THE ATLANTIC STEAM SHIPS.

I cannot refrain from calling the attention of steamship builders of England to the use-lessness, and even absurdity, of a heavy bowsprit upon a vessel that mainly depends upon her steam. It would be considered an absolute absurdity for either of these vessels to attempt to beat to windward. Be-fore the wind, there is little doubt that the Collins would run the Cunard out of sight in a dozen hours. The vast and heavy bowsprit of the Cunard line is therefore an absolute excrescence—a bow-plunging, speed-stopping, money spending, and ab-surd acquiescence, in old fashioned preju-dices about appearance, and what the old school attempt to swamp all argument by condemning as not ship shape. Pshare! what confounded stuff? This is the sort of feeling that prevents improvements, and allows Brother Jonathan to build the finest allows Brother Jonathan to build the nnest seagoing steamers in the world, which the Collins liners undoubtedly are.

As some slight proof of this assertion, let me describe what took place in the Baltic on the 6th and 7th of November, 1852, on the passage to England, in about latitude 48 deg. N., longitude 18 W. At 10 A. M., on the former day, this vessel was proceeding with full power, at the rate of thirteen knots, the engines making sixteen revolutions per minute. At this time a slight breeze was blowing from the southwest, with a slight swell from the eastward. About noon the swell increased, and a very dense, dark, coppery, sky was perceived at the starboard bow, bearing southeast. The barometer, which had been carefully noted, had been gradually sinking for thirty-six hours, but still the southwest wind ever and anon breathed hoarsly into and filled the flapping canvass. The stormy indica-tions in the southeast gradually increased great velocity before described—namely thirteen knots. At 2 P. M., the barometer -that faithful and valuable monitor-sank considerable. Captain Comstock, the experienced commander, invited me into his cabin, and began to discuss the now clear indications of an approaching storm. From the various signs afforded by changes in the directions of the wind, swell of ocean, descending glass, and other infallible tokens, known only to experienced seamen, we speedily came to the conclusion that the Baltic was approaching the course of an Atlantic cyclone. From the position of the vessel and her rapid motion we mutually agreed that the easterly breeze which had suddenly set in, clearly indicated that we were rapidly approaching the northern edge of the cyclone. This will be plainly underof the cyclone. This will be plainly understood by the landsmen and unitiated when I explain that the cyclones in the northern nemisphere revolve against the sun with a progressive motion towards south-east.
The easterly breeze, therefore, could only easterly breeze, therefore, could only strike the ship in its northern extremity. If she had been, for instance, at the southern extremity of the rotatory storm, it is clear that the wind would have been south-west until the vortex was passed, when the south-eastern course of the circular or whirl-wind storm would have struck ough, we were confident that our theory was correct, yet Captain Comstock, withstand the worst weather. At this time the barometer had sunk lower than I ever experienced, (28 40,) even in the most furious storms, and the gyratory motion of the tortured and fragmented clouds in the the practised eyes of the seaman that a fearful war of the elements was going on in that direction. The eastern swell was now rapidly raising into a heavy and perpendicular sided sea, whose solid-looking curly tops threatened destrucsed their headlong tion to all that opposed their headled course. The wind likewise increased strength, urging on the too willing waves, until they were lashed into apparent destructive fury.

Let us ascend the bridge, between the paddle boxes, and try to describe this sub-lime scene. A furious gale was raging, and wind and waves combined were hurled and wind and waves combined were hurled with gigantic force against the poor Bultic. To avoid rushing madly against the fierce watery barriers, the engines were slacked to nine revolutions, and the brave vessel still held her course at the rate of eight knots. Although the heavy spoondrift in a moment drenched everything exposed, still the ship held on with the most extraordinary case. At intervals a m-untain would appear approaching, giving the idea (often ease. At intervals a m-untain would appear approaching, giving the idea (often felt by the most experienced) of a gathering power in advance that nothing could withstand. sufficient to clear the crest of the surge; er bulwarks are even with the surface of rolling water, but not a drop comes in.

Again and again did this happen; and although we were drenched to the skin by the though we were drenched to the skin by the spoondrift, we were fascinated by the wonderful triumph of the ship's course over the madly-vexed waters, and remained in our exposed situation spell-baund at her easy performance over such rough and formidable obstacles. Place a Cunard liner, or any vessel in this position with the continuous control of the control of th any vessel, in this position with the present lines of English eccan steamers, and they would ship tons and tons of water. The heavy bows, bow-sprit and all, would plunge heavy bows, bow-sprit and all, would plunge into the sea with a crash and a bang that would shake and strain the ship to her centre. On raising her forefoot from her watery bath the bowsprit enveloped with the gear, would visibly bend with the jerk. This is the main difference between the ocean steamers of England and America. and we strongly advise the builders of En up from their lethargy, half composed of prejudice. I tell them again plainly (however unpleasant to my elf) that there are no ocean steamers in England

"Oh," say they, "these steamers are all to pieces; they will be done up in a short time; they won't pay." I beg to disabuse their minds—the minds of ull persons in England who have not had such an opportunity as mine to judge for themselves. These steamers are as good and as strong as ever; they are as well officered and manned as any ships affoat; officered and manned as any snips and to they treat their passengers with as much, or more, civility, and attention than any other line; and, finally, their food and wine, and all arrangements of the table, (at least in the Baltic.) are as good as any person can require, even if spoilt by the Sylarite luvuries of the great metropolitics. arite luxuries of the great metropolitan

The weather was beautiful, a light breeze from the north east, just sufficient to ruffle slightly the glass-like surface of water. Onwards she rushed with headlong speed, her ponderous engines revolving at the rate of nineteen revolutions a minute. So clear and heavy revolutions a minute. So clear and beau-tiful was her shape, that she appeared to glide through the water leaving hardly a ripple behind. Numerous steam vessels, likewise running up the Irish Channel, were passed as if at anchor, and, in :22½ hours from making the land on the previous afternoon, she had achieved the three hundred dred miles that separated her from her

Reader, this is a wonderful performance, and what I fear cannot be rivalled by any English vessel at present. The whole thing is obvious to the meanest understanding, and may clearly be traced to the unequalled beauty of the model. The English engines are allowed by the Americans to be superior. Why, therefore, should we allow Brother Jonathan to beat us on our own element. The reason is plain enough, and patent to the whole world: and is summed up briefly in one sentence: The British model is far inferior to the American. I though only about 50 converts have been er, as he is, made every preparation to say this in sorrow, and jealously; and investigate calmly and dispassionately this momentuous question. When once enquiry is thoroughly aroused in England, I do not fear the result. It, however, obstinacy and pride are allowed to blind our ship-builders they will richly merit the fate that will inevitably befall them—namely, to be soundly beaten by American naval archi-

YANKEE GIRLS

The independence of the Yankee girl begins at the early stage of boarding-school life; with the choice of her books her dancing master, of her congregation, of her minister. She makes no mystery of her predilection for her teacher, because he is a "spruce, good-looking fellow:" for her prencher, because he has "such very white hands." She subscribes to cotillion parties, shines off at fancy tairs, takes the purse gallantly off her admirers at flower auctions. She walks home at night from her route, arm-in-arm with her favourate her route, arm-in-arm with her favourate partner, by monlight, on the shady side of the road. She steams off up the Hudson, down the Ohio, and comes back none the worse for the exercise and the excitement. Not the slightest shade of uneasiness at home on account of her protracted absence. She introduces a "travelling friend" to the old lady, who sits down to make ten for him; finally she coolly informs her parents that she has been "popped at," and that her mind is made up; unless, indeed, and prefers the fuss and eclat of a runaway

THE JEWISH MISSION.

The Jews are in such a state of alarm just now, in regard to the zeal and success of Christian missions to the zeal and success of Christian missions to the Jews, that they are busy circulating erroneous reports of the expenses and results of the missionary work. In the first place, it is known to all supporters of the Jewish mission that the Jerusalem bishopric has nothing to do with the Jewish mission; it is entirely a separate institution. And as to comparing the expenses of the mission with the work that has been done, the unreasonableness of this will be manifest when we say that some thousands of Jews have already been brought to the knowledge of Christ by the instrumentality of the "London Society;" that each well-established station numbers its converts by fifties and hundreds : and s great spirit of inquiry has been excited amongst the Jews; and that the Word of God in Hebrew, and Christian tracts, have been so widely circulated amongst the Jews. that there is scarcely a town or village on the Continent in which Jews reside in which the mission has not left some marks of its efficacy. These are, we contend, results not to be compared with the means expen-ded in achieving them. With reference to made there since the establishment of the mission, the Jewish rabbis are in such a state of alarm, that they have written to their brethren throughout the world to help them; otherwise, they say, "the citadel of Judaism will fall."—Standard.

(From the Buffalo Commercial of the 29th Aug.) THE NIAGARA APPAIR.

We give the facts of the case as we re-ceived them from the officers who made the capture of the supposed criminal. Upon enquiry at the Falls, Messrs. Tyler and Boyington discovered that the man Sneed was passing at the Cataract House by the name of Joseph Watson, and had been employed there about two years. His appearance left no doubt in the minds of the officers as to identify with Patrick Sneed, the murderer of Mr. Jones, and they therefore proceeded on Sunday to make the arrest.

Having applied to the proprietors of the house for their assistance, which however they declined to give, although desirous of offering no obstruction to the law, the officers after dining instructed a boy to call their man from the room, on pretence of being desirous of remunerating him for his attentions, upon them while at dinner.

The Maine Law seeks to eradicate inte The Maine Law seeks to eradicate intemperance by DESTROYING THE POISONOS ANTICLE TESLE. It does, indeed, provide for the manufacture of the same for mechanical and medicinal purposes, just as laws provide for the proper use of arsenic or, hoshame. Though the druggist finds legal restrictions upon the sale of arsenic and laudanum, he is not forbidden to sell it, as a curarive, with other medicines. And while the Maine Law seizes the countless pancheous which multipry, instead of diminish diseases, it admits the article in a piece with other medicines on the shelf of the apotheary. So far as alouded is useful in the mechanical arts, or as a drug, its use is carefully provided for, the restrictions being applied only where it begins to prove an ingury. THE CLIPPER SHIP MARCO POLO.

By the last accounts from Australia intelligence has been received of the arrival there of the celebrated clipper ship Marco Polo, Captain J. N. Forbes, after another remarkably fast passage. The Marco Polo sailed from Liverpool on the 13th March, five days after the stranger Antelope, and at the time of starting it was thought the contest would be a right one; but the result has proved otherwise, the sailing—ship having arrived out at Melbourne on the same day that the steamer was leaving Rio Janeiro, not half the way to her destination.

The Melbourne Argus, speaking of the arrival

The Melbourne Argus, speaking of the arrival of the Marco Polo, says.

This renowned clipper-ship arrived on the 29th of May, from Liverpool, having made the passage from that port to Hobson's Eay in 75 days; another laurel to her already well-cared crowf, under the able command of Capt. Forces. She has on board 750 passengers, amongst whom not a single case of sickness has occurred; something unparallel d when so large a number of people are in so close a compact. On the 24th of April, the Marco Polo passed and spoke the Ship John Fielden, from Liverpool, bound to Moreton Bay, 45 days out; on the 26th ult., passed and spoke the ship Eagle, from Rio Janeiro, bound here; and, a few days after, the Erasmus, from London, likewise for this port. The Marco Polo has no cargo on hoard, but about £200,000 in specie for the banks, and £50,000 for private hands. We might remark that the passage of this fine vessel would have been shorter, but from lat. 5 deg. N. to 3 deg. S. 12 days were occupied, or nearly becaim-d.

DESTRUCTION OF THE US STEAMSHIP CHEROREE.—Loss of nearly half a million dollars worth of property.—The U.S. Mail steamship Cherokee, plaving between New York and Havana, was burnt to the water's edge at New York at the Pier, toot of Warren street, on Fridax night, Nearly half a million of dollars worth of Property was destroyed. The fire was first discovered by the night-gate watchman in the employment of the Steamship Company, and was issuine from the Steamship Company, and w-s issuing from one of the side port holes aft of the main gang-way. The flames in a few minutes burst forth from the cabin stairway and soon spread over the deck amidships, communicating to the cook's galley and other houses between the wheel-houses. The bright light which illuminated the sky, and the land alarm of the balls, born the rear norm. the loud alarm of the heils, brought great numbers of people to the spot. The wharves and reasels in the vicinity of the burning steamer, were filled with one dense mass of human beings, it bers of people to the apri. The wharves and vessels in the vicinity of the burning steamer, were filled with one dense mass of human beings, it bring estimated that from 25,000 to 30,000 persons were present. The Tribune says—

"The shipping lying at the wharves on either side of the burning steamer, and the Jersey shore toppasite, were brilliantly illuminated, presenting a gand spectacle. Apprehensions being entertained of an explosion taking place from the powder insgazine, several members of Engine Company No. 42 rushed on board the vessel, and succeeds in bringing ashops a large box containing the dangerous explosive. The bailers being filled with water, it was feared that they would explose. The flames continued to make great headway, and seemed to defy the efforts of the firemen. It was determined the legth to taw the steamer, and accordingly a hawser was made fast to the steamboats Corbing, P.Carey, and Cat line, lying in the stream. The baweer, however, parted, when it was concluded to centile her in her berth. The firemen continued throwing great quantities of water into the ship and upon the flames, but deepite their efforts the steamer was burned nearly to the water's edge."

The Character was built by Was. S. Wate, for again, so harmony will reign as usual.

On Nunday evening, three citizens were passing the Barracks, and one of them improperly called out "Ready—present." The guard turned out and took them prisoners.—without any legal authority,—and kept them until police were sent for. They were fined yesterday, rather an excessive fine, considering the trival offences. Their triends have made up, or will make up the amount we are told. There was great excitement in the Police office during the examination, and the Recorder was severly spoken of for his excessive fine.

On the same evening two of the men were beaten near Dalhousie Square. Two or three citizens were passing them, and made some remark about the 9th of June, when the soldiers replied that they only waited the chance of doing so again. One or both the soldiers were knocked down, but the parties made off.

The editors of the New York Tribune state, that they have private advices from New Orleans which reveal the astounding and alarming faut that the cluther and soiled linen, siek-chamber rags, and so furth, of persons dying of the vellow fever and black vomit, are shipped to New York by rag speculators'

THE CHAUDIERE GOLD REGION.—Every day we learn, from the best authority, that the adjacent townships south of this city, are proving more abandant in imperal wealth. On the occamore abundant in inineral wealth. On the occasion of this Excellency's recent visit to the company's ground, we are informed that His Excellency actually witnessed the washing of the gold from the soil, and had ample evidence of the existence of the precious metal. We know of one party who was a few days since offered Tenthousand pounds merely for his interest in a speculation in that district! Professional geologists of the highest standing that have recently examined the country round about, all agree that the district of Megantic contains, to an incalculable amount, the most valued minerals including two which they have yet to find names for. Here is a bright, field indeed, opening for the future!—Quebec Mercury.

AFFECTING INCIDENT.—We witnessed a very effecting sight yesterday. A girl was about crossing Merwen street bridge with a little wagon containing what a casual observer would suppose to be a child—a near little counterpase folded delicately down from the "neck" of the innocent, and its face concealed by a blue well. It was a theme that might have called forth a most cloquent outburst from the warm heart of "Fanny Fern." Presently, however, in according the bridge, the vehicle unfortunately uport, and out rolled the precious contents, in the shape of—not a "baby," gentle reader, buts well filled whiskey jug I which was dashed to pieces against a stone i he grief of the "old folks at home" for the loss of the "dear crathur" whose "apirit" thus oncorremoniously took its flight, was no doubt incompatible.

DESCRIPTION OF THE ARMY.—A fine illustration of the discipline which exism in the British Army has just been made public, and deserves to be recorded for the honour of all parties concurred. It appears that, on the 18th of February, a dreafful burrienne occurred at Corfe, making and haven among the shipping as well as on the inland. Among the ussels which were placed in eminent jeopardy of destruction was the troop-ship Poistiers, which had just arrived from Cork with the 2nd hattalion of the lat Royale, under the command of Lieut—Colonel Daveney. During the hurricane the decks were crowded with the soldiers preparing to jump rocks, or eave themselves as best they could. The Colonel asked Captain Downes (the captain of the ship) if anything could be done by the soldiers to help to save the vessel? The captain replied, if the soldiers could be induced to go below, so as to give the snilors full room to work the ship, he thought she might be saved. In an instant the adjutant was called, and, at the sound of the bugle, in two minutes, every soldier in the ship was in his hammock, and remained there till the ship was out of danger.

SEWING BY MACHINERY.—A machine, of American invention, has been introduced into this country by Mr. Darling, of Glasgow (at whose manufactory numerous examples of it are now in operation) which carries the mechanical principle into a fresh department of human labour, namely, that of common hand sewing. The patent sewing-machine promises to produce a revolution in the business of the seamstress as great as the power-loom effected in that of great as the power-loom effected in that of the weaver. Its frame work is cast metal, but it must not be imagined to be a huge, clumsay affair like a handloom; on the countrary it occupies little more space than two cubic feet, and might stand on the top of a lady's work-table. The right hand of the worker turns a small wheel, which puts in operation two needles, one an upright e, the other a sort of semi-c one; and on a strong tabular surface, at the left-hand extremity of which these two needles werk—the upright above and the circular under—the cloth is laid with the circular under—the cloth is laid with the left hand, and propelled between the needles as the machine proceeds with its stitching. This is done with amazing rapidity, running off in something less than a minute a line of stout sewing, which an ordinary seamstress would scarcely overtake in half-an-hour. The machine can be readily adapted to being driven by the foot, after the fashion of a turning lathe, and in sewing other than simple straight lines. By the hand the machine may be driven at the rate of five hundred stitches per minute, by the foot at nearly twice that bate. It is strong close sewing, beautifully regular, and altogether sewing, beautifully regular, and altogether sewing, beautifully regular, and altogether such as it would require a very firm and practiced hand th equal. Looking at it when at work it is impossible to resist the conclusion that it is destined completely to supersede all ordinary plain handsewing, and that such sewing, as an occupation for either men or women, tailors or seamstresses, is gone for ever.

the North American Colonies, and it behoves us to shew that though we yield to the others with respect to territory and population we consider ourselves their equals in point of intellect and politeness, and it is of no small importance that the person who is to be the representative of the Island should, at the least, be a man correct in issand should, at the least, he a man correct in his language and gentlemanlike in his deport-ment. Is Mr. Coles either of these! Is he him-self so infatuated as to suppose that he is? Remember, we do not charge the want of Educa-tion or of that polish of manner which always tion or of that polish of manner which always—in spite of eccentricities—marks the gentlemen as faults or vices in Mr. Coles; on the contrary they are misfortunes, and very great ones, to a man in bis situation in life; but this ought to be, with him, a more cogent reason for staying at home. An Eastern sage tells us "the fool sheweth the stain in his carpet, the wise man covereth it with his mantle." Mr. Coles would do wall to recollect this, and though he cannot sheweth the stain in his carpet, the wise man covereth it with his mantle." Mr. Coles would do well to recollect this, and though he cannot help grammatical inacuracies or vulgar idious, in his language, there is no necessity for his making them sensibly manifest to an audience so numerous and enlightened, and coming from so many quarters, as is likely to be present on the occasion. He had better cover the stain of ignorance with the mantle of absence. There is also another reason, —Mr. Coles is no longer a Representative of any portion of the people of Prince Edward Island. It is true he means to contest the Sheriff's return, but in the mean time, and until that return is set aside, Mr. Coles is not a Member of the Legislature, and he may stand a chance of being told so. The credentials of an ambaesador should be unimpeachable, and it would look rather awkward if, in the same paper in which The Hon. Mr. Cole's, speech is reported—not perhaps with the same lenient forbearance toward his errors as it would be here—a paragraph should appear to the effect that Mr. Coles was at best but the nominal head of a mere pre tempers administration and that his right to represent them was repudiated by an overwhelming majority of the intelligence, respectability, and standing of the ity of Prince Edward Island. But we trust we have said enough to convince Mr. Coles that his appearance at the New Brunswick callway opening will be attended with neither honor to himself nor advantage to the Island. If it is absolutely necessary that some one should go, Mr. Warburton is the proper person.

BAPTIST SAMATH SCHOOL PIC NIC.—The Bap-tist Sabbath School Pic Nic took place yester-day, according to announcement. The children assembled in the Chapel, where they cang hymns, and listened to an address from the Pastor, the Rev. W. H. Hobbs; after which, they proceeded to the Steamer deliver. hymns, and listened to an address from the Pastor, the Rev. W. H. Hobbs: after which, they proceeded to the Steamer Archuss,—which the enterprising proprietor, John R. Bourke, Eeq., had generously placed at their disposation the occasion,—when they crossed the ferry, and walked to Mr. Chandler's grounds, where tea, curds and cream. and other good things, had been provided for their refreshment. A number of the friends accompanied them from Town, and many of the inhabitants of Lot 48, were present on the occasion. After tea the children sang some beautiful hymns, and interesting addresses were delivered by the Rev. W. H. Hobbs, John Arbuckle Eeq., and the Rev. John Knox. The tea was free to all, both children and visitors; and the services were simple, interesting and attentive. All parties concerned appeared delighted on the occasion; and many wishes were expressed that such a meeting would soon take place again.

After votes of thanks to the Ladies who had so tiberally provided tables, and to Mr. Chandler for the use of his grounds, and other important services rendered free of all charge on the occasion, the party separated about sundown; they repaired to the steamer which conveyed thu to Charlotte Town when many anxious friends were heard to say—

Hark! Hark! they are come, these merry ones, That peal their izones sugars.

Hark! Hark! they are come, these merry once, That peal their joyous songs, And many hearts were swelling high With more than joy—with ecstacy.

RISE IN THE PRICE OF FLOUR.—The papers RISE IN THE PRICE OF FLOUR.—The papers contain accounts of an almost unprecedented rise in the price of flour in New York, in consequence of the news brought by the Atlante, from England. Much of this, is, we believe, caused by speculators, it will consequently be soon down again to a more reasonable level.

Has the Proprietor of the Weekly Advertiser taken to drinking? From what has been said took place at the dejeuner, and from reading the last editorial, one would be inclined to think so, and not be uncharitable either.

A new Steamer is on the stocks in New York, the builders of which are under en-gagements to cross the Atlantic with her in six days, when completed. She will be ready for sea next February.

Mr. Coles, we hear, has expressed his intention of being present, at the above ceremony, no doubt, for the purpose of representing—as he supposes—the Government of Prince Edward Island. We are the least among the North American Colonies, and it behoves us to shew that though we yield to the others with

TER TEN YEARS SUFFERING.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Thompson, Chemist, La verpool, dated August 20, 1882.

To Professor Holloway,

Dear Sin—I am enabled to furnish you with a most extraordinary cure effected by your invaluable Ointment and Pils which has astonished every person acquainted with the sufferer. About 16 years ago, Mr. W. Cummins, of Saltney Street, in this town, was thrown from his borse, whereby he received very serious injuries; he had the best medical advice at the time, and was afterwards an immate of different infirmaries, yet he grew worse, and at length a malignant running sleer settled in his hip, which so completely crippled, him, that he could not move without cratches for nearly 10 years; recently he began to use your Ointment and Pills, which have now healed the wound, strengthened his limb, and einsbled him to dispense with his crutches, so that he can walk with the greatest case, and with renewed health and vigor. Copy of a Letter from Mr. Hird, Draper, of Keady, near Gainsbro', dated March 1st, 1882.

To Professor Holloway,

Sin—Some time since, one of my children was afficted with dreadful cruptions over the body and limbs. I obtained the advice of several eminent Surgeons and Physicians, by all of whom the case was considered hopeless. At length T tried year Ointment and Fills, and without exaggeratins, the effect was miraculous, for by persevering in their case, all the cruptions quickly disappeared, and the child was restored to perfect health.

1 previously lost a child from a similar complaint, and I firmly believe, had I in her case adopted your medicines, she would have been saved also. I shall be happy to testify the truth of this to any enquirer.

Copy of a Letter, from Mr. J. M. Clennell. of Newcastle-on-Tyne, dated September 20th, 1882.

To Professor Holloway,

Dear Syn—I sm authorised by Mrs. Gibbon, off
31, Bailey Street, in this town, to inform you, that for a considerable period she had been a sufferer from debility, and general ill health, accompanied by a disordered stomach, and great derangement of the system. In addition to this, she was terribly afflicted with alcerated wounds, or running sores, in both her legs, so that she was totally incapable of doing her sual work. In this distressing condition she adopted the use of your Fills and Ointment, and she states that in a wonderful short time, they effected a perfect cure of her legs, and restored her constitution to health and strength; and that she is now enabled to walk about with ease and confort. Several other persons in this neighbourhood have also received extraordinary benefit from the use of your invaluable medicines.

WOMAN AND HER DOMESTIC RIGHTS.

Wonan and her Domestic Rights.

The genius of woman for every duty of a domestic character is so evidently superior to that of man, that a young girl of sixteeen, without any experience whatever, is better qualified to keep house than a man of forty or fifty, who has all the experience that a life of travel and activity can furnish. Man never can be housekeeper; and nature has very wisely ordained that his pride shall prevent him. There is a specious of silliness about a man who interferes minutely with domestic affairs; and a house is is never comfortable, either to immates or visitors, where the woman does not rule and where the man does not submit. The proper duty of a man is to bring provision to the house, but once brought provision to the house, but once brought in, it is the woman's duty to distribute it. He resigns it to her charge, and so long as she knows herself worthy of confidence, her supremacy in the distributive department ought ever, for the sake of man's personal dignity and happiness, to be acknowledged and maintained. As home is woman's kingdom, so nature has qualified her for taking the lead in all the social enjoyments of life, of which home is the scene. At festivities of every description woman occupies the first place: she is the first to whom visitors pay their obeisance, her word is law, in the gay assembly even the husband must assume the appearance of submission—the law of etiquette requires it. The submission may not be real, but in the apparent submission lies strength of the argument in favour of woman's moral superiority. Society accords her unanimously this privilege, and though she may not herself always individually deserve it, her sex collectively is considered to be entitl-

AN ANCIENT PAPER MILL.-The old paper mill says the West Chester Regisfer, in which the paper was manufactured used by Benjamin Franklin in his printing office, is still in operation on Chester Creek, Delaware county, and owned by Mr. Wilcox, the son of the gentleman who held it during the lifetime of Franklin. The paper was made at that time and isstill manufactured by hand. Scarcely any change has been made in the mill, and the same process of making rags into paper is in operation to day as was followed some odd hundred and forty years ago; the mill having been erected year 1713. Mills, alluded to above, have long been exclusively devoted to the manufacture of bank note and map paper, of course by hand. The paper for the notes of the old United States Bank, of made at this establishment. The paper was made of the hest Russia linen, and Bandana handkerchiefs were shreded and mixed with the pulp to produce a red streak, then for the first time adopted in bink note paper.

Use of the Nose.—We always thought the nose was meant for higher purposes than mere sneezing, and now the secret is out. So sasys an American paper:-- 'Important to nurses. We have been much amused by beholding one of the readiest modes of silencing squalling children we remember to have either read or heard of. So desirable a piece of knowledge is worthy of being universally known, and we therefore give it publicity Take a child in its cross fits, and press your finger across the cartilage of the nose, and in less than a minute it will be

A FELLOW came to see his intended wife, and for a long time could think of nothing to say. At last a great snow falling, he took occasion to tell her that father's sheep would be undone. "Well" said she, kindly taking him by the hand, " I'll keep one of them'

SPIRITUAL ATTRACTION.-A mintster having occasion lately to visit one of his parishioners in the way of condolence regarding her husband, who, the worthy goodwife had too good cause to suppose was in a backsliding condition, remarked, after some conversation. "Well, Janet. could you think of any plan we could fall on to induce Andrew to attend the church again?" "Aweel," said Janet, after a jause, "I ken o' nane' sir unless you would set down a whisky bottle and a tobacco pipe in the top of the seat."

A KIND HUSBARD.—The latest defini-tion of a "kind husband" is one who site and smokes after breakfast, while his wife with a child on one arm and his wife with a child on one arm and a pail of water on the other, pursues her washing. Our chambermaid Sally, who expects to have a husband of her own when her time comes, says if that is a description of a "kind husband," it's a meaner "kind" than she wants anything to do with. She says her idea of a kind to do with. She says her idea of a kind unband is "a nice young man, who will each the water, do the churning, shake he carpets, run on errands, and rock he craile." Sally having lorgotten omething up stairs, suddenly departed, without finishing the list of qualifications.

These Reprints have been in successful operation in this country for twenty years, and their circulation is constantly on the increase, notwithstanding the competition they encounter from American periodicals of a similar class, and from the numerous Eclectics and Magazines made up of selections from foreign periodicals. This fact shows clearly the high estimation in which they are held by the intelligent reading public, and affords a guarantee that they are established on a firm basis, and will be continued without interruption.

reading public, and affords a guarantee that they are established on a firm basis, and will be continued without interruption.

Although these works are distinguished by the political shades above indicated, yet but a small portion of their contents is devoted to political subjects. It is their title ary churacter which gives them their chief value, and in that they stand confessedly far above all other journals of their class. Blackwood, still under the masterly guidance of Christopher North, maintains its ancient celebrity, and is, at this time, unusually attractive, from the serial works of Balwer and other literary notables, written for that magazine, and first appearing in its columns, both in Great Britain and in the United States. Such works as "The Caxtone" and "My New Novel," (both by Bulwer), "My Penimsular Medal," "The Green tland." and other serials, of which numerous rival editions are issued by the leading publishers in this country, have to be reprinted by those publishers from the pages of Blackwood, after it has been issued by Mesers. Sout and Co, so that Subscribers to the Reprint of that Magazine may always rely on having the earliest reading of these fascinating tales.
