His Mirror Told Him of Exhausted Condition

Mr. R. Paulin, Tontes Aides, Man., writes: "I became so run down and weak that my heart became affected, and I would sometimes have to remain in bed for several days. Some one advised me to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, so I did, and soon began to gain in weight and feel better. I have taken a great many boxes of these wonderful pills, and am feeling ten years younger. Dr. Chase's Medicines, as well as his Receipt Book, are a great help to us, for we live 40 miles from doctors and railroads."

LORD MORDEN'S DAUGHTER - OR - THE TRAGEDY OF THE CEDARS.

CHAPTER V.

He half turned, then said, in confusion: "In the meantime I will find out all I can concerning the Mordens from the private memoranda I always carry with me, and be back in an hour's time. By the way, you have not told me the name of the old sea captain whose injuries you attended to at Deal."

"I saw no necessity for mentioning names, lest that everlasting memorandum book of yours came out. The gentleman's name was Deane, sir—Captain John Deane."

The viscount hurried from the piazza without a word, his face a picture of astonishment and perplexity. "So this is the person who desires the information, is it?" he muttered, under his breath.

Having reached his own room, he took a letter from a small, strongly-bound leather handbag, which was sufficed with manuscripts and papers of all kinds, and read as follows:—

My Dear Melville:—The news you have gathered has quite unmanned me, and I shall never forgive myself to my dying day. Come back to the "Cedars" without delay, if you have no further inquiries to make, and induce my son to return with you. It is only natural that he should be annoyed with me for maintaining so long a silence upon a subject which touches him so closely, and I believe that it will be best to tell him all, but will do nothing incompatible with your wishes. One of the conditions should be his consent to wed Lady Clare Moncrieff, and a definite date fixed for the ceremony. This dilly-dallying has been going on too long already. I wonder that Lady Clare is so patient with him. Keep me alive to your movements, as I feel altogether unfit for any more surprises. Your grateful friend,

NORMAN LOCKSLEY.

Melville read every line thoughtfully, then he paced the floor for half an hour. And while he was so engaged, Edmund sat puffing at a cigar on the piazza below, alternately thinking of Dora Deane and Lady Clare Moncrieff, whose letter lay open on his knee. "It will be all right between me and Lady Clare," he mused, "if other people will keep their fingers out of our pie." He frowned a little, and picked up her ladyship's letter again. This is a copy of it:—

"Dear Lord:—Your dear papa has requested me to bring you to the point, one way or another, and if you are in a marrying mood, why, the sooner we relieve the minds of our respected parents, the better. For myself, I am in no hurry, but expect to get settled some time, of course. It is annoying that people will not let us alone, but we must follow the dictates of custom. A woman on the shelf is a nonentity, or I should tell you candidly that I would much prefer to be free. I am looking forward to a jolly run with the 'Hawkhurst' hounds next month. By the way, do you remember little Ensign Tomkins? The noodle proposed to me last Monday, and I boxed his ears! Love, indeed! Why, anybody with an atom of sense knows that is all stuff—a mere evidence of incipient insanity. The way he rolled his eyes was a caution. Drop me a line when you feel like it.

Yours sincerely,
CLARE MONCRIEFF.

Locksley groaned, but quickly added: "She's a brick! Ah! my Lady Clare, love is not nonsense because I am unable to raise a flutter in your breast. You will find it out some day. I shouldn't be surprised to hear that you are finally subjugated by a little meek fellow whose height is less than five feet!"

He laughed merrily, concluding: "I will have a quiet half-hour with Lady Clare, and end the matter once and for all. I know that it will be a great relief to her, as it will be to me."

When Melville came back, he saw that Locksley was smiling serenely. "Well," he said, "has Lady Clare power to drag you to town at once?"

"She does not desire my immediate presence, Melville; but I intend settling her mind at rest, and my father's at the same time. This question of my marriage shall be solved within forty-eight hours."

"My dear fellow," Melville cried, delightedly, "you have taken a load off my mind, by Jove!"

Before Locksley could reply, he was shaking him warmly by the hand; and upon second thought, he decided to say no more to his friend upon the subject at present.

"Now, this Morden inquiry," the viscount proceeded, "I find that the present Lord Morden—"

"Then he lives?" demanded Locksley, sharply.

"He lives; in fact, I met him in France a year since I find that the present Lord Morden made an important marriage in his youth—incident in the eyes of his friends. For years he lived under an assumed name, even keeping the secret of his identity from his wife. Finally this led to misunderstandings, and they parted. There is a painful story somewhere which was never cleared up."

"Perhaps you mean a shameful story," interpolated Locksley, excitedly. "No, my dear fellow, no. I am sure there was not, for Lord Morden is a high-minded, honorable man. The relatives on both sides caused the trouble, through some mistaken notion, and unhappy circumstances lent color to suggestions and insinuations that had no real foundations, two people being made thereby uselessly unhappy. That is all that I can tell you, my dear fellow."

"And I am more than satisfied, Melville," said Locksley, gratefully, his eyes shining with some powerful emotion that he carefully shielded from his friend. "Yes, I am more than satisfied, and promise to run down your hobby-horse again."

"I do not see that there is any reason for you to take the information to Captain Deane," observed Melville. "I think that he would prefer to have it carefully written out; at least, I should, under the same circumstances."

"What do you know of the circumstances?" "Oh, nothing but what you have told me, of course," stammered Melville.

"No, I promised to call at the 'First' to-morrow, and I shall certainly keep the promise. Why, Melville, old man, I would not break it for worlds!"

The viscount regarded him in astonishment, and again that startled, uneasy expression passed over his usually placid countenance, and he thought: "I wish that I could be there, too. I feel that there is mischief in the air!"

The afternoon dragged through its weary length, and after dinner Edmund wrote two or three letters. When the holiday-makers had left the beach, he went for a long stroll under the light of a full moon—he went where he could think of Miss Deane.

"I did not know that it was in my nature to love like this," he thought. "I wonder what Lady Clare will say when I tell her! Oh, how glad I am that I have pleasant news to tell my beautiful Dora!"

A hot thrill shot through his veins as he whispered her name. "Dora! Dora!"

A pretty name, but not half so pretty as the owner.

That night his dreams were all of Dora, and he heard in fancy the sweet song that he had been forced to interrupt so rudely. The refrain rang in his ears unpleasantly now, and he awakened with a chill of terror at his heart.

After breakfast, he made a careful toilet, and at eleven o'clock wished Viscount Melville good-by, saying: "I shall not be back until eight or nine o'clock. Don't wait dinner for me."

"By Jove!" thought Melville. "One would think that there was a woman in the case! Had he not given me this positive assurance that he will promptly settle matters with Lady Clare, I would follow him!"

Meanwhile, Locksley went on to Deal by train, and arrived there fully an hour earlier than was needed.

From Deal he intended walking to Captain Deane's house, lest a vehicle should attract attention.

Heart Beat by Wireless

HEARD BY DOCTORS MILES AWAY.

The heart beats of three men were sent a mile by telephone to the B.B.G. Studio at Cardiff, recently, and broadcasted from there to doctors, in an experiment to discover whether it might be possible for a doctor to diagnose the illness of a patient by wireless success.

An appeal was made to doctors in South Wales to the West of England to listen with the object of ascertaining at what distance the heart beats could be detected.

One of the men whose heart beats were broadcast was in perfect health, but the other two suffered from heart disease. A special microphone was strapped over the heart of each patient, and each microphone was connected to a twelve-valve amplifier.

One of the three doctors present remained in the room to superintend the patients while the other two went into another room in the studio and listened at a loud speaker.

Startling Results. The twelve-valve amplifier was connected with the telephone wire, which carried the sounds to the transmitting station a mile away. From there the beats were transmitted by wireless back to the B.B.G. studio, and were heard by the two doctors.

"The sounds were weak at first," said one of the doctors, "but after increased amplification it became possible for us to tell what was wrong with the hearts by the different beats. The heart beats in the case of the young man upon whom we first experimented were not at all times distinguishable, but with the men suffering from heart disease the results were good."

"We hope, before long, that excellent results of scientific value will be obtained through the medium of wireless telephony. We have been much impressed, and hope to experiment again shortly."

THE HANDY MAN.

Dave Dingbat is a handy man, he does all kinds of chores; I have him grease my pink sedan, and paint the cellar doors. And he can chop, and he can plow, and he can make a wall of brick; he comes and nurses my WALT MATCH. Dave is lying sick. He is so handy one would think he'd dwell in Easy Street, and have his ginger ale to drink, and costly things to eat. I ponder, as I watch his smoke, upon his sad estate; this gifted man is always broke, with ballitis at his gate. He travels with the cattle mob of that first class job for which men pay the price. When my dun cow had mumps of croup, or other trifling ill, I let Dave feed her pills and soup, and pay his modest bill. But when her anguish brings out sweat, and racks her stiff she moans, I call in haste the Hoopet vet, who charges seven pounds. Why my old cow, needing grease, so had she shrieks laments, I call in Dave to bring her peace, and pay him fifty cents. But when the bus begins to choo, an expert workman comes, and spends three hours, or maybe two, and charges frightful sums. And thus the handy man gets all the dirty jobs, and finds himself an also-ran.

NERVOUS BREAK-DOWN

Pains in Back and Legs Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ford, Ontario. "I had a nervous break-down, as it is called, with severe pains in my back and legs, and with fainting spells which left me very weak. I was nervous and could not sleep at night, and I spent much time in bed. I was in this state, more or less, for over two years, before Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me by my neighbor. Before I had taken five doses I was sitting up in bed, and when the first bottle was taken I was out of bed and able to walk around the house. During my sickness I had been obliged to get some one to look after my home for me, but thanks to the Vegetable Compound I am now able to look after it myself. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine in turn with the Vegetable Compound, and I certainly recommend these medicines to any one who is not enjoying good health. I am quite willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial." Mrs. J. SERRIN, 130 Jno. Janisse Avenue, Ford, Ontario.

Nervousness, irritability, painful pains, run-down feelings and weakness are symptoms to be noted. Women suffering from these troubles, which they so often have, should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. All druggists sell this medicine.

and wrings his hands and sobs. Far better play chess-john lye, and play that lye so well that passing strangers will admire, and wave their hats and yell.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.
THE FAITH OF THE TRAVELLING MAN.

Since I've been a bit of a travelling man My heart goes out to the drummer-club, For I've learned a lot which I didn't know In my younger days, as I watched them go. When I envy them and their chance to ride Over the country and far and wide; But I've lost the lure of a leather grip.

And I live in fear of another trip, And I've shaped my life to a different plan, For I haven't the faith of a travelling man.

I haven't that faith which can keep me strong, When I'm outward bound and the miles are long, I can laugh and jest till the day is through.

But I can't keep up on a letter or two, And I long for the sight of a touselled mother writes I haven't had faith for the lonely nights, I frequently doubt what the letters say.

And I long to see them to know they're well! But a travelling man must travel along Whether matters at home are right or wrong. He cannot go to their rooms at night And see for himself that they are all right.

He must live by faith at the long day's close! He must think them well, but he never brings to me a letter or two, And that is the sort of high faith I "Don't worry! We're well!" she may write to me, But I've got to be with them where I can see.

Sugar or Molasses

A gallon of Molasses which retails for about 90 cents to one dollar, contains from 6 to 7 pounds of sugar, and at one dollar per gallon, the sugar content costs over 12 cents per pound; therefore molasses as a sweetening agent is more expensive than sugar.

A good quality of soft sugar will be found much better and cheaper than molasses for use in cakes, puddings, sweet bread, etc. Twelve ounces of soft sugar equals one pint of molasses.

It must be borne in mind that all soft sugars are not equally good. One of the best is Lantic Brown Sugar. This excellent sugar is sold in cartons of bulk, at 8 cents per pound, and at this price it equals molasses at about 50 cents per gallon.

If you like coffee try it this way:—Use a tablespoon measure of any high grade coffee to each cup of water, bring to boiling point, then strain. (Use same quantity in your percolator) Your coffee liquor is now ready to use. Now take a half cup of the coffee liquor fill up with hot milk, sweeten with Lantic Brown Sugar and drink a beverage fit for the gods.

Lantic Brown Sugar dissolved in hot water makes a delicious syrup for pan cakes, puddings, etc. It is wholesome and tasty. Children like it on bread. Don't forget, sugar is a real food.

Lantic Brown Sugar is practically good molasses refined and solidified, the water and impurities are removed in refining.—mar19,tu,th

Falling Person Retains Senses

Two army aviators did hazardous aerial gymnastics several thousand feet above the flying field of the United States army air station at Mitchell Field, Long Island, Sunday, to disprove an old belief that a person falling from a great height loses consciousness. They leaped from an aeroplane 3,000 feet in the air and let themselves drop 1,000 feet before opening their parachutes, shrieking a crowd of several hundred persons prove their contention.

Staff Sergeant Randle L. Rose and Corporal Arthur Bergo went aloft in a Martin bombing plane. When the machine had reached the 3,000-foot level they jumped. Down they plunged with their parachutes closed. The crowd gasped as the men shot through the air. After descending a short distance the aviators twisted, twisted and somersaulted.

The visitors on the field ran toward the spot where they thought the men would fall in a heap. When the pair reached the 2,000-foot level they pulled the rip cords of the parachutes, which opened, and they sailed to the field like birds.

Before the crowd could question them about the sensations of the 1,000 foot dive, Bergo and Bergo went up in the bombing plane again to repeat the test. This time Bergo pulled the rip cord at 800 feet and Bergo dropped only 400 feet, inadvertently opening his parachute. After Bergo had reached the field both said that at no time had they lost control of themselves. They said that they breathed easily, but experienced a thrill when their flights were suddenly checked by the opening parachutes.

Major Hensley said that the test showed that a person in normal physical condition, jumping from the Woolworth building tower, would retain his senses until he reached the pavement.

who had gathered on the field to watch. The test grew out of a discussion of an article in a newspaper concerning a man who had jumped off the Brooklyn Bridge. The parachute experts contended that a falling person retained his senses, and prevailed on Major William N. Hensley, commandant of the post, to let them prove their contention.

THE FRENCH REPLY.
PARIS, Mar. 30. Requirements that Germany join the League of Nations without special favors or exemptions and announce clearly her intentions concerning the frontiers of Poland and Czechoslovakia before the French Government will sign with the Reich a European pact, will be the substance of the French reply to the recent German security offer.

SOUTH AFRICA AND PREFERENCE.
CAPE TOWN, S. A., Mar. 30. British trade circles here are greatly disturbed owing to fear that the present South African preference on British goods will be reduced or abolished in the budget which is to be introduced in the South African Parliament Wednesday. It is authoritatively stated that the report of the board of Trade which is expected to advise the Minister of Finance in his Budget Speech, recommends that the preference tariff basis be given countries reciprocating with South Africa, and higher tariff to others. It is reported Holland and Germany are among "most favoured nations."

FLOODS IN SASKATCHEWAN.
WOODROW, Sask., March 30. Three bridges in this district were carried away by flood waters Saturday and a fourth, the C.P.R. bridge across Wood River, was weakened by a rush of ice and water. While the families in the district have clung to their homes, practically all have made arrangements to leave at a moment's notice. The water was receding slowly this morning.

HUNGER AND NAKEDNESS EVERYWHERE.
OTTAWA, Mar. 30. It is not the cessation of work in the last three weeks, said Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., in an interview on the Cape Breton situation here to-day, that has caused the hunger and nakedness everywhere evident, but it is the irregular work for the three years past. This irregularity has been worse in the last eighteen months and following the suspension of credit at the company's stores has reduced the community to semi-starvation. Many people have not been able to get even as far as Sydney, ten miles distant, for years because they could not afford the fare. Miss McPhail found few roads amongst the miners, the majority were very solid citizens, she said, asking for steady work and regular income.

ARMSTRONG STILL SILENT.
OTTAWA, March 30. The Government has not received any communication from Premier Armstrong, of Nova Scotia, and the position of the Dominion Government has not changed in regard to conditions in the Nova Scotia coal fields, Premier King said in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Proceedings at the Legislative Council

OFFICIAL SYNOPSIS.
MONDAY, March 30.
The Council met at 3.30 p.m. pursuant to adjournment.
House resolved into Committee of the Whole on Bill to amend Cap. 53, Consolidated Statutes (Third Series), entitled "Of Egress from Churches, Theatres and other Buildings," Hon. Mr. Alderice in the chair.
HON. MR. BISHOP asked that section one be held over until next session. He knew of buildings in the city, the doors of which did not open outwards. They are double doors and are kept open when the buildings are occupied, are well known to the Inspector General, and are considered safe. The inner doors of the main entrance opened outwards, but the outer ones inwards, these being always left open during the times of occupation, no inconvenience was caused. It would not only, he thought, be expensive, but also inconvenient, to have them arranged otherwise, and requested, in order that further enquiry into the matter be made, that the Bill be not taken from its committee stage until to-morrow.
HON. MR. MORINE answered the original act stated that all doors should be so hung as to open freely outwards. That, therefore, was the law to-day, and if doors were not hung in the way mentioned, then the law was being violated.
The Committee rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again.
HON. PRESIDENT read a message from the House of Assembly, that they had passed the accompanying bills, entitled "An Act relating to St. John's Dry Dock" and an "Act respecting the Encouragement of Shipbuilding," in which they requested the concurrence of the Legislative Council.
On motion, these bills were severally read a first time and ordered to be read a second time on to-morrow.
HON. MR. BISHOP said he would like to ask in relation to the Dry Dock bill if the rumour that a contract had been let for the repair of the dock was correct.
HON. MR. MORINE replied that to the best of his knowledge and belief no such contract had been made.
HON. MR. BISHOP stated that there was a rumour that a contract had been given in excess of a million for repairs to the Dock, and if that was correct, he suggested no time need be wasted over the Bill.
HON. MR. MORINE was sure it could be proved as there had been no meeting of the Executive Council to pass it through. Personally he had heard nothing of it.
HON. DR. CAMPBELL said that as the Dock was to be discussed, and as he understood there were one or more reports by Mr. Hall, the Government Engineer, in reference to its condition, they might be tabled for information of hon. gentlemen, and for comparison with those recently before the Lower House.
HON. MR. MORINE promised to have all reports in the hands of hon. gentlemen as speedily as possible.
In reply to questions asked previously in reference to drawback of duties on pork and beef, Hon. Mr. Morine stated that he had been informed by the Prime Minister that the Government had considered the matter and had decided to give no drawback.
The House then adjourned until to-morrow at 3.30 p.m.

DIAMOND ROBBERY.
NEW YORK, March 30. Four armed men to-day raided the offices of Sobel & Kalcke, Diamond Brokers, in Maiden Lane, and escaped with diamonds valued at between $50,000 and $100,000.

Wife Too Noisy He Slept in Cemetery
LONDON, March 17.—When Randolph Oakes, a war veteran, was found asleep in the St. Cross churchyard at Clayton, with two coffins forming his bed, he told the police his wife nagged him so much that, to be quiet, he picked out the cemetery as a place of rest.
Oakes is accused of having opened a baby's coffin in an unfiled grave to while away the evening hours.

British Postal Service Returns
After charging interest on capital, the British government owned and operated postal, telegraph and telephone system showed a net revenue in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1924 of £6,391,922, according to an official report just published and communicated to the Bankers Trust Company of New York by its British Information Service. Up to March 31, 1924 the sum of £67,316,000 had been invested by the British government since 1893 in the acquisition and development of the telephone system, which is operated as an adjunct of the post office. The capital invested in the telegraph system is £10,948,000. From the fiscal year 1915-16 to the fiscal year 1923-24, inclusive, the British postal service had been operated at a profit after charging interest on capital, with the exception of the three years 1919-20 to 1921-22, inclusive. The postal service proper has shown a profit for every year. The telegraph system has uniformly shown a loss. The results of operation of the telephone system have varied. In six years out of the twelve the telephone service has shown a profit, and the remaining six years it has shown a loss. The largest loss was in 1920-21 when it amounted to £4,272,000. In 1922-24 there was a profit of £1,587,000. This was the best year in the history of the telephone department and compared with a net loss of £4,721,070 in 1920-21; a loss of £559,132 in 1921-22 and a profit of £295,009 in 1922-23.

BEST THRILLER OF LATE FILMS.
Fred Nible Has Produced Picture With Highly Absorbing Story.
The climax of Fred Nible's "The Red Lily," the Metro-Goldwyn picture which opened at the Nickel Theatre yesterday, comes when the hero of the story, played by Ramon Novarro, recognizes a woman who has brought him in from the street as his own lost sweetheart, Marise, whom he has sought for years. Finding her unfaithful, he strikes her down with his fist in a spasm of fury and anguish; and what happens thereafter concludes one of the most deeply stirring tales ever told on the screen.
The story is laid for the most part, in the Parisian underworld. The boy's father, in a Brittany village, has disinherited his son on learning of the boy's love for Marise, the daughter of a humble shoemaker. The pair flee to Paris to marry, are separated by peculiar circumstances, and thrust alone upon the city.
This tremendous film owes much to the sparkling performance of Ramon Novarro. As the wealthy son turned thief, Novarro is picturesque and irresistible. Enid Bennett, as Marise, shares honors with him. The supporting cast includes Wallace Beery, Frank Currier, Mitchell Lewis, Gibson Gowland, Rosemary Theby and George Perlat.

J. S. CARDER TO CONFER WITH HOTEL MANAGERS AND TOURIST COMMITTEES IN NOVA SCOTIA.
J. S. Carder, City Passenger Agent of the Dominion Atlantic Railway Company and the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., Boston, is shortly to make an official visit to Nova Scotia for the purpose of conferring with the hotel managers and Tourist Committees in some of the summer vacation centres of the Province.
Mr. Carder, who is himself a native of Nova Scotia, and who for the greater part of his life has been actively identified with the New England-Nova Scotia transportation lines, is anxious to extend every possible co-operation to the people of Nova Scotia in connection with the tourist industry. He hopes during his coming visit to meet many of the hotel and Tourist Committee members in the different places on his itinerary.
Leaving Boston on March 30, Mr. Carder will spend the following day in Yarmouth, Wednesday, April 1, in Digby, Thursday, April 2, in Annapolis Royal, Friday, April 3, in Kentville, Wolfville, Grand Pre and Truro; Saturday, April 4, in Kentville, and Sunday, April 5 and a part of Monday, April 6, in Halifax. He is scheduled to leave Halifax for Chester on the afternoon of the 6th, arriving back in Yarmouth on the evening of April 7.—Morning Chronicle, March 27.

THE DAILY BATH AND OTHER CLEANLINESS.
In the trolley opposite me the vulgar jest, their faces entirely changed. A self-conscious smirk spread over them. A sly look came into their eyes. Their mouths were distorted into those peculiarly unlovely lines that go with that sort of thing. They suddenly looked unappealingly cheap and tawdry and unlovely. Their whole manner suggested a vulgar or a buzzard taking joy in something rotten.
Don't you hate that kind of vulgarity?
The Cardinal Sin of Personality.
To me it is one of the unpalatable sins of personality.
I can forgive arrogance, selfish vanity, quick temper far more than this kind of vulgarity.
Young people sometimes have ideas that because their parents are vulgar there is something amusing and fascinating about being vulgar. If they could only see the expression that comes over their own faces when they take matters which should be ignored or which should be beautiful and thrilling, and even holy, and discuss them in a vulgar way, they would realize that they are being warned against something that is disgraceful and unlovely.
And like all habits of thought or speech this habit, if it becomes a habit, gradually deepens the lines of transient expression and carves its unloveliness on the face.
Because It Is Bad Taste.
Fastidious people, really well bred people, set great store on cleanliness, on the daily bath and the similar fleeciness of life. But no more than a cleanliness of mind. They don't regard it as a matter of morals, perhaps, so much as a matter of taste.
It's more an instinct than a matter of ethics. They shrink from uncleanness of mind just as quickly and instinctively as from uncleanness of body.
I think if parents would try to make the younger generation see vulgarity in that light rather than as a moral bugaboo, they might sometimes make a deeper impression.

Papers Worth Filing are Worth SAFE-FILING

You cannot go to your files and say with certainty "This record is going to be valuable," or "That record is going to be worth a lot of money." Yet, you keep those papers—all of them.

And the days after the fire are the days when you will need them most.

The SAFE-FILE is not "just a file." It is a new product—distinctive and different from anything now made. As its name implies, it is both file and safe—a file in its convenience and economy—a safe in supplying much needed protection.

While new as a product, its principles of construction are those of the SAFE-CABINET, proven by fires and research of many years.

There is no record worth keeping which you cannot now protect, properly, efficiently, and economically.

The price of the SAFE-FILE is surprisingly low—very little more than you are now paying for ordinary files.

Get more SAFE-FILE information today. Write to THE SAFE CABINET COMPANY, Marietta, Ohio

Father Gallagher Lectures at Star Hall

The lecture delivered by Father Gallagher at the Star of the Sea Hall last night was largely attended and proved both instructive and entertaining. President Peter J. Cashin presided. A short musical programme preceded the lecture, when songs were contributed by Mrs. C. J. Cahill, Messrs. J. Canning and L. Dillon. The performers acquitted themselves splendidly. The lecturer was then introduced. Father Gallagher had chosen for his subject "What the Irish had accomplished in America," and under this heading he delivered a discourse that will long be remembered. The lecture was of about one hour's duration. Up into that hour there was crowded a fund of information that was not alone interesting but intensely instructive.

A hearty vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. J. Farrell, and seconded by Mr. W. F. Graham, and heartily accorded the lecturer, as well as three rousing cheers given in true Newfoundland style, and the wish was expressed that Father Gallagher will long be spared to continue the noble work in which he is now so successfully engaged.

Baseless Rumors

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly publish the following: There have been some very serious reports going around St. John's concerning me; some going as far as to say that I had committed suicide; others that I had been killed by some one else. It was also rumored that I was seriously injured, one of the St. John's papers going as far as to say that I was in hospital. You can imagine the shock to my family, upon hearing reports of this character. It is true, I have had a lot of trouble during the past year, but I have no intention of trying to escape it in the above mentioned way. I am getting sick and tired of hearing of lying rumors being circulated in St. John's about me, there having been another serious one some time back, which had not an atom of truth in it. In that case a certain clergyman made mention of it from the pulpit, without even taking the trouble to find out whether or not it was true. This kind of thing is becoming altogether too serious, and in future should I hear any more reports of like character, I intend to do more than write the press.

I have written you a personal letter, giving extracts from a letter I received from Mrs. Trapnell, which will give you an idea of the shock she must have received. Thanking you in advance for the publication of the above, I remain, Yours truly,

KARL S. TRAPNELL,

Rub Away Baby's Colds

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vicks in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster. Colds go overnight, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

Campaign for Missions

The four city Methodist Churches for some time past, have been organizing for a fitting celebration of the Centenary of Methodist Missions in Canada and Newfoundland. A part of the celebration was the few days campaign conducted last week in waiting upon the people for special missionary donations as extra to their regular and annual offerings. Each church adopted its own programme for solicitation. Some of them reported last week and last night Wesley Church received the report of its workers. After the various amounts were added, the people of the church showed that they had not only reached their objective but exceeded it by twenty per cent.

BUICK THIRD MEMBER.

Buick cars drive through a third member, not the springs. The springs only support the body and assure easy riding. A Buick rear spring, accidentally broken can not misalign the axle and prevent driving the car. The Buick axle remains in fixed position. Consequently the adjustment of Buick four wheel brakes is not affected by the deflection of the springs.

Only two other American cars have this excellent type of rear axle, one costs around Four thousand dollars, the other is the highest priced car built in America.

Canon Scott Appeals to Premier King

(By Canadian Press.)
QUEBEC, March 25.—The following is an open letter dispatched yesterday to the Right Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, by Ven. Archbishop Scott, in connection with the dispute in the Cape Breton coal fields:
"Dear Sir:—In the name of our country I appeal to you as the head of the Federal Government of Canada to take immediate steps to save the lives and stop the acute suffering of our sixty thousand fellow citizens in Cape Breton.

"If there is no law in the constitution of Canada which gives you the right to avert the hideous calamity now very imminent, the supreme law of common humanity empowers you to intervene.

"The funds of the relief committee we are told by responsible people, include that of the Roman Catholic Bishop of Antigonish and the Anglican Archbishop of Halifax, are almost exhausted, and when they are gone, absolute starvation and death must ensue.

"Ultimately the responsibility of the fate of our fellow Canadians rests not upon one province only, but on the whole Dominion. The ancestor whose name you so proudly bear was once judged a rebel because he stood for the rights of the oppressed in defiance of the law. An oppressed people is crying for a deliverer to-day. Never in the whole course of our history has there been a more wonderful example of patient heroism than is being manifested by the thousands of men and women and little children in Cape Breton at the present time.

"If the agony of human beings does not move your government to immediate action, perhaps the reflection that failure to save the lives of Canadians now will not only shake your government but what is worse it will shake the ordered constitution of our country.

"It is merely playing into the hands of that Bolshevism which we all dread and which is threatening the sovereignty of the world to-day. This should not be the motive to lead us to play fairly with our fellow Canadians, but it ought to have weight with those whose self-interests shut their ears to the cry of the suffering."

"Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) F. G. SCOTT."

"Does it Pay?"

FOX PICTURE SHOWS FOLLY OF BREAKING SOCIAL CONVENTIONS.

MISS HAMPTON AS VAMP.
If any hard working little girl for a moment believes, after wearily working back to her third floor room, that all would be well in this sometime dreary old world if she could but become married to some "lovely man with lots and lots of money," we suggest that she first visit the Majestic Theatre to-night and see the Fox Film Corporation offering of "Does it Pay?" in which the glorious little Miss Hope Hampton is featured and with remarkable artistry portrays the tragedy of a girl who cared too much for the money and too little for the man.

It is rather difficult, even with Miss Hope Hampton playing the part of Doris Clark, to feel very sorry for this girl who wanted money and gorgeous clothes so badly that with wide open eyes and a tightly closed little adamant heart she wrecked lives and homes.

"Does it Pay?" is a remarkably vivid portrayal of a tragedy; an inkling of which we on occasions read in our newspapers and over which we sorrowfully shake our heads and hope it may never come nearer to us. Yes, you will quickly decide with us when you have seen this splendid production, that it does not pay, and must never be permitted to pay.

The New CHEVROLET

New value—new quality
Chevrolet models even better than ever before.

New chassis—with larger, stronger frame—new semi-elliptic chrome vanadium steel springs—stronger axles, rear axle of the finest construction, banjo type with greatly strengthened gears; improved, fully enclosed dry plate disc clutch requiring no lubrication; extra heavy brake bands and many improvements on the powerful Chevrolet motor.

New bodies—of even greater beauty and comfort. All models have new radiator of more beautiful design made of non-rusting airplane metal. All closed models have new and especially beautiful Fisher Bodies with the new VV closed body one-piece windshield and automatic windshield wiper.

New finish—all models are now finished in Duco—the new finish that retains its color and lustre almost indefinitely and withstands very much harder usage. These are but a few of the quality features of the new Chevrolet—quality features that you would expect to find only on cars of much higher price.

The Simplest Crystal Receiver

EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

The receiver about to be described can be constructed for about four or five dollars, exclusive of aerial and ground wires, insulators and headset. The set will have a reliable range of 500 miles under average weather conditions, and if a good antenna, good ground and a good crystal are used it will be perfectly possible to receive over distances of 1,000 miles.

The panel is a piece of 1/4-inch wood. If the wood is dried thoroughly in an oven it is just as good as hard rubber or bakelite. The sub-base is also made of wood. The panel can be any size. We suggest 6 inches by 8 inches as a convenient one. The subbase is attached to the panel by means of No. 6 wood screws 1 inch long. A simple crystal stand can be purchased for 25 cents. Take the stand off its base and mount in the position shown in the drawing. A .001 Mfd. mica fixed condenser can be bought for 50 cents. It should be screwed to the base in the location indicated. Four binding posts will be needed. They cost 40 cents. Two switch arms and 20 switch contacts will also be needed.

The coil is wound on a cardboard tube 4 inches in diameter and 4 inches long. Get one-quarter pound of No. 22 Double Cotton Covered magnet wire.

Last Night's Lecture at K. of C. Rooms

The members of the Knights of Columbus with their lady friends were treated to a splendid address delivered by Rev. Fr. McCarthy, of the Jesuit Order, at the Terra Nova Council Chambers last night. The lecture was introduced by Grand Knight, Mr. J. G. Higgins, B.A., who referred to the wonderful work accomplished by Father McCarthy and his clerical confreres since their arrival in St. John's, and of the affection and esteem their self-sacrificing efforts had inspired in all with whom they had come in contact. The subject selected by the Reverend speaker was "Character," principally in its application to every day life, and by those who were privileged to hear the discourse, it will long be remembered, not alone as a masterpiece of oratorical effort but also as an intelligent treat. As a raconteur Father McCarthy has few equals and during the evening many amusing incidents of his experiences, related in his own inimitable style, combined a delightful vein of humour with the more serious aspect of his remarks.

A hearty vote of thanks, associated with the wish that Father McCarthy might be permitted to return in the not distant future, was expressed by Past Grand Knight Fitzgibbon and was accorded to the reverend lecturer with acclamation.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Adverse criticism in some quarters when American Tobacco raised its common dividend rate to 14 per cent. from 12 per cent. last October, has been stillled by publication of 1924 earnings. Net last year was $20,754,569, equivalent to over 18 per cent. on $97,630,356 combined common and common B stocks. This earning power in a year of most severe competition has demonstrated the dividend increase entailed no departure from conservative policy, but was a justifiable passing on to stockholders of benefits of more profitable business. To be sure, common dividends totaled only 12 1/2 per cent. in 1924, since the rate was "not increased until the last quarter. As it was, the distribution on the junior stocks aggregated $12,202,675, against indicated $13,668,333

THE PRIME MINISTER said the policy of the Government was well known, and he did not see any reason for giving the Bill the hoist.

MR. GODDEN said the idea of one man districts throughout Newfoundland is one which meets with nearly everybody's approval, but that was no reason why the first bill calling for redistribution should be passed at this session.

There were many reasons for proceeding cautiously, as rightly or wrongly denominationalism has a distinct bearing on matters political. Representation in both branches of the House as well as appointments to the civil service is made with the idea in view of comparative equality regarding the different religious bodies, and rightly or wrongly each denomination is frankly jealous of the other, and are always on the lookout for evidence of political discrimination. He suggested that a Committee should be formed comprised of officials appointed by the various denominations to go into the question before the matter was discussed further. Another suggestion was that an effort should be made to lessen the number of representatives instead of increasing them by four endeavour to make them four less. Concluding he said let all districts be one man districts, one representative, one man, one vote.

MR. DUFF was satisfied with the one man district idea, but urged that representation should be reduced instead of increased.

MR. HIBBS expressed his entire accord with the principle of the Bill, and said the old system should be obliterated long ago. He did not agree that it was necessary to make Harbor Main a two man district in order to give the denominational proportion. Being a native of Harbor Main he thought he should have something to say in regard to its affairs. In 1920 he was entrusted with a petition asking for a division of the district, and now it appeared to be the irony of fate that it was the only district that is not divided under the Bill. He thought it was unfortunate that denominationalism was being catered to so much, and he deplored the proportional system we are working under. He supported the idea of the Leader of the Opposition for the division of the Bill so that it could be either considered if it were possible to make all one man districts.

THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE replied said that there had been certain conventions established that could not be wrenched out of sight. The main idea of the Bill was to endeavor to equalize the area of districts. There had been no criticism by the Opposition as to how the seats have been divided, and no better suggestions had been offered, and the principle of the Bill was admitted therefore. There was a justification in asking that the Bill be further delayed.

MR. HICKMAN said that what Mr. Hibbs said was justification for delay. He thought that the time was not ripe when another petition would be presented asking to have Harbor Main divided. The Leader of the Opposition urged that the people of the whole could be consulted as to the dividing line in the district. Were they (Opposite) sure all were satisfied on the dividing lines the Opposition would be content. The Bill itself was a step in the right direction and was bound to bring out a good class of representative. He thought the suggestion of Mr. Halfyard, should be acted upon and strengthen our claim there.

MR. HALFYARD, for the second time, took the floor, asking for delay. He said they favored the principle of the Bill, but not a two man District in Harbor Main.

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY took occasion before the passing of the Humber District, to speak of the bold step the Government took in introducing the Redistribution Bill. It is, he said, peculiarly fitting that in the Redistribution the denominational representation will be practically the same as heretofore. He pointed out that even now there are strictures not represented denominationally. The particular feature of the Bill was the recognition of those areas not represented. In the matter of denominational representation the people themselves could always decide that matter to suit themselves. The speaker reviewed at length the alphabet which existed under the old order of divisions. It was intended to correct under the present Bill. He closed with expressing his belief that under the new scheme the District would get a more representative and better served.

MR. HALFYARD, who apparently occupies the "anxious" in the Opposition was, for the third time, on his feet, asking the Government to heat time until the Bill was given further consideration.

MR. BROWN followed and requested that more time be given the people to see into the divisions of the districts. As to the principle of the Bill, he reiterated the approval previously given.

MR. SCAMMELL spoke without prejudice and supported the stand taken by his leader that the Bill could be delayed until next session. It was, he said, a part of his platform in 1919 that St. Barbe District should be divided. As it is at present with its scattered population of 12,000 people, it was a difficult district to handle. He had nothing to say against the division that has been made of St. Barbe. On principle he supported the redistribution but he maintained the people of the country should see the maps and become conversant with the divisions before being committed to them. Recess was taken at 6.30 until 8 p.m.

AFTER RECESS.

MR. BROWN (St. John's West) expressed his disapproval of the general apathy with which the measure was received. The lack of opposition to the Bill was a good criterion of its general acceptance. All the members of the Opposition had expressed their accord with the principle of the Bill. A few weeks ago he presented a petition from the people residing near the Ropewalk re the boundaries of the city. He thought that under the new dividing lines these people may be adversely affected. Mr. Brown touched on the point of disproportionate representation as relating to St. John's and pointed out that under the new Bill there was a considerable difference between the number of people grouped in certain districts. As to the total representation he thought that we should try to reduce the number instead of increasing it. He congratulated the Prime Minister on the big reform he was bringing about.

MR. ASHBOURNE said this was a matter which may be viewed from many places. As the other members of his party who preceded him, he expressed himself as being in accord with the principle of the Bill. He regretted the increase in the number of members in the House and thought that the country would be better represented by twenty members instead of the present number. The feature which he viewed with particular favor was that the Outports were going to get the "square deal."

MR. K. BROWN suggested that the name of Exploits District be changed as it was a misnomer. The Prime Minister agreed and proposed that the name be Exploits Valley.

MR. GRIMES expressed his approval of the principles of the Bill and submitting quite a number of figures showed that numerically there was still a considerable inequality in representation. He urged that the Bill did not establish the equality it set about to do.

THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE said the anomalies were apparent to all; the point raised by Mr. Grimes had been thoroughly canvassed by the Government. The ideal condition of inviting value was a principle hard to attain owing to the scattered condition of the people in some places and the opposite condition existing in other places.

Before Committee rose MR. HICKMAN made a motion to have the Bill deferred.

The amendment being put was defeated.

The report of the Committee being received, before its adoption MR. HICKMAN made an amendment that the Bill be referred to a Commission to take evidence out of session. The amendment was defeated 20 to 8 and the adoption of the report was carried by the same division.

The Bill to amend Chapter 172 of Consolidated Statutes, entitled "Of Survey of Foreign Going and Labrador Vessels," passed Committee stage.

The House then went into Committee on the Amendment to the Terra Nova Sulphite Bill.

THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE explained the purpose of the Bill.

MR. BROWN suggested that the Bill should be given the gravest consideration particularly if Mr. Harris had the drafting of it. Mr. Harris, he claimed, was one of the cutest men that ever crossed the herring pond. He did not think it was a square deal to the people of Bonavista Bay to allow the mill to be abandoned. He expressed his disapproval of giving the A.N.D. Co. any more concessions. In referring to logging conditions up country, the speaker said that the commission sent last fall should have been larger, although he agreed that the Commissioner did all possible under the circumstances. The speaker made some very harsh references to Mr. Harris, from whom, he said, the workmen got no show. Newfoundlanders, he continued, would curse the day he came to our shores.

THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE replied stated that if Mr. Brown had valid objections to the Bill he would like to hear them, and it could be amended or the bill could be thrown out.

MR. WARREN reviewed the logging operations as they were revealed to him when conducting his enquiry.

HON. M. S. SULLIVAN followed and gave a very lucid explanation of the objects of the Bill. He said the A.N.D. Co. are not asking any great concessions, and then he went on to show that wood manufactured into paper at Grand Falls would give much more employment than if it were converted into sulphite pulp. The concessions the A.N.D. Co. ask is the right to use the power of Grand Falls for the next ten years, and they say they are prepared to complete the Sulphite mills at Glovertown as soon as they can sell Sulphite Pulp in competition with the Scandinavian countries. Major Sullivan expressed regret that a very uncalculated attack had been made on Mr. Harris by Mr. Brown.

MR. SCAMMELL followed and claimed that Mr. Brown's attitude was not taken on personal grounds, but rather because he was fighting for and on behalf of the labouring men. Mr. Scammell expressed his opposition to the bill on the grounds that the A.N.D. Co. had enough concessions from the country. He thought that a square deal should be given the people of Bonavista Bay.

THE PRIME MINISTER joined in the debate, and said that he was perfectly satisfied that the best interests of Bonavista Bay had his consideration. He was as much interested in its welfare as the Member for St. Barbe ever would be, and had arrived at the conclusion that the Bill was as good as could be done for the men of Bonavista Bay, indeed that more labour would be given under this measure than would be given at the original mills.

MR. HALFYARD agreed with the position taken by Messrs. Brown and Scammell.

SIR JOHN CROSSIE followed and spoke in defence of Mr. Harris, whom he claimed, had been unwarrantedly attacked by Mr. Brown in place where he could not defend himself.

MR. GRIMES concluded the debate, and the Bill passed Committee without amendment.

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY proposed the second reading of the Travel on Highways Bill, and after explaining some of the amendments he moved that the matter be deferred.

Address Presented to Retiring Postal Officials

ADDRESS TO A. W. MARTIN, ESQ.

From Officials Of The Postal And Telegraph Services, Nfld.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 27.

Dear Mr. Martin—There are times in the life of every man when pleasant associations and agreeable companionships must end, and the severance of endearing ties of long duration causes many a heart pang. We, members of the Postal and Telegraph Services, have recently been deprived of the wise counsel and safe guidance of several of those whom, from long association, we have come to regard as friends in the truest sense of the word, and perforce have had to uproot that feeling of comradeship which has been firmly implanted in us.

In no case do we feel our loss more keenly than in your own. What we realize that you are advanced in years, even to the allotted span, and that your health, that great boon without which no man can efficiently maintain his part in the great battle of life, is not what it once was. I do not say this as a mere formality, but because we are sure that your sense and your companionship would be with us for some years to come.

Recognizing your ever kindly attention to the needs of the individual, your constant application to the varied and exacting duties which you have been called upon to perform, the conscientious manner in which you have always set about your tasks, but above all your qualities of unostentatious, upright and moral living which have ever been objects worthy of imitation, we deprecate that necessity which compels your retirement from amongst us.

In wishing you long years of peace and contentment, and a rapid return to a condition of health that will permit you to obtain the fullest measure of joy and the choicest blessings in the eventful life, we ask you to accept the accompanying small gift as an earnest of our kindest feelings and deepest regard.

ADDRESS TO ED. DEVEREAUX, ESQ.

From The Officials Of The Postal
And Telegraph Services, Nfld.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 27.

Dear Mr. Devereaux—It is stated that opportunity knocks but once, and the natural corollary is that when it knocks advantage should be taken of its advent. It is apparent to us that the present is our one opportunity of conveying to you our high respect, for those characteristics which we have long admired in you, but which we have always been backward in verbally acknowledging. We, the children of the Postal Service, naturally feel a certain diffidence in addressing one who stands, to us, in a position akin to that of a pater familias, and our regret that the retirement of the older officials of the service is enhanced by the fact that they have set us an example of diligence and self-sacrifice, which it will be difficult for us to estimate.

As time rolls on its relentless course it is fitting that those who, like yourself, have borne the brunt of battle in earlier days, should obtain that respite from care and responsibility which long and faithful service merits, and on bidding adieu to you as a kind and gracious father and guide, we wish you a safe and prosperous journey over the seas of life which yet remain for you to cross.

Yours,
A. W. MARTIN.

To Test Scientific Theory

An experimental dam, to be built at a cost of $60,000, only to be destroyed, to test the latest engineering theories in relation to the constant angle arch type, will be constructed soon on Stevenson Creek, a tributary of the San Joaquin River, north of Los Angeles. Funds for the work have been provided jointly by Los Angeles County and private interests.

The object of the experiment is to obtain data expected to prove of great value in the construction of dams in the Los Angeles County flood control programme, in which approximately $85,000,000 will be spent. On several of these projects the use of the constant angle arch type is anticipated.

It is the theory of many engineers that the constant angle arch type will permit the use of thinner construction than has been tried heretofore. If true, this would reduce materially the cost cost of dams.

The experimental dam will be 140 feet long and 60 feet high when the first tests are made. Special instruments will be inserted in the concrete to test stresses, deflections and temperature changes as the load of water is increased. After this information is obtained, the height of the arch will be run up to 100 feet. The water will then be allowed to rise to the point at which the dam may be pushed out of position, thus establishing the ultimate resistance of this type of construction.

The Withdrawal

One of the neatest of parliamentary apologies, says a writer in the London Chronicle, was that of an irate member of the House who described another as "not having even the manners of a pig."

At the cry of "Withdraw!" he did so. "I withdraw and apologize, and beg to say that the honorable member has the manners of a pig."

British Pension Expenditure

The original budget for British pensions for the current fiscal year ending March 31st was £66,947,810. This amount by subsequent appropriations made from time to time during the year has been increased by £2,096,000, bringing the total expected expenditure for pensions for the year, according to advices received by Bankers Trust Company of New York from the British Information Service, up to £69,043,810. The largest part of this sum, £27,228,000 is for pensions, gratuities, and allowances to disabled seamen and disabled warrant officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the marines, army and air force. The next largest amount £18,810,000, is for pensions and gratuities to the widows and children of men included in the former class. A sum of £3,225,000 is allotted for pensions and gratuities to disabled officers of the navy, marines, army and air force, £2,580,000 is allotted for treatment and training allowances for disabled men and £2,740,000 for medical treatment of disabled officers, nurses and men.

Ring 2016 as usual for your car.—mar25,81

We ask you to accept this small token of our feelings towards you, and trust that its only use will be to temper the bright sunshine which we hope will be yours in the future years. Believe us, dear Mr. Devereaux, to be,

Little Jack Rabbit
by David Cory

"Hey there, young rooster!" shouted Uncle Lucky, as Reddy Comb, the rooster newsboy, strutted up the walk with a bundle of papers under his wing all tied round with a cotton string, "did you find a vanity bag?"
"Yes, and my picture's in the paper," answered the proud little rooster, handing the paper to the old gentleman rabbit.
"Where's the vanity bag?" squeaked Little Miss Mousie, who had lost it in the last story, you remember.
"Here it is," answered Reddy Comb, pulling it from his feather jacket pocket.
"Here it is, all safe and sound. Just as it was when 'twas found."
"Oh, I'm so glad to get it back," cried Little Miss Mousie.
"I couldn't sleep a wink all night. To think that it was lost to sight."
"Here's a crisp Lettuce Leaf Dollar Bill for you," said the rooster, Uncle Lucky, handing it to the little rooster.
"But you haven't looked at my picture in the paper," answered the little rooster newsboy anxiously, almost forgetting to thank the dear, generous old gentleman rabbit.
"To be sure," laughed nice Uncle Lucky, putting on his spectacles and handing over Reddy Comb's shoulder. "Very good likeness, My, but Mother Hen will be proud of her little rooster," and with a wink at Little Miss Mousie, the kind old gentleman rabbit watched the little rooster newsboy strut down Lettuce Avenue.
"Guess I'll be hopping home," said Little Jack Rabbit. "I'll take my paper to Mother. Goodbye," and away he hopped.
"Dear me," sighed dear Uncle Lucky "wish he could have stayed for supper," and, hopping back to the barn, he told the Old Red Rooster he might go home. "Lock the door and bring in the key," added the careful old gentleman rabbit as he hopped up to the kitchen door.

"Reddy Comb is an honest little rooster," said Little Miss Mousie as dear Uncle Lucky untied the blue silk polka-dot handkerchief around his neck.
Just then the telephone bell went tinkle, tinkle, tinkle!

"Hello, hello, who's calling me. The wire's buzzing like a bee."
"Is Little Jack Rabbit there?" asked an anxious voice.
"Oh, it's you, Lady Love," exclaimed dear Uncle Lucky. "Hain't your bunny boy come home? He left here half an hour ago."
"Dearest me, I'm worried. I don't know why," answered the little rabbit's mother. Mother Love often sees things before they happen, Little Reader. I hope nothing has hurt our little rabbit. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

depth this seam ought to carry, at least, 7 feet of commercial coal, this showing 30 feet 6 inches of coal, equal to 34,160,000 tons in the square mile surrounding the discovery location of the Jukes and Cleary Seams. The coal from the above described seams may be mined through one main shaft.

In addition to the above described seams we have the Howley Seam, on the Robinson's, showing 4 feet 2 inches of coal, the Murray Seam No. 2 on Barachois' River showing 3 feet 3 inches of excellent coal, and many other seams of coal of great promise which could be developed with little cost.

It seems there is some ulterior motive behind the drastic opposition and unfair propaganda "The St. George's Coal Fields Limited," have to combat both at home and abroad.

I am sorry the gallant Captain, whom we all regard as one of Nature's gentlemen, should allow his good name and high office to be used to an article, detrimental to an honest endeavor to create an industry which, if successfully carried out, would enable Newfoundland (by the erection of smelting works) to compete with the iron, steel and copper producing countries of the world. I have been informed by the Vice-President of one of the largest mining and smelting companies in the United States, who were, at the time, considering the purchase of the Great Gull Lake copper property. He said, in part:—"I have read with interest your report on the coal fields in St. George's, and I would be pleased to open negotiations with you for the purchase of the property if your mines were producing coal. My Company, he said, would go in to your country to-morrow and erect smelters to handle your copper and other minerals if we could be assured a supply of coal. This offer was made within the last two years and holds good to-day. After all is said and done, is it not mines and minerals that bring emigration. We have coal in millions of tons, the finest grade of bituminous coal in our reach to-day. Why, then, may I ask the question, are we, who are spending the best years of our lives, trying to promote a valuable industry, libeled by false and misleading statements in the press of every land? It is about time to call a halt.

Thanking you for space
 Yours truly,

HOW WE GOT THE ROYAL GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY.
 When a man joins the Royal Geographical Society and becomes an "F. R. G. S.," he enters a magic circle that circles the earth.

The Society has within the past hundred years added more to our knowledge of the world than had been gained previously in many centuries.

Established to promote geographical knowledge by means of travel and exploration, and accurate teaching in schools, the Society had its origin in what was known as the Raleigh Dining Club.

This club, which came into existence ninety-seven years ago, consisted of men who had visited all known parts of the globe, every division marked on the club's map of the world being represented by at least one member.

The Geographical Society, or Geographical Club, as it was first known, was founded in 1830, absorbing the Raleigh Dining Club some thirty years later, when the Society was granted its royal charter. The first list of Fellows contained four hundred and thirty names. To-day it extends to more than five thousand names.

Exploration and research are encouraged by the Society by grants of money and scientific instruments. Livingstone's ever memorable expedition to Africa was largely organized by the Society. Captain Scott's second Arctic expedition was aided by a grant of one thousand five hundred pounds, while Amundsen's and Shackleton's journeys into the Polar regions were helped in similar way.

At its headquarters near the Albert Hall, the Society has one of the most interesting Museums in London. There you may see Stanley's canvas-patched boots, a relic of his epic journey into Africa, Scott's tragic diary, Darwin's assistant, Gordon's pocket barometer, and many other souvenirs of the great travellers and explorers of the past.
