ENTIRE CITY SHAKEN AS OIL TANK EXPLODES

Rochester Firemen Powerless When 500,000 Gallons of Gas Burn.

Associated Press Despatch. Rochester, N. Y., May 26. - Five hundred thousand gallons of oil stored at the plant of the F. B. Rae Oil Company were ablaze here toonight in one of the most spectacular fires in the history of the city.

Starting with two explosions which shook the entire city shortly after seven o'clock the fire quickly spread and enveloped every one of the 25 tanks in which the thousands of gallons of oil, turpentine, naphtha, gasoline, lubricating oil and other oil products were stored. The oil is valued at $250,000, but it is believed the property damaged will bring the total to about $350,000.

A few minutes after the first tanks exploded scattering the flaming oil in all directions, four others blew up. A heavy pall of smoke settled Cabinet At Special Meeting over the city, making necessary the use of lights in the downtown office buildings. With the Irish Guards

At Mons a drill sergeant arrived from home just in time to find his battalion steadily marching south. "Fwhat's all this talk about a retreat!" said he, and strictly rebuked the shouts of laughter which followed.

When some blind shellfire opened, Col. Morris, a man noticeably brave among brave men, called out: "D'you hear that? They're doing that to frighten you." To which someone replied: "If that's what they're after they might as well stop. They succeeded with me hours ago."

Both sides were equally inexperienced in those days in the details of air war. All that day they heard the ound of what they judged was "a battle in the direction of Le Cateau.' This was the Second Army Corps and a single division of the Third Corps under Smith-Dorrien interrupting our retirement to make a stand against four or more German

The battalion fired at it got its weariness long enough to take part in the chase and capture of a stray horse of Belgian extraction which, after its ample lack of manners and mouth had been proved they turned over for instruction and reformation to the transport. * * *

The death of Colonel Morris, an officer beloved and a man noticeably brave among brave men, was a heavy loss to the battalion he commanded. and whose temper he knew so well. In the thick of the fight during a lull in the firing, when some blind shellfire opened, he called to the men: "D'you hear that? They're doing that to frighten you." To which someone replied with simple truth: "If that's what they're after, they might as well stop. They succeeded with me hours ago."

Berries Under Fire

As a matter of fact, the men behaved serenely, as may be proved by They were working their way, well under rifle fire, across an opening in the forest, when some of them stopped to pick blackberries that attracted their attention. To these their sergeant, very deliber- but as ately, said:

It was a speech worthy of a hero of Dumas, whose town Villers-Cotterets is, by right of birth. Yet once, during their further retirement toward Pisseleux, they were badly disconcerted. A curious private prodded a hornets' nest on a branch with his bayonet and the inhabitants came out in force. Then there was real confusion: not restored by the sight of bald-headed reservists frantically slapping with their caps at one hornet while others stung them on their defenseless scalps. So they passed out of the darkness and the greenery of the forest, which, four years later, was to hide a great French army, and launch it forth to turn the tide of 1918. * * *

End of Retreat.

Their march continued until 11 p.m. that night, when the battalion arrived at Betz, where the First and Second Army Corps rejoined each other once more. No supplies were received that night nor the following day (Sept. 2), when the battalion reached Esbly, where they bathedwith soap, be it noted-in the broad and quiet Marne, and an ox was requisitioned, potatoes were dug up from a field and some sort of meal served out.

There was yet o be a further retirement of some fifteen miles south of Esbly ere the general advance began, but Sept. 3 marks, as nearly as may be, slackwater ere the ebb that followed of the triumphant German tidal wave through Belgium almost up to the outer forts of Paris. That advance had at the last moment swerved aside from Paris toward the south east, and in doing so had partially exposed its right flank to the Sixth French army.

General Joffre took instant advantage of the false step to wheel his Sixth army to the east, so that its line ran due nouth and east from Ermenonville to Lagny; at the same time throwing forward the left of his line. The British force lay between Lagny and Cortecan, filling the gap between the Sixth and Fifth French armies, and was still an effective weapon which the enemy supposed they had broken for good. But our harried men realized no more than that for the moment there seemed to be a pause tinued while the armies manoeuvred

The Position of Sir Adam Beck.

Sir Adam Beck did not tell London Conservatives on Friday evening whether he would run as their candidate or whether he would not run as their candidate. He was somewhat of the coy maiden variety, and wanted time to consider the proposal.

It can readily be understood that Sir Adam finds himself in a peculiar position. He is chairman of a commission that makes an appeal to the people for assistance, that conducts business for the people, and it is all done on a non-political basis. The completion of some of the larger undertakings in hydro development by an armed crook. have been brought about and they are successfully in operation. The system of distribution is established, partisan administration; it is backed by Liberals and gun. Conservatives alike in many places. Small wonder the matter over before he enters a contest that is going enforced. to bring public ownership back into the turmoil of politics, which it certainly will do should he enter the firearms. There are some rules to be observed, but they field as the straight nominee of a Conservative conven- are not of the stone-wall variety.

Sir Adam stated very plainly that the hydro enterprises were initiated as a non-political undertaking. There they should be kept, and there they must be kept if they are going to draw the united support to which they are entitled.

The attitude of Sir Adam in not giving a decision to the Conservative gathering must have been dis- success the last few years, and they want to try the appointing to members of that party. There were other city. candidates there, and they did not all drop out. Mr. Dennis, for instance, intimated that he would not give his decision until he heard what Sir Adam had to say. all. So they turn to the farm. It was hardly the fair thing to keep the convention in suspense, because he has known all the facts that he enumerated for a long time back, and he has had plenty of time to make up his mind.

Then, too, there must be the suspicion that, if he decides to run, it will be because he wants to redeem himself for the defeat he suffered at the last contest. He repeatedly referred to himself as a "casualty," and he has used that same phrase in other gatherings. The idea of running in London to wipe out the past defeat certainly had a large place in the address to the Conservatives on Friday evening.

Sir Adam admits that he is in a peculiar position. He is. He knows that his whole work in connection with hydro enterprises has been possible because he has had support of men of all political creeds. It would be a rude shock to these men all over the province to hear that Sir Adam Beck had listened to the Conservative party managers in London and decided to enter the enterprises in after him.

Making the People Go Home.

The reeve of Arthur village has issued an appeal to shoppers to clear out of the stores and get away before Sunday morning. The constable is going to ring the bell now at 11 o'clock on Saturday night, and this means "get ready to go home."

This old business of Saturday night shopping has struck its roots deep down in our habits, and has produced a tree that is not easily buffeted or disturbed, for a week.

There are hundreds of merchants all over the country who got so tired of keeping open Saturday night, and were so impressed with the unfairness of the thing to their clerks, that they simply turned the key in the door at 6 o'clock Saturday night and went home.

The only way to stop shopping in the early hours of Sunday morning is to stop it.

A little discipline is good for the people.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent. Ottawa, May 26.—Ottawa has been oday enjoying its first really hot weather of the session, and with the excitement of the budget divisions over and a third of the members prolonging their holiday over the weekend, the house has had its dullest day of the session

Before evening a substantial coningent of members, on the invitation of the special agricultural committee and the Quebec Harbor Commission, ieparted for Quebec, and there was scarcely a quorum available at the evening session. Very sensibly the bill amending the bankruptcy act, one of the dullest and most mournful of measures, was allotted to the Commons, and the remnant of the house spent most of the day over the reading and the committee The discussion was highly stage. technical, and only interested lawyers could make any satisfactory contribution to it. Before the house rose a bill about flats was put through which raised echoes of the famous

Mr. Boys thought the restoration of the old provincial laws, been very satisfactory in Ontario, and only needed provision for a debtor's discharge, would be preferable fo these changes. Mr. Jacobs thought landlords were being placed in too favorable a position, and might walk away with the whole estate. Otherwise the bill was good, but a clause should be added permitting a wife who had made loans to her husband to rank as an ordinary creditor. - Mr. Baxter thought New Brunswick and other provinces, which were satisfied with their own laws, should be allow-

Both supporting casts contributed five misplays apiece and yet the game was fast and brilliantly played outsidr these rough spots. While McCallum allowed one less hit than Waynebers, he walked two, one of which counted in as a run. The Aces left the ground for a short time in the 5th, when some wild throwing which started in right field, gave London two runs and a chance to show off some base-running. Waynebers, though perturbed somewhat and hot enough for the showers, but not nearly wobbly enough, hung on and forced the next two to pop up fouls. After that he was in control, although Vermilyea's wide throw after his sensational knockdown and pick-up of Getsie's burning smash in the 9th, made a Tec rally entirely feasible. McNamara who had grabbed off three hits already, whiffed a second time and it was over, as two had been already laid away in a short row.

St. Andrews, fresh from their Mc253

Cutcheon cup victory over First Western Ontario Regiment, engage Maple Leafs today, May 26, on Springbank soccer gridiron in a London City League fixture. Saints may not field the same eleven that defeated St. Thomas Rovers, but expect to have substitutes equally strong. As this league fixture is creating quite a lot of interest in London soccer circles and as the fans are anxious to know the fighting calibre of the Leafs, a record Saturday crowd is fully expected to witness this interesting tilt. The following St. Andrews Soclety F. C. players are requested to be on hand at Springbank dressing-room at 2:45 p.m. sharp as the game is timed to start at 3:15 p.m.: Adamson, Wilson,
Brewer, Knight, Mitchell, Macintosh,
Hay, Peebles, Darroch, Dicks, Johnston

Kick-off at 4:30 p.m. As the Imperial City "Railroaders" ranks will be considerably strengthened to that which went down to overwhelming defeat before the Londoners Saturday last in Sarnia, a much closer contest should result. C. N. R. A. A. A. F. C.'s will be represented with the following players: Knowles. Burgess (P.), Crinnon, Burgess (W.), Dicks, Thorne, Sutherland, Crighburn, Saunders, Askew, Haywood, Astells. Reserves, Bright, Emmett.

The Senior Wasps will play two new men who are first class players in this game.

It has been found necessary to change the arrangements made for the game between Army and Navy Vets and R.

C. R.

The game will now be played on Carling Heights at 2:45 instead of at Westminster Hospital grounds, as advertised, the playing pitch at the hospital not being quite ready to be played on. The Army and Navy players whose names were mentioned in Thursday's press are requested to note the change of venue, and to be on the heights by 2:30, if possible.

New York, May 25.—One very interesting fact concerning the Dempsey-Gibbons fight on July 4 developed today. Betting men were especially interested. It appears that the boxing law in Montana calls for a 24-foot ring. All sorts of stories concerning the boxing law of that state have been current in New York, most of them erroneous. But the stipulation as to the size of the ring is correctly reported, according to Francis Getz and others, who have conducted lighters through the west.

Now in a ring of that size Gibbons, with his cleverness, ought to make a lot of trouble for Dempsey in the way of keeping away until the champion gets arm-tired, as he is prone to do, it is believed, when the fight goes beyond a gets arm-tired, as he is prone to do, it is believed, when the fight goes beyond a reasonable number of rounds.

In these parts the size of the ring has steadily been reduced, until now it has got down to eighteen feet. This has been ascribed to the fact that managers want more room for spectators.

Bunk.

It is to make sure that feet.

It is to make sure that fighters stand toe to toe and fight. Spectators demand this. They have little use for relever defence, ability to duck, sidestep and give ground.

The small ring has played straight into the hands of the fighter as against the interests of the boxer. Carpentier would have howled long and loud over the small ring in Boyle's thirty acres had he not decided that the only chance he had with Dempsey was to get in and poposite corners to the puck in the purch in the tenter of the arena.

Mr. Wade cites the case of one Pathock Foley to illustrate the possibilities of physical injury. They called him Wild Pat" and he was so widely known that a letter addressed to "Pat Foley, New England," would reach him. In physical features he reminds one of Steven O'Neill the veteran Cleveland atcher. Among poloists "Wild Pat" was a sort of Hobey Baker. When "Wild Pat" and he was discovered that every tooth in his head had been knocked out. New York in the head had been knocked out. Nevery finger broken at some time or other and his face, scalp and entire body were covered with scars, souvenirs of the proposition of t ere covered with scars, souvenirs of juries suffered in playing roller polo.

London has encountered boxing promotion on badly worn shoe strings, questionable cards and all the rest that goes with bad promotion, but it remained for gross inexperience to be encountered holiday night. The pro game is having a hard enough time getting by because of its own methods, but when combined with promotion of such a nature as London saw the other night a sorry mess is made of things.

Promoting boxing shows is the most precarious business in the world though boxing commissions are saving some of the best promoters from strait jackets. But when a novice promoter steps in, launches a card of which he knows nothing and then expects providence to provide the crowd, ring and even the gong, fighters and fans alike are being dealt a raw deal.

Young Mack on his own showing the other night should be able to get a bout back here with some good boy providing a reputable club or promoter has the temerity to stage a show in the present generation.

Aces jumped into the lead last night in the Mint, thanks to the Hams, who have beaten the Wolves three straight, and to the Tecs, who are, despite their defeats, getting their bad innings down to one or so a day and beginning to hit their stride at bat.

When another campaign for funds is launched by the L. A. A. A. it can have no better argument than the situation which confronted the Collegiate students and their entry into the big inter-scholastic meet at Montreal. /If the whole city could be made to see the possibilities of the L. A. A. A. memberships could be sold as low as 25 cents and sport of all kinds at once put on a community basis, which would soon have civic pride at its highest

W. O. McGeehan writes: "The white tights of Eugene Criqui are spangled with black stars and there is a black border on the milk-white sweater he wears. There are black stars on the tights and the sweaters of Criqui's sparring partners. The black star is the symbol of the Criqui camp.

"'Our star is black,' explained Robert Euledine, manager of Criqui. 'It is a sad star but a glorious star, and we wear it with pride and with hope. I have tried many boxers. Before the war I had many of them. Seven of May 30 Sees Opening of No. 4 my fighters died for France, and, when a man was killed for France we wore a black star in memory of the hero. Therefore the black star is my star and it is the star of Eugene Criqui. Perhaps it will bring us great joy had he not decided that the only chance he had with Dempsey was to get in and plaster him with his right as soon as possible.

But after the battle, Descamps told the writer he would not permit his man to fight Dempsey again, provided the two signed to meet, in a ring smaller than 24 feet.

Men who stake hig money on ring and the state of Eugene Criqui. Perhaps it will bring as great for Eugene Criqui. Perhaps it will bring as great for Eugene Criqui. Perhaps it will bring as great for Eugene Criqui. Perhaps it will bring as it has brought use great sorrow. Who knows?"

"From which it may be gathered that the French boxers were decidedly more precipitate than the American boxers about rushing into wars. I recall one American manager of prize fighters who had more pugilists in at Hensall:

Goderich at Lucan, June 4, Aug. 1:

Men who stake hig money on ring as it has brought use great sorrow. Who knows?"

"From which it may be gathered that the French boxers were decidedly more precipitate than the American boxers about rushing into wars. I then 24 feet.

It's a great thing to have friends who are capable of fine discrimination.

It might be said that friendship is built of our reactions to the moods and habits of others. We respond to those who have tastes similar to our own in certain things.

For instance, the man who reads every kind of paper and magazine that we would not read, who outrages our sense of colour scheme in clothes and cravats and things, who laughs at the oldest vaudeville wheezes, is not likely to be paired with us at a theatre or a ball game or a house party.

And when it comes to cigarettes, the man who persists in smoking the brand of cigarettes we do not like assumes the undesirableness of a relentless creditor or the Town Bore.

This smoking O.P. cigarettes is a fine art. Before you choose your "other people" make sure they know how to select the right brands for you.

Be sure your friends smoke Strollers.

The "coach-in-chief" will report and be responsible to the executive of the Junior Association only. It is their intention to create the complete footballer from among the boys of this country, so that when the time does come that a team from Canada could properly undertake a tour of the British Isles the Canadian team will be composed of native-born, who can give battle on the football field to the best the mother country can produce.

Meantime Montreal has 128 junior son with a total register of nearly 4,000 players in a city which is commonly spoken of as the second largest French city in the world. Montreal soccermen are on the right tack. They are interesting Canadians, both English and French, and when the latter gets thoroughly warmed up to the game Junior Association Football will most assuredly have a firm hold in the province of Quebec.

A mild sensation has been caused in British "soccer" circles by the sailing for the United States of Wille Mc-Stey, the Glasgow Celtic player, who had re-signed for another season. He has been secured as coach for the Ethilehem Steel Club, and will sail for definition of the make excuses for your bad pressed and runs better.

It is becoming clearer every week that U. S. A. "soccer" football clubs are very anxious to import first-class British footballers. There seems to be an agency in Britain for trans-Atlantic clubs.

The race for "soccer" football on the American continent is now on, and Canadians are to be left behind if we do not "tak a thocht."

We have far too many senior clubs and too few juniors. The States are offering inducements to players which would "stagger humanity" if chronicled. The competition for talent has con meneed, and the only way we in Canada can expect to hold our end up in a "socer" football way is for us all "to dig in," and help foster and encourage the great overseas game from the schools, inveniles improvements.

schools, juveniles, juniors up. This is our only salvation.

An invitation has been extended Canada by the soccermen of Maoriland to send a team across in 1924, and already the invitation has received favorable consideration, despite the fact that it will be no child's undertaking either from a playing or financial viewpoint.

The suggestion has been made that in the event of the tour being undertaken the winner of the championship of the Canada should be the team to visit the Antipodes.

Whilst the suggestion carries considerable merit we are of the firm opinion that it would be far better to select a representative team. select a representative team from the whole of the Dominion.

The honor of winning the D. F. A. cup would in itself be sufficient reward for the champions, and it would certainly savor of absurdity to send a club's, side in its entirity when by judicious selection from other clubs a stronger eleven could be chosen. We hope the tour will be undertaken and the best men be selected to represent the Maple Leaf.

They're still at it. The England 1. Scotland 0 Such was the outcome of the L. and D. J. F. A. international tilt which took place in St. Thomas Thursday, May 24.

The only goal of the game was secured by Billy Martin, Thistles' scintillating inside right, who, after eluding both the Scottish backs in the first twenty minutes of play, won the game for Roses.

Both Worton and Goddard, between the sticks for England and Scotland respectively, gave a grand exhibition of goaltending, and it was only the fine goaltending, and it was only the fine goaltending by Worton that saved his side from defeat.

St. Johns Rovers of St. Thomas who met Tunnel City in Sarnia on Thursday, May 24, in the semi-finals of the L. and D. injured players cup competition held the Sarnians down to a 1-1 draw which will replay, taking place in St. Thomas. The Tunnelers' goal was secured through the penalty route. Novers finished much stronger than the borderers, who seemed to lack the necessary staying abilities.

An executive meeting of the L. and D. J. F. A. will be held Monday, May 28, at the Y. M. C. A. room 3 at 8 p.m. sharp, when only accredited club representatives are asked to attend. St. Thomas Junior Rovers, also Juveniles, please note.

The batter struck at the bail, and it was a tip foul, but was held by the catcher, and the base-runner made the bas. The umpire sent the base-runner back because it was a tip foul. Hoping you will answer this in Saturday morning's paper. Very truly, AREADER OF THE ADVERTISER. Answer—The umpire's decision was incorrect. When catcher catches foul tip, and base runner is stealing, plays may be lade in same manner as if ball was not fouled. I managed to get fifteen copies of the Sunday paper in which the article had been reprinted. From the warden I secured permission to mail to some of my friends the clippings containing that article, and with each one there went a brief letter setting forth that I was doing my best for self-improvement, which was true to my pledge made years before. Beauty,

Endurance and Economy

Form A Triple Alliance BEAUTY of design and perfection of finish are combined with refinement and mechanical excellence in this new Phaeton Reo. built upon the famous Reo-Six chassis and powered with that perfectly balanced sweetrunning six-cylinder motor.

'Gracefully proportioned is the softly curved low hung body with straight lines that sweep from end to end and merge hood, cowl and body panels into pleasing entirety.

Arm chair comfort is delivered by the liberally dimensioned, form-fitting seats and backs. Covering them is gray hand-buffed leather of Dualtone finish.

Proving that beauty is more than bodydeep is the Reo double-framed chassis, with the power units so suspended in the innerframe as to foil the ravages of road shocks.

Spirited and rugged is the 50 h.p. engine. With ground cylinders, large ports, 4-bearing crankshaft, intake valves in head-each part remarkably accessible—it is motordom's most enduring "Six."

American Can and California Petroleum Show Advance On Street.

Copyright. New York, May 26 .- The advance in morning's two-hour market was more rapid and better sustained than t of the preceding days. American and California Petroleum were the Can and California Petroleum were the two outstanding features, yet there was little to be said about the rise in either of these two stocks that has not been California Petroleum has already smit California Petroleum has already split up its common stock into four parts. Therefore there would seem to be nothing like a stock dividend in prospect. If anything more is distributed in cash, the preferred must share equally. To avoid this either the preferred would have to be called in at 120 or some other arrangement made which would get the senior stock out of the way. The fact that California Petroleum preferred paused around 110, while the common crossed 116, was the subject of rather puzzled discussion today.

The facts regarding American Can are well enough known not to need repetition. Some of the same interests are back of the move in this stock that was so successful in Corn Products, and they regard the situation in the two as quite similar. Both represent companies which have been very cautious aboupt dividend payments, and they have rolled up large surpluses which they have put back into property. American Can this morning was within loss than four points of its very highest.

The gains in the equipment group

The gains in the equipment group extended from a point to two points. Steel common, after hesitating for some time around 98, suddenly began to feel the force of the buying movement, and tan up across 99. Coca-Cola was one of the features in the specialty list. There was a lot of short selling some time ago in this stock on the assumption that the higher cost of sugar would mean smaller profits. This theory has turned out wrong, because Coca-Cola has been making up any decrease it has sustained in the profit margin by largely increasing their sales. Driving of this mistaken short account was the cause of the jump to 80.

The rise in the share list was general, but again it was unevenly distributed. Railway stocks displayed no uneasiness on account of a conference of radicals at Chicago, but this chass of stocks were relatively inconspicuous in the trading of the day. The main features were the speculative industrials, like the equipment, steel, oil and can shares. The buying in some of these went on with quite as much exuberance as was shown at any stage of the winter campaign. There was probably a good deal of truth in the Wall Street rumor that speculative interests which had been working for the last two months on the short side had reversed their position and were bending their energies quite as vigorously in the opposite direction.

Mexican Seaboard—Mexican Seaboard had quite a sharp run-up today on the announcement that the company had brought in a new 25,000-barrel light oil well in a new field. The location of the well is about a quarter of a mile west of the present producers in the Coteco field, but is separated by a dike from the old field. The fact that the flow from the old wells was not affected by the bringing in of the new well strengthens the theory that a new field has been opened.

Montreal Ontario showed net gain of % at 49½. Other price chances were mostly of fractional nature.

In the silver section, Crown Reserve rallied to 60, for net gain of 1½, while Keeley advanced to $1.89, up 6. Larose at 34½ was up 1¼, with fractional gains shown by Beaver an dMcKinley, and with Castle, Mining Corporation and Lorraine closing unchanged.

bonds today, but moderate gains were registered also throughout the list with the exception of United States government securities which closed slightly lower than yesterday's final figures.

Recent strength and activity of the United States government issues has sent forth many comments that Great Britain is in the market. Bankers estimate that Great Britain would save in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 by paying its next interest installment on the debt to the United States in the liberties which are acceptable at par. Most of these bonds moved upward during the forenoon today, but eased off in the later trading. Losses on the day, however, were limited to 5-32 of a point.

Fairly Strong Tone Prevails With Papers In the Limelight.

Associated Press Despatch.

Montreal, May 25.—Trading in listed shares on the local stock exchange today was more active, and a fairly strong tone prevailed, with the papers in the limelight. Laurentide accounted for more than one-third of the total trading, and closed at 97 for a net gain of 34, after selling at the new high of 9814. Abitibi came second, with a gain of 194 at 67, and Spanish preferred third, up 114 at 163.

Fifty-eight issues came out, of which 29 gained ground 11 accounts.

Iroquois, May 25.—At today's session of the Iroquois cheese board 680 boxes were offered, 55 colored and 625 white. Bidding started at 15½c, rising to 155c. There were no sales on the board, but all sold on the curb at that price. Four buyers were present. On the same date last year 695 cheese were boarded, the price being 12 3-16c. up 1½ at 103.

Fifty-eight issues came out, of which 20 gained ground, 11 suffered losses, 11 were unchanged, and 16 came out in broken lots only.

Atlantic Sugar, with a gain of 3 points to 21, was the strong feature of the list. Atlantic Sugar preferred was the soft spot, declining 5½ points to a new low level of 4½.

Other price changes took in Brompton, up 1½; Canadian Car, up 1; Canadian General Electric, up ½; Detroit Raliway, up a point: Penmans, off 2, and St. Maurice Paper, off 3% points.

Bond trading showed an increase in volume, but was without significant feature. Montreal, May 25.— At the United Dairymen's Co-operative Society's auction sale held here today the offerings amounted to 260 boxes of Ontario cheese, of which 111 boxes No. 1 colored sold at 16 c per pound and 52 boxes No. 2 white at 15% per pound, while 16c per pound was bid for 97 boxes No. 1 white, with 16 c per pound asked.

CHICAGO.

Chicago, May 26.—Official figures in probable yield of wheat in Kansas proved larger than the majority of traders here had looked for, and the wheat market took a downward swing today during the early dealing. Fine weather counted also as a bearsh factor, and so, too, did weakness in the corn market. Rather general selling on the part of holders of wheat was in evidence. After opening unchanged to %c lower, wheat underwent a decided all-around drop in value. Corn prices were depressed by the reported large increase of corn acreage in Kansas. Opening prices were followed by a material further decline.

Oats started unchanged to %c off, later all the months showed price losses.

Chicago. May 25.—Owing chiefly to lack of selling pressure, wheat averaged somewhat higher in price today, but slowness of export business had a bearish influence during the last part of the exchange session. Closing quotations were unsettled, at a range varying from %c decline to %c advance, with July $1.17 to $1.17% and September $1.15½ to $1.15%. Corn finished a shade to %c off; oats %c lower to %c gain, and provisions 5c to 10c down.

Influenced by light offerings here and advances in prices at Liverpool, the last half hour.

Reports that trans-Atlantic crops are in better condition than last year counted as a bearish factor toward the close. Besides, crop advices from the American spring wheat belt were generally favorable. Under such circumstances such buying power dwindled, and the early gains were almost all wiped out, but even slight declines below yesterday's finish were a signal for some revival of support and for consequent rallies.

Uncreased offerings of corn in Iowa led to weakness in the corn market.

On the other hand, export demand for corn was better. Oats followed corn.

The Gateway to Opportunity

To-day not all young people are aware of the value of a savings account as the foundation of future security and prosperity.

A savings account not only provides for the proverbial "rainy day," but very often it is the open gate to an opportunity to get into business, to buy a home or to make a lucrative investment.

No other provision for the future is so sure of results in security and contentment as a savings

Stays strong and neat for years

WHY not a tight and tidy-looking chicken run built with Frost Bantam Brand Poultry Fence-it costs no more!

It's far cheaper, in fact, because once up, it is there to stayneat, handsome and strong—for years. The cost in time and money to keep ugly netting patched up and renewed soon becomes Frost Bantam Brand Poultry Fence is strong enough for a light wire garden fence, yet it is closely enough spaced to keep in small chicks. No top or bottom

It is No. 15½ gauge wire with No. 12 gauge (heavier) wire top bottom; heights 24 to 60 inches; uprights 6 in. apart; laterals ced 1 in. to 3 in. and 6 in. apart. Made of the wire that made Frost Fence famous for st and weather-resisting quality—drawn, annealed and extra heavily galvan-ized in our own factory. Why not have a neat

WANT AD TIPS

So the Right People Will Reply

Friendly, pleasant copy pays best in the Want Ad section. And it is always practical to use it, even though, on first thought, it may seem one can't. For example: Advertising for assistants, you wish to be sure that only serious, desirable applicants apply. Maybe, advertising once, you had some response from an undesirable class-shirkers, actual "bums." In Want Ads, at various times, you have read, "No bums need apply." It seems to fit your need. Shall you use it? "No bums" does sound pretty cold and hard-boiled. Something like "Curiosity seekers, save your stamps." It ought to discourage undesirables from replying. It will. If that was all it did, we wouldn't criticize it. The trouble is, it discourages others from replying, toodesirable applicants, the very sort you want. "No bums" won't sound to some of the best of the latter as the language view which would be an unpleasant ordeal. Humanly, the reader doesn't reply to the ad. The want advertiser can use a message which, while keeping undesirables away, will not antagonize desirable ones, of a friendly, appealing employer. It will suggest an inter-

Such stipulations as these effect this object: "Character references required." "Bring references from former employers." "Must own home." "If you are hardworking, straight, and your record will stand investigation, we cordially solicit your application." This is pleasant, tactful language, giving the reader a good impression of the advertiser. Yet it sharply discourages undesirables from applying.

Instead of "Curiosity seekers, save your stamps," you can say, "unless actually in the market, please do not reply." Objectionable replies are not often a Want advertiser's problem. Generally when the problem exists, the advertiser knows it in advance. He can handle it with tactful language which will actually help him with the desirable people he wishes to reply.

Brunswick Minister of Health Praises Dr. Hill For Brilliant Work.

With the applause of a thousand friends ringing in their ears, 91 graduates of the University of Western Ontario stepped forth into the world of opportunity last night through the doors of convocation.

All available space at the Majestic Theatre was crowded by a colorful throng of admirers, who had gathered students, upon whom various degrees were conferred by Hon. W. J. Roche, M.D., L.L.D., the chancellor, who was assisted by other officials of the University.

In addition to the conferring of degrees, gold medals, scholarships and prizes were presented by Dr. Roche to a long list of winners, representing every class year at the Unione products of this great province of Ontarfo, and of the prairie provinces versity.

The impressive ceremony was ppened with a parade of all those who evening were presented with di-plomas of public health, the procession marched from the Y. M. C. A. building on Wellington street to the Maestic Theatre. In the line were first, the students who were to prizes and other awards, then the members of the graduating classes, who were followed by members of the faculty and the board of governors. AN OPPORTUNITY NEGLECTED.
A farmer who lives about four miles from Houston noticed a stranger in his front yard one afternoon last week acting in a rather unusual manner. He wore a pair of ducking trousers stuffed in his boots, and had a nose the color of Elginpressed brick. In his hand he held a sharpened stake about two feet long, which he would stick into the ground, and after sighting over it ground, and after sighting over it at various objects would pull it up and go through the same perform-ance at another place.

The farmer went out in the yard and inquired what he wanted.

"Wait just a minute." said the stranger, squinting his eye over the stick at the chicken house. "You see I'm one of de ordnance corps of engineers what's runnin' de line of the railroad from Columbus, Ohio, to Houston. De other fellers is over de hill wid de transit and de baggage. There was much pleasure to be deevery day. It gave one an air of importance to sit at the head of the table opposite a person so very important—in Clara's eyes—as Judge Wells, and a pleasurable air of responsibility in inspecting the larder portant—in Clara's eyes—as Judge Wells, and a pleasurable air of re-sponsibility in inspecting the larder every day and checking up the freship roned clothes that were sent up from below stairs every Tuesday afternoon. Clara kept a neat list on a slate hanging in the linen closet. Not that there was the dimmest possibility that Nora, the laundress, would carry thing might get caught in the clothes chute or mislaid in the laundry when Clara, counting the clean clothes, noticed the absence of one gone about the matter with her usual of a dozen tea napkins. She had re-

From immediately after luncheon the next afternoon Clara worked in the kitchen preparing the spread for the gubernatorial candidate. She was precision. Her father had given no hint as to what Mr. Parsons liked to eat. So she called up the clubhouse, where she knew her father had often met Mr. Parsons and asked to speak two-table bridge party.

Clara consulted Mary, maid of all work. "Would you mind looking around the laundry and in the clothes supper menu that she was sure would be supper menu that she was supper menu that she please her father's guest.

When the chef had told her that he was partial to simple country cooking Mary started to descend to the laundry. "It's more likely they'd get blown off'n the lines," said Mary in going. "I minded Nora to fasten the things or good with the to fasten the things on good with that strong wind lief that he was middle-aged, overa blowin."

UNIVERSITY WOMEN PLAN FALL PROGRAM

Club Executive Is Entertained At Home of Mrs. W. H. Porter, New President.

Mrs. W. H. Porter, Windsor avenue. was the hostess of a delightful little tea yesterday afternoon, when she entertained the members of the new executive of the University . Women's Club at her home. Plans were made for the fall activities of the club, which will be opened with a supper to be held at the Highland Club, at which it is hoped Miss Margaret Coyne, who has recently returned from an enjoyable Mediterranean trip, will give a travel talk. Further plans for the autumn include a meet ing in November, at which Mrs. K. P. R. Neville has been asked to speak on "The Modern Drama." and a December meeting on "Japan." Several interesting and new features are being planned by the executive for this year. Mrs. L. P. Shanks will propose a "reading circle" in connection with the club. The idea is that the members of such circle contribute to the purchase of two books each week, these books to be circulated, so that each member will have a chance to read them all. A small boy would be engaged to carry the books from member to with the latest publications.

Another suggestion comes from Mrs. K. P. R. Neville, who would like to see all discussion groups formed in connection with the club, these discussion groups to pursue whatever course of study they chose. Mrs. W. H. Porter has another interesting proposal. She suggests that at each meeting a few moments be devoted to editorial comment on some current subject. Subjects suggested for discussion at meetings during the coming year "The Five Greatest Women of the World," after which a vote of the club members on the subject would be taken, and "What Pictures Are Worth While." A meeting, at which men friends of the members would be invited, is also a proposal for next

FAMILY PACKS BALE OF LATE MRS. REASON

Annual Shipment To Labrador Does Not Cease With Donor's Death.

For many years past, Mrs. Catharine Rosson had been sending a generous bale to the Grenfell Mission. Labrador. But since the packing of the 1922 bale in June last year, death has called the kind benefactress of these people of the far north. Her death in January last, how-ever, has not caused the bale to cease. By her personal efforts, even during the last days of her life, Mrs. Reason contrived to make a large quantity of clothing, and collected many aricles, which were destined for the bale this year. And her family, unwilling to let the custom cease with her death, has carefully packed the bale again this year. And it will be shipped to Labrador within a few days. The Harrington Hospital, to which this bale is going, is the farthest north hospital in Labrador. The formal packing of the bale took/place yesterday afternoon at the home of Dr. Clifford Reason, Elias treet, a son of the late Mrs. Roason

To the child who has missed the touch of a fairy wand in the Land of small People before coming to this world, a fairy tale is exactly what its name implies and nothing more; it stmulates the imagination and makes good entertainment. The Doo Dads—Doc. Sawbones' Hotel

② ない こがれる はなり 機能を使用する はない はない と

By Arch. Dale.

The show place of Dooville is the Manor House, Doc. Sawbones' Hotel. Each day, as soon as Nicholas Nutt has crowded the incoming travelers into his hotel bus. Doc. Sawbones, Flannelfeet, Roly and Poly rush back to the hotel, spruce up a bit and are ready to receive the guests when they arrive. Flannelfeet tightens his belt two holes, trades his helmet for a stiff-billed cap with a shiny brass plate on it and he is changed from a copper into the porter of the Manor House. He stands at the front door and gives each guest a military salute as he enters. This makes the visitors feel important, and they rush up to the desk and sign their names in the big register for all the world as if they were millionaires and perfectly willing to give Doctor Sawbones all the money they were carrying in their pockets. The fat little fellow at the desk is having to wiggle and twist and hold his tongue in the corner of his mouth to spell out his address. On top of his other troubles, he has upset the ink and the pen sputters. This doesn't worry him much, but it will likely peeve Old Man Grouch, for Mr. Grouch does not like to have ink in his Roly is earrying his bags and watching him closely. Poly has found that the more difficulty the guest has in spelling his name the more liberal he is in passing out tips. See Poly holding the door of the telephone booth for the humped-over little Doo Dad! My, he is dignified and respectful! You would think he was the secretary to some great potentate. The little bellhop just behind Roly is calling out, "Mr. Wawa," "Mr. Wawa," "Mr. Wawa."

The little bellhop following him is calling out, "Mr. Wowo," "Mr. Wowo." The little bellhop yelling into the ear trumpet of the old Doo Dad with whiskers is calling out, "Mr. Weewe," "Weewe," "Weewe." Doctor Sawbones knows that no one will understand what they are saying and their going constantly to and fro lends an air of bustle and importance to his

All during the dinner hour, Nicholas Nutt sits on a raised platform and sings songs as he strums the air on his banjo. As usual old Sleepy Sam has gone to sleep before finishing his job; the drippings from his mop will certainly spoil the new hat of the Doo Dad who has gone to sleep in the chair and no one can tell what will happen after the pompous merchant, who is coming downstairs, takes one more step, for the bucket is full of water. The old Doo Dad from Timbuctoo has finished his dinner and given the waiter a black copper and it is almost breaking his heart to tip the polite little bellhop who is handing him by at least a week. The cherry trees are wiser than the ap-ricot which flauted her blossoms a weight.

Orchard Oriole Arrives.

The orchard oriole has arrived too, and is singing his rollicking song from the branches of the still blossomless apple trees. Though the orchard oriole is not nearly as gayly dressed as his cousin his song is much richer and sounds as if he were saying "Come-and-look-here-Susy-here's-a-good-place." His little wife, Susy, is especially easy to overlook. Susy, is especially easy to overlook, her demure dress of olive-green harmonizing so exactly with the leaves. Even the young males do not don their chestnut and black plumage un-til their second or even their third spring, and in their olive-green might easily be mistaken for a different species. Their nest is suspended from the extremity of an apple limb as a rule about 15 or 20 feet from the ground and their eggs blue-white and scrawled on the large end with chinese laundry marks in black. One day last summer we heard a great commotion from a pair of orchard orioles and on going out to inquire into the cause we found a baby bird on the ground under the tree. He was a pretty enterprising baby to manage to scramble out of rach a manage to scramble out of such a deep cradle, and in spite of all his mother had told him, too, about not climbing on the sides. Perhaps the flapper age begins even earlier in birdland than it does with us! At any rate we didn't know what to do with this poor, frightened baby, he was partly feathered, but not old calough to fly, and there was no way in which we could reach the nest to put him back to bed. So we placed him in a berry-box lined with grass and put it in an old canary cage. Then the question was what to feed him. He had to be spoon-fed of and put it in an old canary cage.
Then the question was what to feed him. He had to be spoon-fed of course, and bread and milk seemed to down more easily than anything course, and bread and milk seemed to mest.

And how he did eat; about every ten minutes he would hop up on the edge of the berry box and squawk, squawk—he made almost as much noise as a hen. I'm glad I'm not a mother oriole, it keeps me busy feeding my own brood of five babies three times a day, but what if I had to do it every ten minutes, but of course she doesn't have to wash and mend their clothes and so can concentrate on their meals. We heard Lord Baltimore's cheery whistle today after a warm rain and all turned out to greet our old friend. The same pair build in the big elm tree in the lane every year and of course this is the father bird sent on ahead as an advance agent to lay claim to the site before anyone else gets here. His song put to words is "There's-a-pretty-good-place-for-a-nest-up-here, there's-a-pretty-good-place of or-a-nest-up-here," and as we whistle in answer he announces the fact over and over again as if challenging us to come up and have a look at it. just in time to get them that heavy frost. When his wife arrives they will build a deep pocket-like nest of plant fibre, thread, etc., suspended from the tip of a graving ally branch. One posting times have given him many different thread, etc., suspended from the tip of a swaying elm branch. One nesting material which we provide and which they seem to like is what the smallest boys calls "binder-twine" frayed and cut into short pieces. It is a good thing that they build such a deep nest as the summer storms surely do rock that old tree. Meadowlark and Cowbird.

In meadows made merry by Bobolink's music one is almost sure to find the meadowlark as well. He is easily recognized—upper parts black, brown and buff; under parts yellow with a black bib around his neck, and he shows two conspicuous white tail feathers when flying. These birds feathers when flying. These birds build their nests on the ground in a tuft of grass, which they arrange in a sort of dome over it, and their eggs are white speckled with reddish brown. Their nests, on account of the grass roof, are harder to locate than those of the song-sparrow and vesper-sparrow, which place theirs on the ground without much attempt at oncealment.

The debt of the world to her is great; she can make it so heavy that it would bankrupt Europe to settle he interruption of Rhine traffic; its the debt, if she will intervene. Of course she cannot, and Great Britain cannot intervene in the Ruhr unless or the trade of England, the policy France desires mediation, but the United States can draw closer to Great, Britain, and when the time is ripe-and it will be soon-she can help adjust the affairs of the whole on in the Ruhr? She has agreed to an international court at The Hague officially. It would deal with the difficulties of the world, and why should there be hesitation to share officially in setting right the affairs of Europe-a she has done in the settlement of the British debt, by which she gave assurance of national sense of fair play. for she does not lend as cheaply to her own people as she has lent to Great Britain, and yet her own people must bear any losses as they share in

Sympathy Due France.

If France had been guaranteed territorial security she would not now be in the Ruhr. Well, the United States would not abide by the terms of the two nations treaty of Englishspeaking affiliations, and Great Britain did not. Sympathy must be felt for France that her territorial security was not guaranteed and I cannot understand why the British government has not done so. If France is defeated Great Britain will suffer vastly, and she has no wish to suffer. She never had a rigid alliance with France at all, and she is against alliances, but these are not times to consider punctilios of national feelings. Great Britain hated conscription as the United States hated it, yet in the time of war they applied it. and we are yet engaged in war and the rigid etiquette of national habit should stand aside.

Not a colony that we got from Germany is selfsupporting, and there is no monetary advantage in them. ## Young Bandit Wanted Here On Murder Charge, Held By Police of Susanville Melbourne Bank Bandit, Sidney Murrell, Placed Under Arrest by California Authorities On a Charge of Robbery-Finger Prints Are Sent to Ottawa, Where They Are Identified.

MADE ESCAPE FROM THE MIDDLESEX JAIL

Sidney Murrell, Melbourne bank Crown Attorney J. C. McKillop, K.C. bandit, wanted for murder here, has been captured in Susanville, California.

Murrell was arrested on a charge of bunglary, as those of the desperado who made a sensational break from the Middlesex County jail September 2, 1921.

Murrell is at present on remand in the Lassen County jail awaiting further word from the local authorities. As late as last evening, the county seat where the jail is located compared the stranger's description with that on the circular sent out by the London police and found a close esemblance

Finger prints were taken and forwarded to Ottawa. Comparison showed the prints to be those of Sidney Murrell.

Police here have wired Susanville authorities to hold the prisoner for further instructions, and have for-warded the detailed description for which the California police asked. Sidney Murrell was one of a gang f four gunmen who robbed the Melbourne branch of the Home Bank of Canada on the morning of Monday, April 10, 1921. It was during their attempt to escape after the robbery that Russell Campbell was shot to
