

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., FEB. 17, 1888

Police and Lock-up.

Since the Municipal Council by a vote of its members has delegated to a committee of freeholders within the limits of Wolfville School Section power to assess the rate-payers residing within such limits in a sum not to exceed six hundred dollars for the purpose of providing a lock-up and employing a policeman in such section, various opinions have been expressed as to the power of the Council in authorizing such an expenditure. Some contend that such a tax cannot legally be levied and that the action of the Council in this matter is ultra vires and therefore void. The following extracts from the Statutes of the Province may throw some light upon the matter. In reference to lock-up houses, sec. 96, subsec. 29 of chap. 58, R. S., 5th series, gives the Municipal Council authority "For establishing lock-up houses in such parts of the Municipality as may be necessary and making regulations for the government thereof, &c." Now the Council have by their action deemed it necessary to establish a lock-up in Wolfville and have appointed a committee, delegating to them the same power as they themselves have in the matter. Section 7, of chap. 18 of said Statute provides that "The Municipal Council may appoint one or more police constables to act for the preservation of the public peace and order and for the enforcement of the law against crime, vice and immorality in such townships or districts as they shall see fit, and may make regulations as to the duties to be performed by them and may provide for their remuneration by salary or otherwise." Sec. 8—"The funds necessary for such purpose shall be raised by assessment upon the district wherein such officers are appointed in the same manner as other municipal rates."

By the above extracts from the Statute it is evident that the Municipal Council have full power to authorize a lock-up to be established in Wolfville and also to appoint a police constable for the district and have by their appointment virtually demanded that the same be done.

Recently, however, a rival society has been formed in Wolfville calling itself a branch of the S. P. C., but claiming for itself, through its secretary, power and authority that the parent society never dreamed of possessing. If this society has the right to deal with all matters affecting the public peace in as full and effectual a manner as is set forth in the official announcement of its organization there will be but little need of a police constable in this town.

Extradition Treaty.

The United States Senate has virtually rejected the extradition treaty. Why it has done so, says the Montreal Star, is a mystery to those who do not understand the intricacies and the dark and hidden ways of American politics. Never was such a treaty more needed or calculated to do more good than this unobjectionable one which the Senate has seen fit to shelve. The honor as well as the convenience of the people of the United States was involved in its rejection. It has been a reproach to them that they through their Government have connived at the escape of thieves, embezzlers and scoundrels of different degrees of criminality. For want of the extradition treaty, which Great Britain was not only willing but eager to ratify, men who have violated the laws of both the United States and Canada have provided for them a safe refuge within easy distance of the scene of their crimes. In Canada, the United States thief and swindler, who may have been the cause of the ruin and demoralization of thousands, find a home where they can live in safety and roll in luxury on their ill-gotten gains; and the Canadian offender against the laws of God and man has only to cross the boundary between the two countries to be in a position to laugh at the officers of the law he has outraged. The United States Senate by refusing to ratify the treaty which places these violators of the law within the reach of justice becomes in a sense a partner in their crimes. The Senators who voted for the postponement of the extradition treaty knowingly and wilfully gave aid and comfort to classes of offenders who are the pests of both the United States and Great Britain and her dependencies. We hope after this to see in the American papers no more sneers against Canada when dishonest bank cashiers, public defrauders and other unscrupulous characters find a sanctuary in Canada. They should be ashamed to mention the disgraceful fact when they know that it is made so by the deliberate act of the Senate of the United States against the will of the people of Canada.

How to Visit the World's Metropolis.

The difficulty with tourists is not how to get to London, but how to see it to best advantage when there. Many who make a prolonged stay leave without seeing many of the places of interest. It is the purpose of the writer to lay out London in four sections and by starting from Charing Cross as a centre to visit the metropolis in the direction of the four cardinal points.

LONDON WEST.

Charing Cross is of historic value as being the site of one of the crosses erected by Edward I. wherever the funeral procession of good Queen Eleanor rested. Immediately to the front of the cross is the famous Trafalgar Square so called in honor of Nelson's great victory. England has honored itself in honoring that great hero with a massive monument in this square, which monument is nearly 150 feet high and bears representations on its sides of the battles of the Nile, St Vincent, Trafalgar and the death of Nelson. The memories of Hawlock, Napier and George IV have been preserved to the generations following by goodly monuments in this vicinity while Landseer has left his own in the groups of lions that as sentinels watch the magnificent fountains. On the north side of the Square is the National Picture Gallery known as "The National Cricket Stand" from its resemblance to that commodity. Though inferior to many continental collections, yet when it is remembered that some of its paintings cost the fabulous sums of ten, twenty-five, fifty and seventy thousand dollars respectively, and that Hogarth, Wilkie, Landseer and Turner were among the artists, it will not be esteemed as a cheap, second-rate collection.

Leicester Square, which is to the immediate north, owes much of its present attractions to the indefatigable efforts of Baron Grant. It seems most fitting that such beauty should be linked with the memories of Newton, Hogarth and Reynolds who were for many years residents of this place.

Our direction is now west where will be seen the streets of London. As a faint illustration of the gorgeous beauty of these stores, which seem to contain the accumulated wealth of the world in rich and dazzling profusion, mention may be made of the gentleman who left his wife at the east end of Regent street bidding her look at the stores, while he went on his business. Being gone some four or five hours he returned to find that she had just begun the inspection of the second store. It is generally conceded that Piccadilly, Oxford and Regent streets are in advance of even the American streets for Arcade scenes to vie with Bazaar in presenting the varied splendors of art and nature. It is in this vicinity that the palatial dwellings of the nobility are situated and at Burlington House the various learned societies—Royal Academy of Arts, Royal Astronomical, Antiquarian, Chemical, Geological, and Linnæan Societies—assemble Hyde Park, which is at the western end of Piccadilly, covers an area of 400 acres and is approached by a magnificent structure known as the Marble Arch. This park is the rendezvous of the Lords and Ladies who make a great display in the Rotten Row. This strange name is corruption of Route du Roi, the Road of the King, and by its remote removal from the original phrase strongly reminds one of the reply made to one who although disreputable claimed that he was descended from Miles Standish. What a decent! was the laconic answer. At Hyde-Park corner is the residence of the Duke of Wellington, a statue of Achilles made from cannon taken from the Crimean War, a statue of Wellington on his Waterloo charger and the Tyburn Gallows, so much in requisition in the days of yore.

At the extreme west of Hyde Park is Kensington with its Museum, Palace, Gardens and Memorial. The Museum contains many valuable collections, the great purpose being to facilitate instruction. This will be seen when it is remembered that the Science and Art department has its headquarters here. While no great beauty can be claimed for the place, yet to the student it is a priceless boon, for all its spacious courts are filled with contributions from the four quarters of the globe, all of which tend to stimulate the acquisition of the varied phases of knowledge. The first two locomotive engines ever built, the "Puffing Billy" and the "Rocket," are here, as is also the harpsichord which belonged to Handel. These buildings were erected from the receipts of the Exhibition of 1851. Part of the grounds used for that exhibition is now the Horticultural Gardens, the dimensions of which are as follows:—Length, 1608 ft., breadth varying from 120 ft. to 190 ft. The Kensington Palace was the residence of William and Mary, also Queen Anne; and here Queen Victoria was born.

A True Talelet.

(Seeing in magazines and other literary periodicals such headings as "Novelists" and "Sketches," the author thinks that with equal propriety his little piece may be called "Talelet.")

In a secluded hamlet in one of the eastern counties of our beloved Scotia some thirty-five years ago the bright eyes of a baby boy took their first look at this strange gladsome world. The baby proved to be the last born, and consequently the best beloved and most tenderly spoiled, of a family of twelve. They called him Napoleon. As the boy grew to manhood he developed the same propensities as other men—he desired to build a house; he also fell in love. The very day that, with the issuing forth of the early spring goings and congratulations from his numerous and encouragingly-sympathetic brothers and sisters and the hearty "God bless you" of proud father and ecstatic mother, he laid the corner-stone of his projected home; he also met in the glowing his gentle Abigail, and soft eyes gazed into eyes that looked, and spoke, their love. "Vows were interchanged—afterwards recorded in simple in their earnestness, and earnest in their simplicity, and two hearts beat in unison with the glowing hope of the future home-land. The cottage was to be completed by November and on Thanksgiving evening Napoleon was to lead his blushing bride across the threshold to be his mistress—his beloved Queen.

But alas for human happiness and human plans. In August Napoleon went as schooner's cook to Boston to earn the money for his wedding outfit, and while there he met a maid whose flowing raven tresses and coal black eyes burned an image on his heart beside which the gentle dove-like orbs and flaxen hair of his devoted Abigail were but faded toys. The siren Saiside drew into her toils the brave Napoleon, and before the schooner sailed for the eastern port, he had wrung a promise from her that in November she would return to her native land and would make her abode in Napoleon's new-made home—Napoleon's wife.

Time went rapidly and Abigail had not learned that she was not to be the bride till the day Napoleon hithled up his father's nag to his father's creaking chaise, and started to drive the twenty miles between his home and the port, to meet the boat on which the lovely Saiside was expected; and then her anger and disappointment knew no bounds. She visited the humble mansion of her recalcitrant lover and stamped its doors and Small Fruit.

DEAR ACADIAN,—A word or two on the raising and marketing of small fruits may be of interest to your readers. During the past three years this industry has grown wonderfully, especially in King's and Annapolis, from which counties Halifax draws the bulk of her fruit supply. How best to suit the requirements, of this and other accessible markets is a problem worthy of consideration.

Strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries and currants are the leading marketable small fruits. The experience of the Halifax trade during the past year has been in favor of the first two sorts, they apparently finding the most ready sale. A far larger quantity of gooseberries were received last season than formerly, which no doubt caused a dull sale, as in the case of the strawberry some three years ago, when first sent here in large quantities, the consumer not having been educated to its use until it became more common. However from observation I conclude, that while the inquiry for gooseberries and that class of fruit will be somewhat limited, the demand for raspberries and strawberries will continue to increase. The reason is obvious. While the former are considered more especially adapted for preserving, the other varieties named are highly esteemed for daily table use, which makes a corresponding daily demand. Growers of raspberries and strawberries need not be concerned about overstocking the market, as the experience of the past will no doubt continue, the demand fully keeping pace with the supply.

Two years ago raspberries were difficult to dispose of in the Halifax market. Last season they were always in demand, and will be in greater demand as they become better known. This applies however only to the red and white varieties, the black not being sought after. At the same time I believe that while the sale for gooseberries will be lower, and find a more limited market, it will pay very well to grow them.

A word as to packing. Could some of the growers be present on the arrival of trains each evening during the fruit season and witness the sharp competition of retailers in securing the stocks of certain favorite packers, and then examine those packages, they would at once be convinced that a good honest quart of marketable berries right down to the bottom, will bring them a far better profit than the box with high aspirations on its under side, and containing a promiscuous collection of large and small. If a grower is unfortunate in having a good proportion of small berries, they had better go to market in a separate crate, and marked "medium quality" right over his own name, with "first quality" on such that deserve the name. It won't take long for such a packer to establish his reputation and profit materially thereby.

The packing of fruit is each season being more carefully attended to, and the man who neglects this matter is going to get left.

BY LEE.

(Seeing in magazines and other literary periodicals such headings as "Novelists" and "Sketches," the author thinks that with equal propriety his little piece may be called "Talelet.")

"Vows were interchanged—afterwards recorded in simple in their earnestness, and earnest in their simplicity, and two hearts beat in unison with the glowing hope of the future home-land. The cottage was to be completed by November and on Thanksgiving evening Napoleon was to lead his blushing bride across the threshold to be his mistress—his beloved Queen.

But alas for human happiness and human plans. In August Napoleon went as schooner's cook to Boston to earn the money for his wedding outfit, and while there he met a maid whose flowing raven tresses and coal black eyes burned an image on his heart beside which the gentle dove-like orbs and flaxen hair of his devoted Abigail were but faded toys. windows a lively hue with the red-mud from the road-side. She stormed and raved and told her mother that she longed for death.

Napoleon met the boat, but he met not Saiside, as he afterwards learned she had started, but had missed the boat at a port by the way, having got off to see a friend. He waited till the next day and seeing no signs of the bride-elect, the mighty genius of his name rose to aid the baffled swain. He hurried home and with eager haste sought the side of his injured Abigail. He protested; he wept; he prayed. His protestations, weeps, and prayers were not in vain, for in the gathering twilight of that same day—Thanksgiving Day—the youthful pair were seen in loving intercourse vowing their way to the nearest minister, when in his marriage licence the name of Saiside was changed to Abigail, who had decided not to die but to marry Napoleon, and two hearts were made to beat as one.

The cherishes that took place that night in and about the newly-indeed plantation of Napoleon will not soon be forgotten. For miles upon miles, from north, east and west the woods-lined roads re-echoed to the pattering feet of the gathering clans. The blatant tin-pail, and tinkling cow bell, and exquisitely-tuned devil's fiddle, and the long deep-toned cough, mingled their discordant notes with the belching fire-breathing musket to send up one thrilling squats of music, the like of which the ancient neighboring hills had never heard.

The morning after, the blushing pink-cheeked bride of Napoleon was seen with scrubbing brush and pail removing red mud-stains from the windows and doors of her newly-established home.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., FEB. 17, 1888

Local and Provincial.

ON DR.—That there is to be more than one very interesting wedding at an early date.

AT HANTPORT.—A carnival is to be held at Hantport on Tuesday evening next. Probably a number will attend from here.

NEW STATION.—Berwick is next to be favored with a new railway station. When it is built it will be served in a similar manner.

APPLES.—The steamer Danara, which sailed from Halifax for London on Friday last, took besides other cargo, 5,500 barrels of apples.

TEMPERANCE.—Kentville Division is having a genuine boom. Last evening ten new members were initiated, while on the previous night of meeting there were seven.—Herald Chronicle.

WANTS A RACE.—The owner of Slespy John wants to match him against any horse in Nova Scotia for the sum of $100, to trot mile heats to harness, best three in five, on the East River, New Glasgow, race course, race to come off inside of two weeks.

NARROW ESCAPE.—On Thursday of last week the schoolhouse at Upper Canal took fire and narrowly escaped being destroyed. The reflection of the fire was seen by persons living near, and the building was saved. The fire is supposed to have originated in an ash barrel.

CARNIVAL.—The second carnival of the season was held on Tuesday evening last. The evening was pleasant, the roads good, and the ice in excellent condition. The number of skaters was smaller than at the last, but enough were present to make the carnival quite an enjoyable one.

PUBLIC MEETING.—A meeting of the trustees of Ward 2 is to be held at Church Street on Thursday next, at 2 p. m. Business in connection with the purchase of lands for track and station purposes for the Cornwallis Valley Railway with other important matters will come before the meeting.

HOCKS BURNED.—The dwelling house of Mr. Burton Craft, of Greenfield, was totally destroyed by fire on Monday night. The fire broke out between one and two o'clock, and the occupants were only awakened in time to save their lives. Nothing was saved and there was no insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated from coals in ashes left in a barrel.

Very choice Tea, in 3 and 5 lb. Tins, at R. PRAT'S.

TEA AND FANCY SALE.—The tea meeting and fancy sale to be given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church in their vestry on Wednesday next, promises to be a pleasant affair. Extensive preparations have been made, and we have no hesitation in recommending it to all who wish to spend an enjoyable evening and at the same time aid a worthy cause. For particulars see adv. in another column.

MARION B. BAXTER.—This talented lady creator will lecture in College Hall to-morrow evening, under the auspices of Acadia Lodge, I. O. G. T., and Wolfville Division, S. of T. Mrs. Baxter is well known as one of the most popular lecturers now before the public, and no doubt will meet with a good reception here. The aim of the management is to give all an opportunity of hearing this celebrated speaker, and with that end in view have placed the admission fee at 10 cents. We hope to see College Hall crowded. Those who attend may be assured of being well repaid.

SILVER TRAW.—The magnificent ice picture in consequence of the silver thaw of Saturday last, was truly beautiful when the sun in its brightness poured forth its rays. During Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the landscape near and far was most pleasing to behold. Such an opportunity of obtaining ice pictures as occurred on Monday and Tuesday are seldom had, as the temperature was mild, the sun shining brightly, and not a breath of air to disturb the ice-bound branches. Mr. Tuck, of the Photo. Palace Car, was out with his stereo outfit, and no doubt he has been able to obtain some fine stereoscopic effects. Fortunately it was that the wind did not blow during the first few days, else the apple and other fruit-trees would have been nearly destroyed; as it was the tops of many of them were broken down by the simple weight of the ice.

POSTPONED.—Owing to the bad state of the weather, the annual missionary meeting of the Methodist church did not take place on Sunday last. Due notice will probably be given when it will be held.

CONUNDRUM.—What is the difference between the railway between Truro and Halifax, and the Railway between Halifax and Wolfville this week? Answer: One is the I. C. R., the other the Icy R.

Mrs. Baxter's address in the Hall of Representatives was full of poetry and power, elegant in diction, easy in style and brave in all she said to say; she stands to-day in the front rank among Michigan's most noble women.—Editor Truth for the People.

ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday an icicle from the top of the Seminary fell and struck Mrs. Bader, the French teacher, on the head, injuring her so severely that Dr. Bowles was summoned. We are glad to learn that she is now recovering, though it may be some days before she is able to resume her teaching.

Unbreakable, "La Bette" glass lamp chimneys, at R. PRAT'S.

COMPLIMENT.—A second carnival was held in Windsor on Thursday evening of last week. Several skaters from Wolfville were present. The Tribune says: "Mr. D. Munro, the proprietor of the Wolfville rink, was on the ice and exhibited some graceful feats in skating, which were greatly admired."

CHAMPION OF ENGLAND.—The sculling race on Monday, over the Thames course, between Wallace Ross and George Buchanan for the championship of England, the challenge cup and a stake of £400 was won by Ross by two lengths. Wallace Ross is probably the most extraordinary oarsman the world has ever seen.

PICKED UP.—The sloop A. Anthony, which was abandoned in the ice in the Basin, was picked up off Parrboro on Saturday last by John A. Cameron and Robt. Newcomb, who, with great difficulty, succeeded in taking her to St. John on Tuesday. The vessel and cargo are but little injured. She had on board five hundred barrels flour and two hundred bags feed.

MISSESS.—Miss Sadie Hart, daughter of the Rev. T. D. Hart, of Berwick, left Halifax on Thursday last, en route for Port Simpson, B. C., to engage in mission work among the Indian girls of that locality. This is the second lady missionary thus sent out by the N. S. branch of the Methodist Woman's Missionary Society within a few weeks. Miss Leake, of Parrboro, having recently gone to open and take charge of a home for Chinese girls at Victoria, B. C.

WANTED.—Dried Apples, Beans, and Onions, in exchange for goods at R. PRAT'S.

MUSICAL.—The Halifax Chronicle of Tuesday says: "The Jennie D. Hitchens concert company is booked to appear at the academy on Friday evening, June 6, and the next afternoon. Miss Hitchens has made an name for herself in the musical world. It is said she was born at or near Wolfville."

TAKE NOTICE.—If your razor is dull, take it to J. M. Shaw's Barber Shop, and he will put it in first-class order for the small sum of 15c. 10

ANICE TIME.—The W. & A. trains had rather an icy time on Monday and Tuesday of this week. The morning train from Kentville got as far as Windsor Monday night, and starting from there early Tuesday morning got to Halifax late that afternoon. The express left Halifax early Monday morning and got to St. John as far as Stillwater, where she pulled up for the night. Leaving Stillwater early Tuesday morning she made Kentville during the afternoon. Monday morning's freight train from Halifax got to Mount Unisco that night and stayed there till Tuesday afternoon, when she went to Kentville and stopped for the night, leaving there for Annapolis on Tuesday morning. The telegraph lines east of Thursday. The telegraph lines east of Thursday were all down Monday and Tuesday. No communication between Wolfville and Wolfville, the telegraph business was via Yarmouth and Wolfville and Yarmouth and Halifax and the shore being O. K.

A LETTER FROM QUEBEC.

(Translated from the French.) GENTLEMEN.—I have deferred writing the letter to testify to the benefits derived from the use of your SIMON'S LINIMENT. It has done wonders among all the people who have used it about here.

I can certify, that in every case where I have used it upon myself, I have been very well satisfied.

Mr. N. Mooney of St. Sylvester, had a bad leg which was said to be incurable. I told him to use Simon's Liniment, and it effected a complete cure in a very short time. His neighbor Mr. John Devlin having received a serious cut on his leg, Mr. Mooney took him the Liniment, and having used it, found himself completely cured.

I have been assured of the cures of these people, and the remedy having become known, it has created quite a demand, people coming as far as 35 miles to procure it for themselves.

Mr. Wm. Bennett of St. Ferdinand has had some time for himself and he has since bought it for his friends, who suffer from Rheumatism, and they have all been well satisfied.

I have never known any medicine to have had such good results about here as Simon's Liniment. Hoping that it will prove as satisfactory elsewhere, I am yours truly, DAMASCUS FARGOT, Merchant.

An Answer.

Dear, if love were mine to give... As a curl of hair, Flower or ring, or anything...

If my life were all my own, Mine to keep or spend, I would dare its best to share...

But once, long ago, there stood At my open door, One who came to speak my name...

Now, dear, I may weep for you, Or in silence pray, Something true to say or do, I must find a way...

—Madeline S. Bridges.

A Woman's Revenge.

In the public cemetery, about a mile south-west of the city limits, is a monument with a history, says an Atkinson letter to the Chicago Inter-Ocean...

RICHARD HARRIS, Died February 13, 1878, of DELIRIUM TREMENS

Mrs Richard Harris, widow of the deceased, ordered the monument made after a design of her own, and placed it at her husband's grave about two months after his death.

He was a complete wreck. His wife would not allow him to come home, and supported herself and the two children by sewing. Dr Challice furnished him with food and clothing, and finally when he was taken sick, brought him to his house...

When she brought and set up the shaft with the snake and the inscription on it, all Atkinson was shocked, and Dick's mother and the Challices were wild with shame and indignation. Her friends tried to persuade her to remove it, but she refused to listen to them.

United States Farmers.

The following from a Toronto paper would indicate that the farmers of the United States are in a worse condition financially than are those of Canada.

So much has been told of the unhappy condition of the Canadian farmer that sight is being lost of the condition of the farmer in the United States. The report of the United States Department of Agriculture shows that American farmers are carrying heavy loads.

Do you think you can get anything better than Simon's Liniment for Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Sprains, Bruises, Stiff Joints, Lameness, etc.?

Care of Harnesses.

There is no economy in buying cheap harnesses. They should be well made of the best stock.

There is no economy in buying cheap harnesses. They should be well made of the best stock. Inferior material and imperfect workmanship may cause a breakdown involving more than the cost of a good harness.

Do not use fish or other oil with lamp-black in them, as such a mixture cracks the harness and is very disagreeable if it gets on the hands or clothing.

After the horse is harnessed, see that every strap, after being buckled, is put in the loop. The belly-bands should only be tight enough to keep the back-pad from slipping.

Evictions in New York City.

There are now each year, and there have been for many years, more evictions of tenants by landlords in New York City, with its population of 1,500,000, than there have been in corresponding periods in all Ireland.

Mr Shroton, C. E., of the Public Works Department, is now engaged with a gang of men making extensive surveys of the harbor with a view to straightening the channel and increasing the depth of water.

Hygiene.

The blessed word "health" once literally meant "holiness," and that means wholeness; for disease and sin alike are fractional conditions—one of the body, the other, largely through the body, of the soul.

"Who sweeps a room, as for God's laws, makes that and the action fine," says George Herbert. Oh, may these "deeds of week-day holiness,"—this reverent study of those habits in life which relate to the diet, dress, cleanliness, ventilation and exercise that will make the physical estate of humanity more normal, attract our thought, as the sun draws the "ideas of the sea."—Francis E. Willard.
