SOVIET GOVT. WILL DECLARE WAR ON ALLIED COUNTRIES

Bolsheviki Issues Appeal, Stating That Russia's Position Is Alarming—Seat of Government Has Been Removed to Kronstadt.

Amsterdam, Aug. 19.—Telegraphing from Petrograd, the correspondent of the Dusseldorf Nachrichten quotes the Russian newspaper Pravda as saying: "The Soviet Government will declare war on the Entente Allied countries. Soviet officials have issued an appeal, stating that Russia's position is alarming.

"Russia's intervention in the war is necessary. The removal of the Government to a safe place, consequently, has been decided upon and Kronstadt (the fortress of Petrograd) has been chosen as the seat of authority. All preparations have been made to move the Government offices there."

Jealousy Prompts Man to Deed in a Montreal Rooming-House.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—A. J. Mullen, 35 years old, ascertained by papers found on his body to be a cashier at one of the National banks in New York, shot a girl, Vina Roy, 20, in the left breast, and subsequently shot and killed himself tonight in a rooming-house at 150 Metcalfe street, in this city. The man had recently arrived here from New York, and claimed to be the girl's uncle. He had visited her several times. People in the house say that they had heard the man threaten the girl, and he had told her that he would kill her if she went out with a certain man.

Both the man and the girl were taken to the Western Hospital, where Mullen died a little while after being received there. The girl is in the hospital in a critical condition.

PRINCE ATTENDS DIVINE SERVICE IN CAPITAL CITY

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—His Royal Highness Prince Arthur of Connaught and his staff attended service at St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church this morning with their excellencies the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire. This afternoon the prince motored to Meach Lake, the summer residence of Colonel the Honorable and Lady Violet Henderson, the former being the military secretary to the governor-general.

Saturday the prince inspected Rockcliffe Camp and the men of the 2nd Depot Battalion.

FORMER GOVERNOR IS KILLED WHEN CAR IS STRUCK BY TRAIN

Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 19.—G. H. Prouty, former governor of Vermont, was killed when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a Grand Trunk train, near Waterville, this morning. The chauffeur was rendered unconscious. Papers found in the pockets of the dead man indicated that he was the ex-governor.

Mr. Prouty was on his way from Newport, Vt., to take a train at Lennoxville for Jackman, Me., when the chauffeur failed to observe the approaching engine owing to a dense fog. Mr. Prouty was instantly killed. The chauffeur, J. W. Blay, is in the Sherbrooke Hospital, suffering from concussion of the brain.

REVENTLOW DEMANDS COUNTER-ATTACK ON ALLIED PROPAGANDA

Amsterdam, Aug. 19.—Count Ernest von Reventlow, chief editorial writer of the Tages Zeitung of Berlin, recommends an "effective counter-offensive" against the extension of the propaganda contained in "masses of pamphlets spread over Germany, aiming at the confusion, excitement and incitement of the incompetent masses."

Count von Reventlow mentions a pamphlet entitled "The Happiness of the Future—A Peace League of Nations" and another containing articles, one of which praises the revelations of Prince Lichnowsky, while a third reproduces the letter from Dr. Wilhelm Meuhlen, former director of Krupps, to the former chancellor, von Bethmann-Hollweg.

JOFFE'S SHORT STAY PUZZLES THE HUNS

Amsterdam, Aug. 19.—The return to Berlin of Adolph Joffe, the Russian ambassador to Germany, after a stay of but one day at Moscow is puzzling the German papers. The Weser Zeitung of Bremen says that it is unable to understand a short stay at Moscow, inasmuch as "Joffe had to report on a supplementary treaty to the Brest-Litovsk convention, which had been initiated at Berlin by representatives of both the Russians and Germans."

"SECTOR DIVISIONS" OF FRENCH ARMY DROVE HUNS BACK

Heroic Work of Less Renowned Troops Accomplished Great Victory.

With the French Army in France, Sunday, Aug. 18—(By the Associated Press).—The victories of the French armies on the Avre and at Thiescourt were won by some of the less renowned divisions, which generally are known as "sector divisions," meaning divisions charged with heading parts of the line while the duty of attacking the enemy was assigned to units that had earned the title "shock troops."

These divisions, with a glorious past to inspire them and without reinforcements to strengthen them, attacked the Germans with an ardor that shows the fine spirit displayed by the shock troops pervades the entire army, and while some divisions are more renowned than others all are worthy the great task before them.

These so-called "sector divisions" have obliged the Germans to bring up reinforcements and to resort to all expedients to stiffen the resisting powers of their troops.

Several fresh divisions participated in the enemy's counter-attacks upon the positions recently captured by the French around Ribecourt and Canny-Sur-Matz. In the Thiescourt region Bavarians have been brought up to lend aid to the Prussians. In the confused mixture of units, some of these reinforcements have been brought up escorted by cavalrymen, according to prisoners. This precaution, they said, is the result of the inclination of men to disappear on the way to the fighting line.

The German artillery men now are provided with hand grenades as a measure against surprise by the French infantry. Some of these gunners captured said they preferred to be taken prisoner rather than fight with grenades. The artillerymen also were discontented because the men sent to reinforce them were without sufficient training, some having been sent to the batteries after a fortnight's preparation, prisoners asserted.

BRAZIL ASKS ALLIES TO OUTLINE POSITION

Rio Janeiro, Aug. 18.—Brazil has been invited by the Allies to outline her position on the restoration of independence to Poland as one of the conditions of peace. Nilo Pecanha, minister of foreign affairs, has stated that he would not consider any compromise on the part of the Allies on the question of Poland's freedom. Brazil has no choice of roads which may be followed in this matter, he says, having already chosen the right path.

U. S. FINANCIER IN FIT OF MELANCHOLIA COMMITS SUICIDE

New York, Aug. 19.—Sylvanus L. Schoonmaker, chairman of the board of directors of the American Locomotive Company, committed suicide at his summer home at Locust Valley this morning.

Mr. Schoonmaker, who is said to have been suffering from ill-health and melancholia, was found on the floor of his bathroom, with two bullet wounds in his neck. A revolver with two empty chambers lay near the body.

Mr. Schoonmaker was prominent in the financial world, and a director of the American Beet Sugar Company and the General Electric Company.

C. N. R. AWARD WILL BE PAID SATURDAY

Canadian Bank of Commerce the Greatest of the Beneficiaries.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—The award provided for by the board of arbitration under Sir William Meredith in compensation for the sixty millions of stock of the Canadian Northern acquired by the Government under its legislation of 1916, will be paid on August 24, or three months after the award was delivered, as provided for by the act. The greatest beneficiaries of the award will be the Canadian Bank of Commerce, through Mackenzie & Mann, and the minority stockholders will also benefit. The board of arbitration valued the stock at $10,800,000. The act itself does not provide any maximum to the amount which shall be paid beyond specifying that it shall be the amount fixed by the arbitrators, but later an agreement was entered into, thereby Mackenzie & Mann and its pledges the Canadian Bank of Commerce agreed upon a maximum of ten million. The parties will, therefore, be paid on that basis, but the minority shareholders are not a party to that agreement, and payment to them will be based on the full amount of the award named, $10,800,000. It is, therefore, probable that the total amount to be paid will extend the maximum on its agreement by approximately $200,000. The new board of directors will not be appointed until after the premier returns.

FAMILY MURDERED AND HOME BURNED TO CONCEAL CRIME

Seven Charred Bodies Found in Binghamton N. Y., Home Reveals Tragedy.

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The charred bodies of Philip Roth, his wife and five children, were found in the ruins of their home, twelve miles east of Willseyville, Tioga County, on Saturday. The house, which was located in a remote section of the county, had been burned during the night. An investigation conducted on Sunday by Coroner Holly of Candor, District Attorney Beck and Sheriff Bixby of Owego, led to the discovery of a shotgun on the floor of the room in which the bodies were found, and a bullet hole in the skull of one of the victims gave evidence that all may have been murdered and the house fired to conceal the crime.

SAMMIES BUILT BRIDGE ACROSS VESLE RIVER DESPITE GUSTS OF HUN MUSTARD AND SNEEZE GAS

American Troops Entrenched Along the Vesle Are Being Constantly Harassed by German Artillery and Gas Projectiles.

With the American Army on the Vesle, Aug. 18.—The Americans who have dug in along the Vesle continually are being harassed by the German artillery and gas projectiles. The Germans made a vicious gas attack Saturday afternoon aimed at those Americans who are situated on the north side of the Vesle. They used artillery first and then followed the fire of their guns with gusts of mustard and "sneeze" gas. These have not met with any apparent success and the Germans evidently are aware of the fact. This is indicated by their having sent over four airplanes, which by wireless or other means endeavored to direct the firing of their noxious fumes, so that they would be more effective.

The Americans have protective measures against such attacks, and on one occasion, wearing their gas masks, continued working on a bridge which the engineers were building across the Vesle, notwithstanding the gas turned against them by the enemy.

Anti-aircraft guns and shrapnel drove off the enemy aviators, who were trying to point out locations for attack by enemy guns, and finally the gas shells ceased falling. The next morning the bridge had virtually been completed.

NORWEGIAN BARK SUNK BY U-BOAT OFF U. S. COAST

Crew of Nordhav Brought to Port by U. S. Warship.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—The Norwegian bark Nordhav was sunk by a German submarine 125 miles off the Virginia Capes Saturday. Her crew escaped in small boats and have been brought into an Atlantic port by an American warship.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—Advices to the navy department today announcing the sinking did not say whether the bark was torpedoed or shelled. She was a vessel of 2,623 net tons and sailed on June 15 from Buenos Ayres, Argentina. Capt. Berntzen was master of the bark, which was sent down at noon Saturday, about 120 miles southeast of Cape Henry. There were 26 in her crew, all of whom escaped in two boats, which were picked up by the naval vessel.

GERMAN PRESS TELLS PEOPLE RETIREMENT WAS PART OF PLAN

Paris, Aug. 18.—The German press is attempting to reassure its public that a general retreat is necessary on the western front to allow Gen. Ludendorff room to manoeuvre and to assume the initiative on a vast scale, the newspapers report. A German retreat, the newspapers say, would be a direct result of the recent allied successes. The newspapers assert that even if the Germans received reinforcements from Austria, they have lost the power to command events, as Marshal Foch has the initiative, and will keep it.

German propaganda insists that the German general staff will retain the initiative by forcing premature engagements on the American army and thus wearing it out before it is fully prepared. L'Homme Libre says that the American forces taking part in the Picardy offensive could not be compared in size with those of the French and British. It says that America will soon have a first-class army in France, and that it will have airplanes which the German aviators will have reason to fear.

Rupprecht "Enjoying" a Brief Vacation

Amsterdam, Aug. 19.—The Munich correspondent of the Berlin Tageblatt announces the arrival in Munich from the front of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria. The prince, the announcement states, is enjoying a brief vacation.

In a recent announcement from Paris it was stated that Gen Hans von Boehn, the German "retreat specialist," had been appointed to supreme German command on the Somme front. The German withdrawal north of Albert was looked upon in Paris as the first move by Gen. von Boehn in the application of his retreat tactics.

LAURIER APPOINTEES MAY BE SELECTED AGAIN FOR BOARD

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Aug. Terms of office on board of railway commissioners of Simon J. McLean and Darcy Scott expires in September, and provision will then have to be made either for their replacement or for their reappointment. Both commissioners will by that time have served for a term of ten years, having been appointed by the late Laurier Government in 1908. The impression here is that on account of the experience and valuable service of both commissioners under three different chairmen they will be reappointed to its board at the expiration of their present term of offices.

"FLYING CIRCUS"

Allied Aviators Give Exhibitions in Many U. S. Cities.

Cleveland, Aug. 19.—Eight aviators, part of the "flying circus" of British and American military fliers who are giving exhibitions through the Central States, left the Willowick Club, ten miles east of here, at 8:25 o'clock this morning for Toledo. The aviators, who gave a flying exhibition here yesterday, passed over Cleveland at 8:35 a.m.

HAIG'S FORCES INFLICT SEVERE LOSSES UPON HUNS AT OUTTERSTEEN

WAR BREAD FOR ALL THE ALLIES WILL BE OF A BETTER QUALITY

Food Controllers State Supply Is Ample If Economy Is Practiced.

Universal war bread of better quality than last year for all the nations fighting Germany, practically without rationing, will be one of the chief results of the food controllers' conferences in London, Herbert C. Hoover, American food administrator, announced to the Associated Press today. He added that there will be ample supplies of fats and meat if the populations are economical and avoid waste.

"The danger of privation is now past," he declared. He said the people of North America are now able to take overseas the great bulk of food supplies required, and it will therefore be possible to curtail the total length of the voyage necessary to bring these supplies to the European Allies, thus effecting a considerable saving in tonnage.

Mr. Hoover said a program had been reached regarding the different commodities that are required, not only to maintain the health, but the comfort of the armies and civilian populations. He appealed to America for "continued rigid economy in consumption to meet the increased demands of Europe and to enable us to carry over from this year's harvest a stock of foodstuffs that will form positive insurance against any possible climatic eventualities in the next harvest."

No increase in the amount of barley used for beer in Great Britain will be permitted, notwithstanding the demands of the brewers for an extension of their allowance, according to the Central News. This is a result of the conference of the food controllers of the Allies during the visit of Mr. Hoover.

Barley as an important constituent in the standard loaf for the Allies has been agreed upon upon, and is also necessary for feeding animals. These demands are considered more important than the claims of the brewers.

WESTERN BUSINESS BOOMING DESPITE REPORTS ON CROPS

Chief Inspector of Customs Says Conditions Are Not As Bad As Painted.

Regina, Aug. 19.—E. S. Busby, chief inspector of customs, who is returning to Ottawa after making his annual trip of the custom stations throughout the Dominion, arrived in the city yesterday, and, in the course of an interview, said that crop conditions are not as bad as they have been painted by any means. Business generally throughout the country is in a flourishing condition, he said, and the adverse crop reports issued from some quarters would not appear to be taken seriously.

He was particularly pleased with conditions at the coast, stating that business was booming in all directions.

This has been done, and while the personnel has not been divulged, it is understood that only those who have seen active service in France will be in the party.

British and French Troops In Renewal of Attacks Against the Teutons Drive Miles Deep Into Their Positions—French Capture St-Mard-Les-Triot.

FRENCH CONTINUE PROGRESS.

London, Aug. 19, 4:45 p.m.—French troops penetrated into the village of Le Hamel, on the hills west of the Oise and northwest of Ribecourt, today, according to advices from the front. During the fighting today the French were on the aggressive, but made some slight headway against the determined German resistance between Lassigny and the Oise.

With the British Army in France, Aug. 19.—(By the Associated Press).—British troops, after capturing Outtersteen Ridge, in front of the town of Merris, have beaten off a vicious counter-attack and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy.

More than 500 Germans were captured by the British yesterday, and the Germans counter-attacked last night and this morning. The position, which overlooks considerable ground held by the enemy in the direction of Bailleul, is now firmly in British hands.

On the new Somme front, local fighting continues, the Entente Allied forces biting off pieces here and there all along the line.

Patrol fighting has continued, and there are some indications that the enemy has made up his mind to withdraw from the present front, but would rather go back in contact with the British so as to inflict all the casualties possible by the free use of machine guns and without himself risking many of his own men.

ST-MARD-LES-TRIOT NEAR ROYE CAPTURED BY THE FRENCH

London, Aug. 19.—St. Mard-les-Troit, a little over a mile southwest of Roye, was taken by the French yesterday, according to reports from the battlefront. The French also captured the town of Beuvraignes, 2¾ miles south of St. Mard, according to dispatches.

The new French line runs from Fontenoy to the ridge south of Andigniecourt. From there it runs to Nampoel, which the French have surrounded, and extends to the edge of the Montagne Forest. It passes about fifteen hundred metres south of Carlepont, and finally joins the old line north of Tracy-le-Val. The French now hold rather important high gound to the south of Andigniecourt.

FRENCH ADVANCE TWO MILES.

London, Aug. 19.—The French Tenth Army, which attacked the German positions between the Oise and the Aisne last night, has penetrated to an extreme depth of nearly two miles. The enemy machine gunners are resisting desperately, and the German air service is also very active.

FRENCH LAUNCH NEW DRIVE BETWEEN THE OISE AND AISNE

Paris, Aug. 19.—Between the Oise and the Aisne French troops attacked at 6 o'clock last night over a front of fifteen kilometres between Sarlepoint, about four miles east of Ribecourt and Fontenoy, approximately six miles west of Soissons. They advanced an average distance of two kilometres over the whole front, according to the official statement issued by the war office today. The French have occupied the plateau west of Nampoel, about seven miles northwest of Fontenoy, and the edge of the ravine south of Andignicourt, two miles and a half east of Nampool, according to the statement. Nouvron-Vingre was captured. Seventeen hundred prisoners, including two battalion commanders, were taken in the operation.

There were violent artillery actions north and south of the Avre River during the night, according to the official statement issued by the war office today."

The text of the statement reads:

"During the night there were violent artillery actions north and south of the Avre.

"The number of prisoners counted in the region west of Roye yesterday exceeds 400.

Last evening about 6 o'clock French troops attacked to rectify their front between the Oise and the Aisne. The attack was over a front of about fifteen kilometres from south of Carlepont to Fontenoy. We have realized an advance over the whole line to an average of two kilometres, approximately.

"We have occupied the plateau west of Nampoel, reached the south edge of the ravine at Andignicourt and captured Nouvron-Vingre. Seventeen hundred prisoners, including two battalion commanders, were captured.

"The night was calm on the rest of the front."

THREE-YEAR-OLD BOY BURNS TO DEATH SATURDAY

Ralph Allan Watson Is Dead as Result of Oil Stove Explosion.

While enjoying his sleep about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Ralph Allan Watson, the three-year-old son and only child of Pte. H. A. and Mrs. Watson, 38 Hale street, was burned to death as a result of a fire caused by the explosion of a coal oil stove.

Mrs. Watson lit the stove shortly after dinner to heat some water, and it had been burning only a little, while, when without any warning, it exploded. Coal oil flew all over the kitchen and quickly burst into flames. Mrs. Watson ran towards the diningroom, off which was the bedroom, where Allan had been put to sleep but a short time before. The passage through to the bedroom was completely barred by the flames, however.

Front Door Locked.

Running out the rear door she quickly reached the front door, only to find it locked. Almost beside herself with anxiety for the safety for her boy she screamed out for help. James Forrester, who lives across the road from the scene of the fire, heard the cries and ran over to Mrs. Watson's assistance. Breaking a window he crawled into the parlor and made a heroic effort to reach the bed where the babe was sleeping. The draft from the open window fanned the flames, and they spread so rapidly that after some minutes he had to desist. He was so severely burned about the face and hands that medical assistance had to be called.

In the meantime the firemen had been summoned, but on account of the distance of the house from the fire halls and the long line of hose that had to be laid, the cottage, which was of frame construction, was completely enveloped by the flames before water could be turned on the conflagration. The fire was quickly extinguished, but the place was destroyed by this time.

Firemen Found Remains.

Searching the ruins firemen found the charred remains of the boy under a pile of debris in a corner of the room where a few moments before he had been peacefully sleeping. It is thought that he was awakened by the intense heat and had gotten out of bed in an effort to make his escape and was overtaken before he could get out of the room.

Pte. H. A. Watson, the father, is a member of the C. A. S. C. Details stationed at Carling Heights. Word was sent to him, and he reached the scene quickly, but nothing could be done. The furniture, which was uninsured, was completely burned. The house, a rented one, was situated near the G. T. R. tracks, and twenty-two hundred feet of hose had to be laid to reach the fire.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 3 o'clock with services at 2 o'clock, at the undertaking parlors of John Ferguson's Sons. Interment will be made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

FALL FROM GRACE COST USUAL TEN DOLLAR FINE

City attractions prove too strong for one who in the past years has been a frequenter of the police court, but who was charged with being drunk this morning for the first time in six months. "He would be all right if he would go out on a farm," said Chief W. T. T. Williams. "He has been doing much better lately, however." Taking this fact into consideration, the court imposed the minimum fine of $10 and costs.

Possibly the other drunk, who was in the box did not wish to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, for he informed Magistrate Graydon that he did not know where he got his bottled cheer that yielded over 2½ per cent. He may have been afraid of a rush of customers on the storehouse, but at any rate his secret as yet has not been divulged. His little week-end jollification cost him $10 and costs or ten days in jail.

Yet another drunk was assessed the usual ten and costs or ten days.

WOOLEN GARMENTS WERE IN EVIDENCE AT BAND CONCERT

Cool Weather Did Not Interfere With Success.

Those pull-over sweaters and various other little hug-me-tights were in evidence at the band concert in Victoria Park, the different hues of the wool casting a rainbow effect over the park. The cool weather brought out the sweaters and the little toddlers, who usually sport on the grass while the elders enjoy the various selections, were conspicuous by their absence. This is the first concert given by the I.O.D.E. since the Lord's Day Alliance took exception to the concerts being held in Victoria Park, and the bandsmen receiving a fee for their services. However, the I.O.D.E. obtained permission to use the park for the remainder of the season and the Canadian Garrison Band gave its services gratuitously last evening. The following program, all exceptionally fine numbers was rendered:

March—Onward, Christian Soldiers ..... T. Carter
Overture—Pique Dame ..... Suppe
Kyrie, Twelfth Mass ..... Mozart
Trombone Solo—Romance .. Chambers
Bandsman Frank Swain.
Nautical Fantasia—Life on the Ocean ..... Binding
(a) Spring Song ..... Mendelssohn
(b) Quartet ("Rigoletto") ..... Verdi
Overture—Rosamunde ..... Schubert
Selection—The Arcadians ... Monckton
March—The Anzacs ..... Lithgow
God Save the King.

The Abigail Becker Chapter, under whose auspices the concert was given will use the proceeds, $120, for soldiers' comforts.

SOCIAL SERVICE COUNCIL OPENS ITS OFFICE HERE WEDNESDAY THIS WEEK

The Social Service Council of London, organized in June, has been engaged in preparation work during the intervening weeks for its business in life, that of co-ordinating all activities in the city working for social welfare. For the present, the secretary will be in the office, of which the use has been granted, in the city hall, each Wednesday morning and Friday afternoon.

Opens on Wednesday.

Wednesday this week will be opening day at the office, though there will be no formalities in this connection. The secretary will be on duty and will be glad to confer with any representatives of organizations who have questions to ask, or who are seeking the co-operation of the council in welfare work. The council makes its formal bow to the public as an organization in September, when it appears as sponsor for the first of a series of lectures on subjects related to civic and social welfare.

Interesting Subjects.

City Clerk Baker has made arrangements for the series which includes such subjects as "The City Budget"; "Civic Government"; "Factory Laws"; "Sanitation," and "Wages." Among the lecturers will be President Braithwaite of the Western University; Inspector Burke, chief inspector of factories of Ontario; Lieut.-Col. McCullough, chief provincial medical officer of health, and Mayor C. R. Somerville.

The lectures will be given monthly in the city hall.

Through the Social Service Council, it is believed that overlapping in welfare work in London will be effectually overcome, the council serving the purpose of a clearing house.

CHARGE DISMISSED

"If you will give me another chance I will do better," said Wilfrid Porter to Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon this morning, when he faced the court on a nominal charge of vagrancy. Porter, who was working at the asylum, went to a farmhouse east of the city one evening some time ago in company with one of the female inmates of the institution, and it is said that he asked the farmer for a room, which was refused.

They were brought into the city by the farmer, and Porter was held in jail, and his companion was returned to the institution. Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop submitted that as the woman could not be brought into court, no evidence could be offered in the case. Dismissing the accused, Magistrate Graydon warned him his next appearance in court would be liable to send him to a house of correction, from which he was discharged about two years ago.

PRIESTCRAFT BASIS IS MINISTERIAL FEAR OF CONGREGATIONS

So Declares Rev. Robert Norwood in Lecture.

APPEALS FOR THE TRUTH

And Believes Preachers Will Some Time Gain Courage To Tell It.

As a lecturer, as a powerful platform personality, Rev. Robert Norwood former rector of Cronyn Memorial Church, is not without fame in his own city. As a noted speaker, without mention of his name, it was announced that he would address the Theosophical Society in the I. O. F. hall last evening. But the speaker's identity leaked out and the hall was filled with the cream of the city's intelligence, who listened for over two hours to a fervid, impassioned address.

The evening's discourse was prefaced by a piano solo from Miss Irene Burns and a reading by Mrs. Ed. Westland from Mr. Norwood's poems, "The Song of the Son." In introducing the speaker, Edward H. McKone, president of the Theosophical Society, quoted the remark of a prominent citizen who once declared that in 25 years no man had affected him so profoundly as had Robert Norwood, and that he believed that no other man had left so lasting an impression on Western Ontario. Mr. McKone anticipated the delight of the audience in listening to Mr. Norwood, whom he described as "the poet who preaches."

Ministerial Fears.

Mr. Norwood opened his address with a reference to the significance of his reappearance in London on an August evening, that was touched with autumn's beauty and winter's tang, yet held reminiscence of the fading summer. Today he called man's birthday, and expressed the opinion that was not far away, the preachers will become courageous enough to tell the truth, for he declared that the basis of priestcraft is ministerial fear of congregations. Religious tyranny has prevailed since the days of Nineveh. Priestly authority, as found in orthodox congregations from the Roman and Anglican cathedrals to the Pentecostal missions, maintains its power because the ministers of the gospel and people alike may be compared to the children of Israel, who refused to give up the mess of pottage, the old-fashioned broth, because they liked the familiar taste of it. But many are today spiritually broadening until they recognize God working in all things.

Age in Religious Systems.

Outworn religious systems, according to Mr. Norwood, have their beauty since God has made all things beautiful, each in its own season, but all pay the price for growing old, in loss of vitality, vigor and independence. Just as old age creeps on the human body, so is there a moment of old age in religious systems. And so by slow degrees, God is leading each one of us to the mountain peak of a new vision, but it will not do to be unmindful of the desert sands that are past, or of the nightly pitchings of tents, or the sleeping under starless skies, any more than we can be heedless of the glorious dawn.

God does not judge men by the number of steps he travels, or by the sincerity of the goals attained, but rather by the fervor and the persistency with which man seeks after His likeness. God as the creator is the only critic.

Joy of Living.

Life, he compared to a divine Canterbury pilgrimage, made up of a mixed multitude. The joy of living is in seeing new truths and manifestations, hence the beauty and the wonder of the belief that God is not only the shepherd, but He is the sheep; and even the sky above the sheep; He is not only the grass, but the greenness of the grass; not only the water, but the mirror that reflects back the image that looks in the water. The measure of understanding of infinite love is the measure of individual love. Mr. Norwood compared the attitude of those who are still satisfied with the weak and beggarly elements of religious experience to those in the caravan who were wont to sigh for the flesh-pots of Egypt and needed the spur of the master's whip.

With this outline as an introduction, Mr. Norwood began his discourse, taking the text, "Whom He did foreknow, He also did predestinate to be conformed unto the image of His Son." (Rom. viii.). God's knowledge is God's thought. God's thoughts are real, historic thoughts. All real thought is historic, in that it results in something. "Thoughts are things," is a beatitude of this age. Today the world is divided into two classes, those who still cling to the letter of the law, and others who are determined to interpret truths for themselves.

Evil—Undeveloped Good.

In anticipating the objection of those who would question the responsibility of the evil in the world, Mr. Norwood declared that it is error to believe that God sanctions evil. Rather, he declared, God thinks evil, for evil is but undeveloped good, good in its foetal stage. And the thought of God is the leaven in the lump that will make the whole mass of creation spirit. Evil only exists in the mental attitude of men towards the development of certain phases of God's thought. Evil is to good what pre-natal life is to post-natal life.

The speaker refuted the Calvinistic doctrine that claims salvation for only ten per cent of mankind. It embraces all men, for God foreknew all, and predestinated all to be the image of His Son. Realization of this conformity to the image of the Son of God is only possible to the man who accepts life as it is, with its trials and crosses and thorns, believing that the evil that he sees and the harm that come to him is a part of the plan of God, who will evolve a perfect spiritual creature out of the womb of his own thought.

CANUCKS HAVE COME THROUGH WITH LOSSES BELOW 6,000

Total Casualties Far Below Prisoners Taken.

REMARKABLE PERFORMANCE

Two Boche Divisional Headquarters Captured—Not a Kink Left in Line.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, Aug. 18—Canadian casualties sustained in the fighting in which the corps has recently participated to its further honor and glory are declared to be surprisingly light.

It is estimated that they total between five and six thousand, and are less than the prisoners captured.

Viewed from the standpoint of the importance of the gains made and prisoners and booty captured they are in fact lighter by far than any sustained by the Canadian troops in any former engagement of importance.

For comparison the second battle of Ypres may be cited, which cost the first Canadian division alone 5,000 casualties; the taking of Vimy Ridge, where 13,461 casualties were sustained; Lens, where casualties totalled 10,134; Hill 70, 10,000, and Paschendaele Ridge, in the taking of which last autumn the heavy total of 24,530 casualties were sustained.

CANADIANS HAVE IRONED OUT DANGEROUS KINKS.

(By J. F. B. Livesay, Canadian Press Correspondent.)

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN THE FIELD, Aug. 16.—(Noon)—Via London, Aug. 18.—A splendidly-organized and executed combined operation by the troops has resulted in the complete straightening of our line in our right, northwest of Roye, by the capture of the strongly-held villages of Parvillers and Damery. The latter place fell into our hands yesterday afternoon.

Witnessing our success the French immediately south of us ave a fine example of their traditional elan and dash and made a brilliant attack. They carried the wood of Damery, Villers-les-Roye, and Scaurin. When they had brought their line up parallel with our own, as a result of a week's fighting in which the originally-selected field of assault was extended by our French allies many miles south and east th,e entire line from Albert to Soissons had been straightened, immensely to our advantage.

No Weak Spots in Line.

We offer no salients to an enemy thrust, even if he were in an adventurous mood. The victorious course of the second battle of Amiens occasioned a loss to the enemy of some thirty thousand prisoners and well over six hundred guns besides thousands of machine guns, immense stores of material of all kinds and almost the entire fruit of his great drive of last spring.

Fighting over the self-same, but in the contrary direction, the Allies are almost everywhere debouching onto the ancient battlefield of the Somme. Enormous booty has fallen into the hands of the French these days. As the enemy has retired sullenly from the pocket southwest of Roye, blowing up ammunition dumps and destroying so far as he could the heavy guns he could not extricate because of the suddenness and violence of their onslaught, which carried them each day to the very crest of our wave of penetration, the Canadians did brilliantly.

Two Headquarters Captured.

Two divisional headquarters were captured intact as well as several brigade and battalion headquarters. Boche regulation field glasses may be bought in our ranks for a song or traded for a supply of that much-scarcer commodity, cigarettes. The market for iron crosses has had a terrible slump. Relatively narrow as is the offensive front of the Canadian force, the people of Canada may reflect with pride that it has been the spearhead of the centre attack and that it stands today actually stronger than it did when waiting in the chill dawn the hour of "zero." It stands eager and impatient to be at it again on a grand scale.

But to describe the Canadian force as at a standstill is a confusion of terms. Ever since the second battle of Ypres it has never surrendered a foot of ground it has once consolidated, and it has never taken a line of trenches without, within the week, making itself absolute master of the No Man's Land beyond. For the time being its chafing spirit has been assuaged by the brilliant actions mentioned above and which deserved a fuller record.

The initial attacks on Gaivillers were opened at a quarter past six by a hurricane bombardment by specially concentrated artillery—another wonderful show by our magnificent gunners. Fifteen minutes later the men went over the top and captured the village with only five casualties. One unit with a very distinguished record pushed on straight through the village, but found that a larger enemy force had worked around to their rear.

Fight Way Out, Then On.

Nothing daunted our men faced about and fighting a rear-guard action on its former front fought its way back and out of a critical situation. Re-forming behind a line of enemy trenches, it later, with the aid of other troops, took the village by a concentrated movement.

All the enemy's attacks here failed. He made three distinct assaults, coming on four deep from two directions and leaving several hundred dead before the village. One officer described it as the hardest infantry fighting since Mouquet farm.

Not less splendid was the action at Damery. The assault was intrusted to a force of New Ontario troops. After capturing the village in brilliant fashion they beat off the counter-attack of three battalions, capturing some 250 prisoners, and leaving in front of them several hundred enemy dead. This force even pushed on to more forward positions.

On Outskirts of Lassigny.

It is hardly to be wondered that witnessing this gallant fight our generous French allies immediately on our right could no longer restrain their ardor, but immediately attacked in conjunction with us. The French this morning were reported to be in the outskirts of Lassigny and the line then to the Ancre runs as follows: Through or near Canny-sur-Matz, Tilloloy, Popincourt, Dancourt and St. Aurin to Villers-le-Roye, the British line starting at Damery, through or near Parvillers, Foquescourt, Chipilly, Lihona, towards Chuignolles, and across the Somme to a little west of Bray. From there the line runs north to Albert with little change in this sector.

Following up their success today the French pushed forward and captured the very strong position known as the "Z" wood, on the Roye road, so called because of its peculiar formation. This is situated on the hundred-foot contour and commands the surrounding country. Around its base are numerous subterranean galleries, capable of sheltering a battalion. It is, in fact, the key to the entire position and of immense value to further operations by the Canadian force.

CAPT. HAROLD GRAY DROWNED IN FRANCE, STATES CABLEGRAM

London Boy Was Bathing On Friday Night.

VOLUNTEERED AS PRIVATE

And Became Adjutant of Battalion Before Leaving for Overseas.

Word reached the officers of the Huron & Erie Mortgage Corporation this morning to the effect that Capt. Harold S. Gray, son of Lieut. George Gray of the central fire station, was drowned in France while bathing Friday night.

The news came as a severe blow, not only to the family, but to his former associates on the staff of the Huron & Erie, with which institution Capt. Gray had been connected for a number of years, holding the post of teller at the head office and also assisting in the advertising department at the time of his enlistment. He was one of the corporation's most efficient employees.

Capt. Gray first joined a local battalion as a private, and took an officer's course while in training. He was successful from the first, and soon attained captain's rank and became adjutant of a well-known local battalion. At the time of his death in France, where he had been for upwards of two years, he held a staff position. He had seen a considerable number of engagements.

The cablegram stating that he had been drowned came from Canadian headquarters, and stated that full particulars would be received later. The members of the family were notified of the tragedy by the Huron & Erie officers.

PRESIDENT OF FAIR BOARD WOULD HAVE U.S. BATTALION HERE

Lieut.-Col. Gartshore in Favor of Idea.

That the presence of an American battalion on parade at the Western Fair would be decidedly an added attraction is the opinion of Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore, president of the Western Fair Board. Washington has given permission for the troops under command of a brigadier-general to visit the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, and it is thought that, if after discussion, the project seems feasible, arrangements can be made for the soldiers to spend some time in London. Col. Gartshore is in favor of the idea and will bring the matter before the committee.

[illegible] Hunt, secretary of the board, [illegible] to The Advertiser that the military authorities had not yet decided upon what attractions they would supply for the fair, and as this matter of American soldiers would be under their control, it is not unlikely that they will take steps to consider the prospect.

"FROM LONDON, AND IS SOME COLONEL"

Tribute Paid by Ottawa Soldier to Lieut.-Col. L. H. Nelles.

"He comes from London, Ontario, and he is some colonel."

This was the tribute paid by George Choquette of Ottawa in an interview given in a London hospital to a correspondent of the Montreal Gazette and Toronto Mail and Empire.

Choquette added that "Our colonel is the youngest in command of a Canadian battalion. He led us a merry dance. When held up at any time, he came round asking how we were, sharing his cigarettes and encouraging us."

It is believed that reference is made to Lieut.-Col. L. H. Nelles, son of J. H. Nelles, who was reported wounded the other day. Col. Nelles is believed to be the youngest man in command of a battalion.

EX-LONDONER WOUNDED.—Corp. Harold R. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rogers, former residents of North London, but now of Hamilton, has been wounded. Word which has reached the city is to the effect that he is in a military hospital at Reading, England, with a gunshot wound in the right side.

DEFAULTERS ATTACHED. — The local mobilization centre was very inactive on Saturday, when only two defaulters and one apprehended man were brought before the medical board. The men were placed in classes E2, E and A2, all being attached to the Western Ontario Regiment stationed in this city.

PTE. E. PITT WOUNDED. — Mrs. Ethel Roy Pitt, 191 Colborne street, received word that her husband, Pte. Ethel Pitt has been wounded. He is in No. 2 Canadian General Hospital at Letreport, with a gunshot wound in his right foot. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pitt, formerly of Thorndale.

AUTO VICTIM IMPROVES.—J. B. Cox, 531 Richmond street, who was injured when struck by an automobile driven by J. Fosett of Lambeth, on Saturday, is improving, according to latest reports from Victoria Hospital. One of his ankles was broken, and he received severe injuries about the head. No serious complications are looked for from his injuries.

WILL WIDEN GRADE. — County Engineer Charles Talbot is preparing for increasing the width of the grade at Battle Hill near Strathburn, and also for the diverting of the Longwoods road west of Wardsville, where the river has been encroaching on the roadway. The new bridge on the Sarnia gravel was opened to traffic on Monday.

LEAVES FOR TORONTO.—Ex-Principal S. J. Radcliffe of the Normal School left today for his new home in Toronto, where he assumes his duties as principal of the Toronto Normal School, in the course of few weeks. He is motoring down, accompanied by Mrs. Radcliffe and her sister, Miss Sholtz, and their nephews, Sam and Radcliffe Loghrin. Mr. Radcliffe has purchased a home in Rosedale, formerly the residence of Mr. Scully, a past president of the Toronto Canadian Club, who is removing to Montreal.

HAD NO PAPERS.—John Savalas, formerly of Greece, but more recently of Kincardine, was apprehended in Kincardine last week, and sent to the military authorities here for not carrying any identification papers or anything to show that he is not liable for military service. He asserts that he is 37 years old, and also that he is a Greek citizen, andtherefore not liable for service under the M.S.A. His reason for not carrying papers was that he had written the Greek consul at New York for them, but had received no answer. The case was enlarged in order that the authorities may communicate with the consul. As Savalas is a businessman of Kincardine, he was allowed to go home, but he will be required to report to the authorities there.

M. Martin, also a former Western Ontario boy. In the meantime, Mr. Scott has been residing in Los Angeles, California, and in Victoria, B. C., the climate contributing to his full recovery.

For a number of years, Mr. Scott was prominent as a newspaperman in the West, and was widely known as editor and owner of the Regina Leader.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF MRS. JENNER.

Following a short illness, death came suddenly on Tuesday, August 13 to a most esteemed and highly respected lady is the person of Mrs. William E. Jenner of Byron, Ont.

Mrs. Jenner was 61 years of age and before her marriage was Miss Catharine Hawley, daughter of the late John Hawley, Concession 10, Harwich Township. Her young life was spent at home and from early childhood Mrs. Jenner was much loved by everyone. After marriage, having resided at Charing Cross, Botany, Northwood and Byron, she was widely known, winning a large circle of friends through her kindly, affectionate and sympathetic disposition.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. I. W. Kilpatrick of Shedden, formerly pastor at Northwood, assisted by Rev. Mr. Holmes of Byron. Mr. Kilpatrick had known the late Mrs. Jenner not only as a faithful member of his church at Northwood, but also as a kind helpful neighbor. The entire service was one of great consolation to the bereaved family and friends, assuring them of the hope of re-union beyond the grave. The choir rendered very impressively "In the Homeland."

Mrs. Jenner is survived by four brothers, Alfred, William, John and Gilbert, and two sisters, Mrs. James Auffman and Mrs. James Eves, besides the sorrowing husband and nine children: Mrs. Walter Knott of Charing Cross, Mrs. Stephen Reid of Bethel, Mrs. Harry Morgan of Chatham, Tressa, James, Gilbert and Norman at home, and Andrew and Charles of the northwest.

The remains were quietly laid to rest in Woodland Cemetery, the pallbearers being six nephews, Thomas Jenner, Harvey Jenner, John Jenner, Roy Ritchie, Will Huffman and Gilbert Eves.

The numerous floral offerings sent by relatives and friends included beautiful pillows and sprays from the Queen Alexandria Sanatorium, Methodist Church and the Merryworkers of Byron.

DEATH OF LAYTON PIDD.

The death occurred in this city on Sunday at the Victoria Hospital of Layton Pidd, after a short illness. Mr. Pidd was a well-known resident of this city, having lived here for many years. Beside his widow, Mrs. Hannah Pidd, he is survived by four daughters, Mrs. W. F. Hodgins of Winnipeg; Mrs. Harry Butler, Mrs. F. Fortner and Mrs. Charles Quick, all of this city, and one son, Newman, of this city. The funeral will take place Wednesday at 2 o'clock, and the services will be conducted at 1:30 o'clock by Rev. B. L. Hutton, after which interment will be made in the Granton Cemetery.

DEATH OF J. A. LANGFORD.

Jehu Alexander Langford of this city died at his home, 860 William street, Sunday, in his 67th year. Mr. Langford was well known about this city and district, living retired after coming here several years ago from a farm in Kippen which he formerly owned. The body will be forwarded to Lucknow on Tuesday morning. Interment will be made at Lucknow Cemetery.

NURSES HAVE FELT FAIRLY SAFE WHILE ON HOSPITAL SHIPS

Nursing Sister Regan Makes Light of Dangers.

HAS SEEN MUCH SERVICE

Was Eighteen Months in France and Six Months On Transports.

"It is up in the casualty clearing stations that the nursing sisters get the real thing in the way of war experiences," stated Nursing Sister Elizabeth Regan, who arrived in the city today for a brief visit with her sister, Mrs. M. J. Donohue, 922 Wellington street, before returning to Halifax for duty, the end of this week. This statement was made in face of the fact that she has been attached to the staff of a hospital transport, the steamship Araguaya, plying between Liverpool and Halifax for the past six months.

Knew of Submarines.

"We have known that submarines were in our vicinity," she said to The Advertiser today, "but we have always felt comparatively safe, owing to the fact that hospital ships on the Atlantic have been practically immune from attack until recently. The order calls for carrying of life-belts in the submarine zone, but that becomes a matter of form with us. In any case, we are serving in the war for whatever comes. The men being invalided home are always so happy to be getting back that they do not give thought to danger. As far as I am concerned, I can tell you, Ontario looks exceedingly good to me today."

Long in Service.

Nursing Sister Regan, a graduate of St. Michael's Hospital Training School, Toronto, who was formerly in charge of the training school of St. Joseph's Hospital, Pt. Arthur, has been three and a half years on service overseas, and this is her first visit inland in Canada and to relatives, though she has been coming to Halifax for the past six months.

All Get Bombed.

Of eighteen months' experience in France, seven months were spent at a casualty clearing hospital. Referring to the experience of London girls at Etaples during the bombing of the latter part of May, "Every nurse some time sooner or later experiences bombing. We did at the casualty clearing hospitals, and every nurse some time or another is in an air raid in England."

Tribute to the Red Cross.

A special tribute of praise was given to the Red Cross. "We nurses feel that we owe a special debt of gratitude to the Canadian Red Cross," she said. "The standard of the supplies of the Red Cross has always maintained its high excellence, and the debt of those serving overseas to the Red Cross is instimable."

FORMER LONDONER ACTING SECRETARY OF WINDSOR ROTARY

Windsor, Aug. 19.—The businessmen of the city are organizing a Rotary Club, and it is expected that the organization will be completed within a few weeks. At a recent meeting H. J. Neal was appointed temporary president, with E. V. Smith, manager of the Huron & Erie, as secretary. The new organization will be affiliated with the Rotary clubs of other cities of Canada, and the official organizer will arrive in the city shortly to explain the aims of the clubs in the various centres. It is the intention to include businessmen of the border cities, and the club, when fully organized, will be one of the largest in the country.

FINE ONLY TWO DOLLARS, BUT COSTS ARE HEAVY

Two dollars and costs is apparently a light fine, but possibly Thomas Colter did not think so this morning as he paid into Squire Chittick's court $14.05, the amount of the fine, plus the costs. Mr. Colter of Westminster was charged by William J. Murphy, also of Westminster, with using grossly insulting and blasphemous language, and the above fine was imposed by Squire Chittick.

Mr. Murphy was charged with a similar offence by the defendant before one of the other justices of the peace some time ago, when he was bound over to keep the peace. The case this morning was the sequence apparently. It seems that the two neighbors had a wordy encounter and brought each other to court as a result.

TWO DESERTERS TAKEN FROM JAIL FOR FRONT

Kingston penitentiary has apparently been cheated out of two boarders who had intended staying there for two years.

Pte. E. Reist who was recently convicted by court-martial of wilfully maiming himself to prevent his going overseas and sentenced to two years in Kingston penitentiary, was on Saturday turned over to the military authorities from the jail, where he was awaiting transportation to the limestone city.

Adam Dimittronakis, who loved not the skirl of the bagpipes, for he deserted from the 241st Battalion, popularly known as the Scottish Borderers, was also given in charge of the military. He was sentenced in police court recently to two years at Kingston. Both will be taken overseas shortly.

BITTER FIGHT MAY BE STAGED ON FIRE TROUBLES TONIGHT

Reinstatement of Tozer Bone of Contention.

TROUBLE WILL FOLLOW

Firemen Will Ask Council why Conciliation Board Is Not Granted.

"That Fire Captain Thomas Tozer be reinstated and employed in whatever capacity the chief sees fit."

The above resolution from No. 1 committee will be presented to the city council tonight. It is the outcome of the dismissal of Captain Tozer by Chief Aitken.

Judging from the comment on the street, the committee's recommendation will cause a bitter fight, the result of which is hard to foretell.

One thing is almost certain, there will be further trouble, no matter the decision. If Captain Tozer is not reinstated, he promises to make trouble and has already made a start by filing charges against certain members of the department and attacking the administration of Chief Aitken.

Strike Is Possible.

If Capt. Tozer is reinstated, trouble will come from the other firemen. This may assume the form of a strike. President Bolton said that the firemen's union will meet Tuesday night. If Capt. Tozer was ordered reinstated by the council the meeting would consider what action should be taken. He pointed out that the firemen's union did not ask for Tozer's dismissal. However, in the light of recent events, he did not think that the other firemen would work with him.

There will be more trouble added to the muddle by the appearance at the council meeting tonight of a deputation demanding a reason from the council as to why its two-months' old request for a board of conciliation has not been granted.

Committee's Probe.

When the firemen asked for a board, the council, instead of granting it, referred the matter to a special committee of three with power. The committee went into the firemen's grievances and endeavored to settle them. Its report was presented to the council. The committee had already acted on many of the clauses of the report. The dismissal of Capt. Tozer was one of them. The council tore sundry holes in the report. It sent the important clauses back to the committee. The committee considered them, and now they are going back to the council tonight.

Up in the Air.

Chief Aitken says the firemen seemed well satisfied with the turn of events when they received the report of the special committee. Now th matter is "up in the air," to quote Mayor Somerville.

It would seem as if the whoe trouble will be aired at the meeting tonight. Ald. W. Wilson will likely lead the fight to have Tozer reinstated. Ald. Watkinson seconded his motion before the committee on Wednesday night last. He will, therefore, support the resolution tonight. Ald. F. Harley and Controller C. Merryfield will, as members of the special committee, support their own report, so their two votes will kill the Wilson-Watkins votes, or vice versa. That is about as far as it is safe to go. How the other votes will go it is impossible to surmise.

Controller Saunders stated on Friday that the whole matter was a "nice mess." The matter has been hanging fire since early in May.

DUGOUT IN CELLAR OF SCHOOLHOUSE IN OLD FRENCH VILLAGE

Watson Martindale Tells of Life at Front.

An interesting letter has been received by Dr. J. W. Martindale of Camden, New Jersey, who is a well-known London old boy, from his son, Watson Martindale, who has served for several months with the American forces in France. Since writing this letter, the son of this well-known former Londoner has been seriously wounded, and is being returned to the United States.

In Good Billet.

The letter in full follows:

"At the present moment I am in a tiny French village, now famous in American history, which is surrounded on three sides by the Germans. It is the last word in ruins. My dugout occupies the cellar of a schoolhouse, and has pretty fair protection, in that a Boche shell would have to penetrate three walls before even reaching the thick vault of the cellar roof.

"That does not worry me so much as the gas which is just in the courtyard. We have a curtain soaked in water stretched across the doorway, which may hold out some of it.

Boche Near at Hand.

"The Boche line in some places is about thirty yards from us. You can see their barbed wire. Our positions are in houses and behind walls. It is about the same position as if I were standing in my old bedroom window, representing the Allies, and the Boche would be in Bingemann's back yard. At Tidall's house the Boche fades away to Twenty-seventh street. At Lawyer Rose's house there is a railway station held by the Germans. Their lines are in our rear at Twenty-fourth and Marlton pike and at Twenty-fourth and High. Their line is one of trenches. We occupy the windows of barns, houses, behind wagons, haystacks, etc., where groups of men are stationed with machine guns and with automatic rifles. Today the battalion supporting our right cleaned out a wood occupied by the enemy. Six planes were engaged. Each plane covered a certain sector and patrolled it back and forth regardless of the enemy's shrapnel and high explosives. We have not been able to learn how successful our attack has been.

Among Friends.

"There are several Camdenites in my ambulance company. One is named Roser, from Fifth and York streets, and the other is named Brannen.

"It is rather interesting to sit in a house and look over into German territory, but try as I would, even with glasses, I could not see the slightest vestige of life. The Boche is very clever at seeking cover. Snipers are active. We have marks over the wall of our cellar stairs where their bullets landed, but since we walled up a shell hole in an adjacent wall through which they conducted their nefarious activities, there has been nothing doing.

"The marines threw dead bodies in the wells or any other old place when they took the town, consequently some of the water smells bad.

"Not knowing the town had been captured, a lieutenant marched a platoon of men into the public square, and the marines killed every man."

PTE. NATE BEBINGTON NOW A BOOKKEEPER

WABASH, Aug. 18. — Pte. Nate Bebington, who went overseas with the 70th Battalion and was wounded severely in some of the big battles, is now acting in the capacity of bookkeeper in one of the hospital mess rooms.

Pte. Bebington was also one of the victims of a hospital air raid and was scalded very badly on the hand and forearm.

His hand, which has been lanced seven times, is very slow in healing, according to word received here.

ADVERTISER PRIZES FOR DOLLAR DAY TO BE GIVEN IN CASH

Merchants Preparing for Big Business on Thursday.

Every progressive merchant in London is making ready for Dollar Day, to be held on Thursday, August 22. Every merchant has gone over his stock selecting the bargains which will be offered to the public on Thursday. The former Dollar Days have been so successful that every effort now is being made by the merchants to give inducements for this well-known event.

The Treasure Box Fund created a big interest last February. The sum of $250 has been set aside for prizes. Customers are given coupons with each dollar sale. Prizes are then drawn and awarded. The first prize is $25.00 with other sums from $10.00, $5.00 and $1.00.

Instead of running the mysterious Mr. Dollar, The London Advertiser decided to award cash prizes. After the merchants have drawn prizes from the Treasure Box, additional coupons will be drawn from the box, awarding prizes to the amount of $25. This will increase interest in the Treasure Box Fund and give others the opportunity of winning prizes.

POSTAL CLERKS AND CARRIERS AWAITING CABINET'S DECISION

Answer to Their Demands Is Promised by Tuesday.

Tomorrow, August 20, is the last day for the Government to give its answer to the demands of the letter-carriers and postal and railway mail clerks.

When the letter-carriers strike was called off it was on the promise of the cabinet that their demands would be immediately considered and an answer forthcoming on or before August 20. So far not a word has been heard by the London carriers or clerks.

Press dispatches from Ottawa today state that the cabinet council met at noon today to consider the matter. It is a special meeting called for the purpose.

The matter under advisement is a double one.

In one case the whole eastern service, carriers, clerks and railway mail clerks are interested. It is the request of the eastern workers that they be granted the same provisional allowance as is paid to the Western Canada workers. For some years past these workers have received $180 a year higher than the eastern. This was to meet the higher cost of living in the west. The eastern workers contend that it costs as much to live in the east as in the west today.

The second phase of the matter concerns the carriers. They are asking for a minimum salary of $1,000 a year and a maximum of $1,400.

About 150 Londoners are involved in the cabinet's decision.

LLOYD BRAITHWAITE REPORTED WOUNDED

University Head's Son Is in an Australian Hospital.

Pte. Lloyd Braithwaite, second son of President E. E. Braithwaite of the Western University, has been wounded in action, according to information received in the city today. He was admitted to the 3rd Australian General Hospital at Abbeville on August 9, suffering from gunshot wound in the right arm. President and Mrs. Braithwaite and family are at their summer home at Unionville.

A younger son of Dr. and Mrs. Braithwaite, Pte. Scott Braithwaite, is in France with No. 10 Western University Stationary Hospital.

OFFICERS SELECTED BY SHOE WORKERS

Hamilton was chosen for the next annual gathering by the provincial boot and shoe workers' convention, which was held in this city on Saturday last. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Walter Brown, Toronto, president; Edgar Drage, Preston, secretary; E. W. A. O'Dell, Hamilton, vice-president.

The introduction of female help in the shoe factories occupied some time during Saturday afternoon session. The convention was not opposed to the innovation, but it was unanimously decided that the women workers should be paid the same rate of wages as the men, where equal service was rendered. The wage scales of the province were also discussd at some length. After much deliberation a resolution was passed authorizing the executive committee to make an inquiry into the different rates paid in various parts of the province.

LONDON'S CASUALTY LIST LONG; RESULT OF GREAT BATTLES

One Killed and Fourteen Suffer Wounds.

ALL GUNSHOT WOUNDS

Pte. William Sweeney Victim of Shrapnel in Leg, Knee and Hand.

The grimness of war is keenly felt in London today. Within the past 24 hours, numbers of little yellow or green messages have told the story to anxious families of loved ones who have been victims of the last big drive in which the Canadians have had a prominent part. However, with very few exceptions, the telegrams announce that the gallant fighters have been admitted to hospitals with wounds, thereby bringing a message of hope of restoration to home again.

Mrs. W. Martin of London Junction P. O., has been notified that Pte. William Sweeney, infantry, died of wounds at the First Field Ambulance Depot on August 8. The official announcement states that he had received a shrapnel wound in the leg and fractured knee and hand.

Mrs. Mildred Radcliffe, 8 Love road, city, has been notified that Pte. Harry Marshall was admitted to No. 2 Canadian General Hospital, Letreport, August 9, suffering from gunshot wound in the back.

According to an official notification received by Mrs. Elizabeth Morton, 1097 Florence street, Henry Edward Morton has been admitted to the Fifth General Hospital, Rouen, with gunshot wound in the face.

Pte. John Gordon Hayes, who is reported admitted to No. 1 Stationary Hospital, Rouen, on August 9, with gunshot wound in the left arm, is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hayes, 1457 Dundas street east. He went overseas with a Middlesex battalion and was transferred.

Mrs. Jennie Neil, 700 Dundas street, has received word that her son, Pte. George William Neil, infantry, has been admitted to No. 10 General Hospital, Rouen, with gunshot wound in the face. The boy went over a couple of years ago with the Cycle Corps and had the pleasant experience of a surprise meeting with his father in France shortly after he reached there. The father, who was a cook in the army, was killed several months ago.

Farmer Wounded.

Among the latest casualties appears the name of Pte. John Frederick Gardner, reported admitted to the 12th General Hospital, Rouen, August 10, suffering from gunshot wounds in the left leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Janman, 25 Empress avenue, with whom he made his home when in the city, received the official notification.

Pte. Gardner was born in England, but came to this country when a young lad, and was engaged in farming at Wilton Grove at the time of his acceptance for service with a local Battalion. From the beginning of the war, he had tried to enlist, but was repeatedly turned down before being accepted by the medical board. Two brothers are in the army, a younger brother, Harry, who left London with the 6th Field Battery, and an older brother, Thomas, who is at present in England recovering from wounds.

Mrs. Saltous, 95 Cavendish street, has received word that Charles A. J. Saltous was admitted on August 9 to the 2nd Canadian General Hospital, with gunshot wounds in the left shoulder.

Pte. Geo. F. King

Pte. Leslie Clemence is reported admitted to the 4th Southern General Hospital, Plymouth August 12, wounded in the wrist and arm, the notification coming to Mrs. Clemence, Windsor avenue.

Pte. A. King, 1st C. G. R. 36 Front street, was notified yesterday that his son, Pte. George F. King, had received a gunshot wound in the wrist on August 11. This is the third time he has been wounded.

Many Gunshot Wounds.

Edward Rooke, 77 Wellington street, has been notified that his son, Pte. Edward Rooke, was admitted to the 2nd Canadian-Australian General Hospital, Wimereux, on August 10, with gunshot wound in the right thigh.

Pte. Harry Mitchell Boyle was admitted to the County of Middlesex War Hospital, Hapsburry, St. Albans, August 13, with gunshot wound in the left leg the notification coming to Mrs. Mary Smith, 208 Rectory street.

Mrs. Clara Pettit, 580 King street, has been notified that Lance-Corp. Fred Pettit was admitted to the General Hospital, Rouen, on August 11, with gunshot wound in the left shoulder.

Mrs. Atkinson, 98 Empress avenue has been notified that Pte. Herbert Atkinson was admitted to the 2nd Canadian General Hospital, Letreport, August 8, with gunshot wound in the right foot.

A telegram to Mrs. W. Y. A. Hunter, 888 Queen's avenue, announces that Pte. Richard Young was admitted to No. 12 General Hospital, Rouen, on August 11 with gunshot wound in the mouth.

Pte. Jack Twitchen, infantry, was admitted to the 5th Southern General Hospital, Southsea, on August 13, with gunshot wounds in the left arm, the official notice coming to John Twitchen, 72 Cavendish street.

SUNDAY NIGHT'S LISTS.

A large number of Londoners have been listed as casualties as a result of the recent offensive. Messages began to arrive last night and continued to come in exceptionally large numbers.

Among those to suffer wounds is Sergt. Major. Alex. Eastwood, son of W. A. Eastwood, 390 Waterloo street. A cable received last night brought word to his father that he had been wounded in the left arm, but was feeling fine. He is in Warrington Hospital.

Another Londoner who was wounded was Sergt. Charles Harding, according to word received by Mrs. Harding, 664 Maitland street. He is in No. 10 General Hospital, Rouen, suffering from gunshot wounds in the arm and hip.

Arthur L. Keene, furniture merchant, residing at 415 St. James street, received word Sunday that his brother, Pte. Wilfrid Keene, son of the late H. B. Keene, had been wounded during last week's fighting. He enlisted in the A.S.C. when 17 years old and transferred to the infantry. He went into the front line in July, after having been six months in France. The cablegram stated that he was in an English hospital suffering from a gunshot wound in the arm. He is a graduate of Woodstock College and has a large circle of friends.

OLD JOKE OF WHISKEY BOTTLE AND TEA SLIPS

ST. THOMAS, Aug. 18.—The Advertiser learned today of a rather interesting practical joke which two well-known local young men attempted to play on License Inspector Ross. According to the story, which has been given wide circulation, the men obtained a couple of whiskey bottles and after filling them with weak tea, they watched for that ever alert official. Seeing him headed for the city hall, they posted themselves near the main entrance and began to imbibe of the contents of the bottle. The joke, as it happened, seemed of the boomerang type, as the inspector walked past the men with only a glance toward where they were standing.

Seeing that the joke had been turned on themselves the two men retraced their steps homeward.

THE GOOD SHOE STORE

AUTO DESTROYED BY FIRE AND OCCUPANTS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Defective wiring to the rear light, causing a short circuit, started a blaze under the rear seat of Edwin Smith's Saxon Six car when, in company with ex-Ald. John Nutkins and Charles Hollins, he was returning from a motor trip to St. Thomas early Saturday evening.

The party had gone to St. Thomas to arrange for advertising for the English picnic, and were on the Wellington road, near the 2nd concession of Westminster, when Mr. Hollins, who was alone in the rear seat, noticed that the side opposite to where he set was in flames. All three beat at the flames with the robes from the car, as no house or water was near, but they were unable to effect much, for a high wind was blowing and the fire gained headway in the interior of the car, before it burst through the upholstering. Fearing the tank, containing eight gallons of gasoline would explode, they abandoned the task, but though no explosion occurred, the gas tank burnt out within five minutes after the fire was noticed.

Mr. Hollins escaped with a burnt coat, and Mr. Smith suffered burns on his hands. The pecuniary loss was greatest, for the car, originally worth $1,700, was valued by Mr. Smith at $1,000, and was insured for $600.

W. N. Manning, who passed at the time, carried the party in his car to a telephone and a tow was sent for. The frame-work of the destroyed car was brought to the city, but is only good for the scrap iron heap.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM MALONE.

Although his relatives, home and parents were unknown, the fact that he was a returned soldier gained for William Malone a very impressive military funeral. He, a returned veteran of the Canadian Engineers, who died in the Victoria Hospital Saturday, was buried from St. Mary's Church to St. Peter's Cemetery at 10:30 this morning. The funeral, headed by the military band, and followed by the gun carriage on which was the body of the dead hero, draped in the Union Jack, followed by an escort of military police, left the undertaking parlors of G. E. Logan and proceeded to Dundas street, en route to St. Mary's Church, where a very impressive ceremony was conducted by Rev. Father Corcoran, after which interment was made in St. Peter's Cemetery, to the firing of the salute and the blowing of the last post by men from the Canadian Garrison Regiment. The pallbearers were six men from the battalion, all former comrades of Pte. Malone.

DAIRYMAIDS WANTED.—At the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph there is at the present time a special course being given in dairying. This course is given to girls and women and the purpose of it is to get help on the farm of the province to enable the farmers to continue with their work. The first course is now in progress and the next course which will commence in October will be a repetition of the first one. The girls, after they take this course, are expected to sign up for work on the farms. It is requested by headquarters at Toronto that as many girls as possible be obtained to take up this course and all local girls wishing to do so may apply at the local branch of the Government Employment Bureau.

ment from Field Marshal Haig today. Fifty prisoners and a few machine guns were captured.

A German counter-attack between Outlerstein and Meteren was broken up by the British artillery, the statement says.

The text of the statement reads:

"We secured a few prisoners last night in the Ayette sector and also south of the Scarpe, where our patrols entered the enemy's trenches and penetrated some distance into his position.

"North of the Scarpe a hostile raiding party was repulsed with losses.

"During the night our troops made progress in the Merville sector in spite of the opposition of hostile machine gunners. They captured between 40 and 50 prisoners and a few machine guns.

"Early in the night the enemy launched a counter-attack against our new positions between Outlerstein and Meteren. The attack was completely broken up by our artillery and machine gun fire.

"The total number of prisoners captured in yesterday's successful operation in this sector is not yet available.

"The hostile artillery has shown some activity south of the Somme and has been active southwest and north of Bailleul."

BRITISH ADVANCE LINES 1,000 YARDS ON A FOUR-MILE FRONT

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The British troops west of Armentieres have advanced their line to a depth of one thousand to two thousand yards on a four-mile front between Vieux Berquin and Bailleul and also made progress southwest of Merville, according to the official statement issued this evening.

The village of Outtersten and four hundred prisoners were captured.

An advance also has been made between Chilly and Fransart, lying north of Roye.

NOTABLE GAINS FOR FRENCH.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The French made further progress Saturday north and south of the Avre, and took 1,000 prisoners and numerous machine guns, according to the war office statement last night.

They captured the village of Canny-sur-Matz, and in addition took enemy positions on a front of nearly two miles to a depth of more than a mile in the region of Autreches, in the Soissons sector.

Quite spirited artillery activity on the Avre front and between the Oise and the Aisne Rivers is reported in the official statement issued at the war office early today. The statement says that two surprise attacks by the Germans were repulsed.

There has been spirited artillery fighting in the region between Canny-sur-Matz and Beauvraignes, says the French official communication issued this evening.

LABOR FOR COAL MINES.

IF CANADA chose to hire coolie labor the country could mine a large supply of coal which is not available now because of the shortage of miners. Hon. E. B. Carvell has advocated the importation of 10,000 of these workers from the Orient because he believes the country is facing a coal famine, which will cause "untold suffering" to thousands of people. He would not permit the Chinese laborers to remain in Canada for any length of time, making it plain that his idea would be to send them home again as soon as the coal shortage had been relieved. As the minister of public works views the matter, it is a case of overcoming our aversion to the employment of such labor or freezing during the coming winter. Would organized labor prefer to go short on coal this winter rather than compromise with its long-recorded conviction that east is east and west is west, and never the twain shall meet in the labor markets of Canada?

It is a most difficult problem for the whole country. There are few public men and newspapers who care to commit themselves on the question for fear of the offence they might give organized labor. They realize that the Chinese laborer is being used by tens of thousands in France, and that he has relieved many other men for the fighting forces. He is used in France and given what to him amounts to big wages because of the war crisis. The same war crisis, one degree removed, is what causes the labor shortage at the coal mines of the east and the west. While Canada has a tremendous supply of coal, it has not the men to take it from the mines. The west could double its output and be independent of Pennsylvania anthracite, and the east could secure a supply more than adequate for its needs, were it possible to obtain labor. The importance of the coal question has been brought to the attention of the Government time and again, but nothing has been done, and it may be taken for granted the other members of the cabinet will not be as bold as Mr. Carvell in regard to the employment of coolie labor. The only means by which this labor could be secured would be with the co-operation of organized unions. Some leaders of the labor movement would have to be consulted and convinced of the necessity for granting a special dispensation for the use of Chinese during the labor crisis. In the United States Sam Gompers would sit at a table and discuss the matter with frankness. If Woodrow Wilson told him that the welfare and comfort of the nation were at stake, Gompers would be able to lay the matter before his labor men, certain that if he advanced the matter in good faith and presented his assurance that the use of such labor was to be temporary, it is quite possible that organized labor would agree. They would feel as a man might feel who was drowning, and who must be saved by a boatload of Chinese or perish. In the hour of peril, one would not prevent the rescue of himself or anyone else because of the nationality of the rescuer. If the importation of coolie labor is the only method that will save the coal situation for Canada, The Advertiser believes that a round table conference with labor officers would do much to relieve the prejudice. More coal would be secured almost immediately, the Chinese would come in with the understanding that they were to be sent back when the shortage was relieved, and the public should have the whole question explained. While there is good news each day, it is not likely that the man power of the country will be asked to do less, and if the military drafts upon the laborers continue, the industrial situation will be much more acute. Now is the time for combined action.

A CORRECT ESTIMATE OF "THE DAY."

FRANK H. SIMONDS quotes a statement made to him by Paul Azan of the French army in April last. It should be emphasized because of its correct estimate of what might happen. It is herewith given:

"The present German situation is by no means free from grave dangers for the enemy. Attracted by the bait of Amiens and of the railroad thence to Paris, they are thrusting forward toward this objective and have thus created a salient dangerous to themselves. The conquest of a zone of land, however large, is of no advantage if the acquisition be too costly, or if it places the troops which occupy it in an unfavorable place.

"Both these conditions apply to the situation of the Germans today. Not only have they lost very heavily, but they run the risk of being exposed to cross-fire, and if a counter-offensive is launched at the base of their salient they are in danger of having their first line troops taken from behind and cut to pieces. Their troops are obliged to concentrate in the salient if they intend to enlarge it, so that their effort to increase their success will expose them to the gravest disasters.

"When such a salient cannot be enlarged it is best to evacuate it, but a retreat is almost as dangerous as a continuation of the attack. If the Anglo-French army watches its chance the enemy cannot evacuate the salient without being attacked, and it is well known that an attack during a retreat may bring on a disaster.

"Thus Gen. Foch seems to hold the prey in his hands. The situation as it exists today (April 9) was certainly not foreseen. It is not the result of strategic calculations, but it may turn to the advantage of the Allies.

"The reason why the general reserve army of the Allies has not yet intervened is probably that it has not yet been fully constituted. Gen. Foch knows better than anyone else how to utilize this army of reserves. He doubtless will be careful not to throw it into battle until he is certain there will not be another German attack somewhere else; he knows enough to wait until the enemy's reserves are used up in constant effort, and until, little by little, his troops have been decimated by long effort. So the day he does send his reserves into action may mark the beginning of a great victory."

Time has fully justified his comment and Foch has scored a great victory, with further and greater possibilities.

THE CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR.

CONSIDER the conscientious objector. He goes to penitentiary either because of his convictions or his cowardice. He is brave enough to face imprisonment, injury, or death itself, rather than take up arms, or cowardly enough to risk the brand of base timidity, to be sent to prison for years so long as he does not face the possibility of coming to physical harm. Classified generally, the man who refuses to serve his country in her hour of dire peril, even to the point of suffering ignominy, gets the credit or discredit of being the possessor of "a yellow streak." He has reached forth his hand and accepted the white feather as the mark of his character.

What manner of moral revulsion is to be visited upon him in his two types? The law says he is a coward and sends him to prison for his lack of courage. It may be that the objector had no physical fear, but that his religion possessed him with so strong a sense of obligation he could not enter military service without consciousness of sin. He may have a warped idea of what true meekness is. With the desire to resent a wrong removed from the breast of humanity, the race might become a herd of "dumb driven cattle." But the man whose religious convictions declare to him that he must abstain from warfare may have an obsession that cannot be ascribed to a pusillanimous nature.

The other type must be considered an unfortunate being, born with a physical fear which he cannot overcome. Rather than face the chance of receiving a physical injury he will accept the contempt of the world, certain to find no sympathy except from other craven spirits. Even the prisoners in the penitentiary will regard him with scorn, and his lot in prison must be a long period of shame. Worst of all he will be regarded as a negative quantity in life. He will carry a prison record of a kind that can hardly be lived down. He is an object of pity, ranking low in the scale of humanity, the opposite pole of the man who has gone forward to offer his life for a good cause.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Yanks and the tanks are two weapons of the war not dreamed of in Hun philosophy.

Canadian editors on tour in France and England have been getting some real meals. The trip was worth while.

As the mercury in the barometer showing the arrival of American soldiers in France goes up, the kaiser's feet must becoming cold.

Will the Government call another class for military service? Mr. Rowell has dropped a delicate hint, but it was very delicate.

An airman carried a bag of letters from Ottawa to Toronto Saturday. "Special delivery" will take on a new meaning before long.

Canadian soldiers in future will salute only with the right hand, instead of with both as heretofore. The departure is along common-sense lines.

Two million American soldiers will soon be fighting on French soil. Preparedness seems to be largely a matter of rousing a nation's fighting spirit.

The provincial bye-elections today in Toronto seem to have the Toronto newspapers guessing a little. Varley and Galbraith have made the new ministers look to their laurels, and if a win should be registered against Cody and Henry it would be more an indication of public unrest than anything else.

The Western Fair could secure no finer attraction for the big exhibition this year than a regiment of crack American infantry or cavalry. Washington has already given permission to a battional of infantry to spend some days at the Canadian National Exhibition, and it is quite feasible to expect that some of the Americans in training from the middle western states would be persuaded to come to the city.

HAVING A GOOD TIME.

[Everybody's Magazine.]

What constitutes recreation depends, of course, on the point of view. Here is that of a certain small citizen in a school for dependent children. He wrote to his father thus:

"We are having a good time here now. Mr. Jones broke his leg and can't work. We went on a picnic, and it rained and we all got wet. Many children here are sick with mumps. Mr. Smith fell off of the wagon and broke his ribs, but he can work a little. The man that is digging the deep well whipped us boys with a buggy whip, because we threw sand in his machine, and made black and blue marks on it. Harry cut his finger badly. We are all very happy."

A PERFECT EVENING SPOILED.

[Dayton News.]

"Isn't it glorious here?" she exclaimed when the waiter had taken their orders.

"Do you think so?" he replied.

"It's perfectly lovely. Everything is in such beautiful harmony—the fountain, the trees, the swaying lanterns, the music—everything is ideal. It's like Fairyland."

"I'm glad you like it."

"I'm simply enchanted. Doesn't it make you feel as if you stepped out of the every-day world into something strange and new?"

"Not a bit."

"What's the matter? You don't seem to be enjoying yourself."

"My boss is sitting at the third table over there to your left, and I can tell by his look that he's wondering how I can afford to blow myself at a place like this."

THRUST AND PARRY.

[Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.]

Pangs of jealousy were in Miss Coldfoot's heart when she heard that her late admirer had been accepted by Miss Lovebird, and when she happened to run across her in the bargain rush could not resist giving a thrust.

"I hear you've accepted Jack," she gushed. I suppose he never told you be once proposed to me."

"No," answered Jack's fiancee. "He once told me that there were a lot of things in his life he was ashamed of, but I didn't ask him what they were."

BLESSING OF WAR.

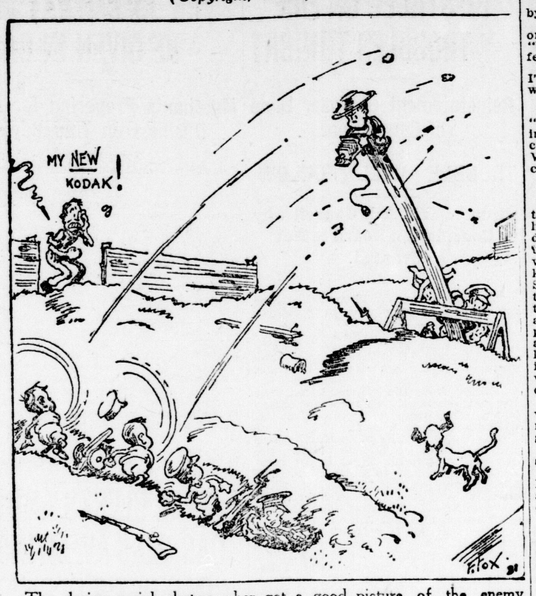

[Washington Star.]

"Remember, this war is for the sake of peace."

"I'm already beginning to feel the peaceful results in my own home," replied Cumrox, confidentially. "Nobody plays Wagnerian music any more."

THE MAID AND THE MANIKIN

By Barbara Kerr.

"This is a pretty time of night for two respectable maiden school-marms to be prowling around looking for lost keyholes," giggled Bert Wainwright to Louise Laurent, as they were vainly trying to get into their rooming-house without waking the other occupants. Let's ring the bell."

"Oh, no; this is so funny! Here, we can stand on this stool, reach that roof, and walk right along to the veranda."

"And get shot! Well, give me your hand."

And in a minute more of giggling and clamoring they both stood on the upper veranda, when just ahead of them a blind ran up and the window opened, but evidently merely for air, as they heard a man's voice humming softly, and, the wind blowing aside the curtain, they beheld a man at work. Both were rooted to the spot, for it was most unusual work.

Mr. Reginald Santerre was draping a manikin with yellow gauze.

"Oh," breathed Louise. "How adorable!"

"Sh—for the love of Mike!" whispered Bert, as the draper backed away gracefully from his work, walked to the dresser and picked up a photograph. "Me!" again whispered Bert, when the draper leaned the photograph up against the face of the manikin and smilingly eyed it with mental perspective. She tried to keep Louise from seeing. Was he coming to the window? Hastily they turned the corner and climbed hurriedly into their own room.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" laughed Bert, as she rocked back and forth on the floor. "Oh, wasn't that the funniest thing? If you ever tell it, Louise Laurent, I'll murder you! Oh! Oh!"

"Tell it? Of course I won't. But isn't it the sweetest thing you ever saw?"

"What?" demanded Bert. "That dress or me?"

"Both! That's the dearest dress I ever laid eyes on. I always knew Reggie was a wizard in dry goods. You are the luckiest thing I ever saw! Think of him working all his evenings designing a dress for you! Aren't you crazy to get into it?"

"No! What do I want with a dress like that? You know——"

"Oh, yes. I know you'd rather get into a corduroy hunting suit and tramp all over the country. But you'll have to quit that and settle down. The wife of Reginald Santerre——"

"Hush, Ouida! Think of a man dressmaker!"

"Shame on you, Bert! Think of Worth."

"Worth-less! Of course, not just that; but have I no ambition but to be a dummy to—hang—things on—a Christmas tree?"

"Now, Bert Wainright, even since we were in school in No. 6 I've thought sometimes that you were conceited. You ought to be the proudest girl in the world."

But Bert put her hands before her face, and a hard, dry gurgle, much more like a sob than a laugh, escaped her. "Don't talk to me—don't. I'm going to bed."

"Are you crying, Bertie? Are you sick?" came softly out of the darkness.

"No, I was just telling Reggie good-bye. I was giving him to you."

Louise bounded out of bed, turned on the light and got the thermometer. "You are sick, Bert. You've got a fever. Open your mouth."

"Fudge! Take that thing away, or I'll bite the end off, and you know what happened to Willy—

'Twas a chilly day for Willy
When the mircury went down,'

"I'm not sick. You couldn't understand in a hundred years, Louise, but I couldn't any more marry Mr. Santerre—Why was I such a fool as to think I could?"

"You'll be all right in the morning."

"You listen to me."

And then and there Bert unfolded the scheme of presenting her lover to her life-long friend, arranging all the details of the renunciation. Louise listened, as first to humor her, but as she went on planning in the darkness she knew that she meant every word of it. So when morning came she felt a little panickly, but Bert was as cool as though they were swapping sweaters, and things happened just as she had planned. It was Sunday, and they met at the breakfast table. The girls related to Reggie how they had gotten in, and were afraid they might have wakened him, saying nothing of the dress.

"Well, now, isn't that strange? I worked late last night," hesitating a moment. "I had an inspiration for a gown for Miss Wainright."

"Adorable! Lucky Bert! Could we see it?"

"Ripping!" smiled Bert. "And here I am all togged for a hike. Is it as nice as this?" smoothing out her old brown corduroy.

The faintest frown appeared on Reggie's brow, but the girls hastily arose from the table and all proceeded into his designing room, and the manikin was wheeled into view. Mildly interested, Bert wanted Ouida to try it on, so they took it into their room. Returning soon, Ouida pirouetted before the admiring designer.

She was more than beautiful. The adventure lent an unusual glow to cheek and lip; her black curling hair was loosened up a little, and tiny ringlets framed her face and fell on her white neck.

"Superb! A dream!" murmured the enthralled Reggie, dropping on one knee to fix a place in the hem. There was a knock at the door and Miss Wainright was called out.

"What a wonderful talent, Mr. Santerre. It's an exquisite pleasure to be your manikin. I am really crazy about beautiful clothes," said Ouida, as she admired herself and the gown in the mirror. "And doesn't it make the biggest difference in one? Why, I'm almost good looking!" she observed innocently.

"You are beautiful, Miss Laurent, and so appreciative."

"Oh, Bert is appreciative—indeed, she is, but she simply does not care for clothes. Now I've always liked to try things on. I go to the shops and try on things just to enjoy being fussed over."

"I think, Miss Louise, you'll have to keep this, and I will design something else for Miss Wainwright—something with—pockets."

Bert pushed the door open, saying rather coldly: "They've called for me. Will you folks mind if I tear myself away?" Then, her eyes falling on the afrighted Louise: "My, but you're a beauty, Ouida. That ought to be yours. Well, so long; sorry I'm so rushed." And she hurried away, leaving the man and the manikin to talk drygoods to their hearts' content.

Bert met an old-time friend and a seasoned hiker, Mary Gregory, at the end of the car line, and they trudged off into the country.

That evening Bert wrote a long, frank, sisterly letter to Mr. Santerre, although she expected to see him at least every day for a few days, explaining in the kindest manner possible that they were unsuited to each other, that she could not think of standing in the way of his ambitions, and persuading him to seek a larger field for his unusual talents. She also told him that she and Mary Gregory were going to France to assist in the work that Mr. Henry Allen was trying to do for the Kansas soldiers, winding up with: "And I'll kiss you good-bye like a little sister if you'll get the suit with the pockets ready before I go."

In the night she was awakened by a little sob.

"Bertie, I feel meaner than dirt. Aren't you a little sorry?"

"Sure thing, Ouida, old pard, but it's only a wrench, and as time goes by, we'll all honor me because I had the nerve to do the thing that's going to make us all rise up and call me blessed. Mary and I are going to look for Dick Gregory over there. He likes to hike, and he—likes corduroy. Now will you cut out the weepy stuff and go to sleep?"

Why People Feel Depressed in the Cold Weather

Why is tiredness and languor so prevalent just now? A physician explained that the cold of winter drives blood from the surface of the body to the liver. Normally one-fourth of the whole blood supply is in the liver, and when more blood is accumulated in that organ everything goes wrong.

No better remedy exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are composed of such vegetable extracts as Mandrake and Butternut, and possess wonderful liver stimulating powers. It's a marvel the way Hamilton's Pills clear the blood of the poisonous humors. They put new life into worn out bodies, build up the appetite, bring back a reserve of nerve energy, tide folks over the cold days of winter and the depressing days of spring. For your health and body comfort get a 25c box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills today.

TEDDY POSSUM HAS A NARROW ESCAPE.

Farmer Jones whistled for the big dog; and Ranger came tearing into the hen-house. The dog began to bark and wag his tail; and all the hens began to cackle, and to wobble out of the hen-house. And Ranger got the scent; and began to bark louder, as he tried to climb up to that little box, where Teddy Possum was hiding.

And poor Teddy was scared out of his skin. He trembled all over, and cold shivers ran down his little backbone. And Farmer Jones climbed up and looked into that little box near the roof; and he shouted, "Here's the little thief! Now we'll have some possum meat for dinner!"

And little William called out, "Oh, Father, can I have his skin stuffed for the museum at our school?"

And Farmer Jones reached into that little box, and took Teddy Possum by his rope-tail and held up the little thief for all to see. But Teddy Possum seemed to be dead. He did not move a hair or muscle. His eyes were closed. And Farmer Jones carried Teddy Possum to the front porch, for all the family to see.

Ranger, the big dog, was almost crazy to shake the little rascal. But Farmer Jones scolded Ranger and made him lie down.

All the family tried to see if Teddy Possum was really dead. They hit him with sticks and poked him with the broom-stick. And Farmer Jones hit him with his heavy boot, and knocked Teddy off the porch. But he seemed just as dead as any little dead animal you ever saw in your life.

And Farmer Jones said, "Little William, we can't eat that little thief for dinner; for people never eat an animal that has died a natural death. So you can skin him, after breakfast, and have him stuffed for the school museum."

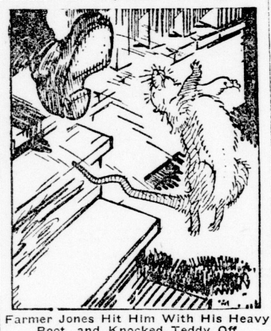

And the family went into breakfast, and Ranger went into the woodshed to eat his breakfast, too.

And while eating breakfast, Farmer Jones said, "I think that little Possum died of over-eating. I think he was the only thief in the hen-house, last night, and he stuffed himself to death with all those eggs!"

And after breakfast little William went out with a sharp knife to skin the little dead Possum. But the little Possum couldn't be found! You see, he was only "playing Possum"; and he had softly opened his eyes to see if the coast was clear and then he had quietly slipped around the corner of the house!

Tomorrow—Stuffing a Possum Skin.

TILBURY.—The Tilbury Red Cross excursion to Belle Isle yesterday via the steamer Ossifrage, from the lighthouse, was a delightful trip. The excursionists were conveyed to and from Baptiste Creek bridge by a loyal corps of auto owners, and from that point to the lighthouse and return four launch owners cheerfully gave their services gratis. The trip on the steamer Ossifrage was keenly enjoyed by all the party, and on their return to the lighthouse the excursionists gave heary cheers for Capt. Stockwell and his crew. There were about 150 in the Red Cross party, about 50 of them [illegible] probability the trip will be repeated before the end of the season.

POPLAR HILL.—A patriotic garden party will be given under the auspices of the Women's Institute in Campbell's Grove, Poplar Hill, on Wednesday evening, August 21. The following talent has been secured: The Elgin Ladies' Quartet, London; Ferguson Telfer, tenor soloist, Ilderton, and the Strathroy orchestra, and addresses by returned soldiers and Lieut.-Col. Bart Robson, Ilderton, chairman, will be given.

STRATFORD.—Early in September a community canning centre will be in operation here in the house of W. G. Irwin, Erie street. At a conference here today, at which representatives from the Horticultural Experimental Station, Vineland, were present, this definite decision was arrived at, the centre to embrace the entire county. It will be under the supervision of the Women's Institutes of the county and the Daughters of the Empire chapters, the former supplying the raw material and the latter doing the work in the centre.

The greater part of the canning done will be for military hospitals in Canada or overseas, and the Red Cross Society has offered to furnish the sugar, cans, vinegar and spices for material done up for their use.

The officers of the organization are as follows: President, Mrs. James Patterson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. McCallum, executive committee, Mrs. S. R. McConkey, Mrs. J. D. McCrimmon, Mrs. J. G. Makins, the president of the North and South Perth Women's Institutes, Messrs. J. M. McCallum and H. W. Strudley; finance committee, Mrs. Patterson, Miss Robertson and J. A. Makins.

Most of the eulpment is now here, and the work will start as soon as possible.

ILDERTON.—Following is the annual report of the Ilderton Red Cross Society. These articles were shipped to Hyman Hall: 18 shirts, 15 pairs pyjamas, 2 pyjama jackets (extra), 22 sheets, 67 pillowslips, 129 towels, 97 trench towels, 77 pairs socks, old linen, washcloths. A check of $25 was donated to the society by the Loyal Orange Lodge, Southgate. A previous donation of $5 for soldiers' Testaments was received, the society adding $5 to it. The French Red Cross appeal was responded to by $100 from the Red Cross treasury. The ladies will be putting their energy into a sale of fancy and useful articles on the fair grounds September 27.

LOBO.—The Lobo's Women's Institute will hold their next meeting at the home of Mrs. Malcolm Gray on Tuesday, August 20, instead of the usual date, the roll call to be answered by your favorite sentiment. All ladies are cordially invited.

MARKETING AS A WARTIME MEASURE

2.—All "loaded up" and feeling pleased about it. Typical scene on market morning.

Marketing cannot exactly be called a wartime occupation for women, but it most assuredly is part of every housekeeper's wartime occupation.

Not so long ago it was infra dig to carry home your parcels. But no matter whether you are Lady High and Mighty or plain Mrs. John Brown, by the time you have stood in a queue for four hours to be rewarded for your pains with two ounces of margarine or so—well, your ideas about such things as market baskets have suffered an upheaval. This is the lesson that was learned in England, where women used to be more particular about their dignity and so forth than we are or ever were here.

In Canada we have still a lot to learn in this respect, for we have not yet got over the "order by telephone" habit or our affection for the delivery system. There are no horses or motors running around at the beck of the housekeepers of Britain. Every woman is buying her own supplies—by card! In France it is worse. Women are not only doing men's but horses' work as well.

Marketing used to be fashionable enough in all conscience. It was contemporaneous with crinolines, poke bonnets and tatting. Grandmother did it—baskets and all. The twentieth century is apt to point to her as a model of housewifely discretion. Whether it is a question of "distance lends enchantment to the view," or whether her housekeeping really was superior to that of recent years, the fact remains that the Market Basket Lady is now one of our most fashionable pieces of femininity—and patriotic into the bargain.

A good market is not like Topsy, who "just growed." It needs stimulus, and the more force behind it the better. Surely it is from the women who are so concerned about catering for their families in these days that this momentum must come. War conditions demand simpler methods of buying and selling. The more complicated the system, the higher the cost will inevitably be. The market is the most direct means of commercial exchange in the world. Europe has set the pace in markets, and we have every reason to be ashamed when we realize how backward we are in Canada in this regard. The market has been an institution in Europe for years, and London and Paris have flourishing wholesale as well as retail markets.

In Canada we have a fair supply of markets, although a poor stock of interest is displayed in most of them. There are five at Montreal, five at Winnipeg, three at Edmonton, two at Calgary and Toronto, and one at Ottawa, Owen Sound, Peterboro, Sault Ste. Marie, St. Catharines, Kitchener, Brantford, Chatham, Fort William, Galt, Guelph, Hamilton, Kingston, London, Lindsay, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, New Westminster, Vancouver, Victoria, Moncton and St. John.

As for the market that is such a model that women delight to frequent and find that it is one of the show places of the city—well, it is a case of the country visitor, who, when he went to the zoo and saw a giraffe for the first time, declared:

"There are no sich animal."

The market is there all right, but we are not particularly alive to its existence. That is just the trouble. A very small percentage of women know the first thing about their municipal markets. Out of the million and a half women or so who are responsible for the homes of this country only one woman here and there has the marketing habit. Supposing some of them began to take the matter into consideration. Why not?

Interest could be stimulated by the press, moving picture theatres and women's organizations. Where markets are already established they may be aroused from the dead-and-alive condition into which many of them have drifted. One can think of "markets that are like Sleepy Hollows, where the country people peddle their wares and a desultory handful of citizens wander in to see what they can pick up. There are exceptions, but the majority of our markets need strong feminine backing, and plenty of it. Then there might be many more markets. It is estimated that a population of 7,000 will readily stand one, so that there are hundreds of places where they might be instituted by municipal grant.

If it is once realized that marketing is part of the business of food conservation women will the more readily take it up. By concerted effort they could put more ginger into their local markets inside of a month than has permeated them for years past, when they have been allowed to languish for want of a little fostering care.

What everyone is most concerned about these days, after the feeding of the soldiers and our Allies, is the much-maligned H. C. of L. He is the very dickens of a fellow for keeping people worrying, and might almost be called the Horrible Curse of Life just at present. He can be admirably checkmated, however, if city and country get after him together and the better the municipal market in any city the more trade there will undoubtedly be for the other dealers. The people who come in from the country two or three times a week inevitably bring with them a fair volume of business that would otherwise never touch the city dealer.

It must be remembered that wartime marketing involves considerably more than occasional attendance at a municipal market. It means the personal attention of the housekeeper where the buying and inspection of food supplies are concerned. It means, too, that in so far as possible, household purchases of food would be put on the "cash and carry" basis. The result would be satisfactory from every standpoint. Personal marketing on a wholesale scale would soon be reflected in the cost of living, and furthermore, deliverymen would be released for necessary war work.

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL-BOX

Fern Doesn't Thrive.

Dear Miss Grey,—Here I am again. You certainly did not discourage me or I wouldn't be here again so soon. I must thank you for the information you gave me before. I wonder if any of the readers could tell me what to do for a fern I have. It just appears to have not grown very much lately, and now it is starting to die. Well, I guess I'll quit, or you will surely throw me in the W. P. B.

NOBODY'S SWEETHEART IN PARTICULAR.

Ans.—The intense heat of the past two weeks has no doubt affected your fern infavorably. Place the pot outdoors in as cool a spot as you can find and one that is shady all day. Water the fern each night, adding a little ammonia. This treatment should restore the fern.

Re the lonely's name, you will have received it quite a few days ago.

Send Both Along.

Dear Miss Grey,—I thought I would venture to slip a letter in your Mail-Box. I saw where "A Farmerette (3)" was wanting the song "I Love a Lassie." If she has not yet procured the words I will send them.

I have a song I could send in if you think it would not take up too much room. It is an old familiar song entitled "A Handful of Maple Leaves." Well, Miss Grey, you will begin to think me not a very pleasant visitor. If you will kindly answer a few questions for me.

1. What do the following names mean: Earl, Edward, Theodore, James, Nancy, Levina, Wesley and Sophia?

2. What is good for cabbage worms?

3. I am 16 and I weigh 146 pounds. Am I too heavy for my age?

4. My brother just died. How long should I wear mourning and is white with a little black as much mourning as clear black? ROSE LEAF.

Ans.—So far, no copy of "I Love a Lassie" has been received for "Farmerette (3)" so there is still opportunity for you. And you may send the other song along too if you like.

1. Earl, princely; Edward, guardian of happiness; Theodore, gift of God; James, a supplanter; Nancy (same as Ann), grace; Sophia, wisdom.

2. Soot sprinkld over infested parts will kill them; slugshot is another destroyer.

3. You are heavier in weight than the average 16-year-old.

4. People nowadays are practically laws unto themselves in the matter of mourning wear, and certainly grief cannot be measured by the depth of crepe worn. Plain unrelieved black is, of course, the deepest mourning; then black with white touches, and next white with trimmings of black, or white and black fabrics. Hello is the first color worn. For a teen-age girl should advise white and black mixtures for a period of six months.

They're Lucky Men.

Down in the town of ——, well, mayge I shouldn't give the name without permission—a group of women are planning to relieve the loneliness for eight friendless overseas men. Don't you think the chaps who receive boxes from the Society of the following, and her friends, are rather fortunate fellows? Here is the letter:

Miss Grey,—Could you please send us a lot of perhaps seven or eight soldiers (lonelies) whom we could help by sending boxes and comforts, and we as a body of about twenty-five will try to do what we can. Yours.

A Mother's Problem.

To all housekeepers the familiar phrase "high cost of living" is an every-day-to-be-faced problem. There's no getting away from the subject. Week after week they watch with alarmed eyes the rising scale of food prices, and week after week does it seem harder to make the contents of Father's pay envelope cover the grocery bill. Yet hearty young appetites simply refuse to be controlled, and so Mother's worries go on. Today one of these mothers appeals to the Mail-Box members for help in solving her problem. Read her letter and put yourself in her place. Then, if you have any suggestion or any method of how to get along and make ends meet—with perhaps a wee bit for lapping over—sit down at once and write her the benefit of your experience. It is a real S. O. S. call, this of "A Mother," and we must help her if we can. But honestly, aren't you SO glad that the doctor saved her boy? The scrimping and economizing seems nothing compared to the great fact that his little life was saved. Now read the letter:

Miss C. Grey,—Will you please ask your housekeepers to help me; give a list of how to buy and what to have for meals—in fact, help me run my home and save some, if they can. I find I have more than I can manage. I want to pay $5 or more per month for my baby's doctor bill, and my rent is $15 per month. We are five, dad and me, and three boys. Dad works outdoors and is rather a big eater. Please some body help. Our doctor's bill is $50, but he saved my boy. A MOTHER.

Our Halifax Letter.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am here again. We are having weather which is fine and warm when it is so and wet when it rains!

We are all worked up here over the sinking of tank steamer so near to us, but most of the people are taking it well.

Had a letter from my brother. He was ill with a high fever for four days, but is now completely cured. His letters are remarkably regular and short. He mostly mentions the friends he has met with. Don't you think it would be a good idea for the Government to issue thrift stamps at twenty-five cents each, as they do in the U. S.? They would be very popular as you could easily get a stamp almost daily. It would mean a great saving for the country.

Another cousin of mine has joined the soldiers. He was working on different shell cast work so could not get away before. This makes one brother and one cousin in France, one cousin on the way across, and another here in Canada. My brother, after 31 months of it in France, likes it better every day.

Knight of Columbus drive opens here August 19 for $10,000. They are organizing daily. Let us hope they meet with the response they deserve. There is nothing going on here at present. The fisheries convention is just about to start. The shipbuilding plant at Richmond is to start in a month or two, as soon as quarters for the men are built. The plant at Duffy's Cove is started and work is rapidly going forward.

The amount of rotten liquor sold here is terrible. It comes here as rum high wine and then water and other stuff is added so that it is a wonder there are not deaths from it. A great sale is among the foreigners. I am for temperance every time, but after seeing the effects produced by prohibition, I would rather see the bars selling good liquor. Forgive my mentioning this, but the numbers of young fellows—civilians, soldiers and sailors, of only tender years, some not yet twenty, makes one's blood boil.

Sincerely yours. KNOCK EYON.

Ans.—"Knock's" letters are fine reminders that there is more of Canada than just that little portion of it called Western Ontario. We always welcome a line from our correspondents on either coast, and "Knock" is the only one who writes from the Eastern Provinces. Yes, I too think the issuing of thrift stamps would be a good idea. Let's write to Ottawa about it. Shall we, "Knock"?

Onion Mustard Pickle.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am sending the words for you to print for Jenny Canuck, entitled "Wild Cowboy." Hoping it is all right. Could you or your readers supply a recipe for doing small onions, not too sweet or too sour?

Here is a recipe for plain muffins:

2 cups of flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 heaping teaspoons of baking powder, ½ teaspoon cream tartar, ½ teaspoon salt. Sift the above all together, add a large cup of milk, two tablespoons of shortening. Beat till light and cook in muffin tins for half an hour in medium oven.

Ans.—It is good of you to send this copy for Jenny Canuck. I am still hoping, though, to obtain the words from a song book, as the copies from memory seem rather incomplete. I wonder if you would like onions done this way: Place in weak brine for 16 hours, prepare a dressing from three-quarters cup brown sugar, tablespoon mustard, one-third cup flour, and half a teaspoon turmeric. Mix and add one quart vinegar; cook in a double boiler (to prevent sticking) and pour hot over the onions which have meantime been removed from the brine into bottles or jars. This amount of dressing should be sufficient for about three quarts onions.

Wants the Horoscope.

Dear Miss Grey,—Would you please print the horoscope for August 2, as I could not find it in our paper, and oblige, yours truly,

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—I inquired of the Daily Magazine Page editor regarding this, but she informs me that the copy for August 2 horoscope was crowded out of the page on that date, and afterwards destroyed. Hence it is impossible for me to publish for you. Sorry.

MISSIONARIES TELL OF WORK IN JAPAN

Miss Kaufman and Miss Ragan Describe Life Among Girls of the Orient.

Those who met at Lenmore on Saturday listened to two interesting young women, who have been doing missionary work in Japan during the last six months. Miss Emma Kaufman, who is a native of Kitchener, is spending a short vacation at her home after an absence of two years. As Canadian national secretary in Yokohama, her work brings her in touch with the thousands of Japanese girls who come to the United States. The Y. W. C. A. does everything possible to acquaint these girls with American customs before they leave their own country. As Yokohama is the embarkation point for points on the Pacific coast, girls coming from all parts of Japan must remain there for several days to undergo physical examination before the authorities allow them to sail. The Y. W. C. A. tries to induce them to remain at their hostel rather than at the hotels, and in this short time they instruct them in simple English words, mode of dressing and ordinary household duties.

The treatment they receive in Yokohama makes the girls anxious to visit the Y. W. C. A. in San Francisco, where it is possible to do much more for them, spiritually and materially. From 75 to 100 girls come to the United States on every boat. The Y. W. C. A. finds the Japanese Government eager to assist them in protecting the girls and in making their transition to a new country easy.

Mis Ruth Ragan of the U. S. A. national board, Y.W.C.A. spoke on the necessity of educating girls to enter the business world. Japan, having on her foreign trade, businessmen are constantly demanding clerical help familiar with the English language. Japan is a very autocratic country, and great difficulty is experienced in inducing the educated class to take sufficient interest in the working-girl's problem to co-operate with the Y. W. C. A. This fall will see the opening in Tokio of a business college, where girls will receive a thorough business course in the two languages.

Both Miss Ragan and Miss Kaufman referred to the enormous and threefold growth of the industrial population of Japan. The whole country is the size of the states of New York and New England, and only one-fifth of it is arable, producing rice with which supports sixty millions, while the population of the whole United States is one hundred millions.

Questioned as to the possibility of trouble on the Pacific coast resulting from Japan's labor, Miss Kaufman thought there was very little danger from the "yellow peril." She stated that out of 85,000 people in British Columbia, 28,000 are Japanese. But she spoke of the value of foreign labor, and mentioned that the Japs had reclaimed land for the United States that the white man had been unable to work, on account of intense heat or swampy land.

For a couple of years a compact has existed between the United States and Japan known as "The Gentleman's Agreement," whereby no more Japanese laborers are allowed to come to America. Only students now leave their country, and these generally return. The women who depart from Japan are the affianced wives of men already in the United States or Canada. Before they are permitted to leave, they must show their marriage contract, which has already taken place by proxy, and thoroughly satisfy the authorities that a husband is waiting for them at the other end of the journey.

The speakers were shown the sincere appreciation of the audience by much applause. Mrs. McEvoy moved a vote of thanks for an unusually enjoyable evening, seconded by Mrs. John Stevely.

Miss Kaufman and Miss Ragan left the city yesterday on their return trip to the scene of their missionary labors.

Daily Bible Question Club

UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY, AUGUST 25, 1918.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION. (By Rev. T. S. Linscombe, D.D.)

Speaking for Christ. (May be used with missionary applications.) Luke xii., 8-12; Acts i., 1-8.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

1. Verse 8: What reasons can you give in favor of or against the possibility of any person living a Christian life secretly?

2. Why does Jesus put so much stress upon openly confessing Him?

3. Verse 9: What must a person do in these days in order to deny Christ? And why is it such a grievous sin?

Golden Text—Every one who shall confess me before men, him shall the Son of Man also confess before the angels of God. Luke xii., 8.

WE ARE GOD'S WITNESSES.

We lack a great many things today in the matter of propagating the kingdom of Christ on the earth, but in nothing is the lack so much seen as in personal witnessing for Christ. There are but few meetings, if any, provided in our church services where the people are encouraged, taught and urged to witness for Jesus Christ. We have very little teaching or exhortation from the Christian pulpit concerning the duty of personal testimony in everyday life. Every Christian is a witness for Christ, and it is a gracious privilege, as well as our duty, to tell the world about the wonderful Saviour who has taken up our feet out of the pit of sin and placed them upon the rock, and put a new song in our mouths.

WILLIAM PEARCE SAYS HE LIKE TO HAVE SUFFOCATED

Gas Forming Around Heart Nearly Took His Breath At Times.

"I have never taken any medicine that helped me as much as Tanlac, for it certainly entirely relieved my stomach trouble after everything else had failed to do me any good," said William Pearce, who is employed by the Grand Trunk Railway and lives at 38 St. Patrick street, Toronto, the other day.

"More than a year ago," he continued, "when my health began to fail, I lost my appetite, my stomach went right back on me, and gave me no end of trouble. My food would sour every time right after eating, and fill me up so with gas that I would be in misery for hours afterwards. I was constantly belching up gas and bitter water, and at times there was such a terrible pressure up around my heart that I nearly suffocated. I was badly constipated and suffered so much from dull, mean headaches that I was constantly taking pills and other preparations for it, but got no relief. My food did not nourish me a bit, for I lost fifteen pounds and had so little life and energy that I could not work regularly. I got steadily worse, and finally went to the hospital for treatment, but after being there for three months I came out just as bad off as before. Then I was advised to have my teeth extracted, so I had every one taken out, but still got no better. It is simply impossible to describe how wretched I felt after going through with all this, and I almost despaired of ever getting well again.

"But I did not give up hope entirely, for when I read about Tanlac helping so many others who were in my fix, I decided to give it a trial. I have taken only three bottles so far and it has certainly straightened me out all right. I have a splendid appetite now, can eat anything I want and am never troubled with gas or indigestion at all. My constipation has been entirely removed, I never have a headache, that feeling of depression and sluggishness has disappeared and I am in better condition than I have been in for more than a year. I think Tanlac is the best medicine made, and I am glad to tell everybody how it has completely restored my health."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

ALL RECORDS SMASHED WHEN DE PALMA TAKES INTERNATIONAL RACE

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—With a speed that shattered five world's records, Ralph De Palma, the famous Italian automobile driver, Saturday won the international sweepstakes at the Sheepshead Bay speedway by capturing all five events and rolling up thirty points to the 22 scored by his nearest competitor, Ralph Mulford, the American. Dario Resta, England's representative, took third place with a point score of nineteen. Arthur Duray, the Belgian driver, and Louis Chevrolet, the French racer, were both forced to drop out of the competition, when machines were disabled by the breaking of the crankshafts.

Ira Vail, another American, did not start in several events and failed to finish in those he entered.

In the first race, the two-mile event, De Palma finished in 1 minutes 5 6-10 seconds, shaving the mark set by Resta. In the ten-mile event he clipped one second from the old record of 5 minutes 24 8-10 seconds, while in the thirty-mile heat he reduced the old record of 18 minutes 56 1-10 seconds, to 16 minutes 31 2-10 seconds. The time of the fifth race, which was fifty miles, was 27 minutes 29 2-10 seconds, while the old record, set by Resta on the same track last year, was 28 minutes 46 3-10 seconds.

Although De Palma failed to equal in the twenty-five-mile event the record of 10 minutes 50 4-10 seconds, which he set in Chicago last July, he finished in the remarkable time of 10 minutes 51 6-10 seconds. He set up his fifth new wark, when he covered the last two miles of the ten-mile event in 1 minute 2 2-10 seconds, the fastest time for the distance ever made in competition.

Win Both Games Yesterday, But Drop One on Saturday.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 18.—Peterson pitched Toronto to a double victory over the Hustlers today, winning the first game 6 to 4, and taking the second game 9 to 0. Wrangling with Umpire O'Brien, which started in the first game, reached its climax in the second, when Menzee attempted to strike the umpire with a bat, but was restrained by the players. SENATORS TRIM BROWNS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Washington defeated St. Louis on the local grounds for the first time this season, 2 to 1. W. O. R. AND CHATHAM PLAY HERE WEDNESDAY

Chatham ball players will engage the W. O. R. in a game at Tecumseh Park here on Wednesday. The game will no doubt attract a large crowd of fans owing to the fact that Chatham defeated the local soldier team recently, breaking the Londoners' streak of wins. The fixture will commence at 3:30.

EAST END WINS.

The East London team defeated the last Spramotor team in a good game of baseball played at Queen's Park on Saturday evening. The heavy batting of the East Enders in the last part of the game was too much for the Sprayers, and the score ended 8 to 5.

The lineup was as follows: East Enders—McLeod, 1st base; Ballantyne, 2nd base; Summer, s. s.; Mitchell, 3rd base; Smith, c. f.; Vinen, r. f.; Earl, catcher; Privag, l. f.; Powell, p. Spramotors—Spearn, c.; Arscott, p.; Bradshaw, 1st base; Wats, 2nd base; Redmond, s. s.; Roulston, 3rd base; McLaren, l. f.; Waud, c. f.; Livingston, r. f.

VETERANS ARE BATTLING FOR BATTING HONORS

Jake Daubert and Zack Wheat Leading in National League.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Back in the old days they said that "you will be served," but that means nothing to "Zack" Wheat and "Jake" Daubert, veterans of the Brooklyn Nationals, who today are fighting it out for first place honors in the National batting race.

Wheat, with an average of .341, is showing the way, with Daubert trailing him 20 points. Heinie Groh of Cincinnati, who gave promise of becoming the 1918 batting champion, has fallen into a tie for third place, according to the averages, including games of Wednesday. The honors in scoring is claimed by George Burns of New York, with 70 runs to his credit. Max Carey of Pittsburg has a big lead in base stealing, his total of 53 remaining out of danger. Mollwith of Pittsburg drove Rousch of Cincinnati out of the lead for sacrifice hitting with a total of 26. Cravath of Philadelphia, with seven circuit drives to his credit, is blazing the trail for the home-run hitters. Cincinnati, with an average of .272, is leading in club batting, and New York in team fielding with .972.

Ty Again a Leader.

In the American League, Ty Cobb besides leading the league in batting and scoring threatens to annex the base-stealing honors. Cobb has 33 steals to his credit, while Sisler of St. Louis and Bobby Roth of Cleveland are tied with 35 each. Roth, however, is out of the race, as he has been suspended for the balance of the season. Cobb is virtually certain of finishing the shortened race with the batting championship in his possession. His average of .384 today gives him a lead of 39 points over his nearest rival, Burns of Philadelphia. "Babe" Ruth of Boston and Walker of Philadelphia remain tied for honors in home-run hitting with eleven each, while Chapman of Cleveland, dethroned Shean of Boston for the lead in sacrifice hitting, Chapman, with 30, having a one-point advantage. Ruth is the only member of the Red Sox, the pennant contenders, with a .300 average. The Boston Club is seventh in team hitting, Cleveland leading, with an average of .260. The Red Sox, however, are showing the way in club fielding, with .971. Leading batters: Cobb, Detroit, .384; Burns, Philadelphia, .345; Speaker, Cleveland, .324; Sisler, St. Louis, .322; Baker, New York, .308; Pipp, New York, .304; Milan, Washington, .302; Demitt, St. Louis, .302; Ruth, Boston, .302; Wood, Cleveland, .300.

The Manchester Guardian is not completely won to baseball, as the following indicates:

"The fielding was good, but not notably so, as there were a good many misses, althoug te fielders had always the heavy gloves for stopping hot balls. To English eyes the game seemed circumscribed in its possibilities, because the batter can neither cut not hit to leg, as he must send the ball to the top angles of the diamond."

MISS GALLIGAN LOWERS 800-YARD SWIM RECORD

BELMAR, Aug. 17.—Miss Claire Galligan of New York lowered the world's record for the women's 880-yard swimming championship from 15 minutes 15 seconds to 13 minutes 31 4-5 seconds, when she captured first place in the event here last night. Miss Charlotte Boyle of New York, also unattached, finished second, and Miss Dorothy Burns of Los Angeles, Calif., third.

In the 440-yard back-stroke invitation swim, Harold Kruger of Honolulu, defeating Leo Gliebel of New York, clipped two seconds from the world's record of 6 minutes 30 seconds.

Duke Kahanamoku, the Hawaiian swimmer, won the 200-yards event in the new record time of 2 minutes 13 3-5 seconds.

Miss Eleanor Uhl of Philadelphia won the 220-yard handicap for women, and Miss Olga Dorfner, also of Philadelphia, captured the 100-yard event in one minute 8 2-5 seconds.

LONDON ROWING CLUB TO HOLD TOURNAMENT OF DAY'S DURATION

John Lochead's rink, comprising St. Lawrence, Finlayson, Inwood and Lochead, won the London Rowing Club tournament Saturday afternoon. Fourteen rinks turned out, and as the greens were in perfect condition one of the best afternoon's sport of the year was enjoyed.

It is the intention of the L. R. C. to hold a one-day tournament some time during the latter part of the month. Rinks from outside of London will be invited, in addition to any local quartets that wish to enter for the handsome prizes to be presented to the three winning combinations.

With the playing of this tourney a precedent for the local association will have been established. Never before that could be called a club contest, with the exception of the Wednesday and Saturday tourneys held on the London Rowing Club greens regularly. It is probable that three silver cups will be put up for the occasion. These will not be challenge mugs, and the winners may retain them either for the duration of the year or for all time, according to the decision reached by the club executive, which will meet this week to arrange the tourney.

MORGAN AND ZOCCANO TO BATTLE ON SEPT. 2 FOR TEN ROUNDS

Arrangements have been completed for a match between Tony Zoccano, featherweight pugilist, of this city, and Eddie Morgan of Rod Island on Labor Day. The men have signed up to fight ten rounds. Local fans are certain to see a good contest, when these mitt students meet. Zoccano got the decision over Morgan two years ago at Queen's Park, but the latter declares the result of the match this time will be entirely reversed.

Tony is training at the Brantford baseball grounds, and is in the pink of condition for the fray. Morgan is training in London, which for the time being is his home, and will continue to do so until after the fight. The proceeds of the battle will go to the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association. As yet no arena has been constructed in which to hold the scrap, owing to the fact that it is not yet known where the contest will be staged.

Fight fans who witnessed the battle two years ago between Morgan and Zoccano will be delighted with the opportunity of seeing the two men meet again. The local pugilist just had it over Morgan in his previous bout with the latter, by a shade which fact assures a great scrap on September 2.

CHAMPION SOCCERITES OF MICHIGAN TRIM THE LOCAL A. M. C. ELEVEN

Detroit, Aug. 18.—The Roses, champions of the Michigan soccer fotball league, took the Canadian A. M. C. of London eleven into camp 2 to 1 in a hard-fought exhibition at Navin field this afternoon, the proceeds of the match going to the American Red Cross. The Roses were forced to hustle throughout the game, and several times were threatened by the fast offers of the visitors. The soldiers scored at the opening of the second half, displaying the greatest aggressiveness of the contest, but after that they failed to do anything out of the ordinary, and never endangered the local goal. It was a pretty game to watch, full of thrills and fast playing and some mighty good head work.

EXTRA POINT GIVES DEWAN FIRST PRIZE AT THISTLE MATINEE

Has Shade Better of Taylor in Ten-Rink Competition.

An extra point in his majority was sufficient for J. P. Dewan to win from Isreal Taylor's quartet at the regular Saturday afternoon bowling tournament of the Thistle Club. Dewan and Taylor each won their three games, but the former had a majority of 21, while Taylor notched but 20 extra shots. W. J. Braunton was one point behind the second rink with three games won and a plus of 19.

Your Complexion---How You May Keep It Fine and Clear

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG.
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

Some people are naturally endowed with a white skin, some naturally are not. The facial skin of milk and roses is not the only combination that is beautiful. Although the common subject of the poet on facial beauty is ordinarily the maid with cheeks of "milk and roses," and although many a maid allows her heart to yearn and pine for such complexion, real beauty consists in a good combination or harmonization of colors, regardless of what the slight varying shades of the skin may be.

The color of the skin is most frequently hereditary. Beauty is never "skin deep," moreover, but only half that depth. The child is born with a certain amount of coloring or pigment situated half way down the skin, and it is that which determines whether the new baby is to be a blonde or a brunette.

The pigment in the skin may be increased so as to cause more darkness as the years go by. If the future dame does not wish to grow darker she will keep out of the sun's rays, for they are great stimulants to the growth of this pigment. She will wear a hat when she is obliged to remain on the street and be subject to the heat.

When the little dame grows older she may use a little coat of rice powder upon her face, so as to absorb the perspiration and thus prevent sunburn or further increase of the pigment in the skin.

Freckles are spots upon the face where the pigment has increased out of proportion. These may be permanent or only temporary, but under any circumstances are out of harmony with the entire facial skin.

The best prevention of freckles is to keep out of the sun. A hat or veil will usually serve as a protection against the sun.

If these preventive measures were not taken, and freckles, brown and spotted, appear, the application of white precipitate ointment each night will most likely remove them.

The Proper Care.

Sunburn, unlike freckles, does not spot the skin, but makes the entire skin uniformly dark. The pigment increases equally all over the skin. Calamine lotion is an excellent cure for sunburn, and is also a good preventive.

A light skin is, of course, one of the first essentials of one type of beauty, but not by any means the only one. When lightness of the skin has been retained or acquired by the proper care it is necessary that the white or light background should be properly tinted with a suggestion of rose. Nor should this be artificial, for there is no beauty to outdo the natural beauty.

Cold water is excellent to stimulate the little blood vessels of the skin and make them carry pink to its surface. What corresponds to a pretty blush should, if possible, always be upon the face. If the water in summer is not cold enough, put a piece of ice into it. This not only adds color, but also freshness and brightness. A piece of ice, moreover, is also excellent for ironing the cheeks.

There are times when the skin upon the face appears rough, as if chapped. This may be due to too sudden contact with the cold air, or to the use of warm water, which chaps the skin. It may also be due, as it very often is, to a natural shedding of the skin.

The skin constantly forms new cells, and the dead cells of the epidermis or outer skin are pushed off and appear in the form of tiny white scales. These are of the same nature as the scales of the scalp, known as dandruff. Dandruff is removed by constant combing, massage and shampoo, and the dandruff of the face may be removed by washing and the use of cream.

Cold cream serves the purpose of removing the dried epithelial cells from the face or hands. The cream should be used sparingly, only on the tips of the fingers, for too much grease is apt to stimulate the hair follicles unduly, and the tiny hairs on the face are apt to become noticeable.

Creams and Soaps.

Cold cream should be used as a massage cream, and used about twice a week, or over night if the face is too dry and scaly. The cushions of the fingers should be employed in the process, and a rotary movement should be used. Rub away from the lines, not toward them, and thus smooths them out and not deepen them or add new ones. Massage with cold cream will not only do away with scales and create smoothness, but also add to the color, produce greater firmness of the skin, and keep it bright and fresh.

Before bedtime and in the morning soap should be applied to the face to remove the oil. When the face is not too oily, soap may be entirely omitted if there is no dirt to be removed. The alkali in the soap combines with and neutralizes the oil on the face, and leaves it dry. If, therefore, there is too much free alkali in the soap it tends to dry up the skin and make it rough. It is also apt to interfere with the oil glands of the skin. Yellow soap is of this nature and should therefore be avoided.

Castile soap is "pure" and has no alkali in it. It is for this reason that it is freely used for babies. Castile soap is not as expensive as some of the medicated, "high grade" soaps, and yet it is about the most effective and least harmful of all soaps.

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

How Madge Swept Lillian "Off Her Feet."

Daylight was breaking when Lillian returned to the room where she had left Marion in my arms. The child was no longer there, however, but rolled up in almost a ball at the foot of the bed.

When I had first substituted myself for her mother, Marion had burrowed into my arms and body like a fuzzy, homesick kitten, never waking. And she had lain quietly enough for almost an hour. Then, to my dismay—for I had such fear of her waking to the old terror and grief—she had begun to wriggle away from me. I had forces to detain her; in fact, even to move, and after two or three essays, all the time sound asleep, she had reached her present resting place. Moving cautiously, I had drawn a coverlet over her, inch by inch, and then had lain quietly watching her and waiting for her mother's return.

Lillian's quick eyes spied her as soon as she entered the room, and I saw a look of relief flash into her eyes, which had been filled with torturing anxiety.

"She'll be all right now," she said in a low tone. "When Marion curls up like that she is safe to sleep soundly for hours. Will you please come into the other room?"

I knew the tidings Lillian brought even as I followed her into the white and crimson living-room, but I didn't ask a single question. Lillian was in a most perturbed mood, and I knew better than to bother her.

Lillian is Perturbed.

"Well, it's all over, Madge," she said at last, turning to me, and I was surprised to see that there were traces of tears on her face. Surely she owed no grief to the poor old creature upstairs, the mother of her first husband, who by her cowardice and weak sentiment for her son had caused Lillian so much misery. Then I recalled the many instances I had known of my friend's royal soul, and wondered no longer. There simply was no room in Lillian Underwood's being for petty resentment.

"Poor, old soul," she mused; "how she adored Marion, and how the child loved her! I'm at my wits' end what to do, Madge." Her voice became staccato, worried. "When that baby wakes and finds her grandmother gone forever—I'm so afraid——"

Her voice broke, and I saw that for perhaps the first time in her life she was unable to arrive at one of her quick, unerring decisions. Thankful, indeed, was I that I had cut the Gordian knot, although I feared Lillian might be displeased when I should tell her how I had taken affairs into my own hands.

There was no use delaying the revelation, however. I took my courage in both hands and spoke quietly, yet with a certain emphasis.

"Why tell her?"

Lillian looked quickly, shrewdly at me.

"You mean get her away from the house as soon as she wakens? I've thought of that, but I'm sure she won't go without demanding to see her grandmother. And while Marion is obedient in most things I simply cannot manage her in one of her emotional outbursts, such as she must have had before we came in last night."

"But I think Robert Savarin could," I returned quickly. "Don't you remember how we used to smile at Marion's intense admiration for him last winter?"

"Robert Savarin!" Lillian demanded feverishly. "Have you taken leave of your senses, Madge?"

"Sit down, please." I pulled a chair forward for her, "and I'll tell you all about it. There's nothing to be perturbed about."

"Keep It Up."

She sank into the chair obediently, but with a curious expression on her face. I knew what it meant. This sudden initiative of mine took her off her feet a bit. She had been accustomed to decide everything for herself and everyone else for so many years that she hardly knew how to play any other role.

I wasted no words in telling her of what I had done, simply reproduced the words of my telephone conversation with Mrs. Cosgrove. There was no need to go into my motives or reasons for doing what I had done. That Lillian would understand I was certain.

She listened quietly until I had finished. Then she sprang to her feet with an excited exclamation.

"The milk train! Why, Madge, he will be here in a couple of hours!"

I noticed that she said "he" not "they," although I had told her that Robert Savarin's sister, Mrs. Cosgrove, was coming with the artist. I also observed that she gave a quick, dismayed glance down at her attire, rumpled and disordered from her attendance upon Marion and in the room of death upstairs.

"I know all about that," I returned calmly, "and I'll attend to everything. They will be here"—I consulted my watch—"in two hours. "Now I want you to go into that room with Marion and sleep for an hour and a half. I'll promise to call you on the minute. That will give you half an hour for—dressing——"

I almost said "preening," but bit back the words in time. "And in the meantime I'll go down into the kitchen and get them something to eat."

"But—Betty!" Lillian said uncertainly.

"I'll attend to Betty," I retorted decidedly. "Come, now, to bed you go."

She stepped forward impulsively, caught my hands and kissed me.

"You're a brick, Madge!" she said. "I don't know where this sudden cocksureness of yours has come from, but it's very becoming—and valuable. Keep it up."

MAMMA MOUSIE'S LOGIC.

Daddy and Mamma Mousie lived under the old barn floor with their four little babies.

One day as Daddy Mousie wandered over the barn in search of food for his happy family he heard Yellow Cow talking very low to White Horse.

Daddy Mousie pricked up his ears and listened.

"He intends to tear down this old barn and build a new one," said Yellow Cow with a grunt.

Daddy Mousie waited for no more, but ran home as fast as he could to tell Mamma Mousie.

"Well, don't wory," said Mamma Mousie. "It may be only a guess on Yellow Cow's part."

"But if he should tear the barn down what will we do?" cried Daddy Mousie, walking the floor and wringing his front feet.

"Don't cross a bridge before you come to it," laughed Mamma Mousie.

The next morning when Daddy Mousie saw the master and a strange man measuring the floor his heart almost stood still.

"Hadn't we better move before it's too late?" cried Daddy Mousie when he'd told Mamma Mousie what he had seen.

Mamma Mousie only laughed in her quiet little way and said:

"No use troubling trouble 'till trouble troubles you."

Then, going to an old tin can which she used as a cupboard, she brought out a nice piece of cheese and some corn.

"There's plenty of time, so let's eat and be merry while we may," she declared.

But while the children and their Daddy were busy eating Mamma Mousie slipped through the knothole and went to call on Yellow Cow.

"It's only a new floor he's going to put in," replied Yellow Cow when Mamma Mousie asked her about the new barn.

"There's always some way out of trouble if we don't worry," said Mamma Mousie. And gathering up the corn which she had gathered, Mamma Mousie ran home.

The next morning Mamma Mouse and her family were awakened by a loud banging and ripping of boards in the other end of the barn.

"Now it's time—not to worry, but to trust," said Mamma Mousie.

Gathering up two of the babies she ran to the hayloft, bidding Daddy Mousie to follow with the other babies.

There the four little mice played and romped in the hay while Mamma and Daddy watched the building of the new floor through a knothole in the loft.

When the new floor was finished the happy little family of mice once more returned to their old home.

"The only change is that our door will be right under Yellow Cow's manger, which makes it much nicer than it was before," said Mamma Mousie.

"See, it never pays to worry! If we look for a way out of our troubles we're sure to find one."

Then Daddy Mousie had to agree, and the little family of mice lived happy and contented for a long time under the new barn floor.

THE OTHER MAN :: :: By Winner

When there arrives the moment for which perhaps every girl lives and she has only to speak one word—maybe like that instant when all the life of the drowning man flashes before him—pictures of the past, dreams of the present, visions of the future crowd upon her. Perfect trust and confidence instantly sweep all doubts away, but if there's the SHADOW of a doubt—ah, THESE are the days that TEST men and women! If he who pleads were that OTHER man—how quick her ANSWER would be!

Writes About "Sixteen's Yearnings."

Winifred Black

She wants to be a picture star! She says the screen is calling.

"I hear it calling louder and louder every day. I know how to make up motion picture stories, too. They are so good that my girl friends will not believe that I made them up myself, but they are my stories. I am only 16 years of age and heartbroken. Please tell me what to do."

And her name is Olive and she says she is really very pretty, only she is freckled some, and her hair isn't curly at all, but if she does it up very carefully at night it looks very much as if it were naturally curly when she takes it out of the papers. Also, she has small feet and very nice hands, but her ears don't please her. Her nose is excellent, and her eyes, she declares, are very large indeed, and, some say, fascinating.

She has a good home, but it is very commonplace and she yearns a good deal, especially evenings after the sun has gone down and before the electric lights are lit. She leans out of the window and looks up at the sky, and it is then she hears the screen is calling her. Sometimes she feels so very tragic about it that she feels that she ought to go out on some big bridge and just end it all.

No, there is nothing particularly bad about her life, but her father and mother think that if a girl has three meals a day and enough decent clothes to wear that is all there is to it. All parents may not be like this, but hers are very material and commonplace—they don't seem to know she has a soul at all, and she knows there is something wrong.

Perhaps she isn't their child at all, but adopted from some gypsy, and it is the wild something she has inherited from her gypsy parent that makes her so restless. Why, when the hand organ man plays tunes outside she feels a real inspiration; but if she says a word about it her mother just laughs and begins to talk about something else.

And oh, it is so very terrible! What shall she do?

Don't you laugh. I felt like it at first, but when I read the letter over again I felt more like crying, for I remembered the days of my own misunderstood life when my mother wouldn't let me go to the party just because I had a little bit of sore throat that might not amount to anything, and the moon was shining and all the roses were in bloom, and I had to stay at home with an ice pack on my throat. It wasn't the staying at home I minded so much, but it was just because I had to be ruled by people who could not get beyond a mere sordid sore throat.

And once, at another time, when I wanted a beautiful party cape such as the rest of the girls had, I couldn't have it because I had a perfectly comfortable wrap. I didn't mind about the cape so much, but to be the child of anyone who was so cold and unsympathetic was almost more than I could bear.

One day my mother heard me talking to another girl about it, and she came and took me in her lap and laughed and cried and told me about the time she made up her mind to run away and go on the stage, and another time when she fell in love with a circus rider, and the time she decided she must be an orphan because her mother didn't understand her at all, and from that minute life began to be a good deal better for me.

I wonder if it wouldn't be a good thing for the mothers to look back and see how miserable and misunderstood they felt when they were about 16.

Have you a little daughter at home? Do you know anything about her except what she wears and what she eats, and when she goes to bed? How much does she tell you of her real inner life, and when she does try to tell you do you laugh or are you too busy to listen? I don't believe I would do that, if I were you. Sometimes it turns out to be—dangerous.

They are so deadly in earnest, these poor little things we bring up in the same houses with us. We try and scheme and work and do the best we can to make things easy for them in some way they don't want, and we never take the least pains to get anywhere near the real nature that's crying out within them every day—just as it cried out in our own hearts when we were young and foolish.

No, Olive, I don't think I would run away to be a screen star. Being a screen star is pretty hard work, you know, and when you come right down to it, it isn't romantic at all. You just have to paint your face and walk around with a lot of people who make fun of you, and take orders from a cross manager, and then—here's the worst of it—you never see your own pictures at all, but always those done by someone else.

If I were you I would stay right at home with my mother and father and I would try to understand them a little. They're really quite interesting people if you only knew it.

Haven't you noticed that your mother's a little pale lately? What is the reason of that deep line in your father's forehead? He may have something very interesting going on in his life right now. Why don't you try to find out? He is a human being, and so is your mother. Get acquainted with them. Ten chances to one they are living some kind of a real life romance this very minute.

Stop yearning, little Olive, and try just for once to understand something yourself.

DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE.

She Learns How Tan May Be Made Becoming To the Tall Girl to Whose Blondness Tan Usually Isn't Becoming.

For the perfect blonde or the girl with light brown hair there is no color that so softens and beautifies the face and figure as tan, well designed.

Tan isn't a becoming color to the very thin, for it has a tendency to suggest flatness of line. Nor should tan be worn by those with very sallow complexions, unless it is combined with some very striking color that will neutralize its paleness.

Tan is the color for a blonde with a slight pink tinge to her complexion, or for the medium blonde with light brown hair. Some types of brunettes also can wear tan with excellent effect, but not those whose complexions have that slight grey tinge common to some brunettes.

Suit of Tan Duvetyne, With Contrasting Dark Brown Trimming.

The frock here shown was made for Miss Ellis, who is rather a usual type of extreme blonde. Her complexion is good, and although her figure is very slight, her face is rounded and her color excellent. Madame, therefore, skillfully contrived to round out the slender figure by adopting the loose coat design, which draped over the tight vest, gave a very becoming breadth to the figure.

This suit is of tan duvetyne, combined with dark brown trimmings to create a striking contrast. Mink fur of generous width makes the large collar and cuffs.

A "top coat" effect is created by the loosely falling bodice, under which is seen the pointed vest. The bodice is of tan duvetyne, embroidered in dark brown. But the waistcoat is of dark brown satin, as are also the two sash ends, which are draped from under and are edged with the brown embroidery.

The skirt is a two-piece affair. The full length skirt is fairly tight, conforming to the standard or the new fashion in skirts. The tunic, however is quite full, falling in many graceful folds from the waistline under the vest. This is absolutely essential, as a narrow tunic coming next to the tight little vest would give an appearance of tightness and skimpiness around the waistline.

There are several very interesting features about this particular costume that make it worth special consideration. Miss Ellis seemed to fit into it so well that she brought out its best points.

In the first place, this is a particularly graceful model for the tall, thin figure. The loose coat effect over the tight vest makes it trim in appearance, yet adds fullness to the figure, at exactly the needed places. Then, the several "bias" lines break up the extreme height of the tall figure. There is the diagonal line across the front of the waist, the pointed ends of the vest, and the broken skirt line which the tunic effects.

The touch of dark mink fur at throat and cuffs softens the whole costume, for it is a rather hard color, made beautiful only by the introduction of a darker, warmer tone.

A large flat hat is necessary to this frock to add to the breadth of figure which it develops. The hat is of tan georgette to match the color of the costume, its sole trimming being a dull gold flower.

Incidents in the Lives of World-Famous Women

By ELOISE FARRINGTON

How the Loss of Rachel's Singing Voice Gave to the World of the Drama a Great Actress.

It was a quiet twilight hour in the city of Lyons, France, in the year 1831, and a man was hurrying along in a narrow street carrying a portfolio of music. His name was Choron, and he was the director of a famous Paris music school. He had had a busy day rehearsing for a local music festival, and he was tired and irritable, and especially disgusted with singers. Directors are usually irritable after rehearsals, and this one was in no mood to believe well of any voice or of any singer.

But suddenly he stopped in astonishment. What was this voice he heard? Surely it was not among those he had listened to during the day. It had none of the nervousness or self-consciousness of the voices he had tested, nor any of the irritating deficiencies which he had constantly to correct. This voice was singing a simple ballad, and it was the clear soprano of a child.

Choron lost no time in tracing the owner of the golden voice. In a neighboring courtyard he found her. She was 10-year-old Elise Rachel, and with her sister, Sarah, she was playing and singing joyously, although clad in tattered, soiled garments and very obviously living in the most dire poverty.

Choron questioned the child, asked her if she would like to go to Paris to study singing with him? Choron felt that unless the child were immediately given correct training her lovely voice would disappear. He wanted no time wasted, and in his imperious way he insisted that little Elise go with him to his Paris school without a day's delay. Her family, however, refused absolutely to let the child go. So there was nothing for the eminent Choron to do but to pack up the whole family and take them with him to Paris.

There the small Elise studied with him for many years, making wonderful progress. Choron, as may be imagined, was exceedingly proud of the wonderful prodigy he had discovered. He refused to let her appear until he had completed her musical education, and few but himself ever heard her glorious voice. He gave himself up to furthering her career with an untiring devotion, looking forward to the day when she would make her first public appearance as a singer. That would be his reward.

But a grievous disappointment awaited him. After only a few years of this intensive work the golden voice suddenly melted away! It was unutterably, irretrievably lost. Elsie Rachel could not sing.

Choron's disappointment was tragic. All his hopes were forever blasted. The years he had spent on the training of Elise were wasted. Had he lived in a later time he would, perhaps, have saved himself all the trouble, for the later schools were positive in their refusal to train the voice of a girl under 18. Too many voices change—and good voices do not always change for the better.

But not all of Choron's training was wasted. For in teaching Elise singing it had also been necessary for him to teach her expression and some of the essentials of dramatic art. And here lay the real discovery. For when Rachel lost her voice she immediately began to devote herself to dramatic study. She studied with St. Aulere, and from the beginning of her appearance on the stage until her final exit, her life was one series of unalloyed triumphs. Not even the beloved Bernhardt has exceeded her in popularity, and the name of Rachel is to this day a magic word in the history of dramatic art.

All His Hopes Were Blasted.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 20.

With the ruling planetary forces for this day operating adversely in many directions, particularly with strong martial influences inciting to rashness, haste, irritability and headstrong actions, the best astrological advice is to let the reason rule rather than the stars. Powerful tendencies to act first and think afterward must be subdued, with cool and deliberate judgment and demeanor overcoming the tumultuous and "rattle-brained" excitements from the fiery energies bestirred by aspects with four of the planets, each impelling to recklessness in the direction of its special governance. Quickened energies and ambitions in many lines should be diverted from impulsive, indiscreet and extravagant expression. Avoid law and disputes and guard against deception.

Those whose birthday it is may have an exciting year, but should take care to be calm, discreet and cautious in all directions. A child born on this day will be quick, enterprising, energetic, but must be disciplined in self-control and schooled in thrift and discretion.

For Lingerie Hats

Take off the trimming when soiled and dip up and down in a bowl full of Lux suds—rich, copious, creamy. Never rub. Press out the water. Rinse carefully and stretch to dry. Your fabrics will be fresh, clean and sheer as when new.

The Lux way means economy in fine things—it washes them splendidly.

RID STOMACH OF GASES, SOURNESS, AND INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" Relieves Stomach Distress in Five Minutes.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its quick relief in indigestion, dyspepsia and gastritis when caused by acidity has made it famous the world over.

Keep this wonderful stomach sweetener in your home—keep it handy—get a large, fifty-cent case from any drug store, and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lies like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach it helps to neutralize the excessive acidity, then all the stomach distress caused by it disappears. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming such stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once if bilious or constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Lemon Juice For Freckles

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for a few cents. Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

DR THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

A SURE, SAFE AND SIMPLE REMEDY FOR ALL THE COMMON AILMENTS OF MAN AND BEAST. IT SHOULD ALWAYS BE KEPT ON HAND, AS A MORE SERVICEABLE PREPARATION FOR SUCH USES CANNOT BE FOUND. GET A BOTTLE TO-DAY AND HAVE IT READY FOR THE TIME WHEN YOU WILL NEED IT.

JAPANESE FORCES LAND AT VLADIVOSTOK AND LINK UP WITH BRITISH AND FRENCH

Arrival of Mikado's Army at Far Northern Russian Port Has Been Effected in Shortest Possible Time—The Czecho-Slovaks Cheered Over Presence of the Allied Troops.

VLADIVOSTOK, Monday, Aug. 12.—(By the Associated Press).—Japanese forces have landed and joined the British and French. The Allied contingents received ovations at many points on their way to the front. The British occupied the first line and sent out scouting parties.

The presence of the Allied force is creating an excellent effect among the Czecho-Slovaks. The Japanese were most efficient looking as they paraded in heavy marching order through the town between silent lines of townspeople. They were reviewed by naval and military officers at Czech headquarters, where their commander was warmly congratulated.

JAP FORCE IN MANCHURIA.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Japan's movement of troops to Siberia through Manchuria is under the agreement with China which followed news recently that former German and Austro-Hungarian prisoners in Siberia had assumed leadership of the Soviet forces along the borders of Manchuria, and were pressing upon the Chinese frontier in the direction of the town of Manchuli, compelling many Japanese and Chinese to seek refuge in flight.

It was agreed, as a provisional measure, that a portion of the Japanese troops stationed in South Manchuria should be ordered to proceed immediately toward Manchuli. The size of the expedition cannot be disclosed for military reasons. Stations in Manchuria along the railroad and elsewhere vacated by the Japanese probably will be occupied by Chinese troops, until they can be replaced by new levies from Japan.

Will Help Seminoff.

It is believed in Japanese circles here that the provisional force is intended to be sent northward and westward by way of Harbin, and consequently they may be able to relieve the Cossack General Seminoff, who has been sorely beset in the neighborhood of Chila, and has been obliged to play hide and seek across the border line between Mongolia and Siberia to meet the attack of the German-led Bolsheviki forces. It is assumed that as the Japanese troops were ordered to move four days ago they are now close to the Mongolian border.

The section of the Siberian railroad directly westward of Vladivostok, which would ordinarily be used to transport troops, is said to be invested by hostile bands of mixed German and Austrian prisoners and Red Guards, but if the Japanese forces reach the railroad to the westward and in the neighborhood of Lake Baikal it is expected that the railroad between that point and Vladivostok will soon be free from these elements.

WILL RESPECT CHINA'S RIGHTS.

TOKIO, Aug. 18.—Concerning the sending of Japanese troops through Chinese territory, Manchuria, the Japanese Government has issued the following:

"This movement of troops has been actuated solely by a spirit of harmonious co-operation. Japan and China face a threatening danger, and, in undertaking to combat it, the Japanese Government will scrupulously respect the sovereignty of China as well as the rights and interests of the local population."

FLIGHT LIEUT. MEEK OF SOUTHWOLD IS KILLED IN ACTION

Young Officer Who Went Overseas a Second Time Meets Death.

PORT STANLEY, Aug. 18.—Word came last night by cable to the effect that Flight-Lieut. Meek, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Meek of Southwold, had been killed in action.

The news was a hard blow, not only for his relatives, but for hundreds of the young man's friends in this district. He had been farming with his father until he joined the 70th Battalion and trained at London before proceeding overseas. When he was wounded at the front and returned, he acted as a member of an M. S. A. tribunal, and upon completing his duties, he joined the air force and had been flying for some months.

The Daughters of the Empire at Port Stanley are flying a flag at half-mast in his honor. Another brother, Lieut. Mervin Meek, is overseas, and a sister is in training with a base hospital at Toronto.

DENIES THAT SPAIN IS ON WAR'S BRINK

Spanish Foreign Minister Says That Neutrality Is Not Threatened.

San Sebastian, Spain, Aug. 18.—Foreign Minister Dato today issued a denial to recent press reports that the neutrality of Spain was threatened. He said the cabinet "would suffer nothing to turn it aside from a policy of neutrality."

"As to the famous Spanish note addressed to Germany," the minister continued, "it is impossible to publish it, because it does not exist."

He denied that Spain had sent a note to Germany concerning the alleged torpedoing of the Spanish ship Serantes. He said the sinking was due to a fire in the cargo of petroleum.

There have been persistent and apparently well-founded reports during the last week that Spain had sent another note to Germany concerning the torpedoing of Spanish ships. Reports from Madrid were that a note had been dispatched to Berlin, and that as soon as it was received there it would be made public by Foreign Minister Dato. It had been reported that the note included a notice to Germany that Spain would compensate herself for future losses from self-interned German vessels in Spanish harbors.

The Spanish steamer Serantes, loaded with 10,000 barrels of oil, was set on fire by two explosions while anchored off Sixty-ninth street, Brooklyn, on July 13. There have been no previous reports that the Serantes was said to have been torpedoed.

CONSTITUTES ULTIMATUM.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The Spanish note to Germany relative to the sinking of Spanish vessels by submarines constitutes an ultimatum, since the Spanish Government announces that a German vessel interned in any Spanish port will be seized for every Spanish ship torpedoed, according to a Havas Agency dispatch from Madrid, quoting the A. B. C. of San Sebastian. This information was given the A. B. C. by "a high political personage."

In commenting on the situation, the A. B. C. says:

"We regard it a very natural duty for the Government to protest energetically concerning every case of torpedoing our merchant fleet, and, if Germany does not give the satisfaction due, we should reach the position which the country's honor calls for."

DETROIT.

Detroit, Aug. 17.—The movement of wheat was well sustained all week, and a large increase in the visible supply is expected. The grain is nearly all destined for the Allies and large receipts are expected to be promptly absorbed while they are building up their stores. Argentina is furnishing a great deal of grain to Europe and the outlook for abundant supplies is promising. American mills have taken a lot of the first movement and are still buying moderately. Flour dealers report bakers buying flour to the limit permitted by the Government. The market is steady and Detroit dealers are not doing much in wheat.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

The farmers of the surrounding vicinity are at the present time very busy bringing in their fall grains. This week is about the last that the crops will be able to be brought in, and as a result the farmers are all staying at home and keeping back this task to enable them to finish by the end of the week. This stay-at-home spirit was only too plainly seen at the local market this morning, when absolutely no produce was offered. Vegetables, which are nearly always on the market, even if in the smallest of quantities, were absent as well as all the other produce. The local grocers by the market square are selling blueberries at $2 for an 11-quart basket and tomatoes from $1.50 to $1.60 for large baskets.

Oats were fairly active and firm. August and October contracts showed the greatest strength, at one time selling at practically the September price, as against a discount of ¾c on Saturday. The demand slackened after the first hour. September opened at 70¾@71c, and October at 72½@73. A slight reaction followed.

WALL STREET.

New York, Aug. 19.—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—A further inquiry for Liberty 3 per cent bonds constituted the chief feature of the early dealings on the stock exchange today at the new record of 101.04, against the previous maximum of 100.50. Dealings in stocks were light, with a steady undertone, imparted largely by the strength of Marine, preferred, at an extreme advance of 1¼ points. American Telephone increased last week's recovery, and minor rails were firm, but prominent industrials, notably U. S. Steel and Baldwin Locomotive, eased slight fractions.

GERMANY LIKELY TO TRY ANOTHER STAB IN RUSSIA

May Further Shorten Lines in West and Release Some Divisions.

HER CHANCES NOT ROSY

[BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.]
(Special to The Advertiser. Copyright, 1918, by the Tribune Association, New York.)

London, Aug. 18.—Not even the Government can make a satisfactory analysis of the Russian situation, but all reports point unmistakably to the fact that Germany is decidedly embarrassed by events in the East. Whether the Bolsheviki are crumbling away, whether Germany desires and can successfully restore a monarchy, whether recognition of the Czecho-Slovaks was a wise political manoeuvre, are questions upon which opinion is sharply divided and the public poorly informed.

Though much about Russia remains obscure, it is worth while to examine all available material.

Mighty Poor Picking.

First, the Bolshevists. If Lenine and Trotzky are German tools, then the Germans must feel dissatisfied with their agents. Certainly the Bolshevists have few friends among the German press in either Junker or Socialist organs.

Three allied expeditions, at Archangel, Murmansk and Vladivostok, have begun to move against the Bolshevists. The Czecho-Slovaks are fighting the Bolsheviki in European Russia and in Siberia. These forces are factors in undermining the Bolshevists. When the Bolsheviki took control of the stricken country, their chance for success depended on their ability to improve the economic condition of the masses. They have failed, and the situation has grown steadily worse. Germany needed Russian grain, but she got comparatively little, probably only 200,000 tons, including that from the Ukraine. This grain was obtained only after threats and the bullying of peasants. In return Germany is giving nothing.

Bolsheviki at Bay.

The Russian peasants are laying the blame on the Bolshevist leaders. In allied countries there is seldom a voice raised in support of the Bolshevists. Their representatives have been ignored, or worse. With hardly a friend and millions of enemies in both the central powers and allied countries, the Bolshevists are now at bay, and there is little doubt what their fate will be unless the Allies blunder.

The Brest-Litovsk peace negotiations mark the begining of Germany's end as a victorious belligerent. There she committed a great diplomatic as well as moral crime. The greed of the junker class is responsible for Germany's position today. With the possibility of victory in the west gone for all time, Germany sees her expectations in the far east far from realized. She fears to weaken her western lines, and she is extremely worried about developments in the east. Probably Germany has already made her decision.

Ludendorff's withdrawal to shorter lines will likely be followed by an even greater retreat. By assuming the defensive in the west, Germany may hope to release a few divisions for work in the east. Early fall will probably see a German advance on Petrograd, but even though Germany outstrips them, the Allies' leaders question whether she can handle Russia.

FIVE PEOPLE IMPERILLED IN BLAZING LAUNCH

Toronto, Aug. 18.—A party of five in a gasoline launch faced a serious situation today, when their craft caught fire about three-quarters of a mile east of the eastern gap. The flames were seen by the lookout of the life-saving station, and assistance was sent. When the life-savers arrived the flames had been extinguished, but the boat was blowing around helpless in the high waves, owing to the fact that the tiller ropes had been burned.

It was towed to the life-saving station and fitted out for its trip to shore.

Burglars Attempt to Enter Hospital

What is thought to have been an attempt by burglars to break into St. Joseph's hospital about 2 o'clock this morning resulted in the police patrol and a squad of men being called.

When the patrol arrived on the scene no sign of the crooks was to be seen. It is thought they were hoping to obtain liquor.

LONDONERS PICNIC AT SPRINGBANK AND BESIDE LAKE ERIE

London Bolt and Hinge, City Works Department, C.P.R. Teamsters and Shedmen, Ladies' Auxiliary of B. L. F. and E., and Canadian Engineers.

Cries of "Hold fast, your worship! Pull all together, you aldermen!" and "Go to it, teamsters;" "you with the auburn hair, dig in your toes!" "go on!" "pull for your life!" "only two feet farther and the prize is yours!" "go on!" that's the way!" "one foot more!" "pull, pull! gather in the slack, you anchor post!" burst from the crowd as the fans favoring either the alderman or the teamsters in the last struggle for the tug-of-war championship urged on their respective teams at the board of works picnic at Springbank on Saturday afternoon.

"Hip, hip, hurrah," burst spontaneously from hundreds of throats and made the woods echo with the cheering as the white handkerchief marking the centre of the rope was pulled across the mark which indicated that the teamsters had won the day after one of the hardest-fought battles ever witnessed at a tug-of-war at a local picnic.

No Walk Away.

"Well, it was no walk away," said Ald. Wilson, who coached for the aldermanic team until his voice was hoarse, but he cheered as lustily as the others when Mayor Somerville called for three cheers for the teamsters. The aldermen won the first draw, but the teamsters by dint of hard work and strategy, won out in the last two pulls, thus carrying off the honors of the day in the tug-of-war. In the first encounters, for there were six teams entered, the garbage men beat the office staff, the general workers were defeated by the teamsters, and the city daddies carried off the pennant from the special workers.

Won Next Trench.

Winning the next trench from the garbage men, the teamsters had to fight the city fathers for the final honors. It is said that the last pull occupied nearly 30 minutes before his worship and the stalwart aldermen were finally defeated. That the anchor man for the aldermanic team was a stranger to the council chamber and weighed nearly 300 pounds did not in any way daunt the teamsters.

About 600 Present.

That the picnic was the most successful that has ever been held by the London board of works department was conceded by all present. About 500 merrymakers were expected, but this number was exceeded by nearly 100, it was thought. All the aldermen were there with their wives and families, and one of them, Ald. Manness, had his twelve kiddies all collected preparatory to entering the contest for the largest family on the grounds. He was barred out by the unfeeling judges who decided that the children did not belong to him after hearing one of the youngsters calling out to a man across the plot, "Here I am, daddy." That the alderman was much affected by this ingratitude on the part of the lad was quite apparent.

Wheelbarrow Race.

The wheelbarrow race, where the lady caught hold of the feet of the man of her choice and ran him across the field, created a lot of amusement for the spectators. The pig in the poke race was another mirth-provoking event. In this one the "pig"—and an evangelist is authority that men are brutes, for he told the women at a meeting: "If you want to keep the men good-natured, feed the brutes well"—is blindfolded and led by his mistress along the course.

Ald. Harley won the city fathers' race, with Mayor C. R. Somerville second, and Ald. Manness third. His worship excused himself for coming second by saying that Ald. Harley is used to running for office anyway, and last year was Mayor Somerville's first attempt. He did not say whether he was practicing for this year or not. One of the main attractions was the booth where ice cream, peanuts, beer and the best lemonade ever served at a picnic could be produced on presentation of a ticket, of which a goodly supply had been distributed among the employees of the city and their families. One of the tickets called for a lunch box filled with tasty sandwiches, cakes and fruit. Judging it from all angles, one could not help having the time of his life at the outing.

LONDON BOLT AND HINGE

Employees of the London Bolt and Hinge Works, with their families, held their annual picnic at Springbank Park Saturday afternoon, and one of the employees spoke for all when he said, "We had the time of our lives." Special cars were provided in the morning to convey the throng to the park, and in order that the picnickers might leave for home at any time their fare was paid home instead of using special cars. Luncheon was also furnished for all by the company.

Ticket Brings Everything.

The booth, where one who had a ticket could secure anything from ice cream to 2½ per cent beer at any and all times, was well patronized.

There was a lot of entries for all the sport events. The baseball game between the married and single men was a very exciting game. During the early innings the single men rather had the advantage. After the married men got limbered up they buckled down to work and scored the runs so quickly that the official scorer could not keep tally. The game was finally called on account of darkness, and the married men were declared the winners. Scottie Overton officiated as umpire.

60 DAYS' DETENTION FOR W. O. R. DESERTER

Pte. Morden Snelgrove of the 1st Battalion, Western Ontario Regiment, who was found guilty of desertion by a district court-martial at Carling Heights recently, was on Saturday sentenced to 60 days' detention. On account of the helpless dependents of Pte. Snelgrove, this sentence was remitted by the officer commanding this district, and the offender will be sent overseas with the next draft.

Pte. Snelgrove had been detained in the St. Thomas military detention quarters awaiting sentence, and he was brought to London on Saturday, the sentence being promulgated before the entire battalion drawn up on parade at Carling Heights.

THIEVES BREAK INTO THE PAVILION

Thieves broke into the Glen Erie pavilion on the beach at Port Stanley early Sunday morning, and large quantities of tobacco and other stock were stolen. Entrance was gained through the west wall, adjoining the cafeteria, the thieves breaking the hinges off a large door on that side, in accomplishing their purposes.

The pavilion has been recently purchased by E. Knowlys of this city, and he informed The Advertiser last night that a large quantity of his new stock, consisting mainly of tobacco had been pilfered. The matter has been reported to the Port Stanley police, who are working on the case.

PATRICIA

Featuring Jack Pickford and Louise Huff, the Paramount picture, "Mile-a-Minute Kendall," will be the leading attraction at the Patricia Theatre today. Based upon Owen Davis' celebrated stage success, this superb picture embraces throughout all the elements that go for artistic success. The story is a charming one, filled with thrills and delightful comedy, and the action is rapid and highly dramatic. All who have seen Jack Pickford in "Tom Sawyer" and "Huck and Tom" will find this newest vehicle to be one of unalloyed enjoyment. In the support is Lottie Pickford, who portrays the role of a woman with a past with highly artistic force. The cast generally is of the highest Paramount standard.

Vesuvian Quintet At the Patricia Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Vesuvian Quintet, consisting of three males and two females, constitute what is probably the best mixed quintet of singers today in vaudeville. They offer a number, which they bill as "A Neapolitan Fantasy," consisting of exclusively ensemble singing in Italian, French and English, and instrumental music on guitars and mandolins.

The repertoire of this famous quintet includes standard grand opera selections, Italian folk songs, ballads and old-time melodies. They have what is rightly termed "the grand manner" of singing within the range of popular appreciation, and although their voices are of exceptional sweetness, volume and musical quality, they do not attempt too much, keeping their selections pitched to the tastes of their audiences.

Included in their offering is a laughing song that will no doubt evoke much applause and many encores. The sextet from "Lucia," as this remarkable quintet render it, is exceptionally fine, singing of the genuine Italian operatic school, unexpected though it be, is bound to be appreciated by patrons of vaudeville, therefore, we can bespeak for the Vesuvian Quintet a most enthusiastic welcome. Aside from their wonderful singing, they introduce quite some few instrumental numbers on the guitar and mandolin, which serve to enhance the brilliancy of their act, as also does the scenic environment, which represents a Neapolitan scene. The act as a whole is class throughout, the whole effect of which is distinctly vaudeville of the highest order.

At the Patricia today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

REMEMBER BY GIVING

AT any other time than this, the heroism of the men of the Merchant Marine would fill the newspapers. As it is, you simply read of so many tons of shipping sunk by submarines.

Yet from the few words you read, you must picture scores of scenes like the illustration. 15,000 men of this service, not officially recognized by the governments, have suffered death in order that soldiers, munitions and food may cross the ocean. Remember their widows and orphans, dependent for life itself on your generosity.

Let Your Donation Be An Appreciation of This Sacrifice!

As each day sees new victims of the U-Boat, more and more mouths wait to be fed—widows and orphans, who cannot look to governments for relief.

"They shall not want!" Say this in the only way that counts—by your contribution.

WE MUST listen to the call that comes from the deep—"Remember the Lusitania! Remember Captain Fryatt! Remember the 176 vessels lost, together with all trace of crew and cargo! Remember the 15,000 men of the Merchant Marine, who have already made the supreme sacrifice! Remember the widows and orphans!"
