LADY LAURAS' RELEASE

OR— THE STORY OF A SPOILED BEAUTY.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

And then it all came rushing back to her, the memory of the dear dead father, the horror of her mother's living husband. She remembered why she was there. She had accompanied her mother purposely to clear up her doubts; and she must do it. Yet she was loath to disturb the sweetest calm that her mother had enjoyed for many months.

"Mamma," she said, after a short silence, "how strange it is that you and I have never talked about money matters!"

Lady Laura smiled. "I do not think it strange, Angel," she replied. "It is not an attractive subject; and we have never had any reason for mentioning it."

"Was my father's will at all an extraordinary one?" she asked.

"Not so much extraordinary, I think, as incomplete," answered her ladyship.

"In what way incomplete, mamma?" Angela asked.

"In this way, my dear. Every one thought that your dear father ought to have left you a separate fortune. Instead of that, and to prove, as I am sure, his entire trust in me, he left the whole of his wealth to me; and at my death it was to go to you."

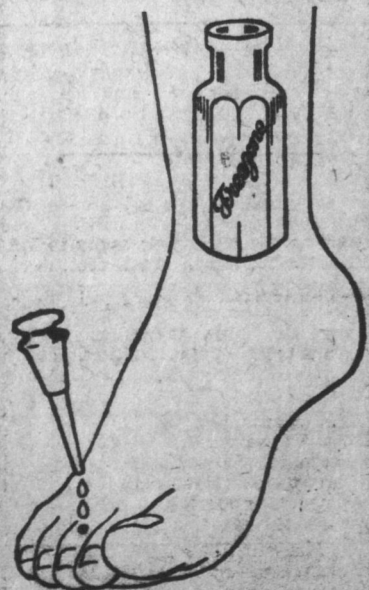

"But what if I die first, mamma—and I hope I shall—I should not care to live one day without you—what then, mamma?"

"It is mine," replied her ladyship, uneasily, "to do with as I will."

The girl looked thoughtfully into her mother's face.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Fressone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Fressone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

make a will. It was to this effect—that, if you should unfortunately die before me, he was to inherit all I should be able to give.

As Angela listened to this confirmation of the nurse's doubts and suspicions, the truth gradually dawned upon her.

"My death then," she said slowly, "would be his gain?"

"Certainly. But then it is very improbable that you will die first."

The very blood seemed to curdle in the girl's veins, for she knew how often she had been near death, and now she guessed the reason.

"Then it stands in this way, mamma—if I die before you, and you die before Captain Wynyard, the whole of my father's property falls into that man's hands?"

"That is it, Angel."

"I do not think it is right or just, mamma. You must annul that will, and make another. Why should he, who has been so unkind to you, inherit the wealth that was my father's? It is not just. Oh, I wish you had consulted me about it; I wish you had told me all the facts before, mamma!" cried the girl, sadly, as she thought what a terrible price she had nearly paid for her ignorance of them.

"It is not fair!" she went on. "If we die, he will be rich and free!"

"Yes," assented Lady Laura, "I know it—free to marry Gladys Rane."

"Mamma," said Angela, solemnly, "he must wish us both dead."

"Oh, no, my dear! He is not so bad as that."

"He does not love us, he does not care for us!" the girl cried, passionately. "Why should he not wish us both dead?"

"That would be terrible," said Lady Laura.

"Who drew up that will for you, mamma?" asked Angela.

"Your father's lawyer, Mr. Sansome," was the reply.

"He ought to have been ashamed of himself!" cried Angela, indignantly.

"My dear," answered Lady Laura, "he was, and he tried all that was possible to dissuade me from making it. He was very angry indeed, and propped all kinds of evil; but the captain persuaded me."

"It must be destroyed, and you must make another, mamma. I shall never rest until it is done."

"It shall be done, Angel; but I must wait until we go to town. I dare not summon Mr. Sansome here."

And, having arrived at this decision, Lady Laura and her daughter left the woods and turned homeward.

CHAPTER XL.

A black, threatening cloud seemed to have fallen over Angela Rooden's life. For some time she could not recover from the effect of the information her mother had imparted to her. Her accidents were all plain enough now. If she had but known about the will, surely she would have realized the danger to which she was exposed. She shuddered when she remembered how near death she had been—so near that in each case there had been only a space of two or three minutes between herself and eternity. The mystery seemed to unroll itself before her eyes. Her death would be an untold gain to her step-father. There would then be but her mother's life between herself and the inheritance. Her mother was fragile and delicate, and her unhappy life would only tend to bring about the end that he desired. Then her father's property would all fall into his hands, and he would be free to marry Miss Rane—Angela had not the least doubt but that he had so mapped out his future. If she and her mother died, he would be a rich man. But she saw plainly enough that, if his plans were to succeed, she must die first. If her mother died first, the property would descend to her, and she in her turn could leave it as she would.

"I mean will any money come to him in the event of my death?" asked Angela.

And, remembering her will, Lady Laura's face grew colorless. Her husband had asked her not to speak of it, not to mention it to any one, and now for the first time she regretted the promise she had given, for it seemed very clear to her that Angela ought to know the whole truth. She could not understand now why she had been so foolish as to promise to hide what she had done from her daughter. Angela had already read the truth in her mother's face.

"This is the only secret I have ever kept from you, Angel," she answered, slowly—"the only one; I have not another in my life. But the captain asked me, and I could not refuse him, for he was so kind and loving to me in those days."

"Poor mamma!" repeated the girl; but her heart was faint with anxiety and suspense.

"I will tell you what I did, Angel," continued her ladyship. "The first time we went to town after our marriage the captain persuaded me to

LIVING ON THE HEIGHTS.

When you read in the society column of your paper (supposing you read such things) that Miss M. A. F. G. and Mrs. Stclair G., has just come out at a dinner dance given her by her parents in their beautiful home, do you think of Margaret G. as a very lucky girl, and perhaps have a twinge of envy and wish you might have come out somewhere besides coming to a busy office?

It wouldn't be at all strange if you did. And yet I wonder if she is to be envied? I wonder if there are not things about her position that make her life more of a strain in some ways than yours is.

If She Isn't Charming—

The paper calls her "the charming daughter" because all girls who come out are charming daughters. But suppose she isn't charming, as she quite frequently isn't, is it any fun for her to be pitched into an existence of which matrimony is frankly admitted to be the object, and, of course, the most important means by which to attain this object.

A woman, whose daughter came out last year, said to her friends: "Jane will marry in her second season or else she will go into charity work." I see that Jane's engagement has recently been announced, just in the nick of time.

Woe Betide Them.

Sometimes even the most charming girls do not find the right men in their first two or three seasons. Then woe betide them! They must either stay on to compete with this season's buds, go into charity work, or perhaps, if their families have money enough, be whisked abroad.

I know one such girl, charming and attractive, who cannot bring herself to marry the wrong man and has not found the right. Because of family investments that have passed dividends, she cannot afford to go abroad or do charity work. She can go into business as social custom is making that legitimate. But if she does, she probably will kill her chance of marrying a man of her own class. She cannot make up her mind what to do, she is restless, unhappy.

The Lucky Girl.

How much simpler life is for the girl in the middle class. Nowadays she prepares, as a matter of course, for some kind of work. It is probably work which she enjoys. She can do it all her life, if necessary, and not lose social caste or be in any way regarded as a failure. But she does not expect to do it all her life. She expects to get married. Along with her business life goes her social life, the two, if she is sensible, kept in a wise balance.

If she marries, well and good. If she doesn't marry, it's the same. She isn't in the vastly uncomfortable position of being in a matrimonial race with the eyes of her world fastened on her.

Now who, if they could choose between the two positions, wouldn't choose that of the middle class girl?

Household Notes.

The non-lacing corset, with boned fabric and elastic panels, has been attracting a great deal of interest.

A solution of ammonia and water or soda and water will clean hair brushes without softening the bristles.

If white goods turn yellow put a few drops of turpentine in the rinsing water and place in strong sunshine.

Patience are puff paste cases filled with a creamed mixture. These are favorite entrees for the luncheon or dinner.

Add a few drops of blueing to the soapy water in which glassware is to be washed. The glass will come out sparkling.

A novel course to serve with the after dinner coffee is strips of Guava cream and strips of cheese with toasted crackers.

To eliminate canary lice, place a clean white cloth over cage at night. By morning it will be covered with the minute red lice.

Dampen perspiration stain with water and sprinkle with a thick layer of borax. Roll up for a few minutes and rinse in cold water.

When ironing a round table centerpiece or cloth, beware of iron from centre towards edge. After ironing, roll cloth instead of folding.

If canned fruit is to be used for a shortcake it should be carefully drained and cut in pieces. Use the syrup as a foundation for the sauce.

A sackful of newly made deal shavings can be purchased at almost any carpenter's shop for a very small sum, and they make the ideal bed for a dog.

If you do not wish clothes to freeze while hanging on the line, add a handful of salt to the last rinsing water. The clothes will dry more quickly.

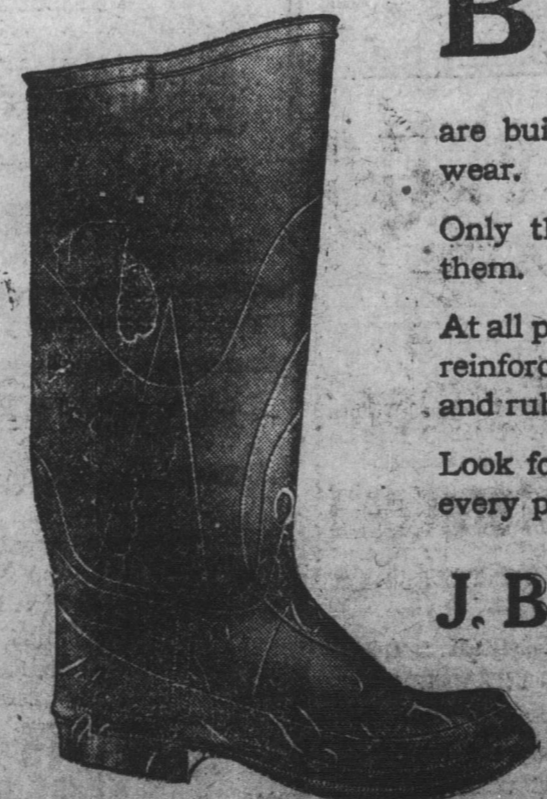

Brilliant colors in millinery have been very successful so far. Bright hats of taffeta and moire have appeared in great numbers, especially in the East.

Clean the carpet sweeper and dip the brush part into the water before using. You will find that no dust will be raised and the rug will be much brighter for the water.

To protect the nails when working in the flower beds, work stiff soap paste under nails and across joints. Then after working in the flower beds, wash the grime and dirt all off at once.

To make a savory baked bean loaf combine 1 pint cold baked beans, 1 cup breadcrumbs, 1 slightly beaten egg, 1 teaspoonful minced onion, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup and seasoning. Bake for about half an hour.

Enjoyable Concert.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT GREENFELL HALL.

A delightful concert was held last night in Greenfell Hall, King George the Fifth Institute, under the auspices of the Royal Stores Swimming Club and Hockey Team. The spacious hall was filled to its utmost capacity with employees of the firm and their friends. The attendance was much larger than anticipated and extra accommodation had to be provided for. Mr. T. Ryan, who presided, made an admirable chairman. The programme, which was a very lengthy one, consisted of Songs, Recitations, Dialogues, Dancing, etc. while the minstrel troupe composed of employees of the firm played the piano as a part of the whole proceedings. It would be hardly fair to single out any of the performers who took part, the different items were well rendered, and many encores were responded to. The Misses Wallace and Salter who too danced the Spanish and Irish Dances respectively are deserving of special mention. Both these young ladies gave an excellent exhibition which was greatly appreciated by the audience, while Mr. Wm. McGrath, who some twelve years ago was considered as Mount Cashell's champion dancer, made his return to the stage and received a splendid reception when he danced an Irish Jig and the Highland Flieg. Those that took part in the programme are as follows:—Songs, Messrs. T. Ryan, F. Wylie, E. Hunt, Dan Delmar, W. Howell, R. Johnson and Kennedy; Misses E. Payne, Petrie, and Mrs. Brown. Saw Solo, Mr. R. Diamond; Comedy, "The Pire at Nolan's," Miss Meaney and Mr. Reakes; Railway Matinee; Misses Polian and Fry; Messrs. CH. Johnstone, Crane, Carnell and Reakes. Dancing, Misses Wallace and Salter; Mr. W. McGrath. Minstrels, Messrs. T. Ryan, H. Carnell, J. Kennedy, J. Crane, C. Johnson, F. Wylie, E. Hunt, H. Wilson, W. Brown, H. Morgan, G. Long, and W. Driscoll. Miss M. Farrell and Mr. A. Reakes acted as accompanists. The affair proved to be one of thorough enjoyment to all, and all those responsible are to be heartily congratulated on the splendid success. The proceeds, which amounted to a handsome sum, go towards the upkeep of the newly organized clubs.

Bonspiel Dinner.

BRILLIANT AFFAIR AT SMITHVILLE LAST NIGHT.

The Bonspiel Dinner, held at Smithville last night, was attended by over 200 curlers and the function was voted the best in the record of the Association.

The guests included his Excellency the Governor Sir W. L. Allardye, Major Wilberforce-Bell, Capt. Goodfellow, Sir Richard Squires, and Padre Nangle.

The Vice-President, Mr. Angus Reid was Chairman for the evening, and performed the duties in an able manner. The following is the toast list: The King—Prop. the Chairman; God save the King.

The Governor—Pro. the Chairman; Resp. H.E. Sir Wm. Allardye K.C. M.G.

The Roarin' Game—Pro. Hon. W. R. Warren, K.C.; Resp. Mr. J. R. Bennett.

The Winners—Prop. Mr. W. J. Higgins; Resp. Mr. J. C. Jardine.

The Losers—Prop. Mr. J. C. Jardine; Resp. Mr. H. R. Brookes.

The Guests—Prop. Mr. H. E. Cowan; Resp. Sir R. A. Squires, K.C.M.G. The Chairman—Prop. Dr. W. H. Parsons, M.C.; Resp. Mr. Angus Reid.

The toast list was interspersed with songs and recitations, the following gentlemen contributed:—Dr. Burden, Dr. Fox, A. Williams, J. C. Jardine, C. R. Duder, F. Ruggles, F. R. Hamlin and T. H. O'Neill.

Padre Nangle took the occasion to again thank the Curlers for their magnificent donation to the War Memorial.

Mr. Geo. F. Kearney was chorus director, while Mr. E. Fox acted as accompanist for the evening. The affair terminated at midnight with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

Greeks Take Over Aeroplanes.

LONDON, (Associated Press.)—The first batch of fighting aeroplanes purchased in England for the Greek army have been taken over. The machines are fitted with four machine guns, two of which are fixed in front of the pilot and are worked by the engine. They fire straight forward and are so timed that the bullets will miss the propeller even when turning at over 1,000 revolutions per minute.

Air Force Increased.

LONDON (Canadian Press.)—While estimates for the Army are pared and expenditure on the Navy is seriously trimmed the British Air Force will be increased by fifteen squadrons during the coming year. A reserve of 700 officers will also be created and special inducements are being offered to former pilots and suitable civil aviators to enroll.

A Gold-Bearing Goose.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March.—The goose which George Farmer of Tarenton's killed the other day was not exactly the goose that laid the golden egg, but for all that, it was what might be called gold-bearing.

When the goose, which had never undertaken an exploratory tour in foreign parts, was being dressed for the table, inspected revealed two pieces of a hard yellow substance. Mr. Farmer brought the two samples to the city and showed them to two local jewelers, both of whom said they were

THE EVENING TELEGRAM

THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LIMITED, PROPRIETORS.

St. John's, Newfoundland, Wednesday, April 4, 1923.

REASONS FOR GRATITUDE.

Squires, as Premier of Newfoundland, is satisfactory to the Halifax Herald! Why, of course, isn't he about to sell the Labrador to Canada, and is not Halifax eager to see the time when it and not St. John's will be the outfitting place for a Labrador fishery, carried on by Canadians. Sydney is already revelling in the prospect of being the port from which cargoes will put forth for the Labrador gold fields. Quebec is probably already gloating over the prospect of developing the forest wealth of our Labrador.

When the scandalous contract about Bell Island ore, made a few months ago, is recalled, whereby all the royalty which might have been collected on exported ore was sacrificed, it is easy to recognize another reason why Canadian papers should be ready to speak of Squires as a God-given statesman—given to Canada! There's plenty of election funds just now for Squires' candidates—was it supplied by Canadian Companies for concessions won here?

And there's still another reason why Halifax praises Squires. This Colony's fish trade with Brazil was filched from us, and bestowed on Halifax and Lunenburg, by the Fishery Regulations, which the Squires-Coaker Government enforced. For that trade the Blue-nosed Canadians are sincerely thankful. The statesmen who gave it to them are men to be thankful for, on their part, but on ours they are blunderers to be got rid of.

Squires, having done much to bring this Colony to wreck and ruin, having sacrificed its trade, bestowed its iron ore, and now about to convey the Labrador, to Canadians, is looking forward to Confederation, and is already making friends for himself of Canadian newspapers, for the day when he will sit in Ottawa, the man who sold Newfoundland to Canada.

"FIRST PRINCIPLES".

Under the above caption, the Mail continued the personal attack it has been waging upon Sir Michael Cashin. We propose to turn upon itself certain of its remarks here-aneant:

"Had Cashin," it says, "during his long term of office—such an enviable record that the public can safely entrust their interests to him again?" During the time of office referred to, except for the last few months, Sir Michael had either Sir Richard Squires or W. F. Coaker as colleagues, and they made no protest against anything he did. Squires left when Lloyd succeeded Morris, long before which event the electors of Trinity had left Squires. Coaker remained with Sir Michael until the latter kicked him out.

The Mail refers to a charge made against Sir Michael, once upon a time, by the Advocate, when Dr. Mosdell was its editor, but refrains from stating that the resulting libel suit brought by Sir Michael was dropped at the request of Mr. Coaker, because, Dr. Mosdell having quarreled with him, there was no evidence to offer for the defence; and of this Coaker was so convinced that he afterwards became a colleague of Sir Michael in the Morris Government, and remained a colleague until Sir Michael sacked him.

"Can a man who is Premier," says the Mail, "who wrote an open order for a case of whiskey, in defiance of law, be regarded as the right kind of man to guide the destinies of the country?" Oh shades of Squires and Campbell! Can a man, we ask, who sets all law aside be trusted to be Premier? Can a man who writes scripts as Campbell does, be trusted as a Minister? Can a Government be trusted that permits the saturnalia of booze to go on as it now does?

A SWEET JOB!

One of Coaker's election "kites" is, that if the Government is returned to power, it will help him establish and operate a Sugar Refinery at Port Union, using the electric power he has created there, and for much of which he has no present use. Of course raw sugar would have to be procured, and he proposes to do this by subsidizing steamers to ply to and from the West Indies, carrying out his fish, and bringing in his sugar, and being paid for by the Government out of the taxes of the people. In other words, it's all another scheme to use public money to pay dividends to his Union shareholders.

Now, while everybody would be glad to see these poor deluded shareholders, receiving dividends, who is ready to double or treble the price of sugar for their benefit, or who is willing to pay dollars per quintal to carry Union fish to market, for that is what this wild cat scheme amounts to. If all the sugar used in the Colony, or all that could be used, were refined at Port Union, it would not be enough to keep one refinery in work, and the cost per pound to the consumer would be greater than even when the Mews blunder about sugar kept the price away up after the war. The steamers plying to and fro with fish and raw sugar would never be more than one quarter loaded, and the subsidy per voyage would be taken out of taxpayers for the benefit of Coaker's shareholders. The fact is, Coaker is hard up, for votes; and would if he could make "ducks and drakes" of the public money. Don't let him have the chance.

SAGONA IN PORT—REPORTED CATCH 11,360.

S.S. Sagona, Capt. Job Kne, the first ship to arrive from the seal fishery steamed into port at 9.40 a.m., hauling for 11,360, according to tally, prime young harps. The Sagona was the last of the sealing fleet to leave port, but after a few days she was in company with the others of the fleet. They all became jammed off Cape Bonaville. The whalsons were struck on March 21st about 115 miles Southeast of the Cape. Capt. Kne and his crew in the scramble accounted for 6,000. Since then the Sagona has been steaming about picking up scattered seals, and increased her catch sufficiently enough to make a saving trip. Capt. Kne decided to abandon the voyage owing to running short of coal, and bore up for home a few days ago.

LT.-COL. W. F. RENDELL OFFICIALLY INSTALLED OFFICER COMMANDING.

Last night in the C.L.B. Armoury the official ceremony of handing over the command of the Regiment to Lt.-Col. W. F. Rendell, the new Officer Commanding, was very fittingly made by His Lordship Bishop White, Regimental Chaplain, before the full Battalion, who paraded 250 strong and a large number of distinguished guests. His Lordship the Bishop addressed the lads, referring to the record established by the Brigade's former commanders. He paid a great tribute to the good work done by the old officers, and made particular mention of the achievement by Colonel R. G. Rendell, his family and those associated with him. The value of the present Armoury now valued at $40,000, and having paid its entire cost before retiring from command. Upon Lt.-Col. Rendell being introduced to the Regiment the Battalion under Major Tait, M.C., as Adjutant, gave their new officer three hearty cheers. Lt.-Col. Rendell in a happy speech thanked His Lordship for recommending him to Headquarters at London, to command the Brigade, and he felt highly honoured, and will do all possible to carry on the work of his old C.L.B. Regiment and to follow the high standard set by previous commanding officers. Following the ceremony, the Lt.-Col., Bishop White, Rev. J. Brinton and Major Tait made an official inspection, after which the Battalion was put through the physical and manual exercises.

W. Y. M. L. C.

The subject for debate at last night's meeting of the Wesley Young Men's Literary Class, was Resolved: "That the looseness of political relationship between England and her self-governing colonies is an unwise policy, and will ultimately cause disruption of the Empire." The affirmative side led by Messrs. J. Gushue and R. Guy put up a very strong argument, and won out by a very small majority. Messrs. E. Burey and H. Hookey supported the negative side. The subject was a very interesting one, and several good speeches were delivered by members from the room, viz.—A. Mac. Morgan, W. Whitmarsh, G. Davis, B. Parsons, T. Simmonds, M. Robert, H. R. Sparks.

BENNETT WILL PUT the HUMBER THROUGH.

The British Government Gave the Humber Guarantee to the GOVERNMENT OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

IT WAS NOT GIVEN TO SIR RICHARD SQUIRES, DR. CAMPBELL OR ANY OTHER INDIVIDUAL.

WHATEVER GOVERNMENT IS ELECTED The HUMBER Agreement Must Go Through.

TRUST BENNETT FOR A BETTER and MORE BENEFICIAL HUMBER.

Bennett, Hickman and Archibald Will be Hr. Grace's Representatives in the Bennett Government.

Mr. James Moore is Carbonear's Choice. P. F. Moore and P. Cashin for Ferryland.

To Harbor Grace goes the honor of having the opportunity of electing the Premier of the new Government with its policy of anti-waste and progress. We have much pleasure in announcing to-day that the leader Mr. J. R. Bennett will have with him on the ticket for Harbor Grace District A. E. Hickman and P. Archibald. Mr. Bennett needs no introduction to the electors of Harbor Grace District. He has represented St. John's West District since 1904 and during his long record has been unassailable and he has earned the title of Honest John Bennett. Harbor Grace District will not be slow to recognize that in Mr. Bennett the country has a leader in whom confidence can be put without being misplaced.

Mr. Hickman is head of one of the largest fish exporting firms in the colony. He is a strong opponent of Government interference with legitimate business. Mr. Hickman does not go to Hr. Grace as a stranger in the political field, as he has already served six years in the House of Assembly, having represented the district of Bay de Verde from 1913 to 1919. A type of business man sorely needed in the country to-day. Mr. Hickman will without doubt receive a hearty welcome by the electors of Harbor Grace District.

Mr. Frank Archibald who completes the team, has represented the District for the past 3 1/2 years. He was elected in 1919 under the "Liberal Reform" banner, but early discovering the insincerity and incapacity of the men with whom he was associated, and refusing to assume any responsibility for their many blunders, he left the party and took for the past fourteen years. His advent into the political arena occurred in 1908, when he was unsuccessful, but in the election of the following year he was returned, and has increased his vote at every election since.

Mr. Peter Cashin, eldest son of Sir Michael Cashin, is fighting his first political battle. Mr. Cashin is a veteran of the Great War, in which he rendered conspicuous service. He went Overseas as a Corporal. During the last year of the war he commanded two Machine Gun Companies, one of which was wiped out in March 1918. Throughout the final offensive he commanded a Machine Gun Corps of the 29th Division, and was second in command of the battalion at periods. He had just been recommended to command a battalion when the war ended. If there was nothing else to recommend Mr. Cashin his splendid war service would entitle him to recognition. But Peter Cashin needs no recommendation to the electors of Ferryland, it being sufficient to say he rivals his father in popularity. Ferryland is one of the Districts which the Government regard as hopeless and everywhere the election of Moore and Cashin is conceded.

S.S. Hawk Damaged.

FISH CARRIER PUTS INTO PAYAL WITH BROKEN RUDDER POST.

S.S. Hawk, bound from this port to Alicante and Naples, with a cargo of fish has put into Payal, Azores, with her rudder post broken, according to a message received in the city yesterday. The Hawk left here on the 17th of March last, and evidently met with the full force of the storm while en route across the Atlantic. Very meagre particulars have been received, but it is understood repairs will be effected, after which the steamer will proceed to her destination. Last month the Hawk assisted in the rescue of the crew of the ill-fated A. B. Bateau, when Capt. Jones and his crew suffered so severely from frost bites.

MOORE AND CASHIN FOR FERRYLAND.

The standard bearers of the Bennett party in the District of Ferryland, Messrs. P. F. Moore and Peter Cashin, opened their campaign in Ferryland proper yesterday. Mr. Moore, who goes back for re-election, has been one of the District's representatives

The East End Victory Trio Meeting Last Night.

Mr. Len Stick, the First to Enlist in Nfld. Regiment says "If She is Worth Fighting for She is Worth Living in."

The Higgins, Fox and Vinnicombe Committee are doing splendid work and much enthusiasm is manifested in the campaign. Last night after the canvassers covered the various city wards an impromptu meeting was held, when some four hundred voters were present. Chairman Gould presiding in the assembly were Captains Nath Piercy, Jesse Winsor, F. Green and Roberts, the travelling delegates of the United Fishermen who are now visiting the city, all of whom addressed the gathering setting forth the determined effort on the part of the people of the Northern Districts to crush the menace of Coakerism from the public life of the Colony. Mr. Len Stick, who was in the audience, was called upon to say a few words. Mr. Stick was the first to enlist in the Royal Newfoundland Regiment and like Captain Frank Green, who was with the naval forces at the Dardanelles, he did his bit nobly and well. The speaker pointed out the many misdeeds of the Coaker-Squires administration, laying particular stress on the rottenness of some sections of the civil service. In concluding Mr. Stick said "If Newfoundland was worth fighting for she was worth living in," and he was going to fight for the election of the Bennett Government and do all in his power to elect Bennett candidates. The speaker was cheered to the echo. Many ex-service men present appreciated his remarks. Sir John Crosbie followed. In a very stirring address Sir John scored the numerous faults of Coaker and Squires. He asked the Committee to avail of every opportunity to have Higgins and his colleagues come back with increased majorities. Mr. Vinnicombe thanked the speakers for their addresses, after which the chairman announced that a big meeting is booked for Friday night, when the young voters would be called together. Due notice of this meeting will be given in the advertising columns of the daily newspapers.

Mrs. Temple's Telegram.

Last evening a crowded hall greeted the second performance of Mrs. Temple's Telegram, produced at the Majestic Theatre by Mr. Holmes and his talented cast. The players were entirely at home in their parts and any defects of the first night were completely erased. The audience was very appreciative and an excellent performance was given. The show will be repeated to-night and his Excellency the Governor and suite have signalled their intention of being present. As the proceeds will be devoted to the Seamen's Institute a record attendance will no doubt mark the final performance. There will be a matinee at 2.30 this afternoon.

A Bean Supper, Card Party and Dance will be held in St. Andrew's Club Rooms, Water St., on Thursday, April 5th, at 8 p.m. Tickets 75c. mar26,apr2,4,5

A CATALOGUE OF THE CRIMES

Credited to the Coaker-Squires Government Since 1919.

Public debt of the Colony increased over twenty million dollars.

Over five million dollars given to pay losses on Reids Railway.

Four hundred thousand dollars spent on the Badger Road.

Four hundred thousand more spent on the Deer Lake Road.

Fully half a million more given away recklessly on supplying, without considering best possible means of expending same with good results.

Thirty thousand dollars squandered in Salt, which is one of the most barefaced scandals ever committed in the history of the Colony.

Sixty thousand dollars and no explanation given, re a Housing Scheme which from every aspect was a colossal failure.

Thirty thousand dollars to organize and keep up a fancy Mounted Police Squad.

Squandered a surplus of three and a half million dollars left to the credit of the Colony when the last Government went out of office.

Expended thirty-one million, six hundred and thirty-eight thousand, six hundred and ten dollars in thirty-one months up to June 30th last year.

Including loans, the Coaker-Squires Government spent fifteen million, one hundred and thirty-five thousand, one hundred and ninety-two dollars a year since they took charge.

Out of every one dollar earned the Government takes 62 cents.

Coaker-Squires Government bought forty thousand quintals of fish from Coakerites in 1920, which cost the Colony something like two hundred thousand dollars.

No answer to give for the four hundred and ten thousand dollars for fishery supplies.

Fish dropped from twelve to four dollars.

Mechanics, clerks, laborers and fishermen paid a paltry wage breaking rocks, who were a couple of years ago earning good money at their trained vocations.

Squandered outrageously thousands of dollars on a quarter mile road now known as Road de Luxe.

Local butterine advanced five cents extra per pound and other commodities increased in like value.

Fleeced hundreds of thousands of dollars from the people to pay for the blunders the Editor of the Advocate, Hon. A. W. Mews, made in connection with the importation of sugar when he was Chairman of the Food Control Board.

Raised their own salaries three hundred per cent. at a time when thousands of people in Green Bay and on the French Shore were starving.

Kero Oil, Sugar and other commodities were increased in prices and taxed, when wages were dropped one hundred per cent.

Coaker's policy of destruction and stagnation accepted by Squires and the Government without protest.

West Coast trade penalized and sacrificed.

Increased their sessional pay from two hundred to one thousand dollars at a time when thousands of mechanics and laborers were walking the streets begging for employment.

Introduced Fish Regulations that caused general depression and bankruptcy throughout the Island.

Sneered at soldiers and sailors and said "They were paid to Fight" when a just demand for their rights was made to the Prime Minister.

Coaker drew over ten thousand dollars—his salary as Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and rarely saw the inside of his office for a period of three years.

Premier Squires drew $10,000 a year and thousands extra for travelling expenses, and spent seven out of every twelve months since his election in England and Europe.

Steamers, trains and coastal services disorganized.

Thousands of the best blood of the country compelled to leave and make their living in Canada, United States, Bermuda and elsewhere.

Loans to the extent of twelve million dollars wasted and not one solitary item to show for the expenditure of same.

And many others just as glaring, which will be published in time.

The Menace of Coakerism and What it Means.

ARTICLE XIX.
TRUE DEMOCRACY MEANS HONEST GOVERNMENT! THE PEOPLE DO NOT WANT SOCIALISM!

"Modern times have the signal advantage of having discovered the only device by which the rights of man can be secured—to wit—Government by the people acting not in person but by representatives chosen by themselves."

In the light of the present state of affairs, it is necessary to call the attention of our readers to this great principle of representative Government, so clearly and distinctly enunciated by the great Jefferson, who was the foremost constructive genius of the American Revolution and to whose statesmanship and political sagacity Democracy owes an inestimable debt of gratitude.

At no time in our country's history have the foundations of Representative Government been so threatened and imperilled as at the present juncture; at no time has there been greater need for men of honesty, ability and experience as the head of affairs; at no time have public affairs been mismanaged and muddled by so incapable an Executive as that which is at present inflicted on our long suffering people by the favor and intrigues of certain monopolistic influences.

We believe that the innovations favored by Coaker and his followers, with respect to the selection and control by the F. P. U. of the representatives of the people, are fraught with danger to us and to the conduct of public affairs. They strike at the very vitals of our free institutions; they propose in effect the substitution of direct for representative Government; of ill-digested and ill-conceived Socialistic ideas for those great constitutional principles which have been the fruit of centuries of experience and practical application.

We have a striking example of direct as opposed to representative Government at the present time in Russia. And with what results? Anarchy bloodshed, murder and rapine are rampant in that unfortunate land. No such catastrophe can as yet occur in this country because of the law abiding spirit of our people and the equitable distribution of wealth. But we ought to be very careful about sowing a seed that may fructify and increase a crop disastrous to social order and to the best interests of the country.

According to the platform outlined by Coaker at Catalina to the F. P. U. all members of the Union representing Union Districts are to be bound by oath to obey the wishes of the District Councils and to resign their seats in the Legislature at any time when called upon so to do by the District Council of their constituency. Members who do not belong to the Union will have to sign a pledge to the same effect if they desire to obtain, directly or indirectly, the support of the F. P. U.

This scheme is nothing less than an attempt to introduce amongst us, in a radical form, the recall, or, in other words, the direct action of the people in the execution of their laws.

We feel sure that the people have long ere this realized the danger that would accrue from the adoption of this Socialist device; and that it has proved impracticable and impossible of execution in the neighbouring continent.

The scheme, no doubt, appeals to Coaker and others of his ilk, because of the opportunity it affords him of controlling and directing the Legislature of this Colony. We are sure that under the recall no District Council will ever venture to demand the resignation of a member except at the instigation or desire of the would-be Dictator of our Dominion. Instead of "Government of the people, by the people, for the people" we would have substituted Government by Coaker and for Coaker. It does not require any great imaginative power to realize what such a state of affairs would mean to this Dominion.

By far the greatest objection to this Coaker scheme lies in the fact that it would tend to lower still further the personnel of our Legislators. It is unfortunately a fact that even now the most deplorable results under our present structure of Government are due to the over-zeal of representatives to respond to the transient and noisy elements of public opinion, which more often than not do not speak for the great speechless majority. In fact their greatest blunders have been due to their failure to act bravely as the instruments, not of a people's passions, but of their best interests; to their tendency to pander to the passions of the mob, without regard to the sober and well regulated opinion of the great body of honest citizens.

If we wished to resurrect old controversies or to revive old hatreds we would cite many examples which would bear out our contentions in this respect. We refrain from so doing for we believe that our people already see clearly enough the dangers that arise from the introduction of this Socialistic idea into our political life.

The effect of this scheme would be that we would be governed by the politician rather than by the statesman. For the people would have ropes around the necks of their representatives which would be pulled tight at the instigation of certain influences. A public officer would not take the long view; he could not patiently study the problems that confronted him or carefully examine the conditions with which he had been placed in contact. He would have to be very careful to do things which were only pleasing to everybody, and upon the most plausible inspection His interests would lead him to advocate the most plausible and best advertised measures regardless as to their effect on the welfare of the community. He would, in fine, become an automaton, a mere puppet, responsive to the slightest whims of certain malign influences.

It is hard to predict the debasing effect which this Coakerite scheme would have on the standards of men in public life. When the popular representative is narrowed in his scope and rendered timid by the threats of outside influences, the public service will suffer, not alone in the weakness of its policy but in the inefficiency and dishonesty of the instruments which are deputized by the people to carry it into effect.

We must not, therefore, view lightly the attempts of Coaker to introduce these Socialist schemes into this Dominion and to tamper with and destroy the fundamental principles of our Governments.

The remedy for all evils of the body politic does not lie in the rantings and the ill-considered ideas of a demagogue of the type of Coaker. It is only by the people demanding that their chosen agents shall set better standards and higher ideals for the conduct of public affairs that we can hope to preserve that well regulated liberty and those individual rights which are the cherished products of our free institutions. The Bennett Government is the sole opportunity to defeat the Menace of Coakerism. BENNETT & BETTER TIMES.

Rod and Gun.

The April issue of Rod and Gun in Canada contains several features which should instantly recommend it to lovers of the out of doors everywhere. There are a number of articles and narratives portraying experiences and opinions of hunters and sportsmen, among these being "What Are You Going To Do About It" by W. C. Motley, "Beal Hunting in the Northern Atlantic," by Bonnycastle Dale, "Point Pelee—A Public Shooting Ground," and a host of others. There is an account of the annual meeting of the Ontario Hunters Game and Fish Protective Association, dealing with all the matters taken up at the recent convention in Toronto. The department

The Wind is Up.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—After a thorough canvass of the town amongst all the shopkeepers, I am absolutely convinced that all is over but the count with Coakerism in St. John's. Business men generally will not touch a Coaker candidate even with a red hot poker, so I think it would be just as well for all such candidates to back out of the contest in St. John's altogether. As our soldier boys would say "the wind is up" already in the Government ranks, as the shell fire of the strong Opposition sentiment is too much for their nerves.
Tra la la! then to the Squires Government for it is good night with them sure!

Yours truly,
SHAM TINAHAN.

Great Britain Only Bright Spot.

OTTAWA.—(Canadian Press).—The only bright spot in financial Europe was Great Britain, stated A. R. McMaster, K.C., for Bromo, Que., in an address before the University Club here recently. Britain, went on the speaker, was the only nation that had decreased its national debt since the war. The easiest way for the laymen to grasp the extent of the indebtedness of Europe to America was to remember that Europe owed every man, woman and child in the United States $140, he continued. Canada was now also a creditor nation as far as European countries were concerned. Great Britain owed Canada 75 millions; Roumania over 20 millions on which no interest has ever been paid; Greece seven and a half millions on which only part of the interest was paid and France almost six millions, on which all interest was paid.

Our Weekly Letter.

(From our own correspondent.)
MONTREAL, March 24th.—Dr. Williams, Managing Director of the National Tuberculosis Association of the United States made some startling statements here lately in reference to consumption. Throughout the entire world tuberculosis is responsible for over 10 per cent. of all the deaths. The disease is chronic, lasting from 3 to 5 years, and there are at least 5 times as many persons living suffering from tuberculosis, who need constant medical care as there are deaths annually, and at least ten times as many persons affected with chronic tuberculosis, as there are annual deaths from the disease. In 1921 there were 107,000 deaths from tuberculosis in the United States approximately 100 out of every 100,000. During the same year, 7,694 persons died in Canada from the disease or 88 out of every 100,000. The deaths in both countries were more numerous among the males at the ratio of 3 to 2.

"It is known that almost every individual is infected with tubercle bacilli in civilized communities by the time he is 15 years of age. The distinction must be made, however, between tuberculous infection and tuberculosis, because persons who may be infected do not necessarily become diseased unless there are predisposing factors. Because one cannot have tuberculosis unless he has already been infected by the bacillus.

"We find there is a marked difference in the amount of tuberculosis in different races; that although the amount of infection may be the same, the amount of disease which develops is much less among the Jews and Italians and much more among the Irish and negroes than exists among the Anglo-Saxon races. There is, therefore a certain racial immunity and there is also a family and individual immunity or as it is commonly called, resistance to disease.

"To predisposing factors causing the disease to develop are primarily, low standards of living, with resulting poor housing and overcrowding, and insufficient food. In addition, long hours of laborious work and exposure to irritating dusts and gases are factors although in certain dusty trades, even although the standard of living is relatively high, the amount of tuberculosis increases and causes a far higher mortality than elsewhere. In some industries, half the workers die from tuberculosis whereas, in the general mass of the population, only ten per cent. of those diseased die."

Another important factor in the development of the disease was the constant exposure of the individual to repeated doses of tubercle bacilli, bread winners, with the disease, suffering from lowered standard of living which, together with the infection of the father often caused the disease to spread in the family.

Study had shown in certain trades, the death rate was five times higher than in others. "For example, among stone cutters, cigar and tobacco workers, compositors, printers and pressmen the death rate from tuberculosis are frequently over 400 per 1,000 whilst among coal miners, steam railroad workers, farmers and professional men the rates are not higher than 100 per 100,000 workers."

These figures, however, based on the 1900 census in the United States were relatively high; if a study were made to-day the rates might be found to be one-half of those quoted.

Dr. Williams considered there should be more attention paid to the specifications of industry as, on diamonds, it was often found that the disease might have developed in an occupation other than that in which the worker was employed when found to be diseased. "It can be definitely stated, however," he added,

"that workers who are constantly exposed to fine mineral dust, as stone workers, quarrymen and workers engaged in polishing and grinding steel implements, have a death rate from five to ten times higher than other workers and that long hours at low wages or a diminished standard of living makes tuberculosis a definite factor in the death rate.

In his concluding remarks he urged employers to take cognizance of the effects of the disease on their industry through illness of their employees. Much good could be achieved by the installation of sanitary facilities, medical service for the diseased and visiting nurses in industrial establishments.

A memorial to students and members of the staff of Macdonald College who fell during the war is being planned at the college and will be erected at St. Anne de Bellevue as soon as sufficient funds are forthcoming. A committee, consisting of a representative from each department of the college has been formed to raise funds.

Altogether 303 men enlisted from Macdonald College. Of these 35 were members of the staff and 184 were students. The college has already established a memorial scholarship and a bronze tablet has been erected by the Agricultural Almanac Association. The Association has also given $200 as a nucleus for the fund for the new permanent college memorial.

"Music" Week was a great success. The free concerts given by orchestras, instrumentalists, vocalists clubs, and choirs in the halls of the different hotels, public and school halls throughout the city drew capacity audiences.

The famous Mendelssohn Choir of Toronto, composed of 220 mixed voices, was heard here at the St. Denis Theatre to large audiences. It was remarkable for its great variety in shading and expression. The choir passed its highest test in unaccompanied numbers. Philip King, the musical editor of the Montreal Daily Star in reference to their work, said, the Russians say that a church organ is a confession of weakness, that a choir should not need help from an instrument, or from instrumentalists, and that accompaniments are only useful to hide defects. Certainly no accompaniments are needed by the Mendelssohn Choir, which gives a wonderful demonstration of the expressive possibilities that are to be found in the human voice, en masse.

Choirmasters will naturally be most interested in the Mendelssohn Choir's technical attainments; musicians in general will take satisfaction in fundamental matters of tone, rhythm and phrasing; but the man on the street, who represents the majority and who is not trained to observe such details, will be more impressed by an effect made through direct means of expression, by the choir's power to say something definite without circumlocution, to stir up emotion, to paint a vivid mental picture and to quicken imaginative faculties. That the Mendelssohn Choir did not fail the man on the street last night was evident from the applause. That the Toronto singers were equally successful in their appeal to music-lovers is certain. Then, in the words of the song that children used to raise heavenward on Fletcher's Field last summer, "Everybody happy? Well, I should say!"

It is this power of expression on the part of the choir that makes it unique. Mr. Fricker is expert in matching and weighing tone against words in such a way that the notes of color that he produces in extraordinary. Take, for example, the atmospheric and mystic effect brought out in the "Eriky Love Lull," arranged by Hugh Robertson, and contrast it with the straightforwardness of the "Men of Harlech" and "Scots Wha Ma"; or think of the scholarly reverence voiced in Mendelssohn's "Judge Me, O God," in contradistinction to primitive appeal to the Russian carnival or the irresistible, rhythmic charm of the Spanish "Sill-vermith." A choir specializing in one particular kind of music might have done one of these things superlatively well; but only a choir that has mounted step by step to the top of the ladder could do them all as convincingly as the Mendelssohn choristers did.

higher pay for teachers, larger Government grants for instruction, bilingual teaching, consolidation of rural schools and more playgrounds attached to schools. An article could be written on each of the different things advocated, and in a future letter I will deal with the matter, when the correct figures, as regards grants, etc., will be summarized from the Annual Report of the Department of Public Instruction at Quebec.

Two men who participated equally in the same crime, after both being found guilty, were sentenced, one of them being sent to jail for one year, the other being released on a bond of $1000 to keep the peace for one year. One must have been born under a lucky star for Justice Wilson, whose first case it was, had to follow the usual custom for a judge giving his initial sentence. A few minutes later in the Court of Special Sessions, Judge Cusson handed out a year's sentence to the other. Both prisoners were arrested while attempting to dispose of $400 worth of butter that they had stolen from a grocery store.

Four firemen were injured and damage to the extent of $30,000 was caused by fire which gutted the Mountain Street Methodist Church, situated at the corner of Mountain and Torrance Streets, and slightly damaged the home of Rev. H. W. Burnett, the pastor, adjoining the church. The insurance on the church was $17,000.

Eighty firemen, 6 pumping engines, 12,000 feet of hose, 27 streams of water, 20 ladders reared around the building, dense volumes of smoke covering at times 5 blocks east and west, rushing streams of water which formed a miniature lake 2 feet deep for a block on St. Catherine Street, and viewed by thousands of citizens, were some of the features of a very spectacular fire which completely destroyed Goodwin's furniture warehouse and garage at the corner of University and Burnside here last week. The fire lasted nearly 7 hours, and did damage to furniture and motor trucks to the amount of $121,000.

The City Council killed daylight saving for good when by a vote of 23 to 11 against the measure. The Aldermanic Committee had based its report on the expressions of opinion it had received from religious and public bodies and individuals, most of which were against daylight saving. The Council upheld the Committee. The funny part of the affair is that the Westmount Council had adopted the measure a few days before. Unless "The Beautiful City" within a larger city, will change by a reconsideration vote, we'll have two different sets of time in Greater Montreal. The railways will, as usual, follow standard time.

According to C. T. Anstey, master of Selwyn House School in an address on "Provincial Education," less than 60 per cent. of Quebec's children between the ages of 7 years 9 months and 12 years 3 months attend school. The total of children of such ages is 550,000 and those attending school 317,000. Mr. Anstey advocated compulsory education,

The Henry Morgan Departmental Store is to have a nine storey annex at an estimated cost of $1,000,000. The building will be 235 feet by 165 feet, while there will also be constructed a power house at the corner of Union Avenue and Aylmer Street, 75 by 160 feet at a cost of $150,000.

Philip King, the musical editor of the Montreal Daily Star in reference to their work, said, the Russians say that a church organ is a confession of weakness, that a choir should not need help from an instrument, or from instrumentalists, and that accompaniments are only useful to hide defects. Certainly no accompaniments are needed by the Mendelssohn Choir, which gives a wonderful demonstration of the expressive possibilities that are to be found in the human voice, en masse.

Choirmasters will naturally be most interested in the Mendelssohn Choir's technical attainments; musicians in general will take satisfaction in fundamental matters of tone, rhythm and phrasing; but the man on the street, who represents the majority and who is not trained to observe such details, will be more impressed by an effect made through direct means of expression, by the choir's power to say something definite without circumlocution, to stir up emotion, to paint a vivid mental picture and to quicken imaginative faculties. That the Mendelssohn Choir did not fail the man on the street last night was evident from the applause. That the Toronto singers were equally successful in their appeal to music-lovers is certain. Then, in the words of the song that children used to raise heavenward on Fletcher's Field last summer, "Everybody happy? Well, I should say!"

It is this power of expression on the part of the choir that makes it unique. Mr. Fricker is expert in matching and weighing tone against words in such a way that the notes of color that he produces in extraordinary. Take, for example, the atmospheric and mystic effect brought out in the "Eriky Love Lull," arranged by Hugh Robertson, and contrast it with the straightforwardness of the "Men of Harlech" and "Scots Wha Ma"; or think of the scholarly reverence voiced in Mendelssohn's "Judge Me, O God," in contradistinction to primitive appeal to the Russian carnival or the irresistible, rhythmic charm of the Spanish "Sill-vermith." A choir specializing in one particular kind of music might have done one of these things superlatively well; but only a choir that has mounted step by step to the top of the ladder could do them all as convincingly as the Mendelssohn choristers did.

One would expect a society like the Mendelssohn Choir to be thoroughly at home in motets by Palestrina, Bachmannoff and Mendelssohn; one would look for authoritative readings of modern English (Continued on 7th page.)

One might think little to be done threadbare tunes "Harlech" and "Scots Wha Ma" but whoever is not heard the listening these patriotic Fricker's hands fired with a drum made the listless or. Then, to repeat of the program pianists in the "Lull," the piano choir is famous in the numbers of Rachmannoff. Mother and Her Baby Are Relieved of Eczema

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Salt Burn, Sask., writes:
"Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

music and for a sympathetic handling of such a graceful little morsel as Dr. Vogt's "Indian Lullaby"; but it would hardly seem fair to demand a temperamental interpretation of strongly national foreign pieces of the nature of "The Silversmith," which has been adapted by Kurt Schindler (to whom choral societies owe an immense debt of gratitude). Yet it was in "The Silversmith" that Mr. Fricker scored one of the artistic and popular triumphs of the evening. After this, nothing would have been surprising.

One might think, too, that there is little to be done these days with threadbare tunes like "The Men of Harlech" and "Scots Wha Hae"; but whoever is of this opinion has not heard the Mendelssohn Choir sing these patriotic verses. In Mr. Fricker's hands they became epic, fired with a dramatic impulse that made the listener's heart beat faster. Then, to revert to the beginning of the program, what an exquisite pianissimo in the "Briskay Love Lull,"—the pianissimo for which the choir is famous,—and what dignity in the numbers by Palestrina and Bachmannoff. With good reason was "everybody happy. With all the talent that compose our different Church Choirs, both Protestant and Catholic in Montreal, to the number of fully 120 such choirs, and many of them are ranked as excellent, together with leading organists, it is a very strange thing indeed, that no such organization as the famous Toronto Choirs is to be found in this city. My firm believes is that Montreal, with such an array of talent could not only equal, but even excel that choir that has such a famous international reputation. But we want leaders, men of enterprise in the musical line as well as in other matters.

The firefighters were kept busy during January and February, when 470 fires took place compared with 323 last year. After some of the big fires, it was found that many buildings were defective in construction so that, in future, the Building Inspectors will make contractors and proprietors comply with the city building law more strictly.

"If happiness be increased through your efforts and mine we are doing that for which the spirit of brotherhood calls," said the Rev. Father Thomas Heffernan of the parish of St. Thomas Aquinas in his address to the Lions Club at the weekly luncheon in the Mount Royal Hotel recently.

The course of a man's convictions made the man, he declared, showing that the priest worked for that which he believed, and sacrificed many pleasures. The cloth which he wore marked him as a priest, pointed him out to the people he loved as a priest and gave to him the respect that, as a priest, he should have, but, after all, was he very much different from the man about him who possessed the same courage of conviction? No, he was not; he was teaching men the way that they should go.

Each man was more or less a priest in his own way, if he taught the spirit of brotherhood irrespective of religion.

Religion was at the base of citizenship provided there was conviction behind it. Conviction, to be true had to be such as to view other convictions with admiration merely for the fact of their being convictions. Father Heffernan asked his hearers to beware of the politicians who brought race cries into the arguments of their policies. "One must remember," he said in conclusion, "that no man is an absolute necessity so it is, that it is not in the religion of another. Work hard for your fallows as therein lies your duty."

George Arthur Shaw, 53 years old, member of the firm of Shaw Bros., Importers, 207 St. James street, died of cerebral hemorrhage after he collapsed on St. Antoine street, at 5.15 o'clock last night. Mr. Shaw was a resident of Senneville, Que., and was hurrying to catch his train from Windsor Station when the stroke occurred. He was carried into a store and an ambulance summoned from the General Hospital, but death was almost instantaneous. The late G. A. Shaw was born at Huddersfield, Eng., in 1869, came to Canada twenty years ago and entered business as a linen importer. Survivors are his widow, formerly Miss Elizabeth Munn, of St. John's, Nfld.; two sons, Harold and Geoffrey; a daughter, Elizabeth; three brothers, J. Hampden, John H., and Charles A. Shaw; and a sister, Mrs. Dougal Munn, of St. John's, Nfld.

A part of Mount Royal Park has been given as a site for the new University of Montreal. The contract was signed by Mayor Martin and Rene Bassez for the city, and his Grace Archbishop Gauthier for the University authorities.

The land in question is composed of two parcels to the west, one on Mount Royal avenue and the other south of Maplewood Avenue on what is known as the Outremont quarry. The first named lot is bounded by Mount Royal park on three sides and Mount Royal Cemetery on the west. It is 22.62 arpents or 823,543 feet in all. The dimensions of the quarry are 36.62 arpents or 1,384,434 feet. It is bounded by Bellingham road on the east and on the west by private property, while the Cote des Neiges cemetery lies to the southwest.

The Finance Board of the Catholic School Commission is to ask the Provincial Government to build a School of Pedagogy for Catholic teachers.

The decision is the result of several months of consideration of the subject. In September, 1922, the reports of the council showed that a lecture course had been given by Father Maurice, who had been sent to Europe at the expense of the Commission to study the systems of primary education.

Under the present system of lectures, premiums of $100 are granted by the Commission to its teachers, who obtain diplomas after having passed examinations in the subjects taught.

There are curious persons who stand at the Bar of Justice from time to time. Here is an example of one.

When answering to a charge of being found in a common gambling house in the Enquete Court a stern individual with long bushy hair was in grave doubt as to his name. He said it was Baby Fine. The name on the document disagreed.

"Is your name Baby Fine? Questioned Judge Decarie.

"Yes my name is Baby Fine," he answered.

"Fine," commented the Judge. "You are a fine baby."

"Now Fine you are fined ten dollars or fifteen days. That is your fine."

Fine paid the fine.

No doubt, he felt fine after paying his fine, as he had not to go to jail, where he would not have felt so fine.

Another one of Montreal's fine Catholic institutions has fallen a prey to the devastating element, fire. It was the Hospital for Incurables, situated in a beautiful spot at Notre Dame de Grace. Of the memories of that sad evening and night, the pitiful scenes, the awful disaster as the flames quickly consumed the haven of rest and consolation that has sheltered and cared for thousands of the worst cases of poor, suffering humanity, the gallant fight put up by the Montreal and Westmount firemen to save the building, but above all, the whole-souled charity and help extended to the helpless victims by all classes and creeds, are things never to be forgotten. The flames caused a reflection that could be seen for miles around. Twenty thousand spectators stood in awe and sorrow, while 400 patients, many of them bedridden, were taken in chairs and stretchers by willing helpers.

Ambulances from every city hospital, and a hundred or more taxi cabs rushed the patients to the different hospitals, other institutions, and their homes. Even citizens offered to take some of the afflicted to their own homes. The firemen had lines of hose attached to hydrants three-quarters of a mile away from the building, four miles of hose were in operation, pumping engines and motor power, all working together that poured tons of water in all directions on the big structure, but to no avail. The big tower in the centre fell with a crash nearly killing three firemen who were near at the time, then followed the explosion of the boiler in the furnace room, and these formed the last scenes in the closing moments of a fire, that had it occurred at midnight instead of fire o'clock in the afternoon, there is no doubt but many of the patients would have been sacrificed in the flames. Only one, an old lady of over 80 years, a patient for years who was seriously ill at the time of the fire, died the next day at the Hotel Dieu Hospital.

The scenes during the rescue were distressing. There were men with shaking limbs, others emaciated by tuberculosis, others victims of cancer, and many simply withering with age. These were conveyed in wheel chairs, on mattresses and beds, and for others it was necessary to resort to blankets and sheets. Residents of the neighborhood crowded to the hospital to render assistance, and a steady stream of the moving patients was maintained by a small army of volunteers until all were placed in safety. As many as a dozen persons lent their aid in the carrying of one bed, and the transportation of the inmates progressed in a satisfactory and orderly way.

A few there were who could walk, being in the hospital on account of some disease that had not affected the lower limbs. Attired in blankets these stumbled or groped their way to safety. One of these cases was a young man with an affliction that required a large bandage across his face. He found temporary safety in a nearby shed and, as soon as able, was conveyed to the adjacent buildings. Most of the homeless patients were taken to the Grey Nuns' Orphanage nearby.

Many of the patients held their rosaries in their hands and prayed fervently while they were being rescued. Yet they showed no signs of emotion and fear and nothing but a "Thank you" and "God bless you" was heard.

A tribute to the manner in which the church, the public and the fire department joined together to ameliorate the loss to church and city is paid to-day by Chief Joseph Chevalier, head of the Montreal Fire Department.

Sydney Preparing For Labrador Gold Rush.

Lausanne Conference Resumes April 15th --Krupps' Employees on 24 Hour Strike.

H. C. BELLEW SPEAKS.

SYDNEY, April 3. H. C. Bellew, representing the Syndicate sending an expedition to Labrador, gold hunting, said to-day before the Rotary Club that Sydney would be jumping off place for the five thousand men and hundred thousand tons of freight by his company.

distressed vessel owned by Harvey & Co., St. John's, Nfld., and bound for Nfld., from Oporto, the steamer President Fillmore reported in a radio-gram to the United States Shipping Board to-day.

The rescue was effected three hundred and sixty miles south of Cape Race, the schooner subsequently being set on fire. The crew will be transferred to the first westward steamer spoken. The schooner was leaking badly with rudder and life-boat gone and short of provisions and water.

NEW YORK LONGSHOREMEN DIS-SATISFIED.

NEW YORK, April 3. Seventy-five hundred longshoremen, members of three Brooklyn locals of the International Longshoremen's Association, walked out to-day on a vacation in protest against the wage increase figures announced Saturday by General Goethals, arbitrator, because the increase did not meet their demands.

THE LABRADOR GOLD RUSH.

NORTH SYDNEY, April 3. A steamship service is being inaugurated to cope with the traffic expected to offer between here and Labrador in connection with the gold rush. According to a statement at the Board of Trade meeting to-day, it is expected that upwards of thirty-five thousand men will go to Labrador this summer.

Annual Meeting.

ST. MICHAEL'S PARISH.

The first annual meeting of the Parish of St. Michael's and All Angels was held in the Lecture Room, Casey Street, last night, and was well attended. The Warden presented their report for the season of 1922 and showed that the Parish was in a sound financial condition, with a good credit balance at hand.

REASON FOR RESIGNATION REMOVED.

MADRID, April 3. The Spanish Cabinet resigned to-day. Premier Marquis Albuquerca resigned the Ministry of the same composition with the exception of the Minister of Finance and the King announced absolute harmony prevailed and the reason for resignation removed.

SYDNEY FREED OF ICE.

SYDNEY, April 3. A heavy undertow and high westerly wind is rapidly taking the ice out of the harbor. The auto race scheduled for to-day was cancelled because part of the course drifted out to sea.

ARRESTING LAW BREAKERS.

SYDNEY, April 3. Interest in the arrest of four of the thirty-five men indicated for infringing the law while picketing the steel men's strike last February has placed the thoughts of a new strike in the background, and there is no evidence here to-day that a walkout is contemplated. The arrest of the thirty-five named in the indictment is going forward rapidly with no disorders.

WILL RESUME ON FIFTEENTH.

LONDON, April 3. The Lausanne Conference will probably be resumed on April 15th in accordance with the Turkish proposal. Lord Curzon, head of the British delegation previously, will probably not participate. Lord Rumbold, British Commissioner at Constantinople taking his place. The Turkish delegation headed by Ismet Pasha starts for Lausanne at the end of this week.

A UNION QUARREL.

CLEVELAND, April 3. One man was dead, another said to be dying, and a third was less seriously wounded to-day, as a result of a shooting affray at a meeting of local union number seventeen, bridge and structural iron workers, here last night. The slayer had not been apprehended early to-day. A discussion of the clause in the union rules which provided that any member who becomes a contractor and employer of labor should be forced to resign or be fined, led up to the shooting.

THE CLUETT ABANDONED.

Free Citizens of a Free Country.

Is Coaker going to Rule This Country Thro His Oath Bound Representatives.

No Government can be either lasting or free which is not founded in virtue and in that independence of mind and conduct among the people which creates energy and leads to everything that is noble and generous or that can conduce to the strength and safety of a State.

The above quotation of an eminent author although written nearly two hundred years ago is of great significance in the present crisis. One of the essentials laid down by this writer is that there must be independence of mind and conduct. We ask our readers to consider this principle of government because unless it exists in the minds, thoughts and actions of the present Government its rule becomes a menace to all alike be he poor or rich, mechanic or merchant.

The welfare of all classes in a country is and should be the highest aim of government. If class hatred be engendered, or if our chosen representatives are not free in mind and thought to devote the whole of their energies to the welfare of all, democratic rule crumbles and we become the victims of autocracy.

In 1919 a Government, into whose hands was placed the destinies of the whole people of the country, was formed; are they or were they free to govern, to legislate, to rule as the welfare of its people demands? In answering this question we are forced to the conclusion that they are not and that a continuance in office of the present government is the very reverse of rule by the people.

It may be asked, and with justice, why we make this statement. The answer is found in the published statement of W. F. Coaker, who in the closing days of an F.P.U. Convention allowed himself to be thus credited: "Every candidate selected by me as leader of the Fishermen's Protective Union is now to sign a pledge to resign their seats in the Assembly when called upon to do so by a petition signed by a majority of the electors of a district. No Union support will be given any candidate that refuses to sign such a pledge. Union members by their oath are bound to resign seats in the Assembly when called upon to do so by the District Council that selected them as well as by a petition signed by a majority of their constituents."

This oath and pledge exacted of Union members makes them the servant of the District Council of the Fishermen's Protective Union and not of the country. They are not free agents, they are not the proper masters of the public, but are, as a matter of fact, restrained in their speech, their thought and their independence by the Councils of the F.P.U. Could anything constitute a greater menace to free government—to the true destinies of the country. The very essence of our institutions is free speech and free thought; freedom to work and to vote according as our conscience and intelligence dictates. This oath is not illegal but those who administer it and he who takes it is an enemy of society.

Rotary Club Luncheon.

The members of the Rotary Club held their weekly meeting in the West End Restaurant at 1 p.m. yesterday. The speaker of the day was Mr. A. W. Oldfield, Manager of the Imperial Oil Company, who gave a very interesting talk on "Modern Road Building." The speaker dealt with the use of Asphalt for road work. Mr. Oldfield was accorded a hearty vote of thanks. Amongst the guests present were Messrs H. G. Glass, R. W. Jones, Thos. Soper, Wm. White, Cyril Tessier, J. W. Bartlett, and A. Ogilvie.

The people pray

For the defeat of the Coaker and Squires' Government.

Bennett and better times.

Vote the straight ticket for Bennett's candidates.

Four more years of Coaker control and you want have to worry about another election.

As very few will be left in Newfoundland to vote.

The menace of Coakerism must be destroyed on Polling Day or we will live to regret the day.

Be fair to those who are dependent on you and those to come after.

Do not betray the trust given to you under the British flag of freedom and the ballot.

Give Newfoundland the one great opportunity to recover herself and regain all she lost since 1919.

Elect the Bennett Government and you will have done the best days work for many years.

Have it said you were one of the many that helped Newfoundland in her darkest hour.

Let it be known that you succeeded in destroying a menace that was dragging the life of prosperity out of your country.

Don't have it said you shared in the driving of countless numbers from their native country to start life anew in foreign climes.

Because that is what will happen if Coaker and Squires get control again.

Do not give Coaker a chance to introduce and enforce his new fish regulations as he promises to do so if elected.

Consider the result of his last regulations and look what it cost the country and every man, woman and child in it.

The Humber Deal is already an accomplished fact so don't let Coaker and Squires bluff you with the belief that it is an issue in this election.

John R. Bennett and his party will boost the Humber Deal to the best advantage for Newfoundland.

The issue is Coaker versus Bennett policies.

Sir Richard Squires must comply with the wishes of W. F. Coaker and is not even considered.

Coaker means control, consternation and coercion.

Squires means subservience to Coakerism, stagnation and scandals.

A combination that if again given power would destroy any free country.

The one chance of a lifetime is the election of the Bennett Government.

A Government that will begin an immediate program of encouraging every industry in the colony.

That will not only do all that is possible to make the Humber Deal a distinct success.

But will advocate a policy to encourage the fisherman in the catch and sale of his fish.

That will be of much benefit to the clerk, miner, labourer, mechanic and business man.

You have only to compare the candidates on both sides to satisfy yourself that Bennett has the best men to tackle the job of uplifting Newfoundland.

Let no political dodge influence you from doing a man's job on polling day.

If you want a repetition of the past three and a half years and more than likely worse for the next five years then elect the Coaker-Squires' candidates.

If you want a return to conditions as existed up to 1919, and a new era of progress and prosperity then vote for John R. Bennett's candidates.

If you want better times vote for the Bennett Government.

Value of the Labrador.

SOME CANADIAN OPINIONS.

Here are three items showing the value the Canadians place in the Labrador, which Squires and Coaker have plotted to sell to them. Speaking in Toronto, recently, Cassan Oddy said:—

"That not only would Canada continue to be known as the 'granary of the world,' but 'within a few decades it will be known as the greatest mineral producing country on the face of the earth.' In making this assertion he drew attention to the immense areas of the Dominion which were potential producers of untold mineral wealth. The Toronto Mail is responsible for this:—

"There is a gold rush on to Rovey Township, in Northern Quebec, to Labrador, and now to the Soo district. In fact, the whole Northern district has immense areas of rock containing more or less gold, and the chief question is whether the quantity is large enough to make a real mine. Gold mining will be one of Canada's greatest industries 25 years from now.

"The Sydney Post says this:—

"The Labrador gold fields are going to rival if not surpass the Klondyke, according to Mr. Bellew, who recently gave the following interview to the Ottawa Journal. 'This looks to me like the greatest gold find ever made. I was in the Klondyke during the rush period but this new field offers infinitely greater prospects. I am making all arrangements necessary for the orderly working of the field and very strict laws will be enforced. Early in the spring an advance expedition will go to St. Bay to carry out the final survey and get some sub-divisions ready for the rush in June and July next. I look to see 100,000 people there by September and enormous plans will have to be formulated in co-operation with the Newfoundland Government in preparation for the establishment of the monster mining camp. This is going to be the poor man's chance rather than that of the capitalist. For we are determined to share our good fortune with as many people as can comply with the conditions.'"

War Veteran Drowned off San Francisco.

The following clipping taken from a New York paper records the drowning of William Edward Cunningham, son of a well-known East End family.

When the liner Minnesota glides out from the Golden Gate on St. Patrick's Day and pokes its nose southward along the California coast on the first leg of the return trip to New York a new able-bodied seaman will be filling the place of William Cunningham, 23 years old, a World War veteran.

When the vessel ties up in this port, probably about April 1, the Cunningham family, living at 231 Prospect avenue, will not be at the pier to meet it. Plans for a hearty welcome to the youthful adventurer have been shattered with news of his sudden death.

A day or two ago Mrs. Catherine Cunningham, the boy's mother, received a postcard from him bearing the glad tidings that he was to sail with the boat for home on March 17. The joy which permeated the home was transferred to grief a few hours later, when word came that William was washed overboard while the Minnesota was battling the elements off San Francisco. In the Cunningham household the "Welcome Home" slogan has been changed to "Lost at Sea."

William Cunningham, popular in South Brooklyn, where he lived most of his life, always was of an adventurous turn of mind. He embodied a spirit of daring with a good sense of duty, and when the World War started he promptly enlisted in the Canadian army several months before the United States became embroiled. After a few weeks' training in a Canadian camp he was sent overseas, when he took part in many engagements. He managed to escape without suffering any serious injuries, although on numerous occasions he was brought face to face with death.

Then came the armistice. The youth returned home and looked about for some opening at which he could earn a livelihood. His father, Edward, has followed the sea for many years, and William decided to do likewise. Beginning at the bottom, the young man shipped as a common seaman, and was soon elevated to a higher rank. He was expecting to be made a boatswain in a few weeks.

Two and a half months ago William joined the crew of the Minnesota, of the United American line, for its trip to San Francisco. News of his death is meagre. The message sent Mrs. Cunningham sets forth simply that he was washed overboard on Feb. 23. The sea has no use for details.

The Cunninghams have two other sons, John and Edward, who both are living at home.

The deceased, who was born in St. John's, Nfld., 23 years ago, is a son of Edward Cunningham, formerly employed on Bowring's Coastal boats. The Cunningham family left here about 17 years ago to take up residence in Brooklyn, New York.

Showing $5.00 Bills.

PARRY SOUND, Ont.—Showing $5 bills is a new experience, and yet that is what happened here. Mrs. A. Logan, sitting in her home watching the storm, saw what she thought was a bill floating and fluttering in the air past the window, and sent her daughter out. She picked up a five dollar bill. Later a passer-by in the same locality, was started to see a five dollar bill come floating towards him. The sequel came when it was learned that Mrs. Wilfred Parry had cashed a cheque for forty-nine dollars at one of the banks and on the way home the wind had carried the money out of her purse. With the assistance of several men and boys the money was all found except four dollars.

A three piece suit of dark red reps de-laine has cuffs and pockets trimmed in red and white rep embroidered with silver. Small silver buttons are the finishing touch.

STERN JUSTICE.

In England justice stern prevails, the murderer her score must pay, nor can the people's prayers and walls deprive the hangman of his prey. Remote, impartial and sublime this iron justice says, "By jing there is, alas, no sex in crime, so let the gentle lady swing." In our own sentimental land the female slayer heaves a smile, and jurymen, a courteous band, declare she must be free from guile. Thus justice often slips a gear, and killers, if of tender age, while court house loungers grin and cheer, go forth to elevate the stage. And still our way is best, by heck, though justice frowns in brooding rage; to hang a woman by the neck is too atrocious for this age. It's bad enough to hang a gent, or shed with ax his vital juice; a dead man isn't worth a cent; a living one may have some use. It's bad enough to take a man and kill him as you would a cow; that was the old Dark Ages plan, and it should be abandoned now. But when stern justice takes a dame, and hands her to the hangman toff, our Culture hides her face in shame, and marks the spot where she gets off. If hanging would abolish crime, I'd give the hangman no rebuke; but twenty centuries of time have shown such justice is a fluke.

A Multitude of Women Recommend It.

A Multitude of Women Recommend It.

The strongest recommendation possible for any medicine to have is the sound testimony borne by the vast multitudes of women who have used it. It has been proved that 98 out of every 100 women once ill with ailments that caused suffering and despair have been restored to the joys of health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This marvelous record shows its power over the ills of women, and the letters of recommendation we are continually publishing in this paper would induce every ailing woman to try it.

Empire Day Prayers.

The Committee of the Empire Day Movement has unanimously passed a resolution, suggesting to the Prime Minister that he should confer with the Prime Ministers of the Dominions and with the Secretary of State for India as to the desirability of advising the King to issue an appeal to citizens to observe Empire Day, Thursday, May 24th, "as an especial occasion of humble prayer in accordance with their religious beliefs of the Empire, and for help to serve mankind according to the will of God."

Great Britain Sets the World an Example.

Great Britain has settled the question of her debt with the United States. For the next ten years she will pay interest at 3 per cent. on her funded liabilities, thereafter 3 1-2 per cent, together with progressive annual amortisation payments, so that the whole debt of £275,000,000 will be declared off by 1935. It is a heavy burden, but the country unquestionably welcomes the settlement. Once again Great Britain has set the world an example, and Mr Baldwin, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, is not alone in hoping that sooner or later the moral effect will be felt by countries which have made no attempt to face the problem of their debts. If Great Britain's debtors, Russia apart, could be induced to share a mere moiety of their obligations, the liquidation of the American debt would be comparatively easy. As it is, the British Government in its search for every possible means of raising money, without imposing fresh burdens, has proposed to the Channel Islands that they should make an annual contribution to the Imperial Exchequer. The idea, almost startling in its novelty as it was, seems on the whole to have been sympathetically received both in Jersey and Guernsey, much of whose present prosperity is no doubt due to the incursion of people eager to escape the taxation by which Great Britain has succeeded in ordering her finances in a chaotic world. In view of the arrangement now made with America some of the comments in the press go to suggest that the much cited Balfour Note on international debts was not quite so ill-judged as it was considered to be at the time it was published.—United Empire Journal.

PHILOSOPHY.
Bill is a philosopher—but Bill has gold to spend. And Bill can very glibly say that troubles quickly and And he can laugh at clouds of care and tell us not to fret, Bill might well talk a different speech if he weeps deep in debt. I've trudged the long and dreary road, I know the way of pain, I've had the cold sleet slash my face and felt the stinging rain. And many a time I've thought of Bill and wondered on the way If he were burdened down with care just what he'd have to say.

The test of all philosophy is not my neighbor's care. And I can say, "Be brave!" to him. "To-morrow may be fair!" But I have felt the bite of grief, and well I understand That better far than words of cheer is someone's helping hand. The cross upon a brother's back to-morrow may be gone. But now it is a heavy weight where he is trudging on. And who will lift the load a bit and rest his shoulders sore Expresses the philosophy the world is hungry for.
