

FERRY GETS HIS FRANCS.

THE FRENCH CHAMBER VOTES THE TOUQUIN CREDITS.

The War Cloud Drawing Nearer—A lively discussion in the Deputies on the situation.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—The Nationalists state that 6000 troops will be forwarded to China within a fortnight.

In the chamber of deputies to-day, Leroy read a report from the Touquin committee advising the chamber to adopt the Touquin credits and urging the necessity of occupying the provinces north of Touquin.

The chamber then passed a vote of urgency and pronounced for immediate discussion. M. Clemenceau attacked the government and demanded the ministers to be held responsible.

THE DEPRESSION IN TRADE.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 27.—Adams & Co.'s first glass works on the south side has shut down indefinitely.

The works were overhauled and orders were filled. Three hundred men were out of employment.

St. Thomas, Nov. 27.—The Times says that for some time past there has been a depression in railway circles.

It is reported that the directors of the Michigan Central, J. B. Murdoch, division superintendent of the road, consistent with the actual necessities of the service.

Mr. Murdoch said: "No percentage has been named; that will have to be decided upon. It may be 5 per cent; it may be more."

Whatever the extent of the reduction may be when the ground is looked over by the superintendent, in view of comparatively limited receipts, the sum of 10 per cent will be reduced according to Mr. Murdoch's view.

THE MUTUAL RESERVE.

THE CANADIAN GENERAL MANAGERS THREATEN THE WORLD.

With a label still—Why His Canadian Directors Resigned—Only on the Board of the Mutual Reserve Fund Association.

MUTUAL RESERVE FUND ASSOCIATION. E. B. HARPER, President. D. M. CALDWELL, M.D., Vice-President. F. T. BRADMAN, Secretary.

Agency at Toronto, Nov. 27, 1884. To the Proprietors of the Toronto World. I notice in this morning's issue your article in relation to the Mutual Reserve Fund Association.

Without discussing the animus which prompted you to this course, but which the public will be in due time advised of, I trust in your own interests you have taken precautions to get indemnified from the old line monopoly companies before commencing your attacks upon this association.

Several claims for damages were referred to the solicitor for report. The fire and gas companies' list of new gas lamps was presented for statements of the amount of money on hand. The other standing committee reports passed without change and the committee adjourned.

A CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE. The Chairman Would Not Put the Question and a Member Did. A rule of the literary and scientific society of University colleges decides that if a member of its general committee absents himself from the meetings of the committee, he shall, by vote of the society, be deemed no longer a member of such committee and the post shall be declared vacant.

It was a case of this kind that was the subject of an interesting discussion at a special meeting of the society held early this week. Rev. Father O'Connell, the president being absent, D. McKay, first vice president, occupied the chair. The attention of the meeting was called to the fact that a member of the committee had not attended any of the meetings, and a resolution was moved and seconded that the first vice president should be considered to have resigned his office.

The resolution was carried by a large majority. The speaker of the house of commons held his incident while a member put questions in defiance of the royal mandate to adjourn.

MISS MARY'S ENTERTAINMENT. First Appearance of the Daughter of the Celebrated Novelist in Toronto. Miss Mary's appearance in Toronto was a large audience that witnessed her last night. If a daughter of her father's spirit has not been bestowed upon her, at least she is a brilliant exception to the rule that genius is not hereditary.

Indeed, all the children of the impetuous six-footed captain have inherited his best qualities—none more so than his daughter herself. If the name required any perpetuation, this gifted daughter's prowess would undoubtedly provide it. But it does not part of yesterday evening's program, entitled "Love Letters" was a most clever take-off of various styles of the good youth of to-day seen from a feminine standpoint, including as a gushing boy of 13, and a faithful colonel. These were followed by a series of readings of many different emotions, from the pathetic to the jocular, in all Miss Mary's was pleasing.

The second part "The Silver Wedding," was equally excellent. This included some young men of the same period, and a number of professional comedians. Some three, in which Miss Mary appeared, in a highly becoming costume supposed to represent a "sweet girl" graduate of 1904, consisted of a satirical learned address on "What Shall We do With Our Men?" The fair sex are represented as possessing more power than even Lord Lytton in his Coming Race so cordoned them. The solution to the question was ludicrous in the extreme. We need not divulge it.

DEFENDER'S PRACTICES. Last night a number of boys were amusing themselves sliding down the hill on Yorkstreet, alongside of the Walker, while another crowd were utilizing the same sidewalk for running down on used by passengers coming in from Union station, the danger can hardly be estimated, as numbers of pedestrians stumbled and slipped in a vain endeavor to keep their foothold. A gentleman passing by called the attention of a Grand Trunk policeman, who was, however, not authorized to act but the boys cleared out the moment they saw that someone was watching them.

THE DEFENDER WINGATE. Detective Gates of Hamilton, says the Times, has been employed to track Wingate. The exact figure of the steel is placed at $9645. A cabinet photograph of Wingate has been secured, with descriptions of him printed on the back. These have been scattered broadcast throughout the United States and Canada.

THE ROSE FRUITS. The Toronto General Trusts company is not likely to lose anything by the Rose fruits. The money will be restored. The trial is now on at St. Thomas. Mr. Malone (Edgar & Malone) is up there representing the company.

THE WRECK OF THE CUBA. Kingston, Nov. 27.—Captain John Donnelly has returned from the Cuba, which vessel is now at Prescott. Her cargo will be sold to meet the claims of the other owners, she will be taken to Port Dalrymple and repaired during the winter. She ran on a ledge of rock, and the ship was holed. There was fifty feet of water in it and she had slipped off the water gone to the bottom with the loss of her cargo.

The President's Election and Their Effect Upon Trade.

A United States paper this other day pointed out that, despite the repeated assurances of the radical members of the house of commons to verify additional aid added to the royal treasury, the cost to the nation of the quadrennial presidential election was even greater than the sum necessary for the possessor and heirs of the English throne.

Washington dealers, it says, in all circles of luxury must contemplate a season of unusual stagnation, since thousands of clerks will economize to the last cent during the winter, in order to pay off indebtedness and secure property only partially paid for, or to make provision for the contingency of removal.

This is an influence upon trade by no means to be overlooked. Violent changes, of whatever kind, are always inimical to the steady progression of a country, and few causes seem more conducive to violent changes than does the method of electing a chief magistrate in virtue among our neighbors.

It is in this depressing influence upon trade of the changes in government offices necessitated by a change of president. To argue that it is the lesser of two evils is hardly valid. It would be quite possible to eradicate both evils, i. e., to devise a plan by which as perfect a system of popular voting as at present obtains would be compatible with an avoidance of universal agitation and deterioration of trade relations.

Our neighbors pride themselves upon their contempt of conservatism. In the matter of constitutional reform we think both the British empire and ourselves set them an excellent example of a wholesome contempt of such conservatism.

Confidential Clerks. The defalcation of Wingate, the confidential clerk of Scarb, Cochran & Co., brings up the question of clerks in positions of trust giving guarantees. Wingate gave none. There is no reason why his employers should not have been secured. There are guarantee companies that do just this business.

Another point is carelessness in signing checks for companies or firms passing large sums through their hands. It is reported that Wingate got two checks for the same amount, one from Mr. Scarb and one from Mr. Cochran, saying to the latter that he had forgotten to get it from the former.

Firms and companies cannot be too careful in the signing of checks and in the way that they make them payable. The use of counter signatures and "payable to order" are wise precautions.

It is said in Montreal that a cablegram has been received from England by the Canadian Pacific stating that an arrangement has been completed for the construction of a line from Smith's Falls direct across the country to Montreal. The road, which at the former place, would join the Ontario division, would first meet the Grand Trunk line at St. Ann's where the river would be bridged. The object of the proposed line is to make a more direct line (20 miles shorter than any other) to Toronto and the west, avoiding the necessity of the traffic passing around by Ottawa.

The Globe has a special cable saying that the establishment of an ocean line of steamers between British Columbia and Japan may be considered certain to be ready for business by the time the Canadian Pacific railway is completed. The Globe's London correspondent understands, however, that there is no prospect of obtaining capital for building branch lines in the Northwest on the security of the free grants of land offered by the government.

An Explanation From A. W. Harrison. Editor World: With regard to the charge of larceny against me at present pending, I would feel much obliged if you would insert the real facts of the case in your paper, as the present garbled statements are entirely prejudicial to me, and are doing me great injury. The real facts are as follows: On Oct. 24 last Miss Morris committed the loss of a pocket book, containing $20 in cash and a check for $25. Eleven days after, on Nov. 4, at about 6:20 in the evening, I picked up in a check had two entries, one of which was evidently passed from the payee's hands.

The next day I was late in getting down town, and was too busy to attend to the matter, and on the following day (Nov. 5) I handed the check to the bank, telling the cashier to cash it for me. This was the last I heard of it until last Tuesday, Nov. 25, when Mr. Morris asked me to return $20, which he said was the check at the time I was late. On my refusing to have anything to do with him, and telling him that I knew nothing of the $20, and how I found the check, he had a warrant issued against me.

I had a friend with me at the time I found the check, and spoke to more than a score of people about finding it. I think you will see that I have been hardily dealt with. A. W. HARRISON, 30 Adelaide Street East.

Who is He? Editor World: In the Mail to day are three editorial paragraphs each headed with a poetical quotation in the old-fashioned style prevailing when very few had books and fewer read them, a style peculiar to the last degree. One of these is ascribed to Dryden, one to Pope, and one to Coriolanus. Pray who was Coriolanus, and what poems did he write any way? W. B. SMITH, Toronto, Nov. 27.

The Crown Prince of Russia. Grandduke Nicholas was born May 18, 1868, at Casarsoo See (Czar's village), an imperial summer palace distant miles south of St. Petersburg. This spacious palace stands upon the Neva bank, over 200 feet above the water, and is enclosed by a moat. It is a model of a palace, and is a very fine specimen of the old-fashioned style prevailing when very few had books and fewer read them, a style peculiar to the last degree. One of these is ascribed to Dryden, one to Pope, and one to Coriolanus. Pray who was Coriolanus, and what poems did he write any way? W. B. SMITH, Toronto, Nov. 27.

A Contingency in Prospect. Mr. Childers, chancellor of the exchequer, is likely to retire soon on account of failing health, and it is reported that he will be succeeded by Mr. Goschen. In connection with this it may be worth remembering that Mr. Goschen has of late taken prominent position as an advocate of the bi-metallic currency system—by which both gold and silver are made legal tender. Mr. Goschen holds that, after all possible use of commercial paper has been fully allowed for, there is not enough gold in the world to suffice for the enormous expanding volume of the world's transactions. And he argues, therefore, that silver must be brought into use as well as gold, to supply the deficiency. Suppose that he succeeds to the place once occupied by Peel, and afterwards by Gladstone, it will still remain to be seen whether he will try to carry out in office what he advocated before assuming the official responsibility mentioned. The growing commercial importance of India, the opening up of the vast "dark continent" of Africa, and the expected opening up of China to an extent before unknown—all these are circumstances indicating that the silver question must come up for consideration in the future. For both India and China are silver money countries, and to attempt to make either gold or notes the currency of Africa would be preposterous.

Vaccination Vindicated. From the London Globe. At the instance of Mr. Barr, a parliamentary paper just published which does not make pleasant reading for the anti-vaccination people. It shows that in a single year of deaths from small-pox in the army and navy since 1850, together with the ratio of such deaths per 1000, and it was merely a bit of extra advice that throughout the whole period, with very few exceptions, the tendency has been towards a decrease in the number of deaths. In the case of the army, this is all the more gratifying on account of the much larger number of recruits in the service, a class particularly liable to contract infectious diseases which happens to be the case.

Farm and Garden Clearings. There is great advantage in having a hay-cut in the barn. By its use straw and other coarse fodder can be mixed with meal chaff which will be able to catch the capacity of the farm to keep stock and make manure may be largely increased. As the country grows older the demand for manure steadily increases, while the supply grows less. In some places groves of chestnut trees are being planted, which proved the most profitable portion of a farm from the annual nut crop.

The Sheep-raiser. A new breed of sheep, called the "Blue-faced Leicester," is being bred in England, round-bodied, broad across the shoulders and back, and yielding a clip of long, heavy wool. They are good breeders and make good mutton sheep.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOV. 23, 1884.

A HOME FOR DOMESTICS.

Appeal For Subscriptions to Establish the Institution.

To the Ladies of the City of Toronto:

The lack of efficient help, both of general servants and of domestics, to take care of the various requirements of a household has led the undersigned ladies to take upon themselves the responsibility of endeavoring to meet by as great an extent as possible this felt want.

Through the instrumentality and co-operation of ladies who have charged themselves with this task in England and the kind assistance of the Ontario government the greater part of the outlay for the carrying on of this work has been covered.

All that remains to be provided is the expense of a matron to receive the servants on their arrival and the necessary furnishing in the plainest manner of the house for their accommodation until they can be placed in their permanent homes.

Believing that the advantages of procuring good servants is worthy of this special effort, the ladies are endeavoring to secure confidence, appeal to you to assist them in meeting the small expenditure necessary at the outset. It is hoped hereafter that the fee to be charged to each person on application for a servant will, with the aid already promised, be quite sufficient to pay all necessary expenses.

The committee of management who have undertaken to see carried out this good work appeal to the public and those interested to come forward and offer their assistance by subscribing the small sum of $1 to meet the necessary requirements to start this home and to see proper working order that which will hence forward prove a public benefit.

Subscription books have been placed in Hooper's on King street, Bilton's on Yonge street, Callwell & Hodgins on Queen street, and it is to be hoped that all interested will come forward as soon as possible, for should not the public generally be interested in this work, the ladies who have undertaken to see it carried out will without the necessary assistance of the public be compelled to abandon what will prove to be a comfort to the community.

MISS BEVERLY ROBINSON, President. MISS CROOKS, Secretary.

SUNDAY STREET CASE.

What Some of the Garrison Thelma's Say About It.

So much has been said by some of our correspondents about that effect Sunday work would have on the employees of the street car company that a reporter last night interviewed three of them.

The first was a Sherbourne street driver. He said: "So long as they give us one day in seven it makes no difference to me. In fact I had rather drive on Sunday and get off on a week day, when I could go somewhere and do something. As it is now, unless we lay off a whole day we cannot get a week night to ourselves to go to the theatre, a concert or to a party."

The next was also a Sherbourne street man, evidently by his speech, from the north of Ireland. He was down on the whole thing on principle—believed it was to run on Sunday. On being asked whether he would have a delicate wife to walk from one end of the street to the other to see her mother on Sunday, if that was the only day he could go with her, he replied: "She might get a cold, but I would go, which goes to show that the mother-in-law has no attractions for him."

The third man was a Winchester street driver, who was asked about the three day week. It would be a godsend to each person on application for a servant will, with the aid already promised, be quite sufficient to pay all necessary expenses.

The committee of management who have undertaken to see carried out this good work appeal to the public and those interested to come forward and offer their assistance by subscribing the small sum of $1 to meet the necessary requirements to start this home and to see proper working order that which will hence forward prove a public benefit.

PENILESS AND IN WANT.

An Immigrant Tale of Distress to the Combined City Charities.

At a meeting of the combined city charities yesterday afternoon at 77 Lonsdale street, an application for relief was made by Wm. Maylan, a machanic, lately out from Ashford, Kent county, England. Maylan's case, as related by himself, is more than usually distressing. He says he was led by the representations of an Alban steamship company's agent in his native town to pull up stakes and bring his family out to Canada. On landing at Montreal he could find no work, and came to Toronto, arriving in this city without a cent, trusting to his chances for work to obtain food and lodging for himself, his wife and four children. He had no money, and was present here in a state of extreme distress.

On an offer made by the chairman, Prof. Goldin Smith, the board decided that Mr. Smith have an interview at an early date with Hon. Mr. Pope, with a view to ascertaining what could be done towards revising the immigration laws so as to prevent as far as possible the over importation of poor immigrants.

The committee on work reported that they had secured Harle's old foundry on the Esplanade as a kindling wood yard for the employment of immigrants at the rate of 50 cents per day during the winter. On a motion by W. J. Macdonell a committee was appointed to find out whether it would be feasible to pay immigrants employed in this place in food and other necessities instead of in money.
