

To-morrow in these columns you will read of the most remarkable and successful man in the publishing history of the world—in the House of Lords to-day—started with brains as his capital eighteen years ago.

The next day you will be shown your opportunity.

A day afterwards you will be too late.

IT HAS MANY OFFICES.—Before the German soldier starts on a long march he rubs his feet with tallow, for his first care is to keep his feet in good condition. If he knew that Dr. Thomas' Eucalyptic Oil would be of much better service he would throw away his tallow and pack a few bottles of the Oil in his knapsack. There is nothing like it.

HOW TO CLEANSE THE SYSTEM.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of scientific study of the effects of extracts of certain roots and herbs upon the digestive organs. Their use has been demonstrated in many instances that they regulate the action of the liver and the kidneys, purify the blood and carry off all morbid accumulations from the system. They are easy to take, and their action is mild and beneficial.

CHASE & SANBORN
MONTREALPLACE THE BLAME
WHERE IT BELONGSTrustee Weekes Writes on School Board
Affairs.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Both the city dailies have of late contained a good deal of matter disparaging to the board of education. All these articles have been based on occurrences in which certain persons who make a majority of the public school members have imposed their will upon the board and carried proposals against which the minority voted. The practice of this majority apparently is to brood upon and hatch their proposals in private caucus and then to throw them, featherless but full-grown, before the board, and without deigning explanation, to carry them by a party vote.

Early in the year this was done with a proposal to look up a site for a new school in the northeast part of the city. The majority carried this proposal and, having shown their power to carry it, have perhaps very properly let it drop. Similarly, they carried a motion appointing and planning an architect to prepare plans for a new school in the northeast (before a site had been selected or even the necessity for one determined), and a four-room addition to the Chesley avenue school. There had been no report of the inspector, so far as I am aware, showing any need of increased room in either quarter.

The architect wisely ignored the northeast school, but he prepared plans and estimates for the Chesley avenue addition, where there is perhaps some crowding. Before the plans or estimates had reached the board, and while the board did not know whether the proposed addition would cost $5,000 or $10,000, this same majority attempted to put through a motion to ask the city council to issue debentures for $10,000 for the purpose. The folly of this cart-before-the-horse procedure was made so apparent that even this majority became ashamed to press it, and consented to have the estimates of the architect first brought before the board; the motion stood over to a special meeting, when it was put through. A deputation named by this same majority went to the next council meeting, sat for three hours watching a disgraceful session of the council, and went home without a hearing, and why? Simply because they had neglected the elementary business necessity of having a proper written communication sent to the council from the board's secretary. Next council meeting such a communication was before the council, and the council referred it to No. 1 committee.

No. 1 committee refused to recommend the issue of the debentures unless, a matter which had nothing to do with the debentures, the board would reduce its estimates for the current year. But the estimates had long been passed by the board, adopted by the council, the rate struck accordingly, and the tax notices sent out. The money was certainly being collected for educational purposes, and would be plain to men of business sense that estimates could not then be reduced. But it was not plain to No. 1 committee of the council. This I count the beginning of a deplorable series of misadventures, and hours when, as I have stated, the

of Human LifeAwe Stricken By Calamities, We Overlook Daily Tragedies.

As a people we are appalled by the terrible loss of life in such catastrophes as the outpouring of Vesuvius or the destruction of San Francisco. But we scarcely give a thought to the enormous waste of life that goes on all about us every day.

Everywhere, among rich and poor, young life, full of capability, full of an eager desire for fulfillment, is being starved into death, or stunted into moral and physical deformity by the lack of nutritious, digestible food. These deaths, these deformities, could be avoided. Clean living and good food are the secret of health, happiness and a full development of physical and mental strength.

We know of no other food that so richly endows the human body with health and vitality as does Malta-Vita, the perfect malted whole-wheat food. This is because Malta-Vita is not only so nutritious, but so easily digested, that every one of its life-giving elements is taken up by the blood. It builds muscles, refreshes the brain, makes rich, red blood and charges the whole body with energy.

Malta-Vita is the whole of the best white wheat, cooked and steamed, freely mixed with pure barley malt extract, then rolled into water flakes and baked crisp and brown. The malt extract, a powerful digestive agent, converts the starch of the wheat into maltose or malt sugar, a most valuable food, and so easily digested, that it does not distress even the weakest stomach.

Malta-Vita is the most healthful food in the world, and there is no other so good to eat. All grocers, now 10 cents.

board's deputation occupied the grandstand at the city council, I presume the deputation got its money's worth.

I am a new member of the board, and took the board to be an honest business body. When we prepared our estimates, I, with others, went into them pretty carefully. I was assured by the older members and the secretary that they were not a dollar more than was reasonably required for the educational needs of the city, and I so believed. I still so believe. It is the business of the board of education to know what it requires and it is the business of the council to levy the taxes accordingly.

And it is as far from the council's right to ask the board to juggle with its estimates as it would be for the board to make a like demand of the council. Yet, whatever its faults, that is a pitch of effrontery which the board has never yet reached.

The proper answer for the board to make to such a demand would have been an indignant refusal, but this majority, like a careless scholar sent to do his sums over again and get some other answer, "guessed again" without calculation, reason or explanation, and passed a motion, (the minority voting solidly against the spiritless and humiliating proposal), to "reduce its estimates" by $1,000. This surrender of the board's rights and dignity, as pointed out by Chairman Strong and later proven by the opinion of the board's solicitor, Mr. T. C. Meredith, happily proves as futile as absurd; the board cannot get rid of school money's thus.

But this action of the majority has brought upon the board its crowning humiliation when No. 1 committee of the council, a body which has quite all it can do to manage its own affairs in its own business fashion, insolently proposes to itself look into the question whether further school accommodation is needed. I am reminded of the old fable, A lion, once the pride and terror of the forest, grew old and feeble, and lay helpless at the mouth of his den.

All the beasts who had trembled at the monarch's voice came now and snarled at him in safety, and last of all came one who laid back his ears and with a contemptuous bray flashed his heels into the fangless jaws.

It is true that the board of education (as well as the city council), has been made ridiculous, but let the shame of its humiliation be placed where it belongs. Yours, etc.,

DOWIE TELLS HOW
HE SAW VISIONSProphet in Court Recounts
Golden City's Appearance to Him.

Chicago, June 18.—His eyes fixed upon the gilded ceiling of Judge Landis' court room yesterday afternoon, Dr. John Alexander Dowie described the vision in which his idea of building a golden city came to him.

Visions, and tongues of flame, and strange music which had come to him at night in various parts of the world were told in detail by the trembling old man. The story of how his prayers saved a ship from destruction held the attention of the great crowd in the court room for hours. He also, in great anguish, told of the night when he discovered that his real father had perished in the Crimean war.

"It was when I was studying at the University of Edinburgh that the idea of a new city was given me by God," said the prophet, his brilliant eyes staring out of his white face in deeper intensity.

He was riding through the parks, when a sudden fog came down, and I looked the sun flashed out suddenly, and there, as if resting upon the edge of the world, I saw the golden spires and outline of the city that has been with me in my dreams."

"Were there any other visions?" asked Attorney Newman.

The "first" looked appealingly at the judge, but, seeing no help there, took a sip of an orange drink, his black servant held out to him and continued.

"Through my young manhood I healed the poor of deadly diseases, and I took no money from them. I continually asked God to show me my mission in life. One night, in Australia, a peculiar blue light appeared. It grew into four dancing lights and then a great pyrotechnical exhibition.

"The dazzling light filled every corner of the room. Thousands of tongues of fire played about me, filling my soul with strength."

"Once more I was on a ship bound out from Wellington, New Zealand. We took a dangerous way. I went to my berth and slept. I was awakened by a jar and the ship was still. We had gone upon the coast and were in danger of perishing. I talked to the captain and he was in terror lest we should perish. I told him: God was alive and I went below and prayed for the lives on board. When I went on deck it was still the same. I prayed again, and before I could come up there was a change and the ship was blown from that coast many miles into the sea. God had changed the wind for me."

In speaking of his early life, Dowie was moved often to tears. His thin voice rose at times into a querulous wail, then sank into a whisper.

It is true that the board of education (as well as the city council), has been made ridiculous, but let the shame of its humiliation be placed where it belongs. Yours, etc.,

SCENES AT EPSON
ON DERBY DAYKing Laughed Heartily When
His Horse Galloped Home
Last—The Race.

London, June 18.—The Derby!

For an hour there was an incessant, ear-piercing din that made the nerves of the inexperienced racegoer twitch. King, who was with his head throbbing with the usual parade of the indomitable zeal against bookmaker, prices altering every moment, and innumerable bets being made.

Then the police clearance of the course with sufficient ease and speed to justify the usual admiration of the foreigner. Then the parade, the long line of 22 thoroughbreds led by Sancy cantering before the stand—the King's Null Secundus alone receiving anything like an ovation.

Then a long pause, during which the inevitable Derby dog ran up and down, ineffectively chased by constables, to the delight of the crowd, who, because he was a black dog, took his appearance as a tip for Black Arrow—vastly, as it happened, to the benefit of the bookmaker.

Then the cry, "They're off!" from men straining their eyes through field glasses—and a sudden hush. This wonderful hush falling on the crowd was intensely dramatic. Whether one stood to witness the result of the race, the few seconds of almost dead silence were certainly worth living through.

The horses turn the corner. At once the silence is broken. "Troutbeck wins!" "Pietie wins!" "Malua wins!" and then, as the procession sweeps on, one great shout, "Spearmint! Spearmint! Spearmint!" as Major Loder's grey bay springs to the front and gives Maher his third Derby victory.

The King's huge Null Secundus was not taken seriously in the betting, and when it came galloping past the royal box—last—his majesty took his defeat in the most splendid spirit, laughing heartily with those gentlemen near him.

From early morning vehicles of all kinds had been vying their way from London, and seeing that this year there were motor-cars innumerable and motor-omnibuses not the road between town and the race course was covered by a heavy film of dust.

There did not appear to be fewer than the usual number of four-in-hands, with their loads of prettily-dressed women and well-groomed men, the road between town and the race course was covered by a heavy film of dust.

Bright green Pioneers, Union Jacks, Vanguard, all loaded with people, gave a note of newness and originality to the time-honored scene. Indeed the crowd, with gypsy carts and nigger minstrels and costumed carts drawn by "mokes," was a curious combination of modern hustle with something like medieval survival.

As is usual on Derby day, the crowd was admirably representative of every class and condition of Londoners.

The Royal Box.

The King, who left Victoria by a special train at 12:40, was in the royal box with a party which included Prince Christian, Lady Londonderry, Lord and Lady Sefton, and Lord Suffolk.

During the wait before the great race the large crowd eagerly watched the royal box, and a number of ladies discovered the King in each of half a dozen gentlemen none of whom bore any resemblance to him whatever.

Scores of pretty actresses represented the theater on its lighter side, and Mr. Pinner and Mr. John Hare the serious drama.

He Got Left.

All these distinguished persons stood for the public to gaze to the Derby in silk hats and Paquin frocks, but the Derby is nothing if not a popular festival, and all the world and his wife were camping on the hill—camping, indeed, away on the Downs without the least chance of seeing anything of the race, comfortably squatting in family groups, eating cold beef and pickles and drinking bottled beer, and having a thoroughly good time.

Amusing incidents, of course, abounded. During the waiting time before the Derby an eastern gentleman in a fez, feeling thirsty, went up to a bookmaker and said the one word "Coffee." "What do you say?" said the bookmaker. "Coffee," repeated the easterner. "Oh, all right," was the reply, "10 to 1." A ticket was handed over, five shillings was dropped into a capacious money-bag, and the unlucky Oriental was left for the rest of the afternoon wandering about in a vain attempt to exchange his card-board for a cup of race-course coffee.

Generally the bookmakers seemed to be the most considerable winners, though Spearmint had evidently been backed very generally by the smaller punters, and relatively the bookmakers in the cheap rings and on the hill were the greatest losers.

Lally had been backed heavily, and his inability to be in the first three was a grievous disappointment to Mr. Pinner's many friends.

It was interesting to watch the faces of the crowd and to pick out the partisans of Spearmint and those of Lally, Black Arrow, and the rest—the first wreathed with smiles; the others like Niobe—all tears.

Just come back from where the fish
Are biting with a will;
Angled morning, noon and night,
With Jack and Uncle Bill.
Caught a lot of nice ones, too,
But listen now I pray;
Until I tell you all about
The ones that got away.

I'd just removed a dandy perch,
And thrown my line back in;
And sat there rather dozing,
Till some trouble should begin;
When suddenly I felt a tug
'Twas more like work than play;
I got him almost to the boat,
But then he got away.

He was the biggest fish I'd seen,
At least a dozen pounds;
It seemed he must have wandered in
To those old feeding grounds,
The biggest pike I'd ever seen,
A beauty I must say;
I would have brought him back to stuff,
Had he not got away.

A little longer then it seemed,
I got another bite;
And this one was a monster,
And was just chock full of fight,
I nearly broke my rod on him,
I'll bet that he would weigh
Full fifteen pounds, but I'm not sure
Because he got away.

Ascot, the most fashionable race meeting in the world, commences today. It lasts but four days, and King Edward and most of the members of the royal family probably will be in attendance daily. It is an interesting spectacle when the royal procession, headed by the King, wends its way up the course from nearby Windsor Castle just before the saddling bell rings for the first race. This year it is expected Mrs. Longworth will be a member of the party. The pageant will be seen on the opening day and on Thursday, cup day, but on the other two days of the meeting the distinguished party is allowed to enjoy the races in comparative quiet. The year's Ascot programme is a brilliant one, including 28 events which are expected to attract all the best horses in training, not only in England, but on the continent as well. The famous Gold Cup is of course the feature. Twenty-seven nominations were made last January, but owing to the severity of the contest, two and a half miles over a hilly course, and also the presence of the unbeatable Pretty Polly, the field probably will be comparatively small. An interesting starter will be the Australian-bred Great Scot, which twice has won the most important race in India, the Viceroy's Cup, for his native owner, Mr. Apear. Until recently the unbeaten Austro-Hungarian mare Patience was regarded as the most dangerous antagonist Pretty Polly would have, but Patience broke down during her preparation. Nocturnal, the New Zealand champion, was brought to England early in the year with a special view to this race, but he must carry a 4-year-old's weight, while, being foaled south of the equator, he lacks several months of attaining that age. Lord Rosebery's Cicero and the Leger winner Challowcombe also are eligible.—Chicago Tribune.

If Maud Keswick, 2:03 3-4, stays sound she is certain to capture the world's record for pacing mares. The Canadian mare is now at Cleveland in Vance Nuckols' stable and will remain there until the grand circuit opens, when she will again be taken in charge by the Canadian trainer, Havers James, who raced her last year and who wintered her. She was sent to Nuckols in order that she might have the advantage of the mile track, while James raced the balance of his string on the half-mile tracks for a few weeks. Nuckols recently drove the daughter of Keswick three miles in 2:15, 2:16 and 2:14 1-2, and the Cleveland critics declare she is as good as a 2:05 pacer right now. It is no secret that her owner believes that she will take a record as fast as two minutes, for not long ago he put a price on her, on condition that if she could not show the prospective purchaser a mile in two minutes there would be no sale. If Maud Keswick comes to Buffalo in the form which her trainer expects her to be in at that time, she will put such a race in the 2:04 pace as will lead the Canadians, who are always here in great numbers, to give vent to a louder yell than they did when she won the 2:18 class here last year.

One of the oddest examples of untimely hitting on record was a Chicago-Louisville game, played at Louisville in 1899. Chicago won the game 2 to 1. The odd part of it was that Louisville scored only one run. How they ever managed to keep away from the plate is a mystery. During the game the bases were filled with Colonels exactly twelve times. In every inning except one the bases were full one or more times.

Yet on twelve hits, six bases on balls, one hit by pitched ball, and three errors, they made but one run. The contest was one long, progressive disappointment for Clarke and his men. Four times they had the bases full with but one man out. Three times they were full with none out. Yet each time a man was either cut out at the plate or doubled up except in the fifth inning, when, with the bases full, a little fumble by Lange let Dexter score. Any one of 24 hitters could have won the game by one timely hit, yet none was delivered.

ELBERFELD LEADS AMERICAN HITTERS

The New York Shortstop Still
Ahead of Stone, the Brown
Slugger.

Detroit, June 18.—Cobb is still the leading hitter on the local team, and is the only 300 representative the club has. Thus far he has missed getting one or more safe in but eight of the 43 games that the records include. Mullin and Crawford follow in the order named, with .286 and .283 respectively. McIntyre, Jones, Schaefer, Lindsay and O'Leary are the other .250 hitters. Elberfeld, of the Highlanders, still leads the league, but as he has not played in two weeks, while his club has been on the road, his record does not show as well as Stone, of St. Louis, who has been in every game. This sterling young player has made 70 hits, and leads the league in this department. Hemphill is a close second with 68. Then come Harry Davis, of the Athletics, with 67. This player is hitting better this season than he has ever done, and his record of 117 bases on 67 hits shows how hard he is driving the ball. He not only leads the league in total and extra bases, but in doubles and home runs with 18 and 8 respectively. Elberfeld is a triple play with 7. While Hemphill, of St. Louis, leads in stolen bases with 16, and Bradley in sacrifice hits with 17. There are 19 players hitting over .300. Detroit is fourth in club hitting, with .258. The New York Americans lead with a percentage of .275.

In the pitchers' table it will be seen that Hahn leads with 4 won and none lost. Slever of the locals is still well up. Beebe, of Chicago, leads the National with 7 wins and none lost, closely followed by Leever, of Pittsburg, with six wins out of seven games.

IT'S UP TO MIKE NOW.
Milwaukee, Wis., June 18.—President Joseph D. O'Brien, of the American Association of Baseball Clubs, has sent a telegram to Manager M. J. Kelly, of the Minneapolis team at Toledo, calling upon him to substantiate alleged charges of crookedness. Various statements of irregularities purporting to have emanated from Manager Kelly have been published, and President O'Brien has determined to make a thorough investigation.

AMERICAN YAWL WINS
KAISER'S CUP

Heligoland, June 18.—In the Dover-Heligoland yacht race for Emperor William's cup, which was started Saturday morning, the American-built yacht Navaho, owned by George W. Watjem, of Bremen, crossed the finish line at 8:50 this evening.
The American cutter Ails, owned by Mrs. A. R. Lewis-Hill, of Southampton, was second, at 9 o'clock.
The British-built schooner Clara, owned by Max Von Guilleaume, of Cologne, was third, arriving at 9:30 o'clock.

WINGHAM LEADS ON ROUND.

Wingham, June 18.—In the second round of the intermediate W. F. F. Wingham won at home from Listowel tonight by a score of 3 to 1, and secured a lead of two goals on the round, which will be finished at Listowel on Thursday. Mr. Clarke, of Stratford, referred to the satisfaction of both teams.

A WELL-BALANCED
CARD AT WINDSOR

Six Races Run Off on a
Heavy Course—Jumpers
Start Today.

Windsor, June 18.—The heavy rains of last night and this morning made the course heavy. The card of six races was well balanced. Scratches were few, and the attendance was large. Practically all the horses that were racing at Hamilton arrived on Sunday, among them were the steeplechasers that will open the season for jumpers here tomorrow. The two events today at one mile brought out fields of the best class.

Summary:
First race, 6 furlongs, for 2-year-olds and up, selling—Annie Berry, 98 (Swain), 11 to 5; 1; Mathis, 93 (C. Shilling), 5 to 1; 2; Fair Calypso, 108 (Mountain), 7 to 2; 3. Time, 1:20. Little Mac, Edwin Gum, Wistful and Little Rose also ran.

Second race, 4 1-2 furlongs, for 2-year-olds—Bivouac, 106 (Foley), even; 1; Voting, 102 (Young), 6 to 1; 2; Ozama, 101 (Aubuchon), 10 to 1; 3. Time, .58. Tom Gilroy and Reside also ran.

Third race, 1 mile, for 3-year-olds and up—Bon Mot, 101 (B. Davis), 2 to 1; 1; La Pucelle, 96 (Moreland), 4 to 5; 2; Capt. Bob, 101 (Aubuchon), 10 to 1; 3. Time, 1:37 3-5. Comic Opera also ran.

Fourth race, 4 1-2 furlongs, for 2-year-olds, selling—Malta, 108 (Foley), 5 to 2; 1; Elksino, 106 (Fischer), 2 to 1; 2; French Empress, 100 (Shilling), 7 to 1; 3. Time, 1:20. My Bessie and Charley Ward also ran.

Fifth race, 5 furlongs, for 3-year-olds and up, selling—King Pepper, 110 (Hogg), 5 to 1; 1; Rebounder, 110 (Fischer), 3 to 5; 2; Merry George, 115 (Swain), 3 to 1; 3. Time, 1:29. Henry Henrietta, Oro Viva, Viola, Ogontz and Luxembury also ran.

Sixth race, 1 mile, for 3-year-olds and up, selling—Exclamation, 105 (Hogg), 4 to 5; 1; Chambliss, 98 (Kurz), 5 to 1; 2; Dance Music, 99 (Swain), 3 to 1; 3. Time, 1:49 2-5. Brookston, Falkland, Berry Waddell, Townes and Pitkin also ran.

GIANTS' BIG NEED
BALL PHYSICIAN

Players Have Lost Confidence,
and All Are Worried,
Even McGraw.

In a dispatch from New York, Tim Murnane says: And now it looks like the Giants, the champions of the world, are badly in need of the baseball physician. Just one game convinced me that McGraw's men have lost confidence. Evidently Murphy's Chicago boys turned the trick here last week when they fairly slaughtered the local Nationals. From aggressive, sure workmen they look tired and worried, and now every club in the league up-siders, but that feeling has changed as McGraw's men have lost confidence, and it would not surprise me a bit to see the team a big disappointment. John McGraw is worried; in fact, every one connected with the Giants wears worried lines. McGraw, the fans are affected and the attendance at the games here has materially dropped off, all visiting league clubs expressing their surprise at the falling off in patronage this season. President Knickerbocker expressed sympathy, but that feeling has changed as McGraw's men have lost confidence, and it would not surprise me a bit to see the team a big disappointment. John McGraw is worried; in fact, every one connected with the Giants wears worried lines. McGraw, the fans are affected and the attendance at the games here has materially dropped off, all visiting league clubs expressing their surprise at the falling off in patronage this season.

The good work of Frank Farrell's Highlanders has caught the New York fans in earnest for the first time, as the Giants were practically invincible. The Highlanders were captured out-siders, but that feeling has changed as McGraw's men have lost confidence, and it would not surprise me a bit to see the team a big disappointment. Don't be Misled on Hewson Tweeds

There are Hewson Tweeds and Hewson Tweeds, Hewson Tweeds (so-called) and the genuine article. We have the pure stuff. We make a specialty of this celebrated tweed in boys' suits, single and double breasted and Norfolk styles. Every garment has the tag of the manufacturer attached. Every suit carries with it three guarantees. One from the Hewson Mills, who make the cloth; one from the Sanford Mfg. Co., who make the suits, and one from Oak Hall, who have introduced them to the good people of London and surrounding country, and have thereby made a "hit" on Boys' Suits—"that wear like iron." See that you get the Hewson tag on each garment.

OAK HALL

AMERICANS LOSE TO ENGLISHMEN

Wimbledon, England, June 18.—In the remaining singles for the Davis cup, S. H. Smith, of Great Britain, beat Holcombe Ward, American, in straight sets. The scores were 6-1, 6-0, 6-4.

H. L. Doherty, Great Britain, in a splendid game for the championship singles, beat Raymond D. Little, American, by a score of 3-6, 6-3, 6-8, 6-1, 6-3.

BEHR NEW ENGLAND CHAMPION.
Hartford, Conn., June 18.—Karl

Behr, of Yale, defeated Theodore R. Pell, of New York, in the tennis match to decide the championship of New England here today, 7-5, 4-6, 0-6, 7-5, 6-5.

THE RING.
TO FIGHT JULY 7.
Philadelphia, June 18.—It is now said that Bob Fitzsimmons and Tommy Burns are to fight in the Exposition building, at Thirty-third and Spruce streets, in this city, on July 7, and that a boxing club, with a seating capacity of 7,000, is to be fitted up there.

A SLAUGHTER OF FAVORITES

No Less Than Six Lose at Gravesend—Four Long
Shots Finish First.

New York, June 18.—Hyperbole, a 15-to-1 shot, easily won the Astoria Stakes at Gravesend today, defeating Golden West, and the 1-to-3 favorite, Adoration. The favorite broke in front, but Hyperbole soon took the lead, and after racing Adoration into submission, came away easily and won by two and a half lengths from Golden West, who in turn was the same distance before the favorite. Roseben, making his first appearance since the Brooklyn, and carrying 149 pounds, finished third in Shotgun and Bohemia in the first race. The races were run over a muddy track and six favorites were defeated, four of the six races being won by long shots. Jockey Lyne was suspended by the starter for two days for disobedience while at the post on Roseben.

HILDEBRAND LOOKING WELL.
Buffalo, June 18.—Hildebrand rode two winners and one second out of his four mounts at Kenilworth Park today. One of the winners, Plaud, was backed down from 8 to 7 to 2. Workmaid, winner of the fifth, was also heavily played, its price being cut from 7 to 38.

PILLSBURY PASSES

Philadelphia, June 17.—Harry Nelson Pillsbury, the chess master, died here today of apoplexy after an illness of many months.

Pillsbury was born December 7, 1872, at Somerville, Mass., where the body will be taken. The funeral is to be held there next Tuesday.

Pillsbury learned the rudiments of chess when a boy in Boston. His first notable victory was over John F. Barry, of Boston, in 1891. Other victories made him one of the quartette of the then famous players named to compete at St. Petersburg, Lasker, Steinitz, Pillsbury and Tchigorin.

His score with the world's champion, Lasker, was 3½ to 2½.
In 1897 Pillsbury won from Schowalter the American chess championship, which he confirmed by a second match with Schowalter in 1898.

Pillsbury showed his chess genius not alone by match and tournament play. At blindfold chess, it is said, his record has not been equaled. At Moscow he played 22 games without sight of the boards, and at Philadelphia 20 games, which feat he repeated at Vienna.

DETROIT DATES TO WINDSOR

Detroit, Mich., June 18.—With a splendid list of nominations for the early closing events a fine array of horses named for the Merchants' and Manufacturers' and the Chamber of Commerce Stakes, prospects were for the best harness race ever given by the Detroit Driving Club at Grosse Point, but the races are all off for this year at least, because of the stand taken by the Wayne County authorities against race betting. The Cleveland Driving Club will take over the Detroit stake events.

It is said that a race of dwarfs in British New Guinea, owing to constantly living in canoes, are losing the use of their legs, while their chests and arms are abnormally developed.

FIVE CLASSES IN MATINEE RACES

The Racing Promises To Be the Best in the History of the Club.

The matinee tomorrow will be a hummer, that there can be no mistake. There will be five classes, and every one of them will furnish a horse race. Clipper will go to beat 1:08 1-2, and the way he has been stepping it, ought to be easy enough. Golden Text and Bobbie T. ought to furnish a swell race. This will be Walter S.'s first start, and McLeod's pacer ought to be good.

The entries are:
Class 1—To beat 1:08 1-2. Clipper, Dr. Fred L. Wood.
Class 2—Golden Text, Mr. J. McCarty; Bobbie T., Dr. Fred L. Wood.
Class 3—Sydney Pointer, Mr. J. Brooks; Pearl Carter, Mr. W. E. Robinson; Walter S., Mr. N. McLeod.
Class 4—Dr. Jack, Drs. Tennant & Barnes; Pandora, Mr. J. H. Brownlee; Barney H., Dr. Hughson.
Class 5—Perfection, Mr. G. Campbell; Sunny Jim, Dr. Barnes; Wilmer, Mr. J. McCarty.

TWO NEW FACES ON CHAMPIONS' LINE-UP

Tomorrow afternoon the Rockets and the Champions clash in their postponed game. Manager Smith has switched his line-up, and is showing two new faces, one at first and one at third. He does not think his team is out of it and will make a bid for first place. McMerney will pitch for the Rockets and promises to make good. The line-up:

USED MEN AT THE OFFICE
UP
OUT

Every day in the week and every day in the year men, women and children feel all used up and tired out. The strain of business, the cares of home and social life and the task of study cause terrible suffering from heart and nerve troubles. The efforts put forth to keep up to the modern "high pressure" mode of life in this age soon wears out the strongest system, shatters the nerves and weakens the heart. Thousands find life a burden and others an early grave. The strain on the system causes nervousness, palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, faint and dizzy spells, skip beats, weak and irregular pulse, smothering and sinking spells, etc. The blood becomes weak and watery and eventually causes decline.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills

are indicated for all diseases arising from a weak and debilitated condition of the heart or of the nerve centres. Mrs. Thos. Hall, Kaldon, Ont., writes: "For the past two or three years I have been troubled with nervousness and heart failure, and the doctors failed to give me any relief. I decided at last to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial, and I would not now be without them if they cost twice as much. I have recommended them to my neighbors and friends."

COUNCIL GIVES FIRST VOTE AND ORDERS PAVEMENT LAID

Takes Advantage of the Powers
Under Revised Act to Improve Street—Is Vote Legal?

By a vote of 10 to 2, the council last night decided to put down an asphalt pavement on Park avenue, between Dundas and Queen's avenue. Only Ald. Forristal and Ald. Garratt voted nay.

This was the first vote recorded by the council under the powers given it by the latest revised assessment act, which gives councils the right by a two-thirds vote to put down a pavement on a street where a pavement is deemed necessary.

Last night the council was pretty sure of its ground, but today a little doubt is expressed as to whether the city can go ahead with the pavement until such times as it had amended its own bylaw to conform with the provisions of the municipal act.

The change in the law is due to ex-Ald. Stevely, who proposed the amendment, so as to take the people out of the hands of the paving agents, who play one citizen against the other, in order to have the class of pavement in which the agent is interested put down.

Certain streets in London have remained for years unpaved, simply because the agents were fighting to see who would get the job. Now, however, the city has the power to put down a pavement on any street it deems desirable to have paved, and may levy the cost of such pavement on the property owners interested.

It remains to be seen how the people will take the new regulation. It certainly seems a little arbitrary, but without such powers the council has been unable in the past to improve some of the most important streets in the city.

The question now is, What will the council do with Dundas street, between Wellington and Adelaide, where for years the people have been unable to come to terms owing to the apportioning of the cost of a pavement between the property owners on both sides of the street from Wellington to Waterloo? On this block a boulevard runs on the south side, but on the north side the pavement would run clear over to the sidewalk. The people on the north side wish the cost of the pavement equally apportioned, but the south side will only agree to pay for the pavement which lies to the south of the center of the street.

Whether the new amendment gives the city the power to lay a pavement on the street, without the consent of the property owners, remains to be seen. If the city has the power, the work will undoubtedly be proceeded with just as soon as the sewer difficulty on the street has been overcome.

Whether the city will be rebuilt, and the city and the people are at loggerheads as to who shall foot the bill.

It was put down on a 25-year de-menture basis, and the people are still paying annual assessments for it. Consequently they claim the city should pay for the reconstruction, but the city refuses.

Until this matter has been settled, nothing can be done.

MAJOR DAVIS VACATES

Is No Longer Brigade Major of the Second Infantry Brigade,

A special from Ottawa says: Major W. M. Davis, reserve of officers, is permitted to vacate the appointment of brigade major of the second infantry brigade.

Provisional Lieutenants J. A. Thompson, J. Garvey, A. Gibb and S. S. Turville, of the First Hussars, are permitted to retire. Clifford Hamilton Reason and John McDougall are appointed provisional lieutenants of the corps.

WILL GO BY C. P. R.

Seventh Officers Arrange for Transportation of Regiment to Ottawa.

The officers of the Seventh have made arrangements with the C. P. R. for the transportation of the regiment to and from Ottawa for the Dominion Day outing. The soldiers will leave here on Saturday evening at 6:30, arriving at Ottawa early on Sunday morning. Returning, they will leave Ottawa at a late hour on Monday night, reaching London the following afternoon.

Citizens of Ottawa are looking forward with much interest to the visit of the Seventh, who are assured of a royal time at the capital.

The Seventh, which will go down over strength, will certainly present a fine appearance, with their striking headgear and uniforms as clean as though they were donned for the first time.

The officers have just secured the new regulation service belts, which are worn over the tunics. The officers now are enabled to appear on parade without swords.

The bugle band have also obtained a new issue of tunics.

The civic representatives will stay at the Russell House, while the officers of the regiment will mess at the Laurier Club, although they will sleep in the regimental lines.

HERE'S A GOOD MOVE

Society to Encourage Swimming Among Boys—Prizes for Contests.

The Charty Organization and Humane Society met this morning and dealt with a matter of great importance to the youths of London.

Inspector Sanders, who in his younger days was a crack all-round athlete, suggested that the society should inaugurate swimming contests on the river and offer prizes for competition.

The society thought so well of the suggestion that a committee was appointed to consider ways and means to carry it out.

The society also considered the immigration problem, and the fact that very many people are being dumped in London who have no means of support.

It is probable the department of immigration will be communicated with on the subject.

PAVEMENT IN DEMAND

Asphalt Block Works at Windsor Running Night and Day.

Mr. R. Bingham, manager of the Ontario Asphalt Block Company, of Windsor, was in the city today. He stated to The Advertiser that the works are running night and day, and that the firm has orders ahead sufficient to keep the plant busy until the paving season closes. The company has no promoters but whatever The Advertiser is realizing that the company has the only pavement, and the success of the concern is assured.

The asphalt blocks on Wellington street, which are giving such satisfaction, were made by this firm.

CAMPBELL--LOGAN NUPTIALS TODAY

The Marriage of Two Popular Young Londoners by Rev. Dr. Ross.

A fashionable wedding took place this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Marjorie Logan, 232 Central avenue, when her daughter, Miss Lella Logan, became the bride of Mr. Bryden Napier Campbell. Rev. Dr. Ross, of St. Andrew's Church, conducted the ceremony.

The bride was given away by Mr. S. J. Radcliffe, M.A., looked very handsome as she entered the drawing-room, while the wedding march was being played by the Italian harpers. She wore a Paris pattern costume of white silk, with a wide white collar, a white veil and a white real lace hat with pale pink roses and touches of pale blue. She carried pink roses with streamers of silk ribbon.

Mr. Kent Campbell was the best man. The bride's mother was becomingly gowned in black mousseline over black silk tulle. Miss Hamilton, the bride's sister, wore a sheer white dress trimmed with baby Irish lace.

Mrs. Campbell, mother of the groom, was gowned in gray silk, with real lace trimmings, and a cream hat with plumes.

Little Misses Allison and Emma Buchner, in white, strewed the bride's pathway with roses.

The groom's present to the bride was a brooch set with a diamond, surrounded by white pearls; to the bride, a gold bracelet, set with amethysts.

The home was beautifully decorated in pink and white and green. The ceremony was performed under a canopy of white muslin over black and white streamers.

Among the guests from out of town were: Rev. Dr. Ross, J. Johnston, of Montreal; Miss Constance Wreyford, of Toronto; Miss Mabel Wolfe, of Brantford; Mrs. E. Elizabeth Scott, of Peterboro; Mrs. R. Bryans, of Lindsay; Miss Alma Robson, of Blr; Miss Blanche, of Whiteby; College; Miss Thall, of Moulton College; Miss Thall, of Moulton College; Miss Thall, of Moulton College.

The happy couple will leave this evening for an extended tour to Montreal, Ottawa, and other eastern points, after which they will return to reside in this city.

FIRE COMPANY FIGHTS

Says It Is Not Liable for Loss by a Blaze at Sudbury.

At the sitting of the non-jury court this morning, the case of Cottrell vs. Cottrell was announced as settled out of court.

The case of the London and Western Trust Company vs. the Canadian Fire Insurance Company was then called. This is an action to collect the insurance on a building in Sudbury that formerly belonged to the Bank of Montreal. It was changed from a dwelling to a store and then burned down. The company refused to pay the insurance, claiming that the change had been made without their knowledge or consent, and therefore they were not liable.

Judgment was reserved. The case of Campbell vs. Brooke Township, et al., an action for damages for injuries received by alleged defective roadway, is being heard.

—Miss Agnes Burwell, of this city, is visiting Miss May Meek at Port Stanley.

WHEELMAN'S COMPLAINT.

A correspondent writes to The Advertiser: "Yesterday Engineer Graydon had on a lovely new suit of checks. I also had on my other clothes, and was so unfortunate as to try to wheel up Richmond street. The street sprinkler on that thoroughfare had just been busy pouring on enough water in one trip of his cart to have done the job three times, thus making the roadway a veritable puddle and mud splasher for anyone who rode over it. Is there no remedy for such sloppiness, carelessness and unsatisfactory city work?"

INSPECTING BRIDGES.
Mr. Connor, the Toronto bridge expert, in company with Engineer Moore, of the waterworks department, is inspecting the bridges on the L. and P. S. R. today. This morning the bridge over the Thames in this city was gone over, and this afternoon the engineers left at 2:30 for the Kettle Creek bridge.

LEVIED ON THE ENGINE.

A dispatch from Halifax says: The Halifax Hotel management on Saturday levied on a second-hand fire engine, sent here by the Canadian Fire Engine company, of London, Ont. The action was taken by the hotel because of an amount of $100, which they claim was due for board by J. G. Pritchard, representative of the company. The seized engine was held by the city as security for the performance of contract, and this afternoon the engine was fired the city hold it, and the hotel has the first lien on it after the city releases the machine.

MAGGIE SMITH SENT DOWN.

Margaret Smith, with a shady reputation, will rest for a month at Castle Carter. Some time ago Margaret was not being in the most ladylike manner at Springfield, was summoned, but did not heed the call, and was taken to the police station, where she was held until Saturday, when she was released.

She was captured. Yesterday she was fined $20 and costs or 30 days for being disorderly, and was also handed fifteen days for contempt of court. She took the time, as she had not the money. The sentences will run concurrently if Maggie is a good girl.

OPENING JUBILEE ROLLER RINK.

The new proprietor has decided to open Wednesday and Saturday evening during the summer months, with band in attendance. It has been decorated with flags and bunting. A number of numerous improvements have been made for the comfort and convenience of the public, with 600 pairs of the latest improved roller skates, and is under the supervision of the manager, Frank Trafford. The well-known pleasure resort will be well patronized by the lovers of roller skating, which is becoming very popular all through the United States and Canada.

MORE THAN HALF SPENT

Council Has Only $1,000 Left of Its Incidental Appropriation.

It is understood that the council's incidental expense account is now more than half spent, and that only about $1,000 remains in the treasury for incidentals. It will require some rigid economy to carry out this sum for the balance of the year.

Ald. Gillean, by standing out for the delay in the sale of the debentures, probably saved the city from a financial crisis in very handy this year.

No fear is expressed now that the debentures can be sold for $200,000, the offer of $6.5 made some time ago.

HURON SYNOD OPENED

Service in St. Paul's Cathedral Held
This Morning.

The Synod of the Diocese of Huron opened this morning with a service in St. Paul's Cathedral. The service was conducted by Canon Brown, and Downie, and Archdeacons Young, McKenzie Richardson and Hill, Dean Davis and Rev. Wm. Williams. The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Howard, of the Diocese of Ontario, and was much enjoyed by a large audience of delegates. Dr. Howard is a brother of the late Rev. Dr. Wm. Williams, who died of the offer of $6.5 made some time ago.

money and the dismay over the growing disaffection of the troops.

Blatystok, June 18.—The bodies of more than 100 Jews were buried during the day, but the imposing array of military force prevented a resumption of the rioting.

The correspondent of the Associated Press this evening saw dozens of Christians of the lower classes with sacks on their backs coming from the desolated Jewish quarter to submit to the examination of the soldiers and police. If the sacks contained plunder none of it was seized.

General Bader, commander of the garrison and acting governor general, is in personal charge of the troops which are so disposed that a renewal of the rioting is considered improbable. The Jews, however, continue in a state of panic. As the correspondent passed through the streets strewn with wreckage they could be seen hastily barricading what was left of their houses. Many of them adopted the artifice of placing ikons or crosses on their doors in order to avoid the attacks of the Christians.

METHODIST STATISTICS.

Toronto, June 19.—The statistical committee reported at the meeting of the Toronto Methodist Conference this morning. The membership is now $4,000, an increase of 4,000. The total connexional fund is $100,000, and the superannuation fund $100,000. Rev. L. W. Hill resigned as chairman of the statistical committee after nine years' service. Toronto has asked for the General Methodist Conference, which meets in 1910.

AN ODD ACCIDENT.

Walkerville, Ont., June 19.—Winnifred Andrews, son of Superintendent Andrews, of the Page Wire Fence Company, was standing near a rapidly moving belt last night, holding in his hand a bar of iron about two feet long, when a pulley in the belt caught the bar and caused it to strike him on the head. He was thrown to the floor and rendered unconscious. He is now in a dangerous condition at his home.

WHAT'S WEST'S FUTURE

Vice-President Whyte, of C. P. R. Says Empire May Lose It.

Montreal, June 19.—"If Mr. Hill, after completing his railway connections, can induce the wholesale dealers to cut their prices for Canada, then the entire western trade of the Dominion will be lost to Eastern Canada. If the country itself is not lost to the British Empire."

This rather startling statement was made here tonight by Wm. Whyte, second vice-president of the Canadian Pacific.

He states that 100 miles of the double track between Port Arthur and Winnipeg will be completed by the time the next crop is ready to be removed. He also says a good many American business men are settling down in Winnipeg, and a great 4th of July celebration is in contemplation.

He considers this step as most unfortunate. He knows men who have made money in Winnipeg, and some of these are the organizers of these 4th of July celebrations.

"Yes," he added, "a parade and regular 4th of July orations appear to be in order."

This he considers the most unfortunate part of the movement.

Baking Powder Proof

It is an easy matter to determine the relative merits of baking powders by testing them yourself. When baking with Strong's Baking Powder in half the baking, and mark it so that you can identify it afterwards. Do the same with any other good powder in the other half, and notice the results. If you don't think Strong's Baking Powder is the best now, you will have no doubt of it after putting it to a practical test. Besides, it only costs half what any other pure powder costs, 25c pound.

WEALTHY MAN SUICIDES

Found Dead on C. P. R. Train With Poison by His Side.

Winnipeg, Ont., June 19.—As a result of a fit of despondency, John Morrison, a wealthy Englishman, took poison on the C. P. R. train as it was nearing Port Arthur, Morrison, who was on his way to join relatives in the west, boarded the train at North Bay, and during the trip to Port Arthur he seemed in the best of spirits.

Yesterday afternoon he withdrew from his section in the sleeper, and in the evening he was found dead. In the coat was a phial containing a narcotic, and in Morrison's pocket was found $3,000 in bills of large denominations. His grip contained valuable jewelry, and his belongings bespoke wealth and position.

SOME SMALLPOX

The Inspector Finds Cases in Middlesex and Elgin.

Toronto, June 19.—Dr. Bell, inspector of the provincial board of health, has returned from a number of points in Haldimand, Elgin and Middlesex counties, where smallpox is prevalent. All of the cases are well defined, some of them are mild, but there are also a number which are professionally described as "moderately severe."

In one instance, it is believed, infection was due to a letter received from a home in Michigan, several members of which are suffering from the disease.

In Seneca Township, Haldimand County, there are over twenty cases. The school there has been closed. There are eight or ten cases in Dunwich Township, and in the city of St. Thomas, Elgin County, and the same number in the village of Wardsville, Middlesex County. In every case the local health authorities have taken all necessary precautions, and have in this connection accepted several suggestions made by Dr. Bell.

HIS FOURTH MURDER

Sheriff's Posse Should See That It Is Jackum's Last.

Victoria, B. C., June 19.—Johnnie Jackum, the notorious Indian murderer, who was pardoned from the British Columbia penitentiary at New Westminster a couple of months ago, shot and killed Axel Smalle, a half-breed, over a game of cards today.

The shooting took place in a saloon, on a lonely road, near the Island. Jackum became incensed at Smalle's winnings and the game ended in a drunken brawl, in which several shots were fired. The Indian jumped on a pony and was far up the island before a posse could be organized.

Sheriff George Allen, with four mounted men, started after the murderer, who is armed and will fight before he is captured.

Jackum has now four murders hanging over his head.

He had not been captured at midnight, but it is thought that his pursuers will surround him before day-break.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becker, stockbroker, next Free Press building, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington, New York:

New York, June 19.—Noon.—Formal announcement that the Pennsylvania Railroad has concluded arrangements for borrowing $50,000,000 in Paris brought about a decided change in sentiment on the floor, and caused a heavy retreat on the part of shorts. With one notable exception, namely, Inter-Boro, the whole market acted strong, and substantial gains were made. There was very heavy buying of Pennsylvania, which, however, resulted in appearance of some liquidation and caused a reaction of two points. The removal of the so-called hedge in Inter-Boro is still without explanation, but some rumors are current as to yesterday, namely, that there has been dissensions in the pool. Stock was poorly supported, showing a decline of some six points at noon. It is doubtful whether the strength in the general following is due to anything more than covering of shorts and pool operations. Commission houses are unanimous in reporting that there is no increase in outside business. Conditions in the money market are unchanged. Sales to noon 603,700.

THE CANADIAN PACKING COY

London, Tuesday, June 19. The feature of today's market was the large delivery of strawberries.

While the supply was fairly large, it will be about the only part of next week when the supply will be the largest. The small lines were fairly well represented. Sales were brisk and prices as a rule were steady.

Grain—There was quite a large delivery of oats today, which sold readily at $1.19 to $1.21 per cwt.

Hay and straw—The demand for hay continues to be brisk. Prices today were $7 to $10 per ton. No straw was offered.

For potatoes, poultry and butchers' meat there was no change in prices. There were no dressed hogs offered.

Butter and eggs were steady at Saturday's quotations.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

TORONTO JUNCTION.
Toronto Junction, June 18.—There was a good market today at the Junction. The quality of the cattle was no better in fact, not so good as the quality of the week when the supply was the better class of offerings. The cattle were more of a medium class.

Cows are somewhat lower today, owing to the coming in of grass-fed cattle. The very best today did not reach $2.00 for select and $1.75 for fair and fat.

Hogs—The market for export cattle was fairly good today. The best of the week was sold at $1.40 to $1.50 for select and $1.20 to $1.30 for fair and fat.

W. H. Dean purchased 1,200 lbs. of butter at $1.40 to $1.50 for select and $1.20 to $1.30 for fair and fat.

George Dunn bought 1 load of cows and bulls, 1,200 lbs. at $1.25 to $1.35 for select and $1.00 to $1.10 for fair and fat.

James L. & F. Rowntree, 15 butchers' cows at $1.25 to $1.35 for select and $1.00 to $1.10 for fair and fat.

W. R. Leacock bought 20 calves at $5.50. McDonald & Mayhew sold 19 exporters, 1,200 lbs. at $3.25 to $3.50 for select and $2.75 to $3.00 for fair and fat.

REMEMBERS HIS YOUTH

Judge Says Prolonged Kissing Need Not Disturb Neighbors.

New York, June 19.—John Duffy, a clerk, 24 years old, was taken to the Yorkville police court today on a charge of disturbing the neighborhood in which his sweetheart lives by prolonging his good night kissing too late on Saturday night.

"He was hugging her and kissing her right out on the stoop and the neighbors had their heads out of the windows and were shouting for them to break away. But they wouldn't do it. That was on Lexington avenue, near Thirtieth street," Policeman Flynn said to Magistrate Finn.

"Who was the young woman who was hugging and kissing Duffy?" the magistrate asked.

"I keep company with her, your honor."

"They were disturbing the neighborhood and I had to arrest him so the people could go to sleep," went on the cop.

"The people weren't obliged to put their heads out of the window and look at the kissing, were they?" queried the court.

"I suppose not."

"You are a young man, officer. Didn't you ever kiss your sweetheart when you were leaving her at the door? If you didn't, your girl would shake you and I wouldn't blame her. If that was a crime I'd have been in jail many a time when I was a young fellow."

"I told Duffy he had a clearly legal right to kiss his sweetheart as often as she would permit it, and do it in public, too, if he wanted to and didn't break the peace doing it."

ECLIPSE WON BANNER.

Mr. George Barnaby returned from Ottawa, where the high court of Canadian Foresters met last week. He brought with him a banner which was won by the court he represented—Court Eclipse. The banner is of a beautiful design, and a credit to the order. The court is to be congratulated on its success in winning the banner in their class. Although Court Eclipse is young, it is advancing rapidly. The following delegates from London attended the high court meeting at Ottawa: Bro. D. Tripp, Robin Hood; Bro. G. Barnaby, Eclipse; Bro. T. Taylor, Orient; Bro. F. C. Toon, Defence; Bro. Halliday, Defence; Bro. Vanstone, London City.

SYNOD WILL HAVE TO THRASH IT OUT

Question of Change in Management of Funds Sent on by Executive.

The executive committee of the Synod of Huron met yesterday afternoon and dealt with many matters that are to be presented to the synod, which opens today.

The most important question was that of a change in the management of the synod funds, the special committee reporting through Rev. Canon Brown that it found it impossible under the present system to reduce the expenses of management. The whole matter was referred to the synod.

The report of the mission committee was adopted. It recommended no action on the proposed reduction at Wingham; that the rural dean report on the matters in connection with Lucknow and St. Helens; that Mount Brydges be reattached to Delaware, and that Melbourne and the Muncy churches form no action be taken on the proposed reorganization of Glenworth, Dorchester and Hyde Park parishes; that Eastwood's assessment remain unchanged, and that $100, in addition to the usual grant, be paid the missionary at Walpole.

The synod assessment committee recommended that the basis of synod assessment be one per cent on incomes of less than $1,000, and one and a half per cent on incomes above $1,000. Carriage.

The land and investment committee reported all investments satisfactory. It also expressed regret at the retirement of Mr. J. H. A. Beattie from the secretary-treasurership of the synod.

An allowance of $50 was made to the rector of Milbank to remunerate him for the loss sustained by the closing of Cross Hill.

Archdeacon Young, diocesan agent, reported on the places visited by him. Increased incomes from some parishes were shown. A list of the self-supporting parishes during the past ten months was also given.

Rev. McCauly Holmes, who has been seriously ill for some time, was superannuated with an allowance of $800 a year to date from the beginning of his illness.

Milbank and Aylmer were given permission to sell lots and apply the proceeds to cemetery funds.

Wingham, Sandwich and Windsor were allowed to raise funds on rectory property.

Mrs. Kilty, widow of the late Rev. G. M. Kilty, was placed on the widows' and orphans' fund.

ORGANIZED AGAIN?

Rumored That Street Railway Employees Have Secured Old Charter.

It is understood that the local street railway employees are now organized, and that they have secured the old local charter, No. 97, of the Amalgamated Order of Street Railway Employees of America.

It is said further that there are many employees of the road who have refused to join the union.

ORGANIZED A UNION

Younger Clergy of Huron Diocese to Meet Annually.

A union composed of the junior clergy of the Diocese of Huron was formed yesterday afternoon, the object of the organization being to meet annually on the day preceding the synod and to discuss questions that confront the younger clergymen in their parish work.

Rev. T. B. Howard, rector of Dutton, occupied the chair, and among those who submitted papers were Rev. J. F. Routhwaite, M. A., Brantford, on "The Clergyman's Relation to and Duty Towards Parochial, Diocesan and Missionary Finances"; Rev. A. J. Murray, M. A., on "Sermon Preparation and Delivery," and Rev. T. Standish Boyle, M. A., of Wingham, on "Pastoral Visiting." In his paper on "Sermon Preparation and Delivery," Mr. Murray strongly advocated preaching without notes or manuscript.

The organization of the union was effected. The members felt that the meetings will be a great source of help to them.

PURSE FOR SECRETARY

Presbyterian Council Recognizes Good Work of Rev. James Rollins.

The London Presbyterian Council held its closing meeting last night in connection with the General Assembly. Dr. F. W. Merchant, the president, was in the chair.

Rev. James Rollins, the secretary, upon whom the burden of the work of arranging for the recent General Assembly fell most heavily, was presented with a purse containing $50. He was also tendered a special vote of thanks.

A special vote of thanks was also tendered to Mr. C. W. Allen, convener of the billing committee, for the excellent work done by him.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the local newspapers for their admirable reports of the assembly, and the hospitality of their columns.

The reports of the various departments were presented, and it is expected that the billing will be a surplus when all accounts are paid.

From the visitors to the assembly, nothing but words of praise were heard for the splendid arrangements made by the council. It was the general opinion also that the meeting of the assembly would do much to still further promote the kindly feeling already existing between the Christian bodies.

The council adjourned to meet in October at the call of the executive.

REACHED CAMP IN A DOWNPOUR

Soldiers Got a Drenching as They Marched In—Lively Camp Promised.

With their band playing "The Maple Leaf Forever," and amid a downpour of rain that drenched every man to the skin, the last battalion marched onto Carling's Heights about 6 o'clock last night, and the second militia camp was thus made complete. By the time darkness had fallen on the camp, all the tents had been driven, and practically everything was in order and ready for the commencement of operations at the sound of the bugle and the firing of the gun this morning.

For some reason this, the second camp, has already taken on a far more military appearance than the other camp did at any stage. It may be the long line of field guns, which are drawn up on the south side of the tents, that cause this improvement. If the guns do not improve the appearance of the camp, they will certainly form an interesting feature along the line of military maneuvers.

Each camp brings with it a great many new men, and amid the throng are found a great many who have been here camp after camp, and whose faces become familiar to Londoners. The last camp was composed almost entirely of new men, and for this reason lacked much of the cheery, bright spirit which the experienced campers add to life under canvas. If the last camp lacked the experienced men, this camp has an abundance of them. At every turn one sees a familiar face, which recalls pleasant memories of many a good old camp on the heights. Among the veteran campers who have come back this year is one whom Londoners will welcome—Pte. J. McKenzie, of Teeswater, who is in camp with the Eleventh Battalion from Guelph. For years past McKenzie has been the chief entertainer at the grounds. His powers as a comedian, who can either sing, dance, make a speech or imitate, have never failed to draw around him, as he stood on the packing-case or an old table in the open field, crowds of eager listeners, who would have delighted a patent medicine vendor.

Many of the men could not find the time, during the hustle and bustle of preparing for camp, to get the necessary shave and hair-cut, and consequently many amusing incidents have taken place at the camp last night. A wheelbarrow is often used for strange purposes. The Army Service Corps barrows all did duty as barber shops last night, and numbers of soldiers could be seen standing around an amateur barber and his barrow waiting for the word "Next!"

Very little trouble was experienced with the horses yesterday, the majority of the animals being of the heavy class, and offering no objection to this camp method of tethering.

The "catch-as-catch-can" quick lunch system was in evidence at supper time last night. The cook-houses had not got into good working order, and many a hungry soldier was to be seen wandering about, eagerly devouring bread and cheese.

Many of the men slept in wet blankets or on the wet grounds, for it so happened that whenever a pile of blankets was turned out for distribution, down would come a shower of rain, and not only that, but many of the wagons loaded with bedding were caught in the rain.

SEVERE LOSS TO CHURCH

Colborne Street Board Regrets Death of Mr. Thomas McCormick.

At the last meeting of the trustee board of the Colborne Street Methodist Church the following resolution was moved by Mr. J. A. Dickinson, and seconded by Mr. Alex. Burness:

"That this trustee board of Colborne Street Methodist Church place on record our great regard and Christian affection for our highly-esteemed friend and much-loved brother, the late Thomas McCormick. His demise is a great loss to London and its various benevolent and charitable institutions, but especially so to the First and other Methodist churches of this city. He was intensely interested in and closely allied with them all."

"We recall with profound gratitude the generous assistance he gave this church as one of its trustees for the day of its inception to the day of his death, and the liberal donations, he so cheerfully made in the years of its necessity. We are thankful that he lived to see such splendid returns for the investment of himself and those associated with him in the remarkable growth to self-support and prosperity of one of the churches that lay so near his heart. The kindness and beneficence of his beautiful Christian life will never be forgotten."

"We tender our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family and earnestly pray that the God of their father may be their portion and comfort all the way through life till we all meet in the land that is fairer than any."

"(Signed, on behalf of the board, W. D. BUCKLE, Secretary, GEO. DANIEL, Chairman.)"

STRUCK BY A CAR

Alex. Milne, of West London, Sustains Slight Injuries.

Alex. Milne, who lives in West London, was struck by a West London car at the corner of Dundas and Babot streets, about 11:30 last night. He was slightly injured.

Milne was talking to the clerk in the London House, when he saw the car approaching, and he made a dash for the building in front of it and signaling it to stop. The rails being slippery, the car skidded along, striking Milne and knocking him down. He was taken to Victoria Hospital in the ambulance, but he was able to leave the institution in a short time, as it was found he was not seriously injured. He was badly cut about the head and face, however. A young man who was with Milne was also knocked down by the car, but he escaped injury.

A SCHOLARLY ADDRESS

The Rev. R. S. W. Howard on Law's Celebrated Work.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held last night in Convocation Hall, Huron College, at which a large number of clergymen attending the synod were present. Rev. Rural Dean Taylor, of St. Marys, presided.

The feature of the evening was the address given by Rev. R. S. W. Howard, B. A., of Christ Church, on Law's "Serious Call to a Devout and Holy Life." Mr. Howard gave a sketch of the career of Law, noting very carefully his life from the time when he was degraded by the church for his Jacobite utterances, until he published the book that made him famous for all time.

Mr. Howard's address was scholarly and inspiring and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

The book was also discussed by Rev. F. G. Newton, Parkhill; Rev. A. H. Rhodes, Holmesville, and Frank Metcalfe, Blythe.

The following officers were elected for next year: Chairman of first meeting, Rural Dean Myers, Kincardine; chairman second meeting, Rural Dean Ardill, Owen Sound; secretary, Rev. T. G. A. Wright, Walkerton; committee, Revs. H. S. Boyle, Wingham; J. F. Routhwaite, Brantford; A. G. Murray, Winnipeg; C. A. Heavren, Mr. Irwin and Arthur Carlisle, London; B. J. Perkins, J. W. Andrew, and Messrs. Frank Metcalfe, Blyth, and R. McElheran, London.

IN GREAT DEMAND

Immigrants Being Picked Up in Large Numbers by the Factories.

Toronto, June 18. — Between eight and nine hundred immigrants have arrived during the last forty-eight hours at the Union station, and Agent Tait has had his hands full distributing the men. The department is anxious that farmers should have the first chance, and the new arrivals are carefully informed of all applications from the country.

But of late the factories
