HEADS HANG WITH SHAME

True Men of Our Province
Crushed With Disgrace, says
Rev. Mr. Smith.

A Powerful Discourse to the Workmen At Holy Trinity Church Last Night.

"The evils of lying — I used the blunt, plain word — are appalling. My friends, things seem to be coming to a fearful pass in our country. Men no longer seem to stand in awe of the truth — prevarication is far too common. And when we think of the terrible spectacle of lying under oath which this Province has recently witnessed in high places, it behooves every man, who has the cause of righteousness at heart, to bow his head low in shame."

Rev. T. Beverley Smith delivered a strong address to the members of the A. O. U. W. in Holy Trinity Church last evening, from the words of St. James I, 19,—"Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak."

In welcoming the visiting order the rector assured them they had a good name and a good constitution. "Live up to them both," he declared. "Some years ago, when I was a student it was my privilege to address a lodge. I studied their constitution and, without being irreverent, it read like a chapter from the Sermon on the Mount. Yet, these men, who had adopted it as their standard, lived like a lot of corrupted Indians."

Continuing, the speaker briefly reviewed the constitution of the Workmen. He regretted that the same of Christ was not specially mentioned therein. He was the Master Workman of the world. The labor problems which were causing the old world so much seething unrest could only be truly settled at the foot of the Cross. The first law of political economy was to love your neighbor as yourself.

The constitution also provided that an effort be made to inspire the members with a due appreciation of the realities and responsibilities of life. "God help you to carry this out," said the speaker.

In providing for those left behind they were doing a goodly work, a work of love, a work of Christ. Alluding to the text, Rev. Mr. Smith said the sins of the tongue were much more serious than the sins of the hand. He was specially mentioned therein. He was the Master Workman of the world. The labor problems which were causing the old world so much seething unrest could only be truly settled at the foot of the Cross. The first law of political economy was to love your neighbor as yourself.

"Profanity is a useless sin, if I may use the expression," commented the reverend gentleman. "It only defiles the air and offends the human ear." Lying was, he feared, terribly on the increase. There was too little regard for absolute truth. The fearful experience of perjury before the Province must make every patriot hang his head with shame. "Let us all pray," concluded Mr. Smith, in the words of the grand old hymn—"Guard Thou the lips from sin."

The musical portion of the service, under the direction of W. Stanley Ball, was much enjoyed. It comprised two excellent anthems, splendid solos by Miss K. O'Hara and T. Stegman, and a quartette, unaccompanied.

AMES & CO'S SUSPENSION.

Transfer of Property Purchased for Metropolitan Bank.

Toronto, June 8. — It is expected that within a short period A. E. Ames & Co. will be in a position to make a more definite statement of their affairs to the public. An exchange of clients' accounts is being made, wherever possible, through other brokerage and banking firms, and progress is being made in reducing the accounts of the firm.

The transfer of the property at the southeast corner of King and Melinda streets, which was purchased by the Metropolitan Bank, was registered on Saturday from Ames & Co. to the Metropolitan Bank. The transfer is dated April 28, and is for $104,000, subject to mortgage of $115,000 and $14,000 held by the Bristol and West of England Company, and $25,000 held by the Toronto General Trusts Corporation. The assessed value of the property is $103,150.

ARE LOCKING HORNS.

Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk
In Rivalry.

Toronto, June 8. — A fight appears to be on between the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways because the latter company has put on an Atlantic steamship service. It is claimed by the Canadian Pacific that the Grand Trunk will issue through bills of lading on all steamship lines sailing from Montreal except the Canadian Pacific steamers.

28TH MILESTONE

Parish of Holy Trinity Church
Observed Anniversary — A Splendid Sermon.

Holy Trinity Church yesterday morning celebrated the 28th anniversary of the opening of the parish by a special service, at which many were present. The rector, Rev. T. Beverley Smith, delivered an earnest and edifying address and the choir, under the direction of Stanley Ball, rendered appropriate and pleasing music.

Mr. Smith's address was an impressive one. Going briefly back over the parish church annals, he pointed out their value and the many sacred associations with which they were surrounded. They contained the history of many a family and the names of many a stalwart Christian that had passed away. Six different clergymen had enjoyed the privilege of ministering to the church.

The speaker, proceeding, pointed out that financial aggrandizement was not the true measure of prosperity in the church. It was rather the Christian character produced in the men and women reared in it.

Three tests were sometimes submitted as to the prosperity of a church.

1.—The regular attendance. Mr. Smith confessed this was oftentimes a great disappointment to him, but he did not believe in scolding the people who were present for those who were absent. Yet, he felt absence often signified indifference—which was a sad thing. He asked the workers of the church to join their clergyman in the effort to interest the congregation in regular attendance.

2.—The offerings. The gifts of the people were the measure of their sacrifice. The speaker was glad indeed to congratulate the church on the manifest growth in liberality. The most year was the greatest in its history and he trusted there would be no weariness in well doing.

3.—Attendance at Holy Communion. These three tests were only outward standards. God read the hearts. Sometimes Mr. Smith feared there was a studied avoiding of the holy communion by the young men and women of the church.

He earnestly hoped that the congregation would make the anniversary occasion the dawn of a new era, not alone in church life, but in personal consecration. In these days of commercial and business rush there is less readiness to reflect and the reminder the anniversary afforded was needed. Mr. Smith closed with an eloquent appeal for greater consecration and higher standard of life.

BABY WAS BURIED ALIVE.

Found in a Stump on a Farm Near Etobicoke.

Toronto Junction, June 8. — A friendship attempt at child murder was frustrated by the Sunday stroll which Mr. Alex. Johnston took along a not much frequented route in York Township, near the Humber. As Mr. Johnston was passing by an old stump he heard a noise that seemed like the voice of a young kitten. Mr. Johnston made an examination of the stump, and there he found, partially covered up by bits of rotten wood, which had been knocked off the stump, a girl baby, almost naked, and almost dead from exposure. Mr. Johnston carried the little waif to the house of Miss George Barrett, on the Scarlett road, where it was cared for, and where it now lies while the county constabulary are trying to get some clue as to the perpetrators of the crime. The baby is apparently about two weeks old. When found a bit of cotton rag was wrapped around part of its body, and there were stockings on its feet. Bits of the rotten wood which formed the covering of its living tomb had got into its eyes and intensified its suffering. Near the stump were tracks which indicated that a buggy had recently been turned around. The road is one along which a great deal of shale and stone is hauled from the Humber Power Co.'s quarry to the Junction, but on Sunday it is a comparatively deserted locality, so that whoever left this baby evidently did not intend that it should be rescued, and it was by the greatest chance that Mr. Johnston, whose work on week days is hauling shale along this route, walked that way to-day. The child was sent to the Infants' Home, Toronto.

GOVERNESS A THIEF.

Stole Jewellery and Furs Valued at Fifty Thousand Dollars.

New York, June 8. — Minnie Williams, alias May Parker, the governess arrested here some time ago, charged with the theft in London of jewels and furs valued at $50,000, was surrendered to Sydney Rex, a London detective, who sailed for England with his prisoner. The young woman was formerly the governess in the family of Albert R. Rentlinger, a banker of Hempstead, London. She disappeared about three months ago, as did jewellery and furs valued at $50,000. Commissioner Shields surrendered the woman, the jewels and furs to the London detective.

Was It Signed in Time?

Chicago, June 8. — A despatch from Montgomery, Ala., says: "While endorsing a check to pay the premium on a life insurance policy for $200 which he had just taken out, J. S. Farrier dropped dead here in the Farley Bank."

FALL OF A WHALE.

DANGEROUS ACCIDENT AT LORNE PARK.

About Thirty Women and Children Precipitated Into the Water—Toronto Sunday School Picnic.

Toronto, June 8. — Lorne Park was the scene of an accident on Saturday evening that might have resulted in the loss of many lives. At least one woman, a visitor in the city, was seriously hurt and several others were badly bruised. It was the annual picnic of Chalmers Church Sunday School, and 600 scholars and friends were in attendance. The accident occurred about 7 o'clock, when between one and two hundred people were waiting on the landward end of the wharf for the steamer Niagara to take them home. The steamer had just arrived from Oakville, but the gates of the wharf proper had not been opened, when one span of the structure gave way and precipitated those on it into three or four feet of water. Most of them were women and children, and, naturally, there was a good deal of excitement, and several of the women fainted, though, strange to say, only one person on the land was attracted by the disturbance, and hurried to the assistance of those in the water.

The most seriously injured by the collapse of the wharf is Mrs. Sarah Butters of 221 De Witte street, Elmhurst, N.Y., who with her husband, Louis, came to Toronto last Thursday to visit her son, Fred T., at 275 Gladstone avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Butters went to the excursion in company with their daughter-in-law and grandchildren. Mrs. Butters was pinned down after the crash, and was dragged out by her husband. She was unconscious and was taken to the hotel, where she revived under treatment. Mrs. Butters was brought to Toronto on the special train and removed to the home of her son in the police ambulance. Dr. J. H. McConnell, who is in attendance, says Mrs. Butters is suffering from a broken rib and a sprained ankle. Internal injuries are feared. Her condition is regarded by the doctor as critical. Another woman, Mrs. John Michael, is at her home, 7 Colahie street, suffering from injuries to her back. Mrs. John Marshall, 114 Harrison street, in some way got under the plank, and was also pinned down tight. In the fall her leg was badly bruised. Others who were badly bruised were Mrs. R. Schoales, 249 Ossington avenue, and Mrs. Sibley, 12 Brockton place.

When the steamer arrived there were said to be 600 on board, so that all who wished to could not return that trip, others were nervous on account of the accident, and consequently a special train was ordered from Toronto. A couple of hundred of the picnicers got back to the city at 3 a.m. by train and the rest returned by the steamer, which made another trip.

A fool has not stuff enough to make a good man.

BRAVE RESCUE

CONGRESS OF RATS.

Delegation From All Parts Took Part in Recent London Convention—Some Tricks of the Fraternity.

The London Express of February 23rd said: The international congress of rats now in session in the Strand district is receiving the unsympathetic and undivided attention of the human inhabitants of the neighborhood. Rat-catchers state that delegates are present from Japan, China, Singapore, Ceylon, Persia, Turkey, Morocco and New York. They can tell the different species by their fur and the curves in their tails. An experienced catcher who works in the Tilbury docks informed an Express representative on Saturday that sea-faring rats were leaving the vessels in swarms and traveling to the Strand by easy stages. As an instance of this he said that the conductor of a Blackwall bus which stopped last Thursday night for five minutes outside the East India dock gates shortly afterwards found three rats under the seat. The rat-catcher stated that he only caught eleven rats on the Atlantic liner Minneapolis last week, and on the Minnetonka, belonging to the same company, he did not secure any. To prove the fact that the nautical rats were joining forces with those in the Strand a popular ratcatcher in the Strand China rat on board a steamer in the West India docks, which had just arrived from the east, and set it free again after having attached a tin label to its neck with a piece of wire. That was caught on Saturday afternoon in Wellington street as he was about to enter a shop. He is now safe in a cage at a dog-fancier's shop in St. Martin's lane.

Formerly the far eastern and London rats used to tranship at Singapore, where it was a curious sight in the evening to watch a long procession of them climbing along the hawser. Now, according to the officers of the P. and O., the foreign rodents have changed their habits, and come right through to London, where they land in hungry crowds—just like any other undesirable aliens.

SPOONERISMS.

Absent-Minded Preacher Appointed Warden of New College, Oxford.

The appointment of the Rev. William A. Spooner as warden of New College, Oxford, has caused a flood of "Spoonerisms" in the English press. Mr. Spooner is an absent-minded scholar, who frequently transposes the initial consonants or syllables of words in speaking. In his earlier life he was in charge of a church near Oxford, and it was at this church that those curious transpositions of letters or words now so generally known as "Spoonerisms" first came into fame. Many are doubtless assigned to him that are fictitious or the blunders of others—such as "there came up grass-jillars and caterpillars innumerable"—but it is a fact that in one of his first sermons he spoke of "showing leopard" instead of "loving shepherd," and that very early in his clerical career he preached from the text, "And now I see through a dark glassy." One of the best of these curious transpositions, which is but little known, led Mr. Spooner, in his absent-minded way, into much waste of time, once when in town he is said to have gone by appointment to meet a friend at Greenwich. Arriving there he proceeded to inquire for "The Dull Man," which he conceived to be the name of the hostelry where they were to meet. But after traversing the town from end to end, and inquiring everywhere, he had to return a disappointed man. Meanwhile his friend was in vain awaiting him at the Green Man, Dulwich.

The Cheapest Telegrams.

The Australian Commonwealth's telegraph service is the cheapest in the world. It is operated entirely by the Government as part of the postal system.

For city messages which include a suburban area of a radius of ten miles beyond the city limits, the rate is 12 cents for messages of ten words and the address. For messages of the same length to any point within the same state—and the states are generally very much larger than any American state—the charge is 18 cents, while for similar messages to any station within the Commonwealth—and from Rockhampton, in Queensland, to Perth, in Western Australia, the distance of wire is more than 4,500 miles—the uniform charge is 24 cents.

It is calculated on the basis of past experience that these rates will return a revenue sufficient to pay operating expenses of every kind, including the cost of maintenance, and in addition interest on the original expense of construction, amounting to fully $18,000,000.

Australians send more than twice as many messages over the lines at the lower rates as Americans do at the present charges.—Review of News.

How Lloyds Discovers Frauds.

Even to-day cases of fraud discovered in attempts to secure marine insurance unjustly are dealt with very severely by the courts, says Chalmers Roberts in World's Work. A well-remembered case at Lloyds concerns the yacht Firefly. Not long after this boat had been insured for a considerable sum, two men landed in an exhausted condition from a rowing-boat on the south coast of England. They told a long story of shipwreck, of perils braved, of how the Firefly had gone down and under what great difficulty they had escaped. It was subsequently discovered that the whole story was an invention, and that the very boat in which the escape had been made had been stolen by the shipwrecked mariners. They were just upon the point of receiving the sum of insurance money they expected. They obtained instead a lengthy term of imprisonment as the just meed of their audacious crime.

Tortured with Pain.

Too Weak to Work.

ULCERS, BOILS AND PIMPLES ALL OVER HER BODY.

Such was the condition of Mrs. Samuel Deitz, Zurich, Ont.

She happily found relief from her terrible suffering by using

Burdock Blood Bitters.

A remedy without a rival for the cure of all diseases and troubles arising from bad blood. A record extending over a quarter of a century and thousands of testimonials will prove this. Mrs. Deitz writes: "Too weak to work, tortured with the pain of ulcers, boils and pimples all over my body, especially on my face. I had almost made up my mind to give up trying to have them cured. I was ashamed to have any person come to see me, my face was in such a terrible state. I tried everything I could think of but got worse and worse. I was then led to try Burdock Blood Bitters and was surprised at the wonderful change the first bottle made. Altogether I took seven bottles and am now completely cured and am in perfect health again. I feel that B.B.B. saved my life."

ST. LAWRENCE NAVIGATION.

Signs of Confidence in the Route Being Restored.

Ottawa, June 6.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. E. F. Clarke asked what was being done to improve the St. Lawrence route, a question of interest to all of Canada.

Mr. Prefontaine reminded Mr. Clarke that the Marine report indicated a progressive policy in regard to the St. Lawrence. That this was inspiring confidence was shown by the fact that the C. P. R. vessels had been able to secure a lower rate of insurance than had prevailed before. He said that accidents that had occurred last year were not due to defective equipment of the route with lights, etc.

Mr. Fitzpatrick said that, speaking from his interest in that route, he would be willing to consult the Lloyds and undertake to pay the expenses of any competent man they would select, and have him make such suggestions as he might think necessary. Then, when an accident occurred, its cause should be thoroughly probed. He advised that the Government should take effective control of the pilotage system, securing more frequent examinations of pilots for color blindness.

Hon. Jas. Sutherland suggested that the report of the investigations into the accidents that had taken place on the St. Lawrence route should be printed and distributed for the information of the owners and those interested.

Mr. E. F. Clarke urged upon the Government their responsibility for improving the pilot system of the St. Lawrence in order to conduce to the greater safety of the vessels navigating the Gulf and River.

The House again went into committee and spent the whole afternoon in consideration of the provisions of Hon. Mr. Blair's bill amending an act relating to the pilot system of the St. Lawrence in order to conduce to the greater safety of the vessels navigating the Gulf and River.

The House again went into committee and spent the whole afternoon in consideration of the provisions of Hon. Mr. Blair's bill amending an act relating to the pilot system of the St. Lawrence in order to conduce to the greater safety of the vessels navigating the Gulf and River.

Mr. Thompson's bill to incorporate the Canada Industrial Corporation was read a third time.

TRIED AGAIN AND WAS CURED

A. Bailey, after Repeated Disappointments used Dodd's Kidney Pills

And Now his Old Pain Is Gone for Good and he Can do Any Kind of Stopping or Lifting Work.

Winnipeg, Man., June 8.—(Special).—So many deaths are now charged to Kidney Disease and ailments resulting from disordered Kidneys that the cure of Mr. H. Bailey, of 256 Patrick street, of this city, is being widely discussed. Mr. Bailey says:

"Some time ago I suffered a lot with pains across my back and kidney region of the kidneys. I had spent considerable money in England treating this ailment, but got no permanent relief."

"All by chance I read of some wonderful cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills and though my previous failures made me hesitate I finally decided to try them. It was a fortunate thing for me that I did."

"After taking three boxes, I found myself perfectly free from any pain whatever, and no matter what stooping or lifting work I do, I never have the old pain."

"It is now two years since I was cured, and I think in justice to Dodd's Kidney Pills, I have the right to recommend them to anyone suffering from Kidney Disease."

OWNED BY THE KING.

Queer Treasures Possessed by His Majesty—Lord Napier, Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener Contributors.

Quite apart from the treasures which become the property of every British Sovereign, and which consist for the most part of gold and silver plate, weighing altogether twenty-eight tons and valued at nearly two millions sterling, King Edward possesses a private collection of curios of which little is known.

The museum near the equestrian entrance at Windsor was really established as recently as 1896, when some workmen engaged in repairing the castle brought to light a number of relics dating from the Stuart period, and these, with such as were personally collected by Queen Victoria, have been set apart with several attendants to look after them. War mementoes are present in large numbers, every campaign of recent years being represented since the Abyssinian War, at the conclusion of which Lord Roberts presented the Queen with King Theodore's cap and gold seal. Subsequently Lord Roberts added the scarlet saddle edged with gold and the silver bit captured from the late Ameer of Afghanistan and Lord Kitchener presented the crimson banner of Wad Bishara taken at Omdurman.

The collection of old china was got together by the late Queen and is composed of 10,000 pieces, its value being put at £150,000. Every piece is tabulated in a book kept for the purpose, and against each record is its worth, with a brief account of its history. One desert service alone represents £30,000, it being of several ware of extreme beauty; while a breakfast service given to George III. on his birthday, in 1810, by his five daughters, whose initials are on every piece, are worth £10,000. Among the furniture is the writing desk given by Henry VIII. to Anne Boleyn on their wedding day; also an old Venetian chair used by the Doges and dated 1670. A solid silver table of the same period is another treasure on which the King sets great store.

The King's collection of feather cloaks is valued at £10,000. They are composed of gold, black and crimson feathers from the wings of a now extinct species of parrot, and were given to George IV. by the King of the Sandwich Islands in 1824. Some of the feathers are so minute as to make each cloak a marvel of ingenuity. Another treasure, which at one time belonged to a savage potentate is Tippoo Sahib's eagle, taken from his throne at Seringapatam. The bird, nearly life-size, is of solid gold; the beak and wings are tipped with diamonds. There is also a gold tiger's head from the same source, the eyes of which are of priceless crystal.

Not far away may be found the collection of walking-sticks King Edward inherited from his mother, numbering 187 in all, and many of them of great value. One of these, purchased at the Gulloden sale in 1807, is carved to represent Wisdom and Folly, £160 having been paid for it. Another of black oak, originally belonged to Charles II., while a third is made from wood of the luckless Alabama, the handle being carved to represent Captain Semmes, the skipper.

The royal library which now consists of 125,000 volumes, owes its origin to the late Prince Consort, and could not be purchased for £100,000. A second collection of 10,000 volumes, for which the King was himself responsible, was purchased at the sale of Sandringham.

In the Windsor collection are many books of priceless value, notably the Mentz Psalter, of which only one other intact copy exists. Its value is £8,000. There are also the MS. of Mozart's first opera, and the copy of Shakespeare's works used by Charles I. Among the pictures are 27,000 engravings, after such masters as Raphael, Da Vinci, etc.

Not the least interesting features of the King's private museum is his collection of gold keys which have been presented to him at various times when opening public buildings. To each is attached a concise account of the ceremony with which it was connected, the total value of the collection being placed at £5,000.

A Witness' Excellent Retort.

Witnesses, as well as jurymen, are expected to express some respect for the court in their attire, and many a laboring man has been reproved for entering the witness-box without paying due attention to his toilet. Only one has ever been known to make an effective retort, and he was a bricklayer who appeared before Lord Ellenborough.

"Really, witness," said his Lordship, "when I have to appear in this court, it is your bounden duty to be more clean and decent in your appearance."

"Upon my life," replied the witness, "if your Lordship comes to that, I'm thinking I'm every bit as well dressed as your Lordship."

"Why, faith," explained the ready-witted bricklayer, "you come here in your working clothes, and I've come in mine."

Australia's Miniature Volcanoes. A curious feature of the breakup of the protorated and devastating drought in Australia was the number of miniature volcanic explosions in various parts of the Commonwealth. The ground had become so parched and dry that it cracked, and the fissures thus formed became the vents of heated air. When the long prayed for downpour of rain came at last, the water met the hot air in these fissures, and little geysers and volcanoes were manufactured in a moment. Many farmers, hearing the explosions and seeing columns of steamy stuff arising from the earth, wondered what new plague had come to afflict them and whether they were out of the frying pan into the fire.

PROGRESS IN CHRISTIAN LIFE

The Subject of A Splendid Address at Park St. Methodist Church.

Rev. Mr. Johnston Preached to Large Congregations—Two Strong Sermons.

In the absence of the pastor at conference, the services yesterday at Park street church were conducted by Rev. A. J. Johnston, of the Hamilton conference. Mr. Johnston proved himself to be a profound and scholarly thinker as well as a pleasing speaker, and the people of Chatham were favored with two very instructive and inspiring discourses. In the morning he took his text from Mark xiii, 13, "But he that shall endure to the end, the same shall be saved." The preacher stated that many people had a very mistaken view regarding the Christian life; that while in secular matters it is commonly recognized that effort and practice are required before excellence and perfection can be attained, as is evidenced by many maxims such as "practice makes perfect." Genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains, in religious experience conversion, the attaining to a position of rightness with God, has been in old theology unduly emphasized, and the necessity for progress, the fact that the Christian life is a process, often lost sight of. He insisted that Longfellow's words—

The heights by great men sought and won,
Were attained by sudden flight:
But they while their companions slept
Were toiling upwards to the night.

Were true in spiritual as well as in other matters; and that it is absurd to suppose that the Christian life is to be an easy, effortless drifting through the gates of the New Jerusalem. The tower of character is to be built only by ceaseless effort, and every stone, even to the coping stone, must be lifted to its place against the constant resistance of the force of gravity.

The preacher emphasized the importance of the present in the building. The past is behind us; no deposit has been left that can make secure the future, only a vent in the direction of good or evil; the future is before us, a great unknown; the present is ours, and in it, if need be, the past may be forgotten, and only by it may the future be made glorious.

Is it worth while to attempt so great and continuous a struggle, the preacher asked. To those who would say so, he pointed out that not only in the upward striving is there pain and toil, but also at the bottom in the aimless gravelling among worldly things. And how worthy of the most strenuous and exacting climb is the view and reach from the summit! Life then at worst as at best is a struggle, and in the strain, he who fights bravely and well, he that shall endure to the end, the same shall be saved.

The hymns were very appropriate, and the choir rendered in good style "Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord," Miss Pearl White taking the solo. The quartette, consisting of Misses Hill and White, Messrs. Miller and Gilleland, sang an offering.

In the evening Mr. Johnston gave a short but beautiful address on the opening words of the 23rd Psalm: "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want," dwelling especially on the last clause. Mr. Arthur Martin, of Wexford, who has a very melodious voice, sang "The Redemption."

FINE ADDRESS

The A. O. F. Attended St. Andrew's Church and Heard Splendid Discourse.

The Ancient Order of Foresters, about 80 strong, attended St. Andrew's Church last evening. R. M. Paxton marshalled the parade.

Rev. Dr. Battisley's discourse to the lodge was much admired, and on the return to the lodge room a cordial vote of thanks was passed to the Doctor, the congregation and the choir.

Dr. Battisley has a voice specially suited to a pastor. The soothing, kindly tones add force to his words of admonition or exhortation. His is the pulpit presence and his the oratorical impressiveness of the true minister. The Doctor said that he would not preach on brotherly love, but upon the power of God, and concluded a very effective discourse with the following impressive lesson:—

"Since God has provided such bountiful blessings for mankind, should not the husband and father provide for those who come after him?" The music by the choir was inspiring. Besides an anthem by the choir, Miss Gertrude Somerville sang a splendid solo, and Miss Ada Ross gave an exquisite rendition of "Abide with me."

PRESENTATION.

Drill Sergeant A. Bethune, B. A., who has been instructing the local regiment for some weeks past, has been called back to London to take charge of the camp of instruction. The Sergeant has been most popular with both the officers and men of the regiment, and a number of the officers gathered together this morning in the mess room. They presented the Sergeant with $25 in gold. He was taken by surprise and made a very feeling reply.

STARTED TO-DAY

The new system of the C. P. R. train service started this morning. A train is made up at Chatham at 7 in the morning for Toronto, returning at 9.35 at night. There is also a new regular freight train which arrives daily at 8.15 in the morning. These changes were brought about at a meeting of a couple of the C. P. R. officials and the Industrial committee some time ago.

The railroad, it is said, intend putting up two towers to look after gates at Queen, Centre, Wellington, William and King streets.

The thunder shower yesterday went in streaks and while there was a perfect deluge in some sections of the county, other places got little if any rain. George Wanless came down from Sarnia on the Lake Erie R. R. He says that they had a terrific storm between Sarnia and Dresden. The fields were flooded with water this morning. Ald. Edmondson was out at Cedar Springs yesterday. He says that it didn't rain there at all. Bruce McKinley, who lives a couple of miles up the river, said that scarcely any rain fell in the vicinity of his home, but they could see the heavy shower that Chatham got between five and six o'clock.

CUT OFF BY WATER.
Two Hundred People are in Danger.
Spartanburg, S.C., June 8.—A torrential rainstorm visited this region on Saturday. All the bridges and trestles on the main line of the Southern Railway were washed away. The greatest destruction of life and property occurred at the Pacolet and Clifton and Glendale cotton mills. Wires are down and reports conflicting, but it seems certain that twenty-five or thirty people were drowned, mostly mill operatives. The ill-fated Pacolet cotton mills were the heaviest property losers. President Montgomery estimating the damage to the plant at $1,250,000. About 1,200 operatives in the mills are thrown out of work, and within a few days will be in need of food.
At 6 o'clock on Saturday it was noticed that the water was rising rapidly in the Pacolet River, but no special importance was attached to it by the mill operatives, who began to form in line to enter the mill at Mills Nos. 1 and 2 the water soon became dangerous, the boiler rooms were submerged and the workmen were ordered back. A little later the fury of the raging river struck mill No. 1, sweeping the plant entirely away. The strong current then swept against No. 2, demolishing that mill and leaving only the cloth room standing. The big bridge over the Pacolet River, a steel structure was then carried away. The waterroom, with 3,500 bales of cotton and 4,000 bales of cloth, followed, all the cotton being carried down stream.
At mill No. 3 one-half the picker room and five storerooms on the left side of the long building were washed away. The main building, supported by a thick brick wall, is still standing, but is very shaky.
At Glendale four warehouses filled with cotton and cotton products were swept away along with the dam across Lawson's Fork, and the trestle of the city electric railway. The mill was not materially damaged. At Converse the main building of the Clifton Factory collapsed. The Converse mill is utterly demolished. Clifton mill, No. 3, also lost its boiler room, machine shop, engine room and smokestack. The Whitney mills on Lawson's Fork were damaged and some houses and a steel bridge at that point swept away. At Tuscapeau mills the water rose to the second floor of the building and considerably damaged the machinery.

REJOICE AT THE REPORT.

Rev. Dr. B. D. Thomas on the Gamey Case.

Toronto, June 8. — Before his sermon at the Jarvis Street Baptist Church last evening Rev. Dr. B. D. Thomas, referring to the report of the Judges in the Gamey investigation, said —

"I feel it incumbent upon me this evening to express my personal gratitude if not indeed the gratitude of this congregation that the charges made against a member of the Government of this Province implicating the Government itself have not been sustained. We were humiliated at the thought that the gentlemen entrusted with such wide-reaching responsibilities and honored with such high positions as representatives of the people, should have been so utterly steeped in iniquity as those charges averred. We believe that the investigation was thorough and impartial, and that the conclusions reached by the eminent gentlemen who composed the commission were such as the evidence not have been justly uttered. We are sincerely glad for the honor of our fair Province that such a result was possible."

PERIL OF ICEBERGS

THEIR EARLY APPEARANCE-A NEW MENACE TO OCEAN TRAVEL.

They Are Ahead of Their Usual Time This Year-The Glacial Leviathans, Which Generally Do Not Appear Till Midsummer, Now Obstruct the Pathway of Transatlantic Commerce-What They Look Like.

The oldest mariners entering the port of Halifax, N.S., have never before seen thus early in the season so many and so great icebergs in the path of ocean traffic as now menace transatlantic shipping. Usually the ice does not appear in any considerable quantities as far south as the line of steamship travel until the latter part of July or early in August, when the sea is calmer and icebergs are less frequent. Even then these great floating mountains of ice are a source of much danger. When they come earlier, in March and April or even in May, during the season of dense fogs, violent windstorms and low temperature, the peril to shipping is increased a hundred-fold.

Many transatlantic steamers entering that port during the last fortnight have encountered great bodies of floating ice, which entailed the most watchful care on the part of the navigators to prevent disastrous collisions and resulted in much perplexing delay. The log of one incoming vessel showed that nearly a hundred icebergs varying in height above the water line from fifty to 300 feet were sighted on the trip across the Atlantic. These covered a stretch of over 150 miles, being mainly between latitude 42 degrees 35 minutes, longitude 49 degrees 20 minutes, to latitude 42 degrees 53 minutes, longitude 52 degrees 53 minutes, which is about 200 miles southeast of Halifax. Its passage was a most hazardous one, and several occasions a collision which might have sunk the ship and caused a frightful disaster was narrowly averted. Other ships have scarcely less sensational stories to tell of experiences with the perilous ice.

According to the expert hydrographers, who know as much about it as anybody else and probably not much more, this early appearance of the ice is the result of a warm and early spring in northern latitudes, causing the breaking off of large bodies of ice from the great glacial formations of the arctic circle, from whence they are brought southward along the coast of Newfoundland into the path of steamer traffic by the regular currents.

The size of an iceberg appearing above the surface of the sea does not constitute its essential peril to shipping. Frequently that seen above the water is less than a ninth of its total bulk, so that a berg that stands 200 feet above the sea level may be actually 2,700 feet high and of far greater area than is indicated by the exposed surface.

In mild weather the proximity of a large body of ice at sea is usually indicated by colder air and water, but in thick and heavy weather, which prevails at this season of the year, it is extremely difficult to detect the presence of an iceberg by the temperature until the ship is squarely upon it. A familiar method of keeping a lookout for ice in thick weather is to take "soundings" with a thermometer. The instrument is lowered below the surface at intervals of 2 to 3 degrees is usually the signal for reducing the vessel's speed, doubling the lookout and keeping the whistle blowing for echoes. An automatic signaling thermometer is also used. This is kept permanently below the surface, and any important change in temperature is registered in the pilot house.

The birth of the iceberg is in the far north. As a glacier or ice river pushes its way into the ocean huge masses break away from the edges and float seaward. Currents carry them sometimes for thousands of miles before their disintegration.

Charts of the north Atlantic show what a vast number of bergs float with the Labrador current in a southerly direction around the coast of Newfoundland and Nova Scotia and from thence farther out to sea until they finally melt away and become a part thereof. Many of these great floating mountains come from the coast of Greenland, where the succession of glaciers gives birth to thousands of bergs. Like human beings, each one fulfills its own destiny. Some are ground near the place of their formation. Others pursue their solitary and majestic course toward the open sea and gently melt away their lives on the deep waters of the Atlantic. Still others, like desperadoes of the highway, make straight for some noble ship and send her foundering to the bottom. And, as they are different in their history, so are they varied in appearance, some being wall-like, solid ramparts, with square, almost perpendicular faces, impossible to scale, two or three miles long and half as many broad. Others might at a little distance be mistaken for a splendid palace, a Turkish mosque or a Gothic church.

Occasionally an iceberg gets worn away at the water line, while the base below the water is intact, and supports an extended surface on a comparatively narrow stem. Others are tunneled or arched. In fact, there is no limitation as to form or size. The most beautiful and the most grotesque may sail side by side. One may be a mile square and the other only forty or fifty feet.

Whether large or small, but a small

At times there is something most graceful in the movements of an iceberg. One of large size was observed some years ago which for a time oscillated backward and forward with a regular movement like the pendulum of a clock. It was a grotesque, almost humorous, sight to observe the great mountain of ice swaying from side to side like one of the polar bears that haunt the far north. Then gently and almost imperceptibly the berg "turned turtle," showing a gently rounded surface where before had been jagged peaks and turrets. It was a dissolving view in the literal sense.

There is a continuous change in the appearance of icebergs. At times a Gothic cathedral is stimulated; again, with the sunset's warm glow, the surfaces may take to themselves a likeness to a tropic landscape. Cascades will descend from the upper slopes, breaking into feathery spray as the stream meets with obstacles. Sailors in the arctic make mental pictures as children do with passing clouds of these strange forms. Home, with its familiar scenes, may be imagined amid the very abomination of desolation.

As to the size of icebergs—well, one must be there to appreciate their proportions. Sir John Ross observed one that was 2½ miles long by 2½ miles broad and 150 feet high. The weight was estimated at 1,500,000,000 tons. This, however, was not an extraordinary iceberg. Sometimes they are observed floating to a height of 700 or 800 feet. As only one-tenth of the mass is above water and visible, it is seen that they require plenty of depth as well as sea room for their movements. If the weather is mild and the sea calm, all is likely to go well under the watchful care of the expert navigator, but when the storms and fogs accompany the icebergs there is imminent peril. Thus it is that the appearance of the ice this season two months earlier than usual adds a new and serious menace to transatlantic commerce.

REV. DR. RAINSFORD.

The Experiences of One of New York's Greatest Clerics When He Was a Curate in Toronto, Ont.

It was a new experience for the Torontoian of a quarter century back to go to St. James', and hear the straight, clear-cut addresses of William S. Rainsford, who is now one of the greatest clerics in New York with a great parish and many clergy under him. He talked business for his business was to bring men and women into the church. He had no mannerism—who could have guessed else but a fool? And so Rainsford was not. He had come to Canada from England unacquainted and unknown. He had preached a mission in London, Ont., and had been invited to Toronto. Here Dean Grasset, the rector of the Cathedral, talked with him, says The Toronto News Day by Day man. Much impressed by his sincerity, originality and irresistible earnestness, the good dean invited the young Englishman to remain for a time. Rainsford became a guest at the rectory, and there were prepared the clear-cut sermons that went like arrows to men's consciences. He was no born orator; in fact, he confessed, and people who were intimate with him, knew at the time, were the product of ceaseless labor. There are some to whom every swan is an ordinary goose, and these took umbrage at the young preacher's methods of preparation. One of his customs was to wander out into the churchyard and, climbing one of the old trees, to ensconce himself on a comfortable branch. There, with the volumes that he had stowed in his pockets, and his notebook, he would make ready the address that night. Certain good folk thought it was undignified for a clergyman to climb trees, but Rainsford, if he ever heard of the objections, took no pains to reply to them. He might have found a fine argument in the case of Zoroaster, but he refrained. He was full of animal spirits and he wanted the fresh air. He got it in the tree tops.

The mission lasted four months, and for those four months the Anglican churches in Toronto—and some other churches—were awakened as they never had been before. Thousands were turned away every night. Even the chance was invaded by the auditors; often four hundred persons were crowded within the chancel rail. There are men in Toronto to-day who will never forget those sermons. They were burned into the mind, not by rant or morbid reasoning, but by clear-cut Gospel interpretation. One of the men who heard had been a good fellow, a vivacious, but by clear-cut Gospel interpretation, he had become a miser. He changed his ways, and he made no parade about it. Before he died, the citizens of Toronto elected him to the highest office in their gift. When the mission was ended Rainsford returned to England, but the parishioners of St. James' were determined to have him permanently with them, and he came back to be their curate. His four years of work in the parish were a success. He did much that needed to be done, for the town was growing away from the Cathedral; there were no Sunday cars to bring worshippers to church, and the long walk was not popular. But the congregation began to fill up when Rainsford resumed work.

His wife gave him valuable assistance. She was a good, good-natured, enthusiastic Englishwoman, whose father, a Mr. Green, was one of the proprietors of the famous Green line of steamships plying between Australia and the Mother Country. Mr. Green was able to give his daughter all the help that money brings, and the poor of the parish felt that help many a time. In the summers Mr. and Mrs. Rainsford lived on the Island, and the stalwart curate never missed his morning spin in a lap-trunk row boat. At college in England he had been an expert swimmer. He had been brought with him to Canada, and on Sunday mornings it was whispered that the curate of the Cathedral, on his way over to morning service, had no objection to giving the ferry boat a good race, and beating her top. Another of his fancies was for dog-jet black cock-sparrows, that accompanied him on many a tramp over the heights to the north of the city. Many a farmer coming into town was amazed at the spectacle of a six-foot-two clergyman taking a dog-jet along the country road attended by three or four young cockers. The man added plenty of exercise to blow off his superfluous steam. Sprinting and rowing helped him to achieve his end.

But, although Rainsford saw nothing evil in the exercise, he frowned down upon some things that were done in his hearers. He told them that it was wrong to dance—not because there was anything inherently wicked in the figures—but because the time that might have been spent on good works was wasted. He told them that they should not go to the theatres; and he gave them some reason for his admonition. They stayed away from the playhouses. The congregation became filled with all sorts of parish organizations for good, and grew and prospered. Many hoped that some day the young clergyman would be rector of the parish, but fate decreed otherwise.

Barr, the Colonizer.

An old acquaintance of Rev. J. M. Barr tells The Winnipeg Tribune that Mr. Barr was born at Hornby, in Trafalgar Township, Halton County, Ontario. His father was a Presbyterian minister, who moved from Ireland to Hornby. Rev. J. M. Barr and his brother studied for the Presbyterian ministry, but afterwards joined the Anglican Church. This is not Rev. Mr. Barr's first experience in the West. Over twenty years ago he established a church in the Saskatchewan country. He took a good outfit with him, but returned to Ontario in a year or so.

GETTING CLOSE TO THE CUP.

Chatham 1.
Sandwich 0.
'Twas the best game of football
I ever saw on Tecumseh Park," was the remark of many witnesses of Saturday's game between Sandwich and Chatham in the finals for the Walker trophy.

Providence seemed to favor the football game on Saturday, as rain had threatened long ere the start,
but held off until after the finish.

On the kick-off it was Sandwich's ball and by quick successive passes
it was on the Chatham citadel to result in a corner and a consequent return to Sandwich territory, where a corner for Chatham went to waste, although the ball stayed down at that end for a short time. Chatham forwards doing some fine combination work and shooting.

Ed. Laing, in goal for the Sandwich team, proved a "peach," making some most brilliant stops and punts.
Sandwich's best chances for scoring were in the first half, when their right wing on two occasions broke through the local's half back line and made beautiful passes in front of goal to the left wing, who was there to meet the sphere both times, but shot wildly, the first over the goal and the second into the crowd.

At the end of the first half neither side had gained an advantage at all,
and when the second half began both sides went into the contest with a stubborn determination to come out on top.

For half an hour the battle waged in all its fury, first the ball would be on one goal then it would return to the other. Only the effective work of the full backs of both sides saved
many a shot and probable score.
Baker between the flags for the home team played a star game throughout, making some splendid stops and getting in when occasion called, and that was quite often.

That his work was highly appreciated by the football enthusiasts was evidenced by the hearty approval and applause after every good stop he made.

It was just about fifteen minutes before time that Kellington on the left wing and Williams the full back mixed things up for a few minutes in a scrimmage in the southeast corner, Kellington coming out on top —as he usually does—and passing the ball to the right wing. The right wing centered and Angus on inside left met it and the sphere passed through the goal after a hard fight
by the goal tender, who seemed unable to grasp it.

It was a hard one to lose on and the Sandwich fellows made a beautiful kick on the grounds that the ball had been behind when Kellington and Williams were fighting for it in the corner.

Referee Wm. McDonald was firm in his decision, however, and could not be budged.

The rest of the game was hard fought but eventless except for Messer and Dean, of the right wing, being laid out from kicks. Messer receiving one in the face and Dean his in the side. Both finished the game.

The line-up was as follows:

SANDWICH.

Goal—Ed. Laing.
Backs—M. Williams, W. Tiernan.
Halves—A. Beeman, J. Beeman, Elison Beeman.
Forwards—Brady, McBeth, Dickson, Smith, J. Williams.

CHATHAM.

Goal—Baker.
Backs—Sissons and Flowers.
Half-backs—McNaughton, Fraser
and Ainsley.
Right wing—Messer and Dean.
Centre—Anderson.
Left wing—Kellington and Angus.

GOAL KICKS.

'Twas a fast, good game of football with very little rough playing.

The stellar aggregation—McNaughton,
Fraser, Messer and Baker.

Joe Tilt, with his squad of rooters and "yellers," caused a sensation with their blue and white tubes, songs, etc.

The Chatham right wing, Messer and Dean, never played better while Kellington on the left was there
"with the goods" every time.

Both teams possess stalwart defences.

Fraser played the game of his life and made one of the prettiest drops from the corner ever seen here.

Tiernan, although rather small of stature, was always in the way and a sure kick.

Sandwich lost hard, but they were
"Beeman" on the half-back line.

Ho for Sandwich on Thursday—but,
boys, we must have practice.

Will we be champs?
It will be close and exciting at Sandwich or a guess we miss.

According to Roy Abram, captain of the Darrell ex-champions, "It was a close, good game here, but wait till they get you down there. They'll beat you, and I hope they do."

Captain Sissons must carry a rab-bit's foot about with him. The Chatham club have not lost a game since he was elected to the captaincy.

Ainsley, the new half, made a good impression. He is a hard worker.

President Laurie viewed the game and assisted the team with much valued coaching.

Goal-keeper Baker is "the goods."

Sandwich is no cinch. They have one of the best teams the Chathams ever ran up against.

A practice of the local football team will be held on Tecumseh Park tonight.

LAROSSE

BURG 5-CHATHAM 0.

The local juniors, assisted by one or two of the larger lacrosse players, were up against the real thing in the Wallaceburg team on Saturday, losing by a score of five goals to nil. The Burgers are, in size, more of an intermediate team than junior, and the locals were evidently not prepared for such an aggregation. There is matterial here, however, which can give them a better game and that is a second twelve that is out almost every night the league team practices.

The line-up of Saturday's game included: Chatham—J. Ross, Williamson, Green, B. Ross, Boyd, Waddell, Maize, Monck, Ridley, Tackaberry and Wrigley.

Wallaceburg—Olliver, Beattie, Boulton, Gordon, Johnson, E. Fairfield, R.
West, W. Fairfield, C. Krahling, H.
Millard and M. Keaton.

The Wallaceburg boys earned their victory by good clean playing. They handled themselves splendidly and are a gentlemanly lot of lads.

100 PEOPLE DROWNED.

PASSENGER STEAMER GOES

DOWN OFF MARSEILLES

Sunk in Deep Water Seventeen Minutes After the Collision—A Number of Passengers Rescued by Other Vessels—Unsuccessful Attempt Made to Beach the Sinking Vessel.

Marseilles, June 8.—Over one hundred persons were drowned
here as the result of a terrible shipping disaster. The Insulaire and the Liban, passenger steamers of the Fraisinet Steamship Company, of Marseilles, were in collision near this port. The Liban sank, carrying down with her more than 100 of her passengers as well as her crew. The Liban left Marseilles this morning on her regular passenger trip to Bastia, Corsica and was run down and sunk by the Insulaire off the Mairie Islands.

The collision was witnessed from the pilot boat Bleichamp, which was about two miles distant. The Bleichamp immediately went to the spot to give assistance.

The force of the collision cut a wide rent in the Liban's side and she was already taking in water rapidly.
Her captain saw that the only chance for the safety of the majority on board was to run the steamer aground before she sank in deep water, and the Liban was headed full speed for the shore, but within seventeen minutes of the collision and while still some distance from shallow water the forepart of the steamer plunged beneath the waves, and a few minutes later she had entirely disappeared.

In the meantime the Bleichamp, the steamer Balkan, also belonging to the Fraisinet Company, and other vessels had drawn near the sinking ship, and were making strenuous efforts to rescue those on board. The Bleichamp picked up forty persons, many of whom were at the point of exhaustion and were only revived by the attentions they received on board. The Balkan also rescued thirty-seven passengers, and up to the present it is known that in addition to the passengers seventeen of the crew were also saved.

The crew of the Balkan describe the scene just before the Liban disappeared as a fearful one. As the vessel was sinking she was inclined to such an angle that her masts struck the water, causing an eddy, which made the work of rescue most difficult. A mass of human beings were clinging to the foundering ship, and uttered despairing cries as she went down. At the same time the boilers exploded. For a few minutes the victims were seen struggling in the sea, then the waves closed over them. The Balkan rescued three boats, and the other succeeding vessels did all possible to save the victims in the short time that elapsed between the time of the collision and the sinking of the Liban.

Up to 5 o'clock this afternoon 30
dies had been recovered.

The Berwick Attained a Speed of 24.6
Knots an Hour.

London, June 8.—A telegram from Greenock, Scotland, announced that the armored cruiser Berwick at a speed trial attained 24.6 knots, making her the fastest vessel of her class in the British navy. The Berwick is of 9,800 tons displacement, and has 22,000 indicated horsepower. She is 440 feet
